Bivins wants hearing held on permitting

State Sen. Teel Bivins (R-Amarillo) Wednesday urged the Natural Resources Committee to conduct a hearing in the Panhandle so it can hear firsthand complaints from Panhandle dairy and feedlot operators regarding state environmental permitting procedures.

The committee is working to identify ways state laws can be changed to streamline the permitting process administered by the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission.

Bivins told TNRCC Chairman John Hall, who appeared before the resources committee hearing, that the state's permitting procedures are so burdensome that 120 dairy operations have chosen to locate in New Mexico rather than Texas.

Bivins said he has received numerous complaints from area residents regarding time delays and costs involved with obtaining permits required by the state to operate.

"The story I hear is you can't get a permit in Texas," Bivins told Hall and the committee. The senator said he wanted the committee to talk directly with Panhandle business persons so it can better understand their permitting difficulties.

Hall told the committee Wednesday that his agency plans to implement a "permit by rule" plan for confined animal feeding operations and some small municipal wastewater facilities by Dec. 1.

He said feedlots and dairies could obtain air and water discharge permits within 75 days in uncontested cases under the streamline permitting procedures proposed.

Hall said that TNRCC has eliminated the backlog in permit applications and now is focusing its attention on streamlining the process.

An official with Texas Cattle Feeders Association said he is not sure how many animal feeding operations will be interested in the permit by rule proposal because of uncertainty about the standards that will be required.

Tank construction continues

Workers are dwarfed by the size and depth of the new one million gallon water storage tank being constructed just east of the city's existing water tanks north of the Community Center. The concrete floor was poured Monday and workers labored Wednesday to remove the wooden forms from what will be the base of the tank. Ted Coleman, city Water Distribution Superintendent, said it took 150 cubic yards of concrete for the base. Wall sections are being poured now and will be lifted into place when they are all finished. He said it took six to seven hours to pour the base.

Fisher, Hutchison aim at each other

AUSTIN (AP) - Just hours after millionaire Dallas investor Richard Fisher claimed the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, he and Republican Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison were trading shots.

Fisher, who gunned down Jim Mattox in the Democratic runoff Tuesday, got congratulations from President Clinton Wednesday before leaving for meetings in Moscow of the Russian American Enterprise Fund, to which Clinton appointed him.

"He needs help," Fisher said of the president. "He certainly needs help from a good senator from Texas. He can't do it with two Republicans on Capitol Hill. He's got to have a Democratic senator who has access to the president of the United States."

"I think Texans are going to have a choice between someone who is going to support President Clinton or someone who is going to be an independent voice," Mrs. Hutchison said. "I don't think Bill Clinton is in tune with the people of Texas."

HISD official Souter to move to Portales

The Hereford Independent School District will be searching for a new assistant superintendent this summer following the announcement that Richard Souter, Assistant Superintendent for Professional Services, is leaving for New Mexico.

Souter was named superintendent of the Portales, N.M., public schools on Tuesday, which means he will end six years of service here on June 30. "I'm just tickled I get a chance to go over there," Souter told The Hereford Brand on Thursday morning.

Souter came to Hereford after serving as superintendent of the Alpine Independent School District. Altogether he has 15 years experience as a superintendent.

"It looks like a real good situation to live and work in," he said. The district has 3,300 students and is growing due to expansion at Cannon Air Force Base in Clovis, N.M., plus growth in the dairy industry and the presence of Eastern New Mexico University.

Souter said he was excited about returning to Portales. He graduated from ENMU with a bachelor's degree in physical education and a master's degree in administrative education.

He said he was selected from a field of about 28 candidates after having heard of the opening from contacts he retains in Portales.

He succeeds Howard Overby, who resigned in November 1993 after nine years with the district.

Souter's wife, Terri, who is Special Education and Vocational Director for the HISD, also is planning to move to Portales, although her husband said her situation is "up in the air" because she has no job lined up there.

Mrs. Souter, he said, has not formally resigned from her job here.

Souter expressed sadness at leaving Hereford after six years with the district.

"I really love this place. I'm happy as a lark here," he said, adding that, "if this job wasn't as appealing to me as it was, I wouldn't be interested."

He said he has mixed emotions about leaving and praised Superintendent Charles W. Greenawald and the school board for their cooperation over the years.

Seven cases confirmed to date

Mumps outbreaks hits Hereford

BY RICK LANNING
 Staff Writer

An outbreak of mumps in the Hereford area has prompted health officials to urge the public to get preventative shots during National Preschool Immunization Week April 25-29.

Pat Sinnacher, school nurse for the Hereford Independent School District, said at least seven confirmed cases of mumps have been reported in this area since March 1. Another nine cases are non-confirmed, according to the Texas Department of Health.

Free immunization shots will be available at the following locations and times:

-- South Plains Health Provider, 603 E. Park Avenue, Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Wednesday, 12 noon to 7:30 p.m.; and Friday, 8 a.m. to noon.

-- Texas Department of Health 205 West 4th Street, Thursday from 7 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and 1-5:45 p.m.

-- W.I.C. (Women, Infants, and Children), 102 East Avenue E, Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Wednesday, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and Friday, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"These shots could save your life," said Dr. Ranga Subra-Mani, a Hereford pediatrician who will help administer the program.

The free shots program is being sponsored by South Plains Health Provider, the Texas Department of Health, and W.I.C.

Although there is no age limit on who can receive the free shots, health officials urged parents of preschoolers to bring in their tots to protect them against such childhood diseases as diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, measles, mumps, rubella, polio, and hepatitis.

To be fully immunized, a child must have received four DTP (Diphtheria, Pertussis, and Tetanus) shots, three oral polio, one MMR (Measles, Mumps, and Rubella), four HIB (Hepatitis), and three Hepatitis B shots by age two.

Children four to six years need one DTP, one oral polio, and one MMR.

During last year's free hot program, only 27 per cent of Hereford children were found to have been immunized. These are not good statistics, said local health officials.

"This means that almost three out of four of our children are not protected against childhood diseases that could prove deadly," said Dr. Subra-Mani.

The State of Texas is paying for the shots. By keeping Hereford children healthy and in school, the community will save money in the long run, added Diana Cabezuola, supervisor for South Plains Health Provider.

"Although anyone is eligible for a free shot, we are targeting preschoolers," she declared. "It's very important to us to protect children before they get into school."

While those who get the shots may experience some fever or soreness, the side effects are "very minor," added Cabezuola.

Mumps can provide serious side effects to children, as can polio, pertussis or whooping cough, measles, and hepatitis.

For more details on the free shot program, call 364-7688 or 364-2401. Parents were urged to bring their child's shot records.

Clock counting down for tax filers

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Folks who dawdled until the last dreary day to send in their tax returns will find consolation, and even parties, at some post offices across the country.

Every year millions wait until April 15 to rush to post offices and send in their income tax payments at the last minute.

Friday will be the same, and the U.S. Postal Service is preparing for the flood of forms, often with help from local businesses and broadcasters.

Many post offices will stay open until midnight Friday to accommodate last-minute filers, although postal officials always plead with people to mail early in the day.

Champagne, music and banners provided by local businesses will highlight the evening at the Springfield, Mass., main post office - including demonstrations by a woman who has trained her dog to deposit tax returns in the mail.

High school bands will entertain outside the main post office in Cincinnati - alternating between upbeat tunes for those getting a refund and sad songs for those who have to pay.

The historic Peabody Hotel in Memphis, Tenn., is planning a Tax Stress Release party, providing food, drinks and postage stamps to visitors. Postal workers and Internal Revenue Service agents will be on hand at the hotel to assist filers.

