Memo to Bush: Expect the worst, stay very busy

To: George Bush
From: Those Who Know
Subject: Coping

By FRED BAYLES
AP National Writer

Courage, soon-to-be Citizen Bush! Others have lost the White House and survived - even prospered financially and historically.

There are books to be written, presidential libraries to be built, a wide range of possibilities from corporate boards to peace missions.

But for the next few months, you, along with family and staff, should brace for rocky times.

"You feel like you're working in the twilight zone," said Stuart Eizenstat, Jimmy Carter's domestic adviser. "The minute a new person is elected, the outgoing president becomes a fifth wheel no matter what he tries to do."

There is plenty of precedent for one-term presidents; nine have lost re-election. In the past 32 years, only Ronald Reagan has completed two terms. Carter denied Gerald Ford a term of his own, only to be denied re-election himself by Reagan.

But such history offers little solace when, come Election Day, the voters turn you out.

"Whenever you're rejected, it's personal as well as political," said Bert Lance, a Carter friend and member of his administration. "It can hurt terribly."

While Carter and Ford declined to be interviewed for this article, Carter has spoken about the shock of defeat.

"No one likes to be rejected by a people that you love," he has said. In his biography, "Keeping Faith," he wrote of his 1980 defeat to Reagan: "I had already accommodated the disappointment that was to come officially the following day. Even so, we did not anticipate the magnitude of our defeat."

Ford's loss to Carter by just 2 percentage points in 1976 was his first election defeat. "It was obvious he was very shocked," said Ron Nessen, Ford's former press secretary. "It was hard to accept."

Bush and his staff should prepare themselves for what Eizenstat calls "the blues flu."

"For the president and the staff there is a de-adrenalization that goes on. People tend to catch cold as if their immune systems collapsed," he said. He described Carter's demeanor as "a deflated balloon."

His normal vigor was just not present.

Robert Hartmann, one of Ford's advisers, remembers the president as "less than his old bouncy self." The day after the election, "he squawked out a few things," Hartmann said. "It was emotional. He just sat there and nodded. At this point you're just numb. I think the emotional reaction is dampened by sheer fatigue."

Indeed, on Election Night 1976, Ford was so hoarse, his wife had to help with his concession speech.

First ladies tend to fare worse. "Rosalynn took it much harder than Jimmy," Lance said. Betty Ford's trials with drugs and alcohol after the 1976 election are well documented. "I was crushed by the defeat," she said in a 1987 magazine interview. "It was a tremendous letdown."

State leaders unveil newest school plan

AUSTIN (AP) - School groups say a public education funding proposal would cause huge local property tax increases.

But Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock says it's "the only defense against the (state) income tax" being implemented.

The School Finance Working Group, comprised of a dozen different organizations, said the plan could result in local increases of up to $3 billion over the next two years because of insufficient state funding.

Bullock, who released the proposal Wednesday with Gov. Ann Richards and lame-duck House Speaker Gib Lewis, said, "Local property taxes will go up." But he added that the plan leaves property tax decisions in local districts' hands.

The three state leaders want lawmakers to approve the "Fair Share Plan" in a special session that begins next Tuesday. The 1993 Legislature convenes in regular session in January.

Their proposal includes shifting about $400 million a year from school districts with the most property wealth to poorer ones, to meet a Texas Supreme Court order for equalized school funding.

It also would put an equity standard for school funding into the state constitution to avoid further court entanglement. The standard would require that 95 percent of state and local revenue in the public education system be equalized.

The proposed constitutional amendment requires approval of two-thirds of the Legislature and voters. The plan "gets us out of spending our time and our energy in an endless discussion with the courts about financing the schools," Richards said. "It allows us to progress to the real discussion of how to make our schools better."

The proposed amendment also would provide state bond money for school facilities, and it would authorize the redistribution of local tax money from school districts with the most property wealth to poorer ones.

The Texas Supreme Court in January ruled unconstitutional the current "Robin Hood" system of transferring local property tax money from wealthier to poorer school districts within counties.

It gave lawmakers until June 1, 1993, to come up with a new plan for equalizing school funding.

The leaders' plan would transfer about the same amount of local property tax among districts next school year as the current law, using a different method that funnels money from the wealthier districts through the Teacher Retirement System. State money to the Retirement System would be reduced, and the funds routed to poor districts.

The plan anticipates an expected $650 million in new state funding over the next two years, without a tax increase, rather than the $3.9 billion increase called for now.

But $650 million is far less than the Texas Education Agency says it will need to cover student enrollment growth.

"We understand the leadership's reluctance to increase taxes on the state level, but under their plan, even the poorest of the poor school districts will have to raise local property taxes to unbearable levels just to stay even," said Jim Nelson, president of the Ector County Independent School District board and spokesman for the school groups.

BULLOCK

School administrators have said the state relies too heavily on local property taxes. Of $15 billion in state and local public education funds currently, about $8 billion is local money, said Dan Casey of the Texas Association of School Boards.

