Castillo, Moore win county commission seats

Tony Castillo defeated John Stribling for the Precinct 1 seat on the county commissioners court, while incumbent Troy Don Moore staved off a challenge by Mike Miller to keep his seat on the court in Tuesday's election.

County voters maintained their trend of favoring the Republican candidate for president, with George Bush claiming a margin of almost 2 to 1 over Bill Clinton. Ross Perot gained 14 percent of the vote here.

Castillo outpolled Stribling, 571-520, in Tuesday's rematch of a primary election that Castillo said should never have been held. A lawsuit filed by Trini Gamez in federal court threw out the results of the primary election last March and forced a new election. Stribling and Castillo both ran in the Democratic primary in March; Stribling took a 44-vote win then. When a new election was ordered by U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson, Stribling switched to the GOP, setting up Tuesday's rematch.

"First, I didn't have anything to do with the lawsuit," Castillo said. "If the commissioner's court, after the redistricting, had waited to get approval from the Justice Department there never would have been a reason for the lawsuit.

"Bob Bass (the county's attorney in charge of redrawing the precincts) told them at the time they drew the lines they were susceptible to being sued, but all five voted in favor of what they did.

"All of this was brought on by the commissioner's court. If they had done their job they wouldn't have wasted taxpayers money on any one-horse elections."

Castillo said he was ready to put that difference aside. Ninety minutes after the results were final, his hands were still shaking.

"I'm going to do my best," the political newcomer said. "I'm going to represent everyone the best I can. I'm not going to be a person to represent one segment of the population. I'm here to represent everyone with the best interests of Precinct 1 at heart."

Castillo had a 55-vote margin, 267-212, after the early ballot totals were posted, and won the largest box in the Precinct, No. 1, 291-259. Stribling won his "home" box at Dawn, 49-13.

Moore won a third term on the court with a 1,248-897 win over Miller. Moore led wire-to-wire, with a 166-vote cushion after the early votes, and a 577-408 win in the largest box in the precinct, No. 3. Moore also carried Box 7, 23-7.

"Of course I'm pleased with the outcome," Moore said at the courthouse just after the totals were posted. "Mike ran an excellent campaign. He was very clean and upfront all the way through, and I appreciate that.

"We have some tough issues facing us. The commissioners court is the caretaker of taxpayers funds and I believe we have a conservative, realistic budget. I also believe we have some long-range capital needs that need to be addressed. We also have to look at some tough choices if our tax base remains steady or slips. We'll have to look at continuing or reducing services we provide."

Castillo takes Pct. 1 by 51 votes Incumbent Stribling defeated

Castillo (in bar on left) won early voting 267-212 (top third of bar) and Box 1, 291-259, to secure 51-vote margin.

Moore said the election of Bill Clinton will directly affect the county. "I think we will have more programs to deal with and we'll have higher taxation," Moore said. "The biggest concern will be how specifically he directs agriculture programs during his term in office. I hope that we see some conservative approaches, but it should be interesting to see what he proposes."

County voters joined others in the 19th District in returning U.S. Rep. Larry Combest to Washington. Combest carried the county over Democratic challenger Terry Moser, 3,563-1,744.

Democrat Lena Guerrero, who was running for a full term on the Railroad Commission, failed to carry Deaf Smith County. Local voters favored Barry Williamson with 56 percent of the vote, compared to 38 percent for Guerrero. That matched almost exactly the statewide total. In that race, Libertarian candidate Richard Draheim fared the best of all Libertarian candidates with 240 votes. Draheim had promised to abolish the office if elected.

For the seventh straight election, local voters favored the Republican candidate. George Bush outpolled Bill Clinton, 3,137-1,642. Bush carried every box in the county. Perot, the independent wild card, almost beat Clinton in Box 3; Perot got 161 votes, while Clinton had 168 votes. Bush won that box with 670 votes. The closest shave for Bush was in Box 2, where he nudged Clinton, 228-225.

In the unopposed races on the ballot, Margaret Del Toro was the top vote-getter with 4,223 votes for tax assessor-collector, followed by Sheriff Joe Brown with 4,139 votes. State Rep. John Smithee, State Sen. Teel Bivins and State Board of Education representative Monte Hasie were also re-elected without opposition.

Totals for all boxes in all races appear elsewhere in the Brand.

It's Bill Clinton gets easy win for president

By JOHN KING
AP Political Writer

President-elect Bill Clinton today promised "the new blood, the new direction" to change America, casting his electoral landslide over President Bush as a mandate for a fresh economic course. Voters gave the 42nd president strong majorities in Congress, ending 12 years of divided government.

A year punctuated by palpable voter anger ended with the first Democratic White House win since 1980 - and only the second Democratic presidency in a quarter century. Women and minorities made dramatic gains in the new Congress, but anti-incumbent sentiment was not as widespread as some had predicted.

In any event, change was headed Washington's way, led by the Democrat's baby boomer ticket.

"The American people have voted to make a new beginning," Clinton said in a victory speech in Little Rock, Ark. "This election is a clarion call for our country to face the challenges of the end of the Cold War and the beginning of the next century, to restore growth to our country and opportunity to our people."

Bush, held to 38 percent in a three-way race, pledged his cooperation in the transition of power.

"There is important work to be done and America must always come first," said Bush, the fourth president in this century denied a second term. "So we will get behind this new president and wish him well."

