Sales tax administration board named

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Five men were appointed Wednesday to serve on the first board of directors of the Hereford Economic Development Corporation, which will administer a half-cent sales tax for business and industry improvement.

Accepting the positions were Don Graham, Rosendo Gonzalez, Cliff Skiles, Shirley Garrison and Jerry Stevens.

Hereford Mayor Bob Josserand announced his selections for the board and their appointments were approved unanimously by the City Commission in a special meeting Wednesday evening.

The commission spent about 15 minutes in a closed door session, called to discuss appointments and to discuss possible purchase of real estate.

On returning to open session, the commission authorized staff to negotiate on the real estate purchase and approved the appointments.

Garrison and Graham were members of the People Promoting Progress task force that recommended an election for voters to decide whether the sales tax would be levied for economic development.

On Aug. 13, the vote was 857 in favor of the proposed tax and 513 opposed.

The half-cent sales tax is expected to produce revenue of approximately $325,000 annually. Expenditures from the fund will be limited to projects that will improve the economic climate of the area.

After the commission's action Wednesday night, Josserand expressed appreciation to the appointees. "We owe you a debt of gratitude," added the mayor.

He also announced that Mike Hatley, assistant city manager, will be "available on an interim basis" while the corporation is in the formative stage.

Four board members were present for the meeting. Jerry Stevens was out of the city.

Graham, a Hereford banker and resident here since 1987, called the economic development program "the lifeblood of the community, without it we'll die."

Gonzalez, a business owner and city resident since 1964, hopes for "a major impact that would really turn things around." He said the economy has been "stagnant too long."

Echoing Graham and Gonzalez, Skiles declared, "We need to do something. I'm excited about it." Skiles, a resident here since 1971, is a veterinarian.

Talking about the future, the new board members agreed that some emphasis should be placed on agriculture industry.

"We have the labor force to fit agriculture activities," said Garrison, who served as co-chairman of the People Promoting Progress task force. A longtime resident of Hereford, Garrison is a businessman and civic worker.

Although the corporation has not been organized formally, the proposed bylaws are expected to provide for board members to serve staggered three-year terms.

On organization, board members will draw for terms. Three will serve for three years and two for two years to establish the rotation system. Directors will be limited to serving two consecutive terms.

First order of business for the board, the appointees agreed, will be

Campbell Street project under way

Work on the installation of water and sewer lines along Campbell Street is about 50 percent complete, the superintendent of the project said on Wednesday.

Henry Martin, who works for general contractor L.A. Fuller and Sons of Amarillo, said installation of sanitary sewer and water lines may be complete within about four weeks.

Martin said both water and sewer lines have been installed along the west alley, while the east alley still lacks the water lines.

After that work is complete, a pump station still must be installed.

Subcontractor Gonzales Brothers Plumbing is handling the installation of lines from the individual houses along Campbell Street to the main lines in the alleys.

Sam Gonzales and his son, Anthony, were installing sewer lines in back yards along the west side of the street on Wednesday, having completed the water line work a day earlier.

Thirty-eight homes in the subdivision, located outside the Hereford city limits, will be tied into the new system. Water and sewer service will be provided by the city.

Cost of the work is funded by a Community Development Grant. The bid for the project was $185,548.

Not much to see

Mike Trevino, who works for L.A. Fuller and Sons Construction of Amarillo, closes a sewer manhole that is located in the far southwest corner of the west alley of Campbell Street. The manhole covers are about all that shows of the project to install city water and sewer lines to the street residents. Work is expected to be complete on the project in about four weeks. Area residents express variety of feelings on waste at Pantex

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - While some Amarillo area residents fear possible environmental harm, others are confident that the Pantex nuclear weapons plant can safely store plutonium in the long term.

Both sentiments were expressed Wednesday during daylong sessions held by the Department of Energy, which is trying to select a long-term storage site for tons of plutonium from dismantled nuclear weapons.

Some worry that the DOE's process of compiling an environmental impact statement on issues surrounding long-term plutonium disposal and storage could be a precursor to naming the Pantex plant as a long-term storage site.

"... We don't believe Pantex should be the storage site for plutonium because it's sitting right in the middle of a bunch of rich agricultural-producing land right over the top of a sole-source aquifer, the Ogallala," said Trish Neusch, administrative director of Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping.

Ms. Neusch and other members of the citizens activist group also fear Pantex could become the site where plutonium is machined into various forms to prepare for storage.

Pantex already has been named the interim storage site for as many as 12,000 softball-size radioactive spheres for the next 10 to 15 years, but it lacks the expertise to do the job long-term, Ms. Neusch said.

However, F.W. George Jr., president of the Metal Trades Council, a union of Pantex workers, disagreed. He said the plant can safely store the plutonium pits for the long-term.

"I am very, very confident - let that be known to the public - with the procedures we use right now as far as pit storage is concerned," George said. "I'm just as comfortable long-term. The short-term versus the long-term to me is irrelevant."

The council constantly inspects work areas and is the "public's first line of defense" against unsafe plant practices, he said.

The daylong workshop was one of 12 planned on storage and disposition of plutonium and highly enriched uranium, said Robert W. DeGrasse Jr., special assistant to Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary and director of the surplus fissile materials project.

"We hope to make storage and disposition decisions at the same time so there is a pretty clear notion of how long we're going to store it before we dispose of it," he said.

With the end of the Cold War, the U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile is being reduced dramatically. Now, DOE must determine what to do with an estimated 100 tons of plutonium from dismantled warheads stored at several weapons plants around the country.

The DOE is also examining where a reserve of weapons-grade plutonium will be housed, DeGrasse said.

Weapons scientists from the United States and Russia plan to meet in Amarillo next month for a closed-door meeting on plutonium disposition, he said.

The United States and Russia are working toward bilateral inspections of some nuclear facilities by December, he said.

Bush letter sent to Richards backer

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - First, Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush guns down the wrong bird. Then, he goes for a golden egg from the wrong goose.

On Wednesday, Bush campaign officials acknowledged that a fund-raising letter from Bush's mother, former first lady Barbara Bush, inadvertently was sent to a casino investor who is the top donor to Democratic Gov. Ann Richards.

In a letter dated Aug. 29, Mrs. Bush asked Dallas businessman and casino investor Daniel P. Robinowitz "to help George get elected by sending his campaign a contribution. His opponent is well funded and will outspend him."

Robinowitz has given $107,000 to Richards.

"We don't expect Mr. Robinowitz nor would we encourage him to contribute to the Bush campaign," said Bush spokesman Reggie Bashur.

"Certainly Gov. Richards has sent out fund-raising letters to individuals inadvertently. It happens from time to time. We try our best to maintain the most accurate list possible, but every once in a while one flows through the cracks and I guess this is an example of it."

The mistake followed a Bush boo-boo during a dove hunting outing last week, when he inadvertently bagged a killdeer and had to fork over a $130 fine.

Robinowitz, who is building a casino in New Orleans, became a focus of news reports in July after contributing $107,000 to Richards and $100,000 to Democratic Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock.

A strong push to legalize casino gambling in Texas is expected during the 1995 Legislature.

Robinowitz, who has said his contributions aren't tied to a desire to see gambling legalized in Texas, has an unlisted telephone number and couldn't immediately be reached for comment.

Richards' spokesman Chuck McDonald said the fund-raising mistake shows "the George Bush campaign is a product of a public relations machine."

"He is removed from what his campaign is saying and from what they are stating his positions to be. He doesn't know what he stands for or who he is soliciting money from,"

McDonald said.

