Introducing Long Expected Oil Tests! Building Activity Continuing With Enthusiasm in Hereford

THREE WELL CONTRACTS SIGNED; SEVERAL MORE READY TO BE SIGNED

In keeping with the remarkable development of every other line endeavor in this section during the past two months, it now appears certain that the territory surrounding Hereford is to be punched full of holes in the near future and a thorough test of the possibilities of oil and gas here ascertained.

At least three contracts for test wells have been signed the past week, and there are some three or four others said to be almost up to the point where definite announcement of actual work can be made on.

The Slaton Well.
John P. Slaton and associates have signed a contract with Davidson & Taylor, of Chicago and Amarillo, to drill a test well in Block K-8, a few miles west of Hereford. Judge Slaton states that he believes this deal to be concluded and sure to go through. The details are given in the following letter addressed by Judge Slaton to land owners within the area affected by the deal.

"We now have a contract with Davidson & Taylor, of Chicago and Amarillo, to drill a test well in Block K-8. It calls for a test well 500 feet deep if necessary. Work on derrick and other preparations begin within twenty days, and pushed to completion of well, forfeit of $4,000.00 to be posted the first National Bank here before September 1st, 1926. Upon investigation they show to be reliable and we feel sure that the well will be put through to completion as soon as practicable.

They are now calling for the abstracts on every tract of land under lease. Not to hold or keep the abstracts, but to have them brought down to date at their own expense for examination by their attorney. They are asking to borrow these abstracts for about 30 days. They will have them brought down to date and examined by their attorney and returned to you. They will make copies of these abstracts. All this necessary, and will be no expense to you and you will get your abstract back. Please send your abstract in at once to Thompson & Ireland, abstractors, Hereford, Texas, with instructions to return to you as soon as they have been examined by Davidson & Taylor, the contractors. Or you may send them to any bank here for the same explanation. If your abstract is in the possession of the loan company or other person, they write the facts to Mr. L. Muse or me and give an order to have the abstract sent to us for the purposes mentioned above.

Let everyone attend to this immediately so that we can get quick in starting the well. Don't wait. Maybe Santa Claus will send us a Christmas present of an oil well in Block K-8—how knows? You will be kept informed about progress. Please answer and return your abstract at once.
"JNO. P. SLATON."

Barrett's Hill Billie No. 1.
The northeast section of Deaf Smith county is due for a very thorough test on Section 93, Block on land belonging to C. H. Barrett and known as the Cross Ranch. This acreage has been subdivided by Mr. Barrett and is being subdivided by Wilkenson and Barrett. Barrett-Wilkenson Block. It will be officially named Barrett's Hill Billie No. 1. The gentleman associated with these gentlemen is Ernest Dumas, of Los Angeles, Amarillo, who was a boyhood associate of Mr. Barrett. Dumas is the head of seven oil corporations, including the Apex Oil Corporation of California and the Red Corporation. He is a big oil operator and has a string of success behind him. "Wild Bill" Barrett, who, with Mr. Hunt, heads the geological department of Mr. Barrett's companies, has a record of having made 103 locations, with 17 of them coming in. The well's location is sixteen miles north and two miles east of Hereford and the stake has been set at the site. Rig erectors are now busy on another well in

Everybody and the Family Cat Is Taking A Vacation to New Mexico, Or Colorado, Of Yellowstone Park, Or Pacific Coast

O. F. West and family have returned from a trip to the mountains in New Mexico. While on the trip they visited the Carlsbad Caverns.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Bruner and daughters, Misses Christine and Virginia, and son, R. K., returned Thursday from Santa Fe, N. M., where they have been on a combined business and pleasure trip. They visited a number of places of historical interest and visited one evening in the home of the Governor of New Mexico.

Mrs. C. E. McLean and grandson, Charles McLean, of Dimmitt, and Mrs. Wes Anthony and daughter, Helen, returned Monday from a week's vacation trip to Santa Fe and other New Mexico points.

A party consisting of Russell Daniel and family, J. H. Daniel, Mrs. J. H. Daniel, W. A. Daniel, G. F. McClain and W. R. Harris returned last week-end after a few days vacation trip to Ruidoso Springs, New Mexico, where they had a most satisfactory camping experience.

A. H. Streu, of the Streu Hardware, returned Monday from a week's visit to his old home in Wisconsin. Mrs. Streu and baby stopped in Amarillo for a short visit there before coming on to Hereford.

The couple drove back by way of the Black Hills in South Dakota and Colorado points, and Mr. Streu reports a delightful vacation and rest from business cares.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Orr and son, Milton, and daughter, Mrs. Lewis and baby, returned Wednesday from a visit to Long Beach, California, where they visited Mrs. Orr's mother, Mrs. Minnie Dalton, and other points in California. They were traveling overland and en route visited the Grand Canyon and other points of interest. Returning they toured Southern California, visiting San Diego and Tia Juana, also El Paso and Juarez. While in San Diego they had a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cardwell, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cardwell and Mrs. Mayme West. They were former Hereford residents and have many friends here who will be glad to hear of them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gilliland and children, Jack, Estelle and Marlin, arrived late Tuesday night from an overland trip of two weeks and one day during which they all went to Los Angeles, where they spent six days, and also found time to visit the Grand Canyon, the Petrified Forest, and other points of interest enroute. This remarkable trip was made in a Ford, and Mr. Gilliland says he has yet to hear of a jitney making the time his party did. While in Los Angeles the tourists visited Mr. Gilliland's parents, Mat's face and legs are badly sunburned from the effects of the sun on the California beaches.

Miles Roberson, assistant cashier of the First State Bank and Trust Co., departed via the Santa Fe Tuesday morning on a trip that he has been planning for many years. Miles' ticket calls for a first stop at the Grand Canyon, thence on to Los Angeles and Catalina Island, then up the Pacific Coast to Spokane, Vancouver, etc., and back by way of Yellowstone Park and points in Colorado. He expects to return about September 15.

Miles said before departing that he had been dreaming about this trip for years, and certainly intended to make the most of every minute of his vacation time.

Whole Milk Depot, Giving Dairy Farmers Two Shots at a Market, Established by Golden Rule Produce; Big Step Forward

What is considered by many as a big step forward in the development of the dairy industry in this section was announced this week by H. H. Hawkins, of the Golden Rule Produce Co. The new project is what is known as a Whole Milk Depot, and the first truck shipment of milk was made to Amarillo last Saturday.

The establishment of this Depot means a larger and wider market for the dairy farmers of the territory immediately surrounding Hereford. It will afford a cash market for the whole milk produced by those farmers who do not use their skimmed milk for feeding pigs and poultry. And the dairy farmer will have his choice of selling his butterfat and keeping his skimmed milk or of selling it as a whole.

Mr. Hawkins has entered into contract with the Metzger Creamery Co. of Amarillo, to take all the milk he can secure here up to 500 gallons per day. The creamery people have installed four large ice boxes with Mr. Hawkins, each capable of being and caring for 100 gallons of milk. Two additional boxes are enroute. The Golden Rule Co. will install a new truck for handling the product on daily runs to Amarillo, leaving about nine o'clock each morning. The truck is loaded and the milk delivered at Amarillo sweet and fresh.

Mr. Hawkins says that the whole milk will bring the farmers between nineteen and twenty-four cents per gallon, which is almost twice what they get for butterfat. It is his intention to establish milk routes as fast as he can secure the minimum of twenty-five cents to each route. It is figured that farmers within a minimum radius of ten miles of Hereford will take advantage of this new market, as that short distance will be easy to negotiate with the fresh milk. Under present weather conditions here a dairyman can milk his cows at night and keep the milk fresh in the water trough. In the morning he can add the morning's milk to the night milk and immediately deliver it to the company, who will ship it on, iced, to Amarillo.

The ice boxes are cork insulated and keep the milk in first class condition. Mr. Hawkins has made arrangements to build a modern refrigerator room inside his building, where everything will be clean, sanitary and attractive. He says the venture will start in a modest way and will be expanded as the business justifies. He hopes soon to be able to pay out $100 per day here for whole milk, in addition to the income the farmers now derive from the sale of their butterfat. It is his hope that the attractive treble the number of dairy cows now in this community.

Mr. Hawkins says that two ten gallon cans of milk daily will increase the farmer an income of from $4.00 to $4.50 every day of the year. And it takes very few good milk cows to produce this quantity of milk.

