Wind damage

Hereford residents have been on a weather roller coaster the last few days, with a warm day Monday followed by a storm bringing strong winds and cold temperatures Tuesday and the threat of snow Tuesday night. This wooden fence, between the homes of Bob T. Adams, 106 Beach, and Bob Bridwell, 108 Beach, was a victim of Monday night's winds.

Early voting brisk for runoff election

A steady stream of early voters appeared Monday and Tuesday to mark ballots in the April 12, political party primary runoff elections.

By Wednesday morning, a total of 210 Democrats had voted and two Republicans cast ballots.

Early voting for the runoff elections will continue through Friday in the office of Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Deaf Smith County runoffs for county treasurer and Precinct 2 commissioner highlight the Democratic ballot.

Seeking to replace Vesta Mae Nunley as treasurer are Nan Rogers and Lois Jones. The incumbent is retiring at the end of her term in December.

And, Lupe Chavez, Precinct 2 commissioner incumbent, is challenged in the runoff by Bernie Grigio. The winner will meet a GOP candidate, Conny Whitehorn, in the November general election.

A statewide race of some significance also is on the Democratic ballot. Richard Fisher and Jim Mattox are in a head-to-head battle for the right to meet GOP incumbent Kay Bailey Hutchison in the general election for the U.S. Senate seat.

Republicans have two state races on which to vote. There are no county GOP runoffs from the primary election.

Eligible voters may not change political parties for the runoff elections. A resident who did not vote in the March primaries may choose either runoff.

The three sentences will be stacked, running consecutively, Judge Gulley ruled.

O.J. Rodriguez, 17, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, transferred from juvenile court to 222nd District Court. He was sentenced to seven years' probation.

On a plea of guilty to burglary of a building, Gary Kervin, 32, received deferred adjudication probation of seven years. He also was fined $1,500.

Three charges net 18 years in prison

A defendant in 222nd District Court Tuesday was sentenced to a total of 18 years in prison on three charges. Two other defendants received probated sentences on their pleas of guilty to charges.

Pedro Casillas, 55, also known as Pedro Casias, entered guilty pleas to aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and retaliation. Probation given him in January 1993 on a felony driving while intoxicated conviction was revoked.

Judge David Wesley Gulley sentenced Casillas to eight years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division on the retaliation conviction and six years on the aggravated assault with a deadly weapon conviction. The probation revocation added four years.

The three sentences will be stacked, running consecutively, Judge Gulley ruled.

On a plea of guilty to burglary of a building, Gary Kervin, 32, received deferred adjudication probation of seven years. He also was fined $1,500.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Edwards of Hereford.

Officers identified the victim as Cheston Scott Edwards, who worked for a pizza delivery service and was living in Amarillo.

Edwards was southbound on Whitaker Road around 1 a.m. when he drifted to the left and over-corrected, causing the vehicle to roll, according to police.

The driver was ejected and thrown 30 yards from the truck, where he was pronounced dead at the scene.

Officers said the fatal accident occurred on a dirt road under windy conditions. Their investigation indicated Edwards was traveling at a high rate of speed and was not wearing a seat belt, officers stated.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Edwards of Hereford.

Storm brings winter back

By JEAN PAGEL

Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Forget what the calendar says: Winter is back, at least briefly.

Light snow and frigid temperatures returned to the Texas Panhandle with a cold snap Tuesday that stirred fears of crop damage.

"With the wheat and some other grains being planted now, this weather could definitely hurt," said Brent Bean, a soil and crop specialist in Amarillo. "This is a crucial time for the grain farmers because the plants are in the strongest and most crucial growth stage."

None of the flurries accumulated, however, and temperatures today are expected to climb into the 50s.

But the arctic front postponed

Tuesday's baseball game in Canyon between West Texas A&M and Wayland Baptist.

"Twenty-eight degrees - I mean, that's below anything you want to do outside, let alone try to pitch a baseball," said WT coach Mike Marshall. "It's just injurious."

In San Antonio, hard rains pelted through the roof of the Alamodome, causing a 12-minute delay in an NBA game between Golden State and the Spurs.

"It apparently damaged the roof some and got a couple of leaks on the floor," Mayor Nelson Wolff said.

Thunderstorms brewed late in the evening Tuesday in North Texas and East Texas, where the National Weather Service issued a tornado watch for numerous counties and warned of large hail and damaging winds.

Meanwhile, temperatures in South Texas climbed above 90 degrees.

Scott Plischke, an NWS meteorologist, said the cold front first hit Dalhart late Monday and blasted to the southeast at 45 mph.

Plischke described a dramatic lamb-to-lion change: At 11:56 p.m. Monday in Amarillo, winds were blowing at 13 mph from the southwest and the temperature was 54 degrees. Seventeen minutes later, winds gusted from the north at 46 mph and the mercury had plunged 20 degrees.

"It doesn't happen every year, (but) it's not rare," Plischke said.

Juli Rhoden, a communications technician for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in College Station, said the cold snap likely will kill off some pesky insects.

The biggest threat right now for West Texas farmers seems to be drought.

"Midland and Odessa, I know for a fact, are so dry this cold front is going to do them neither harm nor good," Ms. Rhoden said.

Glen Clugy, county executive director of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service in Hardeman County, south of Dalhart, said the freeze damage could compound problems for wheat already stunted by lack of rain.

"It's been like a roller coaster ride," Clugy said. "It would get warm and then get cold."

Ex-gang members talk to kids here

A quiet battle is raging in Hereford over the best way to keep young people off drugs and out of gangs: prevention or intervention.

Hereford Police and other establishment figures like Hereford school administrators support the prevention idea. The like organizations such as D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) and the idea of keeping high-profile police officers working within the school system.

But others like Joe Soliz, a Hereford business owner and student teacher, opt for intervention. Soliz and a growing number of parents in the community believe a direct contact with young people can help keep them drug-free and away from gang recruiters.

For the past couple of weeks, former gang members have been spending time at Hereford Junior High and Hereford High School to try and help students understand that belonging to a gang, like smoking or using drugs, could be hazardous to your health. The young people have received school district permission to be on school campuses.