Bush consultant Karl Rove said "thousands" of fund-raising letters signed by Mrs. Bush were sent out over the past two months. Rove said the former first lady will be hitting the campaign trail for her son "soon."

In other political developments Wednesday:

- Richards and Bush will meet in at least one face-to-face debate before the Nov. 8 election, both confirmed.

Bush joined Richards in accepting an invitation to debate at a town hall forum in Dallas on Oct. 21.

Activities announced for Fiestas Patrias

Two days of activities have been scheduled here for the annual Fiestas Patrias celebration.

Fiestas Patrias will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Activities will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday with a parade, which will wind its way from Hereford High School to downtown Main Street.

Among the featured entries will be the Mighty Maroon Band from Hereford High, as well as numerous floats.

Fiestas Patrias commemorates Mexico's cries for independence on Sept. 16, 1810, commonly known as 16 de Septiembre.

A variety of ethnic foods, including authentic Mexican dishes, will be available at numerous food booths during the afternoon at Dameron Park.

In addition, mariachi bands and other entertainment will be offered.

A highlight of the afternoon will be the Grito de Independencia by Augustin Padilla.

The Paseo de Las Banderas will also be featured, as well as singing of the American and Mexican national anthems.

Activities will conclude on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. at Soliz Park, located at Joe's Country Club, 537 Myrtle.

The concert-dance will feature top name bands and local bands.

Food booths will be set up to sell Mexican and American foods.

All events are open to the public. Proceeds will go to the San Jose Religious Education Center, which is set to be built at the church and which will be used for a variety of community events.

Supreme Court told limits 'threat' to federal system

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Clinton administration opposes the imposition of term limits on members of Congress - a step already taken by voters in 15 states.

Solicitor General Drew Days III, the administration's highest-ranking courtroom lawyer, has told the Supreme Court an Arkansas term-limits measure "poses a particular threat to the federal system in that it makes membership in the Congress dependent on regulation by the states."

The administration's first word on the volatile campaign issue came in an Aug. 31 request Days filed with the Supreme Court seeking permission to participate in oral arguments over the Arkansas law's validity.

The law "contradicts the framers' design, which was to fix the qualifications for office in the Constitution itself, and to deny the power to add further qualifications to both the Congress and the states," Days said.

The high court entered the political storm last June when it agreed to use an Arkansas case to decide the validity of term limits.

The Arkansas Supreme Court struck down a state constitutional amendment that limited how many times a person can run on the ballot for the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives.

The state court ruled that a state cannot impose qualifications in addition to those set by the federal Constitution - minimum age, U.S. citizenship and state residency.

The first term-limits amendment was adopted by Colorado voters in 1990. States that followed suit in 1992 were Arizona, Arkansas, California, Florida, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington and Wyoming.

The Arkansas measure permanently barred anyone who had served two six-year terms from running again on the Senate election ballot. People who had served three two-year terms in the House were barred from the House ballot.

There was no prohibition on someone who had already served the limit to run as a write-in candidate.

Prisoners warned about new code

By MICHAEL GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer
HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - State officials say Texas prison inmates are mistaken if they believe rumors that new penal code changes make it open season on prison guards.

The new penal code, parts of which began taking effect Sept. 1, streamlined many provisions in criminal law, including elimination of specific felony charges of aggravated assault against corrections officers.

Rumors picked up by corrections officials in the units indicated inmates saw elimination of the specific items covering guard assaults as a green light to beat up guards.

"The word was out in the units and farms that as of Sept. 1 it was going to be open season on officers and guards," said Oran McMichael, assistant regional director for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, a labor group that represents about 10 percent of the state's 42,000 corrections workers.

"That was coming through the rumor mill. That was being said to officers and employees."

But officials said Wednesday that other penal code provisions protect prison guards and deal harshly with inmates who assault them.

"The message is we don't want any monkey business from people coming up here to serve their time," Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, said at a news conference held inside the Holliday Unit, a Huntsville-area prison.

Whitmire and other officials argued that the code covers assaults against state employees on the job, including prison guards, and conviction under the new code actually could increase the amount of time an inmate ends up serving.

"It's important to note the message today is that assaults on correctional employees is a crime and will be punished," McMichael said.

Department of Criminal Justice officials said that since Sept. 1 there have been eight assaults in corrections officers, including three on Sept. 1. None of the incidents, however, has been linked to the belief that the new penal code is less stringent.

"It is not a problem every day," Jerry Peterson, deputy director for operations for the department, said. "But certainly the potential is there every day. We have had some instances where officers were hurt."

Father, son feel sting of Africanized bees

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) - Pain was the price of fame for an elderly Georgetown man.

The Rev. J.C. Johnson, 86, spent 40 years as a Presbyterian preacher. Now he is finding his widest audience ever after being stung hundreds of times by a swarm of Africanized "killer" bees.

"It's funny," he said. "I think of all those years I spent preaching and nobody listened to me. Now the news media are calling from Shanghai, Australia and all over to ask me what it feels like to be stung by a bunch of bees."

The answer, he says, is this: "You don't feel a single sting. Once they start, it's like your whole leg or arm is being cooked. It's like a burning, and it's a great discomfort. I wasn't thinking if they were Africanized or not or about anything. I was just trying to get them off me."

Johnson was mowing his neighbor's back yard Saturday when hundreds of bees swarmed from a colony estimated at about 75,000 located in a nearby transmission shop. "I ran around this side of the yard ... I grabbed the water hose and turned it on myself, but I couldn't squirt them off," Johnson said. He fell to the ground and kept his eyes closed.

Johnson's son, working in his own yard across the street, had fought off swarming bees when he saw his father and tried to help. His wife called 911. Emergency personnel, who took father and son to the hospital, also suffered stings.

J.C. Johnson Jr., 59, was stung about 500 times. The younger man was released from the hospital on Sunday, while his father remained hospitalized until Monday.

Except for some swelling and red stinging marks, the men said they're almost back to normal. The Rev. Johnson said he will be back mowing as soon as he feels well enough.

For now, they're scheduling what J.C. Johnson Jr. calls the "homes tour" for news reporters and other curious folks.

Africanized bees are hybrids and more aggressive than the European bees dominant in the United States. They swarm quickly and in larger numbers. They arrived in Williamson County less than two years ago.

Haiti rulers subjected to intimidation, tough talk from Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Clinton administration is stepping up its campaign to intimidate Haiti's military rulers, with U.S. Marines carrying out pre-invasion warmups in the Caribbean and more tough talk from Washington.

Shortly after President Clinton returned from his 12-day vacation on the Massachusetts island of Martha's Vineyard, he and his top aides reviewed military planning for Haiti.

"We're at a very delicate stage," said one official, speaking on condition of anonymity. "This is serious business."

Joining Clinton at the 2-1/2-hour meeting were Vice President Al Gore, Secretary of State Warren Christopher, Defense Secretary William Perry and National Security adviser Anthony Lake, among others.

The administration has been hoping that Army chief Raoul Cedras and his allies would agree to step down voluntarily if they are convinced that the invasion threats are serious.

Officials acknowledged that the administration suffered a major credibility setback last October when a plan to land 200 noncombat troops from a U.S. military vessel in Port-au-Prince was aborted after armed demonstrators protested on the dock. The troops had been scheduled to take part in military training activities, but the vessel was withdrawn.

The administration has been struggling to regain its credibility ever since. For the past week, top officials have been saying that an invasion is a certainty.

On Wednesday, Christopher added his voice to the chorus of warnings.

"One way or the other, the de facto government is going to be leaving," Christopher said. "Their days are definitely numbered."

He added: "We think they should get the message and leave themselves."

