Lloyd Doggett, Democratic nominee for U.S. Senate, told Hereford residents if he were elected, he would attempt to block the choosing of the Texas Panhandle as a site for nuclear waste dumping. Doggett was at K-Bobs in Hereford Saturday for a campaign stop.

Doggett brings campaign to city

State Senator Lloyd Doggett Saturday told a group of about 25 people he was deeply concerned about the possibility of Deaf Smith County and the Texas Panhandle being used as a nuclear waste dumping site.

"I want to be one of 100 people (in the U.S. Senate) who will represent this land," he said. "And I will work to block the choosing of the Texas Panhandle as a dump ground for somebody else's waste."

Saturday's crowd gathered at K-Bobs Steak House, a campaign stop for Doggett. He was to stop in Dimmitt later in the afternoon.

Doggett said many factors should be involved in a decision-making process for a nuclear waste site.

"There isn't only one issue here," he said. "The Panhandle is one of the largest agriculture-producing areas in the United States. We all recognize what could happen (if the dump site is in the Panhandle)."

Other big pushes mentioned for the Doggett campaign Saturday were Social Security and education. Doggett claimed he wanted quality programs in both areas.

"We want to be sure we can provide for our older citizens with Social Security," he said. "It's ridiculous to say 'now that you're an older person, you're no good anymore.' Folks, that's not the way I was reared. I was reared to have some respect."

"We want to make sure the older citizens get what they deserve."

Doggett said both he and his wife were concerned about education.

"Libby and I have always wanted to ensure that our kids would have an opportunity for education," he said. "I want to offer a vision that provides the finest education in the world for your children and mine so that we can give them a better life than we had."

Doggett blasted the Republicans during his short speech.

"I am the only native Texan in this race," he said. "My Republican opponents don't seem to care about putting Texas first, about putting agriculture first."

"He (Rep. candidate Phil Gramm, Doggett's opponent) voted to make it harder for Texans to veto the dumping (of nuclear waste)."

Astronauts nudge ice chunk

By HOWARD BENEDICT AP
Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Discovery's astronauts dislodged a large portion of a pesky chunk of ice from the side of the orbiting ship today with a nudge from their 50-foot robot arm. Mission control said the small section remaining was not a hazard.

"We got most it," astronaut Judy Resnik reported after commander Henry Hartsfield had gingerly guided the arm out of the cargo bay and over the port side to get at the ice.

A picture televised live to mission control in Houston showed that after the initial tap, a large piece of the chunk had been knocked off, leaving only about a five-inch icicle remaining. Officials estimated more than three-fourths of the lump had been removed.

Flight controllers were satisfied this small a piece would cause no problem, particularly because it appeared to be "porous and very spongy, and not hard."

"The remaining piece is not considered a hazard to the orbiter," said mission control commentator John Lawrence.

"It was a super job," controllers told the crew. "See you at Edwards."

The crew is to return to Earth Wednesday, with landing set for 6:41 a.m. at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

The ice never posed a threat to the astronauts. The concern was that it could fall off during re-entry to Earth and damage Discovery's tail, requiring costly and time-consuming repairs that would delay the shuttle's next flight.

The television picture, captured by a camera mounted on the arm, dramatically showed the arm gingerly approaching the ice chunk, which had been reduced to about half the size it was on Monday by a combination of the sun and heaters.

Hartsfield had to be very careful with the movements so that the arm would not accidentally hit and damage protective thermal tiles on the side and on the port wings. He had only about a 10-inch clearance with the wing.

Sally Ride, America's first woman in space, worked out the arm procedures Monday in a simulator in Houston. She radioed instructions to Miss Resnik, the second American space woman, who relayed them to Hartsfield.

The arm was called into use after a series of jet firings failed for the second day in a row to shake the ice loose.

"No joy," Miss Resnik reported after Hartsfield triggered a series of jet bursts that vibrated the shuttle's frame.

Using Discovery robot arm

Hartsfield estimated the chunk was about half the size it was Monday, when it measured about 24 inches long and about 12 inches thick at the base.

If all attempts had failed today, officials said they would consider sending astronauts Steve Hawley and Richard Mullane outside on a space walk to break the ice free.

The ice lump started out as two icicles at the vents for waste water and toilet water, which are about 7 inches apart on the port side. The two pieces eventually joined into a chunk about 24 inches long and 12 inches thick at the base.

The blockage put the toilet out of commission, forcing astronauts to discharge body wastes into special bags like those used by the Apollo moon astronauts. The remaining icicle continued to block the toilet drain after the arm did its job.

Miss Resnik on Monday finished all 14 of her engineering tests of a 10-story-tall solar power panel and a NASA spokesman said "there are some mighty pleased folks" in the control center.

The manufacture of a hormone, however, ran into more equipment problems and officials said they expected industry engineer Charles Walker — whose only job on the shuttle is to produce the drug — to bring back just 80 percent of the amount they hoped for.

McDonnell Douglas Corp., Walker's employer, has closely guarded the identity of the drug and its purpose. During a televised tour of his operation Monday, Walker said the device "is separating biological substances that we hope to produce for physicians to treat illnesses and maladies on Earth that haven't been treatable before."

Holiday weekend death toll reaches at least 420

CHICAGO (AP) — Authorities from across the nation reported at least 420 people killed in traffic accidents over the three-day Labor Day weekend, fewer deaths than were reported last year.

The National Safety Council estimated before the holiday began that between 450 and 550 people could die on U.S. roadways between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday. During a non-holiday, three-day weekend at this time of the year 380 highway deaths could be expected, council statisticians said.

Last year, there were 468 traffic deaths over the Labor Day weekend. The worst toll on record for a Labor Day holiday was in 1968, when 688 people were killed.

Seven people, including four children, were killed in a fiery three-car crash in Chicago on Monday night.

By The Associated Press

Accidents on Texas streets and highways have claimed at least 40 lives over the Labor Day weekend, with alcohol believed to be a major contributor in a number of crashes, the Department of Public Safety reported.

With several hours left before the final tally was to end at midnight Monday, DPS officials were predicting at least 14 more fatalities.

DPS spokesman Larry Todd said he believed alcohol was a major factor in a number of this weekend's accidents. More than half of the reported fatalities were one-vehicle wrecks, a good indicator that alcohol might have been involved, the spokesman said.

"We won't know for sure until detailed reports are submitted later," he said, "but alcohol plays a significant role in holiday and weekend accidents."

The latest reported death was 78-year-old Lonnie Milton Gaultney of Zavala. Police said Gaultney's car ran off State Highway 63 just east of Zavala around 2 p.m. Monday, hit a culvert and flew 50 feet before coming to rest. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Mary Wallace McFarland, 43, of Texas City, was killed in a head-on collision Monday at an intersection inside Texas City city limits. She died in a local hospital at 4:25 p.m.

Fifteen-year-old Wendy Savage was killed in a three-vehicle accident at 2:10 p.m. Monday about 6.4 miles west of Burnet on State Highway 29. Authorities said the car in which she was a passenger and another car collided with a vehicle going the wrong way on Highway 29. She was pronounced dead at the scene. Police said seatbelts were not in use in any of the vehicles.

James Newton Bodine, 48, died as a passenger in a one-car accident at 2:55 Saturday. The accident occurred at the intersection of Robertson Road and FM 1220 in Northwest Tarrant County. Police said the car ran into a ditch and caught fire. Bodine was burned beyond recognition. The driver of the car, who was not identified, is hospitalized with second-degree burns over 40 percent of his body.

Other deaths over the Labor Day weekend include Cecil David Walker, 62, of Waco, who was killed while attempting to walk across spur 299 near Bellmead in McClennan County at 12:35 p.m. Monday.

April Ranaee Lones, 7 months, was killed by a hit-and-run driver as she was being pushed in a stroller at 8:40 p.m. Sunday on farm-to-market road 116 in Coppas Cove.

Patricia Connaughton, 42, of Albuquerque, N.M., was killed by another hit-and-run driver at 1:20 a.m. Sunday as she walked across the Bridge of the Americas between El Paso and Juarez, Mexico.

Brock Gilley, 2, of Wellington was killed after he stepped off a curb and fell into the path of car at 7:17 p.m. Sunday on a city street in Wellington in Collingsworth County.

Alice Ann Dabney, 37, of Port Isabel died when her car went out of control and struck an overpass at 9:05 p.m. Sunday on state highway 100 and U.S. Route 77 in Cameron County.

Leo Bardo Rendon, age unknown, of Mexico died at 10:15 p.m. Sunday in a three-vehicle accident on U.S. Route 87 about 2 miles south of Plainview. There were no other injuries.

Henry H. Taylor, 57, of Jasper died when his car struck a tree at 4:20 p.m. Sunday about 20 miles north of Jasper on Letney Park Road.

Commissioner Voyles injured

Deaf Smith County Commissioner James Voyles was reported in stable condition this morning at Deaf Smith General Hospital, after being injured Saturday in a farm accident.

DSGH Administrator James Bullard said Voyles, who is 52, suffered seven fractured ribs and a broken collar bone after a tractor he was working on slipped and struck him in the chest. Bullard said Voyles was not pinned beneath the tractor and another person working nearby as able to summon help quickly. The farm where Voyles was working is about 20 miles north of Hereford.

Bullard said he expects the Precinct 4 Commissioner to be hospitalized another four or five days.

