No action taken as board discusses roof

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Construction dominated the discussions by the Hereford Independent School District board of trustees Tuesday as they met in a regular monthly session.

The meeting was rescheduled from Oct. 25 because of last week's Hereford-Dumas volleyball match.

The 3-1/2-hour session was marked by continued discussion of a roofing/air conditioning project at Shirley Intermediate School.

Two construction management firms appeared before the board to make presentations about their services and how they do business.

The board had requested last month that the school administration look into acting as its own general contractor on construction jobs such as that at Shirley and then hiring a management firm to oversee the work.

Representatives of King Consultants in Lubbock and DSA Management Co. in Cleburne were on hand.

The two made lengthy presentations, describing such things as how they work with school districts, how job bidding is handled and how they figure their charges for construction projects.

Because the presentations were made during the discussion agenda, no action could be taken.

However, during later discussions on the Shirley project, trustees decided to have school officials provide both companies with bid documents and specifications for the Shirley project and have both firms determine how much it would cost for them to handle such a job.

At a meeting last month, trustees rejected three bids that would have called for installation of a standing seam metal roof, a water chiller air conditioning system and new interior lighting and ceilings at the school.

The lowest bid presented was for $1,285,080 by Reynosa Construction.

Trustees had been anticipating the job could be done for about $950,000.

District architect Larry Harvey on Tuesday presented the board with a three-page letter outlining the Shirley project and options that could be taken to reduce the cost.

In the letter, Harvey notes that the board had already discussed whether or not to put a standing seam metal roof or a built-up modified bitumen roof on the school and decided to go with the metal roof.

However, following the Oct. 20 bid meeting, the board asked Harvey to again consider the costs of a modified bitumen roof.

While some trustees said they preferred the metal roof, which comes with a 30-year warranty, others argued that leaving air conditioners on the roof would affect that warranty, because large numbers of roof penetrations create more places for leaks to form.

Harvey pointed out that, when discussions first began in 1993 about a new roof at Shirley, removing air conditioning units from the roof was considered for aesthetic reasons. At that time, the district looked at the option of a water chiller system similar to that installed last year at the high school.

A new roof must be sloped to provide runoff for rain, and Harvey said air conditioners would show over the front parapet of the nearly 50-year-old building.

The air conditioners would show with either type of roof because of the required buildup.

However, he said Tuesday, it appears now the concern is with economics rather than aesthetics.

Discussions about the roof also extended to the boiler room when Harvey said the Ralls Independent School District got $35,000 in rebates when they installed heat pumps on the roof of one school there.

With the units -- one per classroom -- the old boiler was unnecessary for heating and was completely removed, with the resulting space used for a teacher workroom and storage.

No action was taken on the roofing project and Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt said he will ask if the management companies can be ready by the regular November meeting to talk about the project.

If not, it will be postponed until December, at which time an Energas-funded study of West Central and Tierra Blanca schools will be presented that could affect the Shirley project.

Roof inspection

Hereford ISD assistant superintendent Don Cumpston looks over one of the worst worn spots on the roof of Shirley Intermediate School Wednesday morning. The roof was a topic of discussion Tuesday night by school trustees, who have spent more than a year debating how to best replace the roof and air conditioning system. The district has decided to spend $3,800 to make repairs to the roof that will keep water out through the winter. The spot Cumpston is checking is over three classrooms and leaks whenever it rains.

CIA chiefs blamed for Ames case

WASHINGTON (AP) - CIA Director R. James Woolsey's response to the Aldrich Ames spy case has been "seriously inadequate," but his predecessors are ultimately to blame for the scandal, a Senate committee said Tuesday.

In a 117-page report, the Senate Intelligence Committee provided the most detailed description yet published of what it called a "disaster of unprecedented proportions," a setback that will take years to fully recover from.

Ames has admitted he betrayed more than 100 American and allied intelligence operations, the report said. He also knew about several hundred others that he may have compromised, but "he says he is unable to remember specifics."

While stating that Woolsey's disciplinary action against 11 senior managers for their handling of the Ames case was too mild given the seriousness of the problem, the committee made no suggestion that he should resign.

The report said Woolsey should be allowed more time to make the changes he has promised, including measures to strengthen the counterintelligence, or internal spy-catching, function that failed so miserably to detect Ames' treachery.

Noting that Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, is the only member of the Intelligence Committee to publicly call for his resignation, Woolsey said at a news conference in Pittsburgh on Tuesday that he had no intention of quitting.

Woolsey defended his decision to issue letters of reprimand to seven retired and four current CIA managers - but not to fire or demote anyone - for their failure to apply enough resources to the internal hunt for a Soviet mole.

"I believe my decisions were fair and just," Woolsey said. "We should put cases and decisions behind us and move on to the challenges of managing counterintelligence."

Crews reach crash site to recover bodies, clues

By ANTHONY JEWELL
Associated Press Writer

ROSELAWN, Ind. (AP) - Crews built a gravel road across a boggy soybean field Tuesday to help investigators reach bodies and clues in a commuter plane crash that killed all 68 people on board.

American Eagle Flight 4184 gave off a high-pitched whine of engines at full throttle as it streaked to the ground in a driving rain Monday en route to Chicago's O'Hare Airport.

National Transportation Safety Board spokesman Ted Lopatkiewicz refused to speculate on the cause of the crash. One witness said he saw the almost-new twin-engine propjet plunge toward the ground with a wing sheared off; Lopatkiewicz said he had no comment on that report.

Searchers found the plane's cockpit voice recorder and flight data recorder. Both were sent to Washington for analysis.

The conversation between the cockpit crew and the control tower in Aurora, Ill., didn't indicate anything abnormal, WLS-TV in Chicago reported, citing sources with the NTSB and the Federal Aviation Administration.

The pilot confirmed an order to descend to 8,000 feet, then the radio went silent, the station reported.

On Tuesday, the sun came out after a night of heavy rain, and crews brought in truckloads of gravel to put down a road. Investigators needed the 200-yard trail to overcome mud too deep even for four-wheel drive vehicles.

The barren field where the plane went down "smelled like a butcher shop," said Les Smith, who lives nearby. Searchers who made it through the muck on foot soon after the crash described small chunks of smashed airplane and pieces of bodies. The largest piece of plane was a 6-to-8-foot section of the tail.

"What we did see, we didn't like," said firefighter John Knapp. "There's not one body that's intact," said another firefighter, Jerry Cramer.

Gov. Evan Bayh stammered as he described what he saw from a helicopter. "There is a small crater there and the wreckage is strewn in a fairly close radius around the impact site," he said. "The destruction is complete."

The gymnasium of the North Newton High School, 15 miles from the crash site, was at first designated a morgue and officials planned to cancel classes for at least a week. They later decided to use a National Guard armory as the morgue to avoid disrupting the students' lives.

Officials hadn't begun removing bodies by evening.

It could take a week to a month to recover all bodies and debris, state police Sgt. Jerry Parker said.

The flight from Indianapolis to Chicago had been in a holding pattern about 60 miles southeast of O'Hare and was descending from 10,000 feet when it crashed.

Wind gusts to 49 mph in Gary, 30 miles north, at the time of the crash, but NTSB chairman Jim Hall said the weather alone wouldn't explain it.

Simpson case lawyers ready for next stage in choosing jury

By MICHAEL FLEEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Lawyers in the O.J. Simpson trial are prepared for one of their most crucial tasks: trying to pick a sympathetic jury.

Until now, would-be jurors have been removed for legal cause, which is a specific reason such as violating the judge's order to avoid all media. Starting today, attorneys can use their peremptory challenges to dismiss people without saying why.

"Some lawyers believe that the most important phase of any trial is selecting a jury," said law professor Peter Arenella of the University of California, Los Angeles. "A case can be won or lost at this point."

Peremptory challenges give prosecutors a chance to dismiss panelists who may be biased in favor of Simpson, an attractive, charismatic man who remains a sports legend. The defense hopes to remove prospects likely to accept the authorities' version of events.

Both sides will have an hour to ask general questions of the current batch of 42 potential jurors. Then the challenges begin, with each side alternating.

Each side has 20 challenges overall, so the current pool may not be large enough to select a panel of 12 jurors and eight alternates. Jurors from a second pool probably will have to be questioned.

Simpson is accused of murdering his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman. Opening arguments aren't expected until late this month or early December.

U.S. Supreme Court decisions forbid using peremptory challenges to dismiss jurors solely because of race or gender. Defense attorneys have complained that prosecutors are trying to keep blacks off the jury.

Twenty-six people in the current group - about 60 percent - are black, like Simpson. This is unusual because prospective jurors were culled from a county that is nearly 50 percent Hispanic and only about 10 percent black.

