That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says sometimes people with government agencies forget that they were appointed—not anointed.

Dean Herring says work is for people who don't know how to play golf.

It's Jubilee week in Hereford and Saturday is the climax for many folks as they watch the big parade and attend Jubilee Junction in Dameron Park.

Many class reunions are being held during the T&C Jubilee, and we welcome Hereford High exes back for the celebration!

Note to drivers: Although the traffic sign indicates a "protected left turn on arrow only" at US-385 and Park Avenue, drivers can turn left on green if there is no oncoming traffic.

My wife and I attended a West Texas Press Association convention in Granbury last weekend, and it proved to be a top-notch meeting.

We saw a presentation of "Gypsy" in the Granbury Opera House, a unique and cozy theater on the city square. The Opera House was built in 1886 and, after wasting away for 60 years, was restored and opened again in 1975.

On Saturday evening, we were treated to a barbecue dinner at the Tres Rios Ranch near Glen Rose. The meal servers took off their aprons and took to the stage to present songs made famous by the "Sons of the Pioneers."

That was enjoyable, but then came the highlight for us as we attended a performance of "The Promise," an epic musical drama of the life of Christ, which is presented each Friday and Saturday night in the spectacular Texas Amphitheater in Glen Rose.

We had not heard of this production, although "The Promise" is in its third year and has played to well over 100,000 people. It is one of six outdoor religious dramas in the U.S. We attended the outstanding passion play in Eureka Springs, Ark., several years ago, and this one may be even better.

Twenty scenes spread out over almost three hours intensely detail—through both music and drama—the life of Christ from the nativity through ministry, passion, suffering and ascension. The production involves a cast and crew of 125, both professional and semi-professional people.

The amphitheater seats 3,000 and the massive stage features Greco-Roman arches towering six stories over a 100-foot wide, three-level stage. A clear waterway, which comes into play in some scenes, separates the stage from the audience. The costumes are realistic and live animals are used to great effect, as horses and camels move across the stage and a white dove flutters down on cue from the overhead lights.

If you're in the area of Glen Rose, or if you want to plan a special trip, we'd recommend you see "The Promise." Tickets are priced from $10 to $15 and senior citizen and group discounts are available.

We sat next to Lynn and Linda Brisendine of Brownfield, former Hereford residents. We noticed their 13-year-old son, Brian, sitting on the edge of his seat throughout the performance. After it was over, we asked him how he liked the play.

"Awesome," was his reply. That's a shorter and probably better recommendation than what I wrote.

Bush closes gap in 2 polls

NEW YORK (AP) - President Bush has narrowed the gap with Bill Clinton, but the Democratic nominee still holds a major lead as Bush prepares for next week's Republican National Convention, two new polls show.

Bush closed Clinton's lead in CNN-USA Today poll from 27 to 19 points. In the NBC News-Wall Street Journal survey, Clinton's lead is 18 points.

A CNN-USA Today poll released Thursday found 56 percent of registered voters prefer the Democratic ticket, and 37 percent support the GOP. Seven percent were undecided in interviews conducted Monday through Wednesday.

That 19-point Clinton margin, though large, was an improvement for Bush. In a CNN-USA Today poll taken July 22-23, Clinton held a 53-26 edge, a 27-point advantage. Both polls were conducted by Gallup, and the latest survey had a margin of error of 3 percentage points.

The improvement in Bush's position was also reflected in a new NBC News-Wall Street Journal poll that put Clinton ahead by 18 percentage points. Of the 818 registered voters surveyed, 54 percent said they backed Clinton and 36 percent backed Bush. The poll, also taken Monday through Wednesday, had a margin of error of 4 percentage points.

More of the 1,001 voters in the CNN-USA Today poll had a more favorable opinion of Clinton than of Bush. Clinton's 57 percent favorable rating was down 6 points from a poll taken right after his nomination. Bush's favorable rating was 43 percent, compared with 51 percent who view him unfavorably.

Drill team officers honored

Officers of the Hereford High School Drill Team won several honors at the recent Marching Auxiliaries Dance Camp in San Antonio. They won the superior trophy on home routine, several superior ribbons for routines they learned at the camp, and invitations to dance with the All-American Dance and Drill Team at the Citrus Bowl in Florida next winter. Drill team officers, from left, are Jill Ruland, second lieutenant; Tracie Gilbert, first lieutenant; Tonya Castillo, captain; and Erin Bullard, third lieutenant.

UN boosts pressure on Bosnia fighting

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) - Backed by new United Nations pressure to end Bosnia's civil war, NATO allies today reviewed contingency plans to use thousands of troops to escort relief aid. European mediators, meanwhile, opened another round of Yugoslav peace talks.

France's foreign minister said his country is ready to send 1,100 men immediately to implement a U.N. resolution Thursday that authorized military action as a last resort to provide aid to Muslims and Croats in Bosnia. The U.N. Security Council also demanded access to detention camps and warned of war crimes trials.

At a U.N. Human Rights Commission meeting in Geneva, delegates harshly criticized Serbia for its role in the 5-month-old civil war.

In Bosnia, the Health Ministry reported 23 people were killed and 182 wounded in fighting overnight on government-controlled territory. It said eight of the deaths were in the capital, Sarajevo.

