Suit lists three Hispanics

BY KIM THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

Three Hispanic members of the Hereford Independent School District are listed as plaintiffs on a class action suit filed against the district's board of trustees Tuesday by attorneys with Texas Rural Legal Aid.

Oralia Guzman, Jesus Herrera and Rumaldo Garcia are named on the suit, which lists the HISD and Superintendent Dr. Harrell L. Holder along with board members Marilyn Culpepper, R.C. Hoeschler, Calvin Jones, Paul Mason, Tom Simons, Sallie Strain and Bill Townsend as defenHISD target of TRLA action

Filed in Federal District Court in Amarillo, the action followed a Nov. 15 decision by the all-white school board not to take action on a suggested proposal to revert from atlarge to single-member voting districts. The dispute had its beginnings at an Aug. 9 meeting with Raul Noriega, a TRLA attorney from San Noriega appeared before the school board to present an alternative to the school district's current practice of elections, which would divide the HISD into seven areas of comparable population. Noriega explained that three of the proposed voting districts would contain at least 63 percent Hispanics.

The board members then consulted an attorney, Kelly Frels of Houston, who met with the board on several occasions. Those meetings were closed to the public. R.C. Hoelscher, spokesman for the board concerning the litiga-holding exclusively at-large tion, said the decision not to make changes in the current voting procedure was made in closed session, and that reasons for the 5-0 vote against doing so would remain undisclosed.

> The lawsuit is supported by a study of voting procedures in HISD during the past 20 years and contains figures comparing Anglo board members and candidates with Spanish-surnamed candidates during that time

During 1963 and 1983, the document claims, 67 persons ran for the school board with 33 being elected to a total of 56 terms. It further states that 11 Hispanics campaigned for school board positions during that time, with only one candidate serving a total of three

TRLA attorneys claim that because only 26.8 of Hispanic members of the district are registered voters, the atlarge system serves to dilute the Spanish vote, thereby denying minority rights as outlined in the Voting Rights

Senate bill may be used in suit

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

When board members of the Hereford Independent School District were first asked to adopt single-member voting precincts in August. they were told such action would make HISD more closely adhere to recentlypassed state legislation.

As guideline should judge rule against local school district

Senate Bill No. 1304, approved June 16 and to become effective Aug. 29, detailed how independent school districts may implement single-member voting precincts. The bill does not require such action, but rather presents guidelines on how it could be undertaken.

Raul Noriega, director of the Voting Rights Litigation Project by Texas Rural Legal Aid, presented a redistricting plan Aug. 9 at a regular school board meeting. After several special meetings, the board decided last month not to act on the proposal. A suit has subsequently been filed against HISD by the local TRLA office.

Prior to the Aug. 9 gathering, Noriega sent a letter to HISD Superintendent Dr Harrell Holder which addressed S.B. 1304. "This bill gives the board statutory authority to implement single-member districts," Noriega wrote in the July 26 correspondence. "Our request to implement singlemember district will be made pursuant to this statute.

YOU DIDN'T GET ME ANYTHING YET! ONLY 20 SHOPPING DAYS LEFT.

In Tuesday's suit, however, the bill was not mentioned. According to one source, S.B. 1304 might not provide the guidelines which HISD must follow should the district lose the suit, either. Rather, the ruling federal district court judge is to decide what HISD must do and how his orders are to be carried out.

Should the judge decide in favor of TRLA and to use S.B. 1304's suggestions, HISD would first have to hold a public hearing on the matter. It must promote the hearing No later than 120 days before the election, HISD would also have to formally request some or all board members be elected from singlemember "trustee districts."

If a school board does not initiate action itself, the public can call for singlemember voting precincts through a petition containing at least 15 percent of the registered voters. Should that occur, the board is obligated to order the appropriate proposition be placed on the next regular election date for board members, or

"trustees. "If the board orders that all or some of the trustees shall be elected from singlemember trustee districts," the bill reads, "or if a majority of the registered voters voting at an election approve a proposition that all or some of the trustees of the district be elected from single-and shall number each member trustee districts, the trustee district." board shall divide the school Trustees are to qualify as district into the appropriate number of trustee districts, members of their precincts. Replacements, which would be chosen by school board members, must also be precinct residents

Astronauts create Northern Lights

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - Spacelab's astronauts created an artificial aurora today, generating a brilliant display of lights by firing bursts of gases and electron beams into the darkness of space to learn more about the atmospheric veil that envelops the Earth.

"Beautiful," exclaimed astronaut Robert Parker as he watched a series of blue flashes bounce thousands of miles along Earth's magnetic lines. "Fantastic," exclaimed scientists on the ground watching a live television picture of one of the tests transmitted from the orbiting shuttle Columbia.

Parker and Ulf Merbold, working in the Spacelab science station in Columbia's cargo bay, triggered beams of electrons and ionized argon gas from accelerators outside the lab, zipping them into a highly-charged field of plasma at an altitude of 155 miles.

Murderer granted stay

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Texas death row inmate Thomas Andy Barefoot, who was scheduled to die by lethal injection Dec. 14, has been granted a stay of execution by a federal judge - the second stay the convicted murderer has received this year.

Barefoot, 37, was sentenced to die for the 1978 slaying of a Central Texas policeman.

