Voting under way in Texas; governor's race dead heat

DALLAS (AP) - Polls opened at 7 a.m., today but for Democratic Gov. Ann Richards and Republican challenger George W. Bush it could be a late night.

A weekend poll showed the race a statistical dead heat.

The survey published in The Dallas Morning News and Houston Chronicle gave Bush a slight edge, 46.6 percent to 44.4 percent, but because of the three percentage point margin of error, Richards also could be ahead.

"This is the first race in my experience that's so close that both campaigns have a serenity that they are going to win," said Bill Miller, an Austin consultant who works for both Democrats and Republicans.

"Both sides are completely confident of victory," he said.

In their final campaign trips, each candidate hit the regions many consider critical to victory - the Dallas area, Houston, San Antonio and East Texas.

Richards took her campaign to Arlington, Houston, Nacogdoches, San Antonio and Austin. Bush appeared in Houston - joined by his mother and father, the former president - along with Tyler, San Antonio and Dallas.

Their $25 million battle sounded familiar themes to the end.

Bush proposed reducing welfare rolls, getting tough on young criminals and giving a higher priority to education. He said Richards is too liberal for Texas and that a vote for him is a vote for change.

Richards touted her record of doubling the state's prison system, balancing the state budget and creating more jobs than any other state. She also called Bush too inexperienced to be governor.

Secretary of State Ron Kirk forecast a turnout of 55 percent of the state's 8.6 million registered voters. The early voting period ran from Oct. 19 through last Friday. Kirk's office said that in the 15 largest counties, 796,165 Texans or 15.3 percent of voters, cast ballots during that period.

The U.S. Senate race tops the ballot, and Republican Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison and Democrat Richard Fisher also crisscrossed the state Monday.

Polls gave the clear advantage to Mrs. Hutchison, who won the seat in a special election last year. But Fisher insisted he isn't out of it. "Our arms are pumping, our legs are pumping, my head is down and I hope to win this race," he said.

In the state's 30 congressional districts, Republicans hope to make some inroads on the 21-9 advantage Democrats now hold.

All the other top statewide offices also are up for grabs, and all the incumbents are seeking another term.

But appointed Treasurer Martha Whitehead promised to work to abolish her agency if given the chance. Her Republican opponent, Austin banker David Hartman, argued that the Treasury performs needed functions and provides checks and balances on the state's finances.

In the other statewide races:

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, a Democrat, seeks re-election against Dallas lawyer Tex Lezar, the Republican nominee. Comptroller John Sharp, a Democrat, is challenged by Austin businesswoman Teresa Doggett, a Republican. Incumbent Democratic Attorney General Dan Morales faces Houston Judge Don Wittig, a Republican.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, a three-term Democrat, is challenged by Republican Marta Greytok, a former Public Utility Commission member. And Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry, a Republican, seeks a second term against Democrat Marvin Gregory, a Sulphur Springs dairy farmer.

Two Democratic Railroad Commissioners, Chairman Jim Nugent and Richards' appointee Mary Scott Nabers, are running. Nugent faces Republican Charles Matthews of Dallas, while Ms. Nabers faces former Austin mayor Carole Keeton Rylander.

Also up for election are three seats each on the Texas Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals, plus seven of the 15 State Board of Education seats.

The Libertarian Party fielded candidates for some of the statewide offices, including Pierre Blondeau for U.S. Senate and Arlington engineer Keary Ehlers for governor. Libertarians also are running for attorney general, land commissioner, agriculture commissioner, Railroad Commission and one Supreme Court seat.

Local voting steady at nine locations

Voting in Hereford and Deaf Smith County was moving at a steady pace Tuesday morning, according to a report from the office of County Clerk David Ruland.

Besides state and federal offices to be filled in the election, two races are being decided in Deaf Smith County. Residents of Commissioner Precinct 2 will decide between the incumbent, Lupe Chavez, and Conny Whitehorn. Incumbent justice of the peace, Johnnie Turrentine, is challenged by Dan Hall.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. at nine sites:

- Precinct 1 -- Aikman School
- Precinct 2 -- Courthouse
- Precinct 3 -- Hereford Junior High.
- Precinct 4 -- Hereford Community Center.
- Precinct 5 -- Palo Duro Baptist Church.
- Precinct 6 -- Ford Community Building.
- Precinct 7 -- Dawn Community Building.
- Precinct 8 -- Walcott School.
- Precinct 9 -- Simms Community House.

Polls will close at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Early voting in Deaf Smith County attracted 1,827 during the period ending last Friday. The number exceeds the 1,633 who voted in a comparable election in 1990.

United Way progress noted

Karen Sherrod, left, and Sally Nolen update the United Way of Deaf Smith County thermometer at U.S. 385 and Park Avenue on Monday after the agency held a report luncheon at noon. The United Way 1994 fundraising drive has reached 52 percent of its goal of $150,000.

United Way at $77,000 toward goal of $150,000

The 1994 United Way of Deaf Smith County fundraising drive has topped the half-way mark according to figures presented during a report luncheon on Monday.

Figures show that $77,756.62 had been raised, which represents 52 percent of the $150,000 goal.

"The thing that stands out to me," said fundraising chairman Wes Klett (is) the Senior Citizens (Division). "I think they should be applauded for their efforts and contributions."

The division -- led by Lester Wagner -- was just $6 short of its goal at Monday's meeting, having raised $11,227 of the $11,233 goal.

Also near its goal was the Pacesetters Division, which is made up of the top employee giving companies in town.

With a goal of $42,800, the division is worked by United Way staffers. As of Monday, that division had reached 98 percent of its goal, with $41,852.84 reported.

The campaign has -- officially -- one week to go before ending and Klett said he wants to try to finish up before the start of the holiday season.

Executive Director Sally Nolen said the campaign needs to wrap up for another reason.

She said the Budget and Missions Committee will meet this week to hear budget requests from the 12 agencies served by the United Way of Deaf Smith County.

While no judgments will be made this week about those requests, the committee will have to determine agency allocations next week.

The committee is made up of John Sherrod, John David Bryant, Trish Brown, Janie Alejandre, Carol Sue LeGate and Chris Leonard.

The following are reports from the other United Way divisions, including the division goal, the amount reported Monday and the percent of goal raised to date.

Agriculture -- goal $4,635, $1,630 to date, 35 percent.

