FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - General Dynamics Corp. plans to slice almost 6,000 workers from its payroll, but the brunt of critics' blame seems to target the Bush administration.

The giant defense contractor announced Wednesday the layoffs of 5,800 Fort Worth workers by the end of 1994.

"Certainly, with a downsized defense industry, cutbacks are necessary," said Dean Girardot, a spokesman for the International Association of Machinists, which represents about 10,000 General Dynamics workers. "But they're not cutting back. They're dismantling the company."

"If the president of the United States would get off his duff and let General Dynamics sell these F-16s to Taiwan, it would save about 3,000 jobs," Girardot said.

Gov. Ann Richards, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Rep. Pete Geren, D-Fort Worth, expressed similar sentiment.

Bentsen, D-Texas, said the White House is missing an opportunity to keep the nation's defense manufacturing base strong by barring the sale of F-16s to Taiwan. The Taiwanese now have turned to the French, seeking to buy Mirage jets.

Richards blamed President Bush for refusing to deal in a global marketplace.

"This action goes way beyond politics or political parties," she said.

"I don't know what deals have been made between George Bush and communist China, but when it means the loss of 5,800 workers in Fort Worth, Texas, it is time to wake up and smell the coffee."

RICHARDS

Geren, whose district is home to the General Dynamics plant, also urged a review of the ban on F-16 sales to Taiwan. Selling F-16s to Taiwan would mean $10 billion to the United States as well as a better air defense for a key ally, Geren said.

"This purchase would provide us with one of those rare opportunities when everyone would come out a winner," he said.

Wednesday's news release from General Dynamics said the company is restructuring because of "declining defense budgets and reductions in production rates for its F-16 fighter aircraft."

General Dynamics said about 900 people will lose their jobs this year, with 1,500 laid off the first quarter of 1993 and 800 to 900 a quarter thereafter through the end of 1994.

"Man, that's bad news," said worker Jeff Hodges. "Maybe they'll apply that peace dividend to the unemployment checks."

General Dynamics has cut 10,000 workers since 1990.

General Dynamics chairman William Anders outlined a severe downsizing plan that calls for selling all but four core businesses: combat aircraft, submarines, tanks and space launch vehicles.

Layoff announcements will start in the next several weeks.

Word of layoffs comes as the F-16 program faces another difficult funding fight in Congress this year. In a repeat of last year, the Senate Armed Services Committee last week axed all funds next year for the fighter.

The action is at odds with the House, where support for the workhorse jet is stronger. Earlier this session, the House approved $615 million to build 24 planes next year and $64 million more to keep the production line running past 1993.

Traffic lights going up

Climaxing a summer's worth of work, a crew from Roy Willis construction in Abilene put the final touches on a traffic light mast for the intersection of Ave. K and Park on Wednesday. The new mast-mounted lights will be traffic-actuated. New signals will begin working at four intersections on E. Park, Main and U.S. Highway 60 and U.S. Highways 60 and 385.

BUSH*President hopes to cut his losses

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush, with a visit to two crucial electoral states, is hoping to divert attention from a turmoil-ridden campaign beset by sagging poll numbers and escalating criticism from frustrated Republicans.

Bush was stopping today in Waxahachie, Texas, to underscore his support for the superconducting super collider atom smasher under construction in the state he calls home. Congress is trying to kill the $8.25 billion project.

Most of Bush's appearances during the two-day trip were in California, where a statewide poll released Wednesday showed him 34 points behind Democrat Bill Clinton.

"A single poll in a single state has very little relevance," Bush campaign spokeswoman Torie Clarke said Wednesday.

But also that day, Clinton posted a seven-point lead in a poll in Virginia, conservative columnist George Will suggested Bush drop his re-election drive and Republican members of Congress emerged from a campaign briefing saying they were depressed about Bush's chances and his conduct of the campaign.

Senate mulls tax break

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bipartisan bill approved by the Senate Finance Committee would bring back popular tax-deductible Individual Retirement Accounts for all workers.

The voluminous tax measure, which lawmakers expect President Bush to support, also would offer a $2,500 credit for people who buy a home for the first time between now and year end. And it would provide new incentives for businesses and investors to create jobs in inner cities and poverty-stricken rural areas.

The committee approved the measure Wednesday night by voice vote with no dissenters. Senate action could come as early as next week; negotiators then would try to work out a compromise with a version already passed by the House.

The Senate plan would cut some taxes by more than $30 billion over the next five years and raise other taxes by the same amount. By comparison, the House bill has a $17 billion price tag.

After a year of heated political bickering between the Democratic-controlled Congress and the Republican White House, the Senate legislation would allow lawmakers and Bush to brag to voters about doing something to boost the economy and to respond to last spring's riots in Los Angeles.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the finance committee, said the bill is a series of steps "toward a goal we all share: long-term sustained economic growth for workers and their families."

"I think we've done a good job on this bill," said Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon, senior Republican on the committee. He acknowledged the administration would be considerably more pleased if the bill included the capital-gains tax reduction that Bush has been advocating for more than four years.

Panel: no AIDS testing

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Commission on AIDS today recommended against AIDS testing of health care workers and said doctors and nurses infected with the HIV virus should not be forced to disclose that to patients.

Such measures would be counterproductive and could cost lives, the government-appointed commission said.

The commission said public fear of getting AIDS from an infected doctor, dentist or nurse is misplaced, because with the exception of the case of one dentist in Florida, nothing like that has happened.

