Proposed contractor ordinance opposed

Contractors talk to commission

All the spectator seats in the City Commission chamber were taken Saturday during discussion of a proposal for a bonding ordinance for contractors doing business in Hereford. After hearing discussion for about an hour, commissioners agreed by consensus that they would not pursue action on the proposed regulation.

A proposed city ordinance on bonding for contractors doing business in Hereford died Saturday. A roomful of contractors of varied specialties turned up at the City Commission's work session to voice opinions on the issue.

Although there was no consensus among those in attendance, there was enough protest of the city putting "more red tape" onto contractors that the proposed ordinance will get no further action by the commission.

Later, Mayor Bob Josserrand said he hopes the turn-around by the commission on the issue represents "democracy in action... we do listen to the citizenry."

The commission also heard a review of organization and functions of the city's police department from Chief David Wagner, looked at a report on the first month of operation of the garbage disposal program and heard a report on proposals for water development.

During the open forum on bonding for contractors from Hereford as well as other cities, several speakers said they believe a bond regulation "won't do any good."

Told that the purpose in requiring a $10,000 bond of persons doing work on permitted projects is to keep "fly-by-nighters" from taking advantage of city residents, a speaker said the solution is for "people to check to see if a contractor is reputable" before hiring.

"We want to try to protect our citizens," said Mayor Josserrand. "We thought requiring a bond might help."

No action was taken by the commission at the conclusion of the hearing. However, commissioners were in agreement that the bond ordinance would not be brought up again.

Introducing Chief Wagner, City Manager Chester Nolen told the commission that the police department has "undergone substantial changes and a turn-around in the public's perception and feeling" since Wagner took over the job about 19 months ago.

During his presentation, Wagner described the organization of the department, noting that there are 25 commissioned and licensed officers, two secretaries, an animal control officer and nine parttime school crossing guards.

Hiring practices and training were outlined by Wagner who said the state now requires 400 hours of training for accreditation, a figure that will rise in September to 720 hours.

The police department's relationship with other law enforcement agencies, such as Deaf Smith County sheriff's department, Department of Public Safety and district attorney, was acknowledged as "good" by the chief.

He said the citizens' police academy has been successful with close to 40 graduates in the two classes held. "We may do some advanced classes because of requests from those in the classes," he said.

Concluding Wagner's presentation, a demonstration by Dave Ellis and the department's "drug" dog, Ricky, was given for the commission.

Nolen discussed water development proposals and Commissioner Dennis Hicks, speaker for a committee studying possible well sites, suggested new wells that would feed into the southwest station.

Nolen was authorized to send a single rear axle garbage truck for installation of a second axle at a cost of about $12,000. He said the truck will meet highway standards for weight with the modification.

A report on the first month of hauling the city's garbage showed 7,137 miles traveled, 454.39 tons of trash hauled either to the Amarillo landfill or to a commercial facility at Canyon, at a tipping fee total cost of $5,679.84. Fuel cost was $899.65.

The city manager suggested that the commission may want to study the possibility of constructing a transfer station so the route trucks are not sent onto the highways and/or contract for hauling from the transfer station.

Jump in interest rates imminent, but may be last increase for year

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A fourth increase in interest rates appears imminent, but many analysts believe the Federal Reserve's credit tightening for this year may be drawing to a close.

The Fed's key policy-making group, the Federal Open Market Committee, planned to meet behind closed doors today to consider its next interest rate move.

Every time the committee has met this year it has decided to raise interest rates, and there was widespread speculation the central bank would do the same this time.

The funds rate, the interest that banks charge each other on overnight loans, has gone from 3 percent to 3.75 percent.

Many analysts believe the 3.75 percent rate will be increased by one-half percentage point and that the boost will be accompanied by a half-point hike in the Fed's discount rate, the interest that the central bank charges on direct loans to commercial banks. The discount rate, currently 3 percent, was last increased in February 1989.

While the Fed's previous three small rate hikes have sent stock and bond markets spiraling downward, analysts said they were not looking for such a negative reaction this time.

Indeed, on the eve of the widely anticipated rate hike, financial markets staged a modest rally Monday. Bond yields fell to 7.45 percent, compared with an 18-month high of 7.63 percent a week ago, and the Dow Jones industrial average climbed by 11.82 points.

Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan and other Fed officials have insisted they are not trying to choke off the economic expansion with the rate hikes, but are merely pushing interest rates to a "neutral" level where they are neither spurring growth nor retarding it.

The trouble is that the Fed has been vague about just where that neutral territory is, and many critics complain that is why long-term interest rates have risen faster than short-term rates.

"We feel that the Fed needs to be much more definitive and much more clear about what their purpose is and about what they're trying to accomplish," said Tommy Thompson, president of the National Association of Home Builders.

Last week, the national average on 30-year mortgages hit a two-year high of 8.77 percent, according to a survey by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

However, many economists believe long-term interest rates should drop as financial markets become less worried about the pace of Fed rate hikes and as signs mount that the economy is slowing.

Allen Sinai, chief economist at Lehman Brothers, said he believed 30-year mortgages would decline to around 8.25 percent by the end of the year.

Probe of train wreck focuses on trailer full of cat-box litter

By ESTES THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) - Investigators want to know why a trailer full of cat-box litter came loose from a freight train, causing an Amtrak wreck that killed one person and injured more than 350 others.

The CSX freight train and Amtrak's Silver Meteor were passing on side-by-side tracks about 6 feet apart just before dawn Monday when the Silver Meteor rammed the trailer jutting out into its path.

All but one of the Silver Meteor's 19 cars derailed.

"When I woke up, I saw everybody on the floor and crying and yelling," said 13-year-old Shantae Taylor, one of 43 Miami youngsters returning from a chorus competition in Washington. "Windows were broken, and there was stuff all over the floor."

The assistant engineer driving the Amtrak train, Brooks Woodward, 41, of Laurinburg, was killed. Ten people remained hospitalized today, including engineer William Black, who was in serious condition with broken legs and a concussion.

Just after the accident, Black told an Amtrak transportation manager that "all of a sudden a trailer came out in front of me," said Carl Vogt, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board.

NTSB investigators focused on how the truck trailer was anchored to the flatbed car carrying it. Scrapes discovered on the flatbed car may indicate the trailer broke loose, Vogt said.

The trailer had been loaded onto the train in Orlando, Fla., on Saturday. Videotapes made when the train stopped in Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S.C., will be examined to determine if the trailer was out of alignment at those stops.

It was the fifth Amtrak wreck in about 14 months, said Amtrak spokesman Cliff Black. The worst wreck in Amtrak history was in September: Forty-seven people were killed when a train plunged off a bridge into a bayou in Mobile, Ala. A runaway barge had apparently knocked the bridge out of alignment.

"There is no similarity between any two of them except they involve outside forces, outside the control of Amtrak. It is clearly bad luck," Black said.

The Silver Meteor was en route from New York to Miami with 438 people when it jumped the tracks about 25 miles southeast of Raleigh, between Smithfield and Selma. Only one of the freight train's 52 cars left the track; neither of its crew members was hurt.

Commissioners sworn in at regular session Monday

By GEORGIA TYLER

Non-agenda discussions took almost as much time as business items at the 37-minute meeting of the Hereford City Commission Monday evening.

The last item on the commission's agenda opening the meeting to remarks from visitors -- called Public Comments -- drew a complaint about truck parking on residential streets and questions about the city's policy on keeping vacant lots clean.

Davis Ford asked the commission to enforce an ordinance on the books prohibiting truck parking on residential streets and to write citations to owners who do not keep property mowed.

Opening the meeting, Mayor Bob Josserrand administered the oath of office to recently-elected city commissioners, Roger Eades, Nancy Griego, Wayne Winget and Carey

Black.

Acting on items of business, before the exchange with Ford, the commission:

-- Approved purchase of a sewer jet mashing from Underground, Inc., at a cost of $24,950. Only other bid was submitted by STM Equipment of Arlington for $40,218. Water and sewer department unappropriated funds will be used to pay for the equipment.

The sewer clean-out machine now in use was purchased in 1971. City Manager Chester Nolen said the machine is worn out.