Business and Industry -- $33,479, $5,174.20, 15.5 percent.

Commerce -- $10,680, $694, 6 percent.

FIRE (Finance, Insurance and Real Estate) -- $8,400, $1,935, 22 percent.

Corporate Gifts -- $5,837, $338, 6 percent.

Professionals -- $14,585, $4,305, 30 percent.

Public/Federal/State -- $10,135, $2,870, 28 percent.

Non-Profit -- $8,216, $3,395, 41 percent.

Care Walk -- $376, no goal set.

Miscellaneous/Golf -- $3,959.58, no goal set.

City workers to get disability insurance

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Employees of the City of Hereford will have disability insurance added to their benefit package.

The City Commission, short three members, voted unanimously to provide the insurance, at a cost of less than $15,000 per year.

In other business, the commission approved an ordinance related to service credits on retirement, authorized a water line extension and approved preparation of specifications for purchase of equipment.

City Manager Chester Nolen explained the disability insurance proposal, submitted by B.J. Gilliland.

Nolen said the city's health insurance for the current fiscal year will be about $10,000 less than anticipated. He suggested the saving be spent on the disability insurance.

Gilliland described two plans for consideration. The plan accepted calls for a 90-day wait before the benefit is available, then payment of 60 percent of salary. The proposal for 180-day wait and 70 percent of salary was rejected.

On motion of Commissioner Carey

Black and second by Commissioner Nancy Griego, the benefit was adopted. Commissioner Wayne Winget and Mayor Pro Tem Roger Eades, presiding in the absence of Mayor Bob Josseland, also voted for the proposal.

Commissioners Silvana Juarez and Dennis Hicks were not present.

A request for extension of water service, made by Jimmy White and Mrs. Lois Gilliland, was granted with the provision that expense of the project is their responsibility. Cost is estimated at $3,472.

The ordinance related to service credits in the Texas Municipal Retirement System was adopted unanimously. Employee retirement benefits will be improved with adoption of the ordinance.

Nolen was authorized to prepare specifications and advertise for bids for equipment budgeted this year, including a 3,500-gallon tanker for the fire department, a half-ton pickup for the health department, a cab and chassis replacement for the street department and two half-ton pickups for water and sewer maintenance department.

Colorado man drops challenge of citation

A Colorado man who challenged a citation given him for driving without his seat belt fastened has decided to go no further. He notified Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine that he pleads no contest and will pay his $60 fine.

Judge Turrentine said Rod Berg of Salida, Colo., notified her by letter, received Monday, that he could not make the Dec. 9 court date for trial.

Berg received the citation from a Texas Highway Patrol trooper on Aug. 27, and immediately began a campaign for dismissal, saying he had the right not to buckle up.

When Judge Turrentine refused to dismiss, he demanded a court trial and posted bond of $200.

For several weeks, Berg repeatedly telephoned Judge Turrentine's office, talking to her and her deputies. The justice of the peace said Berg claimed he had the right not to buckle his seat belt, saying "it's my body, I can do what I want."

Judge Turrentine set a court date of Oct. 28, then granted a continuance to Dec. 9, when Berg said he could not make the first date.

Judge Turrentine said she will deduct the $60 fine from the $200 bond Berg posted and return $140 to him.

Formby inducted into Cowgirl HOF in surprise ceremony in Fort Worth

Margaret Formby, one of the founders and the longtime executive director of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage, was inducted into the hall during a surprise ceremony Friday in Fort Worth.

After assisting in the induction of four new honorees, Formby was called back to the podium and announced as the newest inductee into the western heritage category of the Hall of Fame.

Roger Eades, board chairman from Hereford, made the presentation. Other board members from Hereford attending were Roland Saul, Hollis and Charmayne Klett, Diane Hoelscher, L.J. Clark, Jeanie Tucker and Jana Green.

The surprise ceremony was held at the annual induction luncheon Friday in the Stockman's Room at the Fort Worth Stockyard Train Station. Cowgirls inducted were Mattie Goff Newcombe and Florence Hughes Randolph. Western heritage inductees were Patsy Cline and Wilma Mankiller.

Eades was reelected as chairman of the board of the museum, which is being moved to the Fort Worth Stockyards. Hollis Klett was elected as vice president, and Formby is an executive officer and past president.

The annual Rhinestone Roundup on Thursday evening attracted more than 500 persons, with Pam Tillis providing the main entertainment. The first annual Fern Sawyer award was presented to Ann Marion of Fort Worth.

Before the board decided to move the Hall of Fame museum, in order to assure its expansion and financial support, Margaret had spent 19 years developing the facility in Hereford. At the same time, she was an active supporter of women in rodeo. As a member of the Hall of Fame Rodeo Association, she has taken a major role in producing and promoting the annual Hall of Fame All-Girl Rodeo.

Margaret was honored at the Santa Fe All Girl Rodeo last year, and last November she was inducted into the Texas Tech Rodeo Hall of Fame. The Tech honor recognizes those "who have contributed to the sport of rodeo on any level and who have contributed to the American way of life in an exemplary way." Formby was also named a Golden Nail award winner earlier this year in Amarillo.

Formby is a past president of the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and a past president of La Plata Study Club. She was named as the Women's Division C of C "Woman of the Year" in 1983, and was presented with a Bull Chip award in 1984.

Formby was an organizer of the Women's Panhellenic Chapter in Hereford, and of the Hereford Animal Action Committee which was instrumental in establishing a new animal facility and shelter. She has been active in the Hereford School Volunteer program, as a Red

Smith's lawyer may pursue insanity in murder charges

UNION, S.C. (AP) - Susan Smith's lawyer said Monday he may mount an insanity defense for the mother who told police she was suicidal the night she rolled her car into a lake and drowned her two sons.

"I'm going to consider everything," David Bruck said.

He said he may also ask that the trial be moved from Union, where crowds jeered Mrs. Smith outside the courthouse Friday.

Bruck, who visited Mrs. Smith in prison Saturday with a psychologist, refused to comment further, saying the judge in the case had asked him not to discuss the matter.

Mrs. Smith, 23, was charged with murder Thursday after police said she confessed to buckling her children - Michael, 3, and Alex, 14 months - into their safety seats before rolling the car into a murky lake. She had originally claimed that a carjacker had driven off with the children the night of Oct. 25.

Investigators said she had recently broken up with a boyfriend who had told her he didn't want a ready-made family.

