GOP grabs majority in House, Senate

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer
Republican congressional leaders and the Clinton White House struck a tone of tenuous accommodation today after the American people put the Republicans in charge of both the House and Senate for the first time since Eisenhower's day.

Two years after President Clinton took office, the Democrats were targeted for wholesale repudiation, and today the president's top advisers acknowledged he would have to trim his agenda and try to work with the Republicans.

"We're laying the groundwork for reaching out," said Leon Panetta, the White House chief of staff. Clinton will push legislative themes that already have a foundation of bipartisan support, including deficit reduction, Panetta said.

The combative Newt Gingrich, a doctrinaire conservative sure to be installed as speaker in January, and in 12 other states. They also won Connecticut, which currently has an independent as governor. All told, the GOP captured a majority of the nation's gubernatorial mansions for the first time since 1970.

In the Senate, Republicans won a 52-48 majority - a gain of eight seats. In one of the closest races, Democratic Sen. Dianne Feinstein withstood the $27 million challenge of political neophyte and millionaire Michael Huffington in California.

Republicans captured 52 previously Democratic House seats while Democrats picked up just four GOP-held seats. All were vacated seats - not a single GOP incumbent lost.

Catherine Rudder, executive director of the American Political Science Association and an expert on Congress, recalled that Ronald Reagan could get his program through a Congress which for six of his eight years was under Democratic control, but "Reagan was very popular and Clinton is not."

In an interview, she foresaw a rancorous session of Congress, frequent Clinton vetoes and a possible bidding war over a tax cut, despite its implications for the deficit.

"It is going to be harder to govern, not easier," said Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Nebr., who survived despite his support of a ban on assault weapons.

Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., predicted that Gingrich, as the new speaker of the House, had prepared himself for this Republican takeover in Congress.

"Newt Gingrich is a very smart man, a very able tactician, and I think everyone puts their cooperation hats on now, including the president, who is left with a veto plan only," Hyde said today in an interview on ABC.

No longer in charge of the House, Rep. Tom Foley, D-Wash., also fought for survival. If defeated, he would be the first speaker of the House turned out of office since the Civil War.

Three-term Gov. Mario Cuomo, a liberal icon, fell in New York. Rep. Dan Rostenkowski in Illinois, under a 17-count federal corruption indictment, was done in by an opponent whose name was the subject of a trivia quiz on Chicago radio a few weeks ago.

House Judiciary Chairman Jack Brooks of Texas, at 21 terms the longest-serving lawmaker seeking re-election, was ejected by voters, some resentful that his committee had approved a ban on assault weapons. Texans also dismissed Gov. Ann Richards, beaten by George W. Bush, son of the former president. But another Bush son, Jeb, fell short of taking over the statehouse in Florida.

The GOP resurgence was fed by a deep-felt frustration. Leaving the polls Tuesday, voters said they feared for the future, not trusting the economic upturn to last, or to improve their lives.

Republicans made history by capturing the top of the Texas ticket, but Democrats retained control of many other key statewide offices in this year's balloting.

For the first time since Reconstruction, the GOP on Tuesday laid claim to both U.S. Senate seats and the governorship. Republican George W. Bush, son of the former president, ousted Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, while Republican Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison handily defeated Democratic challenger Richard Fisher.

Mrs. Hutchison serves with Republican U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, who faces his next senatorial election in 1996 and also is preparing for a run at the presidency that year.

GOP chairman Tom Pauken credited the victory to a unified party and a strong effort to get out the vote.

"I think people sense that we're heading in the wrong direction and we've got to get back on the right track," Pauken said.

"I think now that it's incumbent for us to show that we're capable of governing effectively," he said. "You're going to start seeing moves to downsize and restructure state government, and I think that move is going on across the country."

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry, a Republican, was handily re-elected, defeating Marvin Gregory, a Democratic dairy farmer from Sulphur Springs.

Republicans swept the Texas Railroad Commission and gained control of the Texas Supreme Court.

The GOP also gained some ground in Congress and the state Senate, as at least two incumbent Democrats lost: U.S. Rep. Bill Sarpalius of Amarillo and state Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur, who had become one of the state's most powerful lawmakers after 31 years in the Legislature.

But Democrats retained several major statewide posts. Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock easily defeated Republican Tex Lezar for his second four-year term. The lieutenant governor presides over the Senate and is arguably the most powerful politician in Texas.

After trailing in early returns, Democratic Texas Attorney General Dan Morales pulled ahead of Republican challenger Don Wittig to win his second term in office, Democratic Comptroller John Sharp also handily bested his GOP challenger, political newcomer Teresa Doggett.

And Democratic Treasurer Martha Whitehead squeaked by GOP challenger David Hartman to keep an office that she argued eventually should be abolished.

Texas Democratic Party spokesman Joe Cutbirth said the results reflect a trend toward growing voter independence.

"I think you saw a well-organized effort at the national level by the Republican radical right, and unfortunately I think it had some spillover into Texas," Cutbirth said.

Postage rates may increase

WASHINGTON (AP) - Plan on paying more to mail a letter in early January.

Sam Winters, chairman of the Postal Service's governing board, said Tuesday that the agency hopes to raise rates as early as possible in January.

"Our customers should plan accordingly," Winters said.

The post office has proposed a 10.3 percent increase in stamp prices including a three-cent boost in the first-class rate to 32 cents.

The independent Postal Rate Commission is considering the proposal and is expected to rule within a few weeks.

Because the proposed increase will provide "just enough" income to operate the Postal Service, Winters said, it is important to raise the rates as soon as possible.

CSF applications being accepted though Friday

Applications for assistance from the 1994 Christmas Stocking Fund program for needy residents in Hereford and Deaf Smith County are being accepted through Friday at the Hereford Community Center.

Interviews are being conducted from 1:30 to 5 p.m. daily during the sign-up period.

Those seeking assistance from the holiday charity should apply in person and bring some form of identification in order to verify that they are a resident of Hereford or Deaf Smith County. If applicants plan to ask for help with utilities or medical expenses, they should bring a receipt that will provide their account number.