State GOP Chairman Fred Meyer also criticized the Democratic leaders' plan.

AUSTIN (AP) - Here are highlights of the new school finance reform plan outlined by state leaders, which would require a constitutional amendment. It would:

- Abolish county education districts, using a different method to redistribute local property tax money from school districts with the most property wealth to poorer ones. The money from the wealthier districts would go to the Teacher Retirement System. State contributions to the system would be reduced, and the state money routed to poorer school districts. About $400 million would be transferred the first year.
- Establish an equity standard in the constitution that requires 95 percent of state and local revenue in the public education system to be equalized.
- Provide school districts about $2,850 per student for a local tax rate of $1 per $100 property valuation. Districts that generate more money at a $1 rate would give the extra funds to the state.
- Guarantee school districts another $15.60 per additional penny of tax, from $1.01 to the maximum $1.50. Some of this money also would be captured from the richest school districts and redistributed. The wealthiest districts next school year could keep all the revenue from all but 5 cents of the extra tax. But in 1998-99, the revenues would be shared up to $1.50.

The leaders said all the shared revenue represents less than 2.5 percent of total funds in the system, affecting 6.1 percent of the students in 10.5 percent of school districts.

- Convert $750 million in state bonds to help pay for building new school facilities.
- Set limits on the amount of local tax increases that trigger additional state funds. Under the current system, school districts have received less money than they have expected based on their tax rate and student enrollment because state funds didn't stretch far enough.
- Require school districts to spend 60 percent of their operational budget on instruction, and limit administrative costs. School districts could seek a two-year waiver from these requirements.
- Create a $1 billion Good Schools Fund from the current Available School Fund. Rather than every school district getting a certain amount per student regardless of their wealth, the money would be distributed on an equalized basis and could be used to reward quality.

Clinton will focus on economy

By JOHN KING
AP Political Writer

President-elect Clinton promised to "focus like a laser beam on this economy" as he assembles his White House team but also planned calls to several world leaders today to discuss foreign policy and the global economy.

"There is just an immense amount of work to be done," Clinton said Wednesday night after his first formal meeting with his transition team. The Arkansas governor called the session "mind boggling" because of the number and range of the decisions he faces as president-elect.

"I haven't made a decision about what Cabinet members to name in which order," he said. Other aides said some key roles likely would be filled by week's end, with a permanent transition director expected first.

As Clinton prepared for the beginning of a new Democratic administration, President Bush returned to the White House for the final two months of his stay in office.

Clinton, in an interview broadcast Wednesday night on ABC-TV, said the enormity of becoming president was "beginning to sink in."

"I have more responsibility now. I have a higher sense of obligation," he said of his personal transformation, overnight, from small-state governor to president-elect of the world's sole remaining superpower.

As he picks a transition director, a White House chief of staff and then the rest of his team, Clinton said he would be guided just as he was during the campaign:

"I am going to focus like a laser beam on this economy, and foreign policy will come into play in part as it affects the economy," he said.

As he slept after a grueling final campaign day capped by his electoral landslide Tuesday, Clinton said he received congratulatory telephone calls from several world leaders. He did not identify them but said he hoped to call back today.

"I'm anxious to have some conversations," he said.

Still, Clinton made it clear to "America's friends and foes alike" that Bush is president for the next 77 days.

With Vice President-elect Al Gore at his side, Clinton delivered an afternoon statement designed to reassure world leaders, and American and global financial markets, of his intentions.

"I want to reaffirm the essential continuity of American foreign policy and my desire to seek bipartisan support for our role in the world," he said. "Even as America's administrations change, America's fundamental interests do not. ... The greatest mistake any adversary could make would be to doubt America's resolve during this period of transition."

Bush was heading to Camp David, Md., today for a long weekend.

"I can think of nothing other to say than let's finish this job with style," Bush said as he returned to the White House on Wednesday.

3 get probation in district court action

Three defendants were given probated prison sentences during sessions of in 222nd District Court this week.

Judge David Wesley Gulley also heard motions to revoke sentences previously assessed during hearings Monday and Wednesday.

In court Wednesday, Jose Acevedo, 65, entered a plea of guilty to felony driving while intoxicated. A five-year sentence in Texas Department of Criminal Justice was probated five years. He also was fined $1,500.

During a Monday court session, Jose Nadier Cera and Timothy Ray Brees entered guilty pleas. Revocation hearings were held for Vincent Perez Garcia and Sammy Munoz Ramirez.

Cera, 23, was sentenced to 10 years in Texas Department of Criminal Justice, probated 10 years, on his plea of guilty to sexual assault of a child. He also was fined $1,500.

Brees, 31, received 10-year concurrent probated sentences on his guilty pleas to charges of possession of a controlled substance and possession of marijuana. A $1,500 fine on each offense was levied, also.