An Egyptian peacekeeper was wounded by machine-gun fire while standing guard outside a Bosnian military barracks, U.N. officials said.

Yugoslav officials warned today that U.N. military action could get out of hand.

"The use of force cannot be limited as someone may hope," Yugoslav Foreign Ministry official Nikola Cicanovic told The Associated Press. "It has never happened in history - things simply always go out of control."

French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas said on French television that 1,100 soldiers, accompanied by helicopters and light armored vehicles, were ready to go to Bosnia as a national force, operating under French colors.

Contingency plans by NATO's military staff suggest the 16-nation alliance would need to deploy about 100,000 troops, backed by air power, to open a land corridor to deliver food and medicine from the Adriatic Coast 80 miles inland to Sarajevo, sources said Thursday.

But senior military advisers were unwilling to back a deployment of that magnitude and wanted other options, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

NATO officials also are considering how to enforce a U.N. trade embargo against Serbia and Montenegro, the remaining republics in Yugoslavia. A dozen Western warships are patrolling the Adriatic to spot, but not board, ships believed to be violating the embargo.

Bosnia's Muslims and Croats voted on Feb. 29 for independence.

Archeologists find Caiaphas remains

By DAVID BRIGGS Associated Press Writer Archeologists have discovered the bones of a first century man with the same name as the high priest who handed Jesus over to the Romans, providing the first archaeological evidence of a major figure in the New Testament.

The age of the bones, the elaborateness of the ossuary in which they were found and the inscriptions with the name Caiaphas found on the side of the casketlike box point to the man described in the Gospels, according to a report in the September-October issue of Biblical Archaeology Review.

"This is of course exciting," Ronny Reich of the Israeli Antiquities Authority said in an interview

Thursday. "This is some way of dialogue with people 2,000 years ago."

The finding is particularly striking since there is no other archaeological evidence of the remains of any of the major figures mentioned in the New Testament, Reich said.

Although Reich and Zvi Greenhut, city archaeologist of Jerusalem, say they cannot make a positive identification of Caiaphas, an associate editor of the magazine said the evidence is strong.

"The absolute evidence is never there, but it's about as strong a link as you can find in the field," Steven Feldman said.

Archeologists came upon the bones by accident in November 1990 during the building of a water park in Peace Forest on the outskirts of Jerusalem. The roof of the burial cave had collapsed, and archeologists discovered 12 ossuaries, or bone boxes, Greenhut said.

In the late Second Temple period (1st century B.C. to 1st century A.D.), bodies were often laid out in a niche of burial caves. After the flesh had decomposed, the bones were collected in an ossuary, apparently reflecting a belief in resurrection, for which purpose the bones were stored, Greenhut wrote.

On the outside of a particularly ornate ossuary - decorated in what Greenhut said was a rare and intricate pattern of rosettes - the inscription

"Joseph, son of Caiaphas" was in two places. Inside the ossuary were the bones of a 60-year-old man.

A person named Joseph, nicknamed Caiaphas, was the high priest in Jerusalem between the years 18 to 36 A.D.

Reich said that the New Testament provides the nickname only in Greek form, but the first century Jewish historian Flavius Josephus gives his full name as "Joseph who was called Caiaphas of the high priesthood."

So, are the bones of the 60-year-old man those of Caiaphas, the high priest who is said in the Gospel of Matthew to have found Jesus guilty of blasphemy before handing him over to the Roman governor Pilate for execution? "This is a hard question," Greenhut said in a telephone interview from his home.

The inscriptions and the age and the elaborateness of the ossuary all point to the bones being those of Caiaphas, but the bones were not identified as those of Caiaphas the high priest, Greenhut said. Also, the relative simplicity of the burial cave raises doubts, he said.

Others are less cautious. "How many Joseph sons of Caiaphas could there have been in that period? ... Again, in the context of a very elaborate ossuary," Feldman said.

After the archaeological study was made, Greenhut said, the bones were given over to the Ministry of Religious Affairs, which reburied them on the Mount of Olives.

Senator plans bill for aid to schools

Budget surplus should be used for education

AUSTIN (AP) - School districts looking at a shortfall in expected state aid for 1992-93 ought to get the benefit of any surplus that's found in Texas' budget, says a state lawmaker.

Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, said Thursday he intends to file a bill providing such potential relief to districts if the Legislature meets in special session this year. Gov. Ann Richards has said she may call lawmakers into session in November.

The senator's idea was prompted by State Comptroller John Sharp's announcement last week that the state should have a $529 million cash balance when this fiscal year ends Aug. 31.

Ratliff first sent a letter to Lt. Gov.

Bob Bullock saying the state should appropriate that money to cover a projected $540 million school funding shortfall.

However, Sharp said it's not that easy.

The $529 million is not a budget surplus, as described by Ratliff, Sharp said.

The cash balance announced last week by the comptroller is due largely to state agencies spending less than they were appropriated by the Legislature, lower-than-anticipated franchise tax refunds to corporations, and higher-than-expected lottery proceeds.

But Sharp said part of the lottery money is already set aside for expenses related to the game, and that state agencies also might increase their spending in the second year of this two-year budget cycle.

"There is a real big difference between cash in the bank and a change in the revenue estimate," Sharp said. "We have not changed the revenue estimate, and we won't until we're absolutely certain those agencies are not going to spend the money."

