Block's quitting will not help

AUSTIN (AP) - U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block's resignation won't mean much change in Reagan adminstration farm policy, Texas Agriculture Secretary Jim Hightower says.

"Secretary Block is an honest, hard-working farmer who simply fell into a haybaler when he went to Washington. It's clear that the Reagan people used him badly, giving him the title of secretary without authority over agricultural policy," Hightower said.

Hightower, a Democrat and vocal critic of President Reagan's farm program, said Block found himself "in a totally untenable and entirely unenviable position."

Block was "both a farmer and the titular chief of the nation's farm program, yet (he had) to administer and serve as mouthpiece for the most anti-farmer program in American history," Hightower said.

The Texas agriculture chief also said he doubts that Block's resignation will quiet farmers' protests.

"If the White House inner circle thinks that getting rid of John Block gets rid of their problems in the farm community, well they ain't seen nothing yet."

Calling Khadafy 'barbarian,' Reagan calls for sanctions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Calling Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy "flaky" and "a barbarian," President Reagan ordered all American companies and workers to quit doing business in Libya and get out by the end of the month to show the United States won't tolerate terrorism.

Addressing a national television audience at his first White House news conference in nearly four months. Reagan announced Tuesday night there was "irrefutable evidence" of Khadafy's involvement in the Dec. 27 airport massacres in Rome and Vienna and called on the European allies "to join with us in isolating him."

He promised unspecified "further steps will be taken" if the latest round of U.S. sanctions fails to end Khadafy's terrorist activities.

The president refused to disclose his evidence against the Libyan leader, saying, "There are things that should not be revealed."

"But I can assure you that we have the evidence," Reagan told a ques-

The passports then "found there way into the hands of those who perpetrated these acts" in which 19 people, including five Americans and four Palestinian terrorists, died.

U.S. officials, however, acknowledged that the imposition of unilateral trade sanctions against Libya are unlikely to have much effect, and the prospects are slim that Libya's major Western trading partners such as Italy and West Germany will go along.

"Civilized nations cannot continue to tolerate in the name of material gain and self-interest the murder of innocents." Reagan said in his prepared statement. "Khadafy deserves to be treated as a pariah in

Inactive reservists attend musters

WASHINGTON (AP) - Last weekend, 145 years since the last such exercise, more than 800 normally inactive Army reservists turned out for a special muster in Cincinnati and New Haven, Conn.

This weekend, another 1,500 are expected in Oakland, Calif., Springfield, Mass., and Indianapolis. By the last weekend of the month, if all goes according to plan, more than 5,000 reservists in 13 cities will have answered a voluntary call to show up for one day of active duty.

The musters this month are expected to help the Army - and the other services - gauge the size of the problem they have with the socalled Individual Ready Reserve before the start of mandatory callups next fall.

While Army officials are making no claims for the future based on last weekend's muster, they express satisfaction with the results.

In New Haven, the Army had projected 420 reservists would appear, whereas 353 actually showed up. In Cincinnati, however, 481 showed up compared to a projected 460, including 65 who never received notices but heard about the muster through the news

Reagan welcomes journalist back

WASHINGTON (AP) - Journalist Sarah McClendon, who has honed the knack of blindsiding presidents with her questions, got a welcome back after surgery with a nationwide audience as witness.

President Reagan not only extended the welcome, but he also accorded her the prized honor of asking the first question at his news rence Tuesday night. True to form, Ms. McClendon passed up the hot topics of Libya, terrorism, spending and taxes and upbraided the president about health care for the elderly.

"It's not that we haven't been holding press conferences," Reagan said after making an opening statement at his first formal meeting with reporters since Sept. 17. "I was just waiting for Sarah to come back." Ms. McClendon, who is correspondent for a number of small newspapers, mostly in Texas, had a hip operation Nov. 26. She didn't miss a presidential news conference in her absence.

The honor Reagan bestowed was risky since Ms. McClendon is known for badgering, browbeating and even bullying presidents who call on her at news conferences.

"I want to call your attention to a real problem we've got in this country today," she told Reagan. The elderly, she said, are worried that future budget cuts will have a severe impact on Medicare.

NRC to hold secret gatherings

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is going ahead with plans to conduct secret "non-meeting gatherings," reversing a policy adopted 10 years ago after the government was widely criticized for concealing its concerns about atomic power plant safety.

According to NRC documents released Tuesday by Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., the change would allow the commissioners to hold private gatherings to discuss the agency's relations with Congress, the news media, the nuclear industry, nuclear opponents and "the public as a whole."

The agency, in the proposed final regulation included among the documents, would redefine the term "meeting" under the 1975 federal Sunshine Act to exclude "gatherings" in which "big picture" discussions about the NRC's mission are aired.

Troubled times ahead for cities?

WASHINGTON (AP) - Economic growth in the nation's cities appears less uniform and robust than it did a year ago, with little improvement seen for the jobless and homeless, a survey of municipal leaders said today.

Only 25 percent of elected officials from 371 cities told the National League of Cities they expect strong economic growth in their area in the new year. At this time in 1985, 45 percent of city leaders looked for a strong economy in the year ahead.