Congress back to work Wednesday with consumer issues awaiting WASHINGTON (AP) — With the presidential campaigns in full swing, members of Congress return to work Wednesday poised to make an impression on voters back home who are sensitive to issues that'll affect their pocketbooks.

Over the summer, Congress recessed for the conventions of both political parties as well as the long Labor Day weekend. Now they'll be faced with a full plate of legislation served up throughout the next 22 days.

Both the Senate Republican leadership and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., say they don't want a lame duck session after the November election under any circumstances.

So if the tall stack of unfinished legislative business gets done in one fashion or another, the 98th Congress is set to adjourn during the first week of October. That is a tentative deadline and could easily be extended by the congressional leadership by several days to wrap up a few items on the calendar.

For example, nine money bills covering fiscal 1985 spending for such major agencies as the Defense, Agriculture and Treasury departments still must be approved. If not passed by Oct. 1, a stopgap measure known as a continuing resolution would be needed to keep the agencies in business financially.

Up for grabs in the fall election are all 435 seats in the House of Representatives and 33 of the Senate seats.

The House will complete action this week on legislation easing regulations for approval of cheap generic drugs and granting an extended patent life for new drug discoveries.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., has assigned top priority to appropriations measures necessary to fund government agencies for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

House Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., is expected to hold speedy hearings on politically popular legislation to guarantee retirees a cost-of-living increase in Social Security benefits even if inflation falls below 3 percent, the current trigger for such increases. The administration-supported increase was passed by the Senate and House approval is considered a sure bet.

On the Senate agenda this week is legislation that would redefine who can own a bank. Also it would direct the Federal Reserve Board to speed up the processing of paychecks in order to avoid a long "hold" time when the money is not credited to a customer's account.

The fate of immigration reform legislation remains uncertain.

The House and Senate passed different versions so conferees may attempt to come up with a compromise. Generally, the bills would grant amnesty to many illegal aliens now in the country while imposing stiff sanctions on employers who hire undocumented foreign workers. One key stumbling block is a House provision that would allow thousands of foreign workers to come into the United States temporarily each year to harvest crops.

Hereford's city police log busy holiday weekend

Deaf Smith and Randall county authorities are looking for the person or persons who took a 1983 Ford Lincoln Continental from a locked garage in Canyon late last week, then set it on fire.

Hereford Volunteer firemen extinguished the blaze after the car was abandoned and set on fire Saturday north of Hereford. The local sheriff's office said the vehicle had been stripped of the radio, battery, front seat and wire wheel covers.

Fire Marshal Jay Spain said the car was destroyed by the fire and expects to file an arson report.

Sheriff's deputies also investigated a domestic squabble, report of dog bite and picked up a runaway juvenile.

Hereford Police made six arrests for public intoxication and four for driving while intoxicated over the Labor Day weekend. Several persons were also jailed for not having liability insurance.

Other arrests included a man charged with public intoxication, driving too close behind the car in front, having no insurance and leaving the scene of an accident. There were no injuries in that accident.

A man who has violated probation was picked up on an outstanding Castro County warrant. He also had no liability insurance and was charged with allowing an unlicensed driver to operate his car.

Baby strangled in airport

GRAPEWINE, Texas (AP) — Charges may be filed this week against a 22-year-old woman suspected of giving birth to a baby in an airport restroom and then strangling it to death, authorities say.

Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport Police Chief Tom Shehan said the woman was arrested over the weekend, then released on a writ of habeas corpus.

The newborn baby — a white male — was found in a D-FW Airport trash can Friday shortly after it was born, said medical investigator Dail McMillan. The baby, which was at full term, died of asphyxiation, McMillan said.

Tarrant County Medical Examiner Nizam Peerwani said Sunday his office is trying to determine if the infant was strangled before he was dumped into the trash.

Earlier, another county medical investigator, R.O. Medford, ruled the death a homicide.

The woman, believed to be the mother, was detained Saturday after she returned to the airport and was preparing to board an airplane.

Shehan said investigators learned the woman's name from airport personnel who said they had assisted a woman found hemorrhaging at the airport Friday night.

The woman refused medical assistance from airport workers and left after giving her name, Shehan said.

Police checked flight rosters and found the woman was scheduled to leave on a Saturday afternoon flight to Louisiana.

"We waited for her to come for her plane and then we arrested her," he said.

Shehan said investigators had not determined a motive in the death.

D-FW Airport Detective Jack Woodman said the woman may be charged Tuesday.

Farm exports to Russia doubled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shipments of U.S. agricultural commodities to the Soviet Union are expected to reach a near-record value of $2.3 billion this fiscal year, more than double what they were in 1982-83, according to preliminary estimates by the Agriculture Department.

The value of farm exports to the Soviet Union last year was only $983 million, about half 1981-82's $1.9 billion mark, says a recent analysis by USDA's Economic Research Service.

Soviet purchases of corn and wheat have been heavy this summer, although most of the grain has been for delivery in the new fiscal year that will begin on Oct. 1. The value figures used in the agency's report are for products actually shipped during a year.

But unfortunately for American farmers, the huge jump in sales to the Soviets this year does not represent a worldwide boom of the same magnitude. Total farm exports are up, but only by about 9 percent from the depressed level of 1982-83.

According to USDA records, the $983 million in U.S. agricultural exports to the Soviet Union in 1982-83 was the lowest value in nine years. In the 1980 fiscal year — which included the partial embargo imposed by then-President Carter — exports to the Soviet Union totaled $1.52 billion.

Grocery price tab dips

Grocery prices, reversing course from the previous month, dipped 0.7 percent during August, according to the monthly Associated Press marketbasket survey.

During July, prices had surged 3 percent, primarily because of a jump in the price of pork chops and butter.

In the latest survey, prices fell in seven cities an average of 3.2 percent. They rose in five cities an average of 2.8 percent. Prices in one city, Boston, remained unchanged.

This time around, pork chops — and chopped chuck — fell. Butter prices climbed again, but more slowly.

And orange juice was more expensive, while egg prices continued their decline.

"I think food prices are stabilizing. I don't know if they actually went down," said Michael K. Evans, who heads an economic forecasting firm in Washington. "We did have a run-up in pork prices last month, but that was seasonal."

Pork prices skyrocketed an average of 14.9 percent during July. This past month, they dropped 1.9 percent. Chopped chuck fell 4.2 percent during August.

"We'll also come to see some downward pressure during the next few months because of the bountiful harvest this year. Perhaps in the (AP) survey that may have already started," Evans said.

A drop in corn and soybean prices would tend to lower prices for meat and other foods, he said.

"I think it looks quite good," he said of the inflation picture. "These figures are reassuring in the sense that rising food prices would be a trigger that could lead to higher prices in the second half of the year."

Butter rose 1.2 percent after jumping 4.6 percent in the previous

Bomb explodes in Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) — A bomb exploded in a locker in Montreal's main railroad station, killing three people and injuring at least 41, officials said. Police arrested an American in connection with notes threatening Pope John Paul II that had been mailed to the station and news media.

The explosion Monday sent metal and glass fragments tearing into a line of about 150 people waiting to board a train for Ottawa at the end of Canada's Labor Day weekend. Thousands of people were heading home, and the Central Station was crowded. It was closed after the blast and passengers were shuttled to suburban stations.

Detective Sgt. Jacques Grondines said police arrested Thomas Brigham, 65, believed to be from Rochester, N.Y., in connection with anonymous notes threatening John Paul. The notes were mailed to the train station and various news media in Ottawa and Montreal during the past week.

Detective Sgt. Andre Menard said Brigham would be charged in connection with the notes, but did not specify what the charge would be. Grondines said Brigham also would be questioned about the bombing.

Brigham was being followed by the U.S. Secret Service until about a year ago "because he was following President Reagan," Menard said.

The bombing came a week before the Pope is scheduled to visit Montreal by rail on a Canadian tour. The pope will arrive at Windsor Station, two blocks from Central Station.

Bernard Lefebvre, of the city's emergency medical service, said ambulances took 25 people to seven hospitals, and 16 other victims went to hospitals on their own. Three bodies were taken to a morgue. Police said it might take hours to identify them because they were badly burned.

Says $40 million lottery winner

'I'd be bored' if not working

CHICAGO (AP) — A $40 million lottery windfall might leave some people singing, "Take This Job and Shove It," but Michael Wittkowski says he'll stay on as a printer because "if I just sat around counting my money, I'd be bored."

The 28-year-old who became the biggest lottery winner in history is heading back to his $20,000-a-year job at a check-printing company Wednesday, he said. The fact that he'll get $2 million a year for 20 years "hasn't begun to sink in yet."

Wittkowski was the only person to pick the numbers 2, 3, 10, 26, 30 and 43 — the combination drawn Saturday night in the state's cash-swollen weekly Lotto game, Illinois Lottery officials announced Monday.

At a news conference, Wittkowski said he'll share the prize with his father, brother and sister.

"All we want to do is pay off our bills," he said. "After that we'll sit down and decide what to do with it."

He may use his riches to buy Chicago Cub baseball tickets, Wittkowski said. "Maybe now I'll have money for playoff tickets."

The Lotto game went three weeks without a winner, and frenzied ticket buying by people from as far away as California and New Jersey swelled the jackpot to the monumental levels.

Lottery superintendent Michael Jones said 2,020 players matched five out of the six numbers drawn Saturday night, and each will receive $1,569.50. He said 103,652 players matched four of the six numbers and will each get $45.50.

Jones reported that a record 31.7 million tickets were sold for the drawing and at one point were selling at a rate of 348 a second.