"I wanted to end my life so bad and was in my car, ready to go down that ramp into the water and I did go part way, but I stopped," Mrs. Smith said in a written confession to police, CNN reported Sunday.

Simpson judge will allow TV cameras

Ito says media now more responsible

By LIÑDA DEUTSCH
AP Special Correspondent
LOS ANGELES (AP) - Despite a mountain of mail from fed-up TV viewers, the judge in the O.J. Simpson murder trial backed down from his threat Monday and allowed cameras to stay in court.

Superior Court Judge Lance Ito said the media have been more responsible since an erroneous ABC-TV report in September that Nicole Brown Simpson's blood had been found on a sock in Simpson's home. The judge also acknowledged that any inaccurate reporting happened outside the courtroom, and not because cameras were inside.

"I do not make any decisions in this courtroom based on public opinion polls," Ito said, sitting beside 21 cartons filled with nearly 45,000 letters, most of them urging him to bar cameras.

He said the letters do not necessarily reflect public opinion because they were solicited by columnist Mike Royko, who railed against TV coverage of the case.

In a spirited televised hearing, First Amendment lawyers argued in favor of keeping the cameras in court, saying they help educate the public and deter inaccurate reporting.

"The camera pleads absolutely, 100 percent not guilty," Court TV lawyer Floyd Abrams told Ito, borrowing Simpson's famous innocent plea. "It didn't do anything wrong. It hasn't shown anything wrong. It hasn't violated any court rule."

Court TV operates the single pool camera, which photographs the courtroom proceedings and provides a live feed to other electronic outlets.

Ito, however, was skeptical that TV coverage serves an educational purpose. "Do you think there is a fundamental educational value in a case that is so unusual?" he asked one lawyer. "This is really atypical."

The judge said he would allow TV coverage but would require that a remote-control camera, operated by a technician outside the courtroom, be used whenever witnesses are testifying. He said cameras make some witnesses nervous.

The prosecution argued in favor of cameras, as did the defense, as long as TV coverage wouldn't lead the judge to sequester the jury.

The defense opposes sequestration; prosecutors want jurors sequestered for the entire trial. Ito said sequestration is a strong possibility but hasn't yet decided.

Kelli Sager, a lawyer for more than a dozen media outlets, argued that live coverage should offer a valuable civics lesson for the nation.

"Removal of the camera will only punish, if anyone is being punished, the public, and they have done nothing to deserve it," she said.

Douglas Mirell, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, said cutting off TV coverage would lead lawyers to conduct "spin control" news conferences and force the media to create stories where none existed.

Simpson listened passively and occasionally took notes as his lawyers argued they want his trial televised because it will convince the public that he is innocent in the June 12 slayings of his ex-wife and her friend Ronald Goldman.

"For Mr. Simpson to have a life after this case, with his children, it will require the American public to have an understanding that his acquittal was based on what was presented in the courtroom," lawyer Robert Shapiro said.

Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark favored televising the trial for the opposite reason, to "refute wild rumors" and disclose evidence that may lead to Simpson's conviction.

Clinton's last-ditch campaigning says Republicans out to destroy

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Facing the possibility of a GOP surge that could tie his hands for the remainder of his term, President Clinton is telling voters that Republicans are out to destroy in order to win.

And he is appealing to Americans to "wake up in sunshine" before casting their votes today and consider whether they really wish to cripple policies he credits for reducing unemployment and creating 5 million jobs in 21 months while keeping inflation low.

In a strenuous eight-day campaign trek across the nation, Clinton heard warmup speakers at nearly every rally invoke in drumbest fashion the specter of what he stands to lose if voters reject that core message.

Symbolically at the heart of what is at stake for his presidency is the possibility that at next January's State of the Union address, the Democratic chief executive will be introduced by a newly installed Republican speaker of the House, Newt Gingrich of Georgia.

Gingrich's name drew choruses of boos from Democratic crowds in California, Washington, Minnesota, Michigan and New York.

Speakers tried to score points with the Democratic faithful by reciting the likely results of a GOP takeover of both houses of Congress:

Gingrich as House speaker, Jesse Helms of North Carolina as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Orrin Hatch of Utah as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Bob Dole of Kansas as Senate majority leader, and down the list.

In the House, such a sea change would mean that a Republican-controlled Rules Committee would decide how and whether the president's proposals would be considered on the floor.

A GOP-run Ways and Means Committee would be the gatekeeper for any Clinton tax proposals. His plans for health and welfare reform, campaign and lobbying reform and the rest of his agenda would all have to pass Republican muster.

And in a worst-case scenario, Democratic governors in such large states as New York, Texas and Florida could also be replaced by Republicans.

Atlantis gets look at 'Lights'

By MARCIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - Atlantis and its crew soared over the edge of the Antarctic ozone hole Monday as shuttle instruments surveyed the gases swirling in the atmosphere below.

At one point, the space shuttle flew through the Southern Lights, the colorful atmospheric streaks caused by the interaction of atoms and charged particles from the sun.

"I don't know if you got the same static we just got, but I suspect it's because we just flew right through the aurora," commander Donald McMonagle told Mission Control. He said it was "a pretty spectacular view."

Atlantis experienced more communications trouble Monday.

A radio channel linking the shuttle and Mission Control was unusable. Another radio system provided adequate contact until engineers restored full communications.

Mission Control lost all contact with Atlantis for eight minutes Sunday because of crossed radio signals.

Michael Gunson, a scientist at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., said his ozone monitor aboard Atlantis confirms the findings of instruments on permanently orbiting satellites - that there is very little ozone inside the Antarctic ozone hole at nearly all altitudes of the stratosphere.

The hole is shrinking as it does every mid- to late November when air from the middle latitudes drifts southward and mixes with the gases there. Nonetheless, there is still two to three times less ozone inside the hole than outside, Gunson said.

Gunson's instrument is measuring more than 30 gases in the atmosphere to understand how Earth's ozone layer changes. Ozone protects humans, animals and plants from ultraviolet rays and is being eaten away largely by manmade chemicals.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband, "Bryan," and I were married 24 years ago. At that time, I talked to my husband about his previous partners. I wasn't interested in the details of his sexual experiences. I only wanted to know if there had been a lot of women in his life and what they were like.

