Peacekeepers killed by shots from friendlies

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - French U.N. officers said today that the machine-gun fire that killed two French peacekeepers escorting a U.N. convoy came from a suburb held by Bosnian government forces.

The attack occurred Tuesday near Sarajevo airport, where a vital airlift of humanitarian aid was suspended after an Italian aid plane was downed last Thursday. Clashes have raged for days around the airstrip.

U.N. spokesman Yusuf Khalef said investigations were still under way and that it was not yet known who fired on the convoy, which appeared to have been directly targeted. The gunfire lasted at least five minutes.

Two French peacekeepers were killed and two slightly wounded, Khalef said.

French U.N. officers said Tuesday's attack came from the suburb of Butmir, a government stronghold. Both Serb militias and Bosnian government forces have positions near the airport.

Four U.N. peacekeepers in Bosnia have been killed and 46 wounded since June. Four Italian airmen were killed in last week's downing of the relief plane.

The airlift had been a lifeline since June for nearly 400,000 people left in Sarajevo, which is surrounded by Serb fighters. There is no immediate danger of starvation, but officials warn of shortages of drugs, chlorine for purifying water and fuel for generators in the hospitals.

ANC wants ouster of leadership

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - African National Congress leaders are demanding the removal of all conservative black homeland leaders, including the general whose forces killed 24 protesters in Ciskei.

ANC activists said they would march today on the tiny Qwa Qwa homeland to demand the resignation of homeland leader T. K. Mopeli. Homeland authorities said they would ignore ANC demands.

Ciskei homeland security forces opened fire Monday on an ANC march demanding the ouster of military ruler Brig. Gen. Oupa Gqozo, killing 24 protesters and wounding some 200.

The deaths deepened the crisis created when the ANC pulled out of talks with the government in June to protest violence in black townships and to demand a multiracial interim government.

ANC officials say the future of the homeland system has become a major obstacle to resuming talks and must be resolved before there can be any hope of progress.

They are demanding that President F.W. de Klerk remove Gqozo from power. South Africa says Ciskei is independent and it cannot remove Gqozo.

South Africa controls most affairs in the homelands - established under apartheid as separate nations for blacks, leaving most of the territory to whites. The homelands, dependent on South African aid, are mostly dominated by authoritarian regimes. Almost no one recognizes them as independent.

The homelands are expected to rejoin South Africa under a new constitution that would have whites share power with the black majority. But conservative homeland leaders hope to continue as regional governments.

The whole issue of reincorporation of the homelands has moved right up the agenda. Gqozo is running wild and it has now become a matter of urgency to remove him, ANC spokesman Carl Niehaus said Tuesday.

Hills grilled on trade pact

WASHINGTON (AP) - The season for congressional scrutiny of the North American Free Trade Agreement has begun, even though Congress won't vote on the continent-wide accord before next spring.

A Senate Finance Committee hearing Tuesday, with U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hills the sole witness, kicked off consideration of a pact that would link the United States, Mexico and Canada in the world's richest trade zone.

The committee's chairman, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, and other Democrats signaled to Hills their anger over the Bush administration's use of the proposed treaty to score points with voters.

"What I've seen over the last two weeks isn't responsible - it's pure politics and the administration knows it," said Bentsen, D-Texas.

"Politicizing this agreement will not help its prospects in Congress," Bentsen, who pointed to his involvement last year in lining up

Democratic support for the trade talks, warned the administration not to use the treaty for partisan gain.

"The plain fact is, Ambassador Hills, you would not be here today if it were not for Democratic support for that negotiating authority," he said.

Congressional Democrats have been irked by President Bush's repeated free trade-related attacks on Democratic rival Bill Clinton. In recent campaign appearances across the nation, Bush has claimed that the Arkansas governor is waffling over endorsing the trade agreement.

Clinton has said he favors the idea of free trade with Mexico, but wants to make sure environmental and labor standards are addressed before endorsing a treaty.

"For President Bush to suggest that Gov. Clinton or any of us in this Congress should endorse a treaty which we have not had the opportunity to review would be the height of irresponsibility," said Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., who chairs an international trade subcommittee.

Bentsen concurred, noting that the 1,078-page text was first made public Tuesday. And the treaty, which was concluded Aug. 12, underwent revision until recently, he added.

His claim that negotiators continued to work on significant aspects of the deal after it was announced Aug. 12 drew a rapid dissent from Hills. "There has been a task of legal drafting, not negotiating," she replied.

None of the committee Republicans defended Bush by name. Only Sen. John Danforth addressed the Democrats' ire.

"It should be debated in connection with an election year," said Danforth, R-Mo., citing the treaty's impact both nationally and in the world economy.

Baucus also contended that American negotiators rushed conclusion of the pact to coincide with the Republican National Convention, which began five days after a deal was announced.

But Hills rejected that claim.

Candidates battle over education, domestic issues

By WENDY BENJAMINSON Associated Press Writer

President Bush is struggling to persuade voters he is as devoted to domestic issues as to international affairs, while warning that his foreign policy gains will be wasted if Bill Clinton becomes commander-in-chief.

Bush was trying today to reclaim the mantle of the "education president," traveling to Pennsylvania to sell his America 2000 schools program and praise a manufacturing company's adult education classes.

Bush's recent adherence to a daily theme is part of new campaign overseer James A. Baker III's attempts to focus the president's message.

Republicans spent the day Tuesday demanding that Clinton "come clean" on his Vietnam-era draft status, suggesting he wasn't decisive enough to lead during an international crisis and ridiculing him for incorrectly describing Patriot missiles.

An ABC News-Washington Post poll released Tuesday night showed Bush gaining ground but with Clinton still 12 points ahead. Clinton had 53 percent support compared with Bush's 41 percent in a poll of 621 likely voters. The Sept. 2-6 telephone survey had a margin of error of 4.5 percentage points. A week ago, the same poll showed Clinton and Bush at 56-36.

Clinton also was focusing on domestic issues today - his campaign strength - after speaking via satellite to the B'nai B'rith convention that Bush addressed Tuesday.

The Democratic nominee left Connecticut and New York to tour his native South today, where he would discuss welfare reform in Jonesboro, Ga., and address the Southern Baptist Convention and a town hall meeting in Jacksonville, Fla.

Clinton made a nostalgic visit Tuesday to Yale Law School, drawing rousing applause from students at his alma mater. One student who held up a Bush-Quayle sign was roundly booed, but the Arkansas governor urged his supporters to stop.

"Academic freedom," he said with a grin. "Even at Yale you have the right to be wrong."

At Pennsylvania's Norristown High School, Bush was to discuss his America 2000 plan for improving the nation's education system by the turn of the century. The plan seeks to make American pupils the world's best in math and science and reduce the dropout rate to 10 percent while giving parents wider choice in choosing public or private schools.

Aides said the president also would highlight other education initiatives his administration has pushed, such as the Lifelong Learning Act legislation he submitted to Congress last March. That proposal would widen access for adult workers to grants for continuing education.

Later, in Collegeville, Pa., Bush was visiting Uniform Tubes Inc., a manufacturer and exporter of precision tubing used in industry.

Clinton's running mate, Al Gore, toured Texas' Rio Grande Valley, where he pleaded with largely Hispanic crowds to help sway Bush's adopted-home state to the Democratic ticket.

The Bush campaign, intent on its theme that Americans cannot trust a small-state governor to lead the nation's foreign policy, seized on Clinton's comment Tuesday that the Patriot missiles used in the Persian Gulf War "go through doors or down chimneys."

Clinton apparently was thinking of warplane camera footage showing laser-guided bombs entering ventilation shafts in Baghdad and reports that some bombs struck aircraft hangar doorways. Patriot missiles are used to shoot down other missiles.