Wittkowski, who has a girlfriend and is planning to become engaged, said last week started out like any other week — he and his family bought about $35 worth of tickets, and he played the same numbers he always does.

The family watched the drawing on television at home. Wittkowski said that just before the drawing, he wrote his numbers on a piece of paper, along with the words "these are my $40 million numbers."

When he found out he'd beaten the 3.5 million-to-1 odds, Wittkowski said, he "jumped up and screamed."

The winner, whose mother is deceased, appeared at Monday's press conference with his father Frank, 56, a foundry foreman, brother Dan, 30, his sister Eileen, 23, and his girlfriend, 22-year-old Fran Pappas.

"I think she pulled a few strings," Wittkowski said of his mother, Edna, who died about 10 years ago.

The largest jackpot previously won by one person in North America was $20 million, claimed in July by Venero Pagano of New York City.

Spain's Christmas lottery, regarded as the world's richest, offers $71.8 million.

'I told you so!'

The book, "Prodigal Daughter," was written by a former member of Britain's Parliament, Jeffery Archer—but it is about us. It is supposed to be fiction, nothing more.

But the author is now claiming uncanny insight: "I told you so!" he says.

What he means is that in his book a president of the United States dies and his vice president becomes our country's first female president.

Some women are helping us get used to the idea.

Liz Dole handles authority beautifully.

Kentucky has a phenomenally effective woman governor.

San Francisco has a woman mayor who has managed to embrace that polyglot population, balance the city budget and reduce taxes!

And Geraldine Ferraro, whether she wins or loses the office she seeks, is running interference for others of her gender.

Presently, when she shares a public platform with Walter Mondale, it creates an awkward situation.

He cannot be deferential to her as he would be to any other woman in the world.

She cannot be subservient as any man in that position would be; she may be neither aggressive nor subordinate.

In any debate with George Bush he is constrained to be more polite than in a verbal joust with a male opponent.

And all this is requiring some accommodation, some adapting by candidates and constituents. They're allowed no hugging or kissing. They must walk side by side so that neither goes first.

Women in the future will have it easier—as Britain's Maggie Thatcher has come gradually to be accepted by her peers as a peer... almost.

But the transition is difficult at best.

Ferraro is going to have to be tough to prevail against two centuries of precedent.

Already, her presence on the Mondale Ticket has had substantive political impact.

The unprecedented showcasing of women at the GOP convention in Dallas was not happenstance.

Forty-four percent of the delegates were women, compared to 30 percent four years ago.

The keynoter was a woman, Katherine Ortega.

Democrat U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick and HHS Secretary Margaret Heckler were chosen to run back the Mondale-Ferraro kickoff—at least to midfield.

Inevitable evolution has been accelerated by the Ferraro nomination.

day early, was jailed for public intoxication and eight counts of disorderly conduct after fighting with police officers at the scene of the arrest and again at the jail. Charges of assault on a peace officer were dropped after she apologized to the law enforcement officers she allegedly kicked and cursed.

A trailer valued at $200 was apparently stolen Saturday night from Bill McDowell of 113 Elm, while Rick McDowell of 308 Avenue I reported his $250 guitar missing from his residence Monday.

Wheel covers and an antenna were found missing from a vehicle owned by James Arney of 2025 Plains. The owner was out of town and the $400 theft was reported by a local garage that retrieved the car from a parking lot where it had broken down.

A local laundromat reported damage to video machines, and a burglary was discovered at Tierra Blanca school. Police also investigated several reports of youngsters fighting and dogs making a nuisance of themselves.

Would-be gas thieves were surprised by the owner of the car Thursday night at a local truck stop. The man reported a knife wound to police on Friday after he was treated and released at Deaf Smith General Hospital. The two men got away and police have no suspects.

Stock tanks valued at $225 were reported missing Monday from Carl McCaslin Lumber, and criminal mischief was discovered at the post office where the contents of a trash can has been scattered.

Police questioned a man, being treated at DSGH Saturday, who had apparently been cut by someone yielding a broken beer bottle. The investigating officer said the injured man refused to disclose the identity of his assailant.

The fire department extinguished two additional vehicle fires over the weekend. A minor tractor fire was put out Saturday at the city incinerator, and a car fire Monday at New York and South Main Streets caused moderate damage. That vehicle was owned by H.A. Close of 209 Northwest Drive.

Firemen also fought a minor house fire at 401 Avenue G. on Monday. That blaze started in the bathroom.

Arthur depression doesn't get stronger

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical depression Arthur, which has been dallying for days in the central Atlantic, showed no signs of strengthening early today, but was still in an area "where something could happen," forecasters said.

Sister depression Bertha, located about 1,100 miles southwest of the Azores, was of little notice to forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in suburban Coral Gables as it moved out over the Atlantic.

"Bertha's gone on out to sea," said veteran forecaster Gil Clark. "So our only problem is whether Arthur is going to survive or not."

Both depressions had been tropical storms, but lost strength over the weekend.

"It's (Arthur) still in an area where something could happen."

Forecasters were also keeping watch on a tropical wave 250 to 300 miles east of the Windward Islands that could have formed into a depression by late morning and an area of cloudiness and scattered thunderstorms in the western Gulf of Mexico.

Arthur was in the central Atlantic about 280 miles northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico. The system was moving northwest at 8 mph and was expected to continue that motion into the early morning, according to the center's 6:00 a.m. EDT statement today.

Bertha was in the mid-Atlantic about 1,100 miles southwest of the Azores. Movement was northeast at about 20 mph and was expected to continue through today, the statement said.

Both tropical depressions had sustained winds of 35 mph. If the gusts picked up again and steadied between 39 mph and 73 mph, the systems would be upgraded to tropical storms. Hurricane force is 74 mph and higher.

Arthur became a tropical depression Friday. Bertha lost its strength and was downgraded Saturday. A third storm, Cesar, was written off when it merged with a low pressure center Sunday off the coast of Newfoundland.

The tropical wave that had moved off the coast of Africa was moving to the west about 15 mph.

If the tropical wave takes on a cyclone formation, it will be upgraded to tropical depression Diana, forecaster Bob Sheets said today.

"It's getting better organized. It may be forming a depression right now, we'll have to wait for the plane to get there."

Telethon draws record $32 million in pledges

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Highlighted by calls from both President Reagan and Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale, the Jerry Lewis Telethon drew a record $32,074,566 in pledges for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The pledges, from millions of viewers across the United States and Canada, represented the highest amount ever pledged to a televised charitable event, association officials said after the telethon ended Monday.

The total, which will be finalized later in the week, topped the previous record of $31,498,772 pledged in 1981, when 210 television stations carried the telethon. This year's show, the association's 19th national telethon, was carried by 194 stations in the United States and cable television in Canada.

In addition, some two dozen corporations and organizations presented Lewis, the host, with more than $20 million in checks.

While some of the biggest names in show business appeared in the 21½-hour weekend telethon, they were upstaged by Bob Sampson, a vice president of United Airlines who is a muscular dystrophy victim.

Sampson, bound to a wheelchair for the past 50 years, told of being the only child in the Chicago school system during the height of the Depression to contract the crippling disease and live.

Ed McMahon anchored the telethon, while singers Sammy Davis Jr. and Tony Orlando and disc jockey Casey Kasem served as co-hosts.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I am a tax paying property owner on Ave. E. The house (putting it lightly) next door to me has been empty for quite some time. I understand the owner is in prison and I have been told that he has rights—as long as he is there, nothing can be done about the place.

I'm sure he owes back taxes on the property, why can't the place be terminated, weeds cut and this added to his tax bill?

Mike Carr of the Chamber has tried to help me in this but is having no luck. I also understand that other city officials know about this. I was told it couldn't be condemned unless there were rats in it. Well, I'm sure there are a lot of things in it because I have had a few visitors. Also, it's a fire hazard.

It appears that if you're in prison your rights are protected. But what about my rights? My neighbors' rights? The responsibility of mowing and cleaning it up has fallen on the neighbors, and we're tired of it.

Doing things together is especially important to the four members of the Vardeman family.

Karen, Dennis, their son, Kelly, 14 and daughter, Denna, 10, love to go camping at every opportunity.

"We just got back from Gunnison, Colo. in July and really had a good time," Karen said. "We have a pop-up camper that we keep ready to go for the weekend."

The Vardemans moved to Hereford last October from Corpus Christi where they had lived for two years. They had previously lived in Tahoka for 10 years.

"I grew up in Amarillo and Dennis grew up in Meadow," Karen said, "so it felt like we were coming home. We were really surprised at how much Hereford had grown, though. I remembered it as being kind of cowboyish, but it's not like that now."

"We're really enjoying being back in West Texas," Dennis added. "Here people say 'Hi' and aren't afraid to talk to you."

Dennis is employed as the shop foreman for John Deere, a company he has worked for the last 14 years.

Karen is working at Cowan Jewelers.

"I've always liked jewelry and my uncle was a jewelry repairman in Amarillo, so I grew up around it."

Since moving to Hereford, the family has attended the First Methodist Church and is active in the Seekers Sunday school class.

They still manage to find time for their other hobbies that the whole family can participate in like bowling and golf.

"We have a really good relationship with each other," Karen said. "The kids are able to say what they think and feel and we really listen to them. My view is that kids are short adults."

Karen and Dennis try to do everything with their children including making decisions.