Some analysts also believe that gender may be as important as race.

Reception set Friday for retiring employees

Two Deaf Smith County employees with service totaling 46 years will be honored Friday at a reception noting their retirement.

Tex and Eva McKnight will be honored by their friends and co-workers from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Friday in Room 200 of the Deaf Smith County courthouse.

McKnight, Precinct 4 foreman, went to work for the county in November 1965 as a maintainer operator. He has been foreman for approximately 20 years.

Eva McKnight joined the sheriff's department in September 1977 as a secretary, later became chief dispatcher and is retiring as office manager and records clerk.

Friends of the McKnights are invited to attend the retirement reception.

The strange supplants the serious in this election season

By M. LANDSBERG
AP National Writer

Things are getting strange out on the campaign trail. A Hawaiian congressional candidate has vanished. A bank robber is running for the Legislature in Montana. A dead man is likely to be re-elected in West Virginia.

And around the country, more than one candidate is making this promise: "Elect me. I'll resign."

Putting aside the serious issues in next Tuesday's election - whether more Bush offspring will be elected than Kennedys; whether Californians will make their state nanny-free - 1994 has had more than its share of political oddities.

Take Alaska. (Please.) While voters there have been enthralled by the quadrennial debate over whether to move the state capital from Juneau to someplace colder, a real issue has taken root in the race for governor.

Republican Jim Campbell, who is partly bald (this is actually relevant), is attacking Democrat Tony Knowles for, among other things, having "good hair" like President Clinton.

Does this mean that Knowles gets his hair cut on airport runways by someone named Christophe? That hasn't emerged as an issue so far; this being politics, it's probably too early to rule it out.

Nor has Knowles retaliated yet by comparing Campbell to former President Ford. There's time for that, too.

From Alaska to Alabama, negative campaigning is the favored tactic this year. But some candidates are willing to balance the attacks with some references to their own qualifications.

For instance, Joseph Brennan, a Democratic candidate for governor in Maine, says he has "more experience with firearms than any other gubernatorial candidate."

Specifically, Brennan, an Army veteran, has attested to his competence with machine guns and bazookas.

This has prompted some chuckling in Maine - cartoons of Brennan in full combat regalia and so forth. But seriously, with weapons like that, who needs the line-item veto?

There is one tactic taking hold this year that is harder to categorize as negative or positive. What do you say about someone who promises to quit if elected?

In Sheridan County, Mont., Mary Nielsen is running for assessor with the slogan: "Elect me. I'll resign."

There is some logic to this. The Montana Legislature abolished the duties of county assessors last year, but Sheridan County missed the deadline for abolishing the post locally.

Nielsen, a Republican, says she could save the county $117,000 in salary and benefits over her four-year non-term.

In Texas, State Treasurer Martha Whitehead is looking to abolish not only her job, but her entire agency. In a TV commercial, her image slowly vanishes as she intones: "Fewer bureaucrats, less waste, starting with me."

Ohio County, W.Va., Commissioner Jack Fahey claims somewhat less altruistic motives. He says he's fed up with being a commissioner; election officials say it's too late for him to get off the ballot.

"If people are foolish enough to vote for me when I don't want to serve, then that means I will resign," he says.

Who knows? In a year of anti-incumbency, it may be the ultimate campaign strategy.

In Hawaii, Republican congressional candidate Robert Garner has issued no ultimatum - or anything else. He has disappeared.

Garner defeated two opponents in the Sept. 17 primary to take on Democrat Patsy Mink. That was about the last anyone heard from him.

state Delegate Odell Huffman stands a good chance of being re-elected, which wouldn't be much of a story except that he committed suicide last month.

Then there's Lennie Thompson, a Democratic nominee for state House in Montana. Thompson volunteered at a candidates' forum last spring that his resume included a stint as a bank robber.

He had, in fact, served 2-1/2 years for robbery in Washington state in the late 1970s. "There's nothing to be gained by trying to hide something in your past," he said. "My past is not who I am today."

As a campaign slogan, that should do in this era of diminished expectations. Still, it doesn't quite have the ring of "Elect me. I'll resign."

Then again, what does?

Cloudy skies ahead

Record-setting high temperatures in the Panhandle Tuesday may abate with clouds moving in Wednesday night and Thursday. Hereford's high of 83 degrees Tuesday fell short of a record, reports KPAN. Low Wednesday morning was a balmy 54 degrees. The low Thursday morning is expected to top out in the upper 40s and a high temperature in the mid-70s will prevail Thursday with southwest wind, at 15-25 mph and gusty.

Immunization schedule noted

The Texas Department of Health has announced its November immunization clinic schedule for Hereford. Vaccines against polio, diphtheria, lockjaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis), measles, rubella, mumps and HIB (hemophilus influenzae type B) will be offered. The Texas Department of Health charges to help with the cost of keeping the clinic open. Charges are based on family income and size and the ability to pay. Regular clinics will be held from 7 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. The clinics will be on Thursday, Nov. 3, then Nov. 10 and 17 in the Health Department offices, 205 W. Fourth St., Suite B.

Trustees approved a waiver request for two kindergarten classes. "For the first time since I've been here we have two kindergarten classes that exceed the 22-1 class size," Greenawalt said, noting that the Texas Education Agency requires a waiver even though both classes have 23 students. The waiver would only cover this semester, although Greenawalt said the oversize classes should be eliminated next semester by normal movement of students. Trustees approved a policy regarding the security personnel and peace officers that reflects the new School Resource Officer in place this year. Greenawalt also noted that the presence of Officer Randy Stribling has enabled the department to hire just two officers to work the high school at lunch. The district 1994-95 textbook committee was approved with representatives from areas that will be receiving new books next year. The committee will make recommendations on the new books, but Greenawalt said all teachers will have the opportunity to review the texts. Members of the committee and their subject areas are:

Zipper was long time coming, and staying

By CALVIN WOODWARD
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) - Robert Friedel had folks checking their flies at the National Archives, but not for the usual reason. They were simply admiring that oft-maligned marvel of American ingenuity, that humble friend of fashion, that "instrument for allure and seduction" - the zipper. Friedel, author of the new book "Zipper," has a passion for the classic American success story behind the ubiquitous fastener. All the elements are there: ingenuity, diligence, marketing wizardry, sex appeal and now foreign ownership. What sets the zipper apart, Friedel told a lecture crowd at the Archives on Tuesday, was the mismatch between effort and results. While, by comparison, development of the telephone and the electric light bulb proceeded apace, engineers were stuck on the zipper for decades. Long after Whitcomb L. Judson of Chicago got his 1893 patents for crude zipper-like shoe fasteners, engineers devoted much sweat and countless crossed eyes to something a buttoned-up world didn't really need. "Zippers are undoubtedly very handy things; but as their makers discovered very quickly, they do not do something that cannot be done in some other, often simpler (if less convenient) way," says Friedel, who teaches the history of science and technology at the University of Maryland.

For much of the zipper's first 40 years, he says, it was mainly "a badly flawed gimmick," so flimsy it had to be removed from clothing for each washing, a clunky jumble always ready to jam or fall apart. First came a zipper with hooks and eyelets, then ribs and grooves. Finally came an effective hookless contraption designed by Swedish emigre Gideon Sundback of the Hookless Fastener Co. of Meadville, Pa. Patented in 1917, it had the "bumps nesting in the hollows" that distinguish the modern zipper. People still didn't want it. Not until the mid- to late-1930s did zippers begin to catch on in clothing - as symbols of futurism and eroticism, and the subject of back-seat groping. Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World," published in 1932, was filled with zippers. Zippers were featured in a pantomime striptease in the 1940 musical "Pal Joey," and Rita Hayworth sought male help in unzipping her dress in "Gilda." "With remarkable speed, the zipper established itself as the instrument for allure and seduction, whether private or public," Friedel said. The imagery got steamier as the years went on. "Ahh. Little alligators of ecstasy, that's what zippers are," Wiggs Dannyboy said in Tom Robbins' 1984 book, "Jitterbug Perfume."

Punitive cheer

Hereford Police DARE Officer Terry Brown, clad in curly wig, scarf and poodle skirt, gives a cheer to students at Bluebonnet Intermediate School on Tuesday after he was "convicted" by students of two counts of abusing the DARE Bear. Brown's first conviction was for stuffing the DARE Bear in the trunk of his car, the second for leaving it face-down in the floorboards of the DARE van. For his punishment, Brown had to dress like a cheerleader and give a cheer, followed by a cartwheel.