"Policies must be directed at eliminating risks that are significant rather than remote or theoretical," the commission's report said. "The 'cure' for the risk of HIV (human immunodeficiency virus) transmission in the health care setting must not be more damaging than the risk to the public health."

Five patients were infected by the now-dead dentist, Dr. David Acer, and one of them, Kimberly Bergalis, died last year. The federal Centers for Disease Control and health officials in Florida have said it may never be known precisely how the virus was transmitted from Acer to his patients.

But the fact that that is the only instance is evidence that the problem is not significant, the report said.

Because transmission of HIV is through direct contact with bodily fluids of an infected person, chances of getting it from a someone practicing medicine are virtually nil if standard precautions, such as use of rubber gloves, are employed, the commission said.

Far more likely, it said, is the possibility that the health care workers could catch the disease from their patients.

But even there, the panel did not recommend AIDS testing for all patients, in part because it would be too expensive, costing an estimated $1.5 billion a year.

The Democratic Party is riding high in the aftermath of their national convention. Bill Clinton and Al Gore present the best looking team the Democrats have had in a long time. If this team is elected, we would hope they could function free of the old-line Demo liberals who are in control.

I may be wrong, but it's always been hard for me to believe that a President and his running mate have much stroke. They may want to change, but they are held hostage by the power-brokers in their party.

Clinton and Gore and Bush and Quayle can advocate change all they want, but unless there is a measure of cooperation between the liberals of Congress and the administration, we are not likely to see much change in the next four years.

Wiretaps led to huge raid

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - A prosecutor says wiretap evidence was persuasive to a federal grand jury which returned 115 indictments against 26 members of two suspected family-run heroin and cocaine rings in West Texas.

"There is very strong evidence as the result of a wiretap," Assistant U.S. Attorney Dick Baker of Lubbock said Wednesday.

"While it's a long indictment and very tedious to prepare, we presented the evidence to the grand jury and they were convinced," he said.

Grand jurors returned the indictments Wednesday against members of the Duran family of San Angelo and the Marquez family of Big Spring, both suspected of supervising drug trade deep into Mexico, Baker said.

Authorities said most indictments involve conspiracy charges, and multiple counts of possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute as well as money laundering.

Because the case is pending, Baker said he could not elaborate on specifics of the wiretap evidence. But he said busts have crippled the movement of cocaine and heroin throughout West Texas.

"We have in custody two separate sources for heroin and one for cocaine," he said. "These were the suppliers. And by the fact that it is very difficult to get heroin into the country, we feel we have done considerable disruption."

Baker contends that brothers Ramon Resendez Duran Jr., 44, and Augustine Duran Sr., 46, have led a family operated heroin network in San Angelo dating back 18 years.

The prosecutor accuses the Durans of moving about $20,000 to $30,000 worth of heroin every three to seven days.

If convicted on numerous conspiracy and drug possession counts, the Duran brothers each face up to life in prison and up to $2 million in fines.

Duran family members' attorneys were unreachable by The Associated Press today.

Asked earlier this month if he was innocent of the charges, Ramon Duran told The Associated Press, "Most of them - yes."

Also asked if his family was moving massive amounts of heroin through West Texas, Duran told the AP, "No, not that much. No. I don't know how they came to that."

Duran, asked if authorities had the wrong people, responded, "I don't know."

More than $1 million worth of heroin and cocaine has been confiscated in the raid, Baker said. Much of the heroin was being shipped in from Mexico and South America, Baker said.

Authorities accuse brothers Manuel, 45, Tony, 38, and Roberto Moreno Marquez, 47, of Big Spring of concealing cocaine and marijuana operations in a family-owned fence company and a radio and TV service office.

If convicted, Manuel and Bobby Marquez face up to life in prison. Meanwhile, Tony Marquez could be sentenced up to 40 years if found guilty on conspiracy and drug charges.

Congress considers bigger bailout

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush again is asking for more money to clean up savings and loans, but House lawmakers are still arguing about the same issues that ensnared S&L funding last spring.

In a letter Wednesday to House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., Bush said, "The savings and loan cleanup has not been popular ... but it has been necessary to carry out the government's promise of deposit insurance."

Citing estimates that delays in the program are adding $4 million to $6 million a day to its cost, the president said, "The American taxpayer should not be burdened with the costs of this delay."

He did not request a specific amount.

A spokesman for Foley, Jeff Biggs, said it will take more than presidential letters to get a cleanup bill moving through the House, which defeated a version in early April by lopsided majorities in both parties.

The speaker was not likely to send the bill to the House floor until he was assured of Republican support, Biggs said.

The S&L bailout agency, the Resolution Trust Corp., has spent $87 billion since 1989, closing 652 of the 718 thrifts it has seized. The Senate passed legislation in March giving the RTC an additional $43 billion to finish the job, but House members in both parties combined to defeat even a scaled-down version, which would have provided $18 billion.

Strikers consider going back

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - A farmworker labor leader says his group of chile pickers today will decide whether to continue picketing what they call unfair wages.

The decision comes one day after New Mexico sheriff's deputies sent more than 100 protesters back to El Paso by bus.

Dona Ana County Sheriff's Department spokesman Jan Cary told the El Paso Times he had no information about Wednesday's incident.

Loyd Anderson, who owns the field south of Las Cruces, said he called deputies because a few workers blocked tractors and traffic on the county road. Some tractor drivers were pushed off of their machines, he said.

"They took the keys out of several of my tractors and threw them away," Anderson said. "I'm so sick of this, it's not even funny."

But Carlos Marentes, director of the Border Agricultural Workers Union said the pay for picking jalapenos dropped to 85 cents a bucket, from last year's $1.15 a bucket.

