The Hereford FFA chapter on Tuesday honored its outgoing officers, competition teams and membership at the 56th annual Parent-Member Banquet.

The catered dinner -- held in the Hereford ISD administration building banquet hall -- was attended by approximately 125 FFA members, their parents and guests.

Top honors were handed out in the form of Star awards to four members. In addition, three scholarships were announced by the Hereford Young Farmers. The program concluded with the introduction and installation of new officers for 1994-95.

Cassie Abney was given the award as Star Greenhand, which honors the top first-year FFA member and recognizes the most active new member who shows outstanding leadership.

The Star Chapter Farmer award went to Clint Robison. It honors the FFA member who is most involved in all phases of club activities. He served as Student Advisor for the group during the school year.

Star Agri-Coop Award went to Jeremy Paetzold. It honors students active in agricultural cooperative training. Paetzold was honored for his work with his father on the family farm.

The Dekalb Award was presented by club treasurer Brittney Binder, who explained that it began in 1947 and was the highest award to be presented.

The award is for the student who shows the most enthusiasm, dedication and devotion in four years of FFA. It was presented to club Vice President Wade Johnson, who was cited for having participated in all phases of FFA operations, including participation in judging and leadership teams and serving as vice president two years.

Greg Urbanczyk, president of the Hereford Young Farmers, took the podium during the banquet to present three scholarships, two $500 awards and one $300 scholarship from the Area 1 Association.

Urbanczyk said in the past the Young Farmers have presented one $750 scholarship, but were able this year to honor two students. Don Metcalf and Michael Carlson were chosen for those awards, while Martin Carnahan was awarded the Area 1 Association scholarship.

The club officers also presented awards to members for team honors during the year in leadership, judging and proficiency work.

The final act of the 1993-94 officers was to announce their successors. Teachers Bill Binder and Kevin Kelley honored the outgoing officers with plaques of appreciation.

The new officers announced and installed for 1994-95 includes, for the first time in the club's history, a female president and vice president.

Moriah Olson, who served as FFA Sweetheart this year, was elected president for the new school year.

Stephanie Wilson, this year's secretary, was chosen as vice president, while Clint Robison moved from student advisor to secretary for the new year.

Cassie Abney was elected treasurer and Brittney Binder was elected reporter. This year she served as treasurer.

Colby Christie was tabbed as sentinel and Caleb Brumley was elected student advisor.

Troops to go to Haiti

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The United States will send troops to Haiti whether or not international sanctions force the Caribbean nation's military rulers from power, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

At least 600 American troops will be sent to "purge" the Haitian military, the Times said, quoting unidentified U.S. officials in Washington and Haiti.

The Americans prefer that the Haitian military leaders leave first, but if they don't, the troops will go in anyway, one source said.

The U.N. military advisory group will consist almost entirely of American soldiers, the Times said.

The story did not say how this plan differs from the provision in the Governors Island agreement, signed last year in New York City, that calls for a U.N. military and police advisory group to go to Haiti to train a new police force, restructure the army and build roads.

That agreement calls for the return of ousted President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, who was overthrown by military leaders in 1991.

President Clinton said on Sunday that the United States "cannot and should not rule out other options," an apparent reference to the use of military intervention to drive out the military leaders.

State future bright, Gov. Richards says

By MICHAEL GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards said the state's future looks bright, but she believed the threatened cancellation of the space station project would be a devastating loss.

In an address billed as the "State of the State," Richards on Tuesday touted her three years in office as marked by the creation of thousands of jobs and the passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement.

"It is good and it is going to get better," Richards told the Greater Houston Partnership, an organization of Houston-area business and political leaders. "The news really is good. There is no question the picture flatters us."

But Richards, who faces re-election in November, warned that losing the space station would be devastating to the nation, Texas and Houston.

"This is a big deal, my friends," she said. "The space station is going to create new technology. It's going to improve our lives. It's going to create medical technology. It's going to create products and spinoff companies you and I cannot even begin to predict."

However, Richards said lawmakers in Washington were bowing to a taxpayer ultimatum to cut spending and the space station, headquartered in Houston, made a good target.

"We cannot kid ourselves. We are not out of the woods on this one yet," she said.

"I have been through another one of these with the superconducting super collider, and let me tell you it is not a pretty picture," she said. "It is one of the most difficult things I have dealt with, both in the vote and in the aftermath."

Richards credited jobs growth for a big part of the state's economic resurgence, and she said the state was poised to take advantage of NAFTA.

"I know you all know I worked hard on that sucker," she said of the trade agreement. "I did it because I was convinced if you look geographically at the location of Texas, we would be smack dab in the middle of the largest free trade zone in the world."

She said four of the state's big cities are among the nation's 10 leading cities for job growth.

"A half-million more Texans are on jobs today than three years ago when I took office," she said.

And in a slap at November Republican opponent, George W. Bush, Richards said: "I'm absolutely floored when I hear suggestions from some people out there who suggest that the governor has nothing to do with creating jobs."

But Bush spokesman Reggie Bashur said the Texas economy "has grown in spite of her policies."

"The governor neglects to tell Texans that during her term, the state budget has increased 47 percent from $48 billion to more than $70 billion," Bashur said. "Additionally, the governor does not mention a $2.7 billion tax increase she signed into law in 1991."

Breakfast a 'must' Thursday

If you're interested in community affairs and activities and programs sponsored by local organizations, the Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast should be a "must" on your calendar.

The next Fun Breakfast will be held Thursday morning, beginning at 6:30 a.m. in the Hereford Community Center, and it will be sponsored by Hereford Regional Medical Center.

Co-chairmen Charlie Bell and John Stagner report that the hospital staff has planned "a fun and exciting morning" for the event. HRMC is using the event to place emphasis on Texas Hospital Week, which has a theme of "Where Miracles Happen Every Day."

In addition to the special community announcements and giveaways to be made, the chamber will recognize new residents in attendance, and the "Bull Chip" award will be presented to a local person who goes above and beyond the call of duty in serving the community.

"The breakfast is open to all residents who are interested in what's going on in the community and who want to visit with neighbors and enjoy an entertaining program," said Mike Care, C of C executive vice president.

Breakfast cost is $5 a person. Reservations should be made at the chamber office by 5 p.m. today.

Elizabeth Fowler, guest services coordinator at HRMC, says "we hope everyone remembers that when a child is born, or an infection is cured, or a broken bone mends, they've seen a small part of the miracle of modern medicine." She said Hospital Week is scheduled each year around May 12, the birthdate of nursing pioneer Florence Nightingale.

"Our hospital is constantly growing and changing to find ways to serve the community better," Mrs. Fowler said. "To me, the greatest daily miracle we see is the extent of health care that even hospitals in small communities can offer to their patients."

Citizens police school holds graduation rites

By RICK LANNING
Staff Writer

Hereford Police Chief David Wagner and Police Capt. Pat Michael turned the spotlight on the Citizens Police Academy Tuesday.

It was graduation night at the Community Center for more than 20 law enforcement-minded citizens who made it through the 12-week course.