Sharp said he will give lawmakers a fresh revenue estimate before they meet in legislative session.

The comptroller must certify spending, and Sharp said until he is certain the state has the funds, "I am not going to authorize the Legislature to spend that money. My primary responsibility is to make sure the state doesn't run a deficit."

Ratliff said his letter was based on his understanding of news reports about Sharp's announcement of the $529 million cash balance. He had said he planned to introduce a proposal when lawmakers meet in special session.

"I suppose I'll have to wait and see what surplus there is," Ratliff said. "It may be what I wind up filing says whatever surplus there is would be dedicated to reducing this anticipated proration" for schools.

The Texas Education Agency has estimated that school districts will get $540 million less for 1992-93 than their student attendance and local tax effort would lead them to expect under school funding formulas.

Farm Bureau honors pair

Vaavia Rudd, left, was named winner of the queen contest, and Shelia Teel was declared winner of the Talent Find contest held recently by the Deaf Smith County Farm Bureau. Rudd is the daughter of Homer and June Rudd. Teel is the daughter of Jerry and Denise Teel.

List of richest starts at $120 million

AUSTIN (AP) - Hard times means it takes less money this year to crack the list of the 100 richest Texans.

But don't think winning the $1 million lottery drawing will put you on it. According to Texas Monthly's latest listing, the minimum bank account needed to qualify as Big Money is $120 million.

Topping the list for the fourth-straight year is Dallas tycoon and presidential dropout Ross Perot. His fortune is up to $3.25 billion, the magazine said Thursday in its latest ranking of the state's Big Rich.

"Ross Perot may not be elected president, but he's still got bags of money," Texas Monthly said. "Subtract $10 million spent on his presidential bid - but he'll earn it back in interest in less than a month."

Perot, whose fortune from the data processing business was estimated to be up $250 million over last year, apparently is unimpressed with his showing.

The magazine quotes his thoughts on such rankings as, "Just a shopping list for nuts."

The $10 million drop in what was needed to qualify this year - down from 1991's $130 million minimum

PEROT

- was due to declining fortunes of nearly one-fourth of last year's 100 richest, according to Texas Monthly writer Christine Carroll, who compiled the listing.

"Since we first began tracking the wealthiest Texans in 1989, the state's economy has limped along while the super rich Texans have glided above the fray," Ms. Carroll writes.

"But now, in our fourth year on the trail of the 100 richest Texans, reality has crept into the boardrooms and mansions."

Not to worry, though.

According to the magazine, 44 of the 90 returning multimillionaires saw their fortunes remain the same and 24 saw theirs grow. Eight newcomers and two past top-100 members hit the list this year, taking the place of the 10 who failed to make the cut.

"No one individual suffered a truly spectacular decrease in fortune," Ms. Carroll said. "It was more of an across-the-board decline among 22 of those listed this year."

One winner this year is Houston, now hometown to 27 of the richest Texans. That's up two tycoons from last year, when Houston housed only 25.

Dallas dropped, however, from 31 Big Rich residents in 1991 to a tie with Houston at 27.

Fort Worth runs a distant third, with nine; San Antonio has six, Midland four, Austin and Corpus Christi three each, and two each live in Victoria, Denton and Vernon.

Behind Perot in the magazine's rankings are the Bass boys of Fort Worth - Perry, Sid, Edward, Robert and Lee - sharing $6.6 billion.

Next comes Robert Dedman of Dallas, whose private club empire gives him an estimated net worth of $860 million.

Rounding out the top 10 are: Dallas financier Harold Clark Simmons, $775 million; Houston shopping center developer Jerry J. Moore, $750 million; San Antonio grocery scion Charles Clarence Butt, $650 million; insurance magnate Robert Lee Moody of Galveston, $600 million; Houston oilman Roy Michael Huffington, $600 million; the Dallas-based Hunts - Margaret Hunt Hill, Haroldson Lafayette "Hassie" Hunt III and Caroline Rose Hunt - who share $1.7 billion; and Houston oilman George P. Mitchell, $520 million.

Faithful fans make annual trek on anniversary of Presley death

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - They come, they cry, they shop.

"I got a little bit of everything," said Anita Massey, an Elvis Presley fan roaming a souvenir store near Graceland, the king of rock 'n' roll's former home. "I got videos, books, key chains, patches. I bought a watch and earrings."

"This is my thing." Some 20,000 of the Elvis faithful are in Memphis this week for the 15th anniversary of Presley's death on Aug. 16, 1977.

The annual pilgrimage includes dances, concerts, fan club meetings and a teary-eyed procession past Presley's grave on Saturday night.

For most fans, it also means a trip or two to the souvenir shops. There, a careful buyer can pick up a 4-inch-wide, silver-studded belt for $500 or an Elvis wall clock with dangling, dancing legs for $29.95.

The selection is varied, and at times a bit confusing.

For $6.95, there's a poster with a drawing of Presley, Marilyn Monroe, James Dean and Humphrey Bogart. Huh?

But most of the stuff is Elvis alone. Elvis and, of course, Graceland.

The white-columned house Presley bought for $100,000 in 1957 is now the center of a $15-million-a-year business in all things Elvis.