"This situation could catch fire, because the sheriff had no right to run us off like he did," Marentes said. "We don't want to see violence and we will do everything in our power to prevent it, but the workers want to see change."

"Service aboard a sea-going vessel is confining, rigorous and dangerous, and we should all be thankful for those who serve to guard our waterways, coasts and fight our battles on the oceans and seas."

Ann Landers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Gospel singer Sandi Patti, who all but gave up touring this year to spend more time with her family, has filed for divorce.

Patti, 36, and her husband, John L. Helvering Jr., have been married for 13 years. They have four children, ages 2 to 8.

The singer, who had played 100 shows a year, said earlier this year that she was re-evaluating her priorities and wanted to spend more time with her family.

Her spokeswoman said Wednesday that Patti had no comment on the breakup.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You asked what is being done to rectify the educational situation in this country. The answer is NOTHING.

I am a teacher in Florida. Our superintendent has given us the added burden of teaching the unteachable. These are students who disrupt classes and refuse to learn. Our principal is so public-relations minded that he is terrified if a parent becomes upset. Consequently, there is no discipline, and the teachers have no control.

We have riots, fights, thefts, drug sales and weapons in school on a regular basis. In the hallways between classes, we hear threats and filthy language. When the bell rings, many students continue to mill around instead of going to class because if they are late they receive nothing more than a slap on the wrist. Classes are continually disrupted by lewd comments, raucous laughter and loud arguments with teachers.

Teachers have been stripped of power and self-esteem. Morale is at an all-time low. The extra paperwork involves so much time and work that, along with the increased class size, disrespect and lack of parental support, our teachers are completely demoralized.

I say, give teachers smaller classes, time to prepare during the work day instead of at home, less interference from "upstairs," fair wages (to which they are certainly entitled), plus authority and respect. A good teacher is a bargain at any price.--West Palm Beach, Fla.

DEAR W.P.B.: You've echoed the sentiments of many readers, and I'm sure there is a great deal of validity in your complaints, but happily, you do not speak for everyone. Please keep reading:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I stopped cold after I read that unsettling letter from "Burned Out in Philly." His description of the school system is totally foreign to me.

I have been teaching in the same high school near Dayton, Ohio, for almost 20 years. Granted, it's a good school, well-supported by parents who care. However, I believe that every school could be a zoo if we let it happen.

As I read "Burned Out's" sad description of a school in Philadelphia, I kept wondering what was being done to improve the situation. In our school, a group of teachers and administrators meet periodically, sometimes at 6 a.m., to address various concerns. Not a single teacher complains about meeting so early, parents volunteer for many activities, and our administrators are dedicated as well. It's a package deal.

Is my school an exception? No, it is not. Last year, I was with a group of teachers who visited an inner-city school in Dayton and we were truly impressed by what we saw there. The students were well-mannered and respectful. They even had a dress code which many schools have given up on because they believe it's unenforceable.

Please don't let your readers buy into the notion that all public schools are irrevocably dirty, dangerous and hopeless and there is nothing we can do about it.--Y.R., Centerville, Ohio

DEAR CENTERVILLE: You've written a convincing rebuttal and I thank you. What a superb and well-deserved plug for Centerville. Thanks for a fine blueprint for troubled schools across the nation. The key, of course, is parental involvement.

Gem of the Day: Children are at the perfect age when they are too old to cry at night and too young to drive a car.

When Planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" has all the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-3562.

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) - Patti LaBelle cut short a concert after complaining about a seafood platter with too few shrimp.

The singer was 90 minutes into her show Tuesday when she complained about the food served to her and her crew and abruptly left the stage, said Larry Bonoff, business manager at the Warwick Musical Theater.

Debbie McBride, one of 1,600 people who paid up to $25 to hear the rhythm and blues star, said LaBelle complained she got only seven shrimp on the seafood platter.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: A big time-saver is to record television programs to play at another time.

The commercials can be "fast forwarded" over during replay. This may save up to 40 minutes during a three-hour movie. — Jeff Thomas, Bellaire, Texas

Dear Heloise: When I take my dog for long walks, five miles or more, I pack a water bottle with ice so when it melts I can give him a drink.

I also pack one for myself. Carrying one in each hand makes excellent wrist weights while walking. — A Reader, Scarsdale, N.Y.

Women's Dream Team tears up Czechs

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) - Launi Meili couldn't shoot any better, and neither could the U.S. women's basketball team, on a morning marred by the first drug scandal of the Summer Games.

The distaff Dream Team, seeking its third straight gold medal, opened its defense with a record-setting 111-55 whipping of Czechoslovakia. It was the most points scored and the largest victory margin ever for a U.S. women's team.

Teresa Edwards and Clarissa Dixon had 16 points apiece for the women, who captured their 13th straight Olympic victory.

Meili captured only the second women's medal ever by an American in the rifle competition, winning the three-position rifle gold. The 19-year-old from Cheney, Wash., finished seventh in the same event four years ago.

She came close to a gold in Seoul, leading in the air rifle competition before winding up sixth. The five-time national champion does double duty when training at the Olympic Center in Colorado Springs, Colo.; she is also a nutritionist there.

The only previous U.S. women's rifle medalist was Pat Spurgin, champion in 1984 for the women's air rifle.

The United States did well at the pool early today. Melvin Stewart breezed to the finals of the 200-meter butterfly, nearly setting an Olympic record in the process. Summer Sanders also had an easy time of things, in the 200 individual medley.

Not all the news came from the venues. The British Olympic Association announced it had sent three athletes packing because of drugs.