U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton of El Paso, however, on Wednesday "granted the stay because there are two cases regarding the death penalty before the U.S. Supreme Court," said Steve Rogers, an attorney for the judge.

Rogers said all Texas death cases will probably have to wait until the Supreme Court decides a California case involving the proportionality question and the appeal of another Texas death row inmate, James Autry.

Another Texas inmate, Doyle Skillern, had been scheduled to be executed in the Texas death chamber Dec. 15, a day after Barefoot. But the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted Skillern's request for a stay Nov. 21.

Feldstein says he supports team

WASHINGTON - Ignoring White House scoldings, presidential economist Martin Feldstein insists he's a team player who fully supports "our president and his economic program."

But Feldstein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, strayed again from the administration line Wednesday night by disputing its contentions that new taxes will only lead to more government spending.

In a speech to the Tax Foundation, Feldstein continued to wage his strong campaign to reduce the red-ink spending - even after a highly unusual public chiding by administration officials.

Indeed, Feldstein sought to downplay his differences with the administration in his opening remarks to the group, which awarded him its "distinguished public service award" at a dinner in New York. I certainly hope that I am a team player," said tein, a highly regarded conservative economist before taking his administration post. Yet he went on to tell the group, "There is in fact no basis in either experience or logic for believing that additional tax revenue at the present time would serve only to finance increased spending."

Andropov may appear Dec. 28

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union announced today that its Parliament would meet Dec. 28. The announcement of the session of the Supreme Soviet had been keenly awaited in Moscow since it is expected that President Yuri V. Andropov, out of public view for more than 100 days, will appear at the meeting.

The 69-year-old Andropov, his health in question since last spring, has not been seen in public since Aug. 18. He normally would be expected to preside at a meeting of the Supreme Soviet.

Another START session underway

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - U.S. and Soviet negotiators met today at the Soviet compound to continue their 17-month effort to reduce long-range nuclear weapons - the only remaining forum for superpower talks on nuclear arms.

The meeting between Soviet Ambassador Viktor P. Karpov and chief U.S. negotiator Edward L. Rowny was the second since the Soviet Union walked out of parallel medium-range missiles talks Nov. 23.

Speculation has diminished that the Soviets might also break off the the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks, known as START. After a three-hour session Tuesday, Karpov said the talks will go on. But he added, "There is no progress up to now and as I have stated many times, the position of the American side is not for agreement."

Soviets still against deployment

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) - Several Western European leaders say there is "nothing new" in Soviet President Yuri V. Andropov's personally written appeals to drop plans for deploying U.S. nuclear missiles.

But Danish Prime Minister Poul Schlueter said the Soviet leader at least is "keeping the door a little bit ajar" for resuming talks on medium-range missile in Europe.

Last Friday, two days after Soviet negotiators walked out of medium-range nuclear arms talks with the United States, messengers from Soviet embassies delivered private letters from Andropov to the leaders of at least six NATO countries.

Andropov reminded them that he halted the talks in Geneva because the West went ahead with plans to deploy 572 Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Western Europe and repeated his decision to beef up nuclear weapons in Eastern Europe. He suggested the talks would resume if the NATO deployment was canceled.

Lebanese leader to meet Reagan today

By R. GREGORY NOKES Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -Lebanese President Amin Gemayel says he is confident his country's problems will be solved, but increasingly frustrated because U.S. policy-makers say the solution is in Syria's hands, not Lebanon's.

Gemayel, on his third visit to Washington in 14 months, was meeting with President Reagan at the White House today. He also scheduled meetings with Vice President George Bush and Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who greeted him upon his ar- Israeli troop withdrawal rival Wednesday evening.

Gemayel arrived a short time after Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir left Washington for New York City following a three-day visit that produced a strengthening of U.S.-Israeli military ties and a joint resolve to prevent Syria from extending its control over all of Lebanon.

In a brief arrival statement, Gemavel said he came with "a sense of confidence" that the Geneva talks on Lebanese national reconciliation will be successful in helping "build a new Lebanon responsive to the aspirations and the needs of all its communities."

"Despite the present difficult situation in my country, I am here with a strong sense of hope rather than of uncertainty, of resolve, rather than hesitation, of accomplishment, rather than inertia," Gemayel said.

He called for an early agreement for a withdrawal of all foreign forces from his country and "the implementation of the May 17 accords," referring to the Lebanese-

Acting at the direction of the Geneva negotiators, Gemavel is on a mission to explore new possibilities for getting Syrian, Israeli and Palestinian troops to leave Lebanon. The Geneva talks are in recess during Gemayel's mission.

But U.S. officials say the reality of the situation in Lebanon belies Gemayel's expressions of optimism. Fighting around Beirut on Wednesday was the worst it has been in months, despite a ceasefire, and there are no indications Syria is any more willing to withdraw its forces than it has been previously. The Syrians control up to 60 percent of the country.

In their past meetings here, both Shamir and Reagan reaffirmed their commitment to the May 17 agreement, which provides for an Israeli troop withdrawal. They interpret the agreement as providing that the Israelis don't have to leave until the Syrians agree to also pull out.

The Israeli-Syrian link, however, is contained in a separate side letter - signed by the United States and Israel, but not Lebanon. The agreement itself, which Lebanon signed, does not name Syria. Lebanese officials have in the past insisted that Israel should leave regardless of Syria's actions. It isn't known whether Gemayel will take that position in his talks here.