In Puerto Rico, 1,800 Marines carried out a mock evacuation of the estimated 3,500 American civilians on Haiti. Officials also have been working on ambitious aid plans for Haiti that will be phased in as soon as deposed President Jean-Bertrand Aristide is reinstated.

There is little indication that the American saber-rattling has had much impact on Haiti's leaders.

One official said a major impetus for moving ahead with the invasion is the rapidly deteriorating economic and social situation in Haiti. The devastating impact of tightened sanctions against Haiti, far from driving Haiti's rulers out, is being used by some officials as a major argument in support of sending the invasion force in.

One report suggested that the Pentagon is looking to the late September-early October time frame for an invasion - a period when Haiti's generals would be celebrating their third year in power.

But target dates have come and gone before, and Christopher said Wednesday no deadline has been set as yet.

The initial invasion force would be comprised exclusively of Americans. Shortly thereafter, more than 200 troops from several Caribbean countries would be dispatched to Haiti to help stabilize the situation as a prelude to the arrival of a large international peacekeeping force.

Hereford man receives honor

The Feed Division of Cargill, doing business as Farr Better Feeds, has announced that several employees -- including one Hereford man -- have been named as President's Club members.

Kurt Landis was among those given the company's highest honor, which is presented to sales personnel, plant managers, branch managers and administrative managers.

Committee on Criminal Justice, and Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville, chairman of the House Corrections Committee, said if the code needed to be changed to make more specific the charges possible for inmates accused of assaulting guards, they would propose the changes.

"My inclination is to put it in two places in the code," Hightower said.

Walker County District Attorney David Weeks, who handles many of the cases of charges stemming from inmate assaults of guards, said he felt comfortable with the new code.

"The obstruction and retaliation statute allows us to prosecute every crime under the aggravated assault on correctional officers statute," Weeks said. "We can prosecute them all. We will prosecute them all."

"The inmates need to understand that the title of the crime may have changed, but the time hasn't."

Grandparents take custody of two Simpson children

By LARRY GERBER
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - O.J. Simpson is giving up custody of his two children to the parents of his slain ex-wife. If he is acquitted in her slaying he can seek their return, according to court papers obtained by The Associated Press.

Simpson agreed last month to turn over guardianship of Sydney Brooke Simpson, 8, and Justin Ryan Simpson, 6, to their grandparents, according to documents obtained Wednesday.

William M. Walker, lawyer for the parents of Nicole Brown Simpson, said the court is expected to approve the guardianship within a few days.

Simpson has pleaded innocent in the slaying deaths of Nicole Brown Simpson and friend Ronald Goldman. Trial is set for Sept. 26.

Ms. Simpson's parents filed a petition July 27, asking to be made legal guardians of Sydney and Justin. Simpson filed his agreement on Aug. 31.

"Simpson is entitled to seek termination of this guardianship and a resumption of his status as a parent having legal and physical custody upon his release from incarceration," said the papers signed by Simpson, the Browns and their lawyers.

Also Wednesday, a man was jailed for refusing to testify before a grand jury investigating a related case.

John M. Dunton claims he will be killed if he testifies before the grand jury investigating Al Cowlings, who was at the wheel during Simpson's June 17 flight along Los Angeles' freeways.

Dunton has refused to say who he fears and why. He could be held until next June, when the grand jury term expires.

Dunton, a 32-year-old with a forgery record, approached the district attorney's office with information about the Simpson case, his lawyer said, and was promised anonymity, said his lawyer, Robert Rentzer.

Rentzer declined to discuss what Dunton told investigators, but said it had nothing to do with the Cowlings investigation.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read an article recently in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch about teaching values to our children. The writer said, "If there is a simple way to instill in children the qualities that will keep them happy and help them contribute to the world while doing no harm to others, I have not found it."

Well, I HAVE found it—by imitating my father. He taught me by example. He went to work every day and was home to have dinner with us in the evening. He had a strong faith in God. If he could help someone in need, he did. He was always considerate of his parents and treated my mother with respect.

My dad grew up in the Depression and went to work to help support the family before finishing eighth grade. He was a side gunner in World War II. Once, while visiting my grandmother in the nursing home, he found a $5 bill on the sidewalk and turned it in at the office.

My father taught me honesty, respect, courage, faith, responsibility and kindness. I thank God every day for giving me such a fine role model. I am happily married to a man who is very much like my dad. We will celebrate our 15th anniversary next month. We have four children. I hope I can instill the virtues in my children that my dad taught me.—Peggy in O'Fallon, Ill.

DEAR PEGGY: Your letter bears testimony to the fact that children learn by example. If you and your husband adhere to this formula, it should work again. Thank you for a letter millions of parents can learn from.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother and I have been very close since my father died many years ago. I was recently married, and my mother, who has been celibate for years, has finally found someone she wants to spend the rest of her remaining years with. I am very happy for her.

Here's the problem. Mom has this strong need to tell me all about her sexual escapades with her fiancé. Although I am delighted that she is now enjoying her life, I do NOT find it appropriate for her to discuss what goes on behind closed doors, especially with me, her daughter.

Am I a prude? I am embarrassed by this sort of thing. What can I do to put an end to it once and for all?—Red-Faced in California

DEAR RED: Apparently you don't know bragging when you hear it. Your mother is so proud of the fact that she is able to enjoy sex that she simply can't keep it to herself.

If this sort of thing makes you uncomfortable, tell her so. Here's a sample sentence. "Mom, I'm happy for you, but I don't feel comfortable about your sharing such personal information with me. Please—no more."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is in response to Mr. Place and Show who complained about being a low priority with his wife. After 29 years of marriage, I realize that I am no longer No. 1 in my wife's life. Here's the line-up:

House plants come first, followed by our two cats. Our grown children appear to tie for third. I'm not certain where I come in after that.

I know I'm ahead of telephone solicitations and back surgery. Actually, I don't believe it's necessary to be No. 1 every day. As long as I am on her list, I am satisfied.—Still in Love in Connecticut.

DEAR FRIEND: If you are "satisfied" and still in love with your wife, that's all that matters. I guess there's somebody for everybody.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Cotton clothing now wrinkle resistant

By WENDI WINTERS
For AP Special Features
What's the latest wrinkle in fashion? Try all-cotton clothing that claims to be wrinkle-resistant.

These casual separates for men and women, including pants, shorts, skirts, blazers and shirts, are supposed to come out of the clothes dryer ready to wear, no ironing needed.

"It's what today's busy consumer wants: great-looking clothes without the fuss," says Tom Julian, a trend analyst with Fallon McElligott, a Minneapolis ad agency.

It's a trend that many manufacturers and stores are rushing to catch up to and big-name designers are coolly ignoring.

How new is it, though? In the 1960s and '70s, stores were flooded with permanent-press fashions knitted or woven with synthetic fibers such as polyester or nylon, or blends of natural fibers and synthetics. Remember the leisure suit? By the mid-'70s, the crisp, clean-cut synthetics were history. It was hip to be clad in pure cottons, silks and linens, looking as rumpled as an unmade bed.

This time, however, consumer demand triggered development of clothes made of natural fiber fabrics that claim to shed wrinkles and are thus easier to care for at home.

"Because of the growing numbers of dual-income couples, easy care will play an increasingly important role in apparel purchasing decisions," Mike Restaino says. Restaino is a buyer for J.C. Penney Co. Inc., the national retail chain based in Dallas. "This product is a major opportunity to respond to the lifestyle trends of the '90s."

Sarah Bevel, a menswear buyer at Sears, Roebuck and Co., Chicago, says: "Helping to fuel sales of our wrinkle-resistant slacks is the growing influence of 'Friday dressing.' Men can wear casual slacks to the office and look good."