"He's shown his complete ignorance about even the most fundamental defense system," said Bush campaign spokesman Torie Clarke.

"He was trying to show that he was an expert when it came to national security matters," Vice President Dan Quayle said while campaigning in California. "Governor, you have confused the Patriot with the cruise missile. Bill Clinton knows less about national security than I do about spelling."

SOGGY PROMISES IN FLORIDA

Tenants wait in ruins for relocation to start

Florida governor Chiles: Bush plan is not enough

GOULDS, Fla. (AP) - Last week there was hope in the soggy ruins of the Arthur Mays Villa public housing project. U.S. Housing Secretary Jack Kemp confidently assured residents that rebuilding would start in 10 days or less.

But this week, it became clear that government promises were no match for Hurricane Andrew's overwhelming destruction. Housing officials conceded the deadline could not be met, disappointing more than 150 families who huddled amid sheets of plastic in leaking, unsafe apartments.

"It seems like they're not doing nothing for nobody," a frustrated Latrinda Williams said Tuesday as she stood in her bedroom and stared up at the sky through a gaping hole in the roof.

Two weeks after Andrew struck, housing authorities have barely made a dent in relocating residents or repairing about 800 public housing units damaged or destroyed in south Dade County, the hardest-hit area.

It's not for lack of effort. Housing officials have worked ceaselessly to bring food and necessities to families whose subsidized apartments were left uninhabitable.

"I appreciate your patience, because these are very trying times," county Housing Director Gregory Byrne said Tuesday during a meeting with Arthur Mays residents. "A lot of my staff have no houses left. We haven't had a day off since the storm hit."

The hurricane damaged about half the 1,600 public housing units in south Dade County, Byrne said. At Arthur Mays Villa, about 80 percent of the 184 units are considered unsafe for habitation, but few residents have moved out. There's no place to go. So they stick close to home, waiting for electricity and repair crews.

In Williams' two-story apartment, two holes in the roof have made the upstairs bedrooms unusable. Downstairs, boxes of food and two mattresses, one atop the other, take up most of the living room that Williams shares with her mother, sister and 4-month-old nephew.

Kemp made a special stop at Arthur Mays Villa on Sept. 2 as he toured devastated south Florida by helicopter.

Later, at a news conference, he said: "I promised those people on behalf of the administration that we would start building and construction and reconstruction in seven days to 10 days."

This week, county housing officials said that deadline was too optimistic.

"We have started assessments and studying what we are going to do," said county housing spokeswoman Sherra McLeod. "But no real bricks and mortar are going to happen this week. That's just impossible."

Byrne is focusing on getting residents relocated. But even that cannot happen unless Congress approves funds for housing vouchers, which would allow low-income residents to get government-subsidized rental housing outside the disaster zone.

President Bush on Tuesday asked Congress for $182 million in vouchers as part of a $7.6 billion emergency aid package for hurricane cleanup and reconstruction.

MIAMI (AP) - Gov. Lawton Chiles says President Bush's offer of $7.6 billion in hurricane aid will fall far short of Florida's needs, some of which are only beginning to come to light.

Chiles flew to Washington to lobby for more federal help Tuesday as some Florida voters cast ballots in Army tents and the military told harrowing stories about hidden pockets of devastation.

Bush said he wanted Congress to appropriate the $7.6 billion for emergency cleanup and rebuilding in Florida and Louisiana, which were battered by Hurricane Andrew, and Guam, which was hit by Typhoon Omar.

Chiles didn't criticize the offer, but said Florida alone would need $6.7 billion to $9 billion in federal aid. "It looks like basically his number is about half of what we think our damages are," the governor said.

The federal response so far has included 22,000 federal troops in the damaged area, emergency relief checks, low-interest loans and visits from more than half the members of Bush's cabinet.

In a further sign of federal interest, The Washington Post reported today that the Department of Housing and Urban Development is undertaking a full-scale review of mobile home regulations.

Many mobile homes were shredded by the hurricane, and a Dade County building board has recommended banning them in the county. In Homestead, one of the hardest-hit cities, the City Council ordered its staff Tuesday night to study a mobile home ban. In the meantime, it passed a resolution allowing residents to move into mobile homes or recreational vehicles while they repair damaged houses.

Nearly 2,000 people are living in military tent cities, and 65 other olive-green tents did duty as polling places Tuesday in a hurricane-delayed primary in Dade County. The rest of the state voted on time last week.

High Ground incorporates; Carr elected as treasurer

The High Ground of Texas economic development coalition has voted to incorporate, opening the door to possible grants and donations, according to coalition president Rick Osburn.

The incorporation vote came at the marketing coalition's quarterly meeting in Tulia on Sept. 1.

"We wanted to set up a method by which High Ground might receive grants and donations from organizations that might be interested in industrial development in the High Plains region," said Grady Elder, High Ground by-laws committee chairman.

If a charter is granted by the state, the High Ground will be coded a "501 C6" by the Internal Revenue Service, meaning the group is a non-profit organization, said Elder.

Another reason for the incorporation is to create a more organized structure for the coalition, with a board of directors, by-laws and officers, he said.

The High Ground of Texas is a coalition of 37 communities and organizations in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains that pools members' resources for economic development in the region.

The High Ground board of directors, elected at the Tulia meeting, are: Michael Carr of Hereford, Grady Elder of Plainview, Kirk Folkner of Amarillo, Jerry Hinnenkamp of Brownfield, Joe Nisbett of Dalhart, Rick Osburn of Levelland, and an undetermined representative from Lubbock. Also on the board are sponsors Cheryl Pink, Southwestern Public Service Company; Tim Pierce, South Plains Association of Governments; and Perna Strickland, Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

Officers for the High Ground coalition are: Rick Osburn, president; Kirk Folkner, vice president; Grady Elder, secretary; and Michael Carr, treasurer.

"The officers and board of directors will serve to make us a more effective group," Elder said. "The High Ground will be a more organized and structured coalition."

If a charter is granted, the High Ground's official name will be "High Ground of Texas Economic Development Association, Incorporated."

Man surrenders after killing 2

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas (AP) - A Hill Country family who had complained to law officers about domestic turmoil has been struck down by an early-morning outburst of violence.

The result: A man and his wife were shot to death in their home and their son-in-law is in jail today accused of killing the couple then engaging in an eight-hour armed standoff with state troopers.

Scott Panetti, 39, was charged with one count of murder Tuesday evening in the deaths of Joe and Amanda Alvarado, ages 55 and 56. The couple were found dead in their Fredericksburg home after neighbors reported hearing three or four gunshots about 5:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Authorities said other charges likely would be filed later. Gillespie County law officers whisked Panetti away in a squad car after his surrender to a Texas Department of Public Safety SWAT team at 3:38 p.m. at a hunting cabin outside Fredericksburg. Authorities said he had been holed up in the one-room house with a high-powered deer rifle since about 7:30 a.m.

No shots were fired during the standoff, and no injuries were reported.

Earlier, Panetti took his estranged wife and 5-year-old daughter to the cabin with him, but released them a short time later with the warning that he was going to confront police officers, authorities said.

"I don't think they (DPS officers) had any problem convincing him to surrender. I think he already had made up his mind before they got there," said DPS Trooper Tom Mobley.

When he emerged, Panetti sported a coat and tie and a shaved head.

Gillespie County Sheriff Milton Jung said Panetti, who has been treated for mental problems at the Veterans Administration hospital in Kerrville, shaved his head Monday night and Tuesday morning, perhaps in anticipation of the day of violence. "He was a very strange man," Jung said.

