

Reagan Breaking His Campaign Promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's call for an unprecedented 10 percent cut in Social Security benefits by 1986 sets up a major test in Congress amid charges that he is making a "wholesale assault on the economic security of America's elderly."

and — eventually — lower payroll taxes to save the Social Security system from going bankrupt inside two years. Benefits for those now in the system would be preserved, although the administration wants to postpone next year's scheduled cost-of-living increase.

The plan outlined Tuesday proposes to save nearly $53 billion by 1986 by cutting disability checks, early retirement and other benefits. At the same time, restrictions that penalize people over 65 for working would be eased, at a cost of $6.5 billion. About $24 billion of the cuts would come by slicing benefits of future retirees. No American president has tried that before, and Reagan's proposal immediately elicited charges that he was breaking campaign pledges and tearing a hole in the safety net that the administration claims to have strung together for the poor and the elderly. Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., the 80-year-old chairman of the House Select Committee on Aging, deplored the proposal as "nothing short of a wholesale assault on the economic security of America's elderly population."

"The president has betrayed his own campaign promises and has broken faith with current and future retirees by proposing massive reductions in Social Security benefits which older people have counted on and earned by their contributions to the system," he said. Reagan proposed an across-the-board 10 percent cut in the way future benefits are figured by reducing the replacement ratio — or how much of a worker's last paycheck is replaced by his first benefits check. The low-income worker would receive 50 percent of his final earnings, compared with 55 percent now. For the average worker, the replacement rate would drop from 41 percent to 37 percent or 35 percent. And, for the worker paying the maximum Social Security tax, the replacement rate would decrease from 26 percent to 25 percent. The administration also envisions rebating the long-term savings to workers and their employers in the form of lower payroll taxes in 1989 and beyond. Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. # Sparks Flying Over Redistricting Plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — U.S. Rep. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, has accused the House redistricting committee of "gerrymandering" his district and drew an angry response when he called the panel's work "a dog and pony show." The committee's chairman, Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, had planned for the committee to pass out a congressional remap Tuesday night but delayed the vote until today when he could not hold a quorum.

and leaves him only four of his present counties. Patman, who until January was a state senator on the opposite side of the political fence from Von Dohlen and Davis, complained Bexar County — which he has not represented before — would make up half the district's population. The district, he said, was "gerrymandered." Patman agreed with a spokesman for Mexican-American groups that the committee was trying to rush out a redistricting plan without giving the public time to see it and react to it. The plan was made public Monday night.

When Patman tried to ask Von Dohlen a question, Von Dohlen cut him short. "Congressman, when I come to Washington, you can ask me the questions. I'm on the other side of the table now," Von Dohlen said, glaring at Patman. Patman then referred to the committee "holding these dog and pony shows" and said people should have a chance to participate in the redistricting process. "Don't just cram it down their throats."

"I resent calling the activities of this committee and the chairman a dog and pony show when we've seen the folly of Congress that has led us to the point of bankruptcy," said Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline. Von Dohlen lives in the district proposed for Patman, but denied Monday night that he wants to run against Patman for Congress.

HISD Okays Contracts, Title I Budget

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
The Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees last night approved the Title I funds application for the next school year and voted to renew contracts with the Region 16 Educational Service Center as they met in regular session at the administration building.

school's vocational programs, and discussing the suspension of a student. Ed McCreary presented the 1981-82 proposed Title I budget to the board last night. The budget for the next year was set at $380,582, well under the $496,317 allocated for the current school year. McCreary said the drastic decrease was due to government regulations. "President Reagan imposed a 25 percent hold on funds last month," McCreary said. "That's why we are showing the decreased budget." McCreary said that the school district will basically be able to do the same things they have in the past with Title I funds with the transfer of three teachers, who are normally funded through Title I, to coverage under state compensatory funds next year to offset the cutback. The Title I application is due by May 31. A total of 928 students were served by the program in the HISD this year under three priority needs of reading, math, and bilingual education establishments. (See SCHOOL, Page 2A)

Kiwanians Announce Officers

Hereford Kiwanis Club held elections of officers and directors during last week's noon meeting. The new slate of officers for the year 1981-82 are President, Jim Simon; President Elect, Steve Nieman; Vice-Presidents, Bill Bankston and John Stagner; Secretary, Raymond Davis; Treasurer, Jimmy Rowton. New directors elected were: Lloyd Ames, Larry Pagetti, Gerry Hollinger, Gene Brock, Waldo Baxter and Ed Coplen. The new officers and directors will take office Oct. 1, 1981.

Pope John Paul Shot

VATICAN CITY, AP - Pope John Paul II was shot twice in the side Wednesday as he rode into St. Peter's Square for a general audience before an estimated 10,000 people and was rushed to a Rome hospital, the Vatican said. His condition was not immediately known. A young man with a pistol reportedly was arrested.

The Italian news agency ANSA said the pope had been hit by two bullets in the side of his pancreas and that he was standing on his jeep near the Vatican post office between St. Peter's Basilica and the famous Bernini collanade. Chief Vatican spokesman The Rev. Romeo Panciroli confirmed the pope had been hit twice in his side. Italian television reported two women were also injured, but there was no confirmation of that. The television said it was not certain whether the women were injured by pistol fire or hurt in the ensuing panic. Italian police sources said police in the square arrested (See POPE, Page 2A)

Three Industrial Arts Students Take Best In State Awards

Hereford High School Industrial Arts students took top honors at the State Industrial Arts Contest recently held at Waco. HHS won three of six Best-in-Division awards which are given statewide for machine woodworking. To compete in State contest, students must have been regional winners of the Panhandle Industrial Arts Contest held at West Texas State University. HHS students won the three top awards for woodworking projects in their respective divisions, which are differentiated by the number of board feet in each project. HHS had never won a plaque for a Best-in-Division award, so the three top honors attained this year stand as testaments to the achievements of the students and the industrial arts program at the high school. In the largest division, Herbert Carrillo won the Best-in-State award for his octagonal-shaped waterbed made from walnut wood. Carrillo earlier had won the Best-in-Division plaque at the Regional contest.

In another division, Scott Daniels won the Best-in-Division statewide with his exquisite grandfather clock, also made of walnut. David Dudding also won the Best-in-State Divisional award for his three table grouping. Dudding also made his two end tables and a coffee table out of walnut. In addition to the top Divisional winners, Hereford High School netted several classification winners. They are: Martin Paetzold, first place; Mike Martinez, first place; Glenn Devers, first place; John Josseland, first place; Tony Rodriguez, second place; Chris Kahlic, first place; Mike Spangler, first place; and Julian Lucero, first place. Also Herbert Carrillo, first place; Scott Daniels, first place; Ernest Alonzo, third place; and Doug Warren, first place. And Steve Bartles, third place; Bartels, first place in metals; Bert Wofford, first place in photography; and Jack McKnight, first place in metals.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says an egotist is someone who is never in doubt, but often in error. We heard a story about a traveler who was marooned in a town because of a landslide caused by a heavy rain, which was still falling in torrents after three days. Looking out of the window of a restaurant, he remarked to the waitress: "This is like the flood." "The what?" "The flood, surely you have heard about the great flood and Noah and the Ark?" "Mister," she replied, "I haven't seen a paper in four days!" A bunch of folks in Hereford ignored the observance of Beautification Week the first of this month, and it's a real shame. All it takes is a drive down any of our major streets to see that participation in the clean-up, fix-up, paint-up campaign did not meet with overwhelming response. Just a little weed-cutting would help the community's appearance tremendously. Many business places along the entrances to our city have unsightly weeds growing in front of their buildings. It's not too late. Let's tidy up, Hereford! Hereford has been fortunate for many years in the caliber (See BULL, Page 2A)

Local Students Get Urinalysis Screening

The school children of Hereford Independent School District in grades kindergarten through sixth, and students from St. Anthony's School, recently had the opportunity to participate in a urinalysis screening project for early detection of kidney disease among school age children. Some 2,636 pupils were tested and 11.5 percent gave a positive reaction, which indicated the possibility of some abnormality. The screening was conducted by the National Kidney Foundation of West Texas, which is located in Amarillo. Prior to the testing each child took home a permission slip that allowed him to participate in the screening. Also included on the slip was a statement that suggested the parents that their child to their family physician if any abnormalities were indicated after the screening. No charge for the initial screening was made to the family or the school district. Ed McCreary, director of Federal Programs, coordinated the program for the HISD with Jelaine Workman, administrative assistant for the Kidney Foundation. Kidney and urinary tract diseases affect more than 13 million American men, women and children, and continue to be a major cause of work loss and school absenteeism. The mortality rate due to kidney disease is 54,000 annually. More people die of kidney disease each year than are killed in traffic accidents. ## Brand Renominated For Prison Board

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Sen. Hector Uribe says he will have to hear testimony before he decides if he will back Gov. Bill Clements' decision to renominate McAllen Mayor Othal Brand to the Texas Board of Corrections.

"As of now I am not a sponsor of Brand, not yet," the Brownsville Democrat told reporters Tuesday.

Clements withdrew his previous appointment to the government body of the state prison system on April 27 after Brand became embroiled in a controversy involving videotapes showing McAllen police beating prisoners.

McAllen voters reelected Brand on Saturday in a heated runoff race.

Civil rights lawyers protested the Brand nomination when first sent to the Senate by Clements. They called for further investigation of Brand's role in the alleged police misconduct, and the destruction of videotapes of violence in the McAllen Police station.

The films were made by the McAllen Police for use as possible evidence in lawsuits against the department.

Before the Brand nomination was withdrawn, Uribe asked for a delay in order to review evidence — including the videotapes — in a federal civil rights suit pending against McAllen.

Brand asked that his name be withdrawn because, he said, his runoff campaign would prevent an delayed appearance before the Senate nominating subcommittee.

A federal grand jury in McAllen also is looking into the case.

Senate Turns Down Non-Partisan Judges

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Senators indicated Tuesday they don't think Texas is ready for non-partisan election of judges.

By a 4-vote margin the Senate refused to take up and debate the bill recommended by the Texas Judicial Council.

The bill by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, would require that judges from the district level to the state supreme court be nominated in non-partisan elections without identification to party ties. The bill would not affect justices of peace, municipal judges, and regular country judges.

"Who's going to count these non-partisan votes that are cast in the Democratic and Republican primaries?" demanded Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas. "Would we have to have a non-partisan canvassing board to count the votes?"

"You would just eliminate any party consideration in selecting the best candidates in their party for judicial jobs," said Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas.

Only 11 states, including Texas, still select their judges at the regular party primaries along with other local and state officials, said Farabee.

Vickie Daniel May Receive Food Stamps

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP)—Vickie Daniel, who recently won a bitter courtroom fight with the family of her dead husband for custody of her two small sons, is receiving food stamps and has applied for child welfare payments, her sister says.

Mrs. Daniel, who is accused in the Jan. 19 slaying of her husband, former Texas House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., gets $185 a month in food stamps, her sister, Rita Steadham, said Tuesday.

Mrs. Daniel's sister-in-law, Jean Daniel Murphy of Richardson, is executor of her brother's estate and filed the civil suit for custody of Franklin Baldwin Daniel, 3, and Marion Price Daniel, IV, 1. A Liberty County jury decided last month to allow Mrs. Daniel to keep custody of the two children born during the Daniels' stormy four-year marriage.