"Before we moved from Corpus Christi, we sat down and discussed it

Dennis and Karen Vardeman
... with children Kelly and Denna with Kelly and Denna and asked whether they wanted to move to West Texas."

The family also tries to have one night a week without television where they play games or do something together.

"The kids look forward to that night," Karen said.

Karen took her job in Hereford, the first one she has had since they married 17 years ago, because she felt it was time for the children to learn to do things for themselves and to cut the "apron strings."

While living in Corpus Christi, Karen was involved in the Riverside Hospital auxiliary. In Tahoka, she was a substitute teacher and was a volunteer for the American Cancer Society. At home, she finds time to make afghans and to cross stitch. She also likes to work with weights.

"I'm waiting on the YMCA (to open) so I can get back to a workout," she said.

Kelly, a freshman at La Plata, enjoys art and is working to make the 9th grade golf team.

Denna, a fifth grader at West Central, plays the piano.

"Denna likes to do things typical of 10-year-old girls," Karen said.

While they lived in Corpus Christi, Karen said they found some good and easy recipes. The one she shared is for fajitas.

FAJITAS

5 lbs. fajita meat
course ground black pepper
Accent
seasoned salt
Kraft Zesty Italian dressing

Take the meat, tenderized, and cover with the black pepper. Sprinkle on Accent and seasoned salt. Allow to marinate while preparing the grill.

Place the meat on the hot grill and cover one side with the dressing. Cook the meat about six minutes. Turn over. Pour the dressing on the other side. Cook about six more minutes.

Slice the meat in long strips and place in warm flour tortillas. Pour sauce either in or on the tortilla.

Picante sauce is a good sauce to use.

Former Miss World changes lifestyle

COPPELL, Texas (AP) — Former Miss World Mariasela Alvarez Lebron has switched from changing clothes and planes as an international beauty queen to changing her baby's diapers as a suburban housewife, and it's a change that suits her for now, she says.

Phone calls still pour in from outside the country, but now the callers are relatives — not agents — asking about her new baby, 2-week-old Andres Alberto del Pino.

The 24-year-old from Santo Domingo, the 1982 Miss World, moved to this northwest Dallas suburb with her husband, marketing executive Alberto del Pino, six weeks ago.

"Now I hope my life stays like this for at least a year," she said, recalling the fast pace of her reign, when she visited 18 countries, caught planes nearly every day and worked as a model.

"I never thought I could win," she said recently. Neither did the London bookmakers, who had given her odds of 20 to 1.

The new mother has a degree in architecture and "after the baby is a year old, I want to work as an architect and use every opportunity here in Dallas."

Ann Landers

Practice, practice, practice!

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to those who feel they must correct the mispronunciations of others? Do it privately and use a little tact, please. Making sure you heard correctly is not a bad idea, either.

I had one of those know-it-all correction nuts interrupt me during a presentation. He just yelled out the word and it threw me completely off balance. Actually, I knew the correct pronunciation by error due to nervousness.

I stumbled through the rest of my talk, my confidence shattered, and have not opened my mouth in public since.—Shamed Into Silence

Dear S.I.S.: You didn't ask for advice but I happen to have a little lying around.

Don't let that clod defeat you. Accept every opportunity to speak in public and practice, practice, practice! Turn that disaster into a triumph, and when you see that fellow who embarrassed you, think of him as a friend.

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting married soon and my father is paying for the wedding. We have always gotten along so well, but one subject has been the source of trouble, and now it is coming to a head. He does not want me to invite any black people to my wedding.

I work with both black and white and would feel awful leaving some of my colleagues out. Please advise soonest.—Confused In The Midwest

Dear C.M.: Invite whomever you please. It's your wedding. If your father refuses to pay for it, have a simple ceremony in the home of a friend. Serve lemonade and cookies or whatever you and your fiancé can afford. Your integrity is more important than a fancy wedding.

Dear Ann Landers: I grew up in a family ruled by a tyrannical father. None of us brothers or sisters are close, which is just as well. We never got along when we were growing up. There never was open warfare, just indifference.

Our father died several years ago and mother is 91 years old. She has been in a nursing home for quite some time. My husband and I are concerned because mother has not made any plans for her funeral. All she says is, "Everything will work out in due time."

The real problem is my brothers and sisters. They refuse to sit down with us and discuss the matter. We are afraid they have no idea what funerals cost these days, especially when there is no insurance to cover the transportation charges for carrying the body 600 miles. (Mother wants to be buried next to father.)

We fear there will be gross overspending and we will be asked to come up with our share, which we won't be able to afford. None of us is well off. One sister and I are fighting to stay off welfare.

Is there any way to solve this problem and keep the peace?—Nervous In Nebraska

Dear Neb.: Since no one in the family seems interested in planning for an event that is inevitable, I suggest that you go ahead and do it.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., has filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) a proposal to reduce intrastate, interLATA long distance revenues to offset proposed increases in specialized service rates for private line, WATS, 800, OCC facilities and directory assistance services. The proposed tariff restructure will not result in any increases in the overall revenues of the Company. The proposed effective date for the tariffs is September 20, 1984. All customers and classes of customers will be affected by this filing.

The restructure in the basic long distance service (MTS) results in an overall decrease in the revenues received by the Company from such service of approximately $100 million. While this proposed restructure results in an overall decrease in revenue, certain MTS rates are proposed to be increased to more nearly recover the access charges approved by the PUC for such service.

AT&T Communications has also filed restructured tariffs designed to more closely recover access costs for private line, DATAPHONE Digital Service (DDS), OCC facilities, WATS, 800 and directory assistance services. These restructured tariffs result in an approximate overall revenue increase of approximately $100 million from increases in its WATS, 800, DDS, OCC facilities and private line rates, and institution of a charge for directory assistance.

The result of these proposed tariff changes and the restructure of our service offerings is to more nearly recover access costs from those services for which such access costs are incurred.

This proposed restructure results in no increase in overall revenue to AT&T Communications and is not a major rate change as that term is defined in Section 43(b) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act.

A complete copy of all tariffs and rate schedules is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

On next flight

Largest crew ever to be featured

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A space shuttle flight in October will have seven astronauts on board — the most ever in space at one time on one craft — but the crew members believe they will manage the crowd, as long as the space toilet works.

The 41-G mission is set for launch Oct. 1 with five men and two women on board for eight days in orbit. Plans call for the first spacewalk by a woman, the launch of a satellite using the robot arm, the first flight of a Canadian astronaut, a demonstration of satellite refueling, and a high-latitude orbital path that will carry the shuttle Challenger over the Soviet Union.

Mission commander Robert Crippen told reporters at a news conference on Monday that "seven people is going to be crowded" on the shuttle and said the crewmembers "have to be very conscious not to get in each other's way."

Astronaut Jon A. McBride, 41, the pilot on the flight, had a more specific concern. A seven-member crew should be fine, he said in an interview, as long as the toilet works.

If the toilet fails, he said, "It could be rather unpleasant with that many people."

The shuttle toilet has failed on 10 of the 12 flights, and is available for only limited use on the mission now in orbit by Discovery because of a buildup of ice on a waste vent.

Crippen said he doubted the shuttle could carry a much bigger crew.

"I'm not sure what the maximum number is you can carry on board, but we're pushing it with seven," said Crippen, 46, who is making his fourth flight into space.

Others on the crew include: —Sally Ride, 34, America's first woman in space, who will be making her second flight and who will specialize in operating the robot arm;

—Kathy Sullivan, 33, who will make the first spacewalk by an American woman;

—David C. Leestma, 35, who will be Ms. Sullivan's partner in the spacewalk;

—Marc Garneau, 35, a Canadian Navy commander, who is the first from his nation to fly in space, and —Paul D. Scully-Power, 40, a civilian employee of the U.S. Navy who will do oceanographic studies.

During their spacewalk, Leestma and Ms. Sullivan will attach a hose to two tanks in the cargo bay of the shuttle. Later, the hose will be used to transfer hydrazine, a rocket fuel, between the tanks.

It will be the first time that large volumes of fuel have been transferred in space by American astronauts. The Soviets have done it before.

Leestma said told reporters at the Johnson Space Center that the transfer of the fuel is potentially dangerous "if not done properly" because the rocket fuel is extremely volatile and could explode.

The fuel will be moved slowly to prevent a build up of temperatures inside the two tanks, he said. Hydrazine has been known to blow up at 20 degrees Fahrenheit.

Learning to refuel spacecraft is essential for servicing satellites in orbit and to resupply a space station, Leestma said.

Storm warnings

Small craft advisories generally mean winds of from 18 to 33 knots, and dangerous wave conditions. A gale warning indicates winds in the range of 34 to 47 knots. A storm warning means predictions of winds of more than 48 knots, and a hurricane warning means winds of more than 64 knots.

In beating lie detectors

Firm seeks to aid people

DALLAS (AP) — A private detective, who says lie detector tests don't always measure guilt or innocence, has set out to teach people to beat the polygraph machine.

But one polygraph expert says a lot of people have tried — and always failed — to beat the machine.

Jim Humphreys and his partner Douglas Williams, a former polygraph expert who worked for the Oklahoma City Police Department, have created "Graphbusters," a company offering one-day seminars on how to mislead polygraph operators.

Since the machine relies on changes in breathing, pulse and perspiration to detect lies, Graphbusters teaches people to control these responses when asked an upsetting question.

"The more honest a person, the greater the chance is that he will fail it," Humphreys said. "Just the fact that you have a deep conscience can elicit a response on the machine, if you are being accused of something."

