State trying to vacate stay for Candy Man

NEW ORLEANS (AP) -Texas Attorney General Mark White said an aide would travel to Washington today to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to vacate the stay of execution granted Ronald Clark O'Bryan by a federal appeals court here.

O'Bryan, known to fellow Death Row inmates as the "Candy Man," was condemned for killing his son with a Halloween sweet laced with cyanide in 1974.

The former Deer Park, Texas optician had been scheduled Sunday - Halloween - to become the first convict in the United States to be executed by lethal injec-

White, campaigning in South Texas as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, said he sent Assistant Attorney General Leslie Benitez to ask Justice Byron White to lift the stay and permit the execution to proceed.

"Nobody likes to see an execution occur," White said. "Our job is to see that the law is upheld, and that's what we're doing."

White's spokeswoman,

White will be seeking to overturn a 2-1 decision issued by a three-judge panel from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The panel also ordered expedited hearings on the issues raised in the appeal - including the way some jurors were excluded from the 1975 trial in Houston.

Richard Windhorst, clerk of the appeals court, said the case will be heard in the week of Jan. 24, but no specific date In the opinion, the majority concluded that a "substantial question" was raised by O'Bryan's claims that his trial was not fair because three people who expressed reservations about the death penalty were excluded from

The justices said the stay was granted to allow adequate time to review O'Bryan's claims.

"A significant segment of the American population harbors serious reservations about the death penalty, and

... the exclusion from jury service of persons who have such reservations would result in a jury unconstitutionally composed because it is not representative of the community," the appeals court ruled.

Economic recovery remains dependent upon improvement in general business

By ROBERT BURNS AP Business Writer

Some corporate executives glum about third-quarter business results say the nation's ailing economy is showing few signs of recovery.

Donald H. Trautlein, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., said Wednesday he doesn't believe an economic upturn has begun. He made the comment while reporting the company's $209 million loss for the third quarter.

"Recovery remains dependent on broad improvement in general business conditions, renewal of confidence in the domestic economy, further moderation of interest rates and a decline in the level of (steel) imports," Trautlein said.

Thomas A. Burtis, chairman of Sun Co., the nation's 12th-largest oil firm, reported a 28 percent drop in thirdquarter profits.

"Our industry, like all others, is continuing to feel the effects of the recession," Burtis said.

Meanwhile, a Dun & Bradstreet Corp. survey said the number of executives expecting to cut payrolls during the current business quarter was greater than the number planning to increase payrolls. Dun & Bradstreet said it was the first time that had happened in one of its quarterly surveys since 1954.

In other economic developments Wednesday:

DOE drilling resumes in county

Drilling has begun at a new site in Deaf Smith County and has been completed at a site in Swisher County as part of the U.S. Department of Energy's (DOE) continuing study of salt deposits for a possible repository site for the disposal of high-level nuclear waste.

In mid-October, drilling began at a new hydrologic test well located at the J.

Friemel No. 1 site northwest of Hereford.

The borehole will be drilled to a depth of about 8,500 feet to obtain information on the physical and chemical characteristics of the rock and shallow and deep groundwater systems. Four-inch rock cores will be obtained at selected intervals for examiniation, and downhole geophysical logs will be run to obtain data for comparison with information from surrounding wells. Long-term hydrologic pump tests will be conducted in deep brine aquifers to obtain water samples to study the deep basin hydrologic system.

At the Harman No. 1 borehole, eight miles north of Tulia in Swisher County, drilling began July 29 and was concluded Sept. 2. The hole was drilled to a total depth of 3,051 feet during the 36 days to obtain information about salt characteristics and ground-water systems in the area, including potential salt dissolution. Salt beds of 64-foot thickness were encountered at the 2,495-foot depth and of 170-foot thickness at the 2,651-foot

The Harman and J. Friemel test wells are the eighth and ninth boreholes drilled by DOE as part of the Panhandle studies. Cores and other information obtained from present field activities will be analyzed by the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology and DOE as part of DOE's long-term studies of geologic, environmental, socioeconomic factors in Texas and other states to identify suitable sites for a repository.

Preliminary data continue to indicate the salt beds in Deaf Smith and Swisher Counties have gross thickness and quality believed necessary for siting a deep geologic repository. Approximately 200 square miles in Swisher County and 450 square miles in Deaf Smith County are being studied.

In addition to bedded salt in the Palo Duro Basin and in southeastern Utah, DOE is currently investigating salt domes in Louisiana and Mississippi, basalt (solidified lava) at the DOE Hanford Site near Richland, Washington, and tuff (compacted volcanic ash) at the Nevada Test Site as alternatives for siting the nation's first repository: DOE has begun screening crystalline rocks in 17 Appalachian and Lake Superior states as potential sites for a second repository.

In 1983, DOE plans to select three candidate sites from among those under study for at-depth geologic testing and construction of exploratory shafts. These three sites will include a tuff site in Neveda, a basalt site in Washington, and a salt site yet to be determined. For selection of the salt site the Palo Duro Basin will be compared with the Paradox Basin in Utah and the Gulf Coast Interior salt domes. By 1987 DOE will select one of the three candidate sites for a nuclear waste repository and, by 1988, will apply for a license from the Nuclear Regulartory Commission. Following four years of licensing review and six-year construction phase, the first repository will be in operation about

Soon after he assumed the state comptroller's office in 1975, Bob Bullock began making headlines by personally leading raids on business establishments that had not passed along sales taxes to the state.

He waged such a vigorous media campaign, that his staff once jokingly sent out a. press release announcing there would be no Bullock press release that day.

Such activity could have been interpreted as an ambitious man's move to gain attention for a run at a higher office. Gov. Jerry Brown of California, for instance, parlayed a usually mundane secretary of state's job into the governorship and now seeks a U.S. Senate seat.

But Bullock, 53, has warmed to his job, and after a wellpublicized bout with alcoholism from which he says he has fully recovered, he seeks this year only to keep it, boasting of the increases in state revenues through tax collections since he has been in office.

Bullock's challenger is 45-year-old one-term legislator and Houston banker Mike Richards, who won the Republican nomination for comptroller after his state Senate seat was drastically changed through redistricting. Bullock, one of the three members of the state Legislative Redistricting Board, returned from a California alcoholism treatment center just in time to vote for the redistricting.

Even before Richards announced he was running for Bullock's job, Bullock filed a campaign law violation complaint against his rumored opponent. Bullock charged Richards had begun collecting campaign contributions before he appointed a campaign treasurer.

Since then, Richards has made the cost of running the comptroller's office his major contention in the campaign, even though Richards voted for Bullock's appropriation last year.

Bullock maintains increased collections more than make up for the increases in the comptroller's office budget. State revenues have increased about $275 million a year since he has been in office.

Long distance rates increased

AUSTIN. Texas (AP) Southwestern Bell's 1980 rate hike request, which went to the courts, has finally ended with a 10 percent increase in intrastate long distance rates.

Public Utility Commission spokesman Rick Hainline said Wednesday the increase would give Bell the $16 million in additional revenues the courts said was justified.

The 10 percent increase on intrastate calls, which covers only calls made from non-coin telephones, was effective Monday when the commissioners approved the agreed plan.