Local law officers said they have known Panetti for years.

They described him as someone who had been in legal trouble several times for alcohol-related problems. They said he is an unemployed former Navy man who is on medication and is prone to violent outbursts when the medicine is not taken properly.

Panetti's in-laws apparently were worried about violence.

Scott Panetti and his wife, Sonja, reportedly separated about two weeks ago. Mrs. Panetti was living with her parents; Scott Panetti was living at the hunting cabin, officials said.

Mrs. Panetti obtained a court protective order a week ago to prevent Panetti from bothering her, Jung said.

Friends of the Alvarados said the couple had feared their son-in-law.

"For a full week he (Joe Alvarado) was worried about this man. He had already talked to the police about it," said Anita Martinez, who attended church with the Alvarados.

Mrs. Martinez, tears rolling down her cheeks, said Mrs. Alvarado suffered from cancer and was undergoing chemotherapy. She said Joe Alvarado enjoyed working in his yard and around the house so that he could be close to his wife.

Joe Alvarado also worked at a stone quarry, said Mrs. Martinez's husband, Gregorio Martinez.

"He was just a good man, a good worker," Martinez said. "He was my best friend."

Fredericksburg Police Chief Bob Werner declined Tuesday evening to release details about the shootings at the house or weapons recovered at the cabin. DPS investigators examined both places.

Groups call for state health plan

AUSTIN (AP) - A coalition of citizen rights groups have criticized a state task force for backing away from a recommendation to establish a public health insurance plan that would cover every Texan.

Leaders of more than 15 organizations called on the Governor's Health Policy Task Force Tuesday to reaffirm its support of a plan to replace privately purchased health insurance with publicly-funded coverage.

Last month, the task force recommended that Texans be covered under a plan overseen by the state and administered by a single insurer.

But that proposal prompted immediate condemnation by business and insurance lobbyists as "socialized medicine."

"Moscow tried that long, long ago," Larry Milner, a member of the task force and president the Texas Chamber of Commerce, had said.

In the face of the criticism, the task force watered down its recommendation, and instead suggested that the single insurer proposal be adopted for children and pregnant women. The task force said coverage for all Texans should be a goal.

But that doesn't go far enough, according to labor, elderly, disabled, and public watchdog groups.

"The single payer plan is the only true solution to handle the health care crisis in Texas," said Ron Cranston, of the Coalition of Texans with Disabilities.

Currently, between 3 million and 4 million Texans, including 1 million children, have no health insurance, according to the task force. The panel also reported that more and more of the uninsured are coming from working families who cannot afford insurance.

Gov. Ann Richards has said she wants health care reform to be one of the major topics tackled by lawmakers during the regular legislative session that starts in January.

Tim Curtis, of Texas Citizen Action, said Milner's comments were irresponsible and misleading. He said in so-called socialized medicine plans, doctors work for the government, while under the state task force's original proposal "the doctors work for us."

Milner defended his comments, saying, "I don't think telling the truth is irresponsible. I don't think that more government and more taxes are the solution to our problems."

Eggs may be cause of problem

CHICAGO (AP) - Infertility in women over 40 is due more to problems with their eggs than problems with their wombs, researchers said in a study published today.

Doctors said they had caused older infertile women to give birth by implanting eggs in their wombs that were donated by younger women and fertilized in vitro.

"There's an awful lot of women in their 40s that cannot have a child. ... This is an easy way to do it - relatively easy," said Dr. Mark V. Sauer, lead author of the study, published in today's issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

Big hit

A player for Hereford's eighth grade Maroon A team tackles a Pampa quarterback during a scrimmage Tuesday in Hereford.

Lady Whitefaces bow to Sandies

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team lost to Amarillo High, 9-15, 15-10, 15-5, Tuesday in Amarillo.

Hereford won the first game by focusing on one point at a time.

"What helped us more than anything was we weren't focusing on the entire match, we were focusing on the point we were playing at the present time," coach Brenda Reeh said. "We play better if we focus on each point as a mini-game to win. We didn't panic on defense, which you have a tendency to do against teams like Amarillo High because they hit so hard."

"Our breakdown in the second and third games was directly related to our passing--our free-ball passing and our service receive," Reeh said.

"We never got into synch in the third game. We'd score a point, then they'd score four points. We let some free balls fall between two people, and takes the wind out of you."

For Hereford, Kara Sandoval had 15 points serving on 18 good serves, including four aces. Jill Robinson and Angie Jowell each had one ace and 10 good serves.

Robyn Watts and Kathy Hernandez led Hereford with five kills each, and Robinson added four.

The Lady Whitefaces now stand at 8-5. They host Lubbock High at 2 p.m. Saturday in Whiteface Gym.

"We kept it up pretty good for two games. We just couldn't keep that high," coach Royce Spies said.

Brooke Bryant served for 11 points in the match, including seven in the second game.

Both of Hereford's ninth grade volleyball teams played in tournaments over the weekend. The A team took third in the Randall tournament, and the B team was sixth in Amarillo.

In pool play, the A team beat Randall's B team and River Road, then lost to Amarillo High 15-13, 16-14. They lost to Tascosa in the semifinals, then beat Randall's A team, 15-8, 15-12, for third place.

The B was bumped into the consolation bracket by a loss to Palo Duro. There they beat Caprock's A team, then they lost to Dumas in the fifth-place game.

Dykes: Raiders showed worth despite drubbing

LUBBOCK (AP) - The Oklahoma Sooners may argue the point that Texas Tech is a quality football team, but the Red Raiders at least made their head coach believe it in a 25-point defeat.

"I think we can compete with Oklahoma, and if we can compete with Oklahoma, then I think we're a good football team," Tech coach Spike Dykes said Tuesday at his weekly media luncheon.

The Sooners drubbed the Raiders, 34-9, Thursday in a nationally televised season opener as Oklahoma quarterback Cale Gundy threw for a school-record 341 yards.

"I don't think we're devastated," Dykes said. "I think our players realize where we are. They can see there were times last Thursday when we played very well. We just have to do it all the time."

Sophomore I-back Byron Morris carried 20 times for a career-high 103 yards against a team that last season allowed only one 100-yard individual rushing performance. The Sooners led the Big Eight Conference and ranked ninth in the nation a year ago in rushing defense.

The Raiders hurt themselves, Dykes said, with six dropped passes and a missed field goal.

"We haven't done that in a while," Dykes said.

The Raiders play host to Wyoming in a non-conference game at 7 p.m. Saturday. The Cowboys opened last week with a 25-6 victory against Nevada, a team that won 12 games a year ago in the NCAA Division I-AA ranks.

Dykes said Tech is wary of a complex offense Wyoming branched Saturday.

"They ran 36 formations," Dykes said. "If you guys (the media) are not doing anything at 3 o'clock in the morning, come by and see us. We'll be figuring out a way to line up against those formations."

Tech linebacker Steve Carr went down with a left knee sprain against Oklahoma. He will not play Saturday, but may return in two weeks against Oregon.

Tech end Dyas gets shot in leg

LUBBOCK (AP) - Harry Dyas, a starting Texas Tech defensive end, suffered a gunshot wound in his lower calf after breaking up an altercation at a weekend fraternity party and will be lost for at least two weeks, head coach Spike Dykes says.

Another defensive starter, inside linebacker Steve Carr, will be out a similar length of time with a knee sprain.

Texas Tech plays Wyoming in a game Saturday night in Lubbock. Wyoming opened its season last week with a 25-6 victory over Nevada. Tech opened with a 34-9 loss to Oklahoma.

Lendl survives Becker

NEW YORK (AP) - Just call him the Marathon Man.

