State, schools to face hard choices, warns Richards

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards says she hopes the special legislative session on school funding will be "brief and productive." The speaker and the lieutenant governor and I have done all we can do. And now really it is up to you. Richards told lawmakers on the session's opening day Tuesday. Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and lame-duck House Speaker Gib Lewis are backing a school finance reform plan that school officials have said will result in massive local property tax increases. The plan anticipates no more than $650 million in new state money over the next two-year budget cycle, the amount expected to be available without an increase in state taxes. That's less than the Texas Education Agency has estimated would be needed just to cover an increase in student enrollment. But leaders have said there's not support for a state tax increase to pump more money into education, and Richards said schools won't be the only ones looking for funds when the Legislature meets in regular session in January. "The school boards and superintendents are going to be facing hard decisions, but they are no more difficult than the ones that we all are going to face in January," Richards said.

until June 1, 1993, to come up with a new plan to equalize funding among school districts.

To respond to the court mandate, the three top state leaders are advocating their so-called Fair Share Plan. Richards has said the focus is on a proposed constitutional amendment, which would:

- Authorize statewide redistribution of local property tax money among school districts.
- Set a standard of school finance equity requiring that 95 percent of state and local money be equalized. This means that for 95 percent of the money, school districts could raise the same amount of money at the same tax rate. The extra money raised mainly by rich school districts could not amount to more than 5 percent of the total state and local spending on education. This is an attempt to free the Legislature from continuing court battles on school equity.
- Authorize $750 million in state bonds to help pay for building new school facilities.
- Create a $1 billion Good Schools Fund from the Available School Fund, which currently gives every school district $300 per student. The richest districts no longer would get money from the fund.

"We may be facing the of not funding the growing ty of eliminating whole prog whole agencies," she said. Hale Center's Laney claims early victory in House Speaker's race

AUSTIN (AP) - Claiming an early victory in the 1993 House speaker's race, Rep. Pete Laney says he is committed to making the chamber's workings "open and above board." Landy, a Hale Center farmer and lawmaker for 20 years, Tuesday said he had lined up pledges from enough current and future House members to be elected the next speaker. The Democrat released a list of 86 lawmakers who he said have committed to vote for him when the 1993 Legislature convenes in January. "I am honored and humbled by the confidence my colleagues have shown in me," Laney said. He pledged to change House rules that many lawmakers consider too restrictive. Those changes include reforming the secretive Calendars Committee, which has allowed some bills to be debated while killing others, and giving House members a chance to thoroughly review bills before they vote, Laney said.

Unlike the lieutenant governor, who is elected statewide and presides over the Senate, the 150 House members elect the speaker to preside over that chamber. He is the only one of the state's "big three" - governor, lieutenant governor and speaker - not elected statewide. The current speaker, Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, is retiring at year's end after not seeking re-election. Laney said he got the endorsement of one other speaker candidate, Rep. David Cain, D-Dallas, and had talked with the other leading contender, Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield. Rudd, who chairs the budget-writing House Appropriations Committee, said he wasn't ready to concede. "I don't know if it's over. It just depends on what the (Laney) numbers are, who's on that list, how many are on my list," Rudd said. "We'll tell him something next week." Cain said the special session which began Tuesday - with a request from Gov. Ann Richards that speaker candidates refrain from electioneering - helped end the race early. Laney, 49, is a Hale Center native and a graduate of Texas Tech University. First elected to the House in 1972, he has headed the House State Affairs Committee since 1983. Before that, he chaired the House administration Committee and was a former speaker pro tem, the chamber's No. 2 official.

Walcott ISD, WTSU establish rural initiative pilot project

Walcott Independent School District has entered into a rural initiative pilot project with West Texas State University. WTSU's department of health, physical education and recreation (HPER), has "adopted" the students, faculty and school community leaders of Walcott in an attempt to provide some services that the school district is not otherwise able to provide. In return, Walcott ISD is getting a better knowledge and understanding of WTSU. The project is currently in the developmental and design stage. Needs assessment surveys have been conducted with parents and community people and meetings have been held with Walcott ISD faculty. Purpose of the surveys is to find out what the HPER department as well as Walcott want out of the program and how each of the entities can meet those needs. "We did the surveys to find out what things the people in Walcott were interested in find out from us," Allene Stovall, assistant professor of physical education, said.

The first phase of the program will include visits by Walcott classes to the WTSU campus. On Nov. 13, students in kindergarten through third grade will visit the campus, and on Nov. 20, students in grades four through six will visit. The visits will include meeting WTSU President Barry Thompson, lunch and activities conducted by the HPER faculty. "Dr. Thompson is interested in developing rural initiative programs, and we felt this was a good way for HPER to help develop that," Dr. Charles Chase, head of the department of HPER, said. "This relationship is the perfect way to develop a successful program. They want us; we want them, and you can't get much more rural than Walcott." Walcott ISD is located approximately 30 miles west of Hereford and

Snow predicted for Panhandle tonight

By The Associated Press Winter weather is expected tonight in the Texas Panhandle where as much as three inches of snow could accumulate before morning. There is also a chance of snow flurries in the South Plains after midnight. Some snow is also expected on Thursday in the area east of the Caprock. The snowy weather will be accompanied with much colder temperatures for most of West Texas tonight and Thursday. A storm system moving out of the Four Corners area was moving slowly eastward today and was expected to be the triggering device for the snow in West Texas. The rest of the state should have cooler weather and rain tonight and Thursday. Skies will be clearing in South Texas on Thursday.

Old Glory By Tricia Owen (Copyright 1990)

I have stood over you. I have soared in the skies You live in. I have watched you grow. As you noticed me for the first time, I smiled. I was so glad You finally recognized me. As you learned about me, I listened To the questions you asked, And the answers you gave. As you began to rebel against me, I stood still. I understood your reactions, But, I didn't want to anger you any further. As you fought for me, I cried. I hated to see you suffer And watch your friends die. As you looked back on what you did for me, I glowed. I was so happy to discover That you still loved me. As you prayed to God, I prayed too. Like you, I wanted to shine On the family that you would leave behind. As people paid their final respects, I covered you. You were with me through everything. I wasn't about to leave you now. As they folded and handed me to your loved ones, I made a promise to you. That as long as my heart would beat, I would love you. As long as what I stood for existed, I would remember you. I would love those whom you loved, And never give up On those who never gave up on me.

Tricia is an honoree of Freedom's Foundation at Valley Forge. Her poem "Old Glory" was presented at the Texas Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution state conference in Fort Worth in 1992. She wrote the poem as a 15-year-old in a San Antonio high school.

Unspent funds may prime economy

WASHINGTON (AP) - About $15 billion in unspent government funds would be available in 1993 should President-elect Clinton decide to quickly jolt the sluggish economy, aides are telling Democratic congressional leaders.

The money could be spent in the fiscal year that ends next Sept. 30 without exceeding budget caps on spending, one Democratic aide said Tuesday.

"We've let them know that a supplemental (spending bill this year) is still possible," said the official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Clinton has promised to make economic revival his top priority as president. During the election campaign, he proposed increasing spending on public works projects by $20 billion a year as a means of creating jobs and improving the nation's transportation, water and other systems.

Most of the unspent $15 billion is available under the defense portion of the budget. The Democratic president-elect and the Democratic-run House and Senate would have to agree to shift the funds to domestic projects before it could be spent, an agreement that probably would not be difficult to achieve.

The preparations were under way as a budget aide to President Bush and congressional officials said Bush plans the unusual step of releasing a condensed fiscal 1994 budget shortly before leaving office, containing no proposals to change federal spending or taxes.