Bell asked for a $326 million increase in 1980, but the commission approved only $114. State District Judge Harley Clark of Austin ruled the PUC order was $16 million too low.

The 10 percent surcharge will remain in effect until a decision is reached in the rate hike case now before the commission, Hainline said.

Second trial of Brown to begin today

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) - Opening arguments were to begin today in the second capital murder trial of Eroy Edward Brown, an inmate accused of drowning a prison warden.

The trial was to start at 8:30 a.m. before visiting State District Judge Darrell Hester of Brownsville.

It took attorneys seven days to pick the eight men and four women who will decide if Brown acted in selfdefense when he drowned Warden Wallace M. Pack in a prison farm ditch on April 4, 1981.

Brown, whose first trial ended with a hung jury voting 10-2 for acquittal, also is charged with murder in the shooting death of Prison Farm Manager Billy Max Moore. He has not been tried yet in Moore's death.

The deaths of Pack and Moore occurred in Walker County, but the trial was moved here on a change of venue. A motion to move the trial to a third county was denied following the first trial. -

Brown's first trial lasted almost two months and court officials expect the retrial to last about as long.

Farmers may see troubles continue

WASHINGTON (AP) - On the whole, farmers may see their financial troubles continue at least through much of 1983 as the agricultural sector shifts to a more conservative strategy for survival.

An outlook report by the Agriculture Department said Wednesday that "the most favorable financial strategies are much less expansionary, involve less reliance on debt financing and avoid exposure to cashflow shortages."

Unlike most of the 1970s, farm assets are not increasing enough to offset negative cash flow caused by short-term expenses exceeding cash income. Consequently, lenders are less willing to refinance farmers in that situation.

"During the rest of 1982 and 1983, farmers likely will continue to face low crop prices, reduced rates of return, high real interest rates, and cash-flow problems," the report said.

Farmers and investors cannot quickly adjust their debts and assets when economic conditions change. Nor can they easily anticipate when changes are about to occur.

"Clearly, hindsight suggests that the time to switch from an expansionary to a conservative financial strategy was about 1978 or 1979, when famers could have reduced their debts before the 1981-82 period," the report said.

"The time to switch back to a more expansionary strategy will be just as difficult to anticipate. Those farmers who were hesitant to make large changes in the late 1970s - and hence have little debt - may be in the best position to purchase farm assets at bargain prices when prospects start to brighten."

O'Bryan's lawyer had brought the case to the New Orleans court on Monday just five days before the scheduled execution by lethal injection.

The execution would have been the first in Texas since

When the Halloween execution was ordered, State District Judge Michael T. McSpadden told O'Bryan hepicked the date because O'Bryan "ruined Halloween for everyone."

O'Bryan was convicted of giving poisoned candy to his 8-year-old son Timothy, who had returned home with his father and sister, Elizabeth, now 13, after trick-or-treating Oct. 31, 1974.

Evidence presented at the 1975 trial showed that O'Bryan permitted his son to eat one piece of candy before bed and that the boy selected a Pixy Stix, a powdered confection in a plastic tube.

Timothy complained it tasted bitter and drank some Kool-Aid to wash it down: Within moments the boy became ill, O'Bryan told police. The father said he held his son as he went limp and died within an hour.

Medical tests showed Timonty died of cyanide poisoning.

Later, detectives learned O'Bryan had taken out life insurance policies on his children - $20,000 worth on each - without the knowledge of his wife. There were also other policies taken out a few months earlier.

Detectives also learned O'Bryan was short of money. His car was about to be repossessed and he was behind on several other loans. His wife, who later divorced O'Bryan, told investigators her husband had held and lost 21 jobs in five years.

At the trial, friends and coworkers testified O'Bryan showed unusual interest in cyanide and how much was needed to kill. A chemical supply house salesman identified O'Bryan as a man who had inquired about buying Relatives, including his wife, said O'Bryan discussed before the boy was buried how the insurance money would be spent.

O'Bryan's attorneys contend the state was able to present only circumstantial evidence and never proved O'Bryan actually bought cyanide.

The jury deliberated less than an hour before returning a guilty verdict June 3, 1975.

The conviction was appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to review the U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling denied the request for a stay of execution Oct. 20, saying O'Bryan's arguments had no merit.

In the appeal, lawyers characterized O'Bryan as a dreamer with a peaceful nature and said jurors who recommended the death penalty did not give enough consideration to his peaceful nature.

It's an exciting time

What an exciting time to be

It may be rough on reactionaries who prefer the status to remain quo, but if we can keep our intellectual arteries sufficiently pliable to adapt to and accept inevitable change, what a thrilling decade this will be!

I have been fascinated by the development of optional fuels since long before the Arab oil embargo.

I watched race cars runing on alcohol for 14 years and wondered why your car didn't. I was an early investor in Billings Energy when Roger Billings pioneered the development of hydrogen energy.

Hydrogen energy means your car can run with nothing in the gas tank but water!

Billings proved hydrogen to be save, efficient and ultimately clean fuel.

But the cost of producing hydrogen by electrolysis or from coal remained phohibitive.

Now, within one month we learn of three separate successful techiniques for splitting water molecules into hydrogen gas using sunlight to do it!

Bell Laboratories produced

hydrogen using photocells made of indium phosphide; still too expensive. The University of California, Berkeley, focused sunlight on tiny discs of iron oxide submerged in water with a salt-like solution of inexpensive sodium sulfate.

The sun, shining on the discs, does create a steady flow of energy along the wire between - but a sufficient efficiency ratio of produce "Dollar-a-gallon hydrogen fuel" for your car is still two decades away. But now ...

Along comes a Texas Aggie researcher, Dr. John Bockris, with a breakthrough which produces solar energy from cheap silicon cells. It promises that dollar-a-gallon fuel with 10 years!

Why 10 years? Oil companies are not going to get behind this until they have to. Manufacture of the fuel in enough quantity and distribution of the fuel to enough service stations and modification of cars will take time.

It will be ironic if the substitute for gasoline should come from Texas - but

And, if and when sunshine becomes our nation's primary energy source, Southwest states will have a new bonanza. Indeed, least desirable desert areas of our country will become most desirable; large fields for sunlight collectors.

The future of hydrogen can not be calculated - for fertilizers and for plastics as well as for fuel for cars, trucks, planes and factory furnaces.

Everything that goes into it is inexpensive and plentiful. Byproduct oxygen is worth

Attorney calls charges 'Republican Conspiracy' Changing Majors of College Students

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) - An attorney representing eight women accused of buying votes in a hotly contested Duval County election called the federal indictments "a Republican conspiracy against the Mexican-Americans."

The women, including the director of the Duval County Welfare Department and the wife of an unsuccessful candidate for county judge, were freed on $25,000 bonds Wednesday by U.S. Magistrate Eduardo de Ases of Corpus Christi.

Defense attorney Baldemar F. Gutierrez of Alice said the charges were political and called the bonds

De Ases said he was following the recommendation of Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack Wolfe when he set the bonds.

Named in a five-count indictment returned Tuesday were Amelia Garcia, 42, Duval County welfare director: Santo Sauceda Garza, 57, a housewife; Teresa Aleman Briones, 36, a secretary in the Duval County rural housing office; and Virginia Barrera, 37, a housewife.