"It's the criminals that stand a better chance of beating it," Humphreys said. Results of polygraph tests can't be used to convict a suspect, but police often use them anyway.

A recent case in point is that of Lenell Geter, the E-Systems engineer who was convicted and later cleared in the armed robbery of a Balch Springs fast food restaurant.

Humphreys worked as an investigator on the case. He said he became convinced that Geter was innocent, but was troubled by Geter's failure to pass a police polygraph test.

"When I saw an individual put his life on the line for this thing (the polygraph), I really became concerned. I'm a man of facts. I wanted to know the truth about these things."

Many companies also use the test on prospective employees, especially when the employees will handle large sums of cash or valuable merchandise.

Humphreys said he conducted extensive research indicating that lie detectors cannot infallibly measure guilt or innocence.

But Daniel Canty, vice president of the Texas Association of Polygraph Examiners, says lie detectors are 85 to 90 percent accurate in the hands of a good examiner.

"People have been trying to beat it for years," said Canty. "I guess anything is possible if they work at it long enough," he said, "but I doubt many people could master it (Humphreys' technique) sufficiently to fool an experienced examiner."

Humphreys and Williams have had only limited success in their venture. Only three or four customers attended three all-day seminars costing $90 when the seminars were offered in Dallas last month. The classes got mixed reviews.

"I thought it was absolutely great," said Al Baron, a Dallas salesman who said it was curiosity that lured him to the seminar.

Baron said he had never taken a polygraph test and never intended to, but that the growing use of the machine had concerned him in recent years.

Cliff Jenkins, a private investigator who attended a seminar, said he was disappointed because he wasn't given a polygraph test. He said people were connected to a machine that monitors heartbeat and breathing, but were not asked questions that might produce stress.

"It's like a gun fight," said Jenkins. "You can practice your quick draw all you want, but until you face a man who pulls the trigger, you don't know what the outcome is going to be."

Nevertheless, Humphreys is convinced of the fallibility of lie detectors and wants to get them out of the hands of law enforcement officers and corporate personnel officers.

"My goal is to get all polygraphs suspended for lie detection — period."

New completions mark

Hogeboom sets record in Cowboy victory

By JOHN NADEL AP Sports Writer ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — While Danny White calls it an experiment, Gary Hogeboom figures to be the first-string quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys for years to come if his first National Football League regular-season start is an accurate measure of his talents.

Hogeboom set a franchise record for completions in a game Monday night as the Cowboys, as they usually do, opened the season with a victory.

"I had fun, hopefully there's more to come," Hogeboom said after completing 33 of his 47 passing attempts for 343 yards to lead the Cowboys to a 20-13 come-from-behind win over the Los Angeles Rams.

"I was very pleased with my performance," Dallas Coach Tom Landry announced last Tuesday that Hogeboom would replace White as the Cowboys' starting quarterback.

White had been the starter since Roger Staubach retired after the 1979 season.

White said he had mixed emotions watching the nationally televised game at Anaheim Stadium.

"It was exciting to see how well the defense played," he said. "We have the potential to win the Super Bowl with defense like that."

Asked about his future, White said, "I won't make a permanent decision until this experiment is over."

Ironically, the record Hogeboom broke was set by White, who completed 31 throws last Nov. 13 against San Diego.

The triumph was the 19th for the Cowboys in their last 20 season-openers — their only loss coming at the hands of the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1982 — and gave them an 11-0 record in openers on the road.

It also enabled Landry to become the second-winningest coach in NFL history.

Landry, the only head coach the Cowboys have had since the franchise was formed in 1960, has 235 victories to 234 for former Green Bay Coach Curly Lambeau.

The late George Halas, who coached the Chicago Bears, is the all-time leader with 325 wins.

Los Angeles running back Eric Dickerson, who scored his team's only touchdown on a 2-yard run in the opening minutes, had a good game, finishing with 138 yards on 21 carries. Dickerson led the NFL in rushing as a rookie last year with 1,806 yards.

Three Dallas players established personal single-game highs in receptions — Tony Dorsett caught 10 passes for 66 yards; Doug Donley had nine catches for 137 yards; and Doug Cosbie had eight receptions for 99 yards. Dorsett also rushed for 81 yards on 25 carries.

"This one will give us confidence with a long season ahead," Landry said.

The Cowboys-Rams game was the second NFL contest of the day. In the afternoon, the Seattle Seahawks won their first regular-season opener ever by pounding the Cleveland Browns 33-0.

Dave Krieg threw three touchdown passes and Norm Johnson kicked three field goals for the Seahawks, who had to start their ninth season on Monday afternoon because baseball's Seattle Mariners played at the Kingdome on Sunday.

The victory, however, was a costly one for the Seahawks. All-Pro running back Curt Warner limped off the field with a knee injury in the second quarter, and after the game team officials said Warner was to undergo arthroscopic surgery today.

Cleveland was shut out for the first time since Nov. 27, 1977, when it lost 9-0 to a Rams team also coached by Knox.

The Seahawks were not the only team hurt by injuries in the first weekend of action.

Pittsburgh quarterback David Woodley, hospitalized with a concussion following a 37-27 loss to Kansas City, probably will not play Thursday night when the Steelers go on the road to play the New York Jets.

Woodley, who completed 11 of 17 passes for 225 yards and two touchdowns in just over a half of play, was released from the hospital Monday but did not take part in the team's Labor Day workout.

The Steelers rushing attack — without Franco Harris — managed just 46 yards on 24 carries.

Denver's starting quarterback, John Elway, is questionable for next Sunday's game against the Bears in Chicago because of a bruise and sprain suffered in his left shoulder during a 20-17 victory over Cincinnati.

The Indianapolis Colts' debut in their new home would have gone better if they had not beaten themselves, said Coach Frank Kush.

The Colts lost four fumbles in falling to the Jets 23-14 at the Hoosier Dome.

Also disappointed were the Washington Redskins, who were thumped 35-17 by the Miami Dolphins. Miami quarterback Dan Marino riddled the Washington defense for five TD passes and 311 yards.

Quarterback Phil Simms got the New York Giants off to a fast start, completing 23 of 30 attempts for 409 yards in a 28-27 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Oilers hope for victory over Colts Sunday

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Don't expect Houston Oiler Coach Hugh Campbell to panic after only one week of the National Football League season and say that Sunday's game against Indianapolis is a "must" victory.

The Oilers, trying to break away from a 2-14 record last year, should be able to play on even terms with the Colts, also struggling.

"I think it's important for us to win as early as possible," Campbell said diplomatically. "It would be a boost to get an early victory but it would be foolish to say that the season is over if we don't win this game."

The Oilers gave a brief hope to fans Sunday leading the defending Super Bowl champion Los Angeles Raiders 7-0 at halftime before falling 24-14.

But the contrast of playing one of the league's best teams and then one of its worst, was lost on Campbell.

"I don't really support the statement that they (Indianapolis) are a weak team," Campbell said. "It is difficult to get their running game stopped and that's a problem we had against the Raiders."

"We couldn't get anything stopped well enough to force them to adjust."

Campbell defended his conservative offensive game plan despite the presence of quarterback Warren Moon, who was supposed to lead the Oilers to a wide-open offense.

"We tried to shorten the game because that's the way we felt we could win," Campbell said. "That's not really my nature. But we felt we had a better chance if we kept the clock running."

Houston's strategy worked for two quarters but then Los Angeles scored 24 straight points.

"We were sitting on a time bomb and it went off," Campbell said.

Baylor eyes Cotton Bowl

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Baylor Bears have been to two Cotton Bowls under Coach Grant Teaff and they have the talent in 1984 for a legitimate shot at a third one.

But the Bears lost 72 percent of their offensive players from a 7-4-1 Bluebonnet Bowl team in 1983 and face a tough on-the-road schedule.

If Baylor can stay healthy and somehow defeat Brigham Young and Oklahoma starting out, a confident Bears squad could take the Southwest Conference by storm.

Teaff is less than thrilled about the team's schedule.

"If we could get two victories out of our three road games (the third is in Lubbock against Texas Tech), I think we could be a very, very good football team," he said. "If we don't, it could be a struggle."

"We feel good about the way our program is going," he said. "However, our defense will have the monkey squarely on its back the first few games until our offense gets going."

The Bears lost 16 lettermen, including All-America receivers Gerald McNeil and speedy Bruce Davis, All-America offensive lineman Mark Adickes, and All-Southwest Conference tailback Alfred Anderson.

Also missing is short-yardage quarterback Allen Rice, who was excellent at moving the team on critical third and fourth down situations.

"The overall offensive firepower won't be the same because of the all the people we lost," Teaff says.

However, the Bears have the talent to be good again.

Quarterbacks Cody Carlson and Tom Muecke give Teaff two of the best at that position in the country.

"If you wanted to start building an offense, you'd want to do it with a proven quarterback — and we have two," says Teaff.

Carlson finished last season ranked fourth in NCAA passing efficiency and was tops in the SWC in that category. Muecke was second in the conference in passing efficiency.

Teaff used a quarterback shuttle last season but may alternate them by quarters this year. He would prefer just one starter, though.

"I want these two guys to push each other to the highest levels of performance," said Teaff. "I can't lose either way."

A big question mark is whether former defensive back Ron Francis can succeed Anderson. Francis was a starting defensive back two years ago.

"We wanted to see what he could do, and he showed us he can handle the tailback job," says Teaff.