Playing what's believed to be the longest match in the U.S. Open since the advent of the tiebreak in 1970, Ivan Lendl outlasted Boris Becker 6-7 (4-7), 6-2, 6-7 (4-7), 6-3, 6-4 Tuesday night in a marathon battle that lasted five hours, one minute.

It was to be expected. It was that kind of day.

Three of the four men's fourth-round matches went five sets. The other - Wayne Ferreira's victory over Emilio Sanchez - lasted four sets.

But Lendl is the leading practitioner of the long match. He plays a war of attrition, knowing that being the fittest player on the tour, he should win most matches.

In fact, Lendl warmed up early in this two-week hardcourt tournament by taking 4:23 to eliminate Jaime Yzaga of Peru in a first-round, five-set match. He followed that with two four-setters, practice sessions in Lendl's world.

Then, with a berth in the quarterfinals awaiting the winner, Lendl and Becker, two of the biggest hitters in the game, stood 78 feet apart and fired artillery shells at each other for half the night. And it all boiled down to just one or two points.

"It was just a question of the two men battling there for five hours and one had to lose and it happened to be me today," said Becker, the seventh seed in this, the year's final Grand Slam tournament. "On some days you are meant to win and some days meant to lose."

"I think it was a question of that."

For Lendl, it doesn't get any easier. His quarterfinal opponent will be Stefan Edberg, the defending champion and No. 2 seed.

Edberg had his own marathon Tuesday, outlasting No. 15 Richard Krajicek of the Netherlands 6-4, 6-7 (6-8), 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. And although the two are serve-and-volleyers, they took 4:19 to complete their day match.

Tough Floyd
PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) - There are a lot of quotes centering about Lee Trevino, and "Merry Mex" usually throws in a few himself.

When Trevino heard that the talented Ray Floyd was joining the Senior PGA Tour, of which Lee already was a member, he moaned aloud: "Floyd will be tougher than a 50-cent steak."

Tartabull drives in 9; Yount moves up on 3,000

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

The American League races are still too close to call. So far now, the only magic numbers that matter belong to Danny Tartabull, Jack McDowell and Robin Yount.

Tartabull's number was nine, as in the number of runs he drove home Tuesday night as the New York Yankees routed Baltimore 16-4.

Tartabull went 5 for 5 with two home runs and a double. His nine RBIs were two short of the AL record for RBIs, set by Tony Lazzeri in 1936, and three away from the major-league mark held by Jim Bottomley in 1924.

Yankees manager Buck Showalter took out Tartabull after his three-run homer in the eighth. Dion James replaced him, and got to bat in the ninth with a runner on first.

Tartabull set career highs for RBIs and hits in a game. He became the first player to drive in nine runs since Chris James did it for Cleveland on May 4, 1991, at Oakland.

"I did not realize it until I sat down in the dugout and said, 'I drove in nine runs.' I had six, then started adding up the ones from the last homer. That's when I realized it."

McDowell's magic number was 20, as in victories. He became the first pitcher in the majors to reach the mark this season, doing it as Chicago beat Detroit 4-3 in the first game of a doubleheader. The White Sox took the second game by the same 4-3 score.

McDowell (20-7) won his fifth straight decision.

"It feels good to get it and I'm glad I got it out of the way on the first shot," McDowell said.

Yount's number is one, as in how many hits he needs to reach 3,000.

Yount singled in the first inning in Milwaukee's 7-3 victory over Cleveland.

Tonight, at home against the Indians, Yount can become the 17th player to reach the milestone.

In other games, Oakland trounced California 14-4, Texas topped Boston 6-1, Minnesota defeated Seattle 8-4 and Toronto beat Kansas City 5-0.

Rangers 6, Red Sox 1

Jose Canseco hit his first home run for Texas and Kevin Brown earned his 19th victory as the Rangers won at home.

Canseco hit a two-run shot in the seventh inning.

Brown (19-8) went eight innings and gave up five hits.

Matt Young (0-4) retired only two batters in the shortest outing by a Red Sox starter this season.

The White Sox won the second game by the same score as the first one when Raines led off the eighth inning with his third homer of the season. He connected off Mark Leiter (7-5).

Terry Leach (4-4) pitched one inning for the win.

Athletics 14, Angels 2

Carney Lansford got five hits, drove in five runs and scored three as Oakland romped at Anaheim.

Lansford went 5 for 6, including a two-run double.

Kelly Downs (4-5) pitched 6 1-3 shutout innings. Chuck Finley (4-12) has won just two of 16 starts since June 13.

Blue Jays 5, Royals 0

Jimmy Key pitched a four-hitter and Joe Carter hit his 31st home run as Toronto won at Kansas City.

Key (9-13) struck out five and walked one.

Carter hit a two-run homer in the sixth and singled home a run in the seventh.

Twins 8, Mariners 4

Minnesota turned three singles, four walks and a pair of wild pitches into four runs in the eighth inning to win at the Metrodome.

The score was tied at 4 when Kirby Puckett opened the Twins' eighth with a single and advanced on two wild pitches by Calvin Jones (3-4). Shane Mack singled home the go-ahead run.

Gary Wayne (3-2) pitched 1 2-3 innings for the victory.

Pendleton's shot beats Dodgers

By The Associated Press

Atlanta's Terry Pendleton is making a strong run at being named the MVP again.

Pendleton hit a two-run homer to break a tie and Atlanta went on to a 7-5 victory over the visiting Los Angeles Dodgers on Tuesday night.

Pendleton's homer, his 20th of the season and 91st RBI, followed a walk to Jeff Blauser in the fourth inning off reliever Tim Crews (0-2).

When Pendleton won the National League MVP award last season he hit .319 with 22 homers and 86 RBIs.

Pendleton has been playing the last two months with a strained groin muscle.

Manager Bobby Cox would like to give Pendleton a rest - he's played 136 of Atlanta's 137 games - but the third baseman won't have it and Cox isn't arguing.

"He does it every night," Cox said. "You can't sit him down. He's too good and I love to watch him play."

The Braves added a run in the fourth inning on a single by Lonnie Smith, who stole second and scored on Brian Hunter's single.

"Ojeda had trouble with his control," Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said. "That was his downfall. Walks will kill you. They're the death of a manager."

Ojeda gave up four hits, four runs and four walks in 2 2-3 innings.

The Dodgers took a 4-1 lead off Charlie Leibrandt, getting a run in the first on an RBI single by Eric Karros and adding three runs in the second. Jose Offerman and Mike Sharperson had run-scoring singles and Brett Butler stole home.

Leibrandt went 4 2-3 innings, giving up nine hits and four runs, walking one and striking out two. Marvin Freeman (6-4) earned the victory with 2 1-3 innings of scoreless relief. Jeff Reardon got the last three outs for his third save with the Braves.

Astros 2, Reds 0

At the Astrodome, Anujar Cedeno broke up Chris Hammond's no-hitter and in his next at-bat snapped a scoreless tie with a double as Houston beat Cincinnati.

Hammond (7-10) didn't allow a baserunner and held Houston hitless until Cedeno led off the sixth with a single past third baseman Chris Sabo into left field.

Pete Harnisch (7-9) gave up three hits while striking out eight and walking two in seven innings.

Pirates 5, Cubs 2

At Three Rivers Stadium, Barry Bonds continued his Most Valuable Player drive with his eighth homer in 45 at-bats and Pittsburgh kept the pressure on Montreal in the NL East.

Doug Drabek (12-10) improved to 14-7 lifetime against the Cubs by pitching a three-hitter for his eighth complete game of the season. Drabek has pitched at least eight innings in 12 of his last 14 starts.