It draws more than 600,000 visitors a year and is the main focus of the anniversary week, which brings in more than $10 million to the Memphis economy.

Graceland managers have struggled over the years to take control of the Elvis souvenir trade and improve the quality of the merchandise.

Gone are the vials of Elvis sweat and the fuzzy bedroom slippers with the little plastic heads of the singer on each toe.

But there are oodles of other things, and for a true Elvis fan, more is not a four-letter word.

"I want Elvis all around me," said Elisa Doucette of Peabody, Mass.

On her third trip to Memphis in 10 months, she already boasts a sizable collection of Elvis souvenirs. But she picked up some more T-shirts, perfume and jewelry in case of lean times unforeseen.

And she set no spending limit for souvenirs. "It wouldn't do me any good anyway," she said.

Mike McGregor, a Mississippi craftsman who fashioned leather goods for Presley, signed autographs and sold custom-made belts and jewelry.

The big, leather belts, studded with silver and brass, are modeled on Presley's jumpsuit period. They sell for $135 to $500 each.

"A lot of fans buy them to go in their Elvis rooms," McGregor said. "A lot of people have rooms in their homes that have nothing but Elvis-related things in them."

But for Mrs. Massey of Big Spring, Texas, an "Elvis room" just isn't enough. "I took the whole house," she said.

Sauers, Stadler share PGA lead

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Now John Daly knows why the PGA Championship has never had a back-to-back stroke-play winner.

The winner has to overcome too much rough, too much water and too many tricky greens to get lucky two years in a row.

"You don't win the PGA Championship, you survive it," said Jack Nicklaus.

Daly, who dominated Crooked Stick Golf Club in Carmel, Ind., last year with his power drives, couldn't whip Bellerive Country Club's Kentucky bluegrass rough in the opening round Thursday.

Former Masters champion Craig Stadler and journeyman Gene Sauers led a sub-par charge with course-record 4-under-par 67s in perfect conditions to take a stroke lead over Brian Claar, Jay Don Blake and British Open champion Nick Faldo.

The former course record of 68 was held by numerous players, including Ray Floyd and Kel Nagle, who shot their scores in the 1965 U.S. Open at Bellerive.

"I didn't play as well as I would have liked and I'm pleased to shoot 3-under," Faldo said. "I think that's as good as I could have done."

Masters champion Fred Couples had six birdies, but gave them back with a triple bogey and a bogey to finish at 69. He was joined by 49-year-old Floyd, Bob Estes, lefty Russ Cochran, Robert Gamez and Frank Nobilo of New Zealand.

Most of the low rounds were in the morning when the wind was light and the greens were soft. Temperatures were in the 60s, some 15 degrees cooler than normal.

"I thought I was going to shoot 80," said Couples. "On the triple bogey I half-shanked a 7-iron into the water. What I shot was kind of a fluke. But at least I got something to go on. I've got to hit more fairways."

Couples, often criticized for his lack of dedication, said, "I didn't prepare at all. I haven't played in three weeks."

Daly also played in the gentle morning breezes. But it didn't matter because of the way he hit the ball with his Killer Whale driver.

"Not very well," was the way Daly described his prowess with his favorite club, which left him in ankle deep rough all day.

Daly's 76 also left him in no mood to talk.

"When you shoot 5-over par, there's nothing really to talk about," he said.

A year ago, Daly was the last alternate in the tournament and drove all night to get to the site before the first round. He started 69 and 67, and by the weekend had become a national curiosity. He also was the good humor man in the press tent.

On Thursday, he rushed off the course. The PGA Championship hasn't had a successful defender since Denny Shute in 1936 and 1937, and that's when match play was the format.

Stadler said there were two keys to negotiating Bellerive's testy 7,148 yards.

"You have to hit it in the fairway and you have to play the 3-par well," he said.

Daly wasn't the only big name star to stumble. U.S. Open champion Tom Kite finished double-bogey, bogey for a 73.

Tom Watson, who needs to capture the PGA to join Ben Hogan, Jack Nicklaus, Gene Sarazen and Gary Player as the only winners of every major, shot 72 with a bogey on the last hole.

Arnold Palmer, 62, also still seeking the only major that has eluded him, shot 79.

Jack Nicklaus, a five-time winner, shook off a double-bogey on the 195-yard, par-3 No. 6 and shot 72.

200 teams rope in Hereford

About 200 teams competed Tuesday in a jackpot roping held at Hereford Riders Arena in conjunction with the Town and Country Jubilee.

There were three divisions: No. 6, No. 3 and No. 4. In the No. 6 division roping teams got four steers for $20.

It was won by the team of Will Ramiro and Sparky Stevens. They beat out Eddie Cannon and Cotton Maddox, Randy Crump and David Hill turned in the best single time.

The No. 3 division was a three-for-$16. David Hill and Joe Tarango won; Ramon Tavaras and Tarango came in second; and Randy Johnson and Maddox came in third. Ashley Noland and Brent Lookinbill had the best single go.

The No. 4 was a 4-for-$20. David Hill defeated himself; he teamed with Ronnie Campbell for first place and teamed with Vince Guerrero for second. Noland and Lookinbill were third, and Hill and Tarango had the best, single go.

Chargers, Pats prepare for each other

By The Associated Press

The San Diego Chargers and New England Patriots, old AFL rivals who haven't faced each other since the 1983 regular season, are no longer strangers after practicing together this week.