The Metzger Creamery Co. selected Hereford for this trial out of about forty applicants in the Panhandle, who desired this new outlet for their dairy product. Mr. Hawkins was fortunate in securing the plum, and believes that he has not only laid the foundation for a profitable business for himself, but one that will result in great good and wider opportunities for the entire community.

Heart Trouble Cause of Death Of J. B. Jones

The sudden and dramatic death of J. B. Jones, one of Hereford's most prominent and popular business men, which occurred just at noon Tuesday, paralyzed the community and spread a pall of gloom over everything. The manner of his taking was so quick and so unexpected that it was hardly believable.

Just a few moments before his death Mr. Jones had been at his work as usual, cheerful and optimistic. His wife and step-daughter were visiting the Methodist camp near Canyon. He had not slept well for several nights and was far from well, although concealing his real condition from his friends. He visited a physician a few minutes before going home at noon, and had some medicine prescribed. His partner, Bobo McLean, solicited about him, begged him to allow him to drive him home, but he scouted the idea and said he would get his medicine, so home he went, and came back later. He departed in his car, got the medicine and drove home. As he started to stop the car he was stricken and neighbors noticed his car turn off and slowly rip into a tree. When aid reached him he was found quite dead behind his wheel.

Dr. Gabbert made an emergency run to Canyon and brought back the sorrowing wife and daughter. Funeral services were held at the Methodist church at 1:00 o'clock Wednesday and the body shipped to Emporia, Kansas on the 2:05 train for interment. Besides Mrs.

ing place by Frank Givan, close friend of the dead man.

The service at the church was conducted by Rev. J. O. Haynes and a composite choir sang beautiful songs, including a favorite of Mr. Jones'. Magnificent floral offerings covered the casket and the front of the church. The business houses of the city closed for one hour during the service, as a mark of esteem to the departed neighbor.

Besides his wife and two step-daughters, Miss Martha Duncan and Mrs. H. E. Yantis, of Kansas City, Mr. Jones is survived by one brother, Morris Jones, in New Jersey, and four sisters, Mrs. H. D. Stone, of Arkansas, Ark.; Mrs. Roy Lizzett, Claramore, Okla.; Mrs. Robert Leslie, Kansas City; and Mrs. Rose Hibbard, Kansas City. It is understood that all of these will join the funeral party at Emporia.

J. B. Jones was sixty-one years of age and was born in Leavenworth, Kansas. He moved to Emporia when only two or three years of age. He came to Hereford in 1915 and engaged in the ranch and cattle business. In December, 1919, he formed the partnership of Jones & McLean, with Bobo McLean as junior partner, and built up a lucrative feed, grain and coal business.

He was one of the most valuable assets that Hereford boasted. Always progressive in his ideas, liberal in his attitude toward public and civic matters, aggressive for the good of his community, he will be sadly missed in the community. He was an optimist always, cheerful, kindly, smiling, overlooking trivial annoyances and continually extending a helping hand to those in need. There have been few men in Hereford who possessed such stauncher or truer friends. With his passing Hereford has lost a citizen whose shoes will be hard to fill.

Farmers Picnic On September 3, Is Plan

The Committee on Arrangements for the Farmers' Annual Picnic, to be held at Sulphur Park on Friday, September 3, has invited Hon. Clarence Owsley, of Dallas, former head of the Extension Service of A. & M. College, and Hon. Lee Satterwhite, Speaker of the House of Representatives, to deliver addresses. Everyone interested in agricultural development, and especially farmers and their families, are invited to attend this meeting and bring their lunches with them. This is expected to be the largest

NEW HOMES SPRINGING UP EVERYWHERE; CAR- PENTERS ARE ALL BUSY

Building activity in the City of Hereford continues with unabated intensity and enthusiasm, and it is estimated by close observers that there have been more business houses and residences erected since January 1 than there have been in the past fifteen years. The Buckner-Lambert brick is completed and occupied temporarily down stairs, with a permanent lease following that. Several tenants have been secured for upstairs offices. Many homes are under construction with a bunch of additional ones in prospect.

Second Primary To Be Held On Next Saturday

(EDITORIAL.)
The Second Primary election will be held in Texas next Saturday, August 28. The ticket will call for selections for governor, attorney general, state treasurer, legislative representative, and the local officers undecided in the first primary.

Main interest has centered in the second fight between Governor Ferguson and Dan Moody. The governor seems to stake her hope of re-election on the failure of 300,000 supporters of Moody and Davidson to go to the polls Saturday, believing that Moody has a cinch.

The Brand intends to vote for Dan Moody for Governor. Pollard for attorney general, Hatcher for treasurer, and Lee Satterwhite for representative.

The reason why we will vote for Moody should be obvious. In the case of Pollard and Hatcher, we do not know either of these gentlemen, but are taking the opinion of a group of good men in Texas who believe them the best qualified for office.

In the case of Lee Satterwhite, we are taking our own opinion after years of personal acquaintance with him. We have nothing but good will and respect for his opponent. But, laying aside all personal opinion we would vote for him on one point alone. That point is that Lee Satterwhite, of all legislative representatives sent from the Plains country to Austin, has attained a distinction and a position of power and influence in the legislature.

Other men from this section. As a rule Plains statesmen have little chance to attain power at Austin. But Lee Satterwhite for years served as chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee and last term was boss of the lower branch of the legislature. Speaker of the House of Representatives. Any man or woman who goes to congress or the legislature must first serve an apprenticeship and it takes them several terms as a rule to receive recognition and attain a position where they can really serve their constituents.

We consider it an extremely bad business deal for the Plains to trade an experienced, successful legislator, who has reached the highest rank in the House of Representatives, for another good man who would have to work his way up from the ranks. The Plains and Panhandle have too many pressing problems needing immediate attention to swap one tried horse for a new one just at this time, in our opinion.

Big Time at the Ward School On Thursday

A big free concert and box supper is announced for Ward Schoolhouse Thursday night, August 26. This concert and supper comes at the end of a twenty-day singing school, and the audience Thursday night may come prepared to hear something specially good in music and other forms of entertainment. The good people of the Ward community are expecting the people of Hereford and surrounding territory to come out and help them close this school in appropriate fashion, and have prepared Arthur Manjeot, of the Hereford News Stand, began excavation work Tuesday morning for a new home just east of Artie Daniel, in West Hereford. Mr. Manjeot will have a full concrete basement, with a four room and bath residence, attached outside.

Mrs. Luther Hough began construction of a modern five room and bath residence on the old W. M. Knight lot, across the street south from the former F. H. Oberlin Jr. residence, East Hereford. It is reported that Mrs. Hough contemplates the erection of two additional homes on adjoining lots.

Mrs. Roger Johnson has plans ready for a nice five room and bath home next door to Miss Mattie Woodburn, East Hereford. The work is merely waiting upon the contractor.

The contracting firms of Buckner, Lambert and Hicks has the contract for a modern farm home for C. P. Caldwell, about nine miles north on 25-Mile Avenue. In addition Mr. Caldwell will have a new poultry house.

William Seigler is staking off his home place on the lot he purchased from Anderson Witherspoon and work on that fine home will start within a few days.

There are several other homes being planned and the contractors of the city are swamped with work. It is difficult to secure carpenters for repair work of any kind, and it has been years since such activity has prevailed here.

"On to Clarendon" Is Slogan For Monday

More than fifty business men and their wives, accompanied by the Merchant's band of Hereford, will make the trip to Clarendon next Monday to stage a fight for the 1927 convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The men will leave here about six o'clock Monday morning and will return after the meeting is over Monday afternoon. A big barbecue is planned for all the visiting delegates to the Clarendon Convention.

E. W. Harrison and Secretary Moss were busy Thursday getting the various business houses to sign up to send at least one representative to the Clarendon gathering and securing cars to take the band. All those who expect to go should report to one of these men so that proper arrangements can be made. The local Chamber of Commerce postponed next Monday's luncheon so that everyone would have a chance to go to this meeting.

Hereford will put on a spirited fight for the 1927 convention, and every local citizen who can make the trip is urged to go. Wellington will close her business houses and go in a body to Clarendon to bid for the 1927 convention. Panhandle will also take a large delegation for the same purpose.

The annual T-Anchor Reunion was held this year at the Bill Baird place near Canyon and was largely attended by old cowboys from all parts of the Panhandle. Scenes of years ago were re-enacted in the camp setting, and reunions of old pals were affecting. Hereford had quite a delegation at the meeting, among them being Rat Jewell, wife and boys, Walk Bradley and family, A. H. Elliston and family, R. W. Baird, Mrs. Geo. A. Stambough, Mrs. Cal Walker, Mrs. L. R. Brady, Wes Brady and family.