"The momentum of economic recovery is flattening out in most of the nation's cities, and the concern of local government leaders is to keep it from stalling," said Alan Beals, executive director of the National League of Cities.

"Their economic outlook for this year is a good deal more modest than what our survey found a year ago - in terms of their own city outlook and their outlook for the national economy," he said.

Block's departure gets mixed reviews

WASHINGTON (AP) Agriculture Secretary John R. Block, resigning next month, leaves behind a mixed record from his oversight of one of U.S. agriculture's most turbulent periods.

At a news conference to announce his departure, Block listed his proudest moments during the five years he was at USDA's helm: the lifting of the Soviet grain embargo in 1981, the 1983 payment-in-kind acreage-idling program, and the market-oriented policies of the 1985 farm bill.

But throughout his tenure, Block has faced constant criticism for what many saw as his relatively weak standing in the Reagan administration's inner councils and a barrage of questions about his own financial difficulties on his huge hog farm in Il-

He also has had to take the lead in advocating austere administration farm policy proposals that critics said were dictated to Block by hardliners in the administration budget office. Those policies later were softened considerably by Congress, but the stigma on Block has to some extent remained.

"These have been stressful times for our farmers," Block, his wife, Sue, at his side, told a crowd of reporters and department officials Tuesday. "I do believe we are starting to turn the corner. We'll see better times ahead."

Speculation on Block's successor has centered on one candidate who likely would have both the president's respect and his ear -Richard E. Lyng, Block's former deputy and President Reagan's state agriculture director when he was governor of California.

Reagan, at his nationally broadcast news conference Tuesday night, gave no hint about Block's successor, saying only, "I'm certainly going to want someone just as Jack was, who has all the experience necessary in that field." He said, "it would be fine if we could come up with a working

At the same time, he is expected to propose more than $50 billion in politically painful domestic program cuts needed to meet the deficit reduction goals in the new Gramm-Rudman budget legislation.

-Reagan opened the question period on a light note, welcoming back White House reporter Sarah McClendon, 75, who had been recuperating from hip surgery. He called her "a true Washington institution" who has kept "eight presidents in all, and me, on their toes over the years."

Ms. McClendon responded with a smile and then asked one of her customary zingers, needling the president on the threat that budget cuts may make Medicare even more costly and asking why the United States could not emulate Canada in providing virtually free medical

"He simply did not have the strength to be secretary of agriculture and get through to the president, and to change the Reagan policies," said Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., a constant administration critic who said he would give Block an "F" grade for his performance.

Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, echoed that criticism in more gentle

"I think a change can be positive," he said, "especially if we have an 'ag' secretary who will fight for farmers as aggressively as (Defense Secretary Caspar) Weinberger fights for defense."

Capitol Hill and industry sources say they believe Lyng, who left USDA a year ago to start his own Washington consulting business, is the most likely choice. But they say Lyng would take the job only if he were given direct access to Reagan and allowed to "clean house" and install his own top staff.

Others mentioned as possibilities for the job include John R. Norton III, an Arizona cotton and vegetable grower who succeeded Lyng in the No. 2 post, and Clayton Yeutter, now U.S. trade representative, who in the past has been interested in the secretary's job.

Clements, White swap barbs

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White and the man he beat in 1982, Republican Bill Clements, are at it again as Clements bids for the GOP's 1986 gubernatorial nomination heats

On Tuesday, Clements said White's re-election could bring on a state income tax. White said Clements doesn't know what he's talking about.

"Today, Mr. White is as insistent as ever that he would never allow a state personal income tax. He is adamant about it ... Trouble is, no one believes Mark White." Clements said.

"If Mark White is re-elected, Texas will have a state personal income tax. Believe it. It is as sure as the sun rises in the east."

Responding, White was caustic. "That man talks like a tree fell on him," White said. "I think you will find we will not have to raise taxes."

During a session with news reporters, Clements said that if elected he would oppose any effort to impose a personal income tax. He also said "I would not" have approved the $4.8 billion sales and motor fuel tax increases White signed into law in 1984.

Walter Mondale in 1984, said farmers weren't upset with Block.

"People in the countryside aren't mad at Block; they're mad at the idiotic, insensitive agricultural policies that have created a raging farm depression and are driving good competitors out of business,' Hightower said.

"Block is gone, but this administration's horrendous farm policies remain."

Hightower, who Monday urged Texas farmers and ranchers to wage "all-out war" against Farmers Home Administration plans to foreclose on some delinquent loans, said he believes Block made the best of a bad situation in the Reagan cabinet.

One of Block's leading foes throughout his tenure, U.S. House Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, said he was sorry to see Block go. Their dif-ferences were philosophical, not personal, he said.

"If you are going to have these dif-ferences, it might as well be with so-meone who is kind and considerate, and Jack Block has been that;" de la Garza said. He added that Block had to carry a beavy burden, particularly in leading the charge on Reagan's austere farm-policy proposals.

White said Clements made statements in the past he has since gone back on. "The last thing I remember him

Once becoming liable and registered, the employer every quarter must report a name, social security number and total earnings of each employee.

Ballard said the starting tax rate is 2.7 percent of total wages up to the first $7,000. After payment of six quarters the state will automatically compute a new rate. He said the highest rate paid last year was 8.34 percent.