Jason Livingston, the European 60-meter champion, was suspended by the BOA for testing positive for anabolic steroids July 15 after a random test in Britain.

Weightlifters Andrew Davies and Andrew Sexton were suspended for testing positive for a stimulant and anabolic agents, BOA spokeswoman Caroline Searle told a news conference.

Davies and Sexton also tested positive in random tests last month in Britain, Searle said.

Ten athletes tested positive for drugs at the Seoul Olympics, most notably Canadian sprinter Ben Johnson. He won the 100-meter dash in world-record time, but had the medal and the record stripped after testing positive for steroids.

At the pool, Stewart missed an Olympic record by five-hundredths of a second, qualifying first in 1:56.99. Stewart, the world record-holder from Charlotte, N.C., just missed breaking the record of 1:56.94 set by Michael Gross of Germany in 1988.

Sanders, of Roseville, Calif., led all qualifiers in the 200 individual medley with a time of 2:14.68. Double gold medalist Nicole Haislett of St. Petersburg, Fla., who won the 200 freestyle, failed to make the final.

Jeff Rouse of Fredricksburg, Va., was the fastest 100 backstroke qualifier in 54.63 seconds, .70 seconds off his world record of 53.93. Gold medal favorite Jim Courier of the United States won 14 straight games in rolling to a 6-2, 6-0, 6-0 victory over Gilad Bloom of Israel. Three of the top 10 seeds are already eliminated; No. 7 Guy Forget of France lost to Magnus Larsson of Sweden, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1.

On Wednesday, the official Olympic Dream Team, the U.S. hoopsters, and their baseball equivalent, the Cubans, made two more brutal wake-ups calls to their opponents from around the world.

Neither has lost yet at the Summer Games.

Magic Johnson out with a bum knee? The Dream Team plunders Michael Jordan at point guard and blows away Germany, 111-68. The out-of-position superstar shifted gears to post 15 points, 12 assists and zero turnovers.

The U.S. baseball team goes ahead 5-0 against its nemesis in the first inning? De nada - it's nothing. Los Cubanos bounce back with nine runs and roll to their fourth straight victory, 9-6, making them the Olympics' only unbeaten baseball team.

"We had nine more opportunities to play offense and go for it," Cuban coach Jorge Fuentes said. "I would have been worried only if it was 5-0 at the end of the game."

A three-run homer by Antonio Pacheco, combined with four U.S. errors, quickly erased the five-run American lead Wednesday night. A wild pickoff throw and a wild pitch by the shaky U.S. bullpen led to two more runs and put the game away for the Cubans.

"Maybe the five-run first inning we had was the worst thing that happened to us. I think it gave us a false sense of security," U.S. coach Ron Fraser said. "I told our guys, Cuba doesn't roll over."

The Cubans now have a 32-13 record against the United States over the past six years, and hold a significant psychological edge if the two teams meet again in the medal round. The United States is now 3-1.

The Americans knew before the game it might not be their night. The team was fined $600 for having too many people in its dugout, where Larry Bird was trying to hide out from autograph seekers for a few innings on Tuesday.

Bird had 19 points to lead the Dream Team to its third straight victory, but everyone was most impressed by the Air Assist show. Typically, Jordan just shrugged it off.

"I do it when I need to," Jordan said matter-of-factly about his pointed switch. "My true position is shooting guard. If my team needs me, I'll do it. I feel I can do it because I'm versatile."

Magic hopes to be back for Friday's game against Brazil. "I'd have to say he's day-to-day, and we'll see where we are," coach Chuck Daly said. Back-up point guard John Stockton, recovering from a broken leg, may also return Friday.

Some may doubt the U.S. hoopsters are destined for gold, but none change their clothes in the U.S. locker room. The main topic after Wednesday's blowout was clothing for the medal ceremony, with Nike clients saying they won't just do it put on Reebok warmups.

"Nike pays us a ton of money. I have two million reasons not to wear Reebok," explained Charles Barkley, who managed to avoid any international incidents during the game.

While the twin dream teams must wait for their golds, there was instant gratification - and a pair of world records - at the Olympic pool Wednesday. An American diver stepped up to replace his idol Greg Louganis, and tennis star Stefan Edberg bowed out of the tennis with a first-round loss.

Swimming record No. 1, accompanied by gold medal No. 3, went to the Unified Team's Evgeni Sadovyi. The 19-year-old demolished the world record in the 400-meter freestyle by nearly 1 1/2 seconds with a time of 3 minutes, 45 seconds.

Sadovyi had already won medals in the 200 freestyle and the 800 freestyle relay. His showing helped lead the Unified Team to the overall medal lead with 26, including 15 gold. The United States is second with 21 medals and 7 gold, followed by China with 17 and 6.

Swimming record No. 2, accompanied by a wake-up call to the U.S. men swimmers, was delivered by America's Mark Barrowman. The men swimmers, their spirits sinking after a tough Tuesday, turned to Barrowman for a spark - and found an inferno.

The 23-year-old from Potomac, Md., ripped off an Olympic record 220-meter breaststroke in the morning, and followed with the world record to grab the gold in the afternoon.

His fire spread to the U.S. relay team, which took a historic gold a short time later. Matt Biondi, bouncing back from a fifth place the day before, won his seventh career gold as part of the four-man team.

Biondi, who has nine medals overall, and teammate Tom Jager became the first male swimmers to capture medals in three different Olympics when they made up half the gold-winning 400 freestyle relay.

Barrowman said he was just following orders with his incendiary showing.