In preparation for tonight's exhibition game, the teams held two days of joint practices at the Patriots' training camp in Smithfield, R.I.

"I wish we could get more teams to come up here, even locate their training camps at some of the colleges in New England," Patriots coach Dick MacPherson said. "I can't think of a single negative about it. It gives us a chance to hit someone other than ourselves and it increases the intensity of the practices."

Chargers first-year coach Bobby Ross agreed.

"We're continuing to evaluate people," he said, "and the more we see of our people against their people, that's helpful to the evaluation process."

That didn't include quarterback Stan Humphries, acquired Thursday from Washington. With starter John Friesz lost for the season with a knee injury, the Chargers dealt a conditional draft choice for Humphries, a sixth-round pick in 1988. The Redskins will get a either a fourth-round draft pick in 1993 or a third-round pick if Humphries takes at least half of the Chargers' snaps this season.

Humphries was en route to the Chargers from London, where the Redskins were preparing for a game against San Francisco.

"We originally said our whole football team, each and every individual, would have to raise their level of performance one percent for us to be a better football team," said Ross, who was expected to start Bob Gagliano against the Patriots with Jeff Graham and Pat O'Hara to follow. "We have to be better than that now. With John out, there has to be some slack taken up."

The Chargers opened the exhibition season with a 35-14 road loss to Phoenix, while the Patriots dropped a 34-14 decision at Indianapolis.

Cowboys

Outside linebacker Ken Norton Jr. officially ended his holdout, joining the team for its last full day of training camp. "I feel good, not great, but good," said Norton, who agreed to a three-year deal for $1.6 million.

Bills

All-Pro defensive end Bruce Smith, who missed most of the 1991 season with an injured left knee and underwent surgery March 9, could begin light workouts with the team next week.

Bills coach Marv Levy said Smith, who was examined Thursday by Dr. Richard Steadman in Vail, Colo., will begin non-contact drills next week and could be given the go-ahead to practice with the team the following week.

Falcons

Linebacker Robert Lyles, who turned down a one-year contract offer for $400,000 on Wednesday, was released Thursday. The eight-year veteran will be able to sign with another team as a free agent.

Packers

Tony Mandarich remained hospitalized because of headaches related to a concussion sustained in Saturday's exhibition opener against Kansas City. The offensive lineman entered a Green Bay hospital Wednesday.

Seahawks

Safety Vann McElroy was waived because of a decaying bone in his right ankle. After he clears waivers, the 10-year veteran McElroy will be placed on injured reserve. Players who go on injured reserve after the final roster cut must sit out the entire season.

Raiders

Wide receiver Tim Brown ended his contract holdout by signing a two-year deal. Brown would say only that he signed for two years, but that the contract had some flexibility.

Redskins

In London, quarterback Mark Rypien went through his first preseason drills since signing a three-year deal for $9 million Tuesday.

Lions

Cornerback Melvin Jenkins walked out of camp in a contract dispute. Jenkins, in the second year of a two-year contract, wants his deal renegotiated.

Cardinals

Linebacker Eric Hill was fined $3,525 and sentenced to one year's probation Thursday in a plea proceeding on a misdemeanor assault charge claiming he fondled a woman at a Flagstaff, Ariz., nightclub.

Hadnot tries to talk to UH

HOUSTON (AP) - Texas Longhorns running back Butch Hadnot, suspended indefinitely this week after seeking a transfer to Texas A&M, has contacted the University of Houston, according to newspaper reports.

Hadnot called Houston on Wednesday, Cougars coach John Jenkins told The Houston Post in today's edition.

"I have not personally talked to him," Jenkins said. "There was a call made by Butch here, and we gave it to our compliance officer."

Hadnot refused to say why he had called UH.

"I didn't talk to any of the coaches there," he told the newspaper. "And I've got nothing else to say to you."

Texas coach John Mackovic suspended Hadnot Wednesday, after reports surfaced that he had sought a transfer to Texas A&M.

Hadnot, who is struggling to retain his academic eligibility, originally denied seeking a transfer, but later admitted he had visited the Texas A&M campus.

Jenkins said he was not interested in talking to Hadnot until his ties with Texas are severed.

"Whatever the circumstances are there have to be settled before there are any conversations with us," Jenkins said. "There's obviously academic problems and that has to be fully decided and settled."

Hadnot led the Longhorns in rushing last year with 501 yards in eight games. He was the 1990 Southwest Conference Newcomer of the Year.

McGwire homers twice; A's lead by four games

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - The manager of the first team in baseball to win 70 games wants 20 more as soon as possible.

"If today we were at 90, then I'd be excited," said Oakland manager Tony La Russa after Mark McGwire's two home runs and Mike Moore's three-hit pitching beat the California Angels 4-1 Thursday.

The Athletics have opened up a season-high four-game lead over second-place Minnesota, moving 25 games over .500 for the first time this season.

McGwire's two homers, increasing his major league lead to 37, were both hit off hard-luck Jim Abbott (4-12). The second one broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth.

That was more than enough to offset the Angel run production, which amounted to nothing more than Junior Felix's fourth-inning home run.

It was more of the same for Abbott, for whom the Angels have scored a grand total of six runs in his last five starts.