Sometimes wearing dark glasses of headbands, the ex-gang members mingle among the students. While they don't direct the conversation -- it would be a violation of school rules -- they are available to talk to any young people who want to talk.

Their message, according to Soliz, is simple: stay out of gangs. If you are in a gang, quit.

One of the former gang members was only 12 when he nearly killed a man because of his involvement with illegal drugs and alcohol.

He went to prison for attempted murder and served eight years. Now his mission is to tell young people how to avoid the wrong path he took.

Hereford's Don Rickles will travel to Houston Saturday, April 9 to compete for a $10,000 grand prize in the MGM Grand/USA TODAY Celebrity Look Alike Contest.

Don Rickles is really John Smith, co-owner of Hereford Aviation. Smith, 64, will join 19 other celebrity look alikes who were chosen from 3,500 entries nationwide by a Hollywood talent agency.

Friends and relatives, including Smith's wife, Donna, agree the Hereford grandfather bears an uncanny resemblance to the acid-tongued comic.

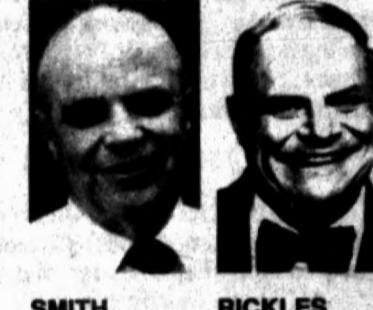

If Smith is one of five semi-finalists selected in Houston, he will join 19 other finalists for an expense-paid trip to Las Vegas, Nevada on May 14.

Entering Smith in the contest was Donna's idea.

"I saw an article in USA TODAY, filled out an application, and sent in his photo," said Donna, who operates the airport with her husband.

Smith said he plans to have fun with the competition.

"The first time I knew I looked like

SMITH RICKLES

Rickles was when we took some people from Hereford to the University of Missouri," said Smith. "Their son was acting in a play."

"Quite a few of the actors and actresses were convinced I was Rickles."

Smith said he isn't a real fan of Rickles.

"I never saw him perform and, frankly, I'm glad this is just a look-alike contest, not an act-alike. I'm not an actor."

Besides, said Smith, with a grin, "Looking like Don Rickles is really nothing to brag about."

HISD trustees eye construction projects in, around high school

BY GARRY WESNER

Managing Editor

Hereford Independent School District trustees returned to their old home on Tuesday to discuss what should be done with an abandoned administration building, a too-small cafeteria and how to create more classrooms at Hereford High School.

But before they turned their thoughts to construction, trustees unanimously approved a resolution including the HISD in the West Texas Multi-Regional Commodity Processing Cooperative, which assistant superintendent Don Cumpston said will save the district money and food preparation time.

Currently, Cumpston said, the district prepares its own meat commodities, from cutting up whole turkeys to making sausage and hamburger patties.

However, four Education Services

Center regions in West Texas -- Regions 15, 16, including Hereford, 17 and 18 -- have banded together to take advantage of a state program that processes meat commodities when purchased in lots of 32,000 pounds.

That means, Cumpston said, the Region 17 ESC office in Lubbock will make sure enough school districts in the four regions order meat commodities in sufficient quantities to allow for the processing.

Then, those products will be shipped directly to the school district, resulting in a better use of commodity dollars.

Cumpston said meat commodities the district purchases are chicken, turkey, beef, pork and cheese.

Under the processing agreement, the district can get chicken breasts, chicken strips, steak fingers, hamburger patties, sausage and sliced or cubed cheese -- all for the same price as is paid for non-processed commodities.

A motion by trustee Steve Wright to approve a resolution to join the cooperative passed on a 5-0 vote. Trustees Mike Veazey and Ray Valdez were not at the meeting.

The district will pay $100 to the Lubbock Education Services Center to cover administrative costs associated with the cooperative.

After approving the cooperative resolution, trustees -- who met in the high school cafeteria because it was the only place in the building with chairs -- turned their attention to construction projects.

Board chairman Ron Weishaar said he wanted to discuss long-range construction options at the high school, the Stanton Educational Services Center and the cafeteria building to address three main future needs -- classroom space, the condition of the present auditorium and the size of the cafeteria and "how do we incorporate this building (the cafeteria and former administration offices) into that."

Currently, said Mal Manchee, principal of the Pre-K and SOAR programs based in the Stanton building, there is enough space to meet program needs for the next five to 10 years, provided there are no unforeseen developments.

At this time, the high school's industrial technology program is based in a building at Stanton and the Employment Placement System program uses the former Stanton Junior High band hall 45 minutes a day.

The SOAR program, Manchee said, is prepared to expand into the second floor of Stanton -- which was vacated by administrators moving to

Discussing construction

Members of the Hereford ISD board of trustees sit in the Hereford High School cafeteria while discussing the future of that building and the high school in a special session Tuesday night. The board considered options for the use of the former administrative offices portion of the cafeteria building that were vacated last month when the district moved to its new administration building.

Soliz estimates there are 4,000 kids 18 and younger in Hereford. According to his statistics, 160 Hispanics drop out of school each year from grades eight through 12. Sixty per cent of the dropouts are female.

"Our goal is to break the vicious cycle," said Soliz, whose wife is a teacher. "But we can't do it without the help of the parents and community involvement."

Patrolman Robert Holberg is involved with the D.A.R.E. program, having worked on D.A.R.E. programs in five different school systems.

He says D.A.R.E. works.

"It doesn't work with all the students," said Holberg. "Out of 800 students, we won't be able to reach four or five."

"Those are the ones who cause problems and that's why we need prisons."

Holberg teaches D.A.R.E. to students from kindergarten age to 6th grade, while Terry Brown works the D.A.R.E. program in junior high and high school.

The object of the program, said Holberg, is to give students in the fifth and sixth grades "a significant emotional event in their lives to help them say no to drugs."

Some of the tools teaching officers use include teaching about stress, peer pressure, and support groups.

Holberg, who doesn't smoke or drink, tries to be a role model to the students.

"I'm a runner and it impresses them to see a 47-year-old man who is able to keep up with them," he said, smiling.

He said his boss, Police Chief David Wagner, believes in the D.A.R.E. program and supports the officers who teach the anti-drug message to young people.