"My coach came up to me before the race. He said, 'The U.S. team is not performing 100 percent, not performing as well as it should be. You've got to get the U.S. team going and a world record would certainly help do that,'" Barrowman said. "I'm hoping that will spark everyone else."

Consider it done. The women swimmers copped a pair of silvers, but once again had a favorite exit the pool without gold. Crissy Ahmann-Leighton of Tuscon, Ariz., the world's top-ranked 100-meter butterfly this year, finished second - the fourth American woman who failed to fulfill golden expectations. Qian Hong of China set an Olympic record of 58.62 seconds to win the event.

Anita Nall, 16, of Towson, Md., finished second in the women's 100-meter breaststroke. Elena Roudkovskaia took the medal for the Unified Team, and Samantha Raley of Australia won the bronze.

Diver Mark Lenzi started his career seven years ago intent on becoming the next Greg Louganis, giving up high school wrestling to take the plunge after watching the gold medal winner in 1984. After winning his own gold, Lenzi said, he's content just being Mark Lenzi.

"Louganis was a great champion, and like I've said before, you can't replace a great champion," Lenzi said. "But you can't replace me either."

Louganis' retirement after four gold medals in two Olympic Games left a void which Lenzi stepped right into during the first post-Greg Summer Games event. He grabbed the lead in his seventh of 11 dives, and held on to win.

Plummeting almost as quickly as Lenzi was Edberg, the silver medal favorite and defending U.S. Open champion. He was eliminated by the world's No. 47 player, Andrei Chesnokov of the Unified Team.

"I played badly, there's no doubt about that," said Edberg, who absorbed a first-round defeat for the first time since 1990. "Nothing really felt right at all. I couldn't keep the ball in the court."

There was bad news for the Americans, too. The end of the road came Wednesday for the U.S. soccer team, which tied Poland 2-2 but was eliminated from advancing. The team posted a 1-1-1 mark.

The U.S. boxing team, which entered the day 6-0, had its two fighters split. Julian Wheeler of Virginia Beach, Va., was defeated by Ramazi Paliani, an 18-year-old from the Unified Team in a 125-pound bout.

Montell Griffin then became the seventh American to win by beating France Lassie Mabiletsa of Botswana 10-4 at 178 pounds, and announced his interesting post-game plans.

"Maybe I'll be on a Wheaties box or something," said the 22-year-old Chicagoan, who needs four more wins for a gold medal.

28 wins Scramble

The foursome of Joe Leal, Steve Stevens, Perry Ray and Lillie Shipman shot a 28 to win the Wednesday Scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Two teams shot 29, and a scorecard playoff gave Rick Hopping, Rocky Lee, Mary Shelton and Dee Hamilton second place. In third were Paul Hubbard, Steve Sanders, Paul Hamilton and Bob Hughes.

Sanders leads the summer-long points standings with 25, followed Robert Kubacak with 22, Hubbard with 21 and Bartley Dowell with 20. Cliff Jones, Dee Hamilton and Stevens are tied at 19. Five others are tied at 18.

Andrews edges Plainview; will meet Graham in finals

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Andrews fought back against deficits all Wednesday night and finally claimed a 14-13 win over Plainview in the bottom of the eighth inning. They also claimed a spot in tonight's finals of the West Texas 13-year-old Babe Ruth State Tournament.

Andrews will meet Graham at 6 p.m. at the Kids Inc. Complex. Graham moved into the finals with a 7-5 beating of Plainview in the early game Wednesday. Graham is undefeated in the double-elimination tournament, while Andrews has one loss. If Andrews wins tonight, a second championship game will be necessary and will be played about 20 minutes after the conclusion of the first game.

In Wednesday's nightcap, Plainview held several leads--3-0, 8-2, 12-5--but Andrews kept plugging away. Marcus Bueno had two RBI hits in both the fourth and fifth innings while Andrews pulled back into the game with seven runs to make Plainview's lead 12-9.

Andrews held Plainview scoreless in the sixth, then pulled to within 12-11 on a walk, a single and two doubles. Plainview got insurance on an RBI single by Tim Watts, who also homered in the game, but Andrews came back with two to tie in the bottom of the seventh. The potential winning run was tagged out on a close play at home for the second out, and Andrews loaded the bases before going down.

In the top of the eighth, Plainview got men on second and third with one out, but Caleb Waller struck out the next two batters. In the bottom of the inning, Waller drew a two-out walk, went to second on a wild pitch and scored the winning run on Gabe Falcon's single.

In the first game Wednesday, Plainview took a 4-2 lead after one inning, and the scoring slowed down after that. Graham scored four runs in the bottom of the third when Plainview committed three errors on three consecutive batters. Graham scored another run in the fourth. Trailing 7-4 going into the seventh, Plainview got a two-out rally going but could only score once.

Another Athletics nobody comes up big

By JOHN KREISER
AP Sports Writer

The next time the Minnesota Twins play the Oakland Athletics, they'll know who Eric Fox is.

Fox became the latest in Oakland's legion of injury call-ups and spare parts to take center stage when his three-run homer in the ninth inning gave the Athletics a stunning 5-4 victory over the Twins Wednesday night and a share of the AL West lead with Minnesota.

"You don't think of him hitting one out," Twins catcher Brian Harper said of Fox, an outfielder who began the month playing for Huntsville in the Double-A Southern League. "I didn't even know who he was, to be honest with you."

He does now. So do the rest of the Twins after Fox's blast over the right field fence off relief ace Rick Aguilera completed Oakland's first sweep at the Metrodome since 1982.