-- Accepted a bid from Scott Tractor for lease purchase of a backhoe for use on the aquatic center project, at a monthly lease of $1,841.67, and a total purchase price of $46,122.67.

Other bids were received from Yellowhouse Machinery, $920 per month, $50,184.77 total, and West Texas Equipment, $1,220 per month, $50,533 total.

-- Approved a request from Roy Campbell for city water and sewer connections at 501 Mable, located outside the city limits. Campbell will be responsible for expense and will pay a rate of 1 1/2 the regular resident rates.

Ford suggested that the commission look over proposed ordinances he offered several months ago and said there is abuse of truck parking.

"I don't think the commission is of a mind to prohibit truck parking if it is at, or nearby, the driver's home," declared Josserrand.

Commissioner Black told Ford, "This is an ag town and I'm not going to do anything to hinder business."

Ford asked commissioners and the mayor to "drive around with me and look at the truck parking."

Smoking to cost Medicare $16 B

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Medicare will spend $800 billion over the next 20 years treating diseases brought on by cigarette smoking - $16 billion this year alone, the Columbia University Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse reported today.

Caring for those hospitalized for tobacco, alcohol and drug-related illnesses will cost the government health system for the elderly and disabled $20 billion this year, the center said.

Over the next 20 years alcohol, drugs and tobacco will cost Medicare more than $1 trillion, with smoking the biggest culprit, the center said.

"Treating the symptoms of smoking... is closing the armory door after the deadly instruments of destruction have been let loose," said

Joseph Califano Jr., the center's president.

"There is a special need to take action now to encourage Americans not to start smoking and to help those who are already addicted to quit," he said.

Califano, a longtime smoking opponent and President Jimmy Carter's health secretary, was to testify before Congress today that these medical bills could have been prevented had the government learned earlier about secret tobacco industry research into their products - and cracked down on smoking.

At issue are industry documents showing cigarette companies knew, as early as the 1960s, that nicotine was addictive and smoking dangerous, and that some companies developed but never marketed safer cigarettes.

Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., whose House Energy and Commerce health subcommittee has led growing attacks on the tobacco industry, has ordered the nation's seven largest tobacco companies to turn over all industry studies of smoking to his office.

No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot was worth $3 million.

The numbers drawn from a field of 50 were: 1, 2, 7, 28, 29 and 38.

There were 90 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,848. There were 5,978 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $101.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $10 million.

campaign conducted by Hereford Beautification Alliance during the spring, Ford asked what the city will do to maintain the areas that were HBA projects.

He claimed that the "citation method" -- issuing tickets to owners who do not clean up their property -- puts "financial responsibility on those who don't do it instead of citizens who take care of their property."

City Manager Nolen said the city employs a worker who surveys areas and notes lots that are not in compliance. Letters are sent to owners with a 10-day deadline for the lots to be cleaned up. If there is no action, a citation may be written.

"We think the process is working," said Nolen.

Ford claimed stronger measures are needed, and drew a mild rebuke from the mayor who said, "We have enough of government taking away property rights without the City of Hereford adding to it."

Retorted Ford, "It's a matter of perspective . . . we are destroying private property."

"We are not and will not do so," Josses said.

Nolen said that lots which the city may legally enter are mowed at the rate of $30 per hour. Bills are sent to the owners.

NASA has high hope for station in space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - NASA's space station managers say they're optimistic Congress will "do the right thing" and keep plans intact for the $30 billion orbiting outpost. "I believe that when it's all said and done, the majority in Congress is going to do the right thing," station program office head Randy Brinkley said Monday at the start of a critical week for the controversial project.

The House appropriations subcommittee convenes today to determine whether NASA gets the $14.3 billion sought by the Clinton administration for 1995. Of that total, $2.1 billion would go toward station development.

House Science, Space and Technology Committee Chairman George Brown, D-Calif., one of the station's biggest boosters in the past, has indicated he may withdraw support if the NASA budget request is cut.

Brown's defection would probably cost other support as well, likely dooming the project that survived a House vote by only a 216-215 margin last year.

The United States has spent more than $11 billion and its foreign partners $4 billion with a commitment to double that amount by the time the as-yet-unnamed station is completed in 2002.

In addition to budget concerns, a sure topic of debate in the House this summer will be the agreement that pays Russia $400 million to provide such critical station systems as life support and propulsion.

Critics charge the project could be threatened by political and financial instability in Russia.

But Bill Shepherd, a space station deputy manager, said backup plans are in place to ensure the project could forge ahead regardless of Russian involvement.

"We originally laid the program to be self-contained and if the Russians chose to come on board, that was fine by us," Shepherd said. He added that the current station design can be adjusted for American systems to replace Russian parts.

"We've kept those plans dusted off and if for some reason the Russian participation does not fully work out, we have the capability to go back to that," he said.

Brinkley, in a station progress report, said workers are busy testing 25,000 pounds of equipment, the first pieces of the planned 831,000-pound station.

The project's other goals for this year, he said, include putting finishing touches on the station design and working out details of the U.S.-Russian agreement. The first station construction flight is scheduled for November 1997.

"We try not to be distracted by what goes on in Washington, D.C.," Brinkley said. "We'll just keep pressing on, working on the things that we're responsible for."

Hints from Heloise

Q. How do I dry and store herbs? I have been growing small amounts of herbs in window boxes for years and cut them to use fresh when I cook. Now I have a garden and will need to dry and store most of the harvest. — K.M., Anaheim, Calif.

A. It is best to collect herbs for drying in the cool morning or early afternoon.

After collecting, discard all unwanted parts of the plants, carefully rinse away any soil and pat dry. The herbs can then be dried in a dark, well-ventilated room. Lay them out flat on a screen or tie in small bundles and hang them upside-down from the ceiling.

The drying time will vary from a few days to several weeks depending on the herb and the part of the plant being dried. When completely dried, the flowers and leaves will be fragile and the stems will break easily when bent.

Keep dried herbs in glass jars with tight-fitting lids. Clearly label (don't forget to date the container) and store the jars in a dark, dry pantry and check periodically for signs of moisture or mold. The dried herbs should stay well for up to one year. — Heloise

HOT COFFEE

Dear Heloise: I cringe when I think of all the electricity I've used keeping my coffee pot hot all day and when it would get too strong to drink, throw it out and make a new pot.

Now as soon as the coffee is made, I unplug the pot and pour it straight into a thermos. The coffee never gets stronger this way and the electric bill is lower. — A true coffee lover, Warrenton, Va.

LEMON ICED TEA

Dear Heloise: I love to drink iced tea with lemon but found it inconvenient to keep a fresh supply of lemons all the time.

Now I buy a small canister of powdered lemonade mix and add half a teaspoon to every glass of tea to give it that lemony taste. One canister will last forever and is cheaper than buying fresh lemons all the time. — Dudley Anderson, Little Rock, Ark.

COUNTERTOP APPLIANCES

Dear Heloise: I had trouble moving our mixer and bread machine out to the front of the counter, so I complained and my husband used a little bit of Yankee ingenuity that really worked.

He went to the local hardware store and asked them to cut pieces of acrylic plastic to fit under all four feet of each appliance.

Even though the bread machine is heavy, it slides out like a dream and there are no marks. It cleans easily and is also inexpensive. — Gladys Young, Terry, Mont.

Dear Friends: With the summer months, everyone welcomes the warm weather and the comfort of air conditioning. Although air conditioning only accounts for 5 percent of overall U.S. household energy use, in the warmer regions it can represent 25 to 40 percent of your home's annual energy costs!

Here are some quick, inexpensive ways to lower cooling costs.