Presidents Reagan, Carter and Ford all submitted lengthy, detailed budgets containing their own policy proposals just before leaving office.

But an aide in the White House Office of Management and Budget, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Tuesday that since Clinton's priorities differed so much from Bush's, introducing a full-blown Bush budget would be an "irrelevant process."

Instead, this aide said Bush would summarize what fiscal policy has been during his administration and simply project what the 1994 budget would look like without any of the changes Clinton is certain to make.

"We've already decided to keep it as non-controversial as possible," said the OMB aide. "The president has made it very clear that he wants our people to be cooperative."

Controversy may emerge, however, because the numbers Bush uses in his final budget to detail economic performance and its effect on government programs will inevitably be compared with the figures Clinton uses later in his own spending plan.

OMB officials are "hoping to box Clinton in so he can't play games," said one lobbyist who has talked with budget office officials and who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

Bush's budget, to be released in early January, probably will be about 200 pages instead of the usual 1,700 or so, the OMB aide said.

This official also said the budget will project that without any changes, spending will stay within caps set by the 1990 budget agreement. And it probably will contain a message from outgoing OMB Director Richard Darman describing the problem of the federal deficit, which hit a record $290 billion in the 1992 fiscal year.

The law requires next year's budget to be submitted by Feb. 1, just 12 days after Clinton is sworn into office. Because of the shortness of time and the complexity of writing a budget, Clinton may wait until after Feb. 1 to unveil his first federal spending plan, an aide to the president-elect said.

Bush's submission of his own budget might meet that Feb. 1 requirement, the aide said.

"If the Bush budget satisfies the requirement, then the new administration will have more time, but we haven't made any decisions about how quickly we would move," said Clinton domestic policy adviser Bruce Reed.

Expert says 'quick pick' option would have helped Lotto sales

AUSTIN (AP) - A gambling expert says the state made a mistake in Lotto Texas by not providing a "quick-picks" option.

Ticket sales Saturday - the first day of the pick-six numbers game - reached $775,740, far below the $1.2 million worth of tickets sold in 1986 on the first day of California's lotto.

In fact, Lotto Texas sales for Saturday and Sunday combined were only $1,139,400.

Even so, state officials said Monday they were pleased with the lotto performance.

But others said the slow purchasing was because the game does not offer "quick-picks" options similar to other state lottos. The quick-picks allows the customer to let the lotto machine randomly pick the numbers.

Turk Pipkin, the author of "The Winner's Guide to the Texas Lottery" said quick-picks make it easier to play, and can enhance payoffs to players that do win.

"I think they made one big serious error - no quick picks," said Pipkin. "It's the critical piece of mistaken thinking they (state lottery officials) have taken so far."

Since most people pick their "lucky" numbers or birthdates, the lower numbers are usually the most used, he said. If these numbers are drawn, then the likelihood is that there will be many more winners to share the payoff.

In quick-picks, the numbers are chosen at random and there is little chance that anyone else would have those numbers. Therefore if those numbers hit, the payoff would be greater, Pipkin said.

He said he is urging people to write lottery officials asking them to institute quick-picks.

Texas Lottery Director Nora Linares said the state did not offer that option because she believed that players would want to learn how to play and pick their own numbers.

"It's really up to people to learn how to play the game," she said.

But, she said, quick-picks will be available some time in the future.

She said she was not disappointed by the Lotto Texas sales.

Lotto sales traditionally start slow, compared with scratch-card games, but accelerate as the jackpots grow, she said.

In addition, Ms. Linares said that it was unfair to compare Texas' start with California, because California had a drawing for the lotto three days after tickets went on sale.

The first drawing in Lotto Texas will be Saturday, one week after the first tickets were sold. Lottery officials say that lotto sales increase the closer to the drawing.

Ms. Linares praised the start of the game for having no technical problems.

"Everything went so well. We literally had no glitches in start up. It was obviously better than expected," she said.

State Senate experiences new and old

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Senate combined the new and old in its first meeting of the special legislative session on school finance.

The proceedings Tuesday marked the first time the Senate has met outside the state Capitol since it was completed in 1888.

Despite the new location in a state office building, the Senate returned to tradition in the election of a pro tem.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, received equal amounts of praise and good-natured ribbing as he was unanimously elected to the mostly ceremonial position.

Montford has served in the Senate since 1983 and is chairman of the Finance Committee.

Sen. Temple Dickson, D-Sweetwater, said in 1988 he was elected to the Senate despite Montford's support on behalf of his opponent.

Montford did not participate in Dickson's re-election effort this year, which failed. "Where were you when I needed you?" asked Dickson.

The Senate was evicted from the Capitol because of renovations there. It will meet in a committee room in the William P. Clements state office building about three blocks northwest of the statehouse.

The room is about one-fourth in floor area as the Senate chamber in the Capitol, and was crowded with 31 senators, their staff and members of the news media.

Yeltsin reforms need compromise

DALLAS (AP) - Russian President Boris Yeltsin will have to compromise further with opponents of his economic reforms to maintain power within the unstable commonwealth, CIA Director Robert Gates says.

Gates, who plans to leave the agency early next year, told business executives Tuesday the United States must not make too many cuts in its intelligence forces because of threats both at home and abroad.

Even American businessmen and corporations have been targets of foreign spies, Gates told members of the Dallas Council on World Affairs in questioning after his address.

The appetite of many Middle Eastern countries, such as Iran and Iraq, for advanced weapons is among threats remaining for America.

The Russians are even selling satellite photos and other benefits of their technology in what has become an unsettled global economy, said Gates.

He predicted that Yeltsin, at the conservative Congress of People's Deputies convening Dec. 1 or in the weeks leading up to the session, may even have to "sacrifice prominent reformers in the government."

Gates warned that "a return to authoritarianism and even old imperial ambitions beckons in Russia."

In his wide-ranging speech, Gates painted a grim picture of ethnic unrest, economic deprivation and political instability in the former communist empire, which still has the world's largest strategic arsenal of long-range nuclear weapons - about 30,000 warheads.

"And who would control that arsenal if President Yeltsin were to leave office?" asked Gates, adding that this was one of the many questions facing U.S. intelligence.

Gates' overview of threats to America also included proliferation in almost two dozen countries of nuclear, chemical and other weapons of mass destruction.

Calling such arsenals perhaps the biggest threats to America, he said many are in control of military governments and "strongmen of proven inhumanity."

Most major countries in the Middle East have chemical weapons development programs and some already have stockpiles, Gates said.

"U.S. or multinational forces deployed abroad could face an increased threat of air-delivered nuclear weapons before the end of the decade," said Gates.

He said several unidentified countries already have the missiles and rockets required to deliver such weapons, while others were on their way to getting them.

Gates said during the question-and-answer session that Iran, which has attempted to fly jets loaded with weapons to aid Muslims fighting in Bosnia, has purchased submarines and fighters from the former Soviet Union and nuclear reactors from China.

"There's no evidence now they are seeking nuclear weapons," he said, while adding analysts believe they would like to acquire them.

Threats from drug trafficking in South America and Asia, producing cartels with financial resources greater than those of some governments, require strong U.S. intelligence even in tough economic times, he said.

Asked about the CIA's future under President-elect Clinton, Gates said there's strong bipartisan support in Congress to strengthen some U.S. intelligence operations overseas.

He said spies have stolen or copied American business executives' documents during overseas trips.

"These foreign services attempt to steal technology here in the United States, or design information," Gates said.