Bryan told me about them (actually, there weren't THAT many) and described what they looked like. He told me about one with jet black hair, the two with brown hair and the two blondes. I teased him because there were no redheads in his past. He said he had never been attracted to redheads and that he never dated or slept with one. His mom, who overheard me teasing him once, also commented on the fact that he never had brought home a girl with red hair.

Two years ago, Bryan received a letter from a young woman stating that she is his out-of-wedlock daughter. She said she had been adopted and recently had found her birth mother. The mother had named Bryan as her father.

This girl wanted Bryan to know about her, since the birth mother said he wasn't aware of the pregnancy. She enclosed pictures of herself, her children and her birth mother. They were all REDHEADS.

Bryan said he had never seen this woman before, much less slept with her. The girl mentioned her birth date and place of birth. According to those figures, there is no way Bryan could have gotten that woman pregnant. He was in the service several thousand miles away when the woman claims to have conceived.

My husband has always been very open and honest with me about the women in his life. I don't have a problem with any of those relationships because they happened before I came along. I suggested that Bryan write to this girl and explain that it is not possible that he could be her father. He said he'd think about it.

Seven months later, Bryan received another letter from the girl. It was rude and very vulgar. She called him nasty names and told him he could go to hell. Bryan threw that letter away, along with the first one she had written, and it was obvious that he was disgusted with her coarseness.

Was that the end of it? No. A couple of weeks ago, the girl wrote again. She said she had decided to give him one more chance to get to know her. Once again, she included pictures.

Ann, my suggestion to your adopted readers is this: If you write to someone you think COULD be your parent and don't get an answer, take the hint. Leave well enough alone. To do otherwise can mean a load of trouble.—Lansing, Mich.

DEAR LANSING: I believe this case was probably one of mistaken identity. It may be that the girl did believe she had at long last found her father. This is, however, no justification for pestering him. People who do not wish to be "found" have a right to be left alone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A reader asked why women's clothes fasten differently from men's. It's because in the Middle Ages when women were dressed by servants, their clothes were made for the servants' convenience. Men dressed themselves, so the buttons were on the opposite side. I am 15 years old and have been a daily reader for a long time.—Texas

DEAR TEXAS: It's refreshing to hear from a teenager who isn't pregnant these days. Thanks for writing.

What can you give the person who has everything? Ann Landers' booklet, "Gems" is ideal for a nightstand or coffee table. "Gems" is a collection of Ann Landers' most requested poems and essays. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Interior decorating is discussed at meeting

Members of L'Allegra Study Club met Nov. 3 in the interior decorating shop owned by Cynthia Miller with Suzanne Smith and Judy Wall serving as co-hostesses.

Miller, who presented the program, discussed new trends and colors being used and described many of the products and services which she now offers.

During the business meeting with Vice President Smith presiding, roll was called and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted. Also, standing committee reports were given.

Members present included Carmen Flood, Diana Griffin, Cathy Guseman, Sandy Jossierand, Barbara Kerr, Sylvia Khuri, Shelley Moss, Hilda Perales, Jody Skiles, Suzanne Smith, Ella Marie Veigel and Judy Wall.

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Jeffrey Dahmer doesn't want to be exploited.

Relatives of eight of his victims say they're entitled to whatever they can get from auctioning his possessions - including his toothbrush and TV set - as partial payment of civil judgments. A hearing is set for this month.

But the man who confessed to the dismemberment killings of 17 young men and boys told the relatives' lawyer that he doesn't think it's right.

"I wouldn't want the property falling into the wrong hands and being used for exploitive purposes, like these people who came up with the damn baseball cards and the comic book," Dahmer said a year ago in a prison interview with the lawyer. The judge recently released a transcript of the conversation.

The Dahmer belongings inventory includes handcuffs, a sledgehammer, pornographic videos, a lava lamp, "Star Wars" and "Exorist III" videos, a power drill, handsaw, "heavy duty chemical-resistant gloves," a hypodermic needle and an 80-quart kettle.

NEW YORK (AP) - Ever try to decipher the muddy lyrics on REM's early albums? Don't bother.

"People are still trying to figure out what the words are to some of those songs," bandleader Michael Stipe says in the December issue of US magazine. "I hate to break it to them, but ... it's just utter nonsense, it's sounds, and it doesn't make sense sometimes, and it doesn't have to."

The new album, on the other hand, is about something: generally sex and the media. "Monster" is dedicated to the late River Phoenix, a good friend of Stipe.

John Chapman was the real name of "Johnny Appleseed," the America pioneer who planted large numbers of apple trees along the frontier in the late 1700s and early 1800s.

Herd spikers to take on Granbury

By JAY PEDED
Sports Editor

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team made short work of Monahans Saturday at Lubbock's Monterey High School, winning the playoff match 15-8, 15-5 in about 30 minutes.

Hereford, which improved to 27-6 for the season, will meet Granbury at 7:30 p.m. today at Snyder High School. Granbury (22-6), the No. 1 seed from District 6-4A, defeated Sherman 15-11, 15-6 Saturday in Coppell.

The winner of tonight's match will face Dumas, a 15-5, 15-5 winner over 6-4A runner-up Cleburne Monday, in the Region I-4A Finals.

This is the third year in a row that Hereford will play Granbury in the regional semifinals. The Lady Pirates gave the Herd a stiff challenge the last two years; Hereford won 5-15, 15-9, 15-8 last year and 15-11, 15-13 two years ago in Snyder.

"Overall they're probably taller than we are," Herd coach Brenda Reeh said. "They've got some pretty tall middles, and one very tall right-side hitter. They remind me a great deal of Randall on the front line."

Reeh hopes to pick on Granbury weakness: it's backcourt.

"I think if we get the ball in their backcourt, we'll give ourselves a good chance," she said. "If they do have a weakness, it's their backcourt."

Against Monahans Saturday, the Lady Whitefaces did a fine job of blocking the Lobos' best hitter, Jamie Franks.

"We knew we had to shut Jamie Franks down, and early in the first game, we blocked her a couple of times. She pulled off a little after that," Reeh said. "Most of what was hit was crosscourt, and our diggers did a good job, especially Aimee Alley."

Alley had digs in 10 of 11 chances. Except for a few brief runs,

Blocking wall

Monahans' Bonnie Basham hits the ball into the blocks set up by Hereford's Brittney Binder (22) and Crystal Kelley (4). The Lady Whitefaces won the playoff match over Monahans, 15-8, 15-5, Saturday at Monterey High School in Lubbock.