During the class, the participants examined several subjects, including crime prevention, alcohol-related offenses, firearms, street gangs, drugs, alcohol-related offenses, and street survival.

Wagner thanked Hereford city officials for funding the program and praised city council members as being "very supportive and progressive."

Deaf Smith District Attorney Roland Saul, who was guest speaker, said the academy was a "good way to dispel some of the misconceptions about law enforcement officers."

"We expect our police officers to be like the police we see on television -- ruthless like Dirty Harry, cunning like Colombo and compassionate like Barney Miller," declared Saul.

"We want them to keep the drunks off the road, get the thugs off the street, drive by our house three or four times a night, and protect our children," he added.

"If they have to pick up our child for anything, we want the officer to bring him home. Embarrass him but don't put him in the system."

Saul said police are under intense pressure to keep up with ever-changing rules set by the U.S. Supreme Court and State Court of Appeals.

"Our officers are regular people, but dedicated, with high ideals," Saul told the audience.

Wagner said his department was grateful for Saul's open door policy.

"A lot of district attorneys aren't that way," the chief stated. "We can always go see Roland with a question about search warrants any time we want. We appreciate that."

The Citizens Police Academy was created to acquaint local citizens with the department's inner structure and show residents how they can help the system work better for everyone.

Rain dampens Hereford; more showers expected

Strong thunderstorms roared across West Texas during the night, but the Hereford area escaped violent weather and recorded .56 of an inch of rain Tuesday and early Wednesday morning.

The National Weather Service forecasts called for the stormy weather to continue today and tonight, with a flash flood watch in effect for the Panhandle tonight.

The area zone forecast calls for thunderstorms tonight, some possibly resulting in flash flooding. Locally heavy rainfall is also possible Thursday.

Flash flooding was widespread in West Texas and the southwestern portions of North Texas Tuesday. Heavy rainfall, hail, and high winds prompted the National Weather Service to issue five tornado warnings. Two were issues in the Big Spring area and one near Midland.

A flash food watch was also in effect for a vast area of North Texas through tonight. It included a line west and south of a line from Jacksboro to Dallas to Tyler to Carthage.

Lows tonight are expected to be in the 50s and 60s. Highs Thursday will be in the 70s and 80s.

Industrial arts award winners

Education campaign gets cool response

AUSTIN (AP) - A proposed $2.2 million campaign to persuade Texans that students are getting a quality education has apparently left state education officials cold. The Bonner & Tate advertising agency proposal, submitted at the request of the Texas Education Agency, included deleting the word "public" from public schools.

The Austin company said the word conjures "negative connotations" in the vein of "public housing, public transportation, public restrooms." TEA spokeswoman Della May Moore said Tuesday there were no plans to drop the word "public." In fact, a State Board of Education committee was cold to the whole publicity campaign and planned no action on it, she said.

Ms. Moore said pro-public education business groups could use private money to act on the proposal. However, state money would not be used for a campaign beyond $3,000 paid in fees to Bonner & Tate, she said.

Republicans have criticized the idea, which comes at a time when GOP gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush is attacking the TEA and Democratic Gov. Ann Richards over education.

"It is bureaucracy gone berserk in political support of Gov. Richards," said Bush spokeswoman Deborah Burston-Wade.

"George Bush wants fundamental reform and change... Ann Richards wants to change the name so you won't know it's a bureaucracy," Texas Republican Executive Director Karen Hughes said.

But Richards also expressed concern. In a letter to State Board of Education Chairwoman Carolyn Crawford, Richards said she is "adamantly opposed to any expenditure of public funds in an advertising campaign."

Her spokesman, Chuck McDonald, said the governor was unaware of the proposal until a reporter asked about it Monday.

Richards "believes that every nickel that can be raised for public education needs to be spent in the classroom," McDonald said.

Ms. Hughes called the proposed campaign "a classic case of style over substance, with ethical problems mixed in."

She referred to the fact that Bonner & Tate co-founder Cathy Bonner was a senior consultant to Richards' re-election campaign. Ms. Bonner sold her interest in the company to Kerry Tate before Richards was inaugurated in 1991, Ms. Tate said.

Ms. Tate said she has no ties to the Richards campaign and that Ms. Bonner hasn't received "one red cent" from the company since selling her interest. Ms. Tate said she plans to change the firm's name to "avoid this kind of thing" in the future after having kept it for the sake of continuity.

Fire ring attracts attention

By EDUARDO MONTES
 Associated Press Writer
 EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Classes were postponed, work came to a halt and adults exhibited almost childlike glee when faced with the spectacle of a ring of fire floating in the clear Texas sky.

Astronomers, reporters, devoted eclipse chasers and the merely curious took time out across El Paso Tuesday morning to watch the moon and sun engage in a celestial slow dance called an annular eclipse.

"I thought it was spectacular," said Diana Lewkowicz, 18. "It'll be a long time before I get the opportunity again. It was real pretty."

Lewkowicz, a high school student, spent the morning conducting experiments along with university professors at an elementary school dubbed "Eclipse Central."

A large number of scientists and journalists converged on Dr. J. Leighton Green Elementary School to mingle with students, who were given a few moments of freedom to enjoy the show and conduct experiments.

Crude cardboard pinhole projectors, sophisticated telescopes, glasses with mylar lenses and eclipse screens were in evidence everywhere as the group spent hours staring skyward to watch the rare ring eclipse.

"It was wonderful to be able to see the excitement" of the kids, said astronomer David Menke, who has chased eclipses around the world.

"Each eclipse is unique and each eclipse is fantastic," said Menke, a self-proclaimed "eclipseophile."

"This eclipse was also fantastic."

Several miles away in El Paso's downtown plaza, people seemed to agree.

"It's entertainment from God," said Jud Burgess, a graphic artist who designed a logo for T-shirts commemorating the event.

"I think it was convenient for God to do this at break time," added Edrena Jones, a secretary at a law firm and one of several people who took a few moments from their work to watch the eclipse in San Jacinto Plaza.

The eclipse began in El Paso at 8:44 a.m. MDT and lasted a little more than three hours.

The high point, when the sun is completely covered except for the ring, came roughly at the midpoint and lasted nearly 6 minutes.

Wednesday's law enforcement activity reports contained the following arrests and incident reports:

HEREFORD POLICE
 --Two assaults were reported in the 600 block of Avenue K and the 300 block of Miller Street.

--A case of criminal trespass was reported in the 600 block of Avenue K.

--Police investigated two reports of criminal mischief in the 100 block of Avenue H and the 400 block of North 25 Mile Avenue.

--Officers responded to Hereford High School and took two students into custody for fighting.

--An 18-year-old male was arrested in the 100 block of Avenue E for assault involving domestic violence.

--One minor accident without injuries was reported.

--Officers issued five traffic citations.

DEAF SMITH SHERIFF
 --Deputies are investigating a report of forgery and counterfeiting in which two checks totalling $200 were issued.

--A 22-year-old male was arrested for violating his probation on a driving while intoxicated condition. Bond was set at $1,000.

Fighting flea infestations

No matter how attached you are to your dog or cat, there's a good chance that fleas are even more "attached."