As he walked off stage in Houston, his three decades in American government near an end, Bush whispered to his wife, "It's over."

Ross Perot, whose candidacy was the very symbol of the turbulent political season now ended, saluted Clinton too.

"We need to all work together and work with the new administration and give it a world class best effort to get these problems solved," said the Dallas billionaire, who ran a strong but distant third after spending $60 million on his campaign.

Clinton's election foreshadowed a tide of change in Washington after a dozen years of Republican rule.

Ending, all at once, will be the Reagan-Bush era, Democratic exile from the White House, and the divided government that spawned the word "gridlock," this year's favorite addition to the political glossary.

Beginning was a new day for the Democratic Party and its young ticket, the 46-year-old Arkansas governor and his 44-year-old running mate, Tennessee Sen. Al Gore. On

Man escapes injury

Emergency workers tend to the slight injuries of a motorcyclist on Tuesday afternoon just west of the intersection of Bradley and Campbell in West Hereford. The motorcycle was struck by a pickup, and the collision sent the motorcycle skidding for several hundred feet. The rider received a major scrape on his elbow, and was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital for examination and observation.

Man arrested after holding off police

A Hereford man held police at bay for almost two hours Tuesday night before his parents were able to talk him into surrendering.

Hector Castillo, 24, was arrested early today on charges of assault, evading arrest and terroristic threat. He remains in Deaf Smith County Jail in lieu of bond.

Castillo is charged with assaulting his wife, then barricading himself in the bathroom of an apartment at Eldorado Arms, 427 N. 25 Mile Ave. When officers were called, he threatened to shoot them.

Police called in the HPD's Special Response Team, which in turn solicited the help of the man's parents in talking him into giving himself up. When he surrendered, officers discovered the man was not armed.

First woman elected to Texas' high court

By SUSAN FAHLGREN
Associated Press Writer

Democrat Rose Spector today became the first woman elected to Texas Supreme Court, but ousted Democrat Oscar Mauzy was felled from his seat as Texans chose six positions on the state's highest courts.

Republican Craig Enoch topped Mauzy while Democrat Jack Hightower was returned to the state's highest civil court.

Voters also re-elected Democrats Morris L. Overstreet and Charles F. "Charlie" Baird on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the state's highest criminal court.

Best they turned out Democratic incumbent Fortunato "Pete" Benavides as Republican challenger Lawrence "Larry" Meyers posted a narrow victory, giving the GOP a foothold on what had been an all Democratic court.

Benavides, 45, of Corpus Christi, was the first Hispanic to hold a seat on the criminal court after Gov. Ann Richards appointed him to fill a vacancy last year. Meyers, 45, is an appeals court judge from Fort Worth.

Ms. Spector, 59, a state district judge in San Antonio, beat Republican incumbent Eugene Cook to win her spot on the Supreme Court.

"I do think there was a strong Democratic surge, but it's obvious that people picked and chose all over the ballot," she said.

"From what I've heard from other races, there has been a good deal of independent voting. It was not just a straight party pull. (Railroad Commissioner) Lena (Guerrero) lost and Mauzy lost. It's been tough and I'm glad it's over."

Cook's loss also blocked a Republican bid for a majority on the civil court, which remains Democrat by a 5-4 edge.

Venue change asked

DALLAS (AP) - The Rev. Walker Railey is asking that his trial on attempted murder charges be moved, on grounds he can't receive a fair trial here.

State District Judge Pat McDowell is scheduled to consider the motion in a Nov. 23 preliminary hearing.

Railey, the 45-year-old former senior pastor of First United Methodist Church in Dallas, is accused of trying to strangle his wife April 21, 1987, in their Dallas home. Margaret "Peggy" Railey remains in a vegetative state.

The defense attorney also asked that the indictment be quashed and that in the event of a conviction that the jury assess punishment.

With 94 percent of the vote counted, Ms. Spector had 54 percent, to Cook's 48 percent.

Enoch, 42, beat Mauzy, 65, in the most hotly contested high court race. Arpid charges that Enoch used a research attorney to help work on his master's thesis, the Dallas appellate judge rapped Mauzy, a former Dallas state senator, as a liberal activist judge backed by trial lawyers.

Enoch had 53 percent to Mauzy's 44 percent. Libertarian candidate Alfred Adask, 47, a Dallas publisher, had 4 percent.

In Place 3, Hightower, 66, a former state senator and congressman, beat Republican challenger John D. Montgomery with 57 percent to Montgomery's 43 percent. Montgomery, 45, is a state district judge in Houston.

For the Criminal Appeals Court place 3, Meyers had a 33,000-vote margin over Benavides with 99 percent of the precincts reporting.

In other Criminal Appeals Court races:

-In Place 1, Democratic incumbent Baird, 37, who was elected to fill an unexpired term in 1990, beat Republican challenger Joseph A. "Joe" Devany, 71. Baird had 53 percent to Devany's 47 percent.

Devany is a Dallas lawyer and former appeals court judge.

-In Place 2, Democratic incumbent Overstreet beat Republican challenger Sue Lagarde 52 percent to 48 percent. Overstreet, 42, of Amarillo, became the first black elected to the panel since Reconstruction when he won the unexpired seat in 1990. Ms. Lagarde, 55, is a Dallas appeals court judge.