CSF is a charity intended to help the less fortunate of the community during the Christmas holidays. Assistance from CSF is provided in various forms including food and vouchers for clothing, utilities, medicine and medical attention.

CSF is administered by a committee of anonymous volunteers who represent a broad cross-section of the community. The CSF committee is not affiliated with any other organization, or any government entity, and all CSF funds come strictly from the donations of individuals who wish to help the less fortunate during the holiday season.

The Hereford Brand serves as the official collection agency for cash donations to CSF, and the newspaper will periodically publish listings of CSF contributors. Donations will be accepted any time.

CSF is operating on an early again this year so that filing and processing of applications and delivery of assistance can be completed before Christmas. This allows volunteers to help those in need and still have time to enjoy the holidays with their families. The early schedule also makes it important for local residents to do their giving early.

Three arrested in shooting

Hereford police have arrested three juveniles in connection with a gang-related shooting incident that occurred over the weekend, according to an announcement Wednesday morning.

Det. Emilio Valdez said the three were charged with deadly conduct after shots were fired at a residence in the 300 block of Avenue I on Saturday. No one was injured in the shooting and a .357-magnum revolver believed to have been used in the shooting was recovered by police.

Valdez said nine juveniles were identified as having been involved in the incident, although the three who have been detained are believed to have been directly involved in the shooting.

Police, Valdez said, have classified the incident as gang related. Charges are pending against the other six juveniles involved.

Bob Dole, the incoming Senate majority leader, will share power with Clinton. Both said today they are ready to work with the Democrats.

Gingrich said he saw his new responsibilities as "a very serious and solemn obligation." But he still intends to enforce the strict tenets of his Reaganesque "Contract With America" to reduce taxes and shrink the federal government's role.

"There's no reason we can't sit down and have a serious discussion," with the White House about implementing Republican legislative priorities, Gingrich said.

Dole saw the election as nothing less than "a vote of no confidence in the Clinton agenda." Today, the Kansas Republican said he would tell Clinton, "We're certainly ready to work with you."

"We will have our disagreements, but I want him to know that notwithstanding the fact that he's lost the majority, that we have some responsibility," Dole said. "We know we have an obligation to the American people."

Besides their historic gains in Congress, the Republicans scored big in statehouses. They won 11 governorships now in Democratic hands and easily maintained control

News Digest

World/Nation

UNDATED - The American people have reinvented their government again, putting a fresh wave of conservatives in power in Congress and inflicting a wholesale repudiation of Bill Clinton and the Democrats. The Republican takeover in the Senate - and maybe the House - would force Clinton to share power for the next two years.

WASHINGTON - For President Clinton, the election results bring painful decisions. He can run against a "do nothing" GOP-dominated Congress for the next two years, as Harry Truman once did, or he can reach out and try to make bipartisan peace. Either route carries political risk for the president, handed an enormous setback by an electorate that preferred Republicans. "The burden of government is now on them," a White House aide says.

WASHINGTON - Republican seizure of the Senate and big gains in the House will give them a dreamed-of opportunity to advance their conservative agenda of spending slashes, tax cuts and a down-sized government - a policy reversal that would be every bit as dramatic as the one President Reagan unveiled 14 years ago.

UNION, S.C. - Strangers who hadn't eaten, hadn't focused, hadn't felt "normal" for two weeks held hands and comforted each other, prompted gently by a dozen crisis counselors and therapists. Afterwards, some said they might finally sleep the night through, for the first time since Susan Smith's two sons disappeared.

State

DALLAS - George W. Bush, dispatching Gov. Ann Richards to early retirement, says his victory shows Texans want "a new generation of leadership" that will take the state in a new direction. The eldest son of the former president will become only the second Republican governor since Reconstruction, a span of 120 years.

DALLAS - With a resounding endorsement from Texas voters, U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison will return to Washington as part of the GOP "tidal wave" that is sweeping the nation. The Republican incumbent trounced Democrat Richard Fisher, a Dallas financier and political newcomer who, by his own admission, came from nowhere to become the Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate.

UNDATED - Texas Republicans savoring two gains in the state's congressional delegation are having a difficult time controlling their euphoria. "They're calling me a giant killer," said Steve Stockman after knocking off 21-term incumbent Jack Brooks in the stunner of the Texas congressional races.

UNDATED - Voters who flocked to the polls to elect a new governor and cast ballots in dozens of races likely did so in record numbers. A spokesman for Secretary of State Ron Kirk predicted early today that turnout would hit 52 percent of registered voters, the highest in an off-year election in the last 20 years.

LOS FRESNOS - Two high school teachers are wondering whether they will ever wish to return to the classroom where a student slipped drugs into their soft drinks.

DENVER (AP) - Monfort Inc. of Greeley, Colo., is recalling about 9,000 pounds of ground beef sold at Wal-Mart stores in Arkansas and Texas and at Safeway stores in the Denver area, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday.

 The meat sent to the Wal-Mart stores was labeled "Monfort 100% Pure Ground Round" in 48 ounce packages with "Freeze by 11 03 94" on the label. The USDA said a small amount of that batch may have been distributed to states neighboring Arkansas.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A year ago, I wrote to you about my fiance's family being very upset that I did not want infants at my wedding. You gave me the support I needed, and I was grateful.

My sister-in-law refused to attend the wedding without her baby and vowed never to speak to me or my husband again. "Jack" and I are not invited to any holiday family gatherings, which are almost always held at her home. I can't understand why my mother-in-law lets this go on. I'm sure if she spoke with her daughter something could be worked out, but she chooses to do nothing.

Jack feels that he is being punished by his family for not including the baby at our wedding. I know he is hurt that we are no longer invited to holiday and birthday celebrations.

Jack's brother is getting married soon. Should I try to mend fences at the wedding? We want to be part of the family again. It hurts to be left out of everything. Please advise.—Out-Lawed in Barre, Mass.