These blood-sucking pests can cause irritating bites and have been known to transmit diseases to people and their pets.

Fleas reproduce most rapidly when there is high humidity and temperatures are above 65 degrees. This is why flea populations will often increase after damp, rainy weather, and decrease during stretches of dry weather.

Once they've hitched a ride indoors on your household pet, eggs from these hardy pests fall onto carpets and animal bedding. After hatching and maturing into adults, fleas require a blood meal, but can survive for up to two months without one.

Special flea combs will help reduce the number of fleas on dogs and cats, as will regular baths with flea shampoos.

For fleas inside the house, thoroughly vacuum carpets and upholstered furniture and wash pet bedding materials in hot, soapy water.

To reduce the number of fleas coming indoors, attack them outdoors. Outdoor applications of Sevin brand carbaryl insecticide control fleas and many other insect pests. Sevin is available in dusts, liquids and easy-to-use granular formulations.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a college-educated woman whose feet are firmly planted on the ground. I am, however, being consumed by what I believe is an irrational fear, and it's ruining my life.

When I was in my early 20s and living in Mexico, a suitor who was convinced that I was destined to marry him persuaded me to have my palm read. The palm reader predicted some things that came true and others that did not.

He said I would live a long life, but a life-threatening situation would occur in my 50s. He told me a woman very close to me would be dead within a year. I did not take the predictions seriously.

When I related the experience to my sister a couple of months later, I read her palm for fun. I saw that she had a very short lifeline. We laughed about it and decided she had just about outlived her time. Tragically, a month later, she was killed in an accident.

Now I am worried because my young daughter has a very short lifeline. I am haunted by the thought that this could indicate a premature death.

I have not been able to discuss this with my minister or anyone in the medical profession for fear they will think I am crazy. I can't figure out a way to sneak into a nursing home to check for a short lifelines on the elderly residents.

Please, Ann, tell me what you think about the ancient art of palm reading. -troubled in Holland, Mich.

DEAR HOLLAND: Tea leaf readers, crystal ball gazers and people who read bumps on the head are good guessers.

While "the ancient art of palm reading" may use more guidelines (there are specific lines that are long, short, curved, etc.), even palm readers will tell you that the meaning of a short lifeline is open to interpretation, especially on the palm of a young child.

Personally, I wouldn't go near any of them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently printed a letter in which a wheelchair bound woman wanted to thank an unknown Good Samaritan who gave her an umbrella when she was caught in the rain at the state fair.

Forty-three years ago, I had polio and was in an iron lung for nine months. I was 19. It took three years of therapy to free me from the wheelchair. I now walk with the aid of a brace and crutch.

The hardest adjustment was putting up with strangers who felt they should give me "encouragement." Then one day it occurred to me that if I held my head high enough, I would not see their sympathetic looks. When My attitude changed, so did theirs. I stopped thinking of myself as handicapped and rejoined the human race. Strangers stopped telling me how "brave" I was or that they would pray for me.

During the past 43 years, I have been "crippled", "handicapped" and "disabled," and now I am "physically challenged." Whatever. The words do not matter. I think of myself as a person who walks a little funny, takes a little longer to do things, welcomes assistance when needed and is not afraid to say, "No, thank you, I can do it myself." --A Friend in the West

DEAR FRIEND: Bravo! You're my kind of person.

New LAE officers are installed at luncheon

New officers to serve two-year terms were installed during the La Afflatus Estudio Club's May 3 spring luncheon held at Panchita's.

President Emily Suggs presided at the business session and installed new officers. Serving as president will be Louise Streun; vice president, Aileen Montgomery; and reporter and parliamentarian, Alberta Higgins.

Following the installation ceremonies, Suggs dismissed her committees and handed the presidency over to Streun who, in turn, presented Suggs with a gift of appreciation for her four years of service. She then appointed her new committees.

Old and new businesses were dismissed and the club adjourned by repeating the club collect.

Those present including the new officers were Virginia Beasley, Virginia Curtsinger, Annie De Lozier, Opal Elliston, Aileen Montgomery, Pet Ott, Della Stagner, Mary Williamson and Emily Suggs.

Virginia may be 60!
But she's still a Whistlin' Dixie!
Happy Birthday!

Jazz knocks down confident Nuggets

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Where are those Denver Nuggets the Utah Jazz beat four out of five times in the regular season?
 "They're the same team, but confidence does wonders," said Karl Malone, who scored 25 points in Utah's 100-91 victory Tuesday night in Game 1 of the Western Conference semifinal series.
 "They've seasoned up really great in that Seattle series. ... You're not going to rattle these guys."
 Malone, who offset Denver's shot-blocking Dikembe Mutombo with sharp shooting from 15-18 feet, also had 11 rebounds.
 Still, he's concerned that Denver, which refused to buckle in the first game of the best-of-7 series, could be even more of a threat in Thursday night's second game.
 "They never gave up," he said. "They just kept fighting and coming at you."
 John Stockton added 17 points and 11 assists for the Jazz and Jeff Hornacek had 15 points.
 "Right now, either team can bounce back," Hornacek said. "The most important thing for us, though, was knocking their confidence down."
 Mutombo, who keyed Denver's stunning first-round victory over Seattle with his defensive play - had 20 points, 10 rebounds and four blocks.
 "We just couldn't do it tonight," Mutombo said. "We didn't get it done. We came back and then we let them get it all back."
 Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf added 16 points and LaPhonso Ellis had 11 points and 11 rebounds for Denver, which is making its first playoff appearance since 1990.
 Denver trailed by 11 going into the fourth quarter, but Rodney Rogers drilled a 3-pointer and Brian Williams added a three-point play to cut Utah's lead to 73-68 with 11:07 remaining.
 The Jazz regained control with Malone scoring six points in a 15-4 run, including a 10-foot jumper that gave Utah a 16-point lead with 5:41 to play.
 The Nuggets got within seven points on Abdul-Rauf's 18-footer at the 2:03 mark, but could get no closer.

Pacers stay hot, shoot down Hawks

By TOM SALADINO
AP Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP) - The Indiana Pacers hadn't played in eight days and coach Larry Brown was worried that the layoff might hurt. It did - but only in the first half.
 Reserve Antonio Davis scored 12 of his 15 points in the third period and the Pacers overcame an early 12-point deficit Tuesday night in a 96-85 victory over the Atlanta Hawks in the opener of their Eastern Conference semifinal series.
 Dale Davis contributed 14 points and a game-high 15 rebounds for the Pacers, who had five players scoring in double figures.
 Game 2 in the best-of-7 series is Thursday night in Atlanta, where the Hawks led the conference with a 36-5 mark during the regular season.
 Since then, however, they are 2-2 in the playoffs.
 Antonio Davis hit on all six of his shots in the third quarter after the Pacers fell behind 23-11 early and trailed 53-47 at halftime. They outscored the Hawks 32-19 in the third quarter for a 79-72 lead.
 "I was hopeful we could stay close in the first half and kind of get rid of the kinks," said Brown, who already has guided the Pacers to their most successful postseason.
 Atlanta, the No. 1 seed in the East, went 8:55 between baskets late in the third period until Stacey Augmon scored with 4:38 left.