Bonds jump-started the Pirates in the first inning, following Andy Van Slyke's two-out single with his 28th homer, off Cubs starter Shawn Boskie (5-8).

Phillies 2, Mets 1

At Veterans Stadium, Mickey Morandini's run-scoring grounder snapped a tie in the eighth inning as Philadelphia beat New York. Dwight Gooden (8-12) pitched a complete game for New York, allowing six hits.

Ricky Jordan opened the inning pinch hitting for winning pitcher Keith Shepherd (1-0) and reached safely on third baseman Chico Walker's throwing error.

Ruben Amaro then singled to right sending Jordan to third. Morandini then grounded to Walker, whose only play was to first as Jordan scored the unearned run.

Expos 6, Cardinals 1

At Olympic Stadium, Larry Walker hit a three-run homer as Montreal snapped a three-game losing streak by beating St. Louis.

Brian Barnes (6-5) gave up one run and three hits in 5 2-3 innings for the victory.

Walker broke open a 3-1 game with his 21st homer of the season to left off Bob McClure in the seventh inning with two on.

Giants 6, Padres 5

The longest game at Candlestick Park in six years ended in the 16th inning when Robby Thompson scored on a wild pitch by Gene Harris (0-2).

Thompson led off with a single and took third when Harris made a wild throw on Kirt Manwaring's sacrifice bunt. On the wild pitch, Harris, having no play at the plate, tried to block Thompson from reaching home.

Jeff Brantley (4-7), the seventh San Francisco pitcher, was the winner.

Owners to decide who'll lead baseball

ST. LOUIS (AP) - After succeeding in the drive to force Fay Vincent out as commissioner, owners weren't sure who was in charge of baseball. And they weren't even certain on what would happen next.

Baseball's 10-member executive council, which met by telephone Tuesday for 15 minutes, meets in person today and is expected to attempt to decide on an interim leader. The meeting Tuesday didn't result in any decisions.

"It was a very brief call," said Bud Selig of the Milwaukee Brewers, a non-voting member of the group. "This is obviously done better in person."

Although 18 owners united in their opposition to Vincent, forcing him to resign Monday, they are divided on their goals and intentions. And Vincent's supporters say they will not vote for changes that will weaken the office of the commissioner.

"I'm not on the executive council and I don't know if it will be an interim commissioner, but someone will be named tomorrow," said Chicago White Sox owner Jerry Reinsdorf, a leader of the anti-Vincent movement.

Owners who arrived at the meeting site on Tuesday night said little thought had been given on how baseball would be run after Vincent's resignation on Monday. For now, power results with the executive council, usually an advisory body.

"I haven't the slightest idea," American League president Bobby Brown said when asked what would happen next.

Aside from the in-fighting, owners must soon address:

-The San Francisco Giants' proposed move to St. Petersburg, Fla.

-The appeal by the commissioner's office of a preliminary injunction blocking National League realignment.

-The fate of the leadership of the commissioner's staff.

-The composition of the restructuring committee.

Various names have been floated as replacements for Vincent, including former AL president Lee MacPhail, Player Relations Committee president Richard Ravitch, former Montreal Expos executive John McHale, Major League Baseball Properties president Rick White, Democratic National Committee chairman Ron Brown and Bobby Brown.

Reinsdorf has said he has definite ideas, but wants to see if others agree.

"If anything, you may see it strengthened," he said of the commissioner's job. "The strongest commissioner in sports is David Stern and I suspect when baseball gets restructured, it will be along the lines of the NBA, where everyone reports to the commissioner, and the commissioner reports to the board of directors."

Twenty-one clubs are needed to elect a commissioner and to change the authority of the office.

Umps show respect for ex-commissioner

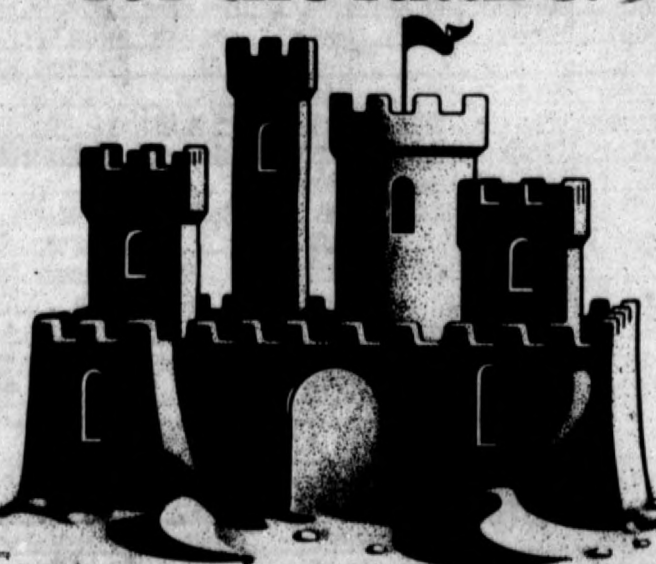

HOUSTON (AP) - Former baseball commissioner Fay Vincent has won a salute from the umpires that he couldn't elicit from the owners.

The three umpires in the field working the Cincinnati-Houston game Tuesday night - Ed Rapuano, Joe West and crew chief Terry Tata - wore white-lettered "Fay" on the back of their caps in tribute to Vincent, who resigned under pressure Monday.

"They have taken away an asset to baseball," West said. "The owners have a role in the game just like umpires. Baseball is like a chess board and each piece has its own power, and right now the owners have captured the king."

Hebert heads honor roll with 413 yards, 5 TDs

DALLAS (AP) - Dexter Hebert turned two batches of incentive into a near-record performance.

Hebert, who has dedicated this season to the memory of his father, wanted to make Bridge City pay for embarrassing his Beaumont Kelly team the last two seasons.

He ran over and through Bridge City's defense for 413 yards on 27 carries leading Kelly to a 35-14 victory Friday. Hebert scored on runs of 85, 80, 55, 41 and 36 yards.

Fueled by the motivation of his father's death and seeking revenge against Bridge City, Hebert rushed for 413 yards on 27 in Beaumont Kelly's 35-14 season-opening victory.

"I know he would have been happy," Hebert said of his father, John, a former college football player who died of a heart attack last summer at 52.

Hebert received top billing Tuesday on the season's first AP schoolboy honor roll.

His 413 yards is believed to be the second best effort in state private school history behind Rudy Rudison's 599 for Houston Marian Christian in 1978.

"I decided that every time I touched the ball, I was not going to let one or two guys stop me, it was going to take the whole team," Hebert said.

Kelly coach George Eskue was awed by the performance. Bridge City coach Terry Townzen refused to comment on it.

"It was really phenomenal," Eskue said. "The last two years, he was just a power back. This year, he weighs 200 (pounds) at 5-8 and runs like he's 180. He can run around you or run through you. Once he's in the secondary, you can't stop him."

Attending Kelly has not kept college recruiters away from Hebert. He has a filing cabinet full of letters and can expect many more calls and visits after Friday's performance.

"When I first came here, my dad used to tell me, 'If you do it, they're going to recognize you,'" said Hebert, a B student who has met NCAA requirements on his SAT. He hopes to play for a Southwest Conference school.

Hebert's goal is to end his high school career by leading for 2,000 yards and leading the team to its first winning record since taking the state's TCIL 4A title his freshman year. Kelly was 2-8-1 during Hebert's junior year in which he played only five games but still gained 900 yards. "I'm the shy type of person. I don't like to step up and lead, but when coach called on me (to be a captain), that's something I had to do," he said.

His next challenge comes Friday at 3A Orangefield, which also boasts a pretty good running back in Anthony Schilscher. He gained 207 yards on 11 carries in a 39-0 victory over Hardin with touchdown runs of 59, 8 and 3 yards.