"It's unfortunate that we can't reach all the kids," said Holberg. "Some have different lifestyles. Maybe they have a brother who is a gang member and he is their role model. Those are usually the ones we don't reach."

Soliz met recently with Hereford Police officers, school administrators, and other interested people to discuss gangs, drugs, and what can be done about them.

He also plans to meet with Mayor Bob Josserand, educators, and other city officials to gain more insight into the community-wide problem.

One former gang member, Brenden Galan of Hereford, warned that gangs will escalate their violence if they are not contained.

He described a gang in San Antonio that had a unique method of initiating a new member. According to Galan, the young recruit would be given a gun and the gang members would drive down a highway with the high beams.

"The first motorist who blinked his lights would be the target," said Galan. "The new member would be ordered to shoot at the other car, regardless of who was in it or where they were."

Blunt message issued on health care

Disability rights advocate addresses town meeting in Austin

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Disability rights advocate Justin Dart Jr. has a blunt message for Congress on health reform: "No more bull. No more Band-Aids."

Dart spoke Tuesday at a town meeting by the presidentially appointed National Council on Disability, on which he previously served and which will report to President Clinton and Congress.

The 49 million disabled Americans who want health care reform, "don't have big-money PACs (political action committees). We can't buy TV ads and Madison Avenue lobbyists," he said.

"But their number includes 35 million voters and we have long, long memories," said Dart, who uses a wheelchair. "We've got to win this fight."

The council's Austin session is among five town meetings on health care reform scheduled around the country in areas where congressional members "are either opposed or have an open mind on the subject," said John Gannon, acting council chairman.

The group hopes testimony from disabled people "will be able to convince them the right way to vote and the right way to go," he said. Gannon said the council already has made recommendations for health care reform, including a call for guaranteed insurance for individuals and a ban on exclusion of people from insurance based on pre-existing health conditions.

It will make a further report after the last town meeting, scheduled for next week in Philadelphia.

Texas advocacy groups, noting their state alone has 3 million disabled people, said they're taking their health reform message to Congress in the form of mail and telephone campaigns, visits to lawmakers and participation in a Washington rally in May.

"We have been frustrated and angered by having to compete with special interests and political action committees to make our voices heard ... People with disabilities, young or old, are what health care is all about," said Vincent Sadowski, of the Directors Association of Texas Centers for Independent Living, which helps disabled people.

Sadowski said health care must include guaranteed coverage, with elimination of exclusions for pre-existing conditions; comprehensive benefits, such as mental health coverage and prescription drug benefits; and community-based long-term care.

HJH student to compete in contest

Hereford resident Krista Nicole Warren, a seventh-grader at Hereford Junior High School, will be among 101 students participating this weekend in the state Geography Bee.

The bee will be held at Texas Christian University on Friday, April 8.

Preliminary competition begins at 9:30 a.m., with the final round to start at 11 a.m.

Warren won the school's Geography Bee last month, then completed a qualifying test to advance to the state contest.

The winner of the state contest advances to the National Geography Bee, to be held May 24 and 25.

In addition, the state winner receives $100 and other prizes and will be accompanied by a teacher escort on an expense-paid trip to the national bee.

The National Geography Bee is sponsored by National Geographic World, the National Geographic Society's magazine for children, and Amtrak, America's passenger railroad.

Alex Trebek, host of the nationally televised game show "Jeopardy!" will serve as moderator of the national bee for the sixth year. It will be shown as a prime-time special on PBS on May 25.

Victorious Keywanettes

Members of the Hereford High School Keywanettes recently showed off trophies they won at a district convention in Oklahoma City to members of the Hereford Noon Kiwanis Club, which sponsors the group. The girls won first place in Gold Achievement -- the highest award given by Keywanettes -- and in Scrapbook and Most-Inter Club visits, a second place trophy in Talent and third in Single Service. They were awarded the Good Will Achievement Award and the Most Outstanding Sponsor Award. In addition, Mendy Salazar, right, was elected Lieutenant Governor for the Texas/Oklahoma region. Shown with the trophies are, from left, Jennifer Eggen, Kiwanis sponsor for the club; Erin Spies; Sarah Wagner; Beth Weatherly; Kristi Culpepper, HHS Keywanettes sponsor; and Miss Salazar.

the new building last month -- in the next couple of weeks.

There also are seven classrooms on the third floor of Stanton that are unused now, but need some minor repairs to be useable.

Original plans prepared by district architect Larry Harvey of Lubbock called for renovating the old administrative offices into classrooms and cafeteria space.

However, board members balked at the cost -- between $100,000 and $450,000 -- and the uncertainty of the future of the cafeteria in light of possibly closing the campus in the future.

Weishaar said closing the campus may come about in the future because

High school principal Terry Russell said he is in great need of additional space, with four teachers already "roving" because they have no assigned classrooms, and additional programs are coming up that require more space.

Greenawalt said he would direct Harvey to look at such a project and determine possible costs and amount of space it would create.

Trustees also decided to designate the old board room as a Pre-K dining room beginning in the fall, which would isolate those children from the high school students who share the cafeteria.

No formal action was taken on any of the construction proposals and Greenawalt said he would have Harvey bring preliminary diagrams for the new wing to the board at its April 26 regular meeting.

The current kitchen, he said, can handle that many students.

SMITH

Marilyn Monroe, Lucille Ball, Whoopi Goldberg, and Garth Brooks. Smith said he will probably be the oldest person in the contest.

"Who else would they have older than me?" he asked. "To get any older, you'd have to have Bob Hope or George Burns."

The Smiths have two daughters, Diane, who lives in Ventura, Calif., and Debra, who makes her home in Lubbock.

He calls his wife "the real owner of Hereford Aviation...I just work here," and said he teaches people how to fly while his wife operates the airport.

His hobbies are fishing, travel, and watching Texas Tech play football.

While he is looking forward to traveling to Las Vegas if he makes the finals, he admitted he isn't much of a gambler.

"Donna's the one," he said. "She's really tough on those slot machines."

The contestants will be judged on

The focus of attention shifted from the cafeteria building to the main campus as a location for additional classrooms when Wright proposed looking at a part of the main campus where portable buildings currently are located.