Maintaining extensive records on all employees may help keep a farmer's unemployment tax rate down. Ballard suggested keeping not only financial records, but details on why each person was fired or layed off from work. Unemployment filings alone do not affect a tax rate, but claims granted do.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You do such a good job of educating American parents that I hope you'll help get the word out on the most common unnecessary surgery performed today on American children. We learned the hard way.

Ten years ago the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American College of Obstetricians found that there was no medical reason for circumcision of newborns. Nobody told us that. While the practice today is declining in the USA and has been abandoned in Canada, Britain and Western Europe, nearly two-thirds of American newborns are still having the surgery even though al the old "health" myths (cancer, cleanliness, mental illness, etc.) have been discredited by the medical community. Except in a few rare cases, the only reason to circumcise is for well-established religious beliefs.

Austin tops spending per resident among Texas cities

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Austin 1983 figures for each city. city government spent the most per resident among Texas cities last year, almost a third more than second-place San Antonio, according to a U.S. Census Bureau report released Tuesday.

Two Texas cities, Houston and San Antonio, raised over $1 billion in revenues, according to the agency.

Dallas had the highest per capita property taxes, collecting $188 per resident. Houston was second, collecting $177, and Plano was third with $173 in per capita property taxes.

Laredo collected the least per person in property taxes — $42.

Like most of the cities in the rest of the nation, Texas municipalities got the bulk of their money from taxes, with property taxes accounting for over half of tax revenues.

The figures were for fiscal year 1984, which ended Sept. 30, 1984.

The Census Bureau said total income for cities nationwide was $134.5 billion, up 7.5 percent over the previous year, the lowest increase

In fiscal 1984, the agency reported, Austin spent $2,039 per resident, while San Antonio spent $1,486. Bryan was third, with $1,463 in per capita expenditures.

Austin also raised the most per resident, $1,718. Bryan was second with per capita revenues of $1,355 and San Antonio third at $1,271.

Bryan spent the most per resident on police protection, $96 a person, while Brownsville spent the least, $40

Dallas was second in per capita expenditures for police protection, $95, and Austin was third at $91.

Of the categories of expenditures included in the study, Austin was shown spending the most per resident on hospitals, $181.

Of San Antonio's expenditures on its citizens, it gave police protection top priority, spending $63 per person, while Bryan put more emphasis on highways, spending $87 per capita. Houston collected $1.3 billion in revenues, the highest in the state. San Antonio was second, collecting over $1.04 billion, and Dallas was The agency did not release the FY third in total revenues, $740 million.

the new president and Lajean Henry was named "Woman of the Year" for 1985 when the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce held its annual officer installation dinner Tuesday night at the Community Center.

Other officers installed by Helen Langley included: Peggy Fox, first vice president; Sue Malamen, second vice president; Linda Daniel, secretary; and board members Joanne Hill, Billie Hopson and Betty

After accepting the president's gavel from Betty Drake, Mrs. Leasure announced her theme for the year would be "Friendship, enthusiasm, success.'

She said "friendship is walking close fellowship with women you want to know and whom, without the Women's Division, you may never have had the opportunity to meet; enthusiasm is the telescope that brings the misty, distant future into the radiant, tangible present and makes getting the job done much more ex- tree ceremony; Eloise Smith, citing and fun; and success is a favorable or prosperous result of anything attempted."

Before the installation of new officers. Mrs. Drake reviewed activities of the past year. The club's work included the Little Miss Pageant, pet show, supper for Cowgirl Hall of Fame honorees, tennis tournament, 'a display at the Town & Country Jubilee for the first time, a July 4th Fun Breakfast, and showing displays for Artists of the Month, placing petunias in downtown planter boxes, conducting the Beauty Spots of month, sponsoring the mon-lighting contest, Christmas tree lighting and arrival of Santa Claus at courthouse, and quarterly meetings.

Mrs. Drake challenged members each in 1986, and she praised her board members, committee chairmen and all workers during the year. The organization now has 150

Following the installation of officers by Mrs. Langley, Frances Parker provided a musical climax by singing "Trees." The meeting was attended by 46 persons.

Mrs. Leasure announced the appointment of committee chairmen for the year. All members will be notified of the committee to which they have been assigned. The chairmen include:

Jane White, animal action; Avis Blakely, beautification; Sidney Kerr, Beauty Spots of Month; Betty. Taylor and Carol Kelley, blood bank; Anita Hampton, Christmas lighting contest; Betty Drake, Christmas

ASTHMATIC OLYMPIANS SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The 1984 Olympics performance of American athletes with asthma demonstrated that - with proper medical management - people with exercise-induced asthma can participate in sports like anyone else, according to Family Practice News.

The medical journal reports that of 667 participants in the 1984 Summer Games, 67 had asthma and they won 41 medals, including 15 gold medais.

Exercise-induced asthma affects 10 to 12 percent of Americans, and 80 to 90 percent of all asthma patients experience aggravation due to exercise and generally shun sports, the publica-

Tour of genealogy resource room scheduled Thursday

The public is invited to a genealogy tour at Deaf Smith County Library at 8 p.m. Thursday. The tour is being sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society.