Fox's second career homer gave the A's their sixth consecutive victory and moved them into the AL West lead for the first time since July 4.

"It was one of the most exciting moments of my career," Fox said.

The A's trailed 4-2 when Aguilera (1-5) relieved Bill Krueger, who held Oakland to four hits in eight innings and retired 14 of his final 15 batters. Jerry Browne and Harold Baines started the inning with pinch-hit singles. One out later, Fox sent a 1-1 fastball over the right field fence.

As usual, Dennis Eckersley needed no excuses. He worked a perfect ninth for his 33rd save in as many chances.

Orioles 6, Yankees 0

Rookie Arthur Rhodes pitched a five-hitter for his first major league shutout and Bill Ripken and Mike Devereaux homered as Baltimore won its second straight game at Yankee Stadium.

Cal Ripken and Glenn Davis both doubled, singled and drove in a run for Baltimore.

Rhodes (3-0) struck out eight and walked two in his first career complete game in 12 starts. Scott Kamieniecki (2-7) was the loser.

Royals 5, Blue Jays 2

Kevin Appier won his ninth consecutive decision and Gregg Jefferies had four hits as visiting Kansas City sent AL East-leading Toronto to its fourth loss in five games.

Jefferies doubled twice and scored the go-ahead run on a wild pitch by Mike Timlin (0-2) in the eighth. Curtis Wilkerson added a two-run single to cap a four-run inning. Appier (12-3) allowed eight hits in 8 1-3 innings. Jeff Montgomery finished for his 25th save.

Indians 4, Brewers 3

Kenny Lofton went 3-for-3 and capped a three-run sixth inning with a two-run single as Cleveland beat visiting Milwaukee.

Lofton's two-out hit off reliever Darren Holmes made Jack Armstrong (3-13) a winner. Derek Lilliquist got the last out for his third save.

Cal Eldred (1-1) allowed all four Cleveland runs.

White Sox 8, Tigers 6

Lance Johnson had a go-ahead RBI single in a six-run ninth inning as visiting Chicago rallied.

Tim Raines had a two-run single, George Bell singled in a run and Carlton Fisk's RBI single tied the score before Johnson's single brought in the go-ahead run. Craig Grebeck's bases-loaded walk capped the rally.

Mickey Tettleton had three RBIs for Detroit, two on his 22nd homer.

Reliever Terry Leach (3-4) was the winner and Scott Radinsky got the final out for his eighth save. Mike Munoz (1-2) took the loss.

Red Sox 6, Rangers 5

Roger Clemens struggled through 6 1-3 innings but earned his 11th victory and Tony Pena had a pair of RBI doubles as Boston beat Texas at Fenway Park.

A run-scoring wild pitch by Todd Burns (2-4) in the sixth broke a 3-3 tie and RBI doubles by Jody Reed and Pena made it 6-3.

Clemens (11-7) allowed seven hits and four runs while striking out seven. Jeff Reardon, Boston's fourth pitcher, worked the ninth for his 21st save.

Mariners 8, Angels 0

Brian Fisher earned his first major league victory since 1988 with seven shutout innings as visiting Seattle beat California.

Fisher (1-0), making his second start for the Mariners, allowed three hits and no walks while striking out one. Rich DeLucia worked the last two innings, allowing one hit.

Angels center fielder Junior Felix lost Jay Buhner's fly ball in the lights, leading to a three-run second inning against loser Bert Blyleven (4-5), and Omar Vizquel added a two-run single in the sixth.

Gilkey's homer gives Cards 4-1 win

By The Associated Press

If the Montreal Expos never see Bernard Gilkey again, it'll be too soon.

The oft-injured St. Louis Cardinals outfielder hit a game-winning, three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday night, giving St. Louis a 4-1 victory and preventing the Expos from taking sole possession of first place in the NL East.

"The home run, that's a big thrill for me," said Gilkey, who grew up in the St. Louis area and was signed by the Cardinals as a non-drafted free agent in 1984. "I've never hit a game-winning home run in the bottom of the ninth, and then to do it in my hometown ..."

The home run was Gilkey's first of the season and seventh of his short career. That it came against the Expos was no surprise: His first major league hit, his first major league home run and his first home run at Busch Stadium all have come against Montreal since Sept. 5, 1990.

The victory stopped a four-game slide by the fifth-place Cardinals, who moved within 4 1/2 games of the lead.

Ray Lankford singled to start the St. Louis ninth. Former Expos star Andres Galarraga, who tied the game at 1-1 in the seventh with his fifth homer of the year, then was hit by a pitch from loser Dennis Martinez (10-10). After Todd Zeile popped up a bunt to Martinez, Gilkey, in a 6-for-36 slump, homered to left to give reliever Lee Smith (3-3) the win.

Cubs 6, Pirates 4, 11 innings

Sammy Sosa's two-run homer in the 11th inning carried the Cubs to their fourth straight win and seventh in eight games.

Before his heroics, Sosa was anything but a hero. He was hitless in five at-bats and had struck out in his three previous times up.

But reliever Stan Belinda (5-3) gave him a sixth life when he issued a one-out walk on four pitches to reliever Paul Assenmacher (3-2), who brought his career average of .067 (2 for 30) to the plate for the first time this season.

Braves 5, Astros 3

Terry Pendleton's tie-breaking, seventh-inning home run allowed Tom Glavine to become baseball's first 16-game winner this season as Atlanta beat visiting Houston.

Pendleton's 14th homer came on a 3-1 pitch from reliever Willie Blair (2-6).