On the state's motion to revoke probation given on a felony driving while intoxication conviction, Ramirez was ordered to spend four months in intensive supervision as part of the amended terms of probation.

Garcia, previously assessed five-year probated sentences for hindering secured creditor and bail jumping and failure to appear, was placed on intensive supervision for three months in an amended probation agreement. He also will spend time in Deaf Smith County jail and the probationary period was extended one year.

Train helps with message of Operation Lifesaver here

Railroad employees and others help give rides on a special train Wednesday at McDonalds in Hereford. Children also received special coloring pages for a contest that is part of the program to teach safety at railroad crossings.

Mailbox program voluntary

Letters were sent this week to many residents in Hereford who don't use "curbline" mailboxes, but the program to install new mailboxes is strictly mandatory, postal officials said today.

Many residents received letters that request that mail receptacles be placed along the curb so mail can be delivered from postal vehicles.

Charlie Thomas, assistant postmaster, said this morning that placing mailboxes at the curbside is significantly less expensive than putting mail in boxes at houses.

When carriers have to walk from house to house, the average cost in Hereford is $145 per house per year.

For curbline boxes, the cost is $90 per year.

Escape attempt thwarted

A Hereford man didn't like where he was sitting in county court on Wednesday, and tried to runaway after he was ordered back to county jail.

Pablo Morales, who was in county court on a misdemeanor driving while intoxicated charge, complained out loud several times that he did not like where he was sitting. He claimed the man next to him stunk, and complained so loudly that bailiff Mary Johnson ordered him taken back to jail.

On his way from the second floor courtroom to the first floor jail, he attempted to run. He made it almost all the way across the street when he was caught by Deputy Herman Lopez.

Deputies made two other arrests Wednesday: a man, 26, for evading arrest, and a man, 43, for driving while license suspended, bond jumping and failure to appear as promised.

Hereford police reported two runaways, one in the 600 block of Schley and another in the 700 block of Thunderbird; burglary of a residence, with $70 worth of damage done; theft of license plate in the 1500 block of E. First and 700 block of E. Third; theft of a cassette at a store; domestic disturbance in the 500 block of Ave. K; and harassment in the 600 block of Irving. Police issued four tickets Wednesday.

Big loss by GOP tempered by state government gains

AUSTIN (AP) - For Texas Republicans, winning some and losing some sums up 1992.

Their president lost the White House. But at the state Capitol, the GOP ranks continued to grow.

Final election returns showed the GOP adding another statewide official, grabbing an unprecedented number of seats in the Texas Senate and cracking the Democratic lock on the state's highest criminal court bench.

"We will have more Republicans in office in Texas than ever before," GOP Chairman Fred Meyer said Wednesday. "That's encouraging and important."

President Bush carried his adopted home state to no avail. Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton will be the next president, and Texas Democrats said that signals a major change.

"You're seeing a real reflection for the first time that there is a new Democratic Party," Gov. Ann Richards said.

But while the governor could boast about the national win, closer to home she suffered some personal defeats.

Her first and most visible appointee, ex-Railroad Commissioner

Lena Guerrero, was trounced by Republican Barry Williamson, a virtual unknown just weeks ago.

Ms. Guerrero's 12-year lie about holding a college degree angered thousands of voters.

Williamson, a Dallas oilman, becomes the second Republican to serve on the panel that regulates oil and gas. Kent Hance won a 1988 election to fill an unexpired term there.

Williamson also joins state Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison and Agriculture Commission Rick Perry as Republicans holding statewide office.

Another Richards appointee to be defeated was Court of Criminal Appeals Judge Pete Benavides.

A narrow victory by Republican Lawrence Meyers, an appeals court judge from Fort Worth, gives the GOP its first seat on what had been a nine-Democrat court.

Democrats still have their hands firmly on the reins of Texas government.

Both the governor and lieutenant governor are Democrats, as are all three leading candidates for House speaker. Democrats still control both houses of the Legislature and have majorities on the top two state courts.

But the Republicans made big inroads in the state Senate on Tuesday, gaining four seats for a total of 13. That's their largest share of the Legislature's upper chamber since Reconstruction.

While Democrats hold an 18-13 majority, the GOP now has more than one-third of the Senate seats. That's a key threshold which, for the first time, allows them to block some legislation, stop proposed constitutional amendments and reject gubernatorial appointments.

Democrats did better in the races for Congress.

Republican Henry Bonilla of San Antonio did knock off incumbent Democratic Congressman Albert Bustamante, for a gain of one. But Democrats held other tightly contested races and picked up all three of the state's new districts. They emerged with a 21-9 edge in the U.S. House.

The state Supreme Court races were a wash. Democrats held a 5-4 edge going into Tuesday's elections. They held a 5-4 edge coming out.

Texans may find new jobs next year

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Several Texans may play roles as possible cabinet appointees for President-elect Bill Clinton.

Former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros led the list that also included Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro.

