Homecoming royalty

Clarissa Ramirez and Michael Brown were crowned 1994 Hereford High School Homecoming Queen and King during the Homecoming pep rally held Friday afternoon.

HHS Homecoming highlights include pep rally, parade, game

The bodies were packed tight in the Hereford High School gym on Friday afternoon as the freshmen tried to out-yell the sophomores and the juniors tried to make more noise than the seniors.

The band belted out the school fight song, the cheerleaders jumped and yelled and a group of students on one side threw masses of shredded paper in the air.

All around the gym were displays of Herd pride -- 45 banners were taped to walls, roof beams and across the scoreboard.

From the light fixtures hung maroon and white streamers.

And everything was there for a good cause as Hereford High School celebrated Homecoming 1994, kicking off the festivities with the annual pep rally.

Events ended on a somewhat more sober note, however, as the Hereford High School football team was unable to pull off the upset of the Pampa Harvesters, losing 10-0 in their season finale at Whiteface Stadium.

The biggest drama of the afternoon's pep rally came with the selection of the Homecoming Queen and King.

There were three seniors vying for each throne -- Gina Brisendine, Clarissa Ramirez and Beth Weatherly for queen and Michael Brown, Gabriel Guerrero and Gregg Kalka for king.

When the moment of truth arrived, it was Clarissa Ramirez and Michael Brown receiving the congratulatory hugs from cheerleaders as they were crowned and led to their seats on a platform facing the football and volleyball teams.

The other seniors stayed on as attendants for the royal couple.

Other attendants announced were: Armando Zambrano and Natalie McWhorter, junior attendants; Cassie Abney, Rob Reinauer and Ruben Flores, sophomore attendants; and Sarah Chavez and Daniel Tijerina, freshman attendants.

As is traditional, members of both the varsity football and volleyball teams were presented with their official cow tags bearing their jersey numbers. Each member also got a hug and a homecoming ribbon.

As the rally wound through the Spirit Stick cheer-off and performances by the drill team, band and twirlers, students and adults alike crept off the bleachers and onto the floor, leaving an ever-narrowing band of open space in the middle of the floor.

Finally, after about 40 minutes, it was time to dismiss for the parade.

The band struck up the school song and the capacity crowd rose to its feet, arms upraised with a finger pointing to the sky in devotion to Hereford High.

Outside, scores of local residents braved cold temperatures and light rains to watch the parade wind its way from the high school to downtown.

The homecoming royalty whizzed by in a covered car, but the attendants braved the elements to ride on the back of convertibles.

Each class had its own float decorated along the theme of "60s - The Wonder Years." (See HOMECOMING, Page 2A)

Founder's Day dinner to be held here Thursday at King's Manor

King's Manor Methodist Home will host its annual Founder's Day Dinner on Thursday, Nov. 10, in the Lamar Room of the home.

The dinner is an annual fundraiser for the non-profit care center.

Funds raised through the dinner will be used to provide financial assistance to residents in need.

Keynote speaker for this year's event is the Rev. Jo Carr, a retired United Methodist pastor and District Superintendent.

Special entertainment will be provided by "The Old Masters of Swing," an ensemble from Plainview that performs many Big Band songs of the 1930s and 40s.

Carr is now a free-lance writer living in Lubbock. Her background also includes five years of service as a lay missionary in Southern Rhodesia.

She has a bachelor of science degree in home economics from Texas Tech University and she is active in several honor societies.

She has co-authored several books with Imogene Sorley, including Bless This Men and Other Prayers, The Intentional Family, Plum Jelly and Stained Glass and Other Prayers, Mocking Birds and Angel Songs and Other Prayers and Too Busy Not to Pray.

She communicates the beauties as well as the realities of everyday living in a way that leads to joyful and thankful living.

"The Old Masters of Swing" are five Plainview residents -- four retirees and one still working -- who have been playing together since 1956.

Dr. Gale Scigler, the guitarist, is an active physician; Arch Keys, the drummer, is a retired florist; Dr. Clovis Clough, trumpet, is a retired optometrist; Dr. Curtis Baldwin, string bass, is a retired dentist; and Jack Fuller, piano, is a retired professional musician.

All but Fuller have been together since the beginning. Fuller joined the group in 1982.

They play mostly "Big Band" tunes.

Two contested races on local ballots Tuesday

Deaf Smith County voters will go to the polls Tuesday to decide two contested races in the county as well as making their wishes known on a long ballot of state nominees.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Even before election day, a large number of Deaf Smith County residents had marked ballots during the early voting period which began Oct. 19 and ended Friday.

County Clerk David Ruland reported that 1,735 persons had voted shortly before early voting ended.

The number of early voters exceeds the number in 1990, a comparable non-presidential election year. That year, the early vote was 1,633 in a total vote of 4,305.

Hotly contested races for governor, U.S. Senator and a number of state offices have captured most of the attention this election year.

But, two races also will be decided in Deaf Smith County.

Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine is the Democratic incumbent, facing the challenge of a Republican, Dan Hall, for a new four-year term in office.

Another Democrat, Lupe Chavez, the incumbent Precinct 2 commissioner, is opposed by a Republican office-seeker, Conny Whitehorn.

Candidates unopposed for offices in Deaf Smith County include 222nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley, Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul, County Judge Tom Simons, District Clerk Lola Faye Veazey, County Clerk David Ruland, Surveyor Kenneth Hagar and Commissioner Johnny Latham of Precinct 4.

Running unopposed for county treasurer, Nan Rogers, won the March Democratic primary runoff to replace Vesta Mae Nunley who is retiring at the end of the year.

U.S. Representative Larry Combest, State Senator Teel Bivins and State Representative John Smithy, who represent Deaf Smith County, are all unopposed for reelection.

Voter rolls list 8,541 Deaf Smith County residents eligible to cast ballots in the general election.

Polls show Richards, Bush in close battle

By JEAN PAGEL Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP)--The banner-waving, elbow-to-elbow crowd spilled out into the rainy evening.

Undaunted late comers peered inside Friday through the plate glass of a former car dealership--now, the Tarrant County campaign headquarters for George W. Bush.

"Hello, Governor," one man bellowed in greeting to the Republican who wants Gov. Ann Richards' job. Bush delivered what they wanted to hear: a prediction he will get elected Tuesday.

The race for Texas governor has entered its final weekend in a virtual dead heat. Different polls give narrow leads to both candidates.

Bush planned a bus tour of North Central Texas for Saturday. His campaign describes Richards as entrenched in a deteriorating status quo.

Richards, meanwhile, tells the audiences she draws that Bush isn't qualified to be governor.

"He's more of a businessman and she's a politician," summed up Sue Hershey at a GOP rally in Amarillo on Friday. "Politicians are self-serving."

Bush closes his stump speech by linking his opponent to President Clinton. The crowd typically jeers at the mention of Clinton's name.

"In 1992, Ann Richards did everything in her power to see to it that Bill Clinton was elected president of the United States. In 1996, Ann Richards will do everything in her power to see that Bill Clinton is re-elected," Bush said.

"It's obvious you agree with me that Texas better have a governor in 1996 who understands that Bill Clinton has been bad for Texas."

Bush has blamed Clinton for the cutoff of federal funds for construction of the Superconducting Super Collider in Waxahatchie.

Dallas billionaire Ross Perot heightened the drama last week by endorsing Richards. Bush trotted out endorsements of his own, including one from Tom Luce, Perot's former campaign consultant and himself a GOP gubernatorial candidate in 1990.

Bush's supporters focus on juvenile crime, welfare and schools.

"Under the governor's leadership, she has basically said everything is fine in education. Even though property taxes have doubled, even though still half of our youngsters cannot pass basic skills tests, she says everything is fine," Luce said Friday. "Well, I don't buy that, and I know George doesn't."

The Richards campaign disputed Luce's remark.

Caught in a time warp?

While these young people look like they have been mysteriously transported from the radical 1960s to November 1994, they are actually Hereford High School freshmen on their float in Friday's Homecoming parade. The theme of Homecoming was "60s - The Wonder Years" and students dressed in styles of those years. Here, the freshmen display peace symbols, anti-Vietnam war posters and a graffiti-covered Volkswagen bus. Their sign proclaimed "Hostile Hippies Support the Herd."

HBA board meets Monday

A meeting of the board of Hereford Beautification Alliance will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the Sirloin Stockade.

A review of activities during 1994 will be conducted by Jan Furr, HBA coordinator. A video of the HBA at work will be shown by Pat Reilly, who prepared the video to promote the community.

All persons interested in the goals of HBA are encouraged to attend the meeting Monday evening.

The HBA recently was commended for participation in the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission's Clean Texas 2000.

A letter from John Hall, commission chairman, points out that Clean Texas 2000 is a voluntary pollution prevention program, bringing together communities, government, business, industry and individuals in an effort "to institute programs to reclaim resources now going to landfills."

More than 1,000 environmental partnerships have been established, said Hall in the letter. He also observed that 33 Texas cities have become members of Clean Cities 2000 with a goal of reducing solid waste disposal in landfills by 50 percent.

HOME COMING

The senior class float was the "Beverly Hillbillies," the juniors was "Gilligan's Island." The sophomores chose "Bandstand" as their theme, while the freshmen took on the hippie movement and anti-Vietnam war protests as their decorations.

Groups from the community joined in parade, which was accompanied by the marching Mighty Maroon Band and the Junior High band, which marched far enough away from each other so as not to interfere musically.

Homecoming 1994 wound to a close after the game with a dance that ended at 1 a.m. in the gymnasium.

King Alfonso XIII of Spain went into exile in 1931, and the Spanish Republic was proclaimed.

Divorce, loss of boyfriend may have led to woman's murder of two sons, say lawmen

UNION, S.C. (AP)--Susan Smith's new boyfriend was leaving her because he wasn't ready to be a father to her two boys. She was divorcing her husband after accusing him of cheating on her.

"Her whole world was crashing," a law enforcement source said Friday, speaking on condition of anonymity. "She caught her husband in adultery. She was having a relationship with another guy and he was breaking it off. He had told her he wasn't ready for a ready-made family."

of flowers were left at the lake's edge Friday.

New prayers went out Friday night for the family and for a community coping with "a lot of broken hearts," as Mayor Burton Williamson Sr. described the town during a memorial service.

"Those children will always be part of all of us," said the Rev. A.L. Brackett, one of several ministers who spoke at the service designed for mourning and racial reconciliation. Mrs. Smith, who is white, had claimed a black man abducted the children.

crowd of about 100 people that surged forward as Mrs. Smith appeared.

"Hold your head up! You're a baby murderer!" one woman shouted as others yelled obscenities.

"She deserves the same thing that happened to those two kids," said Sarah Sims.

Mrs. Smith's lawyer waived a bail hearing for the murder charges and she never appeared in court. She was taken to a prison near Columbia to be held in isolation for her safety, a spokeswoman said.

were alive when the car plunged into the water on Oct. 25, Sheriff Howard Wells said.

Tom Findlay, 27, said in a statement that he broke off his relationship with Mrs. Smith on Oct. 18.

"I was not ready to assume the important responsibilities of being a father," he said, adding that there were other problems. "At no time did I suggest... that her children were the only obstacle in any potential relationship with her."

Then, police say, Mrs. Smith sent her car plunging into a murky lake with 3-year-old Michael and 14-month-old Alex strapped into their safety seats. She concocted a story of a carjack-kidnapping, but confessed after nine days of tearful on-camera pleas for the boys' safe return, police say.

A memorial wreath and bouquets

Funerals for the boys will be held Sunday.

Earlier Friday, the 23-year-old secretary ducked low in the back seat of a sheriff's car that delivered her to the courthouse through a hostile, jeering crowd. Police held back a Prosecutor Thomas Pope said he may seek the death penalty.

Mrs. Smith's lawyer, David Bruck, would not discuss a possible defense strategy or other aspects of the case. All he would say about Mrs. Smith was that "she is heartbroken."

Mrs. Smith's confession led authorities to her burgundy 1990 Mazda submerged in John D. Long Lake, and the bodies were found in the back seat, investigators said. Divers had unsuccessfully searched the lake before.

An autopsy indicated the boys

He and Mrs. Smith worked at Conso Products, where Findlay was a graphic artist. Findlay is not a suspect, but authorities were suspicious of Mrs. Smith almost from the beginning because of inconsistencies in her story, the law enforcement source said.

Mrs. Smith claimed the carjacking happened at a red light with no other cars around--but the light could only be triggered to red by another car. She also told police she had been at a Wal-Mart in the hours before the abduction, then said she was out driving, the source said.

Storm hits football stadium during game

MAYPEARL, Texas (AP) -- Strong winds crashed into the Maypearl High School stadium during a high school football game Friday night, injuring at least nine people.

At least five people were taken to Baylor Medical Center in Waxahachie, with seven more expected. Three of those patients were in serious condition, the others were in undetermined condition, hospital administrator Mike Lee said Friday.

Identities and the nature of injuries were not immediately available, he said.

The injured initially were taken to the school's auditorium, where several children were huddled while the storm passed.

Some witnesses told police that the wind was a tornado.

"We believe we had a tornado touch down there, but other than that I couldn't say. We're just trying to respond now," an Ellis County dispatcher said.

However, a National Weather Service forecaster doubted those reports.

"We have reason to believe these were straight-line winds," meteorologist Brian Curran said.

Three other people who were injured when a tree fell on their car, Lee said.

Simpson jurors win request to view TV

LOS ANGELES (AP)--Jurors in the O.J. Simpson case say they need "All My Children" and "Home Improvement" to lead normal lives while avoiding the trial's media juggernaut.

Superior Court Judge Lance Ito suggested "The MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour." The jury was thinking more along the lines of soaps and sitcoms.

In the end, soaps and sitcoms won.

Under a proposed plan hammered out by attorneys Friday, jurors will be allowed to watch tapes of their favorite TV shows and news programs with all references to the Simpson case edited out.

The 12 jurors sworn in Thursday had already been ordered to avoid all media and bookstores. The TV proposal, which will be formalized next week, will remain in effect until Ito makes a decision on whether to sequester the jurors.

Among the shows jurors want to watch are two of the top-rated situation comedies, "Roseanne" and "Home Improvement."

The judge solicited lists from the jurors after they were sworn in. He got a pretty eclectic collection, including "Melrose Place," "Star Trek" reruns, "All My Children," "Martin," "ER," "60 Minutes," "SeaQuest," "Sisters" and "Living Single."

Also on the list was the Home Shopping Network. It wasn't clear whether that would be live or taped.

Jurors may watch live sporting events, but nothing on ESPN, the all-sports cable channel that has covered the Simpson case, said defense attorney Shawn Chapman.

And they'll get newspapers -- probably the Los Angeles Times, Daily News and Sentinel, the city's black newspaper -- with Simpson stories clipped out by court staff. The papers will be delivered to jurors' homes a day late.

"We'd like to restore some normalcy to the jurors' lives," said defense attorney Shawn Chapman. "They've been having a difficult time and we'd sort of like to give them more freedom."

The judge has not ordered a group of about 80 jury prospects, from which attorneys will try to find 15 alternates, to avoid all media. He told that group not to watch Simpson coverage.

Simpson is charged with murdering his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman. Opening statements aren't expected until early January.

Poppy proclamation

Mayor Bob Jossard signs a proclamation urging support for the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars while Essie Martin, left, and Betty Boggs watch on. Martin is Buddy Poppy chairman for the VFW Post 4818 Auxiliary, while Boggs is auxiliary president. The sale of Buddy Poppies by the VFW has been recognized since 1922. The poppies are assembled by disabled veterans and proceeds from the fundraising campaign go to benefit disabled and needy veterans and widows and orphans of deceased veterans. They will be sold here through Nov. 10. The theme of the Buddy Poppy sale is "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living."

The game between Maypearl and Grandview was stopped after the storm winds hit.

"The lights went out, then about five seconds later the wind started blowing real hard," a student told Dallas television station KDFW.

The student, who didn't give his name, said he and several others were blown off the bleachers when the winds hit.

Emergency workers on the scene said a natural gas pipeline broke near the school.

Lone Star Gas spokesman Bob Jett said the company had crews on the way to Maypearl, but they were having trouble getting there because of the weather.

"We have had a report of some sort of gas leak in the Maypearl area, but other than that I don't know," Jett said late Friday. "I have no idea how serious it is."

Hereford girl in area pageant

A 13-year-old Hereford student, Annie Keenan, will perform a vocal medley at the Miss Amarillo Area Scholarship Pageant next Saturday.

George and Glenda Keenan are parents of the Hereford student.

The Hereford Junior High School eighth grader earned the honor by winning overall talent at the recent Miss Junior Amarillo pageant.

She sang a medley of "Secret Love" and "I Only Have Eyes for You" at the junior pageant. Keenan will sing the same medley Saturday night.

Arian Archer, the reigning Miss Amarillo and Miss Texas, will be emcee for the scholarship pageant, which will be held in the Amarillo Civic Center Saturday, beginning at 7 p.m.

Group decries use of name by Bush, Michigan candidate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - A national group created to help voters rise above mudwrestling between candidates is being pulled into the pits by campaigns in Michigan and Texas, the head of the organization complains.

Richard Kimball, president of Project Vote Smart, said U.S. Rep. Dale Kildee, D-Flint, and Texas gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush are hurting the group's reputation by using its name in their negative advertising.

Kimball asked both campaigns this week to withdraw their ads and apologize. Both rejected that.

"What (Kildee and Bush) do is to suggest a collaboration in their negative advertising. They are using our credibility," Kimball said Wednesday from the group's headquarters in Corvallis, Ore.

Project Vote Smart uses a toll-free telephone number to provide candidate information based on numerous sources, including a multiple-choice questionnaire completed by candidates.

Information is available on presidential, congressional, and gubernatorial candidates.

In Kildee's TV ad, he attacks GOP challenger Megan O'Neill for not backing a national ban on the sale of handguns to minors as a way to control crime.

That, he says, shows her support for such sales.

O'Neill said that's ridiculous.

"Even Project Vote Smart said that's not credible," she said.

The Chamber and You

By Mike Carr, Executive Vice President

The Christmas Season always brings with it the busiest shopping time of the year. We find ourselves rushing here and there to find that "perfect" gift for those "special" people! As we begin our holiday shopping, we would like to share a few thoughts with our readers and area residents.

We all have seen or listened to the slogans and ads urging us to "shop at home," or that "Shopping Hereford makes good cents." In today's business world, the reality is that the customer is looking for the very best value for the money. He wants his dollar to go as far as possible. Today's customers want good service, good selection, good prices, and convenience. Rightfully so, each of these are fair to expect when you do your shopping.

Shopping locally requires a commitment from everyone—the merchants and the customers. The store must make a 100 percent effort in providing service, selection, price and convenience. In return, we would urge our residents—the customers—to realize the value of supporting the efforts of local merchants.

By shopping locally, every purchase will help assure our town of maintaining a strong retail sector. Increased sales will allow merchants to increase their inventories, or even expand their stores. This, in turn, can create new jobs for Hereford.

Hereford is very fortunate! We have many wonderful merchants and some of the finest shops around. People traveling through Hereford always praise the strong retail sector.

Our downtown area is one of the busiest in any town our size. The retail growth continues with more than 15 new stores opening last year and more than a dozen new stores this year. Retail sales have shown an increase every year since 1986, growing from $86 million to over $100 million.

The figures are respectful, but we have room to improve. This is really reflected by the fact that over $80 million is spent each year outside of Hereford. The truth is, of course, that some purchases will always be made in Amarillo, Lubbock, or elsewhere.

However, if we can capture only 10 or 20 percent more of those retail sales, just think of the benefits to Hereford. Each of us can make a difference. Increasing sales by $8 to $16 million would be a major boost to any economy.

Yes, we have a choice when we shop! We each will be deciding what to buy and where to buy this Christmas season. Let's all do our part to support and shop at the many fine local merchants who help our town grow.

Let's make Hereford our first shopping choice this Christmas and all year long as we kick off our holiday season with the theme of A Bag Full of Christmas from Hereford."

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says the nice thing about money is that it never clashes with anything you're wearing.

newspaper. This is the way local merchants kick off the holiday season preceding Thanksgiving and Christmas.

One of life's great mysteries: How did that fool and his money ever get together in the first place?

We hope readers will check all the holiday values being offered and attend the special open houses on Sunday. And be sure to validate the ads by local merchants and be eligible for "A Bag Full of Christmas in Hereford."

Homecoming for HHS was marred by the weather and a football loss to Pampa Friday night, but it didn't dim the spirit of Whiteface exes who returned home for the big weekend. It has still been a good season for the Herd and the Mighty Maroon Band!

Well, Ross Perot has done it again. I'm still mad at him because his presidential bid in 1992 was probably a major factor in Bill Clinton winning the presidency over George Bush. Now, he's hoping to be influential and get Ann Richards reelected as governor of Texas.

The playoff season started for the Whiteface volleyball team Saturday as they met Monahans at Lubbock. We look for the Whiteface fells to go all the way to the state playoffs!

Perot, on Tuesday, endorsed Gov. Richards. And, he's sticking his neck into some other races--supporting a Republican who is trying to unseat House Speaker Tom Foley (D-Wash.), and endorsing an independent for New York governor.

Reading over the story of the Hereford-Canyon football game last week, I thought of a miracle when I saw the mention of Jared Artho catching a pass in the game. No, it was not a miracle that he caught a pass...the miracle I remember happened some 13 years ago.

Some sources attribute the Richards' endorsement to Perot's well-documented dislike of former President Bush. However, George W. Bush just calls Perot's action "an interesting political event."