Wright said there are already three outside walls there, where three wings exist inside the building. That, he said, would only mean one outside wall would have to be built, as well as floor, roof and second floor.

That would produce more classroom space than the 10 rooms located in the portables in that area.

Russell and Greenawalt said temporary classroom space on the third floor of Stanton and in the cafeteria building could house those 10 classes during the year it took to build such a wing.

Greenawalt said he would direct Harvey to look at such a project and determine possible costs and amount of space it would create.

Trustees also decided to designate the old board room as a Pre-K dining room beginning in the fall, which would isolate those children from the high school students who share the cafeteria.

No formal action was taken on any of the construction proposals and Greenawalt said he would have Harvey bring preliminary diagrams for the new wing to the board at its April 26 regular meeting.

The current kitchen, he said, can handle that many students.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for "Sad in Baltimore," who broke up with his girlfriend because she smoked. I am a registered nurse, recently widowed after being married for 53 years to a physician. My husband did not smoke and advised his patients not to. I smoked before I married him and continued to smoke. He did not approve of my smoking, but he never lectured me. On occasion, he handed me literature on the subject, but he never nagged.

We all know that the new Satan is the smoker. Crack addicts, cocaine sniffers, rapists murderers and child abusers have support groups, but there is no sympathy for the smoker.

Smoking cigarettes, cigars and pipe tobacco is legal. Millions of people enjoy it, and it doesn't lead to criminal behavior. I am getting tired of being treated like a social outcast. Please set the record straight.--F.A.S. in Staten Island, N.Y.

DEAR F.A.S.: The record on tobacco has been set straight for quite some time. Smoking may not lead to criminal behavior, but it certainly can lead to serious illness and death. Read on for more:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I must comment on the wisdom of "Sad in Baltimore," who gave up his lady love because she was a smoker.

He has been married for 40 years to a smoker. Since 1985, he has had three heart attacks, four strokes and congestive heart failure. He now has emphysema. Two of our adult children hacked their way through childhood and adolescence with recurrent colds and respiratory problems. Our 19-year-old now suffers from severe headaches and has frequent coughing spells. My husband sees no connection between any of this and his smoking.

Please tell "Sad in Baltimore" that his sadness at breaking up with his smoking sweetheart may last a while, but he was wise not to marry her.

Living with a nicotine addict can be hell. It can also be dangerous. We now know that secondhand smoke is a terrible health hazard. In my opinion, cigarettes should be declared illegal.-Palm Springs, Calif.

DEAR PALM SPRINGS: It's highly unlikely but not impossible. If anyone had told me 10 years ago that one day no smoking would be allowed in the Chicago Tribune building, I would have said, "Ridiculous!" Here's another letter on the subject:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband underwent open-heart surgery recently. "Eldon" smoked a pack a day.

On the fifth week after his surgery, he bought a pack of cigarettes. He's now smoking half a pack a day. Needless to say, we had a huge fight, and I told him to make sure his life insurance was paid up because he is killing himself.

My reason for writing is to complain about all the people who ask me why I don't do something about Eldon's smoking. What SHOULD I do? What in the world do these people expect me to do? Shoot him? There are times when I'd like to, but it's against the law.--Pennsylvania

DEAR PENN.: No one can do anything about another person's smoking, drinking, gambling, cheating or lying--you name the vice.

Anyone who would ask you such a question is an ignoramus or a needle artist--or both.

Forget to save some of your favorite Ann Landers columns? "Nuggets and Doozies" is the answer. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5 (this includes postage and handling) to: Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) - Judge Reinhold plays Elaine's new boyfriend on "Seinfeld," and they won't just be messing around.

"We're not just dating - we're involved, we're, like, doing it," Reinhold said in next week's issue of TV Guide.

Reinhold, who played a goofy police officer in the "Beverly Hills Cop" movies, steals the heart of Elaine, played by Julia Louis-Dreyfus, in an upcoming one-hour episode.

But there's no telling how long the romance will last. It is, after all, television.

"On the surface, my character is an extremely nice guy, but he's not what he seems," Reinhold said.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Lorrie Morgan isn't a police officer. She just wants to play one on TV.

The country music crooner said her character in a potential network television show "Loralei Lee" has a lot of herself in it.

"I don't want to do a wimpy character or something that was cutesy," said Morgan, who starred in a cable TV movie, "Proudheart," last year.

"Loralei Lee" began shooting Friday.

Oilers, Carlson discuss new deal; Moon might be traded to Vikings

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers and Cody Carlson's agent Tuesday were negotiating a new contract that would cut the quarterback's 1994 pay by $1 million but put him in the starting lineup and extend his stay with the team.

Finalization of the deal was expected to send 10-year veteran Warren Moon packing for Minnesota.

The Oilers and Vikings have been discussing a deal that would give Houston a fourth-round draft choice this year and a third-round pick in 1995 in exchange for Moon, the Houston Chronicle reported in Tuesday editions.

Carlson's agent, Vic Vines, resumed negotiations for a three-year deal with general manager Floyd Reese and general counsel Steve Underwood, last week. Carlson is on a three-week vacation in Africa.

The new deal involves a $1 million payout for Carlson, who is under a two-year, $8.5 million contract he signed last year. But the new contract would add another year for Carlson.

"They are still working on it," said Oilers spokesman Chip Namias said Tuesday. "We're definitely getting closer."

Houston needs to figure out something because it will have trouble fitting both quarterbacks' salaries under the $34.2 million cap. Each has contracts of at least $3 million for 1994.

Moon is scheduled to make $3.25 million this year and $3 million next year.

Moon's agent Leigh Steinberg, of Los Angeles, told The Associated Press Tuesday neither he nor his client have been approached by the Oilers regarding a trade.

"Warren has been very happy as a Houston Oiler," said Steinberg. "No one from the Houston Oiler organization has ever mentioned any trade involving Warren."

Steinberg said a restructured contract for Moon was discussed at last month's NFL owners' meeting in Orlando, Fla., but nothing was agreed upon.

He declined to discuss the details of those discussions.

"The Oilers had a proposal and we had a proposal," Steinberg said. "And there's no final resolution yet."