Visitors are welcome to come and see the library's genealogy resource

Books are added to the genealogy room by local library funds, and fund raising activities of the society and others, and by memorial gifts.

The society takes the memorial gifts and adds several together to purchase genealogy books, some expensive and some inexpensive.

Cards are sent to the family so they will know a gift has been made in their loved one's memory. Any memorial gift can be mailed to treasurer Nell Norell at 203 Elm. All gifts of any size are appreciated and are used for book purchases only.

For additional information about the Genealogical Society call 364-3176, 364-2913 or 364-4475.

Herd defeats Dons in double OT thriller, 77-76

By GARY CHRISTENSEN Sports Editor

For the second week in a row, the Hereford Whiteface varsity boys' basketball team won a close ball game, but this one took longer to get add something to the "win column."

The Herd need two overtimes to pull out a 77-76 victory over the Palo Duro Dons Tuesday night at the Hereford High School gym. Last week, Hereford defeated Lubbock Coronado 51-49 on a last-second shot in regulation time.

The winning shot Tuesday night came with five seconds left when Stefan Hacker hit a jump shot from the left side of the basket.

The Whitefaces preserved the victory by knocking the ball out of bounds from Palo Duro with one second left, and intercepting a Palo Duro pass toward the Don basket.

Tuesday's thriller improved the Whitefaces' District 3-5A record to 2-4 and their season record to 7-11.

In a junior varsity contest Tuesday, Palo Duro scored a 66-48 win over Hereford, dropping Hereford to a 6-10 season record.

The Hereford teams play at Tascosa High School Friday night, with the junior varsity game set for 6 p.m. and the varsity game for 7:45 p.m. Hereford hosts Lubbock High next Tuesday night.

The Whiteface varsity held a 56-49 lead over Palo Duro with 4:47 left in regulation time when Rodney Torres scored a three-point play. Palo Duro, however, fought back to tie the game at 57-57 with 2:35 left in the fourth quarter.

Rodney McCracken gave Hereford a short-lived lead with a field goal with 2:06 left. Palo Duro tied it up with 1:45 left, 59-59.

Hereford committed a turnover with 1:35 left, and Palo Duro gained a 61-59 lead with 1:03 left. Before that, the Dons' only leads of the game were 2-0, 4-2, 6-4, 8-6, and 10-6 in the first half.

Hereford had led at halftime, 31-30, and Palo Duro moved to within two points of the Whitefaces, 47-45, early in the fourth quarter before Hereford achieved its 56-49 lead.

Just 13 seconds after Palo Duro had gained its 61-59 lead, Bobby Baker tied it up again, 61-61, with a

Palo Duro got its lead back with 20 seconds left, 63-61. The Whitefaces lost the ball with 14 seconds left, and fouled a Don player with 10 seconds

Palo Duro failed in the first attempt of the one-and-one, and Baker was fouled after he rebounded the missed free throw. Baker made two pressure-packed free throw attempts with eight seconds left to even the score at 63-63. Palo Duro failed to score in the remaining seconds, and the contest went into overtime.

Baker quickly gave the Herd a 65-63 lead with two free throws with 2:39 left in the first overtime. Palo Duro then made a pair of free throws with 2:27 left.

The Whitefaces moved into the lead again with 2:16 left when Stefan Hacker made one of two free throws. Baker made the lead three points with two more free throws with 2:10

Palo Duro made the first free throw in a one-and one, and scored a basket after rebounding a missed attempt on the other free throw, tying the game at 68-68.

Moments later, Baker was fouled in the act of shooting and made one of the free throws for a 69-68 Whiteface lead. Palo Duro was then whistled for a double dribble violation with 1:19 left, still in the first overtime.

With 49 seconds left, Rodney Mc-Cracken gave Hereford a two-point lead when he made one of two free throws. The contest was tied up once more when Palo Duro scored a field goal with 28 seconds left.

Hereford failed in some opportunities to score a game-winning field goal when one shot was blocked out of bounds and another shot was missed. The ball was tied up on the rebound of the missed shot, and Hereford had possession of the ball at its end of the court.

Palo Duro stole the inbounds pass but did not get a shot off before the buzzer sounded, and the contest went into a second overtime period.

Palo Duro scored first in the second overtime with a field goal for a 72-70 lead. Hereford committed a turnover, but Rodney Torres stole the ball right back when the Dons inbounded the ball.

Kevin Hansen made one of two free throws to move Hereford to within one point. Palo Duro failed to score in its next possession, but a turnover with 1:12 left hurt the Whitefaces' chances to go into the lead at that Palo Duro made its lead three points, 74-71, with a field goal with 58 seconds left. Torres, who was fouled in the act of shooting with 47 seconds left, made both free throws to close the gap to 74-73.

The Dons again held a three-point lead, 76-73, with a pair of free throws with 38 seconds left. Hacker hit a shot for the Whitefaces with 24 seconds left.

Then with 15 seconds left, a Palo Duro player was called for a charging foul. Baker drew the charge.

That set the stage for Hacker's game-winning shot with five seconds left, putting the Herd on top, 77-76, for the victory.