Some folks weren't around then, so I looked up the story in the Brand to relate the incident to readers. On July 10, 1981, Jared, then 4 years old, fell into an abandoned well shaft on a farm near Milo Center. Through the combined efforts of law enforcement agencies, the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department, and Deaf Smith Hospital employees, Jared was rescued--with virtually no injuries--from the 250-foot deep shaft after a two-hour ordeal.

There's no doubt that Perot is unpredictable, inconsistent and erratic. With his anti-establishment appeal across the country, how can you figure he'd back Richards?

The Brand article quoted Carey Black, then a rookie fireman and one of the central figures in the rescue: "Jared was tough...not your average four-year-old. I don't know what we'd have done if he hadn't grabbed the rope."

This fall, Perot has been sharply critical of Clinton and down on Democrats in general. On a recent "Larry King Live" show, Perot urged voters to give Republicans a chance to run Congress, "even if the Democrat in your state or district is a superior candidate," he stated. "There are bigger things at stake here," he said, referring to the control of Congress.

But Jared did grab the rope and it took only minutes to haul him back up from a potential grave. He is the son of Eddie and Virginia Artho. Isn't it great to recall that miracle?

I can't help but think that a little ego is involved in Perot's action. Ever since he got noticed and made an impact in the state school bill several years ago, he's been striving for attention.

The annual Holiday Edition of the Brand is included in today's

But, I guess I have to admit that he's fun to watch and some of his quotes are great!

WASHINGTON (AP) - The TV campaign ad was simple, succinct, devastating: a pair of hands, slowly tearing a Social Security card into pieces. It was the symbol of a venerable issue, revived by Democrats striving to curb their midterm election losses.

Never mind that the ad would qualify as a political antique, broadcast 30 years ago in grainy black and white. The issue is an aged one too. But no less potent for it.

"Say no to this radical attack on Social Security," President Clinton is telling his late campaign rallies, accusing Republicans of cutback plans they insist are outright lies, none of their doing.

"It is something he just made up," said Republican National Chairman Haley Barbour. "It has no basis in fact. They're trying to change the subject."

North quickly backed away from the idea of making it voluntary. Santorum said he'd only been talking options for the long term, and was taken out of context.

Sen. Bob Dole, the Republican leader, chimed in from a Denver campaign swing: "The Clinton administration has proven that the only certainties in life are death, taxes and the Democrats' phony last-minute attacks on Republicans and Social Security."

The wonder is that the Republicans have walked straight into their ancient nemesis again. The late House Speaker Tip O'Neill called Social Security the third rail of American politics - touch it and you die. But Republicans can't stop touching it.

That's not to suggest that the program be left alone. The trustees of Social Security have said Congress will need to act to insure the long range financial soundness of the program.

By 2013, they warn, benefit payments will exceed tax revenues, and in 2029, the Social Security trust fund is projected to run out of money unless there are revenue or benefit changes. It is solid now; reforms in 1993 insured that.

Early in his administration, Reagan recommended restrictions on some ancillary benefits and a delay in cost of living increases. Congress balked, he retreated, and Senate Republicans, who had voted to do it, were left to pay the political dues. Dole always said that was a major factor in the GOP loss of Senate control in 1986.

Trying to fend it off now, the Republicans point out that the Clinton economic program - passed with only Democratic votes in 1993 - effectively cut Social Security benefits for 25 million people by increasing income taxes on middle- and upper-income recipients. Dole said there may be more to come next year if Clinton has the votes.

Hypocrisy, said Barbour, and the president is getting away with it because the networks broadcast his accusations nightly, unchallenged by the Republican rebuttal.

"They made it an issue and it's a fight we're happy to have," Clinton pollster Stan Greenberg said.

Again.

Perhaps. But it was Republicans who provided the grist. Two of their Senate candidates raised the subject. The White House already was trying to stir the issue by claiming that Republican promises would force cuts in Social Security.

"You're put in a position of having to defend," Barbour lamented in an interview Wednesday, acknowledging it could hurt.

Clinton certainly believes it can be a cutting issue and he's made it part of every stump speech.

Hard to believe, he said in Pawtucket, R.I., that anyone would propose a plan that would cut benefits. "After all, Social Security is a solemn contract," he said. "But it's true. It's true."

"They have one Senate candidate saying Social Security ought to be voluntary, which means bankrupt the system," Clinton said. That would be Oliver North, challenging Sen. Charles Robb in Virginia, in trouble but edging up, boosted in part by this very controversy.

"They have another saying that he wishes the retirement age were above 70 - above 70," Clinton said, meaning Rep. Rick Santorum in Pennsylvania, where Sen. Harris Wofford was in dire jeopardy but is showing comeback signs.

Out of the Blue

By Garry Wesner

Well, we have finally reached the last weekend of the 1994 election season and I am certainly glad.

And, to hear many of you talk, so are you.

I think this has to have been the dirtiest campaign I have ever seen.

Virtually every state and national campaign has been filled with more innuendo, slander and outright lies about the candidate's opponent than they have with information about the candidate and his platform.

In fact, I have only seen one campaign ad that is quiet, positive and doesn't even mention the candidate's opponent, and that is only because he is 40 points ahead in the polls and doesn't have to campaign at all, much less do it negatively.

I wonder what the Founding Fathers would do if they saw what had happened to our Republic after little more than two centuries.

I mean, here we have a system that has degenerated to the point that a public official has the attitude that, once he is elected, he should be allowed to hold the job until death do them part -- and he should get that job at any cost.

Quite a change from George Washington, who refused a third term as president because he didn't want to create an elected monarchy.

I am not very old, but I do remember the term "statesman."

My dictionary says a statesman is "one who is wise or experienced in the business of government."

Today all you read about is a "politician," which is defined as "one actively engaged in politics; often used with implications of seeking personal or partisan gain, scheming, etc."

That, to me, is the difference. In the past, a man was elected to office because it was his obligation as a good citizen, and he became a statesman because he knew the business of running the government and was committed to make that business run as smoothly as possible.

Today, too many politicians are seeking glory, political power and financial gain as they "serve" their country.

The attitude is to see what a politician can get from Congress, not how he can make government better.

How often do we hear that a bill is stalled on the floor of Congress because it either cuts an appropriation that is a pet project of one congressman, or that funds something that a politician's opponents don't want him to have.

That's why the budget doesn't get balanced, because everyone -- Republican and Democrat alike -- says "we need to cut spending, just don't cut mine!"

Just once I'd like to see a group of people elected to Congress who come in with the attitude that they will do whatever it takes to improve the government and make it better serve the people.

I think such a Congress (or state legislature, for that matter) would do more to help this country than any group of politicians feathering their own nests or grabbing the brass ring.

On a similar subject, one of our readers sent me a clip the other day from a Reader's Digest magazine that sheds some interesting light on our third president, Thomas Jefferson.

I wish I had the entire magazine (the April 1993 issue), because this small sidebar accompanies a larger article about Jefferson.

Anyway, thanks to Mary Black for sending this in.

What we have are some quotes Jefferson himself made that give insight to the character of the man.

Some examples:
-- "I am for a government rigorously frugal and simple."

-- "Were we directed from Washington when to sow, and when to reap, we should soon want for bread."

-- I have never been able to conceive how any rational being could propose happiness to himself from the exercise of power over others."

-- "Never suffer a thought to be harbored in your mind which you would not avow openly. When tempted to do anything in secret, ask yourself if you would do it in public. If you would not, be sure it is wrong."

-- "Love your neighbor as yourself, and your country more than yourself."

-- "If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people, under the pretense of taking care of them, they must become happy."

-- "That government is the strongest of which every man feels himself a part."

Well, that's it for this week. Have a good week and, remember, Election Day is Tuesday. As a citizen of the United States, it is your honor, your duty and your obligation to vote. Please exercise that freedom for which so many have fought and died.

We would also like to thank Appian Corp. for their donation of gravel and Hereford Regional Medical Center for their cans.

Dear Editor:

The "No Pass, No Play" law in the state of Texas has a lot of critics. However, we believe that it has improved the education of some students.

It can be motivational. The student who wants to participate in UIL sports or other activities will work extra hard to make sure he or she can play. The student who fails is ineligible for an entire six weeks. That can be a long time to a student because the activity could be finished. Changing the ineligibility from six weeks to three weeks would push the student to work harder. This law can only be changed by our Legislature.

Because of this law, the state and the districts have required policies that give the student every opportunity to work towards a passing grade. One of those policies is a Progress Report in the middle of the six weeks. However, the failure of a teacher to send this report does not give the student any recourse.

If the student ends the six weeks with a failing grade, even if it is only by a couple of grade points, and the student was failing at three weeks and no progress report was sent to the parents, the student is ineligible. This is written in the TEA/UIL handbook.

Another handbook regulation allows the principal to exempt a student (high school only) from failing an advanced or honors course. The courses are junior and senior year courses. They are listed in the handbook. This would allow a student to push themselves for a higher level of education before college rather than taking the easier courses to make sure they can participate in UIL activities. This regulation is not recognized in HISD. Should it be?

Trying to find answers to questions about UIL rules and regulations is not easy. Some of the administrators in our district do not even have a copy of these rules. If you want to see a handbook, call TEA/UIL in Austin (512-471-5883) and ask for Bonnie Northcutt. She can send you a copy of the handbook.

Parents, it is your responsibility to check on your students' grades. If you think your student is having trouble in class, make an appointment with the teacher. You have the right to see all the grades that the teacher has on his or her books for your student. You can question the grading policy of the teacher and average the grades for your student. See for yourself. After all, it's your student.

Sincerely,
Janette Fowler

He also captured best of show honors for both animals. Before entering the Oklahoma fair, Rogers participated in the New Mexico State Fair, where he also won top llama honors. In fact, he said, he has entered the animals in six events, winning grand champion or reserve grand champion honors in five of those events.

Missouri law outlaws sex

By KATE BAILEY
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Birds do it. Bees do it. But Missourians aren't allowed to do it, according to some interpretations of a new state law.

"I don't know what they were trying to say, but I know that what they did say seems to outlaw sex altogether," said David Foster, director of the writing lab at the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

Others disagree. One legislator says it legalizes homosexual sex and outlaws nonconsensual sex. Another says it outlaws homosexual sex and nonconsensual sex.

The law, which took effect Aug. 28, says: "A person commits the crime of sexual misconduct in the first degree if he has deviate sexual intercourse with another person of the same sex, or he purposely subjects another person to sexual contact or engages in conduct which would constitute sexual contact except that the touching occurs through the clothing without that person's consent."

The bill's sponsor, Democratic state Sen. Joe Moseley, was out of town Friday and unavailable for comment.

Lawyer Dan Viets wrote about the statute in the fall issue of the Missouri Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers newsletter, saying it "appears to outlaw any purposeful sexual contact."

House Speaker Bob Griffin says the only way the sentence makes sense is if the reader applies the "without that person's consent" phrase to all three parts of the sentence. In that case, gay sex between consenting adults would be legal, Griffin said.

"That's the only way you can read it," he said. "It doesn't make any sense in the scheme of human nature that it would read otherwise."

But state Sen. Larry Rohrbach, a Republican, says the law explicitly prohibits gay sex.

"I don't think there's a problem" with the law as it's written, he said.

Most Missourians need not fear.

The Missouri Supreme Court plans to release new instructions that would make it clear that the law applies only to sex without consent, said Cole County Prosecutor Richard Callahan.

"I know a lot of legal writing is not very clear ... but this seemed surprisingly awful, even for legislators," Foster said.

Gene linked to rare high blood pressure

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) - Researchers have identified an abnormal gene that causes a rare, severe form of high blood pressure, a discovery that could lead to new treatments for more common forms.

The researchers found a mutant gene in sufferers of Liddle's syndrome, which can cause early death. An estimated 2,000 people in the United States have the syndrome.

Scientists know very little about genetic causes of high blood pressure. The study led by Yale University scientists and published in Friday's issue of the journal Cell raises the possibility that other mutations of the same gene contribute to more common forms of high blood pressure.

"Genetic causes will tell you which mechanism causes the hypertension. Then you can identify the people and have rational therapy," said Dr. Victor J. Dzau, director of cardiovascular medicine at Stanford University.

Dr. Theodore Kurtz, a professor at the University of California at San Francisco who specializes in the genetics of hypertension, said the study is an important step in finding the genetic causes of high blood pressure.

"Even though Liddle's syndrome is a rare form of hypertension, this discovery is still very exciting because it might well give us insight to the mechanisms of more common forms of high blood pressure," Kurtz said. "It has potential implications for our better understanding."

Liddle's syndrome causes a person's kidneys to constantly flush salt and water into the bloodstream, often leading to death from heart disease, brain hemorrhage or a ruptured aorta in teen-agers and people in their 20s.

"People with Liddle's syndrome can lead relatively normal lives using the drug amiloride, said the study's lead author, Dr. Richard P. Lifton, associate professor of medicine at Yale.

Black women quitting smoking, more white women lighting up

ATLANTA (AP) - Young black women have virtually given up smoking while more young white women are lighting up, ending what had been a quarter-century decline in the number of female smokers, the government reported Thursday.

In 1965, one in three women smoked. Since then, there has been a steady drop in the rate of female smokers. That decrease suddenly stopped in 1991, largely because more white women were smoking, according to the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

"We've clearly lost our momentum with getting young white women not to smoke," said Michael Eriksen, director of the CDC's Office on Smoking and Health. "It's quite a contrast to young African-American women, where they're virtually giving up the habit."

Among women ages 18 to 44, the rate of cigarette smoking rose from 25.6 percent in 1990 to 26.7 percent in 1991, and to 26.9 percent in 1992, according to an annual national survey by the CDC. Preliminary evidence shows little change since then.

The rate of white female smokers rose from 26.5 percent in 1990 to 28.6 percent in 1992.

The rate for black women went from 22.8 percent in 1990 to 28.1 percent in 1991, then back to 22.6 percent in 1992. Researchers say they don't know how to explain the sharp rise then decline, except that it could be a statistical blip.

Rates for Hispanic women remained about the same, at 18.9

percent, from 1990 to 1992.

The racial difference was even greater among young women ages 18 to 24.

The rate for young white women remained unchanged at about 27 percent between 1987 and 1992. But for young black women it plunged - from 21.8 percent in 1987 to 5.9 percent in 1992.

"There's some evidence that white women used smoking for weight control and blacks don't appear to do that," said Dr. Kathryn Silbersiepe, a CDC epidemiologist.

The statistics show that tobacco advertising campaigns aimed at young white women are working.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) - Peter Taylor, a Pulitzer-Prize winning novelist whose stories poignantly chronicled the slow disappearance of the Southern aristocracy, is dead at age 77.

Taylor died of pneumonia Wednesday night at the University of Virginia Hospital. He had suffered a series of strokes over the last few years.

He won the 1987 Pulitzer Prize for the novel "A Summons to Memphis," about a man called home by his sisters to stop their widowed father from remarrying. It was Taylor's first novel in nearly 40 years.

Before that, Taylor was known as a short-story writer whose collections never sold more than a few thousand copies.

"I write not because I want to, but because I have to," he said in an interview after winning a Pulitzer at age 70.

Taylor's latest novel, "In The Tennessee Country," was praised by critics when it was published in September. It tells the melancholy story of a man looking back on his life.

Taylor, born in Trenton, Tenn., published his first book in 1948, "A Long Fourth and Other Stories."

His stories included elaborate descriptions of the well-heeled world of the southern gentry in Nashville, Memphis and other cities. Many of his characters struggle to adjust to the end of the lush lifestyles of their childhoods.

Novelist Anne Tyler called Taylor the "undisputed master of the short story form" when his collection, "The Old Forest and Other Stories," was released in 1985. The book won a PEN-Faulkner award.

Writer Joyce Carol Oates called "The Collected Stories of Peter Taylor," published in 1969, "one of the major works of our literature."

"Summons to Memphis" also won the $50,000 Ritz Paris Hemingway literary prize in 1987. Taylor was the first author writing in English to win the prize.

Taylor lived in Charlottesville, where he was a professor emeritus of English at the University of Virginia.

David Crosby waits for liver

LOS ANGELES (AP) - David Crosby of the rock group Crosby, Stills and Nash was in fair condition Friday with a deteriorating liver and was awaiting a transplant.

The 53-year-old musician was admitted Wednesday to the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center.

His liver had apparently hardened and deteriorated because of decades of drug abuse that included heroin and cocaine, said his publicist Elliot Mintz.

Doctors "just wanted him there, on hand, at a second's notice if a liver becomes available," said Debbie Meister, a spokeswoman at Crosby's management firm. "They expect a full recovery when a liver is found."

"He's in great spirits. You wouldn't think there was anything wrong," Meister added.

It can take months to find an organ for transplant because of a severe shortage. If Crosby's condition becomes critical, "he would be bumped up on the list of people waiting," said Elizabeth Flynn, spokeswoman for Southern California's Regional Organ Procurement Agency.

Reducing Government to Strengthen Families and Small Business.

She's voted against higher taxes every time and for the Balanced Budget Amendment. She strongly opposes unnecessary federal regulations that hurt small business.

And she's proposed a new law so homemakers can save with a tax free retirement account, too.

Changing the Way Washington Works.

Kay cut her own Senate office budget 20% — just as she promised last year. Now she's pushed Congress to slash its budget, reduce government overhead by 10%, and trim $50 billion from 50 programs.

Kay's the sponsor of a bill for a national referendum on term limits and will set an example by only seeking two full terms herself.

Now she's determined to make Congress live under the laws it passes for the rest of America.

Protecting Our Freedom.

On the Armed Services Committee, Kay is fighting for a strong defense and defending our Texas military bases that are so critical to national security.

She's committed to protecting private property rights and other constitutionally protected freedoms.

Already An Effective Leader.

Though we sent Kay Bailey Hutchison to the Senate just last year, she's already making a difference for Texas.

She passed a bill to make the federal government — for the first time — pay for some costs of its failure to protect our Texas border against illegal immigration.

Our choice this year is to keep this effective, new conservative leader who puts Texas first... or replace her with a Clinton-style "New Democrat."

Agricultural trade surplus rises $1.3 billion in August

By MICHAEL LANDWEBER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The agricultural trade surplus rose to $1.3 billion in August, an increase of $65 million over the previous month, the Agriculture Department says.
For fiscal 1994, which began in October 1993, the surplus now totals $15.9 billion, down $1 billion from the previous year.
Exports increased 12 percent in August to $3.5 billion, up 19 percent from a year earlier. However, on the strength of higher coffee prices, imports rose to $2.2 billion, an increase of 13 percent from July and 17 percent over 1993.

For the fiscal year to date, exports are up 1 percent from the previous year at $40 billion, while imports have gained 7 percent for a total of $24 billion.
Vegetable exports for the fiscal year through August climbed 7 percent to $3.2 billion. Increased export value for prepared vegetables, up 18 percent, and frozen vegetables, up 14 percent, offset the 5 percent decline for fresh vegetables. Potatoes and sweet corn, mostly bound for Japan, topped the frozen vegetable export list.

Fruit exports also rose for the fiscal year to date, up 10 percent to $2.3 billion. Both apple and grape exports posted major gains.
Marking a 3 percent rise over the previous year, wheat exports totaled 2.8 million tons in August. The year-to-date amount of 27.9 million tons is down 16 percent from fiscal 1993. Top buyers in August included Japan, China and Egypt.

August corn exports rose 8 percent over the previous year to 2.9 million tons. However, the October-August total of 30.1 million tons still lags behind 1993 by 21 percent.
With the new crop on the market, soybean exports jumped 65 percent in August to 1.1 million tons. Despite the larger crop, year-to-date exports of 15.2 million tons are still 22 percent behind fiscal 1993 levels.

Cotton exports topped the previous August by 87 percent at 116,000 tons, bringing fiscal 1994 totals to 1.5 million tons.
In terms of imports, Canada continues to lead the pack, commanding 20 percent of U.S. import market. Canadian shipments of $4.8 billion to the U.S. in fiscal 1994 so far account for a 19 percent rise over the previous year.

Mexico trailed Canada with a 12 percent share of the U.S. agricultural import market for a total of $2.7 billion.

Vegetable oil studied for use in printing ink

WASHINGTON (AP) - Continuing the search for environment-friendly printing, Agriculture Department researchers have developed an ink for books composed of more than 50 percent vegetable oil.

The ink can be used for sheet-fed offset printing, a technique often used in the book publishing industry, without sacrificing quality or legibility, the department says.

Before the latest development, other products only managed to blend 20 percent vegetable oil into petroleum-based ink.

"The inks are viable environmental alternatives to petroleum-based inks and offer the American farmer new markets for agricultural crops," said research chemist Marvin Bagby, a co-inventor of the vegetable oil ink.

Bagby said the ink was tested recently in a commercial printing run with excellent results.

The discovery is even more timely in light of a law signed by President Clinton on Oct. 6 that requires government printers to use vegetable-based ink.

The new law is expected to result in more than 95 percent of government printing using vegetable-based ink and to encourage private-sector printers to follow that lead.

Even if only the government opts to use the new inks, the industrial demand for oilseed crops will probably increase. Already, vegetable oils are utilized for a number of other industrial uses, including biodiesel fuel, plastics, lubricants and paints.

Since 1988, researchers at the USDA's National Center for Agricultural Utilization Research have consulted with the printing industry on using vegetable oils in inks.

Bagby and his co-inventor, Sevim Erham, already have found success in the vegetable based ink business, having patented a news-ink process that is based 100-percent on soybeans.

The Agricultural Research Service is filing an application for a patent for the 50 percent vegetable oil ink.

Genetically-engineered foods pass voluntary safety inspection

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer
ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) - Seven more genetically engineered foods - five for people and two for animals - have passed a voluntary Food and Drug Administration safety inspection.

Scientists questioned Wednesday whether the FDA is scrutinizing emerging biotechnology foods closely enough.

