1994 Year in review

PSF saga top Hereford news story of 1994

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

Unlike some previous years, when it has been virtually impossible to determine the top Hereford news story of the year, there was no question what this year's top story of the year would be.

Premium Standard Farms of Missouri announced in December that it would make Hereford home to a new pork processing plant employing 500 people.

The decision capped a process of bidding by several area towns for the plant. It was made public that Hereford was in the running for the plant in late November, less than a month before the decision was announced to come here.

After the top news story of the year, it becomes much more difficult to select the highlights from a year filled with interesting happenings throughout Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

There were new faces taking office during elections for hospital board and school board; there were administrative changes at the hospital and a nursing home here; there were major criminal trials; business changes; and much more.

Other top local stories of the year, based on perceived reader interest, include:

-- Voters in August voted to implement a new half-cent sales tax for economic development. More than 60 percent of local residents voted in favor of the tax, which was to go into effect today. In September, five men were named to the board of the Hereford Economic Development corporation board of directors, to oversee use of the sales tax. In December, assistant city manager Mike Hatley resigned and was named executive director of HEDC after having served on loan from the city as its interim director from its founding.

-- The city commission approved specifications for a new aquatic center, freeing construction to begin on the facility, which will be funded through grants announced in 1993 and through funds from local governmental agencies.

-- The top leadership of Hereford Regional Medical Center underwent radical changes in 1994. Chief Executive Officer Ron Rives resigned in May, right after three newcomers -- Larry Watts, Dean Crofford and Steven Cortez -- were elected to the hospital board. Mike Maloy was named as interim director two days later, followed in July by Jim Robinson, who was selected permanent administrator at the end of August. With the election defeat of board chairman John Perrin, Mal Manchee was elected chairman of the hospital board and Scott Turner was named vice chairman. Turner resigned from the board in July to leave Hereford. He was replaced by Scott Keeling.

-- King's Manor Methodist Home became a member of Sears Methodist Retirement Systems Inc. of Abilene in mid-June after a vote to transfer ownership of the local facility by its board here. Greg Lonsway was named director and Reeder Huddleston was acting director until Lonsway assumed the post. In July, Sears Methodist announced plans for a $200,000 capital improvement plan for King's Manor and Westgate Nursing Home.

-- The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center ended months of speculation about its future in April by announcing it would move to Fort Worth. The Hall had announced in 1993 that it was considering moving out of Hereford. The Hall's annual induction ceremonies were held in November in Fort Worth, where director Margaret Formby was inducted -- to her surprise -- into the hall.

-- Two murder trials came to conclusions in 1994, one with formal sentencing and one with a trial and conviction. In February, Tanya Thaxton Reid was sentenced to 62 years in prison for the 1984 murder of her 8-month-old daughter, Morgan. She was convicted of murder in November 1993. In June, Donna Gudgeon went on trial for murder in the September 1993 murder of her husband, Bill Gudgeon, in their rural Deaf Smith County home. She was convicted of murder and sentenced to 35 years in prison. Chris Don Barron pleaded guilty to his part in the slaying and was also given a 35-year prison sentence.

-- City commissioners approved a juvenile curfew in September after a citizens' petition requesting such an ordinance was presented in August. The curfew took effect in October and five teens were cited the first weekend of enforcement.

-- Tragedy struck in April when a 2-year-old girl was accidentally shot to death here. Yanette Salazar died after a 4-year-old friend accidentally discharged the gun they found in a car.

-- The Hereford High School Lady Whiteface volleyball team and Coach Brenda Reeh were honored in

New year to start with blood drive

It's better to give than to receive...especially if the gift is the "gift of life."

The community's next blood drive is scheduled Jan. 3 at Hereford Regional Medical Center. The drive will be conducted from 1 to 7 p.m. in the hospital's ICU Circle. Every donor will receive a T-shirt for their participation.

"For more than 40 years, Coffee Memorial Blood Center in Amarillo has relied on the generosity of area communities to provide a quality, adequate supply of blood to area hospitals," said Peggie Fox, blood drive coordinator.

"It's sometimes necessary around the holidays to remind people to take time from their busy schedules and give blood. We're proud to be able to assist Coffee in the Hereford area this year," Fox said.

"Anyone who wishes to donate blood can simply come to the hospital during the hours of the drive. The donor must be over 17 years of age and weigh at least 110 pounds," she said. "There are a few other restrictions, but most healthy people can donate blood without any problems."

The donating process begins with the donor answering some brief questions on medical history, including a thorough review of AIDS-related and high-risk activities. Next, a certified phlebotomist makes the donor comfortable and starts the actual donation process, which takes about 7 to 10 minutes. The donor rests briefly and has light refreshments.

"Most blood donors feel fine after donating," Ms. Fox said. "The body has eight to 11 pints of blood, so donating one pint does no harm. Some donors are concerned that they can get a disease while donating blood, but that is virtually impossible. All materials used during the process are sterile and used only once."

"The demand for blood is constant, and that's why we must support the blood drive every time we can," Ms. Fox added.

Sponsoring the blood drive is just one of several projects for HRMC in 1995, according to Ms. Fox. "We are looking forward to a great year and want to take the opportunity to invite local residents to come out to the hospital Jan. 3. This is a wonderful chance to help our neighbors by giving blood."

Residents to see changes as new year gets started

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

While pondering the outlook for the New Year, remember that some changes are taking effect, in Hereford and elsewhere, with the first day of 1995.

For instance, consumers will pay an additional half-cent sales tax in Hereford retail businesses, beginning on Jan. 1.

Postal patrons will pay three cents more to mail a first class letter anywhere in the United States.

Telephone users will have to remember to dial 1-plus the area code for any long distance call, even in the same area code.

And, to register a motor vehicle in Texas, proof of residence will be required.

There may be more, but these are a few of the changes that stand out as the new year begins.

Shoppers in Hereford stores will pay a total sales tax of 8 1/4 cents on each dollar in retail purchases.

A new half-cent levy was approved by the city's voters last August as an economic development tax to help promote business improvement in the community.

The City of Hereford already receives a one-cent sales tax, as permitted by the state. Another half-cent is collected for Deaf Smith County and 6 1/4 cents on every dollar spent goes to the State of Texas.

The new half-cent tax is expected to produce revenue of approximately $325,000 per year. Taxes collected by retailers are forwarded to the State Comptroller's office where the state's portion is deposited. Because of lagtime in Austin, the first payment in Hereford will be for January and probably will not be received by the city until about March 10.

Mailing a letter, across the street or across the continent, will cost postal customers more, beginning Jan. 1, also.

The U.S. Postal Service's governing board approved a hike in first class as well as comparable increases in all postal services.

After Sunday, a letter without a 32-cent stamp will cost the addressee three cents "postage due." A letter with no stamp at all is returned to the sender.

Postal customers with leftover 29-centers may purchase supplementary stamps for three cents each.

Charles Britten, Hereford postmaster, pointed out that none of the stamps being made available in time for the rate hike has an imprinted denomination.

Called "G" stamps, they are readily identifiable, though. A 32-center is white with an Old Glory design. For post cards, there's a 20-cent yellow stamp with the same flag design. The three-cent make-up stamp features a dove.

There will be no change in the 23-cent per ounce extra charge for items of more than one ounce.

Denomination stamps will begin showing up in about two to three months, Britten said.

Less wearing on the pocketbook than stamps and taxes, two other changes becoming effective Jan. 1 will require new procedures.

Proof of residence must be produced by vehicle owners who re-register their cars and trucks, in addition to the proof of insurance requirement already in place.

The state also is imposing an emissions inspection program for 15 counties in Texas, none in the Panhandle or South Plains.

Proof of residency may be a voter registration card, driver's license, utility or telephone bill, property tax payment statement or receipt, school tuition receipt or valid proof of (See CHANGES, Page 2A)

Stamps for 1995

Hereford Postmaster Charles Britten displays the "G" stamps that postal customers will use, beginning Jan. 1, for first class mail. A letter will cost 32 cents and a post card 20 cents, with stamps on the left. On the right are make-up stamps, three cents each to supplement 29-cent stamps customers may have left over.

New terms to begin Tuesday for officials

Eight elective officials of Deaf Smith County will begin new four-year terms when they take the oath of office Tuesday morning.

In addition to the county officials, 222nd District Court Judge David Wesley Gulley also will begin a new term.

Of the eight county officials, one is new to a post. Nan Rogers was elected Deaf Smith County treasurer, replacing Vesta Mae Nunley, who decided to retire and did not seek a new term.

Returned to office by voters in 1994 elections are County Judge Tom Simons, Commissioners Lupe Chavez of Precinct 2 and Johnny Latham of Precinct 4, County Clerk David Ruland, Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul, District Clerk Lola Faye Veazey and County Surveyor Kenneth Hagar.

The brief swearing-in ceremony will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the county courtroom.

Commissioners' Court will have a special meeting at 9 a.m. Only agenda item is related to a bond for the new county treasurer.

Focus on Your City

By BOB JOSSERAND
Mayor, City of Hereford

As we close out 1994 and look forward to 1995, we in Hereford have a great deal to be thankful for. I hope that you as a citizen of Hereford and Deaf Smith County will adopt a couple of New Year's Resolutions to help your city continue to move forward.

The first resolution is one that I am asking you to consider very seriously, and that is to adopt a very positive attitude toward your city and all of the various entities and people that go to make up your city. If we all move into 1995 talking only positives and thinking only positives, only positive things will happen for us and Hereford.

The second resolution I hope you will adopt is one that says, "I want to make a difference for Hereford and my community." If we all put that little extra effort into making a difference, it will make a difference. One of the things we are going to be asking you shortly is what can your city government do to improve life in Hereford and what can we change to make things better.

Please do consider these two New Year's resolutions as something you can do for yourself as well as for your community.

As we leave 1994, a lot of good things have happened and a lot more things are in the planning or development stage. Probably the biggest single item to come out of 1994 is the decision of Premium Standard Farms to locate their slaughter and processing plant here in the county.

This will be the single largest employer to locate here and certainly will provide many job opportunities, not only for people working at the plant, but also for all those subsidiary or allied spinoffs that go to help the plant move forward. I don't think any of us can truly imagine what a shot in the arm this brings to Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

While talking about Premium Standard Farms, I just want to express my thanks to that large group of people who made this a reality, starting with Mike Hatley as executive director of Hereford Economic Development Corporation and to the board members, Shirley Garrison, president; Cliff Skiles, vice president; Don Graham, secretary, Jerry Stevens and Rosendo Gonzales.

A couple entities that don't tout their own horn too loudly most of the time, but who deserve a great deal of credit for helping Hereford have a positive attitude, are The Hereford Brand and its leader, Speedy Nieman, and Clint Formby and his group at KPAN Radio. Thanks, guys, for going the extra mile.

Speaking of going the extra mile, County Judge Tom Simons certainly did just that in convincing Premium Standard Farms to locate here. I don't think any of us really knows how many extra hours Tom spent making sure that our efforts were successful.

I also would like to thank School Superintendent Charles Greenawalt and his staff for the use of facilities, the meetings they attended and all the other efforts they made. Mike Carr, Wes Fisher and the chamber members really came through when we needed them. That extra effort was essential to make this successful.

And, I want to thank Chester Nolen, city manager, who spent many, many hours on the effort as well as all of the members of the City Commission who truly were there when they were needed.

One fella who drove many miles in the county, worked his staff overtime, night and day, and who probably hasn't been thanked nearly enough is realtor Don Tardy, who lined up options on the available land.

And last, a big thanks to all of the citizens who turned out so wonderfully to welcome Premium Standard Farms and really showed the caring attitude and enthusiasm which finally convinced Premium Standard Farms that Hereford is the place for their facility to be located.

One more reminder that early in 1995, your city government will be asking for your input on how we can make Hereford a better place to live for all of us. When our questionnaire appears, please take the time to give us your ideas.

Looking forward to a great 1995 here in your City of Hereford!

liability insurance. And, by law, long distance callers will have to dial area codes for any call outside their city, or immediate service areas.

Basically, the regulation means that any call that previously required one-plus the number now must include the one plus area code.

The telephone long distance dialing requirement will be mandatory on Jan. 1, although it has been optional for the last few months of 1994.

WHEN YOU
PURCHASE A NEW HOME...

You know exactly what you are getting: bare walls, and whatever carpeting or flooring, kitchen cabinets and other amenities the builder spelled out in your contract. But once you have lived in the home for a while and are ready to put it up for sale, just what are you selling? You must spell out the contents of your real estate "package," just as clearly as the builder you bought it from. The difference is there are certain amenities included in the offering, while others are moving with you and the rest are open to negotiation. Obviously you are leaving the kitchen cabinets, but what about the stove, refrigerator and laundry appliances? Are the room fans staying, what about the drapes and the fireplace and iron, are they going with you? As professional real estate agents, we can help you in many ways and sort out what stays and what goes. You can count on us to help you present an attractive package to the prospective buyers.

Each year we reaffirm a pledge to continue producing the best product we are capable of placing in our readers' hands on a five times a week basis. Perhaps the most important part of this pledge is the promise of fairness to everyone we deal with in the many ways we impact our readers and customers through the year.

Our newspaper staff is human, so we make mistakes. But we will never knowingly mislead our readers. We will admit our mistakes when they are brought to our attention. We also welcome and encourage reader input. A newspaper's ability to truly serve a community depends on the eyes and ears, support and criticism, of that community.

We remain the single source of information which readers don't get anywhere else. The community newspaper is the local historical chronicle--the permanent record of events, a reference of dates, of people and places. Local papers are the unofficial scrapbook fillers for families and organizations.

The community newspaper is the voice and conscience and the forum that provides the widest audience for the exchange of ideas. It is also the local merchant's best, most economical and most direct way to reach the people in his market.

After all, in the final assessment, we are here to serve our readers. The community newspaper is the institution that defines and sustains community identity amid individual diversity. There are many differences within a community, but the one thing they all have in common is that they read the same community newspaper to know what is happening.

The community newspaper confers status and validity. How many community organizations rate their success by newspaper mention of their events and accomplishments? How does it feel when your neighbor says, "I read about your promotion in the paper." How often do you begin a business inquiry with "I saw your ad in the paper and..."

All of this is just a reminder to our readers that we are making an honest attempt to mirror the news of our lives. We are the only newspaper dedicated to that endeavor in Hereford and Deaf Smith County. We take that privilege and obligation to heart.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

One night in late October, one of my children came up to me and asked if the family could go out and eat and see a movie. I looked at him and said, "This is Friday night--it's Herd football!"

Needless to say, we all went to the game. In fact, we went to every game, win or lose; we followed the Herd and, no, I do not have a son on the team.

Well, football season has come and gone; so has volleyball. Now it's basketball season! As a parent to a varsity basketball player, I would like to ask the community to come out and show their support to these young kids--both the boys' and girls' teams have winning records and have proved very exciting.

The boys even won first place in a tournament...now when is the last time our program has accomplished that! I really believe that our teams have the chance to do something that hasn't been done in years--win the district and go to the playoffs.

I would like to see our fans fill the stands on game night. It helps so much for the kids to know their town is proud of their effort, win or lose. Our next home game is Tuesday, and it is the boys' district opener--against Canyon, no less! Let's pack the gym and beat Canyon!

My hat goes off to Coach Dean and Coach Fortenberry for the fine job they are doing with our youth. Keep up the good work! Win or lose, we love ya, Herd!

A proud basketball parent,
Michael Power

Editorials from around the state

By The Associated Press

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers:

The Dallas Morning News on deadly driving:

As the New Year approaches, many Texans believe celebrations and bottles of holiday cheer go hand in hand. Sadly, however, friendly reminders against drunken driving often fall on deaf ears.

For that reason, come Jan. 1, a new state law called "ALR" will begin articulating the message loudly and clearly: Anyone caught driving while intoxicated will automatically have his or her driver's license suspended. Formally called "administrative license revocation," the statute should be an attention getter, especially among those who enjoy using their cars to get to work, run errands or lead a social life. Consider the following penalties:

--Any driver arrested for drunken driving will have his or her license revoked for 90 days if that driver refuses to take a chemical blood alcohol test.

--Any driver who fails that test will have his or her license suspended for 60 days.

Sound tough? Better buckle up. It gets worse. It will be particularly strict on those drivers whose licenses have been previously suspended for a drunken driving or an intoxication manslaughter conviction. Such people will lose their licenses for 120 days for failing the test and 180 days for refusing the test. And reinstatement of their licenses after the period of suspension will cost $100. With an eye toward poetic justice as well, the fee will be used to administer the law.