How science protects food

Numerous medical, health and other scientific authorities emphasize that our nation's food supply is not only the most abundant and affordable in the world, but the safest, as well.

Agricultural leadership, the American farmer's management and wise use of crop production inputs, such as pesticides, are a large part of the reason.

Today's crop protection chemicals—herbicides to control weeds, insecticides for destructive insects, fungicides for devastating diseases—must be tested exhaustively before they can be registered for use by the Environmental Protection Agency. On average, only one in 20,000 potential pesticides discovered ever makes it to the farmer's field.

According to the National Agricultural Chemicals Association, pesticide testing and approval now takes some eight to 10 years and costs the manufacturer as much as $50 million. And, each pesticide must undergo as many as 120 health, environmental and safety tests before it's considered by EPA for registration.

Volunteer drivers needed

The Deaf Smith County Unit of the American Cancer Society desperately needs volunteer drivers to transport cancer patients to and from their treatments at the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo. Those interested in volunteering their services are asked to attend the "Road to Recovery" training seminar planned at 6 p.m. Monday at the Sirloin Stockade. A Dutch treat dinner will be available for those wishing to eat before the training session. Discussing the event are, from left, Dempsey Alexander, Charlene Pietsek, Betty Hager and Richard Ottesen. Reservations may be made by calling 364-0353 or 364-3180.

Wear your seat belts

Who are more likely to wear safety belts, parents or non-parents? You probably guessed wrong. Non-parents are more likely to buckle up than are drivers who have children. That was one of the surprise findings of consumer research recently sponsored by the National Safety Belt Coalition.

The National Safety Belt Coalition's study reveals that 59 percent of all drivers say they always buckle up, but only 55 percent of those who have children at home always wear their seat belts. Parents with children between 12-17 are least likely to buckle up, with only 53 percent always wearing their safety belts.

Between the Covers

By JOE WEAVER

It's good to be back at the typewriter after a three-week hiatus. Thanks to Rebecca for filling in during my week, and pity my wife. She was the only one I had to bounce my opinions off of during a most welcome vacation on New Mexico's Porvenir Creek.

Did you notice that sudden puff of wind Tuesday evening? That was not a weather phenomenon, as you might expect, but a collective sigh of relief that the election was over. Personally I was disappointed in the outcome...we already have a lot of books on George Bush. Now the biographies and analyses of Bill Clinton and Al Gore will appear by the dozens and the library will be faced with deciding which ones (if any) will appeal to our patrons.

I'll venture a guess that we are through with our Columbus presentations. (Maybe not - we had one last week.) Over 3,000 people saw the program. It was taken to every school but one in Deaf Smith County, and presented once each in Vega and Amarillo. If I ever get to thinking that my time was wasted, those thoughts are dispersed when I see a kid's mouth drop open as he recognizes me as "that Columbus fellow," or repeats something he learned from it. I know then that it was more than entertainment - that it was a learning experience and the expense in time and money was worth it.

This week's blast of cold weather certainly gave us a foretaste of winter and with it thoughts of pleasant evenings by the fire with a good book and a hot drink. Poor Lorene Beach...Se may have her fire and her book, but WE have all her teapots! Lorene is one of our November displays with her collection of tea pots, kettles, and pitchers. She started collecting about six years ago and finds them in garage sales, at flea markets, and is given them by friends. She couldn't tell us her favorite among the many unique teapots she has, but the oldest (she thinks) is the one with a monkey.

Celebrity biographies are always a hot item and we have a couple going out this week. If your looking for sleazy stories, though, this is not the place...Well, anyway, this week is not the time. I Can't Believe I Said That! is the autobiography of Kathie Lee Gifford, described as "an unabashed optimist - and a woman whose dream has come true." Some "secrets" are revealed here, but don't look for a trashy expose. This is the story behind the smile of the lady who drew a lot of attention by marrying a man her father's age, and now invades millions of homes each week with Regis Philbin.

Michael Landon's eldest daughter provides a portrait of her famous father in I Promised My Dad. The title refers to Landon's deathbed wish that she would honor and protect his name, and the book is "a result of that promise, a story full of love, truth, and honesty. It is an inspirational look at the life and career of Michael Landon by someone who knew him intimately."

If you enjoy the works of Janette Oke and Bodie Thorne, you may want to look at Gilbert Morris's "House of Winslow" series as it follows the Winslow family through American history from its beginnings to the Civil War and beyond. The Honorable Imposter, first in the set of ten, sees Gilbert Winslow, an unwilling minister in the Church of England, on the Mayflower spying on the separatists.

If you lean more to the macabre, there's The Tale of the Body Thief, a continuation of the "Vampire Chronicles," topping the New York Times bestseller list. I've read as much as I'm going to of this one (the jacket notes) and don't have a clue as to what this is about. I'll leave it to you Anne Rice fans to figure out.

The book sale is still going on. Come in for some real bargains!

Lady Whitefaces trim Granbury; Dumas is next

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

As the 20th century philosopher Yogi Berra said: "It's deja vu all over again."

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team beat Granbury 15-11, 15-13, Tuesday in Snyder, earning a trip to the Region I-4A finals for the third year in a row. For the third year in a row they'll meet district rival Dumas, an easy 15-1, 15-5 winner over Azle

Tuesday in Vernon. The time and site were to be determined today.

The Herd's third playoff victory runs its record to 21-9. Granbury's season ends at 19-7.

After the match was over, the Lady

Whitefaces celebrated with a chant of "We want Dumas." After losses to the Demonettes in the regional finals the past two years and after losses in both district matches, the Herd will be hoping the third time's a charm.

"We've been working up to it one step at a time, figuring we'd meet them," senior Erin Bullard said.

A controversy at the end marred an otherwise well-competed match between Hereford and District 6-4A champion Granbury. With the score tied at 13-13 in the second game, the referees stopped the match and conferred with the official scorekeeper. According to Hereford coach Brenda Reeh, the problem was that a Granbury player had entered the game a fourth time, and the maximum for substitutions is three.

By rule, the Pirates were penalized a sideout, but coach Fran Dunson kept protesting and eventually was hit with a delay of game penalty, which meant a point was awarded to Hereford, making the score 14-13 and match point. When the match resumed after 10-15 minutes, Granbury hit the ball long and out to give Hereford the win.

"I don't like a game ending on a technicality," Reeh said, "but if the official book has it that's what they go by, whether its right or wrong."

The delay may have hurt Granbury, which had stormed back from a 12-6 deficit on a pair of aces by Michelle Chastain and four kills--two for points--by Jodee Sample. After several rotations, Sample had another kill through a Hereford block, giving Granbury a 13-12 lead. A Hereford timeout helped slow Granbury's momentum.

"We had some blocking errors, and I know we had one hitting error," Reeh said. "During the timeout, we talked about the difference blocking can make. You could see Granbury loosening up and hitting the ball harder."

"When we started making mistakes, we relaxed and got under control," senior Robyn Watts said.

"When we're in control...we can beat anybody," Bullard said.

The talk about blocking helped immediately, because Bullard and Watts each had stuff blocks to keep Granbury from reaching game-point. After Bullard's stuff for a sideout, Granbury had a passing error on a good Michelle Brock serve, tying the score at 13-13. The delay came soon after that.

Granbury led 5-4 early, but a lift call and a Granbury hitting error gave Hereford a 6-5 lead. Moments later a pair of aces by Jessica Evers and a Bullard kill through Granbury's block pumped the lead up to 12-6.

Both teams finished scored in spurts in the first game, but Hereford led the whole way. Hereford led 6-1, then Granbury came back to 6-4. Hereford stretched it to 9-4; Granbury cam back to 9-6. Hereford went up 12-6; Granbury came back to 13-10. The game ended on an ace by Kara Sandoval.