"I am a little troubled," Dr. Marion Nestle, an FDA adviser from New York University, told the agency. "It's as if FDA scientists have accepted these very complicated assessments (of biotech safety) on face value."

FDA last spring approved the nation's first biotech food, Calgene Inc.'s Flavr-Savr tomato, which has a gene that allows it to ripen longer on the vine and still get to supermarkets without turning soft.

Now the agency has completed much more cursory safety inspections of seven other genetically altered plants, FDA food safety chief Dr. Jim Maryanski said Wednesday. They are:

-- Three more tomatoes. Zeneca Plant Sciences' version works like the Flavr-Savr by fighting ripe tomatoes' tendency to quickly turn mushy. DNA Plant Technology and Monsanto Co. altered genes to slow the tomatoes' natural ripening, so they can be picked earlier and reach optimal ripeness by the time they hit store shelves.

-- A squash genetically altered by Asgrow Co. to naturally resist two deadly viruses, so farmers won't need chemical treatments.

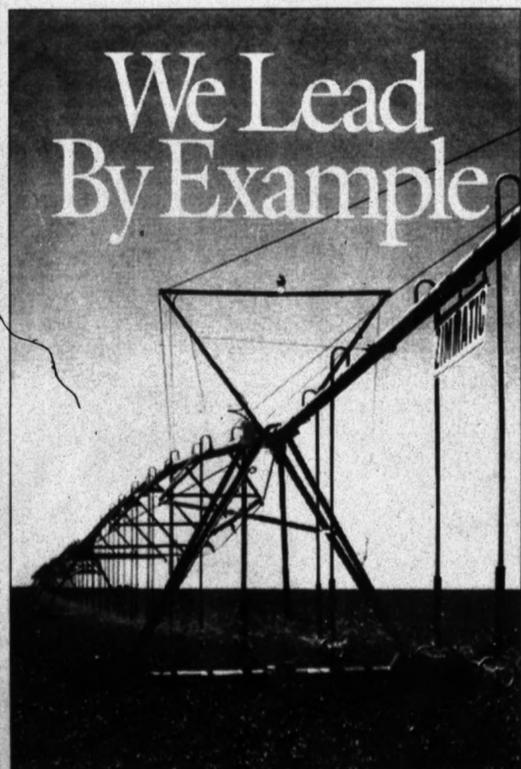

-- A potato that naturally resists the Colorado potato beetle, a scourge to potato crops. Monsanto's new potato produces a natural pesticide that kills beetles that take a bite.

-- Calgene cotton that tolerates a common herbicide, bromoxynil, so farmers could use the herbicide on cotton fields. Calgene's cotton is intended for cottonseed oil that makes animal feed.

-- Monsanto soybean plants that tolerate the common herbicide glyphosate, found in the popular spray Round-Up. Although FDA presented this soybean plant as one that will be commonly used for animal feed, soybeans and soybean oil are also consumed by people.

Harvesters spoil Herd's Homecoming, 10-0

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Pampa and penalties turned the tide on Hereford early in the fourth quarter Friday night in Hereford, and Pampa came away with a 10-0 win in the Herd's Homecoming football game.

Hereford fell to 2-3 in District 1-4A and 4-5 overall with one game to play: against Caprock Friday in Amarillo. The victory by Pampa (7-1 and 4-0-1) set up a showdown with Borger on Friday, with a playoff spot going to the winner.

The Herd and the Harvesters engaged in a defensive struggle in cold, wet Whiteface Stadium. The Harvesters led 3-0 at the half on Todd Finney's 29-yard field goal into the north wind, and the defenses continued to shine through the third quarter.

Hereford had a prime chance to take the lead early in the fourth, but two holding penalties inside the Pampa 20-yard line slowed the Herd's momentum. An interception off a fourth-down-and-eight trick play started the momentum swinging Pampa's way, and two long runs--a 40-yarder, then a 25-yarder for a touchdown--swung the game for the Harvesters.

"It broke our heart when we didn't score down there in the fourth quarter," Hereford coach Danny Haney said. "Then they (Pampa) made a big play on us, and we weren't able to recover."

Late in the third quarter, Hereford's Homer Hamilton intercepted a Pampa pass, setting the Herd up in good position at the its own 40-yard line. Hereford moved the ball in six plays to the Pampa 22, when the quarter ended.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Herd tailback Marquise Brown broke a run to the Pampa five-yard line, but a holding call at the 11 moved the ball back to the 21. Two plays later, another good Brown run was brought back by a holding penalty to the 27.

Three plays later, on fourth down with eight yards needed, the Herd went for it--a field goal attempt would have been very difficult: 37 yards into the wind on slick grass.

Brown took a pitch from quarterback Michael Brown, and, under pressure, tried to throw the ball back to Michael Brown. But Pampa defensive end Devin Lemons stayed with the quarterback and made a juggling interception of the pass.

"It was supposed to be a throw back to Michael, but Michael got caught up on the defensive end," Haney said, acknowledging the alert play of Lemons.

Three quick plays later, Pampa was in the end zone. Tailback Matt Archibald, subbing for ejected starter Matt Garvin, broke a 40-yard run up the middle to the Herd 32. A play later, Archibald ran 25 yards for the game's only touchdown. Finney's kick provided the final score with 8:48 left to play.

Another holding play on the Herd in its next series wiped out a 37-yard run by Marquise Brown, and Hereford had to punt.

Again Archibald broke through the middle for a long gain, going 52 yards. He didn't get the all-important 53rd yard, though, as Herd cornerback Michael Marquise stripped him of the ball at the one-yard line, and safety David Vermillion fell on the ball in the end zone.

With five minutes left to score, Hereford moved the ball to midfield through the air, as Michael Brown hit wideout Marc Haney for gains of 13, 12, and four yards and tight end Scott Parker for six yards.

Pampa sacked Brown three times, though, the third time by Lemons on fourth-down-and-10. Pampa took over with 2:52, gained two first downs and ran the clock out. Mercifully, the Harvesters watched the final 14 seconds tick off from the Hereford two-yard line.

Pampa lived up to its reputation as a great defensive team; Hereford gained 224 yards on a team that had allowed an average of 149 yard per game.

Most of those yards came on that drive in the second half and on the Herd's game-opening drive, which went 14 plays and 62 yards. The Herd got as close as the Pampa 16, but Pampa got a sack on first down to short circuit the drive. On fourth-down-and-12, tight end Raymond Gonzales was set up on a screen pass, but Michael Brown's pass bounced off his trailing knee, falling incomplete.

"Their defense really sucked it up," Michael Brown said. "Our offense had a lack of concentration, and missed assignments. We should have gotten the ball in, but we didn't execute."

"The line executed great in the first half; they picked up everything," said tailback Armando Zambrano, referring to the majority of the opening drive. In the second half, he said, Pampa "started blitzing more and started picking up Michael, started getting us on the backside."

After eight games in beautiful weather, the Herd finally had to play on an ugly day. The rain that fell most of the day had stopped by gametime, and a fog that enshrouded pre-game Homecoming festivities had mostly lifted by kickoff, but the cold north wind stayed for the final buzzer.

"The weather was fine," Coach Haney said. "It was perfect football weather."

"The wind wasn't that big a factor," Michael Brown said. "The cold got to my hands, so I couldn't grip the ball, but when I started warming up, I was okay."

Whether the weather had anything to do with it, the Herd defense shown brightly. Pampa gained 282 yards on the ground--much on three late runs by Archibald--and only nine yard passing.

"It was a great defensive effort," Coach Haney said. "We kept them out of the end zone. We gave the ball to the offense in great field position. They did all they could do. It was a great offensive effort, too; it was just that we couldn't get in the end zone."

Pampa's first points came on the first play of the second quarter, when Finney nailed a 29-yard field goal into the wind. It was set up by an exchange of punts where the wind favored Pampa. After Herd defensive end Richard Hicks sacked quarterback Joel Ferland for a seven yard loss, Garvin quick-kicked on third-down-and-17, and the ball flew and rolled 53 yards. Hereford answered with Brian Betzen's 15-yard punt, under pressure from a Harvester, which set Pampa up on the Hereford 30-yard line.

Late in the first half, a 19-yard run by Garvin and a 15-yard personal foul on Hereford put Finney in position to try a 45-yard field goal into the wind, but it landed on the goal line.

The teams traded punts throughout the third quarter, until Hamilton's interception started Hereford's fateful drive. To that point, each team had totaled 28 yards of offense in the third quarter.

The biggest action before the interception came when Garvin, perhaps Pampa's best player, said something to the officials, drawing two unsportsmanlike conduct penalties and an ejection. The penalties themselves, normally 15-yarders, didn't hurt so much since Pampa was one its own four--half the distance was marked off twice, for a total of three yards. The loss of Garvin, a starting tailback and linebacker, stunned the Harvesters though, at least until Archibald's 40-yard run.

Pampa was flagged 16 times for 92 yards in the game, while Hereford was hit seven times for 57 yards.

Hereford has clinched a claim on fourth place in the seven-team district. It's been a disappointing season in the sense that the top three teams in the district--Pampa, Randall and Borger--all played Hereford at Whiteface Stadium and all came away with wins in games that could have gone either way.

Suns, Magic shocked in openers

By WENDY E. LANE
AP Basketball Writer

In San Antonio, the NBA season opened with a watery blast. For the Orlando Magic and Phoenix Suns, it was more like a thud.

A malfunctioning sprinkler system in the Alamodome sent a 12,000-gallon cascade of water onto fans, players and coaches Friday night before the Spurs' game with the Golden State Warriors. A pregame fireworks show triggered the weird water incident that sent both teams scurrying for cover.

After everybody dried off, the Warriors drenched the Spurs again, 123-118.

The Magic and Suns, two teams expected to contend for the NBA title, were just all wet, losing to two of the lowest teams in the league. Washington beat Orlando 110-108, and Sacramento routed the Suns 107-89.

In other season-opening games, it was New York 120, Boston 107; Milwaukee 91, Philadelphia 86;

Indiana 94, Atlanta 92; L.A. Lakers 115, Detroit 98; Chicago 89, Charlotte 83; Houston 90, New Jersey 86; Denver 130, Minnesota 108; Utah 119, Miami 108; and Portland 121, Los Angeles Clippers 100.

Despite getting 28 points and 12 rebounds from Shaquille O'Neal, Orlando lost to the Bullets when Rex Chapman hit an off-balance jumper with less than a second to go.

The Bullets, who won only 24 games last season, overcame a 17-point deficit. Horace Grant, Orlando's prized free agent, had 20 points in his debut with the Magic.

Playing without Charles Barkley in their opener at Sacramento, the Suns never led and were outrebounded 56-38.

Wayman Tisdale, who left the Kings to sign as a free agent with the Suns, had 16 points for Phoenix. Danny Manning, the Suns' other big free agent acquisition, added 14 points before fouling out early in the fourth quarter.

Mitch Richmond's 20 points led the Kings, who had six other players in double figures.

Rockets 90, Nets 86

At Houston, Hakeem Olajuwon and the Houston Rockets got their championship rings, then held off New Jersey.

Olajuwon scored 19 points, including a key turnaround jumper with 1:17 left.

Houston held the lead from late in the first quarter until the Nets went ahead early in the final period. The Rockets regained the lead for good on Otis Thorpe's basket with 7:51 to go.

Derrick Coleman led New Jersey with 20 points.

Warriors 123, Spurs 118

Playing his first regular-season game since the end of the 1992-93 season, Tim Hardaway scored 29 points to lead Golden State past San Antonio.

David Robinson and Avery Johnson led the Spurs with 27 points each.

Reeves returns to Dallas as Giants' coach

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dan Reeves is coming back to where his career started but forgives him if he is too worried to be nostalgic.
"After five losses in a row, we've got to play the world champions and that's no fun at all," said the New York Giants coach. "This is an important game. We're not dead yet but we're not breathing real well. We need some fresh air fast."
The Giants, who took Dallas into overtime in the last game of the season before losing the NFC East championship last year, started with three victories. Then fumbles, interceptions off the arm of young Dave Brown, and poor officiating conspired to bring New York back to reality.

"I don't enjoy losing," said the former player and assistant under Tom Landry. "We make too many mistakes and we're not talented enough to overcome them."
The Giants catch the Cowboys on Monday Night Football playing just well enough to win in their last two games in tough struggles against Arizona and Cincinnati.

Under rookie coach Barry Switzer, the two-time defending Super Bowl champions posted a 7-1 record in the first half of the season.
"Everybody keeps shooting at the Cowboys but they respond," Reeves said. "They've handled all their changes really well. When they have to play tough, they play tough."
Reeves said he saw the predictions

"I didn't think Dallas would be the same without Jimmy," Reeves said. "But give Barry credit. He's getting them to play."
Reeves said what he has seen on film "puts the Cowboys in the awesome category. They may be even more balanced than they were last year. They get tough challenges week in and week out and respond."
"I've never seen a quarterback any more accurate than Troy Aikman. He puts the ball on the money play after play. Emmitt Smith has as good a vision at running back as anybody I've ever seen. The display he put on against us in New York last year in the last game was awesome. Walt Garrison was the last guy I've seen who would play banged up like that."

Reeves said after watching film he was reminded of how the Dallas defense "is vastly overlooked. They have tremendous team speed. You think you have a big play going and they recover so well they hold it to three or a four yard gain. They rush the passer well and the safeties, James Washington and Darren Woodson are tremendous tacklers. Their corners (Kevin Smith and Larry Brown) are excellent cover guys."
Reeves said he doesn't think any team will unseat the Cowboys in the NFC East this year.
He said Switzer's calming influence is one reason for early success.
"He kind of treats his players like he did at Oklahoma," Reeves said.

"It's kind of a loose atmosphere. For him to be out of football for five years and do the job that he has done is phenomenal. His assistants have really helped him and he's let them coach."
Reeves said the 14-point underdog Giants will have to run the ball with Rodney Hampton to have a chance.
"If you have to pass against Dallas you're in trouble," Reeves said. "This year has been kind of frustrating for us. A win would do us worlds of good."

Oilers try to recover vs. Steelers

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - The Pittsburgh Steelers are trying to get over a bad week. For the Houston Oilers, it's an entire season.
The Steelers (5-3) tripped over Arizona in overtime last week but they're still on track to compete for the AFC Central Division title, unlike the Oilers (1-7), who have improved the past three weeks but lost anyway.
"We've been involved in frustrating losses before," Steelers coach Bill Cowher said. "But we apply the 24-hour rule around here. You play the game, learn from it and move on."
"That's what the Oilers have been trying to do this season. But every time they fit one piece of the team into place, something else falls off. Quarterback injuries and inconsistencies and a young, mistake-prone offensive line plagued the Oilers earlier in the season."

Owner Bud Adams created more turmoil last week by complaining about the demise of the run-and-shoot offense and threatening to make coaching changes during the season if he thinks the players aren't playing hard.
Coach Jack Pardee isn't worried about a lack of effort from his team.
"I'm the proudest of that, that they've kept their edge and kept playing hard, physical football," Pardee said.
The Steelers lost in overtime 20-17 in overtime to Arizona last week on a 51-yard field goal.
The Oilers lost to the Los Angeles Raiders 17-14, missing a chance for overtime when Al Del Greco's 52-yard field goal attempt hit the crossbar on the final play of the game.
"I'm very disappointed in our record, that's what this is all about," Pardee said. "My concerns are that we get better. If you own the club, you can say what you want."

The Steelers expect their loss to be a minor detour.
"You just hope it doesn't come back to haunt you late in the year," quarterback Neil O'Donnell said. "We're right in the thick of it all. But in these days of free agency, you don't know the tough teams. A lot of teams are still in the middle of it and on a given week, they can beat you."
Two key Steelers, cornerback Rod Woodson and running back Barry Foster are injured. Foster is out and Woodson says he'll play. Rookie Bam Morris will start for Foster. Cowher feels comfortable with Morris in the lineup.
"They're very similar power runners," Cowher said. "The biggest difference is size. Bam is bigger."
While the Oilers' offense has dropped to 15th in the NFL in total offense, the defense has remained among the league leaders.

"They're very talented on defense," O'Donnell said. "They are the same aggressive defense they've played for many years. They've had some tough breaks too. They've had several games that could have gone either way."
The first Oilers-Steelers meeting this season was never in doubt. The Steelers scored on their first four possessions, led 23-0 at the half and won 30-14.
"Since our last game, they've had three tough losses," Cowher said. "They've been in all of those games with a chance to win. They are a better football team now."
O'Donnell says the Steelers won't overlook the wounded Oilers.
"What we have to do is just run our offense," O'Donnell said. "They are kind of like the defense we saw last week in Arizona. We just have to try not to turn over the ball and stay with our game plan."

Wind injures nine in Maypearl; Permian upsets No. 1 Cooper

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer
On a night of season-ending games to settle longstanding rivalries, district titles and playoff spots, attention was focused on a horrifying scene in Maypearl.
The Class 2A game Friday night between Maypearl and Grandview was violently interrupted by 70 mph winds that flipped a section of bleachers, uprooted a telephone pole and injured at least nine bystanders.
Gusts were so strong that they pushed back players trying to make their way into the fieldhouse.
"There were people literally blowing across the football field," said Kent Campbell, Maypearl's assistant fire chief, who was at the game. "Anything that wasn't tacked down was blowing across the football field. It was just chaos."
Bad weather forced delays, postponements and early endings for many games across the state.
As for the games that were played, there was plenty of action, the biggest being Odessa Permian's 31-16 upset of Abilene Cooper that likely ends the Cougars' five-week hold on the No. 1 spot in 5A.
Using some of that famous Mojo magic, Permian rebounded from a 2-3 start on 1994 to swipe the District 4-5A title from Cooper. It's the 21st 4-5A crown for the Tigers.
Another mildly surprising result from a big district rivalry was No. 10 Celina ending No. 4 Pilot Point's 15-year stronghold on the 11-2A title with a 21-8 victory in Pilot Point.
It was the first time since 1978 that Pilot Point didn't win the district, and the loss was only the second district loss and third at home for Pilot Point in that span.
"This is the greatest feeling I've ever had," said Celina running back Jarrod Martin, who caught a 19-yard touchdown pass on the game's opening drive.

Elsewhere, the other four top-ranked teams won, two other ranked 5A teams lost and another tied, 2A's third-ranked Jefferson beat No. 9 Linden-Kildare 20-14 in the only other game between ranked teams and 4A's No. 7 Austin Reagan was the only other ranked team to lose as it fell 21-17 to Austin LBJ.
Despite the loss to Permian, Abilene Cooper (8-1) still will become the first 5A team in town to host a playoff game since 1969 when it takes on Lubbock Monterey next weekend.
"This is tough, but you have to put some perspective on it," Cooper coach Randy Allen said. "Our team will rebound and we'll play a good game."
When the season's final Associated Press poll is released Monday, the vacancy atop 5A likely will be filled by either No. 2 Austin Westlake or No. 3 Plano East, both of which finished 10-0.
Westlake thumped Austin Bowie 52-10 by scoring all eight times it had the ball and Plano East scored 21 points in the first quarter en route to a 28-7 victory over Plano.
"It feels wonderful," said Plano East's first-year coach Scott Phillips. "To be 10-0 and win the district title, it's almost like a fairy tale."
The 5A poll should see a lot of change Monday as No. 4 Deer Park and No. 5 Arlington Lamar also were upset victims and No. 9 Garland tied North Mesquite for the second straight year, this time at 14-14.
South Houston knocked off Deer

Park 26-17, the final blow coming when John Hawkins scored on a 53-yard reverse with 1:05 left to play. It was only the second victory of the season for South Houston.
Arlington beat Arlington Lamar 26-7, No. 7 A&M Consolidated beat Bryan 26-8 and No. 10 Houston Cypress Creek beat Houston Cypress Falls 28-14.
Stormy weather forced the game between 4A's top-ranked Stephenville and Mineral Wells to be called at the half with the Yellowjackets leading 25-0, extending their state-best winning streak to 26 straight.
Second-ranked Waxahachie outlasted rain delays and Cedar Hill for a 26-20 victory, while No. 3 La Marque cruised past West Columbia 50-0.
Fourth-ranked Gregory-Portland snuck past Tuloso-Midway 14-13, No. 5 Sulphur Springs beat North Lamar 29-0 and No. 8 Calallen pounded Robstown 49-7.
Bay City, ranked ninth, beat Port Lavaca Calhoun 36-10 and No. 10 Little Cypress-Mauriceville ended a surprising 10-0 season with a 21-0 shutout over Port Arthur Lincoln.
LBJ knocked off No. 7 Reagan thanks to a 41-yard bomb from Jamal Davidson to Shannon Crenshaw with 2 minutes, 39 seconds left.
In 3A, third-ranked Jefferson beat No. 9 Linden-Kildare 20-14 behind three 1-yard touchdown runs by Tim Duffie.

Hereford senior defensive end Richard Hicks, who was carried off the field after the second half kickoff, tore a ligament in his knee. He had arthroscopic surgery Saturday morning, coach Haney said.

Ex-AL president Brown enjoying retirement

By JIM REEVES

Fort Worth Star-Telegram
FORT WORTH, Texas - If Dr. Bobby Brown could find a miracle cure, if he could just put his stethoscope to baseball's chest and listen to its faltering heartbeat, if he could write out a prescription and know that the game would swallow its medicine and take care of itself, he would do it today, this instant.

This is a patient Brown would do everything possible to save, if he could, as he has so many thousands of others. He would nurse it back to health and send it on its way, free of the foulness of corruption and the stink of greed, safe from the slow, torturous death it is dying.

If he could... if he only could. Brown has been a World Series star, a heart specialist and American League president, successfully reaching the pinnacle of three careers in his lifetime. He was honored this week with the Bobby Bragan Lifetime Achievement Award.