Owner Bud Adams turned down an offer from the Los Angeles Rams for Moon last month. Detroit was interested in Moon, but they ended up signing free agent Scott Mitchell.

Moon, 37, wants to play two more years and the Vikings have an opening after placing Jim McMahon on waivers. Minnesota coach Dennis Green is interested in Moon first and San Francisco's Steve Bono second.

The Oilers' third quarterback,

Bucky Richardson, is being pursued by Hamilton of the Canadian Football League.

No matter what happens with Richardson, the Oilers say they'll try signing a veteran quarterback for about $500,000 a year if Moon is gone.

Eddie Gaedel, the midget who served as a St. Louis Brown pinch-hitter, was 3 feet 7 inches tall and weighed 65 pounds.

The Hereford baseball team's game that was scheduled for Tuesday in Pampa was postponed to Thursday because of bad weather in Pampa. The game will be played at 4:30 p.m. Pampa (12-3) is ranked fifth in Class 4A in the latest state rankings after opening district with a win over previously ranked Randall.

Hereford stands at 7-8 after opening district play with a win in Dumas last Tuesday.

Kuper selected to play in all-star football game

MARK KUPER

Hereford's Mark Kuper has been selected to play in the McDonald's/Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star Football Game, which will be played July 26 in the Houston Astrodome.

Kuper, headed to the University of Texas on a football scholarship, was an all-district defensive end and tight end for the Herd in 1993, his senior season.

Hereford coach Danny Haney called Kuper's selection "a tremendous honor," adding that the last Whiteface to be named to the annual all-star game was James Harris in 1974.

Jays' Delgado smashes 2nd HR

TORONTO (AP) - If Carlos Delgado continues hitting this way, the hottest ticket at the SkyDome soon will be for one of the various restaurants overlooking the field.

One game after startling several patrons of the Hard Rock Cafe high above the right-field fence with a homer off the glass of the bar, Delgado went one better in the Blue Jays' 5-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox on Tuesday night.

He sent Alex Fernandez's fastball off the glass of Windows Restaurant, some 445 feet from home plate.

So which one went further?

"It was one of those swings that when you make contact you don't feel anything in your hands," Delgado said. "It was the same thing (Monday), but this one went, maybe, a bit longer."

And while Dennis Cook, who served up Monday's homer, is no slouch, Delgado said Tuesday's shot was sweeter, considering who it came off.

"The guys on the bench were telling me Fernandez likes to throw hard. I know he's a great pitcher," Delgado said. "But he left a fastball over the plate and I was looking for it."

In other games, California beat Minnesota 8-2 and Milwaukee defeated Oakland 11-7.

Paul Molitor made Delgado's blast even sweeter when he doubled home the tying run in the sixth inning, then scored the go-ahead run on Robin Ventura's fielding error. Ed Sprague singled in another run for a 4-2 lead.

Julio Franco hit his first home run, a two-run shot to right off Dave Stewart to put the White Sox up 2-1 in the sixth. Joe Hall got his first major league RBI and first hit with a broken-bat single to trim the Blue Jays' lead to 4-3 in the top of the eighth.

Carter restored Toronto's two-run cushion with his first home run in the bottom of the inning.

Stewart (1-0) shook off a first-inning argument with home plate umpire Durwood Merrill to throw seven strong innings. He allowed two runs on four hits, with six strikeouts and five walks.

Fernandez (0-1) was also on his game, allowing four runs, two earned, over six innings. He struck out three and walked three.

Todd Stottlemyre pitched a perfect ninth for his first career save.

Angels 8, Twins 2

Bo Jackson drove in two runs in his California debut and the Angels opened the season with a win at the Metrodome.

Chili Davis drove in three runs and Damon Easley scored three times. Jackson had a single and a walk in his first game since being released by the White Sox.

Winner Mark Langston gave up eight hits, including home runs by Dave Winfield and Pedro Munoz, in 7 2-3 innings. Loser Kevin Tapani allowed seven runs on 10 hits and three walks in 3 2-3 innings.

Brewers 11, Athletics 7

Milwaukee broke its six-game losing streak in home openers, winning on an afternoon when the wind-chill temperature was zero.

Billy Spiers and Alex Diaz, both in the lineup because of injuries, combined to drive in five runs. Dave Nilsson had four hits for the Brewers.

Oakland, which had won six straight openers, took a 5-0 lead in the first inning after a grand slam by Terry Steinbach off Cal Eldred. But Bobby Witt could not hold the edge as the Brewers went ahead with a two-out, five-run rally in the sixth. Mark Kiefer (1-0) was the winner and Steve Ontiveros (0-1) was the loser.

Glavine overpowers Padres

By The Associated Press
It was a vintage performance, and Tom Glavine knew it.

"That's probably as good as I've thrown since '91, when I won the Cy Young Award," Glavine said after striking out nine while giving up just two hits in seven innings in Atlanta's 5-1 victory over the San Diego Padres. "That's pretty much what I felt all spring training ... and I just felt it again tonight."

In other games Tuesday, Montreal beat Houston 5-1, Los Angeles defeated Florida 4-3, San Francisco

The Padres were impressed with the left-hander.

"Glavine was being himself," said Phil Clark, who had one of the two hits off Glavine. "He's got a great changeup. You could tell everyone was swinging through his pitches. He's a smart pitcher, as well as having good pitches."

Knicks, Mavericks put end to long streaks

By The Associated Press

It was beginning to look like the New York Knicks wouldn't lose again and the Dallas Mavericks wouldn't win again this season.

Then on Tuesday night, the Knicks took a 15-game winning streak to Miami and lost 100-86, while the Mavs took a 17-game losing skid to Sacramento and won 88-80.

"We all played like garbage," Knicks center Patrick Ewing said.

New York consistently out-rebounded the opposition during its winning streak, but was outrebounded 52-43 by the Heat, shot 36 percent from the field and allowed 100 points for just the second time in 16 games.

Dallas improved its record to 9-63, the same number of victories as the 1972-73 Philadelphia 76ers, the worst team in NBA history.

Doug Smith scored 10 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter as the Mavericks, who trailed by six, pulled ahead with a 10-0 run against the Kings, who lost for the seventh time in eight games.