DEAR OUT-LAWED: By all means, speak to your mother-in-law about this spiteful exclusion. It should not be allowed to continue. Babies and very young children do NOT belong at formal weddings. This has been my position for as long as I have been writing the column, so you can blame me.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few years ago, you ran a column that listed some unusual scholarships that not many people were aware of. I would be very grateful if you would run that column again. Thanks.—Eager Scout in the Midwest

DEAR SCOUT: Here's an excerpt of the column you are referring to. It ran in 1988. I urge all high school students, especially those interested in Harvard or Amherst, two of the finest schools in the country, to check out ALL the possibilities.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A story in The Wall Street Journal by Carrie Dolan mentioned some interesting scholarship opportunities. I'll bet if you printed them, some of your readers would profit from the information.

In 1988, the University of California was not able to find a recipient for a scholarship fund worth nearly $400,000. They were looking for a needy Jewish orphan who wanted to be an aeronautical engineer.

Ryan Gatling, of Pocomoke City, Md., received $7,000 a year from North Carolina State because of his name. John Gatling, a Raleigh businessman, set up the $1.2 million fund several years ago to give an educational edge to students named Gatling.

Harvard offers scholarships to students named Pennoyer, Downer and Ellis, regardless of need. Christina Schreiber received a $14,000 scholarship because she is a descendant of William Floyd, a Long Island farmer.

Amherst College has a scholarship for a "worthy student of moderate ability who fails to win a prize or get help from any other source."

Ann, please continue to urge students who want financial help to be aggressive about inquiring. They just might hit the jackpot.

Bride is honored with shower

A post-nuptial bridal shower was held for Mrs. Kyle (Ann) Williams Nov. 5 in the home of Adelle Clements. Welcoming guests were, from left, Jean Morris, the bride's mother; Ann Williams, the honoree; Betty Williams, the bride's mother-in-law; Arlowene Williams, grandmother; and Kelley Kelly, sister-in-law who served as matron of honor.

Ann Williams feted with bridal shower

Ann Williams was honored with a post-nuptial bridal shower Saturday morning, Nov. 5, in the home of Adelle Clements. The honoree and Kyle Williams were married Sept. 21 in Canyon.

Greeting guests with the honoree were Jean Morris, her mother; Betty Williams, the bridegroom's mother; and Arlowene Williams, his grandmother.

Kelley Kelly registered guests who were served refreshments of assorted bread and pastries, a variety of fruits, a breakfast casserole, bacon tidbits, hot cider and Southern pecan coffee.

The refreshment table was covered with a hunter green Damask cloth and centered with a silk arrangement created in the bride's chosen colors of navy, cranberry, dark green and beige. The arrangement was presented to the bride. Further enhancing the table setting were crystal and silver appointments.

A comforter set in the bride's chosen colors was given to her by the hostesses: Joan Fuston, Linda Cumpston, Mary Bartlett, Pam Louder, Adelle Clements, Marian Yosten, Renee Eicke, Mary Wylie, Lynda Grey, Karen Payne, Betty Kreigshausner, Betty Barrett, Joan Strafuss, Judy Dettlen, Jan Metcalf, Linda Davis, Nelda Fortenberry, Paula Edwards and Sheila Thames.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It's like a slap in the face for Paul and Linda McCartney - from the grave.

A stinging six-page letter John Lennon wrote to the couple after the Beatles' split is up for auction.

"I hope you realize what (expletive) you and the rest of my kind and unselfish friends laid on Yoko & me since we have been together," Lennon wrote.

The undated letter was a response to a note from Linda that apparently chided Lennon for his biting interviews after the group's acrimonious 1970 break-up.

"I don't resent your husband - I'm sorry for him," Lennon wrote.

The undated letter is expected to bring up to $60,000 at the Butterfield & Butterfield auction house Dec. 3. The owner's name wasn't made public.

Herd grinds up Granbury; Dumas is next

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team exploded Tuesday in a regional semifinal match in Snyder, sending a good Granbury team home with a 15-5, 15-6 spanking.

The win puts Hereford (28-6) in the regional finals for the fifth year in a row. As they did in three of the last four years, the Lady Whitefaces will play the Dumas Demonettes, with the winner going on to the state tournament in Austin.

Despite the Herd's one win in four meetings with Dumas this year, Tuesday's performance left the Lady Whitefaces in a confident state.

"We're ready to kick their butts," junior Heather Hodges said. "We've quit every time we've played them, but we're ready. We're ready to be on our way to Austin."

Time, date and site for the Dumas match has not yet been set.

Hereford jumped on Granbury immediately, going from a 1-1 tie to a 13-1 lead in only six rotations, or turns at serving. The start of the second game was nearly as impressive, as Hereford went up 6-0 in two rotations.

Hereford coach Reeh ranked it among the better performances of the year.

"If it wasn't the best it was close to the best," Reeh said, going on to list some of the reasons for the seemingly easy win. "We didn't let mistakes overwhelm us. We spread the hitting around very well. Our hitters showed confidence. We didn't let too much hit the floor in the backcourt."

"We dug balls very well, and the hitters went after it aggressively," said Hodges. "We went all-out."

Hereford won the battle of blocking against a taller team, as Granbury barely blocked at all. As a team, the Herd recorded a kill percentage of .476.

"That means nearly half of what we hit went down for a kill," Reeh said. "That, for a team, is phenomenal."

Granbury's kill percentage, while not available, was nowhere near .476.

"We came out at the beginning blocking well early, and that made a big difference in changing the style of Granbury's play," Reeh said. "I think they got extremely cautious and tentative. They seldom hit the ball very hard because they were afraid of the block."

Middle blocker Danielle Cornelius, who had three stuff blocks in the first five plays, was more blunt.

"Our blocking was on early in the match," Cornelius said. "That kinda scared 'em."

"Our team played very well tonight," Cornelius said. "Brittney (Binder) did a great job of setting. Our blocking was on, and so was our defense."