At New York's Main Post Office, a publisher plans to give out books on financial management, and several food companies will be handing out samples.

In Phoenix, Baskin Robbins will pass out free ice cream at the main post office from 10 p.m. to midnight. The flavor: "income tax crunch."

It'll be "cinnamon tax crunch" ice cream from Baskin Robbins and free candy bars from a radio station in Sacramento, Calif.

Country and Western stamps will be given out by a local radio station at the Monterrey postal station, in Lubbock, Texas. At the downtown Lubbock office another station will give out rock 'n' roll stamps and Pizza Hut will provide free pizza.

Excedrin will be given away at several post offices in the Los Angeles area, where 55 offices will be open until midnight.

In Washington, D.C., a local radio station is sponsoring a dunking tank at the post office at 2 Massachusetts Ave.

HHS senior receives area journalism scholarship

Hereford High School senior Kathleen Cooper has won a $500 Panhandle Press Association journalism scholarship.

A letter confirming the award was received by The Hereford Brand - which sponsored Miss Cooper's application - on Wednesday.

The association, which represents newspapers throughout the Texas Panhandle and South Plains, as well as nearby parts of New Mexico and Oklahoma, presents the scholarships each year to area high school seniors.

Miss Cooper, daughter of Richard and Margaret Cooper, currently serves as editor of the HHS yearbook, The Roundup.

She plans to attend Texas Tech University after graduation and wants to major in journalism. She is a newspaper carrier for the Brand.

The letter from PPA notifying her of the award said the scholarship committee "ranked your application among the best in the region."

In addition to the money - which will be awarded in two $250 payments for her first two semesters in college - Miss Cooper will receive a plaque recognizing the scholarship, which will be awarded at the senior awards assembly later this spring.

Hereford postmaster says tax forms can be mailed here

In Hereford, Postmaster Charles Britten said tax forms may be deposited in the main post office drive-up or lobby boxes before midnight and still be postmarked April 15.

"We're going to cancel anything up to midnight," he said.

The post office counter will close at 4:30 p.m. as usual, Britten said, but last-minute tax filers may purchase stamps from vending machines located in the lobby.

He stressed that only the main office drops inside the building and on Fourth Street will be collected late.

Tax returns mailed from other drops after the last posted pickup will not be collected until after the midnight deadline.

The prize is being donated by Nocky and Marn Tyler.

Campus planting

Students at West Central Intermediate School joined in the effort to make Hereford "clean and green" by planting trees on their campus Wednesday. During the month-long cleanup project sponsored by the Hereford Beautification Alliance, students also are challenged to clean up their own neighborhoods and around their schools. All schools in Hereford are planning activities to improve their campuses and adjoining property.

Jail relief expected with state building

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - State officials are hoping the emergency construction of lockups will remove the fuse from an explosive situation in overcrowded county jails.

But some members of the Texas Commission on Jail Standards said Wednesday the plan to make room for 7,500 inmates is too little, too late.

Kenneth Anderson of Dallas said the $25 million was "like putting a Band-Aid on a compound fracture."

But other commission officials and a county representative said the plan would reduce the threat of riots and other disturbances at overcrowded jails.

"Counties are at the point where something needs to be done. This is one answer," said Jail Standards Commission Executive Director Jack Crump.

About 30,000 state inmates are backed up in county jails awaiting transfer to state prison.

Fearing disturbances in the packed jails, state leaders recently devised a temporary expansion program.

Under the plan, work camps would be set up for 1,200 inmates at a cost of $5 million. And at least 20 counties and four private prison firms would share $25 million to build and house 6,300 prisoners in temporary facilities from June 1 through Aug. 31.

By September, state officials say they hope to have several new prisons finished to house some 16,000 inmates.

Anderson said that at the end of August, counties must continue paying to operate the temporary facilities. "It's sort of bait and switch. You get the counties sucked in and they're left to pay on their own nickel," he said.

David Nelson of Lubbock, another commission member, said he feared that counties might try to cash in on the state money - $4,000 per prison bed - by only housing inmates for a couple of days instead of the entire 90-day period.

"That's a ... get-rich plan," he said.

He also said cement-floor tent facilities for 60 inmates have been built recently in Texas for $650 per bed. "I have concerns over the fiscal accountability," Nelson said.

In addition, counties receiving the state money can declare an emergency and bypass the normal publication process to award bids for construction.

Jim Allison, general counsel of the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas, said the counties appreciated the state's help, but realized the plan was not a permanent fix.

Jail Standards Commission Chairman Joe Evans, who is Nacogdoches County sheriff, said the emergency plan was better than nothing because it would relieve counties that were stuck with the state inmates anyway.

AUSTIN (AP) - Two Lotto Texas tickets sold in Fort Worth correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night, lottery officials said.

The winners will share about $10 million and Saturday's drawing will be worth an estimated $3 million, officials said.

The numbers drawn Wednesday, from a field of 50, were 27, 33, 39, 40, 44 and 50.

Ann Landers

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Lara Flynn Boyle went from playing the good girl-next-door to a psychotic secretary to a lusty college student - and she wouldn't have it any other way.

"I'm a firm believer that if you can't be flexible, and if you can't play all sorts of things, in terms of longevity, just forget about it," said Boyle, who first gained fame playing freckle-faced Donna Hayward on David Lynch's TV series "Twin Peaks."

The Chicago-born actress went on to play a deranged secretary in "The Temp" and is now starring as part of a cinematic ménage a trois in "Threesome."

"I have a hard time sleeping at night if I've taken the easy route, or I've chosen to do something basically I've done a million times before," she said.

Boyle recently completed "The Road to Wellville." She plays a patient at a health retreat run by a doctor portrayed by Anthony Hopkins.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for the Indiana mother who tried everything to keep her 16-year-old daughter from continuing a relationship with an undesirable 18-year-old. You were right. It is the PARENTS who need counseling.

We have lived through four teens and have one more coming up. We, too, made similar attempts to "protect" them. It didn't work. It just made them better liars. Once they learned that being honest only got them into trouble, they became very good at deception. My husband and I went to counseling over one of our boys, and it proved to be very helpful. We were amazed at how changes in OUR behavior made a difference in his.

Parents should decide which rules are going to be enforced (curfew, church attendance, substance control, homework time or whatever) and discuss them with their children. They should let their teen select his or her own friends but make it clear what the house rules are. We insist on meeting all new friends so we can get to know them. It's funny how fast some undesirables disappeared when they learned we wanted them to come to dinner, join us at church or help on a family project.

Two very good things have come out of this. Our kids learned on their own what to look for in friends and WE learned that some of the "undesirables" were really good kids who just needed a chance to be in a loving home.--A Happier Mom in Honolulu

DEAR HON: How refreshing to hear from a parent who admits she made some mistakes. You can be sure your children appreciate your integrity and they will in turn be better parents because of it. Children tend to treat

THEIR children the way they were treated. Here's another letter on the subject:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I was 16, I too, was madly in love with an 18-year-old, handsome good-for-nothing. My parents disliked "Artie," and they let me know it.

I couldn't understand why they were so mean. They told me Artie had no ambition and was going nowhere. I told them I didn't care. I loved him. They said I would outgrow him and regret my choice.

They were right, of course. I finally stopped being stubborn and told Artie "goodbye." I enrolled in college and became a civil engineer. I now have a great career and a loving husband.

Occasionally, I think of my first "love" and realize it was just a crush and how lucky I was not to have married him.--Content in Laguna Beach

DEAR LAGUNA: And you deserve credit for not sticking with Artie just to show your parents they couldn't tell you what to do. Not all teenagers are that wise. Thanks for the testimony.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Add this to your toothpick lore: My husband started chewing on a toothpick when he stopped smoking over 10 years ago. You were right. It's his pacifier. He calls it his "Binkystick." I told him he wouldn't die of cancer, but Dutch Elm disease might get him.--Medford, Ore.

