Senate Okays Water Projects

By TOM RAUM Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, unswayed by appeals to trim pet construction projects as deeply as other federal programs, is giving the go-ahead to two multibillion-dollar projects: the Clinch River breeder nuclear reactor and the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway.

By just two-vote margins Wednesday, the Senate acted to keep both projects alive, despite claims by opponents that neither could be justified economically.

Opponents of the $3.2 billion breeder reactor, to be built near Oak Ridge, Tenn., had another chance today to try to scuttle the project but were not optimistic about their chances.

Former President Carter sought unsuccessfully to kill the Clinch River project, arguing that it would produce weapons-grade plutonium and frustrate efforts to reduce the spread of nuclear materials. President Reagan supports the project.

Both the breeder and the waterway — the nation's largest public-works project, a 450-mile-long barge route in Alabama and Mississippi expected to cost between $2 billion and $3 billion — are part of a $12.4 billion appropriations bill for energy and water development headed toward expected Senate approval.

The two projects are championed by Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, whom opponents credited with playing a major role in mustering the 48-46 votes to spare them.

Sens. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., and Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., used parliamentary maneuvering to force a second vote on Clinch River today.

Bumpers sought to kill the project outright. After that failed, Tsongas suggested cutting funds for it in half, to $90 million, in the current fiscal year and requiring private utilities to come up with the rest.

Backers said that, too, would doom the project since utilities would never agree to foot the bill.

"It doesn't look too nifty for the project" if such an approach prevailed, said Dick (See PROJECTS, Page 2A)

New Tax Exemption Hurts Taxing Entities

By BOB NIGH MANAGING EDITOR

When voters across the state put an "X" next to the "yes" box on the ballot for Amendment number 5 Tuesday livestock breeders received a tax break. But, taxing entities across the state now find themselves with the problem of equalizing deficits due to a reduced tax base.

Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District Chief Appraiser Fred Fox said the matter is simply a choice to "either cut back services, or raise taxes." The first consideration is one that Fox says many entities probably cannot make.

"Most of the taxing entities have already been cutting back as much as they can," he said. "And, with a ten to 15 percent inflation rate they're still looking at an increase even if they do trim some more."

As reported Wednesday the Hereford Independent School District stands to lose around $350,000 with the reduced tax base as a result of the election. Fox said the actual reduction is $394,800, but that it will be reduced to around the $350,000 figure after a 92 percent collection rate and discounts for early payments are figured in.

Fox released figures for five entities which his office handles in the county. Those which will see reduced revenues through taxes include Deaf Smith County, Deaf Smith General Hospital, the HISD, the Walcott ISD, and the Hi-Plains Water District, although the latter will experience "only minor reductions," Fox said.

Both the county and hospital district are looking at a loss of 11 1/2 percent of their tax revenues, or $188,000 and $39,000 respectively. The Walcott ISD stands to lose $6,140 due to livestock being exempted from ad valorem taxes while the water district will lose $470 according to Fox's figures.

Percentage-wise the losses for the HISD, the WISD, and the water district are 12.3 percent, four percent, and 8 percent respectively.

The city of Hereford will not be affected by the new exemption since livestock is prohibited within the city limits by ordinance.

According to HISD board president James Gentry the school district may be able to re-coup some of their loss (See LOSS, Page 2A)

Foster New President Of Arrowhead Mills

Arrowhead Mills, Inc. has announced the promotion of Boyd M. Foster to the position of President. Foster, staff member of Arrowhead Mills for 11 years, replaces George C. Warner, co-founder of Arrowhead Mills, Inc.

Foster has had management and administrative responsibilities in the area of purchasing, personnel, costing and product handling. A graduate of Texas Tech University with a degree in physics, and experienced as a farmer in the Panhandle, Foster is well known in the whole food industry for his efforts in acquiring top quality whole foods for Arrowhead Mills.

Retiring from the presidency is Warner, co-founder with Frank Ford of Arrowhead Mills in 1960. Warner will continue involvement with Arrowhead as a management and agronomics consultant, as well as devoting most of his energies to the management of George Warner Seed Company, which is located adjacent to Arrowhead Mills' facilities. Trained in genetics at Texas A&M University, and experienced in agronomy and plant breeding, Warner pioneered in the development of producing agricultural seed in the Texas panhandle. Other officers elected at Arrowhead Mills' Directors Meeting on Nov. 3 are J. Frank Ford, Chairman of the Board; Dr. Earl G. Alexander, Executive Vice President; Vance A. Devareaux, Vice President, Finance; Kenneth A. Duncan, Vice President; Production; Hubert Holcombe, Jr., Vice President, Operations; and Glen E. Phibbs, Vice President, Marketing & Sales.

Explosion Rips Oil Refinery

TEXAS CITY, Texas (AP) — An explosion jolted an Amoco oil refinery here early today, touching off a fire, rattling and blowing out windows in nearby homes, and injuring eight employees, authorities said.

The blasted ripped through the Ultraformer Unit 1 about 3:45 a.m. and roused many residents in this Southeast Texas community of 50,000 from their beds.

The unit is one of four on the 1,200-acre facility that refines low octane gasoline into high-grade gasoline, said John Vesey, coordinator of Amoco's public affairs.

Vesey said the fire was brought under control "almost immediately" by company volunteer firefighters.

Eight people men were taken to Galveston Memorial Hospital, 5 miles away. Seven were treated for minor cuts and bruises from flying glass and released, and one was admitted for observation, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Inspectors began rummaging through the debris to determine the extent of damage and the cause of the explosion, Vesey said. He said officials were uncertain whether the unit was operating at the time of the blast.

Vesey said the unit will be closed indefinitely, but the rest of the plant will continue to operate.

Columbia's Flight Delayed A Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The shuttle Columbia, perched pitifully on its pad and drenched by heavy rains, underwent intense examination today with its second flight postponed at least a week. Launch crews drained propellants and the astronauts practiced morning landings nearby.

Shuttle officials were to meet later today to assess a problem with a crucial hydraulic system that grounded Columbia just 31 seconds before Wednesday's scheduled takeoff. They will determine how soon another launch date can be set for the first ship to attempt a return to space.

Astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly, who have waited so long to fly into orbit, were up early and flying in the skies above Kennedy Space Center, rehearsing landings on the KSC runway.

Overnight and into this morning, pad crews drained Columbia of its volatile propellants to give technicians a chance to reenter the orbiter and examine — eventually repair or swap — two clogged filters in a power unit.

NASA said overhaul would take a week, perhaps more. Probably more.

The weather might prohibit a launch in the next few days, anyway. Skies were overcast after Wednesday's scrub and finally opened up into deluge of rain that drenched Columbia and continued today.

Forecasters were keeping a close eye on Hurricane Katrina, now south of Cuba but moving north.

Columbia's technical problem, though it forced its launch postponement, went almost undetected. And, ironically, if it had not been discovered, NASA officials said the craft probably could have been launched on a successful test flight.

Title I Meeting Tuesday

Parents of Title I and Title II Migrant children are invited to attend an advisory committee organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday Nov. 10 at the Northwest School cafeteria.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers of the committee and to assess strengths and weaknesses of the programs according to Charles Duvall, who will preside at the meeting until a committee president is elected.

Crime Stoppers Unit To Be Formed Here

By BOB NIGH MANAGING EDITOR

Some 25 concerned citizens met at the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon to discuss the formation of a local "Crime Stoppers" unit in an effort to get citizens as a whole involved in helping solve crimes in Deaf Smith County.

District Attorney Roland Saul met with private citizens, members of the news media, and various law enforcement personnel to discuss the formation of the unit, which would be in the form of a non-profit organization, with rewards paid to informants who provide information which leads to the arrest and indictment of a suspect in felony cases.

Crime Stoppers programs began in Albuquerque, N.M. in 1976, and the number of units has grown to approximately 130 across the U.S. in 34 states. Since its inception Crime Stoppers programs have resulted in solving more than 9,000 felony cases, recovering more than $25 million in stolen property and narcotics, and convicting 2,830 of the 2,865 suspects brought to trial, over 98 percent.