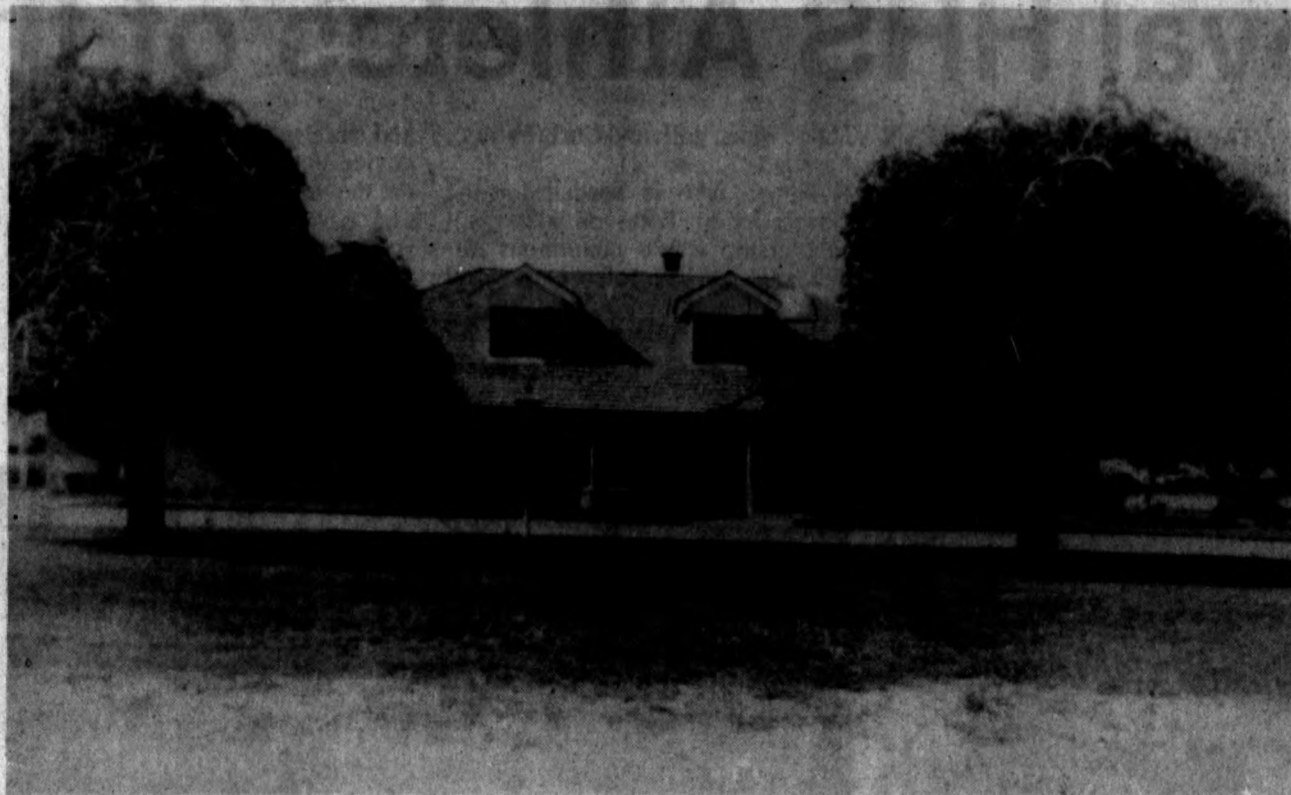

- The thermostat setting is very important—each degree up or down can make a difference of 3-5 percent in your air-conditioning costs. This can add up to a lot of money!
- Use ceiling or oscillating fans to circulate the air. This will help keep you cooler.
- Don't create extra heat in your home during the warmest hours of the day. Save laundry and high-heat cooking for morning or late evening.
- Clean or change the air-conditioning filter at least once a month.

If you would like more Heloise Home Energy-Saving Hints, please send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to: Heloise/Energy, PO Box 785001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise

RAW SPAGHETTI

Dear Heloise: If you have a candle that has burned down in its tall container so that you can't light it with a match, try this great hint.

Light the end of a piece of raw spaghetti and use it as you would a match. Works perfectly! — Virginia Padgett, Henderson, Ky.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for the man in L.A. who is "Waiting 'Til the Kids Leave Home."

I, too, had a wife who wasn't interested in sex. Before we got married, "Claire" couldn't get enough. After the honeymoon, I was lucky to get it once a month. Last year, we made love twice.

I was a faithful husband, helped with the children and pitched in with the housework and laundry. When I tried to talk to Claire about the problem, she'd say she wasn't interested in "that stuff" anymore and I was the one with the problem because all I thought about was sex. After 12 years and two children, I found out she was plenty interested in sex -- but not with me. She is willing to give me the house and kids in exchange for her freedom.

Tell "Waiting 'Til the Kids Leave Home"—don't wait. Get out NOW. The kids will survive, and everyone will be a lot better off.—Indiana

DEAR INDY: I would not presume to second-guess a guy who has experienced a royal double cross and third-degree burns.

You came out better than most divorced men. You have the kids and the house and can make a new life for yourself. If I printed your name and city, you'd be inundated with offers. Good luck to you, fella.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I comment on your advice to "Apprehensive in Ohio"? While it is technically and legally true that having an expunged record is the same as never having had a record, you must remember that these records are handled by the government. Even in the best of organizations and circumstances, people make mistakes.

As an investigator for many years, I can't tell you how many times I have reviewed a record that was SUPPOSED to have been expunged but wasn't. When I found such a record, I reported it to the person in charge. I then informed my client that the person being investigated had no record of criminal violation. Others, however, might not be so generous. The subject of the investigation would then be left to explain the discrepancy, especially if he had stated he had no criminal record.

Anyone who is told his record will be expunged should go to the place where his record is being held and check personally to make sure it was done. If he finds that his record has NOT been expunged, he can take appropriate action to see that the order is carried out.—North Carolina Reader

DEAR N.C.R.: Thank you for a solid piece of reporting. You would not believe how much misinformation I received from readers on this subject. I'm talking about professionals who should know better.

We ran all queries by Bill Carter, a spokesperson for the FBI, and he was enormously helpful in separating fact from fiction. He said if the state requests that a record be expunged, ALL traces are removed from the FBI's files and computers—including fingerprints. Thanks, Bill.

WTAMU nursing students experience rural health care

Ten students from West Texas A&M University's Division of Nursing will be working as rural health care providers this summer. The students are participating in the third year of the Rural Health Outreach Program and will be living and working in a selected rural area.

"This is an extended clinical experience we are not able to provide during semester clinicals," Rebecca Robinson, instructor of nursing, said.

According to Robinson, nursing is headed towards a more community based provider system, especially in rural areas.

"Hopefully an experience like this will stimulate interest in an underserved area of nursing," she said. "Students tend to seek jobs where they have had positive experiences."

Robinson hopes this summer experience will lead some of the participants into rural health.

The Rural Health Outreach Program is a collaboration between the university, the South Plains Health Providers Organize Inc.

(SPHPO) and the Texas Department of Health (TDH). The goals for the program are to increase the number of registered nurses working in rural communities and to increase access to health care in isolated areas.

The student participants are elected on a competitive basis and receive academic credit for a nursing honors course. They also receive a stipend from SPHPO which pays for living expenses for the summer.

Among the local students participating in the program will be Kari Bullard, a junior from Hereford, working with Dimmitt TDH; Beverly Martin, a junior from Hereford, working with Hereford TDH and SPHPO; and Anthony Palguta, a post bachelor student from Amarillo, working with Hereford TDH and SPHPO.

Jaime Brorman announced as chapter's Girl of the Year

Jaime Brorman was named Girl of the Year by members of Alpha Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority when they met recently at Southwestern Public Service.

President Brorman called the meeting to order with the opening ritual. Several committees were discussed in business order and Pattie Urbanczyk announced that City Council had donated $250 to a needy Hereford mother.

Also, new officers for the coming club year were installed. Serving as president will be Wanda Huseman; vice president, Gwen Betzen; treasurer, Glenna Calaway; recording secretary, Sheryl Welch; corresponding secretary, Carmen Gonzales; extension officer, Mary Bob Ward; and City Council, Mary Bob Ward, Danell Culp, Marrie Leverett and Wanda Huseman.

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Andy Warhol can still pack a party. Just ask Dennis Hopper, John Waters, Mary McFadden and Ultra Violet.

Dressed more for a debutante ball than for the decadent discos frequented by Warhol's Factory crowd, celebs flocked to Friday's black-tie dinner marking the opening of the Warhol Museum here in the hometown of the pop artist, who died in 1987.