Last year, the Haggag Apparel Co. coined the phrase "wrinkle-free" for the line of all-cotton men's slacks it launched with great fanfare and a multimillion-dollar advertising campaign. They were a hit, and Haggag now claims a lion's share of the wrinkle-free business in stores around the country.

Wrinkle-resistant men's slacks were also introduced by major brand names such as the Lee Co., Levi's Travelers and Farah's Savane. Wrinkle-resistant casual and dress shirts are being ballyhooed by well-known shirt manufacturers including Arrow, Oxxford and Van Heusen. More recently, women's wear manufacturers Eddie Haggag Limited, Chic by HIS, Jantzen and Cherokee have produced wrinkle-resistant collections, and kids will soon find their own no-iron fashions in stores, too.

How are wrinkle-resistant all-cotton fabrics created? There's a lot of mumbo jumbo about "secret recipes" and "patent pending processes," but, simply, the effect is achieved by using high-tech yarn-spinning processes and special weaving or knitting techniques to produce fabrics less likely to wrinkle. Next, wrinkle-resistant chemical resins are applied to the fabrics, which are then baked or cured in giant ovens.

Surprisingly, the technology is not new. According to Frank Bracken of the Dallas-based Haggag Apparel Co., "Permanent pressed cottons have been around 27 years but never caught on until now."

Not everyone is singing praises of the wrinkle-resistant revolution. While national retailers such as Macy's, Sears and Penney are successful with the wrinkle-resistant styles, specialty stores such as Saks Fifth Avenue won't carry them. They say they'll wait until one of the big-name designers introduces a wrinkle-shedding collection.

"Wrinkle-resistant clothes are geared toward the mass market, and we're not in that at all," says Mark Scarborough, vice president of men's design for Joseph Abboud. "There's also a trade-off for easy care in the hand—the feel—of the fabric."

Donna Karan, meanwhile, is satisfied that her collections "are not wrinkle-free, they're hassle-free."

"Clothes without wrinkles are artificial-looking."

Recital open to public

Duffy McBrayer, tenor, and Linda Gilbert, pianist, will be presented in recital Sunday at 4 p.m. by Mrs. D.F. Palmer.

The recital will be held at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, located at 601 W. Park Avenue. All interested persons are invited to attend.

The program will feature German, French, Italian and English pieces from a variety of composers, including Brahms, Strauss, Lehmann and Puccini.

Dr. McBrayer and Ms. Gilbert have performed together for a number of years, and both are charter members of the Hereford Chamber Singers.

RADNOR, Pa. (AP)—Tool man Tim Allen's got a tip for viewers of "Home Improvement," which will compete with "Frasier" on Tuesday nights.

"We're all going to be naked for the first three episodes," said Allen, the star of last season's top-rated show, in the Sept. 10 issue of TV Guide.

But seriously, he said, "We've just got to pay attention to staying razor-sharp."

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: A very sad thing happened last week while I was at the veterinarian's office with my cat.

A woman came out of her car holding a cat wrapped in a towel. When the cat saw a dog by the entryway he became terrified and clawed his way out of her arms. He raced across the street, barely missed being hit by a car, and ran into the woods.

She called his name for a long time with no luck. I don't know if she ever returned to find him, but I hope she did. She was heartbroken.

I don't understand why anyone would take a cat out without putting it in a pet carrier. No matter how well-behaved a cat is, there is always the chance of it getting away. Also, a person can be severely scratched trying to hold onto it.

I hope this letter is a warning to cat owners to please use a pet carrier anytime you take your pet out.—Marie Blake, Dallas, Texas

Thanks for your letter. I've also seen people in my veterinarian's office holding their cat on their lap; some people don't even wrap the cat in towels.

It's really a shame if the poor animal runs away. It has to be terrifying for it to be in a strange place. Sometimes a cat will stay in the same area for days actually waiting for the owner to come, so I hope that woman found her pet.

Proper cat care is very important. I have compiled a pamphlet on great cat-care hints. To receive a copy, please send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to Heloise/Cat, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001.—Heloise

TASTY DESSERT
Dear Heloise: When you have leftover cake that is a little dried out, don't throw it away. Make it into a delicious dessert.

Poke a few holes all around the top and pour on a little of your favorite fruit juice. Add a little whipped cream or ice cream and sliced fruit and you have a wonderful dessert the family loves.—Janie Powers, Tulsa, Okla.

Saving money is what it's all about.

Thanks for writing.—Heloise

HANDY GARDEN TOOLS

Dear Heloise: I may be the only person who can't find her gardening tools, but I've come up with a solution that will eliminate this frustration.

I have taken a bucket (which I use to sit on when gardening) and stuffed it with all my tools, gardening shoes, plastic bags and allergy masks and attached a rubber cord to it for hanging. When I'm finished with my gardening, I hang this bucket in my shed.

Next time I need to do some work, I just pick up my bucket and I'm ready to garden. I also spray-painted my gardening-tool handles a bright color to avoid leaving them behind.—Marie Smook, Doswell, Va.

Send a money-or time-saving hint to Heloise, PO Box 795000, San Antonio TX 78279-5000 or fax it to 210-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

High school coaches want challenges early

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - According to the rules, non-district high school football games have no bearing on whether a team will make the playoffs.

Coaches, however, disagree. Some of the most successful coaches in the state insist that teams must use those five or so games against other teams to fine-tune their club so they'll be ready to make a run at the postseason.

Players, owners still talking about 11th hour settlement

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - One day before the deadline to cancel the season, players and owners are trying to work out an agreement.

After a 3-hour informal meeting Wednesday night, the sides said they expected talks to resume today, the 28th day since the strike began Aug. 12. Acting commissioner Bud Selig has threatened to declare baseball finished for 1994 if an agreement isn't reached by Friday.

"I'm sure if we get closer to a deal, I'm sure that date might have some flexibility," Colorado Rockies owner Jerry McMorris said after the late-night meeting at a Manhattan hotel.

McMorris and Boston Red Sox chief executive officer John Harrington sounded hopeful. They attended the meeting along with Selig's daughter, Milwaukee Brewers vice president-general counsel Wendy Selig-Prieb, and management lawyer Chuck O'Connor. Management negotiator Richard Ravitch was not present.

"I would say in terms of a specific proposal there's been no movement,"

Harrington said, "but there was a good exchange of ideas and positions."

Union head Donald Fehr, who invited the management group for dinner with himself and three union aides, wasn't optimistic, but also

Tech won't surprise Nebraska this year

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - The nation's No. 1-ranked football team no doubt carries some uneasy memories of trailing - barely and briefly - behind Texas Tech last year.

Nebraska ended up winning the contest in Lincoln, 50-27, after the Red Raiders took a 21-20 lead in the third quarter.

"Last year we went in there a little lackadaisical," said Husker quarterback Tommie Frazier. "This year we'll go in with the right attitude. We're going to get the best from Texas Tech no matter what."

Tech (1-0) and Nebraska (1-0) meet again in an ESPN-televized contest at 7:01 p.m. today. Nebraska is ranked No. 1 for the first time since November 1987.

Red Raider coach Spike Dykes has acknowledged the game will be tough.

"But the great thing about it is these guys are looking forward to that kind of challenge," Dykes said. "If they go out there and play hard, the rest of it will take care of itself."

Frazier ran for three touchdowns and threw for another Aug. 28 as the Huskers opened their season by blowing out West Virginia 31-0. Nebraska then surged to the nation's top ranking even though it didn't play last weekend.

"I think too much is made of the polls right now," coach Tom Osborne said earlier this week.