The women were charged with conspiring to pay and offering to buy votes for incumbent County Judge Gilberto Uresti.

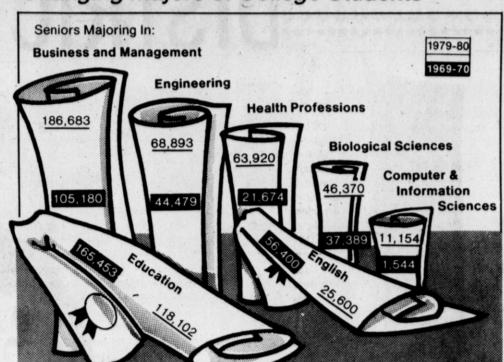

Four supporters of Uresti's challenger, Freer druggist Frank Garcia, were named in a 10-count indictment.

Charged with conspiring to pay and offering to pay for votes were Garcia's wife, Alva Teresa Garcia, 49; Diana Bazan Everet, 38, and Josie Guerra Lictenberger, no age available, employees of the San Diego schooldistrict; and Bertha Guerra, 55, a worker in the Duval County clerk's office.

Investigators said the alleged incidents took place during absentee voting in Since, as college graduates rapidly discover, what degrees they hold are crucial in determining their chances of finding jobs and at what salaries, the changing job market is directly reflected in the relative increase or decline in the popularity of major courses of study. A comparison of majors chosen by seniors in the 1969-70 academic years with 1979-80 preferences shows a sharp drop in English and education and rises in business and technical fields. The survey group which numbered 792,300 seniors in 1969-70 had increased to 929,400 10 years later.

No Halloween for many

By JOHN DANISZEWSKI

Associated Press Writer Dozens of cities around the nation, fearing deadly tricks in their children's treats, are canceling Halloween doorbelling because of a spreading wave of sabotaged products showing up on store shelves.

Reports of sabotage were widespread Wednesday, almost one month after the deaths of seven people in the Chicago area who took cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol. The tainted products ranged from candy corn to punch and soda.

On Wednesday, the communities of Ascension Parish and Hammond, La., Vineland, N.J., Providence, R.I., and Mogadore, Ohio, became the latest among at least 40 cities to ban traditional trick-or-treating. Carey Frederic, president of the Ascension Parish's governing body, said the ban was "just for this year in order to prevent anyone from getting hurt or any kid getting any sort of contaminated object.' "With the way the kooks are running around this year, something needed to be done to keep the situation from getting out of hand," he said. "I feel like the Grinch you know, the one who stole Christmas," said councilman Paul Sharp after Hammond's decision to impose the trick-or-treat ban. But Sharp said least a dozen parents had called him to say they were frightened after the Chicago deaths and by the rash of "copycat" poisonings nationwide since.

In areas where door-to-door visits are still being allowed, Dr. James Mowry, director of the Indiana Poison Center, urged parents to be sure candy is wrapped and properly sealed. He said children should not accept fruit or homemade treats except from people they know well. "It's easy to detect a pin or needle or razor blade in an apple, but if it has been contaminated by a drug, there's no way to tell," said Mowry.

Indianapolis Mayor William Hudnut asked children to collect money for the needy instead of treats. A Des Moines, Iowa, police group urged that officers in uniform escort trick-ortreaters.

Byerly Hospital in Hartsville, S.C. took out a newspaper ad Wednesday inviting trick-or-treaters to bring in bags of candy for X-rays to detect any metal objects.

Lawmakers in Trenton, N.J., have passed a bill requiring a mandatory jail term for anyone who hands out contaminated Halloween candy. Gov. Thomas Kean was to sign the bill today.

More incidents surfaced around the country of "copycat" product tampering, apparently mimicking but unrelated to the Tylenol

Florida authorities reported "isolated incidents" of tainted products in Fort Pierce, Juno Beach, Avon Park, Pensacola and Highlands County. Three people were admitted to hospitals for observation, but no one was seriously injured. "It's a copycat crime and the world is full of kooks," said Juno Beach Police Chief Robert DiSavino, who said some kind of petroleum compound was injected into a carton of Tropicana brand orange juice purchased by one of his officers, burning the policeman's throat and stomach. Authorities in Pensacola, meanwhile, said a woman found a sewing needle in a candy bar. In Avon Park, a woman suffered minor mouth burns from a 10-ounce bottle of punch spiked with ketone, an acetone substance, police

Fort Pierce police said a pregnant woman took liquid antacid that contained an alcohol solution.

In Sandtown, Del., federal officials were examining a bottle of soda that smelled of ammonia. A convenience store clerk who drank from the bottle complained of mouth burns.

whoever spiked the capsules. The surgeon who removed a lump of mercuric chloride from Sinkovic's stomach Tuesday said the patient came "extremely close" to dying. Dr. John DeLauro and other doctors also twice replaced the entire volume of blood from Sinkovic, and he remained on dialysis.

handful of Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules has changed the course of the race for attorney general in Illinois.

When seven Chicago-area persons died several weeks ago after taking the capsules laced with cyanide, Republican Attorney General Tyrone Fahner called a meeting of authorities to coordinate the effort to solve the case.

Fahner, who had been trailing badly in the polls in his reelection bid against Democrat Neil Hartisan, emerged as the press spokesman for the Tylenol Task Force. The position has earned him repeated, and generally flattering, exposure on television news programs, particularly in the vote-rich Chicago metropolitan area.

And in the latest poll published by the Chicago Sun-Times, Fahner saw his support improve to 37 percent of registered voters, compared with 32 percent before the Tylenol story broke. Hartigan's support held firm at 49 percent in both polls.

Hartigan, a former lieutenant governor, has resolutely declined public comment on Fahner's role in the Tylenol investigation. In a recent in-

But before the interview, a Hartigan aide made certain an AP reporter was supplied with several newspaper articles critical of Fahner's role in the investigation, with the most damaging phrases carefully underlined. And privately, Hartigan aides accuse Fahner of exploiting the Tylenol situation for political Fahner responded that he called the various agencies together because, as the state's chief legal officer, he was the logical person to do so. And he said it was other task force members who asked him to take on the role of public spokesman for the

"I didn't sit back and say, oh, no, not me, I'm running for office," said Fahner. "I won't kid you about that."

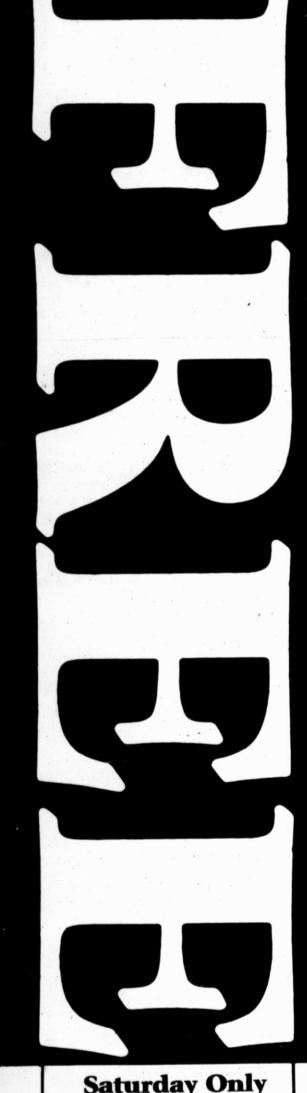

But Fahner said, "I'm simply doing my job," and that despite some sniping from the press, nothing is 'going to keep me from doing my job now through as long as I'm the attorney general."