Everyone knows drunken driving is very serious. But as if it were not enough of a threat to traffic safety, there also have been reports recently that up to a third of all traffic deaths may be linked to drowsy driving. Laws can be passed against driving while in a state of inebriation, but how to punish sleep deprivation? At the least, the new figures confirm that "falling asleep at the wheel" is deadly behavior. That should be a word to the wise, or at least the weary who need a reminder to pull over and rest. ...

Temple Daily Telegram on GOP Contract With America:

House Republicans led off their "Contract With America" with a pledge to vote on a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, a requirement that would kick in early in the next century.

More telling, though, is what's missing: an explicit promise to reduce the federal budget deficit any time before then. The distance between what's there and what isn't is a measure of how difficult are the budget choices ahead, for both Congress and the Clinton administration.

For all their talk about balanced budgets, House Republicans actually had a chance to vote last spring for a balanced budget, and most of them didn't.

The plan, written by GOP Rep. Gerald Solomon of New York, would have met the terms now set by Rep. Newt Gingrich, the next House speaker, and his colleagues: It would have eliminated the deficit over the next five years without tax increases while sparing Social Security and the military. ...

OUT OF THE BLUE

By Garry Wesner

Is there anyone else out there who is not quite ready for 1994 to end? I mean, the past 12 months have just flown by so quickly, I really don't know if I'm ready to move on to a new year!

There are so many things left to do that I said I'd do during 1994 that still have to be started, and stuff that I haven't done from 1993 that I vowed would be finished during 1994.

(Fortunately, I never told you all what I had to do in those years, so nobody need know what those unfinished resolutions were!)

Before I move kicking and screaming into the new year, there is a little bit of business left to take care of in 1994.

Happy birthday Dave and Donetta! Dave is my "little" brother and Donetta my wife's niece, who share birthdays on Dec. 31.

I remember when Dave was born, back in 1967 (barely), when my sisters and I didn't have any cares in the world. I had been hoping for a brother, as would any 7-year-old boy already saddled with TWO sisters (although they didn't turn out half bad, for all their being girls).

The three of us stayed with some family friends and partied through the night, excited about a new sibling and about being "on our own" for a night with Mom and Dad both tied up at the hospital.

Of course, there is the memory of getting in trouble for jumping on the bed, but that's of no consequence!

Anyway, Dave (actually, David Michael) was born a boy, to my intense relief, since I would have had to share a room with this child, boy or girl.

It's hard to believe it has been 27 years since he was born. Now he's taller than me, skinny as a rail and with long shaggy blonde hair.

For Dave, 1995 will bring some significant changes in his life.

He still manages a video game store (a great place to "hang out" in the evenings and check out the newest Super Nintendo releases) and is still going to college.

But this year (1995) is the year he finally graduates.

More significantly, in June he will marry longtime girlfriend Beverly, adding another member to the ever-expanding Wesner clan.

We welcome Beverly to our family. She has been around for years, but now it is official and we're stuck with her.

Anyway, enough of family memories.

On with the new year (like it or not)!

I'm sure many of you are sitting out there today making resolutions for the new year.

I've pretty much decided that making resolutions is for the birds.

First of all, you go around and make all kinds of promises to yourself for the new year that you should have been doing all the previous year (losing weight, balancing your checkbook, demanding that long-overdue raise, cleaning out the garage, getting your 1993 Christmas tree out of the back yard, etc.).

Then you make the mistake of telling everyone around you what you have resolved to do.

That way, when 1995 ends and you are 20 pounds heavier than when the year began, you can live in fear that your spouse and best friends will have forgotten that resolution to lose weight (or at least will not remind you about it). Well forget that. I hereby resolve not to make any resolutions at all for 1995.

There. (But that's not to say you can't make as many as you want. In fact, be sure to tell me what they are. I'll be glad to let everyone in Hereford know, so you can be sure and keep them rather than face 14,000 people who know you failed!)

Well that's it for this year.

Have a good 1995 and remember, if you resolve anything this year, why not resolve to buckle your children's seat belts, go to church every week (or invite someone to go with you every week), read your Bible daily, treat your kids better than you did last year, and treat everyone around you the same way you want to be treated.

There's something to be said for the olden days... pre-television, that is.

Radio gave the world such unforgettable characters as Fibber McGee and Mollie, Mr. District Attorney, Jack Armstrong, Stella Dallas and those notorious curmudgeons, Fred Allen and Jack Benny (Could they have been the prototypes for "grumpy old men"?)

Now, Allen and Benny made the early days of television and, frankly, I think something was lost in the transfer. No longer could listeners conjure up in their own minds the baggy-eyed Allen or penurious Benny. With TV, they were right there in front of their audiences, with no room for imagination.

Listening to Dennis Day, Rochester, Don Wilson (or was it Harry VonZell?) and Mary Livingston go around with Benny allowed the audience to imagine their facial expressions. The studied silence of Benny in an exchange between him and one of his foils always drew laughs. We could imagine the look on his face.

Or Fred Allen, going down Allen's Alley and meeting the inhabitants of that fictitious neighborhood, put his sarcastic tongue to work, without having to mug a camera.

Nighttime programs--usually 30 minutes long--were awaited as eagerly as this year's television hits. Hour-long drama shows, such as Lux Radio Theatre, though drew large audiences.

Homework had to be done before Mr. District Attorney, Defender of Truth, could be dialed up on the radio. The All-American Boy, Jack Armstrong, was the perfect show for selling the favorite breakfast cereals of the day.

Amos and Andy was a popular program, in a day when discrimination hadn't been articulated. And, the venerable Grand Ol' Opry collected fans by the thousands. Who could forget hearing Roy Acuff belting "Wabash Cannonball." Lum and Abner came over the airwaves with unique personalities.

Housewives, though, were a captive audience to a genre that was the spiritual ancestor of such modern-day shows as Dallas, Dynasty and Knot's Landing, as well as daytime hits, All My Children, As the World Turns, General Hospital, etc.

On the radio, long-suffering Stella Dallas and her insipid daughter, Lolly, gave many a homemaker a respite, taking her mind off the hot iron she wielded up and down the ironing board.

Pepper Young's Family, Young Dr. Malone, The Guiding Light and other 15-minute daytime programs were practically the only distraction women had during the '30s and '40s. In comparison with the poor souls on the programs, life was not all that bad.

Since advertising was heavy on P&G soap and breakfast cereals, like Wheaties and Post Toasties, the daytime serials were much maligned as "soap and cereal" entertainment, later shortened to plain old "soap operas."

But, the radio serials were a paragon of morality and a tower of do-rightness, compared to the modern television versions. I don't remember rape and illegitimacy as being cornerstones of the soaps' plots.

In the naive days of pre-World War II, parents didn't have to make an issue of censoring the listening habits of their children. The kids crowded around the radio along with parents when favorite shows were broadcast.

My grandparents bought a new radio just before the war started. It was a floor model with a sound as good as you could want. And, it picked up the only stations in the area without a problem, even some far away under certain conditions.

One afternoon my younger sister, about four or five years old at the time, sat in front of the radio while grandmother did her ironing and listened to her favorite soaps.

A loose cord from a lamp on top of the radio dangled because the iron cord had replaced it in the plug.

When my sister got up from her comfortable seat in front of the radio, grandmother discovered she had used the plug like a pencil, scratching five crooked letters, P-a-t-s-y, into the wood on the front of the radio.

I've always been grateful that she couldn't spell my name.

Politics in Texas highlighted by change in '94

By PAULINE ARRILLAGA
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Downfall and destruction.

The words stand as symbols for a year in which Texans saw the collapse of a political dynamo at the hands of a familiarly named newcomer and the deadly devastation of nature's fury.

With her tart tongue and biting barbs, accompanied by a wrinkle-framed grin, Ann Richards became one of the most well known governors in the country.

But what brought her fame may also have caused her fall.

Richards, 61, swept to stardom at the 1988 Democratic National Convention when she jeered that then presidential candidate George Bush "was born with a silver foot in his mouth."

It was Bush's namesake, Republican George W. Bush, who defeated Richards in her bid for re-election, often turning her tongue against her by accusing the Democrat of making personal attacks more than talking issues.

Now Richards, the first woman elected governor in Texas in 50 years, must step aside as the 48-year-old Texas Rangers managing general partner tries his hand at a new game.

The eventful election year was disrupted in October when floods, then fire and an oil spill devastated Southeast Texas.

"We've had floods, we've had fire. What's tomorrow going to bring, famine?" said one Channelview resident, shaken first by the threat of flooding on the San Jacinto River, then jolted a second time when pipelines in the river exploded, igniting the waterway with streams of leaking fuel into miles-long serpents of flame.

"It felt biblical," said Mike Norman, who was on the river when the blast occurred. "It was like hell opening up on the planet. ... I was literally running for my life."

The weeklong nightmare claimed 22 lives and cost more than $700 million in damage, not including uninsured losses.

For many of those who lost homes or businesses, the rebuilding continues.

Texans saw more misfortune in July, when a record 65 people died in traffic accidents over the July Fourth weekend. Sunday, July 3, was the deadliest day on Texas roads, with 44 deaths.

The deadly weekend has prompted state lawmakers to push for stricter seat belt laws, particularly to protect youngsters. Twenty-seven of the victims were under age 18, with at least 15 lacking safety restraints.

A tragedy from 1993 was revisited as 11 members of the Branch Davidian sect went to trial in the slayings of four federal agents during a botched raid on the cult compound near Waco.

On Feb. 26, jurors in the seven-week trial cleared all 11 defendants of the most serious murder and murder-conspiracy charges. Three were acquitted of all charges.

Five were convicted of voluntary manslaughter and weapons charges and sentenced to 40 years in prison. Three others convicted of weapons violations received sentences ranging from five to 20 years.

Sixteen other agents were wounded and six Davidians died in the Feb. 28, 1993, gunfight that began a 51-day standoff.

The stalemate ended April 19, 1993, when fire engulfed the compound as federal agents bulldozed their way in. Cult leader David Koresh and 78 of his followers died in the blaze.

Several elected officials faced legal troubles in 1994.

Republican U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison was charged with using state funds, employees and computers for personal and campaign purposes when she was state treasurer, from January 1991 to June 1993. She also was charged with tampering with state computer records to cover up her activities.

But before testimony began in her trial last February, Mrs. Hutchison was cleared after prosecutors lost a key ruling and refused to proceed.

Mrs. Hutchison had claimed the charges were the result of a Democratic plot to hurt her re-election chances. She went on to win a landslide victory over Democratic opponent Richard Fisher in the November elections.

Former Hidalgo County Sheriff Brig Marmolejo Jr. wasn't as fortunate.

Marmolejo was convicted in July of taking $151,000 in bribes to allow a drug trafficker to enjoy sexual visits and other privileges in jail.

Marmolejo's trial followed the convictions earlier this year of former Zapata County Judge Jose Luis "Pepe" Guevara on federal corruption charges and Zapata County Sheriff Romeo Ramirez and County Clerk Arnoldo "Shorty" Flores for money laundering.

Also finding himself in legal trouble this year is Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros. The former San Antonio mayor has been sued by his old lover.

Linda Medlar, a former San Antonio political consultant who now lives in Lubbock, sued Cisneros for fraud and breach of contract in July, alleging he reneged on a verbal agreement to pay her $4,000 a month until her teen-age daughter graduated from college. She's seeking $256,000 and unspecified punitive damages.

Cisneros has denied having an agreement with Medlar and says he gave her money out of compassion.

There was some good news in 1994. The state's economy gained strength, as housing boomed early in the year and unemployment fell to four-year lows.

The North American Free Trade Agreement, which went into effect Jan. 1, has increased cross-border trade, although the debate continues over whether the pact is good or bad for the U.S. job market.

We Will Be Closed For A Legal Holiday.

Ten top Texas stories

By The Associated Press
The top ten Texas news stories for 1994 as selected by state newspaper editors and broadcasters:

1. RICHARDS LOSES. Popular Texas governor loses in her bid to remain the state's highest elected official. Ann Richards hints she'll continue public, if not necessarily political, service.

2. BUSH WINS. Son of former U.S. President and part owner of the Texas Rangers baseball team defeats Richards, vowing to be especially tough on juvenile crime.

3. HOUSTON FLOODS. Deadly flooding leaves 22 people dead and causes millions of dollars of damage to area homes and businesses. Thousands of residents are displaced and forced to apply for federal disaster aid.

4. TEXAS ECONOMY. The North American Free Trade Agreement completes its first year amid disagreements over whether the free trade pact, joined late in the year by GATT, is creating or costing jobs. Meanwhile, Texas housing booms early in the year and unemployment falls to four-year lows as the state's economic recovery continues.

5. HUTCHISON ACQUITTED. U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison is acquitted after prosecutors abandon criminal ethics case against her. Mrs. Hutchison goes on to record a landslide victory over Richard Fisher in November General Election.

6. NAFTA IMPACT. The first year of the North American Free Trade Agreement increases cross-border trade dramatically, but the debate whether it's good or bad for the U.S. job market continues.

7. DEADLY CRASHES. The highway death toll reaches a record 65 during the July 4th weekend, leaving state lawmakers to push for stricter seat belt laws to help protect youngsters. Twenty-seven of the victims were under age 18, with at least 15 lacking safety restraints. Sunday, July 3, was deadliest day in Texas traffic history, with 44 deaths. The previous record was 42 on Christmas Eve in 1975.

8. DAVIDIANS TRIAL. Most of the Branch Davidians charged in the shooting deaths of four federal agents are convicted for their roles. Judge imposes strict sentences.

9. DIRTY COPS. Federal agents take down South Texas law enforcement figures, including former Hidalgo County Sheriff Brig Marmolejo Jr., convicted of taking $151,000 in bribes to allow a drug trafficker to enjoy sexual contact visits and other privileges in jail. Three top Zapata County officials are convicted of drug charges.

10. CISNEROS SUED. The former mistress of U.S. cabinet member Henry Cisneros sues him, claiming he reneged on his promise to fulfill certain financial obligations to her after their breakup.

ATLANTA (AP) - Rap singer Lisa "Left Eye" Lopes and Atlanta Falcons receiver Andre Rison still plan to get married, even after she pleaded guilty to burning down his mansion.

The couple were in court together Thursday, smiling and holding hands. Rison said he has forgiven Lopes, who was sentenced to a halfway house, five years probation, and a $10,000 fine.

"I can guarantee you that it will never happen again," he told the judge Thursday. "It was a great learning experience."

A member of the hip-hop group TLC, Lopes admitted she started the fire after an argument with Rison. The mansion was valued at more than $1 million.

Lopes, whose nickname comes from her trick of replacing one lens of her glasses with a condom during performances, must complete treatment programs for drug and alcohol abuse. She also must go through a counseling program for battered women. Evidence presented at the hearing indicated Rison had hit her just before the fire.

At the beginning of any new activity or event, we are filled with anticipation, with eagerness and excitement. We have new opportunities to learn and grow.

And as we enter 1995, we pause to reflect on the past and to plan for the future. We have met many challenges, and are prepared to meet more.

— YOUR EYES —

FLOATERS AND FLASHERS

Seeing spots before your eyes? They may be what we call "floaters"—the visual perception that something is floating in the field of vision. Generally these are just shadows cast on the retina by small structures within the vitreous humor—that is, the "jelly" that fills the eyeball. Occasionally some changes may cause the perception of flashing lights, or "flashers." In older people, the vitreous humor may develop cloudy spots or small bits floating free.

Rest assured that floaters and flashers are usually not serious though they are annoying.

However, when they appear together—when a shower of floaters is accompanied by flashing lights in the periphery of vision—they may indicate retinal detachment, which is an emergency situation. See your eye doctor right away. Up-and-down flashing lights that persist, a sense of a "veil" over the eye or a decrease in the visual fields are also signs to see your eye doctor.

Lady cagers win title in Littlefield

Boys claim consolation in Canyon

Both of Hereford's varsity basketball teams ended 1994 with victories Friday night.

The Lady Whitefaces team took the championship of the Wildcat Holiday Classic--and a little redemption--by beating Littlefield 47-41 on its home court.

The Hereford boys, meanwhile, claimed the consolation title of the Canyon Rotary Holiday Tournament with a 59-47 beating of Dumas in Canyon.