BASEBALL

When I have that kind of fastball, I can move the ball in and out, and I end up getting a lot of my strikeouts from the inside part of the plate."

The Braves offense was provided by two rookies. Ryan Klesko and Javier Lopez homered as the Braves pounded five Padres pitches for 14 hits. Klesko, who homered for the second straight game, went 3-for-5 with two RBIs as the Braves scored one run in each of the first five innings.

Mark Wohlers pitched a hitless eighth inning, but Steve Bedrosian, who came on in the ninth, was touched for San Diego's lone run.

Giants 2, Pirates 0

Bill Swift pitched seven strong innings and San Francisco shut out Pittsburgh for the second straight day.

The win marked the first time Dallas has beaten a Pacific Division opponent this season in 11 tries.

Mitch Richmond scored 22 points for the Kings.

In Miami, Harold Miner scored 22 points and Steve Smith 20 for the Heat, who lost seven of their previous eight games, including a 110-87 blowout at New York on Saturday. Miami broke the franchise record with its 39th victory, one more than 1992, the Heat's only playoff year.

Miner came off the bench to score 16 points in the second quarter, rallying Miami from a four-point deficit into a 56-45 halftime lead. New York closed to 63-58 midway through the third period before Miner hit six free throws during an 11-0 run that gave Miami an 86-88 lead.

"We didn't let them push us around," said John Salley, who had 15 points in relief of Rony Seikaly, out with an ankle injury.

SuperSonics 86, Jazz 79

Seattle beat Utah for its ninth straight victory and came within one win of the club record with 10 games remaining.

Detlef Schrempf led the Sonics with 17 points, Shawn Kemp and Sam Perkins each scored 15 and Vincent Askew had 11 of his 14 points in the fourth quarter.

The Jazz were led by Karl Malone's 16 points.

Trail Blazers 135, Suns 113

Clifford Robinson scored 23 points and Rod Strickland had a team-record 20 assists.

The Suns, who trailed by 22 after three quarters, closed within 10 in the fourth period before a 12-2 run gave Portland a 125-105 lead.

Charles Barkley, who had 21 first-quarter points, led the Suns with 27.

Bulls 114, Bullets 88

Scottie Pippen had 22 points, 10 assists, nine rebounds and five steals.

Pippen had 11 points in the third period, when the Bulls extended a five-point halftime lead to 87-69.

Calbert Cheaney scored 19 points for the Bullets.

Clippers 92, Nuggets 91

Denver continued to slip in its postseason race as Elmore Spencer's three-point play with 42 seconds left gave Los Angeles the lead for good.

The Nuggets battled back from a 20-point deficit.

Pacers 105, Pistons 89

Antonio Davis scored 15 of his 18 points as Indiana opened a 15-point halftime lead and coasted over Detroit.

Terry Mills topped visiting Detroit with 20 points.

Warriors 106, Spurs 101

Golden State snapped San Antonio's six-game winning streak as Latrell Sprewell scored 26 points and had two key steals in the final two minutes.

David Robinson scored 29 points for the Spurs.

Magic 104, Bucks 97

Orlando, playing without ailing center Shaquille O'Neal, got 22 points and 10 rebounds from Jeff Turner against Milwaukee.

O'Neal sat out the game with a stomach virus.

Turner scored 14 points in the first half when the Magic opened a 20-point lead.

Cavaliers 105, Hornets 99

John Williams scored 23 points and Rod Higgins had a season-high 20 as Cleveland beat Charlotte, now 0-13 at Richfield Coliseum.

Dell Curry scored 22 points for the Hornets, including five 3-pointers.

Nets 120, Celtics 94

Boston's 14-year playoff run came to an end as reserves scored all of New Jersey's points in a 23-6 second-quarter spurt.

Reserve forward Jayson Williams scored 13 of his career-high 19 points in the second quarter for the Nets.

for scholarship money and prizes. This year's theme is "Evening in Paradise."

Each contestant will participate in and interview by judges, talent competition and evening gown competition. Application forms are available at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main St. Entry forms must be turned in by 5 p.m. Friday, April 29.

Julia Laing and Rita Bell are serving as this year's pageant co-chairmen. Other Miss Hereford steering committee members are Peggy Fox, Sheri Jones, Colleen Meyer, Charlotte Modersitzki and Lacy Mueggenborg.

Public invited to concert at Hereford Church of the Nazarene

The public is invited to hear Bobby Michaels in concert Sunday in the Hereford Church of the Nazarene.

Michaels will be featured during the 10:30 a.m. worship service and a full concert at 6 p.m. that day.

Michaels performs over 250 concerts a year around the world. In 1986, he became the first Christian artist in over 40 years to be allowed to tour the People's Republic of China. Additionally, his two albums have produced several radio chart "hits" including the most recent, "Time," "Anything That Costs Me Nothing" and "My Redeemer Is Faithful and True."

Formerly, he was a back-up singer for notable entertainers like Harry James, Frank Sinatra, Freddy Fender, Linda Ronstadt, B.J. Thomas and John Denver.

Michaels is the founder and international director of the International Christian Academy of the Performing and Fine Arts located in Knysna, South Africa, that trains all ethically groups in South Africa in music, drama, art and architecture.

Prepare meals properly

Studies show that people wash their hands in the kitchen six times more often than in any other room in the house.

And, while washing hands for meal preparation is the major use of the kitchen sink, here's a list of other times you should wash your hands:

-Anytime hands look soiled or feel greasy.

-After using the bathroom.

-After changing diapers.

-After blowing your nose.

-After gardening or working out in the yard.

-After touching an ill person.
-After touching soiled clothing or bedding of an ill person.

-Before and after the love act.
-After reading a newspaper.

-To remove odors such as garlic and fish.

-After working in fish tanks.

-After working on a car or truck.

Experts at Liquid Dial, a company which recently developed a large 16-ounce soap pump for use at the kitchen sink, offer these handwashing tips:

-Use soap and warm running water.
-Scrub hands vigorously for at least 30 seconds, paying special attention to the back of the hands, wrists, between fingers and under fingernails. A nail brush helps.

-Rinse well and dry hands with a clean paper or cloth towel. Change towels often so they don't harbor germs.