 With 3:16 remaining, Danny Manning scored to get the Hawks to 85-83, but the Pacers got the next seven points - five by Reggie Miller - to put the game out of reach.
 The Hawks made only one of their first 12 fourth-period shots and scored only 32 second-half points, a franchise record-low for the playoffs.
 "I was worried about the layoff, but I didn't want to bring it to the team's attention," said Brown, whose club finished the regular season on an eight-game winning streak. Indiana then swept the Orlando Magic in the best-of-5 opening round, last playing on May 2.

 The Pacers haven't lost since April 8.
 The Hawks, extended to five games in the opening round by Miami, had only one off-day before facing Indiana. It is the first appearance in the second round for Atlanta since 1988.
 "We ran out of gas a little bit and that hurt us," Hawks coach Lenny Wilkens said. "I was hoping that the short time off wouldn't hurt us, but apparently it did."
 "Both Davises did a good job," said Atlanta's Kevin Willis, who hit six of seven shots and had 13 points in the first quarter, but managed only four points the rest of the way.

 "Both Davis boys played good interior defense on Willis," said Miller, who led Indiana with 18 points. "You wouldn't think Dale and Antonio would carry us, but they did. As long as we can stay within 10 points with the kind of defense we play, we can always get back in the game."
 Rik Smits added 14 points for the Pacers and Haywoode Workman had 13 and eight assists.

Defending Olajuwon brings on outbreak of 'Hakeemitis'

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Phoenix center Mark West missed the first game of the Suns playoff series against Houston because of a foot injury.
 Teammate Charles Barkley has his own diagnosis for West, who would have had to try to stop Hakeem Olajuwon, high scorer in the Rockets' 91-87 loss Sunday in Game 1 with 36 points.
 "We've got a guy who played in 600 games (actually 499) in a row and now he comes up against Hakeem and he's got an ingrown toenail," Barkley joked. "We call that the Olajuwon flu."
 West, who is expected to play in Wednesday's second game in the Western Conference semifinals, corrected Barkley.
 "It's called Hakeemitis. And by the way, we found out that when Chuck guards Hakeem, we still can't guard Hakeem," West said.
 But the Suns know defending Olajuwon, the NBA defensive player of the year for the second straight season, is no laughing matter.
 "We're not going to stop Hakeem, it can't be done," Barkley said.
 The Rockets, meanwhile, say they won't drastically change their game plan from Game 1. They say the plan was good enough, it just wasn't executed properly.

"There aren't a lot of changes," Rockets forward Otis Thorpe said. "We played pretty good in the first game. There are just a lot of things that we have to improve on and get better."
 Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich kept his team 30 minutes overtime at Tuesday's practice, watching tape of Sunday's game and working on executing better.
 "I don't see too much need to change," Tomjanovich said. "We shot 45 percent which was a little better than them. We just have to do some things.

 Despite their 1-0 lead and an 11-game winning streak, the Suns aren't taking Houston lightly.
 "I hate playing the team that lost the last game," guard Danny Ainge said. "They'll be ready and we have to guard against feeling too good about ourselves."
 "We haven't thought about the winning streak a whole lot," Suns guard Dan Majerle said. "It hasn't been mentioned by any of the players or anyone on the coaching staff. We're just trying to stay focused on each game."
 The Rockets sold out The Summit for the first time in four playoff games this season but it took a giveaway by the Suns, who purchased 300 tickets, to get the full house.
 Houston also will have Sam Cassell back in the lineup following a one-game suspension for throwing a punch in the final game of the Portland series.
 Cassell, who usually plays a significant number of fourth-quarter minutes, said watching the Rockets' bench outscored 22-4 in Sunday's game was painful.
 "I've just got to come back and play my role," he said. "I just want to do what I've been doing the whole year."

Spurs' owners mull changes

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - San Antonio Spurs owners, upset over the team's first-round playoff loss, have met to discuss the job future of coach John Lucas and vice president Bob Bass, the San Antonio Express-News reported today.
 The team's governing board took no action during a Monday meeting. It is scheduled to meet again.
 "We just had discussions," Spurs president Bob Coleman said. "No motions were made. Everything was tabled."
 Lucas was hired as coach in December 1992, after Jerry Tarkanian was fired.

 The Spurs, who have said they believe they are championship contenders since David Robinson's rookie year five seasons ago, were defeated last week by the Utah Jazz 3-1 in the Western Conference playoffs.
 "People want people's heads," an unidentified source told the Express-News. "They just don't know what to do next."

Braves trip Phillies with seven-run rally in 9th

By The Associated Press

Trailing by 8-1 in the ninth inning didn't stop the Braves. Neither did running out of non-pitchers.

"That's probably the toughest game I've ever managed," Philadelphia manager Jim Fregosi said after Atlanta's 9-8 victory over the Phillies.

Philadelphia led 8-1 on the strength of Pete Incaviglia's sixth career grand slam. But it slipped away real fast.

"On this team, nothing surprises me," Deion Sanders said. "We served notice on the league. No one can ever count us out."

Ryan Klesko, Fred McGriff and Dave Justice opened the ninth with singles off Shawn Boskie. Mark Lemke singled in a run, and Charlie O'Brien's two-run single made it 8-4. Mike Mordecai, in his second major league at-bat, followed with a three-run homer.

Bill Pecota grounded out and Sanders singled, bringing on Heathcliff Slocumb. Pinch hitter Dave Gallagher grounded out as Sanders advanced, and Javier Lopez singled off the glove of a leaping John Kruk at first to drive in the tying run.

By the 15th, all Atlanta had left on its bench were pitchers Greg Maddux, Steve Avery and John Smoltz. With two outs in the inning, Sanders doubled off Andy Carter (0-1), Gallagher was intentionally walked and Sanders stole third.

Pitcher Mike Stanton then popped a bunt over the head of Tom Quinlan, driving in Sanders.

Stanton (1-0), Atlanta's seventh pitcher, went 2-for-2 and allowed three hits in four scoreless innings, a career high. He's 6-for-10 at the plate in his career.

In other games, St. Louis beat Chicago 7-6 in 11 innings, Los Angeles beat Houston 5-4 in 10 innings, New York beat Montreal 3-2 in 10 innings, Florida beat Pittsburgh 1-0, Colorado beat San Francisco 4-2 and Cincinnati beat San Diego 5-0.

Cardinals 7, Cubs 6

St. Louis blew a 6-0 lead, then won on Ray Lankford's 11th-inning home run off Jose Bautista (0-3) at Busch Stadium.

Todd Zeile added a three-run homer in the first. Rene Arocha (2-3), the starter and loser Monday after allowing three runs and eight hits in two-plus innings, pitched a scoreless 11th.

Rey Sanchez's run-scoring single off Willie Smith in the eighth tied the score 6-6.

Dodgers 5, Astros 4

Chris Gwynn scored on a bases-loaded grounder by Carlos Hernandez in the 10th at Dodger Stadium when catcher Tony Eusebio failed to keep his foot on home plate. Eusebio was charged with an error.