The museum's 3,000-piece collection includes four of Warhol's famous soup can paintings and a huge portrait of Chairman Mao.

Tijerina, Sandoval HHS Athletes of the Year

Andrew Tijerina and Kara Sandoval were named as Hereford High School's Athletes of the Year at the annual All-Sports Banquet Monday in the Bull Barn.

Of the other major awards, Kelly Kelso, Stacey Sanders and Elias Reyna received the Casey Smith Memorial Award, and Ben Celaya and Michelle Brock were honored with the Fighting Heart Award.

All of the major award winners were seniors.

Sandoval played in each of the last four Region I-4A volleyball matches, and she was the only player to do so. She earned all-district recognition the past two years. As the team's setter, she set season and career records in assists. She also excelled in tennis during the spring: with partner Brooke Weishaar she finished third in girls' doubles at the Region I-4A Tennis Tournament.

Tijerina earned all-district recognition as a guard on the football team, and served as a captain. During the baseball season, his pitching and hitting helped Hereford to its first playoff berth in five years.

The Fighting Heart Award is given to the overachiever--the athlete who gets more out of his athletic ability than most people do. Girls' basketball coach Eddie Fortenberry, presenting Brock's award, said it was someone who shows dedication, desire, hustle and success.

Brock showed all those playing for the volleyball, basketball and track teams. She was a two-year starting back-court player for the volleyball team, and qualified for the Region I-4A Track Meet as a shotputter.

Of Celaya, a two-year starter at guard for the football team, assistant coach Stan Carter said: "By sheer want-to, he made himself a star on the district championship team last year and made second-team all district this year."

The Casey Smith Award goes to the Herd athlete who works the hardest to improve and shows a love of the game.

Kelso watched her teammates play in a state golf tournament as a sophomore, then helped the team take third place there when she was a junior. As a senior, she not only improved herself, winning the Hereford Invitational and earning all-district status, but she helped a very young team improve enough to earn a trip to the regional tournament.

Reyna worked hard to earn the starting quarterback spot for the Herd, and he kept working through early-season struggles and recovered to throw for 220 yards in the first district game.

Of Sanders, head football coach Danny Haney said, "He was one of the most versatile athletes. He played three sports (football, basketball and baseball) and made contributions in each one."

Dave Hopper was honored as Fan of the Year by Fritz Backus, president of the Whiteface Booster Club.

The Hereford Brand and KPAN Radio honored one athlete in each of HHS's 13 varsity sports with Media Awards. The recipients were: Mark Kuper, football; Katie Young, volleyball; Miguel Carillo and Bethany Townsend, cross country; Stephanie Wilcox and Elijah Walker, basketball; Brooke Weishaar and Chris Lyles, tennis; Krista West and Brandon Gearn, track; Kelso and David Sims, golf; and Chris Vallejo, baseball.

Kuper, who is headed for the University of Texas on a football scholarship was a unanimous all-district pick at both defensive end and tight end as a senior, and gained honorable mention all-state on defense.

Young was one of the last cuts from the varsity squad as a junior, and she used that as a motivational device. As a senior, she became one of the volleyball team's top hitters and earned first-team all-district status.

Townsend, a freshman, won two cross country meets this year, at Floydada and Stratford. She finished sixth at the district meet, missing regional berth by one place.

Carillo, also a freshman, was the top runner on a very young team. His top finish on varsity was 23rd.

Walker provided senior leadership for the boys' basketball team and set a record for field goal percentage in a game with a 7-for-8 performance against Ralls.

Wilcox, a three-year starter for the girls' basketball team set numerous

Got Respect
SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) - Coaches in any sport demand respect from their players.

Football coach Mike Ayers of Wofford got a lot just by appearing on a television news show. A number of players were watching when Ayers, in a feature segment on the show demonstrated a technique which qualified him as an expert.

The players had not been aware that Ayers was an expert in karate.

Quick Leopards
LA VERNE, Calif. (AP) - The University of La Verne football team is nicknamed the Leopards, an animal noted for its quickness.

The La Verne Leopards were all of that in a football game against Menlo College. The score was tied, at 14 all, with slightly more than two seconds left in the first half.

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (AP) - The big story in the fourth game of the 1947 World Series between the Dodgers and Yankees was the game-winning double by Cookie Lavagetto which gave the Brooklyn team a 3-2 victory and broke up Floyd Bevens' no-hitter.

However, earlier in the ninth inning, there was another key play.

Al Gionfriddo, running for Carl Furillo, stole second with two out. That led to the intentional walk given Pete Reiser by the Yankees and, after Eddie Miksis was sent in to run for Reiser, the big blow off the bat of Lavagetto.

Frenship ends Herd season with 11-1 drubbing

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Frenship pitcher Chad Reynolds limited the Hereford team to one hit and one run, and the Tigers broke open a close game in the fifth inning and cruised to an 11-1 win Saturday at Whiteface Field.

With two straight wins in the best-of-three bi-district playoff series--the Tigers won 4-3 Friday in Wolforth--Frenship improved to 19-10 and will advance to meet Sweetwater on Friday. Frenship advanced all the way to the state (Class 4A) championship game last year, where the Tigers lost.

Saturday's loss ended the Herd's best season in five years--since the 1989 club played in the state quarterfinals. This year's final record of 12-13-1 included a District 1-4A record of 6-3-1, good for second place.

Reynolds, a tall, hard-throwing right-hander, gave up a double to Scott Ahola in the second inning, and that was all. He gave up a run in the fifth on walks to Ahola, Armando Zambrano, Stacey Sanders and Chris Vallejo, with Vallejo forcing in the Herd's lone run. Reynolds had two of his five strikeouts in that inning to help himself out of the jam.

Reynolds had good defense behind him, too, as the Tigers didn't commit an error. They didn't have an error in Friday's 4-3 win, either.

"Frenship continued to make great plays," Herd coach J.J. Villarreal said. "They didn't boot the ball. We live by the ground ball, and every so often something goes right. You've got to compliment the Frenship defense."

Hereford committed two errors on Saturday, but Frenship only got one unearned run out of them. The Herd had no errors on Friday.

Frenship collected 14 hits in the game, but only one came in the first three innings as Herd starter Andrew Tijerina held the Tigers off.

They finally got to Tijerina in the fourth, starting the inning with back-to-back doubles for two runs. Hereford got out of the fourth with the help of a double play, started when right fielder Zambrano caught a line drive and threw to second.

Frenship broke it open in the fifth, scoring four runs on a leadoff walk, two singles, an error and a sacrifice fly. The Tigers led 6-0, then Hereford made it 6-1 in the bottom of the inning.

In the sixth, Frenship got two runs in a rally that started with two outs--on two singles, two walks and another single--but Tijerina struck out cleanup hitter Buddy Drake with the bases loaded. That kept the Frenship lead at 8-1.

"They were good hitters," Tijerina said. "They were patient hitters--they didn't chase out of the zone; they hit strikes."

"I thought Andrew did a good job through four innings," Villarreal said. "But then he struggled getting his changeup over. You've got to have more than one pitch."

In the seventh, three straight singles chased Tijerina. Louis Hernandez relieved and walked in a run, gave up a sacrifice fly and gave up two RBI singles.

The Herd's last defensive play of the year was a great one. With the bases loaded and two outs, Frenship's Drake smashed a line drive apparently over leftfielder Tanner Murphey, but Murphey made the catch diving away from the infield.

Frenship scoring nine runs in the final three innings couldn't put much of a damper on a fine season.

"All I can say is we're proud of these kids," Villarreal said, moments after completing his first season as a head coach.