The girls' win may have been a little sweeter because of a 74-51 loss to the same team on the same floor on Dec. 2.

Friday's meeting didn't start out much better for Hereford, as Littlefield took a 20-15 lead at halftime, but the Herd used a defensive change to pull within 30-28 at the end of the third quarter, then outscored Littlefield 19-11 in the fourth for the win.

"We did a lot better job defensively in the second half," Hereford coach Eddie Fortenberry said. "We went back from a man (to-man) to a match-up zone...and dropped from a full-court press to a half-court trap. It made a big difference."

"We were just trying to get them out of their continuity," he said. "They were on a roll there for a while."

In Canyon, the boys also used a defensive switch to outscore Dumas 20-9 in the third quarter, opening up a close game. Hereford led only 28-26 at halftime but stretched the lead to 48-35 during the third quarter.

"We switched defenses during the quarter," coach Randy Dean said. "We'd been running a man and we switched to zone. It threw them off-balance. It made them take tougher shots than what they were getting against man."

HERD SCORING

Girls: Misti Davis, 11; Tarabeth Holmes, 10; Julie Rampley, 8; Mindi Davis, 8; Danielle Cornelius, 5; Catic

Betzen, 4; Brittney Binder, 1. Other statistics: Rampley, 5 steals; Kari Barret, 6 rebounds (all in the third quarter).

Boys: Benton Buckley, 21; Isaac Walker, 10; Wade Backus, 8; Michael High, 7; Michael Brown, 6; Ashley Noland, 3; Jason Eades, 2; Terance High, 2.

Friday's games marked the end of non-district play for both Herd teams. Both teams bring sparkling records into Tuesday's double-header against Canyon in Whiteface Gym: the girls are 13-6, the boys are 11-6.

Canyon's records look even better. The boys are 14-2 after winning their tournament. They beat Lovington, N.M., 75-72, which beat Hereford 69-68 in the first round. Canyon's girls were 15-1 going into a game played late Friday.

Hereford's success in non-district play gives both Herd coaches reason for optimism.

"I think we've got to feel good the way the season has gone up until now," Dean said of his boys. "I feel like we have a realistic chance to be a factor in the district. There are five really good teams in the district, and we feel like we belong with all of them."

Dean lists Hereford--with Pampa--the perennial district champion--Borger, Randall and Canyon, a perennial playoff team when it was in Class 3A.

The Lady Whitefaces, 1-1 in district play so far, should benefit from winning the tournament, Fortenberry said.

"We've got a lot of momentum now--and you've got to have confidence going (against) Canyon," he said. "We beat two good teams: Hart and Littlefield. When you come back and beat a team that beat you by 20 earlier, that builds up your confidence."

The girls will play at 6 p.m., and the boys' game will follow at about 7:30. Junior varsity games will be played in the junior high gym--boys at 6, girls at 7:30.

Herd revived hoops, baseball in '94

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Although 1994 was a wild year in the nation's sports pages--the adventures of O.J., Tonya and Nancy and the lack of baseball and hockey seemed to dominate headlines even on the front pages--1994 was a year of improvement for some of Hereford High School's downtrodden sports programs.

The year began and ended with signs of improvement from the boys' and girls' basketball programs. In February, the Lady Whitefaces ended the 1993-94 season at 11-17--their first season in years with double figures in the win column. By the end of the year, the Hereford girls had already surpassed the previous season's win total with a 13-6 record.

The boys' basketball team also was improving. The Herd finished the 1993-94 season at 8-22, but also beat that win total early and finished 1994 at 11-6.

Both hoop teams won tournaments in the young season: the boys in Abernathy Dec. 10, the girls in Littlefield Dec. 30. Both had to beat the host teams on their home floors.

With the Herd basketball teams' improvement still in progress, the Most Dramatic Improvement Award goes to the Hereford baseball team, which reached the playoffs in 1994 after four straight losing seasons. The team won its first four district games before losing a showdown in Borger on April 15, then held onto second place in District 1-4A with a 6-3-1 record.

Hereford played a best-of-three bi-district series with powerful Frenship May 13-14, but the Herd lost in two games. Ironically, those two losses left the Herd with a losing record: 12-13-1. The record didn't seem to be the important thing, though.

Other Hereford teams maintained their traditions of excellence in 1994.

--The volleyball team once again advanced to the regional finals, but bitter rival Dumas stopped the Herd short of the state tournament with a 14-16, 15-11, 15-11 win Nov. 12 in Amarillo. Hereford led the district race after a 7-15, 15-12, 17-15 win in Dumas Oct. 1, but that would be the Lady Whitefaces' only win over the Demonettes in five tries.

As it turned out, Hereford's only losses in the 28-7 campaign came to state tournament teams: four to Dumas which lost in the Class 4A semifinals, and three to Amarillo High, which finished a perfect 35-0 season with the 5A state championship.

Individual honors came with the team's success. Sophomore middle blocker Danielle Cornelius was named first-team all-state by the Texas Sports Writers Association, while junior setter Brittney Binder received honorable mention.

--In the spring, the girls' golf team finished well in what at first looked like a rebuilding year. Hereford finished second in the district, beating Pampa by two strokes, and took eighth at the Region 1-4A tournament April. Senior Kelly Kelso, the only experienced girl on a team of underclassmen, took third in the district medalist competition.

--The tennis team finished second in the district, losing only to Borger, and advanced as far as the semifinals at the Region 1-4A Tournament Oct. 29--it was the first semifinal appearance for the Herd netters since 1990.

In the spring, the doubles team of Kara Sandoval and Brooke Weishaar took second place in district and third in the region.

The 1994 Hereford football team was neither successful nor unsuccessful: it had records of 5-5 overall and 3-3 in District 1-4A, finishing fourth in the seven-team district. It was an

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Priest Holmes scored his fourth touchdown of the day on a somersaulting 5-yard run late in the fourth quarter, lifting Texas to a 35-31 victory over No. 19 North Carolina on Friday in the Sun Bowl.

Holmes, the game's MVP, turned in his best performance of the year with 161 yards on 27 carries against a team that had given up an average of 115.2 yards rushing.

With less than two minutes remaining and the Longhorns facing first and goal at the 5, Holmes took the ball and sped around the right end. Confronted by a wall of defenders, he launched into the air at about the 4, was hit once and tumbled head over heels into the end zone for the winning score.

Johnson's firing tops year's sports stories

IRVING, Texas (AP) - It began innocently enough one night during the NFL owners meetings in Orlando, Fla., with Jerry Jones offering a toast to the latest Super Bowl victory by his Dallas Cowboys.

But coach Jimmy Johnson wasn't interested in drinking with his boss and neither were some of the people he was with, especially those Jones had fired.

Nevertheless, they all lifted their glasses with Jones then returned to their conversation. Nobody pulled up an extra chair.

Upset at the snub and already furious he wasn't getting the credit he felt he deserved for Dallas' success, Jones stormed away, subsequently suggesting to some reporters at a bar that a lot of people could coach the Cowboys, and maybe he'd hire former Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer to do just that.

Incredible as it seemed at the time, that's just what ended up happening.

That memorable changing of the guard atop America's Team provided Texans with their biggest sports story of 1994 according to an Associated Press poll of newspaper editors and broadcasters.

Dallas' fourth Super Bowl title, the second straight of the Jones-Johnson era, was the year's fourth biggest story in the AP poll.

Second on the list was another championship, this one by the Houston Rockets, who gave their city its first-ever title in a major sport.

The Rockets blew big leads in consecutive home games to open their second-round series against Phoenix, alienated their fans ("To hell with them," guard Vernon Maxwell said), then swept three games in Phoenix and won in seven.

After cruising by Utah in five, Houston relied on confidence-filled rookie point guard Sam Cassell to fight through a nip-and-tuck championship series against the New York Knicks.

Maxwell, who by now had forgiven Houstonians, hit a dramatic 3-pointer to seal the 90-84 victory in Game 7 and ignite an unprecedented citywide celebration.

The main reason the Rockets did it was Hakeem Olajuwon, who took Michael Jordan's place as the game's best player and earned his first MVP award. That overdue honor was the No. 9 story of the year.

Another seemingly overdue event that played out nearly as dramatically as the Cowboys' turnover was the breakup of the Southwest Conference, the year's third-biggest story.

Years of speculation and plotting boiled down to a few weeks of negotiations that turned the 79-year-old league into a lame duck conference.

Baylor, Texas, Texas A&M and Texas Tech decided to join the Big Eight schools to form the Big 12 beginning in 1996. That same year, Rice, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian will help the Western Athletic Conference grow to 16 teams. Houston eventually found a spot in a new conference with Tulane, Louisville, St. Louis and others.

The football season that followed was just as bizarre, mainly because Texas A&M was under NCAA sanctions for players having been paid for off-season work they didn't do (the No. 6 story of the year).

Although the Aggies had the league's best record at 6-0-1, one of of Hereford, took second place in the National Cutting Horse Association Open Horse Championships.

April 10—Hereford's Milan Soccer Club hosted and won a six-team tournament.

April 20—Red Raider Day in Hereford brought Texas Tech Athletic Director Bob Bockrath and men's basketball coach James Dickey and many others to town for golf and socializing.

April 29-May 1—The third Cuby Kitchens Classic, a basketball tournament for young boys and girls, included 76 teams.

May 23—Herd baseball coach J.J. Villarreal resigned after one year and one playoff appearance to take an assistant's job in his hometown of Temple.

May 27—Pete Rodriguez is promoted from assistant to replace Villarreal.

June 4-5—Chasity Rickman win year in titles in several categories for the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association. She won all-around honors as well as titles in all four girls' events: goat-tying, barrel racing, breakaway roping and pole bending. She went on to win the goat-tying competition at the National High School Finals Rodeo July 31.

June 5—Jeff Yates won the Hereford Open golf tournament, shooting 214 over three rounds.

July and early August—Hereford is represented at two national AAU basketball tournaments. The WT Heat—including Julie Rampley, Kendra Wright, Nichole Albracht, Staci Betzen, Makesha Rives, Crystal Bailey and Tiffany Mercer, coached by Jackie Mercer, Eddie Chavarria and Leo Brown—plays in New Orleans. The Texas Warriors—including Slade Hodges, Cody Hodges, James Miller, Eric McNutt, Daniel Carnahan, Steven Northern, Nathan King and Landon Martin—play in Salt Lake City.

July 26—Kuper plays in the high school all-star football game in the Houston Astrodome, sponsored by the Texas High School Coaches Association.

July 30—Cameron Betzen takes first in International Trap, Senior Division at the State 4-H Trap Shoot in San Antonio.

Aug. 12-14—Hereford Town and Country Jubilee includes several sports events: George Chavez of Tucumcari win the Greg Black Memorial 10-K, while Hereford's Loy Triana wins the two-mile race. The Arrowhead Mills Shockers win the Jubilee Softball Classic over the Blue Sage A's. Dusty Saul, Jeff Yates, Don Leverett and Craig Nieman combine to win the Twilight Golf Tournament.

Sept. 4—Yates and Blair Rogers win the Hereford Country Club Member Guest Golf Tournament.

Oct. 28—Larry Wartes, a former Hereford High School football coach and former star basketball player at Hardin-Simmons, was inducted in the athletic hall of fame at Hardin-Simmons.

Nov. 15—Dan Odell wins the Brand Football Contest and a trip to see the Dallas Cowboys play the Washington Redskins in Irving.

Dec. 1—Kuper, a redshirt, is honored for leadership at University of Texas football banquet.

Dec. 11—Steve Purcella of Westway and partner Kory Koontz of Canyon take fifth in team roping at the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas. They finished eighth in the year-end standings.

exciting season, though, with close losses to district rivals Randall, Berger and Pampa. And no one who was there could forget the end of the Coronado game Sept. 16 at Whiteface Stadium, when Michael Brown threw a 36-yard touchdown bomb to Ronald Torres in a fourth-and-32 situation with 21 seconds left, lifting Hereford to a 24-21 win.

The Hereford boys cross country team finished fourth at the district meet Oct. 29—a year after not even having a team for the district meet—while the girls' team finished sixth. The cross country season highlights came when the girls finished second in Floydada Oct. 1 and the boys took third in Sundown Oct. 15.

In the spring, the girls' track team took third at the district meet, while the boys finished fifth, but both had individuals excel. Brandon Gearn claimed a district title in the 100-meter dash and took second in the 200, as did Krista West. The girls' team earned several other second-place medals: Jennifer Parker in the discus; Michelle Brock in the shot put; the 800 relay (West, Courtney Gearn, Cassie Abney and Marie Crox) and the 1,600 relay (West, Gearn, Abney and Jamie Harrison).

West went on to take fourth in the 200 at the Region 1-4A Track Meet.

Although most sports news in Hereford revolves around the high school, other athletes and events made news in 1994.

Jan. 27—Mark Kuper commits to play football at the University of Texas, then signs a letter of intent Feb. 2. The two-time all-district tight end and defensive end was the first Herd football player to sign with a Division I school in several years.

Feb. 20—Commandate, a cutting horse owned by Ron and Mary Crist

New Year's '94 triple slaying haunts Pampa

By JEAN PAGEL

Associated Press Writer
PAMPA, Texas (AP)—New Year's Day '94 was just minutes old when police arrived at the scene of what they now call the worst crime in Pampa history.

Twila Busby, 40, had been bludgeoned to death in her living room. Her two learning-disabled sons were fatally stabbed.

Three hours later, police found Ms. Busby's blood-splattered boyfriend hiding in a friend's bedroom closet.

Henry Watkins Skinner, 32, was charged with capital murder and remains in the Gray County Jail one year later.

"Absolutely he did it," said Beverly Clark, Ms. Busby's mother. "Absolutely."

Jury selection is set to begin Jan. 19 in Fort Worth. District Attorney John Mann has indicated he will seek the death penalty if Skinner is convicted.

The triple slaying seems to haunt this blue-collar town of about 20,000 in the Texas Panhandle—a sheltered community, a small county-seat town who says that can't happen here, "in the words of Jerry Arrington, minister of education at the First Baptist Church. "I think probably some innocence would be lost in that."

Police and attorneys won't comment, citing a gag order from state District Judge Kent Sims.

But court records and pre-trial hearings provide a glimpse at evidence accumulated against the accused killer of Ms. Busby, 20-year-old Melvin Randolph "Randy" Busby Jr. and 22-year-old Elwin Eugene "Scooter" Caler.

Officers testified they found a bloody knife on the front porch and an ax handle near the sofa.

Skinner's right hand was cut and bloodstains were found on his socks, shirt and pants, according to testimony at the hearings.

"I remember waking up on the couch, somebody standing over the top of me with a knife," Skinner said in a taped statement to authorities. "I remember throwing my hands up. I remember running out of the house."

Gray County Sheriff Randy Stubblefield, who now declines to discuss the case, has said he tried arresting Skinner at least a dozen times in the weeks before the slayings. Warrants alleged aggravated assault and injury to a child.

"We've had him in jail eight different times on charges of making terroristic threats, burglary, assault, theft, traffic warrants," Stubblefield told the Amarillo Daily News last January. "Every time, he bonds out."

County and state officials confirm the following record:

--In Virginia in February 1980, 17-year-old Skinner was charged with breaking and entering. He was later convicted of statutory rape of a 13-year-old girl. He was released from jail in May 1983.

--In Texas in 1985, jailers in Levelland taped Skinner accusing several prominent citizens of running a drug ring. Skinner later testified that he had concocted the allegations that riled the town west of Lubbock.

--In New Mexico, Skinner served part of an 18-month sentence for auto theft in 1985. He then violated parole in April 1987 and was sent back to prison.

--Again in Texas, Gray County sentenced him to a five-year prison term in May 1988 for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was paroled in six months, violated parole in April 1989 and was released from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice in November 1989.

"Some days I feel sorry for him ... and then some days when I would just like to blow him away," Ms. Clark said.

She knows this much about what happened that night to her daughter and grandsons:

Ms. Busby had come home early from a New Year's Eve party. Her beaten body was found on the living room floor. Randy Busby's body was found in bed.

Caler was stabbed but fled to the home of a neighbor, who called police. Caler died at Coronado Hospital.

Ms. Clark said her daughter thought she loved Skinner.

"She trusted everyone and felt sorry for people," Ms. Clark said. "She had no idea he would ever hurt her."

The Pampa woman plans to attend jury selection wearing a T-shirt imprinted with an image of the victims.