DEAR MEDFORD: Thanks for a good laugh. There are too few these days.

Gem of the Day: The art of taxation consists of plucking the goose so as to obtain the most feathers with the fewest number of complaints.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Barry Manilow was glad to step aside for President Clinton, relinquishing his hotel suite at the last minute.

The pop singer gave up the suite at the Marquette Hotel on Friday. Clinton spent the day in Minneapolis promoting his health care reform plan.

Manilow, who performed Friday night in Minneapolis, had reserved the suite well before the Clinton administration announced it was coming to the Twin Cities.

When the White House called last week, administration officials told hotel staff not to move anyone or cause any other inconvenience because of the president's stay.

"We contacted Manilow," said Jean-Marie Grouard, Marquette general manager. "We discovered he was a very warm supporter of the president. He said, 'No problem, I'll move to another hotel. We will move to another hotel with pleasure.'"

Herd prepared for district finales

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

This is the final weekend for most Hereford High School athletes. Any track, tennis or golf player who wants to continue the season must perform well now.

On Friday and Saturday: the District 1-4A track meet is in Dumas; the district tennis tournament is in Borger; and the final two district golf rounds are in Pampa and Borger.

It's also a big weekend in baseball. Hereford will meet Borger (4-0 in district, 12-6 overall) in a showdown at 1 p.m. Saturday in Borger. Hereford (3-0, 9-8) first has to play Randall (1-2, 13-5) in a makeup game at 4:30 today at Whiteface Field. The Herd junior varsity also will play in Borger on Saturday, in the second game of a varsity/JV doubleheader.

The district track meet in Dumas, which will include boys and girls, starts with field events from 10 a.m. until about 12:30 Friday. Preliminary races start at 1:30 on Friday. There'll be more field events from 10-12:30 Saturday, then the finals of the running events will start at 2 p.m. and be completed at about 5.

Though Hereford won't be favored to win either the boys' or girls' team titles, both teams have several individuals and a relay team or two that should finish in the top two and advance to the Region 1-4A Meet.

"We have five or six individuals that will be in the fight for a first or a second place at district, to qualify for regionals," girls' coach Martha Emerson said, adding that her relay teams also have a chance to advance.

"We feel good about the kids being ready; like I've said, they're peaking at the right time," boys' coach Ron Young said. "We have a couple of chances to get (individuals into) regionals, and I feel that team-wise they're ready to go."

The girls' golf team will go to Pampa Friday hoping to defend a 15-stroke advantage over Pampa for second place in the district. Only the top two advance, and Borger has the edge with a four-round total of 1,518. Hereford stands second at 1,558 with Pampa close behind at 1,573. Dumas is a distant fourth at 1,668.

Individually, Kelly Kelso is in medalist contention with a four-round total of 351. She trails Dumas' Jamie McInturff at 326 and Borger's Sarah Moore at 333.

The girls will play at the Hidden Hills course in Pampa on Friday and at Phillips Country Club in Borger on Saturday. The boys will play at Pampa Country Club on Friday and at Borger's Huber course on Saturday.

Hereford's boys are third after four rounds with a total of 1,359. Borger has a big lead at 1,244, and Pampa is second at 1,292. Randall is close behind Hereford at 1,368.

The tennis tournament, at Borger High School, will start at 9 a.m. both Friday and Saturday. Play on Friday will continue until about 5 p.m. The finals in each of four brackets of 12 will be played Saturday morning, as will any playback matches which are required.

Each school gets two entries in each bracket. Hereford's are: Gabriela Gamez and Melissa Berend in girls' singles; Brooke Weishaar/Kara Sandoval and Paige Robbins/Natalie McWhorter in girls' doubles; Rob Reinauer and Tyler Merrick in boys' singles; and B.J. Lockmiller/Tom Jarecki and Jason Cole/Pete Vargas in boys' doubles.

The top four seeds in each bracket are given byes, and several Hereford players were honored with seeds. Weishaar and Sandoval are seeded first and Robbins and McWhorter are seeded third in girls' doubles. Lockmiller and Jarecki are seeded second, and Gamez is fourth.

The top two in each bracket advance to the regional tournament, and Herd coach Ed Coplen thinks several Whitefaces have a good chance.

"We've improved enough at every position that anyone of our players, or everyone of our players has a chance to advance to regionals," Coplen said.

The other top seeds are Matt Thompson of Borger, boys' singles; Dawna Denny of Borger, girls' singles; and Stefan Bressler and Brooks Gentry of Pampa in boys' doubles.

Rodeo set near Hereford

The B-S Arena outside of Hereford will host a Tri-State High School Rodeo Association event Saturday and Sunday.

To get to the B-S Arena, formerly the Cowboy Country Club, go west on FM 1058 (Park Avenue) and turn north on FM 1057. Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under eight.

7th grade boys win district meet

Hereford's seventh grade boys' track team won the Panhandle Junior High Athletic League district track meet, held Friday in Pampa, while the Hereford eighth graders finished fifth in the eighth grade division.

Hereford's seventh grade 1,600-meter relay team set a new district record with a time of 3:56.81. The runners on that team were Mark Rodriguez, Jason Foster, Chris Valdez and Chris Torres.

Oilers agree to trade Moon to Vikings

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Warren Moon, who led the Houston Oilers to the playoffs seven straight years but never past the second round, will get his last chance at a Super Bowl with the Minnesota Vikings.

Oilers owner Bud Adams confirmed on Wednesday that the Oilers had reached an agreement in principle to trade Moon, the Oilers' quarterback for the past 10 seasons, to the Vikings.

The move has been talked about, really, since last preseason when Adams told his team it likely would be their last together because of the impending salary cap. Moon hinted it could be his last as an Oiler.

Now it's a reality and it even caught Moon by surprise. He really wanted to finish his career in Houston.

"As of yesterday, it wasn't that close but right now I have kind of mixed feelings," Moon said on Wednesday. "Everybody knows I wanted to finish my career here but also knowing there's another team that wants me is a challenge. You can give your all if you know the fans are behind you."

Moon's departure ends an era in which the Oilers became one of the most potent offensive units in the NFL and Moon became one of the league's most prolific passers and the city's most recognizable athlete.

"What he's meant to the team and to the city, it's sad to see a page like that having to be turned," Oilers coach Jack Pardee said.

The NFL's $34.6 million salary cap helped bring Moon's Oiler career to an end. Moon's agent, Leigh Steinberg, said Moon really wanted to stay in Houston and would consider a contract restructuring.

But the Oilers already had carried their plans too far. Moon would leave and Cody Carlson, who is near a restructuring of his contract, will assume the starting role.

Oilers general manager Floyd Reese said the team's salary structure couldn't contain both Moon's $3.25 million salary and that of Carlson's $3 million salary for 1994.

"The only way he would be here would be to play for a certain amount to fit our budget," Reese said. "That would make him lower paid than a lot of people on the team, which I could never see happening."

Moon acknowledged his days as an Oiler were coming to an end.

"I'm still going to be calling Houston home but I won't be playing football in the dome any more," he said. "I really didn't want to leave here ... but I do have a team that wants me."

"This is just another challenge in my career. I see this as a very positive challenge for me. They do have an excellent organization, a great head coach. They just need a couple of pieces. Hopefully, I'm one of those pieces."

Moon was scheduled to earn $3.25 million this season and $3 million for 1995, the final year of his contract. He still has to work out details of his contract with the Vikings.