Each seat is a full six-year term. Texas is the only state besides Oklahoma that has separate courts of last resort for criminal and civil cases.

Guerrero's career short-circuited

AUSTIN (AP) - When Lena Guerrero ducked out the back door of a hotel ballroom, she left a fast-track political career behind.

"It would be inappropriate for me to predict what's next for Lena Guerrero," she said after losing her first election Tuesday night. "Certainly, there will be new challenges and greater opportunities ahead, for that is the story of my life."

Ms. Guerrero, 34, lost to Barry Williamson, a previously little known Republican from Dallas, in the race for a seat on the Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates the state's energy and trucking industries.

A sizeable lead for Ms. Guerrero turned into what she called "the worst two months of my life" after she acknowledged lacking the college diploma she'd claimed for 12 years.

On Tuesday, the summer lead became a 14 percentage shortfall as Guerrero received only 39 percent of the vote to Williamson's 53 percent. Seven percent went to Libertarian Richard N. Draheim, Jr.

But there were no apologies from Gov. Ann Richards' first appointee and first woman or Hispanic to serve on the three-person board that regulates the state's oil and trucking industries.

"Much may be recorded about your first appointment, governor," Ms. Guerrero said. "But let it be said she did the job you asked her to do and did it extremely well."

Richards hinted that Ms. Guerrero might be back.

"I think after Lena takes a little time off that she will be back on the scene," the governor said. "She will be missed."

Ms. Guerrero refused to discuss her death, but she said she would help keep the family together. She left Mission to attend the University of Texas at Austin. While working toward a degree in broadcasting, which she received in 1980, she worked as a volunteer in local, state and national political campaigns.

After starting her own successful communications and public relations firm, Lena ran for the Texas House of Representatives in 1988. She was first elected to that office of the state and represented portions of the state.

After starting her own successful communications and public relations firm, Lena ran for the Texas House of Representatives in 1988. She was first elected to that office of the state and represented portions of the state.

Instrument of defeat

This is an excerpt of a resume circulated by Lena Guerrero for a number of years until about two months ago when she admitted that some information was not true. Her loss of the election for Texas Railroad Commission to Barry Williamson is attributed to the false resume.

the controversy that brought down her highflying career.

"You stayed with me because you knew the real Lena Guerrero," she told supporters. "You know the record we established in the Texas House of Representatives and our record on the Railroad Commission. And let me tell you one thing. I'm proud of that record."

"I've been asked many times in the last few weeks if it has been worth it, if it has been worth the pain and the anger and the anguish to me and my family... I say it's worth it," she said.

Ms. Guerrero had made the most of her temporarily high profile, speaking at the Democratic National Convention in July. Some thought she might seek the governor's office herself one day.

But her opponent quickly turned from Williamson to her own conscience.

First, she denied accusations about failing to receive a bachelor's degree in broadcast journalism in 1980 from the University of Texas.

Then, she acknowledged she was not a member of the prestigious academic society Phi Beta Kappa, as her office had said for several years.

Finally, she tearfully turned over her transcripts which showed she was a semester short of graduation and had failed several classes, including one on the Texas Legislature.

Williamson pounced. He ran ads showing footage of her telling a graduation audience at Texas A&M that she "recalled" her own commencement.

Fellow Railroad Commissioner Bob Krueger said Tuesday night that Ms. Guerrero should have come clean from the beginning.

"I think clearly if everything had been explained and acknowledged the day after the story broke, it would have been to her advantage," Krueger said.

"The Railroad Commission only rarely gets front page news," Krueger added. "She was on the front page for 13 days. She had a tremendous hurdle to overcome. But she served well."

Parked pickup runs wild on Ave. K on Tuesday

Virgil Ritchie left his pickup running for just a minute while he ran into his house on Ave. K on Tuesday afternoon. The pickup, though, didn't stay put. It ran through a neighbor's chain link fence before coming to rest at the edge of a house at Union and Ave. K. Ritchie was cited for failure to set his brakes.

GOP gains in Texas Senate

AUSTIN (AP) - State Republicans gained four seats in the Texas Senate, in the process dumping Sen. Chet Brooks, the upper chamber's longest serving member.

Meanwhile in the state House, with some races still to close to call, it appeared Democrats may have gained one seat for a 93-57 edge.

"The dynamics of the state Senate have changed dramatically," said Rob Mosbacher, chairman of the GOP's Victory '92 campaign. "We are in a position to block bad legislation," he said.

Under Senate rules, bills require a two-thirds majority to be considered. That means 11 votes or more in the Senate can block measures from being acted on, and there are now 13 Republicans.

But Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, said, "I don't think the Republicans want to be in a position of being obstructionists. If they want to block the future of the state that would be a costly posture to take."

He said Republican gains were the result of a redistricting plan drawn by GOP-appointed federal judges. The judges had rejected a redistricting map adopted by the Democratic-controlled Legislature.

"I don't think the people have spoken," Martin said. "This was activist, illegal, judicial gerrymandering."

In a bitter campaign, Republican

Florence Shapiro, a former Plano mayor, defeated Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, whose Democratic base was cut under the new district lines. He has served in the Legislature since 1979.

Also for the GOP, State Board of Education member Jane Nelson defeated Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, a close ally of Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, who has been in the Senate since 1981.