He sat at the kitchen table in his westside Fort Worth home the other day, a block away from River Crest Country Club where he plays tennis "four or five times a week," and contemplated half a century of life in baseball and medicine and back to baseball again. He is retired from baseball and medicine and turned 70 last week, but Bobby Brown looks almost as trim and as fit as he was that autumn day in 1947, when he stood at second base in the seventh game of the World Series and heard the sounds of joy and jubilation and adulation pour down around him.

Certainly he is far more healthy than the game he left a few months ago after serving 10-plus years as the AL president. It wasn't a planned maneuver, but Brown got out before the latest and most deadly labor confrontation in the game's history wiped out the World Series. He got out at the right time.

"The thing that is disturbing is just the fact that there's enough money for everyone and you would hope they could sit down and figure out ways where the players could be well-paid and teams could make a profit," Brown said of the current labor impasse. "There are ways to do that. The big regret that everybody has and that I have is that you can't get the parties to come up with a solution that would satisfy those two basic precepts.

"If you have a sport that can't make it in the Pacific Northwest or in Kansas City or in Pittsburgh or in Montreal, all of which are major metropolitan areas with population and industry and everything else, you've got real trouble. There are 10 or 12 clubs in so much trouble, if they don't get some meaningful relief they are going to have difficulty staying in business in a sound financial way."

The economic pendulum, which once so favored the owners, may have swung too far back the other way, according to Brown.

"Players should be concerned about being well-paid," Brown said. "They deserve that. But how many millions is well-paid? I can't answer that."

Brown played in an era when players had little or no economic power. His top annual salary was $19,500, though four times in seven years he also cashed World Series checks of about $5,000 each.

"Even then, that was more than the dean of my medical school made, and it was an era where I could buy a new car for a thousand dollars," Brown said. "Everything's relative. My classmates looked at me like I was a wealthy guy, because I was a ballplayer."

A ballplayer, a doctor, a league president.

It is a journey that began in San Francisco, where Brown blossomed as a shortstop at Galileo High and on a semipro team that included six future major-leaguers, including Yankees-teammates-to-be Jerry Coleman and Charlie Silvera. He was christened "Golden Boy" by a sportswriter and pro scouts from across the country salivated at Brown's sweet left-handed swing. It was the Yankees, who had been following his exploits since he was 13, who got his name on a contract.

Another "scout" also had his eye on Brown: Uncle Sam. World War II was in its early stages, so Brown, then a freshman at Stanford, enlisted in the Navy. By then Brown had realized that chemical engineering, his major, was not for him.

"I couldn't see myself doing something I hated as much as chemistry," Brown said. "I always liked being with people and dealing with people, so I went into premed instead."

The Navy placed him in its V-12 program and sent him to UCLA and from there to Tulane. Shortly after the war ended, Brown was mustered out and sent to the Yankees' Newark, N.J., farm team, where he found himself rooming with a funny little guy named Yogi Berra.

They made a strange duo, to say the least. Berra was an avid reader of comic books. Brown sat on his side of the room studying medical textbooks. The story goes that one night, after they had read until lights out, Yogi sighed and asked Brown, "How'd yours come out?"

It was in the '47 Series, after his first full season in the majors, that Brown had his personal highlight moment, the one he remembers so vividly even today.

It was the seventh game of the Series and the Yankees trailed by a run. Brown had already been to the plate as a pinch hitter three times during the Series and had two hits and a walk. Now he was up with the game on the line.

"Our pitchers were shot, and we started that game knowing we were going to have to use three or four pitchers," Brown recalled. "It was the middle of the game, we had a man on base and they put me up to hit for the pitcher. I hit a double to knock in the tying run."

"When I was standing on second base I listened to the crowd and you could just hear that roar from 72,000 people washing over you. Strange as it seems, I could actually see my parents where they were sitting and my dad was throwing his hat up into the air. I'll always remember that moment, that feeling."

That hit earned Brown, who went on to score the go-ahead run on Tommy Henrich's single, the nickname "The Wand" and indeed, the thing he did best was hit.

"He couldn't run, field or throw, but with a million dollars on the line, he wouldn't choke up at the plate," Henrich said of Brown in his recent autobiography. "In every pressure situation, Bobby was always the one in charge at the plate."

Brown chose the World Series for his personal stage, hitting .439 (18 for 41) in his four Fall Classics.

It was back at Tulane in 1949 that Brown, on a blind date set up by his sister, met his bride-to-be, Sara French, a Sophie Newcomb junior from Dallas Highland Park. Two years later they would marry.

Brown continued his split-major- baseball and medicine - for parts of seven seasons, appeared in four World Series and missed two others because he was sent to Korea, where he was battalion surgeon for a MASH unit.

"When I got out of the service again it was 1954 and I was almost 30," Brown said. "I'd been out of my internship two years. I knew if I didn't get into my residency I'd really be way behind. I just didn't feel I could stay out of medicine another two to four years to play ball. Medically, I just had to get into it and get into it full time."

Brown had settled on cardiology as his specialty and former med-school classmate and close friend Albert Goggans was already practicing in Fort Worth. He invited Brown to join him. On July 1, 1954, Brown retired from the Yankees and devoted himself full time to medicine.

"I had many thrills in baseball but as far as what's important, as far as making a contribution to society, there's no question that medicine provided me with that opportunity," Brown said.

Two decades later, though, baseball came calling again. This time it was new Rangers owner Brad Corbett who asked Brown to step aside from his practice for a while and become team president. The grind of emergency cardiology had worn Brown down. He welcomed Corbett's offer.

"He really didn't know much about running a team and he didn't know anybody in baseball," Brown said. "He asked if I would go out there and help him get his feet on the ground, so I did."

Brown's stay with the Rangers was brief, only about six months, but he enjoyed it and he remembered that when baseball's search committee, looking for a successor to commissioner Bowie Kuhn, contacted him a few years later.

"I visited with the search committee, and they had me come back a second time," Brown said. "They told me then they really wanted a businessman and I think they'd probably made up their mind that Peter Ueberoth was their guy. But Lee MacPhail was also retiring to move over to the Player Relations Committee and they asked me if I'd be interested in becoming the American League president. I figured that would be better for me than commissioner anyway because it was a baseball job."

Brown spent the next 10 1/2 years presiding over the AL.

"The toughest part was just trying to be fair to everyone, trying to do what's right," Brown said. "Making a decision that wouldn't bite you five years into the future because of the precedent being set. In the last few years, the economic pressures on the game made the decision-making process so difficult."

Brown knew when the time came to move on again, just as he knew when it was time to quit baseball in '54.

"I'd been there over 10 years and was approaching my 70th birthday," Brown said. "I just felt the timing was right. I enjoyed my days in baseball, even the tough days. It was just time for me to slip into this part of my life."

Young candidates want to make it in Congress

By SHARON COHEN
Associated Press Writer
They're young and restless, part of the twentysomething crowd that watches MTV and wears grunge clothes. But moving beyond the stereotypes of their generation, these 14 ambitious young adults are hoping to make their marks as the youngest members of Congress.

Democrat and Republican with little in common but post-baby boomer birthdays, most are unknown political novices facing the longest odds; one notable exception is Patrick Kennedy, son of Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Disenchanted voters should be receptive to fresh-faced candidates, said Frank Luntz, a Virginia-based GOP pollster.

"Being young this year is better than at any time since 1980," Luntz said. "Young represents change and old represents status quo. ... In elections like this, people are willing to give young candidates a chance."

Still, Luntz said, young candidates usually have to run once or twice before they're elected because they lack money and visibility.

Many of the 14 candidates in their 20s fall into that category: They're making their first bids for public office against well-financed, well-known incumbents who represent the district's dominant political party.

Among them is Stephen Hollingshead, 25, a political science instructor at Marquette University in Milwaukee, who said he's running because the timing is right for a Republican - even though he's in a traditional Democratic district.

Hollingshead said his biggest hurdle isn't his age, but his role as a challenger, which makes it difficult to raise money or recruit volunteers. "It has very little to do with the fact I don't have gray hair," he said.

Some young candidates already have established themselves in state government. Randy Tate, 28, has built a political base as a conservative GOP legislator in Washington state for six years.

His motivation for running is a familiar refrain among Generation X types: Those in power in Washington, D.C., are insensitive and outdated. It's time for a change.

"Young people think Congress is out of touch big time," said Tate, whose political baptism came as a Pat Robertson supporter in 1988. "It doesn't understand the concerns they have trying to find a job, making ends meet, trying to provide for a family."

At the opposite end of the political spectrum, another state legislator eyeing Capitol Hill is the 27-year-old Kennedy, who is vying for an open seat in Rhode Island. He has money, support from President Clinton and nationally known Democrats - and of course, THE name.

"People know my family," he said. "That helps to mitigate any kind of initial sensitivities people may have to my age, the fact they know I've got good resources to draw on in terms of people and expertise."

Kennedy also notes he was a lawmaker at 21.

"I may be young, but I'm not wet behind the ears," he declared, adding that he reflects his generation's more "pragmatic" approach to politics.

"It's less partisan," he said. "I think there's a general feeling that we want to do what works, discard what doesn't and just get on with it."

The Constitution requires that House members be at least 25 years old. The average age of House members in the 103rd Congress is 52; the youngest, Cleo Fields, a 31-year-old, won re-election in October in Louisiana's open primary system.

O'Connor recalls battle with breast cancer, mastectomy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Speaking in an unusually personal way for a Supreme Court member, Justice Sandra Day O'Connor says she shed some tears after her mastectomy six years ago but managed to "shape up and make a go of this" with help from family, friends and her work.

"I'm a survivor," O'Connor said, speaking publicly for the first time about her cancer Thursday to the National Coalition for Cancer Survivorship.

She said she initially felt weak and emotional after the operation, but that the disease "fostered a desire in me to make each and every day a good day."

It was an extraordinarily personal speech for a member of the Supreme Court. The justices zealously guard their privacy, particularly regarding their health. After O'Connor's operation on Oct. 21, 1988, court officials would only say she underwent surgery for breast cancer but would not confirm that it was a mastectomy.

"The best thing about all of this is that I had a job to go to," said O'Connor, 64, who became the first female Supreme Court justice in 1981. "I didn't miss anything and it was hard, but I'm so grateful that I had my work to do."

There were bad days, she said, describing her disbelief when she was diagnosed with breast cancer.

"I can remember ... all of a sudden my face and hands, my whole body tingled," she said. "It couldn't be true. I'm too busy; I feel fine."

O'Connor said her story "is going to sound hauntingly familiar" to anyone who has had breast cancer.

After her mastectomy, O'Connor said, "It was really a tough time ... Yes, I think there were a few tears shed along the way."

Advice and sympathy from friends who were cancer survivors was a big help, she said, as was the hairdresser who "found a wig or two for me" when she suffered hair loss as a result of chemotherapy.

"And on the chemotherapy - ough," the justice said. "You do feel lousy and look lousy," but improving one's appearance during that time can be an attitude-booster, she added.

O'Connor drew a laugh when she described how, as part of her recovery, she was told to visualize "all the little good cells running in and stabbing the bad ones."

She also returned to her daily exercise class more quickly than her doctors expected her to.

"I lost strength in my arm and it hurt," she said. But she added: "My legs were OK, so I used those. ... I could chip and putt on the golf course."

The worst part, she said, was the attention from the news media.

"There was constant media coverage," she said. "How does she look? When is she going to step down and give the president another vacancy on the court? She looks pale to me, I don't give her six months."

"Well, I didn't like that," she said.

O'Connor said she realized her illness created enormous stress for her family too, and that she told herself, "You'd better shape up and make a go of this because you're causing a lot of distress for other people."

Adventures in shopping

Buying the 12 Days of Christmas takes money, imagination

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

The premise was simple: Take the popular Christmas song "The 12 Days of Christmas" and apply it to the here and now in Hereford.

After all, with the holiday shopping season just ready to get under way, there might be a poor soul out there who is wringing his hands in frustration, trying desperately to think up something unusual to get his True Love this Christmas.

So I set out to find out how much it would cost to obtain everything listed in the song.

There was only one ground rule -- because the theme of this year's local merchant's open houses is "A Bag Full of Christmas in Hereford," all items from the song had to be purchased in Hereford.

That meant no jaunts to Paris for French Hens, no dashes to New York to hire the New York Philharmonic Orchestra's percussion and pipe sections, and no weekend raids on the San Diego Zoo for exotic birds.

But at the same time, that meant I had to take a few liberties with the song in order to get everything I needed in Hereford.

So, if we can have a brief introduction by the pipe and drum corps, we will begin.

On the first day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
a Partridge in a Pear Tree

This one is fairly easy, except the 1994-95 Texas Hunting Guide, a summary of state hunting regulations, does not include partridges among game animals in Deaf Smith County.

Partridges of a two-legged variety are available every afternoon on cable TV, but "The Partridge Family" reruns really don't count.

So, to make the song work, we substitute a pheasant, which is available here.

The easiest to obtain is from the Rev. Dorman Duggan, who does taxidermy in addition to his duties at Community Church.

Duggan said while he does not have any live pheasants he can sell, he could provide a stuffed pheasant for $90.

If you want to get your own pheasant, the hunting season runs from Dec. 10-25.

Of course, that way you need a shotgun, available from Golden Nugget Pawn Shop in prices ranging from $79 to $250. Don't forget you also need a Resident Hunting permit for $13, ammunition, a hunting lease and cold weather clothing.

The pheasant of course has to go in a pear tree, which is available from McLain Garden Center for $19.95.

Unfortunately, this is not the time of year for buying or planting pear trees, so your True Love will have to wait until spring to get this part of her present.

Need some furniture? Hereford's furniture stores offer a wide selection, and they invite you to shop through ads in The Brand. For best buys in furniture, look to The Brand!

On the second day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Two Turtle Doves

Turtle doves are in scarce supply in Deaf Smith County, but there are varieties of dove that may be hunted in Texas, including mourning doves, white-winged doves and white tipped-doves.

But the "Texas Late Season Migratory Game Bird" pamphlet published by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department lists no open season on those animals in this area.

There is a species of dove -- feral rock doves -- that are legal for hunting.

They are not protected by any state or federal law and may be killed at any time.

But would your True Love really want you to give her two feral rock doves, otherwise known as domestic pigeons?

So in order to get something bearing the faintest resemblance to the birds in the song, Duggan again comes to the rescue, this time offering stuffed quail, which sell for $50 each.

On the third day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Three French Hens

The three French Hens, because of the rules, must be Deaf Smith County hens.

There are two ways to get them. You can buy your True Love live chickens, which Bill Binder, ag teacher at Hereford High School, said cost 50 cents each as day-old chicks, for a total of $1.50 plus tax.

Feed for these birds for six weeks, which Binder said is as long as they need to be fattened up before cooking, adds another $2 to $3 each.

This way, the "French Hens" would cost about $4.50 plus tax.

If you don't want live birds, recent grocery store advertisements offered whole fryer chickens for 79 cents a pound and turkeys for 59 cents a pound.

This translates to, depending on the size of the bird, about $2.37 for three pounds of chicken or $11.80 for a 20 pound turkey, or $35.40 for three of them.

On the fourth day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Four Calling Birds

Continuing with the bird theme gets harder with Four Calling Birds.

Since these are not particularly indigenous to Deaf Smith County, Ken Rogers offers four ostriches instead.

This gift can get pricey for your True Love.

Rogers said prices for ostriches range from $1,000 each for chicks, up to $10,000 or $15,000 for a good adult.

Thus your four "calling birds" would cost anywhere from $4,000 to $60,000 to buy.

On the fifth day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Five Golden Rings

Finally, a break from the birds (although tradition has it that the "five golden rings" in the original version were actually ring-necked pheasants).

Dorothy Herr at Cowan's Jewelers said someone buying five golden rings for Christmas can spend just about as much as he wants.

A simple gold band, she said, sells for $30, which means five of them would set you back $150.

But "when you add diamonds and other precious gems, then you're skyrocketing," with prices depending on the type and size stone you want.

So, suffice it to say, the five golden rings could cost several thousand dollars, but we'll say $1,000 each for the sake of argument, or $5,000 total.

On the sixth day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Six Geese a-Laying

Back to the birds and back to Duggan.

Of course, Duggan said he can stuff a goose for you, but first you have to kill one, since he doesn't furnish them.

So, back to the hunting fields with the shotgun you bought a few days back.

According to the state, hunting season on geese in the western zone of Texas runs from Nov. 12 through Feb. 26, 1995 for light geese, including snow, blue and Ross'. For dark geese such as Canada, brant and white-fronted, the season is Oct. 15 through Jan. 29, 1995.

Daily bag limit on light geese is five, on dark is three.

The tab for stuffing them? Duggan said he'll do them for $135 each.

Total cost for stuffed geese (not counting the expense of the hunt itself), $810 and you get six geese that just lay around (pun intended).

It would cost less if you don't kill them, just get them out of the skies of Deaf Smith County by some other means.

On the seventh day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Seven Swans a-Swimming

Obtaining seven swans for your True Love becomes a little more difficult.

"They're illegal" said Duggan. So once again we turn to Rogers for a Deaf Smith County alternative -- emus.

Emus are ratiates -- flightless birds -- like the ostrich, but come from Australia rather than Africa.

Rogers raises emus as well as ostriches and said he could sell these seven emus with no problem.

They cost, he said, "anywhere from $500 a chick to $8,000 to $10,000 for an adult."

Total cost here is anywhere from $3,500 for chicks to up to $70,000 for adults.

On the eighth day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Eight Maids a-Milking

Moving away from the birds brings us back to HHS's Bill Binder, who Comprehensive coverage of local news, social events, sports and happenings in Deaf Smith County is yours ONLY in The Hereford Brand. Good news and good advertising go together. Large ads or small ads pay off in The Brand!

also serves as sponsor for the FFA group.

FFA does, he said, some work with dairy judging, which is probably the closest thing to experience you're likely to get with hand milking in these parts.

So, in order to have eight milking maids, you'll have to hire eight FFA members at minimum wage, which is $4.25 an hour, or $34 an hour.

But don't forget that equal employment laws frown on hiring all one gender, so you'll probably have a few boys a-milking in there as well.

Then you also have to provide them with restroom facilities and workers' compensation insurance, just in case one of them gets kicked by the cow.

On the ninth day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Nine Ladies Dancing

For ladies dancing we turn to Don Summersgill and the Hereford High School drill team.

"I figure you'd probably hire the drill team -- practicing and all -- for (See 12 DAYS, Page 3B)

Home Tour brings spirit of holiday season to life

BY SANDY STAGNER
Lifestyles Editor

Is the holiday season sneaking up on you? Are you having difficulty even thinking about Thanksgiving and Christmas without grimacing? Sometimes all it takes to get into the spirit of the holidays is to gather with friends and see the vision of the season depicted in homes.

For over 25 years, members of the La Madre Mia Study Club have sponsored the Annual Holiday Home Tour and this year the event is planned from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4.

In the past three local homes have been featured on the tour but this year four outstanding redecorated and new homes can be viewed by the public. Opening their homes for the tour will be Pat and Don Graham, 128 Liveoak; Glenda and Keith Hanson, 111 Rio Vista Drive; Karen and John Sherrod, 140 Redwood; and Linda and Rosindo Gonzalez, 2100 Plains Ave.

Tickets for the tour are priced at $5 per person and may be obtained from study club members or at the featured homes on the day of the tour. A door prize will be awarded to a lucky ticket winner.

Mary Herring is serving as this year's Holiday Home Tour chairman and assisting her are Lavon Nieman and Betty Lady.

The main purpose of the study club's annual tour is to raise funds to benefit the community. In the past, tour proceeds have gone to the club's Senior Scholarship Fund, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, the Advisory Board of the Amarillo State Center Industries-Hereford (formerly the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center), Early Childhood Development, equipment for the Hereford Regional Medical Center, Hereford Day Care Center, foster children's families, the Christmas Stocking Fund, the Christmas Lighting Contest and the Deaf Smith County United Way.

The La Madre Mia Study Club did not sponsor the home tour in 1993. Herring said, "We skipped last year and many residents seemed to be disappointed."

Nieman explained, "The homeowners said they felt honored to be asked to participate in the annual tour and were happy to open their homes to the public. They are especially grateful that the tour proceeds will go back into the community."

"We hope more will turn out this year as we have four outstanding homes to be viewed instead of the usual three residences we have had in the past," Lady emphasized.

Glenda Marcum serves as president of La Madre Mia Study Club and other club members which have not been mentioned include: Carolyn Baxter, Ruth Black, Francine Bromlow, Cindy Cassels, Merle Clark, Linda Cumpton, Kay Hall, Barbara Manning, Gladys Merritt, Bettye Owen, Nancy Paetzold, Lucy Rogers, Tricia Sims, Mysedia Smith, Georgia Sparks, Debbie Tardy, Betty Taylor, Marlene Watson, Nicky Walser, Mary Beth White and Judy Williams.

It's time to get into the holiday spirit

The public is invited to view four beautiful homes during the La Madre Mia Study Club's Annual Holiday Home Tour scheduled from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4. Outstanding residences which will be featured this year include the homes of Pat and Don Graham, 128 Liveoak; Glenda and Keith Hanson, 111 Rio Vista Drive; Karen and John Sherrod, 140 Redwood; and Linda and Rosindo Gonzalez, 2100 Plains Ave. Tickets are priced at $5 per person and may be purchased from club members or at the homes during tour hours. As in the past, all proceeds will be used to benefit the community. Discussing the tour are club members, from left, Betty Lady, Tour Chairman Mary Herring and Lavon Nieman.

12 DAYS

$500 he said. That is, of course, for a limited engagement. Keeping them longer than an hour or two would probably run the price up considerably.