"Every day is a different game and a different story," Abbott said. "Credit has to go to the A's and McGwire. I got a couple of fastballs up there, and they were mistakes. Most guys won't hit those out, but with him they were mistakes."

"If he's not the best power-hitter in baseball, he's one of the top four or five."

Moore (12-9) walked one and struck out five.

Rangers 6, Twins 1

At the Metrodome, Jose Guzman allowed six hits and struck out 11 and Texas capitalized on the wildness of Minnesota's Scott Erickson.

Guzman (10-9) allowed only an unearned run in pitching his fourth complete game.

Meanwhile, Erickson (8-9) had his shortest outing of the year, going 2 2-3 innings and giving up four runs on six hits and three walks.

Rafael Palmiero led off the third with a single and, one out later, Kevin Reimer singled him to second. Erickson struck out Dean Palmer, then went to 3-0 counts on three straight batters - Monty Fariss, Ivan Rodriguez and Jeff Huson - walking them all, forcing in two runs.

Blue Jays 4, Orioles 2

At SkyDome, Roberto Alomar broke a tie with a run-scoring double in the eighth inning and Doug Linton permitted three hits in eight innings.

Devon White opened the eighth with a leadoff single and Alomar fouled off two sacrifice attempts before driving a pitch by Arthur Rhodes (4-2) into the gap in left-center, scoring White with the run that snapped a 2-2 tie.

Linton (1-1), making his first major league start in place of injured Dave Stieb, retired 15 straight batters between Randy Milligan's walk with none out in the second and Cal Ripken's leadoff double in the seventh. Linton struck out four and walked one. Tom Henke pitched the ninth for his 21st save.

Red Sox 4, Indians 2

Roger Clemens improved to 18-2 lifetime against Cleveland and kept visiting Boston out of the AL East cellar. Clemens (14-7) won his fourth straight.

He gave up eight hits, struck out nine and walked one in eight innings, keeping his league-leading ERA at 2.20. Jeff Reardon pitched the ninth for his 25th save.

Charles Nagy (12-8) struck-out nine in eight innings. Billy Hatcher highlighted a four-run fifth with a two-run single.

Berryhill's shot lifts Braves over Padres

ATLANTA (AP) - Damon Berryhill's emotions took off on a roller coaster ride as he watched his game-winning, ninth-inning home run drop lazily over the right field fence.

Berryhill came on as a pinch-hitter with one out in the ninth to hit his eighth homer of the season, breaking a tie and lifting the Atlanta Braves a 4-3 victory over San Diego Thursday night.

Elsewhere in the NL, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 4-3 and Houston nipped Chicago 4-3. St. Louis at Philadelphia was postponed by rain.

Berryhill connected on a 2-2 hanging slider from reliever Larry Andersen (1-1) after swinging and missing a slider on the previous pitch.

"This one hung and was out over the plate," said Berryhill, who initially felt the drive was a home run, then thought Tony Gwynn was going to make the catch as the Padres right fielder backed up to the wall.

"When I first hit it, I thought, 'Yeah, I got it,'" said Berryhill. "Then I saw Gwynn go back and stand by the wall and I thought he had a shot to catch it."

"Please go over the wall I was thinking, not a fly out," said Berryhill. "Then I saw it go over the wall and I was excited and relieved."

"There's no consolation for a pitch like that to lose the game," said Andersen, who had allowed only one previous homer in 25 1-3 innings. "It was a terrible pitch. The one thing I didn't want to do is what I did."

It also gave reliever Mark Davis (1-0) his first victory with the Braves. Davis worked out of a ninth-inning jam by getting Tony Fernandez on a sharp grounder to second baseman

Mark Lemke after the Padres had put runners on second and third with two outs.

The Braves had taken a 3-0 lead in the first inning off San Diego starter Andy Benes when Terry Pendleton hit a three-run homer, his 17th of the season. It came after a leadoff walk to Otis Nixon and a single by Deion Sanders.

Fred McGriff tied it at 3-3 with a two-run homer in the sixth, scoring Gary Sheffield, who had singled.

Astros 4, Cubs 3

At Wrigley Field, Jimmy Jones pitched four-hit ball for eight innings and Eddie Taubensee's two-run double highlighted a four-run seventh inning.

Through six innings, Jones (5-5) and Cubs starter Frank Castillo (6-9) were breezing, as both had allowed one hit.

Jones gave up Andre Dawson's 16th home run leading off the Cubs' seventh inning and Ryne Sandberg's 14th homer in the eighth.

The Cubs added a run in the ninth off Doug Jones on Dwight Smith's RBI pinch single. Jones earned his 26th save.

Dodgers 4, Reds 3

At Riverfront Stadium, Henry Rodriguez drove in three runs with a double and his first major league homer.

Rodriguez doubled with two out in the ninth off reliever Dwayne Henry (3-3).

The win went to Roger McDowell (5-8), who pitched the seventh and the eighth. Jay Howell got the final out for his first save since last Oct. 6.

Efforts to hold on to Giants continue

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Charlotte Hornets owner George Shinn may invest in the Giants. San Francisco may have a new ballpark in the downtown area by 1995. The team may end up moving to St. Petersburg, Fla., next season.

For the time being, Giant confusion reigns.