Another Republican gain occurred in the Houston area where Rep. Dan Shelley defeated Don Coffey for the district that was held by Democrat Gene Green, who was elected to Congress.

And in another Houston-area campaign, Brooks, D-Pasadena, lost to Republican Jerry Patterson in a race that went down to the wire.

Democrats were rebuffed in their one targeted race as Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, defeated A.M. Bob Aikin 52.1 percent to 47.9 percent.

In the House, Bill Thomas, R-Greenville, and Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, lost in the only pairings with incumbents due to redistricting. Thomas fell to Rep. Keith Oakley, D-Terrell, and Von Dohlen was beat by Steve Holzhauser, R-Victoria.

Rep. Glen Maxey, D-Austin, easily won re-election. His opponent Dick Mallory used Maxey's homosexuality as a campaign issue.

After winning, Maxey said, "I am a gay rights advocate, but I am an advocate on the issues and concerns of people all across the board on education and health care and environment. Part of tonight's vote was a repudiation of that right wing bigotry that fundamentalists have been putting out."

Other House members who were defeated were Glenn Repp, R-Dallas, and Ken Fleuriet, R-Harlingen, whose districts were redrawn to favor Democrats.

Rep. Parker McCollough, D-Georgetown, also lost to Republican challenger Mike Krusec of Austin.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am enclosing a document detailing the crimes of one man who has been arrested and released repeatedly. I fear that our criminal justice system does nothing but put criminals back into the system.

Here is a partial list of "Johnny Doe's" charges: aggravated assault, burglary, retail theft, assault with a deadly weapon, reckless endangerment, assault on police, auto theft, resisting police, unlawful flight, rape and robbery.

After he was charged with all of the above and released, this man raped a deaf-mute woman, and then he raped another woman and stole her car. He is back in jail, but how much are you willing to bet that he will be out on the street again soon?

How long will it be before vigilante justice takes over and people decide to take the law into their own hands? How long will good people put up with this sort of lunacy? If our citizens knew that this was not an isolated case, that it happens all the time, they would rise up and demand that something be done.

Ann, you have the courage, the readership and the respect to generate change. I know you advocate taking guns off the street, but until criminals like this man are taken off the street, people are going to need their guns. Will you help?--No Name, No City

DEAR NO NAME: I share your outrage and frustration, but putting guns in the hands of more people will not solve the problem. It would, in fact, make it worse.

Guns do not ensure safety. They merely mean people will get shot. And unfortunately, too often the victims are youngsters who accidentally shoot each other or innocent bystanders.

People become frustrated when they perceive the wheels of justice turning too slowly, sometimes leaving those accused of crimes out on the streets to commit additional crimes. But the most important aspect of our criminal justice system is that everyone is presumed innocent until proven guilty and is entitled to a fair trial. That must never be changed. What needs to be changed, however, is the length of time it takes to bring these people to justice. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I read a letter in your column about game show contestants who did not know that there was a Notre Dame in Indiana as well as one in Paris.

I watch the same game show regularly, and a few months ago, I heard the following:

"What did God give to Moses?" No one knew.

"What two states starting with the letter 'M' border the Dakotas?" No one knew.

"Fill in: '----' is the soul of wit." No one knew the answer, and when it was provided, a contestant asked, "What's brevity?"

I was so astounded that I jotted these examples down, and now is the perfect time to pass them along to

you.--D.J.D. in Sarasota

DEAR D.J.D.: Shocking, isn't it? On the other hand, I have heard several contestants on "Jeopardy" come up with answers to questions I could never respond to in a million years. I have concluded that we are all ignorant--but on different subjects.

Fast starts propel Lady Whitefaces past Tors

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The election returns are in and we have a winner: the Lady Whitefaces. It looked like a landslide early, but late returns favored Lamesa. When it was over, though, the Hereford High School volleyball team took a 15-7, 15-7 win in a bi-district match Tuesday at Coronado High School in Lubbock.

Next, Hereford will play Pecos, the 3-4A champion which had a bye in the first round. They'll meet at 2 p.m. Saturday in Denver City.

Hereford took big leads in both games against Lamesa: 13-3 in the first and 14-1 in the second game.

"We took the momentum and just took it to them," Kathy Hernandez said. "We pressed one at a time."

"We just executed," Angie Jowell said. "We all did our jobs and executed, and we whooped it up if we did good."

The first game got off to a slow start for Hereford, as Lamesa took a 3-1 lead.

"Our passing wasn't really strong in the first game, and as a result our sets were off the net a little bit," Herd coach Brenda Reeh said. "We weren't hitting the ball like we needed to."

Hereford got going on the fourth rotation, with Michelle Brock serving. Jowell had a kill to pull Hereford even, and Erin Bullard put down an overset to give Hereford the lead for good.

Lamesa started to make some mistakes, and Hereford took advantage. Hereford didn't get to 13-3 immediately, though. Lamesa got several sideouts; they just couldn't get any points until it was too late. When the Golden Tornadoes managed four consecutive points, Brock came to the service line and served an ace to make it 14-7. Lamesa was called in the net on Hereford's final point.

Lamesa was called in the net at least five times by the down referee, especially in the first game. Each time, the Lamesa players looked surprised because it was happening as the blockers were leaving the net. The referee told Lamesa coach Patty Browning between games that the calls were for "hands right on the tape."