U.S. officials back Israel on the agreement, insisting it is a good one and should be implemented as is.

Now You're Cooking

"I had never cooked a meal in my life when we first came to Hereford in 1925," laughed Bea Hutson.

"I pretended I could cook so I could come here with my husband--we newlyweds-and Bill's father said 'she can come along if she can cook.""

Needless to say, of necessity she quickly learned to cook. "We lived in a tent until they could drill the wells and build houses," she said. "And that's where I cooked! But I didn't mind, I was in love."

The Hutsons lived on that same farm 12 miles northwest of Hereford for 58 years, during which time she had plenty of experience cooking large meals for harvest crews and hungry

She not only learned to cook and bake, but she grew to enjoy it very much, and now, though her three sons are grown and gone from home, they still look in the cookie jar when they are back visiting, according to Mrs. Hutson.

She likes to give her cookies, cakes and other treats to friends as gifts, noting that her favorites (and theirs) are sugar cookies and coconut pound cake. In August of this year, the Hutsons made a big change, moving into a home owned by King's Manor Methodist Home. It is situated right across the street from the manor, where the couple go for lunch every day. They also participate in other activities there, such as games, Tuesday night vespers and monthly birthday parties.

"We just love living here," noted Mrs. Hutson. "There is so much good fellowship. I think we're lucky to have a place like this."

Two of the Hutson's three sons reside in Hereford and the other lives in Seguin. "Each of them served in a different branch of the military service, and each attended a different college," stated the proud mother, who also has three grandchildren and three stepgrandchildren.

It was after her sons graduated from high school that Mrs. Hutson began working. She started driving the school bus during the war, filling in at first and then working every day.

"I really like children and had a lot fun driving the bus. I missed those kids so much when I quit," she commented.

Mrs. Hutson also enjoyed working at Rutherford's and Glenn's. In 1967 she was the first person to be named "Hereford Salesperson of the Month" by KPAN. DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need an answer to a puzzling situation. I have been married for 11 years. We have two children. After our second child my wife and I decided we did not want more.

We discussed whether she should have a tubal ligation or I should have a vasectomy. The vasectomy seemed less complicated, so I had one.

In the years we have been married there has been no reason to suspect that my wife has been sexually involved with anyone but me. She has a fine job and meets attractive men, but I've never given any thought to the possibility that she might be fooling around.

A few days ago I opened her purse in search of a cigarette. To my surprise I ran across some literature about the Pill. I immediately asked why she had such information in her purse. She was upset that I would question her and said angrily, "The doctor gave me the Pill to help control my menstrual problems." She hadn't mentioned it, she said, because she was afraid I might not accept that explanation and didn't want any trouble.

Please check with your authorities and tell me if her

Mavericks top Rockets to go 10-0 at home

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Things are going so well for the Dallas Mavericks that Coach Dick Motta was willing to predict they would win all six games in a homestand. Thanks to Mark Aguirre, the forecast came true.

"He must be a fortune teller," said Aguirre, who had 39 points, seven rebounds and seven assists to lead the Mavericks to a 113-102 National Basketball Association triumph over the Houston Rockets Wednesday night. The triumph left Dallas 10-0 at home.

Aguirre got the Mavericks. who have never made the playoffs but are 11-4 this season, off to a good start by hitting eight of his first nine shots and scoring 19 points en route to a 39-22 lead after the first quarter.

"Mark is up there with the great small forwards I have seen in my 16 years in the league," said Motta. "He still has some refinements to make, but if he stays on schedule he will make all

In other National Basketball Association games, it was New York 113, New Jersey 104; Philadelphia 122, Atlanta 110; Cleveland 112, Portland 105; Boston 130, San Antonio 106; Milwaukee 139, Denver 122; Kansas City 120, Phoenix 118; Utah 117, San Diego 115.

Aguirre, who is averaging nearly 27 points per game, credited his teammates, especially point guard Brad Davis, for his high point total.

"They were running the plays perfect," Aguirre said.

"I was just getting good shots. Brad sees what is happening and who is doing what. He could see that I had it and he started running every play so that I could end up with the

The Rockets, who fell to 6-10 and 1-6 on the road, got 22 points from rookie Ralph Sampson, but only six of those came in the first quarter when Dallas pulled Rookie Rodney McCray added 16 points and 15 rebounds for Houston, while Caldwell Jones had 16 points.

"McCray had a great game. He slowed Aguirre down in the second half, but Aguirre still had 39 points," said Houston Coach Bill Fitch.

The Mavericks got 26 points and 11 rebounds from Rolando Blackman and 18 points and 10 rebounds from Pat Cummings to fight off a second-half rally by Houston, which cut the lead to three with 7:14 to play.

Next for the Mavericks is a month in which they will play 10 of 15 games on the road.

'We'll see what happens," Motta said.

Celtics 130, Spurs 106 At Boston, Larry Bird broke out of a six-game slump with 23 points, 14 rebounds and 13 assists as the Celtics whipped San Antonio.

Led by George Gervin, who scored 33 points, the Spurs tied the score 68-68 21/2 minutes into the second half, but the Celtics outscored them 32-16 in the rest of the third quarter. Boston went on to hand San Antonio its ninth straight road loss this season.