Moon completed his 10th season with the Oilers in 1993, leading them to the playoffs for an NFL-best streak of seven straight years. The Oilers won 11 straight games before losing in the first round of the playoffs to Kansas City.

Moon completed 303 of 520 passes for 21 touchdowns last season, earning his sixth straight Pro Bowl appearance. He's completed 51,731 passing yards in a 15-year career, 10 with the Oilers and five in the Canadian Football League.

The Oilers are moving away from the run-and-shoot offense next season, and new offensive coordinator Dick Coury said he never expected to be working with both Moon and Carlson.

"I've always thought the world of Warren Moon but when I came here I knew it was almost impossible for us to keep both of them," Coury said. "He's leaving a great organization but going to a good organization. At least the Oilers found a good home for him."

Safety Marcus Robertson decried Moon's departure.

"I don't understand how they could let a six-time Pro Bowler go and put in an unproven commodity," Robertson said. "I think it's unjust and unfair. If he were here next year, we could take that extra step."

But for all their success with Moon at quarterback, circumstances led them to win only three playoff games during his tenure.

Cowboys lose out on Wilson

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys may have come up on the short end of the NFL's most recent quarterback shuffle.

Cowboys' backup Bernie Kosar left Wednesday for the Miami Dolphins. That made Wade Wilson the likely new backup for Troy Aikman - until Wednesday night, when the New Orleans Saints re-signed Wilson to a two-year deal.

Wilson, an East Texas State alumnus, had recently discussed the Dallas backup spot with Cowboys owner Jerry Jones.

New Orleans cut Wilson last month to make room for Jim Everett, whom the Saints acquired from the Los Angeles Rams.

The terms of Wilson's new deal with the Saints weren't released, but he'll presumably be paid far less than the $2.8 million he received from New Orleans in 1993.

Dallas, which is still trying to re-sign several of its key free agents, had budgeted about $700,000 for its backup quarterback. That's what they offered Wilson, agent Leigh Steinberg told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The Cowboys knew Bernie Kosar would probably leave. He signed a two-year deal with Miami Wednesday and will back up Dan Marino. Kosar returns to the city where 10 years ago he led the Miami Hurricanes to their first national championship.

The Cowboys might have more money available for a quarterback if wide receiver Alvin Harper signs with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Harper, a restricted free agent, reportedly has been offered a three-year, $4 million deal in Pittsburgh, sources told The Dallas Morning News.

Nuggets defeat suddenly-struggling Spurs

By The Associated Press
The Denver Nuggets are fighting off the Los Angeles Lakers for the last Western Conference playoff spot. The San Antonio Spurs are fighting off some mental demons as they wait for the start of postseason play.

"We are not playing like a team with a lot at stake right now ... I'm concerned going into the playoffs," said David Robinson, who had 32 points Wednesday night in the Spurs' 83-78 loss to the Nuggets.

Denver rookie Rodney Rogers scored 18 points, including a crucial late basket, as the Nuggets took advantage of the Spurs' poor fourth-quarter shooting. San Antonio missed 12 of 15 shots in the final period, with its last field goal coming with 7:31 remaining.

"We lack mental toughness. We're not energetic," Spurs coach John Lucas said.

San Antonio has fallen three games behind Houston in the Midwest Division. With six games left, the Nuggets have a five-game lead on the Lakers, who lost 117-88 at Phoenix.

"We've only got two guys on our team who have ever been in the playoffs," Nuggets coach Dan Issel said. "Even though we are a young team, pretty inexperienced, it will be a real good lesson for us to get some playoff time."

LaPhonso Ellis and Dikembe Mutombo both had 10 rebounds for the Nuggets, playing their second road game in as many nights.

Suns 117, Lakers 88
Phoenix handed Los Angeles its fourth straight loss after a 5-1 start under coach Magic Johnson.

Cedric Ceballos scored 29 points and Charles Barkley had 20 points and 20 rebounds for the Suns, who pushed the Lakers to the brink of missing the playoffs for the first time since 1976, the longest current streak in the NBA.

Tony Smith scored 22 points for Los Angeles.

Nets 107, Bucks 105
New Jersey led by eight with 1:35 left, but the Nets needed reserve

Johnny Newman's jumper with 1.3 seconds remaining to win at Milwaukee.

Newman scored 21 points to lead the Nets.

The Bucks, with Ken Norman hitting two 3-pointers, came back to 105-105 on Eric Murdock's 3-pointer with 10 seconds left. After Newman hit the winning basket, the Bucks failed to get off a shot.

The Bucks were led by Murdock with 23 points.

Hawks 110, Cavaliers 95
Mookie Blaylock had 19 points and 10 assists, and Atlanta took control early by hitting 23 of its first 29 shots against Cleveland.

*Craig Ehlo scored 18 points for the Hawks. Terrell Brandon led the Cavs with 16 points.

Bulls 96, Heat 90
Scottie Pippen scored 27 points to help Chicago beat Miami for its ninth consecutive victory.

Glen Rice, John Salley and Steve Smith had 16 each for Miami.

Pacers 115, 76ers 87
Byron Scott scored a season-high 21 points and Indiana established season highs for rebounds and assists at Philadelphia.

The Pacers, who snapped a two-game losing streak on the road, moved into sixth place in the conference with the help of 59 rebounds and 39 assists.

Clarence Weatherspoon led Philadelphia with 19 points and 11 rebounds.

Celtics 109, Pistons 96
Boston used a 26-4 burst to turn a close game into a rout of Detroit, which lost its seventh straight game.

The Pistons trailed just 67-66 midway through the third quarter before the Celtics outscored Detroit 17-4 the rest of the period for an 84-70 lead.

The Celtics were led by Dee Brown with 21 points and Dino Radja with 20 points and 14 rebounds. Terry Mills had 25 points and Allan Houston 24 for Detroit.

Expos' Martinez flirts with no-hitter

By The Associated Press
Pedro Martinez lost his perfect game, then Reggie Sanders lost his composure.

Martinez had a perfect game and a 2-0 lead against Cincinnati with one out in the eighth when he hit Sanders in the elbow with an 0-2 pitch. Sanders charged the mound, tackled the Montreal pitcher and touched off a bench-clearing scuffle.

"There was no way I was trying to hit him," Martinez said after the Expos beat the Reds 3-2 Wednesday night in Montreal. "I guess he took it the wrong way. I was surprised he charged out. Surprised, but not afraid."

Martinez, who had lost all four of his previous major league starts, had struck out Sanders in his first two at-bats after pitching him high and tight.

"It wasn't just Reggie," Reds manager Davey Johnson. "He was up around the chin of three other guys. You don't take those things lightly."

Sanders didn't talk to the media after the game. But Montreal manager Felipe Alou said it made no sense for Martinez to intentionally hit Sanders.

"I don't think there is any doubt a pitcher throwing a perfect game is going to hit somebody on purpose," Alou said.

Sanders was ejected, and Martinez got out of the inning with his no-hitter intact. But Brian Dorsett ended it with a clean leadoff single to center in the ninth.

John Wetteland (1-1) relieved and gave up sacrifice flies to Barry Larkin and Hal Morris that tied the game. But Montreal won it in the ninth on an RBI single by pinch-hitter Lou Frazier.

Darrin Fletcher, who homered twice and went 4-for-4, started the winning rally with a single off Chuck McElroy (1-1). Cliff Floyd reached on an infield single with two outs and Frazier blooped a single off Hector Carrasco, ending the Reds' six-game winning streak.