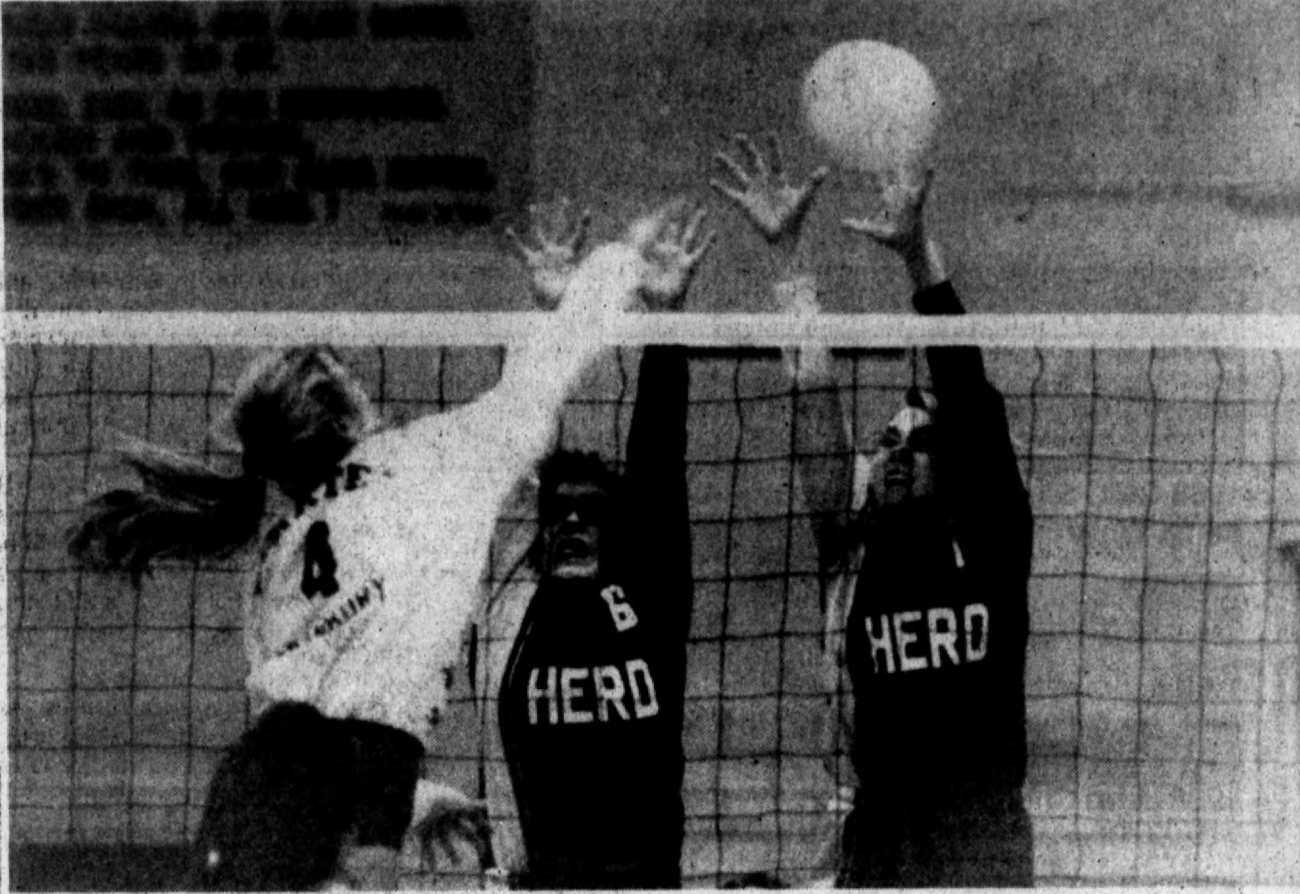

Granbury was overall much bigger than Hereford, with three girls listed at 5-foot-10. The Lady Pirates' size got Hereford's attention and Hereford did a good job blocking the hitters, and it seemed to bother the hitters.

"We came in knowing we wanted to win this game," Watts said. "We weren't looking past them because we knew they were big."

"We knew their middle blockers were going to be big (but) we were a little surprised in warmups at their size," Reeh said. "We talked in the dressing room about how size doesn't mean as much as execution. Our kids executed overall better than Granbury throughout the match."

Watts had four stuffs and Bullard added three to lead the blockers. Bullard and Kathy Hernandez each had six kills, and Watts and Angie Jowell each added four.

Jill Robinson served for seven points, including two aces, and Evers had six points, including two aces. Bullard also served for six points.

Not this time

Hereford's Robyn Watts blocks the hit by Granbury's Jodee Sample. Hereford beat Granbury 15-11, 15-13 Tuesday in Snyder, earning them the right to meet Dumas in the regional finals for the third straight year. Helping Watts with the block is Kara Sandoval.

Jeffires wants to lead

HOUSTON (AP) - Haywood Jeffires isn't satisfied leading the NFL in receiving. He wants to be the Houston Oilers' motivational coach too.

His first piece of advice is to get crazy, show plenty of emotion during games and play with the same gusto.

"A lot of guys question me about the way I am," Jeffires said. "But they should look inside themselves and realize it's OK to be a little crazy."

Jeffires kept control until he could no long contain himself during Sunday's 24-14 loss to Cleveland, the Oilers, third in four games.

He slammed his helmet to the turf in disgust, trying to light a spark in his teammates. But nothing worked.

"I wanted to get some excitement back in our team," Jeffires said. "I'll be damned if one guy can have enough emotion for 10 or 30 others. But there's no way this team is not going to be emotional Sunday if I have something to say about it."

"If it takes cursin' or fussin', I don't care."

Jeffires leads the NFL with 59 catches after being held to one catch by the Browns, ending a string of catching four or more passes in 24 straight games. He thinks he can help in other areas too.

"I want to see us be excited about playing football again," Jeffires said. "And I'm one of the guys who needs to be a leader that way. I can't take this anymore. It disturbs me."

"I don't know how you can't get excited about a great game like this. Emotion is the No. 1 thing. Not in the locker room, on the field."

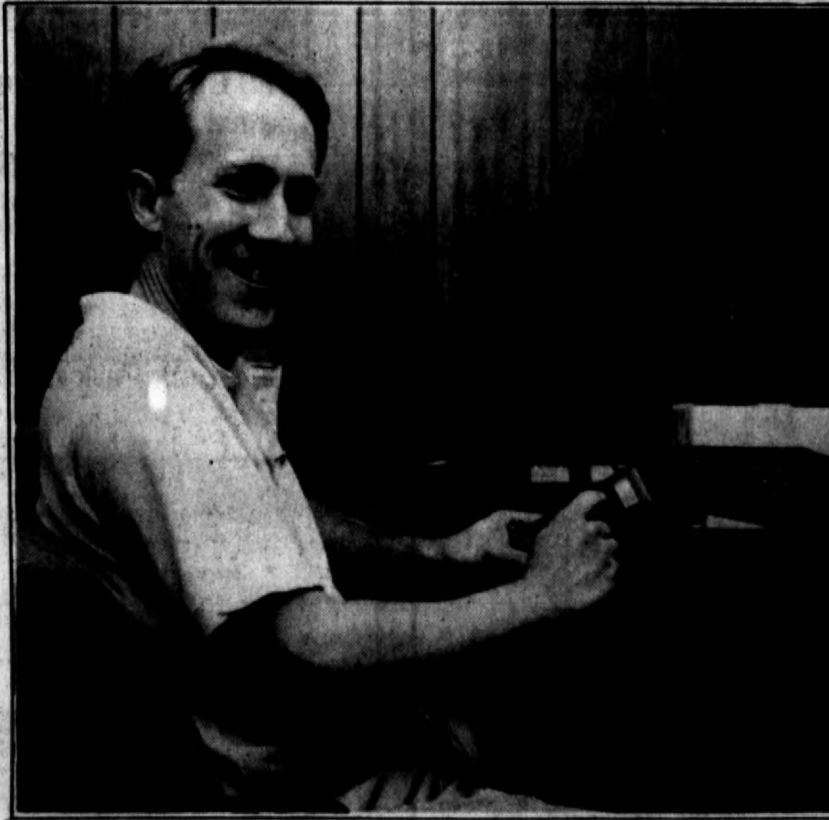

The Oilers have lost three of their last four games and Sunday begin a three-game road trip at Minnesota. With a 5-4 record, the Oilers can see their chances slipping away in the AFC Central.