Suit alleges negligence

A lawsuit filed in 222nd District Court in Deaf Smith County seeks damages for alleged negligence of personnel at a Hereford nursing home. Plaintiffs in the suit are Mary Helen Morgan and Marguerite Helen West. Defendant is Trillium Hereford, Inc., operating as Hereford Care Center. The suit states that Plaintiff West was a resident of Hereford Care Center when she allegedly was sexually assaulted by a resident of the center. "The occurrence was a direct and proximate result of the negligence of Defendant and its agents, servants, and employees, including, but not limited to, negligent security and segregation of the patients of Hereford Care Center," the suit alleges. Although no specific monetary figure is mentioned in the suit, plaintiffs are seeking damages in excess of minimums available in district court jurisdiction.

The family has requested that memorials be directed to the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association.

20-year high turnout of voters expected in governor's race

AUSTIN (AP) - Voter turnout in this year's race for Texas governor will be the highest it's been since the office went to four-year terms in 1974, Secretary of State Ronald Kirk said Tuesday. Kirk projected that 55 percent of registered voters will go to the polls. This year's projection was hailed by supporters of Democratic Gov. Ann Richards and Republican challenger George W. Bush, who are locked in a statistical dead heat. "That can't be anything but good news for us ... It shows that Texas voters know how important this election is and they clearly differentiate between Ann Richards working hard for the people of Texas and George Bush's lack of qualifications," said Harold Cook, director of Unity '94, the Democrats' coordinated election effort. Bush spokesman Reggie Bashur disagreed, calling it "great news" for his candidate. "George W. Bush has been talking about issues of importance for the people of Texas. Hopefully, that has had a large measure in building interest in the election," he said. Kirk, the state's chief election officer and a Richards appointee, said preliminary early voting numbers helped prompt his prediction that turnout will be higher than 1990's 50.5 percent. That year, Richards faced Republican Clayton Williams in a hard-fought, colorful race that included him making a joke about rape. This year's race hasn't included such a gaffe. But more people have voted early this time, according to the secretary of state's office. Turnout has increased since 1974, when the state changed from two-year to four-year governor's terms and gubernatorial elections were moved to non-presidential election years. Just under 31 percent of registered voters cast ballots that year. By the 14th day of this year's early-voting period, which began Oct. 19, 356,158 Texans had voted in Texas' top 10 counties, ranked by voter registration population. In the same time period in 1990, according to Kirk's office, 248,701 had voted. Overall, 452,766 people have either voted in person or by mail in the top 15 counties, according to Kirk's office. He said that 30 percent of those who vote do so early, and that many are motivated because polling sites are being put in high-traffic areas. "I'm hopeful that the voters of Texas will continue the trend they have set thus far in early voting. Your vote is your voice," Kirk said. The number of registered voters also is at a high of 8,641,723, according to Kirk's office. The previous number of registered voters and turnout in gubernatorial elections include: in 1990, 7,701,449, 50.5 percent; 1986, 7,287,173, 47.2 percent; 1982, 6,414,988, 49.7 percent; 1978, 5,681,875, 41.7 percent; and 1974, 5,348,393, 30.9 percent. In 1972, which was a presidential and gubernatorial election year, 89.6 percent of the 3,872,000 registered voters went to the polls.

Richards, Bush stay in dead heat for job

HOUSTON (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards and GOP challenger George W. Bush remain in a dead heat as the Nov. 8 election draws near, but the incumbent Democrat is gaining some momentum, according to a poll published today. The poll, conducted for The Houston Post and Houston television station KHOU, found that Richards was favored by 46.76 percent of voters or likely voters. Bush was favored by 43.94 percent. The survey included 517 voters and likely voters and was conducted Oct. 22-27. The margin of error is 4 percent, making Richards' slight lead statistically insignificant. A Houston Post-KHOU poll conducted in September also had the two in a virtual tie, but with Richards then holding a 1.6-point lead compared to her current 2.8-point advantage. In Harris County, the state's most populous, Bush has lost a 2.5-point advantage he held in September, according to the poll. Richards now leads in the county by 1.6 points. The most recent poll, supervised by Rice University political scientist Bob Stein, was conducted before Ross Perot's endorsement of Richards on Tuesday. However, 74 percent of the respondents said an endorsement from Perot would make no difference in their vote. Only 9.9 percent said backing from Perot would make them more likely to vote for a candidate, while 13.3 percent said it would make them less likely to support the candidate. The poll found runaway races for other statewide posts. Republican U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison led Democratic challenger Richard Fisher 55.72 percent to 28.03 percent statewide. Incumbent Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock held a commanding lead - 56.72 percent to 16.07 percent over Republican Tex Lezar statewide. Democratic Attorney General Dan Morales was supported by 49.91 percent in the latest poll, compared with 20.69 percent for Republican state District Judge Don Wittig. Asked about the poll during a San Marcos campaign stop Tuesday, Richards said she has sensed a shift in her direction. "I have seen a real shift and turnaround about the past 10 days to two weeks. You can't define what it is, but I think experience makes a lot of difference," she said. Bush, meanwhile, said he was undaunted by the findings. "I'm very confident of victory if my people vote," Bush said. "I think that's what that poll says."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a single father who recently had the pleasure of taking my 4-year-old daughter to her first major league football game. A problem arose when I needed to visit the bathroom. It suddenly occurred to me that it was no simple matter.

I didn't feel comfortable taking "Alice" into the men's room, especially while I was using it, and I certainly could not go into the women's room. Leaving my daughter outside while I went into the men's room was likewise unacceptable.

What do you suggest under the circumstances? I'm sure many single parents have faced this same dilemma. What's your solution?--Nowhere to Go In N.Y.

DEAR NOWHERE IN N.Y.: Stadiums and ballparks have security guards. You could instruct your daughter to stand by the guard and wait for you and, of course, thank him for keeping an eye on her. I'm sure it would not be the first time the guard's cooperation was sought for this purpose. Under no circumstances should you ever leave your child alone in a public place.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you use one more wedding-ring story? I promise you this one will be a little different.

"Sweetie" and I were both born in 1910. In 1940, she was teaching in a small town high school. I was considered a good solid ranch cowboy. When our wedding day was close at hand, I was prepared to buy her a ring. I asked her what kind of stone she wanted, and she said, "Don't buy me a ring, please, dear, let's take that money and buy a cow instead."

Now, 54 years later, Ann, we own a ranch here in central Kansas. With our son, we have 300 to 400 cattle year 'round, all raised by us, and the blood from that first cow is in the herd today.

P.S. Some time after our wedding, I surprised Sweetie with a nice diamond ring. She seldom wore it, and God knows where it is today. When the good Lord gave me a wife, he picked the best one he had. Just sign me--Grateful in Kansas

DEAR KANSAS: What a beautiful love story. I don't know when I've read a lovelier one. Thank you for a genuine upper.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter from the grandmother who wanted to raise her grandson because the boy's mother was so incompetent was the last straw. Has it ever occurred to anyone to ask who raised that incompetent mother? If the grandmother did such a lousy job with HER child, why should she be given the opportunity to screw up another generation?

Don't get me wrong, Ann. I have six grandchildren. If some disaster should befall their parents that would prevent them from taking care of the children, I would certainly accept the responsibility of nurturing my grandchildren.

I feel, however, that grandparents were not meant to rear children. They have done their tour of duty and deserve the luxury of resting on their laurels.--Marina Del Rey, Calif.

DEAR MARINA: I agree. Mother Nature knew what she was doing when she cut off the childbearing years in the early 40s.

While the older moms may have the wisdom and patience born of experience, they often lack the physical stamina.

Gem of the Day: Diamonds are only chunks of coal that stuck to their jobs.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Motown Records founder Berry Gordy wants people like himself to hear his story from his own lips. Literally.

That's why he released his autobiography, "To Be Loved - The Music, the Magic, the Memories of Motown," on audiotape as well as in print.

"It's a little more interesting because it reaches the kids or people like me," Gordy said Thursday. "I was a high school dropout, and I didn't like to read intellectual books."

Gordy's book is rich in anecdotes about his rise, like the time he had to decide whether to abandon a promising boxing career for music.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - If Michael Jackson and Lisa Marie Presley throw a first anniversary party, don't expect Christopher Anderson on the guest list.

Anderson, who wrote "Michael Jackson: Unauthorized," claims the marriage is a fraud, designed to help Presley's singing career and fend off allegations that the Gloved One is a pedophile.

"This marriage won't last another six months," Anderson said Wednesday as he plugged his book.

"Lisa Marie wants to get her career off the ground. She wants a mentor. And of course, he gets to conceal his sexuality," he said.

Jackson settled a lawsuit by a teen-ager accusing him of molestation, but vehemently denies the allegations. Police decided not to charge him.