On the tenth day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Ten Lords a-Leaping

I cannot think of a single place in Deaf Smith County to pick up 10 leaping lords, except possibly around the voting polls on Election Day, where candidates would probably do just about anything -- including leap -- for a vote or two.

So depending on how you look at it, this might be the least expensive item of all, or not.

On the eleventh day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Eleven Pipers Piping

Summersgill's Mighty Maroon Band is the perfect place to hire 11 pipers to pipe away for your True Love.

However, the director said, you'll have to pay them professional fees for their performance, which is $28 an hour per person.

That means if you want 11 pipers to pipe for your True Love for three hours, they will set you back a cool $308 an hour, or $924 for the evening.

On the twelfth day of Christmas...

My true love gave to me
Twelve Drummers Drumming

Finally, we're at the end of the line.

Summersgill can provide you with 12 drummers who will be only too happy to drum away your budget at the same $28 an hour you'll pay for the pipers.

So in addition to paying the pipers, you'll also dole out $336 an hour for the drummers, or $1,008 for a three-hour gig.

Save a fistfull of dollars when you use Brand Classified Ads. Call 364-2030.

So let's add it all up. If you go the cheap way, the total tab is somewhere around $11,140.45, not including taxes, insurance, ammunition, transportation or clothing.

If money is no object, then you can go all the way and buy this special "Deaf Smith County 12 Days of Christmas" package for a mere $138,784.35.

SPS plans class on cooking

Festive Foods Cooking School will be held Tuesday at the Southwestern Public Service Co. Reddy Room.

There will be two sessions offered. The first will be at 1:30 p.m. and the second one will begin at 6:30 p.m. This will be the only day that the program will be offered in the community.

Connie Moyers, SWP home economist, will present the hour-long program. Each participant will receive the Festive Foods recipes for 1994. The event is sponsored by Southwestern Public Service and the Deaf Smith County Extension Office.

Electronic items at top of adult Christmas lists

Looking for that special Christmas gift for the whole family to enjoy? Here's a recommendation: try a really big television set, with a

NOT ALL TOYS ARE FOR KIDS
...Wide-screen TVs are popular for adults projection screen of 46 or 52 inches. Or, if the wife wants to spruce up the home, think about some new furniture.

For the husband, the lure of electronics is still alive.

Hereford storekeepers report that shoppers who don't want to go the projection TV route to improve their viewing capability will find plenty from which to choose in smaller sizes.

At least one store reported that 25-inch and 27-inch sets are about average for persons looking at new television equipment.

On the other hand, a compromise between the 25-inch and the 52-inch may be one with picture tube of 31, 32 or 35 inches.

Persons who want to upgrade their stereo entertainment centers, without buying a whole new system, are looking at compact disc players that may be plugged into existing equipment.

Items such as video cameras and recorders are becoming a "must" in many homes. Christmas would be a good time to bring the home video system up to speed.

Small easy-to-hold video cameras are replacing the big, cumbersome cameras. And, most new video recorders are guaranteed programmable by anyone in the family.

The home due redecorating this year is in for a treat.

Pit groups are out for the living room. Standard-size sofas with matching love seats or chairs are in.

Recliners, say some storekeepers, are not a luxury item any longer and don't appear on the Christmas list as often.

But, if the recliner of the football fan is showing signs of wear, a surprise Christmas gift might be a new one. There is a wide range of colors and styles guaranteed to fit existing decor and provide comfortable lounging.

Colors in furniture upholstery fabric run into brilliant hues of green, blue and jewel tones. Although a high-dollar upholstery for sofas, leather also has a place. Again, there is a broad spectrum of color choices.

Such standard appliances as refrigerators, washers, dryers and dishwashers also might not make the shopping list because a family may not wait for Christmas to buy. But, in case one needs replacing, the selection is waiting.

High on many wish lists this year, as in the last few years, undoubtedly will be computers and all the attendant equipment.

While a home computer may be in place already, the recommendation now is for laptops that go anywhere, in a car, in an airplane or to the office.

Weighing from two pounds up to about five pounds, the laptop is becoming more and more popular in business as well as the home.

The personal computer in many homes may need an upgrade. On a Christmas list may be a CD-Rom or an encyclopedia.

A computer encyclopedia may cost about $150, compared to several hundred dollars for the books.

Computer specialists note that equipment ordinarily will upgrade about one time before it becomes obsolete and needs replacing.

So, study the options before asking Santa Claus for a new computer this year.

Games that are played on a computer will provide adults with hours of relaxation. For the household with children, educational games may prove to be a worthwhile distraction from hours of television viewing.

Personal items for Christmas giving begin with clothing and end with clothing.

Shoppers will find wind suits -- also known in some quarters as jogging suits -- in all sizes for both men and women.

Selecting a gift for the woman of the house may begin and end with one item -- a vest. This piece of clothing comes in all kinds, plain or fancy, reversible, knit, wool, cotton or blends of natural and synthetic fibers. Vests may be coordinated with other items, such as a skirt, a sweater or pants, and purchased separately to be worn with clothing already in the wardrobe.

Handknit sweaters and decorated in special motifs are offered in a wide variety of colors.

Another fashion note this year has to do with accessories -- belts and bags, especially. A dress, suit or skirt that has languished in the closet may come out in full use with addition of a special belt. To complete the look, a matching bag may be added.

Buying a tie for a man on the Christmas list is no mundane procedure any longer. The variety knows no end. From comic strips to television shows, flowers to rockets, the designs on men's ties are a far cry from the rep ties of the past.

Men seem to enjoy the jogging suits and manufacturers have gone all out to attract shoppers to their wares. Casual clothing is in high demand and men's clothiers have taken a page from the women's book, bringing out vests and sweaters to lure shoppers.

All in all, from furniture and appliances to clothing, the Christmas selections are there for the looking, and buying.

New fads and old favorites popular toys for Christmas

Mighty Morphin' Power Rangers: adults don't understand why, but kids want them.

Power Rangers figurines and accessories are the hottest line of toys nationwide as Christmas approaches--only 40 shopping days left--and Hereford is no exception.

Power Rangers toys come from a children's action/science fiction television show, which can be seen on Hereford Cablevision Channel 13 at 4:30 weekday afternoons. The show is not fancy; it uses some old Japanese monster-movie footage intercut with newly shot video of American teenagers using martial arts to fight evil-doers.

Kids, apparently, love it. And they love the toys.

Another popular gift is a pair of in-line skates, according to Diana Torres of Gibson's Discount Store. In-line skates are roller skates that have the wheels in one line down the middle of each skate.

Lion King is the second-most popular line of licensed products. Kids spent all summer watching the hugely successful Disney movie; now they want Lion King stuff for Christmas.

Among all the new toys is the veteran Barbie doll, which remains popular even after 40 years, Torres said. Special for this year is a Barbie doll which is three feet tall, allowing young girls to not only dress up the doll, but also to dress themselves up in Barbie's beautiful gowns.

Changing times mean changing interests for children. While today's parents and grandchildren were happy to play with Lincoln Logs, Erector sets, blocks or even dirt, today's tykes can operate computers. Much of the software available is aimed at kids, and it is both fun and educational.

"There are a million and one things you can do with computers," said Jim Kinter, a salesman at Foster's Electronics in Hereford. "We have everything you can imagine. We have everything from driving a tank to flying a plane to Where in the World is Carmen San Diego?"

The various Carmen San Diego games teach youngsters about geography, history and space. Other popular software include Creative Writer, a word processor which kids can use to print in all kinds of designs, and KidPix, a drawing program designed for kids.

The new rage in computers is CD-ROM, or multimedia computers. They use sight and sound--they can really talk to you--and they contain vast amounts of information. One set of software is about Dinosaurs, featuring a movie about the ancient reptiles and an encyclopedia with virtually every fact about dinosaurs.

There are thousands of games for computers which, while not so educational, are lots of fun. However, parents should be warned that some of today's most popular games are extremely violent. Some research is suggested.

The Festival of Trees marks the beginning of the holiday season at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center, at 426 Ranger.

The main feature of the event is the display of beautifully decorated trees for residents of the community and visitors to the area to enjoy during four days of entertainment and activities for people of all ages.

This display, within a festival setting, is a major community involvement and fund raising project for the Hereford Senior Citizens Association. In 1993, approximately 5,000 people attended the display and took part in festival activities.

The event is made possible by business organizations, institutions and individuals through advertising sponsorship of tree display and festival costs, voluntary tree designing and decoration, and donated entertainment and time.

Planning annual Christmas Lighting Contest

Each year members of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division invite the public to participate in their annual Christmas Lighting Contest. Entry forms for the contest will be available at the "Eat-Your-Heart-Out-Nieman Marcus" Fun Breakfast scheduled at 6:30 a.m. Nov. 17 at the Hereford Community Center. Forms can also be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main St. Deadline to enter the contest is 5 p.m. Dec. 12. Judging will be done Dec. 12-14. First, second and third place prizes will be awarded in three categories: Door, window and overall for business and residential entries. Discussing the contest are Christmas Lighting Contest Chairman Rita Bell, at left, and Women's Division President Peggie Fox. Other committee members assisting are Debra Alford, Glenda Chadwick, Margaret Hall and Elvis Shields.

Christmas Stocking Fund gives holiday help to many Applications for assistance from the 1994 Christmas Stocking Fund program for needy residents in Hereford and Deaf Smith County will be accepted daily beginning Monday, Nov. 7, and continuing through Friday, Nov. 11, at the Hereford Community Center.

Interviews will be conducted from 1:30 to 5 p.m. daily during the sign-up period. While voting will be underway at the Community Center on Tuesday, it will be conducted in another part of the building, allowing CSF applications to proceed.

Those seeking assistance from the holiday charity should apply in person and bring some form of identification in order to verify that they are a resident of Hereford or Deaf Smith County. If applicants plan to ask for help with utilities or medical expenses, they should bring a receipt that will provide their account number.

CSF is a charity intended to help the less fortunate of the community during the Christmas holidays. Assistance from CSF is provided in various forms including food and vouchers for clothing, utilities, medicine and medical attention.

CSF is administered by a committee of anonymous volunteers who represent a broad cross-section of the community. The CSF committee is not affiliated with any other organization, or any government entity, and all CSF funds come strictly from the donations of individuals who wish to help the less fortunate during the holiday season. Members of the CSF committee are responsible for the screening of applications and make the decisions on provision of assistance.

The Hereford Brand serves as the official collection agency for cash donations to CSF, and the newspaper will periodically publish listings of CSF contributors. While donations traditionally start around Thanksgiving week, they will be accepted any time.

Again this year, CSF is operating on an early schedule so that filing and processing of applications and delivery of assistance can be completed before Christmas. This allows volunteers to help those in need and still have time to enjoy the holidays with their families. The early schedule also makes it important for local residents to do their giving early.

CSF volunteers have already begun meeting to plan for this year's effort, and they will begin processing applications shortly after the filing period starts. Anyone interested in becoming a CSF volunteer can submit their name to Speedy Nieman at The Brand (364-2030), and the name will be given to the committee.

The Deaf Smith County chapter of the American Red Cross, although not affiliated with CSF, has been a longtime supporter of the program here, providing office space and clerical assistance. Volunteers with the local Red Cross will once again be helping by handling application paperwork this year.

The Deaf Smith County chapter of the American Red Cross is in need of clean, "carefully used" toys for its holiday toys program for needy children.

In the past couple of years, the local chapter has been hard-pressed to find enough toys to carry out its long-standing tradition of providing a toy to any child in need.

Faced with a shortage of volunteer manpower to get donated toys cleaned and ready to present to children, the local chapter is hoping that gifts of toys will come early this year. It's a big help to the local program if the toys are already clean, and in good repair.

Toy deliveries are usually made in conjunction with the delivery date for assistance from the Christmas Stocking Fund. This provides maximum advantage for the volunteer effort.

If you have new or "carefully used" toys that you'd like to donate, please can take them by the Red Cross office at 224 S. Main St.

Local merchants open doors to help start holiday shopping

Holiday shopping season means a time of trying to find the right thing for the right person in a compressed time period between now and Christmas Eve.

To help local residents find just the right gift -- and to encourage everyone to shop Hereford first for Christmas gifts -- local merchants are pulling together to sponsor their annual Holiday Open Houses, beginning today.

The promotion is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce with a theme of "A Bag Full of Christmas in Hereford."

Beginning from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 6, residents can visit local residents and see what they have to offer for Christmas.

Just stop by at least 15 participating merchants and have them validate the ad that appears on Page 10B of today's Hereford Brand.

Drop the completed ad off at the last business you visit and you could win a prize.

The chamber and the merchants will draw from among the completed ads for five $100 shopping sprees.

The drawing will be held during the "Eat-Your-Heart-Out-Nieman-Marcus Fun Breakfast" on Nov. 17. Mike Carr, executive vice president of the chamber, said residents can take their entry forms by for validation any time during the next week.

Deadline to enter is Saturday, Nov. 12.

In addition, many businesses will offer their own door prizes as special appreciation to those who validate their contest entries at their stores.

Locations where entries will be validated are:

Fashion Boutique, J.C. Penny, Kid's Alley, Mom and Me, Pants Cage, Wishes, Little's, Merle Norman Cosmetics, Caryn's Hallmark, Inkahoos, West Park Drug, Terry's Floral and Designs, Flowers West, McCaslin Lumber Co., Cowans Jewelry, KPAN Radio, Park Avenue Florist, Subway, XIT Cellular, Anthony's, Lithographics, Hereford Auto Center, Kerr Electronics (Radio Shack), Etcetera, Hereford Brand, Western Auto, Foster Electronics, Boots and Saddle, Anderson Studio, Sew and Tell, Traditions -- Old and New, Gibson's Discount Center and Poarch's Furniture.

Kick off holidays with annual Fun Breakfast and preview

The annual Holiday Edition of the Hereford Brand today signals the kickoff of the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons, and the annual "Eat-Your-Heart-Out Neiman-Marcus" Preview Night and Fun Breakfast will formally usher in the seasons on Nov. 16-17. Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce began the "preview night" last year and it was well received by residents as merchants displayed Christmas gift ideas at Hereford Community Center the night before the annual Christmas Fun Breakfast.

Local merchants have been invited to reserve booths for the preview event from 6 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 16. The event will include a lighting ceremony, singing, entertainment, and a drawing for door prizes. A highlight for children will be the arrival of Santa Claus.

Residents will have the opportunity to browse and perhaps make their list for Christmas gifts from the many merchants on hand, and enjoy refreshments to be served by the Women's Division of the Chamber. The Fun Breakfast starts at 6:30 a.m. the next morning, Nov. 17, and it will be sponsored by the many merchants who will have booths at the events. John Stagner and Charlie Bell will be emcees for the big breakfast, which will include special announcements, drawings for prizes, games and the presentation of the Bull Chip award.

The preview night and breakfast are open to all interested residents. Please make reservations for the breakfast by calling the chamber office, 364-3333. For additional information on either event, call the chamber office.

Steal the Thanksgiving show with this fudgy pecan pie

By The Associated Press
Turkey and stuffing may be the main attraction at your traditional Thanksgiving dinner, but dessert steals the show! Fudgy Pecan Pie is a '90s version of traditional pecan pie, flavored with cocoa. The pie can be made a day in advance. When stored in an airtight plastic pie container, it will retain a moist texture and nutty taste.

Fudgy Pecan Pie
1/3 cup butter or margarine
2/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup cocoa
3 eggs
1 cup light corn syrup
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped pecans
1 unbaked 9-inch pie crust
1 recipe Sweetened Whipped Cream

Pecan halves (optional).
Heat oven to 375 degrees F. In medium saucepan over low heat, melt butter; add sugar and cocoa, stirring until well blended. Remove from heat; set aside.

In medium bowl, beat eggs slightly. Stir in corn syrup and salt. Add cocoa mixture; blend well. Stir in chopped pecans. Pour into unbaked pie crust. Bake in a 375-degree F oven for 45 to 50 minutes or until set. Cool. Cover, let stand 8 hours before serving. Garnish with whipped cream and pecan halves, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Sweetened Whipped Cream: In a small mixer bowl, stir together 1/2 cup cold whipping cream, 1 tablespoon powdered sugar and 1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract; beat until stiff. Makes about 1 cup topping.
Note: For Fudgy Mocha Pecan Pie, in a small cup or bowl, dissolve 1 teaspoon powdered instant coffee in 1 teaspoon hot water; add to pie filling when adding corn syrup and salt.

Real or fake, gems great to dress up those holiday outfits

By FRANCINE PARNES
For AP Special Features
Bigger-than-life diamonds are your best bet this season for a dramatic entrance to dress-up affairs. If you don't have diamonds, Austrian crystals and rhinestones will do.

Simply put, look for good-sized rocks. Real or fake doesn't matter, but size does. Bigger is better. So is more.

These overstated gems are a natural in a season where heels are high and bosoms are big. With Lauren Sara presenting her silk satin "I'd like to thank the Academy" gown with opera gloves and sweeping hooded cape at her fall show, decadent decoration is required.

"Now that glamour is once again making fashion news, the demand for showy jewelry such as cubic zirconium and rhinestones is accelerating," says Hope Brick, fashion director for Foley's in Houston. "It's dressed-up, it's feminine and ladylike, and it reflects a return to glamour-type dressing that so many women are ready for."

Foley's stores are selling A & S rhinestone earrings in drops, hoops and buttons, about $20, with collar necklaces with chunky rhinestone drops, about $75.

It's scene-stealing jewelry revived from the glamorous '40s, Carolee Friedlander says.

"It was a period when clothing was very feminine and women wore big jewels," says the president of Carolee Designs in Greenwich, Conn. "At that time, jewelry was very acceptable and very understandable. Today again, they're pieces that are dramatic and make a statement, and on their own they have so much character."

Among Carolee's best sellers are three- to five-strand dog collars with crystals set in an imitation platinum heart, about $75 to $300 at Neiman Marcus, Saks Fifth Avenue, Nordstrom and Bloomingdale's. Carolee's earrings are oversized "drop-dead" crystal door knockers, set in faux platinum, $75 to $150.

"You take a little satin slip sheath," Friedlander says, "and add a fur boa and wonderful pearls set in a fabulous clasp that you'd want to wear on the side to show off. Those are the accents that really make the outfit."

Carolina Herrera's crystal-studded chiffon gowns practically beg for big baubles. Likewise her gray silk charmeuse movie star gowns.

That's why she showed them with scene-stealing rings, each with a single 15-karat faux diamond. Accenting these headlight rings were faux pave diamond earrings in large spirals and figure eights.

"They're the sort of beautiful diamond rings that we all wish were real," says Deborah Hughes, public relations director for Carolina Herrera in New York. "They were inspired by the glamour of the gowns, so in order for the jewelry to complement the clothes, it had to be sparkly, sophisticated and lush."

Herrera's runway gems never made it to the stores, but there are plenty of other designs to choose from. And you don't have to wait for a black tie New Year's Eve to catch the trend.

"This extremely opulent, bold-scale jewelry is accessorizing more than just traditional evening wear," says Michael Cappelli, design director for Swarovski Jewelry in Cranston, R.I. "In New York, magazine editors are putting our crystal necklaces and bracelets on models wearing T-shirts and jeans."

The Swarovski Jewellers Collection of brooches with raccoons and pandas, necklaces, pendants, drop earrings and bracelets, all with cut crystal stones, retails from $80 to $800 at Saks Fifth Avenue, Neiman Marcus and Nordstrom.

"Fashion has evolved to the point that street jewelry is gone, gone, gone, and glitz and glamour, stones and sparkle are definitely back," says Cappelli. "We've seen a dramatic resurgence of interest in our cut crystal stones, on a bolder scale than it's been for several years."

Then again, for years fashionable Texans have staked out the bigger-is-better market.

Dolls to be given away

Two beautiful hand-crafted porcelain dolls will be given away during the Annual Festival of Trees celebration which is planned Nov. 17-20 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. Tickets for the dolls are priced at $2 each or three for $5 and each ticket gives two chances for a doll. Tickets can be purchased at the center or by calling 364-0471. The dolls were made and dressed by Hereford Senior Citizens. Displaying them are Rosalee McGowen, at left, and Jolene Bledsoe.

Small Business Help Available

Following are examples of common questions people ask the Internal Revenue Service. They are presented as a public service of this publication and the IRS.

Q. I've just started my own business and I don't know where to begin when it comes to my taxes. Does the IRS offer any help?

A. The IRS offers a variety of assistance to taxpayers from information publications, educational videos, walk-in offices and a toll-free assistance line, to a free small business newsletter and workshops to help you understand how our tax system works and what your tax responsibilities are.

Q. Tell me more about the newsletter for small businesses. What is it about and where do I sign up?

A. The newsletter, called "Tax Tips," is especially for the new business owner. Written in "layman's language," each issue covers business tax laws, helpful bookkeeping and recordkeeping hints, explanations of how the different areas of the IRS work and where to go for additional help. The twelve-month subscription is free—just call 1-800-829-1040 and ask for the Taxpayer Education Coordinator.

Q. A workshop sounds ideal for me. What types of things will I learn and who teaches them?

A. Throughout the year, specially-trained IRS employees and volunteer tax professionals teach Small Business Workshops sponsored by the IRS. The topics may include employment taxes, federal tax deposits, quarterly returns, accounting and bookkeeping methods, and other topics geared to the self-employed and small business owners. Some workshops may feature guest speakers from state or other federal agencies.

Also, in-depth tax courses, seminars, and one- or two-day classes on business topics and tax issues are offered through an IRS partnership with community-based organizations and educational institutions.

The dates, times and locations of workshops are available by calling the Taxpayer Education Coordinator.