"If Jeanie is so concerned about the welfare of those boys, why has she given Vickie only $50 since January? I wouldn't call her concerned," Mrs. Steadham said.

ed by study groups.

Another ramification of the decreased funding by the Reagan cut will be the disbursement of a surplus of around $70,000 in Title I funds, which will be used up next year.

Ray Barber, Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) Director at HHS, presented a curriculum report in the school's vocational program to the board. Barber reported that there were five vocational programs at HHS, including the Ag program, CVAE, VOE, ICT, DE. Students in those programs receive training in 104 occupational areas.

Barber reported that 31 students had taken projects to the district level with 10 qualifying for state competition.

The board reviewed the personnel report, with nine staff members tendering resignations, and 10 recommended for employment.

Resignations included HHS principal Ron Geyer and Stanton teachers Wanda Johnson and Martha Jo Roberts; La Plata teacher Gayle Thompson; Juanita Montemayor of Northwest; Donna Taylor and Sharon Crawford of Shirley; and special education teachers Jeanette Ramey and Daulma Stribling.

Recommended for employment were Janice Welch at Aikman; Nancy Stanfield at Northwest; Kathy Morris and Don Noll at La Plata; Suzanne Duvall and Susan Grimsley at Stanton; Monty Adams at HHS; Margaret Bell in special education; and Frances Farr and Juana Valdez, unassigned.

The board revealed committee assignments last night with the following chairmanships announced: Curriculum, R.C. Hoelscher; Personnel and Policy, Bill Townsend; Community Relations, Sallie Strain; Budget and Salary, James Gentry; Pupil Services, Tom Simons; Insurance, Paul Ramirez; and Long Range Planning, David Hutchins.

Each board member serves as chairman for one standing committee and serves as a committee member of two other committees as well.

During standard reports the following comments were made:

Enrollment—Larry Wartes reported the current enrollment in the district at 5,063, under the 5,101 at this time a year ago and 40 below the 5,093 reported last month. The total includes 2,324 elementary students, 1,146 junior high students, and 1,080 at the high school. Also included are 460 four and five-year-old kindergarten students and 43 special education students.

Cafeteria—Wartes reported participation "still good" with 3,393 lunches served in April out of a daily average attendance of 4,810.

Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder reported that an increase in lunch process may be forthcoming with the removal of a 16 cents per lunch subsidy by the federal government as a part of the budget cuts proposed by the president. Current cost of lunches in the system are 90 cents at HHS, 85 cents at secondary schools, and 75 cents at elementary schools.

Tax Office—Deaf Smith County Tax District chief appraiser Fred Fox reported total tax collections at $2,703,731.99 for the year, with some $3,381.55 in delinquent taxes collected in April. Fox reported that the total collected represents about 90.5 percent of the taxes to be collected for the 1981 year, and is "within one percent of where we were at this time last year."

In other matters last night the board turned down a request from an Amarillo radio station to use the high school auditorium for a "free concert," and were given a review of Texas Assessment of Basic Skills (TABS) testing done with local students by Dr. Holder.

The superintendent told the board that the test allows the district to pinpoint weaknesses in instructional programs and allows for correction by placing more emphasis on weak areas of learning.

A complete report on the TABS will be presented at the June board meeting.

All seven board members were present at the meeting last night.

Schweiker maintained that the Reagan administration's plan could save Social Security from going broke.

"Everybody keeps asking questions as if we had a fund that went through the ceiling and could pay everybody everything," he said. "We're trying to stop the old lady from having no check at all."

Social Security faces twin fiscal crises: a short-term shortfall in its old age and survivors' trust fund, which could be depleted as early as the fall of 1982, and a far more serious imbalance 30 to 40 years from now when the post-World War II "baby boom" generation hits retirement age.

Dole described Reagan's overall approach as "an important alternative to the options currently before Congress," including raising the minimum age for full benefits from 65 to 68.

Sen. Bill Armstrong, R-Colo., chairman of the Senate Finance subcommittee on Social Security, said: "President Reagan has shown the political wisdom to tackle the long-range problem."

Pickle said the Reagan plan may be neither enough nor the final solution.

If Reagan's program were adopted, he said, Social Security may "be on thin ice and...we may still need an infusion of money into the fund."

"But I don't think either the subcommittee or the administration is locked into any one approach," he added. "There are no easy answers on Social Security and we will be working hard together to protect this program on a bipartisan basis."

Social Security Commissioner John Svahn said the cuts in early retirement benefits are intended to remove "the financial incentive" that now leads most American workers to retire before age 65.

of people it has attracted to fill city commission, school board, hospital board and commissioner court seats. But, perhaps their biggest challenge is yet to come.

With the crush of inflation and the escalating expenses involved in operations, governmental units could be tempted to seek massive amounts of additional funds.

With the state-mandated property reappraisal that requires reassessing of property at 100 percent of its market value, some cities have gone overboard on increasing tax revenue. Government entities should strive for fairness and equity in taxing policies, but they should also be just and reasonable in applying the tax rates to the new values.

Hereford and Deaf Smith County were a step ahead of most places in the state in equalizing the tax burden. We trust and believe that local entities will continue to show common sense in establishing rates that will give them a reasonable return to carry on the business of city and county government, health and education in a manner to which we're accustomed.

Mexican-Americans.

"We view this as an attempt by the committee to purposely discriminate against minorities in this state," Noriega said.

"Mr. Noriega knows full well his organization has had every input. ... I personally resent anything in the record that indicates that is not the case," Von Dohlen said.

The committee record is important since Texas is covered by the U.S. Voting Rights Act. Von Dohlen has said that each step of the process must be documented to show there was no attempt to dilute the voting strength of minorities.

Several blacks from Dallas protested the carving of a 65 percent minority district that includes the home of U.S. Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas. They said they feared the result would be the defeat of Frost, who is white.

Isaac Jackson of Dallas said the "Dallas black community has influence over two congressmen" now, Frost and U.S. Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas.

"Martin Frost is highly respected and considered to have a bright future. It would be a crime if the Texas Legislature put his career in jeopardy," Jackson said.

Davis said it was an "almost overwhelming conclusion," however, that Frost "would have no risk of loss" in the minority district proposed by Davis and Von Dohlen.

John Price of Dallas, chairman of the Coalition for Minority Representation, endorsed the plan, however, saying "minorities in Dallas County as a whole can live with it."

Senators also have a congressional redistricting plan, which is expected to pass next week. The final district lines — if any come out of this legislative session — almost certainly will be written by a House-Senate conference committee.

The legislative session ends June 1, leaving less than three weeks for redistricting congressional seats and the Legislature.

Says Wheat Growers Official

West Texas Farmers May Come Out Losers

Not everybody is happy about forecasts of a record Texas wheat harvest — in fact, a Texas Wheat Growers Association official says West Texas farmers are going to come out big losers.

Executive officer Bill

Nelson said Tuesday that most of the 179.2 million bushels of winter wheat the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service is expecting will come from farmers who aren't usually wheat farmers at all.

Nelson said in a telephone interview from his Amarillo office Tuesday that many cotton and soybean growers in Central and East Texas put in wheat crops in the fall after last year's drought burned their regular crops.

The result, Nelson said, is a glut on the market. And the West Texas farmer, battling dry weather and 100 million bushels of wheat that ordinarily would not be on the market, will be especially hard-hit.

"The area we consider the commercial wheat area in Texas is north and west of Wichita Falls," Nelson said. "About 85 percent of the crop is usually grown in that area. This year, about 45 percent of the crop is growing there."

Unlike their West Texas counterparts, Central and East Texas farmers have had what Nelson called "ideal weather" all spring. Even thunderstorms that pelted North Texas with hail last week didn't make a substantial dent in the crop, said Fred Bursey, vice president in charge of grain and traffic for Morrison Milling in Denton.

The result, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock

Reporting Service, is a crop expected to be about 25 percent larger than the old record.

But increased supply is no advantage if demand remains the same, Nelson said. Compounding that problem, it also appears that the supply will reach the market all at once.

"Most of that (Central Texas crop) will not go into the loan rate reserve system because of a lack of storage facilities and the need of farmers to recover from their cotton failures last year," Nelson said.

"That's a lot of grain for the market to absorb at one time," he added.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service predicts a yield of 57 million bushels from that area this June, down from 63 million last year, and 1980 was not a good year.

Fewer acres are planted in wheat in the Panhandle this year. Nelson blames that on the rising cost of irrigation and on dry weather last fall that prevented planting.

"We had inadequate moisture when we sowed our wheat and we never had enough since," Nelson said.

He said what crop there is may not last if the rains don't start soon.

"A field can go from looking almost like a bumper crop one day to being plowed under the next."

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

How safe are you if you should happen to have a fire at your home or business? Most of us feel pretty secure that if we have a fire, the firemen will be there, in short order, doing all that can possibly be done. We have very dedicated firemen, that give many hours of their time each week-free gratis! All they get is thanks and a good feeling, that they have done something to help hometown people have a safer place to live.

As of late they have had a problem which is beyond their control. Twice they have hooked up to a fire hydrant, only to have it rise out of the ground when it was turned on. They lose valuable time, when time is of the essence! They have to lay hose to another fire hydrant. All of this time the fire is still burning, which causes a greater fire loss and your insurance goes up with it!

How many more fire hydrants are in the same condition? Do they leak and will not open properly, are they the right height for a hook up — are they hidden by overgrown weeds?

Who is responsible for the checking and maintenance of the fire hydrants? Evidently they haven't been checked lately! Is the one near your home or business in working order? It could be your property next time?

prehended a young man who reportedly shot at the pontiff with a pistol. The sources said the man did not speak Italian, and that they did not know his nationality.

Vatican Radio said the pontiff had been driven through St. Peter's Square in his jeep and was about to leave the jeep to start a general audience when shots were heard at about 5:25 p.m. - 11:25 a.m. EDT.

The pontiff collapsed into the arms of his aides as the jeep returned inside the Vatican at high speed, the radio said.

Seconds later an ambulance followed by a car with Vatican dignitaries carried the pope to the Gemelli Policlinic, Rome's most modern hospital.

A few minutes after the shooting the loudspeaker which broadcasts over St. Peter's Square announced that the pope had been wounded.

The voice on the loudspeaker asked the crowd to pray for the pope by reciting the Our Father prayer and the Ave Maria.

John Paul, the former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Poland, became pope in the fall of 1978 at the age of 58 — the first non-Italian pope in 455 years.

The pontiff quickly became history's most widely traveled pope. His ninth and longest trip, in February, took him to Pakistan, Japan, Guam and the Philippines.

Shortly before the pope's arrival in Karachi, Pakistan, a home made grenade exploded at a stadium where he was to celebrate Mass. The man carrying the grenade was killed.

Extraordinary security was in effect in Manila, where Pope Paul VI survived an assassination attempt in 1970 by a knife-wielding Bolivian judged later to be deranged.

Two Thefts Reported To Hereford Police

Hereford police received two theft reports Tuesday, and are investigating reports of two obscene phone calls and are looking into a preliminary missing persons report.

A lawn sprinkler was taken from a residence at 318 Ave. J. Value of the missing sprinkler was set at just over $20. And someone took oil caps from two vehicles from a residence at 137 Nueces.