Forecaster Almanac says

Gourmet pickles 'in' for 1995

By JOE WHEELAN

Associated Press Writer
DENVER (AP)—Gourmet pickles and vacations at the Panama Canal are in for 1995. Facial piercing and Mighty Morphin Power Rangers are on the way out.

So says "The American Forecaster Almanac 1995," whose 12th edition is itself so trendy it's available only on floppy disk.

The almanac's author, Kim Long, a Denver consultant on trends, also thinks widespread acceptance of plastic surgery has made "cosmetic psychology" the logical next fad. He says the term—which he coined—means counseling to help people change flaws in their personalities.

"I think it is no longer acceptable to people to put up with what they think are inappropriate impediments to their success in life," Long says. "Who you are is not good enough."

As for the Power Rangers craze that began two years ago, "it's been around just long enough that the kids will be bored," Long predicts. Also past their prime are piercing of noses, ears and lips, along with espresso coffee outlets and factory outlet stores, he says.

While fancy coffee is going, gourmet pickles will gain a strong following, he predicts.

"There is a movement among upscale diners to request a more exquisite pickle," Long says.

The Panama Canal Zone is fast becoming a major vacation retreat, Long says, because it is exotic but safe—and a great place to shop. "What we have is one of the world's busiest free trade zones," he says.

Long says his best 1994 prediction was growth in desktop video conferencing. His worst: a $20 cellular phone to be used only in emergencies; it never reached consumers.

Between the Covers

By REBECCA WALLS

Now that the urgency of Christmas is over, I hope you have the time and desire to sit down with a good book. If you are traveling to the Cotton Bowl, remember to come by and get a book on tape that you can listen to while you're in the car. By the way, we will be closed Monday, January 2, 1995, for the new year.

Some of the new titles coming out this week are: The Sins of the Wolf by Anne Parry; The Indictment by Barry Reed; From the Fields of Gold by Alexandra Ripley; Sacrifice by John Farris; and The Search for Sonny Skies by Mickey Rooney.

In Sins of the Wolf, nurse Hester Lutterly takes a position for which she is well suited. The prominent Edinburgh family wanted a young woman with nursing experience to accompany Mrs. Mary Farralige, an elderly lady in delicate health, on a trip to London. Mary's health is not critical and Hester is to see that Mary does not neglect to take her heart medicine. The first night aboard the train, Hester's job takes a grave turn when the scottish matron dies during the night. It is assumed Mary died of natural causes until a proper investigation is made. The postmortem examination reveals a lethal dose of her medication, and Mary's missing pearl brooch is found among Hester's possessions. Private investigator, William Monk is hired to find a motive and the real killer among the cool Farraline clan. Since the trial will be conducted in Edinburgh, highly skilled barrister Oliver Rathlione, is only permitted to direct the scottish lawyer from the sidelines and pray the lawyer fights valiantly for his dear friend's life.

The Indictment by Barry Reed, begins with the discovery of a beautiful young woman's murder on the outskirts of Boston. Dr. Christopher Dillard, a wealthy, prominent surgeon was the last person to see the young woman alive. When District Attorney, Neil Harrington determines that Dr. Dillard has no alibi, Harrington sees the case as an opportunity to advance his senatorial campaign. With an anti-crime stance that attracts publicity for his political advancement, Harrington calls a grand jury to indict Dr. Dillard. Dr. Dillard goes to Dan Sheridan, a cop turned defense attorney, for help. Sheridan soon finds himself a pawn in a system that puts political advancement against personal justice as the indictment unfolds with unexpected repercussions.

Alexandra Ripley's From Fields of Gold, transports us to the beguiling time of the "old South." Francesca "Chess" Standish, born into the wealth of Tidewater, Virginia, is accustomed to a world of feasting, hunting, dancing and softly walking slaves, who gratify every need. Then Civil War and fifteen years later, Chess is considered an aging spinster, too tall, thin and poor to make a good match. Nate Richardson, a young farmer from North Carolina with ambition and a secret obsession for his brother's bewitching and devious wife, arrive at the crumbling Standish plantation. Determined to obtain the patent for a machine that can revolutionize the tobacco business, Nate is ready to deal with the Devil. Chess senses that Nate is capable of destroying anything that stands in his way, but she wants him and she proposes and unconventional bargain. Chess will give Nate Richardson her rights to the machine in exchange for marriage and a partnership in his business. The raw, harsh world of the tobacco business with its deals, double-dealing and cutthroats rivalries is one in which Nate and Chess struggle to survive. Chess realizes she may not be able to make Nate desire her, but she can make him need her as a business partner. As their tobacco empire grows, Chess sweeps to the top of American and British society. Chess becomes a woman to be reckoned with and loved.

"Sacrifice is the most exciting suspense novel I've ever read," says Robert Bloch, author of Psycho. In this book, seventeen-year old Sharissa Walker is "beauty personified, decency incarnate and a joy to behold," she is also the apple of her father's eye. Greg Walker is the perfect father by anyone's standards. Greg will do anything to protect Sharissa and keep her safe. In this novel of suspense and terror, nothing is as it seems. Greg Walker's narrative begins with, "I was finishing my laps around the lake about seven o'clock when Doyle Kindor's youngest boy, Ricky Gene, shot me in the head with Doyle's old Colt Woodsman. Ricky Gene was only ten and he had sneaked the woodsman out of the house to do some target shooting with a couple of fifth grade friends. Those kids had the sickest, scariest faces I had ever seen...I felt sorry for Ricky, he was a good boy."

The Search for Sonny Skies is Mickey Rooney's first novel featuring a fabulous Hollywood child star named Sonny Skies. Before Sonny was old enough to wear long pants, he was nominated for an Oscar. At sixteen, Sonny was the hottest box-office attraction and at nineteen, he was the envy of the world when he married a "filmland" beauty. Then, Sonny is drafted and finds himself fighting on the beaches of Normandy. When news of Sonny's death reaches home, it sends a shock wave through the entertainment industry. Jay Richards and Elli McBrien begin an investigation of Sonny's life for a feature documentary that leads them to uncover a scandal in the film industry, the Pentagon, a murder in Los Angeles, a cemetery in France and a stable in Del Mar, California. Rooney's deep love for the old Hollywood comes bubbling to the surface in this intriguing story and you can't help but feel it.

Self-Landgraf vows exchanged Saturday

In a Saturday afternoon ceremony in Central Church of Christ, Nikki Self of Canyon and Gary Landgraf of Amarillo were united in marriage. Tom Bailey officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are James and Maureen Self of Hereford. The bridegroom is the son of Alvin Landgraf of Houston and Mary Matocha of Bay City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory satin gown that her maternal grandmother had worn for her wedding July 8, 1950. The princess style gown, restored by the bride's mother, featured a sweetheart off the shoulder satin ruffle with an illusion inset creating a round neckline. The full draped skirt was topped by a peplum above a chapel length train and trimmed with ivory Battenburg lace. The lace applied bodice was embroidered with seed pearls.

The bride and her aunt created a waist length veil of ivory illusion attached to sprays of silk flowers and seed pearls. She carried a teardrop bouquet of ivory peonies, English ivy, and burgundy and ivory roses. Strands of ivory lace, seed pearls and green satin ribbons accented the flowers.

Maid of honor was Karen Battenhorst of Amarillo. Todd Barnett of Wichita Falls served as best man.

The bridesmaids were Jamie Self, sister of the bride, and Kelli Thames of Plainview. Groomsmen were Tyra Aldridge of Wichita Falls and Greg Williams of Amarillo.

Bride's attendants wore dresses of hunter green satin accented by strands of ivory pearls, a gift from the bride. They carried a single ivory rose blossom.

Guests were escorted by ushers Kirk Self, brother of the bride, of Canyon and Brian Pohlmeier, the bride's uncle, of Plainview.

Chelsie Pohlmeier, daughter of Alan and Cathi Pohlmeier of Amarillo, and Ali Pohlmeier, daughter of Brian and Peggy Pohlmeier of Plainview were flower girls. Candle lighter was Levi Pohlmeier, son of Brian and Peggy Pohlmeier. All are cousins of the bride.

Musical selections were provided by the Central Church of Christ choir and vocalist Alan Pohlmeier, the bride's uncle.

The church was decorated with ivory poinsettias and fig trees with white lights. The couple stood before a candle arch lined with English ivy. Isle and pew decorations were hunter green garland and ivory and hunter green bows.

The couple was honored with a reception in the church fellowship room. Michelle and Jennifer Harmon of Amarillo, cousins of the bride, served at the bride's table. Linda Cumpton and Kathy Haney served at the groom's table.

The bride's table featured ivory linen, crystal appointments and hunter green candles with the bridal bouquet as the center piece. The wedding cake was decorated in ivory roses, pearls and topped with a porcelain bride and groom.

Hunter green linen covered the groom's table which was accented with silver appointments and a cake decorated with cream candles and burgundy flowers.

After a ski trip to Angel Fire, N.M., the couple will be at home in Amarillo.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1990 and is a senior kinesiology major at West Texas A&M University.

The groom graduated from Graziado High School in 1986. He is the manager of the Foot Action Superstore in Amarillo.

Out of town guests were represented from Houston, Bay City, Paris, Colleyville, Wichita Falls, Tulia, Plainview and Amarillo.

Bachelor party can be indecent or okay

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been reading your column for ages. I do not believe you have ever printed a letter about something that is becoming an accepted practice, although it is indecent, immoral and a source of anxiety to every bride. I am referring to the bachelor party that traditionally takes place the night before the wedding.

I have heard from my brother and my male cousins that there are strippers at these parties who wear g-strings and pasties, which is as close to being naked as a woman can get. Some of the bimbos wear black garter belts and mesh stockings with 4-inch heels.

There's music, of course, and these women put on a "show" (mostly bumps and grinds because they can neither sing nor dance). They prance around, sit on laps, take off the guys' ties and unbutton their shirts. Most of the guys are dead drunk by that time, and no one will say for certain how much else gets taken off. These affairs are almost always held in hotels, so it is not difficult to figure out where most of the guys end up.

I am not a prude, but I wonder how many men would like their future brides to be entertained this way by male strippers.

I hope you will speak out against these bachelor parties where many a groom has become so sick and hung over that he can barely get through the wedding the following day. Playing nurse to a hung-over guy is no way to start off on a honeymoon. It's time men got the message.—Looking Ahead in Palm Beach unpleasant consequences, but it rarely works. Children must be taught at the earliest age not to lie or it will become a lifetime habit. I am not suggesting that they be totally excused for wrongdoing because they told the truth, but there is a good way to handle this. Parents should make it clear that if a child lies, the punishment will be twice as severe, and that promise should be kept.

Another important point is this: Under no circumstances should parents lie to or in front of their children. Lying sets the stage for continued duplicity. Children should be taught that one lie invariably leads to three or four more lies in an effort to cover up the first one, and the liar is almost always found out.

Parents should teach their children it is always best to take their lumps up front and get it over with.—A Longtime Canadian Reader

DEAR CANADIAN: Thank you for a letter I hope will be taped on thousands of refrigerators. It could make a difference in many young lives and some older ones as well.

Extension News

by BEVERLY HARDER
County Extension Agent-H.E.

The holidays are supposed to be merry. Yet by January, many people have the opposite reaction -- and for good reason. Even a long-awaited family reunion can leave you feeling down. That family gathering may require travel which leaves one family member tired and irritable. Even the most wonderful family reunion disrupts mealtime and bedtime routines and can overwhelm us with more people than we're used to being with at one time. Sometimes unresolved emotions among family members surface under the pressure of holiday tension and lead to depression for those involved.

Because the holidays are thought of as a family time, those people who are separated geographically or emotionally from their families or dear friends may find themselves grieving the loss of close ties afterwards. The cost of gifts and other holiday expenses can also bring on the blues for some as they worry about the bills that are soon to follow. Some people may feel badly about receiving gifts from others when they did not give in return, while others fell angry about using time or money to remember friends or relatives who didn't seem to return the sentiment.

The first step in dealing with the January blues is to recognize that many other people have similar feelings after the holidays. Try taking some of the following actions:

*Try to settle back into your usual routine as soon as possible.

*Practice tolerance and forgetfulness. People say and do things under pressure that are not typical. Forget the bars; remember the good things that happened over the holiday.

*Think constructively about ways you can do it differently next year to make life simpler for everybody. Remember, though, when you take charge, you're adding stress next year.

*Add some cheer to your January by doing something you have wanted to do for a long time. Learn a new craft or skill. Buy something special for yourself or your home. Visit a special friend, or read the new book you received as a Christmas gift.

DEAR LOOKING: I do not doubt for a minute that some bachelor pre-nuptial parties end up to be drunken orgies, but many are quite decent--especially if the fathers of the bride and groom are present.

Male strippers, by the way, are not generally sexually aggressive. They put themselves out there and it's the women who do the groping, unbuttoning, etc.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently printed a letter from a couple who lost a friendship after baby-sitting another couple's two children. It seems the kids lied about something, and their father's response was "All kids lie."

It's true that almost everyone lies at some time or another to avoid

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD WADE HOLCOMBE
... exchange wedding vows

Holcombe, Sanders married in Dimmitt

In a recent ceremony in Springlake Baptist Church, Monica Jean Sanders and Richard Wade Holcombe exchanged wedding vows. The church pastor, the Rev. Scott Riling, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Roger and Stephanie Sanders of Dimmitt. Parents of the groom are Pete and Pat Holcombe of Hereford.

Lighted Christmas trees, wreaths and garland decorated the church for the Dec. 10 ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Jaime Haber of Earth was maid of honor and Ashley Quisenberry of Earth was bridesmaid.

Serving as best man was Chris Tardy. Stephen Fortenberry of Lake Charles, La., was groomsman.

Ushers were Travis Sanders, brother of the bride, and Jay

Holcombe and Brandon Holcombe, brothers of the groom.

Flower girl was Tracy Fortenberry and Joshua Hill was ring bearer.

Wedding music was offered by Shirley Burress, Linda Davis and Susie Merrick. Songs included "There Is Love" and "Make Us One."

A reception at the church honored the couple after the wedding. Noell Merrick, Jaime Self and Robin Bridges served cake. Punch was served by Angie Shirey, Heather Busby and Jennifer Welch. Camie Holcombe presided at the registry.

Also assisting in the reception was Nicole Byers.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., after the wedding and reception.

The bride attended Springlake Earth High School. The groom is employed at Hereford Janitor Supply.

Church wedding here unites Resch, Grissom

Deana Marie Resch and Billy Don Grissom were united in marriage in a Saturday afternoon ceremony in the First Assembly of God Church of Hereford.

The bride is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Harlan Resch. Her father read the exchange of vows. The bridegroom is the son of Zola Ann Grissom and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grissom, all of Hereford.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Rick Resch of Dixon, Ill., the bride wore a white brocade satin gown designed by her mother. The gown featured a rounded neckline outlined with a large wide collar and long tapered sleeves. A chapel-length train fell from the dropped waistline.

The bride's floor-length veil of illusion was attached to a white western hat. The veil was trimmed with lace and pearls, also designed by her mother. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses, pink and purple rosebuds, accented with lace and pearls. She wore a pearl necklace belonging to her grandmother.

Debbie O'Neal, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Kristi White of Tulia was bridesmaid. They wore tea-length dresses, designed with black velvet bodice and brocade satin skirt. They carried bouquets of pink and purple rosebuds.

Robert Isatt of Amarillo was best man and groomsman was Robert Stewart of Clovis, N.M.

Ushers for the wedding were Stacy and Janet Kimbrell of Portales, N.M., and Bobby and David O'Neal of Hereford.

Flower girl was Airel Kimbrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kimbrell of Clovis. Ring bearer was Dean Kimbrell, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Everett Kimbrell of Portales. Lighting candles was Bobby O'Neal.

Wedding music was provided by Richard Selman, pianist, and Bobby O'Neal, nephew of the bride, who sang "I Swear," "A Whole New World" and "Love of a Lifetime."

Holiday decorations and greenery, accented with metallic hot pink and purple, were featured in church decorations.

The couple was honored with a reception in the church fellowship hall after the wedding. Debbie Elliott, of Jenny Lind, Ark., aunt of the bride, served cake, and Candy Holmes served punch and sat at the registry.

Also assisting in the reception were Clifteen White and Livina Zambrano. The wedding cake was topped with a cowboy bride and groom. Distributing rice bags were Eric Oester and Justin Kimbrell.