L. W. Carlyle and family left last Sunday evening, overland, for Little Rock, Ark., where they will

College Station Letter
Says 'Durn Those Flies'

Many persons are asking A. & M. College what to do about cattle flies. R. R. Reppert, Extension Entomologist, is replying by giving the Kansas Agricultural College formula, as follows:

- Resin (pulverized) - 2 parts
- Soap shavings - 1 part
- Fish oil - 1 part
- Water - 1/2 part
- Boll together until the resin is dissolved.

Add three parts more of water and boil for two minutes longer. Then add:

- Oil of tar - 1 part
- Kerosene - 1 part

Thoroughly mix and boll for 15 minutes longer.

After cooling, apply to the animal as a spray. To further increase the effectiveness, apply 1-2 part each of crude carbolic acid and of sulphur.

This may be irritating to animals that have been working or are overheated, and under such conditions may blister or cause the hair to fall out. This must be taken into account when applying.

It must be remembered that the control of cattle flies is very difficult and that no remedy will give perfect satisfaction. The above formula is a repellent only, and its effectiveness lessens the longer it has been sprayed on the animal. Ordinarily one application a day will give fair results but in especially bothersome times more frequent spraying is recommended.

Gas Buoy, Lost 2 Years,
Floats Back Into Place

A report on the loss of the Pollock Rip, Mass., acetylene gas buoy number seven, its sinking to the bottom of the ocean and its floating back into place two years later, has been made public at the Department of Commerce.

The buoy, eight feet in diameter, and 20 feet in length, was reported missing from its station about the 27th of March, 1924. Attempts to recover it by dragging were unsuccessful and it was given up as lost. On June 3, last, the Department says, the buoy was recovered afloat by the tender Anemone. It had been sunk and held down by wreckage during the entire two-year period until its chain had worn through and released it. It was almost entirely covered with marine growth but otherwise was in good condition, except the lantern top, which was demolished. The tank pockets were free of water and but a small amount of water had seeped into the buoy body.

GLACIER TO GULF HIGHWAY.

The Glacier to Gulf Highway, which extends from Calgary, Canada, to the Gulf of Mexico, is said to be 123 miles shorter than any other line between San Antonio and Colorado.

A non-stop run is soon to be made to demonstrate to the traveling public that good time can be made over this road.

This run is scheduled to take place about the first of September, and Tulsa as well as other towns along this highway is asked to help in any way possible.—Tulsa Herald.

WANTS TO SEND PAPERS.

A certain Clarendon retail establishment last week made an offer to the Chamber of Commerce to pay for subscriptions to the Clarendon News until January 1st, 1927, for three hundred families in Clarendon's trade territory, who are not now reading The News, provided a suitable rate could be secured. It was also agreed to pay for a less number in case three hundred could not be found.—Clarendon News.

The GIRL in the MIRROR

By Elizabeth Jordan

"Oh, Barbara—" Laurie considered the question of Barbara's duty as if it were new to him. "She is good-looking," he handedly conceded. "But there's something about this girl that's unusual. Perhaps it's her expression. She doesn't look happy."

Bangs sighed with ostentation. "If you want to study some one that isn't happy, look at me," he invited warmly. "If that play of mine isn't out of me pretty soon, I'll have to have an operation!"

Laurie made no reply to this pathetic prediction, and Bangs sadly took his head and concluded his list, meditating gloomily the while on the unpleasant idiosyncrasies of every one he knew. To see even turn suddenly into a loafer and all his theories as well as his plans.

Laurie, for some reason, dawdled more than usual that morning. It was after eleven before he went to breakfast. An hour earlier Bangs parted alone for their pet restaurant.

The girl in the mirror remained her window for a long time, and Laurie watched her in growing fascination. It was not until she rose and disappeared that he felt moved to consider so sordid a question as that of food.

He joined Bangs just as that youth was finishing his after-breakfast cigar. Even under its soothing influence, he was in the mood of combined exasperation and depression with which his friends were becoming familiar.

"If we had begun work as soon as we got back to town after your sister's wedding," he told Laurie, "we'd have had two acts ready by now, in the rough."

"No reason why you shouldn't have four acts ready, so far as I can see," murmured Laurie, cheerfully attacking his grapefruit. "All you've got to do is to write 'em."

Bangs' lips set. "Not till I've talked 'em over with you and got your ideas," he declared positively. "If you'd just let me give you an outline—"

Laurie set down his cup. "Do I get my breakfast in peace, or don't I?" he demanded coldly. "You do, confound you!"

Bangs bit off the end of a fresh cigar and smoked it in stolid silence. He was a person of one idea, if he couldn't talk about the play, he couldn't talk at all. He meditated, considering his characters, the situations, his partner's and his own position, in a mental jumble that had lately become habitual and which was seriously affecting his nerves. Laurie, as he ate, chatted cheerfully and at random, apparently avoiding with care any subject that might interest his partner. Bangs rose abruptly.

"Well, I'm off," he said. "See you at dinner time, I suppose."

But Laurie, it appeared, had engagements. He was taking a party of friends out to Gedney Farms that evening in his new car, and they might decide to stay there for a day or two. Also, although he did not confide this fact to Bangs, he had an engagement for the afternoon, a place where the card rooms were quiet and elegant and the stakes high.

The attraction of these diversions filled his mind. He quite forgot the girl in the mirror, and it was no thought of her that drew him back to New York that night.

The plans of his guests had changed, that was all. The change brought him home at eleven o'clock.

"One thing got me guessin'?" he muttered doubtfully. "Dat young lady, she don't seem t' eat nothin'!"

"What do you mean?" Laurie stared at him.

The boy shuffled his feet. He was on uncertain ground.

"Why, jes' what I said," he muttered, defensively. "Folks here either eats in or dey eats out. Ef dey eats in, they has stuff sent in y-rolls an' eggs an' milk an' stuff like dat. Ef dey eats out, dey goes out, reglar, to meals. But Miss Mayo she don't seem to eat in or out. Nothin' comes in, an' she don't go out 'nough to eat reglar. I bin studyin' 'bout it consider'ble," he added; and he looked unmistakably relieved, as if he had passed on to another a burden that was too heavy to carry alone.

Laurie hesitated. The situation was presenting a new angle and a wholly unexpected one. It began to look as if he had come on a sentimental errand and had stumbled on a tragedy.

There was a chance that the boy

he heard of one just like it. It was unique and pleasant. It was especially pleasant to have her so young and so charming to look at. He wished he knew her name and something more about her. His thoughts were full of her.

Before he left the room he parted the curtains again to open the window wide, following his usual program. As he did so he glanced into his mirror. He saw her open window, but it was lifeless. Only his own disappointed face confronted him.

CHAPTER III

Laurie Meets Miss Mayo. LAURIE thought much that day about the girl in the mirror, and he was again home at eleven that night, to the wonder of Mr. Bangs, who freely expressed his surprise.

"Something pleasant been coming your way?" he tactfully asked. Laurie evaded the question, but he felt that something definitely pleasant had come his way. This something was a new interest, and he had needed a new interest very much. He hoped he would dream of the girl that night, but as he and Bangs unwisely consumed a Welsh rabbit before they went to bed, he dreamed instead of something highly unpleasant, and was glad to be awakened by the clear sunlight of a brilliant January day.

After breakfast he strolled across the square into the somber hall of the studio building, to its southwest corner. The hall was empty, but he found and rang a bell at the entrance of a dingy elevator shaft. The elevator descended without haste. When it had reached the floor, the colored youth in charge of it inhospitably filled its doorway and regarded the visitor with indifference. This young man was easy to look at, but he was no one he knew.

Laurie handed him a dollar and the youth's expression changed, first to one of surprise, then to the tolerance of a man who is wise and is willing to share his wisdom. The visitor went at once to the point of his visit.

"A young lady lives here," he began. "She is very pretty, and she has reddish hair and brown eyes. She has a studio in one of the upper floors, at the front of the house. What's her name?"

The boy's face showed that he had instantly recognized the description, but he pondered dramatically.

"Dat young lady?" he then said. "Dat young lady mus' be Miss Mayo. In Twenty-nine, on de top flo'. She jes' moved in here las' Tuesday."

"Where does she come from, and what does she do?" The boy hesitated. What did all this mean? And was he giving up too much for a dollar? Laurie grinned at him understandingly.