A Cornelius stuff provided Hereford's first point. Granbury had kills for a sideout and points, but Cornelius had two more stuffs for a sideout and a 2-1 lead. Granbury made some errors early which contributed to Hereford's run, but Aimee Alley served for an ace and Hodges had two hard kills, the second making the score 8-1.

After a couple of rotations, a Hodges kill provided a sideout. Binder's ace made it 9-1, then Hereford got three points on Granbury errors: a hitting error and two net violations.

The teams traded sideouts, and Tarabeth Holmes gave the Herd its 13th point with a kill, hitting the ball off a Granbury player's head.

The 13th point was a little unlucky for the Herd, as Granbury finally started to play well and pulled to within 13-5. Brooke Bryant's kill ended Granbury's run, and after seven sideouts, Crystal Kelley gave Hereford its final two points with kill

Dumas buries T-Wolves with treys

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer

For the most part, Joe Dumas didn't venture within 22 feet of the basket against the Minnesota Timberwolves.

Instead, he stayed outside the shortened 3-point arc and tossed up jumpers. There were 18 in all, and Dumas tied an NBA record by making 10 of them Tuesday night. He finished with 40 points as the Detroit Pistons beat the Timberwolves 126-112.

Dumas tied an NBA record set by Brian Shaw, then of Miami, on April 3 1993. He attempted only one field goal from inside the circle - his first shot of the game - and missed it. He also made all 10 of his free throws.

Dumas, a 9-year veteran who remains one of the league's best pure shooters, had made only one of eight 3-pointers in Detroit's first two games - both losses.

In other games Tuesday, Houston beat Cleveland 100-98, New York defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 117-113, Denver outscored Dallas 115-107 and Golden state beat Miami 121-114.

Rockets 100, Cavaliers 98

At the first regular-season game at new Gund Arena in Cleveland, Hakeem Olajuwon sank the winning shot with 3.1 seconds left, a short fallaway jumper from the baseline over Hot Rod Williams.

Olajuwon became the leading scorer in Rockets history, surpassing Calvin Murphy's 17,949 points.

Olajuwon scored 21 points with 12 rebounds, seven blocks and six assists. Terrell Brandon had 19 and Chris Mills 18 for Cleveland.

Nuggets 115, Mavericks 107

At Dallas, Dikembe Mutombo had a triple-double - 12 points, 14 rebounds and 11 blocked shots - and Rodney Rogers scored a career-high 28 points.

The score was 80-80 after three periods, and the Nuggets then outscored the Mavs 31-18 to pull away.

Reggie Williams had 17 points, Bryant Stith 16 and rookie Jalen Rose 14. Jim Jackson of Dallas matched his career-high with 37 points.

Cowboys get good medical news

Harper, Kennard not hurt as badly as first thought

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - After the Erik Williams accident, the Dallas Cowboys needed some good medical news. They got a double dose of it on Tuesday.

The Cowboys medical staff reported that injuries suffered by wide receiver Alvin Harper and offensive lineman Derek Kennard aren't as bad as earlier feared.

Williams, a Pro Bowl offensive tackle, was lost for the season with a knee injury two weeks ago in an automobile accident. Dallas had to plug rookie Larry Allen into his position.

Harper, who landed awkwardly trying to catch a Hail Mary pass as the half ended in Monday night's 38-10 victory over the New York Giants, was thought to have torn a left knee ligament. Owner Jerry Jones said he was worried Harper was gone for the season.

However, an MRI examination on Tuesday showed it was just a sprain to the outside ligament of the knee. Harper was listed as doubtful for Sunday's game in San Francisco, but it wasn't the season-ending injury the Cowboys had feared.

"I'm thrilled," quarterback Troy Aikman said. "It's the first good injury news we've had around here in a long time. There's no question there was a big sigh of relief around here."

Harper was on crutches Monday, and the Cowboys will work with rookies Cory Fleming and Willie Jackson this week in preparing for the 49ers.

"This is a very positive development," Dallas coach Barry Switzer said. "It's just the opposite of what the doctors told me last night. We think now that Alvin will be back soon, maybe this week. Maybe we can put Oral Roberts out there on the tower and get Alvin healed."

Harper has been the Cowboys' best receiver this year. He caught a touchdown pass against the Giants. It was his sixth of the season, a career high.

"Alvin has been just great and we need him," Switzer said. "He's such a great leaper you can just toss the ball up to him."

The news regarding the sprained toe received by Kennard was also promising.

Switzer said "Kennard was better this morning. I was thinking everything for the worst possible situations last night. We hope he can play."

Dallas also could get tight end Jay Novacek back for the 49ers. Novacek, bothered by a strained abdominal muscle, has only held for extra points and field goals in the last two games.

"We hope Jay can play this week," Switzer said.

Aikman said "It helps to have Jay in the game, particularly on third down. I have a lot of confidence he'll get open and I look for him."

Oilers' Pardee takes heat for losses

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Fans hailed Houston Oilers coach Jack Pardee a hero last season for rallying the Oilers from a 1-4 start to a 12-4 finish.

He's more likely to be called a bum this season for failing to repeat the turnaround.

The only difference is a few victories.

Pardee was named NFL coach of the year by the Kansas City 101 Club after leading the Oilers on an 11-game winning streak to capture their second straight AFC Central Division title.

This season, the Oilers are 1-8 and Pardee has been labeled as a coach with no control over his team, and owner Bud Adams has all but said there will be a new staff next season.

"I went to Kansas City to accept my award after we won 11 straight games, and that was Jack's team," Pardee said. "We're 1-8 right now and that's Jack's team, too."

"It's my record and I'm not happy about it, but I stand behind it. That's part of coaching."

Pardee understands all too well that his approval rating depends solely on victories and not on his stoic sideline demeanor. The fans will accept Pardee's mechanical sideline clapping in the face of victory.

They are rare this season, but Pardee has maintained the same relaxed appearance he's demonstrated in better times.