In the program, The Hereford Brand, radio station KPAN, and law enforcement agencies would work together to present a "crime of the week," for which a reward would be offered for information leading to arrest and indictment of a suspect.

A larger reward would probably be paid in the Crime of the Week case, with a smaller, routine payment made in other cases.

A local phone number would be established for receiving information, and Saul volunteered his office as the base for operations with investigator Terry Colston, who moved to Hereford from Plainview recently, was involved in the Crime Stoppers program there.

The Crime Stoppers organization would consist of a board of directors elected on a three-year staggering terms, with a reward fund built out of donations from businesses, organizations, and private citizens.

Capt. William Mull of the Plainview Police Department appeared at the meeting yesterday to inform the group of how well that city's program has worked since it began some 18 months ago.

"Our program has turned out to be a real good," Mull told the group. "We have seen 37 felony indictments and about 15 or 20 more misdemeanor cases solved as (See CRIME, Page 2A)

Five McAllen Policemen Facing Rights Charges

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Five former McAllen policemen have been indicted on federal civil rights charges in a continuing police brutality investigation authorities said could result in more indictments.

Federal grand jurors Wednesday accused former police Sgt. Roberto Ramos and former officers Jaime Contreras, Alfredo Saldana, Tom Carter and Isidro Ybanez Jr. of beating, kicking and abusing some prisoners arrested between 1977 and 1979.

Ross Kinnealy, one of three U.S. Justice Department lawyers directing the investigation, said the men would be allowed to surrender and would not be arrested.

U.S. Justice Department officials in Washington who asked not to be identified said the McAllen investigation will continue and other indictments are possible.

But McAllen Mayor Othal Brand said the department had been "cleaned out," and he did not expect any more indictments.

Grand jurors had a visual record of some beatings because McAllen police had videotaped bookings to protect officers against frivolous harassment suits.

Several tapes were broadcast nationally last spring and created a public outcry for a federal investigation.

The tapes have been seen by two federal grand juries, an assistant attorney general in Washington, Texas legislators, and personnel in the Texas attorney general's office.

One televised tape recorded the Oct. 23, 1978, public drunkenness arrest of Pedro Dennett, who was seen being kicked on the ground, thrown against the wall and pounded against the booking desk. His moans and screams were audible on the tape.

Contreras, Carter and Saldana are accused of violating Dennett's civil rights. Ybanez is charged in a May 20, 1979, incident and Ramos is accused of commanding subordinate officers to beat a prisoner on Sept. 25, 1977.

Contreras told The Associated Press Wednesday afternoon that he was unaware of the indictments.

"I'd like to get a hold of my attorney. I can't tell you anything else. I'd rather talk with my lawyer first," said Contreras, who resigned in September of 1980.

Others charged have moved from McAllen or have unlisted phone numbers and could not be located for comment.

Police Chief Lee Spradlin, who came to McAllen Sept. 1, declined to comment.

However, Brand said he was not surprised at the indictments.

"None of these people are left with us. They have been shipped out," he said. "I had rather hoped some of those men would be indicted."

The videotapes were first shown during a March hearing on a civil suit filed against the City of McAllen and individual officers.

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda, who viewed the tapes and allowed them to be copied for broadcast, issued an injunction against future police brutality and ordered the department to improve training and review procedures.

DeAnda also allowed McAllen officials use of the tapes for disciplinary hearings. But he angrily ordered them rushed back to Brownsville this summer when he heard a McAllen city commissioner jokingly had offered a bottle of champagne to anyone who would burn the tapes.

School Holiday Tomorrow

Students in the Hereford Independent School District will get a holiday tomorrow as local teachers attend in-service meetings in Amarillo.

According to Mal Manchee of the school business office, those teachers who have not completed in-service training will attend a TSTA meeting at the Amarillo Civic Center tomorrow. Those teachers who have already completed the training will get the day off along with the students.

Manchee said the day off was placed on the school calendar as a holiday.

President's Doctor Issues Statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is "enjoying excellent health" despite a few minor recurring problems, his doctor says in an assessment of last week's physical checkup.

Reagan has been hard of hearing and has had visual problems for years, conditions the exam confirmed. He wears contact lenses to correct his vision.

A statement released Wednesday by the White House physician, Dr. Daniel Ruge, indicated that Reagan also has irregularities in his colon but has not been troubled by any symptoms.

The president appears to be enjoying excellent health, Ruge said, adding that Reagan "appears to be fully recovered" from a gunshot wound in the chest he suffered in the March 30 assassination attempt.

Ruge said the tests failed to indicate any lingering disability resulting from the shooting.

Ballots Under Guard As Candidates Sweat

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — With voting machines impounded and state police guarding the ballots today after the contest went into overtime, there was little rest for the weary candidates in New Jersey's gubernatorial election.

"An election is nerve-wracking enough, but to have this tacked on to the end is doubly so," said Republican candidate Thomas H. Kean, who held a small, unofficial lead over Democrat James J. Florio in Tuesday's election.

Aides said Florio may initiate proceedings today for a recount, which could delay the outcome for several weeks.

Since it was unclear which candidate had won, outgoing Democratic Gov. Brendan T. Byrne said each should be treated like a gubernatorial and ordered state police protection for both.

Trudeau's Surprise: Vote On Rights

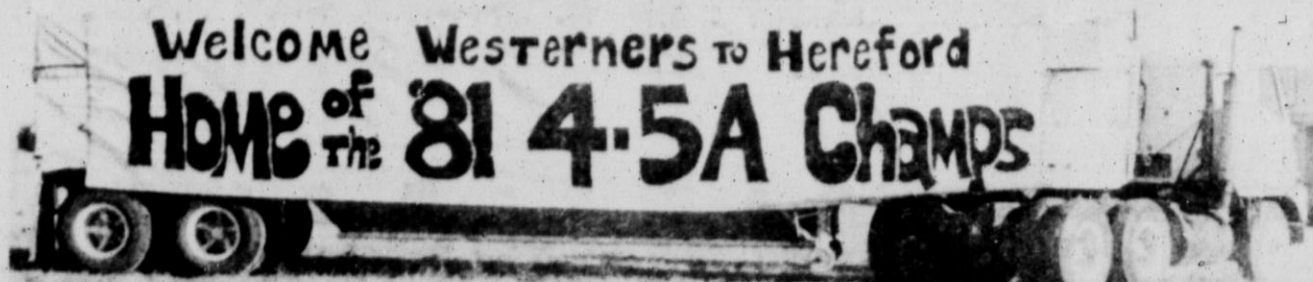

OTTAWA (AP) — A surprise proposal by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau for a referendum on the bill of rights he wants to incorporate in a new Canadian constitution found no favor with most of the 10 provincial premiers.

Only Quebec Premier Rene Levesque and Ontario's William Davis were ready to support the proposal, and Levesque hedged. The other eight provincial leaders expressed strong opposition to the plan that dominated the third day of the meeting to try to solve the impasse over Trudeau's attempt to bring the constitution home from Britain.

During a lunch break Wednesday, Trudeau told reporters he offered to transfer the constitution from British control to Canada with the proposed charter of rights attached but held in abeyance for two years while negotiations between the federal and provincial governments continued.

Paul Harvey News Nitinol-You'll Be Hearing More

Laboratory researchers have been amused and fascinated for 20 years by a "silly-putty" metal called Nitinol.

This is the doggoneest stuff! It's a nickel-titanium alloy which at room temperature is strong as steel.

Dunk it in cold water and it turns soft and pliable. Bend it — and it stays bent. But then...

Dip it in hot water — and it comes to life in your hands.

What earthly good is a piece of metal that won't hold its original shape?

Warm, it relaxes into any shape; cold it reverts to its original shape, rigid.

What good is that? That's what researchers have asked themselves about Nitinol since naval researchers discovered it by accident in 1958.

A Navy scientist had just lit his pipe and the heat from his lighter caused a nearby piece of crumpled Nitinol wire to spring out straight.