"I don't know her," he admitted, "and I don't expect to. I'd like to know something about her—that's all."

The youth nodded. He had the air of accepting an apology.

"I reckon she come fum some place," he said. "But I dunno what she do," he reluctantly admitted. "Mebbe she ain't doin' nothin' yit. She's home mos' de time. She don't go out hardly 'tall. Seems like she don't know many folks."

He seemed about to say more but stopped. For a moment he obviously hesitated, then blurted out what he had in mind.

"One thing got me guessin'?" he muttered doubtfully. "Dat young lady, she don't seem t' eat nothin'!"

"What do you mean?" Laurie stared at him.

The boy shuffled his feet. He was on uncertain ground.

"Why, jes' what I said," he muttered, defensively. "Folks here either eats in or dey eats out. Ef dey eats in, they has stuff sent in y-rolls an' eggs an' milk an' stuff like dat. Ef dey eats out, dey goes out, reglar, to meals. But Miss Mayo she don't seem to eat in or out. Nothin' comes in, an' she don't go out 'nough to eat reglar. I bin studyin' 'bout it consider'ble," he added; and he looked unmistakably relieved, as if he had passed on to another a burden that was too heavy to carry alone.

Laurie hesitated. The situation was presenting a new angle and a wholly unexpected one. It began to look as if he had come on a sentimental errand and had stumbled on a tragedy.

There was a chance that the boy

might be wrong in his inference, although this chance, Laurie mentally admitted, was slight. He knew the shrewdness of this youth's type, the precocious knowledge of human nature that often accompanies such training and environment as he had had. Probably he suspected even more than he had revealed. Something must be done. Laurie drew a bill from his pocket.

"How soon can you leave the elevator?" he asked.

"Bout one o'clock." "All right. Now, here's what I want you to do. Take this money, go over to the Clarence restaurant, and buy a good lunch for that lady. Get some hot chicken or chops, buttered rolls, vegetables, and a bottle of milk. Have it packed nicely in a box. Have them put in some fresh eggs and extra rolls and butter for her breakfast. Deliver the box at her door as if it came from some one outside. Do that and keep the change. Understand?"

"Yaah, sah!" The boy's eyes and teeth were shining.

"All right. Go to it. I'll drop in later this afternoon for your report."

Laurie turned and walked away. Even yet the experience did not seem real. It was probably all based on some foolish notion of the youth's; and yet he dared not assume that it was a foolish notion. He had the dramatist's distaste for drama anywhere except in its legitimate place, on the stage; but he admitted that sometimes it did occur in life. This might be one of those rare occasions.

Whatever it was, it haunted him. He lunched with Bangs that day, and was so silent that Bangs was moved to comment.

"If you were anyone else," he remarked, "I'd almost think you were drinking."

Laurie disclaimed the charge, but his abstraction did not lift. By this time his imagination was hard at work. He pictured the girl in the mirror as stretched on her virginal cot in the final exhaustion of starvation; and the successful effort to keep away from the studio building till four o'clock called for all his will power. Suppose the boy blundered, or wasn't in time. Suppose the girl really had not eaten anything since last Tuesday! These thoughts, and similar ones, obsessed him.

At four he strolled into the studio hall, wearing what he hoped was a detached and casual air. When the elevator appeared, he entered it with the others who were waiting. He looked aloofly past the elevator boy as he did so; and that young person showed himself equal to the situation by presenting to this newcomer a stolid ebony profile. But when the lift had reached the top floor and discharged its passengers, the two conspirators lent themselves to the drama of their roles.

"Well?" asked Laurie eagerly. "Did you get it?"

"Yaah, sah." "What happened?"

The boy stopped his descending car midway between two floors. He had no intention of having his scene spoiled. He bulged visibly under the news he had to impart. "I got de stuff you said, and I left it at dat young lady's do'," he began impressively.

"Yes." "When I looked de nex' time, it was gone."

"Good!" She had taken it in! Laurie drew a breath of relief.

"No, sah. Dat ain't all." The boy's tone dripped evil tidings. "She bring it back!"

"What?" His passenger was staring at him in concern.

"Yaah, sah. De bell rung fum her flo', an' when I got up de young lady was standin' dere wid dat basket in her hand."

He paused to give Laurie the effect of the tableau, and saw by his visitor's expression that he had got it fully.

"Yes? Go on!" "She look at me mighty sharp. She got brown eyes dat look right 'thoo you," he interpolated briskly. "Den she say, 'Sam, who done-let dat basket at my do'? I say, 'I done no nothin'. It ez de yo' name an' de ca'd got yo' name on it. Ain' you order it?' I say."

"No," she say, 'dis yere basket ain't fo' me. Take it, an' ef you cain't find out who belong to it, es dis yere lunch ro'sel!'" He paused.

"I t' it," he ended, solemnly. Laurie's lips twitched under conflicting emotions, but he closed the interview with a fair imitation of indifference.

"Oh, well," he said carelessly "you must have been mistaken about the whole thing. Evidently Miss Mayo, if that's her name wasn't as hungry as you were."

The boy nodded and started the car on its downward journey. A his passenger got off on the ground floor, he gave him a new thought to carry away with him.

"She'd bin cryin', dough," he muttered. "Her eyes was all red." Laurie stopped and regarded him resentfully.

"Confound you!" he said, "what did you tell me that for? I can't do anything about it!"

The boy agreed, hurriedly. "No, sah," he assured him. "You cain't. I cain't, neither. None of us cain't," he added as an afterthought.

Laurie slowly walked away. His thoughts scampered around and around, like squirrels in a cage. The return of the basket, of course, might mean either of two conditions—that the girl was too proud to accept help, or that she was really in no need of it. Laurie had met a few art students. He knew that, hungry or not, almost any one of them would cheerfully have taken in that basket and consumed its contents. He had built on that knowledge in providing it. If the girl had taken it in, the fact would have proved nothing. Her refusal to touch it was suspicious. It swung the weight of evidence toward the elevator boy's starvation theory.

Laurie's thoughts returned to that imaginative youth. He saw him consuming the girl's luncheon, and a new suspicion crossed his mind. Perhaps the whole business was a bit of graft. But his intelligence rejected that suggestion. If this had been the explanation, the boy would not have concluded the episode so briskly. He had got the strange young man where he might have "kept him going" for days and made a good income in the process. As it was, there seemed nothing more to do. And yet—and yet—how the deuce could one let the thing drop like that? If the girl was really in straits—

Thus the subconscious argument went on and on. It worried Laurie. He was not used to such violent mental exercise. He dined alone that night and it was well he did so. His lack of appetite would certainly have attracted the attention of

AT THE HIP BONE.

BOG SPENDING DIFFICULT.
ROOSEVELT'S LAST WORDS.

Paris announces that the waist-line of fashionable ladies now definitely starts just above the hip-bone. From that point up the back is to be entirely uncovered in the evening. Also brilliant colors will be worn.

A woman thus dressed will look as silly as a bird of paradise with all the feathers plucked off the back, but she won't know it.

Theatrical people each pay $1,000.44 for a dinner—forty-four cents for the food, one thousand dollars for the Actors' Fund. Forty-four cents for one dinner seems cheap to a prosperous actor. It seems a good deal to the mother of five children whose husband earns $4.00 a day.

At forty-four cents a meal that family would need each day $9.24 for the food alone, leaving a deficit of $5.24 a day, to say nothing of rent and clothing. Those that call $5.00 a day high wages should try living and keeping a family on that sum.

Engineers suggest filling in nine square miles of upper New York Bay, half to belong to New Jersey, half to New York. The work would cost $400,000,000, and the land would be worth five thousand million dollars.

The idea would be to plan a new modern city, sidewalks on the sides of buildings, playgrounds and roads above buildings, landing places for airplanes, etc.

There are thousands of chances to spend public money for improvements that would pay for themselves ten times over, but it is hard for us to appropriate large sums unless other nations start cutting each others' throats. Then we become generous. "Easy" marks, pour out our billions and buy foreign hatred with them.

Gland grafting may not help foolish old men to become as young and silly as they used to be, but such grafting may be useful to farmers. Dr. Voronoff, a scientist, experimenting on a flock of 3,000 sheep in Algiers, proved to French scientists that grafting an additional gland on each young ram increased the average weight of the animal by 19 pounds, and added half a pound to the weight of the fleece.

