Guerrero pushes state energy policy City picks four finalists for chief's job

By JOHN BROOKS Managing Editor

Lena Guerrero, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, came calling for votes Thursday at Deaf Smith County Courthouse. Guerrero, appointed in 1991 to fill out the two years left by John Sharp when he was elected comptroller, is running for her first six-year term. She is fighting Republican Rick Williamson in the general election.

"My consultants said I couldn't carry the Panhandle and West Texas, and I am here to prove them wrong," she said. Guerrero, who spent many of her summers in Dimmitt working in fields and at the Bobcat Drive Inn, said she felt she knew the Panhandle well enough to come stumping for support.

Guerrero graduated from the University of Texas at Austin served three terms in the Texas house before her appointment last year by Gov. Ann Richards. She has started work on a state energy policy.

"We need a national energy policy, but how can we say that when we don't have a state policy?" Guerrero asked. "We have 300 people, many of them volunteers, working on the state energy policy we plan to present to the legislature and the governor before the end of the year."

She said the policy will "use Texas fuel to create Texas jobs." It calls for use of natural gas to run buses and other mass transit vehicles, and will call for development of other ways to use natural gas, compressed natural gas, propane and other energy sources.

"Too often government waits for someone or something in Washington to wave an economic magic wand," she told a crowd of about 50 persons here Thursday. "Magic wands won't create new jobs. But a comprehensive statewide energy plan and new markets for Texas fuels will create economic activity and jobs."

A decision on a new Hereford police chief may come early next week. The last of the interviews with four finalists was scheduled Friday morning.

City Manager Chester Nolen said a special meeting of the city commission may be held Monday evening to confirm his selection for the job. A city ordinance requires the city manager to select the chief but submit the choice to the commission for approval.

Candidates for the position are David Wagner, criminal investigator for the Deaf Smith County criminal district attorney; Gary Thurman, Dimmitt police chief; Eddie Wilson, West Texas State University chief, and Barry Hooper, Canyon police department sergeant.

All four are qualified for the Hereford position, Nolen said, and hold required certification.

The city manager screened 29 applicants for the position, held by Caydon Brush from 1969 until he resigned, effective July 31. Capt. Pat Michael has served as officer in charge since that time.

Nolen said there is a possibility that the new chief could be on the job by the middle of September.

"All of them would want to give two weeks' notice where they are now," he said. Originally, Nolen expected the selection process to take somewhat longer, with a new chief taking over about Oct. 1.

Nolen expects to have a decision on the recommendation to the city commission by late Friday, then call a special commission meeting for Monday.

Clinton claims his Texas kinship

WACO (AP) - Bill Clinton, courting voters in President Bush's adopted home state, told Texans he may not be a resident but "my daddy was born here ... and I'm a whole lot more like you" than Bush.

The state's 32 electoral votes make it key to success in November and Democrats Clinton and Al Gore worked hard Thursday to push Texans away from Bush.

Clinton told an evening rally that the Republicans "literally have the worst economic performance since the roaring '20s."

"Folks, this deal is not working," he said of White House economic policies. "I think we can do better."

The economy has been the Democrats' main issue throughout the two-day bus tour that ends today.

Clinton ribbed Bush for claiming his legal residence as Texas, where the president uses a hotel as his address and owns a tiny plot of land.

"I want to tell you something folks, I don't have a hotel room in Texas and I don't have a plot of land about the size of this platform," the Arkansas governor said, "But my daddy was born here and I have a lot of kin folks here and I'm a whole lot more like you than he is."

A Rice University poll released the day before the Republican National Convention last week gave Clinton a 17-point lead in Texas, but GOP officials say the gap has since narrowed.

It was Bush, speaking to the convention, who raised the question of which campaign could be trusted on the economy.

Gore ridiculed the Republicans for having "the audacity to say this election is about whether or not you can trust them."

"Someone who says 'Read my lips' and then raises taxes on average working Americans ought to have second thoughts about raising that question," the Tennessee senator said.

Clinton said the Democrats have a simple plan for revitalizing the nation's economy.

"We call it putting people first," he said. "It doesn't seek to push this country to the left or the right, but to lead us into the future."

He accused Bush of defending the interests of the rich while ignoring working-class families who need jobs, health care, family leave and other help in tough times.

"You have George Bush acknowledging that there does need to be more attention on the economy," said Clinton spokeswoman Avis Lavelle. "At the same time he said, 'trust me, I'm the one who will pay attention to this now.' He hasn't paid attention for four years and he's been part of a team that hasn't paid attention for 12 years to the problems of middle-class America."

"So this notion that you can trust him and give him four more years to turn around the economy, which he paid no attention to, is ridiculous."

Clinton also talked tough on crime as he picked up the endorsement of a statewide Texas law enforcement organization. He emphasized his support for capital punishment and his plan to add 100,000 police officers nationwide.

CLINTON

"You ought to have someone who gives you more than hot air and rhetoric," he told the Combined Law Enforcement Associations of Texas.

EARTH, Texas (AP) - Mothers never thought twice about leaving their car running with their children inside while making a stop at the store in this West Texas farm community.

The 1,500 residents here have always taken pride in the town's low crime rate and friendly people.

But Lucretia Roland, a mother of three young girls, cringes at the thought now.

"You think in a small town you are entitled to a few more privileges, like letting your kids play freely outside," she said, near tears. "No way. You can't do it anymore - not even here."

Word ripped through Earth's dusty, saloon-style main street Thursday that 5-year-old Shawnlee Perry, who had been reported missing on May 7, was found dead about five miles west of town in a remote pasture.

She was last reported seen when she went to play with friends near an abandoned church next to her home.