"I see all of this breaking up if we don't get together quick," Jeffires said. "And it's going to be tough playing at Minnesota. They are probably the front-runner for the Super Bowl right now."

NBA suffers Shark attack

By The Associated Press
Tark the Shark has taken his first bite out of the NBA.

Not that coach Jerry Tarkanian seemed too impressed by San Antonio's 104-98 victory over Milwaukee Tuesday night.

"I don't think there are any must-win games in the NBA when you play 82 games," Tarkanian said. "But this was a big game for us. I think every game at this level is important."

The Spurs dropped their first two games under the former UNLV coach. But David Robinson saw to it that San Antonio's slump would end.

The 7-foot center scored 29 points, blocked 10 shots and grabbed nine rebounds. He also had five steals and five assists.

Dale Ellis added 23 points for the Spurs, who won their seventh consecutive home opener. Lloyd Daniels contributed 21 points and Sean Elliott scored 18.

Elsewhere, it was Sacramento 99, the Los Angeles Clippers 97; Miami 110, Boston 106; Charlotte 112, Orlando 108; New York 99, New Jersey 96; Cleveland 131, Washington 92; the Los Angeles Lakers 107, Golden State 106; Portland 100, Phoenix 89; Minnesota 118, Dallas 104; and Utah 118, Denver 109.

Kings 99, Clippers 97

At Sacramento, the Kings went to 3-0 for the first time since 1968, when they were the Cincinnati Royals. Randy Brown made a seven-foot jumper with one second left, giving him a career-high 22 points. Brown, a second-year player starting for the injured Spud Webb, scored the Kings' last eight points. Danny Manning scored 17 of his 28 points in the first half for the Clippers.

Heat 110, Celtics 106

At Miami, the Heat erased a 14-point deficit, then nearly blew a 14-point lead. Glen Rice scored 27 points and hit four free throws in the final 14.6 seconds.

Reggie Lewis led Boston with 29 points.

Hornets 112, Magic 108

At Orlando, Magic rookie Shaquille O'Neal, the No. 1 choice in the draft, had 35 points and 13 rebounds. But the 7-foot-1 rookie was blanked in the fourth quarter when Charlotte used some big plays by Muggsy Bogues.

Bogues, a 5-3 guard, scored the Hornets' final six points and finished with 15 points and five rebounds, four on the offensive end.

Knicks 99, Nets 96

At New York, Patrick Ewing had 23 points and 13 rebounds for the Knicks (3-0). Derrick Coleman led the Nets with 30 points, Kenny Anderson scored 24 and Drazen Petrovic 16.

Coach Chuck Daly, in his third game for the Nets, was ejected with two technicals for arguing with officials.

Cavaliers 131, Bullets 92

At Richfield, Ohio, the Cavaliers made 14 of 15 baskets in one stretch and tied a team record with 46 points in the third quarter. Larry Nance had all six of his blocks in the third quarter and all 12 Cleveland players scored against the winless Bullets (0-3).

It marked the first game as opponents in the NBA for the Price brothers - Cleveland's Mark and Washington rookie Brent. They were on the court at the same time for only a few minutes. Mark went 6 for 10 from the floor and 4 for 4 from the free-throw line, while Brent made all four of his free throws, but missed all seven of his floor shots.

Lakers 107, Warriors 106

At Oakland, Byron Scott's running jump shot with 14.5 seconds remaining won it after the Lakers lost a 13-point fourth-quarter lead.

Chris Mullin's off-balance jumper from the top of the key at the buzzer missed for the Warriors.

Sedale Threatt had 26 points for Los Angeles, while Mullin scored 26 for Golden State.

Trail Blazers 100, Suns 89

At Portland, Mario Elie sparked a fourth-quarter run to victory. Elie scored 13 of his 17 points in the final period.

Charles Barkley had 21 points and 14 rebounds for Phoenix. Timberwolves 118, Mavericks 104

At Minneapolis, a balanced attack helped the Wolves to their first victory of the season. Chuck Person scored 24 points, Doug West scored 15 of his 23 points in the first half - when Minnesota built a 21-point lead - Micheal Williams added 20 and Christian Laettner had 14 points, 12 rebounds and five blocked shots.

Jazz 118, Nuggets 109

NL owners: Giants to stay in San Francisco

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) - The San Francisco Giants aren't moving anywhere. And because they're not, St. Petersburg's battle for baseball is headed to court.

National League owners rejected the Giants' proposed move to Florida by a 9-4 vote Tuesday, leaving the team in the city of cable cars and windy Candlestick Park.

The Giants' future had been uncertain since Aug. 7, when owner Bob Lurie announced a $115 million agreement in principle with a Florida group.

"This is clearly a happy day in San Francisco," Lurie said. "I feel badly for the people of St. Petersburg, who were eagerly looking forward to having major league baseball in their area."

Officials were popping champagne corks at San Francisco's City Hall in a scene reminiscent of a World Series clubhouse. But in St. Petersburg, it was angry tempers popping into public view.

"Baseball let us down... They've damaged us spiritually and they've damaged us financially," St. Petersburg mayor David Fischer said. "We're not going to take this laying down. We're going to take this to the end and we're going to get a baseball team here any way we can."

It was Tampa Bay's seventh failure to get a team for the Florida Suncoast Dome, which opened two years ago.

"It's a wonderful area and a wonderful market," said Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig, the chairman of baseball's ruling executive council. "But the National League was very sensitive and pursued the same consistent policy today that both leagues have for a long time."

Baseball officials cited their reluctance to move franchises; no team has shifted since the expansion Washington Senators became the Texas Rangers after the 1971 season.

But this deal appeared to have a chance for approval; Bay area voters have rejected four proposals to replace the 'Stick, declared unacceptable by Lurie and baseball officials. Still, it wasn't enough. The plan needed approval by 10 NL clubs, but only got four. From all indications, they were the Chicago Cubs, Florida Marlins, Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals.

"To have major league baseball justify not moving the Giants here because of historic precedent is indicative of the duplicity and the dishonesty that baseball seems to practice," said Jack Critchfield, a leader of Tampa Bay's baseball effort. "Their historic precedents last about one meeting to the next."

It was the first time in the memory of baseball officials that a proposed move formally was rejected. In previous instances, shifts were stopped prior to a vote.

Florida Sen. Connie Mack, a frequent critic of baseball, said he would ask Congress to rescind baseball's antitrust exemption, created by a 1922 Supreme Court ruling.

"It was a long 3 ( months," San Francisco mayor Frank M. Jordan said. "It was an uphill battle, and at this stage we've won."