Bernard King helped New York stay on top at New Jersey after the Knicks lost most of a 19-point lead.

The Nets trailed 37-18 in the first period, but Otis Birdsong scored 13 of his 24 points in the fourth period to lead a rally that cut the deficit to 97-93 with 5:03 to go. But King, who scored 28 points, hit six of them during a 12-2 burst that rebuilt New York's advantage to 109-95.

Cavaliers 112, Trail Blazers

Cleveland, 5-12 overall, improved its home mark to 5-2 as World B. Free scored 34 points and Geoff Huston added two breakaway layups down the stretch against Portland.

The Cavaliers never trailed as Free had 21 points and Cliff Robinson 15 of his 26 in the first half. But the Trail Blazers, who got 24 points from Jim Paxson, rallied from a nine-point deficit for a 96-96 tie with 51/2 minutes left before Huston converted the two easy layups after blocked shots.

76ers 122, Hawks 110

Andrew Toney scored 18 of his 24 points during a 32-8 third-quarter onslaught that turned a close game into a rout at Philadelphia.

Atlanta led 61-59 with 21/2 minutes into the second half, but before the third period ended the 76ers were ahead 91-69. Eddie Johnson led the Hawks with 25 points, while Julius Erving had 24 for Philadelphia, which has won six games in a row. Kings 120, Suns 118

Larry Drew's layup with two seconds left lifted Kansas City past the Suns at Phoenix.

Drew, who scored 25 points, also had tied the game at 118-118 on a jumper with 38 seconds left. Eddie Johnson led all scorers with 29 points for the Kings, while Maurice Lucas and Walter Davis had 24 apiece for Phoenix.

Bucks 139, Nuggets 122 At Milwaukee, the Bucks beat Denver for their fourth straight victory as Sidney Moncrief scored 25 points and Marques Johnson 21.

Milwaukee scored 43 points in the second period to take an 80-64 halftime lead and coasted from there.

The Nuggets, who got 26 from Kiki points Vandeweghe, played without Coach Doug Moe, who was serving the first game of a two-game suspension for ordering the team not to play defense in the closing moments of a blowout loss. Jazz 117, Clippers 115

John Drew scored 27 points, including a tiebreaking threepoint play with 37 seconds remaining, to help Utah win at San Diego.

After Drew put the Jazz ahead 116-113, Bill Walton, who led the Clippers with a season-high 25 points, made two free throws with 14 seconds left. Jeff Wilkins completed the scoring by hitting a free throw with eight seconds to go.

Adrian Dantley scored 37 points to lead Utah, which trailed by as many as 13 points early in the fourth million for Holmes' mandatory defense against Page, the No. 1 contender. J. Bruce Miller, Page's attorney, said Canadian interests were prepared to go higher for a Holmes-Page fight. "If that's (purse money) the problem, we can do something about that," Miller said.

For Page's part, he is convinced that Holmes is ducking a showdown. "He's a coward," said Page. "He's afraid. I'll get a shot anyway, with or without Larry Holmes."

"I'm guaranteed this shot and I'm gonna get this shot," he said.

The question of Holmes' plans came up Tuesday night. He had scheduled a news conference for next Wednesday at his hotel in Phillipsburg, N.J. to criticize WBC officials over reports that they would declare the title vacant unless he signed to fight Page. Then the champ suggested he might use the occasion to announce his retirement. "It's not definite I will announce it next week, but if not, it will be in the very near future," Holmes told The Associated Press. "I told my wife in the ring (after his oneround knockout of Marvis Frazier last Friday night) that I was through. I told her again tonight (Tuesday) and she smiled."

But on Wednesday, he called off the press conference. Holmes, 34, is undefeated in 5 professional fights.

WBC President Jose Sulaiman said today in Tokyo he will ask Holmes to attend a WBC convention in Las Vegas next week to discuss the undefeated champion's defiance of WBC orders to fight Page. Sulaiman told the AP if Holmes does not fight Page within 90 days of the convention he will be stripped of his Kickoff is scheduled for 6 p.m. PST for the 47th meeting between the clubs in a series the Raiders lead 27-17-2.

Los Angeles, 10-3 and riding a four-game winning streak, can clinch the American Football Conference's Western Division title with a victory or a tie.

"We've got some momentum going and we want to keep winning," Flores said after a 27-12 thumping of the New York Giants on Sunday. "The first thing is to win the division championship. Next is the home field (advantage for the playoffs). We're not going to pull in our horns."

There'll be no horn-pulling in San Diego either, says tight end Kellen Winslow, who relishes the idea of delaying a Raider victory party.

B.C. has scare, rallies to win; 8th-ranked Houston tops Bulldogs

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

There's nothing like a little scare to test a man's mettle. Boston College's 15thranked Eagles got that scare Wednesday night when they trailed unheralded Maine 35-32 at halftime of their college basketball game. Rallying behind Jay Murphy, the Eagles pulled out a 73-61 victory despite being rebounded 16-7 in the first half.

"I think it's good to have a scare like this early in the season," B.C. Coach Gary Williams said. "They forced us to become a better rebounding team."