Police said they are investigating the case as a homicide and acknowledged few leads. An autopsy also revealed little.

"It could be a week or longer before we know the cause of death," said forensic pathologist Dr. Jody Nielsen, who examined the body Thursday.

"The body was so decomposed ... the circumstances of her being found in an abandoned field is the most suspicious thing we have right now."

The community mobilized almost within minutes of learning the girl was missing. Cotton farmers climbed out of their tractors and into their pickups to join in the search while moms' dads and children dug into dumpsters and peered into bushes.

On Thursday, parents shivered in 90-degree heat, and the youngest of children struggled with the news.

"It makes you kind of scared to go outside," said 9-year-old Kevin Rodriguez, a fourth-grader. "I'm sure not going to stop and talk to any strangers."

Some wonder if the fugitive is living among them.

Ms. Roland moved to Earth to raise her 10-year-old daughter and 6-year-old twin girls as a single parent "because they would be safe here."

"This is devastating," she said. "In a town this small, you can't help but think the person who did this is someone you know and have said 'Hi' to at the store."

Residents tore down hundreds of posters of the blonde-haired, blue-eyed girl who had four silver-capped front teeth and had never missed an episode of the Teen-age Mutant Ninja Turtles cartoon.

Others drove slowly by the thicket where the body was found.

Arvel Fleming, a retired mechanic, was one of the curious passers-by.

"I think it ought to be a public hanging for whoever done this," Fleming said. "Everyone I talk to has the same attitude."

Shawnlee's parents, Becky and Clinton Perry, hid with their only other child, Angela, 4, among the comfort of friends and relatives Thursday.

"We didn't want this to be the answer," said Paulette Garner, Mrs. Perry's sister. "The fact that she was so close makes it that much harder."

Even though her daughter had been missing for three months, Mrs. Perry had bought Shawnlee school supplies in hopes she would be found and able to enroll this week in kindergarten.

"We never gave up hope," Mrs. Garner said.

Police Chief Curtis Coffman couldn't remember the last murder in Earth, which is about 65 miles northwest of Lubbock. The death visibly angered him.

"This is a heinous crime, and I think this guy needs to be brought to justice," Coffman said. "It may not be tomorrow, this month or this year. But with a crime like this, there's no timetable."

Allied pilots flying friendly skies, so far

BAGHDAD, Iraq - Baghdad was considering retaliatory steps after U.S.-led allies declared a "no-fly" zone over southern Iraq to protect Shiite rebels. But U.S. pilots criss-crossing the region today said they encountered no resistance.

The Iraqi government said the air umbrella that went into effect Thursday was an act of aggression designed to partition the country along sectarian and ethnic lines.

But officers aboard the aircraft carrier USS Independence in the Persian Gulf today said no Iraqi planes had been spotted and no U.S. planes had been locked on by hostile radar or anti-aircraft emplacements.

"Saddam Hussein certainly has not sent anything after us," said Capt. Carter B. Refo, of Catlett, Va., commanding officer of the Independence.

As Baghdad officials hinted at unspecified military or diplomatic consequences Thursday, thousands of Iraqis, some wielding swords, marched in downtown Baghdad hours before the ban went into effect, shouting "Down with Bush, down with imperialism!"

From there, the demonstrators were bused to the affluent Mansour district, where they gathered outside the International Fair building to continue their protest. "We will fight back with or without blood," read one English-language banner.

The no-fly zone was imposed in accordance with U.N. Security Council Resolution 688, the 1991 Gulf War cease-fire resolution that calls for the protection of Iraq's population against President Saddam's minority, Sunni Muslim-dominated government.

The Shiites, 55 percent of Iraq's population, mounted a failed uprising after the Gulf War ended in February 1991, but their resistance has continued.

Responding to reports of escalated government attacks on the rebels, Western allies barred Iraqi aircraft below the 32nd parallel beginning at dusk Iraqi time.

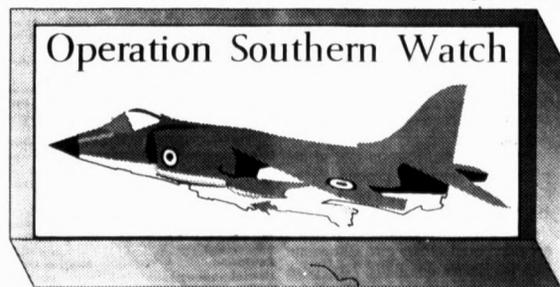

As the deadline approached, 20 aircraft took off from the USS Independence, kicking off what the U.S. military dubbed "Operation Southern Watch."

In Dhahran, eastern Saudi Arabia, six British Tornados reconnaissance-fighter jets arrived to join the monitoring operation. France also has pledged to help to enforce the prohibition.

U.S. officials say Saddam has withdrawn his estimated 170 to 200 combat aircraft from southern bases as well as some helicopter gunships. But he still maintains in the region an army of at least 50,000 troops backed by tanks and heavy artillery.

A statement from Saddam's ruling Revolutionary Command Council on Thursday called the ban "aggressive, illegal and unjust," and suggested Saddam could order his still-formidable forces to take action against allied aircraft.