Baylor's defense will be led by end Ervin Randle, linebacker Kevin Hancock and roverback Aaron Grant.

Teaff says of Randle: "He ranks with any defensive end in the nation, better than most. He and (Texas A&M's) Ray Childress are two peas in a pod."

This is Teaff's 13th season at Baylor. He hopes when he looks back it was a lucky 13.

Fort Lauderdale garners soccer win

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Dave Watson's goal in the 10th round of a shootout Saturday, gave the Fort Lauderdale Sun a 2-1 victory over the Houston Dynamos to take the inaugural United Soccer League championship, two games to one.

Earlier in the day, the USL owners voted not to play an indoor schedule this season as originally planned, but will play both outdoors and indoors in 1985.

Cubs make things tougher on Mets, take 7-3 victory

By MIKE CLARK
AP Sports Writer

With the streaking Chicago Cubs playing almost perfect baseball, the New York Mets can't afford any slip-ups — or very many showdowns with the likes of Bruce Sutter.

Sutter was at his late-inning best Monday night, limiting the Mets to one hit over two innings in recording a National League-record 38th save as St. Louis stopped New York 7-3.

The defeat was only the second in 10 games for New York, but the Mets nonetheless lost ground during that stretch because the Cubs were winning eight of nine. The latest Cub triumph was a 4-3, 12-inning decision over Philadelphia that boosted the Chicago lead in the National League East to six games with only 25 left in the season.

"We are in a position right now where we have to play our tails off," said New York first baseman Keith Hernandez. "We can't afford to fall any farther back than we are."

Chicago won its 21st game in 30 starts when Kiko Garcia misplayed a two-out ground ball, allowing the Cubs' Ryne Sandberg to race home with the deciding run in the 12th inning. Sandberg slapped a one-out ground ball and reached base when teammate Richie Hebner was trapped off second base. But Sandberg kept the inning alive by swiping second and then came home when Garcia booted Gary Matthews' grounder.

Earlier, Mike Schmidt hit his 29th homer of the year for Philadelphia while Ron Cey hit his 24th and Matthews his 10th for the Cubs. Padres 4, Dodgers 3. McReynolds' 20th homer of the season gave San Diego a 1-0 lead and Kennedy's 12th of the year, a two-run blow in the fourth, provided the difference for San Diego. Mark Thurmond, 12-7, scattered six hits in 6 1-3 innings. Luis DeLeon and Craig Lefferts threw hitless relief the rest of the way, with Lefferts earning his 10th save. Jerry Reuss, 2-7, took the loss, which dropped the defending Western Division champions 10 games below .500 and 15 games back of the Padres.

Braves 6, Astros 4. Dale Murphy's 29th homer tied Mike Schmidt for the league lead and snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the fifth. Craig McMurtry, 9-14, went six innings for the victory as a last-minute replacement for the scheduled starter, Pascual Perez. Atlanta Manager Joe Torre yanked Perez from the lineup when the controversial right-hander arrived at the stadium an hour late. Gene Garber pitched three innings for his seventh save.

Pirates 3, Expos 0. McWilliams, 9-9, gave up only three hits and didn't allow a runner past second base in shutting down the Expos.

Block-Simons duo cops HCC golf tourney

The annual Hereford Country Club member-guest golf tournament, the seventh such affair, featured one day of low-ball play and two days of best-ball in five flights at John Pitman

Municipal Golf Course Saturday through Monday. A freeze-out derby also was played Sunday evening. Merchandise certificates and glasses were awarded, with the first place team winning a $60 certificate and four glasses, second $40 and two glasses and third $25 and no glasses.

The Hereford team of Lewis Block and Tom Simons turned in a 54-hole total of 194 to win the Bulls flight. The pair beat Jim Bullard and Reggie Anderson by four shots. Bullard is from Hereford, and Anderson resides in Amarillo.

Virgil F. Marsh of Hereford and Jim Light of El Paso fought a tough battle for second place before bowing with a 199 for third place.

A family affair got in on the winnings in the Stockers flight.

Kenny Hagar teamed with Scott Skinner to win the flight with a 205. Both are from Hereford. However, Skinner attends college in another city.

Charles Skinner, the winner's father, and Dennis Richardson, also of Hereford, fired a 206 to be edged from the crown. J.A. McWhorter joined his son, Mike, to take third place with 209. The McWhorters live in Hereford.

In the Packers flight, A.K. Roark and H.K. Edwards shot 209 for first place. Roark is from Hereford, and Edwards is from Lubbock. The pair beat Stan Byrnes, Hereford, and Don Shaw, Dimmitt, by five shots.

Third place went to O.G. Nieman and Elmore Rains, both of Hereford, who had a three-day total of 217.

Two shots separated the top three places in the Feeders flight. Ted McWhorter and Harvey Case shot 224 to win, Scott Keeling and Lin Cope shot 225, and Danny Boyer and Lonny Coffey had 226. All are Hereford residents with the exception of Case, who is from Dallas, and Coffey, who is from Amarillo.

In the final flight, the Steers, Hereford's Bill Lyman teamed with Canyon's Quentin Martin to take first with a 237. They beat Hereford products Gene Coulter and John Brorman, and James Head and Jerry Killingsworth.

Coulter-Brorman shot 239, and Head-Killingsworth had 241.

The 10 low scores of Saturday's round were paired with the 10 high scores for the freeze-out derby. Partners took turns at playing shots where the golf balls lay for the contest. High score on a hole was eliminated.

It took just two holes to determine a winner as seven teams bowed out after the first. Scott Skinner and John L. Barnhill won.

Question in U.S. Open: Can anyone come close to Martina?

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ever since she stormed to the U.S. Open women's championship a year ago, the question has been not who would win this year's tournament but whether anyone could even come close to beating Martina Navratilova.

She may be the only one who doesn't think that way — she says. Yet, through four rounds, no one has come close to beating her.

"I don't think about that," the top-seeded Navratilova said Monday. "If I did, I'd get beat. Maybe I have a low opinion of myself. I don't know."

"Everybody seems to think I have this in the bag. But you can't take anything for granted and I haven't, which is why I've been winning. I certainly don't think that way. It's nice that others do, but I can't afford to think that way at all."

Today, John McEnroe, the No. 1 men's seed, was to face unheralded and unseeded Robert Green in a fourth-round match.

Rain first delayed and then washed out Monday night's matches, including No. 4 men's seed Mats Wilander of Sweden against Tim Mayotte and Sylvia Hanika of West Germany against Petra Huber of Austria. They were rescheduled for today with the Hanika-Huber winner to face No. 2 seed Chris Evert Lloyd in the quarterfinals.

Jimmy Connors, No. 3, plays No. 16 Joakim Nystrom of Sweden tonight in the fourth round.

On Monday, with an all-time record crowd of 21,112 at the National Tennis Center, Navratilova methodically defeated No. 15 seed Barbara Potter 6-4, 6-4 in just 61 minutes to move into the quarterfinals of the $2.55 million tournament.

Lloyd, the No. 2 seed and loser to Navratilova in last year's finals, had an even easier time reaching the quarters as she swept No. 12 seed Bonnie Gadusek 6-4, 6-0. But No. 3 seed Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia had to struggle to beat Lori McNeil 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Pam Shriver, seeded fourth and a two-time winner over Navratilova in previous U.S. Open competition, had the easiest time of all reaching the quarters, advancing uncontested when Susan Mascarin pulled out of the tournament with a sprained right ankle.

Monday's other women's seeded fourth-round winners were No. 14 Carling Bassett of Canada, 6-1, 6-1 over Petra Delhees Jauch of Switzerland, and No. 13 Wendy Turnbull of Australia, 6-3, 6-1 over No. 8 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany.

The seeded men to win were No. 2 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 over No. 14 Anders Jarryd of Sweden; No. 5 Andres Gomez of Ecuador, 6-4, 7-6, 6-1 over No. 12 Vitas Gerulaitis, and No. 15 Pat Cash of Australia, 7-6, 6-3, 6-1 over Greg Holmes.

Of two big fires

Texas' oldest town coping with aftermath

NACOGDOCHES, Texas (AP) — Texas' oldest town is trying to recover from a one-two punch that sent a major industrial employer packing and gutted nearly a block of the city's downtown business district.

Fire — a traditional enemy in the lush Piney Woods of East Texas — left an International Paper Co. plywood plant a twisted steel pile of junk on April 16. Just two days earlier, a blaze ripped through the downtown Colony Mall, a collection of shops in a renovated building in the heart of the city, taking several other businesses with it.

While the scars of the downtown blaze are being covered with new brick and mortar, the paper company's decision to not rebuild immediately threatens to have the greatest impact.

"There is still a sizable number of people seeking employment," says Joan Stewart-Gordon, employment supervisor for the Texas Employment Commission in Nacogdoches.

Some 350 people lost their jobs when a welder's torch arced as a worker was welding a bracket on a hot press, setting off a blaze that almost immediately raged out of control, says Mel Noble, the former manager of the plant.

"The fire was running above the sprinkler (extinguisher) heads," Noble recalls. "When they did pop off, it wouldn't spray up. They were designed to spray down."

Flames were fanned by 25 mph winds and low humidity. "Everything was just set up right," Noble says.

Damage was put at between $19 million and $23 million.

"It couldn't have happened at a worse time," says Ms. Stewart-

Gordon. "About a month or two before that, a poultry processing plant closed."

In addition, she says Stephen F. Austin University, the city's largest employer, began its regular seasonal layoffs, as did a lawn furniture manufacturing company.

