Governors tell Senate they want health plan

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's governors are trying to nudge Congress toward limited health care reform while Senate aides toil over a voluminous bill for their bosses to consider next month.

Leaders of the National Governors' Association said they "remain committed to bipartisan health care reform this year" and praised a bill being pushed by the "mainstream group" of about 20 Senate moderates in both parties.

A letter Thursday to Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., chief sponsor of the pared-back bipartisan alternative, stopped short of an outright endorsement.

But the letter said the measure "contains provisions that are extremely important to governors." It was signed by the NGA's chairman, Democratic Gov. Howard Dean of Vermont; vice chairman, Republican Gov. Tommy Thompson of Wisconsin; and the co-chairmen of the health care task force, GOP Gov. Carroll Campbell of South Carolina and Democratic Gov. Roy Romer of Colorado.

Separate letters also went out to Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, and Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., warning against "unacceptable cost shifts to states" in any new bill.

"There's this growing sentiment that the mainstream bill is the vehicle" for reform this year, and that it "has by far got more of the meat that the states are interested in," said an NGA official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

With lawmakers on vacation, Senate aides continued a series of informal discussions aimed at refining the mainstream measure and reconciling it where possible with a more ambitious bill that had been offered by Mitchell. They hoped to avoid the partisan roadblocks that killed off more ambitious Democratic reform efforts.

The mainstream bill includes insurance reforms, premium subsidies for the poor, deficit reduction and cost containment provisions.

Others in the mainstream group, as well as Dole, were being kept informed, aides said.

"Our view is that this proposal is a bridge between the two leaders (Mitchell and Dole) and truly represents the political middle," said one mainstream staff member.

"They're going to go as far as they can until they hit heavy resistance," said a lobbyist for a health care providers' group who is monitoring the process. "If this works, it's going to be like a freight train rumbling through the station."

The bill now has "lots of potential for having some things hung onto it," said the lobbyist, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "But if they cause delay, they'll get jettisoned very quickly."

RTC workers file $2 million suit against federal agency

WASHINGTON (AP) - Four Resolution Trust Corp. employees, including a Dallas lawyer, have sued the agency for $2 million, alleging it engaged in a pattern of retaliation against them for trying to expose waste, fraud and abuse.

Other plaintiffs are two attorneys from the RTC's Denver office and an asset manager in Valley Forge, Pa. Dallas attorney Juan Luis Burgos-Gandia is on administrative leave while agency officials review their decision to fire him. Burgos-Gandia contends the RTC retaliated against him when he tried to alert officials to the fact that a law firm was over-billing the government by charging $1,000 an hour for S&L cleanup work.

Others are contemplating joining the lawsuit, including L. Jean Lewis, the Kansas City investigator who prepared criminal referrals on a failed Arkansas savings and loan that mentioned President Clinton.

"I have talked to the Government Accountability Project, and we are giving consideration to joining their lawsuit," said Michael Forshey, Lewis' attorney. "We have not made a final decision yet."

"Ultimately, we anticipate having as many as 10 people in this suit," said Jeff Ruch, executive director of the Government Accountability Project, a whistleblower protection group.

The lawsuit, filed Thursday in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, alleges that the RTC systematically has targeted for retaliation employees who have testified before Congress, cooperated with General Accounting Office probes, or tried to alert the agency's inspector general to misconduct, waste, fraud and abuse.

The suit seeks an immediate injunction to end further harassment, and asks that personnel records be corrected, back pay issued, and the plaintiffs reinstated to their former posts.

The lawsuit is another public relations debacle for the S&L cleanup agency, which has been under intense scrutiny in recent months for leaks involving the investigation of Madison Guaranty Savings & Loan Association - the Arkansas thrift at the center of the Whitewater affair - and other matters.

"We're aware of the lawsuit, but we have not seen it and we cannot comment specifically," said RTC spokeswoman Felicia Neuringer.

Hutchison scheduled to visit town Saturday

U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas, will bring her reelection campaign to Hereford Saturday, for a one-hour public meeting set for 1:30 p.m. in Sirloin Stockade.

Residents are invited to attend the meeting, hear remarks by the senator and address any questions to her on the issues in the campaign.

Keith Ann Gearn, Hereford chairman for Sen. Hutchison, said Hutchison also will visit a feed yard.

The senator, she said, is making the Panhandle tour "to become more familiar with this area."

Room and to spare found in West Texas counties

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - In Loving County, Texas, there's plenty of elbow room for its 141 residents, who have 671 square miles of space to share.

Mentone, population 55, is not only the largest town in the county, it's the ONLY town in the West Texas county, which was named after a one-time trail boss and in 1931 became the last of Texas' 254 counties to organize.

According to 1992 Census Bureau figures to be issued today, Loving County is the nation's least-populated county, with seven times as many oil wells as people.

The 1994 County and City Data Book unveiled today by the Census Bureau is a 2-1/2-inch thick tome chock full of data about states, cities and counties - some useful, some arcane.