"We've had our chances this season," Pardee said. "In six of those eight losses, we were in the game. Four of them were three-point losses. We'd be on top of the world if we'd won those. Right now, we're under the world."

Carlson and play him the whole game. Reese and Pardee denied it.

The losing has definitely caused a split among coaches, management and players.

But Pardee won't suddenly become a growling bear of a coach, lashing out at the team's mistakes. He enjoys everyone having their say, although Adams prefers hearing only from the head coach.

"I just don't have the ego that I have to be the only one speaking for the club," Pardee said. "I think it's great for the media to have access to the coaches. But the approval has always been great when we're winning."

Baseball players, owners squabbling

NEW YORK (AP) - Forget about seeing the baseball strike settled soon. Two days before their scheduled return to the bargaining table, players and owners are squabbling again.

This time, it was an advertisement in today's editions of USA Today that set off the sparks. Owners claimed baseball's "long-term financial viability" was threatened by "huge payrolls (that) also impair the league's competitive parity."

The ad said management's bargaining proposal is needed to preserve teams in Pittsburgh, Milwaukee and Kansas City. Owners also say they're "determined to reach an agreement on a new contract so that the 1995 baseball season can begin on schedule."

"I think what it clearly says is they believe it's a public relations war," union head Donald Fehr said Tuesday, when the ad was released. "I think they're just trying to set the stage for implementation and trying to fool the public."

Talks are to resume Thursday at an executive retreat in Rye Brook, N.Y., the suburb north of New York where Fehr lives. One union official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said the union believes owners placed the ad to irritate the players association before the bargaining sessions.

"It is something that our people conceived of and implemented two weeks ago," Selig said by telephone from Phoenix, where he was attending baseball's marketing meetings. "Certainly at that time we didn't know anything about the mediation process taking place with meetings starting Thursday. We don't believe it's at all confrontational."

The sides have met formally just five times since players struck Aug. 12, and just once since owners canceled the season Sept. 14. Mediator W.J. Utery, appointed last month by the Clinton administration, called for the renewed talks, which are scheduled to run through Sunday.

"It's important that fans, players and management understand that at this time in history, baseball needs some fine tuning," Selig said in a statement that accompanied the ad. "That should be the context into which all parties seek answers and peace."

However, owners still insist on a salary cap, and the union says it never will accept one.

Pardee tries to bend with the times, but he refuses to alter his personality to please the public.

Two seasons ago, fans thought Pardee wasn't involved enough because he didn't wear headsets on the sidelines. But Pardee always has delegated authority to his assistants and allowed them to make the decisions.

Still, he yielded and put on the headsets.

Earlier this season, Adams wanted to see more tight end alignments and Pardee complied. On Sunday, there was a dispute over the decision to start oft-injured quarterback Cody Carlson.

Assistant head coach Kevin Gilbride said general manager Floyd Reese made the decision to start

Harlingen back gets goal of 2,000 yards

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Harlingen running back Maurice Hunter knew what he wanted to accomplish this season and coach Bill Boyd was going to do all he could to help his star senior do it.

But to get 2,000 yards, Hunter was going to have to drive himself.

"He made a commitment to being in shape, working on his strength and staying eligible," Boyd said.

"Whenever a day came along and he wasn't paying attention in a drill, I'd remind him of his goals and that would snap him back."

Friday, Hunter gained 243 yards in a 21-21 tie with San Benito to close the regular season with 2,041 yards, reaching his goal and earning him top billing on the year's final Associated Press high school honor roll.

Hunter's senior season was one of the best-ever for South Texas runners. His 360-yard outing in a 51-21 victory over Weslaco was one of the top all-time games in 5A and his 32 touchdowns this season are a Rio Grande Valley record.

The 5-foot-10, 185-pound senior, who ran for 1,605 yards as a junior, really hit his stride down the stretch as he closed the year with four 200-yard games. He ran for 1,032 yards in that span.

"He's got extremely strong legs," Boyd said. "He's one of top sprinters in Valley, a 4.5 kind of guy. He's not a dancer. He can outrun you, but if he gets crowded, he's more of a run-over-you kind of guy."

Recruiters are very interested in Hunter, although grade problems may keep him out of a Division I-A school this year.

But the immediate goal is a Class 5A Division I playoff game Friday night at home against Mission.

In other outstanding Week 10 performances:

- El Paso Parkland senior Charles Jackson rushed for 303 yards and three touchdowns on 20 carries in a 50-21 victory over Canutillo, clinching the first new District 3-4A title.

- Del Valle ended a 19-game losing streak with a 32-13 victory over Austin Anderson. Brian Thibodeaux led the way with 174 yards rushing and two touchdowns on 17 carries.

- Ricky Mata of Laredo Nixon completed 26-of-41 passes for 359 yards and four touchdowns in a 41-14 victory over Laredo Martin. Jorge Vasquez caught 12 of the passes for 188 yards and a TD, and ran for two more scores.

- Jeff Spikes wrapped up his humongous regular season with 236 yards and two touchdowns on 24 carries in Burkeville's 26-0 victory over Colmesneil. He finished a nine-game regular season with 2,384 yards and 192 points.

- Freshman Gary Turner gained 240 yards on 37 carries and scored two touchdowns as Cayuga defeated Cross Roads 22-7 to seal their first playoff appearance in school history.

- Klein Forest's 35-0 victory over Langham Creek featured the bizarre trick of three touchdowns within a 20-second span of the fourth quarter. Jonathan Limbert began it with a 1-yard run, then on the first play after the kickoff Clarence Coleman scored on a 34-yard interception return. On the first play after the next kickoffs, Matt Soria returned a fumble 28 yards for the third score.

- Jefferson's Tim Duffie splashed to 149 yards on 30 carries and scored all three of his team's touchdowns in a 20-14 victory over Linden-Kildare. Duffie also played every defensive down as a linebacker and led the team in tackles.

- San Antonio Madison sophomore Rick Barrow intercepted three passing, giving him an area 5A best of seven for the year in a 35-22 victory over San Antonio MacArthur.