Hereford took a 2-0 lead in the second game, then won one of the longest volleys of the year. Kara Sandoval made a one-arm stab at a Sandoval head and the ball went up to the net like any set. Hernandez hit it softly crosscourt and it fell for another point.

It must have had a demoralizing effect on Lamesa, because before long, Hereford led 14-1.

"It made a huge difference not only swinging the momentum our way but loosening us up," Reeh said. Another factor in the big lead was blocking.

"We blocked better in the second game than in the first," she said. "In the first, our blocks were going up too soon. In the second game we waited a little bit longer and we had more success."

Lamesa finally got going when Anna Jimenez went to the service line and served two aces wrapped around a pair of kills by Amber Vaughan. Lamesa pulled to 14-7 as Hereford made a pair of unforced errors, but that was it. On the next volley, the ball was knocked deep into the Lamesa backcourt and off to the side. Keisha Butler ran all the way back, hit the ball over her head, and it barely hit the antenna on the net (meaning it was out).

Hereford won when Lamesa sent a free ball over the net but out of bounds.

Reeh was glad of the big leads and glad the Lamesa comebacks didn't go much further.

"I don't believe there was a point in the match where we weren't dealing with our nerves," she said. "Knowing we were getting close to winning tends to tighten you up whether its the playoffs or not."

Brock had 12 service points on 16 good serves, including a five-point run in the second game.

Jowell led hitters with six kills and no hitting errors. Four players had five kills each: Sandoval, Hernandez, Bullard and Robyn Watts.

Jowell also had 11 digs.

The Lady Whitefaces, who improved to 19-9, celebrated on the court for a while after the match was over.

"Still hasn't sunk in," Hernandez said. "I'm waiting for somebody to say, 'Wake up, Kathy.'"

In Plainview, Dumas had no trouble with Snyder, beating the Tigers 15-5, 15-3. Next up for Dumas is the winner between Monahans and Big Spring.

My ball

Hereford's Angie Jowell (10) and Lamesa's Amber Vaughan battle for the ball at the net. Hereford won the bi-district battle 15-7, 15-7 Tuesday in Lubbock.

Rickman wins at Wellington

Chasity Rickman of Hereford won the All-Around Cowgirl title at the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association's rodeo Saturday at Wellington.

Rickman finished second in goat tying with a time of 10.981 seconds, behind only the 10.292 turned in by Sonya Coy of Wheeler. Rickman also finished fourth in both barrels and pole bending, with times of 18.222 and 22.544, respectively.

Two other Hereford girls placed in goat tying: Samantha Winters and Shay Henderson. Winters was sixth in 13.366, and Henderson was eighth.

Justin Henderson was sixth in bull riding. His score was 63.

Crist's horses do well at Futurity

Ron Crist and four of his horses showed exceptionally well at the Southern Cutting Horse Futurity last week at Jackson, Miss.

Crist took four horses to the show, one of the largest in the South. In the first go-round, each of the four horses scored highest in their class.

In Saturday's finals:

--The three-year-old was reserve champion.

--The four-year-old was fourth in the Derby.

--The five-year-old was first in the Classic.

--The six-year-old was third in the $50,000 Amateur.

In addition to cash, Crist received a saddle, saddle blanket, four silver buckles and a large silver trophy.

Moon will play against Browns

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oilers quarterback Warren Moon passed neurological tests Tuesday as he continued his recovery from a concussion and team officials said he is expected to play against the Cleveland Browns.

Moon suffered a concussion in last Sunday's game against Pittsburgh when he was hit by Rod Woodson in the third quarter. The Steelers won the game, 21-20.

"All results of the tests administered to Warren Moon are negative, and it's expected he'll be able to play this Sunday against Cleveland," Oilers spokesman Bob Schranz said.

"There's a possibility he may be limited in workouts the next few days," Schranz added. The tests were performed as a precautionary measure.

The Oilers also announced Tuesday that they have waived Reggie Slack, another backup quarterback, off the team's physically unable to perform list.

Omaha's Trip

ASCOT, England (AP) - Although horses from England, Ireland and France are shipped regularly to the United States for big races, which they often win, the trip in the other direction is not made often.

In 1936, Omaha, the 1935 American Triple Crown champion, was sent to England for the Ascot Gold Cup.

The son of Gallant Fox lost to an English filly named Quashed by a head in a finish so tight that some American observers thought a photo-finish camera would have helped. There wasn't any. The result stood.

Wrong Choice

NEW YORK (AP) - A draft of young talent in sports, no matter which one, is always a lottery. A team takes a chance that a young player will mature into a star.

In the baseball draft in 1966, the New York Mets, who had the top pick, selected a high school catcher, Steve Chilcott. They passed up the highly-touted Arizona State slugger, Reggie Jackson.

Jackson, selected by the Oakland Athletics, became a headline-maker for the A's and several other teams, including the Yankees.

Chilcott spent six years in the minor leagues and never played in the major leagues.

Eagles muddle through slump

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

A month ago, after their 31-7 win over Dallas, the Philadelphia Eagles were ready to jump right on the plane to Pasadena. Forget the NFC East and NFC titles. Just go direct to the Super Bowl, the most dominant team since the 1985 Bears.

Four games and three losses later, the Eagles are finding out it's rarely that easy in the NFL.