Joining Loving County among the nation's most sparsely populated category are King County, home of the famous 6666 Ranch, and Kenedy County, whose many ranches include the renowned King Ranch. Oil and gas also figure prominently in the economy, as they do in Loving County.

Of King County's 339 residents, 145 live in Guthrie, 90 miles east of Lubbock, while 190 of Kenedy County's 439 population live in Sarita, 60 miles southwest of Corpus Christi.

McKinley Hopper has lived in Mentone for 66 years and doesn't plan to leave soon.

"We really do love it," said Hopper, a former justice of the peace. "You do get acclimated. At least when you leave town, you're going somewhere."

And, you do have to leave town for schools, doctors or groceries. Students are taken 33 miles to Wink. Mentone's gas station has a few snacks, but the closest grocery store is in Pecos, 20 miles to the south on Interstate 20. Some people go instead to Kermit, 35 miles to the east.

Other services, including medical, are available in Odessa or Carlsbad, N.M., each about 80 miles away.

Few people have ever even been to Mentone. You don't go through there to get anywhere. Mentone sits by itself on State Highway 302, about five miles off the U.S. 285 route from Pecos to Carlsbad. Rolling prairies drain into the Pecos River, which winds its way into Loving County from New Mexico.

The latest census figures list Llano County, about 75 miles northwest of Austin, with the highest percentage of senior citizens than any other county nationwide. Thirty-four percent of its residents are over the age of 65.

The latest census figures also give Loving County top billing - or last billing, depending up your perspective - in another category: carpooling. Fewer people commute to work in that West Texas county than any other place in the United States.

Only 5 of the county's 141 residents ride to work together, the census figures show. That figures out to 3.5 percent compared to a national average of 13.4 percent. The county has only 57 workers age 16 and older.

Loving County claims one of the nation's smallest concentrations of inhabitants - one person for every five square miles. That's a far cry from the nation's most-concentrated area, New York County, with 52,432 people per square mile.

But Texas also lays claim to some of the most-populated counties.

Only two counties - Los Angeles County and Cook County, Ill. (Chicago) - have larger populations than Harris County (Houston) and its 2.9 million residents. Dallas County is 11th, with 1.9 million people while Bexar County (San Antonio) is 25th, with 1.2 million.

Between 1980 and 1992, Harris County recorded the nation's sixth largest population growth, gaining more than 562,000 residents; Tarrant County (Fort Worth) was 10th,

U.S. judge questions adequacy of breast implant settlement

By JAY REEVES
Associated Press Writer
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - A judge questioned the adequacy of a $4.25 billion settlement of breast implant claims even as he made it the largest single product liability agreement in U.S. history.

Critics have been warning for months that there won't be enough money to pay the tens of thousands of women in the first round of payments, which could begin next spring. U.S. District Judge Sam Pointer agreed on Thursday, saying it was "the court's guess" that more money would be needed. But those doubts aren't enough to torpedo the deal, he wrote in an order approving the settlement.

"I don't think that anyone at this point thinks the $4.25 billion is going to be enough, me included," said Ralph Knowles, a lawyer who negotiated for the plaintiffs.

Some critics contend that as much as $200 billion is needed to adequately compensate implant recipients. Knowles said that was "unrealistic."

Court-appointed administrators will now determine whether there is enough money to pay the claims. If there isn't, payments could be reduced and women given the chance to pursue individual lawsuits.

After attorneys for women in other countries said the settlement left them too little, Pointer increased the amount of money set aside for foreign women from about $81 million to $96.6 million.

Joyce Attis of Toronto, who had her implants removed in 1992 after 20 years and blames a number of ailments on them, called the settlement "disgusting and despicable."

"It's like taking a toothpick from a tree," said Attis, 43. "That little amount means nothing by the time it's divided up among all the women."

Implant recipient Barbara Herzog of Lakeview, Pa., wanted more than money.

"They have made nothing remotely resembling an apology," she said. "Women would still like that very much."

The companies did not admit wrongdoing in the settlement.

Women have claimed that silicone gel from the implants leaked into their bodies and caused chronic pain, immune system diseases such as lupus, scleroderma (hardening of the skin) and other disorders.

Under the settlement, American women will get lump-sum payments ranging from $105,000 to $1.4 million, depending on their age and health. Foreign women will get 40 percent to 90 percent of the amounts granted U.S. women, depending on where they live.

If no appeals are filed, the companies must make initial payments of more than $900 million in mid-October.

Pointer has said a maximum of $1 billion would go to attorneys fees and administrative cost over the 30-year life of the agreement.

More than 90,500 women have made claims, 500 of them from abroad.

About 15,000 women, half of whom live outside the United States, have rejected the pact and can pursue individual lawsuits.

Bad loans endanger eligibility of schools

WASHINGTON (AP) - Students skipping out on their loan repayments have put 92 Texas trade schools in danger of losing their eligibility to participate in the government's student loan programs.