Farm cooperative turning a slight profit

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Farmland Industries, coming off a year of record operating losses, is turning a slight profit and well on its way to a "turnaround," the president of the nation's largest farm cooperative

"It was a tough year," Farmland President Kenneth A. Nielsen said Wednesday in a keynote speech to about 13,000 people attending the cooperative's annual meeting, which ends Friday. "But we have it behind us."

Nielsen acknowledged that a $12.4 million profit in fiscal 1983 was attributable to the sale in July of Farmland's oilexploration subsidiary, Terra Resources Inc., to Pacific Lighting Corp. for $371 million. He said Farmland operations lost $141.9 million

"We cannot be selfsatisfied about savings (the cooperative's term for profits) that result from a gain on assets sold, and ignore substantial losses for the year in continuing operations," Nielsen said. "Still, we do have a savings, and that signals the start of a turnaround."

Nielsen said Farmland's sales last year totaled $4.7 billion, down from $5.6 billion in 1982. The drop, to a large degree, reflected reduced grain sales by Farmland's marketing subsidiary, Far-

Mar-Co, Nielsen said. He said profits for the first quarter of fiscal 1984, which began Sept. 1, show a "dramatic" increase from the previous year. He said preliminary figures show Farmland earning a $5 million profit for the first quarter of this year, compared to a $19.4 million firstquarter loss last year.

Every business unit of Farmland is making a "solid recovery," said Nielsen, who last April took over the Kansas City-based cooperative, which has 500,000 members in Midwestern Southwestern states.

Nielsen said the "totally unacceptable" operating loss in 1983 was caused by reduced export demand, high rawmaterial costs and low wholesale prices, massive government set-aside programs that cut sales, and bad

Nevertheless, Nielsen said, Farmland has moved onto more stable financial ground by lowering its debt load dramatically through the sale other operations and offering members a $75 million preferred-stock plan intended to give the company a spurt of working capital.

"Farmland is leaner, and in some ways more conservative in its approach to business decisions," Nielsen said. "Distribution and administrative costs were $31 million less in 1983 than in

Nielsen stressed the challenge that the changing structure of agriculture poses for the cooperative system. To help meet those challenges, Nielsen said, Farmland has created task groups that will focus on technology, the overall economy, politics and other

THE PRISONER IN COMMAND OF THE SHIP!

No one had eaten for a long time, but finally Paul called the crew together and said,"Men, you should have listened to me in the first place and not left Fair Havens--you would have avoided all this injury and loss! But cheer up! Not one of us will lose our lives, even though the ship will go down. For last night an angel of the God to whom I belong and whom I serve stood beside me, and said, 'Don't be afraid, Paul--for you will surely stand trial before Caesar! What's more, God has granted your request and will save the lives of all those sailing with you.' So take courage! For I believe God! It will be just as He said! But we will be shipwrecked on an island."

About midnight on the 14th night of the storm, as we were being driven to and fro in the Adriatic Sea, the sailors suspected land was near. They sounded, and found 120 feet of water below them. A little later they sounded again, and found only 90 feet. At this rate they would soon be driven ashore; and fearing rocks along the coast, they threw out four anchors from the stern and prayed for daylight.

Some of the sailors planned to abandon the ship, and lowered the emergency boat as though they were going to put out anchors from the prow. But Paul said to the soldiers and commanding officer, "You will all die unless everyone stays aboard." So the soldiers cut the ropes and let the boat fall off. Acts 27:21-32

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Air and water pollution in this metropolis of 15 million people is reaching a critical point and harming the health of the city's residents, an environmental expert says.

Francisco Aceves Mendez, researrcher at the National Polytechnic Institute, cited the 500 tons of sulphur launched into the atmosphere daily along with other gases.

He noted that sulphur not only harms people but erodes the surface of stone buildings and statues.

In an interview published Tuesday in the Mexico City News, Aceves Mendez said 12,000 gallons of contaminated water are released into the city's sewage system every second and dumped eventually into rivers and lakes untreated.

MEXICO CITY (AP) -The government must take steps to keep the price of medicine within the reach of all Mexicans, an adviser to the Health Department say.

Dr. Mercedes Juan told a health and nutrition forum Monday that the Health Department plans to issue a list of essential drugs whose prices will be closely supervised. She said the list will be issued on Jan. 2.

She noted that pharmaceutical companies must import 50 percent of their raw materials and nearly 100 percent of the equipment they use in manufacturing drugs. She said the situation puts pressure on the companies to increase prices.

Go straight

Volunteers help probationers

AUSTIN (AP) - When Lorenzo Harton was convicted of forgery last year and put on probation for 10 years, he did not think he could go straight.

"I was on probation once before, and I got sent down. I figured I couldn't make it this time either," said Harton, who has a criminal record dating back 25 years.

But that was before the Travis County probation office assigned Harton, 38, to work with Mace Earls, a volunteer counselor. Since he began working with Earls, Harton has managed to stay out of trouble, and for the first time he sees a permanent change.

"I used to go out and drink, gamble, stuff like that," Harton said. "If I would not have started working with Mace, I might have ended up back" in

"I was messing with the wrong people."

Earls is one of 75 participants in the county volunteer probation program, which is designed to reduce the workload on probation officers. With more than 9,000 people in the county on probation, each officer is assigned from 230 to 270 probationers.

"We've found the volunteers have been able to give each probationer the kind of attention that an officer who has 250 probationers can't," said Cath Polito, volunteer coordinator.