"We maintain our right to deal with this aggressive decision in due time and with the appropriate methods," said a statement read over the radio-

Committee appointed for CofC nominations

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce directors approved a nominating committee for upcoming chamber elections, received an update on economic development work, heard committee reports and tabled discussion concerning purchase of an office copy machine during a monthly meeting Thursday evening. Charles Greenawalt, C of C president, named Lewis McDaniel, Art Gonzales, Pat Robbins and Bob Sims to head a nominating committee for chamber elections this year. Directors Robbins, Diane Hoelscher, Ken McLain and Waldo Baxter, and Women's Division president Rita Bell have terms which expire this year. Mike Carr, executive vice president, reported that the industrial development committee was continuing its efforts to secure a dairy plant here. He said the chamber was receiving assistance on a regional and state level. He also reviewed the chamber's involvement with the regional High Ground of Texas organization. In addition, Carr reported that construction was expected to begin next week on a 120-bed nursing home facility to be located on north Kingwood. McDonald Construction of Abilene estimated completion in about six to eight months, said Carr. The C of C manager also reported that the health and safety committee would begin promoting enrollment in Deaf Smith General Hospital's CPR program. The committee will help sign up local businesses. Rita Bell reported the Women's Division activities included a back-to-school style show and participation in the Top of Texas Pageant by four Hereford contestants. Directors also heard reports on the Town & Country Jubilee and plans for developing a "mission statement" for the chamber.

Troops to help in Florida relief effort

MIAMI (AP) - President Bush sent thousands of troops to Florida today after local officials complained bitterly of problems in getting food, clean water and other essentials to victims of Hurricane Andrew. "The damage is far more widespread than even we had feared," Bush said Thursday. "Help is on the way and it will be a major effort." The Pentagon said 2,000 to 5,000 troops from Fort Bragg, N.C., would arrive this morning. All 3,000 of Florida's National Guardsmen already were on duty. Earlier Thursday, residents and officials alike were growing impatient in the area south of Miami that was devastated by winds gusting to more than 160 mph Monday. "We're doing everything we can!

Where in the hell is the cavalry on this one?" demanded Kate Hale, director of Dade County's emergency management agency. Relief officials said there were plenty of donations of food and water but severe problems in distribution. In some cases, relief workers were denied access to some hard-hit areas. Other efforts to deliver items were blocked by downed trees and power lines. Distribution points ran out of food before everyone in line could be served. "This thing just got overwhelming," said Gov. Lawton Chiles, who requested federal help. "The right hand has got to know what the left hand is doing." Transportation Secretary Andrew H. Card Jr., head of a task force overseeing the recovery, defended the government against accusations that it was waiting too long to come through with help. "I am here to tell them I care. I am not pussyfooting around," he said. "The food will start getting down here." Maj. Gen. John Heldstab, who is coordinating the operation, said 20 mobile kitchens, each able to feed 300 people every two hours, were on their way, along with medical supplies, generators, 300,000 packaged meals, cots, bedding and water. Military specialists in communications, maintenance, engineering and transportation also were sent. The government estimated it would cost $20 billion to $30 billion to clean up and rebuild in Florida and care for residents displaced by the storm, which went on to strike a

Retiring tax appraiser honored

Task force studying health program

AUSTIN (AP) - A task force is considering establishment of a government-run insurance plan to expand health care coverage in Texas. The 29-member Texas Health Policy task force is scheduled to submit its recommendations to Gov. Ann Richards and the Legislature in November. In its preliminary report, the task force has called for a statewide health system for children and pregnant women through a central fund to be financed with federal health funds and other resources. Those resources could be in the form of a payroll tax on employers, task force members said. A 1 percent payroll tax would raise $1.2 billion annually and draw $2.1 billion in Medicaid funds, task force members said. Task force member Joe Phillips of McAllen, who runs a chain of convenience stores, said he could pay payroll taxes of 3 percent and still break even under the proposed system because of reduced insurance costs. State Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said such a system would lower children's health care costs by encouraging early, less expensive treatment. The task force is concluding its recommendations after numerous statewide public hearings. Between three million and four million Texans, including about one million children, are uninsured. More second, less severe blow at Louisiana on Wednesday. Andrew destroyed 63,000 homes in Florida, and estimates of those left homeless ranged as high as 250,000. Private relief continued to flow into the region. The Red Cross said it was housing 45,000 people in 206 shelters in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, and had an additional 22 shelters with 39,000 people in Florida. A relief plane crashed Thursday en route to deliver aid to the devastated Homestead area, killing two people and injuring a third. Andrew was directly responsible for at least 12 deaths in South Florida, officials said. It also killed four people in the Bahamas and one person in Louisiana. The Dade County Medical Examiner's office listed 10 other Florida deaths as indirectly related to the storm. As of Thursday night, Dade County reported 229 arrests for curfew violations, 101 for looting and 41 for other offenses. About 400,000 homes and businesses remained without electricity, and Florida Power & Light said it could be weeks before power is restored completely. Tempers flared in food distribution lines Thursday. People squabbled over bags of canned goods in Perrine, and residents in Homestead scuffled for donated ice. Police Chief Curt Ivey said National Guardsmen came over to help and residents tried to wrestle their M-16s away. In some cases, those who tried to get what they needed faced outrageous markups. "It's terrible," said Marie Martinez, who paid $10 for five gallons of water. "We paid it. We're desperate." Chiles signed an order declaring anyone charging "exorbitant or excessive prices" for post-Andrew necessities faced penalties of up to $10,000 per violation. The Federal Emergency Management Agency expects to have three disaster application centers open this week for personal and business loans and temporary housing money. FEMA Director Wallace Stickney said in Florida the disaster could cost $20 billion to $30 billion; he wouldn't say how he arrived at that figure.