Overall, almost 19 percent of the 142,751 students who attended one of Texas' 538 trade schools in 1992 were in default, according to loan default rates released Thursday by the Education Department.

Sixty of the Texas schools are among 447 nationwide at risk of losing eligibility for the main student loan program, the Federal Family Education Loan Programs, because their default rates have hit 25 percent or higher for three straight years.

The other 32 are among 376 schools in danger of having their students cut off from all federal student loans and grants because their default rates are at least 45 percent or they haven't demonstrated at least a 5 percent drop in defaults to 40 percent or less.

The Texas default rate of 18.8 percent was somewhat worse than the 15 percent national average. Nevada's 34 percent default rate was the nation's highest, while Montana had the lowest, with 5 percent.

Students are considered in default if they were supposed to begin repaying in 1992 and had not made a payment within 180 days.

While schools are not directly involved in giving government-backed student loans, they can be held responsible if many of their ex-students are not paying back the money.

That's because the schools may be offering such poor training that graduates have no reasonable hope of finding employment in their chosen field. Or they may be training people for jobs that pay so little that graduates can't pay off the debt.

Fifty-nine of the at-risk Texas schools are hairdressing, beauty or cosmetology schools.

A Houston business and secretarial school, Chenier, had the state's highest default rate - with 82 percent of students with loans defaulting on them. School officials didn't return a call seeking comment.

The state's second-highest defaulter was John's Beauty College in Texas City, with 76 percent. The school closed its doors in April, said former administrator Cernice Armstrong.

Taxpayers are expected to spend $2 billion this year paying off uncollected student loans, down from a peak $3.6 billion in 1991, said Education Secretary Richard Riley.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In response to the letter from "Dad in Anaheim," it is true that there are signs from the very beginning that a marriage isn't going to work. I chose to ignore many of those signs and am willing to admit it in the hope that I can help some young women make better choices than I did. My experience is the result of 20 years of marriage, if you add my three marriages together. Here is my advice:

To My Daughter

If and when Mr. Wonderful shows up and scores three or more on the following test, I have one word of advice: Run!

1. He sees a toilet brush in the bathroom but cannot identify it.
2. He tells you he loves you and asks you to marry him on the first date.
3. You meet his father, who is a "control freak," and his mother, the "family nebbish," whose only purpose in life has been to please her husband. (She probably has ulcers and numerous other intestinal problems and doesn't have any idea why she is sick so much.)
4. He begins to advise you on ways you can change yourself so you will be more acceptable to his family and friends.

5. He borrows $5,000 in an "emergency" but doesn't offer to pay it back since it will soon be "our" money anyway.

6. He consistently refers to other people as "jerks, morons and idiots"—especially while driving.

7. He doesn't understand why you aren't thrilled with the towels he brought you (as a gift) from the hotel he stayed at when he was away on vacation.

8. You shop with him for eight hours at 15 different men's stores. When you glance toward the women's department, his eyes glaze over, and he tells you how tired he is.

9. His long-term plans for the future include winning the lottery and/or the Publishers' Clearing House Sweepstakes.

10. You cook a gourmet meal he enjoys in silence, and he is shocked that you want him to help clean up the kitchen. (Men who have this warped attitude will feel the same about children.)

11. He reminds you daily how "lucky" you are to have him.

12. His most frequent (and automatic) response to your opinions is, "That's a lot of B.S."

Beware of the man who exhibits the aforementioned failings but insists that he just "loves women." Translated, this means "Put a bag on their heads, and they all look alike."—Single and Content in Clayton, Calif.

DEAR SINGLE AND CONTENT: You sound like a woman who picked some lemons in those California orange groves. Thanks for the input. You've made some valid points.

DEAR READERS: We can all use a good laugh today, and this was mine: A wife was standing on a ladder painting the kitchen ceiling while her husband was watching a football game on TV. "Dear," she called out, "if I fall off, will you promise to call the ambulance at half time?"

Gem of the Day: Laughter is an incredible shock-absorber. It can soften a great many bumps in life. We should use it more often.

Herd pulls together for win against Tascosa

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor
The Hereford Whitefaces defined "team effort" Thursday night in Amarillo, overcoming the first-play loss of tailback Marquise Brown to defeat the Tascosa Rebels 23-7 in the season-opener at Dick Bivins Stadium.

Hereford quarterback Michael

Brown, reserve tailback Armando Zambrano and a fired-up offensive line produced 256 rushing yards. Only one of those yards came from Marquise Brown, a 1,000-yard rusher last year, who sprained his ankle on the first play of Thursday's game. The term "team effort" is used much too often by coaches, but Hereford coach Danny Haney may be excused after Thursday's game.

"That was a great team effort," he said. "Marquise went down on the first play, and they pulled together, were able to put together a drive and scored and got themselves on top. That was a perfect example of this being a team sport."