"No man is a hero to his valet," did not apply to Theodore Roosevelt. The valet writes for Collier's Weekly about the last days of his master as a convinced hero-worshiper. Along with Roosevelt, at the moment of his death, the valet says Roosevelt's last words were, "Please put out the light."

Theodore Roosevelt was tired, his heart was broken by the death of his son, Quentin. Goethe's last words were, "More light!" They were appropriate, for few men have contributed more light to the human race than Goethe contributed.

The question for us all is this: Does death mean only "putting out the light," or does it mean for us all "MORE LIGHT?"

French births are diminishing and French population is increasing. The right idea is the idea of having many new babies, half or two-thirds of them dying, the French, who understand health, keep alive those that are born.

Wages are up, taxes are down, Government receipts are up, the cost of living is down. President Coolidge doesn't claim the credit. He says: "No government can make prosperity."

RANDALL COUNTY TO HAVE REAL OIL TEST.

That Randall county will have a real oil test was evidenced Saturday when Vern Dumas drove into town with seven big truck loads of derrick timbers, which was unloaded on the Western place south of Canyon, after being paraded on the streets of the city. The test has been named "Canyon Buffalo No. 1."

Dumas and his convoy were met two miles north of Canyon by a large number of cars loaded with enthusiastic citizens. The fire department met the cars at the outskirts of the city and a real parade of five blocks was formed. The parade caused considerable excitement on the streets. Randall County News.

We honestly believe the building is a credit to this community and to the Company.

This concern believes in Hereford and the Hereford country, and intends to do everything in its power to serve its patrons efficiently and acceptably at all times. We have a total of 8,200 square feet of floor space in which to house our tractors, binders, combines, wagons, implements, separators, and the complete line of parts for all the International products.

We have also provided a Ladies' Rest Room, adequately lighted, nicely furnished, conveniently located.

We have tried to anticipate the needs and wants of our customers and friends for the future, and the apparently sure growth and expansion of the community.

No Meeting For C. of C. Next Monday

The Hereford Chamber of Commerce voted unanimously last Monday to postpone next Monday's luncheon and all go to Clarendon to make a bid for the 1927 convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Every business house here is expected to send a representative to the Clarendon meeting.

E. R. Black said that the development here had created a need for more electric lights on the various streets of Hereford. He said this was one of the most pressing needs right now. Mayor Ireland stated that he favored extending the street lights just as far as the city's finances would permit. L. Baskin and D. F. Ashbrook both spoke in favor of more street lights and Mr. Ashbrook even favored a bond issue if it takes that to light up the city.

E. W. Harrison was for paving first and then take up the lighting situation.

Mrs. C. H. Dyer and Mrs. G. A. F. Parker announced that the Music Study Club has booked a three-week Lyceum for the fall and winter months, and asked the co-operation of the local business men in this undertaking. It was voted unanimously to help out the Lyceum in good shape.

The telephone situation was discussed by S. P. Rosson, Mayor E. S. Ireland and G. A. F. Parker. It was the opinion of the speakers that Hereford should seek a common battery exchange as a means of supplying better service, and to meet the needs of the city due to the development that is taking place here. S. P. Rosson, L. Baskin and A. A. Foster were appointed to work on the telephone problem.

N. C. Vogele announced that the following business men had offered free trips to the Dallas Fair to the winners in club work in Deaf Smith county: G. W. Brunley, a free trip to the winner in Pig Club; W. D. Kelleher, a free trip to the winner in Calf Club; H. H. Hawkins, a free trip to the winner in Poultry Club, and E. W. Harrison, a free trip to the winner in Field Crops.

T. D. Moss said that the Ward community had invited Hereford business men to attend the big box supper and singing at Ward School Thursday evening. He urged the business men to attend this box supper as a good will proposition. He also announced the District meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Clarendon next Monday.

Bangs or any other fellow diner, and Bangs would as certainly have commented upon it. Also, he passed a restless night, troubled by vaguely depressing dreams. The girl was in them, but everything was as hopelessly confused as his daytime mental processes had been.

The next morning he deliberately kept away from the mirror until he was fully dressed, but he dressed with a feeling of tenseness and urgency he would have found it difficult to explain. He only knew that today he meant to do something definite, something that would settle once for all the question that filled his mind. But what could he do? That little point was still unsettled. Knock at the girl's door, pretend that it was a blunder, and trust to inspiration to discover in the brief encounter if anything was wrong? Or put money in an envelop and push it under her door? If he did that, she would probably give the money to Sam, as she had given him the food.

THREE WELL CONTRACTS HAVE BEEN SIGNED

finish this will move onto Mr. Barrett's land and get busy.

From the reputation and past accomplishments of Mr. Dumas' organization there seems little doubt about the test going through. The contract calls for 3500 feet.

The Slemmons Well. Another part of the territory to be exploited at once is on the M. Slemmons place, sixteen miles southeast of Hereford. Mr. Slemmons has signed a contract with John Kegans, of Tulsa, representing the McFarland Oil Co., to drill a test well 3500 feet, unless oil or gas is found at a lesser depth. It will be known as the Slemmons well and work is to begin within thirty days at the outside. Mr. Slemmons says this is a bonafide deal and there is no hot air about it—the hole will be drilled.

In addition to the three known contracts there are three other deals pending that are not quite through in some details but which appear certain to result in tests. Announcements will probably be ready by next week's paper.

For many months past this field has been prospected by dozens of scouts and operators and leasing activity has been intense. These men have all been positive in their declaration that this section of the Panhandle is due this fall for a most thorough and far reaching test of possibilities for oil and gas and have warned local people that the oil fraternity was moving toward Hereford en masse. It begins to look like these predictions are coming true and that this territory is in for intensified oil development as well as building, agricultural and live stock expansion.

The Ladies Bob Shop was sold this week by Mrs. Carroll Wood to W. L. Pickett, manager of the Star Theatre. Mrs. Wood will conduct her business at her home hereafter, while Mr. Pickett will put an experienced operator in charge and reopen the Bob Shop about September 1.

Air Meeting Grows In Interest Daily

ain cannot dampen, nor chilly winds cool the ardor of those who daily attend the open air revival meetings sponsored by the Presbyterian church, with Evangelist J. T. Adair.

The meeting, now in its second week, gathers impetus and enthusiasm as it proceeds and everyone enthusiastic over the work being done. Those who have been regular attendants at the services the greatest boosters.

Lockett Adair's sermons are logical, forceful, logical. His illustrations are apt, his merry quips jests with which his sermons interspersed, coupled with his quality, keeps the entire audience in a good humor, and there is not a dull moment from the opening of the service.

Adair will use, during the coming days, some of the sermons he has made him a national figure in the religious world. Here are some of the subjects: "America—what made it and why will unmake it." "The stuff it takes to make a man."

"The Real Thing." "Sound-up in Hell." "Funeral of 500 Dead Church-members." "But—come out and get 'buted'." "Hell without the Bible." "Twin Hell—Memory and Conscience."

Hereford sold out to the devil—stock and barrel." "Father, Home and Heaven." "Why I belong to the Church." "What beats hell." "States Night—When were you there?" "Do you know? In Arkansas where?" "Fool there was and a Fool here."

Turn Hereford Loose." "The Biggest Bust a Mayor Ever Made." "These sermons are the cream of evangelistic utterances. Each morning at 10 o'clock the church and girls meet at the Presbyterian church with Mrs. Fraser. They are preparing a program of music which they will present Saturday night.

7:15 o'clock each evening the "Folks" meet at the Methodist church. If you don't know the meaning of those little red and white badges you see on the street, the young folks. They have organized for real Christian work, and their work is marked with good-natured rivalry that spells success for their efforts. Every man and woman in the city vied to meet with them, each week.

A big reunion of members of the family of Judge L. Gough, of Annapolis, was held the past week at Hur Park, at the home of Mr. Mrs. Roy Gough. Besides Judge Gough and Roy and his wife and two little girls, Earl and of Stephenville, instructor music in John Tarleton Junior M. College; Mrs. G. W. Stephens, of Sulphur, Okla., and Mrs. Hefner, of Rogers, Ark. and two sisters, Mmes. Steverson and Hefner, and their brother Earl and Leron, met at Sulphur and drove through to Sulphur Park; where Judge and Mrs. Gough joined them. Leron and Earl departed Monday for a trip to New Mexico before returning while the others will return to their homes this week.

A. Syms and wife left Monday for their home in Laclede, Mo., spending the summer here with his father, G. W. Syms. They will take up their work as teachers at the high school at Laclede.