The officer assigned to Harton, Yvonne Davis, has 252 other clients. With that large a caseload, she is able to spend 15 minutes each month

"Fifteen minutes isn't much time to deal with anything but the basics making sure he's not getting arrested, that he's working and maintaining a stable address," Ms. Davis said. "But Mace has been able to help him by dealing with the total individual."

In monthly, hour-long sessions, Earls and Harton talk about the importance of going to church and of Harton's staying away from his old, crime-prone friends. Earls also is coaching Harton, a mechanic, on how to pass the test to get a driver's license. Harton has been ticketed repeatedly for driving without a license.

Earls, who is retired, has been doing volunteer probation work since 1978 and counsels 20 probationers. He said he does it because he thinks he can get them on the right track.

Earls' work with the probationers extends beyond monthly office visits. He said he visits Harton at his home and both agree they have become good friends.

Harton said he finds it easier to deal with Earls because Earls works with him because he wants to, not because it is his job.

"I figure if he has the time to sit and talk to me, I'm accomplishing something," Harton said. "I really don't have anybody to sit down an talk to about anything besides committing a crime or something like that. Mace, I can talk to. Others I can't. I trust him."

"The volunteer doesn't represent the system," Ms. Davis said, "so they can work as a liaison between the officer and the individual."

said, "It's hard to make a client believe you are on their side and want to help them and at the same time say, 'I'll turn you in if you break your

Ms. Polito is recruiting volunteers. Although the county probation officers have a high rate of success -80 percent to 85 percent of clients successfully complete probation - the workload is becoming unmanageable. "With the influx of all these folks, particularly with the crackdown on DWIs, it would

VATICAN CITY (AP) -The Vatican today issued a major statement on sex which calls sexual relations outside marriage a "grave disorder" and urges court control of mass media to curb 'permissiveness and pornography.'

The Holy See also repeated its stand that parents remain primarily responsible for sex education and praised virginity for rendering "the heart more free to love God."

The teachings are contained in a document called 'Educational Guidance in Human Love." It is the product of a study initiated by Pope John Paul II and conducted by the Sacred Congregation for Catholic Educa-

Election Recap

AUSTIN - Since I have taken time over the last two months to explain every constitutional amendment on the ballot, I would like to recap what occurred in the November 8th election in which 10 of the 11 proposals were approved by

Most of the state's voters sat on their constitutional prerogatives since only about eigth per cent of the registered voters took the time to vote. One, to give veterans and fraternal groups exemptions from local property taxes, failed. I was extremely pleased that the proposed amendment that I sponsored for placement on the ballot allowing farmers groups and commodity associations to collect fees from growers and use the funds to market and promote agricultural products was approved. This is the single one thing that we as Texas voters could have done to help our struggling agricultural economy. It will provide the necessary funds to advance Texas food and fiber production and marketing through research, education and promotion. It won't cost the State of Texas a dime. The farmers will benefit by increasing their markets and it will in turn create new jobs for other segments of the economy. I believe that it puts us on a parity with other states which have long

Voters also allowed cities to relocate or replace sewer lines on private property and have owners repay over five years, removing the governor from the paroles and decision process expanding membership on the Board of Pardons and Paroles from three to six, garnishment of wages for child support, and drafting ex-legislators to fill in for those destroyed by a nuclear attack.

The State Attorney General said he intends to implement one of the amendments - wage garnishment - right away. noting that up to 25 per cent of Texas parents aren't paying child support right

The eight-day holiday commemorates the victory of the Jews over their Greek and Syrian rulers in the second century B.C., and the rededication of the Temple in Jerusalem after the war.

In Jerusalem, Ashkenazi Chief Rabbi Avraham Shapiro lit the first candle at sundown Wednesday at the Western Wall, the only visible remnant of the Temple. Ashkenazi Jews trace their heritage to middle and northern Europe, in contrast to Sephardic Jews whose ancestors settled in Spain and Portugal before the Inquisition.

The lighting preceded a swearing-in ceremony for recruits in the army's elite Golani Brigade, one of Israel's modern descendants of Judah the Maccabee's

In case of Sullivan

Legal questions arise

NEW YORK (AP) - The mysterious rumor about an alleged alibi raises interesting "what if" legal questions in the case of Robert Sullivan, the convicted murderer who was executed in Florida Wednesday. What if an unidentified Roman Catholic priest who is rumored to have heard a church confession that may have cleared Sullivan came forward? Would his testimony have been barred by the priest-penitent confidentiality privilege? Would it have been dismissed as hearsay? Or would it have been permitted under recent court rulings?

Sullivan was electrocuted for the 1973 shotgun slaying and robbery of the assistant manager of a suburban Miami restaurant, despite his claim of innocence. Sullivan contended he was drinking in a gay bar 40 miles away when the crime occurred, even though he had the victim's watch and credit cards when arrested.

The execution ended a decade of appeals - including a short-lived stay on Tuesday - that was capped by unsuccessful pleas on Sullivan's behalf before the U.S. Supreme Court and other federal and state courts. The execution also ended a series of extraordinary but unsuccessful appeals for leniency outside the court system by the Roman Catholic Church, including one relayed from Pope John Paul II to Florida Gov. Bob Graham. Last week, Bishop John J.