Tech, meanwhile, didn't get much rest after playing New Mexico just five days ago.

That season-opener, a 37-31 Tech victory, no doubt surprised some pessimists who were troubled by the Red Raiders' novice offense and lack of a dominant quarterback.

Redshirt freshmen Tony Darden (7 of 13 for 92 yards) and Zebbie Lethridge (16 of 22 for 190 yards) helped Tech rally from a 17-0 gap and lead New Mexico by as much as 13 in the fourth quarter.

Dykes has said he might rotate Darden and Lethridge again - and allow some playing time for sophomore quarterback .Sone Cavazos, too. Darden started against the Lobos.

But Nebraska returns many key players like Frazier, who threw for 206 yards against Tech last year.

"We will have to take out the run," Tech linebacker Zach Thomas said. "It's going to be a big challenge, and I respect them for their tradition."

And Thomas pointed out a further challenge: "We've only had four days to prepare; Nebraska's had a week and a half."

Osborne didn't consider that a factor.

"I suspect Tech may have spent time on Nebraska in fall camp," he said. "I doubt if they waited until Monday to prepare for us."

Tonight's game will be the first in recent memory played without a mounted horse galloping along the sidelines at Jones Stadium.

Tech's mascot, a black quarter horse named Double T, died instantly Saturday after its saddle and rider fell off and it ran into a concrete wall. The pregame ceremony tonight will include a moment of silence for Double T.

Dykes says his team is ready.

"Our guys know that the chance to play Nebraska is thrilling, and they know that to beat Nebraska will be extremely difficult," Dykes said. "All you can do is go out there and fire your best shot and see what happens."

Haley coming off great 1st game

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - Charles Haley had considered retiring because of his back pain. The Pittsburgh Steelers wish he had.

"I was thinking about retiring but decided I felt I had things I needed to do," he said. "I still have my pride. I can still play. I want to get that fifth (Super Bowl) ring."

Haley, in his ninth season, was devastating against the Steelers in a 26-9 victory on Sunday. His four sacks equaled his 1993 regular season total.

Haley's bad back hindered his play last year, but he saved his best games for the best opponents. In two games against his old team, San Francisco, he had three sacks and two forced fumbles. In two games against Buffalo, he forced a fumble, got a sack and pressured the quarterback into nine hurried throws.

"I think Charles is in the best physical condition he has been in since he came here in 1992," said defensive coordinator Butch Davis. "He utilized his rehab from back surgery in the offseason. It forced him to lift a lot of weights. He was in the strength room all the time."

"I thought he was doing too much too soon. He worked hard all summer. He was here early in the morning and would be here at 10 o'clock at night. It was no surprise to me he got off to such a great start. He is highly motivated."

Davis said nobody competes like Haley, who has two Super Bowl rings with the 49ers and two with the Cowboys.

"He is a fierce competitor," Davis said. "You could see that last year the way he tried to play through his back injury. A lot of guys would have just put it on the shelf."

The Cowboys had nine sacks against the Steelers and allowed only 55 rushing yards.

"The defensive line never played together in preseason," Haley said. "We're not as deep, but we still can be the best in the NFL."

The Cowboys lost Tony Casillas, who tested the free agency waters. Russell Maryland and Leon Lett missed most of the preseason with injuries.

Davis said nine-year veteran Haley and 12-year veteran Jim Jeffcoat, who had three sacks against the Steelers, amaze him.

"They both are timeless wonders," Davis said. "They just track quarterbacks down and beat 'em up."

Houston coach Jack Pardee said trying to block Haley can cause sleeplessness.

"If you let Haley pin your ears back, it makes for a long day," Pardee said.

Houston quarterback Cody Carlson calls Haley "the best. You have to work hard not to let him control the game."

New Dallas offensive coordinator Ernie Zampese is glad he doesn't have to coach against Haley anymore.

During the spring, the Cowboys were going over their roster, rating the players.

"Before we start I want to take No. 94 and put him above the one," Zampese said. "I got tired of going against him when I was at Los Angeles."

Oilers' Richardson ready to start at QB

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Bucky Richardson hopes he gets a chance to introduce himself to the Dallas Cowboys fans.

With Cody Carlson slowed by a second degree separation on his left, non-throwing shoulder, Richardson is next in line to start in Sunday's Texas showdown against the Cowboys.

When he was told that fans in Dallas were asking "Bucky Who?" Richardson had a quick reply following Wednesday's workout. "They have every right to say that," Richardson said. "Maybe after the game they'll say different. I'll just go play my style. I won't be intimidated."

Richardson took his repetitions with the first team on Wednesday while newcomer Billy Joe Tolliver was second team and Carlson, after throwing without shoulder pads on the side, watched the contact work.

But Richardson's debut as a starter could be cut short if Carlson is able to play on Sunday.

"I'm preparing Bucky to be the guy," assistant head coach Kevin Gilbride said. "If it comes Sunday and Cody says he can go, he'll go. But now, I'm prepared to go with Bucky."

Carlson suffered his injury in the third quarter of Sunday's 45-21 loss to Indianapolis.

Richardson replaced Carlson and threw three touchdowns in a lost cause in his best regular-season performance since being drafted out of Texas A&M in the eighth round in 1992.

"I know Cody feels a lot better today and if he feels good, he'll play," Richardson said.

And if Carlson can't play? "I'll just be ready if they need me," Richardson said. "I'm treating it like any work week, keeping the same routine. If Cody can't play or they don't want to risk it, I feel I'll play well and do a good job."

Carlson sounded more positive on Wednesday about his chances to play this weekend than he did on Monday.

"I'm answering the way I feel," Carlson said. "It feels all right. By Sunday, I think I can go out there and play. It will depend on what's best for this football team."

"If I can't play 100 percent then, that's not smart (to play)."

Tolliver, who played with San Diego and Atlanta, signed a contract Wednesday in time to take part in the drills.

"It always feels great to get back home," Tolliver said. "I'll try not to do more than I'm coached to do. Then you're OK."

Tolliver started 19 games for the Chargers in 1989 and 1990 before he was traded to the Falcons prior to the 1991 season.

He's getting his shot with the Oilers because of his background in the run-and-shoot with the Falcons, where he played for former Oilers coach Jerry Glanville.

Tolliver completed 79 of 158 passes for 1,010 yards for five touchdowns and nine interceptions with Atlanta.

pre-district," said D.W. Rutledge, coach of two-time defending Class 5A Division I champion Converse Judson.

"But in my heart I don't think that makes you better. You have to play people who challenge you to uncover your weaknesses and help solidify you before district play," he said.

That explains why the two top-ranked teams in Class 5A met last weekend and it's why No. 8 Odessa Permian and A&M Consolidated are hooking up Friday night in Consolidated's first home game since returning to 5A.

"We want to stretch our team as far as possible," A&M Consolidated coach Ross Rogers said. "We're not looking for any patsies. We want our team to see as many different things as possible."

Other coaches agree that they'd rather be tested early rather than pad their record.

One of those is new Permian coach Randy Mayes, who says he's willing to risk going into district play with a 2-3 or 3-2 record for the chance to play a competitive non-district schedule.

The flip side to a hard schedule can be an easy early season that sends teams into district play with a 5-0 record but a lack of experience, something Mayes saw during his years as an assistant with the Panthers.

"It gave us a false sense of how good we were and it cost us in district play," Mayes said. "You have to play good people to get a better gauge of where you're at and where you need to go."

The one possible pitfall of scheduling a tougher opponent is the chance of demoralizing a team. To avoid that, coaches say teams should only schedule teams just a notch above them.