"Henry Cisneros - that seems to be everybody's top name," said Dallas attorney, novelist and Clinton campaign fund-raiser Paul Coggins. "I've always thought in many senses Henry would rather be in an appointive position rather than an elective one."

Coggins said Cisneros has been mentioned most as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development or Transportation.

Clinton Texas spokesman Craig Sutherland, said he has heard Cisneros mentioned possibly as Secretary of Education as well as HUD.

"He's got a strong background working in urban areas. That includes education and housing and urban development," Sutherland said.

Cisneros, who now runs a private asset management company in San Antonio, resigned his seat on the Federal Reserve Bank Board in Dallas earlier this year to become a senior adviser to the Clinton campaign.

Cisneros was in Little Rock, Ark., Wednesday and not immediately available for comment, his office said.

Campaign officials point out that their speculation is just that - speculation. In the next several weeks the Clinton administration will start to take shape.

"I don't think there's anybody out there that's any surprise," Sutherland said. "Your Henry Cisneros, your Garry Mauro, I'm sure are going to be under consideration."

Mauro, Texas Land Commissioner, headed Clinton's campaign in Texas and also is often mentioned as a possible Clinton appointee. He also was en route from Little Rock Wednesday and not immediately available for comment.

Meanwhile, Coggins said that in the final days of the campaign he was asked to prepare a resume for the new administration.

"If there's a position that seems like a good fit, I'd be interested," Coggins said, adding that he would consider posts in the Justice Department or the Office of General Counsel.

Coggins also said his wife, attorney Regina Montoya, could be a Clinton appointee, possibly in the Department of Treasury.

Both Coggins and Ms. Montoya are friends of Bill and Hillary Clinton since their college days, and the Dallas couple became involved in the Clinton campaign in its early stages.

Coggins said now that Clinton has been elected, rumors are rampant about who might be going to Washington.

"You hear a lot of names, and you hear a lot of rumors," he said. "I know Bill Clinton, and he's looking for diversity and he's looking for really bright people. He likes people who challenge him. He doesn't like a lot of yes-people around him."

The list of Democratic names floating through the political rumor mill appears nearly limitless. Some - such as Gov. Ann Richards and U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen - may well consider their current jobs the best political options, Clinton campaign insiders say.

Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, declined to jump into the post-election appointment hoopla.

"There obviously are many, many people in public and private life in Texas who would be a great asset to any administration," Martin said. "I'm sure Texans will play a prominent role in the administration."

--For cluster boxes, the cost is $85 per year.

"When we got a new postmaster general a few months ago, they restructured the postal service," Thomas said. "When they changed us to Fort Worth instead of Lubbock for supervision, they decided to give us a budget to try to meet. They really don't think we can meet it, but we can try if everyone could cooperate as much as possible."

If Hereford fails to meet its budget, or come reasonably close, postal officials could cut the budget to the point where cluster boxes are placed in all neighborhoods.

"We understand where there are disabled persons who need to use boxes near the front door, but of all the calls we have had it's been 85 percent positive," Thomas said.

Persons in "newer" sections of Hereford have cluster boxes or curbside receptacles. Mailboxes must meet USPS rules. The letter sent out this week says the box should be 42-48 inches above the street, and receptacles of neighbors should be placed closely together for best savings.

How to keep food fresh

The refrigerator is a modern day marvel no home can do without. In order to do the very best job of keeping food fresh, the key is proper preparation and wrapping.

-Vegetables and fruits are best kept in your refrigerator's crisper or in an airtight container. Trim bruised areas from leafy vegetables, such as lettuce, celery and parsley. Rinse them in cool water and then allow to drain. Place them in the crisper with some of the water still clinging.

-Wash and dry veggies and fruits with skins before placing in the crisper.

-Berries keep better if not washed until ready for use. Simply sort, wrap loosely and store in the crisper or a closed container on a refrigerator shelf.

-Poultry should be kept in store wrapping if it is plastic. If wrapped in paper, rewrap in plastic and store in meat tray.

-Fresh meats should be removed from the market wrapping and rewrapped in aluminum foil. Store in meat tray.

-Cooked meat should be covered with plastic wrap or aluminum foil and stored on a refrigerator shelf.

-Cured or smoked meats are best kept in original wrapping. Once opened, tightly rewrap in plastic or foil.

Whitefaces meet Demons for district title

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The football season comes down to this: the winner between Hereford and Dumas Friday is the District 1-4A champion—it'd be outright for Hereford or a share for Dumas—and the loser may not even make the playoffs.

Hereford is 4-0 in District 1-4A competition and is 7-2 overall and on a seven-game winning streak. Dumas is 3-1, having lost to Pampa, and 5-4 overall with losses to Amarillo High, Plainview and Snyder. The Herd and the Demons meet at 7:30 p.m. in Dumas.

"This is a big game, a shootout in terms of determining the district championship," Herd coach Danny Haney said. "A win for us will give us the district championship—the first one since 1981. That the goal we've had since November."