Snyder of St. Augustine, Fla., said he had been told that a Catholic priest had heard confession from a Boston man who claimed he had been drinking with Sullivan in a gay bar on the night of the murder; the man was allegedly afraid to come forward because he did not want his family to know he was a homosexual.

The bishop emphasized, however, that it was only a rumor. He said he did not know when or where the alleged confession took place or the identities of either the priest or confessor. The bishop also said he could not reveal how he had heard the rumor, but he insisted that no priest had violated the confidentiality of the confessional.

priest-penitent privilege is a traditional part of American law that says no clergy - including priests hearing confession - can testify in court about confidential conversations they have with people seeking religious counsel.

However, an Episcopal priest working at a Nebraska prison last year turned in a teen-age inmate who confided he had committed two murders. The teen-ager claimed he thought the conversation was confidential. But the priest said it was "counseling" rather than a confession and said he had warned the young man he might report it.

A traditional confidentiality privilege also applies to lawyer-client and husbandwife conversations, and about two-thirds of the states extend it to doctors and their patients, too.

Paul Rothstein, a Georgetown University professor who is one of the nation's foremost experts on criminal evidence, said there is another reason the testimony might not be allowed even if a priest who had heard the rumored confessional claim did come for-

"The other thing is it would be hearsay," Rothstein said. In this case, the rules of evidence would allow only a person actually at the bar drinking with Sullivan to be sworn in and offer such testimony; second-hand "he told me" versions are not regarded as reliable enough for a court of law.

Any testimony from the man who told the bishop about the rumored confessional alibi would have been twice-removed "double hearsay" and the bishop's testimony would have been thrice-removed "triple hear-

In a 1973 decision on a case appealed from Mississippi, the U.S. Supreme Court case approved the use of hearsay - another man's confession - to clear a man accused of a crime he did not commit.

Relief figures spark controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) -Department Agriculture has reduced by about two-thirds the amount of government-owned feed corn it says is available for a new drought relief program for livestock growers, prompting a charge that it is "footdragging" on the program.

The department announced Wednesday that 27.7 million bushels of the low-grade corn would be available for the program, compared with the more than 80 million bushels which agriculture officials had earlier said was on hand. "I think there is a problem, an error, a contradiction involved when they say some 50 million bushels have disappeared," said Jack Devore, a spokesman for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who sponsored legislation requiring the department to implement the emergency feed program.

Devore said that "it sounds to me like a continuation of their program of footdragging" on the drought relief legislation, which department officials had strongly opposed in Congress.

The program requires the department to sell the lowest three grades of corn - grades 4, 5, and sample - at reduced prices to livestock growers in counties declared disaster areas because of this year's drought.

Department officials said that ranchers and farmers could sign up for the program from December 6 through December 14 at their county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Agriculture Secretary John to receive, emergency R. Block had told Bentsen in a letter on November 1 that "currently, (the Commodity Credit Corporation) has in inventory in 27 states a little over 80 million bushels of corn that is U.S. No. 4 grade or lower." Block said about 21 million bushels of this were in

On November 15, during a Congressional committee meeting on the legislation, department officials said about 83 million bushels of such corn were available.

However, Merrill Marxman, a deputy administrator of the ASCS, said Wednesday that those figures were based on an inventory in August. He said a new inventory in just the past week had shown only 27.7 million bushels were available.

Marxman said the drop was because the corn had either been provided to farmers under the government's Payment-In-Kind (PIK) program or used as part of a corn exchange program with warehouses in connection with the PIK pro-

"That's how we ende up using a lot of this inventory,' said Marxman. "It's not a big surprise that you'd have that kind of drawdown."

Under the program, livestock growers can purchase the corn at 75 percent of the government's floor price for corn. However, they will have to pay for transporting the corn to their farms and ranches.

Gene Hemphill, a department spokesman, said that to receive the emergency feed, the livestock growers must have received, or be eligible

Farmers Home Administration loans. They also must show that their feed production is inadequate to maintain their foundation livestock and poultry for 90 days after they sign up, he said.

Hemphill said that of the 27.7 million bushels available for the program, 1.3 bushels were in Illinois, 6.1 million in Iowa, 3.7 million in Nebraska, 2.75 million in Minnesota and 10.7 million in Texas.

Marxman said when the 27.7 million bushels are used up, no more corn will be available for the program. He said county ASCS offices would decide ways of determining who got the available corn.

Devore said the 10.7 million bushels the department now says are located in Texas would be enough to meet the needs of livestock growers in West Texas, which has been particularly hard hit by the drought.

But he said that "I think the (department's) numbers are wrong, and I'm very puzzled

Devore said a recent department inspection at a large grain storage facility in Plainview, Texas, had found that there were about 3 million more bushels of lowgrade corn on hand than shown in an earlier inven-

"It doesn't make sense that the amount (actually on hand) is rising while the inventory (cited by the department) is falling," he said.

The program was required under a provision of a dairy and tobacco support bill signed into law on Tuesday by President Reagan.

Trying to gain weight

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 27-year-old man, 5-foot-9, and weigh 130 pounds. For the past year, I have been trying to gain weight. I "eat like a horse," but my weight never seems to increase more than five pounds.

I took a non-prescription drug to promote weight gain, but I find that the increased appetite lasts only a few days.