Dave Veres (0-1) lost in his major league debut. Jim Gott (4-1) pitched a perfect 10th inning.

Mets 3, Expos 2

Joe Orsulak homered off John Wetteland (1-2) in the 10th inning and went 4-for-5 as visiting New York rallied.

Wetteland blew a save for the fourth time in five chances. David Segui singled in the ninth, went to second when pinch-hitter Jeff McKnight walked and scored when John Cangelosi singled off the first-base bag for his fourth hit of the game, tying a career high.

Doug Linton (4-0) pitched two innings as the the Mets won their fourth straight. Montreal has lost four of five.

Marlins 1, Pirates 0

Chris Hammond (3-3) allowed two hits in eight innings, and Jeremy Hernandez pitched a perfect ninth for his sixth save. The combined two-hitter at Joe Robbie Stadium was a franchise best for the Marlins.

Randy Tomlin (0-3) gave up eight hits and three walks, but just one run in 4 1-3 innings. He is winless since Aug. 5.

Matias Carrillo, replacing injured right fielder Gary Sheffield, drove in Florida's run in the fourth with a one-out single.

Rockies 4, Giants 2

Greg Harris (2-1) allowed three hits over 8 1-3 innings and Howard Johnson homered for visiting Colorado.

Johnson, out of the starting lineup the previous two games because of a slump, hit a two-out solo homer off John Burkett (3-3) in the first inning. It was his fourth of the season.

Bruce Ruffin got two outs for his first save.

Reds 5, Padres 0

Kevin Mitchell hit his 199th career homer and Brian Dorsett also connected to back Jose Rijo at Jack Murphy Stadium.

Rijo (2-2), winning for the first time in four starts, retired 16 straight batters until Brad Ausmus singled to deep shortstop with two outs in the seventh. The right-hander allowed five hits in seven innings, struck out four and walked one.

Jose Martinez (0-1), making his major league debut, allowed three runs and seven hits - including both homers - in 4 1-3 innings.

Strong pitching propels Brewers

By The Associated Press

The Milwaukee Brewers are in first place thanks to the best pitching staff in the American League.

Jaime Navarro pitched six up-and-down innings Tuesday night, allowing eight hits and five walks while striking out a career-high eight in a 9-5 comeback victory over the Boston Red Sox at Fenway Park.

Relievers Doug Henry and Graeme Lloyd combined for three perfect innings, giving the Brewers a league-leading 3.66 ERA.

"We didn't listen to people that said how bad we'd be," said Navarro (2-2).

With its second straight victory, Milwaukee stayed in a first-place tie with the Chicago White Sox in the AL Central. The Brewers came back from a 5-2 deficit with a six-run seventh inning.

Boston's relievers lost this one. After starter Gar Finnold allowed two runs in five innings in his major-league debut, the next three relievers gave up seven runs in 2 1-3 innings.

Boston led 5-2 before reliever Scott Bankhead gave up an RBI double to Bill Spiers. Greg Harris (1-3) replaced Bankhead and loaded the bases by walking Turner Ward. Alex Diaz' single made it 5-4, and Dave Nilsson then struck out swinging at a pitch in the dirt that got past catcher Damon Berryhill. Spiers scored on the play.

Two pitches later, Harris fired the ball past Berryhill again, allowing Ward to race home. John Jaha's RBI double chased Harris, and Brian Harper's single off Todd Frohwirth made it 8-5.

California and Texas were tied 5-5 in a game suspended after eight innings because of the American League's 1 a.m. curfew.

Tigers 10, Athletics 2

At Detroit, Mickey Tettleton hit a three-run homer in a five-run first inning and Kirk Gibson and Lou Whitaker also homered.

Oakland lost for the 18th time in its last 20 games.

Oakland starter Todd Van Poppel (0-4) was forced from the game in the second inning after a liner off the bat of Tony Phillips struck him on the left thigh. Bill Gullickson (2-1) allowed five hits in Detroit's third complete game this season.

Yankees 5, Indians 3

At New York, Paul O'Neill homered twice and doubled, raising his batting average to .471 and giving New York its fifth straight victory.

O'Neill leads the majors in hitting and on-base percentage (.578). He had solo homers in the second and eighth innings. The Yankees lead the majors with a 21-10 mark. Not since July 1987 have they had the best record in baseball this late in a season.

Paul Gibson (1-0) pitched two perfect innings for the win. Charles Nagy (2-2) took the loss for the Indians, who fell for the seventh time in eight games.

Twins 7, Royals 4

At Kansas City, Shane Mack's three-run homer helped rookie Carlos Pulido record his first major league victory. Minnesota won its fourth straight.

Pulido (1-4), a 22-year-old lefty from Venezuela, pitched eight innings, allowing five hits and three walks. He struck out four.

Switzer now welcome in Austin after years of coaching Sooners

By CHIP BROWN

Associated Press Writer AUSTIN (AP) - Dallas Cowboys coach Barry Switzer calls his veterans "the varsity." He says the difference between college and pro preseason will be that players are "bigger, better and richer."

And he doesn't know if he will earn the respect of his players.

But Switzer, the former coach of the Oklahoma Sooners, says he is ready to head to the home of his dreaded ex-rivals - the Texas Longhorns - to conduct his first NFL training camp in Austin beginning July 14.

"This is the first time that I have been received to Austin, Texas, with any fanfare," Switzer said Tuesday, chuckling alongside Cowboys owner Jerry Jones at a news conference touting the upcoming training camp.

Switzer said he had "to sneak in and out of" Austin when he was scouting and recruiting for the Sooners.

Austin, which sustains jalapeno-like heat and humidity in the summer, is "without question the best place to go," Switzer said.

"I think there are a lot of teams that go up to 'cheese country' (the Midwest) and probably don't fare as well in conditioning as the Cowboys would in this climate," Switzer said. Training camp will mark Switzer's most crucial dealings with the Cowboys lineup - or "the varsity," as he calls the veterans - before he tackles his first season.

Switzer says he'll be ready, and that by the time camp rolls around he'll have established a rapport with the team to "get accomplished what I need to get accomplished."

"As to whether I will garner their (the players') respect, I don't think you're asking the right person. You have to ask them," he said.

Jones said the Cowboys, who are in the fifth year of a contract with training camp host St. Edward's University, will be working on a new agreement with the school to keep Dallas' camp in Austin "for years to come."

"This has gotten addictive getting to come to Austin, Texas, and get this team ready to go to a Super Bowl. We don't want to wear ourselves out of it now," Jones said.

Last year's camp was a mob scene as the Cowboys returned to Austin as Super Bowl champions. Jones said the now two-time world champs with stars Troy Aikman, Emmitt Smith and Michael Irvin should make it more of a spectacle.

"This will be the first time since 1990 we have had Aikman, Emmitt and Irvin in camp together," Jones said, alluding to holdouts and injuries that have kept the stars out of past preseason drills.

Throw the novelty of Switzer into the mix, and the path to the practice field known as "Autograph Alley" likely will resemble frenzied fans at a rock concert, Jones said.