Michael Brown added 129 yards though the air. He connected with wideout Marc Haney on two nearly-identical scoring tosses in the first half. The first was a 31-yarder that capped the first drive of the season; the second came with eight seconds left in the first half, giving Hereford a 13-7 lead.

Brown also ran for 119 yards on 15 carries, including a 44-yard touchdown run. Zambrano filled in with 101 yards rushing on 25 carries, and played middle linebacker for most of the game.

"I knew I had to get out there and fill in and play as hard as he can," Zambrano said. "This (game) goes to the line. The line dominated, killed 'em, killed their two-techniques (tackles). If it wasn't for them, I would have been in the backfield every play."

The 385 yards of total offense—and the 194 yards the Herd defense limited the Rebels to—were a vindication for the Hereford team, which had played badly the week before in a scrimmage against Amarillo High. "I felt when we played Amarillo High, we weren't focused on what we had to do," said offensive lineman Terance High, whose 29-yard field goal in the fourth quarter gave Hereford a 16-7 lead. "Tonight we came out and knew what we had to do, and we couldn't let what happened against Amarillo High affect our performance."

The opening drive took seven plays. Marquise Brown's 28-yard kickoff return got the Herd off to a good start, but on the first play from scrimmage, Brown took a pitch to the right, gained one yard and appeared to twist around on the tackle.

Herd fans held their breath as a stretcher was brought out, but it was never used. Brown was assisted from the field and didn't return to the game.

He was walking gingerly on it after the game, though, and X-rays taken this morning turned up negative. It was a sprain, and coach Haney said the earliest he'd be back would be the third game of the season against Coronado.

When play resumed, Michael Brown ran 12 yards. Zambrano had runs of nine and five yards, setting up the touchdown pass. Haney streaked down the left sideline one step ahead of the Rebel cornerback. Brown's throw floated through the air and nestled into Haney's arms at the goal line with Haney never breaking stride.

"The corner had good coverage; the pass was just perfect," Marc Haney said. "All I had to do was catch it."

Zambrano kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 9:01 left in the first.

The Herd defense stopped Tascosa cold in the Rebels first turn with the ball. After a punt, Hereford put together a 10-play, 55-yard drive that appeared to end in a Brown-to-Ronald Torres 10-yard touchdown pass, but a holding penalty brought it back. On fourth-down-and-21 at the Tascosa 28-yard line, Brian Kelleher picked off Brown's pass.

Hereford quarterback Michael Brown dives over a pair of Tascosa defenders. Brown's 119 yards rushing and 129 yards passing led the Herd to a 23-7 victory in the season-opener against Tascosa Thursday in Amarillo.

High school season starts with big games

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - The wait is over. High school football is back and if the first weekend's schedule is any indication, this could be one heck of a season.

The season kicks off in force tonight with a slate of great matchups. Several new coaches make their debuts, and it'll be the first chance for teams caught in the biennial realignment to get acquainted with their new classes.

The highlight among highlights this weekend is the Houston-area clash between No. 1 Aldine MacArthur and No. 2 Willowridge, which many say could be the first Week One meeting of Class 5A's top two teams.

"All I'd heard this summer was MacArthur and Willowridge - what a great game this is going to be," said MacArthur quarterback Odell James, the junior sensation who led the Generals to last year's Division II title game. "Everybody at school is excited about it."

They're also excited at Willowridge, although Eagles coach Anthony Thompson wants to tone down the hype. He realizes that will be nearly impossible with a packed house at MacArthur's Thorne Stadium and cameras crammed along the sidelines.

"We don't need a bunch of excited players right now," Thompson said. "We've got to remember it's a non-district game, the first of the year, and it has no bearing on playoffs."

That's the coaching cliché of the week this time of year, and it's one that will be heard in locker rooms throughout the state as coaches reassure their teams that the opener is really just a tuncup for district play.

Because the game is a testing tool for coaches, they often play at least one of their non-district games against tougher opponents to get a feel for their caliber.

Still, it's unusual to have this many top games on an opening weekend.

For example, the third-ranked team in Class 5A is defending Division II champion Lewisville. The Farmers open against Plano, last season's Division I runner-up.

Fourth-ranked Dallas Carter has a Saturday meeting with top area rival DeSoto; defending Division I champion Converse Judson is ranked fifth and plays usually strong San Angelo Central.

No. 7 Alief Elsik plays La Porte, No. 8 Richardson Lake Highlands meets Irving Nimitz, No. 9 Eules

Trinity plays Arlington Bowie, and No. 10 Abilene Cooper takes on Brownwood.

The 4A schedule has several marquee games, the top one being No. 3 McKinney against No. 7 Waxahachie and its new coach - Thomas Brooks, last season's defensive coordinator who was promoted when Scott Phillips went to Plano East.

Defending champion Stephenville has spent the last few weeks fighting UIL allegations that resulted in two private reprimands. The Yellowjackets must return their focus to the field as they meet Saginaw Boswell.