Keeping an eye on Texas

Texas goes batty

Far from the frightening tales of vampire lore, Texas' bat population, over 100 million strong, is a valuable animal resource. One bat may eat up to 3,000 insects, including crop pests and mosquitoes, each night. Some of the winged mammals also pollinate or disperse seeds for many plants.

Facts on Texas bats

More bats per square mile than any other state

More species of bats (32 of the 43 found in North America)

Largest urban bat population (1.5 million living under Austin's Congress Avenue Bridge)

Largest bat colony in the world (20 to 40 million in Bracken Cave outside San Antonio)

Bat viewing areas

2. Old Tunnel Wildlife Management Area, between Fredericksburg and Comfort
3. Colorado Bend State Park, near Bend
4. Eckert James River Bat Cave Preserve, near Mason
5. Kickapoo Cavern State Natural Area, between Brackettville and Rocksprings
6. Devil's Sinkhole State Natural Area, near Rocksprings

Cranberry dishes brighten up variety of holidaytime dishes

By DANA JACOBI
For AP Special Features
NEW YORK (AP) - While cranberries are mostly closely associated with holiday meals, they bring festivity to the table whenever served. Surprisingly versatile, they are as good in savory dishes and desserts as they are in a traditional sauce or relish.

This year's crop of cranberries matured sooner than in past years because of hot, humid growing conditions in Massachusetts, which will produce about 45 percent of the 431 million pounds of cranberries forecast by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the 1994 harvest. The fresh, whole cranberries sold in plastic bags come mainly from Massachusetts, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Oregon and Washington are the other major cranberry-producing states. Most of their crop is used to make juices, sauces and relishes.

Despite this year's abundance, the price of fresh cranberries is expected to remain about the same as last year because the supply of berries considered beautiful enough to be sold fresh is peaking early.

The tart, astringent flavor of cranberries blends particularly well with the crisp, bright taste of apples and the smoky sweetness of another American favorite, maple syrup.

Fresh cranberries can be frozen for use throughout the December holidays. The following recipes work well with either fresh or frozen cranberries.

Cranberry Soup with Apple Croutons
1 tablespoon butter
1 medium onion, chopped
1 rib celery, chopped
1 carrot, chopped
2 cups cranberries, fresh or frozen
2 cups chicken broth
12 whole black peppercorns
3 whole cardamom pods or 1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom
1 bay leaf
Pinch cayenne pepper
3 cups apple cider
For the garnish:
1 medium Golden Delicious apple, peeled and cored
1/4 cup canola oil
1/4 cup finely minced dill

In large saucepan, melt butter. Add onion, celery and carrot. Saute over medium heat until soft, about 5 minutes. Cover, reduce heat, and cook 10 minutes, until vegetables release their juices.

Add cranberries, chicken broth, peppercorns, cardamom, bay leaf and cayenne pepper. Cover. Simmer until vegetables and cranberries are very soft, about 30 minutes.

Pour soup through a strainer over a bowl, pressing on solids with back of a wooden spoon to extract all their juices. Scrape any pulp from outside of strainer into bowl; discard solids. (Soup may be refrigerated or frozen at this point.)

When ready to serve, pour soup into pot. Add the 3 cups apple cider; heat.

For garnish, cut apple into small cubes, making them uniform in size so pieces cook evenly.

In small, heavy skillet, heat oil. Add apple pieces; fry, turning occasionally, until browned on all sides, about 4 minutes. With slotted spoon, remove apple from pan; drain on paper towel. Using side of spoon, separate pieces as they cool or they will stick together. Ladle soup into four individual bowls. Top each serving with fried apple pieces and 1 tablespoon of the minced dill. Makes 4 servings.

Cranberry Blossom
Fill a tall, 12-ounce glass one-third with chilled orange juice. Pour in chilled club soda, champagne, sparkling white wine or seltzer from freshly opened bottle, filling glass to two-thirds. Mixture will foam up. Quickly top off glass with cranberry juice cocktail. If desired, add a few dashes of biters. Serve immediately. Makes 1 serving.

Cran-Apple Raisin Crumble
For the filling:
12-ounce bag cranberries
1-1/2 cups raisins
1 large Golden Delicious apple, peeled, cored and chopped
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 cup apple cider or apple juice
For the topping:
3 cups rolled oats
1/3 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon canola oil
1/4 cup maple syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. For filling, in 13- by 9-inch lasagna pan, combine cranberries, raisins, apple, cinnamon, cloves and apple cider or juice.

For topping, in bowl, combine oats, brown sugar and cinnamon. Add oil, maple syrup and vanilla. With your fingers, work mixture until ingredients are well blended and topping has the texture of moist meal, with some clumps.

Scoop topping over filling in pan. With your fingers, pat out topping to make even, lightly packed layer. Some fruit may show through.

Bake in a 375-degree F oven until topping is golden brown and firm to the touch, about 20 minutes. Cool to lukewarm before serving. Serve warm or at room temperature. Makes 8 servings.

Cranberry Almond Biscotti
3/4 cup dried cranberries
1/2 cup apple juice
1-1/2 cups whole, unblanched almonds
2 cups all-purpose flour
3/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/3 cup honey
1/3 cup water

In small bowl, plump cranberries in apple juice, 20 to 30 minutes. Drain; set aside.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Cover baking sheet with parchment or buttered wax paper; set aside.

In food processor, grind 1/2 cup of the almonds to a fine powder. Scrape ground nuts into large bowl. Add flour, sugar, cinnamon, baking powder, baking soda, remaining 3/4 cup whole almonds and cranberries. Mix to blend. Pour in honey and water. Mix until ingredients form a stiff dough.

Divide dough in two parts. Roll each piece into a 12-inch log. Place both dough logs on prepared sheet. Bake in a 350-degree-F oven for 30 minutes, until logs are dark, honey-colored, risen and firm to the touch. Cool on baking sheet, 10 to 20 minutes.

Transfer each log to cutting board. Makes 3 dozen.

Tips given for turkey preparation

By The Associated Press

Need help in preparing your Thanksgiving turkey?

Sherleen Clausen, a home economist, says turkey preparation depends on the initial temperature and shape of the turkey, the cooking method and equipment used.

Clausen says the most accurate way to determine doneness is to use a meat thermometer. Start checking the turkey's temperature 30 minutes before anticipated doneness. Recommended final temperatures are: 180 degrees F in the thigh, 170 degrees F in the breast and 160 degrees F in the center of the stuffing.

Clausen is a home economist for the Butterball Turkey Co.

The following tips are from the home economists and nutritionists who staff the Butterball Turkey Talk-Line, a toll-free hotline. This hotline operates during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays to answer consumers' turkey preparation questions. The hotline has been in operation since 1981.

How do you prepare a turkey for roasting?

-Remove original plastic wrapper from thawed or fresh turkey.

-Remove the neck from the body cavity and the giblets from the neck cavity.

-Drain juices and blot turkey with paper towels.

-Stuff turkey lightly (optional).

-Return legs to tucked position, if untucked.

-Insert meat thermometer into the deepest part of the thigh.

-Follow roasting directions.

What's the best way to thaw a turkey?

-Thaw breast side up in its unopened wrapper on a tray in the refrigerator.

-Estimate at least one day of thawing for every 6 pounds of turkey.

-Do not thaw at room temperature.

Thawing a turkey at room temperature will allow bacterial growth and is not recommended.

How do you recommend handling a turkey so it's safe to eat?

-Thaw turkey in the refrigerator or in cold water.

-Prevent juices from dripping onto other foods in the refrigerator by placing raw, wrapped turkey on a tray.

-Keep thawed or fresh turkey in the refrigerator at 40 degrees F or below.

-Thawed turkey may be kept in the refrigerator up to four days before cooking.

-Wash hands, work surfaces and utensils touched by raw poultry and its juices with hot soapy water.

-Stuff turkey before roasting.

-Use cooking methods that allow the turkey to reach an internal temperature of 140 degrees F in less than four hours; avoid using low roasting temperatures or partial cooking methods.

-Use a meat thermometer to determine turkey's doneness. The tip of the meat thermometer should be placed in the thigh muscle just above and beyond the lower part of the thigh bone, pointing toward the body. Turn the thermometer so it can be read while the turkey is in the oven.

-Store turkey, stuffing, gravy, broth and other cooked foods properly within two hours.

What's the proper way to stuff a turkey?

-Stuff the turkey just before roasting; ingredients may be prepared earlier, but keep moist and dry ingredients separate and combine just before roasting.

-Use 1/2 cup stuffing per pound for turkeys weighing up to 10 pounds; for turkeys weighing more than 10 pounds, use 3/4 cup stuffing per pound.

-Stuff both cavities lightly. Stuff the neck cavity first, then turn the wings back to hold neck skin in place or skewer if skin is too short, stuff body cavity, but do not truss or skewer it closed.

-Place extra stuffing in foil or casserole dish and cook it alongside the turkey during the last hour of roasting until the stuffing's center is 160 degrees F.

What's the best way to roast a turkey?

-Place a thawed or fresh turkey, breast up, on a flat rack in a shallow pan about 2 inches deep.

-Insert a meat thermometer into the thigh.

-Brush skin with oil.

-Place in a preheated 325-degree F oven.

-When the skin is light golden brown, about two-thirds cooked, shield the breast loosely with a tent of lightweight foil to prevent overbrowning.

-Roast to an internal temperature of 180 degrees F in the thigh; 170 degrees F in the breast; 160 degrees F in the stuffing.

-As a general guideline, a 10- to 18-pound turkey, unstuffed, takes 3 to 3-1/2 hours to cook; stuffed, 3-3/4 to 4-1/2 hours. An 18- to 22-pound turkey, unstuffed, takes 3-1/2 to 4 hours to cook; stuffed, 4-1/2 to 5 hours. A 22- to 24-pound turkey, unstuffed, takes 4 to 4-1/2 hours to cook; stuffed, 5 to 5-1/2 hours. A 24- to 29-pound turkey, unstuffed, takes 4-1/2 to 5 hours to cook; stuffed, 5-1/2 to 6-1/4 hours. Start checking for doneness 30 minutes before recommended end time.

-When done, let the turkey stand for 15 to 20 minutes before carving.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Hi! I'm writing in to you for help. This may sound strange, but can you ask your readers to send me their gum wrappers?

See, I'm making a gum-wrapper chain and I'm trying to get into the "Guinness Book of World Records." The longest chain in the world is 7,400 feet and I have a long way to go! I only use the outside part (not the foil). Any brand or color will do (you know—the paper part you take off before you take off the foil). So, send wrappers to:

Alison Psiuk
PO Box 601
Carteret NJ 07008

In a way, I guess you could say that I'm recycling them. Thanks a lot! By the way, I use the big multi-packs also. — Alison Psiuk

I'm glad to help you, so here's the plea. Let's all pitch in together and help Alison reach her goal! We will do a follow-up to see how long it takes her to make the record chain.

Good luck, Alison. — Heloise
Dear Heloise: Those wonderful new decorative whipped-topping containers with flowers on the outside of the tub will make great Easter baskets next spring.

Just use a paper punch to make a hole on each side of the container, discard the cover and add pipe cleaners or a pretty ribbon for the handle.

Dear Heloise: I just read the hint for carpet dents. Here's another hint I use: Put an ice cube in each dent. Let it melt completely, then vacuum.

For large dents, use several cubes to cover them. — M. J. Harrison, Wataeka, Ill.

VINEGAR TO THE RESCUE

Dear Heloise: Bless you and your ideas about vinegar taking care of anything great and small. Our water is extremely hard and nothing would remove the salts it left behind on the lip of the faucets. I soaked a cotton ball in vinegar and wrapped it around the lip, fastening it with a rubber band. I left it overnight and the hard crust is gone. — Ruth Knoche, St. John, Ind.

Well, bless you for taking the time to write! Vinegar is so versatile and it's a cheap and safe way to clean a multitude of things. I have compiled a pamphlet with lots of great ways to use vinegar around the house. If you would like to receive a pamphlet, please send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to: Heloise/Vinegar, PO 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise

Cookie cutters are used to decorate pie crusts

By NANCY BYAL
For AP Special Features

No sweating over the pastry on this deep-dish pie. Cookie cutters make easy work of the attractive top crust. Just randomly cut out shapely pastry pieces from the rolled dough and overlap them atop the fruit before baking. Serve the pie while it's still warm. Drop a scoop of vanilla ice cream on top, then watch it puddle into rich, creamy pools.

Apple-Cranberry Deep-Dish Pie
1/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon apple pie spice or 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon finely shredded orange peel

1-1/2 cups canned whole cranberry sauce
7 cups peeled and thinly sliced cooking apples, such as Golden Delicious or Jonathan (about 2-1/4 pounds)

1 recipe Single-Crust Pastry
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon sugar
Vanilla ice cream (optional)
In a mixing bowl stir together the 1/4 cup sugar, flour, apple pie spice or nutmeg, and orange peel. Stir in cranberry sauce. Add apples; toss to coat fruit. Transfer to a 10-inch deep-dish pie plate or a 1-1/2-quart casserole.

On a lightly floured surface, flatten pastry dough. Roll dough from center to edges, forming a 14-inch circle. Using cookie cutters, cut desired shapes from pastry, rerolling and cutting trimmings as necessary. Arrange cutouts atop fruit mixture.

In a small bowl stir together egg yolk and water; brush onto pastry cutouts. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar. To prevent overbrowning, cover edge of pie with foil. Place on a baking sheet. Bake in a 375-degree F oven for 25 minutes. Remove foil. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes more or until top is golden, apples are tender and filling is bubbly. Use a spoon to serve warm or cool with ice cream, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Nutrition facts per serving: 312 cal., 8 g fat, 27 mg chol., 3 g pro., 61 g carbo., 3 g fiber, 83 mg sodium. Daily Values: 12 percent vit. C and 18 percent thiamine.

Pear-Persimmon Deep-Dish Pie: Prepare pie as directed, except increase sugar to 1/2 cup. Substitute 7 cups sliced, peeled pears (Bosc, Bartlett or Anjou) for the apples and 2 cups chopped, peeled persimmons for the cranberry sauce. Serve as directed.

Single-Crust Pastry: In a medium mixing bowl stir together 1-1/4 cups all-purpose flour and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Using a pastry blender, cut in 1/3 cup shortening until pieces are the size of small peas. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon cold water over part of the mixture; gently toss with a fork. Push to the side of the bowl. Repeat with 2 to 3 tablespoons cold water, using 1 tablespoon of water at a time, until all is moistened. Form dough into a ball.

Pecan crop hurt by weather

CAMILLA, Ga. (AP) — Wind storms in Texas, downpours in Georgia and foul weather in other states have limited production and hurt the quality of this year's pecan crop.

That could mean higher prices at Thanksgiving and Christmas, the peak time for sales of pecans.

"There are some good nuts out there, but they'll be in short supply," Joe Adams, president of the Georgia Pecan Growers Association, said Tuesday.

Officials have not labeled it a shortage. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates U.S. production at 198 million pounds this year, 46 percent less than the 365 million pounds produced last year. Some leading growers predict the total could be even lower.

"Without a doubt, there are severe problems with the crop this year," said Greg Hamil, a pecan buyer in Thomasville. "There are such severe quality problems, many pecans will not be put on the market."

Hamil said 80 percent of the pecans he has seen are fair to poor.

Prices for good quality pecans are high, at $1.50 per pound, he said. In a normal year, they would sell for $1.15 per pound to $1.25 per pound.

Pecan trees produce a big crop one year and a smaller crop the next.

In 1993, trees produced a bumper crop — 385 million pounds.

This year they would have produced a small crop anyway. The estimate is 198 million pounds.

Georgia, the nation's largest producer, usually raises 35 percent to 50 percent of the U.S. crop. The pecan belt stretches from the Carolinas to Arizona.

The nation's largest concentration of trees — 636,034 — is clustered around Albany, Ga., which was hit this summer by severe flooding that inundated some pecan groves. A storm three weeks ago hurt the crop even more.

The area has received nearly 14 more inches of rain than normal this year.

Martinez, Loyd wed Saturday afternoon

Abigail Martinez and Marcus Loyd, both of Hereford, were united in marriage early Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Nazarene.

The bride is the daughter of Pedro and Agustina Martinez of Route 1, Hereford, and the bridegroom is the son of Virginia Loyd of Ave. J. and Rodney Loyd of Middleton, Iowa.

Bridesmaids included Ruth Murillo, Jennifer Villarreal, Veronica Castillo, Christine Chavez and Rachel Chavez.

Groomsmen were Alan Martinez, Jaime Guzman, Harvey Martinez, Noe Perez and Rufus Rodriguez.

Flower girl was Sayra Apodacca, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Apodacca, and lighting candles was Pete Martinez.

The bride was attired in a traditional wedding gown fashioned with an open heart-shaped back bodice adorned with hanging pearls, a fitted front bodice accented with pearls and sequins, and long-sleeve see-through sleeves with matching adornments. The chapel-length train was also decorated with matching trim.

Michael Loyd invited guests to register at the reception held in the church.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will live in Hereford.

The bride is a 1992 graduate of Hereford High School and is employed by Colortyme Rent-to-Own.

The bridegroom is a 1988 graduate of HHS and is employed by the City of Hereford.

Chrysanthemums come in variety of colors

It wasn't too long ago that chrysanthemums were mainly yellow in coloration and known as the "golden flower of the Orient." Now you can have them in just about any color except blue.

The transition has accelerated over the past 10 years, says Edward Higgins, product manager for Yoder Brothers of Barberton, Ohio, the world's largest producer of garden mums.

"The colors of the No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3-selling mums last year were red, lavender and yellow," says Higgins. "No telling what we will have this year."

Early in this decade, yellow still was the top choice.

Since Yoder, like other producers, is in the business of developing plants that consumers will want to buy, it tries to stay abreast of color trends in its plant-breeding program.

Yoder's introduction this year include variations of yellow, red, bronze, pink, orange, purple and mahogany.

Later-blooming varieties are another major change in mums in recent years. Yoder calls them "season extenders." The normal flowering time for garden mums runs from early to late September while "season-extenders" flower into late October, says Higgins.

He lists them as autumn Denise, a red-bronze decorative type; dewiness, pastel-bronze decorative; Julia, yellow daisy; Kimberly, pink daisy; Sarah, bronze-quilled decorative; sunny Denise, yellow decorative; Valerie, purple decorative, and yellow Sarah, yellow-quilled decorative.

As for flower form, decoratives and daisy types lead the sales chart, followed by spiders, anemones, buttons and pompons. A rounded and mounded habit is the most desired plant shape.

Higgins favors spring planting in a sunny location to better establish roots before winter but says already flowering plants may be placed in any location or container where a splash of color is desired. Plant in fertile, well-drained soil. Rainfall in many areas is sufficient, but keep plants from wilting.

During the growing season, work a general fertilizer such as 5-10-5 into the soil at the rate of 0.5 to 1 pound per 100 square feet. Repeat monthly until August. Spring planted mums will need pinching but this should be stopped around July 10 in northern states and Aug. 1 in southern areas. Space plants 15 to 20 inches from the center of one plant to the center of the next.

Some other recommendations: Keep soil moist as winter approaches. Don't prune back plants until the following spring except in warmer climates, where they are likely to continue growing.

In cooler climates, wait to mulch plants until the ground begins to freeze. Remove the mulch in the spring. Always thoroughly water a freshly planted mum. Select plants with dark green leaf color, absence of flower and leaf damage, and strong stems.

"It is important to choose the best varieties for your region," according to Higgins. "Mums do best at temperatures ranging from 70 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit during the day and 55 to 65 degrees F at night. Excessively high day and night temperatures can cause loss of a variety's characteristic color."

Apple pie still a favorite

By The Associated Press

On a brisk autumn day, there is nothing more comforting than a homemade apple dessert served warm from the oven. Use crisp, tart apples for a delicious deep-dish apple pie. Or pair apples with another seasonal favorite, cranberries, for cranberry-apple pie. Cranberries can be found in the produce section of most supermarkets, packaged in 12-ounce bags.

Deep-Dish Apple Pie
10 cups peeled and thinly sliced apples

3/4 cup granulated sugar
1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup quick-cooking tapioca
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/3 cup raisins
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
15-ounce package refrigerated pie crust

Heat oven to 425 degrees F. In a large bowl, mix apples, sugar, brown sugar, tapioca, cinnamon, nutmeg, raisins and water. Let stand 15 minutes.

Fill a 10-inch pie plate with the apple mixture. Dot with the 2 tablespoons margarine or butter.

Roll one of the pie crusts to 12-inch circle on lightly floured surface. Cover apple mixture with pie crust; seal and flute edges. Cut several slits to permit steam to escape. Cut decorative shapes from remaining pie crust. Moisten with water; place on pie crust. Bake in a 425-degree F oven for 15 minutes. Decrease oven temperature to 350 degrees F. Bake 45 minutes or until juices form bubbles that burst slowly. Serve warm. Makes 10 servings.

Cranberry-Apple Pie
3 cups diced and peeled apples
1 cup cranberries
1-1/2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca

1/4 teaspoon salt
15-ounce package refrigerated pie crust

1 tablespoon margarine or butter
Heat oven to 400 degrees F. Mix apples, cranberries, sugar, tapioca and salt in a large bowl. Let stand 15 minutes.

Prepare pie crusts according to package directions. Line a 9-inch pie plate with one of the pie crusts. Fill with fruit mixture. Dot with the 1 tablespoon margarine or butter. Cut second pie crust into 1/2-inch strips.

Arrange in lattice design over fruit mixture. Seal and flute edges. If desired, brush pie crust strips with a beaten egg before baking for a golden top crust. Bake in a 400-degree F oven for 60 minutes

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago, you asked your readers to let you know if they took your advice and how things turned out. I'm a bit late, but here is my story:

In 1970, I wrote to you and poured out my heart about my sexually abusive marriage. My husband was, and still is, according to his present wife, addicted to bondage and other kinky stuff. I stayed with him because I thought I had no choice. My parents said, "You made your bed, now lie in it." My religion forbade divorce, and back then, I didn't dare go against it.