But, so what? So Nitinol remained a scientific curiosity, nothing more.

Until some other scientists at Lawrence Lab in Berkeley determined that the miracle metal, with only a change in temperature, can release a force as great as 50 TONS PER SQUARE INCH!

Now, "Science Digest" tells us, they have harnessed that energy to create a working model of a Nitinol engine.

A wheel with extended loops of Nitinol wire rotates through a bath of hot water. As the heated loop snaps open it pushes the wheel. Then the heated loop cools, relaxes, in time for the next rotation.

Nobel laureate Edwin McMillan witnessed what he sensed was a historic demonstration, made some hurried calculations, determined that this engine — however primitive — was producing half a watt of mechanical power.

The machine was kept running continuously with no evidence of metal fatigue; it became more efficient rather than less.

Now we have much more complex and powerful Nitinol engine prototypes. They work; we still don't know why.

But as surely as we have learned to apply electricity without knowing what it is, so we are learning to adapt Nitinol to the generation of energy.

Four hundred reports of separate worldwide Nitinol research projects have been submitted and more are being prepared.

More than 100 patents have been granted or are pending. Nitinol's response is unique in thermodynamics.

Unlike any other substance we know of, the force needed to bend Nitinol when it is cold is much less than the force it releases when it goes straight again.

In other words, it produces more energy than it consumes—cleanly, safely, endlessly.

Perpetual motion at long last? If you like.

You'll be hearing more about Nitinol—lots more!

Local Vehicle Burglarized

Hereford police are checking out a report of a vehicle which was burglarized Wednesday afternoon. Doug Warren reported that while his car was parked at the high school field house someone took about 15 cassette tapes.

Police also checked out a disturbance caused by some children on the 900 block of South McKinley and issued seven citations.

Arrest Made In Tool Theft

Deaf Smith County deputies arrested a 23-year-old Hereford man Wednesday after searching a residence and finding about $350 in stolen tools at the home.

Steve Freeman, 103 Star, was arraigned today and charged with theft over $200.

The tools found at the home had allegedly been taken over a period of time from Big Daddy Truck Stop, deputies said.

Investigators Checking Possible Links

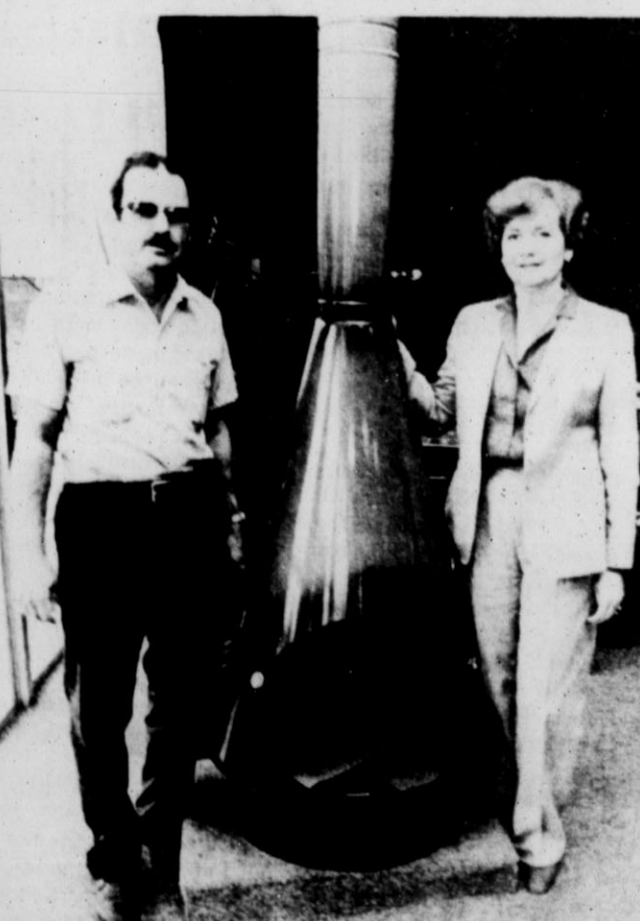

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Investigators trying to determine if 10 sexual offense cases are related to the rape and murder of a nun are reviewing fingerprints of 47 Cuban refugees in their search for a suspect, police said.

A newly formed team of Amarillo police officers and Potter and Randall County sheriff's deputies began obtaining refugee fingerprints Wednesday.

Correction

At the Hospital Auxiliary Award Dinner Monday evening, the following people were presented 200 hour pins, rather than 100 hour pins, as previously stated: Helen Brown, Dorothy Betzen, Kay Long, Marge Mehlberg, Lupe Cerda, and Ann Kershen.

Not listed was Mr. Baxter London, who received a 100 hour pin.

Rowton combined the fireplace and fireplace accessory shop with his existing R&R Refrigeration establishment which was formerly located at 305 E. 3rd Street.

Prison Hospital Improvements Will Cost Millions Official Says

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections is willing to make improvements in the prison hospital, but the work will cost the state several million dollars, a prison official says.

Dr. Ralph Gray, assistant director for medical services, outlined an extensive plan Tuesday to improve sanitation and treatment.

He said the cost of the improvements would be added to the $2 million Gov. Bill Clements already has approved for changing the Governor Unit — which formerly housed women — into a regional medical facility.

A brief TDC officials filed in a Houston federal court responded to seven suggestions of San Francisco attorneys William Bennett Turner and Donna Brody at the order of U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler.

The attorneys represent inmate David Ruiz, whose longstanding suit against TDC Director Jim Estelle led to Justice's sweeping reform order last year.

Justice lifted a Nov. 1 deadline last month for downgrading the hospital to a clinic if improvements were not made. He also ordered TDC officials to consider the attorneys' proposals.

Other parts of Justice's sweeping reform order to ease overcrowding in state prisons were stayed last week by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, pending a full appeal.

The TDC brief followed criticism of the hospital by the state Department of Health and a New York doctor hired to inspect the facility. Both reports criticized the hospital as unsanitary and said the quality of treatment there is poor.

Among the suggestions presented to TDC officials were to have an emergency room physician on duty 24 hours a day, to place terminally ill inmates in a non-prison environment and to stop performing major surgery.

Attorneys representing the inmates said they would not comment until they had studied the TDC brief.

Gray said prison officials are willing to send critically ill or injured inmates needing intensive care to the John Sealey Hospital in Galveston. Gray also said TDC officials will agree to stop performing major surgery, but want to continue minor operations.

He said they also will agree to have an emergency room physician on call 24 hours a day, but opposed staffing it around the clock.

"We can have a doctor available within 15 minutes, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, but I will not have him there waiting for business. That's a total waste of physician manpower," Gray said.

He also did not agree that each floor should be staffed by a registered nurse around the clock. He said he favored hiring 40 licensed nurses and requiring one registered nurse to supervise each shift.

Sweden To Release Submarine

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden is prepared to release the Soviet submarine that grounded 10 days ago in a restricted area near a navy base even though it probably is armed with nuclear weapons, and the explanation for its presence is unsatisfactory. Prime Minister Thorbjorn Falldin said Thursday.

gulf ports and would help economically revitalize the area.

But critics claimed the waterway, which would parallel the Mississippi River 150 miles to the west, cannot be economically defended, particularly at a time of deep budget cuts in more vital domestic programs.

"Enough is enough," Percy said. "There is simply no justifiable reason for throwing another $2 billion away on this unjustified project... when we have a trillion-dollar deficit."

Opponents said the project would require moving far more earth than the 52-mile-long Panama Canal, completed in 1914 at a cost of $380 million.

The half-finished waterway would link the Tennessee River with the Gulf of Mexico near Mobile, Ala., providing a 450-mile shortcut for barge traffic.

Projects

Morrissey, a spokesman for the Edison Electric Institute, a trade organization representing the nation's power companies.

The Clinch River breeder reactor's cost has risen fivefold, to $3.2 billion in the past dozen years. The project is supposed to demonstrate the breeder's potential to use nuclear fuel more efficiently than traditional reactors, generating plutonium as well as electricity.