Friday's game could be a shootout similar to the game between Hereford and Randall, which the Herd won 31-26, or the game between Dumas and Randall, which the Demons won 28-26. Dumas' offense is powerful, while its defense is not.

"Paul Legg is their quarterback and he's the No. 11 passer in the state," Haney said. "Their running back (James Smith) has over 1,200 yards rushing. They've got a high-powered offense."

"We've got to be balanced on defense," Haney said. "We've got to make certain we stop the run, because that's how they've beaten people primarily. The games they've played well in and won they've won with running, and they maintained ball possession by throwing."

"We stack up well inside on the running game," Haney said. "We've got to shore up the passing defense to keep them from controlling the ball."

Dumas has scored 133 points in district play—20 more than Hereford—but they've allowed 94 points, which is 40 more than Hereford has allowed.

"Their defense has been a little suspect," Haney said. "They've given up a lot of points and a lot of yards, but they give you a lot of different fronts, lots of looks, and they play extremely hard all the time."

"What their defense has done is created lots of turnovers, so we've got to control the ball, keep the defense off the field and maintain the consistency developed over the last three games—that is, very few penalties and no turnovers."

Hereford averaged nearly 50 yards per game in penalties over the first seven games, but cut that down to 30 in each of the last two games. As for turnovers, Hereford had no takeaways in the first two games—losses to Tascosa and Palo Duro—but since then is plus-13 in the turnover differential and has been at least even in every game. Hereford has gotten five interceptions each from Cody Powell and Ronnic Gomez.

The confusion over the district's tie-breaking process did not get cleared up during a meeting Wednesday, Haney said, so the district's coaches will try again today.

Haney said a decision will be made before the game, because, if Hereford is losing, the tie-breakers would affect last-minute strategy. It is possible that a six-point loss could put Hereford in the playoffs, while a seven-point loss would leave the Herd home.

Of course, as Haney points out, the simplest solution is for Hereford to win and let the other schools worry about the tie-breakers.

Injury Report: For the second week in row, everyone is available.

Players of the Week: Receiver Jason Tatarevich and defensive end Mark Kuper are the players of the week for their performance in Hereford's 41-0 win over Caprock Friday.

Fullback Todd Alexander was honored for the junior varsity team, and lineman Terrence High got the award for the sophomore team.

Hot pursuit

Hereford defensive end Mark Kuper, the defensive player of the week, pressures Caprock quarterback Chris Mason during the Herd's game Friday in Whiteface Stadium. Receiver Jason Tatarevich is the offensive player of the week.

Herd picked by 8 over Dumas

The Herd is an eight-point pick in its District 1-4A showdown with Dumas Friday at Dumas, according to the Harris Rating System.

Hereford has moved up to 48th in Harris' Class 4A rankings, with a power rating of 182. Dumas is 85th with a rating of 174.

In the other district games, Randall is a seven-point underdog at Pampa, and Caprock is favored by only one at home against Borger, giving Borger a chance for its first win this season. The Borger-Caprock is for last place in the district, while Hereford-Dumas and Randall-Pampa have playoff implications for all four teams.

Pampa (3-1 in district, 3-6 overall) is ranked 62nd by Harris with a rating of 178. Randall (2-2, 6-3) is 96th at 171.

Caprock (0-4, 2-7) and Borger (0-4, 0-9) help bring up the rear of 4A. Out of 173 teams, Caprock is 161st with a rating of 148, and Borger is 163rd with a rating of 147.

Plainview, in District 2-4A, slipped to 15th and 192 after its loss to Estacado Friday. The Bulldogs are one ahead of Sweetwater, and both have the same rating.

High's team wins hoop tourney

Former Hereford basketball player Stacey High was one of four women who teamed up to win the Top Gun Division of the 1992 Hoop-It-Up International Championship last weekend in Dallas.

High teamed with Vanessa Wells, Teresa Tinner and Nickey Allen to form Black Power, which won the tournament with a 5-0 record.

In the championship game, they beat the favored team from Omaha, Neb., in overtime. The Omaha team

Cowboys stick by Elliot

IRVING (AP) - Lin Elliott is a rookie who knows how the NFL works. If a placekicker doesn't produce, the equipment manager will be cleaning out his locker.

Elliott had a near-waiver wire experience in the Dallas Cowboys 20-10 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles on Sunday.

"I thought if I missed another one I'd be on a bus to Waco," Elliott said.

Elliott missed field goal attempts of 36 and 42 yards against the Eagles and the Texas Stadium boo birds gave the former Texas Tech star the kind of hoots they used to save for former quarterback Danny White after an interception.

Elliott understood. And he was glad the coaches did, too.

"The fans deserved to boo," Elliott said. "I'd miss two kicks. But nobody turned on me who wasn't in the stands. The coaches stayed with me."

In particular and more importantly, Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson.

"I told him to hang in there because we needed him to kick the winning field goal in the fourth quarter," said Johnson, a psychology major in college. "I told him he was going to be with us all four quarters. You can't fire your kicker during a game."