Yet another good game is the regional rivalry between No. 5 La Marque and Galveston Ball, which is now coached by Nick Voris.

There's one other game in the class worth noting: the 4A debut of Southlake Carroll.

The defending 3A champs were realigned into the higher class, yet still face a 3A foe in Bridgeport as they seek to add to their state-record 71-game regular-season winning streak.

Now that Carroll has vacated the 3A throne, Cuero has inherited the top spot. The Gobblers will be broken in by opening against No. 5 Columbus.

Another meeting between ranked 3A teams involves No. 7 Coldspring and No. 8 Sweeny.

Second-ranked Vernon hosts an intrastate foe in Altus, Okla., No. 3 Gainesville meets Wichita Falls Hirschi, and No. 4 Sealy opens with Luling.

The two lowest classes have no games between ranked teams, but there are still some interesting games.

Schulenburg, which voters made the most dominant No. 1 pick, begins its hunt for a third title in four years by taking on Hallettsville.

The Shorthorns began workouts without star running back Jason Houston, who reported to the team late, but he is expected to play Friday.

Defending 2A champion Goldthwaite is ranked fifth and will open the year at Comanche.

Sudan, last year's 1A winner, opens the season ranked second and meets Stratford.

Top-ranked Thorndale opens at Franklin, and No. 3 Bremond, which lost to Sudan in last year's finals, plays Calvert.

Realignment among the state's smallest schools makes this weekend special for a handful of teams giving up 6-man to begin playing 11-man football for the first time.

Cowboys must keep Foster from ruling middle

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys know what's coming: all 218 pounds of Barry Foster right down the middle of their rebuilt defense, relentlessly, ceaselessly, until they stop it. If they ever do.

Play after play, quarter after quarter they'll see it Sunday: No. 29 off-tackle left, No. 29 off-tackle right, No. 29 straight up the gut behind All-Pro center Dermontti Dawson.

There are no secrets about the Pittsburgh Steelers' battering ram of an offense. They've been waiting months to unleash a healthy Foster for four quarters, and they plan to do exactly that against the two-time defending Super Bowl champions.

And if Foster gets tired or needs a few plays off, they'll throw in rookie Bam Morris, their top exhibition rusher.

First ram, then Bam.

"We can't let them control our defense with their running game," Cowboys coach Barry Switzer said. "There's nothing in the world I love more on the sideline than seeing Russell Maryland and Charles Haley and Tony Tolbert sitting there on the bench, resting, while our offense is eating the clock up. Pittsburgh will try to do that to us."

Of course, perhaps the only thing Foster dislikes more than a pack of blitzing linebackers on a third-down draw is a pack of reporters, and he usually dodges the Pittsburgh media as effectively as he does a tentative cornerback.

Just as his powerful, unyielding running punishes defenses, Foster himself sometimes takes battering from the media for his unfriendly behavior. Maybe Dallas reporters didn't know how rare it was when a joking, talkative Foster was interviewed on a telephone conference call earlier this week.

Foster revealed more to the Dallas reporters in 10 minutes than he has to the Pittsburgh press in six weeks.

"Barry is a fine young man who is very, very protective of his privacy," team president Dan Rooney told Steelers Digest, the team newspaper. "When he has something to say, he says it. We believe you have to let people be themselves, and we don't muscle people for what they say or don't say."

What Foster has said so far about his surgically repaired ankle has been virtually nothing, although he now says he's "97 percent healed."

So, careful to protect his feature back for the grind of the 16-game regular season, coach Bill Cowher gave him the ball only 21 times in three exhibitions.

"We feel good about where Barry's at," Cowher said.

Right now, that's back on the field, ready to play Sunday against the team he watched as a youngster. It's a big game, not only because it matches the NFL's two top rushers in 1992, Emmitt Smith and Foster, but also because all the folks back in Foster's hometown of Duncanville, Texas, will be watching.

"I'm getting pumped up just because it's Game 1," Foster said. "I want to go out and set the tempo for the rest of the season for the team and myself."

Beating the two-time defending Super Bowl champion Cowboys would set a positive tone for the Steelers, but keeping Foster healthy and productive would be even more important. The AFC's top rusher with 1,690 yards in 1992, he was again on a nearly 100 yards per game pace when he was hurt midway through last season.

How much did Foster's injury hurt? The Steelers were 6-3 with Foster playing and 3-5 without him.

"I have to deal with (the ankle injury) after football, so I'm going to always make that decision and I don't regret it one bit," Foster said of his surgery. "This wasn't a decision for my teammates or my coaches. I want to put it behind me and go out there and show the NFL I can still be what I want to be."

Stokes returns to lead UCLA in clash with Tennessee Vols

By The Associated Press
UCLA is thrilled that J.J. Stokes decided to return for his senior season. Tennessee isn't.