"You want to challenge your kids to the maximum, but you still want to have a legitimate opportunity to win," Rutledge said.

With the proper challenge, coaches can learn which players respond best in certain situations. They also can tinker with position changes and test out new plays without much chance of it hurting the team. "As much as we want to win every game, we want to be ready for district. That's the bottom line," Rogers said.

Another positive is the mental boost that can come from those games, even if they become losses. The players at least know they've been challenged by the best and that's something coaches can draw upon later in the year.

Before last weekend's battle of Class 5A's two top-ranked teams, coach Anthony Thompson of then-No. 2 Willowridge said he already expected to hark back to that game at the right moment later in the year.

"Every little thing we do and every step we take, there are portions you store and use again at the time that's most advantageous for you," Thompson said.

Rogers did the same thing last season with the Tigers, who were then dominating Class 4A. Throughout district play and the playoffs, he reminded them of their three non-district comeback victories from deficits of 13 or more points.

Agassi outguns Muster for semifinal berth

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Andre Agassi is building confidence with every success against a seeded player at the U.S. Open.
Agassi blasted his way into the semifinals Wednesday night, wiping out a seeded player for the third time, then admitted his sights are set higher.
"I've said it a lot, probably too much, to be quite honest, but I feel like I can win these matches," Agassi said. "And I feel like I'm good enough to do it."
Agassi simply outgunned 13th seed Thomas Muster 7-6 (7-5), 6-3, 6-0 to grab a semifinal berth against ninth-seeded Todd Martin, a 6-4, 7-6 (7-5), 4-6, 6-4 winner over Germany's Bernd Karbacher.
With the victory, Agassi became the seventh unseeded singles player to beat three seeded men in the same tournament. He defeated No. 6 Michael Chang and No. 12 Wayne Ferreira before Muster.

No unseeded man has ever defeated four seeded players, which Agassi could do by winning his next match against Martin.
The last unseeded male to defeat three seeded players was Australian Fred Stolle in 1966. Ironically, the first to do it was Francis X. Shields in 1930, the grandfather of Agassi's current girlfriend, actress Brooke Shields.
Saturday's other semifinal pairing is to be decided today and tonight as Peru's Jaime Yzaga plays Karel Novacek of the Czech Republic and No. 4 Michael Stich, the highest seeded player remaining in the men's field, takes on Sweden's Jonas Bjorkman.
The women's semifinal pairings were completed Wednesday when top-seeded and defending champion Steffi Graf cruised past No. 11 Amanda Coetzer of South Africa 6-0, 6-2 and No. 7 Jana Novotna stopped No. 4 Mary Pierce 6-4, 6-0. Friday's other semifinal will pit No. 2 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario against No. 8 Gabriela Sabatini.

The Agassi-Muster clash was just that - two heavyweights slugging it out from 78 feet apart.
There were very few drop shots or net approaches - the two instead reverting to raw power. Side to side, baseline to baseline, corner to corner. To them, a change of pace meant mixing 90 mph slices in with the 98 mph fastballs.
Muster drew first blood, breaking Agassi in the third game. And it was the blond Austrian who had the easier time holding serve, at least in the early going. It turned out to be Muster's final lead in this year's tournament.

Agassi, finding the range with both his forehand and backhand, began moving Muster from side to side, controlling the points, making his opponent work for every shot.
It paid off in the eighth game when Agassi broke back to level the set at 4-4. The two each held to force the opening set into a tiebreaker.
When Agassi slammed a backhand service return down the line on the sixth point, it gave him a 4-2 lead, which he quickly built to 6-3. Muster, however, refused to back down, repeatedly running down seemingly sure winners and forcing Agassi to hit yet one more shot.

Muster won the next two points he served, staving off two set points, before Agassi rifled a forehand blast into the corner. Muster got to the ball, but his backhand lob was long and Agassi was one-third of the way into the semifinal.
"I weathered a storm in the first set, and I felt good from there on in," Agassi said.
After Agassi broke Muster's serve to begin the second set, the two played perhaps the most important game of the match.

Twice Muster reached break point in a bid to level the set. Twice Agassi brought it back to deuce, and he needed three more game points before he was finally able to increase his second-set lead to 2-0.
When Agassi broke his Austrian foe in the seventh game to take a 5-2 lead, for all practical purposes the match was over. Muster won only one more game, by breaking Agassi in the eighth game.
"He raised his game, definitely," Muster said of Agassi. "I had a couple of chances to break back to 1-all, but I never really had the feeling I could get on top of him."

wasn't as pessimistic as his norm.
"I'll begin to be optimistic when a deal is signed - I think," he said. "I'm not going to do anything short of that."
Harrington, however, termed the meeting "fruitful" and McMorris said he was "hopeful."
"This was a positive sign," McMorris said. "We've been seeking to get the negotiations started, but you can't do that unless you start talking. We've got to continue to talk."
Fehr, dressed in blue jeans - a contrast to management's business suits - said he expected larger groups will meet today. Chicago White Sox owner Jerry Reinsdorf, Atlanta Braves president Stan Kasten and former St. Louis Cardinals CEO Stuart Meyer also arrived in New York on Wednesday. Twelve players on the union's negotiating subcommittee were due in by today.

"I'm not at the stage where I can say anything definitive," Fehr said. "There's nothing definitive to say. We'll have conversations in the morning and see what people come up with overnight."
Fehr said the discussion revolved around new information the union received last weekend. He said the data dealt with the revenue-sharing agreement owners adopted last January.
"What we've been attempting to do," Fehr said, "is study whether the suggestions we had previously made would have been any different if we had known at the time before the strike what we now know."
Several officials on both sides said they expected a possible union plan to be a variation of the "taxation" concept. Under this plan, the salary cap owners have been demanding would be replaced by a system in which richer clubs would share a higher percentage of their locally generated revenue if they exceed certain levels of payrolls or revenue.

Fourteen more games were canceled Wednesday in baseball's eighth work stoppage since 1972, raising the total to 352, more than 15 percent of the season.
The first U.S. Open Golf Tournament was held in 1895 with Horace Rawlins the winner.
The Ryder Cup golf matches were inaugurated in 1927 with the United States the winner.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had never heard of bronchiolitis until our 2-year-old came down with a runny nose and bad cough. It looked pretty much like a regular cold until he started having breathing problems. We could not help that at home, so we took him to the pediatrician. Our son vomited the night before. It was scary. The doctor quickly recognized it as bronchiolitis. An older brother at home did not get it. Is it contagious? The 2-year-old is fine now. I wonder why I never knew of this. — Mrs. R.Z.

ANSWER: Bronchiolitis is a fairly common viral infection of infancy up to two years. The usual cause is the respiratory syncytial virus, although others can cause it. The onset might have symptoms similar to those of the common cold, with a couple of days of runny nose and fever, culminating in cough, wheezing and a labored breathing. The parent who suspects bronchiolitis should seek help promptly, especially if the child has a history of asthma or a heart disorder. The doctor can make a decision as to treatment and, if necessary, hospitalization.

Dangerous developments to guard against are vomiting and an inability to hold down liquids — both of which hold the threat of dehydration.

The doctor can also outline home care, which should include assurance of adequate fluid and breathing relief. A cool-mist vaporizer can be of great help. During times of great distress, some parents place the child in a tub of heated water for the comfort and steaming effect. The doctor can also advise about fever-lowering drugs such as Tylenol.

Bronchiolitis is contagious in close quarters, but many times other children in the family escape infection, especially if using separate sleeping quarters.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have rheumatoid arthritis. Do you know of the new drug, ketoprofen, for relief? Please send arthritis material. — I.G.