The use of an antibacterial soap at the kitchen sink can be a safety measure for the whole family.

Dial suggests that the thing to remember when preparing meals is to wash your hands after touching various foods, as well as before, that way you do not transfer germs deposited on your hands from one product to another.

And of course, all family members should wash their hands thoroughly before eating.

LONDON (AP) - Two new books claim Brian Jones was murdered a month after splitting with the Rolling Stones in 1969.

A coroner ruled at the time that the 27-year-old guitarist drowned in his swimming pool "while under the influence of alcohol and drugs."

Both books - "Paint It Black: The Murder of Brian Jones" by Geoffrey Giuliano and "Who Killed Christopher Robin?" by Terry Rawlings - claim the pop star was murdered by London builder Frank Thorogood, who died in November.

The books allege that Thorogood, who was renovating Jones' home, was swimming with the rock star and held his head under water until he stopped breathing. Giuliano alleged that Thorogood might have been helped by an unidentified accomplice.

Doppler radar helps track storms in area

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Meteorologists on the South Plains armed themselves with new technology just in time for the springtime storms that can brew into black masses of fury.

The sophisticated radar package WSR-88D serves as an eye in the sky to watch rotating winds that might form tornadoes.

At the National Weather Service in Lubbock, where the $2.5 million radar was installed in March, forecasters say they've gained an edge tracking when and where tornadoes touch down in a 150-mile radius.

"We have tornadoes every year, but it's just a matter of bad luck if they hit anything," said Andy Anderson,

NWS meteorologist in charge. "We've seen time after time where if people have just a few minutes of warning, it saves lives."

Each year in Texas - most often from April to June - thunderstorms spawn about 120 tornadoes that on average kill 15 people and hurt 200 others.

The NWS in Amarillo received the state's first WSR-88D last spring; others operate in Houston and the Dallas area.

Amarillo weather watchers credit the new technology with helping detect 17 of the Texas Panhandle's 20 tornadoes last year. The three that slipped by the radar were weak, said meteorologist Douglas Crowley.

"It's been a tremendous help to us," Crowley said.

The Doppler works like this: Scanning radar beams bounce off atmospheric conditions like hail or raindrops. The Doppler's screens reflect a rainbow color scheme - from powder blue to dark purple and reds - measuring the energy intensity in a thunderstorm.

Meteorologists can "watch" the speed and direction of a rotating air column by monitoring the colors on their computer screen.

Crowley said the radar allowed the Amarillo NWS to issue warnings four to 25 minutes before the tornadoes touched down. No one was hurt or killed in Panhandle tornadoes last year, he said.

"It's finally knowing that you're moving into modern science and technology, giving you information to make proper decisions to protect the public with," he said.

Anderson called West Texas a tornado breeding ground, where upper-atmosphere systems tap into warm moisture from the Gulf of Mexico.

Seventy percent of Texas' tornadoes are classified as weak: They travel less than three miles and last only a few minutes.

Less than 2 percent of the tornadoes in Texas are classified as violent: These 200-mph monsters can grow more than one mile wide and stay on the ground for more than one hour.

Such "violent" tornadoes hit Waco on May 11, 1953, killing 114 people; Wichita Falls on April 10, 1979, killing 45 people; and Saragosa on May 23, 1987, killing 30 people.

"We just frankly don't know enough about them," Anderson said. "What initiates that rotation? What gets them started?"

At NWS stations around the country, Doppler technology is gradually replacing World War II-era radar that can't trace moving air currents.

Anderson was pleased but cautious about the new tool in Lubbock.

"I don't want to give the impression that we're going to find every tornado and give adequate warning, because that's not the case," he said.

"As good as that new radar is, there's just no substitute to having a trained spotter in the right place."

Tornado studies of another sort - how to protect life and property - have been under way at Texas Tech University since a Lubbock tornado killed 26 people and caused $135 million in damage on May 11, 1970.

Kishor Mehta said the Wind Engineering Research Center is finding ways to make schools and homes more tornado-resistant.

Mehta, director of the Texas Tech center, said research there helped disprove the myth that closed windows make houses explode during tornadoes.

Mehta and his associates use Doppler and videotapes in their work analyzing storm damage. Yet, his best advice for staying safe in a tornado is relatively low-tech and old-fashioned:

"As long as the bathroom is in the middle of the house ... get in the tub with a mattress."

Survival tips:

By The Associated Press
Tips for surviving tornado strikes:

-Seek shelter in a basement, closet or room protected by as many interior walls as possible.

-Never waste time opening windows to counteract pressure differentials. Buildings won't explode if windows are closed.

-Move from a large open building, such as a gym or auditorium, into a hallway or small room.

-Get out of your vehicle or mobile home.

-If you're outdoors, get in a culvert. Avoid drainage ditches that might flood.

File tax return by April 15, pay what you can

By JIM LUTHER
AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - If you can't have your tax return ready by the April 15 deadline, file Form 4868 instead.

That will give you an extra four months to get your return together. You will avoid a possible penalty for late filing, although you still will have to pay interest on any unpaid tax.

You must estimate how much you owe and send a check with Form 4868, by the filing deadline.

If you are due a refund and sure you have made no mistakes in your calculations, there is no pressure to meet the April 15 deadline except the fact you are allowing the government interest-free use of your money. Don't wait too long: You lose your refund after three years.

The Internal Revenue Service is being more reasonable with those who owe and can't pay in full. Again, the worst thing you can do is fail to file a return.

File by the deadline and pay what you can. The IRS will bill you for interest and late-payment penalties, and you may end up making installment payments on the balance.

Some other reminders:

- Your return is not considered filed unless you signed it. That means both spouses on a joint return.

- Use the stick-on mailing label supplied by the IRS; it expedites processing and - despite persistent rumors - does not increase your chances of being audited.

- If you rented out your second home for 14 or fewer days last year, you don't have to report the rent as income.

- A cash rebate on the purchase of a new car is not taxable income. Your state may have other ideas when calculating your sales tax.

- You need a Social Security number for any child 1 or older claimed as a dependent. Obtain Form SS-5 from your Social Security office.