The plutonium then could be used to fuel other reactors.

But opponents claim that a decreasing demand for electricity has undermined the rationale for plutonium breeders.

In a related development, the breeder reactor's director, Lochlin Coffey, resigned earlier in the week in a management shakeup that saw another top official, assistant engineering director Donald Riley, demoted to technical adviser.

Energy Department officials would not say if the management changes are related to congressional criticism of the Clinch River project.

Also by a 48-46 roll call, the Senate rejected an attempt by Sens. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., to eliminate the $189 million scheduled to be spent on the Tennessee-Tombigbee project this fiscal year, which began Oct. 1.

About $1 billion already has been spent on the canal and another $1 billion is needed to finish it on time by 1988. Further improvements in the waterway south of Demopolis, Ala., would add another $1 billion to the project, according to congressional auditors. However, the Senate agreed by voice vote not to consider this southern segment at the present time.

Backers said the waterway would be an important means to move Appalachian coal to well. Plainview's "Crime Lane" program was begun after that city experienced a 20 percent increase in crime during March, 1980. Since that time the more than 50 cases have been solved, and restitution or return of property valued at $40,000 has been made.

In the Plainview setup a reward of $250 is made on indictment of a suspect in felony cases, with a payment of $500 for the "Crime of the Week" case. No payment is made in misdemeanor cases.

Mull said that a large number of burglaries have been solved in Plainview since the program started. He added that two armed robberies and two auto thefts as well as one vandalism case involving $8,500 damage to a city water tower have been solved.

Mull said that more than 100 calls were received when the program offered a $1,000 reward in a murder case, but that many of the calls resulted in dead ends.

The rationale for forming a non-profit organization such as Crime Stoppers is to provide stability; protect the directors more effectively from liability; to gain tax-exempt status from the IRS; and make donations to the reward fund tax deductible.

Saul told the group that he had already drawn up a charter application, which would be mailed in to the state, and should be returned in "about a week." The group decided on the name of "Deaf Smith County Crime Stoppers, Inc." as the local unit name.

A total of 20 of those citizens present volunteered to serve on the board of directors of the unit, and they will meet again when the charter is received to form the board, probably consisting of 10 members with 10 alternates.

A town hall type meeting will follow after the board of directors is formed to more completely inform the public of the program and to begin solicitation of funds.

revenues through aid from the state. If the much-needed help is approved, the school district would stand to lose only $110,000 or so.

Current tax rates for the entities involved are 58 1/2 cents for the WISD, 84 cents for the HISD, 40 cents for Deaf Smith County, 8.3 cents for the hospital district, and one cent for the water district.

Based on those rates, Fox figured, for example, that the county would have to raise its rate to 48 cents to recover their loss in revenues.

And, that may be only the beginning. Further reductions in revenues may be forthcoming in the near future when a decision on an exemption on farm machinery is made. The state legislature passed an exemption on farm machinery during the last session, but the question is in litigation now, awaiting a ruling on its legality from the state attorney general.

"We can expect a ruling on that in 30 or 40 days," Fox said.

A Variety of Quilts

Pictured above is Anna Vogler, with just a few of the quilts and afghans that she has made. The left front quilt is in a butterfly design, and the one just behind it is an embroidered bird quilt, with each circle containing a different type of bird. The right front quilt is the popular wagon wheel pattern, and the one Anna is holding is a colorful flower design.

Now You're Cookin'

By LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

"Gardening and canning in the summer, and quilting, crocheting, and embroidery in the winter," was the reply given by Anna Vogler when asked about her hobbies. This would be enough to keep anyone busy, but it would be difficult for many of us to accomplish as much as Anna has.

Anna and her husband, Ewald, have lived on their farm about nine miles southwest of Hereford since 1947. They have four married children. Their three sons all farm in the Hereford area, and their daughter and her family have recently moved to Dumas.

Anna loves to piece quilts, and then works mostly by herself to quilt them on a large frame which she and Ewald set up in their large country kitchen.

Since her daughter left home in about 1972, Anna has made a king-size quilt for each of her children, a quilt for each of six grandchildren, and is working on the last of four embroidered quilts, one for each family.

Anna has also crocheted an afghan for each child and grandchild. Last year before Christmas, she made a number of crocheted flowers and sold them. Besides the crafts which she has given away, Anna decorates her own home with items she has made.

There is a large garden behind the Vogler's house, and they grow enough for Anna to do canning for herself and others. "Many times I can some things for my children too, when they don't have time to spend on it," commented Anna.

She also enjoys taking care of plants and flowers, and keeps one end of her living room full of growing plants all year round. Anna enjoys reading, and reads when she has time.

As Marketing Chairman of the Frio Homemakers Club, Anna is in charge of selling such things as pepper, chili, spices, and vanilla to raise money for the club.

Believe it or not, with all of these other things to keep her busy, Anna loves to cook, and bakes bread quite often. She enjoys baking bread and rolls, and has done so nearly all her life.

"When I was 15," Anna explained, "My mother broke her arm, and the breadbaking then became my job." It was quite a job, too, as there were 16 at the table for meals. "I baked eight loaves of bread every day, back then," said Anna. Having so much experience in baking bread, Anna never uses a recipe.

Much of her cooking is done without any recipes. "I guess I'm an old-fashioned cook," commented Anna, "I hardly ever measure things." At harvest time, Anna cooks for a large group of hungry men quite often. This can be quite a job, as any farm wife can tell you.

Anna's homemade rolls are a special treat, and smell so good while they are baking. "The mayonnaise biscuits are very simple to make," said Anna, "and taste much like sourdough bread."

One of the more unusual items which Anna makes are her homemade noodles. They are a little like spaghetti, and can be served with salt and butter, or mixed with chicken broth or tomatoes.

ROLLS

- 1 pkg. yeast
- 1/2 cup water
- 3/4 cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup mashed potatoes
- 1 cup scalded milk
- 2 eggs
- 6 to 8 cups flour

Mash potatoes. Add sugar, salt, shortening, and eggs. Cream well.

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add to lukewarm milk, then to the potato mixture.

Add sifted flour to make a stiff dough. Toss on floured board and knead well.

Put in large bowl. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Knead lightly. Rub top with melted butter. Place in refrigerator until read to bake, covered tightly.

One and a half hours before baking time, cut out rolls as desired, let rise until light. Bake as usual. Take off needed dough and replace in refrigerator.

MAYONNAISE BISCUITS

- 1 cup self-rising flour
- One-third cup sweet milk
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise

Mix all ingredients together and drop into greased muffin tins. Bake in 400 degree oven for about 10 minutes. Yields eight biscuits.

HOMEMADE NOODLES

- 2 eggs
- 1 T. water for each egg
- Beat eggs and water well.
- Add enough flour to make dough stiffer than pie dough.
- Form dough into small balls about the size of a plum and roll out very thin to approximately the size of a 9-inch pie pan.

Lay out on table to dry, but don't let dry long enough that they will crack.

Cut in fourths, and then lay on top of each other and slice through all layers to make thin noodles—approximately 1/4 inch. Put flour between layers if they begin to stick together.

Spread out on cloth and let them finish drying completely. (If you are cooking them right away, they do not have to dry completely.) When thoroughly dried, they will keep about two weeks in an airtight container.

Cook about 10 minutes until done. Will serve about six people.

Public Is Invited To Annual Bazaar

The public is invited to attend the yearly Christmas Bazaar sponsored by the women of St. Thomas Episcopal Church. The bazaar will be held this weekend at the church, and will feature a variety of arts and crafts as well as food items.

The bazaar will run from 12 noon to 6 p.m. on Friday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Featured booths will include the Cooks Nook, the Jelly Booth, the Christmas Decorations Booth, the Children's Booth, the Gifts Booth, and the Vacation Grab Bag.

Lunch will be served on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and will include chili made by the men and Stan Brock's peach cobbler.