"They'll grab the shirts off your back," he said. "The prospect of winning three straight Super Bowls is the driving force of that interest and excitement."

Jones said replacing former coach Jimmy Johnson with Switzer hasn't hurt the team. In fact, he says it may have even helped boost ticket sales, especially in Oklahoma.

"A few people said they were not going to renew their season tickets (because of Johnson's dismissal), but for every one that said that, there were about 10 who said they would walk down from Oklahoma and pick them up," Jones said.

Cowboys send Gainer to Raiders

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys traded running back Derrick Gainer to the Los Angeles Raiders for past considerations Tuesday, sending him back to the team that cut him two years ago.

Gainer, who was a restricted free agent until the Cowboys signed him Friday, played in 11 games last year. He rushed for 29 yards on nine carries and caught six passes for 37 yards.

Gainer played for the Cowboys in 1992 and 1993.

He gained 10 yards on two carries for the Raiders before they cut him in September 1992.

Cowboys spokesman Rich Dalrymple said he didn't know what the past consideration was.

"It's just something that was agreed upon previously," he said. "Evidently, you can't do things anymore for future considerations. It was just the way both clubs decided to announce it."

Fans hold fond memories of old Arlington Stadium

By JACQUELYNN FLOYD
The Dallas Morning News
ARLINGTON, Texas - The first few times Bonnie Cade drove to The Ballpark in Arlington, she cruised past Arlington Stadium on the way, ruefully pondering a dozen seasons spent cheering the Texas Rangers there.

"I kind of felt sorry for it," said Ms. Cade, an Arlington attorney who serves on the sports authority board that oversaw construction of the new ballpark. "It was sad, because I always had such a wonderful time out there."

But after a few weeks, Ms. Cade like thousands of other fans, guilelessly agog over the spectacular new park ceased to notice the abandoned, 30-year-old stadium as anything but a parking impediment. "I hate to see it go," she said. "But I finally just stopped looking."

It's probably just as well, because the stadium where the first generation of Rangers fans grew up is a wreck. Its exterior is stripped and shabby; its inside the site of 1,750 American League games is a post-apocalyptic ruin.

Scheduled for demolition later this summer, the old stadium is dying a piecemeal death as its interior is gradually stripped of salvageable goods. Ultimately, even its bricks may be parceled out as souvenirs; anything left will be bulldozed.

"The pitcher's mound is 40 feet high," joked Rangers' equipment manager Joe Macko, surveying a two-story mountain of earth that now covers the playing field. The lush, springy turf was once the best in the major leagues.

The stadium's final, inglorious role is to serve as a dirt dump for soil cleared during excavation for the new park complex.

Macko's memories of Arlington Stadium go back to the '60s, when it was called Turnpike Stadium and he was general manager of the minor league team that played there, the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs.

Built in 1965 with $1.5 million in Tarrant County bond money, the 10,600-seat stadium over the years was expanded and remodeled, with new additions tacked on when the Rangers came to town and the fan base steadily grew.

Turnpike Stadium meant more than baseball, said Tarrant County Judge Tom Vandergriff, whose well-chronicled efforts led not only to its construction, but to the award of a major league franchise in 1972.

It was a peace monument between Dallas and Fort Worth, whose leaders settled on Arlington as a compromise stadium site after years of bickering about virtually everything else.

"It was a cooperative venture, and it meant we could come together on other, more important things later," Vandergriff said, citing the 1973 construction of Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

But if the site satisfied nearly everyone, years of trying to shoehorn major league ball into the minor league park palled on the Rangers. Plans for a new park were pushed forward almost as soon as the new ownership group, headed by George W. Bush, assumed control of the franchise in 1989.

As proponents campaigned for voter approval of a sales tax to finance the project, Arlington Stadium was increasingly maligned as too old, too ugly, too outdated to house the team.

Macko doesn't quarrel with any of that.

"It was always a minor league park," he said, glancing up into the stands now a vast sea of risers, littered with rusty bolts and washers left when most of the seats were pried loose and sold as souvenirs last year.

Shards of glass hang haphazardly in some of the once-luxurious suites' windows, blasted out last winter when a U.S. Army helicopter unit borrowed the stadium for combat training.

The bullpen is knee-deep in murky, evil-smelling water; a creeping green fungus has spread across the concrete floor of the Rangers' old dugout.

Gingerly lowering himself into one of a few remaining seats, Macko leaned forward and playfully shouted, "Play ball!" But the words failed to summon up visions of long-ago games; maybe the ghosts of the past, driven out by the devastation, had moved next door along with every other else.

Inside the old clubhouse, Macko's longtime domain, the wreckage continues. The floors are littered with a chaotic jumble of moving-day flotsam: a battered pair of sneakers in manager Kevin Kennedy's office, a sagging crib in which players' babies once slept, a broken trophy, of which the bat in the hitter's tiny hands has been snapped off to a stump.

Next to the whirlpool where Nolan Ryan eased the aches that plagued his throwing arm in his final seasons, somebody tried to pry up a carpet of hideous red plastic grass but apparently gave up the effort.

The only sign that the training room was once the domain of professional ballplayers are a pair of tattered girls posters tacked to the wall.

Not much left, apparently even for vandals who have slipped past the security guard a few times. Intruders knocked down a retaining fence and made a halfhearted effort to drag off some scrap metal, but left the little pile behind, Macko said.

He paused briefly in the weight room and recalled that it was a fairly recent building addition.

Earlier, he said, the spot was a strip of lawn where players' kids, children now grown up and whose fathers are long retired, used to run around.

"This was all grass," he said, squinting with the concentration of recollection. "They'd come out here and play what was it? whiffle ball."

The few remaining reminders will be history within a few months. Rangers officials are in the process of hiring a salvage company to scavenge sheet metal and other recyclables from the stadium; final demolition will take place in July or August, said John Blake, Rangers vice president for public relations.

In keeping with fans' suggestions, a little park or marker will be placed to show the site of Arlington Stadium's home plate and pitcher's mound, Blake said. Everything else will be paved over to create 2,500 sorely needed parking spaces.

"We've seen children grow up there and get married, but I guess you have to look forward," said Sister Magdalen Hession, one of two Catholic nuns from Fort Worth whose devotion to the Rangers has made them minor celebrities. "We sat in the same section since 1973. The new park is beautiful, but the old stadium is where we have many, many fond memories."

A few people took their memories with them. Vandergriff bought the section sign and seats where his four children, now grown, sat through the seasons of their youth.

Ms. Cade rescued 15 seats, buying them for $25 each and giving most away as nostalgic, if unconventional, Christmas gifts. She keeps two in her Arlington law office, along with a chunk of asphalt she scavenged when ground was broken for the new ballpark.

She's holding shelf space in reserve for a final souvenir, a brick she plans to grab when the old stadium is demolished.

Macko's final souvenir is a practical one, a still-usable extension cord he spotted in the abandoned locker room.

"It hurt a little bit to see it in this fashion," he said, glancing a last time toward the blank scoreboard in the ruined stadium.

"But when I get back over there and see how nice I have it now, it's worth it."