One of the weekend's best overall performances was by Julio Cepeda, who had four touchdowns and 371 all-purpose yards in Laredo Cigarroa's 41-29 victory over Robstown.

He rushed for 185 yards including a 54-yard touchdown burst, had catches of 74 and 16 yards, returned an interception 86 yards and added a 10-yard punt return. He also was part of 14 tackles.

"And after the game he treated us to dinner and drove the bus home," joked Toros coach Keno Aleman.

In other outstanding performances: -Mark Humble, a junior, threw for 321 yards in defending Class 5A Division I champion Killeen's season opener against San Angelo Central, a rematch of last year's state semifinal. Humble had touchdown passes of 94, 61, 23, 16 and 14 yards in Killeen's 40-36 victory.

Gerald Patterson helped Humble by catching five passes for 221 yards and three touchdowns.

Cedric Howard of San Antonio Southwest had an interception, a 91-yard punt return and a blocked extra point kick over a 17-6 victory over Schertz Clemens.

Wayne Limbrick of Jasper gained 270 yards and scored three times on 26 carries. His touchdowns came on runs of 91, 7 and 2 yards in the 30-21 victory over Tyler Chapel Hill.

Michael Purefoy had 306 yards rushing to help Millsap outdust Ranger 32-30. Ranger quarterback Todd Hatton completed 26 of 41 passes for 319 yards and four touchdowns. His team ran only three rushing plays.

Eddie Gonzalez accounted for 22 points in El Paso Jefferson's 24-17 victory over El Paso Hanks. He rushed for 197 yards and three touchdowns, hit a 27-yard field goal and kicked an extra point.

Liberty-Eylau tailback Keldrick Williams gained 305 all-purpose yards in a 40-7 victory over Longview Pine Tree. He rushed for 226 yards and a touchdown on 23 carries, caught two passes for 42 yards and another touchdown and returned a kickoff 37 yards.

Frank Melendez of El Paso Montwood returned a kickoff 92 yards with 24 seconds remaining, helping the Rams defeat New Mexico's Deming High 21-18. He also rushed for 108 yards and a touchdown.

Shannon Davis of Galveston O'Connell rushed for 4 touchdowns, threw another then returned a punt 87 yards for the game-winning score in a 36-30 victory over Houston Kincaid. -Michael Ross helped Class 3A's

No. 5 Carrizo Springs defeat Berne 20-0 with 269 yards. He had touchdown runs of 76, 74 and 44 yards.

Sophomore cornerback Brandon Browder starred in his first game with eight tackles and two interceptions, returning one 65 yards for a touchdown in Lorena 25-20 upset victory over McGregor.

Brandon Beaux only played the first half of Little Cypress-Mauriceville's 40-0 victory over Kirbyville, but completed 14 of 19 passes for 251 yards and three touchdowns. He also had a one-yard scoring run.

Ben Henderson, a junior from Seagraves gained 256 yards on 13 carries in a 41-18 victory over Rotan. He scored on runs of 76 and 47 yards.

Doug "The Stumpster" Ralson ran for 213 yards on 25 carries leading Bullard past Malakoff 27-12. The 5-foot-9, 250-pound fullback had scoring runs of 32, 18 and 3 yards.

Aggies take SWC's weekly honors

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

AP Sports Writer Texas A&M quarterback Jeff Granger's performance in the Aggies' season opener was one that not even a mother could love.

Granger was benched in the third quarter before returning to lead the Aggies to a 10-7 victory over Stanford in the Kickoff Classic on Aug. 27.

"After the game, his mother told me 'Coach, I don't blame you, I'd have taken him out too,'" A&M coach R.C. Slocum said.

Granger's mother and Slocum were more pleased with his performance on Saturday's 31-22 victory over Louisiana State.

Granger completed 13 of 26 passes and threw a touchdown pass to earn Associated Press SWC offensive player of the week honors in a rebound performance that was no surprise to Slocum.

Aggie cornerback Aaron Glenn made it an honors sweep by earning the AP's defensive player for his second outstanding performance in as many weeks.

Granger remained red hot to help the Aggies win in LSU's Tiger Stadium for the first time since 1975. He completed his first four passes and closed out the drive with a touchdown pass.

Eleven of Granger's 12th went for a touchdown.

"That first drive really gave me confidence," Granger said. "It made me feel better the rest of the game. That first week, I was trying to do too much and throwing too hard. Bad things happened because of me."

NFL rookies face tough adjustment

By STEVE CAMPBELL
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
IRVING (AP) - By the exacting standards of his profession, Russell Maryland admittedly had it almost easy. Sign on the dotted line as - to borrow from the "Unofficial Book of Jerry Jones Proverbs" - the pick of the litter of the 1991 National Football League draft.

Become a millionaire without having spindled, folded, mutilated or otherwise inconvenienced any NFL quarterbacks.

Deign to attend a never-ending series of mandatory, yet purely voluntary, Dallas Cowboys off-season camps.

So Maryland had to carry around the weight of the football world's expectations on his shoulders. So what? At least the Cowboys didn't insist that he contribute immediately.

Let alone start.

At least Maryland didn't have to walk the length of Texas Stadium in the cleats of Robert Jones.

Fresh off the campus of East Carolina, Jones blitzed through the kind of rush week that would put Delta House to shame. Starting at middle linebacker for the Cowboys. Against the defending Super Bowl champions. On Monday Night Football. With the Three Wise Guys (Al Michaels, Dan Dierdorf and Frank Gifford) waiting to critique it all for the masses.

As if all that weren't daunting enough, starting defensive tackles Tony Casillas (knee) and Maryland (toe) were out of the lineup with injuries. Jones may as well have had a bull's eye painted over the No. 55 on his jersey. If Jones was hit and miss in the game against the Washington Redskins, it was purely understandable.

"I probably wouldn't have gotten any sleep (in that situation)," said Maryland, whose first NFL start came in Game 10 last year. "I probably would have been thinking a whole lot. I would have been trying not to make mistakes, and I probably would have made more mistakes trying not to make them."

The Cowboys have been grooming

Jones to start since they took him 24th overall in the first round of April's draft. Still, there is so much material that neither players nor coaches can begin to cover in one training camp. Take it from Troy Aikman, who made the jump from No. 1 pick of the 1989 draft to No. 1 quarterback of the worst team in the league.

"It was a big adjustment for me," said Aikman, who emerged as a Pro Bowler last year. "Compared to what I know now, you could say I knew nothing then."

Nevertheless, Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson is willing to make allowances for on-the-job training. Especially when there's talent involved. And Jones is a 6-foot-2, 236-pound specimen with a 38-inch vertical jump, 4.6 speed in the 40-yard dash and a 480-pound bench press.

If Johnson had had his way, Jones likely would not have been the only rookie starting Monday night. Remember, the Cowboys took cornerback Kevin Smith seven slots ahead of Jones. Smith, who doesn't turn 22 until April, had an open invitation to beat out veteran Issiac Holt for the starting left cornerback job. A strained right hamstring slowed Smith throughout training camp, forcing him to send in a negative RSVP.

"It has been discouraging," Smith said. "The good thing about it is it helped Ike Holt a lot. I think if I were 100 percent, working like I should, it would be a tossup who would be starting. I pushed Ike and the coaches pushed Ike, and he had a great camp."

For now, at least, Smith has to watch, wait and heal as a situational player. Like fellow rookie defensive backs Darren Woodson and Clayton Holmes, Smith is in for a more conventional NFL indoctrination than Jones.