An attempted burglary at 809 Baltimore was reported yesterday. According to the report the attempt to get into the house through a bedroom window had apparently been made some two days ago.

Truman Ivey, 508 Sampson, found a youth using the phone at his residence, and the youth fled the scene when discovered. Ivey said the youth apparently crawled through a window to gain access to the house.

The HPD investigated one minor wreck at the intersection of Park Avenue and Highway 385 Tuesday, and issued six traffic citations.

General Says Soviets 'Ready'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A high Pentagon intelligence officer says the Soviet Union is spending at least $2.3 billion a year on civil defense to ensure it could survive a nuclear attack.

Air Force Maj. Gen. James E. Brown, deputy director for Joint Chiefs of Staff Support, Defense Intelligence Agency, said Tuesday that the Soviets have placed Army Gen. Aleksandr Altunin in charge of 115,000 fulltime civil defense personnel to assure survival of the Soviet leadership, military capability and key industrial capacity in a nuclear war.

"In sum, Soviet strategic forces are structured to fight, survive and win a nuclear war," Brown told a national defense seminar at Fort Sam Houston.

"The Soviets have made it clear they reject the Western doctrine of mutually incurred destruction, and reject the notion that nuclear war is suicide."

The Soviet strategic defense capability includes 10,000 surface to air missiles, 6,000 air surveillance radars and 2,600 interceptor aircraft, Brown added.

He warned that a Soviet military buildup will continue to create strategic imbalances with the United States in the 1980s unless checked by "verifiable" strategic arms limitation agreements or increases of U.S. defense capabilities.

Soviet military spending has increased at least 3 percent per year over the last decade while U.S. defense spending dropped by a total of 11 percent over the same period, Brown said. The USSR spends 13 percent of its gross national product on defense, while the United States spends only 5 percent, he added.

In the three-hour presentation to local military personnel and members of patriotic organizations, Brown showed slides of new missiles, aircraft, aircraft carriers, guided missile submarines and tanks to emphasize the expansion of Soviet military might in recent years.

The Soviet Union now has 1,400 intercontinental ballistic missiles deployed in five systems, he said, plus a "vast system" of 450 medium range and 180 new intermediate range missiles aimed at targets against Western Europe, the Middle East, China and Japan.

"In the strategic area, efforts by the Soviets have brought them from a position of clear inferiority to one of superiority in many areas of capabilities," the intelligence expert said.

So strong is the Soviet capability that, "under certain conditions the temptation may arise for the Soviets to attempt a first strike attack to disarm a portion of the United States. This development of Soviet IBMs represents the potential destabilizing factor in the strategic balance which must be restrained by verifiable SALT agreements or countered by positive U.S. actions."

Besides an arsenal of missiles, some of which can strike U.S. targets from aboard submarines maneuvering in Soviet waters, Brown said the Russians have back-fire bombers capable of striking targets in the United States with gravity bombs and air-to-surface missiles without refueling.

"The back-fire is capable of delivering weapons anywhere in the United States without refueling. With refueling, it can bomb virtually all of the United States," he said.

Bess Truman's Condition Serious

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former first lady Bess Truman remained in serious condition today at a Kansas City hospital, where she is battling pneumonia and other complications of surgery last week to repair a broken hip.

Helen Roush, a nursing supervisor at Research Medical Center, said early this morning that the 96-year-old widow of President Harry S. Truman was resting comfortably in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Mrs. Truman's physician, Dr. Wallace Graham, reported Tuesday that she had developed pneumonia, despite continued use of a broad range of antibiotics designed to prevent fluids from collecting in her lungs.

However, Mrs. Truman was fighting off complications she suffered Monday when her kidneys functioned at roughly a third of capacity and her heart rate and blood pressure fluctuated.

"This is not a true bacterial pneumonia," Graham said of the latest complication. "But fluid has accumulated in the lungs and therefore she is not breathing as deeply as she should."

Jim Rice, a hospital spokesman, said late Tuesday night that Mrs. Truman was receiving antibiotics and respiratory treatments "to clear her lungs and help her breathe more fully."

A respiratory specialist said hypostatic pneumonia was not uncommon among post-operative patients, especially elderly ones, and is not as serious as bacterial pneumonia — although it can develop into the more serious phase.

"We want her to give us some good, husky coughs," said Graham, the Truman family physician since 1945. "But you have to understand that when you're 96 years old and in a weakened condition, this is hard to do."

"Her spirits are terrific," he added. "We asked her to wiggle her toes and she thought that was funny and giggled. She is also enjoying the flowers she has received and asked me to bring one close so that she could smell it."

"We are not fearful," said Graham, "just extraordinarily cautious."

Mrs. Truman "remains in quite serious condition at a critical stage," he said.

President and Mrs. Reagan sent a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Truman, with the note, "Our prayers and our best thoughts are with you," Sheila Tate, Mrs. Reagan's spokesman, said Tuesday.

Mrs. Truman has been in intensive care since her surgery Thursday.

Fed Agents Seize Weapons, Jetliner Bound for Africa

HOUSTON (AP) — Customs agents who stormed an Austrian-registered Boeing 707 at Houston's Intercontinental Airport arrested six foreign nationals, seized the jetliner and confiscated a cache of more than 2,200 military weapons bound for South Africa, authorities said.

The weapons, including automatic rifles and grenade launchers, were being transferred from a truck to the cargo hold of the jetliner when about two dozen agents rushed the plane Tuesday, said U.S. Customs spokesman Charles Conroy.

He said two men from England and the four-member Austrian flight crew were taken in to custody and will be charged in federal court early today with violations of the Neutrality Act.

Rocky Rothgeb, the local agent in charge of the Federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau said customs officials have asked his agency to investigate whether any firearms violations are involved.

The arrest capped a three-week investigation and "represents the biggest seizure of weapons ever made by the customs service," said Conroy, who estimated the value of the lethal contraband at $1.2 million.

Conroy said agents had tracked the truckload of American-made arms from Hartford, Conn.

The cache included 636 automatic M-16 military rifles, magazine clips, ammunition, .38-caliber handguns and .357-caliber pistols, Conroy said.

The weapons, still in wooden crates, were manufactured by Colt and purchased in Connecticut with a letter of credit issued by a European bank, said Conroy.

He said the suspects carried a false U.S. State Department license permitting the export of munitions of war.

The intended use of the weapons was not immediately clear, but an investigation may turn up more details, said Conroy.

Committee Says Wood Case Near Solution

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The head of a committee that posted a $100,000 reward in the Judge John H. Wood Jr. assassination investigation says the FBI is near a solution in the case and that one or more persons have qualified for the money.

"I can report to you today that one or more persons have provided the FBI with information which will, in its judgment, lead to successful prosecutions in the Wood case," attorney Sam D. Millsap Jr. told a news conference Monday.

Millsap, spokesman for the Committee for Justice, announced cut-off of the reward offer for any future information in the case.

He said his prepared statement was reviewed and approved by Jack Lawn, special agent-in-charge of the San Antonio FBI office, and Justice Department attorneys Ray Jahn and John Emerson, prosecutors who have headed the investigation since last December.

"I cannot say the case has been solved," said Millsap, who declined to speculate on when indictments may be returned. "A lot of work still has to be done. I'm optimistic that the case is near its solution, but I haven't been told by anyone in the FBI that that's the case, so we can only speculate."

However, Millsap said the reward might not be paid for years, after any appeals have run their course. And he said the identities of those receiving the money may never be made public.

The Committee for Justice — comprised of attorneys, businessmen and others throughout the state — announced the reward the day Wood was buried and have extended it five times during course of the investigation. In addition, the Justice Department approved an additional $25,000 reward in the case.

Wood, 63, a federal judge known as "Maximum John" because he was tough on narcotics offenders, was killed on May 29, 1979, by a single .243-caliber bullet fired by a sniper outside his fashionable San Antonio condominium. His death touched off one of the most massive FBI investigations in history.

The grand jury investigating the killing has scheduled its next session for May 20. In recent months it has concentrated its on friends, relatives and associates of convicted narcotics trafficker Jimmy Chagra and convicted contract killer Charles V. Harrelson, both of whom are in jail on other charges.

Chagra, since convicted and sentenced to 30 years without parole, was sched-ed to be tried before Wood at the time of the assassination. Harrelson, released from prison in 1978 on a 15-year sentence for a kill-for-hire slaying, is jailed at Houston without bond.

"I have been advised ... that the reward offer has been a valuable tool in the investigation and that, following final convictions, such person or persons who have provided useful information will be eligible for all or part of the $100,000 reward," Millsap's statement said.

"I have also been advised by the FBI and the prosecutors assigned to the case that the reward offer has served its purpose and is no longer needed."

Millsap said that neither he nor any other member of the committee had been provided the name of any informant or any other details of the investigation. He said it was possible the committee would disburse the reward through the FBI without ever being told the identities of its recipient or recipients.

He said he did not know whether convict Jerry Ray James, a former member of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was or was not a candidate for the reward.

Last week, New Mexico Gov. Bruce King granted James, 42, a conditional release in a deal with federal authorities for cooperation in the case.

James allegedly allowed conversations he had with Chagra at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., last year to be taped by federal agents. The tapes allegedly linked Chagra to the Wood killing.

Although saying he had no information that James was eligible for any reward money, Millsap said the committee had no qualms about paying the reward to a convict or ex-convict, if the FBI recommended it.

"Angels do not witness deals that are made in hell," Millsap said. "I'd like nothing better for us to give this money to someone who preaches in a local church. But I don't think that'll be the case and I'm not uncomfortable with the possibility that this money may go to someone that I'd prefer not to eat dinner with."

Millsap said the Committee for Justice offered the reward because the death of Wood, the first federal judge in modern times to be assassinated, threatened the American system of justice.

The Lemonade Springs in New Mexico carry about 900 pounds of sulfuric acid per million pounds of water, more than 10 times the acid concentration in coal-mine discharges.

Bermuda's Future Affected by Race Problem

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Tiny Bermuda is a hustler among islands. Already rich and beautiful, it is now trying to become a world financial center, a little computer center curling serene, green and tax-free far out in the pale blue Atlantic. But in the dusty back lanes, up from Hamilton's tourist-thronged harborfront, Bermuda confronts an even greater challenge — erasing 350 years of distrust between two races.

Thousands of workers went on strike here last month in a tense confrontation between the conservative, white-led government and the largely black labor force. The strike was settled Thursday. "There's no place in the world where a biracial society really works," David Gibbons, the millionaire white merchant who is Bermuda's premier, reflected in the midst of the strike. "But it probably comes as near to working here as any place."

C.A. Smith, a striking black bus driver, looks at it differently. "You're sitting on a powderkeg right now," he told a visitor, reviving memories of black rioting that flared here in December 1977 after two black men were hanged for a series of murders, including the killing of the British-appointed governor.

Bermuda is the size of Manhattan, which lies 774 miles to the northwest. Shaped like a fishhook, ringed by reefs and indented with inviting sandy coves, the self-governing British colony has little to sell — some perfume from its flowers, a few lilies at Eastertime.