Hartigan, 44, most recently a senior vice president with the First National Bank of Chicago, had not held public office since leaving the lieutenant governor's post in January 1977. Fahner, 39, had on the other hand spent the past two years as attorney general, traditionally an office of high visibility because of its involvement in consumer and environmental cases.

But polls generally showed Hartigan running far ahead.

The contest had also featured some of the most tart exchanges of any statewide race. Fahner has portrayed attorney Hartigan as a creature of the Chicago Democratic machine, wildly promising almost anything to be elected and lacking the necessary legal experience for the job.

Both must win this weekend

Herd, Monterey hope to clinch playoff berths

BY LES GILES Sports Editor

Monterey and Hereford, fierce rivals on the football field, share a common bond this weekend against different opponents as the District 3-5A race heads into its hectic climax.

Both can clinch a spot in the playoffs. But, for that to happen, both must win this weekend.

Monterey hosts Plainview tonight at 7:30 in Lowrey Field, while the Herd close out their 1982 home schedule tomorrow night against Amarillo High at 7:30.

Monterey can wrap up its first district championship since 1979 with a win over Plainview. The Plainsmen are 7-0 overall, 6-0 in league play and ranked eighth in the state in this weeks' UPI schoolboy poll. According to this week's Harris Rating System poll, however, Plainview (6-1 overall and 5-1 in district play) is a three-point favorite. If Plainview wins tonight and Hereford defeats AHS tomorrow, there'll be a three way tie for first place, and if all win next week a coin flip will be needed to determine this year's playoff representatives, as the top two teams in each district advance

But, take things a step farther.

If Monterey wins tonight and the Sandies defeat Hereford tomorrow, there'll be a three-way tie for second place (between the Herd, Plainview and Amarillo). If that occurs, a coin flip still would be needed to determine the league's other playoff representative. "I was talking to James (Monterey head coach James Odom) earlier in the week," Herd boss Don Cumpton said. "He said the best incentive for his club to beat Plainview was they'd avoid playing Permian in the bi-district round of the playoffs."

This year, the first-place team in 3-5A will meet the second-place team in 4-A. The 4-5A winner thus will meet the second-place team in 3-5A.

Permian, currently, is ranked as the No. 1 team in the state in 5A. The Harris poll has even gone as far as to say this year's Permian team may be the best ever produced in the state (regardless of classification, and regardless of

"I'll tell you one thing," Cumpton added. "We'd like to play Permian in the playoffs. It'd be a heck of a challenge to play a team like that."

"But, right now, I'm not thinking as much about the playoffs as I am about getting past the Sandies.

"They have won their last two games, and seem to be playing the best that they've played all season.

"Until last week's game against Coronado (a 12-6 AHS win) they hadn't run the ball very well. "But, in that one Reasonover (Tailback Scotty) gained over 170 yards. He'd been playing fullback earlier in the season. "Defensively, they aren't bad at all. They have some outstanding individuals in Jeff Jordan (Tackle), Doug Swafford (linebacker) and Paul Adams (corner back). Those guys could be outstanding on any team in the

"They are the kind of team that waits for you to make mistakes. And, that is what we must avoid. We can't give them good field position, and expect to win.

"Offensively, they had relied more on the pass until last week's game against Coronado. Now, we have to stop both from a defensive standpoint." Sandie QB Mike Nolan has thrown for 554 yards this season, completing 39 of 98. He's tossed seven TDs, and has been intercepted five times.

AHS ranks next-to-last in total offense (190.2) and fifth in total defense (232).

Hereford continues to lead the district in both categories. The Herd is averaging 360.7 yards a game, while allowing 147.2. Alfred Ball needs 81 yards to reach the 1,000 mark. He has gained 919 yards on 152 carries, and leads the loop in TDs with 13.

Fullback Raymond Martinez has gained 574 yards, while quarterback Charles McDowell has 369. McDowell. the league's total offense leader with 939 yards, has completed 35 of 79 for 570 yards and five TDs. Wide receiver Brian Taylor has caught 18 for 377 yards and five touchdowns.

the Whitefaces close out the regular season next Thursday night at Lubbock against Coronado. Since 1970, AHS holds a 7-5 edge in the series. Hereford

Some 34 seniors will be playing their final home game as has won the last two meetings, but prior to that the Sandies had won five in a row.

Kareem may retire

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. Jersey Nets. (AP) - Los Angeles Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar says he may retire within two years, a timetable that could make him the highest scorer in the history of the National Basketball Association.

"I haven't set any deadline ... I would say within two years at the outside," Abdul-Jabbar told the Daily Hampshire Gazette of Northampton on Tuesday night after the Hall of Fame exhibition

The 7-foot-2-inch Abdul-Jabbar scored 20 points in 30 minutes to lead the defending NBA champion Lakers to a 105-102 victory over the New Abdul-Jabbar is second to Wilt Chamberlain, who retired from the Lakers, as the league's top scorer. Abdul-Jabbar has 28,088 points entering this season, while Chamberlain finished a 14-year career with 31,419

Abdul-Jabbar had an average of 27.8 points per game last year. An average of 25 points in each of the next two seasons would put him over the 32,000 mark.

Abdul-Jabbar also said he doesn't think about facing 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson, a senior center this year at Virginia, or 7-foot-1 Pat Ewing, a sophomore at Georgetown, when they reach the pro ranks.

"We'll just play it the way we have for 13 years, and when they play we'll worry about that then. Who knows what will happen by that time, how good they will be in the pros? They are outstanding talent, but you don't know what's going to happen until the time arrives." Abdul-Jabbar said.

"So I have to say, no, I'm not looking ahead to the arrival of anyone in the league. am just concerned with playing well, with staying healthy and winning another championship," he said.

Penn State favored over Boston College race by corraling the Colorado Buffaloes, 35-7; Missouri

The Wizard of Odds

Egad, friends, the conference races are going at a redhot pace. But there are a couple of big independent clashes you won't want to overlook on this week's college

In the East, the big one between Penn State and Boston College promises to be an aerial circus - with Todd Blackledge throwing for the Nittany Lions and talented Doug Flutie doing the pitching for the Boston aggregation. Flutie has been completing 50 percent of his passes while the Eagles have enjoyed one of their better seasons in recent years. But, and it's a big BUT, Blackledge has been completing hearly 60 percent of his tosses for Penn State. To back him up, he has the running of Curt Warner. It all adds up to a Penn State win, 33-32.

In the Sunshine State, the big showdown matches the Florida State Seminoles and the Miami Hurricanes in the Orange Bowi. The Miami-Florida State series is of short duration, but high-intensity. The Hurricanes hold a 14-11 edge. This was supposed to be a rebuilding year for Bobby Bowden at Florida State. But the Seminoles are playing like a veteran club. They rate the Hoople nod to take a crowd-pleasing thriller from Miami, 31-24.