The bride was graduated from Hereford High School and attended West Texas A&M University. She is a group home manager for Texas Home Management in Canyon.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of Hereford High School, is employed at Hereford Iron and Metal.

After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 308 W. Fifth in Hereford.

Among out-of-town guests were family members and friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Elliott of Jenny Lind, Mrs. Marie Resch of Panama, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Elliott of Jenny Lind, Gerald Kimbrell of Clovis, Rev. and Mrs. V.R. Allen of Clovis, Rev. and Mrs. Jim Myers of Perryton, Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Thomas of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Jody White of Tulia, Kristi White, Dan Long of Tulia.

Legion sets meeting

The monthly meeting of the American Legion and Auxiliary will be held at 7 p.m. on Tuesday.

Dinner will be served, followed by a program presented by Police Captain Pat Michael.

An old custom involves opening a page of the Bible at random on New Year's Day and predicting the coming year based on the passage discovered.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

"Now laughter dances in the air like snowflakes in the sun and every heart is light because a new year has begun."

When students return to HJH on Tuesday, January 3, to begin the new year, they should report to their first semester advisory class in order to receive schedules for the second semester.

On Friday, December 16, names of Pride Certified students were drawn throughout the day for gift certificates. HJH staff and students wish to thank those businesses who provided the gift certificates: McDonald's, Dairy Queen, Troy's Sweet Shop, Video Escape, Silver Screen Video, Little Caesar's Pizza and Godfather's Pizza.

The Art Club has been busy selling crafts that they made in order to purchase paint to use for wall murals. After the new semester begins, the HJH Art Club will merge with the High School Art Club.

The seventh grade English classes read A Christmas Carol from their literature books while the seventh and eighth PACE classes read the Charles Dickens classic in novel length. All students are making posters representing main characters of the story.

The Geography Bee will be held on Thursday, January 5 in Room 5. Students who have been working on the Bee material are: Jennie Artho, Michael Hall, Matthew Lusk, Tan Nguyen, Seth Pietssek, Josh Rowe, Mark Shakocius, and Krista Warren. Carey Lyles and Kristan Kimbell have been a tremendous help with coaching.

Report cards will be sent home on January 9. Parents and guardians, please plan to review the report with your son or daughter and prepare to visit with teachers, if you so desire. We are here because your child is here and we want the best for them. With your help, we can do a much better job!

May the new year give you many reasons to smile and may it bring happiness to you and yours...

Flame Fellowship meets Thursday

Hereford Flame Fellowship will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. at Hereford Community Center. Guest speaker will be Joyce Johnson, associate pastor of Evangel Temple in Plainview. She and her husband Kenneth pastor Evangel Temple together.

They have three daughters, one son and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Johnson has ministered in Canada and the United States at many women's conferences and groups. She has a radio program, Word of Wisdom, on KKYN.

Everyone is invited to attend the meeting.

VFW Auxiliary donates to various local programs

The Ladies Auxiliary to Roy Wederbrook Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #4818 held their yearly auction on Friday, Dec. 9. The auctioneer was Larry Noland. Members of the auxiliary truly appreciate him as he is the key to the success of the event. They also extend their appreciation to the businesses that donated items for the auction. Chris Cabiness won the door prize which was a king size quilt.

Franklin Roosevelt, the 32nd president of the United States, died of a cerebral hemorrhage April 12, 1945, in Warm Springs, Ga. He was 63. His death came just three months after he began an unprecedented fourth term in office. Vice President Harry S. Truman became the nation's 33rd chief executive.

In 1606, England adopted as its flag the original version of the Union Jack.

Due to the success of the auction, the auxiliary was able to make donations to Project Christmas Card, Christmas Stocking Fund, Hereford Satellite Center, King's Manor Methodist Home, Westgate Nursing Home, Golden Plains Care Center, Hereford Care Center, V.F.W. National Home and Amarillo V.A. Hospital. They were also able to give fruit baskets to their home bound members and grocery boxes to some needy families.

Plans for the auction had been finalized at the regular session earlier in December with Betty Boggs presiding.

The next auxiliary meeting will be Monday, Jan. 2, at 7:30 p.m. preceded by a fried chicken supper at 6:30 p.m.

Members present at the last meeting were Boggs, Doris Coffin, Marie Goheen, Erma Murphey, Peggy Oakes, Terrye Rhyne, Winnie Tyler, Sandra Sutton, Imogene Sweeney, Anita Vardell and Vivian Williams.

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN GRAY

Local couple honored on 60th wedding anniversary

Norman and Grace Gray celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary with a family celebration in their honor on Christmas eve in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Smith of Dimmitt.

They were married in Foard County on Dec. 24, 1934, and lived there until they purchased farms in northwestern Deaf Smith County in 1945. They moved their family to Hereford in the fall of 1946.

They are members of the First United Methodist Church of Hereford where they have been active through the years.

Their children are Norma Smith of Dimmitt and Dr. Ron Gray of Oklahoma City, OK. Grandchildren are John R. Smith of Plainview, Judith Smith-Polansky of Austin, Jill Smith of Ralls and Tracy Paige Gray of Oklahoma City. Jessica Caitlin Polansky of Austin and Kynzee Blair Smith of Plainview are great-grandchildren.

If, as some geologists believe, Africa's Great Rift is actively spreading, it may eventually become a new ocean.

Thank You

We wish to thank all of our relatives and friends for your prayers, calls, cards and flowers.

May God bless you all.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

A YEAR OF CHANGE

Regardless of your past success in your career or business, 1995 will belong to those who can best adapt to changing times and trends. You may feel that you have the success formula all figured out. You may be at the peak earning point of your career. However, my advice for you in the new year is to be cautious. Times are changing.

Change is an interesting word. Webster's dictionary defines change as a process of becoming different; or to pass from one phase to another. As much as we may try to resist change, it is the only constant we have in our lives.

To resist change is natural. Most of us are more comfortable with routine. We drive to work the same way each day. We follow the same steps in getting ready to greet each new morning: we are comfortable with the patterns, and we avoid radical changes.

Initially, change is hard to accept. Consider the following story recorded in history regarding former U.S. President Martin Van Buren. Seven years before he became president, Van Buren wrote a letter to President Andrew Jackson complaining that the new-fangled railroads were threatening the canal system of the states. Van Buren pointed out the if railroads replaced the canals, serious unemployment would result and America would lose its ability to defend itself.

Van Buren wrote this paragraph in fierce resistance to this technological change: "As you may well know, railroad carriages are pulled at the enormous speed of 15 miles per hour by engines, which in addition to endangering life and limb of passengers, roar and snort their way through the countryside. The Almighty certainly never intended that people should travel at such breakneck speed."

Ah, Mr. President, if you could only see us now. Hiring through the air at the speed of sound. Yes, the times are still changing.

Change is your friend

The best possible attitude you can take toward change is to embrace it as you would an old friend. Don't try to resist change, because you can no more stop it than you can hold back a river by standing in it. The water will pass you by. So it is with change. You will further your career or improve your business by learning to swim with the current. Use change to get ahead, accomplish more and travel faster.

Your objective must be to master change. Learning about life and life's lessons, gives you a real competitive advantage. Since change is the only constant in life, we will benefit if we learn more about it.

The learning process is only the beginning. Knowledge (the product of learning) is ineffective without action. I know a few folks so filled with knowledge that they think they can talk about anything. However, what you know should never prevent you from doing what needs to be done. When you know what to do, get right after it. While learning never stops, you must supersede talking with action.

Swim upstream

Sometimes change means going against established trends. There are times when you may have to swim upstream. Regardless of the latest fads, you'll find that doing the right thing is more important than doing things right. For example, robbing a bank no matter how well you do it - is not a right or proper thing to do.

Always ask yourself, "Is this fair to everyone?" Is it honest?" "Would I want to appear on a national TV show and defend my decisions?" If you can answer yes to these questions, you're learning about positive change. Your actions are appropriate and you will be making the right changes.

Fluctuation of cattle prices captures top spot in TCFA major news stories

Texas Cattle Feeders Association has selected the "Top 10" news stories in the industry and around TCFA for 1994.

Here are the top stories affecting the cattle industry, according to Ron Davenport, TCFA president:

1. The market kept cattle feeders in knots. Fed cattle prices fluctuated from a high of $77.50 in mid-April to $60 in late June.

2. Food safety continued as a major issue with consumers and the media. The beef industry, meanwhile, urged USDA to step up action on industry-proposed programs to further ensure beef's safety and wholesomeness.

3. NAFTA went into effect on Jan. 1; and Congress approved the GATT agreement in early December.

4. The beef industry's first beef coupon effort was successful. The program, which offered $1 coupons for six or eight pounds of beef to consumers in 17 cities, moved an additional 800,000 pounds of beef during the summer.

5. U.S. beef exports were up 29 percent. Leading countries were Mexico, up 55 percent; Korea, 54 percent; Japan, 14 percent, and Canada, eight percent.

6. Cattlemen faced record high total meat supplies. Beef supplies were up five percent, pork supplies increased two percent and poultry supplies climbed seven percent this year, creating stiff competition for the consumer's protein dollar.

7. Volatility in futures prices caused cattlemen to ask for an investigation. Even though cattlemen still have concerns, an analysis by CFIC and cattle organizations showed no wrongdoing.

8. A record-setting 10-billion bushel corn crop was harvested. Cattle feeders can look forward to more competitive feed costs in 1995.

9. In a landmark case, livestock odors were declared to be natural and normal by the Texas Supreme Court.

10. Discrepancies between beef and poultry inspection standards concerned cattlemen, prompting several suits against USDA.

TOP 10 AROUND TCFA
1. The TCFA area set marketing records, including a weekly volume record of 140,483 the week of Oct. 21 and a daily volume record of 96,415 on July 11.

2. TCFA upgraded its M-Net system -- a two-way satellite marketing network -- providing more information and making the system easier to use.

3. TCFA hosted two environmental "think tanks" to help the industry develop sound environmental and wildlife management strategies.

4. TCFA actively supported unifying national beef organizations, which will increase the industry's

Hog industry swings toward 'factory farms'

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The growing concentration of ownership in the hog industry is showing up in the latest numbers from the Agriculture Department.

The department reported Thursday that the number of hog operations totaled 208,780 in 1994, down 7 percent from last year and 13 percent from 1992.

Places with 2,000 or more hogs on hand accounted for 2 percent of the operations but 37 percent of the inventory, the department said. A year ago, 2 percent of the operations had more than 2,000 head and accounted for 33 percent of the national inventory.

Factory farms relying on volume production to increase profits have sprung up in states like Missouri and North Carolina, competing with smaller but more numerous operations in the traditional hog states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Minnesota.

A recent survey by Successful

Farming magazine found that eight of the nation's largest pork producers were based in North Carolina. Three had their headquarters in Missouri.

Even North Carolina and Missouri lost hog operations over the year. North Carolina went from 7,500 to 7,000 and Missouri from 11,000 to 10,500.

But Iowa, the nation's largest hog producer, lost 4,000 operations, leaving the state with a total of 29,000 farms raising hogs. Farms with fewer than 500 head accounted for most of the decline.

Although hog and pig numbers are down from Sept. 1, the December level of 59.6 million head is the highest number for the month since 1980, the report said.

Because of the high numbers, the value has dropped. The animals on average were worth $53.20 a head on Dec. 1, compared with $74.90 a year earlier. The total inventory was valued at $3.17 billion, down from $4.34 billion the previous year, the report said.

reasonable regulations.

9. The TCFA Safety Program continued to expand with more safety inspections and the production of the first Spanish-language video in the TCFA library.

10. TCFA's Education Foundation increased scholarships to $2,500 for graduate students doing research applicable to cattle feeding.

TSWCRA manager slates retirement

FORT WORTH - The top administrator of Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association for 28 years has announced plans to retire at the end of March.

Don C. King, 65, who has spent 33 years with the livestock group, said the decision was not "easy to make," but observed that he will be 66 years old in January.

"I feel it is time for me to step down," he said. "In addition, the association is in a strong financial position now and the new, incoming manager will have an opportunity to get his feet on the ground before any financial difficulties should confront him."

The retiring secretary-general manager has the longest tenure in that position in the 117-year history of the association.

A transition committee has been appointed to direct and assist the staff and officers in various activities.

King began his career with TSWCRA as a field inspector in 1962. He was promoted to special assistant in 1965 and transferred to the Fort Worth offices of the association. King was appointed secretary-general manager in 1966.

Irrigation conference to be held Thursday

Topics of concern to producers will highlight the annual High Plains Irrigation Conference and Trade Show Thursday in Amarillo.

The event will be held in the Amarillo Civic Center to allow the trade show to expand, said Leon New, conference coordinator. Previously, the conference has been held at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center.

A panel discussion of drip irrigation for row crops and pastures will be conducted, along with presentations on effect of hot, dry weather on the performance and yield of corn hybrids; economics of acreages of early corn, sorghum and full season corn, and safe use of chemigation.

The trade show and registration begin at 8:25 a.m. The conference program will begin at 9:25 a.m. A registration fee of $5 includes a catered lunch.

Milk surplus is expected

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department is projecting a slightly larger milk surplus and lower milk prices next year.

Production is expected to be higher, helped by more expanding dairy farms and farmers' ability to get more milk per cow. And while demand should remain strong, the production gains are expected to outpace commercial use.

Further increases in the milk cow herd in the West are expected, partly because of the promise of cost reductions with use of bovine somatotropin, known as BST, according to USDA's Economic Research Service.

QUALITY DESIGN ALSO HANDICAP ADAPTIVE

Isolated Master Bed Room Suite

Grand open spaces and high ceilings abound in this home plan that includes only 1,884 square feet of heated living space.

The front stoop leads to the open foyer with a vista of the dining room and activity room and rear sun deck. Both the dining room and foyer have high ceilings, and the activity room is shown with an octagonal tray ceiling and corner fireplace.

The laundry room with laundry tub is neatly tucked away and leads into the double garage with an oversized storage room.

The kitchen is a step saving design and features the sink overlooking the activity room and a snack bar is attached. A large morning room is adjacent, and access to the master bed room is from here.

The master bed room and the private bath each include an octagonal tray ceiling to create additional elegance in these areas. The compartmented garden bath includes twin closets, and all the luxuries.

Two additional bed rooms are on the opposite side of the house and share a hall bath.

The exterior of the home is constructed of brick veneer with decorative corner quoins, windows and a combination hip and gable roof.

Plan Number Z-804 is available with either a crawl space or slab foundation and may be purchased to include the wheelchair adaptation alternatives. All W. D. Farmer plans are furnished with details necessary for FHA and VA approval and special construction details for energy efficiency. For further information on this plan, write W. D. Question and Answer

Q: Occasionally the water in my toilet bowl will gurgle, and other times it will be forced out on to the floor. This does not occur when the toilet is flushed but happens at random moments. The toilet works as it should in all other respects. What is the source of the back pressure that does this? I live in a condominium apartment on the ground floor of a building several stories high.

A: A back pressure condition is not uncommon in mid- and high-rise buildings, and it occurs in tall houses with a bathroom on the top floor. The fixtures in which this occurs are those at the base of a soil stack or where a soil pipe changes its direction abruptly.

This is how the back pressure occurs:

A large amount of water, usually from a flushing toilet, will discharge into the soil stack. The water falls through the soil stack (sometimes described as a slug of water), and the air in front of it becomes pressurized because it is unable to slip past it and out the roof vent. Since the sewer pipe slopes, the air space tapers to a point.

The greater the distance the water falls, the greater the pressure. This is why the problem is found in mid- and high-rise buildings and tall older homes which have had a bathroom added on the top floor (or in the attic).

Incidentally, this does not occur when a sink drains into the soil stack. This smaller volume of water tends to cling to the wall of the soil stack and spiral its way down the stack as it falls. It does not pressurize a column of air as does a large volume released from a single flush.

Your toilet is probably close to the base of the soil stack, and if the pipe serves a number of bathrooms on the floors above, the pressure developed can cause the air to bubble up through the bowl water causing the gurgling sound. If the pressure is great enough, it can blow the water out of the bowl.

Fire extinguisher can be an ounce of prevention

By READER'S DIGEST BOOKS

For AP Special Features

Fire extinguishers are important safety precautions that every home should have. Quick use of an extinguisher on a small fire can prevent it from becoming a serious blaze.