Supper Given For Marquez

Jackie Marquez, fourth grade student at Bluebonnet Intermediate School, was honored with a going away supper in the home of Mrs. Boyd Foster on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Israel Herrera was co-hostess.

Guests were fourteen of Jackie's classmates at Bluebonnet. They included Cindy Alvarado, Julie Cherry, Tonya Deckard, Susie Herrera, Valerie Holt, Nikki Hutson, Glenda Kendrick, Vicki Mongold, Melissa Ortiz, Melissa Ramirez, Vaavia Rudd, Renee Sublett, Brienna Townsend, and Jill West.

After a buffet supper, the girls played several games. Special guests were the mother of the honoree, Emma Marquez, and her grandmother Georgia Rodriguez. Jackie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marquez. The family is moving to Ft. Madison, Iowa, where Mr. Marquez has transferred with Armour.

Church Women United Meeting Set

Hereford's Church Women United will celebrate World Community Day tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at Kings Manor on 430 Ranger. Since 1943, Church Women United has celebrated World Community Day to emphasize corporate action for justice and peace.

This year's theme deals with peace in the world. In answer to "The Last Commandment: Put away Your Sword," the title for the World Community Day Service, they gather to pray and dedicate themselves to the task of waging peace and becoming peace builders. It was written by women of the Greek Orthodox Church and draws upon the liturgy of their tradition.

Mmes. Susie Marquis and Carole Armour, program coordinators, have announced that a trio of vocalists from different churches will sing the responses to the litany of peace to be said by the congregation. Mrs. Leta Kaul will lead the congregational singing.

St. Anthony's Catholic Church is the host church, and refreshments are to be served by St. Anthony's Women's Organization. Free baby-sitting is located at First Baptist Church, 500 N. Main.

Upon entering church, the first act of worship for the Orthodox Christian is to light a candle while offering silent prayer. The candle symbolizes the light of Christ illuminating the kingdom of peace where there is no violence. Candle lighting may be a feature of some local services.

Girls Team, Carrasco To Run In Lubbock

CC Regional Qualifiers Run After State Berth

Regional Qualifiers

By MARC HERRING
Staff Writer

Saturday will prove to be a new experience for seven Hereford individuals as the girls cross country team and the boy's Fernando Carrasco travel to Lubbock to participate in the Region I Cross Country Meet.

Cross country coach Martha Emerson feels that the showing by the girls team, will help both the fall running program and the spring track program.

"Anytime a team is successful, it will help in getting more participation," Emerson said. "Most of the kids worked real hard this fall, and we could be real strong in the spring, and next year as well."

Strength and the showing of the underclassmen has given Coach Emerson a reason to smile. Currently, the leading runner for the harriers is Dana Cabbiness, a

To go along with these three are Allyson Thomas, junior, Michelle Osborn, junior, and two freshmen that ran with the high school this fall, Molly Keating and Cindy Morgan.

For the boys, Carrasco is a junior, and according to Emerson could be one of the best runners to come out of Hereford.

"If Fernando will continue to work as hard as he has this year, then there is no reason why he can't be one of the best there is."

The thought of having Carrasco and senior George Arroyos on the same spring track team should be enough to send most coaches on a trip to euphoria. Both have the smooth stride that eats up the miles, and both could definitely help a Whiteface track team that has always been strong in the spring areas, but less than awesome in the distance events.

Losses to the team will include Kellie Howell, who has been one of the few runners to run with the varsity all three of her years at HHS. A steady runner and tremendous leader, Howell will be missed for her leadership qualities almost as much as her running.

For the regional meet, Coach Emerson hopes to see some personal bests in the race, and maybe a state qualifier.

"I don't know if we can qualify anyone for the state meet," Emerson said. "Right now there hasn't been a time run by anyone of our people that would qualify them, but when it comes down to the race itself, times don't mean a thing, it's where a person finishes."

Best bets for a chance to make it to state would be Cabbiness for the girls and Carrasco with an outside chance in his three mile event.

"Dana will have to run better than she has ever run before," Emerson said. "Last week the winning time for our district was 12:40 by Skipper Crawford of Monterey, and Dana will have to run around 12:30 to even have a chance."

Previously, Cabbiness was timed at 12:15 at Tulia, but the course was mostly level and maybe a bit short. Her best time on the course in Lubbock is a 13:02.

"Fernando will have to believe in himself, if he wants a chance to go to Austin," Emerson said. "I think he has the ability, but he will have to give a supreme effort and run like he never has, if he wants to go. Carrasco has dipped under 16:00 twice this season, but will have to go as low as 15:30 before he has a chance to be one of the top 10. The top ten individuals will make the trip to Austin, along with the top four teams.

Volleyballers To Play Mustangs For Title

Fortune has smiled on the athletic department of Hereford High School it seems as not one, not even two, but three sports are vying for a spot in post-season play.

The HHS volleyball team, coached by first year mentor Sharma Smith has earned a chance to play for the overall district 4-5A title by virtue of winning the second half of the conference with a 4-0 record.

Set to face the Whitefaces is a tough Coronado team which has split its matches with Hereford this year. Hereford lost the initial encounter with the Mustangs, but came back in the second half to take advantage of lackadaisical play to win in two games.

This season has been one of getting better as the year progressed. The first games produced very little to be proud of and when district started, and Coronado completely dominated the match, it looked to be a long year for the spikers.

But from that point on, the tables were turned, as the Whitefaces went through their last seven matches undefeated to finish district with a sparkling 7-1 record.

Friday's match against Coronado will take place at 5:30 at Plainview High School.

Four of the six starters for the Herd are seniors and will be trying to finish off the Cinderella year with a flourish. Spikers JoLynn O'Leary, Ginny Coronado and Peggy Miller and setter Beatrice Moreno will be finishing their stint at the high school this year.

The other two starters, server Lisa Cortez and setter Suzanne Rameriz are juniors. Backing up the starters are Sandy Cagle, Becky Griego and Norma Gavina.

Coach Smith, who has turned the Hereford program around in her first year, believes the team has the ability to beat Coronado, if the mental attitude is right.

"Coronado will be ready to play, Smith said. "They did not take us very seriously the time we played them here at Hereford

Running Celtics Stampede Chicago Bulls, 115-93

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Celtics and Chicago Bulls are both big and strong on the front line, but the reason the Celtics are National Basketball Association champions, says Larry Bird, is that they also can run.

"They're big and we're big, but we have team speed," Bird said Wednesday night after Boston defeated Chicago 115-93. "The difference between the two teams is our big guys run. Guys like (Robert) Parish, (Kevin) McHale, (Rick) Robey and the rest are willing to pay the price."

Bird also could have included himself in his list of big men who will dash up and down the court. He popped in 26 points, all in the first and third quarters, to pace the Celtics attack.

In other NBA games, Atlanta tripped New Jersey 96-86, Philadelphia stayed unbeaten with a 107-99 victory over Indiana, San Antonio bombed Cleveland 128-102, Kansas City edged San Diego 129-128, Denver clipped Houston 112-100, Los Angeles nipped Seattle 106-103 and undefeated Portland nudged Golden State 109-108.

The Celtics, who eliminated

Chicago in four straight games in last year's playoffs, registered their 10th victory in the last 11 games with the Bulls. However, Boston Coach Bill Fitch was not certain his team could continue to dominate Chicago.

"The score tonight is no indication of what will happen the next five games with them this season," Fitch said. "We're going to have to play a lot better to beat them."

Fitch said the Celtics won despite a lot of "silly errors," and he added, "I'm not so greedy that I won't take a victory, but we got away with a lot of mistakes we might not get away with on the road."

Bird's 12 points in the first period paced the Celtics to a 17-3 lead and they were never caught. The Boston bench scored a total of 50 points, including 21 by McHale.

Reggie Theus led Chicago with 26 points.

76ers 107, Pacers 99
Philadelphia won its fourth straight this season as Julius Erving scored 30 points, including 14 in the first quarter, against Indiana.

The Pacers never led after the first period, but they trailed only 98-96 late in the game before the 76ers scored seven points in a row to ice the game.