It all turned around for Elliott on a kick that didn't count.

He tried a 52-yard kick in the second quarter and it would have been good. However, Dallas got a delay of game penalty.

"That gave me confidence," he said. "It let me know I wasn't going to miss everything. I'd been making those kicks in practice. It wasn't like their was a force field or something around the goal posts. I felt I could do it. They didn't have a backup kicker. I felt they had to stick with me."

Elliott then hit a 35-yarder just before halftime and added a 48-yarder in the second. Also, all five of his kickoffs during the game went into the end zone.

"I think Lin showed a lot of the way he came back," said Johnson. "I think he will be a good kicker. He has a history of consistency. He's got the ability to win games. Let's face it. We are living with a rookie kicker who's going to be a good one."

Elliott missed his first field goal by hooking the ball. He pushed the second one right of the upright.

"I got it corrected in time to avoid a disaster," Elliott said.

Davis on verge of record

DALLAS (AP) - Houston Davis is proof that losing can be a disease - a dreaded condition that scars those afflicted, often requiring a miracle to cure.

Since a victory in the sixth week of the 1985 season, Davis hasn't had a remedy. The Panthers (0-8) are expected to break Iberia, Mo.'s national record of 72-consecutive losses tonight against Houston Worthing.

"They had that defeatist attitude when I took over," said Chuck Arnold, the third Davis coach since 1988. "It's real hard to change that."

Pats' McPherson is hospitalized

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) - Dick MacPherson, the long-suffering coach of the New England Patriots, kept his pain to himself until he couldn't take it anymore.

There were no outward signs that he had been under a doctor's care since June for a dangerous intestinal disorder. He still smiled, frowned, gestured and paced the sidelines in his usual animated manner.

He put up with his pain privately while enduring public torture as his team lost all eight of its games, a stress that didn't improve his health.

Three days after the latest loss, the vibrant MacPherson finally gave in. He was admitted to Massachusetts General Hospital on Wednesday, his 62nd birthday, for treatment of acute diverticulitis and is expected to miss at least two weeks.

It isn't curable in a short period of time."

The root of the problem is buried deep, beneath several skeletons which Arnold said are better left covered.

In their wake, however, are a battered program suffering from uninterested eligible students, a minuscule budget and dilapidated facilities in Houston's impoverished Fifth Ward.

Arnold knew of the school's pathetic recent past when he took the job and even was aware of Thursday's pending date with history, which he says is merely a formality.

Ending the streak is important, but victories are a later phase of his long-range plan to resurrect Panther Pride, which has dwindled since the school's last district title in 1943.

Arnold, who had only 19 players attend his first practice, said his first step is to increase the size of his squad, allowing him to lay a foundation for future success.

He's off to a good start, adding a junior varsity and freshman team this year after having only about 25 players in the entire program last year. With only six seniors, the program should continue to grow.

Potential players are able to avoid Davis by taking advantage of several types of transfers offered by the school district, forcing Arnold to, in effect, become a recruiter.

Knicks bring in new faces to challenge Bulls

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

For a team that won 51 regular-season games and took the Chicago Bulls to seven games in the Eastern Conference semifinals, the New York Knicks certainly did a lot of off-season rebuilding.

There's Rolando Blackman, Doc Rivers and rookie Hubert Davis in the backcourt, plus Charles Smith and Tony Campbell in the frontcourt.

But when the time comes that coach Pat Riley needs points down the stretch, the man he will go to will be the team's leading scorer in each of the last seven seasons, Patrick Ewing.

"I don't see much of a change in my role," said Ewing, 30, who begins his eighth NBA season Friday night when the Knicks travel to Atlanta. "I'm still here to block shots, score and rebound. There's definitely more balance, a lot of great players here and that should prove to be helpful in the long run."

"Everyone is committed to working hard, making contributions wherever they can. But that doesn't necessarily mean that I'll be playing any differently."

But with all the additional proven players at Riley's disposal, perhaps Ewing will no longer have to be a dominant player for the Knicks to win. Last season, he led the team in scoring (24.0), rebounding (11.2), shot blocking (2.9) and minutes per game (38.4).

"With this group, it should take some of the burden from him," Riley said. "We'd like to get more balance, in that the opposition wouldn't know where the ball was going."

But Riley still expects the Knicks style to be getting the ball inside, especially to Ewing.

"We're going to stay with it because it's a strength for us," Riley said. "The perimeter players are going to have to work off that."

In other openers Friday night, it will be Minnesota at Boston, New Jersey at Philadelphia, Miami at Orlando, the Los Angeles Lakers at the Los Angeles Clippers, Washington at Charlotte, Chicago at Cleveland, Milwaukee at Detroit, Golden State at Utah, San Antonio at Sacramento, and Seattle vs. Houston at Tokyo.