If Stokes had turned pro, the 13th-ranked Volunteers wouldn't have to worry about stopping the All-America receiver Saturday when they meet the No. 14 Bruins at the Rose Bowl.

"I don't think they're going to be able to stop J.J.," said UCLA quarterback Wayne Cook.

Stokes caught 82 passes for 1,181 yards and 17 touchdowns last season. He finished seventh in the Heisman Trophy balloting, highest among returning players.

"Everybody knows about J.J. Stokes," said Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer. "He's a great football player. I've compared him to (former Tennessee receivers) Carl Pickens and Alvin Harper, only he's probably a better runner."

The 6-foot-5, 223-pound Stokes said he has no regrets about passing up big bucks from the NFL to stay in school.

"I didn't come too close (to leaving)," he said. "I'm happy with my decision."

If Tennessee tries to double-team Stokes, it could get burned by one of UCLA's other talented receivers. They include junior Kevin Jordan, who had 45 receptions for 612 yards last season.

"People double-cover Stokes and all of a sudden, Kevin Jordan is making the play," Fulmer said. "So our defense will have a challenge."

In other games involving ranked teams Saturday, it's New Mexico State at No. 1 Florida; No. 3 Notre Dame at Northwestern; Virginia at No. 4 Florida State; Boston College at No. 5 Michigan; Georgia Southern at No. 6 Miami; Northeast Louisiana at No. 8 Colorado; No. 9 Penn State at Minnesota; Tennessee-Chattanooga at No. 11 Alabama; No. 12 Auburn at Mississippi; No. 15 Texas A&M at LSU; No. 16 Oklahoma at Syracuse; No. 23 Washington at No. 17 Southern Cal; Texas Christian at No. 18 North Carolina; No. 19 Texas at Pittsburgh; Arkansas State at No. 21 Virginia Tech; and Furman at No. 24 Clemson.

On Thursday night, No. 7 Arizona beat Georgia Tech 19-14 and Washington edged No. 22 Illinois 10-9.

UCLA went 8-4 last season, including a 21-16 loss to Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl. Stokes thinks the Bruins can do even better this year despite a rugged schedule that includes six opponents currently ranked in the Top 25.

"I don't see any reason why we shouldn't win all our games," he said.

Stopping Stokes isn't the only challenge facing Tennessee, which is coming off a 9-2-1 season. The Volunteers open with a new quarterback (senior Jerry Colquitt replaces Heisman runner-up Heath Shuler) and an inexperienced defensive line, where all four starters graduated.

"We lost a number of people who will be tough to replace," Fulmer said.

Tennessee holds a 5-3-2 edge in the series against UCLA, including a 30-16 victory in their last meeting in 1991.

"We have a great rivalry with UCLA," Fulmer said. "Intersectional games are important to us and the Southeastern Conference."

No. 7 Arizona 19, Georgia Tech 14
At Atlanta, freshman reserve Kevin Luginbill's 22-yard pass to Charlie Simmons with 10:56 left and Elliott Fortune preserved the lead with 7:14 remaining when he blocked Steve McLaughlin's 31-yard field goal.

Washington State 10, No. 22 Illinois 9
At Chicago, Mark Fields returned a fumble 71 yards for a touchdown late in the first half and the Cougars limited the Illini to Chris Richardson's three field goals.

Bret Scheuplein missed on a 57-yard field goal attempt as time expired for Illinois, which drew only 39,472 to 66,950-seat Soldier Field for its first game in Chicago in 55 years.

Strike talks move behind scenes

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball's bargaining table is officially quiet heading into the Labor Day weekend, but there has been some activity behind the scenes.

Sources told the Associated Press that a meeting was held Wednesday among Colorado Rockies owner Jerry McMorris, union head Donald Fehr and his brother, Steve, an agent who also advises the players' association.

Although the meeting was described as basically unproductive, the sides did have a substantive dialogue free of the familiar public posturing.

The sources who revealed the meeting, speaking on the condition they not be identified, said the McMorris-Fehr meeting may have been the first significant session since owners reopened the collective bargaining agreement on Dec. 7, 1992.

But as the strike entered its fourth week, federal mediators saw no point in calling another formal bargaining session. Management negotiator Richard Ravitch insists on a salary cap, and players say they'll never agree to one.

"There's no news on my end," mediator John Martin said Thursday from Boston. "We talk every day with them."

"Nothing has changed of which I am aware," Donald Fehr said Thursday afternoon.

There was an additional conflict Thursday. With active rosters allowed to expand to 40 on Sept. 1, the Pittsburgh Pirates recalled pitcher Randy Tomlin, who had been on the disabled list at Buffalo of the American Association. The move put the pitcher on strike and halted his $975,000 salary, which comes to $5,328 per day.

Eugene Orza, the No. 2 official of the Major League Baseball Players

Association, said the union will file both a default notice and a grievance against the Pirates.