Horace C. Stoneham moved the Giants from New York to San Francisco after the 1957 season, and Lurie bought the team from Stoneham in 1976 for $8 million when the Giants were about to move to Toronto. Lurie said in August that he wouldn't consider other offers until a vote on his agreement with the Florida group headed by Vincent J. Naimoli.

"I honored that commitment to the utmost of my ability," Lurie said. "I also fully understand the desire of many of my colleagues in major league baseball to try to find a way to keep the Giants in San Francisco."

A group headed by Safeway Inc. chairman Peter Magowan convinced the NL to reject a move by proposing a $100 million counteroffer. Lurie would retain a percentage of the team in that plan, and said he and his lawyers will review it.

"If Bob Lurie should decide to sell the Giants locally, our group is ready to acquire the franchise," Magowan said.

Naimoli said he had expected the rejection after assessing the situation in the past few days.

"We're extremely disappointed, as I'm sure are the wonderful fans of the Tampa Bay area who have supported our group," he said. "We've given this our best effort and played by all the rules. At this point, we'll have to assess what our options are."

Those options appear to be legal. St. Petersburg has threatened to sue San Francisco, major league baseball and Magowan's group. San Francisco filed suit Tuesday even before the vote was announced, apparently trying to get a California court to take jurisdiction first.

Eck gets AL Cy Young

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Dennis Eckersley is a pitcher looking to make a comeback even after winning the American League Cy Young award.

Eckersley, the Oakland Athletics' bullpen ace and a primary reason behind the team's fourth AL West title in five years, admitted Tuesday he still feels the sting of Roberto Alomar's bat.

"You win the Cy Young and I knew I was going to have to deal with this, but that's OK. I will be back," Eckersley said from his Boston home.

In Game 4 of the AL playoffs with Toronto, Eckersley came on in the eighth with a 6-2 lead. Toronto scored twice before Alomar hit an Eckersley pitch for a two-run homer that sent the game into extra innings. The 7-6 win gave the Blue Jays a 3-1 lead on the way to winning the playoffs and, eventually, the World Series.

"I know that I disappointed a lot of people, including myself," said Eckersley, who had a career-high 51 saves during the regular season. "People rely on you to close it out, and when you don't, it's devastating - and we all know what that is - the Toronto game."

"But you have to go through the pain to go on. I shed some tears and now I'm looking ahead. I just want to work hard and come back next year and prove that I'm worthy of all this."

The first reliever since Detroit's Willie Hernandez to win the AL Cy Young award, Eckersley received 19 of 28 first-place votes from a panel consisting of two writers in each of the 14 league cities. With three seconds and three thirds, Eckersley totaled 107 points under the 5-3-1 system.

Jack McDowell of the Chicago White Sox was a distant second with two firsts and 51 points, followed by Roger Clemens of Boston with four firsts and 48 points. Mike Mussina of Baltimore was fourth with two firsts and 26 points, followed by Jack Morris of Toronto with one first and 10 points, Kevin Brown of Texas with nine points and Charles Nagy of Cleveland with one point.

Hernandez won the Cy Young in 1984. Milwaukee's Rollie Fingers (1981) and New York's Sparky Lyle (1977) are the only other relievers to claim the AL pitching honor.

Eckersley said he regarded the award as "a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. I feel very lucky."

He is the second A's pitcher in three years to win the award - Bob Welch won it in 1990.

Price leads Grand Slam

LA QUINTA, Calif. (AP) - The only chuckles and chorles during the opening round of the Grand Slam of Golf came from John Daly in the television tower.

The participants - Nick Price, Fred Couples, Nick Faldo and Tom Kite - were grim-faced and scowling, scolding errant shots, grimacing and squinting, fighting wind and dust and cold and the clock, and in general having anything but fun.

"It was work. It was hard work," Price said after his hard-won 70, 2-under par on the Jack Nicklaus Resort course at PGA West, led the way Tuesday over the first 18 holes of the four-man competition.

He and the other 1993 winners of golf's big four events required five hours, 25 minutes to play 18 holes and - despite being the only players on the course - just beat the darkness.

When the day finally limped to a close - with Price taking sole control of the lead with a last-hole bogey - Masters champion Fred Couples was staring into the fast-fading light and considering the loss of three shots to par over the last two holes.

He was alone in second at 71. Faldo, the British Open winner, was next at 72 and Kite, the U.S. Open champ, struggled to a 75 that included a ball into the water and 37 putts.

While Price, Couples and Faldo remain very much in the chase for the $400,000 winners check from the total purse of $1 million, Kite said he will need help to get back into it today over the concluding 18 holes.

"I'll have to have some help from the weather - more wind - and I'll have to have some help from these other guys," Kite said, gesturing to the slumped figures of Couples, Faldo and Price, who was rubbing his eyes that were red from the blowing dust.

To Make Money In The Stock Market, You Need A Little Skill. To Make Money From Lotto Texas, You Need A Little Pencil.

LOTTO Texas is a new game from the Texas Lottery, and you could make millions just by filling out a playslip and paying a dollar.

(We apologize to all those who have made their money through skill and savvy.)

The purpose of this is to instruct you on how to play.

OK. To play, just pick six numbers from one to fifty. If you happen to pick the same six numbers that come up at the drawings, then you could win millions of dollars.

OK. Step number one. Go to any of the LOTTO Texas retailers. You can only play where you see a red and yellow sign that says LOTTO Texas.

Step number two. While you're at the retailer, pick up a LOTTO Texas playslip and a pencil. There's a picture of the playslip on this page. You may find the playslips in a stand called a play station. If not, just ask for one.

Step number three. (My, we're moving right along now, aren't we?) Just choose SIX numbers from one to fifty. You can play up to five times on each playslip. Completely fill in the numbers that you choose on the playslip ONLY WITH A BLACK OR BLUE BALLPOINT PEN OR A PENCIL. The one featured here would work just fine.

Also, don't erase any mistakes you make. Just fill in the VOID box on that particular play and you will not be charged for it.

Step number four. (Past the halfway mark.) Take a dollar (that's how much it costs to play LOTTO Texas) and give it and the playslip to the retailer. It takes just a few seconds. When you're done, you'll be handed a ticket which will verify which numbers you picked. Please remember to take the time to sign your name on the back of your ticket so no one else will be able to cash it in.

Step number five. Tune in the televised drawings on Wednesday and Saturday nights at 9:58 p.m. CST to see how well you did.

If you picked all six of the numbers which are randomly chosen on the ball machine, then you could become a millionaire. If you missed the drawing, the numbers will be posted the next day at all LOTTO Texas retailers and in your local newspaper. The jackpots are paid in 20 annual installments.

You can also win second and third prizes by matching five out of six or four out of six numbers. Match three out of six and you will win $3 automatically.

Win up to $599, and you can collect your prize at any LOTTO Texas retailer.

Winnings of $600 or more can be claimed at any of the 24 Texas Lottery claim centers. You can also claim prizes through the mail using a claim form that you may pick up at any Texas Lottery retailer. Please be sure to make copies of the front and back of your ticket before you send it in. The Texas Lottery is not responsible for tickets lost in the mail. All prizes must be claimed within 180 days of the drawing.