Little, that is, except its natural beauty and man-made comforts. Every year more than a half-million vacationers, 10 times the local population, stay at the dozens of resort hotels and cottage colonies that dot the shoreline or stop by on cruise ships. Nine out of 10 are Americans.

International businessmen have found another attraction: Bermuda has almost no taxes. There are now some 5,000 international companies with Bermuda bases, dominated by specialized insurance companies.

As a result of all this, the breezy island has become one of the globe's wealthiest spots. The gross national product per capita in 1978 was $9,260, just $440 short of the U.S. level.

Those who grew affluent with the island reside in fine Bermuda-style homes of blue, pink or yellow stucco-on-limestone, topped by white stone roofs and tucked away in leafy enclaves. They are mostly white.

The 60 percent of the population that is black fills the ranks of hotel waiters and maids and blue-collar workers, although a few are successful businessmen.

Different methods of financing homes were discussed by Dr. Zeke Marchant of West Texas State University when he appeared Tuesday as guest speaker for the monthly luncheon meeting of the Hereford Board of Realtors.

"We're in a new era;

Homes in the black areas can be cramped or richly, but there is little of the stiest poverty that pervades many Caribbean islands. Unemployment is virtually non-existent. The per capita wealth is eight times higher than Jamaica's.

But the Bermuda Industrial Union demands a bigger piece of the pie. The BIU-represented government workers who went on strike in April made an average of $212 a week, raised to just over $250 with the new contract. They pay no income tax, but Bermuda's stratospheric cost of living cuts deeply — $5 for a pot of coffee, $1.92 for a dozen eggs, rents of $400 or more for minimal housing.

James Self presided over the monthly meeting of the Hereford Country Club. Melvin Jayroe introduced speaker.

Hereford Board of Realtors Meet

Different methods of financing homes were discussed by Dr. Zeke Marchant of West Texas State University when he appeared Tuesday as guest speaker for the monthly luncheon meeting of the Hereford Board of Realtors.

"We're in a new era;

you've got to quit worrying about the mortgage rate and come up with financing plans for home-owners," said Marchant. "When you compare interest rates with other items, it's a bargain at 18 percent."

Marchant is a department head in the business department at WTSU. The veteran teacher is also a certified life underwriter.

He reported there were some 27 methods of financing a home, and he spoke briefly on five of them. They included the adjustable-rate mortgage; renegotiated-rate mortgage (rollover); variable-rate mortgage; graduated-payment mortgage, and the straight term mortgage.

Niekro Hurls Two-Hitter; Yanks Top Oakland

Astros Lose in 10 Innings

Royals Rally Past Rangers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

After a blistering power mower accident at home, Phil Niekro wasn't sure he could pitch.

"I couldn't throw a fastball," he said. "The blister on my finger touched the ball when I tried to throw it. But it didn't affect my knuckleball."

Actually, that was just about all Niekro needed Tuesday night in pitching a two-hitter to pace the Atlanta Braves to a 2-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I was just fortunate enough to get the knuckleball over and when I do that, I can get them to swing at some bad pitches—and they did," said Niekro, who used about 90 per cent knucklers in controlling the Pirates.

The shutout, incidentally, was the 40th of Niekro's career and was also his 235th lifetime victory.

In other NL action, it was St. Louis 3, Houston 2 in 10 innings; Cincinnati 2, Chicago 1; San Diego 3, New York 0; San Francisco 4, Philadelphia 0 and Los Angeles 5, Montreal 0.

Niekro, 2-1, never allowed a runner past second base. He walked three and struck out five and yielded only singles to Phil Garner in the second inning and Tony Pena in the fifth.

Cardinals 3, Astros 2

Tommy Herr's suicide squeeze bunt scored Gene Tenace from third with the winning run in the 10th inning as St. Louis edged Houston. Tenace led off the 10th with a double off Joe Sambito and Ken Oberkfell bunted Tenace to third before Herr's squeeze play put the Cardinals on top.

Bruce Sutter pitched two innings in relief of starter Bob Forsch to get the victory. Jim Kaat pitched the 10th to get his second save.

Spitball Issue Flares Again With Oakland Staff 'Suspect'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Billy Martin's Oakland A's are special guests of Mr. George Steinbrenner this week at Yankee Stadium, and they may not get out of town without a saliva test.

The spitball issue is flaring again in baseball—as it frequently does when somebody starts making batters look foolish at the plate—and the center of the controversy is the Kiddie Korps of the Oakland A's, the hottest in the game.

"Who, us?" says skipper Billy the Kid, affecting that look of complete innocence.

"Don't look our way," insists Art Fowler, Martin's wily pitching coach, the designated villain in the long-running drama. "It's somebody's imagination."

"We're clean and dry," chorus the A's throw boys—Mike Norris, Rick Langford, Steve McCatty, Matt Keough and Brian Kingman, whose strong young arms are threatening to make a runaway of the race in the American League West.

The struggling Yanks barely escaped with their dignity 10 days ago in Oakland, squeezing out a Sunday doubleheader to break even in the four-game series.

Yankee Manager Gene Michael was constantly storming to the plate to protest as the Yankees' "Murderers Row" kept falling like hewn oaks before the strange dippy-do deliveries of the young A's.

"Rick Langford threw about 15 against us," Michael told New York baseball writers. "We didn't see Mike Norris, but we know he throws it (the spitter) too. They all do, but Langford was the worst."

Stan Williams, the Yankee pitching coach, insists that all five A's starters use a "freak pitch." "They're not the only club doing it, just the most

The bunt by Herr was picture perfect. All the charging Sambito could do was shovel the ball with his glove towards catcher Alan Ashby, far too late to tag Tenace.

Reds 2, Cubs 1
Cincinnati beat Chicago as Ray Knight raced home from first base with the winning run in the ninth on right fielder Leon Durham's wild relay throw on Ron Oester's base hit.

Knight had walked with one out off Cubs reliever Dick Tidrow and Oester singled to right. Durham's relay trying to nail Knight at third bounced into the Cubs dugout, letting in the winning run.

Mario Soto scattered five hits and struck out 10 for his second complete game of the season. Randy Martz pitched seven innings for Chicago before yielding to Tidrow in the eighth.

Padres 3, Mets 0
Juan Eichelberger scattered seven hits and Broderick Perkins, the major leagues' leading hitter, smashed a home run, double and single and drove in three runs as San Diego defeated New York.

The shutout was the first of Eichelberger's career and the first for the Padres this year. Eichelberger didn't walk a batter and struck out five.

Meanwhile, Perkins, now batting .422, extended his hitting streak to 11 games. The Padres scored twice in the first off Pat Zachry on Perkins' two-run single. Perkins then gave the Padres a three-run cushion in the fourth with a homer.

Giants 4, Phillies 0
Enos Cabell and Larry Herndon had RBI doubles in the first inning as San Francisco beat Philadelphia behind the combined nine-hit pitching of Doyle Alexander and Greg Minton.

The Giants got four hits and three runs in the first inning off Nino Espinosa for all the runs they needed.

Dodgers 5, Expos 0
Ron Cey knocked in four runs with two homers and a single and three Los Angeles Dodgers pitchers combined to shut out Montreal. Burt Hooton earned his fifth victory without a loss, pitching the first 61-3 innings. Bobby Castillo and Steve Howe followed Hooton, with Howe recording his fourth save.

Ray Burris took the loss for Montreal, which has not won in Los Angeles since 1979.

Tim Raines, the major league leader in stolen bases, notched his 29th and 30th of the season for Montreal. But he suffered an injury to his right wrist when he was picked off base in the fifth inning by Hooton and was removed and taken to a hospital for precautionary X-rays.

Impact of Dodgers' Valenzuela Enormous on Game, Crowds

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Fabulous Fernando. His numbers are outrageous, his emotions are invisible, and his affect on baseball this young season is enormous.

Fernando Valenzuela stands on its collective ear and the Los Angeles Dodgers doing cartwheels.

The rookie left-hander from Mexico is 20 years old and pitches like somebody who's been doing it forever. He has a screwball that makes veteran hitters look foolish and poise that is disarming. Viva Valenzuela.

Manager Tommy Lasorda, who once was a left-handed pitcher of somewhat limited success, has handed Fernando the ball seven times this season. Valenzuela has returned a victory each time and has neglected to give up any runs in five of those starts.

He has surrendered two runs in 63 innings for an 0.29 earned run average. Add on to that 172-3 scoreless innings last September for a major league ERA of 0.22. And before he reported to the Dodgers, he had a string of 35 scoreless innings as San Antonio of the Texas League, so that for the last 1152-3 innings he's pitched, his ERA is 0.16. He leads the league in six pitching categories and is one short of the rookie record for consecutive victories set by Dave "Boo" Ferris of the Boston Red Sox in 1945.

The counsel for the National League Hitters Association would like a word—in Spanish, of course—with Valenzuela, who speaks almost no English.

Lasorda was winless in his major league career but still sees similarities between himself and Valenzuela. "We look alike, don't you think?" the manager said the other day. "See, two arms, two legs."

Until Lasorda started jogging a couple of months ago and trimmed some weight, he did look like Valenzuela. The Mexican is thick-bodied with

A&M Girls' Basketball Camp

Texas A&M University will host two weeks of summer basketball camp for girls of ages 10-18, it has been announced by Coach Cheri Rapp. Sessions are scheduled June 14-19 and Aug. 9-14 and cost is $175 for resident campers. Housing and dining will be the athletic dorm. Coach Rapp and a staff of collegiate coaches and professional players will instruct at the camp. a barrel chest. It was suggested to Lasorda that the pitcher looked... well, 'err... chunky.

"To me, he looks like Robert Redford in the face and Charley Atlas in the body," decided the Dodger manager.

Fernando forever. Lasorda has picked up enough Spanish to get by when he has to communicate with his pitcher. One of the few occasions he had to visit the mound came in Houston during Shutout No. 3. Mike Ivie, just acquired by the Astros, was the batter in a tight spot and Lasorda wasn't sure Valenzuela was familiar with the baseball tradition of trades that move players from one team to another overnight.

"I just went out to explain that Ivie was the same guy he'd gotten out in San Francisco the week before," said Lasorda. "But I didn't have to tell him. He knew who was up and he remembered how he'd gotten him out before."

Valenzuela has a strange pitching technique. He says he's unaware of it, but at the height of his windup, he looks away from the plate, seeming to train his eyes on the peak of his cap.

"We think he has notes written up there," said Lasorda.

His impact at the gate has been awesome. Last Friday night, he drew almost 40,000 to Shea Stadium where ordinarily, the Mets might have expected about 15,000. He attracted about 10,000 more than might have otherwise been expected for his previous two starts and the Dodgers have only general admission seats left for his next start, Thursday night against Montreal. Jin Palmer, a three-time winner of the American League's Cy Young Award, may be about to say sayonara to the Baltimore Orioles' starting rotation.

"I just don't think I should start any more," the 35-year-old right-hander said dejectedly Tuesday night after giving up four runs on five hits in 41-3 innings as the Orioles bowed to the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2.

"I just can't go long enough any more. I proved it at the end of last season and so far this season. It just seems ridiculous to keep going out there. There are just too many other guys on this club that can pitch longer and probably do a better job."

Does that mean Palmer is bullpen-bound after making 459 starts in his 487 big league appearances, including 199 complete games?