Criminal justice fund may need look

AUSTIN (AP) - Comptroller John Sharp says the state needs to determine how efficiently it is spending criminal justice funds. "Clearly, the system is not working. In fact, it's on the verge of breaking down," Sharp said. "From the largest Texas cities to the smallest rural communities, the number of crime victims is growing, and people who haven't yet been affected by crime know it's only a matter of time." In releasing early findings Thursday from a study of criminal justice programs, Sharp said more Texans died from gunshots than from traffic accidents in 1990. Texas has the nation's 11th-highest rate of violent crime and fourth-highest for property crime. "We have one of the world's highest rates of criminal violence, one of the world's most bewildering criminal justice systems and one of the world's highest rates of incarceration," Sharp said. "We have a massive bureaucracy that regularly disappoints the taxpayers who must pay the bills," he said. Although Texas is spending increasing amounts on prisons and criminal justice programs, crime continues to grow, Sharp said. That's the reason for his study, he said. "Should we continue to do certain things because that is the way we've always done them, or can we find innovative new ways to get better results for the same amount of money - or even less?" While the study won't be finished for a few weeks, Sharp said results now available point to six factors causing problems: - The criminal justice system is fragmented and lacks any cross-the-board agreement on goals or planning. State and federal funds support duplicate programs. - Any change in one part of the system causes more problems for other parts. - The Ruiz prison reform lawsuit has dictated how Texas prisons are run. - The war on drugs has increased the burden on courts and prisons. - A "so-called get tough on crime posture" has been costly and not very effective. - The criminal justice system can't solve "the root causes of crime - things like poverty, drug addiction, poor education and the decline of the family." Sharp said the state spends billions on a system that isn't working. The national crime level has dropped since 1981 but the Texas rate rose 29 percent from 1981 to 1990, he said.

NASHVILLE, Ga. (AP) - Art Linkletter has some advice on growing old: Watch your attitude.

"You can't stop the hardening of the arteries, but you can stop the hardening of the attitude," the 80-year-old author and former TV host told an audience of about 200 at a textile mill Wednesday.

"Children are my favorite group of people, followed closely by people over 65," Linkletter said. "You see, children don't know what they are saying and old people don't care."

DEAR READERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them.--Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm an unmarried woman who needs to know something. I can't ask anyone else because this is such an unmentionable subject. You would be doing me and a number of other single women a big favor if you could answer a question that has us all baffled.

Does a girl lose her virginity if she uses tampons during her period? Some of my friends say yes. Others say no. My knowledge of anatomy is not all that good. I need to know if the hymen must be ruptured in order to insert the tampon.

Also, do tampons cause cervical cancer?

Will you try to rearrange the wording of this letter so you can put your answer in the paper? A million thanks--Lady in the Dark

DEAR LADY: Tampons do stretch (and sometimes destroy) the hymen.

Sub-varsity gridders scrimmage AHS

Hereford's sub-varsity football teams tuned up for next week's real games with scrimmages against Amarillo High Thursday.

The junior varsity and sophomores held separate scrimmages in Hereford, while the freshmen were in Amarillo. The varsity Herd will scrimmage the Sandies at 7 tonight at Canyon High School.

Hereford's JV scored late in the scrimmage on Chris Vallejo's one-yard run. That was set up by a 45-yard pass from Stacey Sanders to Hayden Andrews.

Amarillo High's JV answered soon after with a 55-yard run for a touchdown. They also had scored on their first offensive series of the scrimmage.

"I was pleased," offensive coach Craig Yenser said. "We got better as the scrimmage went on. We learned a whole bunch during this scrimmage."

"There's lots of talent on this team. We expect them to gel and be a good JV team," he said.

Speaking for the defense, Ed Coplen said his troops also improved as the scrimmage went along.

"We pursued well and gang-tackled really well," Coplen said.

The Hereford sophomores also were outscored 2-1. Hereford's score was on O.J. Rodriguez' 90-yard interception return. On offense, Hereford had two long drives that stalled inside the 10-yard line, coach Oscar Rendon said. AHS had two long runs which set them up inside the Hereford 10-yard line twice, and both times they went in from there.

"Other than the long runs, (AHS) didn't make very many first downs," Rendon said.

In Amarillo, the freshman A team scored twice in its first series of 20 plays, then the AHS freshmen scored twice later. For Hereford, Ronald Torres caught a 55-yard touchdown pass from Todd Dudley. Later Marquise Brown added a 15-yard TD run.

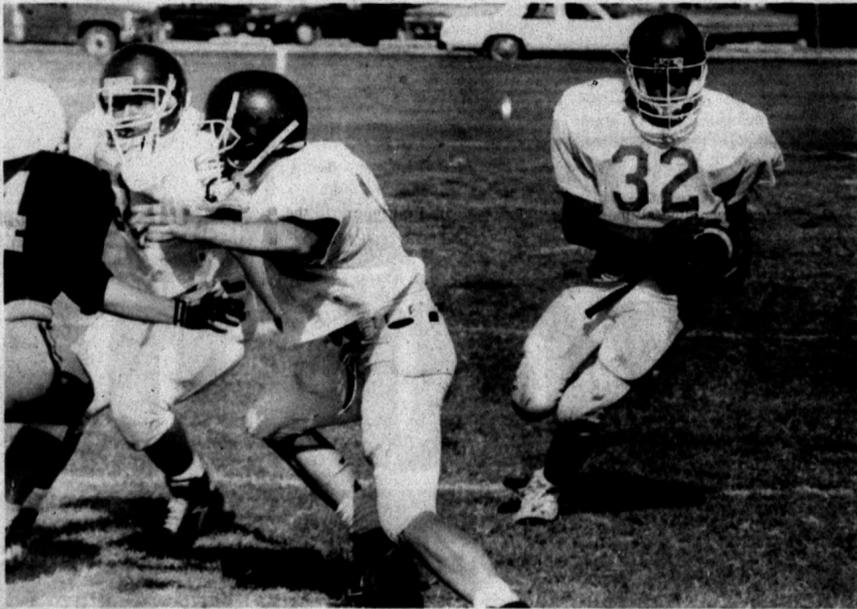

"We had some real good spots," coach James Salinas said. "The kids played real hard. I saw a lot of good things."