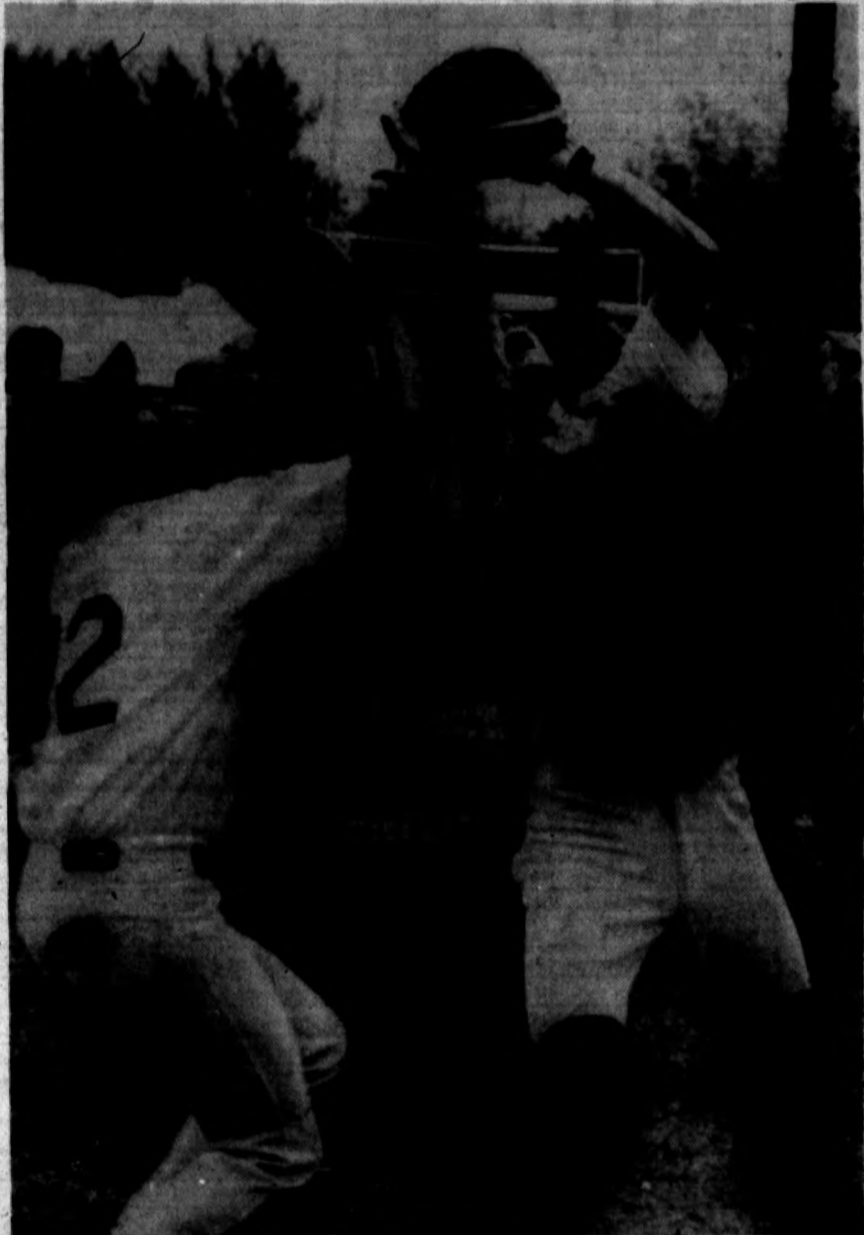

"These kids surprised the community, and they surprised the district," he said. "Our motto was 'Shock the World.' We weren't supposed to beat people, but we got in the playoffs. We were not supposed to be close to Frenship (but they were close for 11 of the 14 innings in the series) It's the senior leadership. I'm going to miss every one of them."

Tijerina, a senior who also played on the varsity last year, gave credit for the program's turnaround to Villarreal and his staff: Henry Perez, Pete Rodriguez and Chris Christopher.

"The practices were a whole lot more intense, and the coaches expected more out of you," Tijerina said. "We have to thank the coaches. They were great."

District 1-4A champion Berger advanced to the second round with a 5-4 win over Estacado Friday in Plainview.

Berger (18-8) will take on Big Spring (20-6) in a best-of-three series starting at 7 p.m. Friday at the Lubbock Christian University field.

Team catch

Herd pitcher Andrew Tijerina and catcher Scott Ahola join forces to try to catch a pop-up behind home plate. They collided, but Ahola made the catch. Frenship wrapped up the bi-district series with an 11-1 win Saturday at Whiteface Field, ending Hereford's best season in five years.

Madisons win weekend scramble

Robin Madison and Thurlene Madison totaled 130 in two golf rounds Saturday and Sunday to win a two-woman scramble sponsored by

West Texas Warriors to be in tourney

The West Texas Warriors, a basketball team of boys mostly from Hereford, qualified for the national AAU tournament by winning the 12-under portion of the West Texas Regional AAU Boys' Basketball Championship Sunday in Amarillo.

The Warriors blew out the Golden Spread Jaguars, 68-39, in the finals. In earlier games, they won by scores of 83-27, 69-51 and 69-57.

The team consists of Daniel Carnahan, Cody Hodges, Slade Hodges, Nathan King, Landon Martin, Eric McNutt, James Miller, Steven Northern and Chayse Rives. The coach is Amy Noyes.

The national tournament will be held in Salt Lake City starting on July 23. Four members of the team--Hodges, Hodges, McNutt and Miller--were part of the West Texas Sharks team that went to a national AAU tournament last year.

Rangers' rookie Greer makes most of major league debut

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Rusty Greer felt like any anxious rookie. Good thing for him and the Texas Rangers he didn't hit like one.

Greer homered and drove in three runs in his major league debut Monday night, helping the Texas Rangers beat the Oakland Athletics 11-7 in 10 innings.

Greer, called up from Triple-A Oklahoma City when Gary Redus was put on the disabled list, flied out during Texas' six-run first inning. He homered to lead off the second against Carlos Reyes and added a two-run single in the 10th.

"The second time up I was still scared to death," he said. "I was excited and nervous. I was just trying to put the bat on the ball."

Greer's homer gave the Rangers a 7-0 lead, but they couldn't hold it in Oakland. The A's tied it in the ninth on Mike Aldrete's sacrifice fly.

In other games, Toronto defeated Detroit 7-2, Kansas City beat Seattle 6-4 and Chicago downed California 8-5.

Bob Welch, 0-5 with a 9.53 ERA the Hereford Ladies Golf Association. The duo combined for a 68 on Saturday, then burned up Pitman Municipal Golf Course for a 62 on Sunday to win the championship flight by five strokes.

Alice Doshier and Beverly Obenshain took second, shooting a 69 and a 66 for a total of 135. There was a tie for third at 137, as Mary Shelton and Edna May had a 66 and a 71, and H.A. McWhorter and Tiffi West shot 69 and 68.

A highlight of the tournament was Kelly Kelso carding a hole-in-one. She used an 8-iron to hole the 130-yard No. 3 at Pitman. Witnesses included Marci Hughes, John Elliott, N.D. Kelso, Linda Stevens, Donnie O'Rand, Robin Madison and Thurlene Madison.

In the second flight, Sherry Sargent and Brenda Martinez fired a 71-71--142 to win. Cindy Guelker and Glenda Miller were second at 75-70--145, and Kelso and Hughes were third at 75-73--148.

In the third flight, Audrey Shottenkirk and Cindy Reynolds won with a 81-79--160. Mary Haun and Bernice Orel were second at 80-81--161, and Marifa Jones and R.M. Robinson were third at 82-81--163.

Rickman, Henderson, Noland place at rodeo

Chasity Rickman, Justin Henderson and Ashley Noland each won an event at a Tri-State High School Rodeo Association rodeo Saturday in Wheeler.

Rickman won poles with a time of 20.506 seconds. She also took third in goat tying in 13.166 and eighth in barrels in 17.502.

Henderson won the bareback riding event with a score of 69.

Noland, who rodeos for the Randall Club but attends Hereford High School, won calf roping with a time of 11.239 seconds. He also teamed with Cloudy Meason of Hereford to take fourth in team roping in 13.424.

Dustin Spann of Hereford took fifth in bull riding, getting a score of 59. Misty Meyer, also of Hereford, claimed sixth in breakaway roping with a time of 9.493.

Rookie pitches Astros past Williams for win

By TOM WITHERS
Associated Press Writer

Dave Veres didn't have time to get nervous. Good thing.

Veres, summoned in the sixth inning to face one batter - Matt Williams - with the bases loaded, struck out the National League's leading home run hitter and earned his first major league win Monday night as the Houston Astros defeated the San Francisco Giants 3-2.