As for the Anderson book, which hit bookstores Monday, Jackson publicist Lee Solters said, "we're just ignoring it."

The Emancipation Proclamation of 1863 declared slaves free in the Confederate states still in rebellion. It wasn't until the ratification of the 13th amendment in December of 1865 that slavery was entirely abolished throughout the United States.

Dumas claims top seed with win over Herd

Hit it hard

Hereford's Danielle Cornelius prepares to hit the ball against the blocks of Dumas' Jenny Robinson (31) and Jill Beesley (21), as Heather Hodges looks on. Dumas beat Hereford 15-13, 15-9 in a playoff seeding match Tuesday in Amarillo.

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Dumas swept two games from Hereford Tuesday in Amarillo to lay claim to the No. 1 playoff seed from District 1-4A. The Demonettes overcame early Hereford leads in both games to win 15-13, 15-9 in the Amarillo High Activity Center.

Hereford and Dumas were declared co-champions of District 1-4A when both closed out district play Saturday with records of 11-1. Overall, Hereford fell to 26-6 Tuesday while Dumas improved to 23-6.

Hereford will enter the playoffs against Monahans at 6 p.m. Saturday at Monterey High School in Lubbock. The match will be in the second round of the playoffs; Hereford and Dumas both get first round byes because District 2 is vacant. Monahans, the champion of District 4-4A, beat El Paso High 15-5, 15-7 in a bi-district match Tuesday.

Dumas gets Andrews, the 4-4A runner-up, after Andrews defeated El Paso Parkland, 15-3, 15-3, on Monday.

Although most Hereford-Dumas matches are huge, this latest meeting didn't seem as intense as previous ones. It was over in two games, taking barely an hour. The crowd was relatively small; neither side of the gym was filled.

The main disadvantage to losing is that Hereford will have to face Granbury if both win Saturday. Granbury, which has given Hereford a tough test the last two years in the playoffs, appears to be the best team in the region outside of District 1-4A.

"We're disappointed in losing, without a doubt," Herd coach Brenda Reeh said, "but we're not devastated to the point that we're not able to focus on Saturday."

Hereford led the first game early, as Deanna McCracken opened the match with an ace. Hereford led 4-0 when mistakes starting giving Dumas points, five of them. Dumas stretched its lead to 8-5 on good plays of their own: a stuff, a kill and an ace.

Hereford tied it up on two kills by Danielle Cornelius and an ace by Aimee Alley. After seven scoreless rotations, Dumas took a 10-8 lead on a pair of Hereford errors, then went up 12-9 on two Jenny Robinson kills.

Hereford kept up with Dumas. Hitting errors gave Dumas its 13th point, but Hereford tied it back up on two Dumas hitting errors, 13-13.

Dumas won it soon after. Herd setter Britney Binder tried to dump a pass over the net, but hit the net instead. A kill by Robinson ended the game.

Early in the second game, Hereford scored once each on four rotations, but Dumas stormed back to take a 5-4 lead with four points in a row. Consecutive Robinson kills made it 7-5, then three Hereford errors in a row stretched Dumas' lead to 11-6.

A Hereford hitting error and two kills by Mindy Ratliff pushed the lead to 14-7. Hereford stayed alive, and two more aces by McCracken got Hereford back to 14-9, but Robinson responded with two kills: one for a sideout and one especially powerful

New baseball league planned

NEW YORK (AP) - For the first time in eight decades, the major leagues might have some competition.

Organizers of the United League promised Tuesday to put 10 teams on the field by 1996.

"We're not here to prod the establishment and we're not here to replace it," co-founder Dick Moss said. "We're here to coexist with it. We will compete, just as Ford competes with General Motors."

Sitting on a dais before their logo-a batter inside a globe-organizers criticized current major league owners for their lack of minority hiring and conflict with the players association.

"Every sports league in this country had been controlled by a bunch of rich, white guys," said Bob Mrazek, a co-founder who was a five-term congressman from New York.

"We will offer a level of play which is comparable to major league baseball. We will build our success on a philosophy of true partnership. Our plans call for sharing and equity sharing arrangements with our players and our host cities."

No cities were identified Tuesday. The management group that will launch the league cited about 20 possibilities in the United States, saying it hoped to choose eight, plus one each from Canada and Mexico.

UL organizers hope to sell 10 franchises at $5 million each.

"Puerto Rico and San Pedro de Macoris (Dominican Republic) and Taiwan. We are not limited to just the United States," said former major league Curt Flood, who is involved in the UL management group. "It'll be a very high caliber, high class of competition. We're not concerned about major league baseball. I even feel uncomfortable mentioning them along with us. We want to exist as an alternative league with them."

Eagles' QB, Cards' Ryan settled differences

By JOHN F. BONFATTI
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Randall Cunningham said he won't have anything to say to Buddy Ryan this week as the Philadelphia Eagles prepare to take on their old coach. Cunningham said all he had to say to Ryan in a letter he wrote to his former coach. He wouldn't provide details of the letter, except to say he explained to Ryan he had nothing to do with his being fired by the Eagles in 1991.

"We never really got to talk about the situation with him getting fired here," Cunningham said. "I was a scapegoat and everything. Through my letter, I explained that I didn't try to get him fired or anything like that. That's the bottom line." Ryan was fired following the 1990 season by then-owner Norman Braman after Ryan yanked Cunningham in favor of then-Eagles, now-Cardinals backup Jim McMahon for one series in the Eagles' 20-6 playoff loss to the Washington Redskins.

Ryan, defensive coordinator of the Houston Oilers before taking the Arizona head coaching job this season, said Tuesday he had received the letter "two or three months ago" and that he knew Cunningham wasn't behind his dismissal as Eagles coach.

"He had a lot to say in the letter. It was a very nice letter," Ryan said.

The Eagles (6-2) had Tuesday off. Cunningham made his statements Monday as Eagles players began talking about their first game against Ryan, who led Philadelphia to three playoff berths and a 43-35-1 record from 1986-90.

Cunningham at first said he wouldn't talk about the Cardinals (3-5). "I don't want things turned around, so it's best for me not to say anything about them."

Then he spoke briefly. "I'll say one thing about Buddy Ryan. He's a great coach. I respect him. I sent him a letter. I have all the respect in the world for him and his coaching staff."

Pressed to talk about the letter, Cunningham refused. "The thing is, my point is, he knows how I feel about him."

The Eagles seemed to go out of their way to avoid fueling the publicity engine that certainly will go into overdrive as Ryan and a number of former Eagles - including Clyde Simmons, Seth Joyner and Andre Waters - return to Philadelphia with the Cardinals.

Simmons, Joyner and Waters were key members of the hard-hitting defense Ryan built for the Eagles. The year after he left, Philadelphia led the NFL in rushing and passing defense.

Even linebacker Byron Evans - a Phoenix native, friend and former teammate of Simmons, Joyner and Waters, and the wearer of a Cardinals baseball cap during the offseason - was low-key.

Evans said he has "100 percent respect" for Ryan, whom he said, "believed in me when no one else believed in me."

"Coach Ryan is coach Ryan," Evans said. "He plays head games with other people and if you feed into it, then he has you where he wants you."

Center Dave Alexander admitted it was "going to be strange going against him."

"It's going to be different," Alexander added. "It's going to be strange playing across Clyde and Seth in those Cardinal uniforms. It's going to seem strange until we get into the flow of the game."

Wide receiver Fred Barnett said he and safety Waters "always talked about playing against each other, so that is going to be fun."

Cornerback Eric Allen and Waters were longtime roommates. "We both studied meticulously. We tried to get any edge we could. We'd check out signals on the sidelines and try to get them."

Rich Kotite, the former Eagles offensive coordinator who was elevated to head coach when Ryan was fired, vowed he wouldn't get "sucked in" to the media hype that will surround the game.

He said he told his team it can't avoid the hype but to remember that "you are the people who cannot get involved with it. You have to concentrate and focus."

Cowboys' Harper making big plays

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - The ball floated to the goal line where two Cincinnati Bengals and Alvin Harper waited. It was no contest. For the Bengals.

Harper jumped between the pair of defenders and somehow came down with the ball for a touchdown. Then he dunked it over the 10-foot-high crossbar on the goal post.

"I'm not sure how he made that catch," quarterback Troy Aikman said. "I was on the ground and didn't get to see it until later. I was impressed. But Harp does that a lot."

Harper had six catches for 125 yards in a 23-20 victory over the Bengals and his fifth touchdown of the season, a career high. He has become just as deadly a weapon on the Dallas team as Jay Novacek or Michael Irvin.

Harper has had a touchdown or a reception of at least 35 yards in eight consecutive Cowboys games.