O'Brien leads Jets past Eagles

By The Associated Press
Ken O'Brien has grown too accustomed to his job simply to give it away.

O'Brien, seemingly left behind as the starting quarterback for the Jets, threw a pair of touchdowns Thursday as New York finished the NFL exhibition season undefeated for the first time in 26 years with a 22-13 victory over Philadelphia.

After holding the starting job for most of the last seven seasons, O'Brien squabbled with Jets' management in the offseason and during a protracted holdout which saw the veteran report to camp less than two weeks ago.

At Veterans Stadium, O'Brien looked sharp, hitting Chris Burkett with a 2-yard touchdown pass and connecting with Terrance Mathis on a 30-yarder to help conclude New York's 5-0 exhibition season. The Jets only other unbeaten preseason was 1966, when they were 4-0.

Also Thursday, New Orleans topped Miami 17-3 in the first NFL game played in Baltimore since 1983, and San Diego defeated the Los Angeles Rams 30-19.

Tonight, it's Chicago at Dallas, Cleveland at Tampa Bay, Buffalo at Atlanta, Detroit at Cincinnati, Indianapolis at Kansas City, Seattle at San Francisco and Phoenix at Denver.

Hereford boys win at Hoop It Up

A team made up of Hereford boys won its division in the Hoop It Up three-on-three basketball tournament held recently in Amarillo, earning the right to compete in the national tournament Oct. 31-Nov. 1 in Dallas.

Bryant McNutt, Jeremy Scott and Jeremy Urbanczyk of Hereford teamed with Zack Matthews of Dimmitt to make up the Bulls. The four 12-year-olds went 7-0 in the tournament.

The Amarillo tournament was one of many held in 40 American cities and in Europe.

The boys qualified for the Best of the Rest tournament, which will be held in conjunction with the 1992

National Streetball Championships. Parts of that tournament will be televised by NBC.

Astros' Williams shuts down Cards

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston pitcher Brian Williams and the St. Louis Cardinals exchanged first impressions Thursday night.

Williams left a more impressive calling card, throwing a five-hitter over eight innings for a 5-1 victory.

The only other National-League game scheduled Thursday - Montreal at Atlanta - was rained out.

"This was the first time we've seen him and he was outstanding," Cardinals manager Joe Torre said of Williams. "He had good stuff, he threw hard and had a good breaking ball. He didn't show any signs of walking hitters."

In Williams' first career start against the Cardinals, he struck out three, walked three and only twice allowed two runners on base at the same time.

"He didn't give me many good pitches to hit," St. Louis catcher Rich Gedman said. "He wasn't afraid to come right at you, and when he missed he missed outside and didn't make a mistake over the plate."

Williams has progressed from spring training wildman to a possible No. 1 starter.

"He has the arm to be a No. 1 starter, but only time will tell," Astros manager Art Howe said. "He's come a long way since spring training when he was trying to find the strike zone."

Williams started the season in Triple-A Tucson and came up to the Astros on June 15. He was an immediate success with three straight victories, but followed that with three straight losses.

"My confidence was down after that three-game losing streak, but now I'm not going to let things bother me," Williams said. "Every time they tried to get something started, I came up with a good pitch."

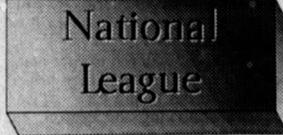

Williams threw 120 pitches and then gave way to Joe Boever, who sixth when Milt Thompson reached base on second baseman Biggio's error, stole second and scored on Felix Jose's single.

Eddie Taubensee greeted reliever Bob McClure with a home run to start the seventh inning.

Anthony flew out to right fielder Jose in the sixth after hitting two girders supporting the Astrodome's roof. Anthony's first ball fell in foul territory and the second careened back into right field where Jose caught it.

"I like his poise and consistency around the plate," Howe said. "He's never far from the strike zone. He doesn't get rattled or flustered, his command is what's really come forward."

Donovan Osborne (9-7) struck out the first five batters he faced and retired the first nine in order before Craig Biggio doubled leading off the fourth inning and scored on Ken Caminiti's double. The Astros got another run in the inning on Eric Anthony's RBI grounder.

"He got out of his rhythm and wasn't as aggressive as he was in the first three innings," Cards manager Joe Torre said of Osborne. "That's what you expect from inexperience. You hit a little pothole and it knocks you off a little."

Andujar Cedeno and Luis Gonzalez each doubled to start the fifth inning for another run and Biggio's single made it 4-0.

Williams lost his shutout bid in the

Blue Jays fly by Brewers

TORONTO (AP) - Jack Morris and Dave Winfield, a couple of future Hall of Famers, proved to the Milwaukee Brewers they still have quite a bit left.

Morris, 37, scattered four hits and allowed the Brewers just one run over seven innings and Winfield, 40, broke a 1-1 tie with his 22nd home run in the sixth to lead the Blue Jays to a 5-4 victory Thursday night.

"They're the type of players who can reach back and get things done," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said. "That's why Morris and Winfield are potential Hall of Famers."

Morris (17-5) struck out two and walked two, picking up his third win in as many starts.

"I was able to make it close," Morris said. "I made those pitches and let the pitchers be the stars. And Dave (Winfield) was the star tonight."

The victory gave Toronto a 2 1/2-game lead over idle Baltimore in the AL East. The third-place Brewers fell 5 1/2 games out.