"You have to have a lot of patience," second-year Cowboys right tackle Erik Williams said. Not to mention resilience. Williams made his first start on Nov. 3 last season against Phoenix and was promptly beaten for three first-half sacks by linebacker Ken Harvey. Then Williams righted himself and kept Harvey off the quarterback the rest of the way.

"It was ugly," Williams said. "He got three sacks in the first half. You and I know that's not good. You can't imagine what was going through my mind after the first two sacks."

Well, what? "Everything," Williams said. "That's another thing that amazed me: They had faith in me. They kept me in there. Most coaching staffs after the first two sacks would have gone, 'Hey, wait a minute.'"

It would take hours to detail the complications of a rookie's life. Here is the Cliff's Notes version:

Chapter One: Wave Goodbye to Academic Advisors, Free Room and Board and Tutors. It didn't take second-year cornerback Larry Brown long to figure out that he didn't have anybody to take care of him anymore. "You go from high school to college, and you're away from your mother and father," Brown said. "But you have no bills. Here, there are not the same distractions, like classes. But you have bills. You're responsible."

Chapter Two: Preparation H - As In Help! It is still 100 yards from end zone to end zone, and touchdowns still count six points, and the offense gets four downs, but ...

"Everything about the NFL is different than college - the whole experience," Aikman said.

In most cases, it's mind over matter: If you don't use your mind, your physical ability isn't going to matter much.

Chapter Three: Does Anybody Really Know What Time It Is? It's football time - all day, all week, all season. Listen to safetynickel linebacker Bill Bates, a 10th-year player.

"I think the biggest adjustment is how you handle your time," Bates said. "You lose a lot of freedom that you had in college away from the football field. During the football season, it is really a 7-day-a-week grind. Even though you get a day off, you usually have to do football stuff. Once these guys get into about the eighth game of the season, they'll be thinking they're about to finish this season and start another one. They won't see the light at the end of the tunnel. It seems like the season lasts forever."

Chapter Four: Exhibition Season Is Just That - An Exhibition. Jones and his fellow rookies are only beginning to see the best opponents have to offer.

Regular-season games - especially crucial ones - mean resourceful veterans stealing time during lunch and at night looking at tapes, Bates said, "just to find some edge that can make a difference." On that count, Jones appears to be ahead of the game. He declined media lunch-hour requests last week in favor of studying tape.

Chapter Five: The Grass And The Turf Aren't The Only Things That Are Green. Don't forget the deepest shade of NFL green - money. Money means big business. It's not a matter of playing football so much as working it.

Chapter Six: Nothing Lasts Forever - Except Uncertainty. Brown made the team as a long-shot 12th-rounder out of TCU in '91. When the coaching staff told Brown he had become a starter by Game 4, he went into denial. "It didn't hit me until I stepped on the field," Brown said. "As many changes as they made during the week, you never know. They could have changed their minds. I was only 21. To be at that age and thrown in that situation, it was unbelievable. Fortunately, the coaches didn't put me in any uncomfortable situations."

Chapter Seven: Talk is a Four-Letter Word. Wistful words of wisdom tend to have about the same effect on rookies as, oh, telling a teen-ager what to do. Or not to do. "Advice, it's all a bunch of bull," Harper said. "You've got to experience it yourself."

Although Robert Jones grew up in the Redskins' outlet of Blackstone, Va., he preferred to follow the Cowboys. Monday night, Jones retraced a couple of the footsteps of Lee Roy Jordan, the last Cowboys rookie to start at middle linebacker. That was in 1963, or six years before Jones was born.

Nevertheless, Jones vowed beforehand to keep any feelings of anxiety to himself. That would put him one up on Bates, whose first NFL game was a 31-30, Monday-night victory against the Redskins on Sept. 5, 1983. And Bates wasn't even starting.

"I was in awe - being in the situation of getting ready to play against the Redskins on Monday night in RFK," Bates said. "It was incredible. Everything was happening so fast. I got in the game, and it was easy for me to play the way I play - crazy. It all went by so fast."

Laettner's Marks

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) - The records set by Duke's Christian Laettner in the 1992 NCAA post-season basketball tournament will give future players a shining target to shoot at.

Laettner led Duke to its straight march to a second consecutive championship but started in an unprecedented four straight Final Fours over a record of 21 NCAA tournament games. Christian set tournament career records for points with 407 and free throws made with 130. He tied the record for steals with 32. The 6-11 star also made the winning shot at the buzzer against Kentucky in the Southeast regional championship game.

20 Bengals accused of rape

SEATTLE (AP) - The 20 current and former Cincinnati Bengals accused in a civil suit of raping a Spokane woman or standing by while she was assaulted in 1990 have been identified by the woman's lawyers.

The federal court complaint says the plaintiff, described as a 98-pound mother of four, "was brutally and sadistically raped ... over two hours, by 13 to 15 Bengal players who were two- to three-times her size" at a hotel where the team stayed while in town to play the Seattle Seahawks.

The names were released Tuesday by Victoria Vreeland, a Seattle attorney representing the plaintiff, identified only as Victoria C.

There are 12 accused of rape in the complaint, which seeks unspecified compensatory damages for pain and suffering and damages to cover medical and psychological care.

Eight Cincinnati players were served with summonses Saturday after practicing at the Kingdome for the Bengals contest with the Seahawks on Sunday. They are Reggie Rembert, Rodney Holman, Eric Thomas, Barney Bussey, Tim McGee, Eric Ball, James Francis and Harold Green.

Also named in the complaint, amended Friday to include the names but ordered sealed until Tuesday by U.S. District Judge John Coughenour, are Lewis Billups, David Fulcher, Rickey Dixon, Craig Ogletree, Elbert "Ickey" Woods, Bernard Clark, Leo Barker, Craig Taylor, Solomon Wilcoits, Mitchell Price, Eddie Brown and Carl Carter.

Summonses will be served on those players within the next two weeks, said plaintiff lawyer Richard Eymann of Spokane.

McGee told Cincinnati station WCPO-TV that he has retained a lawyer and is considering a lawsuit of his own.

"The system has let me and other innocent players down," McGee said Tuesday. "How could they allow her to name us before we even had a chance to defend ourselves and have our reputations shattered? We can clear ourselves, but the damage has been done."

In Cincinnati, the Bengals restated the club's contention that Victoria C.'s complaint against the organization - accused of negligence - is "unmeritorious."

"The Bengals will continue to take whatever action is appropriate to have the complaint against the organization dismissed," the Bengals said in a statement.

None of the players named was reachable for comment Tuesday. The players had the day off and efforts to reach them at their homes were unsuccessful.

A telephone call to James Perry, a lawyer representing some of the players, wasn't returned.

Accused in the complaint of raping the plaintiff are Dixon, Holman, Thomas, Bussey, McGee, Woods, Billups, Clark, Fulcher, Francis and Ogletree, Vreeland said.

The plaintiff, who was going through a divorce at the time, had gone to the Bengals "team floor" at the suburban Seattle hotel for consensual sex with a team member on Oct. 3, 1990, lawyer Eymann said previously.

When the player left the room and she was dressing, the door burst open and three players came in and began the series of assaults that lasted more than two hours, Eymann said.

The plaintiff did not go to the police, Eymann said. She moved to Spokane from the Seattle area because of the anguish she suffered after the assault, he said.

The Pharaoh of ancient Egypt was so-called from the Egyptian words for "great house."

AXYDLBAAXR is LONG FELLOW

One letter stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: We have bugs in the house that look like crickets. We can't seem to get rid of them. Can you suggest something we might try? — V.W., Campbellville, Ky.

Crickets can get in your home through small openings on the outside of your home, or through fireplaces, windows and doors. Extremes in temperature, either heat or cold, may cause an infestation.