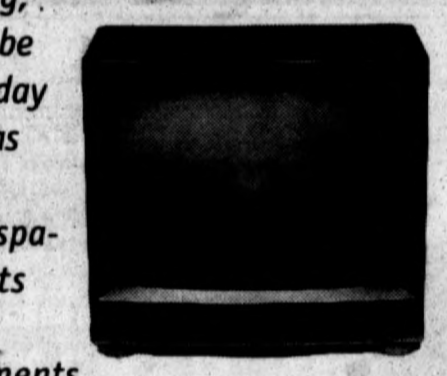

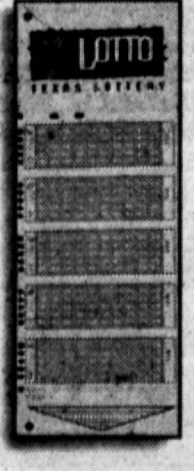

Finally, LOTTO Texas can be played up to 10 drawings (that's five weeks) in advance. If you want to play those same numbers for several drawings in a row, fill in the multi-draw box on your playslip with however many drawings you would like to play.

One more thing. You must be 18 years or older to play. And when you watch the televised drawings, there's a chance that your heart may start to pound a little and your palms may begin to sweat. The most important thing for you to remember is to please have fun and enjoy playing the game of LOTTO Texas.

TEXAS LOTTERY

Aggies to start Pullig at QB against Cougars

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - It's a short week for the No. 4 ranked Texas Aggies but plenty of time for true freshman Corey Pullig to get ready for his second career start on Thursday against the Houston Cougars.

warmups that he would make his first start on Saturday against the Louisville Cardinals and he led the Aggies to a 40-18 victory.

"Corey will start against Houston," Slocum said. "I just think in the last two weeks in practice and in games, he's been very consistent. He's earned the right to start."

opened against Notre Dame Jan. 1, 1988, in the Cotton Bowl. Pullig got his first collegiate start, replacing injured Jeff Granger.

that he caught on faster to our offense than any other freshman I've ever seen," offensive coordinator Bob Toledo said. "As we watched him progress, we knew we had someone special."

Pullig didn't get the word that he'd start against Louisville until shortly before game time. He got the word much earlier for Thursday's televised game against the Cougars.

Ags' Hill likes passing game

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Running back Greg Hill wants to carry the ball as much as possible. But he's pleased with the progress in No. 4 Texas A&M's passing game.

all I need is a little crack." Hill rushed 26 times for a season high 142 yards on Saturday, helping the Aggies to a 40-18 victory over Louisville to earn The Associated Press co-Offensive Player of the Week honors.

scored three touchdowns in the Mustangs' satisfying victory over the Houston Cougars. The player who put the finishing touches on Texas Christian's 23-14 victory over Texas was Tony Rand, whose 58-yard interception return for a touchdown assured the Horned Frogs of their first victory over the Horns in 25 years.

Pullig received the call Oct. 31 against Southern Methodist when Granger left the game with a concussion. Granger, who has struggled with his passing this season, was not fully recovered against Louisville.

We wouldn't be where we are today, unbeaten, without Jeff Granger. He took a lot of criticism for the bad plays but they didn't see some of the runs he made that were critical to our success."

"Having the passing game is such an equalizer," Aggies guard John Ellison said. "The defensive line can't just stack up and fire off the ball every time. They have to respect our pass. It makes for a totally different type of game."

OILERS

Zone defenses are choking off the Oilers' longer passing routes and Jeffries wants to see that broken. "A lot of teams are starting to sit on us," Jeffries said. "They seem to know what we're going to do and they sit back there 12 yards away."

in the fanny," Jeffries said. "We need to bring out the little kid in us again to show emotion. I wish we'd show emotion like a bunch of kids."

Greg Hill continued to make an impact on the Aggies. He's gained 2,199 yards in 20 games with A&M and has rushed for more yards in those games than any player in SWC history.

Bay View Study Club enjoys gourmet food

Continuing their theme, "Discovery: Art, Artists and Artifacts", Bay View Study Club members met recently in the home of Elizabeth Holt.

Following a brief business session, MaryBeth Messer presented a program on gourmet cooking. She invited members into the kitchen where she demonstrated and prepared refreshments.

The first dessert prepared and served was baklava, a Greek pastry. Messer explained that the recipe calls for phyllo dough (phyllo meaning thin leaf) and a sugar syrup used instead of honey for sweetener thus making it a Turkish adaptation.

The next dish prepared was a Greek custard, Galaktobouriko, garnished with various fruits and brushed with a glaze made of apple jelly.

Messer explained about a main dish using phyllo dough which is made with chicken, spinach and basal feta and a sauce of Bechamel which is served over slices of phyllo chicken.

Another dessert made was Charlotte Russe which consists of chocolate mousse in a chocolate cup, the bottom of which consists of frozen strawberries topped with a liqueur. The dessert is then topped with whipped cream and a garnish of fresh fruit.

The speaker also prepared and presented individual Shaum tortes which are made with egg whites and sugar, baked in mounds, then served with frozen custard, berries and whipped cream topped with a berry garnish.

At Messer's suggestion, the hostesses served a drink called Lacroix which is a natural lemon flavored water made in LaCrosse, Wis. Coffee was also served with the desserts.

At the conclusion of her program, Messer gave several tips about buying foods. She reminded members of the importance of using good products. She also said that the ultimate material for a dough board and rolling pin is marble. In lieu of a marble rolling pin, Messer uses an empty wine bottle.

Messer is a native of Wisconsin and, at an early age, she worked for Marshall Field's Department Store in the gourmet food division. She attended Wisconsin College Conservatory, University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee, and the Aspen Music School where she majored in cello performance. She had been employed as a professional caterer and chef 10 years before her marriage to Roy Dale Messer. Part of this period included employment by West Texas University's Food Services in which she had the responsibility of preparing and serving food for the West Texas State University's president and his wife.

Before the conclusion of the meeting, members were given booklets containing the recipes Messer had discussed entitled The Art of Food, The Art of Preparing Holiday Desserts.

Mile-of-Change fund raising project discussed at meeting

During the Nov. 2 meeting of the Hereford High School Keywanettes, the organization's Mile-of-Change fund raising project, scheduled the week of Nov. 14, was discussed.

Also, it was decided that members would attend church as a club the first Sunday in December at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Athlete of the Week committee members were urged to continue working each week and freshman members were encouraged to obtain signatures in order to receive their membership bracelets.

In compliance with a district project, the girls adopted two Kiwanis Club members to assist the club and answer any questions. The club chose Dave Kimmel and Jennifer Eggen.

Several committee reports were given including the bulletin board and Student of the Week.

The club recently assisted at the Kiwanis pancake supper and the Adopt-a-Highway project.

A group picture was taken which will be used for a slide show at the district meeting.

Sara Zinck called the meeting to order and Tonya Selmon led the pledge. Claudia Ramirez led the club in prayer.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Robert De Niro never bonded as a father with a 10-year-old girl and doesn't have to pay temporary child support to her mother while the woman pursues a paternity suit, a judge ruled.

Nightclub singer Helena Lisandrello filed the lawsuit Aug. 6, claiming her daughter resulted from a three-year relationship with the actor.

Blood tests proved De Niro was not the girl's father, and he stopped paying child support, said his attorney, Ronald Anteau.

On Monday, Superior Court Commissioner James Endman ruled De Niro had no obligation to resume payments.

Story serves as auctioneer during garden club meeting

Bessie Story served as auctioneer when members of the Garden Beautiful Club met Friday, Nov. 6, for an auction and business meeting in the home of Jeane Dowell with Margaret Young and Jerry Jackson serving as co-hostess.

During the club's annual fund raiser, members bid on a variety of hand-made pieces, baked goods and other articles.

President Jackson presided over the business session and welcomed members and guests.

Members shared garden tips on the planting of fall bulbs. Also, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, and the treasurer's report was given.