After the union files a default notice, the team would have 10 days to correct the default or risk having arbitrator George Nicolau declare the player a free agent. Nicolau also would decide if the team must pay Tomlin for the period he is on strike.

Orza said the union also will file a default notice and grievance over the Texas Rangers' recall of infielder Jeff Huson, which was announced Wednesday night.

Texas put two more players on strike Thursday, recalling outfielder David Hulse from Oklahoma City and purchasing the contract of outfielder Rob Ducey from the Triple A club. Orza said he would speak with the two before deciding how the union will react in their cases.

Later in the day, the Chicago Cubs announced the recall of pitcher Steve Trachsel from Iowa of the American Association.

The strike canceled nine more games Thursday, raising the total to 269, nearly 12 percent of the season. Major league baseball won't be played on Labor Day for the first time since it became a national holiday in 1894.

Ravitch said he had a conversation early in the day with John Calhoun Wells, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

HERD

but Torres fumbled on the punt return, and Tascosa fullback Joel Hill rambled for 34 yards to the Hereford nine-yard line. That was the last play of the first quarter.

Then it was Tascosa's turn to have a TD pass brought back on a penalty, illegal motion. An eight-yard loss on a fumble which Tascosa got back and two penalties made it fourth-and-goal from the 27, and the Rebels turned the ball over on downs.

Tascosa forced a punt from Hereford, and Hereford forced a punt but gave it back. A running-into-the-punter penalty gave the Rebels a second chance, and they took advantage for a 42-yard touchdown pass.

Flanker Ryan Gilbert went high and pulled a pass away from Herd cornerback Tanner Murphey. Gilbert stumbled but regained his balance and beat the rest of the Herd defense to the end zone. Jeff Jones, the quarterback who threw the pass, kicked the extra point for a 7-7 tie with 2:19 left in the half.

Hereford started at its own 30 and drove 70 yards in eight plays, this time scoring on a 33-yard pass from Brown to Haney, who had to perform a tightrope walk on the sideline and scored with eight seconds left. Zambrano missed the extra point kick.

Tascosa had time for one play before halftime, and Hereford's Jacob Moreno picked off Jones' pass at the Hereford 45. He returned it all the way to the 20 before being dragged down. Hereford led 13-7 at halftime.

Jacob Lopez found it at the Tascosa 25-yard line.

"I think they got confused," Lopez said. The Rebel across from Lopez "was looking at me, ready to block me. I ran over him, saw the ball and grabbed it."

Hereford couldn't score, though. Brown was stopped for a two-yard loss on fourth-and-three from the seven-yard line.

Tascosa put together its best drive, going 61 yards to the Hereford 30, but a sack by David Hicks separated the ball from Jones, and Hereford recovered.

The second half was full of turnovers, and the win can be attributed to the Herd defense's ability to keep Tascosa from capitalizing on them. In the first five minutes of the fourth quarter, Zambrano lost a fumble and Brown threw an interception. Both times, Tascosa turned the ball over on the very next play, both on fumbles.

Hereford took advantage of the second fumble for High's 29-yard field goal, making it 16-7 with 5:37 left in the game.

Lopez intercepted Jones on fourth-and-seven, and three plays later, Brown swept left, cut back right and dashed 44 yards for a touchdown. Martin Martinez kicked this extra point, and Hereford led 23-7 with 3:24 left.

Tascosa turned the ball over on downs with four incomplete passes--two defensed by Martinez and Michael Marquez. Hereford ran four times just to eat up the clock and turned the ball over on downs. Jones fumbled once more Tascosa's sixth turnover of the game. Three more runs by the Herd ended the game.

Association, said the union will file both a default notice and a grievance against the Pirates.

After the union files a default notice, the team would have 10 days to correct the default or risk having arbitrator George Nicolau declare the player a free agent. Nicolau also would decide if the team must pay Tomlin for the period he is on strike.

Orza said the union also will file a default notice and grievance over the Texas Rangers' recall of infielder Jeff Huson, which was announced Wednesday night.

Cottage cheese salad can be dressed up in new clothes

By The Associated Press

Think of a cottage cheese salad and you're likely to conjure up images of an old-fashioned diet plate. Not so with this salad, a zesty combination of fresh greens, creamy cottage cheese and crumbled feta cheese. A salsa-style topping made with diced tomatoes, red onion, mint and rosemary gives the salad a distinct Mediterranean flavor. Serve with pita bread for a brunch.

16-ounce carton cottage cheese
1 cup finely diced, seeded tomato
2/3 cup finely diced cucumber
1/4 cup finely diced red onion or chopped green onion
1 to 2 tablespoons white-wine vinegar or apple cider vinegar
1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint or 1 teaspoon dried mint
1 teaspoon finely chopped fresh rosemary or 1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary

Line four individual serving plates with spinach leaves. Scoop 1/2 cup cottage cheese into the center of each plate. In a bowl, stir together remaining ingredients except feta cheese. Season to taste with salt, pepper and a pinch of sugar. Spoon mixture over cottage cheese. Top with feta cheese. Surround salsa with pita chips. Makes 4 servings.