"That would probably be the best thing for the sake of the ballclub," he said.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees downed the Oakland A's 4-1, the Kansas City Royals nipped the Texas Rangers 3-2, the Chicago White Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 7-4, the California Angels blanked the Milwaukee Brewers 4-0, the Minnesota Twins edged the Boston Red Sox 4-3 in 10 innings and the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Seattle Mariners 6-2.

The Orioles staked Palmer to a 2-0 lead on Mark Belanger's RBI double and Eddie Murray's first home run of the season but managed only two other hits off Dave Stieb, who beat them for the first time in his career. And after breezing through four innings, Palmer collapsed in the fifth.

Yankees 4, A's 1

New York collected only five hits off Rick Langford but four of them went for extra bases. Bobby Murcer homered and Graig Nettles rapped an RBI single in the fourth inning. In the eighth, Johnny Oates and Dave Winfield doubled—the latter a 430-foot shot—around a triple by Willie Randolph. Meanwhile, Ron Guidry and Rich Gossage checked Oakland on six hits in handling the A's their first road loss of the season after 11 victories.

Royals 3, Rangers 2

Kansas City rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to snap a four-game losing streak and win for only the seventh time in 23 games. Amis Otis doubled leading off the inning and Lee May singled him to third, chasing Texas starter Jon Matlack.

ATLANTA (AP) — Ted Turner, a former America's Cup champion and board chairman of the company that runs the Atlanta-based Cable News Network, said that he is finished with pro sailing.

Turner, who skipped Tenacious to the 1977 America's Cup, said he still plans to do some recreational sailing this summer.

Tigers 6, Mariners 2
John Wockenfuss drove in three runs to back the five-hit pitching of Milt Wilcox. Wockenfuss drove in a run with a second-inning grounder and added a run-scoring double in the fourth and an RBI single in the fifth. Richie Zisk drove in both Seattle runs, one with his eighth homer.

Pleasant Colony Early Choice in Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — If there's any tension in chasing the elusive Triple Crown of racing, it doesn't show on Johnny Campo.

"I'm too old to get nervous," Campo said Tuesday at Pimlico Race Course, where on Saturday he will saddle Kentucky Derby winner Pleasant Colony in the Preakness Stakes. "I'm 43, going on 60."

Campo had the advantage of not having a year to worry about the Triple Crown, since he didn't take over Pleasant Colony until after the son of His Majesty had finished fifth in the Florida Derby on March 6.

That's not the only reason for Campo's worry-free attitude.

"He's a trainer's dream," Campo said of Pleasant Colony. "He does whatever you want him to do. Nobody was more relaxed going into a big race than I was in the Derby."

Campo predicted victories for Pleasant Colony in both the Wood Memorial on April 18 and the Derby on May 2, while insisting the colt was still improving. He was even more impressed when he checked the papers of Buckland Farm's Virginia-bred.

"He was a May 4 foal," Campo said. "It's unreal. That means he wasn't even three when he won the Derby."

He meant in calendar years, of course, since the ages of all horses change every Jan. 1 regardless of when they were foaled. A horse born on May 4 is considered a late foal.

Campo earned more than $1,000 as his 10 percent share of the winner's purse in the Derby, and he could get close to another $20,000 should Pleasant Colony whip an expected field of 12 rivals Saturday.

Trainer Albert Barrera removed Pass the Tab as a likely starter Tuesday, saying the colt needed more rest after racing three times since April 9. His next start is now slated to be in the Pennsylvania Derby on May 25.

That reduced the possible field to 13, and if they all start, the purse would be a record $269,000 with a record $199,000 going to the winner.

Earle Hart, Pimlico's oddsmaker, rated Pleasant Colony the early 5-2 choice to win the 13-1/2 mile Preakness. Woodchopper, second in the Derby, was made the second choice at 4-1, but Hart listed Bold Ego the third choice despite his 16th place finish in the 1 1/2-mile Derby.

Famed Watkins Glen Loses Grand Prix Race

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Jackie Stewart of Scotland raced here. So did Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil and the late Peter Revson of the United States.

Thousands came to this sleepy village in upstate New York each October to see scores of fine drivers from around the world pilot their Formula One race cars in the annual Watkins Glen Grand Prix.

The great Graham Hill of England was injured here in a crackup in 1969. Francois Cd here in a crackup in 1969. Francois Cevert of France won the race in 1971, then was killed when his car crashed into a steel barrier along an S-shaped curve known as "the esses" in a tuneup for the 1973 race.

Helmuth Koinig lost his life during the 1974 race when his machine plowed into a barrier at another curve.

Now, because of the track's financial difficulties and other problems, the race itself has been doomed. Federation Internationale du Sport Automobile, the Paris-based organization that sanctions international auto racing, has dropped Watkins Glen from the 1981 Grand Prix schedule, depriving the course of its premier event and most profitable racing weekend. And so, after 20 years of Grand Prix racing, it appears the Glen will be left with only the annual sports car races in July and races for Indianapolis-type cars in August.

Watkins Glen features road racing, which began in Europe and came to this country after World War II. Americans are accustomed to auto races on oval tracks. Road-racing cars go up and down hills and make right and left-hand turns.

The first race at Watkins Glen was in 1948. The drivers, all amateurs, raced in the streets in those days. In 1952, a car flew off course and killed a spectator. That ended the street racing.

The following year, the promoters took their race outside the village, and the cars raced over a 4.4-mile circuit of town and county roads.

The number of Formula Ones entered went up in both 1959 and 1960. Finally, in 1961 FISA awarded the Glen its first Grand Prix race.

The Glen seemed in danger of losing the Grand Prix in 1980 but came up with an improvement plan that won FISA approval. The race went on.

Then, more problems. The Glen, which is a subsidiary of the Watkins Glen Chamber of Commerce, couldn't pay more than $800,000 in prize money to the racing teams.

The Formula One Constructors Association came to the rescue. FOCA, an organization of racing teams and drivers, loaned the Glen the cash to pay the prize money. FISA then gave Watkins Glen until May 1 to pay off the debt.

When the Glen failed to meet the deadline, the 1981 Grand Prix was cancelled.

The Glen, which owes more than $2 million to creditors, has come up with a plan to try to regain financial solvency.

Vic Franzee, chairman of the Schuyler County Industrial Development Agency that formally owns the race track, said the plan was for the Glen to pay FOCA in full on an installment basis.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Promoter Ross Fields, accused in a lawsuit of a $21.3 million fraud from Wells Fargo Bank, was found guilty of falsifying a passport application.

The verdict was rendered one day after Gerry Conroy knocked out Ken Norton at 54 seconds of the first round of a scheduled 10-round bout at New York's Madison Square Garden. That fight was to have been part of a capd Fields had put together for Feb. 23 in the Garden, but was postponed after the story of the fraud broke.

Fields, who under the alias Harold J. Smith headed Muhammad Ali Professional Sports Inc., was ordered to return to court June 1 for sentencing. He faces up to five years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

Lietzke Takes Aim At Texas Bonanza

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Bruce Lietzke, the PGA Tour's only three-time winner this season, may be seeking some advice from Ray Floyd.

"I guess I ought to have a little talk with Ray to find out what to expect this week," Lietzke said before a practice round for Colonial National Invitation tournament over the 7,190-yard, par 70 Colonial Country Club course.

Floyd won a $250,000 bonus prize as the winner of consecutive tournaments in Florida earlier this year.

And Lietzke, as a playoff winner over Tom Watson in the Byron Nelson Classic last weekend, now is in a similar situation. He's in position for a shot at the Texas Bonanza, a $200,000 bonus paid to a man able to sweep the titles in the Dallas and Fort Worth events.

"I'll just have to figure out a way to get up all over again," said the road-weary Lietzke, who is looking at his sixth consecutive tournament in the 72-hole event that begins Thursday.

His record indicates the tall, slender man has a better-than-average chance. He comes in as the defending champion in the prestigious tournament that holds a special fascination for the large corps of Texas players on the tour. And he has a history of being a streak player, performing at a very high level for an extended period of time.

But Lietzke will be facing an elite, invitational 102-man field that may be the strongest this old tournament has ever seen. It includes all of the men who have won 1981 Tour titles and 24 of the top 25 players men on the current money-winning list.

His chief opponents figure to be the ever-dangerous Watson, the present Masters champion and the outstanding player in the game for the past four years, and Lietzke's good friend Ben Crenshaw, a former winner here and a one-shot loser to Lietzke last season.

Other standouts in the chase for a $54,000 first prize on the storied old course on the banks of the Trinity River are Johnny Miller and Floyd, each a two-time winner this year. They are joined by other 1981 title-winners John Cook, David Graham, Hale Irwin, Andy Bean, Ron Streck, Australian David Graham, and Texans Lee Trevino, Dave Eichelberger, Tom Kite and Bill Rogers.

Also on hand are Lanny Wadkins, Hubert Green, Jerry Pate and John Mahafey.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS.

Boston Takes 3-2 Lead Celtics Romp By Houston, 109-80

By HOWARD ULMAN

AP Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — After posing for nearly three weeks as a mistake-prone group that struggled to unleash its running game and dominate the boards, the real Celtics resurfaced Tuesday night.

In the first quarter, the Celtics raced away from the Houston Rockets 109-80 to charge into a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series.

The Celtics can wrap up their 14th NBA title in Houston Thursday night. If the Rockets bounce back from their second decisive defeat of the series and win, the seventh game would be here Sunday.

Boston led 34-19 after the first quarter, when five of their 14 baskets came on fast breaks and the Celtics outrebounded the Rockets 13-7.

The Celtics held a 54-41 rebounding advantage for the game and snared a series-high 35 defensive rebounds to prevent second shots by Houston and kick off their own transition game.

Boston had not played a solid game with running and rebounding spurts since April 22, when it defeated Philadelphia 118-99 in the second game of the Eastern Conference finals. Even when the Celtics won the last three games of that series, they had to battle back from big deficits.

As in Saturday's easy 94-71 win in the third game with Houston, there was no need for a Celtic comeback Tuesday night. Their smallest lead after the opening quarter was 12 points.

The lanky Maxwell had his best offensive game of the playoffs. His 28 points set a career playoff high and his 15 rebounds tied one.

Moses Malone led Houston with 20 points but had only 11 rebounds, his lowest total of the series. Guard Tom Henderson was the only starter to score more than his series average. The other starting guard, Mike Dunleavy, fouled out with five points in 14 minutes after pouring in 28 points in Houston's 91-88 win Sunday.

Between baskets by Calvin Murphy with one minute gone in the second period and Billy Paultz 4:56 into the third, Malone was the only Rocket to hit a field goal. And Houston suffered through a stretch of 12:06 at the end of the second quarter and beginning of the third with only one field goal.

The Rockets' last lead was 14-13. Then Larry Bird's jumper kicked off a 19-1 burst in which Boston center Robert Parish, who finished with 18 points, scored eight and blocked a shot to set up a three-point play by Maxwell.

The Rockets hit 36 percent of their shots, the third straight game in which they have not reached 40 percent, and had 17 turnovers that led to 21 Boston points.

The Celtics, who had been averaging 18.5 turnovers a game in the series, had 15 Tuesday night, only five of them in the first half, which ended with them on top 59-37.