On Thursday, Shinn came forward as a potential buyer for the National League club. Shinn's announcement fueled fire to the recent herculean effort to keep the team from moving to Florida.

"This means more than just a team getting up and leaving," said Supervisor Angela Alioto, who unveiled plans for a new downtown ballpark Thursday night. "It means being 6 years old and going out to Candlestick Park - as windy as it was

- and watching the Giants play the game."

Current team owner Bob Lurie announced last week he had agreed in principle to sell the team to a group of investors who want to move the ballclub to the Suncoast Dome in St. Petersburg by the 1993 season. The other major league owners must still approve the sale.

Since Lurie's announcement, speculation about a so-called "white knight" to save the team has been at a fever-pitch. On Monday, cable television executive H. Irving Grousbeck pulled out of contention, saying he didn't think the team could show a profit.

Spencer Stolpen, president of the NBA Hornets and Shinn Enterprises Inc., issued a statement about Shinn's position after San Francisco mayor

Frank Jordan announced he was a possible investor.

"At some point in the course of the next few weeks, we (Shinn and Stolpen) will travel to San Francisco to discuss the situation and the possibilities with the mayor and the other parties involved," Stolpen said in the statement.

Stolpen said Shinn would have no further comment on the deal until after meeting with San Francisco officials.

Later Thursday, Alioto announced preliminary plans for a new $155 million ballpark dubbed "The Townsend Yards" after one of the streets that will border the stadium.

Alioto is a member of the San Francisco Ballpark Advisory Committee, which was formed in January and devised the ballpark plan.

"We are going to build a ballpark with or without a team," Alioto vowed as she unveiled an architect's rendering of the 43,000-seat ballpark featuring a skybox with a 360-degree view of the city.

Alioto's ballpark would be privately funded, possibly through a labor union offer, which calls for investing pension plan funds in the project with a return guarantee of at least the capital. Details of the agreement have not been worked out.

"We don't have a lot of money, but we're willing to put up whatever we can," said Paul Saroff of Vendors Local 468, one of the 27 union representatives who met to discuss the offer Thursday morning.

Foyt gives 'garage sale' new meaning

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Arie Luyendyk wouldn't mind having one of A.J. Foyt's race cars. In fact, Luyendyk would take just about any race car these days.

The former Indy 500 winner, who doesn't have a full-time ride this season, looked at the display of Foyt vehicles to be auctioned today and was almost drooling with admiration.

"I'm interested in them, but I can't afford them," he said of such cars as the Coyote that Foyt built and drove to his fourth Indy victory in 1977, or the Lola that Foyt qualified fourth-fastest in his 30th Indy 500 in 1987, or the Lotus driven by Jimmy Clark in 1964 and by Foyt in 1965.

The race cars and personal vehicles - such as a 1984 Ferrari that Foyt kept in a barn because he was afraid it would be damaged if he ever drove it in public - were expected to bring in hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Luyendyk, who has driven in only two IndyCar races this season, stopped off at the Speedway on Thursday, the first of three days of bidding on thousands of pieces of auto parts and equipment that Foyt no longer wants or has room to store.

"I kind of collect memorabilia, like drivers' suits and helmets and things that are real hard to collect. I'll see what he has later on and maybe I'll bid on some of them," said Luyendyk, passing through Indy on his way to Michigan for Saturday's IROC race.

Most of the items sold Thursday were engine parts, including crankshafts, dampers, oil pans, cam covers, rods, pistons, valves, seals, fuel injectors, spark plugs, bearings and so forth. Prices ranged from the hundreds to thousands of dollars.

"I've been asking A.J. to give me stuff, but he won't do it, so I'll have to buy it, I guess," Luyendyk said. Don't ask Foyt how much everything is worth, though. He couldn't believe how many items there were, let alone make a guess at their value.

"There's stuff here I hadn't seen in 25 years," the four-time Indy winner said.

"I spent millions and millions of dollars to buy this over the years. In today's dollars, it would sink the Queen Elizabeth."

Rows and rows of equipment were laid out under the infield Tower Suites. Some 4,500 lots were to be auctioned during the three-day sale.

"The memories are in my heart," Foyt said. "Those can't be sold and will never be lost."

Another driver at Thursday's sale was George Snider, a longtime Foyt team driver who at one time or another drove just about every race car on display.

"I don't have any sentimental deals on these things," Snider said. "But I'm sure that A.J. does on probably all of them or he wouldn't have kept them as long as he did."

"Like he says, they're awful hard to keep up. If you don't have somebody to keep 'em up for you ... they deteriorate so bad that he'd rather see them with somebody that can keep them up," Snider said.

The first item sold Thursday was a complete Foyt-Ford racing engine, which the Speedway's Hall of Fame Museum bought for $19,000.

"We have quite a few cars, so we're going to put it in the museum," said Bill Spoerle, head of restoration for the museum.

Former Indy car builder Grant

King was one of the busiest buyers, walking from table to table to examine whatever he thought he could use for his restoration business.

One item was enough for John Taylor, a Carmel High School teacher from Indianapolis and a longtime Foyt fan who bought a set of four Foyt-Ford cam covers for $400.