- Kirbyville's Damond Blueitt caught seven passes for 197 yards and two touchdowns in a 47-20 victory over Warren.

- Jasper's Terrance Currence was a triple threat, running 17 times for 129 yards and a touchdown, throwing two passes for 104 yards and catching a 90-yard TD pass in a 57-6 victory over Dayton.

- Juan Fabian recovered four fumbles, returning one of them for a touchdown in Grand Saline's 54-0 victory over Nevada Community.

- Kevin McCullar of Irving Nimitz rushed for 88 yards, passed for 71 yards and returned a fumble 95 yards for a touchdown in a 45-12 victory over Irving MacArthur that clinched the district title.

- Sulphur Springs capped a dominant defensive season with T.C. Abron returning a fumble 45 yards for a touchdown and blocking a punt that a teammate returned 40 yards for another score in a 29-0 victory over North Lamar.

- Anthony Hicks had 22 tackles and three sacks in Richardson Lake Highlands' 14-6 victory over Richardson Berkner.

- Frankston linebacker Desmond Hinton did all he could to keep Winona from a 49-0 victory by being in on 27 tackles, including 16 unassisted stops.

- Hallettsville quarterback Jeff Appell threw for 299 yards and three touchdowns in a 41-20 victory over Edna.

- Stephenville quarterback Glenn O'Dell completed 14 of 16 passes for 262 yards and three TDs in one half of a 25-0 victory over Mineral Wells.

- Roddy Blunston ran for 264 yards and four touchdowns as East Bernard defeated Weimar 44-6.

- Jason Holloway's 99-yard fumble return, the third longest on Texas high school record books, helped Fort Bend Kempner to a 36-15 victory over Prairiland, which lost its 31st straight game.

- Universal City Randolph quarterback Peter Duffy completed 9 of 11 passes for 229 yards and three TDs in a 42-0 victory over Poth. His 93 completions on the year are a school record, and his 1,570 yards passing were 36 short of the Randolph record.

Special week being observed by hospital

Hereford Regional Medical Center is joining other hospitals across the country in observing National Radiologic Technology Week, it was announced Tuesday by Jim Robinson, hospital administrator.

"The Radiology department at Hereford Regional Medical Center has some of the most advanced technology I have seen for an area the size of Hereford," said Robinson.

"But the best equipment in the world is worthless without qualified individuals, so this week we recognize the professional competency and the commitment to high-quality patient care provided by the staff of our radiology department."

The celebration of the radiologic technology week coincides with the discovery of the X-ray on Nov. 8, 1895, by German physicist Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen.

In addition to the standard X-ray and fluoroscopy equipment available at HRMC, the hospital provides women in the area with a dedicated mammogram unit. Ultrasound exams, CT scans and nuclear medicine exams are also available.

Claudia Smith, radiologic technologist, explained that mammograms "are one of the services that we are really trying to educate the public about." She said the diagnostic test should be an essential part of woman's yearly physical.

"I'm always amazed when women come into the department who have never had a mammogram. The exam is fast and painless, and many times can detect malignant tumors years before they can be felt. It's a lifesaver that every woman should take advantage of," Smith said.

As a diagnostic test, the ultrasound unit can be used to check the development of a fetus, along with several other uses such as abdominal diagnosis, breast cancer detection and blood flow status.

The CT scanner is used to X-ray a cross-section of the head and body. The patient is placed on a bed that moves into a donut-shaped device which X-rays around the body. The information is fed into a computer to form a picture. The CT scanner can be used to find, among other things, tumors or masses that might escape detection in a regular X-ray.

"At Hereford Regional Medical Center, we now provide a wide range of diagnostic services that area residents once had to leave town to obtain. We're very proud of the level of expertise and training our radiology staff has and are also proud of the wide range of radiologic services we offer," Robinson concluded.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When I was a teen, I had an older relative who belched frequently and loudly. I never asked about it, to spare any hurt feelings. Now, I am old myself and I am doing the same thing. My local doctor said to slow down my eating. I don't think I eat particularly fast. I would appreciate your word on this. — Mrs. J.W.A.

ANSWER: We can almost always blame swallowed air for belching episodes. I know you'd tell me you don't swallow air, but most belchers do, and usually quite unconsciously. It becomes a nervous habit.

I don't know if age is a factor, but I suspect it might play some role.

Fast-food franchises and the hurry-up atmosphere presented there might have, in part at least, encouraged a sizable population of fast eaters and easy belchers.

Slow down when eating, no matter what. Try not to be influenced by your surroundings.

Often, use of drinking straws fosters air swallowing. Carbonated drinks inject new factors for the belch-prone, and gum chewing adds its bit.

You should make a conscious effort to reverse all the belch factors, one by one.

Is belching a serious sign? If not accompanied by pain, you can safely attribute belching to simple air swallowing. Self-control is the key to cure. Belching has nothing to do with intestinal gas, which forms later on as food ferments in the lower digestive tract.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: For years, I have had a problem with swelling of joints — knuckles, wrists and knee primarily, but sometime at a shoulder or elbow. I tested negative for arthritis and gout. I read a description of something called "pseudogout" and it sounded like me. Can you provide any further information on this? — K.K.

ANSWER: Traditional gout arises from deposition of uric-acid crystals inside joints. The crystals are long, needlelike projections.

In pseudogout, the deposits are calcium pyrophosphate dihydrate.

Now, I cannot comment specifically on your particular pain sites, except to note that with regular gout, the prime target is often the great toe. With pseudogout, it's usually the knees.

Untreated, pseudogout can produce attacks lasting from a few days to a month at a time. Anti-inflammatory drugs such as aspirin and indomethacin are used for control.

A re-evaluation could well be in order, since you seem to harbor doubts about the pseudogout diagnosis. Joint fluid can be examined for calcium pyrophosphate crystals. Also, X-rays are often used to diagnose pseudogout.