Entries Open for WT's Cager Classic Tourney

Entries are now being accepted for the 1981 West Texas State University Cadillac Cager Classic Golf Tournament June 29 at Amarillo Country Club.

Entries will be limited to the first 100 players for the Florida Scramble Tournament, according to Leonard Barrick, director of this year's tournament. Proceeds from the tournament and accompanying awards dinner the same evening will be donated to the WTSU basketball program, said Barrick.

Entry fee has been set at $150, Barrick said, and includes the cost of admission to the evening banquet and cocktail hour. Barrick said a limited number of reservations will be accepted for the awards dinner and accompanying activities at a cost of $40.

Members of the top three finishing teams will share prizes valued at $1,700 or more, Barrick said. Additionally, every golfer will have the opportunity to win a 1981 Cadillac by carding a hole-in-one on the fourth hole.

Barrick said arrangements for the appearance of a celebrity participant and collegiate coaches are being finalized and will be announced at the earliest opportunity.

Entries will be accepted from any interested golfer up to the 100 player limit, he said. Teas will be chosen according to handicap.

Community Concert Association Sets Last Concert of the Season

The Roger Wagner Chorale will perform in Hereford on May 14 under the auspices of the Community Concert Association.

The concert of the world-famous 26 member Chorale will be presented in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. The program to be offered will feature works of Renaissance, Classical and Contemporary composers, spirituals, and music from the Broadway state. This season's tour is under the direction of Columbia Artists.

The Chorale has already toured 29 foreign countries, including the Soviet Union under the auspices of the U.S. State Department in 1974. There have been three tours of South America, two tours of Japan, a second European tour, a visit to key cities of the Middle East.

The Chorale has spent a month touring South America during the summer of 1979. Their 1980 tours included China, Australia and New Zealand. In Japan the artist made recordings for Toshiba.

To such an impressive record must be added the fact that the Chorale has appeared in every state of the United States, including Hawaii and Alaska. Possibly a record was set during the 1977-78 season when the Chorale's tour took them to seventy-five cities through twenty-four states and to Canada's province of British Columbia. The season before that there were four separate tours, including two special half-week residencies, a Midwest bicentennial tour, a West Coast Christmas tour highlighted by concerts with the Vancouver and Seattle Symphony Orchestras, and finally a Spring tour of the South and the East. The season's climax took place in Carnegie Hall, New York, in a concert in collaboration with the Prague Chamber Orchestra. The Roger Wagner Chorale, core of the 100-voice Los Angeles Master Chorale, has been the only choral ensemble to perform with the Los Angeles Philharmonic since the Chorale's founding in 1946.

Recordings of the Chorale, like their performances, cover the entire choral repertoire, and their fifty albums feature not only contemporary composers, but 16th century church music and American folk music. One of the Chorale's recordings, "Virtuoso," is a Grammy winner and another "Joy to the World," is distinguished not only as a Gold Record album but also as the all-time best selling record of Capitol Records' classical division.

On their 1974 Russian tour, the Chorale offered selections ranging from Gregorian chants to the show tunes of "The Sound of Music," "Paint Your Wagon," "Oklahoma," and others.

Spirituals as "Dry Bones" and "Set Down Servant" were standout successes with the Soviet audiences. The New York Times, reporting on the Moscow performances, said that these tunes "had grandfathers laughing, co-eds rocking in their seats and half the audience clapping in rhythm with the music—something almost unheard of among Russian concertgoers." Their tour drew standing-room-only crowds and overwhelming enthusiasms from 30,000 Russian ticket buyers during the fifteen-day visit to Russia's major cities. In Riga, a city noted for its great choral tradition, Mr. Wagner was forced to come back to the stage for bows ten minutes after he had excused the Chorale. The audience had remained in the hall clapping, and had refused to leave.

This concert will be the last of the Community Concert season. Members are encouraged to attend the Thursday evening concert.

Ann Landers

Homosexuality Questionable

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am in love with a terrific guy. I know it's not infatuation because T.R. is all I think about night and day. I am 26 years old. T.R. is 21. We are both males.

Sometimes we have lunch together or go out for drinks after work. (We are employed by the same firm). Every minute I spend in his company is like heaven. It's hard to describe. In case you are wondering, we are both straight. In fact, T.R. has a steady girl. I had one, too, until I told her how I felt about this guy. And now I will tell you. I want to hold him in my arms, kiss him and be his best friend. Nothing sexual. If I told T.R. about my true feelings, I'm sure he wouldn't have anything more to do with me. Please, Ann, tell me what to do.—Love Is Mell In Dixie

DEAR DIX: You say you are both straight. I believe only half of that statement is true. Even though you haven't engaged in a homosexual act, the desire to do so is very strong. You need professional help to understand your feelings and help you deal with them. Look under "mental health" in the phone book. Perhaps a few sessions with a competent therapist will put your problem in proper perspective. From your letter I can tell you are plenty confused and uninformed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know the answer to the question I am about to ask because I have read it in your column, but I need to have it repeated for the benefit of my dear ones who have not read you as faithfully as I.

Should members of a family, over 18 years of age, living at home, unmarried or divorced, with good jobs, contribute to help defray the household expenses, or should their parents continue to support them?

I love having my children here, but it seems to me they should offer to help with some of the bills. Please answer in the paper. My word doesn't count for much around here, but yours does.—M.C.R. in El Paso

DEAR M.C.R.: Employed children who live at home should cheerfully fork over at least 25 percent of their take home pay for room, board, maid service, laundry, dry cleaning, telephone, light and heat. If your children think they can get a better shake elsewhere, invite them to try it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This has happened to me so often I'm beginning to wonder if something is wrong with my thinking.

My husband and I often invite new acquaintances for dinner. On a number of occasions they arrive with a dessert. I always make a dessert, and the ones they bring are invariably store-bought. (You know, of course, which is better.) Regardless, I feel obliged to serve theirs while mine sits in the kitchen. Don't guests expect dessert? Although their intentions may be good as gold, it strikes me as rude. Please comment.—Thanks But No Thanks

DEAR NO THANKS: Some guests feel they should not come to dinner empty-handed—so they stop at a bakery and pick up something. (Better they should stop at the florist or a candy store).

The best solution is to say, "It was thoughtful of you to bring dessert, but I have prepared something special. I hope you won't mind if I put yours in the freezer." then do it.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Plainview Pioneer Roundup Scheduled to Begin May 16

The Pioneer Round-Up, scheduled for Saturday, May 16, will be the 53rd consecutive year the Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club has sponsored this event. The theme chosen is "Heritage of the Plains." The first celebration took place March 14, 1929 in the City Auditorium in Plainview when Mrs. Adella Drew served as president. Dorothy Morton, the current president of the Plainview BPW Club, stated all activities this year will be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center.

The reception beginning at 10 a.m. at the Hale County Agriculture Center in Plainview, is a big feature and is a time when the real "old timers" get together to reminisce and exchange stories of the past. Mrs. Era Cox, chairman of this committee, and her assistants are expecting many pioneers from near and afar to arrive soon after 10.

One of the few remaining parades in Plainview will be staged at 2:30 p.m. originating at the Santa Fe Depot on north Broadway. Those participating are asked to be on hand by 2 p.m. Parade will move south on Broadway to Sears Store where it will disband.

Durward Lynch will be parade marshal. The color guard will also head the parade and the Plainview bands will march. Some floats have already been entered and Georgetowne Masso, chairman of the parade committee, stated additional floats are welcome on that date. antique cars, riding clubs, and miscellaneous riders are some of the other attractions scheduled for the parade. Winners will be announced at the night program.

The concessions and Kuntzy Kitchen will be open all day at the Hale County Agriculture Center and Jacqueline Masso and Verne Shields are the chairmen. Sandwiches, pies and cakes will be available at lunch time. Everyone is invited to shop for baked products made by members of the Plainview BPW Club.

The evening activities will also be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center. From 6 to 8 p.m. the chuck wagon supper will be served. "Take out" plates will also be available. The meal will consist of son-of-a-gun, barbecue, sour dough biscuits and all the trimmings. Dorothy Morton, chairman of the Foods Committee, gives assurance that plenty of food is being planned for and that this year the members of the BPW Club will prepare the food and assist in the cooking. The club members will "rock the beans" on Thursday afternoon with the cooking beginning early Saturday morning.

The program, chaired by Doris Henderson, will begin at 8 p.m. and will be a musical program featuring Travis and Amy Thornton and Keith Longbotham.

To highlight the evening's activities, the Pioneer Woman of the Plains will be announced. Prizes will be awarded to the couple who have been married the longest, the oldest pioneer present and to the pioneer (over 60) traveling the farthest distance to attend the Round-Up. There will also be group singing.

The square dance will conclude the Pioneer Round-Up again this year. Helen Pemberton, chairman of the committee, has announced that Billy Foster of Amarillo, will be the caller. She stated that all who like to square dance, waltz, polka and participate in other couple dances are invited to do so. The Agriculture Center is air conditioned and will be comfortable for dancing from 9 p.m. until 12 midnight.

Tickets, $3.50 (tax included) includes the supper, program and square dance, and may be purchased from any member of the Plainview BPW Club or secured at the door. Pat Kelly is ticket chairman. People of all ages are most welcome and are cordially invited to attend and help make this 53rd Pioneer Round-Up on May 16th the best yet.

Other committees appointed to help carry out activities during the Pioneer Round-Up are as follows: Registration, Bula McGowen; Door, Belta Gutierrez; Float, Cathy Douglas; Serving, Nancy Bulis and Publicity, Jo Ann Clements.

THE WAGMAN

Are AWACS a 'red herring'?— Bob Wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA) - In his "Political Dictionary," New York Times columnist William Safire defines "red herring" as "a side issue that draws attention away from the main issue." More and more people in Washington - from Capitol Hill to the Pentagon to the Israeli embassy - are viewing the administration's proposed sale of AWACS to Saudi Arabia as one such "red herring."

The Saudis contend that the five super-sophisticated radar-surveillance planes are vital to their defense because they would provide early warning of air strikes against their oil fields from Persian Gulf enemies such as Iran or from the Soviet Union.

The Israelis, however, note that the flying radar outposts could be used in Saudi airspace to monitor the movement of Israeli aircraft. This could tip the balance against Israel in any future Middle East conflict.

The AWACS sale was actually proposed in the final months of the Carter administration as part of a wooing campaign designed to get the Saudis to moderate world oil prices. Now the Reagan administration has thrown its weight behind the proposal.

Such arms sales can be made if neither house of Congress objects within 30 days after their formal announcement. Many senators have objected to the AWACS sale, and Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., had warned that he may not be able to round up a majority of his colleagues in its support.

The administration's vow to go ahead with the sale in the face of such warnings is persuading an increasing number of observers that the issue may well be a red herring.

The AWACS sale is only one of several that have been proposed to the Saudis. Equally controversial is a planned sale of equipment that would greatly enhance the offensive capabilities of the 62 F-15 aircraft that were sold to the Saudis by the Carter administration. Delivery of the planes is scheduled to begin in 1982.

That sale was permitted over the protests of Israel's friends on Capitol Hill partly because Defense Secretary Harold Brown promised that the planes would be equipped for defensive use only. The new gear would give the planes vastly increased range and firepower, including the ability to launch air-to-surface missiles.