'Nutritional Needs' discussed at recent Wyche club meeting

Argen Draper presented a program entitled "Nutritional Needs" for members of Wyche Family Community Education Club when the women met recently at the Hereford Community Center.

The speaker talked about the preparation of popcorn in movie theaters noting that most procedures in preparing this treat in the future will be changed using a canola oil instead of coconut oil. She commented that popcorn is considered a food from the cereal group and can be beneficial to the consumer if prepared properly.

Draper also noted that nutritional treatment of chronic diseases is often overlooked. The major chronic diseases of old age include high blood pressure, diabetes and heart disease. Some of the easiest ways to reduce these health problems are exercising and lowering the use of foods high in cholesterol producing properties. Draper suggested using canola oil or olive oil instead of coconut oil and always adding several glasses of warm water. The body utilizes warm water quicker than cold water.

Jo Lee and Draper served as co-hostesses for the meeting.

Clara Trowbridge led the FCE prayer and the pledge to the American and Texas flags.

Jo Lee read as the opening exercise, "When I'm a Little Ole Lady."

Shirley Brown gave a report on

Thelma Auten who has had heart surgery recently in Amarillo noting she is doing well.

Roll call was answered by 13 members on the subject, "A good eating habit I have formed."

A report from the program chairman, Draper, reviewed plans for a western party the club is hosting May 19. As this will finalize meetings for the quarter, she announced the next official meeting will be held Sept. 1 at the Community Center.

Clara Trowbridge gave a report from the Council meeting saying that seven clubs were represented with four having 100 percent attendance. The Dutch treat luncheon was held at K-Bob's with member reassembling in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library where reports from the April district meeting were reviewed. The keynote theme of the meeting was "How to Improve the Quality of Life."

Trowbridge closed her report announcing a program on "Preparing Foods for the Public" will be held from 6:30-9:30 p.m. May 19 at the Community Center. The speaker for this meeting has not been announced.

Members attending were Jo Lee, Argen Draper, Dorothy Lundry, Coreen Odom, Louise Axe, Vada Batterman, Shirley Brown, Camelia Jones, Pet Out, Barbara Sterne, Clara Trowbridge, Mary Lou Aven, and Marie Maxwell.

Cummings is honored during morning Toastmasters meeting

Joe Don Cummings was announced as the best speaker during the recent morning meeting of the Hereford Toastmasters Club held at the Ranch House.

Ed Gilbert was named as best evaluator and Ralph Barndt was chosen best topic speaker.

Charles Minchew led the pledge and Clark Andrews gave the invocation with Rick Jackson presiding over the business session. Sharon Ruland served as Toastmaster; Linda Minchew, timer; Rick Lanning, "ah" counter; Crystal Backus, grammarian; Wayne Winget, wordmaster; and capitulate, the chosen word.

Topicmaster was Ricky Backus and topic speakers included Clark Andrews, Jim Clark, and Ralph Barndt.

Joe Don Cummings spoke on "Plop, Plop, Fizz, Fizz," evaluated by Clark Andrews; Dee Hamilton, "How To Kill Your Spouse in Three Steps," evaluated by Art Gonzales; and Chris Leonard, "What Is A Single Audit?," evaluated by Ed Gilbert.

Jim Clark told the joke and Margaret Del Toro was general evaluator.

Welcomed as a special guest was Ronald Knaack, the incoming division north governor.

PARIS (AP) - Brigitte Bardot says 20 years of lobbying, writing and protesting haven't advanced her animal rights causes. So now she's going straight to the top.

Bardot threatened on Monday to return France's top civilian award, membership in the Legion of Honor, unless the government acts to take better care of animals.

Her first request: for President Francois Mitterrand to end the tradition of presidential hunts in which VIPs shoot pheasant, boar and other wildlife.

She also wants mandatory tattooing of owners' phone numbers on dogs and cats, better pet stores and less experimenting on animals.

Bardot, 59, said her 20 years of activism have been frustrating.

The first creamery to make large quantities of butter by machine opened in Orange County, New York in 1856.

QUESTION: Please explain why some animals are referred to as cold-blooded and others as warm-blooded.

ANSWER: Because blood is constantly flowing through an animal's body, the words cold-blooded and warm-blooded have become common terms to describe an animal's internal temperature.

In reality, a cold-blooded animal can be just as warm inside as a warm-blooded animal if outside temperatures are warm.

A better term to use for each group of animals is endothermic and ectothermic.

Endothermic, or warm-blooded, animals have the ability to maintain a constant internal temperature. Mammals and birds are animals that fit into this group. The human's normal body temperature, for example, is 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit, or 37 degrees Celsius.

Ectothermic, or cold-blooded, animals cannot control their internal temperatures. Consequently, their body temperature varies with their surroundings. Reptiles, amphibians, arthropods and fish are examples of animals in this group.

While endothermic animals can be active during old weather, ectotherms become very inactive and must seek shelter, like burrows in the ground or fish in deeper water, where the temperature is warmer. Otherwise they risk freezing to death.

This is why so many animals go into hibernation during the winter. The frog, for example, will bury itself in the mud at the bottom of a pond for several months. It becomes very inactive during this time, living off of the stored fat and sugar in its body.

It should be no surprise then to find that only birds and mammals live in the extremely cold parts of the world.

NEW YORK (AP) - Bobby Brown and Whitney Houston rely on a tiny foundation to hold up their marriage: their 1-year-old daughter, Bobbi Kristina.

"When you're building a building, you have to have something strong to hold the building up. Bobbi Kris is the cement that holds our relationship together," Brown says in the June issue of McCall's magazine.

"When we're going through changes, when we're arguing or whatever, all it takes is for Bobbi Kristina to go, 'Waaahh,' and we crack up," said the 25-year-old singer.

Houston, 30, won eight American Music awards and three Grammys this year. She said her dreams are full of "very simple things" - like two more children.

Coupe participates in march

Joan Coupe, Hereford Travel Center, recently participated in a Travel Industry March on Washington, hosted by the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA).

Coupe explained that the "march" is an annual initiative to inform and education lawmakers of travel and tourism issues. This was the largest march to date with 1,500 members of the travel and tourism industry attending the April 21 event.

This year's event focused on unifying the industry to battle against further taxation of the industry, defeat travel scam operators, reform health care, and promote travel safety. "Along with ASTA members, the airlines, hotels, car rental companies and cruise lines brought many of their employees," said Coupe.

She explained that ASTA's mission is to enhance the professionalism of travel agents through effective representation in industry and government affairs, education and training, and by identifying and meeting the needs of the traveling public. The society is the world's largest and most influential travel trade association with more than 23,000 members in 129 countries.

Pointers for parents

This year, U.S. Surgeon General Dr. Joycelyn Elders released the first-ever Surgeon General's Report about smoking and young people.

Dr. Elders issued the report in the wake of new research showing an alarming uptick in smoking among teenagers.

Findings of the report include:
-Most smokers start tobacco use before they finish high school.
-Smoking during childhood hinders the development of the lungs and other organs.

-Kids who smoke are more likely to develop long-term nicotine addictions and have a harder time quitting than adults.
-Tobacco is often the first substance used by kids who use alcohol, marijuana and other illegal drugs.