Monahans was finished after the Franks option didn't work. Danielle Cornelius stuff blocked Franks for a 5-2 Hereford lead, starting a six point run. Hereford's eighth and ninth points came on stuffs by Heather Hodges and Cornelius, respectively, and a Hodges kill made the lead 10-2.

Franks got two kills down and Hereford was called in the net for a couple of Monahans points. Hereford answered with two points on a Hodges kill and a Monahans error, and Hereford led 12-4.

Hereford had a brief lull when Monahans scored four points, all on Hereford mistakes, to pull within 12-

8. Hereford came back strongly, as Crystal Kelley had kills for a sideout and the 13th point, and Hodges had two kills to end the game.

"Our passing was great tonight," Kelley said. "We got good passing, so we could get our kills. When that was going, we were good."

Hereford made some mistakes to start the second game, helping Monahans to a 4-0 lead. The Lobos' lead didn't last long, though. Clarissa Ramirez served for two aces to get the Herd started on a 13-0 run. Monahans got one more point on a Bonnie Basham kill, but after several rotations Alley served an ace, then after two more rotations, Hodges had kills for a sideout and the 15th point.

"I was pleased to see we kept our poise," Reeh said. "We didn't get rattled once we got behind."

Floydada skips scrimmage here

The Hereford girls' basketball team was missing one key ingredient for its scrimmage Monday in Hereford: an opponent.

The team from Floydada never appeared, and Herd coach Eddie Fortenberry couldn't get in touch with anyone from Floydada to find out why.

The Hereford girls played an intrasquad scrimmage, consisting of six quarters of varying times. The White team won a thriller, 47-46.

It was unknown if the scrimmage would be rescheduled. The team has a second scrimmage tentatively scheduled for Saturday, but it may be canceled if the Hereford volleyball team plays a playoff match Saturday.

The Hereford boys' basketball team was to scrimmage Amarillo High at 5 p.m. today in Amarillo.

The Herd boys will host Dalhart and Muleshoe for a scrimmage Saturday.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (SWBT) has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) to restructure the current PLEXAR I and II service offerings. This restructure will significantly change PLEXAR I and II services.

The restructuring of PLEXAR I will, among other things: (1) reduce the maximum line size from 30 to 9; (2) obsolete and grandfather certain optional features; (3) eliminate the requirement to subscribe to Feature Package Two in order to subscribe to certain optional features; (4) reduce the nonrecurring and monthly rates of certain features; and (5) increase the nonrecurring charges for the PLEXAR I System Charge ($2.10 to $8.00), Call Transfer Disconnect feature ($3.00 to $8.00), and Convenience Dialing I feature ($6.35 to $8.00). All current PLEXAR I customers will have the option of keeping their current PLEXAR I service, switching to the new restructured PLEXAR I service, or switching to PLEXAR II service with ten or more lines.

The proposed PLEXAR II restructure will, among other things: (1) change the tariffed offering to serve the market segment of 10-74 stations; (2) create two station pricing structures, one for customers with 10-29 stations, and one for customers with 30-74 stations; (3) reduce the sensitivity for the loop portion of the rate to two price bands: 0-2 miles, and beyond 2 miles; (4) offer a PLEXAR II basic station that can be flexibly configured, from a number of standard features, to meet the individual customer requirements; (5) change the way the termination liability is calculated so the customer is responsible for 65% rather than 56% of the present worth of the remaining monthly payments in the contract; (6) create an option that allows month-to-month customers to convert to long term contracts of at least three years and receive a credit or "contract signing bonus"; and (7) establish a System Subsequent Change Charge which applies per serving central office when changes are made that affect the entire system.

Current PLEXAR II customers will also have the option of keeping their current PLEXAR II service, or switching to the new restructured PLEXAR II service. PLEXAR II customers with at least 75 stations also have the option of switching to PLEXAR Custom service in certain situations.

This application has been assigned Docket Number 13210. Persons who wish to comment on this application should notify the Commission by November 28, 1994. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or you may call the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 tele-typewriter for the deaf. Cowboys whip Giants; Harper may be lost

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys didn't get caught looking ahead to San Francisco. In fact, the New York Giants caught them in a fighting mood.

Emmitt Smith rushed for 163 yards and scored twice and Troy Aikman threw a touchdown pass and ran for another Monday night as the Cowboys won 38-10.

The two-time Super Bowl champions improved to 8-1, best in the NFL, with their 12th straight victory over an NFC East opponent.

The victory may have been a costly one for the Cowboys. Wide receiver Alvin Harper sprained his left knee just before the teams scuffled heading to the locker rooms for halftime, and owner Jerry Jones said the injury "didn't look good."

"It could be a tear and we're worried about him being out for the year," Jones said in the press box during the game. "The way the doctors were talking, I didn't like the way it sounded."

Dallas plays at San Francisco (7-2) next Sunday in an important game for playoff home-field advantage. But the Cowboys apparently weren't thinking about San Francisco as they handed the Giants (3-6) their sixth consecutive loss.

It was the first time the Giants had lost six straight games since 1980 under Ray Perkins. Dallas, which has won five consecutive times against New York, hadn't beaten the Giants this badly since a 52-7 romp in 1966.

Dallas put the game away quickly. Aikman and Smith took the Cowboys 95 yards in 10 plays for a 7-0 lead early in the first quarter. Smith ground out 58 yards on the drive, and Aikman finished it with a 17-yard pass to Michael Irvin and a 22-yard touchdown strike to Harper, who beat rookie Thomas Randolph.

Dallas traveled 80 yards in 13 plays for a second touchdown in the second quarter, highlighted by passes of 22 and 13 yards to fullback Daryl Johnston. The second completion put Dallas on the New York 6 and Smith scored from the 1. Smith joined Jim Brown as only the second player in NFL history to score 10 touchdowns a season in his first five years.

Dallas turned the game into a rout in the third period with Smith scoring on a 1-yard run after a 36-yard Aikman-to-Irvin pass. Smith rushed a franchise-high 35 times.

Kalka wins weekly football contest; Cowboys trip to be given this week

A week after tying for a win in the Hereford Brand Football Contest, Bernadette Kalka won outright in last week's contest.

She missed five out of 25 games and beat out two others with her tie-breaker prediction of Pampa 14, Hereford 6. The actual score was Pampa 10-0. Kalka will get $25 in Hereford Bucks for her efforts.