Leading 2-1 thanks to Williams' 15th homer in the fifth inning, the Giants loaded the bases in the sixth against Shane Reynolds. Houston manager Terry Collins then called on Veres, a rookie, to pitch to Williams. Go get 'em rookie.

"I was more pumped than nervous," said Veres. "The first two strikes went OK, but after it got to 2-2 things slowed down and got interesting."

Veres (1-1), who had never faced Williams before, threw a slider for a called strike three.

"I threw a slider hoping he would swing at it," said the 27-year-old right-hander. "I was lucky and he took it for a strike."

Williams offered no excuses. "That's the first time I've seen some of those young guys, but if you're swinging the bat good it doesn't matter who you face," he said.

Jeff Bagwell hit two homers, his 10th and 11th, to help the Astros to their second win in seven games.

Bryan Hickerson (2-2) allowed three runs and six hits in seven innings.

Trailing 2-1 in the sixth, Craig Biggio walked with one out and Bagwell hit his second homer to make it 3-2.

Mitch Williams got two outs for his fifth save.

Elsewhere in the NL, it was Pittsburgh 7, St. Louis 2; Chicago 4, San Diego 2; Montreal 4, Philadelphia 1; Florida 3, New York 1; and Los Angeles 9, Colorado 2.

At Denver, Tim Wallach and Mike Piazza each homered to lead the Dodgers to their seventh straight win and into sole possession of first place in the NL West for the first time since Oct. 1, 1991.

Wallach drove in four runs, giving him 1,000 RBIs in his career. Piazza drove in three runs.

Ramon Martinez (2-2) pitched six strong innings and left with a stiff lower back after a leadoff triple by Walt Weiss in the seventh. Greg Harris (2-2) was the loser.

Cubs 4, Padres 2

At Chicago, Steve Buechele hit a two-run homer as Anthony Young and the Cubs handed the Padres their eighth straight loss.

BANQUET

records, including just about every mark possible for three-point shooting.

Weishaar, with Sandoval, took third in girls' doubles this year at the regional tennis tournament, which made them alternates for the state tournament. Weishaar also helped the team to the regional tournament in the fall.

Lyles was the captain of the tennis team and one of the top boys' players.

Gearn and West both were excellent sprinters, and both earned district titles in the 200-meter dash: West last year as a junior and Gearn this year as a senior. Gearn also won the district title in the 100. Both years, West missed a trip to the state meet by a fraction of a second. Both runners helped successful relay teams during their careers.

Sims, a sophomore, carried an 82-stroke average through district play, earned all-district recognition and helped a young team to a third-place district finish.

Vallejo, a senior second baseman, was the top player for the baseball team which went to the playoffs for the first time in five years. He led off the batting order with a .406 average, stole 30 bases and ever drove in 32 runs.

Americanism is topic of club's study theme

"Americanism" was the program theme studied when members of Pioneer Study Club met recently in the Lamar Room of King's Manor with Mary Panciera serving as hostess.

Mary Jane Burrus' topic was "I Pledge Allegiance--Thirty-one Words: Liberty, Justice, Indivisible Under God." She said, "We've recited them so often and we know them so well, we don't have to think about the words. But what do they mean? What do they really say?"

In commenting in each sentence, the speaker said, "The Pledge of Allegiance is not a bunch of words to be mindlessly repeated. It is, quite literally, a pledge, a vow, and every time we repeat it, we are reaffirming our commitment to the country we call 'home'."

Flag Day is celebrated June 14 in memory of the day in 1777 when the Continental Congress adopted the stars and stripes as the official flag of the United States of America. Flag Day was first officially observed in 1877 to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the selection of the flag. Congress requested all public buildings to fly the flag on June 14 that year.

In honor of the Columbus quadricentennial, Boston based children's weekly, "The Youth's Companion," published a few words on Sept. 8, 1892 for students to repeat on Columbus Day. Reprinted in thousands of leaflets, the pledge went out to public schools across the country. On Oct. 12, 1892, more than 12,000,000 children marked the 400th anniversary of Columbus' arrival by reciting for the first time a pledge of allegiance to the stars and stripes. Now more than 100 years later, students are still saluting the flag.

President Woodrow Wilson established Flag Day as a national Celebration in 1916. In 1949, President Harry Truman officially recognized June 14 as Flag Day by signing the National Flag Day Bill.

A last amendment was made in 1954 when the words "under God" were added. "In this way," said President Dwight Eisenhower, "we are reaffirming the transcendence of religious faith in America's heritage and future. In this way, we will constantly strengthen those spiritual weapons which will forever be our country's most powerful resource in peace and in war."

Maria Escamilla narrated a resume of the Bill of Rights. "When the newly established Congress met in 1789, one of the first priorities was to amend the Constitution and 12 amendments were adopted. In 1791, 10 of the amendments were ratified by the states but the Bill of Rights did not provide guarantees of individual liberty to all Americans. It would take almost 70 years and a Civil War before the question of equality for Blacks was settled. It would be 150 years before women were guaranteed equal suffrage under the Constitution."

She continued by saying, "The articles have stood the test of time, but the exact meaning of some is still debated. For example, should the second amendment's right to keep and bear arms to maintain a 'militia' be interpreted as an all inclusive right to keep firearms? Where do the modern forms of electronic caves dropping stand in relation to the fourth amendment's stricture against 'unreasonable searches and seizures?' Of the eight amendment's statement on cruel and unusual punishment, 'how should the death sentence be considered?'"

Judicial interpretation will continue to shade precise meaning but the freedoms bestowed by these articles are basic to our way of life.

The Bill of Rights and subsequent amendments have made the Constitutional system of government a beacon to the rest of the world--especially evidenced at this time--by providing a model for a political system that effectively guarantees the rights of the individual.

Catherine Gripp presided over the business session when Mary Panciera, Maria Escamilla and Mary Jane Burrus reported on the Top of Texas District Federation of Women's Clubs that met recently in Dalhart. The Pioneer Study Club received 21 awards at the event.

The education chairman, Catherine Gripp, reported that Brian Betzen had been nominated by the school as an ambassador to the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Leadership Seminar to be held in Amarillo. Each year, Pioneer Club sponsors a sophomore by paying expenses to the conference. Also, five essays on "Environmental Challenge" were sent to the Texas General Land Office. Four of the essays were from Mrs. Fortenberry's third grade class and one came from a Hereford High School student.

The club meeting was adjourned by members repeating the American Creed. Lunch was served from tables decorated with spring flowers.

Rick Jackson takes honor at Toastmasters meeting

Rick Jackson was selected as the best Hereford Toastmasters Club speaker when the group met during an evening meeting recently at Sirloin Stockade.

Dennis Detten was chosen as best evaluator.

Jigger Rowland led the pledge and the invocation was given by Wayne Winget. Jackson presided over the meeting.

Dan Hall served as Toastmaster; Wayne Winget, timer; Dianna Kimmel, "ah" counter; Jigger Rowland, grammarian; Mike Harris, wordmaster; and Otrude, the chosen word.

Topic speakers included Sharon Cramer who spoke on "What Is Copy Right?," evaluated by Stan McCabe; Linda Minchew, "You Are What You Eat," evaluated by Nancy Griego; Rick Lanning, "The Coming of America," evaluated by Charles Minchew; Ralph Barndt, "Bum Rap," evaluated by Bob Lohr; and Rick Jackson, "When I Grow Up," evaluated by Dennis Detten.

Dave Kimmel served as general evaluator.

Guests included Mike Foster, Janice Gilbert and Ronnie Lyons.

Food waste disposers safe for most septic tank systems

Good news...if your home has a septic tank rather than being connected to a city sewer system, you too can enjoy the convenience of a food waste disposer. According to a U.S. Public Health Service study, ground food waste does not hamper the operation of a septic tank system if the septic tank is properly sized and maintained.

How do you know if your tank is big enough? It's easy. Since septic tank size is determined by the volume of waste water generated by the home, households with water-bearing appliances (such as dishwashers and washing machines) require a larger tank and absorption field than those without them. So, if your home already has one or more of these major appliances, your existing septic tank system probably is adequately sized to handle the disposer-ground food waste as well.