Other top-rated clubs in independent matches this week: Georgia vs. Memphis State: Pittsburgh vs. Louisville and Notre Dame vs. Navy in Giants Stadium at East Rutherford. N.J.

The Georgia Bulldogs will have little trouble with Memphis State as they win, 35-10. Pitt and Notre Dame, looking ahead to next week's resumption of their long series, should both emerge victorious. It's the Pitt Panthers, 42-21, over Louisville and the Irish, 32-20, over Navy.

The conference races feature full slates in the Pac 10, Big Eight, Southwest and Big 10.

In the Pac 10, Stanford will have the home-field advantage as it takes on Washington. But the Hoople Hunch is that Huskie QB Steve Pulluer and place kicker de-luxe Chuck Nelson will put more points on the board than the Cardinals' All-American QB John Elway. In a fairly highscoring affair, we see Washington winning, 35-22.

Elsewhere in the Pac 10, Southern California will trip Arizona State, 28-24, in a classic confrontation; UCLA will swamp Oregon, 47-14, surprising Arizona will knock off Washington State, 36-18 and California will prevail over Oregon State, 17-13.

Turning to the powerful SWC, which has boasted three teams in the top 20, your Hoople southwest rep Buc Bored sees Texas topping Texas Tech, 28-12; the SMU Mustangs defeating Texas A&M, 26-20; Arkansas boiling Rice, 31-18 and Houston taking the measure of TCU, 24-21.

Looking at the Big Eight, we have Nebraska - rolling toward the league title and the Orange Bowl assignment thumping Kansas, 47-15. Oklahoma will stay in the title

NEW YORK (AP) - National Football League Players Association chief Ed Garvey has maintained all along that the club owners' negotiators have engaged in unfair bargaining practices in the lengthy labor dispute that has shut down pro football.

Now those allegations will be heard beginning Nov. 15 by a National Labor Relations Board adminstrative law judge in New York. The NLRB, finding validity in the union's charge, Wednesday filed a complaint of unfair bargaining practices against the Management Council.

The action came several hours after both sides in the 38-day strike had agreed to resume negotiations. They will meet next Saturday at a mid-Manhattan hotel.

Daniel Silverman, the director of NLRB Region 2 in New York, handed down the complaint charging the NFLMC and owners with failing to negotiate with the union in good faith.

The complaint also alleged that the strike "was caused and has been prolonged by the unfair labor practices" by NFL owners and their negotiators. The striking players could be entitled to back pay if the judge upholds the charge. It also found, among other things, that the Management Council had failed to provide the union with financial data necessary to the bargaining process and with circumventing the union on matters

The Big 10 has some exciting contests on tap. Michigan is the Hoople favorite to edge Minnesota, 35-20; Michigan State is our pick to nap Indiana 25-22; Ohio State is our choice over Purdue, 28-27; Illinois is a one-TD victor over Iowa, 35-28 and Wisconsin a victor over Northwestern, 35-21 will slip past Oklahoma State, 21-18 and Iowa State will win a squeaker from Kansas State, 22-21.

In the tough SEC, Alabama, still smarting from its rude upset at the hands of Tennessee, will slip it to Mississippi State, 49-17; up-and-coming LSU will top Mississippi, 27-14 and Florida, fighting to stay alive in the conference race, will edge Auburn, 28-24.

The contest that may well decide the ACC race is on tap at Chapel Hill, N.C. The North Carolina Tar Heels will host the rough and ready Maryland Terps. Both teams boast great defensive elevens and shine on offense. In a spectacular show, the Tar Heels will prevail, 35-31. This one, dear readers, will be worth the price of admission.

Other action matches Miami (Ohio) and Toledo in the rugged Mid-American loop. In a real cliff-hanger, we give it to Miami, 14-10.

Yount, Carlton runaway leaders on all-star team

stop Robin Yount of the Milwaukee Brewers and lefthanded pitcher Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies were runaway leaders at their positions on The Associated Press major league baseball All-Star team, announced today.

Yount, a leading candidate for American League Most Valuable Player award, and Carlton, who won his fourth Cy Young award on Tuesday, each received 38 of a possible 40 votes in the countrywide poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Hal McRae of the Kansas City Royals and Dale Murphy of the Atlanta Braves were the other landslide winners. McRae received 36 votes for the designated hitter position, and Murphy led outfielders with 34 votes.

Those casting ballots were asked to vote for one player from either league at each position, including three outfielders, a left-handed and right-handed starter and a relief pitcher.

The 12 positions were evenly split between the American and National leagues. The Milwaukee Brewers placed three players on the team, the Phillies had two, and Atlanta, Kansas City, Toronto, Los Angeles, the New York Yankees, Montreal and St. Louis had one apiece.

The rest of the team was comprised of Cecil Cooper, Philadelphia; Pedro Guerrero, outfield, Los Angeles; Dave Winfield, outfield, New York Yankees; Gary Carter, catcher, Montreal; Pete Vuckovich, righthanded pitcher, Milwaukee, and Bruce Sutter, relief pitcher, St. Louis.

Yount, 27 years old, batted .331 during the season — one point behind league leader Willie Wilson of Kansas City and led the AL with 210 hits. He drove in 114 runs and hit 29 home runs during the best season of his nine-year major league career. Two other players - Garry Templeton of San Diego and Ozzie Smith of St. Louis received one vote each for shortstop.

Carlton, 37, won an unprecedented fourth Cy Young this season after an 0-4 start, the worst of his career. He was the only pitcher in either league to win 20 games (23-11), and he also led the NL in strikeouts (286), complete games (19), shutouts (6) and innings pitched (2952-3). His earned run average of 3.10 was eighth in the league. Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers received the other two votes for lefthanded pitcher.

McRae, like Yount, experienced his best season in 1982. He hit .308 and led both leagues with 133 RBI, playing in all but three games this season for the Royals. At 36, McRae led the league with 46 doubles, and was fifth in hits with 189. He also hit 27 homers. Reggie Jackson, who played right field most of the season, received two votes for DH.

Murphy hit 36 home runs this year, one shy of league leader Dave Kingman of the New York Mets, and he proved himself a versatile offensive threat by stealing 23 bases. He batted .281 and tied Al Oliver of Montreal for the league lead in RBI with 109.

Guerrero hit .304 with 100 RBI and 32 home runs for the Dodgers, while Winfield batted .280, drove in 106 runs and homered 37 times for New York. Guerrero had 20 votes. and Winfield received 15. Wilson of the Royals finished fourth in balloting for outfielders with 13 votes, followed by Jackson with 11 and Rickey Henderson of Oakland with 10.

Cooper was second in the American League with 121 RBI and 205 hits, while batting .313. He also had 32 homers and committed just five errors all season, receiving 17 votes. Oliver was second in balloting for first base with 14 votes in the team's closest race.

Garcia, a surprise even to the Blue Jays, hit .310 and stole 54 bases while committing just 15 errors at second base. He garnered 12 votes at second base to six for Manny Trillo of Philadelphia.

Despite missing 14 games with a rib cage injury early in the season, Schmidt finished first in the NL in on-base percentage (.403) and walks (107). He drove in 87 runs, homered 35 times and batted .280. His 21 votes far outdistanced third baseman Doug DeCinces of California, who got eight.