In response to my letter of 1970, you asked your famous question, "Would you be better off with him or without him?" I had five children under 7 years of age, no job and no skills. I decided I would be better off with him, resigned myself to putting up with the abuse and prayed that he would die young.

Five years ago, I finally left him. I have gone through intensive therapy and am well on the road to healing. I hope I never see or have to talk to him again. I am aware that I still harbor a lot of hatred in my heart, but I'm working on getting rid of it. I have never been happier. Each day when I wake up, I'm filled with gratitude that I don't have to hear his voice.

If you had asked, "Would you be happier (instead of 'would you be better off') with him or without him?" I would have answered immediately, "Without him!" and I might have made a different choice. I certainly would not have waited 20 years to remake my life.

Please consider changing the wording of your age-old question.--Canton, Ohio

DEAR CANTON: I feel terrible that just because I used the words "better off" instead of "happier" you stayed in a lousy marriage for 20 years. In the future, I will pay more attention to semantics.

I am glad, however, that you are happier now, or should I say "better off"?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now that summer is over, I would like to use your column to address a problem that will be familiar to some of your readers.

Every summer it seems, we are the responsible neighbors who are asked to "watch the house and collect the mail" while our neighbors go on vacation.

There are two families in our block who are gone the entire summer. Consequently, their home responsibilities become ours. Because our children have summer jobs, these neighbors know we will be at home except for a very short vacation. So--we are always asked to "take care of" their homes.

In August, I was watching four homes simultaneously, and it was a big responsibility. I want to be a good neighbor, but I am starting to feel taken advantage of.

What can I say when they know I will be home, without sounding mean-spirited or selfish? I doubt that these people know how much time it takes to run around collecting mail and newspapers, watering plants, etc. These neighbors are all old friends, and I do not want to alienate them. I hope they will read this column and recognize themselves--No Name and No City

DEAR N.N. AND N.C.: Don't count on people "recognizing themselves." Too often, they don't.

What's the matter with saying, "Sorry, no. We may be going away ourselves." (The word "may" saves you from lying.)

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Does age really make a difference after a person reaches 65? It seems to me that energy is lot more important than age.

I am 83 and feel great. I met a man who is 78, and we got along wonderfully well. After five or six dates, I decided to tell "Joe" I was 83. He took me out a couple of times after that, and then out of the blue, he said, "I'm sorry, but you are too old for me."

Ann, I'm in good health, and I get around with no trouble. When my hair started to turn gray, I turned blonde. Everyone says I could easily pass for 60. I don't act my age, and I certainly don't feel it. I exercise every day and am a very good dancer.

My friends tell me to forget about Joe, but it's not that easy. I think I have fallen for the old rascal even though he sure wouldn't win any beauty contest.

The last time we went out, Joe mentioned rather casually that he has been dating his sister-in-law ever since his wife passed away five years ago.

Do you think I have a chance, or should I give up on him?--Infatuated in Ohio

DEAR OHIO: Even though you are 83 and Joe is 78, I think you need a younger man. Look for someone who isn't dating his sister-in-law. I have a hunch that she has the inside track.

DEAR FRIENDS: A few years ago, I hit on the idea of adding some words of distilled wisdom and random thoughts at the end of the column. I called these anecdotes my Gems of the Day. I had no idea the Gems would become so popular.

Readers from all over the world have written to say how much they enjoy the Gems and complain when they do not appear. Thousands have suggested that I put them into a booklet.

So, readers, here's my new booklet, called "A Collection of My Favorite Gems of the Day." I hope they will be your favorites, too.

To get a copy, send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5 (this includes postage and handling) to: Collection, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 24-year-old woman who did a very foolish thing when I was 16. One night when I was with a crazy guy, I had too much to drink, and he took me to a tattoo parlor and had his name tattooed on my hand, along with a heart and a red rose.

I have interviewed for several jobs since then, but once that tattoo is spotted, I don't stand a chance. Please tell me how much it will cost to get this miserable thing removed.--Sad and Sorry in La La Land

DEAR LALA: I contacted Suzanne L. Kilmer, M.D., who is an assistant clinical professor at the University of California/Davis Medical School and specializes in dermatology and laser surgery. I was told the cost of tattoo removal varies from $200 to $400 for the initial treatment.

Follow-up treatments cost about half that amount. Professional tattoos usually require four to eight treatments at six-week intervals. Light amateur tattoos may need only two or three treatments.

My advice to anyone considering a tattoo is to stay away from this foolishness.

Women's Health

Whenever you have discomfort, it's a good idea to see your doctor. Your problem can often be easily treated.

A lack of sufficient vaginal lubrication is a normal and natural occurrence in a woman's life. It is estimated that over 28 million women have this condition at one point or another. Vaginal dryness can occur for various reasons including menopause, the major cause of the condition.

How Dryness Effects You

Menopause is a natural part of aging, occurring anytime from the late 30s to late 50s. During this time, women experience a drop in estrogen levels and, as a result of this hormonal change, numerous symptoms may develop, including vaginal dryness. Vaginal dryness can cause friction and tissue irritation, resulting in discomfort from sexual intercourse. It also can cause painful urination, frequent urination, or feelings of frequent urination.

Available Help

One of the most popular methods to alleviate vaginal dryness is the use of personal lubricants. Personal lubricants are available in gels, creams, and inserts. Gels are usually messy, inconvenient, and awkward to use. Determining the amount of gel to use is also problematic.

Some lubricants need to be measured or require the use of cumbersome applicators. However, there is one product that offers women both convenience and significant advances in personal lubricants: LUBRIN.

The Natural Solution

Lubrin is a pre-measured lubricating insert that does not require an applicator, making it easy-to-use and mess-free. In fact, consumer studies have found that Lubrin is preferred over alternatives by those who have tried both.

Lubrin uniquely simulates the feel of the body's natural lubrication, so it provides hours of continual relief from dryness. It is water soluble which makes it safe to use with condoms and diaphragms and won't mask infections. Lubrin contains no irritating dyes, perfumes, or preservatives, and is colorless, odorless, and nonstaining. It also is very economical. Lubrin costs less per application than many other products and can conveniently be purchased at local pharmacies.

It is important for women to realize that vaginal dryness is a common experience and it can usually be easily alleviated if the problem is brought to the physician's attention.

Babies should be placed to sleep on their back or their side.

Extension News

BY BEVERLY HARDER

Eight weeks remain in this year. These are weeks filled with back-to-school and holiday expenses on top of the usual budget crunching challenges. What can you do to reduce the stress and feel you are in control of your finances?

People who manage emergency situations that seem bigger than the resources can first "size up the situation." That is exactly what families can do about financial matters. Work together and size up your financial situation. How much money will your family have? How much are the bills you have to pay? What does each family member need and want to buy or do? What expenses can you adjust by the way you shop and live?

A calendar is a good "size up" tool. Write the amount of money you will have coming in each week from gifts, things you will sell, and ways family members can earn money other than salaries and pay checks. List only the money you know you can count on receiving.

Next list the bills that have to be paid. Figure out how much is left. Now how can you use this information, use your resources, keep the situation under control and have a successful year's end? First and most important, by working together you will find out what is really important to each family member. Too often families get into the habit of buying ad doing things they have outgrown or no longer enjoy. Keep a list of things you have been or would have been using your money to buy if you had not taken time out to talk. Talk can be both cheap and valuable!

When you know everyone's priorities, think of as many ways as possible to get what your family wants and needs. For example, children can save coupons and help shop for the best buy when you're shopping. Money they save the family can become their "gift fund." Each family member could decide on the most important things they want to buy or do, suggest how they might pay for it. Help children plan to do things that are reasonable for their age and ability. Parents need to model the process of identifying and planning to meet individual needs rather than denying their needs "for the children's sake."

Make an envelope for each person's goal and each type of expense the family has. Write the amount that needs to go into the envelope each week until that goal is reached. If each child's gift envelope needs $100 and it's 10 weeks until the holiday, write $10 on the envelope 10 times. After essential bills are paid from each pay check or when individuals earn or receive money, put the amount needed into each envelope. Mark the $10 goal reached for the week. When shopping for gifts use only money from the gift envelope. You can take advantage of sales without wrecking the rest of your budget.

The key to feeling in control in times of financial crunch is to have

Beef salad an easy alternative

By The Associated Press

A refreshing main dish salad pleases the palate. And best of all, salads can mean "cool cooking."

Lime-sesame beef salad is a cinch to toss together. Buy roast beef cooked and sliced to order at the supermarket deli. For extra convenience, you can pick up other ready-to-use salad ingredients like pre-washed and pre-cut vegetables from the salad bar or produce section.

Lime-Sesame Beef Salad

12 ounces deli roast beef, sliced 1/4-inch thick

1 small cucumber, cut lengthwise in half and crosswise into thin slices

1 medium carrot, cut into julienne strips

1 small onion, cut lengthwise into thin wedges

1 medium red bell pepper, cut into julienne strips

1/4 cup coarsely chopped fresh cilantro

Boston lettuce leaves

For the lime-sesame dressing:

3 tablespoons fresh lime juice

2 tablespoons sugar

1 tablespoon dark sesame oil

1 tablespoon soy sauce

1 clove garlic, crushed

1/8 teaspoon crushed red pepper

Stack beef slices; cut lengthwise in half and then crosswise into 1/2-inch wide strips. In medium bowl, combine beef, cucumber, carrot, onion, bell pepper and cilantro; set aside.

In 1-cup microwave-safe glass measure, combine dressing ingredients. Cook on high (100 percent power) for 30 seconds or just until bubbly, stirring until sugar is completely dissolved. Add dressing to beef mixture; toss to coat. To serve, arrange lettuce on serving platter. Spoon beef mixture over lettuce. Makes 4 servings.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

Clavin Coolidge once said, "No one ever listened himself out of a job." Good listening is not just a means of communication, it is a gift and should be a priority for us.

My history students have been working on their ABCs of Texas History and I have found it very interesting to listen to them as they work and talk. Sometimes, I wonder if they even know I can hear them, but then when I least expect it, I'm included in the conversation!

Mr. Farr's American history classes have been studying religious toleration in colonial America. Slides of the Amish people in Pennsylvania demonstrated the wide variety of different religions that are allowed today in this tolerant nation.

Texas history classes of Mr. Morris are studying about the early conflicts between the Spanish in the fight for Mexican independence and the conflicts between the Spanish and Anglo invaders who began to enter Texas.

Mrs. Wilhelm's Life Skills class is working on measurements. The week of Thanksgiving will be used to use this lesson as they make flour tortillas.

Junior Historians Heath Henderson, Jenny Artho and Roger Villarreal visited the American Legion meeting on Tuesday and enjoyed a report on the Red Cross given by Mrs. Betty Henson. They visited with Legion Members about the use of armed service flags for the parade and help with upcoming projects.

HJH had two floats in the Homecoming Parade--Junior Historians and Builders Club. A number of members in each club put in many hours of preparation and learned more about working together, completing a task and having fun in so doing.

Junior Historians have completed their fund raiser and plan to have orders ready for delivery before Thanksgiving. "Thanks" to each of you who helped with this endeavor. The money earned will be used to further the chapter's projects and several of those projects will, hopefully, benefit the community.

Team teachers are making plans for special activities for each team. Some of these plans are movies, field trips and fun days--playing games, etc. You will be hearing more about these activities as the next six weeks period begins.

Two short quotes from Mamie McCullough should be good food for thought--"Keep the main thing the main thing" and "Listening is loving." Try each--it'll make a difference in your life!

The world's best fishing grounds lie along the edge of the Arctic, particularly off the coasts of Greenland and Iceland.

When new Year's Day was changed to Jan. 1, some people still celebrated it on April 1. These people came to be known as "April Fools."

—YOUR EYES—

WOMEN AND THEIR CONTACT LENSES

When women report discomfort with their contact lenses, the problem may be related to their menstrual cycles. Researchers at the University of Houston studied the relationship between such discomfort and hormonal changes that occur during menstruation and menopause.

For example, one of the common complaints is dry eyes and blurred vision. This has been attributed to increased tear evaporation during the menstrual period. Conversely, thickening of the cornea during the premenstrual phase of the cycle is due to the sodium and water retention common at that time. In addition, there is often increased irritation from lenses through the menstrual period. Pregnant women, too, may find wearing their lenses uncomfortable.

If you are experiencing any discomfort, check with your optometrist. The first response to ease eye irritation is usually prescribed or over-the-counter eye drops. In some cases, it may be necessary to switch to eyeglasses for a while.

Lyme Disease is difficult to detect

Lyme disease can be a difficult ailment to detect, but knowing its causes and symptoms can help patients distinguish it from illnesses with similar characteristics.

Lyme disease can generally be traced to contact with a species of tick carrying the borrelia burgdorferi spirochete that causes the illness in humans.

These insects contract the organism after they feed on the blood of infected field mice or deer. The disease is spread to humans when an infected tick feeds on the blood of a human host for 24 hours.

Detecting and removing a tick within that window of time can help prevent Lyme disease transmission.

The symptoms of early Lyme disease infection include headache, muscle ache, sore throat, low grade fever and a red rash known in medical circles as erythema migrans.

In some cases, patients can confuse this rash with the allergic reaction to a tick bite that sometimes appears in the form of a red dot on the site where the tick was imbedded.

The erythema migrans rash is an expanding red ringed lesion that should measure at least 2 inches in diameter. It tends to resemble a bull's eye since the skin inside the ring returns to its normal color as the outside ring expands.

Appearance of this rash is considered by doctors as a clear indication of Lyme disease that requires immediate medical attention.

Left untreated the rash will disappear, but the infection will remain and can spread to other areas of the body. In these cases, complications such as neurological or heart abnormalities, and arthritis, may develop.

A blood test that measures antibodies - immune system proteins - can help detect infection with Lyme disease. This test, however, can have many false positive results and by itself is not a conclusive indication of Lyme disease infection.

For example, the antibodies themselves may not develop until six weeks after infection, so taking a blood test before that time can result in a false negative result.

Acute neurological complications can also occur even without the classic syndromes, such as the rash. Late symptoms of Lyme disease such as arthritis typified by redness or swelling of the joint, may occur months after infection.

Early cases of Lyme disease can be treated with oral antibiotics, however, late complications may require intravenous antibiotics. Diagnosis is based on the syndrome, clinical findings, and a reliable blood test.

However, in some cases, those who have chronic fatigue, or joint or muscle aches without any other symptoms, may have a false positive blood test.

It is important to distinguish between these two groups because treating patients who do not have Lyme disease can do more harm than good.

Side effects from the medication can include gallstones, allergic reactions, and photosensitivity.

Dr. Geoffrey D. Chazen is clinical assistant professor of medicine at New York University School of Medicine.

First monument dedicated to an African-American

By JERRY NACHTIGAL
Associated Press Writer
DIAMOND, Mo. (AP) - Born to a slave two weeks before the end of the Civil War, George Washington Carver rose to stunning heights as a scientist, educator and humanitarian. The Diamond Grove plantation, where the man who would revolutionize American agriculture spent his boyhood, is now the George Washington Carver National Monument, administered by the National Park Service. It's the first monument of its kind dedicated to an African-American.

The park sweeps across 210 acres of rural southwestern Missouri. Its prairie grassland, dotted with shaded woods and shallow streams, is a gentle oasis of singing birds, wildflowers and butterflies where young Carver's fascination with plants developed.

"Just being on the farm and spending 10 to 12 years wandering through the woods, we believe this environment influenced him to become what he did later in life," said park ranger Lana Henry.

The park's visitor center features films about Carver's life; a museum displays exhibits of his scientific research, his artwork and other artifacts.

A three-quarter-mile hiking path winds through the park, with interpretive stops showing where he was born, Moses and Susan Carver's plantation house, the Carver family cemetery and a bronze statue of the scientist as a boy.

The monument was created under an Act of Congress in 1943, shortly after his death; then-Sen. Harry Truman of Missouri was a sponsor of the legislation.

Carver gained worldwide fame for developing more than 300 industrial uses for peanuts and sweet potatoes. He also rescued the South's economy by persuading cotton farmers to rotate crops and use natural fertilizers to restore worn-out soil.

Born in a one-room log shanty, Carver was kidnapped by bushwhackers as an infant, along with his mother. He later was located in Arkansas and returned to the Carver farm, but his mother never was found.

He was raised as one of the Carvers' own children and adopted their last name. As a child, he spent hours in the woods studying plants, soils and insects.

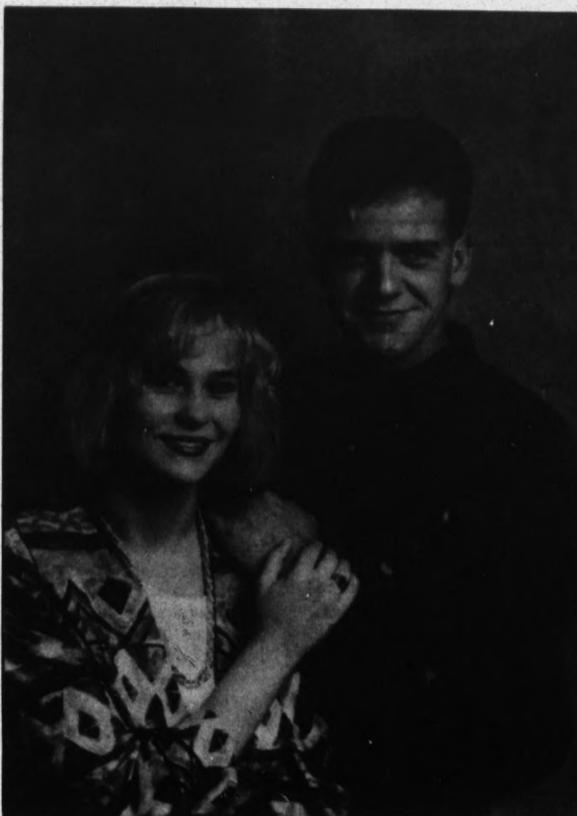

Around age 12, he went off to the only school for blacks in the area, eight miles away. Then for the next 20 years he worked odd jobs to finance his education.

In 1896 Carver started an agriculture department at the Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, where he saw a chance to achieve a goal he established early in his life, "to be of the greatest good to the greatest number of my people."

Besides his scientific breakthroughs with peanuts and sweet potatoes, Carver worked with Henry Ford to perfect a process to extract rubber from the milk of goldenrod; created paving blocks from cotton and rubber from sludge, and developed new strains of cotton.

"I think what impresses me most about Carver is his spirit," Ford said. "He taught himself how to read and became a very good artist and musician. He didn't have a school to go to and yet had the thirst for knowledge to walk eight miles to find a school that would take black children."

"He just had quite a determination."

NEW YORK (AP) - Supermodel Carre Otis says she's afraid of her estranged husband, Mickey Rourke, and doesn't want him around while walking the runways this week. Otis said. "But he's around. I don't want to walk down the runway and see him sitting in the front row." She said she feels threatened by Rourke, but she didn't get specific. "I could easily freak out about all of this. But I'm not going to let myself do that," Otis said.

Rourke countered: "I haven't seen or talked to Carrie in six months. Why would I do it now in the middle of the fashion thing in New York? That's not my style."

The two were married in 1990 and separated six months ago.

Rourke was charged with knocking Otis down and kicking her in July, and could get up to a year in jail. He has pleaded innocent.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Mary Hart has released a CD of lullabies, and nobody's had seizures yet.

The "Entertainment Tonight" host and mom to 2-year-old AJ sings "Little Horses," "Hush Little Baby," "Brahms Lullaby" and "Lullaby for AJ" on "Mary Hart Sings Lullabies from the Heart."

Most of the profits will go to the March of Dimes.

"I hadn't given lullabies a thought, but I always loved lullabies as a child. Then, their importance to a baby took on a whole new meaning for me as I noticed how AJ responded to them," she said Wednesday.

What about the woman who said in 1992 that Miss Hart's voice triggered epileptic seizures?

"Believe me, I'm not sending the CD to her," Miss Hart said. "That was the most bizarre thing that's ever happened to me. I wouldn't comment on it then, but I can laugh at it now."

LONDON (AP) - Sir John Gielgud has a new guidepost along West End - his own playhouse.

"I've not known any of the names billed outside the theaters" these days, the 90-year-old actor said Wednesday at a ceremony marking the change of the Globe theater to the Gielgud. "I'll at least know one name."

The well-wishers included Dame Wendy Hiller, Paul Scofield and Edward Fox.

The theater is central to two of Gielgud's "most cherished memories" - a 1939 production of "Importance of Being Earnest."

"I think as a role model she's not quite so successful because she's telling women you can't be who you are," Simon told CNN's "Showbiz queen image and prove she's got a heart and soul, too.

A show featuring a series of three silk-screened photo images of Harding opened Thursday at a Portland art gallery. Prices range from $5,000 to $30,000.

The diminutive skater said the images - created by the artist DeForest - reveal a depth to her personality that was missing from news coverage of her role in the assault on rival skater Nancy Kerrigan.

"It kind of brings out a little heart and soul in each picture of me that you don't get on TV," she said.

Harding was sentenced to three years probation and fined $160,000 for helping to cover up the Kerrigan attack.

She arrived three hours late Wednesday for a news conference to promote the show. Her excuse? She was serving meals to the elderly as part of her community service.

Virus called 'Spotted Death' to be destroyed next year

By A.J. HOSTETLER
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) - There will be no last-minute reprieve for smallpox, no candlelight protest of supporters outside its guarded prison.