For more information, see my gout report. To order it, send $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (62 cents) No. 10 envelope to: Dr. Donohue — No. 13, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What can you tell me about Schamberg's disease? I have been treated for psoriasis. I've had the skin problem for many years, but one dermatologist did a biopsy that showed the Schamberg diagnosis. I am being treated with ointment. I'm hoping you can add some info. — L.S.

ANSWER: In Schamberg's, small vessels near the skin surface break and release red cells along with the cell pigment. It usually happens on the ankles and legs.

The resulting appearance is of skin that seems to have been sprinkled with red pepper, and it can persist for years.

It is difficult to treat, because the cause is not known. Cortisone ointments are sometimes tried.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

Trip to Ireland is related to club

Mrs. Duffy McBryer presented a program on a recent trip she took to the island of Iona, located about 30 miles from Ireland, when members of the Bay View Study Club met Nov. 3 in the home of Mrs. Charlie Holt.

McBryer explained that she and her husband went from the isle of Mull by ferry. Only about 30 families inhabit the isle which has been used by monks for hundreds of years. The monasteries are maintained by local residents who encourage pilgrims from all over the world to come for meditation and communion with God.

The speaker said that very little electricity is available on the isle, only enough to maintain one burner stove. She also told of the hilly terrain which is physically exhausting after a nine-hour hike. She was impressed that sick people attend healing services on the isle and find new strength.

Members attending included Mmes. Charles Bell, J.A. Burran, R.H. Caviness, W.L. Davis, Wes Fisher, Alton Fraser, D.N. Garner, Don Graham, N.C. Hays, Charlie Holt, Ernest Langley, Juston McBride, Calvin Mitts, C.F. Newsom, Austin Rose, Milton

Rudder, Abel Ruga, Paul Scott, Ruth Allison, Bob Sims, W.J. Gilliland and Howard Gault.

Rachel Henslee was welcomed as a guest.

Local Crown of Texas Hospice receives money from benefit

The Crown of Texas Hospice volunteers and staff met recently in the Fellowship of Believers Church.

Kathryn Acton, R.N., called the meeting to order and announced that the Hereford Chapter of Crown of Texas Hospice received a check for $1,500 from the VFW Hospice golf tournament and dinner. This check and petty cash is to be deposited in the First National Bank of Hereford by Acton to benefit the Hereford area patients.

Mona Romero, social worker, and Acton reviewed patients' status with volunteers. More new patients are being accepted. Volunteers can help with patients' needs and do something special for them during the Christmas season. More discussion will take place at the next meeting Dec. 6 at 5 pm. in the Fellowship of Believers Church. Members are urged to be present.

Those in attendance at the meeting were Kathryn Acton, Mona Romero, Merle Clark, Emily Suggs, Rita Burges, Irene Reinart and Ann Meyer.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas faces a multibillion dollar budget shortfall in the next biennium, but state House and Senate leaders say there are ways to deal with the projected deficit without slapping citizens with new taxes to cover it.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman John Montford, D-Lubbock, said, "There's a lot of wailing and gnashing of the teeth. There always is. But I think this discipline is important. We simply must contain our growth and live within our means."

In a report by The Associated Press, Montford estimated a $2.7 billion gap between projected spending growth and new money available in the 1996-97 biennium and stipulated that the gap estimate does not include the cost of juvenile justice reforms — if implemented. He said about $4 billion in new revenue will be available, but the projected need for spending increases is about $6.7 billion.

House Appropriations Committee Chairman Robert Junell estimated the budget deficit would be even higher — $3.5 billion. Junell, D-San Angelo, like Montford, thinks the Legislature can ratchet down on spending to avoid a tax increase. "We did it last session. We'll do it again this session," he said.

Federally mandated state spending may force some programs, such as higher education, to be cut, Junell added.

House Speaker Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, while agreeing that the state can make a budget without raising taxes, also said, "There will have to be sacrifices somewhere."

"As is routine with the prison system, we offered this help to local authorities when the rains started."

"We use volunteer inmates with good records; we provide heavy security during the operations and we never charge the local authorities or public for the manpower or equipment," Castlebury said.

High Turnout Expected
Texans do care who the next governor will be, according to projections by Secretary of State Ron Kirk.

He said 55 percent of registered voters are expected to make it to the polls, which would be the highest voter turnout in a gubernatorial election since 1974, when the term of office was increased to four years.

Spokesmen for Democratic Gov. Ann Richards and her Republican opponent George W. Bush both said a high voter turnout is positive news.

Last week, it looked like anybody's win, with Bush and Richards locked in a statistical dead heat.

Other Highlights
■ State Sen. Rodney Ellis, D-Houston, said last week he will sponsor a proposal for "first-class, first-rate" casino gambling in 1995. He said he wants to give voters the chance to decide in a statewide election whether they favor casino gambling.

■ The Texas Automobile Dealers Association is warning consumers that a large number of flood-damaged cars and trucks will soon enter the used vehicle market because of the floods in Southeast Texas. "Although such vehicles may show few signs of vehicle damage, they may have serious problems even after they are cleaned," a spokesman said.

■ Texas has a constitutional right to tax gross bingo receipts, the 3rd Court of Appeals ruled last week. Two bingo operators filed a lawsuit in 1992 alleging that state taxes on bingo receipts were unconstitutional. The state collects 5 percent of the money that bingo operators pay out in prizes.

Counties to Get FEMA Help

Fourteen flood-stricken counties in Southeast Texas will be eligible for financial assistance totaling about $9 million from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

FEMA funds will be used to repair sewer lines, roads and buildings and will help local government agencies with overtime charges for emergency response crews, said FEMA director James Lee Witt last week.

The 14 counties are Fayette, Grimes, Harris, Jackson, Lavaca, Liberty, Matagorda, Montgomery, San Augustine, San Jacinto, Trinity, Walker, Waller and Wharton.

FEMA is still working on damage estimates in 23 other counties that Gov. Ann Richards requested to be eligible for individual assistance.

FEMA funds are critical so local taxpayers will not be overwhelmed, Ed Schaefer, assistant coordinator for operations for the Texas Division of Emergency Management, told the Houston Chronicle.