Hereford Coach Mike Fields said, "It's good for the kids to win some of the close ones, when at the start of the year we lost so many close

"As badly as they beat us last year, it's nice to come back and beat them this year," Fields continues.

"We made a lot of mistakes down the stretch, but the kids hustled; and hitting the big free throws kept us in the game.

"Stefan Hacker played a real good game. He hit some good shots at the start of the game, and a couple of shots in overtime. Rodney Torres and Bobby Baker had solid games again.

"We shot the ball real well to offset the talent they have. We shot 74 percent from the line and 51 percent from the field.

"We've played 18 games now, and just three at home. Our record is 7-11, and we've lost seven games by six points or less," Fields said.

'We've done a lot better than a lot of people expected us to. It's because of the kids' hard work and not giving

"I told the kids we don't need any more of these double overtime games, because I don't have that much hair left!" Fields adds.

Baker led the Hereford scoring attack with 23 points, including five of six free throws in first overtime period. Baker made nine of 11 free throws in the contest, and seven of 10 field goal attempts.

Also in double figures were Torres with 17 points and Hacker with 14 points. Five of Hacker's points were scored in the overtime periods.

Other HHS scorers included Doug Watts with eight points and Rodney McCracken with seven points.

As a team, the Whitefaces made 24 of 47 field goal attempts and 29 of 39 free throws. In contrast, Palo Duro had 18 free throws, making eight of them. The Dons, who scored 34 field goals, took more than 70 shots in the

HHS playoff hopes becoming slim

By GARY CHRISTENSEN Sports Editor

A crushing blow to its playoff hopes was suffered by the Hereford High School varsity girls' basketball team when it lost to Palo Duro 50-47 Tuesday night in Hereford.

The loss drops the Whitefaces to 4-4 in District 3-5A, halfway through the district season. Overall, Hereford is

The HHS junior varsity recorded its third victory of the 1985-86 season Tuesday by defeating Palo Duro 44-36. The Hereford junior varsity girls have eight defeats.

On Friday, Hereford plays at Tascosa High School. The varsity game is set for 6 p.m. and the junior varsity game at 7:45 p.m. Next action after that will be on Thursday, Jan. 16 when Hereford plays at home against Lubbock High School.

The Whiteface varsity girls struggled from the field Tuesday, hitting 19 of 59 shots for 32 percent in the 50-47 loss to Palo Duro.

Palo Duro held a slim lead of 28-27 at halftime, but in the third quarter, Hereford did not score again until there was 1:03 left. Palo Duro led 41-31 when the third period ended.

Sarah Fish and Emma Gonzales scored field goals in the first minute and a half of the fourth quarter to bring the Whitefaces within six points, 41-35. Palo Duro built its lead back up to eight points, 45-37, with 4:54 left in the game, and also had a $39 lead less than a minute later.

Hereford then scored the next six points of the game, the first two points on a field goal by Natalie Sims with four minutes left. Gonzales then hit a pair of shot to put Hereford within two points of the Lady Dons, 47-45, with 2:28 left.

The second of Gonzales' baskets came after she stole the ball from Palo Duro.

Natalie Sims stole the ball from the Lady Dons with 2:20 left, but Hereford failed to capitalize on the opportunity to tie the game.

Palo Duro put its lead back to four points with a pair of free throws with 2:09 left. Hereford missed a shot with one minute left, but Palo Duro turned the ball over just six seconds later.

Susie Kalka then made two free throws with 37 seconds left. Palo Duro made one of two free shots with 21 seconds for what became its final margin over Hereford, 50-47. After that free throw, Hereford failed to get a shot off and turned the ball over with seven seconds left in the game.

Hereford's five starters were able to hit just 15 of 42 shots from the field and nine of 18 free throws.

Sarah Fish was high scorer for Hereford with 13 points, and Emma Gonzales and Shelly Edwards each scored 10 points. Natalie Sims had nine points. Edwards grabbed 11 re-

DORSETT'S HONOR
DALLAS (AP) — Tony Dorsett, the skittery running back of the Dallas

Cowboys, joined an elite group when he reached the 10,000-yard mark in rushing in the 1985 season. Only five men had done it before him — Walter Payton, Jim Brown, Franco Harris, O.J. Simpson, and John Riggins. "It is something to be proud of because it is not a one-year things," Dorsett said. "A lot of great runners never made it."

Dorsett, only 5-11 and 185 pounds, is the shortest and lightest man to reach the coveted 10,000-yard plateau.

Couple say they leave private lives at home

NEEDHAM, Mass. (AP) - Chet Curtis and Natalie Jacobson may be husband and wife at home, but when they take their seats behind the news anchor desk at WCVB-TV, their private lives don't even enter the picture.

"When I sit on that set I don't think of Chet and Nat," said Ms. Jacobson. "I don't have time to think of that. I just think about the story I'm telling you."

Added Curtis: "We don't even come to work together, mostly."

The couple, married 10 years ago after meeting at the station, are one of the few husband-wife news anchor teams in the nation.

Nationally, the most well-known couples are on Cable News Network, where Chris Curle and Don Farmer share the prime-time newscasts "Prime News" and "CNN Evening News," and Lois Hart and Dave Walker co-anchor "Take Two" in the afternoon.