ANSWER: Ketoprofen has been around for some time. Oruvail is a new formulation of it that offers a time-release advantage. That may be what you mean. The time-release formula means that the patient needs to take the drug only once a day.

Your arthritis report is on the way. Others can order it by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 2, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is the birth-control pill a factor in later cancer development? My sister says she read that it may make cancer less likely, but she can't remember where. Can you help? — Mrs. D.D.

ANSWER: Yours is a question many readers have asked, but only now are we starting to get some more reliable answers.

A recent study was done in which a rather large number of women of menopause age were studied. The women were categorized into subgroups of those who took birth-control pills in earlier years and those who did not.

The women who had used the pill seemed to have a slightly positive edge over the women in the non-pill-using group. Those who hadn't used the pill had a slightly higher chance of having endometrial cancer, which is cancer of the uterine lining tissue.

As generations of ex-pill users become available for study at later and later ages, we should have more precise evaluations of such factors.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is eczema? What is its cause and the best treatment for it? — M.H.

ANSWER: "Eczema" is an imprecise word that has come to include many different kinds and causes of skin symptoms, so many that it loses specific meaning. For our purpose, we narrow eczema down to just about any red and itchy rash of uncertain origins.

Typically, eczema sets up itch-scratch cycles, the scratching affording at best temporary and illusory relief from the itch. In the process, skin becomes raw and angry as inflammation or infection take hold. Repeated eczematous episodes leave a tough and hardened, thick and leathery skin surface.

The important fact about eczema has to do, not with how it looks or starts, but how you stop its process. Antihistamines often relieve the itch component. Various skin factors become involved. I am thinking of such itch provokers as wool clothing and broader exposure to hot baths, showers or any heat source. Heat intensifies itches.

You can prevent a lot of eczema. The eczema-prone should use mild soap only and rinse underclothing and bed and pillow covers to get rid of soap residue, a common irritant.

You will find no dearth of creams and ointments for eczema relief. A recent boon to the eczema-prone is a growing array of over-the-counter cortisone anti-inflammation applications. Use them sparingly on limited areas. Follow package instructions.

The acne material you asked for is on the way. Others can order that booklet by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 39, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please discuss inverted nipples. Tell me if a person is born that way or why they develop otherwise. Also, how can they be corrected? Can a doctor correct this? Is there anything I can do myself? I've had this problem all my life. — G.A.

ANSWER: The fact that you have had the condition all your life is probably good news. Sudden inversion can be a more ominous event.

Generally speaking, many inverted nipples are not really inverted. They are often normal nipples that have become hidden in crater-like depressions of surrounding tissue. You can tell if that is the case by simply extracting one out of its depression.

A truly inverted nipple is tethered to underlying tissue and cannot be pulled from its inverted position.

Both kinds of nipple inversion can be present from birth. True inversion, however, might mean infection, even cancer. Cancer is a greater likelihood if inversion is recent with a nearby lump.

How to care for your newly planted trees

PHOENIX (AP) - Many newly planted trees often need staking to hold them upright until their root system develops. But some are staked even if they don't need it, to their detriment.

So how do you make the determination and, when needed, stake correctly?

For starters, remember that it takes two to tango. Likewise, if staking is required, it takes two stakes. You always should have a justifiable reason for any staking, such as trunk support, root anchorage or wind protection. In those cases, develop the habit of checking frequently for hazards such as girdling.

Properly set stakes are opposite each other, anchored outside the root ball and attached by a flexible tie at only one point on the trunk. Such placement allows the trunk to move slightly in the wind and develop taper.

Trees sold in containers by commercial nurseries usually come with only one stake. There is a reason for this. Such rigid staking increases production space, thereby cutting the initial cost to customers. However, it also can lead to landscape trees with weak, spindly trunks and little wind resistance.

If you doubt this, check trees growing in the wild and see how many you think would benefit from staking. Their trunks usually are well tapered, with the greatest diameter at the base and a smaller diameter as one moves up the trunk.

Such tapering allows for equal weight distribution along the entire height of the tree. Many experts believe the taper results from the gentle swaying of trunks in the wind. Whatever the reason, field-grown nursery trees do have this desirable taper and usually need no staking after transplanting.

On the other hand, a container-grown tree often will be too tall and the trunk too weak to support itself. When this is the case, experiment by bending the canopy slightly to one side. The point where the tree returns to upright will be where ties should be attached.

Unless the single-style staking is reworked, trunk development is slowed, top growth delayed and root development set back. Unfortunately, if the improper staking is continued, the unnatural growth habit also is continued.

Not all newly planted trees need staking, of course, but fast growers — such as eucalyptus — almost always do. Species such as conifers generally never need it. Multitrunked trees have good wind resistance so they seldom need it unless for a particular effect.

Staking is usually necessary in formal landscapes, such as along roads, around commercial buildings, where space is often restricted, and in windy sites.

In those cases, limit the ties to the top. Ties near the bottom are not recommended. They actually provide another point for damage from rubbing (girdling).

Support staking should be removed as soon as possible, usually the first year after planting. If a tree can't stand by itself after a year, check for causes that can be corrected, such as shallow watering.

To restore a balance between top and root growth, transplanted trees often need pruning if their roots have been damaged in the process.

Newly planted trees (and shrubs) also benefit from small amounts of slow-release fertilizer mixed in the planting hole, providing a steady, balanced supply of nutrients. Follow label directions.

Standing up to a higher standard...

Prayer To The Holy Spirit
Oh Holy Spirit! Thou Who art all knowing who brightens every path that I may reach my ideal. Thou who giveth me the divine gift of forgetting and forgiving wrongs done unto me and who in every instant of my life art with me. I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all my blessings and reaffirm once again that I never want to part again from Thee. Though the illusion of material things abound—my desire is to be with Thee and all my loved ones in perpetual grace. Thank You for Your mercy on me and my loved ones.
Persons should pray three consecutive days without revealing petition. Within three days grace will be attained regardless of how difficult the petition may be. Publish this prayer once grace has been attained.
Grateful for grace attained!

HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Tougher criminal laws adopted last year by the Texas Legislature went into effect Sept. 1, requiring murderers, rapists and child molesters to serve half their prison sentences or 30 years before becoming eligible for parole.

Sponsor of the legislation was state Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, chairman of the Criminal Justice Committee. He told the Houston Chronicle that under previous law, Texas prison inmates often "came out worse than they went in."

Some nonviolent, first-time felons will get probation instead of prison under the revised laws that call for supervised probation up to five years and six months in new state lock-ups.

Nonviolent offenders on probation may be required to undergo drug and alcohol treatment, counseling sessions, community service and educational and vocational training.

"Over the last 50 years," Whitmire said, "our prisons had become a revolving door...but under the new plan, we don't want to commingle young offenders with hard-core rapists, murderers and child molesters."

Violent offenders, who often served a month for each year of a sentence under the state's old, "revolving door" de facto policy, will be doing more hard time with 22,000 more state prison beds scheduled to be ready for use by the end of next year.

Richards Cleared in Phone Flap

Gov. Ann Richards and her staff have been cleared of wrongdoing in the 1993 destruction of telephone records in her office.

Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle issued an Aug. 26

Dove hunters make impact on wide area

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — With a bang-up start to the state's dove hunting season, chambers of commerce are predicting a banner year for businesses that rely on the sport in West and Central Texas.

"Dove hunting is a good thing not only for Stephens County but the surrounding counties as well," said Bob Donnell, executive vice president of the Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce. "They fill every motel and restaurant in Stephens, Young, Throckmorton and Shackelford counties."