- You may have overpaid your Social Security and Medicare taxes if you worked for more than one employer last year. Only the first $57,600 of wages was subject to the 6.2 percent Social Security tax and up to $135,000 was subject to the 1.45 percent Medicare tax. The maximum taxes: Social Security $3,571.20, Medicare $1,957.50. Any overpayment may be claimed as a credit against your income tax or refunded.

- A lower-income person 65 or older or permanently and totally disabled may qualify for a special tax credit of up to $1,125. See IRS Publication 524.

- That "substantial penalty for early withdrawal" that your bank charged when you prematurely closed an account can be claimed as an adjustment to reduce taxable income.

It goes on Form 1040, Line 28.

- Any income you earned from a sideline business is reported on Schedule C. You may use a simpler Schedule C-EZ if you had only one business and were its sole proprietor; you had a profit in 1993; you use cash accounting; had no employees or inventory; grossed no more than $25,000 and had expenses of $2,000 or less.

- Don't use your tax return as a protest; it could cost you a $500 penalty for filing a frivolous return.

- You generally may deduct money or goods you donate to a recognized charity, but not the value of your services or time. If you used your car for charity, your may write off either the cost of gas and oil or 12 cents a mile, plus parking and toll charges.

- Keep tax records for at least three years. Any record relevant to ownership of property, especially your home, should be retained permanently.

- The "sequence numbers" at the top right of your 1040 schedules and forms expedite processing; they show the order in which all the papers should be attached. Put 1040 on top.

- Be sure your interest and dividends are listed on the proper lines on Schedule B. IRS computers won't accept mixing the two.

- You must report the name and Social Security number of any person who paid you interest on a seller-financed mortgage or to whom you paid such interest.

- It won't help on your 1993 tax return, but if you expect to receive a distribution from your employer's retirement plan and roll it over to an

IRA this year, be sure the money is transferred directly from your company to the IRA. If it goes through your hands, 20 percent will be withheld for income tax.

- Among deductible medical expenses: Prescriptions, contact lenses, perhaps exercise equipment or vitamins prescribed by your doctor; cost of stripping lead-based paint from your walls under some circumstances; special television or telephone equipment to help the hard-of-hearing. In any case, only medical expenses exceeding 7% of adjusted gross income are deductible. Not deductible: programs to help you quit smoking, health foods and funeral expenses.

- If you don't trust your arithmetic, chances are the IRS will compute your tax for you. Most people with taxable income of $100,000 or less who do not itemize deductions and don't file certain forms are eligible. Check the instruction booklet accompanying your tax forms to find what you need to do.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — A Texas House member plans to sponsor legislation to limit expenditures by university regents, after reports of questionable spending by Texas A&M University System regents.

In a copyrighted story, The Dallas Morning News reported last week that Texas A&M System regents spent more than $1.6 million over the past three fiscal years and used mostly public funds to pay for resort hotels, limousines and bar bills.

State Rep. Steve Ogden, R-Bryan, said the method of financing regents' expenditures at state-supported universities is a "Byzantine system" created to obscure accountability.

"There's a relatively simple solution to this, and I'll push for this in the next session of the Legislature," said Ogden, who holds a master's degree in business administration from Texas A&M.

Ogden, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, said he'll work to "limit and attempt to define what we think is a reasonable amount of expenditures for regents not only at the Texas A&M system but at other schools."

Business practices of A&M officials and regents have prompted criminal investigations by the Texas Rangers and the FBI.

incumbent Bob Bullock, but knocks the Clinton administration and its alleged Austin connections.

The 60-second spot, which has been running primarily during breaks in the Rush Limbaugh talk show, urges voters to run "Bill Clinton's liberal friends in Austin" out of office in the November general election.

According to an Associated Press story last week, Lezar called Bullock a tax-and-spend liberal "like Bill Clinton."

And Bullock said of Lezar, "His extremist views won't appeal to Texans today anymore than the last time he ran and lost. The ad is about what you would expect from a Nixon speechwriter."

Lezar finished third in the 1990 Republican primary for the office of Texas attorney general.

Yarborough Endorses Mattox

Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Jim Mattox has received the endorsement of former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, who held the seat for more than two terms.

In making the announcement, Yarborough pointed out his concern over the suitability of Mattox' runoff opponent Richard Fisher, saying "We need a real Democratic senator in the Democratic administration, not a half-Democrat who has campaigned as a Republican and a Ross Perot renegade, whose record would warn the president to beware of that man."

Fisher's campaign spokesman Martin Johnson said, "While both Mattox and Yarborough have rendered service, both have seen their time come and go."

Mattox is a former Texas attorney general and U.S. Congressman.

Meanwhile, Fisher, a Dallas financier, promised to cover his personal finance holdings into U.S. Treasury notes if he's elected to the U.S. Senate.

Ellis Denies Business Conflict

Apex Securities, an investment banking company partly owned by state Sen. Rodney Ellis, D-Houston, made at least $375,000 last year for underwriting bonds for local governments across Texas, the Houston Chronicle reports.

Ellis, who recently was appointed chairman of the Senate Intergovernmental Relations Committee, said there is no conflict of interest between the company's dealings and his official duties.

But Mary Nell Mathis of the public watchdog group, Common Cause, sees a potential conflict. "...There's always going to be an opportunity for abuse as long as we require lawmakers to support themselves," she said.

According to Ellis' personal income report on file with the Texas Ethics Commission, Apex received at least $375,000 last year in fees from bond transactions in seven counties, six cities, seven school districts and three river authorities.

Ellis was not a member of the committee until his appointment in March.

GSC Kills '15-Minute Rule'

A proposed guideline that would have allowed state agencies to charge extra when it takes them longer than 15 minutes to find requested documents under the Open Records Act was voted down by the State General Service Commission last week.

The GSC's action came in response to a legislative mandate calling for the setting of standards on when and how much state agencies can charge for access to public records.

Though the guidelines to increase the cost of copies of computerized records were approved by the commission, Texans still can inspect — free of charge — information that is readily available on computers.

Bentsen Dollar Bills

The first dollar bills bearing Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen's signature will roll off the presses on April 7. Bentsen, a native Texan, will introduce the new series of currency at the government's western printing plant in Fort Worth, the first plant to print the new bills.