Regarding septic tank maintenance, experts agree that an annual checkup by a septic tank system contractor is the best way to avoid trouble and prolong the life of your tank. In any system, fats and grease from everyday dishwashing end up in the septic tank, which, if allowed to accumulate too long, can clog the system and eventually cause tank failure. Rather than adding to potential clogs, however, proper use of food waste disposers may actually help alleviate grease problems in plumbing pipes in many cases.

About half of all American homeowners currently use food waste disposers, invented in the 1930s by a Wisconsin architect. In fact, disposers are the second most-desired home appliance after the dishwasher and are included in 80 percent of new homes.

Grinding food wastes into minute, silt-like particles that are safely flushed away to a municipal sewer or septic tank system, disposers use less water per day than is required for one flush of a standard toilet. What's more, the electricity disposers use annually is a little less than the energy used by a night light running continuously for a year.

The world's largest tire in regular production contains over 7,000 pounds of natural rubber. It's used in mining operations.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Can you send me some information on congestive heart failure? My 73-year-old mother has it. I noticed that she seemed less active than she used to be. After we had walked, she would tell me she had to stop and catch her breath. Soon she would complain after less and less walking. I also noticed that she had a little cough that never seemed to go away. I feared the worst, such as cancer of the lungs.

She went to the doctor and after a complete checkup he told her she has congestive heart failure. He put her on Lanoxin and Lasix. She is much better and doesn't get short of breath again, and I notice her cough is gone. What can she expect for the future? Will she have to stay on these medicines for the rest of her life? She has never had high blood pressure or been overweight.

DEAR READER: Usually, the left side of the heart (left ventricle) fails first. It doesn't have enough strength to pump enough blood for proper circulation. The left ventricle has to do the most work, since it must pump blood at a high pressure: your blood pressure. The right ventricle pumps blood to the lungs and a rather low pressure and doesn't work as hard. When the left ventricle can't pump out enough blood, the kidneys don't get the amount they need, leading to retention of sodium and water. Then there is even more blood to pump. The left ventricle is not able to pump out enough blood fast enough to empty the blood from the lungs. As a result, the accumulated blood in the lungs causes fluid to escape into the lungs and interferes with the exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide. That is what causes a person to get short of breath.

When your mother is walking, the demands on the left ventricle are increased, and since it is already having a hard time pumping enough blood, the situation is made worse. Shortness of breath with exertion is an early sign of congestive heart failure. As it progresses, more and more fluid accumulates in the lungs and a person can do less and less physical work.

The Lasix your mother is getting helps eliminate the excess sodium and water. The Lanoxin strengthens the contractions of her left ventricle, so she is better and her exercise tolerance is improved. She may remain rather stable with medical management. But she will have to continue her medicines for life or medicines to accomplish the same thing.

If failure progresses, it eventually involves the right ventricle. Then blood will accumulate in the veins, causing swelling of the feet and ankles, an enlarged liver and accumulation of fluid in the abdomen. Right ventricular failure as a cause of swelling of the feet and ankles, liver or fluid in the abdomen almost never occurs unless the left ventricle fails, producing shortness of breath first.

I'm sending you Special Report 138, Heart Failure, for more information than I can include here. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/138, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

Anything that damages the ventricular muscle of the heart can produce congestive heart failure. That includes inflammation of the heart (myocarditis), excess alcohol consumption, defects of the heart valves and high blood pressure. The most common cause is coronary artery disease, leading to progressive damage to the heart muscle or causing a heart attack with enough damage to the heart muscle to limit its ability to pump enough blood.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - That was no dream, late-night TV viewers. That really was Johnny Carson behind the talk show desk.

Only it was the wrong network and the wrong desk - David Letterman's. The 30-year host of NBC's "Tonight Show" appeared Friday on CBS' "Late Show" with the rival to his successor Jay Leno.

To the strains of his show's theme, Carson strolled out and handed Letterman the card bearing the evening's Top 10 list. Letterman moved out of the way so Carson could sit at his desk, where he basked wordlessly in a lengthy ovation from the audience.

Then he thanked Letterman quietly, waved and left.

"Like I'm going to continue after that," Letterman said. "Man, that was great - that was great."