In fact, if the playoffs started this week, Philadelphia would barely make it as the last NFC wild-card team after falling to 5-3. And when the season ends in two months, who knows what will happen to a team embroiled in a quarterback controversy, without confidence and muttering collectively:

"We don't know what's wrong." Maybe they don't, but problems aren't hard to find.

To wit:
1. The Eagles play in the toughest division the NFL has had for a long time - with the astoundingly poised young Cowboys; the defending Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins; the aging, discredited but still dangerous New York Giants (ask Joe Gibbs?) and ...

The Phoenix Cardinals, who on any two given Sundays can scare the Eagles and beat the San Francisco 49ers.

2. With the offensive line a weak link already, the Eagles lost starting tackles Antone Davis and Ron Heller for two games, leaving Randall Cunningham vulnerable and nervous - 16 sacks in three games before he left at halftime for Jim McMahon in last Sunday's 20-10 loss in Dallas. Davis was back for that game but hardly looked like a guy on whom the Eagles used two No. 1 draft picks.

3. A confused Cunningham, who was 5 of 23 for 26 yards in his last four quarters before being benched in Dallas.

Why?
He's lost Keith Jackson, his favorite receiver to free agency; his second favorite, Keith Byars, has a sore hand that makes catching difficult and he looks worried behind that weak line about the knee that kept him out all of last year. Moreover, trying to be a pocket passer has cost him the instinctive brilliance that made him what he is - he ran only once for 3 yards against Dallas and was outrushed by McMahon, 10-3.

4. The intangible Buddy Ryan factor. These are still Ryan's players, who ride an emotional rollercoaster - beat a good team one week, struggle the next week against a mediocre one. And - a Ryan trait - the defense is pointing at the offense.

"You'll have to ask them what's wrong," one defender said after the Dallas loss, pointing at the east end of the locker room where the offense dressed.

5. A critical weakness - the crucial owner position. Ryan was fired because he mocked owner Norman Braman's attempts to instruct. Rich Kotite is a good coach, but he's also a loyal company man. Was it really his idea to announce Monday that McMahon would start against the Los Angeles Raiders on Monday after saying Sunday that Cunningham remained the quarterback?

"If he thinks a week off will help me, he doesn't know me as well as I thought he knew me," Cunningham says of his coach, with whom he was very close when Kotite was Ryan's offensive coordinator.

Aggie, 'Horn honored by SWC

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - There normally isn't room on Texas A&M's high-powered defense for underclassmen.

But the No. 5 Aggies have had to make room for 6-4, 282-pound somers defensive end Sam Adams.

Adams got his first start as a true freshman last year at Texas Tech in the fourth game of the season.

Early in the first half, Adams broke into the backfield and pounced on Tech quarterback Jamie Gill, who then left the game with a dislocated shoulder.

The Aggies, who had the top-rated defense in the country in 1991, won the game, and Adams has made the starting lineup ever since.

Last week, Adams, who was the Southwest Conference Defensive Newcomer of the Year in 1991, had two tackles, one sack and two quarterback pressures in the Aggies' 41-7 victory against Southern Methodist.

He also returned an interception 19 yards to the 1.

He carried a defender the last nine yards but couldn't quite reach the end zone.

"Our scheme was to try to get in the passing lanes and bat the ball down," said Adams, a 6-4, 282-pounder from Cypress. "That one just stuck in my hands. I thought I was going to score."

For his effort, Adams has been named the Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

Texas fullback Phil Brown is the AP's SWC Offensive Player of the Week.

Brown rushed for 66 yards, including touchdown runs of 1 and 16 yards, and he caught seven passes for 95 yards as the 20th-ranked Longhorns defeated Texas Tech 44-33 Saturday in a key Southwest Conference matchup.

The Longhorns (5-2 overall, 3-0 in the SWC) likely knocked Tech out of the Cotton Bowl race while improving their own chances.

Getting Phil Brown to take credit for an outstanding performance is like getting tickets to a Garth Brooks concert.

Coaches call him boring. Milk and cookies is an apt description. But when it comes to the football field, Brown's humble smile and monotone voice are replaced with high steps and dizzying cutbacks for a 200-pounder.

"All the thanks goes to the offensive line," said Brown, a junior from Commerce. "They make everything go for us."

Come on Phil, what about the twisting, off-balance, grind 'em up 16-yard touchdown run you had? The one where you spun out of the hands of three tacklers?

"The line opened up the hole," said Brown, as if protecting secrets for the military. "Without them, we're nothing."

Brown has been an integral part of a resurgent Texas ground attack. Texas had 337 yards on the ground against Tech and 261 yards rushing two weeks ago in a 45-38 victory against Houston.

The Longhorns' offense, which is mixing the run and pass effectively under new head coach John Mackovic, has helped make up for a struggling defense.

"The defense is having a little bit of a problem, and we just have to give them time to rest," Brown said. "We have to help each other."

Rangers hire Osteen

ARLINGTON (AP) - The Texas Rangers on Tuesday appointed former Los Angeles Dodgers lefthander Claude Osteen as their pitching coach.

Osteen, 53, is the first coach hired by the Rangers since Kevin Kennedy was named manager two weeks ago. The two worked together when Kennedy was manager at Class AAA Albuquerque in the Dodgers farm system during 1990-91.

"Claude did an excellent job for me in the two years we worked together in Albuquerque," Kennedy said. "He is an excellent teacher and a proven winner, both as a major league pitcher and as a successful big league pitching coach."