Flood victims still have until Nov. 15 to apply for food stamps under special procedures set up to address their immediate needs, according to a report in the Chronicle.

Inmates Work on Flood Relief

Inmates from at least six state prison units worked on flood relief in the recent Southeast Texas floods, doing everything from searching for drowning victims to doing laundry for a local hospital to filling sand bags.

Some 30 to 40 inmates are still on the job and expected to work another week in cleaning up debris in Montgomery County, according to Glen Castlebury, director of communications for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Jury prospect's 'feelings' say Simpson 'not guilty'

By LINDA DEUTSCH
AP Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gesturing across the courtroom at O.J. Simpson, the woman in the jury box spoke from her heart: "He had so much going for him. Why would a person give up all of this to take a life?"

The 50-year-old woman said she didn't believe Simpson killed his ex-wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend, Ronald Goldman. "Right now," she said, "my feelings are he's not guilty."

As Superior Court Judge Lance Ito quizzed her, she thought of something else.

"Let me explain," she said. "It has nothing to do with the fact he's an African American and I am one. It has nothing to do with that."

Simpson, buoyed by the strongest statement in his favor since jury selection began Sept. 26, smiled at the prospective juror's comments. But she was dismissed for bias

Tuesday as the search began for 15 alternates who can step in if any of the jurors falls ill or leaves for any reason.

The 12 sworn-in jurors — who have been living under a media blackout — were given more relaxed orders. Now they can watch some television, as long as they stay away from anything Simpson-related. They were sent home until Dec. 5, when final selection of alternate jurors is expected.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Gil Garcetti said his office will not prosecute Simpson's friend, Al "A.C." Cowlings for his role as driver of the Bronco during the slow-speed police pursuit the day Simpson fled murder charges.

The prosecutor assigned to that case, Deputy District Attorney Christopher Darden, was added to the Simpson prosecution team, raising criticism from the Simpson defense, in part because Darden is black.

"We have said that the (Cowlings) investigation was a charade," said attorney Johnnie Cochran Jr., who also is black. "Now, all of a sudden, he shows up over here, now that we have eight African Americans (on the jury) ... We are concerned about it."

The District Attorney's Office said in a statement Darden was chosen because of his "abilities as a trial lawyer."

Meanwhile, Ito and attorneys continued the painstaking task of quizzing jury prospects individually on their views of the case and how much publicity has impacted them.

The first day of alternate questioning was a wash. All nine of the prospects involved were dismissed, five for hardship reasons and four for legal cause, or bias.

Ito acknowledged that the process is moving more slowly than expected and opening statements are unlikely before mid-January.

Ribbon cutting for Traditions

Annie Brown and her sister, Lea Hendrick, cut the ribbon Tuesday on their new store, Traditions, located at 421 N. Main St. The Hereford Hustlers, a goodwill ambassador group of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, conducted the opening ceremony as other guests joined in the event. The store will feature new and antique home furnishings.

Leave children alone; they know when to eat

By BRENDA C. COLEMAN
AP Medical Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Parents who want normal-weight children shouldn't try to control how much they eat — left alone, most youngsters instinctively know how much is good for them.

"You have to have a little bit of faith in your child's ability to know when they're hungry and when they're not," said Susan L. Johnson, the lead author of a new study of 77 preschoolers aged 3 to 5.

Stringently tracking the child's eating can lead to problems: Children with the most body fat had mothers who were the most "controlling" about diet, the study found. The children were also the least likely to eat appropriate amounts of calories spontaneously.

"The more control the mother reported using over her child's eating, the less self-regulation the child displayed," authors of the study say in the November issue of Pediatrics.

Parents should just "relax a little," said Johnson, a nutritionist and postdoctoral fellow in pediatrics at the University of Colorado Center Health Sciences Center.

"While they still remain responsible for providing healthy choices for their kids in terms of food selection, kids are capable of figuring out how much to eat," she said.

The study was done at a preschool at the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, where Johnson and co-author Leann L. Birch formerly worked. Birch now is a professor of human development and family studies at Penn State University.

Children were given different calorie combinations and observed, and parents were questioned about behaviors around food at home.

Some mothers let children eat only at mealtimes, instead of when they were hungry, or encouraged children to eat all the food given to them. Such mothers seemed to get concerned if children seemed to be eating too little or too much.

However, children whose mothers allowed them to be highly spontaneous about food showed a natural instinct for regulating their own calories, the researchers said.

It has been estimated that one of every four U.S. children is obese, and the prevalence of the problem has increased as much as 54 percent in the last two decades, according to previous research.

While the study suggested that mothers were the main regulators of children's diets, fathers also played a role, researchers said. And the weight and eating habits of the parents were relevant.

"An obese or chronically dieting parent may be especially concerned about his or her children's eating habits, and see the child as at risk for obesity," the researchers said.

Jo Ann T. Hattner, a spokeswoman for the American Dietetic Association, said the study is important.

"These internal cues, when interrupted, may well lead to overeating in later childhood which could contribute to child being overweight," said Hattner, a pediatric nutritionist at Stanford University Medical Center.

"I have worked with children and mothers where the mothers have been very controlling and the child is obese," she said, "and trying to convince the mother to let go of that control is very difficult."

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Timothy Dalton could fall for Scarlett O'Hara — just give him the chance.

The actor who plays Rhett Butler in the upcoming CBS mini-series "Scarlett" does not, however, condone her conniving ways.

"She takes something serious — a man's feelings — and betrays them," Dalton said in the Nov. 12 issue of TV Guide.

"How could she behave so appallingly? How could any man in his right mind put up with her? Unless he was in love with her."

Whoa! said Joanne Whalley-Kilmer, who plays Scarlett: "If Scarlett were a man she would be allowed to be roguish, perhaps even ruthless. Suddenly, it would all be noble and admirable."

The "Gone with the Wind" sequel is due to air Nov. 13, 15, 16 and 17.