Unemployment in the community of 30,000 in July, the latest figures available, was 9.6 percent, compared with 7.4 percent at the same time a year ago.

Adding to the problem, she says, is the fact that the displaced production workers at International Paper were among the highest-paid in Nacogdoches, earning from $6-$8 an hour.

"Our industrial base is not as diversified," she says. "I think a lot of it is that the university is a major employer. With 12,000 students, it's a source of cheap labor and employers simply don't have to pay as much to get a good worker."

Average weekly wages in the county are $230.86, compared with the state average of $341.08. In Harris County, the state's most populous, it's $419.97.

Nearly five months after the blaze, and despite company-sponsored seminars teaching workers how to present themselves at job interviews and how to write resumes, about half the workers remain without jobs.

Noble was the last to leave, departing last Friday "to try a different career" in sales.

Engineers have been at the plant to see if the concrete slab can be salvaged and perhaps a flakeboard or sawmill operation could be put there, he says.

"I'd come back if they asked me to," he adds.

The downtown blaze, meanwhile, caused less damage, left few, if any, people out of work, and has sparked renewed interest in the city's history and could be the catalyst for a new convention center, officials say.

"We want to save the uniqueness of the downtown area," says Sidney Abegg, executive vice president of the chamber of commerce.

Nacogdoches, laid out in 1779, has a downtown area with red brick streets built around a square. The fire April 14 nearly swept away the north block of the square, taking the shops in the mall, plus a jewelry store, a drug store and part of a bank.

The owners of one of the mall shops are charged with arson in connection with the fire and are awaiting trial.

The drug store has moved across the street, the bank is expanding and the jewelry store has rebuilt. The mall also is rebuilding under the direction of Sammie Russell, who runs a gift shop directly behind the burned-out buildings.

"We thought it was terrible," she says of the fire. "But it has led to better things. It's gotten the business people together and we're making things attractive."

Tammy Beall, who works in Mrs. Russell's Squash Blossom Shop, says the rebuilding includes chemical cleaning of the fire-blackened bricks so the original construction materials can be used in the renovations.

Abegg says merchants are seeking bond money and a federal grant to renovate the downtown, which has been hit hard by competition from new shopping strips in the outlying areas of town. Things got so bad that city officials even considered moving city hall out of downtown.

DON'T KISS $8,938 GOODBYE

That's how much you could lose just on resale value if you don't buy a John Deere

Looking for a big discount when you buy a tractor? Don't get stuck with an even bigger discount when you want to trade.

Always consider resale value when you price a field tractor. Because the differences among brands may sometimes be bigger than ANY purchase incentive.

Compare John Deere with our two leading competitors. According to the Spring 1984 Official Guide of the National Farm and Power Equipment Dealers Association, the average 5-year-old John Deere 4440 sells for 106 percent of its 1979 list price. One leading competitor averages 87 percent of its 1979 list price. The other averages 73 percent.

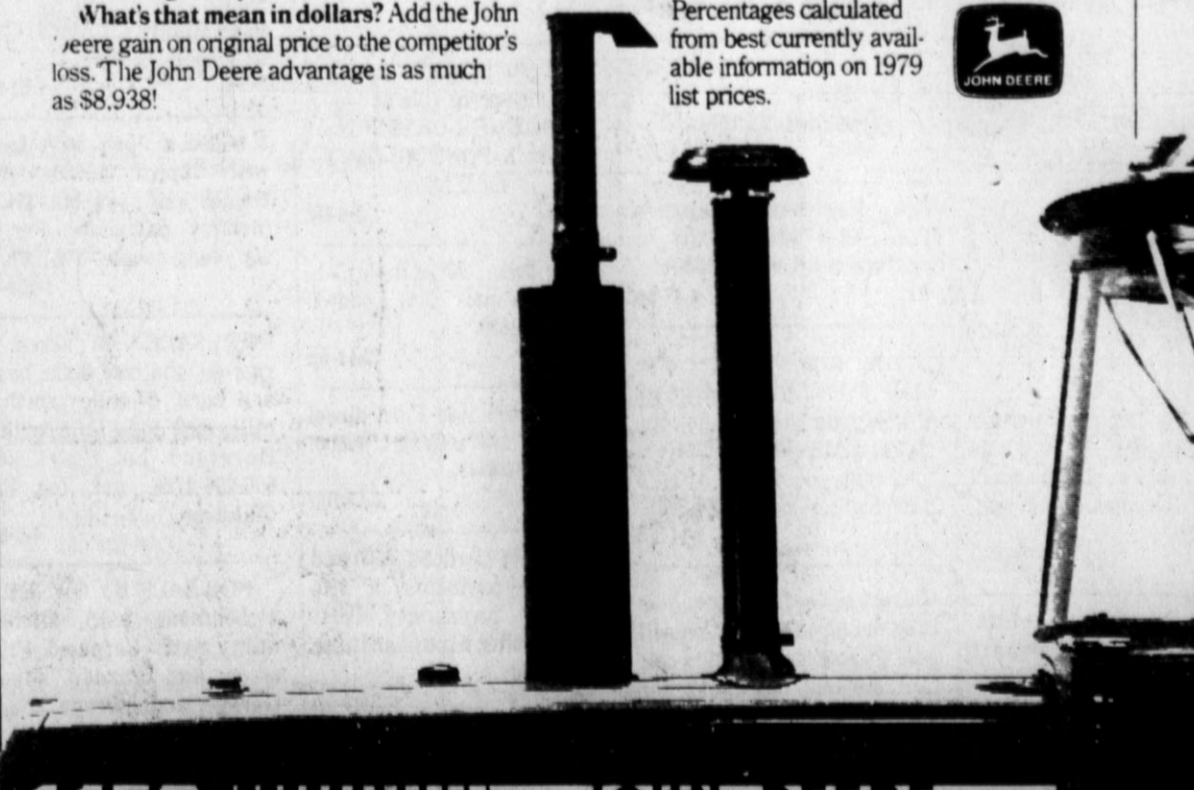

What's that mean in dollars? Add the John Deere gain on original price to the competitor's loss. The John Deere advantage is as much as $8,938!

Is this only true of one model? No. Every 40 Series 90- to 180-hp tractor has an average resale price that's higher than its new price five years ago.

Resale your only John Deere advantage? No. Don't forget the remarkable fuel-efficiency of today's 50 Series John Deere Tractors. And don't forget our unmatched reputation for high quality and high reliability. See your John Deere dealer. He'll be happy to explain the big difference between a low-price tractor and a low-cost John Deere: 100-hp 4050, 120-hp 4250, 140-hp 4450, 165-hp 4650 or 190-hp 4850.

NOTE: Average resale prices taken from Spring 1984 Official Guide of The National Farm and Power Equipment Dealers Association.

Percentages calculated from best currently available information on 1979 list prices.

Reagan blasts Demo ideas

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

President Reagan has begun his re-election campaign by turning the age issue on his Democratic opponents, chiding that "their ideas are just too old," while challenger Walter F. Mondale describes the Republican as a cold and uncaring country-club president.

As quickly as the fall presidential campaign left the Labor Day starting blocks, Reagan and Mondale were trading jabs.

"I don't believe a president should just serve all the people in his country club," Mondale said as he and running mate Geraldine Ferraro campaigned from New York to California Monday. "I believe a president should serve all the people in the country."

Reagan, at the same time, was denouncing the Democrats as "that pack of pessimists roaming the land." And he addressed with humor possible concern about his age, 73, by aiming the issue back at the Democrats.

"Trouble is, our opponents treat each new idea the old-fashioned way: they spurn it."

"I hate to say this," Reagan added, "but the age factor may play a part in this election. Their ideas are just too old."

Both candidates kicked off their fall campaigns with traditional Labor Day appearances.

Reagan spoke to a crowd of more than 20,000 — Reagan's campaign claimed closer to 50,000 — at a park in Orange County, Calif., a huge, predominantly conservative Republican region just south of Los Angeles and smack in the heart of Reagan's political homeland.

Mondale, accompanied by his running mate, began with a march up Manhattan's Fifth Avenue — where few showed up to watch — and flew on to a rally in little Merrill, Wis., where most of the town's 9,500 people turned out. They then flew on to California for a final event, joined by former rival Gary Hart, before Mondale and Ms. Ferraro split up to campaign separately today.

Ms. Ferraro offered sharp rhetoric in attacking Reagan, portraying him as peddling superficial patriotism while trying to impose his religious and moral views on others.

"I don't think the American people buy the self-conscious patriotism that's made on Madison Avenue. They feel the selfless, quiet patriotism of Main Street America," she said.

And she belittled Reagan's background as an actor.

"While Ronald Reagan was making movies, Fritz Mondale was making history as a champion of civil rights and social justice," she said.

"While Ronald Reagan was host of 'Death Valley Days,' Fritz Mondale was trying to get Medicare passed for senior citizens."

Vice President George Bush, too, plunged into the fray, campaigning in New Orleans after marching in a Labor Day parade in the largely Democratic Chicago suburb of Lemont, Ill., where he described Mondale as "a little desperate."

Bush inched closer to a debate with Ms. Ferraro. "I'll make that decision pretty soon, maybe in a week or so," Bush said. "I'd look forward to it. ... I expect there will be one."

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, meanwhile, began his formal campaign in support of the Democratic ticket with a speech in Norfolk, Va., saying Reagan has dealt setbacks to civil rights and public education. "Reagan's record is a threat to our future," he said.