Spinach leaves or other salad greens

Salt, pepper and pinch of sugar
1/4 cup crumbled feta cheese
Heat oven to 450 degrees F. Cut pita pockets into wedges; brush with oil. Bake 7 to 10 minutes until crisp; set aside.

Women can reduce, substantially, cancer, heart disease, stroke risks

The numbers are sobering. In one year, 365,625 women will die of heart disease; 232,815 will die of some form of cancer; and 88,220 will die of stroke.

Heart disease, cancer and strokes are the three leading killers of women in this country. But women can lower their risks of these diseases by taking certain preventive steps.

Smoking tops the list of behaviors which increase the risk of cancer including lung cancer and cancer of the esophagus, mouth, throat, pancreas, bladder and kidney. Some people may be surprised to hear that lung cancer is the leading cancer killer among women, followed by breast and colon cancer.

Smoking also increases the risk of heart disease and stroke, and is a primary cause of chronic lung problems such as bronchitis and emphysema.

The good news about smoking is that the damage done by cigarettes can be reversed. Within 10 to 15 years of quitting, a former smoker's risk of lung cancer reverts to that of a nonsmoker. Within just weeks of quitting, chronic coughs often disappear completely.

Diet is another important factor in disease prevention. A high fat, high cholesterol diet increases a woman's chances of developing heart disease. Obesity, which is often a by-product of a fat-filled diet, can increase blood pressure, which is a contributing factor to heart disease and stroke.

A diet high in fats has also been associated with colon cancer. While a link to breast cancer has not been scientifically proven, some experts believe it is better to be on the safe side by avoiding a high-fat diet.

Your best defense is to lower the amount of fat and cholesterol and increase the fiber in your diet. This means cutting out or limiting consumption of eggs, cream, butter, margarine and other oils and fats. Eat lots of grains, beans, fruits and leafy green vegetables.

Finally, early detection is the best weapon against breast and colon cancers. For breast care, perform monthly breast self-exams, have an annual breast exam by your physician, and talk to your doctor about how often you should have a mammogram. For colon cancer, visit your gynecologist or other primary care physician for regular examinations and any recommended screening.

With a smoke-free, healthy lifestyle and regular checkups, you can help beat the odds and live a longer, more productive life.

In 1900, most Americans did not live past the age of 50. Today, the average life span is about 75 years.

Prayer To The Holy Spirit
Oh Holy Spirit! Thou Who art all knowing who brightens every path that I may reach my ideal. Thou who giveth me the divine gift of forgetting and forgiving wrongs done unto me and who in every instant of my life art with me. I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all my blessings and reaffirm once again that I never want to part again from Thee. Though the illusion of material things abound--my desire is to be with Thee and all my loved ones in perpetual grace. Thank You for Your mercy on me and my loved ones. Persons should pray three consecutive days without revealing petition. Within three days grace will be attained regardless of how difficult the petition may be. PUBLISH this prayer once grace has been attained.
Grateful for grace attained! PRG

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

ONE OF KING DAVID'S ENEMIES!

HADADEZER, KING OF ZOBAB IN SYRIA, (II SAM. 8:3) WAS A SWORN ENEMY OF KING DAVID OF ISRAEL! WHEN GOING, WITH HIS ARMY, TO RECOVER HIS BORDER AT THE RIVER EUPHRATES, HE WAS MET AND DEFEATED BY KING DAVID. THIS DEFEAT WAS A MAJOR ONE, FOR KING DAVID CAPTURED A THOUSAND CHARIOTS, AND 700 HORSEMEN, AND 20,000 FOOTMEN! (II SAM. 8:4) NOT ONLY THAT BUT, WHEN A FORCE OF SYRIANS FROM DAMASCUS ARRIVED TOO LATE TO HELP KING HADADEZER, KING DAVID'S ARMY SLEW 22,000 OF THEM! DAVID TOOK MANY GOLD SHIELDS AS TROPHIES OF WAR AND SENT THEM TO JERUSALEM, AND ALSO FROM THE CITIES OF HADADEZER, MUCH BRASS AND COPPER! AT A LATER DATE, KING HADADEZER CONSPIRED WITH THE AMMONITES TO RENEW HIS WAR WITH DAVID! HE GATHERED SOME LESSER KINGS TO HELP HIM--BUT DAVID STILL PREVAILED AND DEFEATED THE COMBINED FORCES TO THE TUNE OF SOME 40,000 SOLDIERS SLAIN, INCLUDING THE COMMANDING GENERAL, SHOBACH! AFTER THIS THE DEPENDENT KINGS, WHO HAD SERVED HADADEZER, ALL MADE PEACE WITH DAVID AND THIS WAS THE LAST HEARD ABOUT KING HADADEZER! (II SAM. 10:6-19)