Glavine (16-3) gave up nine hits, walked five and fanned three over eight innings. Alejandro Pena pitched the ninth for his 12th save.

Phillies 6, Mets 3

At Veterans Stadium, Dave Hollins hit a grand slam to snap an eighth-inning tie.

Pinch-hitter Micky Morandini opened the inning with a single and moved to second on a single by Darren Daulton. Lenny Dykstra then lined a single to right, loading the bases.

After Mariano Duncan fouled out to first, Hollins lined a 3-1 pitch from reliever Lee Guetterman over the left field fence.

Mitch Williams (3-3) pitched the final two innings to pick up the victory.

Jeff Innis (5-7) took the loss.

Padres 7, Reds 3

At Jack Murphy Stadium, Gary Sheffield hit his 19th homer and had an RBI double to break San Diego's all-time mark for a third baseman with 66 RBIs.

Benito Santiago went 3-for-3 with two RBIs and Darrin Jackson and Kurt Stillwell each added solo homers to help Frank Seminara (6-3).

Sheffield tied the RBI mark set by Graig Nettles in 1984 with his solo homer to start a three-run seventh with two outs. He added an RBI double in the eighth.

Dodgers 6, Giants 1

At Candlestick Park, Ramon Martinez pitched 6 1-3 no-hit innings and Eric Karros hit a three-run homer in the sixth off Trevor Wilson (6-11).

Martinez (6-8) gave up a double to Will Clark with one out in the seventh and Chris James drove him

LT welcomes rookie to NFL

By The Associated Press

Welcome to the NFL, Derek Brown. Sincerely, Lawrence Taylor.

Moments after signing his first contract, the New York Giants' first-round draft choice received a hardy hello from Taylor. On Brown's first play, Taylor shoved an elbow through his facemask and cut Brown's nose and lip.

"I guess he was welcoming me to the NFL," said the 6-foot-6, 252-pound tight end.

Brown signed his contract at about 1:30 p.m., ending a negotiation that forced him to miss 9 1/2 days of camp. He said he's not behind mentally because of his offseason work in the team's rookie mini-camp, but he is behind physically.

"I can catch up, I think," Brown said. "When we went over the plays, I knew it all. But running the plays on the field is a whole different thing."

Cardinals

Timm Rosenbach, who beat the most optimistic predictions for his recovery from reconstructive knee surgery, will start at quarterback for the Phoenix Cardinals in their first preseason game.

Coach Joe Bugel made the announcement Wednesday after a light, walk-through practice.

Chiefs

Robb Thomas said it was "terrible" not being in camp for eight days. The Chiefs' leading receiver last year was feeling better Wednesday after signing a new contract. Terms were not disclosed.

"I've never done anything like that before," Thomas said of his holdout.

home with a single to shallow center. Martinez pitched seven innings, giving up three hits, three walks and striking out six.

The Dodgers said Martinez left the game with a stiff neck. Roger McDowell, the fourth Los Angeles pitcher, got the last three outs to finish the combined five-hitter.

'Pokes, Oilers arrive in Japan

TOKYO (AP) - The Houston Oilers and Dallas Cowboys held short workouts, just hours after arriving for this weekend's NFL exhibition game at the Tokyo Dome.

Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson had his team stretch and run for 20 minutes, while Oilers coach Jack Pardee worked with his team for 25 minutes on the Oda Field, a practice area built for the 1964 Summer Olympics.

"It's good to finally be here," Pardee said Wednesday. "We have been looking forward to this trip for a long time. We practiced as soon as we got here to try to work off the plane ride."

"I think it will be beneficial. If the players go right to sleep as soon as they get here, the jet lag can get even worse."

The Cowboys arrived at Narita Airport at 3:28 p.m. Tokyo time, 33 minutes ahead of the plane carrying the Oilers.

"It's great to be here," said Cowboys owner Jerry Jones, who led a contingent of 76 players and 12 coaches.

The Oilers brought 72 players and 11 coaches. Owner Bud Adams left customs carrying several Oilers pennants.

Make that nightmare house into showplace

"Take me to your worst listing," Roger Bennett told the real estate broker in Wilton. She did.

The untenanted house had suffered a fire, several rooms were under water because the pipes had burst, and the neighbors were hoping the place would be demolished.

Against all reason but motivated by the price of $37,000 - far, far below prevailing prices for houses in the affluent Fairfield County town - Roger and Christine Bennett bought it.

Today, the trim contemporary with an interesting upward tilt to the largest of three hip roofs reveals little of its recent sorry history.

Although it would certainly have been easier to tear the house down and start over, this course was not an option for the Bennetts because of zoning laws. As a pre-existing nonconforming structure, it could only be renovated, not replaced or expanded.

An architect with experience in renovating homes, Bennett thought he could use his design knowledge and manual skill to make the house liveable at moderate cost.

Although he was given an estimate of $150,000 to fix it up and 12 banks turned him down on financing, he finally did secure a construction loan. He says he spent about $40,000 on materials and used the rest to pay his family's living expenses while he took a year off to rebuild the house. He hired some subcontractors but did most of the work himself.

"I treated it as a five-day-a-week job from 8 till 6. Towards the end, I had to go back to work in an office, so I worked here before and after the office and on weekends," he says.

Salvaging what they could, the Bennetts started by getting rid of debris and tearing out the ruined materials. In addition to redesigning the space, Bennett redid plumbing, electrical and heating systems, installed new insulation, interior walls, floors, windows and appliances. A new roof and exterior siding were required and parts of the foundation were shored up.