Elsewhere in the AL it was Kansas City 7, Texas 2; New York 5, Minnesota 0; and Seattle 6, Cleveland 2.

Royals 7, Rangers 2
At Arlington, George Brett had three singles and drove in two runs as Kansas City beat Nolan Ryan and the Rangers.

Ryan (5-8) lost his fifth consecutive decision, allowing seven runs on seven hits in 4 2/3 innings. He walked three and struck out five.

Winner Hipolito Pichardo (8-5) allowed a sixth-inning homer to Kevin Reimer and a run-producing single by Ivan Rodriguez in the seventh. Pichardo gave up two runs and five hits in seven innings.

Southwest Outdoors

Quickly, name three essential items for a successful camping and fishing trip. Name three items that have stood the test of time and were probably in your daddy's camping and fishing gear. Name any three outdoor items that will last for the next 20 years!

My list includes the incredible Zebco 33 fishing reel, my green Coleman two-burner camping stove and my trusty two-mantle lantern. It is a satisfying feeling to own some things that work so well that all our modern technology cannot replace them.

Their quality is unsurpassed and their cost, when averaged over the life of the product, makes them some of life's great bargains. My Zebco costs about 24 cents per year, my stove runs at about 50 cents per year, and my lantern is about 30 cents per year. What bargains!

How can the Coleman Company continue to exist when it makes products that never need replacing? Their repeat customers must be absent-minded or the victims of thieves. I don't know how they stay in business but I certainly am glad that they are.

While writing this column, I received a press release about a development that might improve the weakest link in the trusty Coleman lantern, those darn broken mantles. The Coleman Company has introduced a new mantle for their gas and propane lanterns that is four times stronger than its standard mantle. Being marketed under the name GoldTop, the new mantle not only provides far-superior strength, it produces light that more closely matches the color, quality and brightness of soft white light bulbs. GoldTop sounds like a great idea; now I hope they will figure out a way to increase the diameter of the fuel-filler cap.

Playa Pete suggests that even if you won't wear hunter orange while hunting, it is a terrific safety measure while going to and from your hunting site.

And counting--Another month has passed and still no bass have been stocked in our lakes, while New Mexico and Oklahoma have found some bass!

Speaking of not stocking gamefish: The Arkansas variety of walleye is now the preferred walleye because it grows quicker and reaches a weight of more than 20 pounds. It seems that this Arkansas type has been stocked in Texas since 1989. Guess which lake in Texas has no Arkansas walleye? That's right: none of these superior walleye have been stocked in Lake Meredith.

According to a telephone interview with Phil Durocher, the Director of Inland Fisheries for Texas Parks and Wildlife: "The bad news is that Arkansas has decided to limit their sales to other states."

New hunting and fishing licenses are due Sept. 1, 1993.

Mets trade Cone to Jays

NEW YORK (AP) - David Cone is a bit puzzled why the New York Mets traded him before knowing for sure what he wanted.

Cone, the most dominant strikeout pitcher in the National League, was traded Thursday by the New York Mets to Toronto, bolstering the Blue Jays' bid to repeat as AL East champion.

The Mets, who fell to fifth place despite adding several high-priced players, faced losing Cone to free agency following the season. He rejected a $17 million, four-year offer in spring training, so the Mets decided to deal the 29-year-old right-hander now, and found Toronto anxious to take him for infielder Jeff Kent and a minor leaguer, believed to be outfielder Ryan Thompson.

Mets general manager Al Harazin apparently became convinced Cone wanted a five-year deal in excess of $28 million.

"Obviously they're taking a step backwards," Cone said. "They never contacted me about what I wanted. I never said I wanted a fifth year. Maybe they made the decision a long time ago that I wouldn't be back. I'm a little puzzled and a little confused how this whole thing went down."

Toronto, struggling to hold its slim lead over Baltimore and Milwaukee in the AL East, needed another starter for its shaky rotation. The Blue Jays talked to Texas about Bobby Witt and Jose Guzman, but did far better in Cone, a two-time All-Star.

It's uncertain whether Toronto will be able to sign Cone after the season. "My numbers are unparalleled," Cone said. "Not just on the Mets, but in the National League."

He is 13-7 with a 2.88 ERA this season and a league-leading 214 strikeouts. For his career he is 80-48 with a 3.13 ERA, winning strikeout titles in 1990 and 1991.

Medicine can aid fever blisters, embarrassment

DEAR DR. LAMB: Ever since my adolescent days, I have been getting fever blisters approximately once or twice a year. You can't imagine how they have been adversely affecting my daily life when they appear. They last two weeks whether or not I apply ointments. I become a recluse when they appear.

Are there any new medical discoveries, immunizations, treatments or vaccines available to treat fever blisters?

DEAR READER: Those fever blisters are caused by a virus — herpes simplex. The virus is usually contracted in childhood from being kissed by someone who has the virus. You don't have to have a sore on your lip to transmit the virus, although you are more contagious then. A high percentage of the public has been infected with the virus. And you may be infected and never have a sore on your lip.

In recent years, it has been established that acyclovir (Zovirax) will shorten the period of the outbreak and lessen symptoms. The salve is helpful with the first attack, but most studies indicate that after that it is necessary to take the medicine orally. To be most effective, the medicine should be taken at the first sign of the fever blister. It can also be used on a regular basis to prevent recurrent attacks. However, that may not be practical for an individual who only has two attacks a year.