I took tests to see if anything was wrong with my system, but they were negative. My doctor says I am one of those people who will aways be thin and he refuses to help in this situation (he is constantly dieting himself). I am becoming quite self-con-scious about being thin and would like to put on 10 or 20 pounds. Is there anything you can suggest?

DEAR READER — A lot of young men of your height do not weigh a lot more than you do. If you gained weight simply by eating more calories, you would be fat, and that would not be good for your health.

You probably want to develop more muscle. The key to that is the right kind of exercise along with a proper diet.

The most common mistake is tryng to do too much. To develop a muscle, it should be worked one day to stimulate it and rested the next day to permit growth. Recent studies show that muscle cannot synthesize new protein when it is being worked. So if you work your muscles a lot every day, they will not grow.

Mrs. Al Smith, Melvin Smith, Rosemary Smithers, Kimberly Tijerina, Vicky Varner, Elizabeth Wilson.

You need to concentrate on strength training rather than endurance exercises while you are trying to increase your muscle size. I used to recommend that you do strength exercises one day and endurance exercises the next, but in view of new studies, I think it is best to concentrate on strength exercises on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. After you have developed your muscles, you can add endurance exercises.

The best method to develop muscles is outlined in The Health Letter 5-4, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You also need to consume more calories than your body uses with your exercise program. About 100 grams of good-quality protein in your diet should be enough to support your muscle

DEAR DR. LAMB - Can you tell me how many calories are needed by a 34-yearold man who runs three miles a day, is 5-foot-11 and weighs 150 pounds? He eats very little, misses meals, falls prey to virus infections and frequently has fevers of 102. He is a prime candidate for anorexia due to his misunderstanding of a runner's proper diet and calorie

DEAR READER - There are some reports of runners at their peak of performance who were quite lean and died unexpectedly. The possibility is that an inadequate intake of calories for their needs as a runner may have led to fatal heart irregularities while resting. It is the same problem we see in starvation for any reason.

The man you speak of probably uses about 100 calories a mile more than he would if he were sitting still, or 300 calories a day. The range of calories required for a man of this age, height and weight is from 2,300 to 3,100 calories a day, so he probably needs around 3,000 calories a day. But how many calories a person needs is judged on the basis of body fat, symptoms such as fatigue and indications of general good health, not just calories.

Horsemen flock to Texas

(AP) DALLAS legalizing parimutuel betting in Texas is at least two years from reality - if at all - but you couldn't tell it in the rolling, wooded hills straddling the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolis. Horse breeders and trainers from other parts of the country have flocked to North Texas over the past decade, horsemen say, and many more will follow if Texas legalizes parimutuel wagering.

Many of the country's leading horsemen are now here and in Oklahoma. Rural roads running north of the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport through Denton County toward the Red River and Oklahoma are lined with farms breeding and training cutting and show horses as well as thoroughbreds and racing quarterhorses.

"This is really horse country," said Dan Fick, executive director of the Oklahoma Horse Racing Commission and former president of the American Quarterhorse Association. "Many of your major breeders live in Texas, although they race in other Gail Cooper, who owns the

440 ranch about 35 miles north of Dallas, has 400 horses on two farms totaling 800 acres, the third largest Horsemen's dreams of breeding operation in the nation and the biggest outside Kentucky.

"This area has turned into nothing but horse farms," Cooper said.

"I wouldn't relocate the 440 anywhere in the world," he said. "I think we'll see parimutuel betting in Texas. When that happens I want to be sitting right here."

Although figures are not available on how many farms and horses there are in the region, Cooper estimates the number of farms has doubled in the past three years.

"We have people from the North moving in like crazy," said Kelli Proctor, a spokeswoman for the Texas Quarterhorse Association. "They're all wanting to get where the action is."

Part of the reason for the influx is the number of race tracks and their purses in surrounding horsemen say. Another reason is the mild climate. But at least as important, says Cooper, is the amount of money wealthy Dallas-Fort Worth area residents are starting to invest in horses.

Many are just discovering the investment potential, Cooper said.

There are a lot of people out there that like the depreciation of a horse and the earning potential of a horse," Cooper said. "There are a lot of places with good climates.'

North Texas has also drawn a large number of breeders and trainers from the Far West, California and Arizona in particular, Ms. Proctor said.

from Phoenix and the West Coast," she said. "It couldn't have anything to do with the weather, except they want to be closer to everything. The All-America Futurity

We have a lot of them at Ruidoso, N.M., every Labor Day weekend is the nation's richest quarterhorse race, with a purse of $2.5 million, $1 million of which goes to the winner. Texas has always had the largest population of quarterhorses in the nation, since the breed gained its dominance on the ranches of the Southwest and Texas.

But the registered population of quarterhorses has nearly doubled in the past decade, from 169,000 in 1973 to 311,000 last year, and has more than quadrupled since 1963 when the state had 72,000.

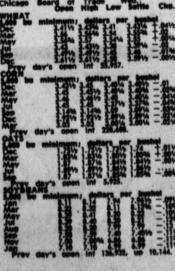

B.F. Phillips, who owns a farm north of Dallas near Frisco, says the influx in North Texas is continuing.

"The cost and price of land is still going up," he said. "So apparently they still must be moving in."