Hog Cholera Is Found Here by Officials

A positive diagnosis of hog cholera has been made in the W. H. Engle herd. This diagnosis was made by Dr. F. D. Porter, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, accompanied by R. O. Dunkle and Dr. F. E. Bowe.

A simultaneous treatment of hog cholera is advised in the immediate vicinity of the infection. Vaccination of hog cholera is a preventative rather than a cure, and steps of immunity should be taken before the infection. The control of this disease needs the full cooperation of all who might be concerned.

Mr. Engle says "this ends my hog sele."

THE PASSING OF MRS. HOLLIS GALLEY.

On Sunday morning, shortly past midnight, August 22, Mrs. Hollis Galley passed from this life at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Galley, who reside six miles northeast of Hereford. She had come here from Newton, Kansas, with her children for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Rice and family, and also her husband's parents. She was stricken with a severe sickness early last week which brought on her death at 12:30 Sunday morning. Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at the hour of four, and the remains were accompanied by her husband and mother to Newton, Kansas where interment took place Monday afternoon.

Amy Isabelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Rice, was born at Harvard, Nebraska, September the ninth, 1890. At an early age she professed faith in Christ and was united with the Congregational church. Upon removing with her husband to Newton, she, with him, united with the First Presbyterian church of that city in which fellowship she held membership at the time of her death, and in which she lived a consistent and useful Christian life.

On January 3, 1913, while residing with her parents near Spring Lake, in Castro county, she was united in holy wedlock to Mr. Hollis Galley. To this union was born three children whose names are Townsend, Margaret and Myron. She was a devoted wife and mother, having poured out the richness of her Christian character and faithful service into the lives of her husband and children.

Mrs. Galley had been a constant but patient sufferer for more than three years. Those who knew her best and those who ministered at her bedside during her last illness testify to the beautiful fortitude with which she bore the sufferings which were her lot. The day before she went away she lapsed into the sleep which proved to be her last sleep on earth.

A good woman is the gift of God: a devoted Christian mother the masterpiece of God. She will be missed from the familiar circle of her loved ones and friends, but we mourn not as those who are without hope. We shall see her again in the glorified body of Christ's resurrection glory and with eyes undimmed by human tears shall behold her life blossomed out in that beauty with which we are unable to see amid the mists and darkens of this perishing world.

JAS. T. ROSS.
Charles Whitehead and son, Russell, with Artis Russell, left overland Sunday for Princeton, Texas. Mr. Whitehead and son will visit his mother, Mrs. M. V. Laney, and Artis will visit relatives in Greenville, Texas.

A. O. Thompson, of Hereford, was elected treasurer of the new organization which was perfected in Plainview last week of the ten counties in the Central Plains of Texas, and now lays claim to just about as many treasury jobs as any man in Texas.

In addition to the new honor as treasurer of the ten county organization, Mr. Thompson is treasurer of the local Council of Boy Scouts of America, the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, the Hereford National Farm Loan Association, the local Baptist church, and the Sunday school. Mr. Thompson is a real financier and keeps the books for all these organizations up in good shape. He makes his living doing abstract work, and as treasurer of the Hereford National Farm Loan Association. The other jobs are done without compensation.

Ollie and Homer Fox left Tuesday morning, overland, for Mangum, Okla., for a visit with relatives and friends.

Monte Baker and family came home the latter part of last week from Clinton and Oklahoma City, Okla. They visited relatives and friends.

Russell Daniel, local second-hand dealer, has a side line that promises to be as profitable as his main business just as soon as it is further developed. He is raising celery and all kinds of garden plants for the public. He started the project last spring and sold over 125,000 plants for $355.00. He now has 1500 exceptionally fine celery plants which will be placed on the market this fall. Mr. Daniel also has a garden that is second to none in Hereford, with almost all kinds of garden products growing.

The celery was an experiment with Mr. Daniel this year, but he finds that it thrives in the Hereford shallow water belt. Celery has been grown here in small quantities for years, and it is a proven product for this place.

Mr. Daniel says that he will have two paying crops with his combination. Celery to market in the fall and winter and garden plants during the spring. He is already making preparations to raise plants on a larger scale next year and plans to supply many neighboring towns with his plants.

LINDALE is in Smith County. Law here diversification is being preached and practiced. Lindale is literally in the sand or on the sand but that town doesn't care. Among other things Lindale grows blackberries and sells what it can and cans what it can't. The blackberry acreage around Lindale is about 4,500 acres and these acres produce every year. This year the crop shipped from Lindale will reach 150 cars of which 100 cars will be fresh and 50 cars canned. This is about half of the blackberries produced annually, the rest being sold in the fields or sent out by auto for consumption in other towns or canned or preserved for home use. The blackberry crop gives employment to an army of workers at profitable wages. Many of the berry pickers go there each year and camp near the berry fields while the crop is being harvested. Lindale also produces other berries and melons and tomatoes, and corn, and cotton, and things. Lindale prospers.

Berries Grow in Other Places.
There are hundreds of places in East Texas adapted to berry growing. In fact, berries of one kind and another can be grown on almost any kind of soil and in any part of the State. At Bangs in Brown County, dewberries are extensively grown and shipped. I haven't the figures to enable me to say how many acres are cultivated or how many cars are shipped and canned. But Bangs bets on berries and finds it safe. A big berry patch near a cannery is a sure money maker, and Texas needs more of both.

Home Canning Profitable.
While community canneries conservatively operated seem to pay wherever established, no land owner need fall to can at least enough of his farm products for home use. "Major" Whitaker and his family live near Grapeland. Grapeland is over in East Texas where Albert Luker edits a newspaper and talks diversification through the Messenger. "Major" Whitaker had two acres in tomatoes this year, but prices were low and the market was poor. So he bought a home canner, and he and his family canned 2,200 cans of tomatoes, 113 cans of corn, 71 cans of speckled and chowder peas and 36 cans of peaches, and have stored 106 half gallons and quart jars of berries, peaches, plums, beets, cucumbers, chow-chow, pears and figs. Most of the canned goods will be sold to local and neighboring merchants. Can you beat it?

Organizing County Federations.
Over at A. & M. College recently I met that wonderful little woman, Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, who lives at Claude, Texas, and writes for the papers. Like most other writers she writes for the love of writing and for the good she hopes to do. Just now she is busy studying a plan for the federation of all the women's clubs of each county into a county organization of a kind where each may continue its own specified field of club work and all may co-operate for the general good. This looks easy, but those who have tried it find that it is difficult to get clubs of all kinds to lay aside their little likes and dislikes—prejudices if you please to call them such—and work together harmoniously. Mrs. Warner believes it can be done. The idea is splendid and there is a splendid little woman at work at it.

Comanche Chief Celebrates.
The Comanche Chief is 53 years old. Last year it celebrated its birthday by giving a watermelon party to which everybody in the county was invited. This year, in addition to the watermelon slicing, a grape festival was added. A ton of grapes and 550 Comanche county watermelons were offerings at the feast, all ice cold. The entire population of the county was invited and most of it was there. The Comanche band furnished the music, and 32—there should have been 33—of Comanche's most beautiful girls served the guests. It was a great day for the Chief, but more important than the Chief's pleasure in its birthday celebration was the big advertising given Comanche county for its grape culture and watermelon growing. Live newspapers like the Chief with the enterprise to undertake big things, are a great community asset.

Colonel Coon's Generosity.
Colonel Dick Coon is a ranchman who lives at Houston and has large ranch and cattle interests in Harris county and in the Dalhart section of the Panhandle. He has accumulated wealth and is trying to do good with it while he lives. He has created a trust estate to erect and maintain a hospital at Dalhart, to be used first as a charity hospital and then to receive pay patients if the trustees so elect. The property set aside for the hospital fund is a theatre building at Amarillo that is leased 15 years at a monthly income of over $700.00. The property is not to be sold for fifteen years, and if sold then the income from the selling price is to be used to maintain the hospital. Texas men of large fortune like Colonel Coon are learning that the best use of large wealth is not in hoarding, but in distributing it where it can do the most good.

Improving the Zinnia.
The dictionary says that a zinnia is a coarse, easily cultivated flower. This may have been true once, but the zinnia has been refined and is now just about the most gorgeous flower grown. The zinnia show in Austin recently under the auspices of the Amateur Garden Club rivaled the much exploited dahlia shows of the North in beautiful and gorgeous blooms and in brilliant and pleasing colors and combinations of tints. It was a revelation as to the variety and size of the blooms and as to marvelous shades and tones of coloring. The zinnia is peculiarly adapted to Texas. Get well selected seeds of the varieties wanted, give the plants good soil, plenty of sunshine and water, along with cultivation and the results will be all that could be desired. Here is a suggestion for enterprising newspapers for next year: Sponsor a zinnia show in your town.