Osteen has spent the last four years as a pitching coach in the Dodgers organization, first at Class AA San Antonio in 1989 and later with Kennedy in Albuquerque.

He served as pitching coach with St. Louis from 1977-80 and with Philadelphia from 1982-88. Three Phillies pitchers, Steve Carlton (1982), John Denny (1983) and Steve Bedrosian (1987), won the Cy Young Award during his tenure.

As a pitcher with the six major-league teams over 17 seasons, Osteen was 196-195 with a 3.29 ERA. He had two 20-win seasons with the Dodgers.

Osteen's hiring ends Tom House's stormy career as the Rangers' pitching coach. The team had an ERA higher than the American League average five times during his seven-year tenure.

General Manager Tom Grieve said the team would offer House an "opportunity to stay in our organization in a significant role."

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - London's tabloids are scrutinizing Prince Charles and Princess Diana's relationship every minute of their trip to Korea, but a Buckingham Palace spokesman today claimed the tour was a success.

The 43-year-old heir to the British throne and his 31-year-old wife were on the third day of a four-day tour of Korea, the first by British royalty.

Several London newspapers claimed Tuesday the princess, who is rumored to be unhappy in the marriage, was making the trip against her wishes.

Reporters at a banquet Tuesday said the princess did not look at her husband in the first 30 minutes, including his dinner speech. She stood beside him in a reception line and was seated with only President Roh Tae-woo between them.

"We're not going to dignify speculation from the British media by a comment," said Dickie Arbiter, the couple's palace spokesman. "From our point of view the tour is positive."

Cockroaches can be dangerous to your health. 48 percent of asthmatics are allergic to roaches which can trigger asthma attacks.

West Central students vote

Students of Jenny McWhorter and Kim Bigham at West Central Intermediate School held a mock election Tuesday. Students voted for president, vice president, railroad commissioner and county commissioner (for those who lived in proper precincts). George Bush won the presidential election, 71-18; Barry Williamson won the Railroad Commission race, 60-30 over Lena Guerrero; John Stribling edged Tony Castillo, 15-14; and Mike Miller upset Troy Don Moore, 19-17.

Tierra Blanca elects Bush

Tierra Blanca students in grades 1-3 voted for president in a mock election Tuesday at the school. Students studied information on George Bush, Bill Clinton and Ross Perot in the school's information center before voting in special voting booths pictured here. Bush received 172 votes, Bill Clinton 93 and Ross Perot 29. Second graders at Northwest Primary School also voted, with Bush winning there, 86-43, with Perot getting 7 votes.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 39-year-old female, taking 180 mg of Calan SR for high blood pressure. I am about 50 pounds overweight and am on a diet from my doctor to lose weight. I restrict my salt intake and have lost 15 pounds so far. Since the drug is a calcium channel blocker, will it deplete my system of the calcium it requires?

I took 10 mg of Zestril until it caused severe coughing in the middle of the night and a dry throat. My doctor switched me to 50 mg of Tenormin, but that caused me to become very depressed and anxious. Now he has me taking Calan SR. My blood pressure went from 160/120 to 126/86. I feel great and have plenty of energy.

DEAR READER: The calcium channel blockers — Calan, Cardizem and Procardia — do not disturb calcium metabolism. Small amounts of calcium ions enter into muscle cells of the arteries to act with muscle protein and cause the arteries to constrict. Constricted arteries cause high blood pressure. Calcium channel blockers decrease the influx of calcium ions into the muscle and allow the arteries to dilate, causing blood pressure to drop.

Zestril is one of the ACE-inhibitors, which are very good medicines for individuals who tolerate them. Cough is one complication that can occur. When taken in large amounts, they may also cause severe fatigue.

The Tenormin you took blocks the action of adrenaline on the heart and decreases the amount of blood the heart pumps. It can make you tired, but again the amount one requires is a major factor in what happens.

There is a variety of different medicines that lower blood pressure in different ways. When there is a problem with one group, changing to a different group, as your doctor has done, often helps. I have discussed these groups of medications in Special Issue 35-12, How Blood Pressure Medicines Work, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/35-12, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

I'm glad your doctor is helping you lose weight. In overweight individuals, losing excess pounds greatly relieves high blood pressure in many cases. A proper exercise program also helps.

DEAR DR. LAMB: What is your opinion of using methotrexate when treating rheumatoid arthritis? What are the side effects? My doctor wants me to take these pills, but I'm afraid to after reading the literature.

DEAR READER: It is potentially a difficult drug. Anyone taking it needs to be carefully monitored for such problems as bone marrow depression, liver damage and kidney damage. However, in experienced hands, it has been used quite successfully in patients with rheumatoid arthritis. Originally, it was used mostly for malignancies and for psoriasis. It should not be used in a woman who might become pregnant.

You can read all the bad things about this medication, but the long-term use of many of the aspirin-like medications may cause erosion of the stomach and bleeding. For long-term use, they may actually be more dangerous than methotrexate. And they do not have the potential of stopping rheumatoid arthritis, only relieving the inflammation and pain. A number of rheumatologists now believe that methotrexate, gold and prednisone have the potential of arresting the disease, if given before extensive damage has occurred.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had severe rheumatoid arthritis for more than 30 years, and the only medication that was effective was prednisone. I would use it for about a three-week period, beginning with a larger dose and then tapering off. After this kind of treatment for two years, it went into remission.