"I told Troy to just start throwing the ball and I'd make the play," Harper said. "He did and I did. Teams double Michael a lot and I want to convince Troy to just throw the ball up there. I'll get it."

Harper, often the Cowboys forgotten receiver because of spectacular Michael Irvin, has been on a big play binge. It couldn't come at a better time. He'll be an unrestricted free agent next year.

"I think I can play a major role on any team," Harper said. "I'm trying to prove that this year. Just get the ball to me."

Harper, a high jumper in college, signed a one-year contract for $886,000. He said he would like to stay with the Cowboys.

However, there could be salary cap problems because Irvin also becomes a free agent next season.

"I'm not sure what the Cowboys plans will be but sure I'd like to keep playing here," he said. "I'd like to be getting six balls or so a game instead of two. It's been great so far this year. I'm getting a lot of passes thrown my way."

Owner Jerry Jones said he will cross the free agent bridge with Harper when he comes to it next year.

"We could have traded him on draft day last year and decided not to do it," Jones said. "It was a wise decision."

Harper, a first-round draft choice out of Tennessee in 1991, is the NFL's all-time leader in yards per catch in the postseason. He has averaged 25.4 yards per catch, surpassing Willie Gault's average of 23.7 yards every time he caught a ball.

"I think I've proved I can make the big play," Harper said. Last Sunday he did.

Oilers' owner mulls coaching change

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oilers owner Bud Adams isn't ruling out the possibility of making coaching changes during the season, although he'd prefer playing out the season with Coach Jack Pardee and his staff.

"If they are playing hard, you can't fault them because they are doing the best they can," Adams said. "But I will make changes if the players start to lose confidence and give up."

"I'm going to blame the staff for that, and I will think about doing something. You can't sit around and let that continue.

"You would have to think about making some kind of change. But I've always felt it is usually counterproductive to change coaches in the middle of a season."

The Oilers will take a 1-7 record into Sunday's game against Pittsburgh in the Astrodome. They've lost four games in a row and rank last in the NFL in scoring.

"I'm not committed to anything," Adams said. "I don't know what you do if you get rid of them. You go into a lame-duck coaching situation.

"Certainly I would like to see them get more offense, but so far the team is still playing hard. They haven't given up."

Adams is particularly unhappy with the run-and-shoot offense and with assistant head coach Kevin Gilbride. Adams has pushed Gilbride, who is in charge of the offense, to move away from the run-and-shoot.

"We can't do the same things we did in the past. We don't have the personnel to run it," Adams said. "I just don't think the run-and-shoot offense works anymore. Teams are able to defend it now. They have figured out what to do against it."

"It's no secret to what we are doing. You put four guys out there and try to find one open."

Adams met with Pardee and Gilbride three weeks ago and insisted they use more of their tight end alignment but the Oilers have remained primarily with the four-wide receiver offense.

"I think Kevin has his mind made up on that (using run-and-shoot) and I told him I thought it was wrong," Adams said. "I talked to Kevin that one time with Jack. I told him we had to do something different."

Maddux leads AP all-star team

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
Greg Maddux was picked for the third straight year and Cal Ripken Jr. made it for the sixth time overall on the major league all-star team chosen Tuesday by The Associated Press.

Jeff Bagwell and Frank Thomas, who won MVP honors last week, each made AP's 12-member team. The Cleveland Indians, with Albert Belle and Carlos Baerga, and the Baltimore Orioles, with Ripken and Lee Smith, both placed two players.

The team, which includes three pitchers and a designated hitter, was selected by a nationwide poll of 58 sports writers and broadcasters. The AP has chosen a combined all-star team since 1982.

Several ballots reflected frustration about the strike-shortened season. One voter wrote "Mr. Greedy" for each position while another listed various team owners, union officials and negotiators for each spot, saying those were the only names he remembered from this year.

The AP team included Bagwell at first base, Baerga at second base, Ripken at shortstop, Matt Williams at third base and Mike Piazza at catcher.

Ken Griffey Jr., Tony Gwynn and Belle were in the outfield and Thomas was the designated hitter. Maddux was the right-handed starting pitcher, Jimmy Key was the left-handed starter and Smith was the reliever.

Felipe Alou of the Montreal Expos was chosen Monday as AP's manager of the year. The AP's player of the year will be announced Wednesday.

Maddux was a near-unanimous winner as the right-handed starting pitcher. The Atlanta Braves ace, who recently won his record third consecutive Cy Young Award after going 16-6 with a 1.56 ERA, was named on 57 of 58 ballots. Bret Saberhagen of the New York Mets got the other vote.

Maddux's streak of three straight selections is the longest among current players. Thomas, Williams and Piazza were picked for the second consecutive year.

Williams (55), Piazza (50) and Griffey (49) were among the other top vote-getters.

The closest vote was at DH, where Thomas got 12 votes and Paul Molitor received 11. Thomas played only 12 games at DH for the Chicago White Sox this season, but several voters put him at that spot after listing Bagwell ahead of him at first base.

Bagwell, who beat out Thomas 30-25 at first base in the AP voting, hit .368 with 39 home runs for the Houston Astros. He led the majors in RBIs (116) and slugging percentage (.750) before being sidelined by a broken hand Aug. 10, two days before the strike.

Burkeville RB hits 2,000 yards in eight games

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer

The frustrating thing about tracking Burkeville's Jeff Spikes is that his dominance of Class A leaves followers wondering how good he could be at another level.

Spikes continued leaving high school football fans guessing last weekend by running for his third straight 300-yard game to reach the 2,000-yard mark for the season in just eight games.

His 307 yards and five touchdowns on just eight carries - an eye-popping average of 38.4 yards per carry - in a 72-0 victory over Chester earned Spikes top billing on The Associated Press high school honor roll for the second time this season.

"A lot of people don't think he could do as good in 3A or 4A," coach Roy Harper said. "But he proved himself last year and this year he's even better."

"This year, he's running behind a whole new line. All our kids are first-year linemen. And he's still got better numbers than last year. That shows you he's a whole lot better than people say."

For the year, Spikes has 2,074 yards and 25 touchdowns on 110 carries. He's averaging 18.9 yards a carry and he's had four 300-yard games, including a 356-yarder against Merryville, La.

In his worst game, he ran 18 times for 139 yards and a touchdown against West Sabine.

"Our district is really not that strong," Harper said. "He could be getting even bigger numbers, but we have to pull him each week so we don't run up the score and we still end up blowing them out."

For his career, Spikes has 6,658 yards and 82 touchdowns on 484 carries, making him the fourth-best 1A rusher in Texas history. He's only 603 yards from becoming second-best and Burkeville already has clinched a playoff spot.

Numbers like that are bound to draw attention from colleges, even if Spikes plays in a small town in far East Texas.

"A lot of schools been calling and sending mail," Harper said, listing Texas A&M and Stephen F. Austin as two of the colleges. "The way they're talking to me, they're interested in him."

Division I-A teams have had some success with players who dominated small classes, a good recent example being Rodney Thomas of A&M. He set national marks while leading Groveton from 1987-90 and he's been solid with the Aggies.

The thing about Spikes is that at 5-foot-9, 165-pounds, his dominance can't be simply attributed to his size. He is in no way bullying smaller defenders for his yards.

Harper says the key is a solid build, great acceleration and superb cutting ability.

He adds that another reason Spikes has improved this year from his junior season is that he's no longer playing defense, meaning his legs remain fresh.

In other outstanding Week Nine performances:

-Harlingen's Maurice Hunter had the fifth-best rushing total in Class 5A history and set a Rio Grande Valley record with 366 yards on 34 carries in a 51-21 victory over Weslaco. He had six touchdowns, including runs of 75, 43 and 43 yards.

-Stark's Banks of Lamar Consolidated needed only 11 carries to rack up 328 yards and five TDs in a 72-7 victory over Victoria Stroman.

-Lufkin's Dennis Manns gained 304 yards on 41 carries including a 48-yard TD run in a 20-10 victory over Marshall. He also returned an interception 37 yards on the game's final play.

-Elijah Burkins of Port Arthur Jefferson ran 22 times for 225 yards, including a 15-yard touchdown that clinched a 24-15 victory over Vidor. He also had an 98-yard reception that was nearly 90 yards of running.

-Sophomore David Zapata helped Eagle Pass win its first district title since 1955 by rushing 27 times for 209 yards and three TDs in a 45-21 victory over Laredo Martin.

-Elton Perry ran Goliad into the playoffs for the first time since 1969 by scoring four TDs and running for 202 yards in a 34-16 victory over Ingleside.