The two CNN couples already were married when they joined CNN at its beginning in 1980. One other married couple at CNN, Lou Dobbs of "Moneyline" and sports anchor Debbi Segura, met at the network.

In the highly competitive Boston market, Ms. Jacobson and Curtis have anchored news shows together at WCVB for more than a decade, and for the past 31/2 years they have presented the two nightly newscasts.

"Co-anchoring is a very difficult thing,' said Ms. Jacobson, 42. "You can't just sit next to that person. For think the product we present is better it to work, you have to have some kind of on-air relationship there."

Ms. Jacobson and Curtis certainly have more in common than other coanchors, but Curtis, 46, said that bond could become a handicap.

Curtis said he doesn't know of any negative reaction from station employees or viewers to WCVB's selection of a married couple as coanchors.

Several years ago, Curtis said, he and his wife balked when the station considered promoting them as the husband-and-wife news team.

"I don't want people to watch us solely because we're married, (that) we're Mr. and Mrs. News. I want people to watch us because they than the competition, that we know what we're talking about."

Judging by fan mail and ratings they are consistently either No. 1 or 2 in the Boston television market viewers seem to agree with him.

Despite their high salaries (it has been reported they jointly make $1.2 million a year) and high ratings, Ms. Jacobson and Curtis said they make sacrifices because of their fame.

"You give up a lot when you're doing this," said Curtis. "I'm not knocking the job. But there's a price you pay, too, in terms of your private life."

this will stop. What should I do? DEAR READER - It sounds to me as though you have developed a chronic infection within the operative site. This could be due to foreign matter, like a stitch, that has persisted in the scar. The milk ducts also may be chronically inflamed. I think the best approach for you would be to seek a surgical opinion from another consultant. Although you may require another operation to clean out the infected area, this option seems preferable to putting up with a chronically draining

DEAR DR. GOTT - One day I woke up with a pounding headache. My docfor treated me for congested sinus. Then I went to a chiropractor, who stretched my legs until they "cracked." Now I can't get out of bed in the morning without severe pain. My friends tell me it's my age (75). I never think of my age and was looking forward to being an active old lady.

Could it be a pinched nerve? DEAR READER - It certainly could. I can't, for the life of me, figure out why a chiropractor would attempt to treat your headache by stretching your legs. You don't define the location of your present pain, but I believe you would be best served by making an appointment with a reputable neurologist. If there is a pinched nerve, such a specialist will be able to diagnose the condition and suggest

DEAR DR. GOTT - I discovered a bump in one of my testicles. It does not hurt or interfere with ejaculations. I'm 25. What should I do about this?

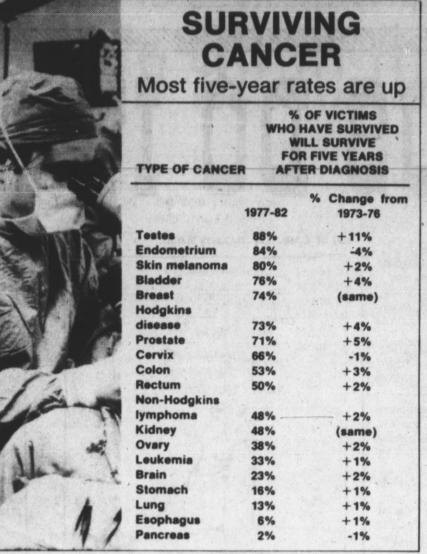

DEAR READER - Get to a urologist. Although testicular lumps are usually benign and insignificant, malignant tumors can occur. You need to see a specialist who is trained to evaluate abnormalities of the male reproductive tract.

Abundant Life

LIFE IS BEFORE US By Bob Wear

WE ARE HEARING much about resolutions, wishes for this new year, about inventories, business evaluation, taxes, world conditions, and such like. All of these and related matters are of some concern to all of us. In the midst of these considerations, you and I have some living to do, and we can do reasonably well; if it is our desire to do so.

IT IS IMPORTANT, very important, for all of us to realize that wherever we are going in the life movement through time, we must go from here. 'Life is before us', not behind us; however, we do have a past and this is just exactly what we should let it be - the past. Yes, there will be memories, some pleasant and some unpleasant. In order to make the best of the present and the future, we must manage these memories and not permit them to manage us. WE MUST FORGET the past, in the sense that we do not try to drag it along with us. We need all of our strength and our energy for today to help make the most of present privileges and opportunities. With this view of living, we can devote ourselves to the concept of wise management of time, money, energy and self. This will be our best preparation for whatever future we may have.

AS WE MOVE ALONG, it will be helpful for us to remember that the quality of life may be more important than life itself. It is encouraging to know that, to a limited degree, we can make the quality of life about what we wish it to be. "Life is fruitful in the ratio in which it is laid out in noble action and patient perseverance."-Liddon.

USING THE BEST available value system, it is possible for us to reach out to the life that is before us and to press on in the strength and the light

Pennington elected

Sharon Pennington was elected Club Sweetheart for the Good Timers Square Dance Club recently when the group also elected officers.