Thus, the modified F-15s would be potentially more valuable to the Saudis - and more devastating to the Israelis - than the AWACS.

Many observers think that the Reagan administration is focusing attention on the AWACS so that the F-15 equipment can slip out the back door unnoticed. "I think what the administration is doing is putting through both sales so that we can vote 'no' on the AWACS and the F-15 sale will slide through," says Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., who opposes both sales.

Opponents of the sales have urged the administration to combine the two proposals into one package on which Congress could vote a single "yes" or "no." But the administration has so far refused to do so.

Baker says that he has convinced the White House not to submit the AWACS sale for congressional approval until after this summer's Israeli election. He still says that the proposal may well be voted down. But he will not say whether the AWACS and F-15 equipment sales will be combined into a single package.

Most observers think that keeping the two sales separate would be a tip-off that the AWACS are a red herring to divert attention from the F-15 equipment.

Microwaves May Not Destroy Pork Bacteria

WASHINGTON (AP) - Microwave oven users were warned today by the Agriculture Department to cook pork to a uniform temperature of 170 degrees Fahrenheit to destroy any harmful microorganisms that might be present.

Donald L. Houston, administrator of the department's Food Safety and Quality Service, said preliminary unpublished studies "indicate that under certain circumstances trichinae and food poisoning bacteria may not be destroyed by microwave cooking."

The warning did not apply to pork cooked in regular ovens. However, the department recommends pork in those also be cooked to 170 degrees.

Houston said the warning should also be heeded by food processors. And he said the microwave oven industry has been notified of "potential problems if cooking instructions do not ensure that the pork product reaches 170 degrees F. uniformly."

The department is repeating the studies to verify the results of the tests, he said. There have been no reports of any illness resulting from pork cooked in a microwave oven.

"We are taking these precautions to alert the public to potential hazards," Houston said. "Consumers who follow prudent cooking procedures face no health hazards."

Houston said microwave ovens cook "by exciting the water molecules" in the food. The variations in the distribution of water in pork, the uneven energy distribution in the ovens and the potential energy blockage by bone may result in uneven cooking.

Grain Production Looks Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early indications point to a significant increase in world grain production in the coming year, including gains in both the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that the Soviet Union is expected to produce about 210 million metric tons of grain in 1981, rebounding sharply from poor harvests the past two years. But the report, the first of the season on Soviet grain prospects, held little promise that the harvest would match the 236 million tons Moscow has set as this year's planned goal.

"Ideal conditions for the balance of the season could result in a harvest of some 15 million tons higher, while sustained periods of unfavorable weather could reduce the crop by as much as 25 million," the report said. A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal, for example, to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

The analysis of Soviet grain prospects was accompanied by a report by the department's Crop Reporting Board showing U.S. production of winter wheat—a mainstay in the overall grain supply—will increase again this year to another record level.

In a third report, the department said good prospects in the Soviet Union, the United States, Canada and some other countries point to record grain production in the world in 1981-82.

Officials cautioned, however, that the projected global forecast of 1.64 billion metric tons—compared with 1.56 billion harvested in 1980-81—was "highly tentative" and is based mostly on "historical trends in area and yield" of crops. Looking at the Soviet Union's crop, analysts said the average crop yield would have to equal the record set in 1978 to attain the goal of 236 million tons.

"This would require a 24 percent increase in yield from the 1980 level and an increase of 15 percent from the 1976-80 average," the report said.

Last year's harvest was 189.2 million metric tons, far below the 1980 goal of 235 million. It also was only 10 million tons larger than the 1979 harvest, which also suffered from weather losses and forced Moscow to seek large shipments of U.S. grain.

Most of those shipments, however, were blocked on Jan. 4, 1980, by former President Carter's partial embargo in response to the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan.

President Reagan, under intense pressure from farm groups to keep his campaign promise, lifted the embargo nearly 16 months later on April 24.

The Soviets were allowed to buy 8 million metric tons of wheat and corn annually as provided by a 1975 agreement, however. The agreement runs out this Sept. 30 and no official move has been made to renew it.

The Soviet Union paid premium prices for grain from Argentina and other sources to offset the lid on U.S. supplies.

The department's report said the Soviet grain harvest may be limited by the delayed planting last fall of winter grains. Only 34 million acres were planted out of 37 million that Moscow appeared to have wanted.

"In addition to the area shortfall, there were reports that winter grains were sown hastily and without proper soil preparation, thus increasing the risk of reduced yields," it said.

Planting this spring has lagged and could result in reduced yields if late-planted grains are hit by a hot, dry summer, the report said.

Livestock, Money Symposium Set

LUBBOCK — The impact of a new national policy on the livestock industry is the theme of the 1981 Livestock and Money Symposium scheduled for Sept. 18 in conjunction with the National Golden Spur Award and Prairie Party and Ranch Day in Lubbock.

The theme was chosen by a committee including representatives of nine sponsoring organizations, ranchers, financial institutions and The Museum of Texas Tech University.

Sponsors are the American National CowBelles, American Quarter Horse, National Cattlemen's National Wool Growers, Ranching

Heritage, Texas Cattle Feeders, Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers and Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Associations and the College of Agricultural Sciences of Texas Tech University.

The annual symposium, designed as a financial forum for livestock producers, is the opening event of two days of activities Sept. 18-19. A special feature of the symposium is the President's

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special)—The greatest proof of the success of the boll weevil eradication trial in North Carolina and Virginia is that every cotton producer in the zone is sure he will not have a weevil problem in the near future, the National Cotton Council Board of Directors heard here today.

Marshall Grant, a Garysburg, N.C., cotton producer, reported that by circumstances now existing in the core zone, it would be hard to see the trial as anything except a great success.

"Cotton planting was up about 14,000 acres in 1980, and another 10,000-acre increase is projected in 1981," Grant stated. Two cotton gins have been put up in the area. An estimated 20 mechanical pickers have been added in the last two years with optimism for an increase in 1982, Grant reported. He said that for the five years preceding the trial, his average insecticide application was between seven and eight per year, with a high of 11. The past two years, his average has been less than one per year. J. Ritchie Smith, the Council's technical services director, reported final reports and recommendations on the trial are scheduled to go to the Secretary of Agriculture by August 15. This could allow time to gear for a program start in 1983.

Smith said the shape of the recommended program is unknown at present.

"However, we are seeing an increased interest in an approach which combines the best features of management and eradication and uses appropriate regulatory, educational, and service elements," he said. Smith explained the central idea is to shape a better overall insect management program to serve all cotton areas, not just those where boll weevils are found.

The importance of moving ahead as rapidly as possible, he said, is underscored by the fact that farmers spend some $250-300 million annually on chemical control in an effort to hold down losses to cotton insects.

"Even so, in 1980, the farm value of lint and seed lost to insects was about $416 million," he said.

Dr. Andrew Jordan of the Council's technical services department reported a development that shows promise of solving a cotton contamination problem.

An experimental synthetic material has been developed to replace the black rubber—the single most serious contaminant for cotton—now used on doffers of spindle cotton pickers, Dr. Jordan said. The new material has worked well in limited tests. It is now undergoing laboratory performance tests and, barring complications, should be field tested this fall, he stated.

Cotton's economic outlook for the current season has not changed significantly since January, according to Gaylon Booker, Council economic and market research director.

Booker reported some slippage in domestic cotton use was more than offset by an improvement in the season's exports. He said early expectations are for an improved offtake in 1981-82 and a larger crop, but little change in the relationships of supply to offtake.

Reporting on the cotton dust situation, Dr. Phillip J. Wakelyn said about $8 million is now being spent by industry and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to eliminate the byssinosis problem.

The board members also heard update reports on foreign operations, Maid of Cotton program, Washington activities, clean air act, and textile imports.

Ag Department Predicting Record Winter Wheat Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second year in a row, farmers are expected to harvest a record winter wheat crop, the Agriculture Department says.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said Monday the harvest is expected to total 2.08 billion bushels. That would top last year's 1.89 billion bushels by 10 percent.

Nationally, the 1981 average yield was estimated at 36 bushels an acre, based on May 1 indications, compared with 36.8 bushels in 1980.

Officials said farmers will have about 57.8 million acres this year, 12 percent more than in 1980.

Winter wheat is planted in the fall and harvested the following year. It accounts for about three-fourths of the total U.S. wheat production.

On Dec. 23, in its initial forecast, the department said the 1981 winter wheat crop could be a record of 1.98 billion bushels.

Although winter wheat is grown in most states, the Great Plains is the major area and Kansas is the leading producer. The 1981 Kansas crop was estimated at 412.8 million bushels, compared with last year's harvest of 420 million.

Total U.S. wheat stocks are forecast to total about 954 million bushels on June 1, the beginning of the new harvest year, compared with 902 million left over a year ago.

Wheat exports are at record levels, estimated at 1.53 billion bushels in the marketing year, compared with 1.38 billion in 1979-80.

Prices at the farm are expected to average around $4 a bushel over the 12-month marketing year, up from an average of $3.78 the previous year, according to department analysts.

Boll Weevil Eradication Trial Leaving Farmers Optimistic

Farm Programs Involved in Budget Cuts

LUBBOCK - "Cut the budget" is the theme in Washington this year, and this includes government farm and commodity programs.

Elbert Harp, executive director of Grain Sorghum Producers Association (GSPA), has been working with the ag committees of the U.S. House of Representatives and the Senate during their "markup" of proposed farm legislation.

Harp reports that "very low price supports will be included in the new law if Congress fits all of the commodity programs into the proposed budget passed by the House."

GSPA's position is that price support loans should be set at the national average cost of production. USDA has estimated 1981 cost of production as follows: sorghum at $6.94 per cwt.; corn at $3.44 bu.; soybeans at $7.27 bu.; wheat at $5.75 bu.; and cotton at $1.15 per lb.

The Reagan administration has not disclosed its top limit on loan levels, but the most optimistic estimates are tabbed at: sorghum, $4.41 per cwt.; corn, $2.60 bu.; wheat $3.55 bu.; and cotton to be based on the current formula. Target prices are currently included in both the House and Senate preliminary versions. These plans tie target prices to a trigger point, however, which is based on the amount of carryover stocks. The proposals, at best, would trigger the "Target Price" protection no more than two out of five years.

GSPA contends that a higher loan rate would be more acceptable to farmers and less costly to the government. Target price deficiency payments are a net cost to the government whereas commodity loans are repaid. GSPA is working to lower the proposed trigger levels if this target price plan is included in the final bill.

Efforts are being made by several Congressmen to lower the limit on government payments to say farmer to $10,000 (including commodity loans). This would destroy any effectiveness of government programs in maintaining favorable market prices.

Disaster payments are almost sure to be discontinued. The most optimistic possibility according to most Congressmen, is a one-year extension of disaster payments to give Federal Crop Insurance Corporation more time to get its program fully implemented. GSPA has supported a continuation of the current program, giving farmers an option.

The Agricultural Committees of both the House and Senate are attempting to finish their proposals by a May 15th deadline. It will probably be in mid or late summer before Congress completes the new farm bill.

Oilseed Crop Muddled Picture

COLLEGE STATION - Looking at this year's production and marketing of oilseed crop such as soybeans, sunflowers and peanuts, it's a muddled picture.