Martinez, traded from the Dodgers to the Expos in the offseason, was 10-5 with a 2.61 ERA last year. Used primarily as a reliever, he set a Los Angeles rookie record by appearing in 65 games.

Astros 4, Marlins 2
At Miami, Greg Swindell (2-0) allowed five hits in eight shutout innings to remain unbeaten in four decisions against Florida.

Loser Chris Hammond (1-1) gave up four runs and seven hits in 5 2-3 innings. In the sixth, he gave up a two-run double to Jeff Bagwell and a two-run homer to Tony Eusebio.

Pirates 3, Padres 2
At Pittsburgh, Al Martin tripled, doubled and scored the go-ahead run on third baseman Archi Cianfrocco's throwing error in the fifth inning.

Denny Neagle (1-1) allowed four hits in 6 1-3 innings, and rookie Rick White pitched the ninth for his second save in as many nights.

Braves 6, Giants 3, 12 innings

At Atlanta, on the night honoring the 20th anniversary of Hank Aaron's 715th home run, Fred McGriff homered in the 12th inning just to the left of the historic landing spot.

Jeff Blauser doubled off rookie Tony Menendez (0-1) in the 10th. Terry Pendleton then walked and McGriff followed with his second home run of the season.

Cardinals 4, Dodgers 2
At St. Louis, Ray Lankford homered and drove in four runs, and Rick Sutcliffe won his first NL start in three years.

Lankford moved back to leadoff this season after starting last season as the cleanup batter and hitting in almost every spot without success. He went 3-for-5, helping send the Dodgers to their fifth loss in six games.

Phillies 12, Rockies 3

At Philadelphia, Darren Daulton drove in four runs and scored four times.

Daulton went 3-for-4 with a two-run homer in the fifth, a single in the seventh and a two-run double in the eighth. Winner Ben Rivera allowed four hits in 5 1-3 innings for his first decision of the season.

A's overcome Jays in wacky game

By The Associated Press
It's a strange night when Ron Darling bats for Oakland. It's even stranger when he's batting for cleanup hitter Dennis Eckersley.

The A's and Blue Jays went at each other for 4 hours, 15 minutes Wednesday night. Mike Bordick finally ended it with a two-out single off Greg Cadaret (0-1) in the 12th inning, giving Oakland an 8-7 victory over Toronto.

"The thing that killed us was too many walks," second baseman Roberto Alomar said.

Toronto pitchers walked 12, but Oakland stranded 20 runners. A's first baseman Mark McGwire didn't make it to the end, and that was the cause of some shuffling. He was ejected for arguing a called third strike - tossing two water coolers on the field on his way out. As a result, designated hitter Troy Neel went to first base and Eckersley went into the No. 4 spot in the batting order.

After Paul Molitor's RBI single off Edwin Nunez cut the Athletics' lead to 6-3 in the top half of the ninth, Dave Righetti gave up a run-scoring single to John Olerud and Carlos Delgado's league-leading sixth homer, a three-run drive.

Steve Ontiveros (1-1) pitched the 12th for the victory.

Indians 6, Angels 5

Bo Jackson hit a game-tying three-run homer in the ninth, but Kenny Lofton homered in the 10th off Scott Lewis (0-1) for a three-game sweep, Cleveland's first at California since July 11-13, 1975.

Derek Lilliquist (1-0) earned the victory without facing a batter. He relieved Jose Mesa with two outs in the ninth, and pinch-runner Rex Hudler was thrown out at second by catcher Sandy Alomar. Matt Turner, who got his first AL victory on Tuesday, pitched a perfect 10th for his first major league save.

Rangers 4, Brewers 3

Esteban Beltre, in his first at-bat for the Rangers, singled off Bob Scanlan (0-1) to drive home the winning run through a drawn-in infield in the 10th inning. It gave Texas its first win in The Ballpark in Arlington.

Tom Henke (1-0) blew a 3-2 lead in the ninth, allowing a one-out triple to Alex Diaz and a game-tying single to Matt Mieske.

Royals 2, Red Sox 1

Rookie Bob Hamelin, who has replaced George Brett as Kansas City's designated hitter, hit a two-run homer with one out in the ninth at Kauffman Stadium.

Kansas City, routed 22-11 by the Red Sox on Tuesday night, had not gotten a runner past first before Hamelin homered off Jeff Russell (0-1). Billy Brewer (1-0) pitched 1 1-3 innings of hitless relief.

Twins 9, Mariners 6

Dave Winfield moved into 16th place on baseball's career hit list, passing Lou Brock with his 3,023rd, and Minnesota's Tom Kelly became the ninth active manager to win 600 games.

Minnesota scored five runs in the sixth inning at the Kingdome, stopped a five-game losing streak and improved to 2-7.

Pat Mahomes (1-0) gave up homers to Eric Anthony and Reggie Jefferson, but Greg Hibbard (0-1) gave up seven runs and seven hits in 5 1-3 innings. Rick Aguilera got his second save.

Tigers 6, Orioles 3

Cecil Fielder went 4-for-4, including one of three Detroit homers, and John Doherty pitched seven strong innings at Tiger Stadium.

Tony Phillips and Eric Davis each homered in the seventh inning for the Tigers.

Doherty (1-1) held the Orioles to two runs and eight hits in seven innings. Henneman finished for his second save.

Jamie Moyer (0-1) gave up four runs and seven hits in 6 2-3 innings.

White Sox 5, Yankees 0

Jason Bere (1-0) scattered four hits in seven innings at Comiskey Park, and Julio Franco homered.

Jim Abbott (1-1) gave up four runs - three earned - and eight hits in 6 2-3 innings.

One player likes Hakeem for MVP

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The NBA's most valuable player ballots have been cast by the Minnesota Timberwolves and center Mike Brown has no hesitation about his vote.

Is it San Antonio's David Robinson or Houston's Hakeem Olajuwon?

"Hakeem is the best center in the league, and he's been the best the last five or six years," Brown said. "David is having an MVP season by the numbers but Hakeem has played that way for years. He was my MVP last year."

Olajuwon was second in the MVP voting to Phoenix's Charles Barkley last season and is battling with Robinson for the honor this season.

Olajuwon scored 42 points, including 13 in the final 4:07 to keep the Timberwolves from a late rally on Tuesday night for a 98-89 victory.

On Monday night, Brown and the Timberwolves lost to the Spurs 101-89. Robinson scored 29 points and got 11 rebounds.

Both players left vivid impressions on the Timberwolves with Olajuwon taking the edge.

Robinson leads the NBA in scoring with a 29.2 average and he ranks third in blocked shots with a 3.35 average.

Houston fans buying up Astros paraphernalia

By GREG HASSELL
Houston Chronicle
 HOUSTON - Walk through the Astrodome on game day, and it's pretty hard to spot evidence of the Astros' old uniforms.

Not only have the players changed their colors, Houston's baseball fans have ditched the old orange and grabbed the gold with gusto.

Sales of new-look Astros hats and shirts have outstripped team merchandise sales for all of last year - and the 1994 season is only three days old.

"It's blowing out of the store," said Mark Grommish, buyer of licensed apparel for Oshman's Sporting Goods. "We've already doubled last season's total sales. We ran out of stock one week after the new uniforms were introduced."

Sales at Academy also are running ahead of last year's total.

"The old Astros gear sold pretty well, but sales of the new stuff is not even in the same ballpark. It blows the old stuff away," said Jake Slight, the buyer of licensed products for Academy.

At the Astros' home season opener, lines at the souvenir shop were 40 and 50 customers deep.

"The biggest seller has been the caps," said Bob Brubaker, director of retail operations at the dome. "The cap has been the cornerstone of our sales."