Crickets eat materials such as cotton, silk and wool. Their waste will damage just about anything it comes in contact with.

Extermination is relatively easy. Use an insecticide that can be sprayed directly on the bugs and then sprinkle a commercial insect powder in crevices and other areas where the bugs may hide.

Caution: As with all chemical products, keep them out of the reach of children and pets and also away from food and food-preparation areas. — Heloise

HANDY SPAGHETTI

Dear Heloise: Spaghetti makes a good, cheap emergency substitute for fireplace matches when lighting the fireplace, water heater or furnace.

Of course, you must first light the end of the spaghetti with a regular household match.

Matches and spaghetti can all be stored in a used fireplace match box. — Jane Whaley, Richardson, Texas

CLEANING MINIBLINDS
Dear Heloise: My wife came up with a great time saver to clean miniblinds.

Hang the blinds in the basement or garage and spray them with bubbling bath cleaner. Wait 15 or 20 minutes, then hose them down and let them dry. The foaming action really does the work for you.

When dry, they look brand-new. — Tony Erickson, Whiting, Iowa

MICROWAVE OVEN
Dear Heloise: Here is another way to use good old baking soda in the microwave oven.

Between uses, I keep an open box inside the microwave to absorb any cooking odors. When I need to use the microwave, I just take out the box and put it back when I'm done — no odors. — John Malinowski, Port Reading, N.J.

Dear Heloise: Last week I found a little German shepherd puppy roaming around my neighborhood. It was about to storm, so I took him into my house.

About three hours later a couple of men were riding through the neighborhood in a pick-up truck whistling and calling for the dog. I ran out and told them I had him.

It seems they stopped at a local store and didn't notice he was gone from the back of the truck.

He was a beautiful dog, and I was tempted to keep him. The back of a pick-up truck is no place for an animal! He could have been stolen easily or hit by a car and those men would never have known. — Katy Williams, San Antonio, Texas

I agree! It's also very dangerous to have a dog in an open bed of a truck because its eyes can be injured by insects or other debris hitting at high speed.

There is also a big chance a dog can fall or jump out when the truck is moving or in an accident, causing very serious injuries or death.

If you must take a dog, make room for it in the cab of the truck, never in the back.

Would you want to ride back there?

GARDEN HOSE HOLDER

Dear Heloise: I used to keep my garden hose rolled up in a corner next to my house. It would twist and tangle when I unrolled it. I priced a couple of wall-mounted holders and decided to make my own.

All I did was cut a piece of wood in the shape of a circle. I nailed three large (framing) nails in a triangle about eight inches apart and covered them with pieces of an old hose.

I mounted this on the wall next to the water faucet and wrapped the hose around it. It stays neat and is easy to unroll. — William Arden, Seattle, Wash.

INSECT BITES

Dear Heloise: This summer has been terrible — there are more mosquitoes than ever! I'm one of those "lucky" ones that a mosquito will never pass by.

I've found the best way to stop that awful itching is to put some white vinegar on a cloth and gently rub the affected area. It's quick relief. — Jodi Baxter, Fort Myers, Fla.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've printed a lot of comments lately about college kids who drink too much. Are there more campus alcoholics than there used to be? You bet there are, but it starts long before they get to college.

I've been sober for many years with the help of Alcoholics Anonymous. The faces coming through A.A.'s doors these days get younger and younger. The kids are very sick by the time they reach us and often in trouble with the law. The International Conference of Young People in A.A. now holds its own huge conventions, and the stories told there, some by kids barely into junior high, would break your heart.

One 14-year-old told me that in a survey of her high school, more than 50 percent of the students said they'd had six or more drinks on one occasion at least once in the preceding week. Nearly 80 percent said they usually drink three or more times a week. Even allowing for bravado, that's a staggering statistic.

College alcohol abuse is epidemic, especially in off-campus housing. I've just moved a couple of miles farther from the University of Louisville to get away from the vandalism and screaming 5 a.m. parties. If something isn't done to stop this trend, I don't know where it's going to end.—Sour Mashed in Louisville

DEAR SOUR MASHED: Here's another point of view.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is in response to your Penn State writer who said alcohol abuse on campus is worse than ever. Please tell him to calm down.

I graduated from an engineering college in Chicago and lived on Rush Street. We tried to drink all the beer in town, and at times I thought we did. Our fraternity had plaque on the wall attesting to drinking feats, and it wasn't uncommon to attend late afternoon classes drunk.

It's now 25 years later, and among my fraternity brothers and college friends there are corporate presidents, vice presidents, directors, etc., and not one of these men has had his life, job or family ruined by alcoholism.

The first years of college are bound to produce party animals, but with job responsibility and family obligations come maturity and sobriety.

So tell your Penn State writer to let the kids have their fun because it will end much too quickly.—A Former Party Animal

DEAR ANIMAL: According to a recent study done by Harvard University researchers, drinking on campus is at an all-time high. The Journal of the American Medical Association published the results of a survey of students at Massachusetts campuses in 1989, and the findings are similar to recent nationwide data. The survey shows that a higher percentage of college students got drunk in the late 1980s than a dozen years before, with the most dramatic increases among women.

What's worse, both sexes increasingly drink just to get drunk. In 1977, only 20 percent of the men and 10 percent of the women said they drank "just to get drunk." In the 1989 survey, 40 percent of the men and 34 percent of the women said the same thing. Half of the men and a third of the women report having consumed five or more drinks in a row on at least one occasion in the past two weeks, according to the researchers.

It is becoming abundantly clear that alcohol is the most dangerous drug of all. And it's legal. Prohibition is not the answer. We tried it and it was an abysmal failure. We must educate our children, starting in grade school, about the damage done by drinking, and it wouldn't hurt if parents set a better example.

Freezer is mini-mart

Freezers have been around for near 50 years, but how they've changed! For those who can only picture a freezer as the huge white chest used by farming families, it's time to check the 1990s version of these products.

Home economists report that today's freezers come in sizes to fit most home and family needs. The mini model, a 5.3 cu. ft. chest, is less than 24-inches wide but holds more than 180 pounds of frozen food. Another chest, a 7-cu. ft. unit with 240 pounds of storage capacity, slides easily into a 32-inch wide space.

The economists note that a small freezer in the kitchen can provide a mini-market array of home prepared meats, casseroles, fruits and vegetables. Take them from the freezer and pop them into the microwave oven for home-prepared "fast" foods, ready in minutes.

For families on the go with varying meal schedules, bag food in individual serving portions. Take one out as needed, poke steam vent holes in the top of the bag, microwave and serve. Also, prepare double batches, when there's time to cook casseroles, spaghetti, chili, etc. Serve one, freeze the other. Cook extra hamburgers on the grill, leaving several rare. Pop each into a freezer bag; then thaw and cook in the microwave oven on a busy day. Make tray dinners from leftovers, wrap and freeze, keeping them ready for those who are on an eat-and-run schedule.

Compact freezers offer a mini-market of homemade fast foods for busy families concerned about time and nutrition.

Treat yourself to style show, dinner

The Fall Fashion Show, Dinner, sponsored by the King's Manor Auxiliary, is planned at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the King's Manor's Lamar Garden Room, 400 Ranger Drive. Tickets are priced at $10 per person and may be purchased at the manor office, from auxiliary members or at participating merchants. All proceeds will be used to help assist manor residents. Tracy Schulze wears plaid walking shorts with a coordinating cardigan sweater and shirt from The Pants Cage. Door prizes will be presented.

There are certain queer times and occasions in this strange mixed affair we call life when a man takes his whole universe for a vast practical joke, though the wit thereof he but dimly discerns, and more than suspects that the joke is at nobody's expense but his own.