San Saba Fair Success.
The newspapers say that 12,000 people were at the San Saba Fair one day. That is 2,000 more than the average paid attendance at the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial. Naturally San Saba is proud of the success of its fair, which is due to the untiring work of some of the citizens of that county extending over a number of years. San Saba gave a show that was worth while, gave it good publicity and got results.

where the fishing and hunting and resting are good, is building a modern hotel to care for the increasing travel to that section. There are a number of camp resorts near Junction, all of which have been filled this summer. The people who go there talk about the good times they have and the hospitality of the people, and this makes others want to go. Texans are learning that Texas has as good resorts as may be found anywhere.

Here and There

The farmers are smiling over good rains and good prospects for lots of grain.

met at the home of Mr. Calfine Knox of Wayside Saturday and Sunday and enjoyed a reunion. There were thirty-four for dinner Sunday, including some nieces and their children.
Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tice, Lloyd and Maxine enjoyed Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell.
A delightful evening was spent in the Will Dixon home Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. Berry Bell, Hunter Lindsey and Holmes came over to enjoy music and ice cream with them. It was hard to tell which was best, the music or ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Williams went to the Bagwell farm on last Tuesday and purchased seventy-five fine White Leghorn chicks.
Mrs. Knox and little son spent Saturday in the Walter Easter home in Hereford.
Mrs. Chas. Bell visited Mrs. Stagner last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frye, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Easter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Greer and Owen Stagner visited in the Percy Estes home Sunday afternoon.
Young folks don't change, for of course they still have a good time. This was proven when Mrs. Jones threw her home open to the young folks with Miss Gladys as hostess. In spite of the threatening weather, the young people did not mind a rain and came anyway. The evening was spent playing all kinds of games and at a late hour refreshments of lemonade and cake were served. Those enjoying the occasion were Misses Zeima and Maureen Sullenger, Nettie Lee Green, Helen Estes, Tinnie Lee Springer, Ethel Decker, Nannie Fields; Messrs. Bob and Lynn Axe, Lloyd and Walter Tice, Bill Sullenger, Mike Hookert, John White and Jess Lindsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Kincaid had for their guests Sunday for dinner Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Mobley and children.

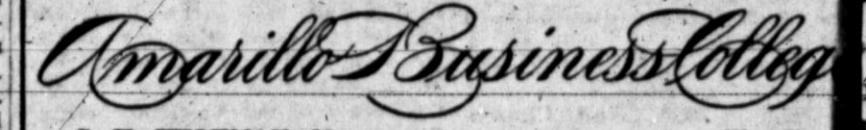

Mrs. Albert and children have returned from Silverton where they have been visiting Mrs. Springer's mother and sisters.
Mr. Vick, Mack Dixon and Geo. Mosley were butchering this week. A good cook has been very much in demand.
A pleasant meeting of the F. G. W. Club was had last Friday with Mrs. C. E. Tice as hostess. Each one brought some kind of fancy work and worked and talked and before anyone realized, the afternoon was gone. The club members enjoyed having as their guest Mrs. Brickley, of Kansas City. Mrs. Ham, Mrs. Gaetz, Mrs. Fincher and daughter. The club members present were Mmes. Knox, Estes, Sullivan, Greer and Miss Helen Estes. Delicious ice cream and cake were served by the hostess. This day being a few days after Maxine Tice's and on Francis Gaetz's birthday. Mrs. Tice had baked a large birthday cake and placed pink candles on it. The children gathered around the lighted candles to make their good wishes. Ice cream in cones and oaks were served the little folks. Those who enjoyed helping Maxine and Francis celebrate their birthdays were Louise, Catherine and Helen Ray Ham, Christine Fincher, Downie Gaetz, Bob Estes, Charles Sullivan, Mary Jo Grier.

Mr. and Mrs. Tice and Mr. and Mrs. Gaetz attended the funeral of Mrs. Hollis Galley in Hereford Sunday.
Mr. Ham's father and mother, of Vernon, and a brother, Claude Ham and family, of Waxahatchie have been making them a visit. Mr. Ham had not seen his brother in thirteen years.
Mrs. Roy Kincaid and little Miss Neltha have been quite ill the last few days but are much improved. Mr. Boyd left for Okla. to bring his father, I. H. E. home. He is sick and it seems climate there does not agree with him.

Earl Lance, Joe Kendall, their families joined a party campers at Roswell and will up in the mountains for several days.

the Musical Event of Premier Importance

No musical attraction of the season can possibly offer so much of sheer enchantment as does the Imperial Symphony Orchestra, which will appear at the Star Theatre for one night only, Friday, September 10.

Not only is it an assembly of the finest musicians, gifted instrumentalists, playing under a master director, but there is about the rendition of their music something above music alone. Its harmonization carries the rich, storied background of Mexico, their native country. They loose from strings muted or triumphant the soul, the spirit, the barbaric poetry of an ancient race. The charm of the Imperial Symphony Orchestra is not alone in the entrancing manner in which it plays Mexican and American music, but whose artistic attainments have endeared them to all classes of the music people. This wonderful Mexican orchestra will appear under the leadership of Roberto Z. Richi, a graduate of the Mexican Conservatory of Music. It is safe to say that to have seen this picked assembly of finished instrumentalists and to have heard the magic harmonies of the Imperial Symphony Orchestra will be an event to treasure always to memory. It is the first American tour of the famous musical organization.

Andrews Tells Of Scheme to Dry Country

ded "Zone Supervisors" and Division of Foreign Control Sought by Enforcement Head.

Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and chief of the prohibition enforcement corps, is prepared to in a new concentration on prohibition law violators and to encourage greater local law enforcement.

The general's pronouncement of his return to Washington from conference with British government authorities in which a series of understandings were reached which Andrews declared should result in stopping vast quantities of alcohol intended to be smuggled in the United States, at the shipping point abroad.

General Andrews disclosed several important steps in his program. These included: establishment of a division of foreign control, creation of five or six more zone supervisors to serve as liaisons between the assistant secretary and the district administrators, thus grouping States or districts with similar problems, and calling of a conference of all district administrators in Washington about September 10.

General Andrews added that he came back from his conference abroad "chock full of ideas" he was convinced that some of them could be made effective here, reiterated that his year and a half of service had shown some results and while he was not entirely satisfied, he felt that substantial progress toward greater enforcement had been made.

At the conclusion of the games, the hostess, assisted by Misses Dow Mercer, Jim Rutherford and Seth B. Holman, served a delicious salad course.

Division to be Small

The division itself will be small far as the headquarters is concerned. Fewer than a dozen personnel will be needed here, but the United States Consular service will be drawn into the scheme which will gather and disseminate information concerning possible or alleged liquor law violations, according to General Andrews.

The foreign control idea was of the London meeting and General Andrews explained that the "splendid co-operation" he had received from the British Government, he thought official results would follow its implementation. He was unwilling to disclose details of the plan because if it were to be effective, its nature should be as secretive as possible, he said.

He added, however, that the plan is far from complete and he is yet unable to give details of its purposes to do in the way of further division of the territory. Much of this will have to be considered, he said, when he returns with his administrators in September.

Plans Are Simple.

declared he was prepared to equip machinery to carry out the plan, which he asserted was simple and which he asserted would do away with a lot of detailed, slow moving correspondence.

pendence through diplomatic channels." "The understandings should make for speed in dealing with the smuggling problem," he added.

The chief of the prohibition enforcement department adverted to the question of "poison alcohol" about which agitation has been growing in some sections. He declared the Government had sought every means to afford legitimate industry an adequate supply of good industrial alcohol but it nevertheless is confronted with sociological questions in connection therewith that are extremely troublesome. He did not know, he said, whether it was possible to create a formula that would make alcohol unfit as a beverage and yet would not poison or kill those who drank it.

Discusses Problems. "What are we to do?" he asked, "when some fools somewhere will take a can of tinned heat and squeeze the stuff through a handkerchief and drink what is left. I do not know how to protect that sort of person."

Society

Mrs. P. W. Price made a charming hostess on Tuesday afternoon, when she entertained the Tuesday Bridge Club and a few friends, honoring her house guests, Misses Ada Mienecke and Fred Montgomery and Misses Ada and Ena Mienecke.