As an architect, he wanted the house to be stylish as well as practical. The fly-away roof is an example of a feature that serves both goals.

"The codes didn't allow me to increase the height of the house. By tilting the roof up at one end, I was able to slip in enough head space to make the balcony study feasible," says Bennett. Installing windows on the balcony exposed a view of a lake beyond the property.

The main area in the house, which incorporates three connected modules and looks bigger than its 1,600-square-foot size, is a single large room that encompasses kitchen, living area and dining room. Bennett's balcony studio is above this room.

A studio for Christine Bennett, who is an artist, and a bedroom and bath for the couple's daughter are beyond the kitchen at one end of the house. The master bedroom and bath are at the other end off the living area. An outbuilding houses Bennett's workshop and accommodates storage.

He enjoys the novelty as well as the serviceability of the corrugated asphalt roofing he chose for the roof. The product (the trade name is "Onduline") is often used as barn roofing and he says it is guaranteed for the life of the original purchaser. Pink-toned acrylic exterior siding (by STO Industries, Inc., of Rutland, Vermont), does double duty as insulation and will not require repainting every few years. In appearance it is similar to smooth plaster. It, too, is more often used for commercial buildings than for homes, but is cheaper than clapboard or wood shingles.

The framing of the numerous windows in the house - triple-glazed for energy savings - are painted in the same two tones of terra cotta, which contrasts pleasantly with the paler pink of the siding.

Inside, the main room is dominated by a fieldstone wall and stone-edged fireplace on one side and a row of French doors opening out to a columned veranda on the other side. These features and the soaring ceiling of the room create a dramatic space. Both the stone wall and the French doors were there and intact. Recently, however, Bennett substituted double-pane glass doors for the old single-pane ones.

Many of the main room's most interesting features were concocted at little or no cost. The "fieldstone" floor of the room was painted freehand on plywood by Christine Bennett. This artwork is protected with a durable sealer. The staircase to the loft is embellished with birch branches found on the property. Bennett made the large lighted sculpture hanging above the fireplace out of a rusting, discarded water tank.

They plan to build new kitchen cabinets, replace the rough-hewn staircase and refinish the master bath. In the meantime, sweat equity has given the Bennetts a personal and comfortable home in a structure that once was considered the worst house in town.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Jeffrey Meek, who acted opposite Lee Majors as a former spy and martial arts master in the summer TV series "Raven," is doing something a lot less exciting these days. He's waiting for the phone to ring.

CBS hasn't decided whether to renew the series, in which Meek plays a former intelligence officer marked for death by a terrorist group.

"I am doing a lot right now, like writing screenplays, working on my garden and waiting for the phone to ring," he said in an interview in Wednesday's Orange County Register.

Fresh Vegetable Salad Bowl

Pack this light, fresh salad in your picnic basket.

- 1 head romaine lettuce
- 1/2 lb. small, fresh mushrooms, whole
- 1 lb. cherry tomatoes
- 1 small head cauliflower
- 1 lb. very young, raw asparagus spears

Remove outer leaves of romaine, separate stems from mushrooms and snap off tomato stems. Break cauliflower into florets and trim stalk ends from asparagus.

Rinse all vegetables except mushrooms. Drain well. Wipe mushrooms with a damp paper towel.

Place inner leaves of romaine upright around the sides of a deep, round salad bowl. Arrange remaining ingredients neatly in the center. Cover and refrigerate to chill thoroughly before serving.

Serve with a favorite dressing. Makes 8 servings.

Military Muster

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Scott A. Ankeney, son of David G. and Marsha L. Ankeney of 233 Hickory St., recently returned aboard the amphibious transport dock USS Duluth, homeported in San Diego following a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Persian Gulf.

USS Duluth sailors participated in several major exercises while they were with a four-ship amphibious ready group. Valiant Usher 92, was held off the coast of the Republic of the Philippines and offered excellent training in amphibious operations; Eager Mace, which was held with the armed forces of Kuwait; and Edged Mallet, a joint exercise held in the vicinity of Mombasa, Kenya. The ship's crew also participated in Exercise Cobra GOLD with Thai armed forces--the largest exercise conducted in the Western Pacific in three years.

In addition, USS Duluth sailors conducted several community relations and humanitarian efforts in the United Arab Emirates, Kenya and Australia and were able to deliver much needed supplies and support to an orphanage in Pattaya Beach, Thailand.

The 1987 graduate of Hereford High School joined the Navy in July 1987.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Billy Ray Cyrus once made a living selling cars, but his reward for selling millions of copies of his "Some Gave All" album was a new motorcycle. "What can I say?" the country star told 200 music industry representatives Tuesday. "I never dreamed ... of being here with a new Harley-Davidson motorcycle and a triple platinum album."

Tours boost economy

Contiki Tours, whose U.S. headquarters is in Anaheim, Calif., will bring the largest tour group it has assembled in one location to the "TEXAS" musical drama on July 18.

About 140 travelers, filling four buses, will arrive at Pioneer Amphitheater in Palo Duro Canyon State Park at 6:30 p.m. The tourists, all between the ages of 18 and 35 years of age, will enjoy the canyon's amenities and the "TEXAS" performance that evening.

Contiki has been bringing tours to "TEXAS" and the Panhandle area for about two years. The tour operator brings an average of two buses each week to the musical drama that has won international acclaim.

"TEXAS" consistently ranks as one of the favorite stops on Contiki's U.S. itinerary. That's one of the reasons why this location was chosen as a converging point for several groups Contiki currently is guiding across America. Contiki's "modularized" itineraries allow travelers to link tours together for a customized vacation.