Earl Stagner and Noe Molina also missed five games, but Stagner picked Pampa in the tie-breaker (his score wasn't close), while Molina picked Hereford. Stagner gets $15 in Hereford Bucks for second place, while Molina gets $10 for third place.

Stagner and Molina also became eligible for this week's Grand Prize Contest, the winner of which wins a trip for two to see the Dallas Cowboys play the Washington Redskins Nov. 20 in Irving.

This week there will be two boxes in the entrance of the Brand offices at 313 N. Lee: one for the regular contest and one for the Grand Prize contest. Only persons who have finished first, second, or third in any of the 10 weeks of the contest are eligible for the Grand Prize contest.

Included in the trip are two tickets to the game, hotel accommodations, transportation and airplane tickets.

Elliott unhappy with Spurs' win

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A victory and a strong personal performance should have been a cause for celebration for San Antonio Spurs forward Sean Elliott.

Despite scoring 23 points Monday night in San Antonio's 105-96 win over New Jersey, Elliott clearly wasn't happy with how his team played.

"I'm a little bit disappointed because this was an ugly win for us," Elliott said. "It was a victory, but we're definitely not satisfied or playing where we think we should be. But I guess it's a lot better than being 0-2."

In other NBA games, Utah beat Atlanta 104-86 and Chicago beat Philadelphia 98-83.

I hope you all survived the ghost and goblins that were roaming around last week. The Friends of the Library had a booth at the Crime Stoppers carnival, and I would like to thank all of you popcorn lovers (and non-lovers) and bean bag tossers for their support. We had a great time.

I need to correct a statement that was made in my last article. The 10x13 Family Portraits that are available through the Friends of the Library will cost $5.00 not $15.00. Call now or come by to get your money saving coupon. Remember the pictures will be taken November 19th in the Heritage Room at the Library. The new book selection this week begins with The Intruders by Stephen Coonts. It is 1973 and the skies over Vietnam are silent, the Americans have pulled out and the war is over.

Lieutenant Jake Grafton looks forward to going home after two combat cruises and a harrowing "shoot-down" over Laos. Upon his arrival home, Jake finds the reception more than he can stand. When the first man called Jake a murderer, Jake walked away, but the next person wasn't as lucky. Jake the winner of the altercation ends up in jail, the looser is taken to the hospital.

Jake's shore-duty commander finds the perfect place for Grafton, an 8 month cruise on the aircraft carrier "Columbia" teaching Marines the nuances of carrier aviation. The Marines and the Navy are going to have to get along if they are to survive the take-offs and landings from slippery flight deck, on a choppy sea in the black of night. Coonts has once again captured the raw fear and exhilaration of military aviation and the "peacetime" warrior.

The 13th Juror by John T. Lesacrois is a courtroom drama featuring lawyer/investigator Dismas Hardy. Hardy's client Jennifer Witt stands accused of murdering her present husband, their 8 year old son, and her first husband. Jennifer's first husband had died nine years earlier from an apparent drug overdose. While preparing the case for the defense Dismas learns that both of Jennifer's husbands had physically abused her. Jennifer, innocent of the charges, refuses to allow a defense that presumes her guilty. Therefore Dismas must find an alternative truth that a jury can believe. As the trial progresses and the truth seems to change, bend to fade in and out of focus, Dismas knows that Jennifer's fate rests on her being able to convince the "13th juror" - the Judge.

Desperate Measures by David Morrell begins with Matt Pitman preparing his own suicide. The once famous journalist sees no sense in trying to put his life back together after an overwhelming tragedy. As Matt begins the final step on the phone rings. The caller is Matt's editor with an assignment, write an obituary of a man who is not dead yet. Matt completes the assignment and then finds himself accused of killing the man whose premature death notice he has written. Matt is so shocked to find himself a fugitive from both the police and the murderers that he forgets that he wanted to end it all. As he strives to find the real killers Matt discovers Jill Warren and a new reason to live as well as a conspiracy that was first formed during the Cold War.

The Pardon by James Grippando is a "stunning debut" featuring a brilliant Miami defense attorney Jack Swyteck. Jack has spent most of his life rebelling against his overpowering father who happens to be Governor Harry Swyteck. Jack has a petition on the Governor's desk asking for a stay of execution but the Governor refuses. Someone close to the executed man declares revenge and soon Jack is charged with murder and the Governor is facing political ruin. Father and son realize they cannot help the other without harming themselves. The final play raises the stakes even further.

Father's Day by John Calvin Batchelor takes place during the year 2003. The President is under attack, the Vice-President is hiding in the wings scheming and waiting. The military is like a vulture waiting. The focus is on the 25th amendment: Presidential vacancy, disability, and inability, the fourth-section. Therein it states if a disabled president seeks to return to office, the vice president, as acting president may block him with a palace coup. Two presidents, can America survive such a situation?

Northern Borders by Howard Frank Mosher which take you back to 1948. Six year old Austen Kittredge is sent by his widowed father to Lost Nation Hollow, Vermont to spend the summer with his grandparents. For the next 12 years life for the Kittredge family is filled with county fairs, one room schools, family secrets, conflicts, tragedies, and reunions. With a touch of humor, sadness, realism and fantasy the family's story "unfurls" like an heirloom quilt.

Kalymsky Heights by Lionel Davidson begins with a mysterious coded message reaching its destination in the U.S. It is believed to have come from the most remote gulag in northern Siberia. Johnny Porter must go to Siberia and find the author of the message and secure the information he has found. The tricky part will come when it is time to get back to America.

Future events are planned by club

Several upcoming events were discussed when members of the Wyche Family Community Education Club met Nov. 3 at the Hereford Community Center.

A Thanksgiving luncheon is planned at 12:30 p.m. Nov. 17 in the home of Louise Axe who has recently moved to Canyon. Also, Clara Trowbridge announced that the FCE quilt booth will be set up Saturday at the Community Center in conjunction with the annual Westway Bazaar. Tickets for the quilt to be given away are available from local FCE club members.

The annual Christmas party is scheduled Dec. 12 at K-Bob's Restaurant. During the party installation of officers will be held and a gift exchange will be conducted.

Carol Sartain led the FCE Prayer and the Pledge to the American and Texas Flags. For the opening exercise, Shirley Brown read a poem entitled, "Prayer for the Unruly Tongue."