Bussard 21 points to lead Indiana.

Blazers 109, Warriors 108
Mike Harper scored a slam-dunk basket with 11 seconds left after teammate Calvin Natt stole a pass, giving Portland its fourth consecutive victory this season.

The Blazers trailed Goldek State by as many as 16 points in the third period before rallying behind guard Jim Paxson, who had 22 points, Joe Barry Carroll had 30 for the Warriors.

TCU Basketball Team Put On Probation

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP)—Texas Christian University's basketball program has been put on a year's probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for alleged violations in the recruiting of a player, a Fort Worth newspaper reported today.

The player, Darrell Lovett, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram he was given clothes, spending money and airplane tickets home by an assistant basketball coach at TCU. He also accused the coach of falsifying transcript information so Lovett would appear eligible for enrollment at TCU.

The probation carries no sanctions, meaning the Horned Frogs will be eligible for postseason tournament play and television appearances, the newspaper reported.

Lovett, reached at his mother's home in LaGrange, Ga., said he told the NCAA of his accusations against TCU after he left the team in 1979, then discovered he was ineligible to enroll at Morris Brown College in Atlanta.

"TCU got rid of me... they were just afraid the NCAA was going to come down on them, so they thought they'd get rid of me before I said anything," said Lovett.

As They Host Lubbock High Tonight

Thundering Herd Looking For Win Number 10

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
The Lubbock High Westerners, a team which has scored only 35 points all year, are the last remaining hurdle for the District 4-5A football champion Hereford Whitefaces during the regular season as Army's Army invades Whiteface country at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

two seasons, will be aiming at a couple of firsts tonight when the Black and Gold straps it on against the Maroon and White.

Hereford has never had a team post of a perfect 10-0 record, and only the 1942 team failed to lose a game, finishing with a 7-0-1 record after a 7-7 tie with Phillips that season.

And, the Whitefaces will be aiming at ending a streak of domination by the Westerners, who have yet to lose to an HHS team at Whiteface Field. In fact, Lubbock High owns a 6-4-1 advantage over the Herd since the two teams first started playing each other in 1970.

While the Whitefaces have already sewn up the loop title and a trip to the playoffs this year, they badly want to defeat the Westerners and go undefeated.

The Lubbock squad, on the other hand, is notorious for giving the Herd fits year after year, and would like nothing better than to spoil the champs' perfect campaign.

By all the figures tonight's game figures to be a blowout. Hereford leads the district in every category, averaging 331 yards per game offensively and allowing but 141.6. Lubbock ranks last in offense with a 128 yards-per-game average, and is next to last in defense, allowing 261 markers per outing.

The Westerners' 3-5 record is better only than Monterey's 3-6 mark in the loop, and LHS has allowed 143 points this year, 57 of those in district play in 22-0 and 35-0 losses to Monterey and Coronado respectively.

While the game tonight really settles nothing in the district, it marks the last outing for the playoff-bound 'Faces before post-season play begins in a couple of weeks. The Herd will take the week off next week as regular season play concludes, and will prepare for their bi-district opponent.

The Palo Duro Dons can clinch that playoff spot against the Herd tomorrow night with a win against Pampa. Hereford handed the Dons a 28-9 setback back in week number two this season.

Tonight's game could be the last home field appearance for 32 Herd seniors, depending upon how coach Don Cumpston fares in playoff game site selections.

Rounding out their varsity careers this season are upperclassmen Mike Hill, Matt Collier, Rey Cervantez, Shannon Ritchie, Mike Mason, Joe Soliz, Alan Wartes, Arnold Villegas, Wayne High, Jeff Coupe, Bruce Clarke, Grady

Brown, and John Phibbs.

Also, Eddie Salazar, Aubrey Richburg, Paul Brockman, Kevin Hamby, Ken Cosper, Baldemar Reyna, Armando Alaniz, Alex Valdez, Barry Josseland, and Kent Finch.

And, Severo Gonzales, Robby Dobbins, Alfredo Arras, Robert Gonzales, Bob Hammond, Don Delozier, Rudy Hernandez, Kevin Huffaker, and Gerry Ford.

Cincinnati's Griffey Traded To New York Yankees

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Griffey is not about to get into any debate on whether he can make New York Yankees fans forget Reggie Jackson.

But, since Griffey has spent much of his major league career as a right fielder for his former employer, the Cincinnati Reds, the questions had to be fielded about his replacing Jackson, who has announced his intention to go through the free agent re-entry draft Nov. 13.

The 31-year-old speedster was acquired by the Yankees Wednesday in exchange for minor-league pitcher Brian Ryder and a player to be named later.

Calling Griffey "a proven quantity, a great player and a gentleman," Lou Saban, president of the Yankees, introduced the new Yankee player at a Yankee Stadium news conference.

Griffey, with a lifetime batting average of .307 and coming off a .311 season, spent eight seasons with the National League Reds.

"I'm here to do the job they hired me to do — play the outfield. I play wherever the manager puts me," said Griffey, who also was eligible to become a free agent this year.

Pressed on whether he could fill Jackson's shoes with the Yankees, the diplomatic Griffey shrugged and said, "In terms of defense, I know I can. But Reggie can do an awful lot of things on offense. I'm a lifetime .300 hitter, though, and I can do some things, too. But, whatever happens, I've played right field, center and left field; I'll do what the manager tells me to do."

Jackson, at his home in Carmel, Calif., said he was "stunned" by the Yankees' acquisition of Griffey.

"Wow, that's unreal," he said. "George asked me to come and see him. I don't know if it'll be a waste of time now. It doesn't look good for the home team here, does it? I don't think it looks good for me.

"The situation is too volatile for me to say anything now. I'll just call George today or tomorrow."

Griffey came up through the Cincinnati farm system and has been in the major leagues since 1974. The left-handed batter has hit more than .300 in five of his seven big league seasons.

He underwent knee surgery late in the 1979 season, but came back to play in 146 games in 1980, batting .294 with career highs of 13 homers and 85 runs batted.

Ann Landers Out of Luck

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After a whirlwind courtship my daughter married last March. It was the second marriage for both. I presented them with a check for $1,000.

Three months later they decided it was a mistake and are now in the process of getting a divorce.

I wrote a letter to my daughter's future former husband and asked him to return the check. (It went into his pocket and my daughter never saw a dime of it.) He replied, "Forget it. It's mine." Please tell me what I can do to get my money back.—Northern Virginia Reader

DEAR N.V.R.: Very little. The check was a gift, and people should not expect a gift to be returned.

If your daughter gets a settlement, her lawyer might put a little heat on the ex-husband for what might be interpreted as her half. As of this moment, you are out $1,000, Dad.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several years ago my husband and I had the same problem we read about in your column. Recently, inconsiderate people who allow their dogs—yes, even lead them—onto a neighbor's lawn to mess on the grass.

With no show of anger we bought a large economy-size box of soap powder, a half pound of black pepper and mixed the two.

First, we watered the grass and the tree trunks, so the mixture would adhere to the grass and the trees. Then we sprinkled generously through the area. We noticed that the dogs that came around didn't stay long. Soon they avoided our place altogether.

The mixture proved most effective when sprinkled at any point most apt to be used as entry. We then sprinkled more of the stuff about a foot away—parallel to the sidewalk. Even after the animals stopped showing up, a "refresher" sprinkling treatment now and then was a good reminder.

I hope your readers who have this problem will try our technique. It worked for us.—In Wisconsin

DEAR WIS.: I talked to Dr. Charles Lemme at Brainerd Animal Hospital in Evanston, Ill. He wasn't convinced that the mixture would discourage all dogs, but he assured me that it would not do them any harm. So, it sounds like it might be worth a try. Thanks for the tip.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm writing to you hoping for a reply to my question. I need an answer from an informed person who doesn't know me personally.

Friends have told me that if a guy has had two alcoholic

FHA Members Attend Party

Members of the La Plata Junior High School FHA Chapter attended a Halloween party last Friday night at the school. The room was decorated to carry out a Halloween theme, utilizing witches, spiders, skeletons, and black cats.