The old Astros hats were dark blue with a capital H emblazoned over an orange star. Now the letter and the orange are gone. The new hats are midnight blue with a gold shooting star.

The Astros also are selling shirts, bats, balls and every other conceivable memento that can be stamped with the new blue-gold color scheme. Phyllis McDaniel and her daughter Jamie Morris were even wearing Astros earrings at the ballpark Tuesday night.

"I love it," Morris said of the new uniforms. And in a moment of Houston sports heresy, she added, "It looks like the Dallas Cowboys star, and we're big Cowboy fans."

Whenever a sports franchise changes its uniform, its sales spike skyward. But the Astros' changes tap into more than novelty, fans and merchants say.

One key is fan support for new owner Drayton McLane, who has opened his checkbook to sign star players. He's also made the dome a more enjoyable place by improving the food and customer service.

"Since Drayton bought the team, a lot has changed. When you get excited about one change, you get more excited about other changes like the new uniforms," said fan Chris Dean.

Another key is the Astros have a realistic chance of making the playoffs this year. Baseball has juggled its format to create eight total playoff spots, up from four spots in 1993.

The Astros get the added bonus of being in one of the weakest of the realigned divisions - the National League Central.

"This is going to be their year," B.J. Dean said as she bought a new Astros shirt at the dome. "If I am ever going to look the part, this is the year."

On the flip side, if the Astros fail to deliver, sales could take a serious dip.

"If they lost 40 of their first 60 games, or something like that, this will erode very quickly," Academy's Slight said. "But if they stay in the hunt all season, look out."

Apart from considerations like winning, losing and tastier dome dogs, a lot of folks think the Astros' uniforms simply look better.

"I was getting tired of the orange," said Chris Hoffmeyer. "The Astros are my team, so I was going to get a new hat either way. But I really believe this looks better."

Navy blue and metallic gold will be among the most popular fashion colors during the next few years, said Anne Occi, vice president of design for Major League Properties. Dropping the "H" and going with the shooting star also gives the caps a minimalist appeal.

"I love the uniforms," said Occi, who helped the Astros develop their new look. "But there is nothing about it that is so trend oriented that it will not have the longevity of other baseball symbols."

But what about that Cowboys stuff? Were the Astros trying to copy their prosperous cousins to the north?

"Absolutely not. We tried to steer completely clear of the Cowboys' star," Occi said. "If you look at the two stars, they are completely different."

By the way, the very word Astro is a reference to "star," and harkens to the city's connection with the Johnson Space Center. Not looking too much like the Cowboys is probably a smart thing, given the rivalry that exists between Dallas and Houston.

"At first, I didn't like it because I thought it looked a lot like the Cowboys," said Juan Reyes, looking out from beneath his new Astros cap. "I am not a Cowboys fan. I root for Houston teams."

Carlton denies controversial words

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Steve Carlton may be wishing he'd continued his self-imposed silence after the trouble a recent interview has given him.

After his election to the Hall of Fame in January, it should have been all accolades and praise for Carlton, who made it to the hall in his first year of eligibility.

But the left-hander who spent most of his years in baseball without giving interviews to reporters found himself in trouble after an article published in Philadelphia Magazine quoted him as saying the "Elders of Zion," 12 Jewish bankers in Switzerland, rule the world.

That led the American Jewish Congress in New York to ask that Carlton be barred from induction into the Hall of Fame until he apologizes. Carlton is scheduled to enter the shrine in Cooperstown, N.Y., on July 31.

Carlton on Wednesday denied making the remarks, saying the story "has almost no truth in it." The magazine and writer Pat Jordan defended the story as accurate.

Carlton, who now lives on a 400-acre ranch near Durango, Colo., has been given to controversial remarks. Much of what he told Jordan in the Philadelphia Magazine article he said to the Philadelphia Inquirer in January, shortly after his election.

Wrote Jordan:

"One minute he'll say 'The Russian and U.S. governments fill the air with low-frequency sound waves that are meant to control us,' and the next he'll say 'The Elders of Zion rule the world,' and then 'The British MI-5 and 6 intelligence agencies have ruled the world since 1812 and 12 Jewish bankers meeting in Switzerland rule the world,' and the world is controlled by a committee of 300 which meets at a roundtable in Rome."

Carlton also told Jordan that President Clinton has "a black son" and that the AIDS virus was created in a secret Maryland laboratory "to get rid of gays and blacks."

Jan Furr to be honored at Annual Honors Tea

Jan Furr will be presented with the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution National Conservation Medal and Certificate of Achievement at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Hereford Community Center. The award will be given in connection with the Annual Honors Tea hosted by the Los Ciboleros Chapter, NSDAR. This will be the first time a local resident has received this honor.

The public is invited to attend this special presentation.

The National Committee has as its aim the wise use of resources. The criteria for issuance is an outstanding conservation record. Following the guidelines as set by the National Committee, Jan was recommended by the local NSDAR Chapter as a candidate for this distinguished award.

Letters of recommendation by two non-DAR members were written by Hereford Mayor Robert D. Josseland and Donna Brockman, executive director of Deaf Smith County Historical Museum.

Among the activities listed were Jan's work to assist the organization of the Hereford Beautification Alliance and the various projects under her direction in 1993: (1) Great Trash-Off, as affiliate of Keep Texas Beautiful; (2) Public awareness programs to inform residents of HBA goals; (3)

Beautification and clean-up days for removal of litter and weed-infested areas at several sites within the city with over 150 volunteers, both students and adults, participating; and (4) Recycling efforts in cooperation with Hereford's EnCoRe project.

Also, noted was Jan's work as chairman of the garden committee of the Historical Society and the beautification of the gardens at the E.B. Black Historical House. There are approximately 60-70 varieties of flowers in the gardens and at least 15 types of shrubs and trees. The gardens have been designated as the "Beauty Spot of the Month" by the Women's Division on several occasions during the past few years.

Under Jan's direction in 1993, the "Keep America Beautiful" Certificate of Merit was won by Hereford. There were only 33 cities the size of Hereford who received this award in the state of Texas.

Articles from The Hereford Brand were valuable assets to the local chairman of the Conservation Committee, Mrs. Jess Robinson, as she documented the work done by Jan.

In the letter of approval of the application from Mrs. Halamka, national chairman of the Conservation Committee, she stated, "The residents of Hereford are fortunate to have Jan's interest and leadership abilities."

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My doctor tells me I have silent ischemia. He doesn't know how many arteries are blocked or how badly. I take Atenolol, 50 mg a day, to slow my heartbeat, and an aspirin every other day. I'm a 65-year-old woman, eat well-balanced meals and am quite active. My cholesterol is OK. I play tennis almost every day. I've got my cigarettes down to 10 a day. After smoking 60 years, I'm finding it very difficult to quit.

My doctor doesn't want to do any further testing unless we're talking surgery, and we are not at this point. I feel fine, except, since he told me this, I get these small jabs and pains which I think are my imagination. I just wonder what is ahead. What are the chances of my having a heart attack? Is this something one learns to live with?

DEAR READER: Silent ischemia means that for some period of time the heart muscle is not getting enough blood (ischemia), but it doesn't cause any pain. It is usually observed by taking an electrocardiogram during the ischemia and seeing typical changes in it. It can also be brought out with an exercise test. Incidentally, a person can also have a silent heart attack (myocardial infarction) and go on with his daily life and not know it.

Silent ischemia does occur quite often in the patient who already has coronary artery disease. These arteries are more prone to go into spasm, shutting down the amount of blood flow to the heart muscle. Ischemia, with and without symptoms, can also occur when an apparently clean artery goes into spasm.