-Kids who smoke are more likely to have lower self images, get lower grades, and hang out with other smokers.
-Cigarette ads give kids a skewed sense as to how socially accepted smoking actually is. The misleading ads make it look like everybody, especially popular, healthy people, smoke.

-On the bright side, the report also spotlights activities across the nation where kids are helping to prevent their peers from smoking.
-To ensure that this message not only reaches kids, but is accepted by them, Dr. Elders and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) teamed to develop a magazine, called SGR 4 KIDS, which explains the report to young people.
To get a kid's view for this magazine, the CDC went right to the source. Kids from around the nation were interviewed to get their real opinions about smoking issues, popular culture and role models.
Their input was used to create SGR 4 KIDS, which presents the major points for the scientific SGR in a colorful, cutting edge, easy-to-read magazine. Highlights include:
-"The Real Deal" about the dangers of smoking,
-Profiles of kids who are protecting themselves from second-hand smoke.

Most of Texas will welcome more rainfall this week

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Most of Texas will get more rain this week, adding to last week's showers that brought welcome relief to crops and pastures, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Extension economist Jose Pena of Uvalde said the southwest region of the state received seven inches of rain that is beneficial to pastures, ranges and crops because of the low soil moisture.

"Abundant forage supplies are causing ranchers to consider buying more cattle for summer operations," Pena said. "The rains were very timely because the summer is fast approaching."

Jon Zeitler, a meteorologist at the National Weather Service Agricultural Service Center in College Station, said most producers in the state can look forward to continuing showers for the rest of the week.

"The heaviest rains should be in the Panhandle and near the Red River," he said. "A low pressure system in the southern part of the state should keep temperatures below normal."

District Extension director Charles Neeb of Fort Stockton said the rains will benefit livestock by increasing pasture growth.

"When the pastures are dry, supplemental feeding is needed for the livestock because the amount of good pasture land decreases," Neeb said.

Supplemental feeding is expensive, and dry conditions do not help producers put top-quality livestock on the market, Neeb said.

District Extension director Lin Wilson of Corpus Christi said the moisture will particularly help fruit crops.

"Most fruit trees are progressing nicely, with some varieties of peaches ready to be picked," Jones said. "The pecan crop appears to be light this season, but rain may help to increase the yields and quality."

Neeb said showers could help West Texas because precipitation averages for the summer months are usually low.

"The forage and livestock conditions in some of the more western counties are very poor," he said. "And since they usually don't get much rain during the summer months, they need all the help they can get."

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district Extension directors:

PANHANDLE: Soil moisture is short to adequate. Light showers over parts of the area. Some beets replanted because of wind damage. Spring grasses and weeds are providing grazing for livestock. Livestock good. Onions making good progress.

SOUTH PLAINS: Soil moisture is short to adequate. Rains throughout region; moisture helpful to crops. Cool temperatures early in week. Corn planting nearing completion. Cotton planting 5 to 10 percent complete. Wheat continues to head.

ROLLING PLAINS: Soil moisture is short to adequate. Wheat condition poor. Peanuts 10 percent planted. Pasture and ranges fair to poor condition because rain-runoff has not replenished stock tanks.

NORTH TEXAS: Soil moisture is surplus to short. Pastures and ranges excellent to fair. Dry weather taking toll on forages.

New political weapon: dueling 'Top 10' lists

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - No thanks to David Letterman, Democrats and Republicans have found another weapon for their political battles: dueling "top 10" lists.

The Democrats fired the first shot Tuesday by issuing a list lampooning the National Republican Senatorial Committee conference, a two-day event staged by Texas GOP Sen. Phil Gramm.

Hours later, the GOP fired off a list of its own.

Unlike the elected delegates who attend party conventions in presidential election years, those attending Gramm's event got in by writing a check to the GOP senatorial committee.

Contributions of either $500 or $1,000, plus a $250 registration fee, entitled donors to mingle Tuesday and Wednesday with about 20 senators and 21 senatorial hopefuls.

Fearing the big money flying around would prompt charges that GOP ideals were for sale, Republican National Chairman Haley Barbour rebuked Gramm and threatened to boycott the conference.

Gramm shrugged off the flak, depicting his convention as a model for future party fund-raising efforts.

"These are the people who are major supporters of our candidates," he said Tuesday. "If we are not going to listen to them, who are we going to listen to?"

Barbour later agreed to attend a Tuesday reception at the conference.

Gleeful over the discord between Barbour and Gramm, the Democrats produced their top 10 reasons why Barbour would boycott the event. Among them:

"After Houston, he's a little apprehensive about any event with the two words 'Republican' and 'convention.'"

"He's tired of Phil Gramm."

"Doesn't think the chairman of the party should have to fork over $750 to have a say in the 'Republican platform.'"

Proud that the GOP committee event and its related fund-raising appeals will add $1 million to Republican Senate campaign war chests, the Republicans swiftly produced a list of their own top 10 reasons why Democratic National Chairman David Wilhelm isn't having a convention of his own. Among the reasons:

"Arkansas state troopers insist on providing security."

"Worried that leading Democrat congressional candidates Hugh Rodham, Jim McDougal and Chuck Robb might show up."

"Credentials committee meets at 4 p.m. today in the AstroTurf section of president's pickup truck."

Political jousting aside, Gramm said his convention differed from other fund-raisers by allowing Republican rank-and-file to advise on platforms.

"My feeling is the success of this event is going to change fund-raising among the major political committees in Washington," Gramm said.

Along with the mini-convention, the National Republican Senatorial Committee questioned Republicans nationwide about what should be discussed at the event. About 49,000 responses cited as priorities the budget, crime, defense, health care, immigration and welfare reform, Gramm said.

The responses will be summarized in a briefing book for Senate candidates, Gramm said.

When Less Is More

Each year, every American uses about 190 pounds of plastic. Of that, about 60 pounds is packaging that gets thrown away after opening purchases. In fact, plastic used for packaging consumes some 33 percent of the limited space available in landfills. Reducing this waste starts in the store. Look for packages that offer more contents, and LESS waste. Buy potatoes, carrots and other vegetables loose, whenever you can. Besides cutting waste, you'll help send manufacturers the message that smart shoppers know less is more!

Shopping? Bring Along a Bag

American shoppers use billions of bags annually. But, if we all use just one less a month, we'll cut that use by hundreds of millions a year. That adds up to a BIG BONUS, because one 20-year old tree makes only 700 or so brown grocery bags. If your purchase is small, think twice about taking a bag. Or, bring a bag from home to use one more time before it's recycled. Washable canvas shopping bags are inexpensive and last for years.

Sign of the Times

Concerned manufacturers and retailers now label products and shelves to help consumers choose products that are GOOD for the environment. Look for symbols or copy advising which boxes and bags are made from "recycled" paper. Other packages may say "recyclable". These use new raw materials, but at least they are suitable for recycling. So-called "biodegradable" plastics never really break down to more than smaller plastic bits under the ideal conditions. Other bags and bottles may use plastics reclaimed through recycling, consuming no new petroleum products.