Carter recovered from a slow first half to finish with some impressive figures and 27 votes as the All-Star catcher. The Expos catcher hit .293 with 97 RBI and 29 homers. Lance Parrish of Detroit was second in voting with nine votes.

Vuckovich finished the season with an 18-6 record for the best winning percentage in the league (.750), a 3.34 ERA and 105 strikeouts to win the right-handed pitcher's spot with 17 votes. Steve Rogers of Montreal was second with 11 votes.

Sutter was a runaway for baseball's best relief pitcher, receiving 20 votes to eight for Dan Quisenberry of the Kansas City Royals. Sutter had 36 saves, a 9-8 record and an ERA of 2.90.

Old course due facelift

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

The next thing you know, you'll be picking up a newspaper and seeing that Jack Nicklaus has purchased the Royal and Ancient Golf Club at St. Andrews, Scotland, with all the trimm-

Or maybe that he's building a golf course around the Taj Mahal in India.

This golden-haired golfing and business genius never ceases to amaze. Only this week he reached back and bridged nearly a century to form a reunion with "The Apple Tree Gang," the men who rocked the cradle of American golf.

He flew into New York to break ground on a revered old golf course in the lowlands of Hastings-on-Hudson in suburban Westchester County. Jack, who doubles as one of the world's foremost golf course architects when not winning championships, plans to give the old layout a facelift and ring it with a real estate development of 209 condominiums.

"I hope to preserve its 1900 character but give it a new plumbing job," Jack said.

The club is St. Andrew's, named after its Scottish antecedant but with a an apostrophe. It is the recognized birthplace of the game in the United States.

Besides being the greatest golfer who ever lived, on the basis of achievements, Nicklaus has an abiding interest in the sport's traditions, its legends, rules and ethics.

So, involvement with St. Andrew's had a particular personal appeal for Big Jack just as with the building and development of Muirfield Village in his native Columbus, Ohio, where his annual Muirfield Memorial tournament is growing into one of the country's best.

It's Jack's hope - although he doesn't flout it - to make Muirfield a monument to his career just as did the late Bob Jones with the Masters in Augusta, Ga.

No man in any sport has left such an indelible imprint on his game - champion, architect, promoter, merchandiser and golfing ambassador.

Nicklaus has won 69 tournaments, 19 of them major championships, earned close to $4 million in prize money alone and set the all-time career scoring average, 70.4. He has 27 golf courses either built or near completion throughout the world. He has bought his own golf club company (MacGregor), heads the Golden Bear Inc., conglomerate and holds partnerships in a score of companies whose products he en-

Yet, at age 42, with his vast business involvements, he remains an active threat in bigtime golf, planning an 18-tournament schedule for 1983, beginning with the Australian Open.

How does he do it? "I isolate my business from my playing career - I let neither infringe on the other," he says. "What further goals do I have? I'm not trying to scale new mountains, I'm just trying to build a bigger one."

Calvin Peete ruled ineligible for golf's coveted Varden Trophy

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. 70.32. Tom Kite, who is not (AP) - Cal Peete has been competing here, leads for the ruled ineligible for the coveted Vardon Trophy even 70.21. To overtake Kite, Peete if he does manage to compile would have to compile a score the lowest stroke average on the PGA Tour this season. Going into the seasonending, $400,000 Walt Disney World Classic, Peete ranked second consecutive year with of 270 — 18 under par — or better this week.

Even if he should achieve that formidable task, he will not be eligible for the Vardon second in stroke average with Trophy, one of the most prestigious awards in the game.

To be eligible for the Vardon Trophy, a player must be a member of the PGA and must have played at least 80 rounds. Peete acquired PGA membership late this year. He has played 94 rounds, but less than 80 as a PGA member. PGA President Joe Black ruled Wednesday that Peete, a four-time winner this season, was not eligible since he had not played the minimum number of rounds as PGA member. (A PGA spokesman earlier said Peete was eligible for the Vardon, but Black overturned that decision.) It is not the first time, however, that the man with the low stroke average failed to win the Vardon Trophy.

That involves the struggle for positions in the top 125 money-winners, the cut-off spot for a place on the allexempt Tour which will go into effect next season. If a player finishes 125th or better, his playing rights for 1983 are secured. If he finishes lower, he must either (1) with $27,380.

Anderson said, "We've got school districts, and what may be an attitude about the public schools delivering that kind of information to students in an urban district may be significantly different from the attitude in a suburban or rural district." The books in question are for grades 4 through 8. Texas is the second-largest public school textbook market in the nation and VD has been mentioned in two textbooks used in the state since 1974.

School board member Volly Vastine Jr. said Houston residents have been stopping him on the street, saying they don't like the proposal. "I'm a little concerned about it. In my district in Harris County, VD is on the rise," Vastine said.

Texas ranks second in the nation in per capita incidence of infectious syphillis and 12th in reported cases of gonorrhea, according to the State Health Department.

Bynum said that the agency's "total staff feels like it serves no purpose" for the VD information to be in the books. "People misunderstand and think textbooks dictate what you teach."

Donna Wood, a Plano, Texas, health teacher and a member of the textbook committee, said she was "shocked and surprised" that the matter was even under consideration.

Concerned about baby parades

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We've heard a lot about child abuse, but nothing about the torture inflicted on kids by parents who mean well. I am referring to New Jeresey baby parades.

The parades take place in midsummer when the sun is scorching. The children are often wrapped in costumes from head to foot, and some are made of velvet, felt, fur.

It's an invitation to heat stroke. When the kids cry they are prodded to keep going and keep smiling. They range from two months of age to you name it.

Their agony is the same as an adult who is chained to a tree for two or three hours, dressed in winter clothes, under a hot sun. They get thirsty, hungry, dizzy and maybe nauseated. Who

But every day the girl babies of this world should fall on their knees and thank the man upstairs that Hope Chests went out with diaries and hair nets.

The Hope Chest flourished in this society for several hundred years. Sometimes it was an elaborate chest, lined with cedar and filled with family linens, silver heirlooms and boxes that held domestic treasures wrapped in tissue all in readiness for Mr. Right. Mine was a foot locker that was at the end of my bed. I used it to throw all my dirty clothes on and to hurt myself bumping into it all the time. By the time I was 16, my Hope Chest held an ashtray our insurance company sent us for Christmas (I didn't smoke), a root beer mug that I won at a carnival with Daffy Duck on the side, and a lace doily my grandmother made me because she felt sorry for me.

Frankly the chest didn't give me too much hope. Anyone who would marry a girl for an ashtray, a root beer mug and a yellow doily couldn't be worth much.

By the time I reached the age of 20, all of my friends had chests with so much hope, they could barely get the lid closed. Blankets, quilts, embroidered pillow cases, sheets edged in lace, bone china, silver trays, satin-covered hangers (Lord how I coveted satin-covered hangers), bud vases, and bridge scoring cards. Add to this a couple of bridal showers and any one of them could have opened up their own shopping center. Just before I was married, I felt compelled to tell Mr. Right where he went wrong. "You have to know I started

Residents vote on plan to keep giant food firm

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) - A vote Tuesday by residents in this cereal city and a neighboring township could determine whether the Kellogg Co. will continue adding snap, crackle and pop to the local economy.