Cigarette smoking increases the tendency of the coronary arteries to go into spasm. It is in your best interest to quit entirely, if you do have silent ischemia.

You don't mention any symptoms, or tests, so I'm not sure how your doctor knows what you have. Silent ischemia is sometimes detected by monitoring the electrocardiogram for 24 hours or more. If a person really has such a problem, a careful study of the heart is warranted. It has as much significance as symptomatic angina pectoris has and does increase your risk of having a heart attack.

To help you understand ischemia, I am sending you my new Special Report 132, Angina Pectoris and Heart Attacks. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/132, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am very worried about my 37-year-old husband. He skips two meals a day and eats a fairly well-balanced meal at dinner time. I say that this is very unhealthy. He is also a runner, lifts weight and passed his latest physical exam. He is a moderate beer drinker and a heavy coffee drinker (about 12 cups a day). Could this be a suicidal tendency since his father committed suicide at middle-age? What harm has this done to his health? He has been doing it for 10 years. He is 6 feet 2 inches and weighs 205 pounds, but is not overweight.

DEAR READER: The body has a remarkable ability to adjust to a person's schedule for eating. While it is commonly said you must eat breakfast, what really counts is what you consume in a 24-hour period.

I would be much more concerned about how much beer he consumes and he does use far too much coffee. If it is regular coffee, he probably has developed a dependency on caffeine. But no, I do not think of these habits as an indication of suicidal tendencies.

His medical evaluation should have included measurements of blood pressure and a test for total cholesterol and HDL-cholesterol. If these are fine I would simply recommend he gradually decrease his coffee intake and limit his beer consumption.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 29-year-old female and have had acne off and on since I was 10 years old. I have three children, and nursed them all for the first 15 to 17 months. When I was pregnant or when nursing, my complexion cleared up, then when I stopped nursing, the acne returned. With my last child, I started menstruating while I was still nursing him. That didn't happen before. And my acne came right back.

My dermatologist told me there is a fairly new drug that can eradicate acne forever but it has a few side effects. I would have to take it every day for three months. I can't remember the name of the drug. I am interested in going this route but would like to know if it will be detrimental after I get older. What happens if I want to have another child? Could it harm my system or possibly harm any future children?

DEAR READER: Acne is closely related to sex hormones. That is why it tends to occur in both males and females at the onset of puberty and you seldom see it in younger children. The sex hormones increase the skin's production of oily secretions that increase acne problems.

You are probably asking about Accutane. It has been used for several years now and has been highly successful in treating problems of acne that cannot be controlled by other measures. It is not always an easy medicine to take because it really dries out the skin and has other side effects. A second course of treatment is also needed in some patients.

One of the most important side effects of Accutane is causing birth defects if a woman is taking it during pregnancy. It should NOT be used by women who are pregnant or may become pregnant. Before starting it, it is important to have a careful examination for pregnancy to be certain you are not pregnant. Then you must follow measures to prevent pregnancy while taking the medication. It should not be used during nursing either.

Once the treatment is over, and after the next menstrual period, there should be no increased risk to a future pregnancy. The effects are on the developing baby and not on future ova.

More than two-thirds of all the one-horned rhinoceroses in the world live in Kaziranga National Park in northeast India.

Reports heard by Cultural FCE Club during meeting

Several committee and council reports were heard when members of the Cultural Family Community Education Club met Monday at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Naomi Hare led the pledges to the United States and Texas flags and Carrie Mae Doak voiced a prayer. Also, Perry Keyes read, "Don't Worry."

President Nell Pope presided over the business session when committee reports were heard. Keyes gave the council report.

Plans for the Golden Plains birthday party were finalized. The event is scheduled April 21 at the nursing home.

It was announced that Pope had won five first places on her exhibits at the February Appreciation Luncheon.

Members were urged to attend the district meeting April 19 in Hereford.

162 volunteer hours reported by auxiliary

Members of the Hereford Regional Medical Center Auxiliary met recently for a luncheon meeting and to welcome a prospective member, Margaret Hall.

The meeting was called to order by Quintna Waits, and Anna Stindt read the auxiliary prayer.

Mary Williamson called roll with 11 members answering.

Bonnie Sublett announced that 162 volunteer hours had been spent in the gift shop. Also, Grace Covington accounted for 21 baby books which had been given to new mothers in March.

Williamson read the minutes which were approved, and the treasurer's report was given by Lupe Cerda.

New business consisted of the election of a nominating committee: Theda Seiver (chairman), Jo Lee and Quintna Waits.

Gathering material and the preparation of a scrapbook for the auxiliary was discussed.

Auxiliary members participated in the recent Health Fair held at the hospital.

Elizabeth Fowler reminded members of the Annual Reorientation to be held at 10:30 a.m., May 2. This reorientation is required of all members.

Those present were Anna Stindt, Mary Williamson, Baxter London, Nell Culpepper, Bonnie Sublett, Quintna Waits, Lupe Cerda, Elizabeth Fowler, Jo Lee, Theda Seiver, Margaret Hall and Mary Jane Burrus.

HHS students welcomed by association members

Hereford High School students, Traci Sublett and Lexie Sciumbato, entertained the members of the Hereford Retired School Employees Association with oral literary interpretations at a recent meeting.

Sublett presented "The Letter" and Sciumbato interpreted "Laura, A Reincarnation." The girls are members of Lana Hall's speech group.

Betty Mercer conducted the business meeting and Elizabeth DeKoster delivered the invocation. Bobby Boyd led the group in a sing-along.

A silent auction of crafts and baked goods was conducted by Reuben McGilvary. The monies raised will go toward the TRTA Building Fund Trust for the state headquarters.

The spring fling social will be held at 6:30 p.m., May 2 in the Hereford Community Center. Leona Schilling announced that a Mexican stack dinner would be served and the group would play Crazy Bridge. Tickets are $2 per person, payable at the door, but members are requested to RSVP to Schilling by calling 364-4793 no later than April 27. All retired school people are invited.

Doris Bryant and Elizabeth DeKoster gave highlights from the state convention in Wichita Falls. Bryant also gave details for the drive-in conference planned April 26 at West Texas A&M University.

A Texas State Legislative Committee survey for 1994 was distributed by Teddy Poindexter. Members should fill these out and return to Poindexter, 305 Sunset, by April 18. These will be compiled and sent to the American Association of Retired Persons. It was stressed, "It is imperative that we express our views in this legislative year." Contact Poindexter if you would like a survey.

State, district and local dues can now be paid to Treasurer Billie McDowell, 138 N. Texas. The total dues are $24 each or $45 for a couple. There is strength in numbers and the Texas Retired Teachers Association is working for all retired school personnel.

The next regular meeting will be held May 9. Bill and Billie McDowell will lead the musical program. Officers for 1994-96 will be installed.

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) - First brother Roger Clinton is turning from the college lecture circuit to the classroom.

"I decided yesterday on my way here that before the year 1994 is out I will be enrolled in a college somewhere in California," he told students at Morehead State University on Friday.

"And I will not get out of college until I get my degree."

Clinton, 37, talked about his battles with drug abuse, the time he spent in prison for cocaine trafficking and his father's abuse.

Clinton, whose lecture circuit includes about 10 universities every year, was paid $5,000 and travel expenses to speak at Morehead.

Students at Tierra Blanca Elementary School recently were the recipients of new watches, courtesy of Colortyme TV Rentals. Enough watches for the entire school were donated by the company after they were left over following a corporate promotion. The company also has donated some watches to other local schools and plans to give Northwest Elementary School enough watches for their student body. Shown with the watches are: back, from left, Leona Muniz, second grade; Josh Nitzinger, third grade; and Raquel Vasquez, third grade; center, from left, Nicole Uvalle, first grade; Lucy Chavez, from Colortyme; Grace Gamez, from Colortyme; Tommy Rosson, Tierra Blanca principal; and Fabian Montelongo, first grade; and front, from left, Eric Cano, second grade; Shayla Wilcox, kindergarten; and David O'Neal, kindergarten.