CAUTION: In case of a larger fire, always call the fire department first. Never try to fight it by yourself. Even a small fire - if it doesn't go out immediately - warrants a call to the fire department. If a small fire begins to spread, have everyone leave the house immediately.

There are three categories of fire - A, B and C - by which fire extinguishers are rated. Each kind of fire is extinguished differently:

- "A" fires burn to ash. They are fueled by wood, cloth, paper, most rubbish and some plastics. Water will put them out.

- "B" fires bubble. They involve flammable liquids and grease. Most kitchen fires are of this type. Never throw water on them; it will only splatter and spread the flames. For oven or broiler fires, turn off the heat and shut the door. If meat catches fire, put a lid over it. If the fire is on top of the stove, turn off the burner if possible, leave the pan where it is and smother the flames with a lid. Or douse the fire with handfuls of baking soda or salt. CAUTION: Never put baking powder, sugar or flour on a fire. Sugar will burn and baking powder or flour dust may explode.

- "C" fires involve electrical power. These occur in electrical wiring or appliances. Unplug the appliance or shut off the power and use an all-purpose ("ABC") fire extinguisher. CAUTION: Never throw water on a C fire; a serious shock or even electrocution may result. An extinguisher's letter rating - A, B, or C, or a combination of two or three - indicates what kind of fires it can put out. The number preceding the letter rating, for example 1-A or 5-B, indicates the size of a standard test fire that the extinguisher can put out; the higher the number, the greater the extinguisher's fire-fighting capacity.

Fire extinguishers are available in rechargeable and nonrechargeable (disposable) types. An extinguisher that cannot be recharged or that doesn't have a gauge is not as reliable as a rechargeable type. If you have a disposable extinguisher, it's a good idea to replace it.

Rechargeable fire extinguishers are best because they have a gauge which indicates the pressure in the tank. Inspect the pressure gauge periodically. If the pressure drops, or if the extinguisher is used even briefly, have it recharged by an extinguisher service company.

Before buying a fire extinguisher, check to see that it is easy to handle, especially by an elderly person or a child. Make sure that the operating directions, located on the canister, are clear. It is also important that the extinguisher carry the Underwriter's Laboratory (UL) or Factory Mutual (FM) seal of approval. This indicates that the extinguisher model has been tested and provides the protection claimed on the label.

Install extinguishers in the kitchen and in or near the living room, bedrooms, basement and garage. Locate them in plain view, away from but convenient to fire hazards. Make sure the entire family knows how to use them. Keep one nearby when you are doing chores such as spray painting or car repairs.

For a car, select a 2-1/2- pound dry-chemical fire extinguisher (rated for class A, B, and C fires) to fight small interior fires that might be caused by a stray ash or an electrical malfunction. Keep the extinguisher inside the car, under the front seat or in the glove compartment. In the time it would take to retrieve the extinguisher from the trunk, the fire could be out of control.

Buying home deserves special attention

By READER'S DIGEST BOOKS

For AP Special Features

Because buying a house is probably the most expensive purchase you'll ever make, don't rush into it. How Much House Do You Need?

Before you begin looking for a house, think about your present and future needs and set a price range you can afford.

- How much space do you need indoors and out to live comfortably?

- What special needs do you have - number of bedrooms, a second or third bathroom, a garage?

- Should you buy a new house or an old one? An older house may be built better than a new one but it may need major work, such as a new roof. Shop For Financing First

Shopping for a mortgage is the most crucial step in the home-buying process. Check with several banks. Also, be aware of the hidden costs of home-buying. Talk to your bank, realtor and attorney about these costs.

- Attorney's fee.

- Application fee and points.

- Appraisal fee, property survey and inspection of the house, including one for termites.

- Water purity and flow test

(required for rural wells) and septic system inspection.

- Credit report on you.

- Title search, title insurance, mortgage insurance and homeowner's insurance.

- Fees for document preparation, notary, escrow account and office use for closing.

Shopping For a House

- Well before you're ready to buy, check local papers to get an idea of what's available.

- Consider using a real estate agent who can quickly tell you what is available. But keep in mind that brokers are usually paid by the seller and may not reveal every fault in a house.

- Look for a stable or improving neighborhood, one where you feel comfortable with the people, prices and lifestyle. Make sure that it's free of industrial odors, flooding, noisy traffic and other annoyances. Be suspicious if many houses are for sale or rent in a neighborhood.

- In a new development, find out if the sidewalks, sewers and street lights have been paid for or will be assessed later. Ask people who have already purchased houses about the builder's willingness to fix problems.

- Don't buy a house that is bigger or more expensive than those around it; resale could be difficult. It may be better to buy a slightly run-down house in a higher-price neighborhood and fix it up.

When You Find a House

- Find out how close it is to public transportation, shopping, recreation, schools, churches, hospitals and fire and police departments.

- Consider getting an appraisal to guide you in making an offer.

- Have an engineer inspect the house for soundness, heating, plumbing, wiring, insulation and water supply. Get a written report and estimate of what it will cost to correct problems. The seller might reduce the asking price or offer to share expenses.

- Unless there is a recent certification, have a professional check the house for termites.

- Ask to see the owner's utility, real estate, property and school tax bills for the past 12 months.

Buying the House

- Hire a lawyer with real estate experience. For about 1 percent of the sale price, a lawyer will draw up a purchase agreement, arrange a title search, execute the closing and record the deed of sale.

- Don't sign a "binder" without your lawyer's advice. This "earnest money" which gives you the right to buy the house at the agreed-upon terms for a limited amount of time. Make sure the agreement says that you'll get your money back if the deal doesn't go through.

- The sales contract, which usually requires a down payment, is drawn up by the seller's lawyer but should be reviewed by yours. It should be conditional on your being able to obtain a mortgage.

Virginia has the nickname "Mother of Presidents" because eight U.S. Presidents were born there—George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, William Henry Harrison, John Tyler, Zachary Taylor and Woodrow Wilson.

One play could run you clear of home buying interference.

Financing, Down Payments, Price negotiations, Inspections. All obstacles that could block you from buying a home. But one move could get you right through that red tape. A call to an experienced real estate agent.

An expert agent can coach you smoothly through the entire home buying process. From using the sophisticated multiple listing service to find the home that fits your needs and your budget. To tackling financing options. Setting up and monitoring inspections. Negotiating price. And even maneuvering you through closing.

So when you need a skilled teammate, get someone who really knows the housing field—a real estate agent.

Read The Hereford Brand for more information about qualified agents. Every day, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And on Sundays the housing section examines the latest market trends and home buying opportunities.

Getting the right coaching now could mean the difference between confusion and closing.

President's Corner

BY SHIRLEY GARRISON
HSCA President

Thinking back over the past 12 months, there are so many things to be thankful for at Hereford Senior Citizens Association.

We continue to deliver over 200 meals to Home Bound members and over 200 to those able to come to the Center. The fellowship of just visiting and eating a delicious meal together is rewarding. We are always thankful for our many volunteers who make these services possible.

We are thankful for the support of the Hereford community, especially during the Festival of Trees. The festival is our major fundraiser for the Center each year, and without it we could not maintain the same level of service to our members and the community.

The past year has been a difficult year for our farmers. The lack of rainfall resulted in extra irrigation, and pumping the water has made it a very expensive crop to make. Many of our farmers did not make the top yields necessary to break even, much less cover their depreciation of equipment.

The cattle feeders have not had a good year either. Fat cattle coming out of local feed yards started losing money in August, 1993, and with a few exceptions have lost money continuously. Only $70 a hundredweight and above returns a profit. We are hopeful this scenario is behind us, but there could be more losses until the supply-demand gets in balance.

Optimism is high for economic development since the announcement of Premium Standard Farms to build a pork processing facility here. The potential for 400-500 new jobs starting next summer and the construction phase of the 300,000 square-foot facility is creating an air of optimism not seen in Hereford since Holly Sugar came in 1964.

It proves that people working together can make a difference. Our wish for every citizen of Hereford and Deaf Smith County is for a happy, healthy and prosperous 1995.

Margie's Notes:

Party time..economic development..spring tour

It is time once again to say we are having a party at the Center Saturday night to see the old year out and the new year in!

We will have good food, games, and the Velvetones to play good music for those who like to dance. At midnight, there will be a pot of black-eyed peas and cornbread! Come out and join your friends for a good time.

This is also the time of the year when we reflect on our loss of good friends and the addition of new friends we have had the opportunity to meet in our work. As always, our lives have been filled with happiness and sadness. And, things in our time are changing so fast that it's hard to keep up!

We have a lot to be thankful for in Hereford. Economic development has come a long way this year. I really appreciate our Mayor, the Hereford Economic Development Committee, other public officials and all of our community for the work

Center to host Branson entertainers March 10

The Braschler Music Show, from Branson, Missouri, will be presented at Hereford Senior Citizens Center on Friday, March 10, 1995.

There will be two shows--the Gospel Show starts at 6 p.m., and the Variety Show is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. The shows are completely different. Tickets are $10 a person for one show, or $18 for both shows.

Persons planning to attend need to buy tickets in advance, according to Margie Daniels, senior center director. Tickets can be ordered by mail from Hereford Senior Citizens, P.O. Box 270, Hereford 79045. Orders can be placed by calling 364-5681.

Braschler Show coming!

The Braschler Show from Branson, Mo., will be appeared at Hereford Senior Center on March 10. There will be two shows--a Gospel Show at 6 and a Variety Show at 8:30 p.m.--and all interested persons should order advance tickets from the Center.

Sandwiches or beef stew and dessert will be served in the dining room of the center from 5 to 9 p.m. Cost is $4 for all you can eat. Advance tickets are not needed for the food.

The Braschlers have been spotlighted on the Nashville Network's Premiere Show, "Nashville Now", and fast have become one of Branson's top attractions for family entertainment.

The Braschler Band backs up the vocals on drums, piano, guitar, fiddle, mandolin and banjo, and is accompanied during some numbers by the saxophone, trumpet and harmonica.

Terry Sanders, known as Homer Lee, is the group's resident comedian. He has appeared on television's "Haw-Haw." Patriarch Cliff Braschler sings tenor and plays straight man for Homer Lee.

Others in the famous quartet include baritone Justin Bertoldie, who plays fiddle, mandolin and trumpet; lead singer Johnny Walters, who plays piano and sax; and Brad Bacon, who plays guitar and round out the quartet with his deep, bass voice.

Also among the entertainers are Sherri Braschler Weiss, vocals; Susie Sims, keyboard and vocalist; Dee Schrock, who sings and plays keyboard and sax; Tim Brooks, lead guitar, bass and banjo; and drummer Gil Stockebrand.

Party, dance set New Year's Eve

The Velvetones will play for the annual New Year's Party and Dance. We will be open from 8 p.m. to 12:15 a.m. Saturday. Cost is a donation of $7 a person.

There will be food and games, and we will serve black-eyed peas and cornbread at midnight to help bring in the New Year right!

Come on out and bring your friends so we can all celebrate the beginning of 1995!

done and the positive attitude toward community growth. It is wonderful to look toward the future of Hereford and also to the future of HSCA. Of course, 1995 will have its share of problems but also will its share of opportunities and joy. We are looking forward to 1995 together. This has been a good year!

Details for the spring tour are almost ready. This is a tour to Atlanta, Mobile, Natchez, and several gardens and other beautiful sites and interesting places. We will be leaving on April 17. You need to start making your reservations, so come by my office or call me at 364-5681(364-0428 evenings).

Watch your schedule for all the activities at the Center. We have some interesting programs coming up!

Happy New Year to All! See you at the Center.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q: My mother receives Social Security checks every month, but she's 85 years old and unable to handle her own money. Can I have her checks sent to me so that I can handle her finances for her?

A: Yes, you can. You, or another person or institution, can apply to become a representative payee for your mother. Of course, you will have to supply evidence of her inability to handle her own money. As a representative payee, you will receive her checks directly so that you can use the money for her well-being and care. The money must be used to meet her needs. Money not used during the month must be saved or invested for her. You'll also have to supply Social Security with regular reports on how the money was spent. For more information, call the Amarillo Social Security office, 376-2241 or the toll-free number at 1-800-772-1213, and ask for the booklet, A Guide For Representative Payees.

Q: When my ex-husband retires, can I receive a wife's benefit even if we're divorced?

A: If you and your ex-husband were married for at least 10 years, you are at least 62 years of age, and currently unmarried, you will be eligible to receive divorced wife's benefits based on his Social Security record. If your ex-husband is at least 62, you can receive divorced wife's benefits even if he is still working and not yet drawing his own Social Security retirement benefits if you've been divorced from him at least two years. You can receive up to half of your ex-husband's benefit if you wait until you're age 65. At age 62, you receive about 38 percent. For more information, call Social Security and ask for the booklet, Social Security...What Every Woman Should Know.

Q: How do I file a Medicare claim?

A: Service providers--doctors, hospitals, medical labs, etc.--are required to submit Medicare claims. You should notify your Medicare carrier if your doctor or other provider refuses to submit a Part B medical claim for you. The phone numbers and addresses of carriers are listed in The Medicare Handbook which you should have received when your Medicare coverage began.

Q: My dad, who is receiving SSI benefits, will be coming to live with me next month. Does he have to report it to Social Security?

A: Yes. An SSI beneficiary must report any change in living arrangements within 10 days after the month the change occurs. If you don't, you could end up receiving an incorrect payment and you have to pay it back. Failure to report or false reports could result in fine, imprisonment, or both. You can report by mail or in person at any Social Security office.

SS helps reduce deficit

Many Americans who collect Social Security - or hope to - are concerned about the expected recommendations of a bipartisan commission on entitlement.

"The findings erroneously assume entitlement are to blame for the deficit," says Martha A. McSteen, president of the nation's second-largest senior advocacy organization, the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare. In reality, she explains, the cause is "general fund spending which exceeds revenues."

She went on to note that social Security and Medicare Part A, the largest of all entitlement programs are self-financing, use no general tax revenue and contribute nothing to the deficit. In fact, "Social Security and Medicare Part A, loan substantial sums to the federal government."

To learn more about about this issue, or any affecting older Americans, write to: National Committee, 2000 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Idealism increases in direct proportion to one's distance from the problem.

If you wish to have your questions answered in this column, please write to Jim Talbot, district Manager, Senior Scene, Social Security Administration, 3501 W. 45th, Suite E., Amarillo, Texas 79106.

Hale, hearty 95-year-old works in garden daily

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas - Eula Sloan goes way back.

She's a hale and hearty 95-year-old who works in her garden daily. She just might leave tracks in three centuries.

She says the most satisfying thing she ever did was help the late Bernice Leonard found the Mary Bethune Day Nursery in 1942 in Corpus Christi.

"That was the most rewarding thing that has happened in my life, except for my children and husband," said Mrs. Sloan, who has lived for six years in the central Texas town of Lexington since leaving her ranch in Casper, Wyo.

She was in Corpus Christi recently visiting her daughter, Jill McGloin. "It was the only thing that I ever felt I couldn't quit until it was accomplished," she said. "I kind of fell by the wayside when I left Corpus Christi (in 1947) ... "I wrote for a while, but I had a big family and got involved in other projects."

Bethune executive director Jimmie McCurn has never met Mrs. Sloan, but says she is part of a courageous and progressive generation of whites and blacks who worked together when such things not only were unheard of, but were considered subversive.

"I think in our community at that time, there were people who rallied behind individuals who were strong and who focused on good causes," said Ms.

McCurn, referring to Mrs. Leonard and her chief ally in the white community, Mary Elizabeth Holdsworth Butt.

"The community was inclined to assist those individuals when they felt their cause was worthwhile. There were those forerunners out there, and people just rallied around them and their causes."

Mrs. Sloan said she rallied behind Mrs. Leonard with a small group of writers and artists who met regularly at the public library. Two members of the group were conscientious objectors looking for alternatives to military service, Mrs. Sloan said. Tom Miller was a musician and Bob Pope was an artist. Both were architecture students at Rice University.

It was 1940. Naval Air Station Corpus Christi was under construction, and there was demand for housekeepers on the base, Mrs. Sloan said.

Trouble was, that left a lot of children at home alone. Lots of very young, black children. Mrs. Sloan was no stranger to volunteer work. Among other things, she had volunteered to inspect substandard housing for the city of Corpus Christi.

"Our group at the library wanted a project," she said. "Evelyn Bryant, my dear friend, and others were sort of looking around and wondered what we could do."

"I'm not sure how we met Mrs. Leonard, but she said she needed some help taking care of those little babies," Mrs. Sloan said.