You will want to know more about herpes simplex, so I'm sending you a free copy of Special Report 116, Do You Have Herpes? Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/116, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

The virus lives permanently in nerve cells and migrates to the lip to cause the sores. A cold, fever, wind, sun and other factors may cause an acute attack.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read a letter in your column from a reader asking about Paget's disease and stating that Paget's weakens the bones in your body and eventually your body structure.

Your answer was Paget's disease was second only to osteoporosis as a cause of bone loss. You stated the causes: Both inherited factors and the possibility of a slow virus have been suggested.

My twin sister has Paget's disease. It was a lump the size of a pea behind the nipple of her right breast. Her right breast was removed about 10 years ago. Since then, no problems. In her case, no bones were involved. Should she be taking calcium tablets? She is now 61 years old.

DEAR READER: There are three different diseases, all called Paget's disease. The letter you read was from a person who had Paget's disease of the bone, which results in bone loss.

Then there is Paget's disease of the vulva, which you can think of as a form of skin cancer.

And your sister had Paget's disease of the breast, which is a malignancy. When all of the tumor is removed, a 90 percent cure is the result, so your sister should not be alarmed by my comment. None of these three diseases has anything to do with each other.

Your sister may need to take calcium for other reasons — to help reduce the risk of osteoporosis — but she has no need to take calcium because of her Paget's disease of the breast. The treatment for Paget's disease of the bone is different from the treatment for osteoporosis too.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

LANDERS

However, this does not violate a woman's virginity. Virginity means never having had sexual intercourse. While the tampon might eliminate the proof of virginity, it is not related to sexual intercourse.

The increase in cervical cancer is attributed to having frequent intercourse at an early age, multiple partners, infection and failure to get pap smears -- thus lack of early detection.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently my husband and I celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary. Our daughter and son-in-law invited us to dinner at a very fine restaurant. It turned out to be a surprise party. They had invited 30 of our good friends. Many brought gifts.

It was a beautiful affair -- until I saw the waiter handing out checks to each couple. There were many astonished faces. I felt like crawling out of there on my hands and knees. My husband was bewildered. We would gladly have paid for the party had we known. When we told our daughter the next day how upset we were, she insisted that this is the way they do it nowadays. Are we wrong? -Humiliated

DEAR H.: You are not wrong. When people are invited to a party, they have the right to assume they are guests. Some things have changed, but good manners and good taste never go out of style. Your daughter has a few things to learn.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You don't seem to get many problems from farm folks. Maybe we are too busy to complain or too independent to write. Here's one that gripes the daylight hours out of me.

My greatest joy used to be taking lunch to my husband in the field. I'd fix his favorite dishes and make sure everything was hot and attractive. Then I'd have to wait. He always wanted to do one more row or empty the hopper of grain--always something.

The food got cold, and my blood pressure rose. Then he'd complain. Never one word of appreciation. Today the thing I hate most about my dad is taking lunch to my husband in the field. Now that I've told you, I feel better.--Fort Wayne Reader

DEAR F.W.: If you hate it, don't do it. Tell Mr. Unappreciative that lunch will be on the table at noon sharp and let him come. T g t

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently, the St. Petersburg Times carried an item about a woman who is suing a local chain drugstore. It seems she had dropped off some film for processing and one of the employees in the photo lab made copies for himself. As you have probably guessed, the pictures were of an intimate and revealing nature.

The woman was stunned when she attended a party and, by chance, saw a photo of herself in an album being passed around to guests. The album had a large assortment of photos of people in various stages of undress and in compromising positions. This woman will most likely win her lawsuit but she is extremely upset because nobody knows for certain how many copies are out there.

I recently retired from my job with a photo processing lab. It was my responsibility to oversee the quality of the equipment. I also did troubleshooting for smaller companies nationwide who used our processing chemicals. My job took me into a number of labs throughout the United States. Almost without exception, someone in every lab had an eye-popping collection of bizarre photos, ostensibly to show new employees what was considered obscene by the lab's local standards.

Please tell your readers that all the film they send to a processing lab is seen by the technician who runs the equipment. Obscene photos are supposed to be discarded and burned. Sometimes they are and sometimes they aren't. Tell people if they MUST take such pictures to use an instant camera that develops film automatically in the privacy of their home.

I realized this letter is long, so shorten it if you must, but please print it. Do not, however, use my name because my former company would not appreciate the publicity.--No Name, No city

DEAR FRIEND: Thank you for performing a valuable public service. I've often wondered about people who pose for obscene pictures and send them to photo labs for developing. It occurred to me that they must be closet exhibitionists or two sandwiches short of a picnic. Your letter convinced me that they are both. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I read that The Salvation Army has the highest rating by the public of any charitable organization in America. The majority of people surveyed had

NEW YORK (AP) - Mike Wallace will be calling the shots next weekend, but it won't be for "60 Minutes."

The newsmen will be umpiring at a celebrity tennis benefit. "Of course, I'll call them as I see them," the 74-year-old Wallace said Thursday. "But I don't see so well. So McEnroe had better not give me any trouble."

The Arthur Ashe Foundation's AIDS Tennis Challenge will be held Sunday.

In addition to John McEnroe, the benefit has signed up such stars as Andre Agassi, Jim Courier, Mary Jo Fernandez, Steffi Graf, Martina Navratilova, Pete Sampras, Monica Seles and Arantxa Sanchez Vicario. Wallace also will play a match against an as-yet-unchosen opponent.

an excellent opinion of The Salvation Army's work and appreciated the fact that it helps millions in all walks of life.

I am very angry at a situation I have observed at local Salvation Army collection stations and I hope you will publicize the problem. I refer to thoughtless people who dump their trash for "the less fortunate." This garbage includes carpeting and couches that are missing cushions, pet-stained, rainsoaked and chewed to shreds. They leave microwaves and refrigerators without doors or motors, half of a highchair, broken cribs, busted ceramic lamps and smashed TVs.