Congress seeking truth from cigarette companies

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The chiefs of the nation's seven largest cigarette companies told Congress today that cigarettes are no more addictive or drug-like than the caffeine in coffee.

"We do not do anything to hook smokers or keep them hooked," said James Johnston, chairman and chief executive of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. "We no more manipulate nicotine in cigarettes than coffee makers manipulate caffeine."

Johnston joined the six other CEOs to testify before a congressional panel about what they put in cigarettes and whether they manipulate the amount of nicotine they contain.

That's key to a decision by the Food and Drug Administration on whether to regulate cigarettes. If the FDA determines that companies do manipulate nicotine, it could label the chemical a drug and bring tobacco products under the agency's control.

But the question at today's hearing is somewhat broader: Are cigarette companies telling Congress the truth?

Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce health subcommittee on Wednesday charged that one company executive wrote in 1981 that the industry specially blends tobacco to maintain high nicotine levels in brands that have low tar.

Alexander Spears, chief operating officer of Lorillard Tobacco Co., told Congress last month that companies don't do anything especially to maintain levels, and that nicotine falls whenever tar falls.

"Once again tobacco industry representatives have not only withheld information, but they have misrepresented the truth," Waxman said.

Spears issued a statement denying that he had contradicted himself, calling Waxman's statements "a serious error in reasoning." He said the 1981 report and his testimony were not inconsistent, since manufacturers blend tobacco for such reasons as "taste acceptance" and "brand distinction."

His boss, Lorillard CEO Andrew Tisch, told Waxman at this morning's hearing that the congressman had unfairly blasted the company in the press without the facts, and asked that Spears be allowed an extended statement to defend himself.

Waxman responded that Spears would have ample time for defense when he questioned him at the end of the hearing.

Waxman also planned to question the executives about a 1983 study by a Philip Morris scientist that indicated nicotine was addictive. The study was never published, and it was five years before the surgeon general's report that reached the same conclusion. Waxman has accused Philip Morris of stifling the science.

But Philip Morris President

William Campbell testified today that the study in question didn't show nicotine was addictive because the laboratory rats showed no signs of withdrawal.

"The presence of nicotine does not make cigarettes a drug or smoking an addiction," he said. "Coffee, Mr. Chairman, has caffeine and few people seem to enjoy coffee that does not. Does that make coffee a drug?"

However, an expert at the National Institutes of Health who analyzed the 1983 Philip Morris study has said researchers then simply didn't know how to recognize withdrawal symptoms in rats, but that other aspects of the study did conclude the animals were addicted to nicotine.

The hearing comes a day after the companies, under intense pressure from Congress, released a top-secret list of 599 chemicals they add to cigarettes.

Federal law requires the companies to disclose the additives to the government, but it prohibits unauthorized public disclosure under penalty of jail.

Faced with growing complaints about the secrecy, the industry on Wednesday released the list of chemicals, along with information about foods in which they naturally occur.

Many experts contend the controversy over these trace chemicals overshadows scientific studies that show tobacco is lethal.

TAES believes most crops unharmed by late freeze

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Although last week's freeze ran rampant over the state, many of the crops went unharmed, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Peaches and spring vegetables were most vulnerable to the freeze, so some producers, especially in the Amarillo region, wondered just how much damage the freeze could cause.

District Extension director Paul Gross of Amarillo said the effects of the freeze aren't evident yet.

"We won't be sure how the freeze affected the crops until it's time to harvest them," he said.

District Extension director Scott Durham of Vernon said some of the trees were damaged by the freeze, but not a substantial number.

"Some early fruit trees were damaged," he said. "Some of the blooms have fallen off and some of the small fruit was damaged."

In most areas of the state, producers are spraying insecticides and getting ready for spring weather.

District Extension director Ronald Woolley of Stephenville said the weather helps insects and plant diseases multiply.

"The leaf rust infection has been increasing steadily over the last week," he said. "And hornflies have been increasing, too."

Sanford Garrad, a meteorologist at National Weather Service Agricultural Service Center in College Station, said the cold spell has come to an end.

"The state will see some really warm temperatures all week," he said. "On Thursday, a front could bring some thunderstorms to most of the state, including the Rio Grande Valley."

And Garrad said Amarillo still has some unstable weather on the way.

"It'll be colder than normal in the Panhandle," he said. "By now they're used to the strange weather."

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district Extension directors:

PANHANDLE: Soil moisture short to adequate. Cold with high winds that continue to deplete soil moisture. Cattle good. Seeding of sugar beets and corn limited because of lack of moisture. Some irrigation in wheat fields.

SOUTH PLAINS: Soil moisture short to very short. Extremely dry and windy; irrigation continues. Russian wheat aphid and greenbug infestations are requiring treatment in some areas. Freeze caused some damage to fruit trees.

ROLLING PLAINS: Soil moisture short to very short. Light damage on wheat because of freezing temperatures. Livestock fair to good; supplemental feeding continues. Fruit trees damaged by freeze.

NORTH TEXAS: Soil moisture surplus to adequate. Livestock fair; some supplemental feeding. Cattle market is strong. Corn 100 percent planted. Some frost early in the week. Pastures good to fair. Onions are doing well. Gardens being prepared for spring planting. Petals have fallen on peach trees.

EAST TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Livestock good. Cool season grasses hampered by cold temperatures. Wheat conditions fair. Frost damage to early spring vegetables. Supplemental feeding reduced because of better pastures; hay short. Good fruit set in orchards.

FAR WEST TEXAS: Soil moisture very short. Livestock good to poor; supplemental feeding continues due to weather and poor forage quality. High winds continue to deplete soil moisture. Some damage to fruit trees by freeze.

WEST CENTRAL TEXAS: Soil moisture very short to short. Light freeze did not damage peach trees. Livestock good in spite of dry conditions. Ewes showing signs of tapeworm infestation. Fruit trees in bloom. Wool clips are average. Vegetable gardening in full swing.

CENTRAL TEXAS: Soil moisture short. Leaf rust infection increasing. Some lice infestation of cattle. Soybeans and corn being planted. Some spring vegetables damaged by frost. Powdery mildew infection increasing in wheat. Livestock in good condition.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Pasture, ranges improving because of rainfall. Supplemental feeding suspended in areas; livestock good to fair. Corn and sorghum have good plant stands. Calving, kidding and lambing season almost complete.

COASTAL BEND: Soil moisture short. Livestock good; markets strong. Some cultivation of early planted corn. Rice being flushed. Corn planted. Home gardens doing well. Pastures being fertilized. Peach trees blooming and some peaches are already in good size.

SOUTH TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Some wind problems early in the week. Corn and grain planting under way; sorghum looks excellent. Watermelon and peas looking good. Onions progressing well.

What Does A Typical Brand Reader Look Like?

That's difficult to say because you are as different as your substantial number would imply! You are one of the 4,100 households we're invited to every evening. That's quite a few. According to the most recent census, our township has slightly less than 5000 households.

Your vocation is part of a broad spectrum as well -- white collar, blue collar, owners, managers, cowboys, teachers, housewives, students and professional.

Yet, with all your individual complexities, your interest in local issues and news gives you and other readers a common bond which is separated only by your level of curiosity.

You are an informed, intelligent and often vocal audience, and we're happy to be a part of your household every evening!