Member attending the party wore costumes, and prizes were awarded for costumes showing the most creativity. Costume winners were Polly West, dressed as a headless person, and Misti Hardin and Melanie Davis, dressed as clowns.

Refreshments consisted of Jack-O-Lantern cookies, crazy crunch pop corn, and punch. They were prepared in ninth grade homemaking classes.

Serving on the party arrangement committee were FHA Executive Committee members Don Flood, Tracie Horton, Lisa Dirks, and Rosa Perales.

drinks and you have sexual intercourse, he becomes sterile (not permanently). I assume then that without the usual protection I would not get pregnant. Is this true?

Please, Ann, print your answer in the newspaper. I am a teenager who admires the help you give others. Now I need it.—Your Friend In Paducah

DEAR PADUCAH: No amount of alcohol consumed by a male will protect his partner against pregnancy. It might make him impotent if he drinks so much that he can't function, but temporarily sterile—no.

A letter like yours is additional evidence that many teenagers who appear to be street-smart are really ignorant. And such ignorance can spell trouble with a capital T.

Club Tour Made Of Hall Of Fame

La Afflatus Estudio Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Pet Ott. Club members drove to the new Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center, and were given a tour of the building by Margaret Formby. The program chairman was Opal Elliston.

After returning to the Ott's, President Aileen Montgomery opened the business meeting, and Lucille Hughes led in the reading of the club collect. Members answered roll call with quips and quotations.

Members sang "Happy Birthday" to Tresa Hale in recognition of her November birthday.

Donations for the Wichita Falls State Hospital were accepted, and will be collected at the next meeting also. This money is being used to buy gifts for patients who will be staying at the hospital over Christmas.

Alberta Higgins served as co-hostess with Ms. Ott. They served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Other members present included Emily Suggs, Irene Markham, Della Stagner, Allyne Johnson, Jennie Terrell, Eva Gilliland, Madeline Bell, Lydia Hopson, and Mary Williamson.

The two guests attending the meeting were Bess Atkinson and Mae Grimes.

The next meeting is scheduled for Nov. 17 in the home of Allyne Johnson.

Watson Featured Tonight

The Hereford Aglow Fellowship will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Wesley United Methodist Church, 410 Irving.

Featured in the program will be Johnny Ray Watson, singer, writer, composer, and speaker. He and his wife, Brinda, and their children, have been living in Hereford since August.

Johnny has traveled across the country and around the world since 1972, singing and sharing in churches, military bases, high schools, and colleges.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Someone who has wisely remained anonymous once said that children are like waffles. The first one should be used to season the grill and then tossed out.

Studies made on first children say they're not all that bad. They are usually shy, serious, sensitive, academically superior and more likely to be an Einstein.

Second children, on the other hand, are relaxed, independent, cheerful, lean toward creativity and are more likely to be a Picasso.

No one has had the courage to find — let alone study — child No. 3 and the ones that follow whom I call "et ceteras."

Is there life after the first two children? What are the et ceteras like?

I have discovered the third child has a few attributes of his own. He has itchy feet and joins other families for three or four months, often without being noticed. He is not intimidated by anyone, has a great sense of humor and is apt to be a game-show host.

Part of their uniqueness is that third children have no history. There are no footprints of him in the baby book, no record of his baptism, no snapshots of his birthdays and no report cards to show he ever was.

Their childhood diseases are uneventful, their first words fall on deaf ears, and toilet training is a lonely affair with no one to applaud their b.m.'s.

The third child learns early that he is odd man out and has broken the family symmetry. Kitchen chairs come four to a set, breakfast rolls four to a package, milk four cups to a quart. Rides at Disneyland accommodate two to a seat, the family car carries four comfortably and beds come in twos, not threes.

The third child is the one who gets called the other two's names before the mother finally remembers his. He goes through a lifetime of comparisons: "You're not going to be as tall as your brother...as smart as your sister...athletic as your father."

I personally feel there's a lot to be said for the "et cetera" children who get a fast shuffle and who thrive on neglect and somehow appear one day all grown up.

They not only know who they are and what they are, but they've dealt very early with the two things that most children fear the most: competition and loneliness.

Members Learn To Make Flowers

The TouJours Amis Club met Tuesday in the home of Sharon Hodges for a program by Sondra Blankenship, of Sondra's Craft Corral. She demonstrated how to make silk flowers. Club members will learn to arrange silk flowers at their next meeting.

Ms. Hodges and her co-hostess, Beverly Lambert, served the members crunchy chicken sandwiches and salad. For dessert, the members enjoyed homemade creme puffs.

Members present included Mmes. Hodges and Lambert, Nena Veazey, Lori Hall, Rhonda Nieman, Charlotte Tyler, Marilyn Leasure, Marcia Boyer, Shannon Hagar, Cindy Black, Nanette Ashby, Marsha Winget and Pam Perrin.

The committee reminded members of the family "Caroling Party" to be held Dec. 14.

ALLEY OOP by Dave Graue

"Nobody's ever taken him for a WALK."

Possible Success

'Jessica Novak' To Air Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that television news has turned glamorous, it's become suitable as entertainment programming. Already this season, the Smothers Brothers were cast as an investigative TV news team, trying to uncover comedy and drama on NBC's new series "Fitz and Bones." They found neither.

A much more successful effort is "Jessica Novak" on CBS. Based on tonight's pilot episode, the only segment available for pre-screening, "Jessica Novak" looks capable of illuminating the TV news business the way "Lou Grant" portrays newspaper life.

Jessica Novak — is CBS trying to capitalize on NBC's high-profile anchorwoman Jessica Savitch? — is a bright and beautiful reporter for a TV station in Los Angeles. She's played with vigor by Helen Shaver, an excellent Canadian actress last seen in the daring, short-lived series "United States."

Pilots, high-budget productions designed to court network interest, generally serve to introduce characters, and there is great promise in the people here. Jessica bounces nicely off news director Max Kenyon (David Spielberg), the soft-hearted heil with the hard-news temperament.

Jessica eventually gets wind of Ernie's hideout. This is where the story gets hokey, and Jessica turns into superwoman by negotiating, unarmed but with a live microphone, with the rifle-toting Ernie.

Why does television feel compelled to makes human beings, ultimately, less human by making them too perfect?

In Jessica's case, her only flaw is that she keeps forgetting to go to the dry cleaners on time. Journalists are not supposed to get involved in their stories, either, but this won't be a concern of Jessica Novak's.

There's wit and warmth in their exchanges, dialogue several notches above TV's typical inane chatter.

The show intends to use the news-gathering process to delve into issues; a la "Lou Grant." Tonight's story straddles the fine line of whether it's kidnapping if an estranged husband takes the couple's children away from the mother without her permission.

It's an interesting dilemma; and the police come off as inflexible by playing it by the book. They say the children aren't missing if they're with a parent. Since there's no evidence of lawbreaking, they can't take any action.

Jessica sizes on this Catch 22 and launches her own on-air investigation. She points out that the husband is recently unemployed and unstable. He's beaten his wife and has threatened to harm himself and the kids.

Jessica eventually gets wind of Ernie's hideout. This is where the story gets hokey, hard working reporter, who is suddenly thrust into the middle of a fast breaking story when a man estranged from his wife kidnaps her children and threatens to kill them and himself. (Premiere, 60 mins.)

THE MX: AMERICA'S NEWEST WEAPON

How would the missile deliver its warheads?

- 1 The missile is launched from a hardened silo in the continental United States and is guided toward its destination by on-board computers and other electronic equipment.
- 2 The first booster separates from the missile.
- 3 The second booster separates from the missile.
- 4 The third booster separates from the missile. All three stages burn up in the atmosphere during their descent.
- 5 The shroud separates from the missile to expose the 10 nuclear warheads.
- 6 The first of the independently targeted warheads begins its flight to earth.
- 7 All 10 of the warheads speed toward their targets, which would most likely be the enemy's nuclear missile-launching sites.