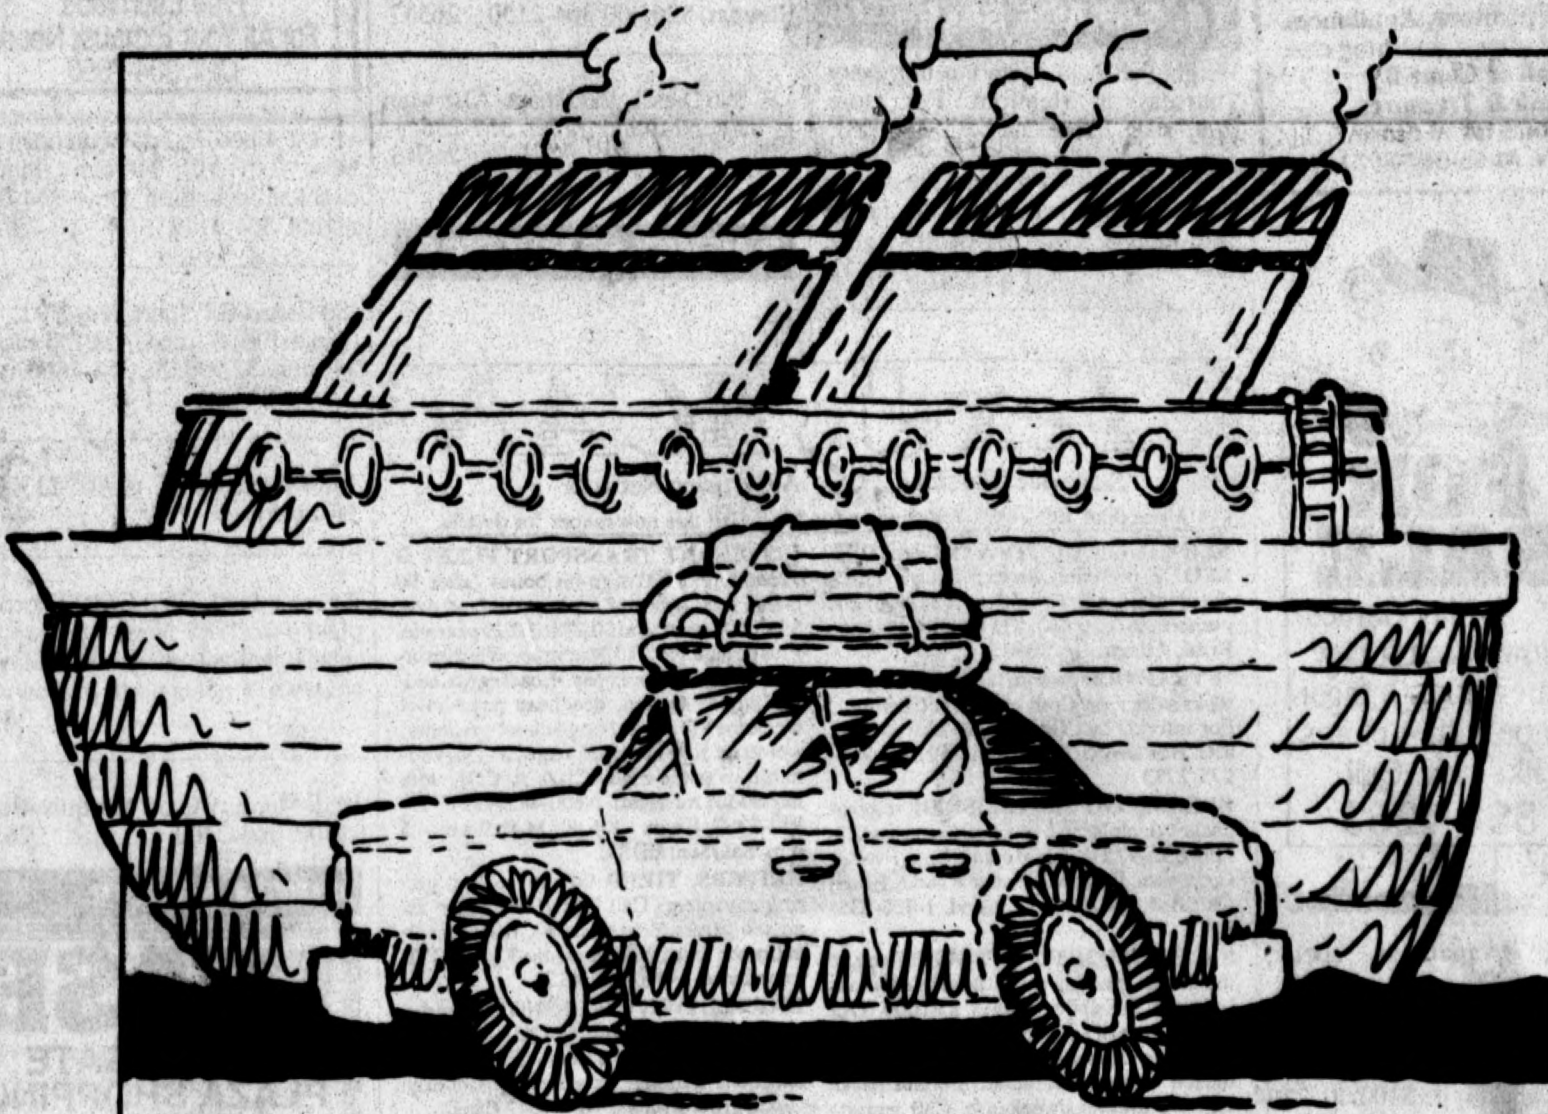

"It's still a little warm," he joked as he took his seat. "I wish a little of that would rub off on me."

Letterman, who normally broadcasts from New York's Ed Sullivan Theater, is spending a week on the West Coast.

Congress first overrode a Presidential veto on March 3, 1845.

Distilled spirits are the highest taxed consumer products in the United States, even though tax revenues from liquor are lower now than they were in 1980.

Barton says he has endorsements

AUSTIN (AP) - U.S. Rep. Joe Barton, one of three candidates for state Republican Party chairman, says he has received the backing of more than 100 county GOP chairmen.

"This is an unprecedented level of grass roots support in a state chairman's campaign prior to the convention," Barton said. There are about 230 county chairmen, according to the state GOP.

"In the last three weeks, we have gathered the support of the majority of individual delegates, local Republican leaders and Republican officeholders who have made up their minds," he said.

Of the chairmen endorsing him Monday, Barton counted six from 10 counties with the most delegates to next month's GOP gathering.

The current state chairman, Dallas businessman Fred Meyer, is stepping down next month after three, two-year terms.

Also seeking the unpaid post are Dallas lawyer Tom Pauken and Dolly Madison McKenna of Houston, a two-time congressional candidate. The selection will be made at next month's Republican state convention in Fort Worth.

Flimsy gliders transported first D-Day wave in France

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE

Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) - The first Allied soldiers to land in France on D-Day came silently at midnight, swooping in aboard flimsy Horsa gliders of the British 6th Airborne Division.

"I was so busy with duties that I didn't have time to wonder about what might happen, or even to be scared," said Peter Boyle, who was a 20-year-old sergeant getting his first taste of action after four years in the service.

Boyle's group of six gliders and 180 men, towed by Halifax bombers, crossed the French coast in moonlight June 6, 1944, at 7 minutes past midnight.

His glider cast off at just under 6,000 feet and glided down to land about 6 minutes later right on target, close to a bridge over the Caen Canal at Benouville, 6 miles northeast of Caen.

The infantrymen charged out, and with bullets flying around them, overwhelmed the German garrison and seized the bridge at a cost of two dead and five wounded.

About 400 yards away, other glider-borne troops seized a bridge over the Orne River. Just 15 minutes of fighting secured the eastern flank of the invasion area and the only bridges between Caen and the sea.

Once in Allied hands, they prevented German east-west movements against the more than 28,000 British and 21,000 Canadian soldiers who came ashore on Juno and Sword beaches later that day.

Of the 180 soldiers on the gliders, 104 were dead or wounded by the end of the day. Memorial stones mark the landing sites.

Boyle, now a retired marketing official, said by telephone from his home in Nottingham, central England, that they landed so precisely because they had been very well trained.

"We did many takeoffs and landings, by day and by night, and in daytime we wore dark glasses to make it seem like night."

Boyle, who had incurred his father's wrath by joining army at 16-1/2, claiming to be 18, was a sergeant in the Glider Pilot Regiment, part of the British Army Air Corps.

The Horsa gliders were made of wood and fabric, designed for a single mission. Most of them smashed up on landing.

"We landed nose down in a pond, which is still there. Geoff (Barkway, who was flying the glider) went underwater and dragged me out of the cockpit," Boyle said.

'Cisco Kid' dies at 88

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Gilbert Roland, a dashing leading man who began his movie career in the silent era and became the Mexican Robin Hood figure "Cisco Kid," has died. He was 88.

Roland died Sunday at his Beverly Hills home after a long battle with cancer, said his widow, Guillermina.

In films from the '20s through the '80s, he played lovers, ranchers, peasants and rogues in comedies as well as dramas.

His most famous role in silent films was as Armand in 1927's "Camille," starring with Norma Talmadge. He got some of his best reviews in 1951 for "The Bullfighter and the Lady."

But he earned his place in the pantheon of pop culture with his performance as the genial bandit "Cisco" in 11 B-pictures starting in the late 1940s.

"My Cisco Kid might have been a bandit, but he fought for the poor and was a civilized man in the true sense of the word," Roland once said.

In the '30s Roland's films included the Mae West comedy "She Done Him Wrong" and "The Last Train from Madrid," and in '40s and early '50s he was in "The Sea Hawk" with Errol Flynn, "Captain Kidd" with Charles Laughton, John Huston's "We Were Strangers" and "The Furies" with Barbara Stanwyck.

Evolving into a character actor, he continued to work in movies such as "The Bad and the Beautiful," "Beneath the 12-Mile Reef," and "Bandido."

Among Roland's later films was John Ford's last Western, "Cheyenne Autumn," in 1964, and 1977's "Islands in the Stream," a film from the Ernest Hemingway novel that starred George C. Scott. Roland's last feature film role was as a rancher patriarch with Willie Nelson in the 1982 film "Barbarosa."

From 1941 to 1944, he was married to film star Constance Bennett.

In addition to Guillermina, his wife of nearly 40 years, Roland is survived by his brother, Chico Day, and two daughters.

Forecast may give UV rating

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans worried about tanning their hides when they go outdoors may be getting a new forecast - the ultraviolet outlook.

National Weather Service researchers are developing a new ultraviolet rating system, which could be added to regular weather forecasts to help people avoid potentially dangerous exposure to the sun's rays.

"It's a serious issue and one which, from a very personal standpoint, I'm concerned about what we can do to help," Weather Service Director Elbert W. Friday said in a recent interview.

He said experimental ultraviolet - UV - forecasting could begin in June or July if researchers can work out the final technical problems.

The Environmental Protection Agency is joining in the project, and plans an education program to warn about the dangers of ultraviolet exposure - the prime cause of skin cancer.

More new cases of skin cancer are diagnosed every year than all other types of cancer combined, says a new report in the Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology.

Traditional weather forecasts predict whether it will be dry or wet, hot or cold, windy or calm. In summer, the pollen count and an air quality index are often thrown in.

And, depending on the time of year, the wind-chill factor or some type of humidity index can be added.

UV rays give people that bronze skin color once thought to be a healthy look. But the urge to tan has faded in recent years as the danger of skin cancer loomed larger.

Canada issues UV forecasts on a 1-to-10 scale, the higher the number the more the danger.

Because the United States is more southerly - meaning it has more direct sun exposure - the scale here would have to be 1 to 15, Friday said.

"We want to put out a product that is solid, scientifically based, that doesn't cause excessive alarm but does raise a sensitivity in the public as to what risk they are taking," he said.