-Devon Dorris helped Azle clinch its district title by running for 175 yards and two TDs and making 10 tackles including seven solos in a 14-11 victory over Justin Northwest.

-Laredo Nixon's Jorge Vasquez scored five TDs and quarterback Ricky Mata threw for four and ran for one in a 55-6 victory over Zapata. Mata was 22-of-40 for 358 yards and his rushing score was for 45 yards.

-Alto freshman Brian Gamble had three interceptions and caught a touchdown pass in a 45-7 victory over Timpson.

-John Michael Flores of Bruni ran for three scores and caught two TD passes in a 51-0 victory over Asherton.

-Austin Westlake's Ryan Nunez, last week's honor roll star, carried 12 times for 120 yards and a touchdown, caught five passes for 111 yards and a score and returned a punt 30 yards in 45-14 victory over Pflugerville.

-Odem's Freddy Martinez opened the game with an 85-yard TD on a kickoff return, then had a 37-yard TD pass in the fourth quarter of a 29-28 victory over Aransas Pass.

-El Campo's Tim Dowden returned a fumbled 97 yards for a touchdown in a 46-13 victory over Port Lavaca Calhoun.

-Van's Bennie Jones had his third straight 200-yard game, running for 263 yards and three TDs in a 35-28 victory over Mineola.

-John Ingvardeen returned an interception 52 yards for a touchdown with 1:23 left to give Deer Park a 34-26 victory over Houston Smiley.

VOLLEYBALL

one for the game and match.

Rech thought both teams played better than they did Oct. 25, when Dumas won in Hereford.

"I don't think Dumas made as many mistakes, and I don't think we made many mistakes," she said. "In the first game, I thought we passed better. We mixed up our hitting, and our hitters hit aggressively. I was pleased with that."

"In the second game, I thought we allowed Dumas too many runs of points," she said. "We compounded one mistake with two, three or four others. I thought our passing was a little less accurate than in the first game."

HERD VOLLEYBALL STATS

Stuff blocks: Cornelius, 3; Holmes, 2; Kelley, 1; Binder, 1.

In other bi-district matches in the Region I-4A bracket: 6-4A champion Granbury beat 5-4A runner-up Lamesa, 15-3, 15-3, and 7-4A runner-up Burk Burnett edged 8-4A champ Fort Worth Northside, 15-11, 17-15, 15-13.

Granbury and Burk Burnett will meet this weekend, and the winner will face the winner between Hereford and Monahan.

In the other half of the regional bracket, two bi-district matches were played late, and results were not available. Levelland, the 5-4A champ took on 6-4A runner-up Cleburne, and 7-4A champ Sherman played 8-4A runner-up Fort Worth Arlington Heights.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 37-year-old mother of four. I am 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh 115. My question is about my craving for salt. I pour it over everything, even on food that is already full of salt. Otherwise, my diet is pretty healthy. Is this a symptom of anything, or should I just try to get used to food without salt? Everything tastes pretty boring and bland without salting. I don't seem to have any side effect from the salt — C.M.

ANSWER: For most people, salt craving is an acquired thing, something learned, often at the family dinner table as a youngster. It can be just as quickly discarded.

A few illnesses do feature salt craving specifically as a symptom. One example is Addison's disease, in which the adrenal glands stop making hormones that retain salt in the body. The salt craving seems to be a kind of protective response. But many other signs generally point to Addison's, such as low blood pressure and fatigue.

Weaning yourself from your craving should not take long. Let me make a gentleman's bet. Stay away from salty food for at least six weeks, during which you hide your salt shaker. Then write back. I am betting that you will have lost the craving to the point that oversalted food becomes a turnoff. People who go on low-salt diets for medical reasons report this phenomenon.

You should realize that salt is a notorious retainer of body fluid. Many people like you begin to see body swelling from their overzealous use of table salt, some more than others.

Sodium and potassium levels are discussed in The Health Letter Special Report No. 82, available by writing: Dr. Donohue—SR82, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I recently had a body composition profile done at my doctor's request. I am a 65-year-old woman. I am 5-foot-4 and weigh 166. Can you give me your opinion of this test? — S.M.

ANSWER: I must speak in generalities here, for there are various ways to do such tests.

Body composition tells how much weight is fat and how much muscle and bone. The scale, of course, tells only total weight, which can be a misleading number. You would like to know how much is fat and how much muscle.

Fat is the stuff that does us in. For men, ideal fat lies between 11 and 18 percent of total weight. Some allow as much as 23 percent. For women, the fat percentage range is 16 to 23 percent, some allowing up to 30 percent.

How reliable the numbers are depends on the kind of test. In one, you are weighed while submerged, and that result is compared to conventional weight measurement. Another fat-percentage test uses calipers to measure thickness of fat folds at key body sites. Some technicians use electric-current devices for measurements.

Each test has its own margin of error. However, they all give pretty reliable ideas. Composition varies with such things as age — bones becoming less dense as we grow older.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a college student, a literature major. One of our readings this term is Albert Camus' "The Plague." Reading it has been a moving experience for me, but I am left wondering how much of it is fact and how much fiction. I wonder if, from your medical background, you can comment on it. — H.L.

ANSWER: Plague exists today, claiming 198 victims of the 1,768 cases reported worldwide in 1992. The recent Indian experience is proof that this scourge can surface with a vengeance at any time and in any place.

Camus' work is quite factual and reflects close study of the great plague epidemics that have swept the globe from time to time.

Affected generations have applied their own names to the plague, including "the pestilence" and "the Black Death." Other names may reflect one or another of its more prominent physical effects.

The plague's infecting organism, Yersinia pestis, passes from rat to rat by flea bites. As a target rat population dies off, the infection-carrying fleas turn to human hosts, infecting them in great numbers with their bites. The result over history has doomed empires and otherwise changed the course of humanity from biblical times until man learned through sanitation and drugs to halt the spread of the organism and treat its victims.

Today, treated early, plague is curable. Antibiotics such as streptomycin, chloramphenicol or tetracycline are used.

Camus, in his work, merely took note of the great epidemics of plague that swept the globe in the 6th, 14th and early 20th centuries, well before the appearance of antibiotics.

The 14th century plague in Europe and Asia claimed more than 25 million victims. Historians called it the Black Death.

The epidemic in India is pneumonic plague, the most lethal form. The plague is being transmitted from person to person. The infected person fills the air with coughed-up germs, which are breathed in by new victims. Spread can be explosive in such cases.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is there risk that a herpes-infected male would infect a female when the male is not showing infection signs, such as rash? We both want to be safe rather than sorry. We are counting on your advice. — N.C.P.

ANSWER: Yes, it's possible for a partner who has no signs of active herpes infection to pass on the virus. The risks are considerably less during apparently non-active times, but they cannot be dismissed lightly.

For greater protection, use some kind of barrier, such as a latex condom.

See my herpes report for more information. For a copy of "Herpes: Don't Panic," write: Dr. Donohue—No. 17, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wolfman Jack is howling mad at Michael Huffington.

The gravel-voiced disc jockey sued the Senate candidate Wednesday for allegedly using his "wolf call" in campaign advertisements.

The DJ, whose real name is Robert Smith, said the TV commercials, narrated by a character named "Jackman Wolf," painstakingly imitated his voice and "wolf calls" without permission.

Smith says the ads, which ran in the Los Angeles area between April and July, made it seem like the Wolfman was backing the Republican congressman against the Democratic incumbent, Sen. Dianne Feinstein.

The Huffington campaign did not immediately return a message.

Hints from Heloise

Q. Although I feel your advice is mostly for women, I, being a bachelor, have read a lot of valuable information in your column.

I have about 1,000 short and long envelopes with my return address printed on them. They all have the flap already sealed. When I try to use them, the flap tears.

Can you suggest a way, besides steaming, to unseal them so I don't have to order a new supply? — Ed Dees, Magnolia, Ark.

A. This column is for everyone who can use the hints, not just women, and I'm glad you find it helpful!

As for those stuck envelopes, put them in the freezer for a couple of hours. Then take one at a time and, using a dull butter knife, gently pull open the seal. Using this method should leave the seal intact so that it can be sealed again when you use the envelope.

To prevent this problem next time, store envelopes with the gummed flap folded back over the front of the envelope, or put them in a self-sealing plastic bag. — Heloise

GIFT-WRAP IDEA

Dear Heloise: The last time I went to a birthday party, I needed to wrap my gift. The problem was that I had no wrapping paper left.

I took some copies of the score of a song, picked the one that would look nicest, and used it to wrap the gift.

Now I have made many copies of my favorite song scores and use them as wrapping paper. If nobody in your family plays an instrument, ask a friend. The "wrapping paper" looks great and is inexpensive.