Four teams will be at home when they play their first games Saturday night: Utah at Dallas, San Antonio at Denver, Detroit at Indiana and the Clippers at Phoenix. Portland will be the last team to make its debut, when it entertains Denver on Sunday night.

Rivers previously played eight years in Atlanta for Dominique Wilkins, who missed 40 games with a torn Achilles tendon last season. Wilkins, whose career scoring average is 26.2, is back to start again for the Hawks, who made a last-ditch deal on Tuesday when they acquired point guard Mookie Blaylock from New Jersey in exchange for Rumeal Robinson.

"In Atlanta, we had 10 plays for Dominique Wilkins, but here there are only two for Pat," said Rivers, acquired by the Knicks from the Clippers. "But he'll still be the center of the offense. He knows it, his teammates know it. And we aim to please."

Without Magic Johnson last season, the Lakers faced tight competition in their own territory when the Clippers made the playoffs for the first time and the Lakers barely made it on the final day of the regular season.

The Lakers hoped to regain control of the city with Johnson's return, but his re-retirement on Monday figures to make the two teams even again.

"We can't be considered in the same class we were before," Lakers general manager Jerry West said. "We're unsure; we don't know what we have."

"I don't think this makes us totally a rebuilding team, but some things are obvious," rookie coach Randy Pfund said. "When you lose a superstar and a player that's your leader, that creates a little different expectation than we started with this year."

The Lakers, who in 1991-92 had their worst season (43-39) in 16 years, again will have to start Sedale Threatt at point guard instead of Johnson. Tony Smith is expected to be Threatt's backup, with Pfund also high on rookies Duane Cooper and Anthony Peeler.

"I want to see Peeler and Cooper very soon backing up Sedale," Pfund said. "They've been looking good at practice."

The Lakers' older players include Byron Scott, James Worthy and Sam Perkins, all 31, and James Edwards, 36. Other veterans include center Vlade Divac and A.C. Green.

Brewers' Listach is AL's top rookie

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Last April, Pat Listach fully expected to spend another season refining his game in the minors. Then came the call that pointed his career in a new direction.

Come to Milwaukee, the Brewers said.

Shortstop Billy Spiers' back was still hurting, and on the second day of the season the team needed another infielder.

Listach, who'd been cut in spring training, thought he would sit and watch and learn. But once in the big leagues, he never settled into his role as a utility infielder, either.

He was too fast on the bases, his bat was too consistent, his curiosity incessant and his play at shortstop wide-ranging. He had to play every day.

"You can't imagine how far I've come in the last eight months," Listach said Wednesday when he was named American League Rookie of

The Year by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

"I expected to start the season in Denver and was fortunate enough to come in and get a few chances to start and I had a few good games and worked my way into the lineup every day. It's pretty amazing. I've actually surprised myself as I have probably everybody else in this room," he said.

Listach was chosen first on 20 of 28 ballots and received 122 points in the balloting. Cleveland outfielder Kenny Lofton was second with 85 points, followed by Seattle pitcher Dave Fleming with 23 and Milwaukee pitcher Cal Eldred with 22.

Lofton got seven first-place votes and Eldred, who won 10 straight games during the Brewers' pennant run that fell just short, one.

Listach hit .290 with one homer and 47 RBIs. He also stole 54 bases to set a Brewers' club record.

IOC to keep out 'tourist' competitors

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) - No more Eddie "the Eagle" ski jumpers. No more African downhillers. No more Caribbean bobsledders.

The IOC executive board agreed Wednesday that strict qualification standards should be imposed, starting with the 1994 Games in Lillehammer, Norway, to keep out "tourist" competitors.

"In the past, we have had problems with the technical level or quality of some athletes," IOC spokeswoman Michele Verdier said. "It's a problem of image. The Games are about excellence and the best athletes. We have to encourage that."

JIM BRET CAMPBELL

DEAR DR. LAMB: I would like some information on a specific kind of heart murmur caused by a ventricular septal defect (VSD).

DEAR READER: A heart murmur is a sound caused by the turbulence of blood. It can be innocuous, particularly in children, or it can result from valve defects in the heart or, as in you and your daughter's cases, from a congenital defect.

A ventricular septal defect is a hole between the left and right ventricles. The ventricles are the muscular pumping chambers of your heart.

The pressure in the left ventricle is much higher than the pressure in the right ventricle, because it must pump blood through all those arteries to your body.

That means the left ventricle must pump more blood than usual, but so does the right ventricle because of the extra blood pumped through the hole.

When the hole is small, and little blood is squirted through it, the defect may not cause many significant changes. The blood pumped to the body is rich in oxygen, unlike congenital defects when oxygen-poor blood is shunted into the left heart's circulation.

Larger shunts may cause problems in time and these may need to be corrected. This is commonly done today with open-heart surgery.

I am sending you Special Issue 31-04, Understanding Your Heart, for information on how the heart actually works. Others want this issue can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/31-04.