People drop this stuff off to avoid paying for trash pickup. Ann, please explain to your readers that The Salvation Army needs useful items, not worthless junk. I hope some of the offenders will see this column and pay attention.--R.B.

DEAR R.B.: Thank you for laying it out on the line. I hope the letter you've written will cut down on the dumping. The Salvation Army deserves better.

Amarillo Boy Choir schedules '92 tryouts

The Amarillo Boy Choir, with a membership from throughout the Panhandle, will be auditioning boys ages 9-14 with unchanged voices for the 1992-93 school year.

The group is a non-profit performance choir offered through Amarillo College Continuing Education Program and has entertained a variety of audiences. In their first competition at the 1992 Greater Southwest Music Festival in May, they were awarded the distinction of "Outstanding Choir" by the judges. During its summer tour, the choir represented the area in Oklahoma and delighted spectators by singing "Texas Forever" in the rotunda of the Oklahoma state capitol building. Texas Music Educators Association has recently informed Boy Choir director Greg Shapley that the group has been accepted to perform for the 1993 T.M.E.A. Convention which will be held in San Antonio in February.

Auditions will be held the following dates at the First Christian Church Choir Room, 3001 Wolfing Ave: Saturday, Aug. 29: 9am-noon, 1-3pm.

Tuesday, Sept. 1: 4:30-6pm. Saturday, Sept. 5: 9a.m.-noon, 1-3pm.

For additional audition information, call Shapley, choir director at First Christian Church, 355-6526; for general information concerning the Boy Choir, call 358-2194.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I finally found a solution to the problem of eyeglasses that keep sliding down the bridge of my nose.

One day in the bank, I noticed a teller using a small container of fingertip moisturizer to make counting money easier and I thought if it works on hands, why not on noses? This product is readily available in stationary stores under various brand names.

Now when I arrive at the office, the first thing I do each morning is rub a little of this product on the sides of my nose and let it dry. My glasses stay put all day.

My eye doctor loved this solution and recommends it to all his patients. — Frederick Swavely, Reading, Pa.

FAST FACTS

- Other uses for used fabric-softener sheets: • Dust the television. • Stuff a pillow with them. • Use when fishing to clean your hands. • Place in dresser drawers as a potpourri. • Place several in the bottom of the trash can.

CANDLESTICK CLEANUP Q. I need to know an easy way to remove candle wax from brass candlesticks. I have several pair that need cleaning. — Rhonda, Houston, Texas

A. Why not try hot water? Use either hot water from the tap or water that you've heated. Simply place the candlestick in the sink and pour the water over it. (Be sure to keep your fingers well out of the way.) When the wax softens, it should rub off easily. — Heloise

Stretch tuna fish salad by adding diced or grated apples and celery.

Hints from Heloise

BOTTLE REUSE

Dear Heloise: We live in New Mexico, and this hint is about reusing plastic (20-ounce) soda bottles. We fill the bottles half-full with water and freeze them. When we go on car trips, we grab them out of the freezer and finish filling them with water. The kids have cold water to drink in the car and we save money by recycling.

We also save aluminum cans. I don't like using plastic bags so I folded an old sheet in half, sewed the bottom and side and I fill it with the cans. It stays neat because the bag doesn't tear. Also, we're not using plastic and I get lots of compliments from the recycling center. — Monique Bryant, Navajo Dam, N.M.

SOUND OFF Dear Heloise: We are expecting our second child any time and wished to stock up on disposable diapers for the first weeks.

Unfortunately, most companies now use a printed color or design that require you to know the sex of the baby before making a purchase. — Patricia DuBray, Elk Grove, Calif.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE JUDGES OF ISRAEL

BEFORE THE ADVENT OF KINGS THE LEADERS AMONG THE ISRAELITES WERE JUDGES. THESE WERE THE HEROES WHO GUIDED AND GUARDED THE PEOPLE FROM THEIR MANY ENEMIES. THERE WAS OTHNIEL OF JUDAH, DELIVERER OF ISRAEL FROM THE MESOPOTAMIANS, AND EHUD, WHO EXPELLED THE MOABITES AND AMMONITES, AND BARAK, WHO LED NAPHTHALI AND ZEBULIN TO VICTORY AGAINST THE CANAANITES. ALL TOLD THERE WERE TWELVE OF THEM. THE PERIOD OF THE JUDGES HAS BEEN CALLED ISRAEL'S IRON AGE. IT WAS, TO SAY THE LEAST, A CRUEL AND BLOODY ERA. IN FACT, IT CAN BE SURMISED THAT A STATE OF ANARCHY EXISTED WHEN ONE REALIZES THAT MOST OF THE TALES OF THESE JUDGES WERE PREFACED BY THE STATEMENT, "IN THOSE DAYS THERE WAS NO KING IN ISRAEL, BUT EVERY MAN DID WHAT WAS RIGHT IN HIS OWN EYES." ALSO, THESE JUDGES DID NOT FORM AN UNBROKEN SUCCESSION OF RULERS, BUT APPEARED SPORADICALLY. THEY WERE OFTEN LOCAL HEROES WHOSE COURAGEOUS DEEDS SPREAD BY WORD OF MOUTH ONLY IN THEIR LOCAL DISTRICTS. FOR INSTANCE, SHAMGAR, DESTROYER OF SIX HUNDRED PHILISTINES, WAS NOT KNOWN THROUGHOUT ALL THE TRIBES ALTHOUGH HE HAS BEEN RATED A SAVIOR OF ALL ISRAEL.