Visiting guests included Dorma Kirby, who was also welcomed as a new member, and Maudette Smith, the guest speaker.

Roll call was answered by "the state and town in which I was born." Smith reviewed national and state dues for local FCE clubs and Argen Draper commented that the club now has 20 active members.

President Correen Odom called for volunteer hours stating that volunteers are needed to man the club's booth at the Westway Bazaar Saturday.

Discussing different realms of family life in her program, "F.A.M.I.L.Y.," Smith touched on various influences stemming from the home. She stated that building a democracy begins in the home as do lessons in leadership, education, abuse and drug abuse, as well as attitudes toward religion, crime, self-esteem and sexuality. She closed the program giving ideas to preserve family traditions by keeping diaries or scrapbooks and photo albums.

Vada Batterman and Shirley Brown served as hostesses. Members in attendance were Thelma Auten, Louise Axe, Mary Lou Aven, Vada Batterman, Shirley Brown, Argen Draper, Virgie Duncan, Marie Maxwell, Camelia Jones, Jo Lee, Dorothy Lundry, Carol Sartain, Correen Odom, Pet Ott, Audrey Rusher, Barbara Sterne and Clara Trowbridge.

Killer gets death reprieve

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP)—About four hours before his scheduled execution, an appeals court Monday night granted a stay to Texas death row inmate Jessel Turner.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals gave the reprieve about 8:15 p.m. Monday.

Turner had said he was "sloppy drunk," just wanted to get home and had no intention of killing a Houston taxi driver nearly nine years ago. However, prosecutors said the murder of Charles Hunter, and the theft of his wallet and his Yellow Cab, was the culmination of a crime spree that left another man shot, four women abducted and one of them raped.

Turner, 34, of Houston, faced lethal injection early Tuesday. It would have been the 12th execution of 1994 in Texas.

Attorneys in their appeal insisted someone else took the cab driver's wallet in the Feb. 10, 1986, slaying. State attorneys said Turner took the car, was arrested later and was found with the murder weapon.

"I was railroaded—that's what it all came down to," Turner complained in a recent interview.

Turner, who dropped out of school in the 12th grade and worked as a truck driver and in fast-food restaurants, said he and two cousins had planned to rob a dope house, were shooting a variety of drugs and drinking. He said he was carrying a .22-caliber pistol.

"We were acting crazy," he said. "We had robbed other people through the night but I was fed up, got out of our car and called to catch a cab to go home."

He said he passed out in the back of the taxi and the driver, Hunter, shook him to wake him up.

"He reached in and pulled out my pistol," Turner said. "He thought it was to rob him. He freaked out. That's when we started wrestling and the pistol went off."

Turner said that when the bullet hit Hunter, Hunter jumped out of the car. "It wasn't even a murder," he said, adding that he believed someone else killed Hunter and took the driver's wallet.

"I ... closed the door and took the cab to my apartment," he said. "When this all happened, the first inclination was to go home. Who's going to kill someone for a Yellow Cab?"

Court documents show Turner has given several different versions of what happened that night.

Turner was arrested a short time later driving another car. The murder weapon was found in the car.

He was accused but not tried on additional charges of kidnaping and robbery for earlier episodes in the crime spree. Prosecutors said a ring taken from one of the robbery victims was offered to the slain cab driver as payment for the ride.

The execution would be the 83rd in Texas since the state resumed capital punishment in 1982. The total is the highest in the nation.

American voter disenchantment may show up at polls

Electorate angry with politicians, tired of promises and spending

By SHARON COHEN
AP National Writer

They listened to months of name-calling. They watched weeks of nasty TV ads. Now America's voters are answering back in a symphony of disenchantment.

From a senior citizens center in Florida to a cramped office in Brooklyn to the open range of Texas farm country, voters are angry at insiders, but leery of outsiders, tired of promises, but yearning for deliverance.

They're wary of get-tough-on-crime talk, worried about health care and immigration and wondering, why, oh why, can't Congress balance its own checkbook the way everybody else does.

Just ask Bill Bryson, a 60-year-old farmer and rancher in Pilot Point, Texas, north of Dallas. He says he has learned the value of a dollar as one of nine children and just wishes the folks on Capitol Hill would, too.

"My dad always taught me it doesn't matter how much you make as long as you save some of it," he said, lifting a pail of grain to feed his prize-winning horses. "Congress could take that advice. No matter what they take in, they spend twice as much."

Bryson wouldn't say whether he intends to vote for Ann Richards, the Democratic governor he respectfully calls "Miss Ann," or her Republican opponent, George W. Bush. During the campaign, Richards attacked Bush as inexperienced and at one point referred to him indirectly as a "jerk."

Neither Bryson nor his wife of 34 years, Betty Dee, a retired social studies teacher, trusts politicians.

"I think they forget who elects them when they get up there," she said. "It's a situation of, 'If you scratch my back, I'll scratch yours.' It's more to get themselves in the limelight to further their own career."

Other voters, though, say the problem isn't that elected officials have turned their backs on voters, but just the opposite - they're too eager to please.

"I think sometimes congressmen are too responsive to voters," said Wallace Russell, 72, a resident of the University Retirement Center in Tampa, Fla. "They listen to phone calls, count up the pros and cons and decide the issue on popularity."

Take crime, for instance, and the crowd-pleasing pledges to crack down with new laws, longer sentences and more prison cells.

"What does toughness mean? Build more prisons?" asked Russell, a registered Democrat and former dean of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences at the University of South Florida. "I wonder if they think if 5 million (people) are in prison, we'll have no more problems."

Crime was the centerpiece of Florida's rancorous campaign for governor. An ad by Republican challenger Jeb Bush showed a distraught mother criticizing incumbent Democrat Lawton Chiles because her daughter's murderer was still on death row more than a decade after the crime. In fact, Chiles has had no chance to act on the case, which has been trapped in the courts.

Another Florida resident, Neil Paulson, a 39-year lawyer who specializes in personal injury cases, says he'd like to see roadside chain gangs to deal with crime, but quickly adds that elected officials can't solve all of society's problems.

"I think government has been stretched into every crevice imaginable, and it can't go any further," said Paulson, leaning back in a dark-leather executive chair in his downtown Orlando, Fla., office. "Hopefully it will do less in the future than it is doing now."