DEAR DR. LAMB: What can you tell me about athletic amenorrhea? Just why would athletics cause a woman to stop having periods?

Casual legwear-tights, trouser socks and casual socks-help many women put their best foot forward in style.

Dean's Scholars of Texas Tech University's College of Agricultural Sciences were honored by faculty, administrators and parents at a reception Oct. 16 in the University Center courtyard.

Each of the Dean's Scholars were awarded either a $2,500 Gold Scholarship or a $1,250 Silver Scholarship, both of which are renewable for up to four years if the program's requirements are met.

To be eligible for a Gold Scholarship, students must graduate in the upper 10 percent of their high school class and/or have a minimum score of 1,300 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test or a minimum grade of 31 on the American College Test.

Do you have a mouse in the house?

What can tread water for three days, fall five stories without being hurt and survive being flushed down a toilet? Rodents, of course, and it's the time of year when they start looking toward your home for shelter.

According to pest control experts, the annual fall dip in temperatures signal mice and rats to move indoors for warmth, food, water and shelter.

Experts say the signs of rodents including droppings, holes in boxes of food, dark oil marks, where their bodies have rubbed against a wall, plus they may be heard moving around inside walls.

To keep rats and mice out of your home this fall, try the following hints: -Find and remove their nest.

-Seal all gaps under doors, around pipes and electrical wires with steel wool and caulk or mortar; screen attic vents.

-Fill in holes behind posts and in concrete blocks. -Remove weeds and overgrown grass where they can feed and live.

Since mice and rats are a health hazard, knowing how to get rid of them is important.

How To Turn Six Numbers Into Six Figures.

Nowhere in the history of the world has there ever been any real significance to the number six.

There were never SIX Musketeers.

There was never any movie entitled the Magnificent SIX.

Nobody ever says, "Hey, homeboy, slap me SIX." There are no mentions of the big SIX automakers, and so on and so forth.

So, for the first time in the history of the world, lowly SIX is about to be elevated to a much higher level. Elevated, in fact, to millions, in a new type of game. Read on, it gets easier.

LOTTO Texas is a new game from the Texas Lottery. It's fun, it's exciting and it's easy to play.

You pick six numbers from one to fifty, and should you happen to pick the same six numbers that come up during the drawings, then you could win millions of dollars.

Now, the long version on how to play LOTTO Texas:

Step number one. Go to your LOTTO Texas retailer. You can only play where you see the red and yellow sign that says LOTTO Texas.

It shouldn't be a big problem. There are thousands of LOTTO Texas retailers all over the state. Look at the lower right-hand part of this page. That is our new logo. (We're quite proud.) Wherever you see that sign, you know you can play LOTTO Texas.

Still with us? Great. Step number two. While you are at the retailer, pick up a playslip. There's a picture of it on this page. You may find the playslip in a stand called a play station. If not, just ask for one.

Step number three. (My, we are moving right along now, aren't we?) Choose SIX of the numbers on the playslip from one to fifty. You can also play up to five times on each playslip. You must completely fill in the numbers you choose on the playslip with a BLACK OR BLUE BALLPOINT PEN OR A PENCIL ONLY. The pencil below is free, and it will work quite nicely. Also, do not erase any of the mistakes you make. Just fill in the VOID box on that play and you will not be charged for it.

Step number four. (Past the halfway mark.) Take a dollar (that's how much it costs to play LOTTO Texas) and give it and the playslip to the retailer. In just a few seconds, you will be handed a ticket that verifies which numbers you picked. Please remember: sign the back of your ticket so no one else can cash it in.

Step number five. You can tune in to the televised drawings on Wednesday and Saturday nights at 9:58 p.m. CST to see how well you did. If you picked all six of the numbers that are randomly chosen on the ball machine, then you could be a millionaire.

If you miss the drawing, those numbers will be posted the next day at all LOTTO Texas retailers and in your local newspaper.

The jackpots are paid out to the winners in 20 annual installments. You can also win second and third prizes by matching five out of six numbers or four out of six numbers.

Match three out of six and you'll win $3 automatically. If you win up to $599, you can collect your prize at any LOTTO Texas retailer. All winnings of $600 or more can be claimed at any of the Texas Lottery claim centers in any of the cities listed on the back of a How To Play brochure for LOTTO Texas. (That list is a little long for this ad.) You will also find the odds printed in that brochure. You can claim prizes through the mail, as well, by using a claim form that you pick up from any Texas Lottery retailer. Please make copies of the front and the back of your ticket before you send it in. The Texas Lottery is not responsible for tickets lost in the mail. All prizes must be claimed within 180 days of the drawing.

Finally, LOTTO Texas can be played up to 10 drawings (five weeks) in advance. If you want to play the same numbers for several drawings in a row, fill in the multi-draw box on your playslip with however many drawings you would like to play. You must be 18 years or older to play. And when you are watching the televised drawings, your heart may pound a little. Your palms may sweat. Please do remember to have fun.