Musical scores also make great book covers! — Gonzalo Lopez, Rockville, Md.

SOUND OFF

Dear Heloise: I wonder if you could find out why the manufacturers of cartons for liquid dairy products are now making it so hard for us to open them.

There are a lot of people bugged by this problem, judging from an informal poll of friends and fellow shoppers. A kindergarten aide said it was a nightmare trying to open milk cartons for the class. The instruction "To Open, Push up Here" is a joke. The edges are firmly stuck together and the aid of a knife tip is needed to carefully pry them apart. One is then left with a very rough, paper-particle-filled spout.

Would a redesign to include a pull-strip be worth trying? — Violet Kelley, Silver Spring, Md.

I agree with you all the way! I hope the manufacturers are listening. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: I love fresh-squeezed lemonade and I buy a lot of lemons at one time.

What should I look for when buying them, and how long will they keep? — John G., Bethesda, Md.

To get the best lemons for your money, simply take a good look at them. Don't buy any with skin that looks wrinkled, bruised or bumpy. They either have not been stored properly or they are old. Look for lemons that are firm and heavy that have smooth skin.

If you will be using the lemons within a week to 10 days, you can keep them at room temperature.

To prolong their life, you can store them in the fridge for at least a month. Just put them in a covered plastic veggie crisper or in a plastic bag.

Now you can have fresh-squeezed lemonade anytime. — Heloise

STAINED HANDLES

Dear Heloise: I had an awful-looking cooking utensil set hanging on display. They had been put in the dishwasher repeatedly, and the wooden handles had become discolored.

I thought of buying new ones until I decided to re-stain the handles. They are more beautiful than ever.

I saved a little money that I could use for something else. — Mary Bradix, Mount Vernon, N.Y.

Studies cast doubt on recent findings

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Two studies cast doubt on suggestions that silicone-gel breast implants cause painful and crippling connective-tissue diseases such as scleroderma, researchers said Tuesday.

A government-funded study presented Tuesday to the American College of Rheumatology found no association between the implants and connective-tissue diseases.

A study funded by plastic surgeons and presented at the rheumatology group's annual meeting Monday reached similar conclusions, but looked only at scleroderma.

The studies come at a time when implant manufacturers are preparing to pay more than $4 billion to settle a class-action lawsuit brought on behalf of tens of thousands of women who claim their breast implants caused a variety of health problems, including connective-tissue diseases.

Neither study tried to separate women whose implants had leaked silicone gel from women whose implants remained intact, cautioned Dr. Edward Lally, head of the rheumatology department at the Brown University School of Medicine in Providence, R.I. He was on the committee that selected the papers presented at this week's meeting.

Scleroderma, also known as systemic sclerosis, is an uncommon but often painful and disabling disease that causes scarring, hardening and blood-vessel damage in the skin, lungs, heart and kidneys. It can also cause gastrointestinal problems, arthritis and muscle inflammation. In some cases it can be fatal.

One study was conducted with funding from the National Institutes of Health by Dr. Jorge Sanchez-Guer-ro and other researchers at the Harvard Medical School and Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

His researchers studied 121,700 registered nurses participating in a broader, long-term study of women's health.

"We found no increased risk of developing connective-tissue disease in subjects who received breast implants," Sanchez-Guerrero told the meeting.

His researchers found only five women with implants who also suffered from a connective-tissue disease, and all of these had rheumatoid arthritis. None of the five had scleroderma, lupus, Sjogren's syndrome, dermatomyositis, polymyositis or other autoimmune illnesses suspected of being linked with silicone breast implants.

"Since rheumatoid arthritis is fairly common, that gives even more strength to the idea that this was not related to implants," said Lally.

Sanchez-Guerrero acknowledged some limitations with the methods used in the study. He said that the nurses may not be a representative sample of the population and that 95 percent of those in the study are white.

The study presented Monday was funded by the Plastic Surgery Educational Foundation, an industry group. Dr. Marc Hochberg of the University of Maryland School of Medicine in Baltimore led that study.

The Baltimore study looked at 869 women with scleroderma and compared them with a control group of 2,061 women without the disease. Only 1.4 percent of the women with the disease developed it after receiving implants. In the control group, 1.1 percent of the women had the implants.

HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last week that the Tigua Indian tribe of El Paso has no right to open a casino on its reservation.

The court ruled that the Tiguas agreed in 1986 to prohibit gambling on their reservation in exchange for federal recognition.

Though the unanimous opinion by a three-judge panel casts a shadow on state legislative efforts by promoters who wish to open Las Vegas-style casinos in Texas, neither they nor the Tiguas appear to be shelving their plans.

Regarding the ruling, Vince Munoz, executive gaming commissioner for the Tiguas, told the Houston Chronicle, "It just came as a shock to us. The tribe thinks it is fundamentally wrong. We'll be fighting this whole situation."

He said the tribe will consider an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court or petitioning Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt for relief.

If the tribe gains approval, its casino operation will be exempt from paying state taxes on earnings, but other casinos will have to pay state taxes.

Gov. Ann Richards, who earlier said casinos are a "cheesy" way to raise money for the state, said she would support making them legal only if the Tiguas win their court case.

Gaming lobbyists are working to build enough support in the Legislature for a two-thirds majority vote that would put a constitutional amendment on a statewide election ballot.

Sen. Rodney Ellis and Rep. Debra Danburg, both Houston Democrats, have said they plan to sponsor a bill in the 1995 legislative session, which begins Jan. 10, to legalize casino gambling.

Damage Claims Flood In

A rough estimate shows insured losses from the flooding in south-east Texas could reach $700 million and the number of flood damage claims filed with insurers may total 35,000, said Texas Insurance Commissioner J. Robert Hunter.

Thirty-five counties hit by floodwaters from three days of heavy rains were declared federal disaster areas, and the death toll resulting from the flood stood at 20 last week.

Relief agencies continue to assess damages. Hunter said the number of claims filed by uninsured flood victims has not been determined.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency has received more than 15,000 applications for disaster relief and approved more than $2 million in aid, The Associated Press reported.

Meanwhile, the Texas attorney general's office is investigating complaints of price-gouging by businesses that rent water-removal equipment.

State Gets Federal Funds

Texas will receive $71.4 million in federal funds for three business projects, the governor's office announced.

The projects and their funding include:

- $20.9 million to establish the Texas Manufacturing Assistance Center. The center will assist Texas' 20,000 small manufacturers on the use of new technologies.

- $25 million for a Texas Instruments Inc. project to develop affordable infrared technology for military and commercial markets.

- $25.5 million for a Texas Instruments-Raytheon project on field emission display technology.

Sharp's Welfare Reform Plan

The state comptroller's office is developing a welfare reform plan to present to the Legislature in January.

"Welfare regulations discourage self-reliance and encourage long-term dependence, and this has got to stop," Comptroller John Sharp said last week.

In 1993, more than 2.6 million Texans received $2.2 billion worth of food stamps and more than 250,000 families qualified for $533 million in Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

At the present time, 48 states are actively pursuing some sort of welfare reform. Controversial initiatives include limiting time on welfare and denying additional benefits for additional children.

$160,000 Grant, No Police

Vice President Al Gore says he will investigate the crime bill grant given to a tiny eastern Oklahoma town, despite not having a police force.

Moffett, a city of 340 people, just across the border from Fort Smith, Ark., received a $106,000 grant earlier this month. The town doesn't have a police department and some residents don't think that the town has a crime problem.

Mayor David Carolina told The Associated Press that the biggest problem the town had was speeding. He said the town needs one part-time policeman.

Also, the town would need to come up with $106,000 to get the "matching grant" money.

Other Highlights

- Gov. Richards said last week she will name Elyse Lanier, wife of Houston Mayor Bob Lanier, to the University of Houston System Board of Regents to replace outgoing Regent John Moores.

- Secretary of State Ronald Kirk is encouraging Texas' 5,204,496 registered voters to vote early. Kirk said citizens can avoid standing in long lines on Nov. 8 by casting their ballots before early voting ends Nov. 4.

Cotton harvest resumes after rains

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas cotton harvesters are back in business as fields dry from late October's long rain spell, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Dr. Carl Anderson, Texas A&M professor and Extension economist in College Station, said the Texas cotton harvest is gaining momentum after the heavy rains and looks better than expected.

"For Texas, 19 million bales is now the outlook," Anderson said. "We had thought that the number would be much lower than 19."

Anderson said some Texas cotton has been threatened by recent weather, and the state could have some losses because of rain washing the cotton away or winds knocking the cotton to the ground.

Robert Herrington, Extension agent in Dickens County, said a hail storm this weekend damaged 1,000 acres of cotton in that county.