THIS ILLUSTRATION shows the stages in the launching of the MX ("Missile Experimental") that is to replace the Minutemen and Titan missiles as the land-based component of the U.S. nuclear triad. The four-stage rocket is designed to carry 10 warheads, each of which is aimed at a different target. President Reagan has proposed to deploy at least 100 of the missiles in the mid-1980s; initially, at least, they are to be housed in existing silos that will be "hardened" to protect against enemy attack.

World Series Finale Helped Network In Prime Time Race

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Series, historically a ratings winner this time of year, helped ABC to a second straight No. 1 finish in the networks' weekly ratings competition, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

The Series finale between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the New York Yankees was the top-rated program in the week ending Nov. 1, with a rating of 37.2. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with TV, 37.2 percent saw at least part of the game.

The rating for the sixth and deciding game was well below the 40 recorded for the championship game last year, between Philadelphia and Kansas City, broadcast by NBC.

The networks normally would count on higher ratings for a championship series involving teams from the two largest television markets, but ratings for the Series this year were consistently below those of last season — presumably the result of fan disenchantment because of this summer's strike by the players.

ABC, with five of the week's 10 highest-rated shows, recorded an average rating for the week of 20.4 to 19.7 for CBS and 15.6 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the period, 20.4 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were watching ABC.

ABC's "World News Tonight" beat out CBS' "Evening News" for first place for the first time in a month in the three-way race. "Evening News" finished No. 3, behind the ABC program and NBC's "Nightly News."

Tony Randall's "Love, Sidney," on NBC, was the highest-rated of the season's newly introduced series, in 26th place. "Hill Street Blues," NBC's multiple Emmy-winner that struggled in the ratings last season, scored its highest rating ever — 18.3 — but finished 31st in the week's competition.

ABC's "Maggie," No. 63, and "Fitz and Bones" on NBC, No. 66, were the only new series among the week's five lowest-rated programs. A repeat of the NBC movie "The Brady Girls Get Married," was 64th, with a CBS film, "Hide in Plain Sight" 65th and a rerun special on NBC, "Marriage — Alive and Well," 67th.

Here are the week's 10 highest rated shows:

World Series, Game 6, Los Angeles vs. New York, with a rating of 37.2 representing 30.3 million homes, ABC; "60 Minutes," 30.5 or 24.8 million, NBC; "Every Which Way But Loose," 29.2 or 23.8 million, "M-A-S-H," 26.4 or 21.5 million, and "Dallas,"

24.9 or 20.3 million, all CBS;

"Three's Company," 24.4 or 19.9 million, and World Series, Game 6, Pre-Game Show, 23.9 or 19.5 million, both ABC; NFL Football, Post-Game Show, 23.8 or 19.4 million, CBS, and "Too Close for Comfort," 22.6 or 18.4 million, and "NFL Monday Night Football," Houston vs. Pittsburgh, 22.2 or 18.1 million, both ABC.

Injured Workmen Awarded $5 Million

HOUSTON (AP) — An attorney for Houston Lighting & Power says his company will appeal a $5 million judgment awarded to two painters disabled when their ladder touched a power line attorneys argue was improperly placed.

"We are satisfied that the company was not guilty of negligence," said HI&P attorney Rice Kelly after the ruling Tuesday.

He said the house the men were working on was erected within the HI&P easement, causing it to violate a requirement that the line be 10 lateral feet from the structure.

A state district court jury deliberated for six hours before awarding $2,616,000 to Justo E. Calzada, 21, and $2,400,000 to Andres Gonzales.

The two house painters were injured when a gust of wind blew their aluminum ladder against a 20,000-volt power line.

Attorney Will Watkins, who represented the men, said Calzada lost his right arm below the shoulder and suffered damage to his feet in the 1978 accident. He said the accident cost Gonzales his right leg below the hip, hurt his left foot badly and made his left hand "claw like."

The jury found the utility 70 percent liable, home designer Wayman Enterprises Inc. 20 percent liable and subdivision developer Kickerillo Co. 10 percent liable.

Fugitive Chase Becomes 'Personal Thing'

By MICHAEL BEZDEK Associated Press Writer

WEST TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Lt. Peter Coughlin has worked 26 years for the State Police and says he might retire were it not for a woman he is particularly keen to meet.

Coughlin, 50, has spent two years trying to find Joanne Chesimard, a.k.a. Assata Shakur, New Jersey's most wanted fugitive and a suspected leader of the Black Liberation Army.

"I can retire right now, but I don't want to until we get her," Coughlin said. "It gets to be a personal thing after a couple of years."

Ms. Chesimard was convicted of killing a state trooper in 1973, and she escaped from the Correctional Institution for Women at Clinton two years ago last Monday.

Her escape came about a year after establishment of the state police Fugitive Unit, which Coughlin heads.

People who make Coughlin's quarterly "12 Most Wanted" list are considered the most dangerous of some 800 New Jersey convicted or suspected criminals on the lam.

But of them all, Bronx-born Joanne Deborah Byron Chesimard has proven the most elusive. She remains the one Coughlin said he "would most definitely like to meet."

Until recently, Coughlin said his "best information" was that Ms. Chesimard was somewhere in California. He has maintained for years that she has been waging a small war on police, and evidence is now mounting to support his claim.

Scores of clues have indicated there may be a connection between Ms. Chesimard and the recent $1.6 million robbery of a Brink's truck during which two Nyack, N.Y., police officers and a Brink's guard were slain and three members of the radical Weather Underground were apprehended.

Four suspects in the case are believed to have ties to the B.L.A., including Anthony Laborde and Marilyn Buck, both still at large and both believed by authorities to have aided Ms. Chesimard's escape.

Laborde is a co-suspect with James Dixon York of Linden, N.J., in a New York shootout several months ago during which one policeman was slain and another wounded, Coughlin said.

York, who was captured and charged with the police shootings shortly after he was added to New Jersey's most wanted list, is also suspected of being one of the five who aided Ms. Chesimard's prison escape, Coughlin said.

Coughlin's search for Ms. Chesimard has been made more difficult because while the general public knows little of behind-the-scenes police work, Ms. Chesimard knows a great deal.

While she was in prison, she used the Freedom of Information Act to obtain more than 1,700 pages of FBI documents concerning her case, including details of police investigations.

Coughlin said the search is also hampered by the network of radicals believed to have aided her flight and by the fact that one of the suspects at large in the Brink's case has been identified as a "Chesimard look-a-like."

"If one-tenth of the reports we get are correct, she's been all over the place in the last couple of years," he said. "They want to make a heroine out of her."

But among state troopers, she is no heroine. Indeed, no one is more feared than Ms. Chesimard. Coughlin said he sees reminders of that fear every day — a compelling example being the officer who survived the turnpike shootout with Ms. Chesimard.

Working a desk job now, he is still shaken by what began as a routine check on a suspicious vehicle and ended in a bloody gun battle with Ms. Chesimard, who was wounded, and a suspected member of the Black Panthers, who was slain.

The officer — who asked that his name, while a matter of public record, not be brought to public attention again — refuses to discuss anything relating to Joanne Chesimard.

"I have a wife and a child. Please," he said.

Although state troopers are forever on the lookout for Ms. Chesimard, much of the investigation is left to Coughlin, who spends his days around the National Crime Information Center computer and by the phone.

He has learned everything he can about her; now and then he even curls up with "Assata Speaks," a biography by a radical sympathizer who portrayed Ms.

Chesimard as an "African gem" who was "railroaded" by authorities.

A just-the-facts type of cop, Coughlin makes few personal asides about the case, although he said he thinks the first mistake was to send Ms. Chesimard to a medium security prison like Clinton. She had already stunned authorities by managing to conceive a child, now living with relatives, while she was in a holding cell in Middlesex County awaiting trial.

When he started the Fugitive Unit, Coughlin cleared state police files of about 200 names of people who had been captured or released or who had died since they were listed. Since then, 16 of the first 27 Coughlin put on his most wanted list have been apprehended.

"There's always an opening," Coughlin said.