He was encouraged by an ongoing study of dove hunting's economic impact on the city about 90 miles west of Fort Worth.

"We should have some preliminary numbers in a week or so, and we expect them to be very good news indeed," Donnell told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Breckenridge lies almost in the center of the doves' annual fly way, which is about 100 miles wide. It begins just west of Fort Worth toward Breckenridge and Throckmorton, then runs south down through Coleman, Brownwood, Hamilton and Comanche.

In Comanche, about 100 miles south of Breckenridge, the results were similar.

"All of us in Comanche realize just how important hunting is to our economy," said Sherry Reynolds of the Comanche Chamber of Commerce. "On opening day, our motels and the motels in the towns around us are filled with hunters. They'll take any spot of ground available."

Hamilton County, a traditional dove hunting hot spot about 40 miles southeast of Comanche, has celebrated the weekend of the Sept. 1 opening day for the past 26 years with a Dove Hunting Festival.

"It was outstanding," Pam Gammage, the festival chairwoman and chamber president, said.

"We're still trying to pull all the numbers together, but it looks like we had about 7,000 to 8,000 people here, which is up considerable from last year's 5,000," she said.

About 5,000 hunters stayed to fill motels and restaurants and spend money in area stores.

"It has traditionally been our biggest weekend of the year for revenues," said Don Haile, a former Hamilton chamber manager who now owns a string of convenience stores.

statement saying that there was no evidence of criminal intent on the part of Richards or her staff.

Karen Hughes, spokeswoman for the campaign of GOP gubernatorial challenger George W. Bush, reacted to Earle's statement, charging that records were improperly shredded in Richards' office and that senior staffers told different stories why the shredding occurred in an effort to cover it up.

Richards' chief of staff, John Fainter, said he approved the destruction of the phone records because the governor's office was drowning in paper, and that he misunderstood rules requiring that phone bills be retained for three years.

Judges Asked to Redraw Lines

A group of Republicans has presented a three-judge federal court panel in Houston a plan to reshape half of the state's congressional districts before the Nov. 8 statewide election.

The state, however, has asked the panel to keep the current boundaries — drawn by the Legislature in 1991 — intact for the election.

The judges ruled on Aug. 17 that of the state's 30 congressional districts, one in Dallas and two in Houston are racially gerrymandered and must be redrawn to comply with the U.S. Constitution. Redrawing those districts will affect dozens of contiguous districts.

Lawyers for the GOP plaintiffs say the proposed new districts are more compact and would help minorities gain seats, but Texas Attorney General Dan Morales argued that if new lines are to be drawn, they should be drawn in the next session of the Legislature.

The Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission last week rejected a proposal to ban happy hours but promised to consider new restrictions on such promotions as nickel-beer nights.

Mothers Against Drunk Driving has been urging the commission to eliminate happy hours, contending they encourage heavy drinking over a short period of time.

But bar owners and the Texas Restaurant Association argued that such regulations would limit competition and amount to price-fixing.

TABC chairman Ray Orr of DeSoto, said he and his colleagues are convinced that a happy hour ban is warranted, but they will look at some new restrictions in October.

Gibson to Leave Chamber Post

Bruce Gibson, former Democratic state representative from Godley, will leave his post as president of the Texas Chamber of Commerce to become vice president for government affairs at Houston Industries Inc., whose holdings include Houston Lighting & Power Co.

There are reports that Gibson may not be replaced at the chamber, which is continuing merger talks with the Texas Association of Business.

Other Highlights

State Rep. Ben Campbell, R-Carrollton, has until Sept. 6 to appeal his April federal court conviction for bank fraud, affecting whether he can be replaced on the Nov. 8 general election ballot. On Aug. 26, Campbell was sentenced to 31 months in prison and five years probation upon release. U.S. District Judge Paul Brown also ordered the senator to pay $540,229 in restitution and to report to prison in 30 days.

New Jersey Gov. Christine Todd Whitman warned both Republican and Democratic candidates about attacking women as soft on crime. "Women care about crime as much as anybody else," said the first-term governor while campaigning last week for George W. Bush, the GOP nominee for governor, and Republican U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison.

Only one of three 1987 winners of New York lottery enjoys life

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the Hope Diamond or the treasures of Tutankhamen, a $15 million lottery jackpot from 1987 seems to have brought its owners as much grief as gold.

Three people shared the prize. Only one remains. A car wreck and old age sent the other two on to a higher reward before they could collect most of their shares.

What's more, their estates suffered cash problems — more bad news for the heirs, but good news for anyone rich enough to buy up what remained of the winnings.

Keith Solomon and Dora Saxon are the only New York Lotto jackpot winners ever to have their tickets put up for auction. Solomon's was sold in 1992; Mrs. Saxon's goes on the block September 20.

Only Richard E. Cibelli Sr., who was 55 when he won, is still alive and collecting.

Spared from the Curse of the Killer Ticket, Cibelli built a pharmacy and medical supply business and plans to retire this year.

The three winners selected numbers 8, 19, 21, 41, 46 and 48 on $1 lottery tickets for the drawing of July 22, 1987. Each received a check for $238,095 on the spot, to be followed by 20 annual payments of about $145,000 after taxes.

Solomon, a 55-year-old porter, cashed only two checks before a fatal auto accident in 1988. With estate taxes and expenses mounting, his heirs had to auction off what was left.

The successful bidder, an insurance company, paid $2.075 million for the last 16 payments worth $3.8 million — and figured its ultimate return would be a shade under 10 percent a year.

As for Mrs. Saxon, a 78-year-old widow who died in 1992, the Surrogate Court has approved a Sept. 20 auction for the $3.12 million still due her over the next 13 years.

Bidders must post $155,975 bond just to get in the door — 10 percent of the minimum bid set by the estate.

Joseph Kurey of Citibank, which is an executor, called the $1.56 million minimum a bargain, returning nearly 12 percent a year. The estate hoped brisk bidding might boost the price to $1.8 million.

Although Solomon's was the first ticket ever auctioned by an estate, there have been court-approved cash buyouts of other winners who collected their eternal reward before their cash, said state Lottery spokesman Bill Murray.

In March 1993, heirs of Earl T. Williams, a Buffalo construction worker who won $1.5 million in 1983, sold the $870,000 remaining in his jackpot for $490,000 to pay off estate taxes and debts.

Cibelli's hoping his good luck can continue. He still buys Lotto tickets every week.

"I bought $300 worth of tickets for the last one," he said. "Nothing won, not even for a small prize, but it's fun anyway."

Ragweed count signals onset of hay fever season

DALLAS (AP) — Itchy, watery eyes and repeated sneezing signal what's ahead for many North Texans and this year may be particularly miserable.

Ragweed thrived during the relatively mild, wet summer and the season is here.

"I'd say it's going to be a bad year," said Benny Simpson of the Texas Agricultural Experimental Station in Dallas.

Ragweed plants, whose giant variety can grow to be 6 feet or higher, spew pollen until they exhaust themselves or until the first killing frost. Its spikes of flowers produce much discomfort, with the microscopic pollen released into air until it reaches another flower. Or worse, your nose.

"It's a light pollen that blows around real bad," said Dr. Dor Brown, a Fredericksburg, Texas, physician who's been studying allergies for decades. "Ragweed will blow 500 miles."

The noxious plant is found all over the Lone Star State.

But that's not the end of the pollen problem. If the ragweed doesn't get you, something else might — cedar elm, mountain cedar or eastern red cedar. In the spring, it's the grasses.

While physicians say over-the-counter remedies can lessen many symptoms, sufferers should close their home and car windows and use a dust mask when working in the yard.