UT health facility at Tyler termed one of nation's most successful

By ANN LEVIN Tyler Courier-Times-Telegraph

TYLER, Texas (AP) — First, the abandoned World War II barracks were converted into a tuberculosis sanatorium where ill patients came, often to die.

The institution has evolved into the state's leading lung research facility, and achieved the ultimate dressed-for-success look in 1977, when it was absorbed into the sprawling, $1 billion health and education conglomerate known as the University of Texas.

Along the way, the hospital, eight miles northeast of Tyler at the junction of U.S. 271 and state highway 155, first staffed predominantly by black workers for black patients, gradually edged black workers down the success ladder and out the back door, many of those workers say.

Blacks were given and kept in menial jobs, fired for little cause, passed over for promotions, paid less than whites for the same work, and disciplined for infractions white employees freely committed. So contented lawyers for black workers who recently settled an employment discrimination lawsuit against the University of Texas Health Center.

Though the university denies discrimination occurred, it agreed this summer to pay $225,000 to service workers who received less money than white workers for comparable work. Another fund of $225,000 was established for people who were denied promotions because of race. In July, the agreement was tentatively accepted by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice.

Part of the settlement includes the health center's promise to establish on-the-job training to move blacks into higher paying positions, and to hire more black supervisors and professionals. Justice ordered the hospital to file quarterly reports on hiring, firing and promotions of blacks. Now, 30 percent of the hospital's 950 workers are black.

Officials say they planned to hire more minorities even before settlement negotiations began last year. If they comply with the settlement, Justice has the authority to dismiss the suit from his docket in two years.

About 800 people who worked at the hospital since Nov. 26, 1972, were notified of the settlement in a federal court hearing in August and many of them met with their attorneys to learn how to apply for a claim. Several who said they feared retaliation for filing claims were reassured the law protected them.

One black woman, hired as a nurse technician in 1954, said she doubts the university's intentions.

"As long as they're under (the court's) judgment of 24 months, it'll work. But after that, I think they'll go back to the old way, when they no longer have Judge Justice peeking over their shoulder."

The story of the Tyler UT Medical Center starts in 1947, when the state of Texas bought Camp Fanning, a 64-acre World War II prisoner of war camp, for use as a long-term facility for black tuberculosis patients.

No one knew in 1949, when the first group of black patients was transferred from a Kerrville hospital to the East Texas Tuberculosis Sanatorium, that a medical discovery in two years would change TB treatment and thrust the tiny sanatorium along a rapid course toward modernization and high technology medicine.

In the late 1940s and early 1950s, patients who checked into a TB sanatorium could expect to stay for years, waiting to recover from the debilitating fatigue and coughing which characterized the deadly disease. Many never recovered.

"They died wholesale in the spring and fall. We used to say it was because the sap was rising or the sap was going down," Dorothy McGowan, a 28-year veteran hired as a nursing technician, explains.

Before the discovery of the anti-TB drug, isoniazid, in 1951 and the earlier invention of streptomycin in the 1940s, people with TB were isolated in sanatoriums, confined to bedrest, often shunned like lepers, because of the contagiousness of the disease.

"Probably they couldn't get anyone to work there until they got TB under control," Ken Whitt, UT Health Center director of information services, says about the preponderance of black workers at the sanatorium in the early 1950s.

Mrs. McGowan puts it more bluntly: "White people were afraid to work there."

In 1956, Mrs. McGowan's job as a "nurse tech" at $155 a month was considered the best paying job for an East Texas black woman.

School days delayed for many students

By MARY MACVEAN Associated Press Writer

San Francisco's 3,800 teachers threatened to walk off the job but Chicago's 24,700 instructors agreed to open classes under an expired contract as strikes by 4,600 teachers in seven states today disrupted school for 99,200 pupils.

Illinois was hardest hit by the walkouts, with more than 3,200 teachers on strike in eight districts. Strikes continued in Michigan, Louisiana, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Washington and Rhode Island.

School opens Wednesday for 62,600 children in San Francisco, but the Classroom Teachers Association said it could call a strike today without "significant" movement toward a new contract, said Judy Dellamonica, union president.

"Our bargaining team is extremely frustrated," Ms. Dellamonica said. District negotiators "simply have not offered us any money."

The teachers' demands are "reasonable," but they can't afford to grant them, said district negotiator Al Cheng.

"We have enough money for about a 1 percent raise for all certified employees," said district spokesman Felix Duag. Teachers with at least 21 years' experience and 60 post-graduate credits earn $31,800.

One Illinois strike was settled Monday night and another began today as walkouts affected nearly 74,000 students statewide. Most of the strikes began early last week.

School will begin on time Wednesday for more than 400,000 pupils in Chicago, where the Teachers' Union House of Delegates, which had threatened a walkout, voted Monday to work until Nov. 1 under a recently expired contract while mediation continues. The 24,700 teachers begin work today.

Strikes by 435 teachers in six Michigan districts idled 10,146 pupils. And the Michigan Education Association said strikes were "probable" in nine other districts. Association President Larry Chunovich said 117 districts remained without contracts.

A Rhode Island judge was to consider today a request by the Exeter-West Greenwich School Committee for an injunction to force 56 striking teachers back to work. About 960 students are affected. The city's school system says it doesn't have the money to pay a raise set in an arbitration agreement.

The state of Washington's only strike began Thursday at Longview, where 377 teachers walked out saying school officials had refused to budge in nearly two months of talks. The district has 7,100 students.

Teachers in the Longview and Federal Way districts vote today on tentative contracts reached late last week.

In Louisiana, efforts to get school officials and teachers' representatives in St. John the Baptist Parish to meet Sunday were unsuccessful. About 700 employees, including 350 teachers, went on strike a week ago over demands for a raise and union recognition, affecting 6,100 students.

Teachers and administrators in Indiana's Liberty-Perry School Corp. at Muncie were scheduled to meet today to try to mediate an end to a strike by 85 teachers. Substitutes have been teaching classes for the 1,400 students since the strike began last week.

In Pennsylvania, a strike by 74 teachers against the South Fayette district, affecting 1,175 students, entered its 13th day today. Teachers are asking for $12,500 raises over three years while the district has offered $4,500.

Hush money: what you bribe a kid with to keep quiet.

Why don't trains ever park on a crossing when you're on the way to the dentist?

People who find a used car deal that seems too good to be true often wind up pushing their luck.

Of course mothers cry when kids go to school. They know the sprats will be home in just a few hours.

Native stuns with song

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Soprano Helen Donath began her opera career as a tenor.

She was a young girl living in Corpus Christi when she went to see the movie, "The Great Caruso." Her mother bought her the album, and she began learning all of Mario Lanza's tenor areas — phonetically.

These days, Mrs. Donath can pick and choose her parts at the invitation of the world's great opera houses. And La Scala in Milan, the Metropolitan Opera in New York, the Royal Opera in London and the Paris Opera clamor for her lyric soprano voice.

For more than 22 years, on these stages and on 90 albums, the Corpus Christi native has simply stunned them with song.

Mrs. Donath, 44, lives near Hamburg, West Germany, but was in South Texas in early August visiting her mother, Helen Philpo. With her was her husband, Klaus, a pianist and conductor, and their 16-year-old son, Alexander.

Her visit was a vacation, but the pace in Mrs. Philpo's home was set on vivace. There was a constant rush of conversation, a near-constant ringing of the telephone and an occasional lament from Mrs. Donath who said she must get some rest before her vacation ended.

She had just come from performances at the Olympic Arts Festival in Los Angeles.

"It was a huge success. It was a bomb on Los Angeles," she said, referring to "The Magic Flute," by Mozart.

"They just went out of their heads. There were standing ovations for 11 performances," she said.

Helen Donath has been detonating operatic bombs since 1962 when she first began performing in German, landing a singing position less than two weeks after her arrival there.

She left the United States just before she was to enter the Julliard School in New York to study for a master's degree, a piece of paper she now says is not as valuable as experience.

Mrs. Donath has experienced reviews as lofty as the peak of her vocal range — generally a high F. Reviewers have written that she has "a clear soprano that can melt stonewalls with its musicality."

They have had nothing but praise for her "intelligent, but not intellectual" voice "endowed with a celestial high lyric range."

"Singing is all I've ever done since childhood," said Mrs. Donath, who earned her first dollar singing at the age of 11. The paycheck, never cashed, is part of the family scrapbook.

Mrs. Donath's friends at Corpus Christi Cathedral School remember her as Helen Jeanette Erwin, a champion speller.

At 14 she began studying voice under Carl Duckwall and continued studying with him until she graduated from Del Mar College in 1960. It is one of her regrets that he died before he was able to hear her perform with the Corpus Christi Symphony, her first professional appearance in her hometown.

Her career has been spent in Germany because, she says, that's where the majority of the opera houses are located. She has performed on five continents and says she is booked to perform through "1986 or 1987."

Mrs. Donath said she doesn't listen to her records because she hears only the mistakes.

"There will come a day when I will listen," she said.

She said she has had to make some sacrifices for her career, such as avoiding any sport that might cause bodily harm. But Mrs. Donath said she doesn't mind.

"It's a small sacrifice because I love to sing," she said.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — There's no such thing as a green thumb, says Robert D. Phillips, only experience and hard work.

Phillips is responsible for six acres of lawn, 790 trees and scores of shrubs and flower beds at R.J. Reynolds Industries' headquarters here.