Still other voters say the answer isn't less government - but more. Johnny Deyesso, owner of a produce stand at Boston's Haymarket, worries about crime and health care and as a lifelong Democrat, he blames Republican leaders Bob Dole and Newt Gingrich for being obstructionists.

"I think right now the Republicans are holding everything back," said Deyesso, a "Cheers" cap shading his eyes from the bright autumn sun shining on stacks of pears and oranges.

"I need health care and I know I'm not going to get it unless we get the Democrats in there," he said, explaining that he is covered by Medicare because of a disability, but can't afford coverage for his wife.

Margaret Wacks, a 51-year-old Massachusetts doctor, blames the failure of health care reform on partisanship in Congress.

"Sometimes they don't even listen to what the legislation is," she said, fighting for balance while skating down a bike path in the upscale community of Lexington, Mass.

But, Clinton, too deserves the blame, said Wacks, who supported the president in 1992. "I think he made it much too complicated and he turned everyone off."

Don Catberro, owner of an auto repair shop on Chicago's far Northwest Side, said the president should be given credit just for tackling tough issues.

"Clinton is trying new things, even though some of them are unpopular and don't work," he said. "At least, he's making the attempt... Republicans and Democrats need to get together as a team. Do I really think it's going to happen? No. Not the way it should."

Despite all the nation's problems, one voter remains an optimist. Oleg Shapiro, a 34-year-old Russian Jew who emigrated to the United States at the age of 15, praises the country's democratic principles.

But the New Yorker is also worried about Proposition 187, a controversial ballot initiative in California that would punish illegal immigrants by denying them public services.

"Everybody in this country is from somewhere else," said Shapiro, sitting in the back office of his business, a private post office in the predominantly Russian community of Brighton Beach in Brooklyn.

"The reason this country has prospered and is what it is today ... is because of people who came here from all over and brought so much of their countries with them. That is why we will always be a step ahead."

Mud-splattered election could mean shift in control of U.S. Senate to GOP

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

In a mud-splattered midterm election, the American people were voting today on whether to give the nation a sharp change of direction. Worried Democrats - the party of activist government - feared they could lose control of the Senate, and Republicans reached for the House, too.

President Clinton, whose own unpopularity has been a drag for his party in many parts of the country, made a series of last-minute radio pitches for Democratic candidates today and urged all Americans to vote. He complained about the sour tone of many races, saying, "This is not the time for negativism. This is the time to be upbeat but aggressive in tackling our problems and meeting our opportunities."

"Don't turn back," he pleaded with voters in an exhaustive Minnesota-to-Delaware election eve swing before returning to Washington Monday night.

Everyone agreed that the uneasy mood of the voters favored the Republicans. For Democrats, the question was whether they could limit their losses.

The GOP hasn't controlled both the House and Senate in 40 years. Even if the Republicans fall short of that in today's balloting, they felt sure of blocking much of the Clinton agenda for the next two years of his presidency.

Even some Democratic Party titans - names like Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York and House Speaker Thomas Foley of Three die in chain reaction

MUNDY TOWNSHIP, Mich. (AP) - A tractor trailer slammed into freeway traffic stopped for President Clinton's motorcade, causing a fiery chain reaction that killed three people.

Six cars caught on fire in the Monday afternoon wreck and a mother and her infant and another woman died when they were trapped in their cars, police and witnesses said.

Washington - sweated out challenges by an untested generation of candidates. Part of that generation bears its own famous lineage - like Jeb and George W. Bush, former President Bush's sons who are running to oust incumbent governors in Florida and Texas, and Mitt Romney, Kennedy's opponent, the son of a former Michigan governor.

"We are on the verge of a Republican resurgence," said Roger Stone, a GOP strategist. Democratic Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia conceded that his party was at risk of heavy losses, saying the Democrats' chances of keeping Senate control were "no better than 50-50." Republicans needed to win seven Democratic seats to take control of the Senate.

Republican tactician Eddie Mahe optimistically commented, "The probability that we will have control of the Senate seems compelling, and it would not surprise any of us if we win control of the House. A few months ago, I believed that was impossible."

The Republicans needed to take 40 Democratic House seats to win control, installing the combative Newt Gingrich as speaker.

At stake this year were 36 governorships, with Republicans likely to claim the lion's share; 35 Senate seats; and 435 seats in the House, which hasn't been run by Republicans since President Dwight Eisenhower's first term.

Clinton spent eight hectic days on the campaign trail, describing today's vote as a choice "between hope and fear, tomorrow and yesterday."

The polls showed an unusually

"We have a massive mangled mess of wreckages and we've not been able to pull them all apart yet," state police Sgt. Dan Monroe said.

President Clinton, who spoke at the University of Michigan-Flint, issued a statement saying he was "deeply saddened."

Witnesses told WJRT-TV in Flint that the crash on Interstate 75 ignited at least four stopped cars and two cars on the truck, which was hauling automobiles.

large number of undecided voters - as many as one in five in the pivotal Pennsylvania Senate race, for example - reflecting the negative nature of the campaign, the costliest in history, often fought out in 30-second, finger-pointing commercials.

A late poll by ABC News, conducted Monday, put Clinton's job approval rating above 50 percent for the first time in months, up 4 percentage points in a week. But it also said that voters who called themselves dissatisfied or angry - and therefore more likely to vote - preferred Republican candidates in the House by a margin of 49-43 percent.

"Turnout is going to be the key," said Democratic strategist Don Foley.

A bad economy helped elect Clinton two years ago, but a strong economy did not seem to be working for the Democrats.

Clinton campaigned from Minnesota to Delaware on Monday, trying to translate the economic upturn into votes. "This country is in better shape than it was 21 months ago," he said everywhere he went.

But in many places, the economy - along with traditional issues such as abortion, health care and taxes - held no sway.

Instead, a conservative corps of Republican candidates made Washington itself the issue, campaigning against a government they said had become intrusive, expensive and irrelevant to people's lives.

"You will not find me producing a lot of new laws and regulations, that's for certain," pledged Michael Huffington, running against Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., and spending $27 million of his own money in the most expensive race in American history.

Another anti-government crusade was waged by Oliver North, noted for his defiance of congressional questioners during the Iran-Contra hearings. He is running against Sen. Charles Robb, D-Va., stained by his own personal behavior, and a third candidate, and he portrayed Robb as Clinton's lackey.