To serve as officers for the next six months are Tommy and Madeline Rosson, president; Lester and Frances Rape, treasurer; John and Teddie Poindexter, secretaryreporter; and Sonny and Carolyn Evers, social chairmen. Herrick Allen of Amarillo was the guest caller for the evening's regular dance and visitors from Starlite Squares of Amarillo were welcomed. Refresments were served by the

The next dance will be Jan. 17 with Ronnie Woods calling.

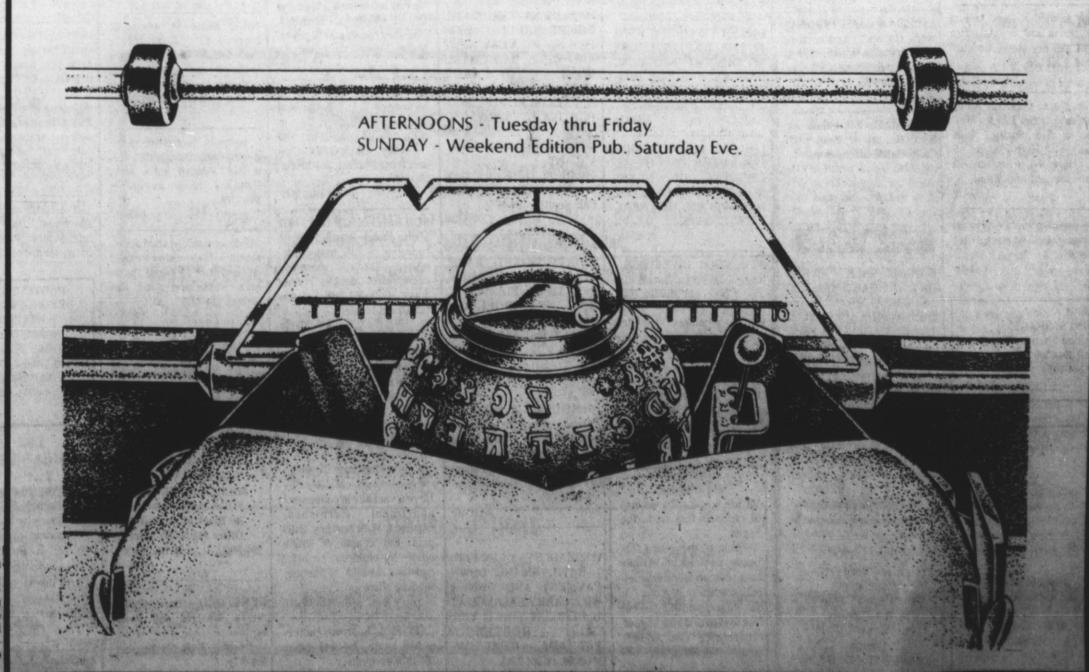

Curling is a sport that resembles shuffleboard or lawn bowling and entails throwing stones at a house. It is played on a large strip of ice and uses a stone that weighs 38 pounds.

September, 1985, a total of 38 children, ages 04, died in automobile accidents. This is a 63 percent reduction from the same time period in 1984. As tragic as it is to lose a child, the needless harm to our children continues to exist. There were an additional 275 children, ages 0-4, who received severe disabling injuries in automobile accidents in the first nine months of 1985. Of that number, 193 children were not buckled with safety belts or in a safety seat. PORTLAND, Maine (AP) - It's anybody's guess how much trash actually has been neatly packed up and mailed to Moammar Khadafy.

But whether it's enough to fill a wastebasket or a landfill, an unmistakeable point has been made, says the manager of a Maine radio station that called on its listeners to use parcels of "clean garbage" to send the Libyan leader an antiterrorist message.

The alligator has been on good behavior during his stay, even though he is seldom in a good mood, Foster said.

"He's just like a mother-inlaw. He has a bad disposition," Foster said.

But Foster's real pride and joy is his deer farm. Foster has been keeping deer on his land adjacent to the jail for 11 years. He has nine deer right now, including two bucks.

The deer are kept on a lot by the main road in Anderson and people are always stopping by to visit. The deer have never been abused, Foster says, probably because people know better than to fool with anything belonging to the sheriff.

Foster is not a hunter and got his first deer from Game Warden Robert Lys. Foster said Lys had picked up the deer in the woods and thought it was dead. He put in his pickup truck and showed it to Foster asked the warden if he could have the deer, and Lys told him it was dead. But Foster saw that the deer had an eye open and he nursed him back to health on a bot-tle. As soon as he was sure the keep deer — just to stay on the right side of the law.

Woman teaches weaving techniques

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) -Five little girls surround Kay Maxham as she threads yarn for a needlepoint project. They hop up and down in the cold morning air, chattering to each other and selfconsciously comparing nail polish colors and costume jewelry.

"It's all right if you make mistakes. You should make mistakes," she tells them.

They stop, captured by a teacher who wants them to make mistakes. Soon they are trying it themselves. Without raising her voice or tapping knuckles, Mrs. Maxham has her class in the palm of her hand.