A scourge of humanity for more than 3,500 years, smallpox has just eight months to live before it is burned like a medieval witch.

Death will come early on June 30, as scientists, dignitaries and public health officials in Atlanta and Russia oversee the first deliberate destruction of a species so vile it has been called "Spotted Death" and "The Great Fire."

The execution date was set in September by a panel of scientists with the World Health Organization who believe that, if the smallpox virus somehow escaped, it could wreak havoc on an unvaccinated world.

Some researchers object to deliberately destroying an entire species of virus, particularly one that might teach them how to fight other diseases. But scientists have produced harmless clones of DNA fragments of the smallpox virus and are satisfied they have the full genetic blueprint.

Few, other than researchers interested in smallpox, will mourn the loss of the virus.

"The only reason one might be concerned would be losing a biological species from the Earth deliberately," said Dr. Brian Mahy of the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. "I can see the argument whether man has the right to protect his species from another. To wipe out a species is always a concern."

The death sentence affects all of the known remaining stocks of smallpox, some 400 samples kept locked in special freezers at the CDC in Atlanta and another 200 or so at Russia's State Research Center of Virology and Biotechnology.

Smallpox killed up to 600,000 people a year in Europe from the 16th century through the 18th century. A vaccine was discovered in the 1790s, but it took nearly 200 years of immunizations to wipe smallpox out.

The virus' own lifestyle played a large role in the success of a worldwide effort to eradicate it within three decades.

"The virus has a remarkable propensity to spread from human to human," Mahy said. "It's a virus that can be spread by ... a blanket from a person with lesions to another person."

"The problem the virus had was that it had only one host - which was a human. Viruses which have only a single host ... in theory are eradicable, because it's possible to eradicate all of the virus from humans and then the virus gets lost from the world."

All it takes is a government-issued autoclave to kill smallpox forever, a process that will take two hours, according to guidelines developed by WHO. New equipment will not be purchased, Mahy said.

"We autoclave masses of glassware, tubes of various types, in order to sterilize it," said Mahy, who will help oversee smallpox's destruction.

Smallpox will spend its last minutes alongside plates of sturdy bacteria, whose death will confirm that smallpox is no more.

The execution will be watched by officials at both labs via satellite, and it probably will be videotaped. Those present will be vaccinated against the dreaded illness.

The CDC's stock is kept in a liquid nitrogen freezer in Room 318B in a maximum-security laboratory building near the Emory University campus. The last civilian to see the room, a reporter for The London Times, said in 1991 that the samples were kept in a silvery blue freezer that is chained, padlocked and wrapped with yards of duct tape.

Under elaborate security measures - the CDC won't give exact details - the virus will be taken from the freezer to the autoclave.

The researchers will wear pressurized spacesuits as they pass the test tubes into a large autoclave built into the wall.

The autoclave will automatically heat up to 266 degrees Fahrenheit for 40 minutes and then repeat the process. Its cycle cannot be stopped. When the cycle is complete, scientists will remove the incinerated smallpox samples and bacteria from the back of the machine, and their deaths will be confirmed.

The last case of naturally occurring smallpox was in Somalia in 1977. Experts have recommended since 1986 that the virus be eliminated to prevent its accidental release or its use as a biological weapon.

The decision to rid the world of smallpox has not received final approval, but it is mostly just a formality. The final sentence will come in May at a meeting of WHO's full assembly of 180 countries.

LAS VEGAS (AP) - John Bobbitt's ex-fiancee has sued two men she claims threatened her life and cheated her out of money she earned by posing nude for Playboy.

Kristina Elliott filed suit Oct. 30 against agent Aaron Gordon and his father, Jack, who is also LaToya Jackson's husband.

Elliott, a 21-year-old stripper, says her contract promised $125,000 but she got only $27,000 for a six-page spread scheduled to appear in December's Playboy.

She also claims that Jack Gordon threatened to squelch the Playboy deal if she didn't marry Bobbitt, and that he tried to get her to drop domestic battery charges against Bobbitt.

Aaron Gordon denied the allegations. "She's a con artist," he said.

Bobbitt, who gained international attention when his wife cut off his penis, was convicted twice this year of beating Elliott. He served 12 days on the first conviction and is appealing the second.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

IT'S ELECTION TIME AGAIN

I know it doesn't seem possible, but it is election time again. Election fever is running high. The flag waving, face saving and political raving have made headline news. The workers are wearying, candidates are cresting and pollsters are polling. Everyone is involved. Well, not quite everyone.

According to the Statistical Abstract of the United States, only 51 percent of all eligible voters actually voted in the presidential election in 1992. The turnout was even worse in the off-year elections in 1990, when a dismal 33 percent showed up to cast ballots. No, not everyone is involved. According to the statistics, most Americans are shirking their duty.

For small-business owners, this form of voter apathy can have negative results. For example, in 1990 only 16.6 percent of adult Americans could have elected an anti-business, anti-free enterprise, anti-capitalism congress. Our system of government can grow very weak when a small minority of voters rule.

This may be the main reason our business environment continues to erode as Congress passes unnecessary legislation. New laws that aren't needed spawn a growing burden of regulation that carries an equally growing cost of bureaucrats. Don't be fooled, the costs are going up.

Despite the numbers the current administration is touting about the re-engineering and down-sizing of the government work force, the federal payroll continues to grow. I don't know about you, but I can't get too excited about paying fewer employees more money than ever before. In corporate America down-sizing reduces costs, in government it increases them.

Paying the price

If we neglect our most basic duty - electing qualified men and women to represent us - we will pay the price. If we don't vote, we don't control the process. Every American must share the burden of shaping our government. When we don't vote we leave the political process in the hands of a few. When any minority controls the outcome of elections, strange events can occur.

For example, look at the most recent presidential election. Here is an interesting fact I dug out of voting records. The democratic president we elected in 1992 actually received 2.6 percent fewer of the votes cast than the losing democratic candidate in 1988. In a three-way race a minority of the popular vote can elect a president.

Another problem occurs when special interest groups with big-dollar or big-power clout sway the few who do vote. Whether it's big labor or big business or just big money, every honest, hard-working American loses. We lose freedom, we lose choice and we lose our democracy.

Becoming a change agent

It is time for change. It is time for more Americans to vote. When the majority selects candidates of reason, wisdom and integrity, we shape a positive course for our nation. We desperately need men and women of strong moral character who can resist the lure of power and money. We need men and women who understand economics and who realize that no nation in history has ever yet taxed and spent its way into prosperity.

The issues won't become easier. The task will not grow less difficult. The budget won't shrink without help. However, we can raise the quality of leadership. And along with the elevation of leadership will come and improved quality of decision making.

This Tuesday we have an opportunity to shape our own destiny. However, we can only set a new course if we elect the best qualified men and women. The future of small business and our nation is in our hands. Please vote your conscience on November 8.

Question/Answer

Q: I have several torn window screens on my summer home. Can the screens be repaired or must I replace the entire unit?

A: Window screens can be repaired for less than replacement cost. What you'll need is a 2-wheeled spline roller, vinyl spline and the screening itself - all available at hardware stores and home centers. To repair the screen, pry the vinyl spline and damaged screen from the frame groove using an awl or sharp knife tip. Discard the old spline (in most cases it'll be too dry and brittle to reuse). Use a razor knife to cut a piece of screen slightly larger than the frame, then lay the frame on a table and the screen over it. Tape each edge of the screen to the table, and make a diagonal relief cut at the screen's corners, stopping at the frame groove. The relief cut prevents the screen from tearing at the corners or bunching up when it is rolled into the corner of the frame.

Press the screen into the frame groove on one side with the convex roller. This will cause the tape to pull loose from the table. Pull the screen tight from the opposite side and repeat the process. Do this on the other two sides. Press the spline into the groove with the concave wheel. Trim off excess spline and screen with a razor knife.

Most homeowners know that air infiltration through windows and doors is one of a home's leading causes of energy loss.

However, many of those same homeowners probably don't know how to determine if their windows and doors are leaking or not.

To help them save energy, Macklanburg-Duncan, one of the country's largest manufacturers of do-it-yourself weatherproofing products, offers three easy tests to check the tightness of windows and doors:

Test #1: Place a dollar bill between the door and door frame or between the window sash and sill. With the door or window closed, attempt to remove the dollar bill. If it slides out easily, you are losing energy.

Test #2: Shine a flashlight around the edges of your door at night. If you can see light from the other side, you are losing energy.

Test #3: Pass a moist hand around the edge of your doors and windows. If you feel a draft, you are losing energy. This test works best on cold windy days.

If any of your doors fail these tests, the experts at M-D suggest that you install a new threshold, door sweep or new door jamb weatherstripping depending on where the air is infiltrating your home.

Thresholds are installed on the floor across the bottom of the door frame. Door sweeps are installed on the bottom inside of the door to provide a tight seal between the door and the threshold. Door jamb weatherstripping is fastened to the inside of the door frame along the door stop. All three seal out cold air in winter and hot air in summer.

A Burning Passion looks at real-life Scarlett and Rhett

Shannen Doherty and Dale Midkiff star in A Burning Passion: The Margaret Mitchell Story, airing Monday on NBC. The two star as Mitchell, the author of Gone With the Wind, and her first husband, Red Upshaw, and depict their tempestuous relationship.

BY JOHN CROOK

Only a week before CBS plans to roll out its Scarlett miniseries, NBC takes a look at the real-life couple whose stormy romance helped inspire Gone With the Wind.

A Burning Passion: The Margaret Mitchell Story casts Shannen Doherty (Beverly Hills, 90210) and Dale Midkiff (Time Trax) as the author Mitchell and her first husband, Red Upshaw. The TV movie premieres Monday, Nov. 7.

Tackling the role of Upshaw meant that Midkiff had to convincingly portray a human being who was the prototype for Rhett Butler, one of the most larger-than-life characters in literature and cinema, and one that was portrayed by a genuine superstar, Clark Gable.

"That's me," laughs Midkiff good-naturedly. "No, I just went for the facts. He was a gentleman rogue, a bootlegger. He was irreverent. The kind of guy who drove his car too fast and drank too much and spent money recklessly. I liked the guy. You know, he was a lot of fun, this character. Red Upshaw was a real person, and I gave him the edge that I think was softened in the character of Rhett Butler."

Midkiff says he and the creative team, including director Larry Peerce and executive producer Renee Valente, read several books on the couple, including The Road to Tara by Anne Edwards. Ultimately, the actor approached the role of Upshaw as completely separate and apart from Rhett Butler in Gone With the Wind.

"But, I'll tell you what: There were many similarities," he adds.

Just as Scarlett was surrounded by fawning beaux in the opening scenes of Wind, Mitchell found herself simultaneously courted by Upshaw and his best friend, John Marsh (Matt Mulhern, Major Dad).

"John Marsh was more of a bookish, learned man," Midkiff says. "They were both in their 20s, but Red came in and just swept her off her feet."

"I think his unpredictability excited her imagination. He had a domineering personality and I think that made her feel extremely feminine. She was a very on-the-ball young woman, but Red came in with guns blazing, basically," he says.

"She was beautiful to him, and she was a challenge. She had all of those things in her, you know, she was a bit of a rebel herself. Red brought all of that out in her. Her pretensions that she put on, he didn't fall for at all, her self-righteous poses. He liked her best when she was unladylike. They both shared pleasure in telling risqué stories, and he liked the fact that she drank and smoked, all those things."

The friendship between the two men was easy to play, Midkiff explains, because he and Mulhern have been pals since co-starring in the TV movie Dallas: The Early Years. Ironically, playing love scenes with the tempestuous Doherty, who was invited not to return to 90210 this season, was a different matter altogether.

"Well, I'd rather not speak about her," the actor says drily, "but let me put it this way: I'm working with Melissa Gilbert now (on a two-part episode of her series, Sweet Justice), and the difference between her and Shannen Doherty is night and day. Melissa Gilbert is extremely professional, respectful, caring and giving as an actress. That's what I'll say — the positives about Melissa."

"(But) the fire between Shannen and me, if anything, helped everything, helped our performances."

LET'S TALK

Readers, meet William Russ; Jessica Tate was executed on Soap

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

William Russ

Q: Could you please tell me about William Russ, who plays the father on Boy Meets World? He reminds me so much of Brian Keith. Are they by any chance related? What else has he acted in? I've become a big fan of his. —Judy Brinegar, Liberty, N.C.

A: Born on Oct. 20 in Portsmouth, Va., William "Rusty" Russ, who is not related to Keith, was the son of a naval officer and lived in various port towns across the United States.

When he started his acting career he supported himself by odd jobs ranging from welding and shipbuilding in New Orleans to driving a cab in New York City. He co-starred with Jim Belushi in Traces of Red, had a starring role in a Park City Film Festival award-winning film, Pastime, and will guest star in an episode of the ABC midseason series The Marshall, starring Jeff Fahey.

Although he has several film, stage and television credits, Boy marks his sitcom debut. He lives in Southern California and is the father of a 3-year-old daughter. He enjoys thrill sports, is an avid downhill skier and is working toward his license as an airplane pilot.

Q: On Comedy Central, I have been recording Soap. I got to the episode where Jessica got shot by a firing squad. When I got ready to record the next episode, all of a sudden it started back with the series premiere. Was there ever an episode made after that? —David Keyes, Troutdale, Ore.

A: Jessica's execution was an audacious last-ditch attempt by the show's producers to force ABC to renew the show for another season. It didn't work, and this was indeed the last episode of Soap that was made. Katherine Helmond did make a ghostly appearance later as the dead Jessica on the Soap spinoff, Benson.

Q: Can you give me an address for Ellen DeGeneres? —C.B., San Angelo, Texas.

A: You can write to DeGeneres as well as the star of any ABC series C/O ABC Television Network, 2040 Avenue of the Stars, Century City, Calif. 90067.

Q: I am a huge fan of Brent Spiner, who played Data on Star Trek: The Next Generation. Where can I write to him? Also, when are they going to make the first feature film based on this series? —Cory Dellenbach, Rhineland, Wis.

A: The most recent address I have for Spiner is C/O The Gersh Agency, 232 N. Canon Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90210. Alternately, you can try writing him or his crewmates C/O Paramount Television, 5555 Melrose Ave., Hollywood, Calif. 90038. Star Trek: Generations is scheduled for a holiday 1994 release.

Q: I have been trying to find a video release of Peter Weir's great movie Picnic at Hanging Rock, but have been unable to find a copy. Has it been released on video? If so, how can I get a copy? —Mike Nicoletta, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A: My compliments on your taste in films. At last report, Picnic was available from Vestron Video, C/O Live Home Video, P.O. Box 10124, Van Nuys, Calif. 91410-0124. Since you live in a metropolitan area, I urge you to try to find a video store that will order it for you, as you are likely to get far faster service that way. Good luck.

Q: My daughter has been watching Family Ties reruns and would like to write to Michael J. Fox. Do you have a current address for him? —Rochelle Bunt, N. Adams, Mass.

A: The only address I have for Fox is C/O United Talent Agency, 9560 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 500, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Try writing to him there.

Court TV has released the results of a recent Chilton Research Services poll, and the verdict is in: More than 50 percent of the 1,000 respondents favor cameras in the courts.

"We're delighted but not surprised at this result," says Steven Brill, Court TV's founder and CEO. "We have known from all kinds of prior research ... that people support open courtrooms, but we had expected that some of that support might have eroded, at least temporarily, because of the media circus going on outside the courtroom in the (O.J.) Simpson case."

Ready or Not tacks delicate matters

Friends Amanda (Laura Bertram) and Busy (Lani Billard), the stars of Showtime's teen series Ready or Not, are growing out of the ugly-duckling stage and beginning to encounter the more serious problems of adolescence.

The Canadian production, which began with the girls in seventh grade, is handling some tough issues in its third season. Busy's family has been going to counseling sessions, Amanda's parents are separated, and now the two girls are trying to decide what it means to have a "normal" interest in the opposite sex.

In "Am I Perverted or What?" the episode debuting Sunday, Nov. 6, Amanda suspects her feelings are getting out of control when she wishes her boyfriend would try French kissing and she accidentally sees Busy's older brother in the shower. Meanwhile Busy is concerned about the good feelings she gets from touching her own body.

The episode has humor and a healthy attitude, though some parents may not approve of its implication that Busy's older brother and his girlfriend are having premarital sex.

While the episode is best viewed in the context of the series as a whole, parents may wish to preview it or watch it with their youngsters. Additional airdates include Wednesday, Nov. 9, and Saturday, Nov. 12.

Remember The Alamo? Catch it instead of Michener's epic Texas

BY STEVEN ALAN MCGAW

After viewing Spelling Television's production of James A. Michener's Texas, one can only hope the author was well paid for the rights to his book. His reward will not come in a sense of pride and satisfaction with what has been done to, er, with his work.

The large canvas of Texas history, with its tumultuous journey from Mexican territory to independent republic (unique among the states) to joining the Union in 1845, was a natural draw for Michener's epic inclinations.

But the slapdash, cliché-ridden style of this three-hour dramatization only suggests something like a pageant at an elementary school on Veterans Day or in conjunction with a choral program of patriotic tunes. The names are famous, the costumes look familiar and there are suggestions of conflict, tension and even leadership in the bland, overwrought narrative.

History hasn't come to life, any more than equations in an algebra lesson become more friendly just because the instructor uses colored chalk.

Charlton Heston ill-advisedly meets the windy, portentous narration on its own terms, and the bombastic score only works to underline the film's ham-fisted approach. The use of slow motion in every single battle scene is tiresome, and the brief bits of nudity and explicit gore are gratuitous.

On the plus side, Stacy Keach summons surprising authority in his portrayal of shrewd Sam Houston, and Benjamin Bratt brings a seething intensity to his portrayal of Benito, a handsome vaquero with divided loyalties. Patrick Duffy has a few effective moments as Stephen F. Austin. But, Rick Schroder delivers a weepy, overwrought turn as a young man growing up in the new territory, and Anthony Michael Hall is atrocious in the thankless role of a coward-turned-senator.

In a plainly bizarre bit of marketing, Texas hits video vendor shelves on Nov. 9, months ahead of its prime-time broadcast on ABC next spring.

SOAP WORLD

Soap couples big news on and off screen

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Fiona Hutchison (Jenna, Guiding Light) and her long-time beau, John Viscardi (ex-Father Tony, One Life to Live), were married at the Grand Canyon on Sept. 16.

Hutchison and Viscardi have been together since they met while working on OLTL several years ago.

Brenda Epperson, who plays Ashley on The Young and the Restless, announced she and her husband, Lorenzo Doumani, are expecting their first child in March.

The actress says she and Doumani were surprised at how quickly she became pregnant.

"We had decided it was time to have a baby, but we thought it would take awhile. Boy, were we surprised. But happily," Epperson says.

It's not known whether Epperson's pregnancy will be written into her story line. Ashley was recently wed to Blake (Michael Tylo) and they are having trouble. It would seem appropriate for a soap opera story line if Ashley were to discover she is pregnant after finding out she can no longer trust her husband.

One of Epperson's castmates, Tricia Cast (Nina), has split from Jack Allocco, her husband of five years. Allocco is a composer for The Bold and the Beautiful. The couple cited irreconcilable differences.

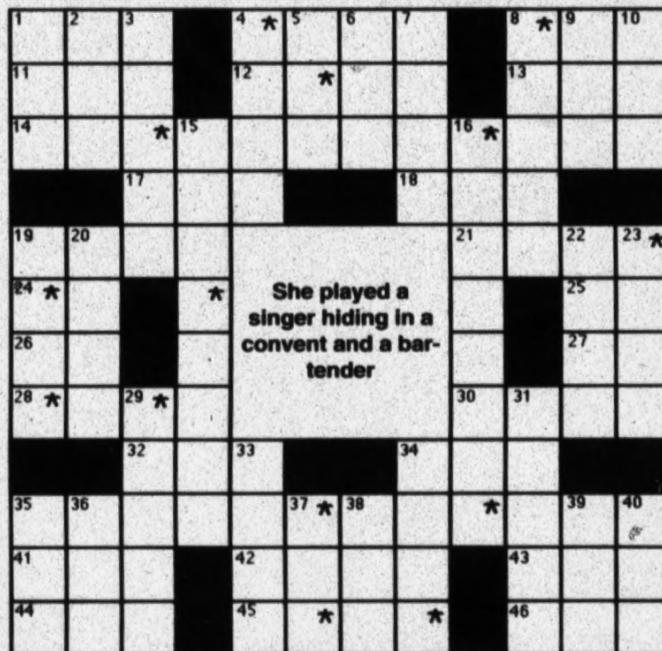

In other news: The wedding of the century is to take place on OLTL this week. Alex (Tonja Walker) and Asa (Phillip Carey) are set to tie the knot in Central Park.

Alex will make a grand entrance dressed in full Egyptian garb as Cleopatra and will arrive on a barge that is paddled by servants. But don't expect things to go too smoothly for this couple. Two of Alex's henchmen, Buck (Christopher Murney) and Bulge (Burke Moses), have other ideas for her.

The Buchanan men, Asa, Clint (Clint Ritchie), Bo (Robert S. Woods) and Cord (John Loprieno), are forced to ride through Central Park on horseback to save Asa's damsel in distress. Of course Asa's sons and grandson hope they never find Alex at all.

This rendition of America's familiar red barn is as functional as it is beautiful since it is a dual feeder. The barn sections hold approximately 6 lbs. of general purpose seed. Utilizing the interchangeable plugs provided, the silo section can hold approximately 1 lb. of general purpose seed or an even greater amount of thistle seed. The barn sides and the silo are made of appropriately colored translucent material for instant monitoring of the seed level. Both portions are easily filled via lift-off caps. This deluxe feeder comes complete with baling wire for hanging.