"I just came to buy something," said Taylor, who didn't plan to make any other bids. "I don't know what I'll do with them. I just wanted a souvenir. Maybe I'll frame them."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work as a secretary in a busy public service agency. One of my duties is to answer all phone calls and deal with the public.

We have nine professional men in our office. The problem is their wives. Some of these women call several times a day. We try to answer all phone calls by the third ring. Can you imagine how annoying it is to be tied up on a line, with a customer waiting at the window, and then get another caller who asks, "Is Honeybuns there?" These wives call to tell daddy that junior hit Sissy, or they can't decide what to make for supper. Often their husbands are busy and it's very disruptive to have to listen to such drivel. If the husband doesn't return his wife's call within 10 minutes, she calls back wanting to know "if Honeybuns" was given the message and if so, why he hasn't returned her call. She also wants to know how much longer his meeting will last. The one I hate the most is, "Why didn't you INSIST that he return my call before he left the office?"

Here's a message for wives of working men: Your husband has a job to do. He is under a lot of pressure. He needs to concentrate on his work. He can't handle your marital, family or plumbing problems over the phone. Please save these conversations for after 5:00 p.m.--Cranky in California

DEAR CRANKY: Every husband who has a wife with "telephonitis" will bless you for writing that letter. I wonder how many office bulletin boards this column will appear on next Monday morning. Thanks for scoring a bull's eye.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading the letters in your column from the 35-year-old women in Oakland and the beautiful 30-year-old attorney who hadn't had a date in 10 years, I had to respond.

Women aren't exactly saints when it comes to looking for a man. If you need proof, just read the "personals" published in the paper. I am really turned off by what females consider important qualifications for a suitable male companion.

The first thing they mention is looks. They want someone who is tall and "attractive." While some men may be interested in a trophy to hang on their arm, most men like myself want someone to love and to be loved in return.

In the 10 years since my divorce, I haven't been able to establish a relationship. No one is willing to make a commitment. All the women I meet want to be "friends."

I'm a caring, affectionate man, honest and hard-working. I'm not rich but I live comfortably. While good looks are a bonus, I am primarily interested in intelligence. I am not threatened by a brainy female.

It makes you wonder what kind of world we live in when men who beat up on their girlfriends seem to get women who continue to love them, while the decent men like me get nowhere.--Miami

DEAR MIAMI: You sound like such a thoughtful, solid, decent man it makes me a bit sorry that I have an iron-clad rule against putting my readers in touch with one another.

Don't despair. Continue to go to respectable places and keep your eyes open. She is out there somewhere. It'll happen one of these days. I promise.

Gem of the Day: Kissing is what happens when two people who like each other a lot get so close together that they can't see anything wrong with each other.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them.--Ann Landers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 17-year-old, "Nora," is a high school senior. She went steady for seven months with "Keith," also a senior.

Three weeks ago, Nora decided she wanted to go out with others so she broke it off with Keith, making it clear she'd date him from time to time, but not exclusively.

Keith's mother is determined to "patch things up." She immediately wrote Nora a long letter and sent her a beautiful sweater. She phones daily to report Keith is depressed or not "feeling well" and misses Nora terribly. All this pressure has made our daughter a wreck.

This evening Keith's mother came to our home and asked to see Nora alone. They visited for an hour. When she left, Nora was in tears. It seems Keith has developed a skin rash. The doctor says it's "emotional." The woman told Nora it is her fault and she is morally obligated to go back to him

"before he does something awful to himself."

Nora is beside herself. I am furious. My husband is fit to be tied. What should be done?--On the Spot in N.J.

DEAR O.T.S.: A 17-year-old is no match for this aggressive woman. Invite her over and tell her in Nora's presence that you are sorry Keith is ill but Nora is not to be used as a drugstore prescription to cure her son's skin problems.

Explain that Keith's rash is not the result of Nora's rejection of him but rather his inability to accept the realities of the situation. Let her know that Keith must learn how to cope with disappointment and frustration because he is bound to be faced with it time and time again in the future. The boy needs therapy, not a mother who runs interference for him.

Assure Nora, privately, that she is not responsible for Keith's problems and she must not allow his mother to make her feel guilty--no matter what.

Is life passing you by? Want to improve your social skills? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

ISRAEL'S FIRST KING
AMIDST CRIES OF "GOD SAVE THE KING" A YOUNG BENJAMINITE, THE CENTER OF ATTENTION, IN THIS HUGE THROG OF ISRAELITES STANDS OUT LIKE A BEACON ON A STORMY NIGHT. HANDSOME, MODEST, TALLER BY A HEAD AND SHOULDER THAN ANY OTHER MAN; THIS IS HIS GREATEST MOMENT FOR HE HAS BEEN ANNOINTED KING OVER ALL THE TRIBES OF ISRAEL. WHAT A PITY THAT FROM SUCH A MOMENTOUS START THIS MAN'S DESTINY WILL LEAD HIM TO THE DRESS OF DEPAIR, DEFEAT, AND A VIOLENT END. SAUL, SON OF KISH, THE FIRST KING OF ISRAEL, WHOSE FUTURE EXPECTATIONS WERE SO GREAT BUT WHOSE REALIZATIONS WERE DOOMED TO IGNOMINIOUS FAILURE, ALL OF WHICH HAS BEEN RECORDED IN SAMUEL, CHAPTERS 8, 9, 10.