The giant food firm says it will move corporate headquarters, with its 700 employees and a $28 million payroll, unless voters in Battle Creek and Battle Creek Township agree to merge the two governments.

Kellog says the current structure makes it too expensive for the company to develop.

Kellogg, formed here 76 years ago, delivered the ultimatum in May along with a detailed plan for a "merger of equals." If township and city voters approve the change Tuesday, the merger would take effect Jan. 1.

"Given the current political structure - splintered - it is difficult to put together a coherent strategy for community and economic development in the area," said Gary Costley, a Kellogg senior vice president.

Without restructured local government, new Kellogg ventures in the area would be too complex and too costly to develop, he says.

Kellogg is the area's largest employer, providing 4.000 jobs overall including the 700 who may leave if the annexation is not approved. The company earned $205 million on sales of $2.3 billion

It has also been a dominant force in the community. Road signs herald the presence of the firm and the family: Kellogg Regional Airport, Kellogg Community College, Kellogg Center.

"It means everything this is basically where it all started," said City Manager Gordon Jaeger.

If Kellogg pulled out of the area, which already has an unemployment rate of 15.6 * percent, "the ripple effect would be enormous," said Preston Kool, a former Battle Creek mayor who lives in the township and heads the promerger campaign.

Kool said "there is no other way" for the community to ensure a stable future. "What Kellogg is doing is telling the community the conditions under which it will expand its business," Kool said. "We can't live in a place that doesn't have jobs."

A groundswell of support for annexation developed over the summer, especially in the city, which has about 36,000 people. But opponents of the plan, primarily from the township's 21,000 residents, also became ac-township residents more than $100 a year at the outset in increased property and income taxes, both sides agree. And Hill claims the township would receive no more government service.

Hill agrees that the departure of Kellog's headquarters would be felt, but he doesn't believe it "would be the economic disaster they're trying to paint it as."

Public opinion polls have indicated strong support for the merger in the city, but foes and friends of annexation predict the vote will be close in the township. Both the city and township must approve consolidation.

tion in the Addison area since "the traffic patterns are well defined because most of the traffic is instrument." Three victims were tentatively identified as pilot Steve Ahart, Wayne Manuel, a foreman for the Standard Fitting Co. of Opelousas, and his daughter, said Irwin Davlin, the firm's president. Authorities tentatively identified the daughter as 5-yearold Renee Manuel. The Manuels were from Lawtell, and Ahart was from Opelousas, La. A spokesman for the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office said that positive identifications would not be available until late this afternoon at the earliest. The identity of the body found in the residence's front yard was not immediately available, Burlage said. The flight plan of the Navajo showed it was heading toward Love Field.

Two other victims were found in a creekbed near a construction site.

Bodies and debris were scattered over two miles, Jones said. He said the bodies and body parts were taken to the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office.

Two houses and the Dale B. Davis Elementary School were slightly damaged by falling debris. Part of a plane landed on the roof of the school, where children were attending class. One plane fell three blocks from a shopping center.

"We were lucky enough no one on the ground was hurt," Jones said.

Burlage said the crash occurred while Ahart was talking to FAA Approach Control at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

He said pilot had been told to descend to 3,000 feet when the planes collided and exploded. He said that the Cessna pilot had contacted D-FW control by radio, but had not yet received an answer from the control tower when the crash occur-

Presidential election years usually produce gains for the winner's party in the House of Representatives. But one of the persistent patterns in American national politics is the loss of seats for a president's party two years later in the mid-term elections. A minima loss is seen as a psychological victory for a president while a heavier than usual drop in House strength is often read as reflecting the voting public's disappointment with an administration's performance. Average seat loss during mid-term elections in recent decades has been almost 30.

NOT "IF" BUT "WHEN" YOU PRAY

And now about prayer. When you pray, don't be like the hypocrites who pretend piety by praying publicly on street corners and in the synagogues where everyone can see them. Truly, that is all the reward they will ever get. But when you pray, go away by yourself, all alone, and shut the door behind you and pray to your Father secretly, and your Father, who knows your secrets, will reward you.

Don't recite the same prayer over and over as the heathen do, who think prayers are answered only by repeating them again and again Remember, your Father knows exactly what you need even before you ask Him!

Pray along these lines: 'Our Father in Heaven, we honor Your holy name. We ask that Your kingdom will come soon. May Your will be done here on earth, just as it is in heaven. Give us our food again today, as usual, And forgive us our sins, just as we have forgiven those who have sinned against us. Don't bring us into temptation, but deliver us from the Evil One. Amen.

Your heavenly Father will forgive you if you forgive those who sin against you; but if you refuse to forgive them. He will not forgive you. (Matthew 6:5-15)

Ruth Gordon stars as Gramma Peache, a woman whose son runs an exlusive hotel in Chicago, and John Houseman stars as Dobbs, Chief of Operations at the hotel and a source of romantic inspiration for Gramma, in the comedy "My Bodyguard," airing Saturday, Oct. 30 on the "CBS Saturday Night Movie."

HEREFORD CABLEVISION

Here's a handy sign for your garage sale

And here are some helpful hints for holding a successful sale:

- When you're rounding up those usable but no-longer-used items for your sale, be sure to check all the storage areas in your home-the basement, garage, attic, closets, seldom used cup-boards.
- 2. Sellable items include outgrown bicycles, lawn and patio furniture, small appliances, dishes, kitchen utensils, toys, golf clubs, and other sports equipment, lawn mowers, decorator items, books, records, musical instruments your "extra" may be "extra-special" to someone else.
- 3. Visit a few garage sales before you hold your own. You'll get great ideas, and maybe pick up a treasure or two.
- 4. Once you've picked the date for your sale, call the Hereford Brand Classified Department and place your Garage Sale ad. Your ad will reach thousands of homes in Deaf Smith County. Minimum cash payment of $2.00 or 10 cents per word required.
- 5. When you're clearing out your garage, you'll probably discover that some of the items in there will have to stay there-even though you won't be selling them. Try to cover these "not-for-sale" or push them out of the way.
- 6. Use tables to display as many of the sale items as possible. Items on the floor of the garage, especially small items, may be overlooked by prospective buyers.
- 7. Make sure there is enough walking space through the garage, and that sale items are easy to reach.

- 8. PUT A PRICE TAG ON EVERYTHING. Prospective buyers will appreciate it, and you'll find it makes things easier for you.
- Before your sale begins, be sure you have change and some sort of cash box on hand. Set up a "Check-out" table just outside the garage.
- 10. Be ready for a rush at opening time-garage sale shoppers like to come early, and with your ad in the Hereford Brand, you'll have plenty of shoppers.

(You may cut out and use the sign on this page. Just paste it on heavy cardboard and post it by your house.)