Fund-raising didn't go well at first. Mrs. Sloan said some merchants doubted that black children had souls, let alone that they could be helped. "I wasn't surprised. I had heard that all my life," Mrs. Sloan said. "I didn't have bad feelings about them, though."

Planning meetings for the nursery project were not always safe. One night, Mrs. Sloan said, Mrs. Leonard called her white friends with a jarring message.

"We were threatened (that) night with a lynching," she said. "Mrs. Leonard told us not to come."

It took two years, but Mrs. Leonard gained widespread community support with impassioned public pleas. Black and white churches, a local synagogue and the YWCA, among others, helped raise funds and supply the nursery. Four of Corpus Christi's leading families, including Howard and Mary Butt, bought a house at 1403 Howard St., the first of the nursery's three locations. The late Cecil Burney, a lawyer, helped Mrs. Leonard get her state license.

Ms. McCurn said the Mary Bethune Day Care Center currently operates on a $500,000 annual budget and provides care for more than 175 children with a staff of about 40.

"Bernice Leonard was a fiery lady, a lady before her time, with a vision," Ms. McCurn said. "That vision gave her the strength she needed."

Mrs. Leonard died last year. In a 1990 interview, she said there would have been no nursery for black children without support from civic leaders like Burney and the Butts - and worker bees like Eula Sloan.

Mrs. Sloan says she came by her racial tolerance by family tradition. Her mother's father, Ephraim Sharp, was a Civil War abolitionist. Sharp was educated in Cincinnati, and moved to Arkansas when President Abraham Lincoln appointed him to serve the unexpired term of a legislator who had died in office, Mrs. Sloan said.

When Sharp moved to Evening Shade, Ark., he took his abolitionist views with him, and helped slaves escape from the South. Eula Anderson Sloan was born on December 9, 1899, in Saffel, Ark., a rural post office near Batesville and about four miles from a town called Strawberry. Her father, William David Anderson, died when she was 5 years old. Her mother, Molly Anderson, continued to farm and eventually settled with her six children near Lindsey, Okla. Molly Anderson told her daughters she wanted them to become educated women - school teachers, not farm wives.

Eula took the message to heart. She returned to Arkansas in 1915 to teach and attend what was then called normal school - a school for teachers. Six years later, she married Jasper Perry Sloan - nicknamed Jap - an oil well driller and tool dresser. Eula never taught school again. She became a homemaker and mother of five.

The Sloans moved 40 times over the years. He joined Halliburton in October 1929 and despite the Depression, never missed a day of work. They moved to Corpus Christi in 1938. Jasper Sloan's family had come from Georgia and had owned black slaves. "We didn't discuss race very much," Eula Sloan said. "It was the only thing that ever got between us."

Jasper Sloan opposed his wife's getting involved in Corpus Christi's social causes. Charity was fine, he said, as long as it didn't partake of race mixing. The Sloans went one night to a gathering of Eula's fund-raising friends, and Jap hit the roof. Too much socializing, he said.

Eula says she sat out on the bluff until midnight that night "to get over my mad spell." Jap Sloan died of throat cancer in 1957. Eula Sloan says she still misses him every day.

CBS takes its time delivering Double Rush

The cast of Double Rush, a new sitcom addition to CBS' Wednesday lineup, includes Sam Lloyd, Adam Goldberg, Robert Pastorelli and Phil Leeds (clockwise from top left). Pastorelli plays a former hippy who runs a bicycle messenger service in New York City.

BY SUZANNE GILL

Double Rush, debuting Wednesday, Jan. 4, could have been on the air last fall. The third series by creator Diane English (Murphy Brown, Love & War) for CBS, it earned an order for 13 episodes on the strength of a pilot made last spring and went into production in late summer — a pretty standard schedule for a fall launch.

But there was a changing of the guard in the CBS executive offices in June, when entertainment president Jeff Sagansky, who had reversed the network's fortunes and made it No. 1 for three seasons, resigned and was replaced by protégé Peter Tortorici. The result was an uneven fall schedule with sleepers like Due South and cures for insomnia like Daddy's Girls.

And no place for Double Rush, a comedy about a bicycle messenger service in New York City, run by a former hippy (Robert Pastorelli) and staffed by Generation X.

"The theme of the show," English says, "is that a generation that had every expectation in life meets a generation that has no expectations, or very lowered expectations."

"To put a show like this on television, you have to have a companion piece to go with it, so you make a strong hour."

There was the rub. With its appeal to viewers' 45 and younger, Rush was an anomaly at CBS, which makes no bones about aiming most of its schedule at an over-50 crowd.

"If Taxi were being done in the '90s," English observes, "this might be the way that it would be done. It's about people who live a life that is very unconventional."

"They reflect that small part of each of us that doesn't fit in some place," adds co-creator Stephen Nathan.

Like the way Rush didn't fit into the schedule, or the way its star no longer fit into Murphy Brown. Pastorelli, who played house painter-come-nanny Eldin Bernecky, decided to leave the series last spring when the current production team (English left the show two years ago) informed him his part would be severely reduced in the coming season. English and company snatched him up the same day.

Pastorelli's Johnny Verona has a ponytail and an underdog attitude. A surrogate father to most of his employees, he still has a young man's dream, symbolized by the 1957 Fender Stratocaster in his office.

"He's still a man who stands by his convictions," Pastorelli says, "and there's a warmth, which was a quality that Eldin had that I identified with."

"And plus, man, I always wanted to play the guitar, and this guy gets to play the guitar!"

The ensemble cast includes Adam Goldberg as Leo, a 20-year-old cynic who shakes his head at Johnny's idealism; David Arquette as wild man Hunter, who bikes for the thrill of it; and 79-year-old Phil Leeds as The Kid, New York's oldest living foot messenger. Leeds, who has been a regular in only three other series since 1949, is recognizable for a lifetime of guest appearances. His career was stunted by blacklisting in the 1950s.

Also starring is Corinne Bohrer (Free Spirit) as Zoe, a Harvard Business School graduate who can't get a job. A rising Murphy Brown, she provides an uptight foil for Johnny's laid-back personal code.

Slung into CBS' revamped Wednesday lineup between Hearst Afire and Love & War, Double Rush may still struggle for survival, but it deserves two looks, at least.

HOME BIJOU

Despite high-powered cast, House of Spirits with Irons, Streep, Close thoroughly dispiriting

BY JOHN CROOK

Here's a recipe for movie disaster. Take one best-selling novel (Chilean writer Isabel Allende's The House of the Spirits is ideal) about passions simmering through the generations of a Latin American family. Season to dubious taste with resolutely non-Latin actors Jeremy Irons, Meryl Streep, Glenn Close and Winona Ryder. Blend unevenly using cool-tempered Swedish director Bille August. Half-bake for more than two hours.

Compile any list of the five greatest actors and the five best actresses working today, and chances are good that the names of Irons, Streep and Close will appear. Irons holds one Academy Award, Streep two. Close has been Oscar-nominated five times, holds two Tony Awards and is considered a shoo-in to win a third for Broadway's Sunset Boulevard.

Why, then, is The House of the Spirits, now on video, the biggest train wreck of a motion picture since Bonfire of the Vanities?

First, the film seems brutally miscast from top to bottom. Irons has the temperament for the ruthless Esteban, but he is glaringly too British. As Clara, Streep reprises her award-winning "wan victim" portrayal from Sophie's Choice, but she is trapped in a passive role. Perversely, the most passionate of the trio, Close, is cast as Esteban's repressed sister, Ferula.

Allende's novel was no laugh riot, but it had magic and, yes, spirit. August (Pelle the Conqueror) out-Bergmans Ingmar Bergman with his torpid direction, turning the spicy story into cold, watery porridge.

"I'm leaving. I hate this city," mutters Esteban bitterly.

"Why don't you say it's because you hate this house?" asks Ferula tonelessly.

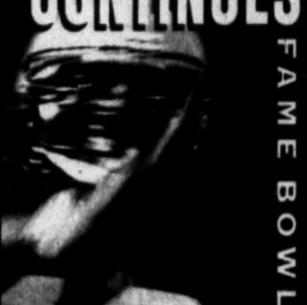

"That, too," replies Esteban grimly.

"I would have liked to have been born a man, so I could leave too," murmurs Ferula bleakly.

"Someone! Please! Shoot me!" begs the viewer forlornly.

LET'S TALK

The scoop on that 'hunky Mountie'; George Clooney is Rosie's nephew

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Paul Gross

Q: Please tell me about the guy who plays the hunky Mountie in Due South. Also, where can I write to him? --G.G., Beaumont, Texas.

A: When I talked to Paul Gross last fall, both he and Due South creator Paul Haggis thought their eccentric little show would run for only three or four weeks. Happily, it's proven a surprise hit, and Gross, who plays idealistic Mountie Benton Fraser, has emerged as one of the season's brightest discoveries.

A Canadian army brat, Gross was born in Calgary, Alberta, and educated in England, Germany, Washington D.C., and Canada before earning a drama degree at the University of Alberta in Edmonton ("I wasn't good in math," he explains). A writer as well as actor, he won two writing awards for his first play, The Deer and the Antelope Play. His second play, a Gothic yarn called The Dead of Winter, was a huge hit in its Toronto staging. He has served as playwright in residence at Toronto's prestigious Stratford Festival.

He also wrote the widely praised Gross Misconduct, a drama for CBC. He won a Dora Award for his performance onstage in the critically acclaimed North American premiere of Observe the Sons of Ulster Marching Toward the Somme.

His most visible TV performance, pre-South, was as Brian Hawkins in the popular but controversial mini-series Tales of the City, available on video (don't get him started about PBS's refusal to co-produce a sequel). Other TV performances include Chasing Rainbows, Ray Bradbury Theater and Getting Married in Buffalo Jump.

Sorry, G.G., he's married with two children. One other thing: He's unquestionably one of the nicest people I've ever talked with. Write to him C/O Due South, Alliance Communications Corporation, 920 Yonge St., Suite 400, Toronto M4W 3C7, Ontario, Canada.

Q: Is George Clooney (ER) related to Rosemary Clooney? She was on an ER episode. --S.F., Vidor, Texas.

A: George is the son of American Movie Classics host Nick Clooney. Rosie's brother, so she is George's aunt. George is also the cousin of actor Miguel Ferrer, another guest star on ER earlier this season.

Q: The brunette with the beautiful gray eyes in Once Upon a Time in America bears a striking resemblance to the actress in The Man From Snowy River. I say they are the same. A bet rides on this. --Roy L. Donaldson, Arroyo Grande, Calif.

A: That's former Oscar nominee Elizabeth McGovern (Ragtime) in America, and Sigrid Thornton in Snowy River.

Q: I am a big fan of Gene Autry. Do you know where I can write to him? --Alice Read, Olney, Ill.

A: Autry worked hand-in-glove with AMC last fall on the cable network's tribute to him, so try writing to him C/O AMC, 150 Crossways Park West, Woodbury, N.Y. 11707.

Q: I wrote to Candace Cameron (Full House) again and again; she never wrote back. I was pretty sad, because I am a big fan of hers. --Nicole Myers, Portland, Ore.

A: I get many such letters. Some stars write back; others don't. It's easy to think you have a bond with someone who comes into your home every week, buy try to understand Cameron gets a lot of mail (Jonathan Brandis of seaQuest DSX gets thousands of letters each week). It's hard for these stars to juggle a work schedule, school and time for their own friends with responding to all their fan mail from people they don't know. Sorry.

Bambi in Arapaho, on-air execution contemplated, Baker a C-SPAN junkie

A new prince of the forest has been born ... in Arapaho: Bambi. Walt Disney's feature about a young deer, has been released in a special edition in the Arapaho language. Tribal leaders approached the entertainment conglomerate for permission to redub the film as a means of teaching their native language to youngsters.

"Our language is fading, and with it, a part of American history," says Dr. Stephen Greymorning, director of the Arapaho Language and Culture Enrichment Program in Wyoming.

"The youngest Arapaho fluent in the language is 43 years old. We think that offering Bambi in our native language will help inject some of our language back into our culture and provide a resource for learning the language."

The film's natural setting "fits well with our environment and culture," he adds. Roy Disney, Walt's brother, comments, "We were honored to have been asked by the Arapaho to undertake this project. I believe that Walt Disney and the original Bambi animators would be very proud to know that their work is helping to preserve a Native American language."

Televising an execution used to be the stuff of science fiction, but in 1995 it could become reality. An Ohio judge has cleared the way for condemned killer Tyson Dixon to be executed before a TV camera, to demonstrate swift and certain punishment to the public. Asked whether he would air such a program, Cleveland news director Grant Zalba told trade publication Electronic Media, "I would have to seriously think about it, but my immediate reaction is no."

Talk show host Phil Donahue said that he would be willing to send a camera. "If you believe the death penalty is a deterrent, then show would-be offenders what happens if they go down that path," he said. The execution is currently set for February. Biting the hand? New York Times columnist Russell Baker, who is concluding his first year as host of PBS' Masterpiece Theatre, noted in a recent column that "the real miracle of television is C-SPAN."

HIGHLIGHTS

Marilyn Kentz stars as Marilyn Larson, Caryl Kristensen portrays Caryl Kellogg and Julia Duffy plays Barb (from left), neighbors and parents in Mommies, returning to NBC this week.

Revamped Mommies returns for a second chance on NBC

BY AMY HIBBERT

It's new, improved and back for a second run. Mommies returns to NBC this week, debuting Monday, Jan. 2, before sliding into its regular time slot, Saturday, Jan. 7.

Besides the change in name (it was originally The Mommies), the show has a slightly different look this season.

"Last year the show was more joke driven," actress Caryl Kristensen comments. "This year it's really character driven. The ensemble cast is more of an ensemble cast than it was last year."

The cast includes Kristensen, Marilyn Kentz, Julia Duffy and Jere Burns returning in the roles they originated last season.

"The best part about the show is that it is an ensemble group now with Jere and Julia in it, and we actually really love working with them," Kentz says. "We think it just adds to the richness of the neighborhood."

The families are still on the show, but they are seen less than last year.

"There's very little of the husbands and the children," Kristensen says.

"It's very different."

One of the major differences is the divorce of Kentz's character, creating new platforms for the show to tackle.

"We needed to really separate our characters," Kristensen says. "Last year, Marilyn and I were kind of one voice, and so now she's really in a different place in her life than I am."

"It's fine, except for my poor daughter thought I was really getting a divorce," Kentz says, "because I was telling everybody that and I forgot to mention 'on television.'"

The concept of the show is still the same, though. Mommies continues to find the humor in being a parent.

"My 11-year-old reminds me all the time, if it wasn't for him, I wouldn't have this job," Kristensen says.

Last season, the show couldn't find the right audience and was taken off the air. This season's changes could give it the boost it needs to succeed.

"Last year, the show kind of meandered," Kristensen says. "It took awhile for it to find itself. It's been a blast to do it again -- have the chance to come back and let (the show) find its way."

The hit show Golden Girls, starring Bea Arthur and Rue McClanahan, was the first series with a cast of all females.

Ellen Burstyn received a best actress Emmy nomination for her portrayal of Jean Harris in The People vs. Jean Harris.

Jack Lemmon Walter Matthau Ann-Margret

AMC celebrates 25th anniversary

BY CANDACE HAVENS

All My Children is celebrating its 25th anniversary with some big surprises for fans.

Several AMC favorites are returning to the show for a week filled with memories. Nineteen former cast members will reprise their roles and come home to Pine Valley.

These characters will return to surprise Ruth (Mary Fickett) and Joe Martin (Ray MacDonnel) in their newly rebuilt home. The couple's home was destroyed in a tornado that swept through Pine Valley.

Fans will get a chance to see some rare historical footage of the show as family and friends share their memories. Coming back for a visit will be:

Daisy Cortlandt (Gillian Spencer), Nina Cortlandt Warner (Taylor Miller), Paul Martin (William Moon-ey), Donna Beck Tyler Cortlandt Sago (Candace Earley), Nick Davis (Lawrence Keith), Lincoln Tyler (Peter White), Kelly Cole Tyler (Francesca James).

Mark Dalton (Mark La Mura), Ellen Dalton (Kathleen Noone), Benny Sago (Vaili Bogazianos), Marion Colby (Jennifer Basse), Enid Nelson (Natalie Ross), Nancy Grant (Lisa Wilkinson), Mimi Reed (Shari Headley), Angela Hubbard (Debbi Morgan) and Pat Baxter (Lee Chamberlain).