It is Saturday morning at the Southwest Craft Center, and 60 children are trying crafts such as painting, batik, papermaking and stained glass. Adult volunteers and parents mill about the stone courtyard, watching their children as well as experimenting themselves. In the midst of all this, Mrs. Maxham calmly supervises the weaving and the needlework. This program is her baby, an idea she helped start 16 years ago as a way to allow children - many underprivileged - to discover art. Mrs. Maxham is a well-known Southwestern weaver, and 40 years after warping (threading with yarn) her first loom, she is still winning prizes and acclaim. But she is a teacher first, and it is what she most enjoys. Her students - many of them now noted weavers - say Mrs. Maxham brought the craft to San Antonio through her devotion to weaving and her commitment to the art of teaching. "She's very enthusiastic and dedicated to helping people, not only in weaving, but she's the type of person if you ever needed anything she'd be right there to help you," says weaver Romayne Mertens, Mrs. Maxham's former student and now a close friend.

As head of the Southwest Craft Center's weaving department for the past 15 years, Mrs. Maxham has helped raise a generation of of local weavers. As a teacher of both adults and children, she has helped cultivate more sensitivity to weaving - and art in general - in this city.

"I really think her gift to society is as an educator and communicator even more than her work, which I also think is brilliant," Southwest decided to choose and then my Craft Center director Jeffrey Moore goal became to start a school. That's hair and deep dimples. She is a gen- says. tle woman whose flashes of subtle and self-deprecating wit stop her from being placid. Her face is lined, and she wears little makeup; it fits her take-me-as-I-am spirit.

Her students say she is patient, by the intricate process of preparing a loom. (Her assistants help with the beginners.) Local weavers also say she has helped build one of the best

"I would say she single-handedly developed the most advanced and complete fibers school in the Southwest. There is not a fiber department that is as large or as good as hers," Moore says.

Although she weaves in a more restrained and simple style, she en-

"Whatever a student does on the loom, she makes the student feel it's just the right thing," say former student Paul Cato, a vice president at Tesoro Petroleum Corp. and enthusiastic weaver.

"Her classes were almost like having a one-on-one type of teaching, except there was only one of her and 26 of us," he said.

Cato weaves clothing for his wife, Effie, who is also a weaver. He also makes shawls for his mother and blankets for his sons. (This, he says, helped convince them weaving is not "ladies' work.")

Mrs. Maxham had never touched a loom when she moved to San Antonio in the early 1940s with her husband Kenneth, who died in 1978. While he taught at Fox Tech High School, she reared two sons: Kenneth, now a Dallas electronic engineer, and Robert, a local photographer who lives with her. One day a friend took her to a meeting of the Handweaver's Guild, a small group of women interested in reviving what Mrs. Maxham said had become a dying craft.

Weaving had completely gone out of style. There were some women who would spin their own yarn but they wouldn't weave it," she says. She started taking classes at the San Antonio Art Institute and soon began teaching there. She also served as head of the guild three times before helping establish the Southwest Craft Center, located first at La Villita and then on the former downtown grounds of Ursuline Academy. She helped start the Saturday Discovery program for children and then established the center's extensive weaving department. That was 15 years ago, and today the weaving program has 45 looms, five teachers and Mrs. Maxham. She is there four days a week, coaching beginners, explaining intricate weaving patterns to more advanced students and helping children weave their first belts.

It took her a while to begin weaving seriously, Mrs. Maxham says.

"It was a searching process. I kept on with my weaving while I investigated other crafts. One day I still my goal - to have the best At 74, Mrs. Maxham has soft gray weaving school in the country," she

> Although artistic as a child, she wasn't encouraged toward art.

"My third grade teacher told me I was too messy to do art," she says with a small smile.

Messiness is definitely encouragespecially with beginners confused ed, both in her studio at the center and in her workshop at home. At the craft center, her students show up between classes to work on their looms and be with each other. In the weaving departments in the United 'old wooden building, the feeling is warm and homey. "We've become like a family here. We're like a soap opera without the violence," Mrs. Maxham say.

At home, she has her woven shag rugs on the floors, large handwoven canvases on the walls and a delicately hued handwoven screen in the corner of her living room. ("My house is pretty much handwoven," she say.) The look is rich and textured.

She has her handwoven clothing in every closet in the house, including the popular sweater jackets he began designing a few years ago. They sell for about $300, and she has a backlog of private commissions for the wool garments. She also made her living room and kitchen curtains. The 50 yards of cotton, mohair and rayon fabric took her five months to weave, "but I've never been sorry." She says she's too practical to make her own sheets and "I can make my clothing. I can make household fabrics, but I don't want to weave something I could go down to the store and buy," she says. "I don't compare this to pionee weaving. It's glamorous to me."

It's also very sophisticated. When she's not weaving or teaching, Mrs. Maxham sits at her computer to plan her weaving patterns. Weaving demands patience and constant attention to small detail. It often takes more time to prepare the loom than actually weave. And the craft - like most - doesn't pay well. Mrs. Maxham says she wouldn't have been able to make a living at weaving alone.

"A year ago one of my ruanas (aponcho-like wrap) sold for $600 at an auction to raise money for the Craft Center. It wasn't worth that, but I was amazed and flattered," she She's even more flattered when her students do well.