Plant now, spade later

DEAR POLLY - What is green manure? I hear it's very good for the garden. - JANE DEAR JANE - You certainly hear right! Green manure is a cover crop planted at any time during the year, but most often in the fall. The crop is planted for the sole purpose of tilling it under, adding nutrients to the soil naturally. Crops frequently used are those which fix their own nitrogen any of the legume crops. Good green manure crops include alfalfa, vetch and clover. You can buy seeds for these through most mail-order seed suppliers. Plant it now, then till or spade it under in the spring. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Here's my wife's method for producing the tenderest liver ever. First, she always uses beef liver, never calves liver. Calves liver always becomes tough. She always uses liver that is one-half inch to three-fourths inch thick. She flours the liver on both sides and fries it in bacon grease, shortening or oil to medium brown on both sides. Then she adds two large onions cut in one-quarter inch slices, layers the liver on top of the onions, and adds about a cup of water. The liver and onions then simmer for about 15 minutes covered. This liver can be cut with a fork and has the most delicious onion gravy you've ever tasted. - PHIL DEAR POLLY - For overnight camping or boating, I pack everyone's favorite cereal sprinkled with sugar or artificial sweetener in individual servings in whipped topping containers. After breakfast, the containers (which serve as bowls) are thrown away. This does away with carrying several boxes of cereal and extra dishes. - DONNA DEAR POLLY - If a houseplant is too leggy, I root a few cuttings from it and plant them in the same pot around the bare stem of the large plant. As the cuttings grow, the filly in around the bare stem and make the plant look full and beautiful. - PAT DEAR READERS - A few weeks, a reader wrote about cleaning draft dodgers - those long rolls of fabric stuffed with sand or some other insulating material that are placed at the bottoms of doors to keep out cold air. I suggested machine washing. Well, a very faithful reader of this column has pointed out that the wet sand could be rather heavy and cause the fabric seam to rip open, spilling impossible-to-remove sand into the washer. Sounds to me like the best solution would be to use one of those spray-on upholstery or carpet cleaners on these items, instead of taking the chance of washing them in the machine. Never let it be said that Polly's set in her ways! And thanks to that faithful reader. —

DEAR POLLY - I keep my dishwashing detergent in a hand lotion dispenser. It's pretty and easy to dispense the detergent from. Also I don't have to open the cabinet door every time I need to add additional detergent to a pan of

DEAR POLLY - The fabric lid covers for toilets seem to outlast the matching bathroom rugs. I've thought of a way to make use of them when you replace the entire set. I cut off the elastic around the edge, then bind the edge with wide bias tape and use them for pads on straight-back chairs. They're also good for children's cushions on the floor. Washable and they need no special care. - RUTH

Congressional Campaign

The 1982 congressional campaign is the most expensive in history. For the 18-month-period from Jan. 1, 1981, through June 30, 1982, candidates for the House and Senate had spent $30.6 million more than during the comparable period in the 1980 campaign, when there were 164 more candidates in the congressional races. Contributions from Political Action Committees, the fastest growing area of campaign financing, constituted 20 percent of funds raised during the 1982 campaign period, compared with 16.5 percent for the 1980 elections.

AT&T to let consumers buy telephones

WASHINGTON (AP) -Consumers served by Bell System phone companies will be offered a chance to buy the telephones in their homes, the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. says.

AT&T officials confirmed Wednesday that all its Bell companies will be asked to develop sales plans to be submitted to state regulators before next March.

Bell companies in three - California, New York and Oregon - recently began selling the leased equipment. AT&T is now telling all Bell companies to

"We are already offering consumers in three states the opportunity to purchase telephone sets installed in their homes and we will be extending this same program to other states around country," said AT&T spokesman Pic Wagner.

State utility commissions must approve the sale of existing equipment, and purchase prices will vary from state to state.

But officials predict states will likely approve the sale of telephones because the move will alleviate some of the regulatory problems expected to arise following the scheduled 1984 break-up of

AT&T agreed to give up its 22 wholly owned Bell companies as a result of an antitrust settlement with the Justice Department.

Explaining AT&T's decision on selling telephones, Wagner said, "The sales programs will have to be due to graduate in December from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's academy, pushed the man out the door after the man forced his way onto the St. Louis-bound Flight 72, said TWA director of public relations Dave Venz.

"I was in the right position," Robinson, 24, said after landing in St. Louis. "I had him where I wanted him. I just stood up and shoved him."

William Hoffman, 25, of Los Angeles, was in stable condition at the jail ward of County-USC Hospital, where he was booked for investigation of attempted hijacking, said sheriff's Deputy Merlin Poppleton.

The would-be hijacker pushed his way past ticket gate agents and raced onto the L-1011 Lockheed Tristar where 97 passengers were seated, officials said. Among the passengers was Robinson, 23, who was headed to Alton, III., to attend a funeral. The man brandished a knife about three inches long and began banging on the cockpit door, which flight attendant Joy Williams had quickly closed and locked when she saw the man, Venz

Keeping up the standards for city firefighters

SEATTLE (AP) - There are more female firefighters in Seattle than any other city in the nation, according to union figures, a fact that engenders considerable pride - and some resentment - in the department.

"It's proven that given the right recruiting and training, women can be successful in fire service," says Owen Pletan, chief of the department's training division.

But some other Seattle firefighters don't agree.

"I don't feel the public is getting the quality it should," said 11-year veteran Ken Norris, saying that preference in has hurt department morale. Seattle's 27 women firefighters are the most in any department in the United States, according to the International Association of Firefighters, although last month New York City accepted more than 40 women as trainees after they passed a modified physical test.

Now the Seattle department is toughening its requirements, instituting new standards for body fat and what Pletan calls "huff and puff" strength. They go into

About 420 of the nation's 180,000 firefighters are women, said Carol Vougioukles, director of the International Association's women in fire service program. These figures include only union fire departments and those women working in full-time paying jobs, Ms. Vougioukles said in a recent interview

There are 942 uniformed firefighters in the Seattle department, according to Pletan. Including four women completing their one-year probation, there are 31 women in what Swartout calls "combat" positions such as fighting fires or riding in aid cars, which assist fire victims.

But one veteran of more than 10 years who asked not to be identified says, "There have been very few women that have come across as real aggressive firefighters. When somebody is hanging from a window, I feel it's my job to get them out. I haven't seen any aggressive women." Swartout, a 23-year fire department veteran, has vigorously defended the women on his force.

"I've had personal experience with 15 or 16 (women) in recruit classes. I'd take them in my crew any time, any place," he said."If guys doing the complaining don't have the guts to come out in the open then nothing is going to happen about it."

Women are better than men in some situations, he said. One woman firefighter working on an aid car was able to help rape victims and abused women.

that's a real advantage," Swartout said.

Lt. Barbara Beers, the department's first female officer; said she has not seen any discrimination but is aware of the men's discon-

"They complain about it," she said. "It's a real issue that builds a lot of emotion but there's nothing practical they can do about it.'

The order for the fire department to start hiring women came from the office of former Mayor Wes Uhlman in 1975. Standards were lowered to admit women, "with disastrous effects," said Pletan, the training chief.

Out of that recruiting class of about 39, few passed and none were women, he said.

In the next several years, the department took a different approach. Instead of lowering the standards, they raised the physical ability of the women through a program of workouts developed by Doolittle.

But the program was ex-"The woman who is being pensive because the women treated can relate better and were paid during their

Despite working at Station Two, a downtown fire station that is the city's busiest, she says she hasn't found any work she can't handle.

Ms. Kenoyer says the morale problem is largely caused by women who are given preference and promoted ahead of men who scored better on advancement tests.

"If I was No. 1 on the list and didn't get promoted because No. 80 was taken, I'd feel bad too," she said.