Two other important guests who will be part of the story line are long-time fan Carol Burnett, who plays Verla Grubbs, and model Lucky Vanous, best known as the man in the Diet Coke ads.

There will be trouble with Phoebe (Ruth Warrick) when she misunderstands Verla's relationship with Langley (Louis Edmunds).

The 25th anniversary of AMC will be celebrated in its first prime-time special, scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 15, on ABC with Burnett as host. The special focuses on the serial's most compelling stories and best-loved characters.

All My Children: The Complete Family Scrapbook has been published to commemorate the event. It is available in bookstores.

Arthritis medications fund search for cure

The next time you buy a pain reliever for arthritis, you could be helping to fund the search for a cure. Each year, at least $1 million raised by sales of Arthritis Foundation pain Relievers will go to arthritis research. Consumers who buy the product can learn how to get information and help form the Arthritis Foundation, while supporting research to find answers to this very serious medical problem, which affects nearly 40 million people in the U.S. - a number expected to increase to more than 59 million by 2020.

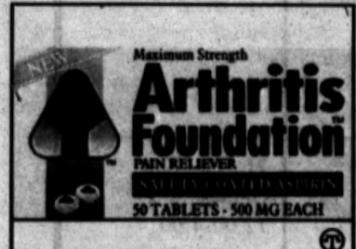

Manufactured and distributed by McNeil Consumer Products Company, Arthritis Foundation Pain Relievers offer consumers a choice of four maximum-strength analgesics including aspirin-free, aspirin-free nighttime formula, safety-coated aspirin and ibuprofen—all priced below other brand name pain relievers. With each product, consumers will receive an offer for a free, one-year membership in the Arthritis Foundation, including a subscription to its bi-monthly magazine, Arthritis Today. Each product package features a special toll-free number you can call to get arthritis information and a free brochure, titled "You Can Do Something About Arthritis."

Arthritis affects people in all age groups. It is one of the nation's most prevalent chronic health problems, affecting half of all Americans over the age of 65. Fully 28 percent of Americans age 45-64 now live with arthritis and the condition affects more than a quarter of a million children.

The Arthritis Foundation spends $13 million each year on research to find ways to cure and prevent the more than 100 forms of arthritis. Through its new initiative, it wants Americans - including the six million with arthritis who have not seen a doctor for help - to learn that there are many ways to make life with arthritis easier and less painful. Medication is just one part of an effective arthritis treatment program which can also include exercise, weight control, rest and joint protection techniques to reduce pain and stiffness, minimize depression and improve the ability to do daily activities.

Sales of this pain reliever will raise more than $1 million each year for arthritis research.

Nutrition Notes

BY CHARLOTTE CLARK
MS RD/LD

The appropriate use of fluorides through water fluoridation, fluoride supplements, or topical application, has shown to be an important factor in the prevention of dental caries and remineralization of teeth. This is true for persons of all ages. The use of fluorides and fluoridation is endorsed by almost all professional health organizations as the most effective dental public health measure in existence.

Fluoride is a natural element found at varying concentrations in all drinking water and in soil. It is considered a beneficial nutrient and is present in trace amounts in the body. When consumed in optimal amounts in water and food and used topically in toothpastes, rinses, and office treatments, fluoride reduces the risk and prevalence of dental caries (decay) and helps promote enamel remineralization throughout life.

The relationship between fluoride and dental caries was first noted in the early part of the 20th Century when it was observed that residents of certain areas of the country developed brown stains on their teeth. These stained teeth, although unsightly, were highly resistant to decay. In the 1930's, researchers discovered that the prevalence and severity of this type of mottled enamel (dental fluorosis) was directly associated with the amount of fluoride in the water. Subsequently, it was recognized that fluoride consumption, at optimal concentration (0.7 to 1.2 parts per million (ppm)) in the water supply, imparted protection against development of dental caries, without staining the teeth. The results of numerous long-term community trials in which fluoride has been added to water supplies at an optimal level verify the effectiveness, safety, and economy of this public health measure in reducing the prevalence of dental caries.

Deaf Smith County and Hereford have been those areas that have the natural fluoride content in water and soil. The fluoride content of the water is 2.3 ppm which is above the optimal level. Deaf Smith and Hereford has been known as the "TOWN WITHOUT A TOOTH ACHE"; for many years the area did not have a dentist as there was little need for those services. Since this individual had spent the greater part of childhood in the area, the protective level on the teeth had been established and even during college years this phenomena was of interest at the college of Dentistry at Ohio State University where Charlotte became a participant in the research that was being accomplished at that institute.

Scientists have proposed that fluoride has several functions:

- 1-Promotes remineralization of incipient lesions;
- 2-Increases resistance to acid demineralization;
- 3-Interferes in the formation and functioning of dental plaque microorganisms;
- 4-Increases the rate of post-eruptive maturation; and
- 5-Improves tooth morphology.

Fluoride is absorbed through the gastrointestinal system. The rate and degree of absorption depend on the solubility of the source and the amount ingested at a given time. Once absorbed into the bloodstream, fluoride is either deposited into bones and developing teeth or excreted in the urine. The major sources of systemic fluoride are water fluoridation and dietary supplements; food sources are a lesser but potentially important source. During tooth development, fluoride is incorporated into the developing tooth's mineralized structure. Although this is no longer believed to be the most important reason for the effect of fluoride in dental caries, the presence of fluoride in the dental enamel probably increases resistance to demineralization when the tooth surface is exposed to organic acids.

After tooth eruption, fluoride is no longer involved systemically in tooth formation. However, consumed fluoride is excreted through the saliva and can aid in tooth protection throughout the lifetime. Providing fluoride only before tooth eruption does not afford maximum protection against caries. In fact, topical mechanisms are not considered the primary means by which fluoride imparts protection to teeth. Thus, topical fluorides are now considered important in caries prevention independent of the provision of systemic fluorides.

The post-eruption beneficial effect of fluoride likely occurs primarily from the presence of fluoride in the fluid phase at the tooth surface. Fluoride is responsible for decreasing demineralization when the tooth is exposed to organic acids and for increasing the rate of remineralization.

The frequency of fluoride exposure to the tooth surface is of prime importance to maintain the high fluoride concentration that is necessary in the fluid phase of enamel surfaces to prevent caries and enhance the remineralization of early carious lesions. Topical fluoride may be particularly important in the prevention of root caries, coronal caries, and tooth loss in adults and the elderly.

In addition to its direct mineralizing effect on enamel, fluoride may affect oral plaque bacteria. These bacteria secrete acids onto tooth surfaces (the by-products of carbohydrate fermentation) which initiates tooth demineralization. The entry of fluoride into bacterial cell interferes with acid production, thus reducing potential enamel destruction. This, however, is not considered to be an important determinant of fluoride's beneficial effect in reducing caries.

Fluoride can be provided topically to teeth via rinses, dentifrices, or gels at home, at school, or in the dental office. Fluoridated water and chewable dietary fluoride supplements are also thought to provide notable topical benefit. This, people of all ages benefit from the topical effects of fluoride, whether or not they consumed fluoridated water or fluoride supplements as children.

Fluoridation, by definition, is the adjustment of fluoride in a water supply to an optimal concentration. The value

Health Hints

Knowing what to do when you're recovering at home from an illness can help you enjoy better health and greater happiness than is had by those people who, filled with fears, don't find out all they can about their medical condition.

That's part of the healthy guidance found in two new books that focus on the person, rather than the medical aspects of recovery. One is aimed at the 70 million or so Americans who have various forms of cardiovascular disease, including millions who are recovering from a heart attack, angina or other heart conditions. The other was written for the more than two million Americans who are stroke survivors.

Based on the philosophy of the world-famous Howard A. Rusk Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine, the books are called Recovering At Home With A Heart Condition and Recovering At Home After A Stroke. Each book provides hundreds of easy-to-understand tips, without professional jargon, to help people make the transition from the hospital to daily living at home.

If you're recovering from heart disease or stroke and want to reach the highest level of independence, the books say you should:

- Learn as much as you can about your medical condition.

- Find out about the kind of care you will need.

- Reach out to professionals with whom you can work and people who've had experiences similar to yours to strengthen you.

- Trust yourself. Work toward a positive attitude that may contribute to your healing.

Highlights of the books include easy-to-use charts for daily activities, exercise plans and keeping track of medications; and suggestions for family members and other caring helpers. The books show how to get help from doctors and other professionals, government agencies, insurance companies, home care services, associations and other resources.

NUTRITION

of water fluoridation for the prevention of dental caries has been unquestionably demonstrated. A 40% to 60% reduction in the prevalence of caries in the permanent dentition was observed from 1946 through 1979 in persons who consumed fluoridated water from birth through adolescence compared with a population living in a nonfluoridated area. From 1979 through 1989 the effects of water fluoridation alone resulted in only about 30% decrease in caries. This decline in efficacy is thought to be attributable to the presence of fluoride in many other vehicles besides water, which dilute the effect of the water alone.

In nonfluoridated areas, adding fluoride to school water supplies (at slightly higher than optimal levels), results in significant caries reduction. However, only 319 schools in the United States have water fluoridation programs.

The direct annual cost of fluoridation in the United States averages 54 cents per person. Cost depends to a large extent on community size. Fluoridation is the most cost-effective method of providing protection and has the benefit of reaching all segments of a population, regardless of socioeconomic status or age. There are notable savings in dental care and restoration costs and lost work hours because of dental disease. The U.S. Public Health has set a goal that by 2000 at least 75% of the population shall have access to fluoridated water.

Because not all persons have access to a fluoridated public water supply, other methods of providing optimal amounts of fluoride have been explored. The use of fluoride supplements is indicated for children in nonfluoridated areas. However, dietary fluoridation is contraindicated if the water is already optimally fluoridated, because dental fluorosis may result in children who consume excessive systemic fluoride during enamel development before tooth eruption. In cases of mild fluorosis, teeth are highly resistant to caries but may have chalky white patches. This mild fluorosis, for the most part is only detectable during dental examinations, and is not cosmetically objectionable. Severe fluorosis imparts a dark-brown stain to teeth and can interfere with proper tooth mineralization.

Although most foods contain some fluorides, the primary dietary source is fluoridated water. Beverages (eg, bottled water, brewed tea, infant formulas) and commercially prepared foods (eg, poultry products, seafood, powdered cereals) also supply fluoride to the diet. Because foods processed with fluoridated water can add notably to total fluoride consumption (particularly in infants), potential sources of high fluoride intake in children's diets should be identified before any supplementation is recommended.

When fluoride is provided in optimal amounts, it potentially conveys major dental health benefits to all age groups. Fluoridation of public water supplies has been endorsed by most professional health organizations. The American Dietetic Association strongly reaffirms its endorsement of the use of systemic and topical fluorides, including water fluoridation, as an important health promotion measure.

Don't ignore carbon monoxide leaks

Experts now say that carbon monoxide detectors are as important to home safety as smoke detectors.

Consider these facts:

- According to the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) carbon monoxide is the number one cause of poisoning death in the United States, responsible for 1,500 deaths and 10,000 illnesses each year.

- [Post Graduate Medicine reports that one third of all survivors of carbon monoxide poisoning have lasting memory deficits or personality changes.

- Any home in America with a furnace, water heater, fireplace, space heater or appliance that operates on flammable fuel such as natural gas, oil, wood, coal or kerosene is a potential candidate for indoor air pollution from improperly vented carbon monoxide.

- This colorless, odorless and tasteless gas is detectable with a carbon monoxide detector. First Alert, the inventors of the smoke detector, manufacture a battery operated carbon monoxide detector that continues to operate even in the event of a power outage.

Risk factors related to strokes are listed

In November Americans traditionally reflect on their blessings. Many of us can be thankful for advances in medical science and technology, which have steadily lengthened our life spans.

But not all diseases have been conquered. Take stroke, for example. The American Heart Association says that about 500,000 people suffer a new or recurrent stroke each year. Stroke is the third largest cause of death, behind heart attack and all forms of cancer.

We can be thankful that researchers have found ways to treat or control certain risk factors related to stroke. Those risk factors are:

High blood pressure-High blood pressure is the most important comparable risk factor for stroke.

Heart disease - After high blood pressure, heart disease is the greatest risk factor for stroke and the major cause of death among stroke survivors.

Cigarette smoking - The nicotine, carbon monoxide and other chemicals in cigarette smoke damage the cardiovascular system in many ways.

Transient ischemic attacks - TIAs, or "mini strokes", are strong predictors of stroke. A person who's had a TIA is almost 10 times more likely to have a stroke than someone of the same age and sex who hasn't.

High red blood cell count - A moderate increase in the number of red blood cells thickens the blood and makes clots more likely.

Talk to your physician to find out more about dealing with these risk factors.

Unfortunately, some other risk factors for stroke can't be changed. These are:

Age - The chance of having a stroke more than doubles for each decade after age 55, although a substantial number of people under 65 also have strokes.

Male sex - Men have about a 19 percent greater chance of stroke than women. Among people under 65, the risk for men is even greater than for women.

Race - African-Americans have a much higher risk of death and disability from stroke than whites, in part because blacks have a greater incidence of high blood pressure.

Diabetes mellitus - Although treatable, diabetes is an independent risk factor for stroke and is strongly correlated with high blood pressure.

Prior stroke - The risk of stroke for someone who has already had one is many times that of a person who has not.

Heredity - The chance of stroke is greater in people with a family history of stroke.

Asymptomatic carotid bruit - This abnormal sound in the carotid artery in the neck clearly indicates increased stroke risk. However, a bruit mainly indicates atherosclerosis. It doesn't necessarily mean the carotid artery will become clogged and a stroke will result.

For information about stroke, contact your local American Heart Association or call 1-800-AHA-USA1 (1-800-242-8721).

Learn about private pensions

By Martha A. McSteen
President
The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare

Employer-sponsored pensions provide 19 million retirees with approximately $85 billion in pension benefits annually. Pension plan assets of over $3 trillion represent the largest source of private capital in the economy.

Traditionally, employer pension plans promise monthly retirement benefits as a percentage of a worker's final pay for each year of employment. If Social Security income is included, a worker with a full career with a single employer may receive as much as 60 to 80 percent of final pay.

The Pension benefit Guarantee Corporation insures most of the benefits of 40 million in traditional pension plans. Some worry underfunding in a few large plans could bankrupt the Corporation.

More and more employers, however, contribute only a percentage of earnings. Retirement income then depends on total contributions, including employee contributions, and interest earnings.

The National Committee supports requirements for adequate funding of employer pension commitments and for the government to be responsive to pensioner complaints. It also supports efforts to increase the number of workers with pension coverage and to find ways to transfer pensions when jobs change.

You can learn more about issues of special concern to older Americans including Social Security and Medicare, by joining the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, an organization devoted to improving retirement income and health care. Free brochures about the organization and a copy of its magazine are available by writing to : National committee, 2000 K Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. 20006.

And in today already walks tomorrow.

TIPS ON - HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD THAT SELLS

REFRIGERATOR/FREEZER, General Electric, 19 cu. ft., three years old, gold, automatic ice maker, automatic defrost, like-new condition. $400 or best offer! Moving, must sell immediately. Call Saturday between 8AM and 9PM. 000-0000

The earliest photographs involved exposing a metal plate to light for about eight hours. This discouraged portraits and encouraged pictures of buildings and other immovable objects.

Does someone you love need SPECIAL CARE?

Hereford Care Center is now a Medicare provider. After a hospital stay, we provide long term care. We provide a complete physical, occupational or speech therapy service. We also accept Medicaid, private insurance and Hospice payments.

When People Need Care...Only The Best Should Do!

Hereford Care Center
231 Kingwood 364-7113

1. Use a KEYWORD. This immediately tells the reader exactly what it is you have to sell.
2. Make your description CLEAR and FACTUAL. State the year, make, model, color, size, and tell what condition the item is. Also state the special features.
3. State the PRICE. Successful Classified advertisers have learned that the price in an ad helps increase the chances for results.
4. If there's a genuine sense of URGENCY, say so. The words, "We're Moving" or "Must Sell Fast" suggests that readers respond immediately.
5. Include your PHONE NUMBER. Classifieds get results fast and often generate immediate sales. If you cannot be available to answer the phone at all times, be sure to specify special calling times such as "after 6 PM" or "Before 11 AM".

If you need assistance ask one of our friendly AD-VISORS to help you word your ad.