"An erratic hail storm stripped through the county," Herrington said. "We expect to lose half of the cotton within the 1,000 acres."

"Our irrigated and dryland cotton looks good other than that, and is ready for harvest - as long as weather permits," he said.

Kater Hake, Extension agronomist in Lubbock, said more than one-half of the cotton around Lubbock is harvested and the yields are better than anyone expected.

"Last week I estimated our crop to be 2.7 million bales, but it looks like we will see around 2.9 million bales instead," Hake said.

Hake said the classing for this year's cotton is right on schedule with last year.

"Our quality is excellent, and we are finding fewer contaminated bales," he said.

Hake explained that traditionally 20 to 50 percent of the bales contain bark, which contaminates the bales and makes it difficult to process.

"This year we have seen only 10 percent of these contaminated bales," he said. "We are seeing some very resilient cotton plants right now."

especially after the summer's marginal rain supply."

Jose Pena, Extension economist in Uvalde, said crops in the southwestern part of the state are still benefiting from October's rain.

"Our cabbage harvest is in full swing right now, and producers are happy with the results so far" Pena said.

Pena said producers also are preparing to harvest spinach, southern greens and some double-cropped sorghum.

"Everything looks good, and we really have no complaints," he said.

Jon Zeitler, meteorologist for the National Weather Service Agricultural Service Center in College Station, said high pressure will maintain fair skies and mild conditions across Texas Tuesday through Thursday.

"A low pressure system will move out of the Rockies on Friday, dragging a cold front through most of the state by Saturday evening," Zeitler said. "Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms will accompany the front, but rainfall amounts will probably be less than one-quarter inch at most locations."

Zeitler said cooler air will follow the front's passage, with the effects most noticeable in the High Plains and Low Rolling Plains.

The outlook for early next week calls for above-normal temperatures and rainfall across much of the state. Normal highs this time of year range from the mid-60s in the Panhandle to the low 80s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Normal lows vary from the low 40s in the Panhandle to the mid-60s in South Texas.

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district Extension directors:

PANHANDLE: Soil moisture short. Pastures, ranges need moisture. Harvesting corn, sorghum, carrots, cabbage. Planting wheat. Winter pastures progressing. Cattle in good condition.

SOUTH PLAINS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Pastures, ranges need moisture. Humidity slowing cotton harvest. Harvesting sorghum. Wheat planting near completion.

Livestock in fair condition; supplemental feeding continues.

ROLLING PLAINS: Soil moisture adequate to surplus. Pastures, ranges in fair to good condition. Excess moisture delaying cotton, peanut harvests. Wheat, pecans progressing. Livestock in good condition.

NORTH TEXAS: Soil moisture short to surplus. Pastures, ranges benefiting from rain. Harvesting sorghum, cotton, soybeans, peanuts, sweet potatoes, pecans. Planting oats, wheat, onions. Pruning peaches.

EAST TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate to surplus. Pastures, ranges improving with rain. Oats, sweet potatoes, gardens progressing. Spraying for peach pests. Pecan crop low. Cattle in good condition.

FAR WEST TEXAS: Soil moisture very short to adequate. Pastures, ranges improving with rain. Wheat progressing. Rains delaying cotton harvest. Cutting, baling hay. Winter forage needs moisture.

WEST CENTRAL TEXAS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Pastures, ranges in good condition. Harvesting cotton. Wheat progressing. Dryland peanuts need moisture. Livestock in excellent condition.

CENTRAL TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Pastures, ranges improving with rain. Rain delaying peanut harvest, wheat planting. Winter grasses progressing. Light pecan crop. Cattle in good condition.

SOUTHEAST TEXAS: Soil moisture surplus. Pastures, ranges progressing slowly. Gardens damaged by rain. Harvesting pecans. Cattle in fair to good condition; some losses from flood.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS: Soil

moisture surplus to adequate. Pastures, ranges in good condition. Small grains benefiting from rain. Fall cabbage harvest gaining momentum. Spinach, southern greens making good progress. Livestock good.

COASTAL BEND: Soil moisture adequate to surplus. Pastures, ranges improving with rain. Wet fields slowing field work. Oats progressing. Cattle in good condition, markets improving.

SOUTH TEXAS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Pastures, ranges in good condition. Sugarcane harvest in progress; delayed by recent rainfall. Harvesting some citrus. Cattle in good condition.

Ross Perot gives support to Democratic candidate

DALLAS (AP) — Ross Perot, who made an independent run for president against George Bush two years ago, threw his support Tuesday to Gov. Ann Richards in her tough re-election bid against the former president's son.

Perot called the Democrat "one of the greatest governors in the history of Texas" and said she was more qualified than her opponent, George W. Bush, a wealthy Dallas oil businessman and managing general partner of the Texas Rangers baseball team.

"Running Texas as governor is big business. It is not an athletic event," the billionaire businessman said.

"You need people in these very complex jobs who know how to get things done. You look at this governor's record, it is awesome."

With one week left until the election, Richards is in a neck and neck race with Bush.

Perot said he planned to appear in radio commercials for Richards. A smiling Richards stood beside Perot as he pledged his support.

"I'm really pleased to be endorsed by someone who is the personification of change in government," she said.

In recent weeks Perot had predicted a Richards' victory.

"She is smart, tough and principled," he said.

Perot ran as an independent in 1992.

Benjamin Franklin published his famous "Poor Richard's Almanack" under the pseudonym Richard Saunders.

When England wanted to cut government waste, a Texan showed them how to trim the fat

Cutting waste in government isn't easy. That's why, when members of Parliament wanted to make the British government more efficient, they consulted the recognized expert in America: Texas Comptroller John Sharp.

Hardly a surprise, old chap. Since taking office in 1991, John Sharp and his Texas Performance Review team have set the standard for streamlining government agencies, saving taxpayers a documented $6.2 billion and helping Texas avoid a state income tax. And his reviews of Texas school districts have saved taxpayers more than $24 million.

Now he's fighting to cut millions of dollars in welfare fraud and bureaucratic waste by abolishing paper food stamps, which are often stolen and then traded for drugs. Sharp's plan is to replace food stamps with computerized security cards.

No wonder U.S. News and World Report (1/4/94) says: "John Sharp has become the mastermind behind a sweeping overhaul of the bureaucracy that has put Texas at the forefront of the nationwide effort to...root out waste."

Yet, despite all the additional duties and initiatives taken on by the Comptroller's Office, Sharp still managed to reduce the number of his employees and return $9 million of his budget to the taxpayers.

Of course, there's a lot more waste in Texas state government just waiting to be cut, so the job is far from over. That's why we need to keep John Sharp on the job.

NEW YORK (AP) — Trump Tower digs for Di?

Princess Diana is eager to close a deal on a $3.5 million, 12-room apartment in the Fifth Avenue building, the New York Post reported Wednesday, citing unidentified sources.

Buckingham Palace called the report "absolute rubbish."
"The princess has no intention of buying any property in America or of moving to America," said a palace spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

British composer Andrew Lloyd Webber has an apartment in the building owned by Donald Trump and told the princess of tight security and passageways that make it possible to come and go unnoticed, the paper said.

Trump spokeswoman Norma Foerderer wouldn't comment.

The building's tenants include Michael Jackson and Lisa Marie Presley, Steven Spielberg, Johnny Carson, Sophia Loren, Elton John and the Sultan of Brunei.

CHICAGO (AP) — Oprah Winfrey may find herself on the wrong side of an interview with a lawyer, that is.

Her former publicist, Colleen Raleigh, accused the talk show host of promising her a $200,000 severance package, then not coming through with it after Raleigh gave her notice Sept. 14.

Raleigh, who worked for Winfrey for eight years, filed a breach of contract suit Tuesday against Winfrey and her Harpo Inc.

Winfrey attorney Bill Becker said the lawsuit is an attempt to embarrass his client.

"It is filed by an ex-employee who is disgruntled," Becker said. "She had voluntarily quit her employment."

STUART, Fla. (AP) — Burt says he's broke and can't afford Loni's lavish lifestyle anymore.

Burt Reynolds asked a judge to relieve him of having to pay ex-wife Loni Anderson $11,000 a month in alimony and carry a $1.3 million mortgage on her new Beverly Hills house.

In court papers filed Tuesday, Reynolds' attorney Bob Montgomery said his client has a negative net worth of $2.56 million, while Anderson "has assets and the ability to support herself."

Anderson has earned tens of thousands of dollars since the couple split and has future contracts for TV and movie projects, the lawyer said.

Reynolds, on the other hand, is unemployed.

The couple divorced in January after four years of marriage.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features, too numerous to list.