For the next 18 years, it remained in remission, except for one morning when my hand was swollen when I awakened. But then I fell and broke my wrist seven years ago and since then it is again active.

DEAR READER: There is no question that prednisone will relieve the symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis. The question has always been if the disease is progressing while you are taking the medicine and feeling better. The other concern has been that large doses over a long period of time could be harmful. Particularly, they will suppress the adrenal gland's ability to produce corticosteroids of the cortisone type. Since such hormones are essential to body functions, this can be serious. That is not the only bad effect of large doses over time.

Today, it is generally conceded that if you take small doses of prednisone or other corticosteroid medications of the same type the adrenal gland's function will not be suppressed nor will other significant problems be caused. How small does the dose have to be? Usually 7.5 mg of prednisone or less a day. Larger doses are often used initially in severe cases of rheumatoid arthritis, and the dose gradually decreased, with the intent that the adrenal gland will resume functioning as the dose is tapered off. If there is a delay in the adrenal gland resuming function, it can often be stimulated with a stimulating hormone (adrenocorticotropic hormone — ACTH).

For more information on the current thinking about taking corticosteroids, read Special Issue 34-04, Your Vital Adrenal Steroids (Corticosteroids), which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/34-04, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

I am curious about your broken wrist. Corticosteroids can decrease mineralization of the bone. If you are into your postmenopausal phase of life, you might naturally have osteoporosis rather than having any effects from prednisone.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Please tell me about Zenker's diverticulum. I have had one since 1987 and said to myself each day it would go away. I have had X-rays and my doctors said that it should be taken care of. How serious an operation is it? Is anesthesia safe? That is the one thing that I am afraid of. I'm a 59-year-old male.

Dried herbs will have a stronger flavor if you crush them with your fingers before adding them to your food.

DEAR READER: Zenker's diverticulum is a sac or pocket (diverticulum) in the upper part of the esophagus near the pharynx, in the neck area. Food may accumulate in it. At first it may simply cause problems swallowing. Eventually, the pocket may get so big it obstructs the esophagus, preventing swallowing. It may cause regurgitation of food into the mouth, inhalation and choking on food, coughing and a mass in the neck.

No surgery is pleasant. But it is not real serious surgery. There is more than one operative approach to correction. An anesthetic is not a very great risk for anyone in reasonably good health. Think of all the other people who have had an anesthetic.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

NEW YORK (AP) - A state appeals court has refused to order Engelbert Humperdinck to visit his 15-year-old daughter.

A court in 1980 found that Humperdinck was Jennifer Dorsey's father and ordered him to pay child support.

But the 56-year-old singer has never visited the girl, and since an unwed father can be granted court-ordered visitation privileges, a child should have similar rights, the teen-ager's lawyer, Ira J. Raab told the panel of judges in the appeals division of state Supreme Court.

The court on Tuesday turned down the request.

Humperdinck's lawyer, Samuel Tannenbaum, said the request was frivolous.

FRANKLIN, Tenn. (AP) - Country singer Steve Earle was fined $86 for failing to show up for jury duty in July.

Circuit Judge Connie Clark also ordered the 37-year-old Earle to go sign up for service.

The singer's attorney, Jim Petersen, said Earle had "a lot of things going on" when he received the notice of jury duty and will be glad to serve.

WTSU to sponsor 11th Annual Madrigal Dinner

The WTSU Student Activities Council and the Sybil B. Harrington College of Fine Arts and Humanities will usher in the Christmas season with the 11th annual Madrigal Dinner Dec. 5. Noble lords and ladies of the 16th century will begin the celebration in the Dining Hall at 6:45 p.m. with the traditional wassail bowl. The great holiday feast will begin promptly at 7 p.m. and guests will enjoy the renaissance sounds of the madrigal singers and the Matilda Gaume Early Music Consort.

Tickets will go on sale Monday, Nov. 2 and are available at the Virgil Henson Activities Center front desk, by calling the Student Activities Council at 806/656-2328 or by writing to WTSU Madrigal Dinner, WTSU Box 914, Canyon, Texas 79016. Tickets are $17 for general admission, $8 for students, $5 for WTSU students with valid WTSU identification and $3 for WTSU students with a meal card. Deadline for reservations is 4 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 2.

Profits from the Madrigal Dinner provide scholarships for those students directly involved in the production and performance of the dinner. Donations beyond the ticket price directly benefits those students. Tickets and donations are tax deductible.

Linney to speak Thursday

Jannie Linney of Stanton will be speaking at the Hereford Flame Fellowship meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Hereford Community Center. The public is invited to attend.

Linney is the president of the Midland Outreach Aglow. She is an artist, musician and speaks to women's groups throughout West Texas. She is married to Leroy Linney, a farmer-rancher in Stanton and an international director of Full Gospel Business Men's International. They have three daughters and eight grandchildren.

Jannie has written several books and some of her paintings are currently exhibited in Eureka Springs, Ark., home of the famed "Passion Play."

Almost all really new ideas have a certain aspect of foolishness when they are first produced.

Since 1920, the most successful third party candidate for U.S. President has been George Wallace, running on the American Independent Party in 1968, he racked up 9,906,000 popular votes out of a total of 73,212,000. Nixon won that year by about 510,000.