"The 1981 marketing season for oilseed crops will depend heavily on weather conditions, and prices will likely be erratic," points out Johnny Feagan, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Prices will likely move up or down due to rumors rather than fact."

World production of oilseed crops is projected to be down slightly this year. At the same time world demand is expected to be up about 4 percent over last year. This demand could increase even more depending on conditions in Western Europe and the Soviet Union.

Although world demand is up some, U.S. exports of oilseed products have suffered during the past year, says the economist. The value of all oilseed products exported during 1980-81 is expected to be down about 10 percent.

As far as U.S. production is concerned, Feagan sees the 1981 soybean crop at some 70 million acres, down about 4 percent from last year. Poor domestic demand and about a 27 percent reduction in exports have pushed prices down to near the $7 per bushel level.

Soybean oil is at a record high level in the U.S. due to sluggish foreign demand. This is slowing domestic crushing. U.S. soybean inventories should total about 275 million bushels at the end of the current marketing year - a sharp increase over earlier estimates.

Reports that Soviet vegetable oil production has taken a sharp drop could be a boon for U.S. producers, depending on what happens to the current embargo, adds Feagan. However, a record soybean crop is in the making in South America, and Brazil and Argentina export heavily to the Soviet Union and Mexico.

The two other major U.S. oilseed crops offer mixed pictures. Peanut production should be up sharply this year due to the 1980 poor crop. Acreage will be up about 2 percent and prices should be strong. On the other hand, sunflower acreage should be down about 30 percent but prices should be up about 2 cents a pound.

The Hereford FFA Chapter presented three scholarships at their banquet this week. Receiving the scholarships were Mac Hagar (top), Jeff Mercer (middle), and Bryan Diller (bottom) during the affair at the HHS cafeteria. (BRAND PHOTOS BY GLENNA THOMPSON).

Farmers Urged to File Reports

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is currently accepting acreage reports for the 1981 farm program. Since there are no set-aside requirements or normal crop acreage limitations, all farmers who file an accurate acreage report will be eligible for program benefits.

John Fuston, County Executive Director of the Deaf Smith County ASCS office, said farmers may also indicate their intentions to participate in the 1981 program when they report their fall seeded crops.

"Some farmers will have seeded spring crops which they can report," he said. Farmers have until May 15, 1981 to report the sizes and intended uses of their wheat and barley crops. The report should be as accurate as possible. The more accurate the report, the less trouble farmers will have to qualify for deficiency and disaster payments.

ASCS will randomly check farms to verify that acreage reports are accurate and also make aerial photographs available for farmers to identify their fields.

Last year, 750 Deaf Smith County farmers certified their small grains by the deadline, according to John Fuston. "These farmers received about $2,017,420 in low yield payments on wheat and barley under the disaster provisions of the 1980 program," the ASCS official said.

Farmers who have not certified their fall-seeded program crops are urged to do so as soon as possible. The Deaf Smith County ASCS office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

SeedTec sunflowers make the most of a little water.

Here in the High Plains of Texas, a little water has to go a long way. But now, you can make the most of a little water by planting SeedTec sunflowers, the drought-tolerant crop that thrives in hot, dry weather.

world demand for sunflower oil is high. So sunflowers offer excellent profit potential.

Cut nutritious silage from SeedTec sunflowers.

SeedTec sunflowers make great silage, any way you cut it. In fact, sunflower silage contains more protein and fat than corn or sorghum silage. Yet sunflower silage costs less to produce.

To make the most of a little water this year, call your SeedTec dealer today.

Cut your irrigation costs and conserve water.

By planting SeedTec sunflowers now, you can cut irrigation costs and conserve one of your most valuable resources—water. With only one or two waterings, your SeedTec sunflowers can have the moisture they need for excellent performance. Compare that to the expense of irrigating corn or sorghum, and you'll see why SeedTec sunflowers are the logical alternative to high pumping costs and dwindling water supplies.

Cut your total production costs.

On irrigated land, sunflowers cost less to produce than corn, cotton or sorghum. And while sunflower production costs are low, the

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Both the House and the Senate may have set new appropriations bill records last week—but in different directions.

The House took only three days of floor debate to give final approval to the proposed state budget. Last session the House budget debate lasted well into two weeks.

At the same time, the Senate Finance Committee reported out a proposed budget that is $170 million higher than the constitutional limit. The Senate panel's unorthodox move came after Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, concerned about foot-dragging, appeared before the committee and told it to "get this bill finished."

The Texas Constitution forbids deficit spending, or expenditures in excess of available revenues.

Additional cuts to the Senate version will be made on the Senate floor. The House budget bill is $47.2 million below the expected state income.

The final budget will be shaped later this session in a joint House-Senate conference committee.

House Version
The House added more than $100 million to the bill originally prepared by the Appropriations Committee for a proposed total budget of $26.55 billion.

House members overrode the committee bill to give pay raises to teachers and state employees.

In House debate, teacher pay raises were kicked up from 26.6 percent already in the bill to 27.7 percent over the next two years, an added $24 million. The Senate bill provides for a 26 percent raise.

House members approved an amendment by Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale which added $19.5 million to a pay raise for state employees. If given final approval, it ensures that low level state employees receive a 9.2 percent raise this year.

Also added was $10 million for faculty salaries in state colleges and $2 million for exceptionally intelligent students in public schools.

Also included was a 35 percent pay raise for state-wide elected officials, from $51,000 now to $65,700 in 1982 and $69,000 in 1983.

The proposed bill also includes an additional $3.4 million for higher salaries to Department of Public Safety officers and narcotics officers.

House speaker Bill Clayton has been adamant in hurrying the appropriations bill to a finish before the Legislature begins voting on the redistricting bill.

Debate on redistricting will probably begin the third week of May.

Gov. Bill Clements signed into law a bill raising the state's minimum drinking age to 19. The new law goes into effect on Sept. 1.

"Where are all the 18-year-olds?" Clements quipped at the signing ceremonies.

"They're all out drinking while they still can," responded Rep. Henry Allee, a House sponsor.

Clements also signed a bill requiring competency testing and certification of public school teachers. The new law will require college graduates to meet standards set by the Texas Education Agency before they can receive teacher certificates. Currently certified teachers are exempt from the testing program.

Scalping Bill
A bill outlawing ticket scalping for school sports events was approved in the House.

Sponsored by Dallas Rep. John Bryant, the bill prohibits buying or selling tickets for more than face value to any athletic event for high schools or colleges. Bryant sidestepped attempts to include professional sports, explaining he did not want to pick up overwhelming opposition.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband, who's 70, and I, 67, both have arthritis. It seems to be getting worse. He has been on medication for a number of years. Can what we eat make it worse — like orange or grapefruit juice and meats? Are acid foods harmful?

DEAR READER — It is essential to be certain what kind of arthritis you are talking about. Osteoporosis, dissolving bones, is sometimes called arthritis but it isn't really. It is unlikely that you have rheumatoid arthritis, which is inflammatory arthritis, but you could. The most likely type is osteoarthritis, the type we all have if we live long enough. It is sometimes called wear and tear arthritis.

There seems to be an inherited weakness to develop it. And this form of arthritis can develop as a result of overuse, or inappropriate use of joints. Experiments have been done of running sheep over concrete which causes experimental osteoarthritis. The arthritis of a pitcher's elbow is similar, as are the changes noted in the ankles of a ballet

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Wear and tear arthritis

dancer. This form of arthritis often involves the hips. Primarily it affects the weight-bearing joints.

Special diets are not useful for this form of arthritis. You need a well-balanced healthy diet like other people. The exception is if you are overweight, getting to the right weight helps. Some people with osteoarthritis are on diets because of other medical problems, common at that stage of life.

The right approach is to use plenty of rest. Don't overuse a joint that is already suffering from overuse. Do enough exercise to maintain strength and use your joints through the full range of motion every day, but otherwise rest the afflicted part.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Apparently it is unknown to the medical profession but "hot flashes" are not related to ovarian failure as doctors wrongly presume, despite their presence in menopausal females. I had flashes before each and every period and I was menstruating with extreme regularity every 28 days. I was still regular at 54 years when, without my consent, I was sterilized. This was done by a bearded young physician during a routine examination. He whacked my tubes shut. Since then I don't menstruate and have swelling and constant extreme flashes.

DEAR READER — It is true that hot flashes can be caused by other things besides the menopause. But that does not mean the menopause with ovarian failure does not cause hot flashes. Hot flashes are an exaggerated, out of control response to the normal body mechanisms to eliminate body heat. The sweating and flushing with increased circulation to the skin are the ways your body eliminates heat. Even men may have hot flashes when their body physiology is disturbed.

I have no idea what you are talking about regarding your "forced sterilization" but at 54 years of age you could expect to go through the menopause whether or not you had your tubes tied.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you explain what a "fugue" is? What causes it? Is it related to brain damage or nerve damage? What brings on an attack?

DEAR READER — They are often called fugue states. They are usually periods of amnesia. The person is still functioning, sometimes in an illogical manner, but has lost all recollection of his past. A person may be found wandering far from home and only remember the present. Once the fugue state is over, he may not remember what happened when he was in that state.

Soldiers have been found wandering around in foreign countries and the only way they were identified was from their dog tags. A fugue state can occur with epileptic attacks but they occur in people who do not have epilepsy.

The most common cause is psychological. Something may have happened in the person's life that is unbearable, such as a young girl subjected to incest. Whatever the intolerable environment the individual escapes physically and mentally from the situation.

Obviously, the best treatment in these instances is psychotherapy to uncover the underlying unbearable event and come to some resolution of the basic problem.

Save those soap slivers

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I would like to hear any of your readers' ideas on ways to use tiny leftover pieces of soap. I keep saving them, since I hate to throw good soap away, but I can't seem to find any use for them. — ALMA

DEAR ALMA — Here are a couple of ideas to start with: Put several pieces of soap into a squeeze bottle and fill it with warm water. In a couple of days, the soap will dissolve, giving you a nice bottle of liquid soap to use for hand washing, dishes, hand laundry, etc. You can also let these small soap pieces dry thoroughly, and scatter them among your linens and lingerie for a clean, fresh scent. Any other clever ideas, readers? — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When I have leftovers from a meal, I store them in heat-proof bowls. When I want to use them for another meal, I place a selection of these leftovers, still in their foil-covered bowls, in a large pan filled with cold water. I put the entire pan over one lighted burner on top of the stove. Everything warms up in a short time and can be placed directly on the table. No extra pots or pans to wash and a minimum of electricity. — MRS. K.B.

DEAR POLLY — When I was a child, my mother cleaned her wood floors with a very fine steel wool pad, then a paste wax. Finally, she used three kids and 12 pairs of socks as buffers! — L.K.

DEAR L.K. — Thank you for your charming letter. Whenever you buy the socks, it certainly sounds like a lot of fun. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I pour any cologne, after-shave, or perfume I don't use into my toilet tank. Leaves a pleasant scent after every flush. — TRISHA

Liberty Poles

In the first years of American independence, July 4 was celebrated by erecting bunting-draped Liberty Poles in public squares. Similar to May Poles, they honored the Liberty Tree, a large elm in Boston's Hanover Square under which the Sons of Liberty held meetings until British troops cut it down after the Boston Tea Party.