Six tables were placed for players and a merry round of games were enjoyed. Mrs. Dow Mercer had high score and Mrs. Cliff Acker low score for the club members, and Miss Kathleen Hawkins high score and Mrs. Will Smith low score for the guests, each receiving a lovely prize. Mrs. Price also presented her honor guests with a prize.

Cooperative Ideas Now Spreading Among Farm Folks

Department of Agriculture Recites
Accomplishments of Extension Agents.

The accomplishments of the cooperative extension work of the Department of Agriculture were reviewed in a statement issued by the department on August 12. The full text of the statement follows:

Extension work as it has been conducted during the 10-year period from 1914 to 1924, has helped farming people to think about the business of the farm and to act on their conclusions, says the Department of Agriculture in the tenth annual report of cooperative agricultural extension work. The fact that 40,464 community programs were developed in 1924, in which farmers themselves devised remedies, selected 182,917 local leaders, determined upon 1,134,750 demonstrations, carried them to completion and reported the results shows the cooperation farm people are giving extension work.

The report discusses the work of 1924 and reviews the results of extension teaching done since the passage of the Smith-Lever Act in 1914. It covers more than 130 pages explaining the different types of extension work being carried on. The 10-year period is reviewed to give a broader view of what has been accomplished and of the general trend of the work in its relation to American life.

Agents for Each County.

The Smith-Lever Act, which is the nucleus of the American agricultural extension system, provides for continuance of demonstration work already developed to some extent at the time of its passage. It contemplates placing men and women demonstration agents in each agricultural county to make available to the farmer on his own farm and the farm woman in her own home, improved methods in farming and homemaking which have been established by research and in a form which they can use.

It is the intent of the act that these agents aid farmers and their families, including boys and girls, in putting on demonstrations in selecting seed, feeding and managing live stock, fighting insect pests, and making the home more comfortable and attractive. It is designed to show how to apply improved methods under local conditions.

During the 10-year period, the major efforts in county agricultural work has been on farm production and many improved practices have been adopted. Home demonstration work can justly be accorded with many improvements which contribute to the convenience and beauty of the farm home and the well being of the farm family. Through club work, many boys and girls have discovered the farm as an opportunity for an interesting and profitable career.

The act has secured the cooperation of the Federal Government and the state colleges of agriculture in carrying on extension work, but it was drawn broadly enough so that farmers and farm women themselves could cooperate with representatives of the county, the state and federal governments in planning and financing the extension work carried on in each community. This may be regarded as one of the outstanding accomplishments under the Smith-Lever Act.

Aims for Future.

Judging by the experience of the past 10 years, the future trend of the influence of cooperative extension work will be toward:

1. Increasing group thought and action as a habit in country neighborhood life.
2. Encouraging conscious effort on the part of country people to retain and capitalize the best features and attractions of country life and to work out for themselves the soundest way in which to make available to their young people, and to themselves, the best in education, recreation and social life which the country and town afford.

3. Expanding boys' and girls' club work and developing supplementary agencies that will make the practical influence of extension association, teaching and training as available as the public school education to all country boys and girls.

4. Furthering opportunities for the economic and social development of the farm woman that will place her on a more equitable footing with the modern, wage-earning woman of the city in standards of living and in opportunities for community activity and personal improvement.

5. Stimulating ambition for a more satisfying home and neighborhood life on the part of the farmer and his family based on healthful and sensible tastes and ideals and on a community of thought, appreciation and action.

A copy of the report may be obtained as long as the supply lasts by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

society who fails to realize this fundamental human obligation.

This circle of human duty, however, is wider than the home. We live in the world with other individuals and the circle of our duty is widening constantly as modern inventions multiply the means of communication between men. No longer can we think of human duty in terms of municipalities or even a nation. The man is our world and his duties are coextensive with his citizenship.

In the remaining commandments we get a summary of universal morality. Four human rights are treated in these. They are the right to property, the right to life, the right to an unviolated personal purity, and the right to bear a reputation in keeping with one's character. These rights furnish to humanity the boundary of personal liberties. No one has a right to any personal liberty which robs another of his fundamental rights, and a society in which these rights are unprotected is one of anarchy and moral chaos.

The right to property must be respected among men if a wholesome and orderly society is to exist. Therefore, "thou shalt not steal." It is a remarkable fact that the same commandment which protects property also defines it. We cannot say that property and possession are synonymous terms. Possession that rests upon the illegitimate gains of men is a violation of the same commandment that protects honest possession or property. Property means "that which is our own."

Life is the gift of God to the individual. God has set its metes and bounds according to a wisdom that transcends that of man. But God has also ordained human government to protect the lives of all the members of society. Life, then, should never be taken except thru the orderly processes of law. Capital punishment was ordained of God to protect life, but the arbitrary taking of life upsets the whole moral order. We are living in a day when humanity needs a deeper appreciation of the sanctity of human life and perhaps a day also when orderly government is confronted with a much larger use of capital punishment in order to enhance that appreciation among its unruly citizens, who are quick to shed the blood of a fellow man.

The right of an unviolated personal purity is as real as the right to life itself. The sexual passion was ordained of God for right and holy purposes. Without it the population of the earth would long since have perished. Moreover, much that is beautiful in the artistic world would never have been. But the perversion of that passion is the most dangerous of all perversions in human life. It was an offense which in the conception of God justified capital punishment. There is not the slightest warrant in holy writ for the use of confinement in prison as a punishment for adultery. The universal punishment for it was death—the only penalty which in the wisdom of God sufficed to satisfy the demands of justice upon the sexual perverser.

Men have lived more under the sway of that social force known as social approval or disapproval than we think sometimes. Reputation, therefore, touches upon a sacred human right. For this reason God has hedged it about with the commandment, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor." The assassins of reputation belong in the same category with the assassins of property, life and personal purity. The wicked gossip who has something to tell us, "between me and you and the gatepost," is unworthy of a place of respect in society. Frankness in human relations is sought. If one has something to tell between themselves and the gatepost, let them apply the rule of the Apostle Paul, "Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted."

The last commandment if observed, will preclude much of the sin in society. Covetousness dictates the most of sins against other men. Therefore, "Thou shalt not covet . . . anything that is thy neighbor's." Guard then the doors of human conduct against the cancerous covetousness and you will neither steal, kill, commit adultery, nor bear false witness.

Led my nearest opponent 1589 votes. Help me to win in Saturday's election and I will continue to serve you to the very best of my ability.

The wedding of Miss Waldine Wilson and Silas H. Boozer, of Amarillo, took place at 7:30 o'clock on Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson.

This lovely home was transformed into a veritable garden of pink roses, gladioli and ferns. The fire place was banked with ferns and clewatis, with softly burning pink and white candles. Here Rev. T. Morgan officiated, using the impressive ring ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Carl Mounitz sang "Because," followed by Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was played by Mrs. C. H. Dyar.

There were no attendants. The bride was beautiful in an exquisite gown of rose and blue georgette, with accessories to match. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

A reception followed the ceremony, to which only the immediate relatives and intimate friends were present. During the reception, from a beautifully appointed table, an ice in the form of wedding bells topped with candy cupids and cake were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Boozer left immediately over the Santa Fe for a honeymoon trip to the Grand Canyon and points in New Mexico.

Upon their return, they will be at home in Amarillo, where Mr. Boozer is in business. A newly completed home in the Roberts addition will be ready for this young couple's occupancy upon their return.

Mrs. Boozer has made her home in Amarillo for a number of years and her many friends here wish for her much happiness in her married life.

The beautiful new home of Mrs. B. F. Guthrie was the scene of a delightful party on Wednesday afternoon, when Mmes. Guthrie, C. A. Skelton and Elmer Dameron were hostesses, honoring Mrs. Thomas P. Wilson, a recent bride. The receiving rooms of this lovely home were a mass of lavender and white, plus carrying out the chosen color scheme.

A musical program was enjoyed by the guests and at the close, the honoree arrived. Just as she was seated, Mrs. Guthrie pinned an arrow on her. Little Miss Sallie Skelton, dressed as a Cupid, appeared and began to look for her arrow, and finding it on Mrs. Wilson, she took her by the hand and let her to the door of the dining room. When it was opened, beautiful and appropriate gifts of all kinds, for this lovely bride were heaped upon the table.

After the honoree and guests had seen all the gifts, the hostesses served an ice course of raspberry ice angel food cake, again carrying out the color scheme.