It was decided that donations would be made from the club to the Deaf Smith County United Way Campaign and to Girls Town U.S.A.

Dowell volunteered to serve on the cheer committee and the president read communications including a letter from the Texas Department of Human Services asking for assistance for needy residents.

It was announced that the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center's Open House is planned from Nov. 30 through Dec. 5. Also, the club's Christmas Coffee Guest Day is scheduled from 10-11:30 a.m. Dec. 4 at the Hall of Fame with all members to serve as hostesses. The public is invited to attend.

Members present included Dowell, Young, Jackson, Marguerite Cole, Vada Axe, Louise Axe, Ruby Carmichael, Dottie Darden, Nadine Hill, Dorothy Noland, Helen Spinks, Story, Marguerite Newell, Rosalie Gilbreath and Rachael Hunter.

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Frankie Yankovic, America's Polka King, threw a party to mark his retirement - well, semi-retirement.

The 77-year-old Yankovic said Sunday he plans to perform just 40 times a year instead of 250 now that he's retiring to New Port Richey, Fla.

The Cleveland native was dubbed the Polka King 44 years ago after winning a band competition in Milwaukee. He has written hundreds of songs, including the polkas "Who Stole the Keeshka" and "How Many Burps in a Bottle of Beer."

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) - Champion surfer Kelly Slater admits his role on TV's "Baywatch" doesn't do much to improve the image of his fellow wave riders.

"I give all the input I can, but they always say they have to do things for the story line," said Slater, whose character in the syndicated series lives out of an old Volkswagen van in a Malibu beach parking lot.

"A lot of the lines I say just can't be changed. Yeah, they're corny lines. You don't want to say them sometimes."

Slater, 20, made his debut this year and will appear on about half of this season's 22 episodes.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 31-year-old female and constantly have a problem with constipation. I've tried eating a lot of fiber as directed by my doctor, but still need to rely on suppositories to help. After each episode, I get terrible pains under my ribs and in my back. It is starting to scare me. I'm also afraid of going to a doctor because I'm not sure what kind of tests he might run. Can you give me an idea of the seriousness of this? I'm also constantly under stress.
DEAR READER: You should not need to use suppositories to help you have a bowel movement. You do need an examination, perhaps by a gastroenterologist. Sometimes a person has abnormal function of the external sphincter, so it contracts when it should relax during elimination. And there are other mechanical possibi-ties. Then, you may simply believe you have to have a bowel movement every day, and that is not the case. If you stimulate constant emptying, you never allow nature to catch up with the correct cycle, and you will always have trouble.

Simple bowel training is all that some people need. That involves consuming a sufficient amount of liquid at breakfast and then spending some time for natural reflex action to take place while sitting on the toilet. I have discussed this in Special Report 73, Irritable Bowel and Constipation, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/73, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.
The examinations cannot be as bad as what you put yourself through. You don't want to go through life with this kind of problem. The pain you experience is undoubtedly from spasm of the colon or distention from trapped gas.
Constipation can occur from things unrelated directly to the bowel. That includes low thyroid function.
DEAR DR. LAMB: I belong to a health club and have been taking aerobics classes there for the past two years. Recently, the owners started selling "all natural" food products that are supposed to be good for you and also give you energy. I have been having a hard time getting motivated lately and have noticed that some of the instructors who have been eating and drinking these products have a lot more energy.
I have enclosed a pamphlet on one of the products the owner feels I should buy in order to give me more energy. I exercise almost every day and enjoy it, but could use a little boost. I would appreciate any kind of medical information on it. Is it safe to take? Is it like taking steroids?
DEAR READER: No, the product described has nothing to do with steroids. I do not think it will harm you in any way. And if it helps you, it will probably be a placebo or psychological effect.
There isn't a thing in that product you can't get from a good healthy diet — complete proteins in such good quality foods as the meat group: poultry, fish and red meat. One pound of the lean raw portions of any of these (no bone or skin) will provide about 100 grams of good quality protein. That is more than your body is likely to use — about twice as much. Proteins are made from amino acids and these foods plus the rest of your balanced diet will provide all of them you need. Usually such products are recommended because they provide additional income for those selling them. Watch your wallet. If you are fatigued, see your doctor to find out why.
Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Lately, I've been reading a lot about sexual harassment in the armed services. Apparently, the overblown male ego cannot accept the fact that a woman just might possibly join the armed forces for legitimate reasons, such as a steady income, patriotism, career opportunities, travel or just to leave home and become a responsible adult.

Most of these jock chauvinists think the only reason a woman joins up is to meet men. And each man thinks HE has just what she needs to make her happy, and by golly, he's going to see that she gets it even though she "pretends" she doesn't want it.

As a former single mother of three, I've had my share of wrestling with the boss, the boss' son, male co-workers, neighbors' husbands and even ministers. I felt I had to keep quiet because I needed my job so I could take care of my children.

It boggles the mind to think of how much safer and happier this world would be if more men kept their pants zipped—Bees Knees on the Coast in Oregon.

DEAR KNEES: If the sound of a zipper comes as a great big surprise, a well-placed knee will cool the guy's ardor in a hurry.

Because there are so many men out there who believe they are irresistible, it is absolutely essential for women to make it abundantly clear what they want and what they do NOT want so that they do not give mixed signals.

And yes, guys, a woman has the right to change her mind.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to "reconsidering in Tulsa" was right on. She's the divorcee with two small children dating a man who has told her that he's not crazy about little kids.

Before our marriage, my husband admitted that my kids, 5 and 7, made him nervous. He had custody of his children, who were in their teens. "Don" was such a loving, patient and generous father to his own two children that I assumed he would treat mine the same way. I was wrong.

It seemed that while his kids could do no wrong (they were plenty wild) mine were held accountable for every small misdemeanor. Don seldom raised his voice to HIS children, but mine were constantly being yelled at and punished.

As you may have guessed we had many fights about our children. Don thought I was too lenient with mine and too hard on his. I felt exactly the same way about him. After a while, it became a battle royal—me and mine against him and his. Life was hell.

Because we both wanted to save our marriage, we sought family counseling. I can't honestly say we became "The Brady Bunch," but counseling did help us live together more peacefully.

All the kids are grown now, but they will always carry the scars of those awful battles with their stepparents. The bottom line is this: If you potential mate admits that he has a problem dealing with your kids, you'd better believe it. The problem will not disappear when you take your wedding vows. It would have been better for all concerned had we waited until the kids were grown to marry. -20-20 hindsight in Des Moines

Dear 20-20: I agree wholeheartedly. Meanwhile, you are both lucky the marriage survived. Most second-time arounders who have battles about their respective kids do not fare so well.

Local students invited to enter scholarship program

All Hereford High School students in 10th through 12th grades are invited to participate in the Annual VFW Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program. This year's theme is "My Voice in America's Future."

Marie J. Goheen, local VFW Auxiliary Voice of Democracy chairman, stressed that all students interested in entering the contest must have their entries of the school winners' tape, script and entry form in the possession of the VFW Post chairman by Nov. 15, except where prior arrangements have been made between the school and the VFW Post.

Participants will submit a script of not less than three minutes or more than five minutes. Judging will be done by listening to the cassette tape submitted by the student. This program is not intended to be a speech competition and students are not required to give an oral-personal presentation. All entries will be judged on the quality of the tape-recorded message.

Scholarships will be awarded to the winners of the program and for the state winners, there will be an opportunity to go on a five-day tour of Washington, D.C.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Hereford High School teachers, Mary Parker, Lana Hall or Joe Don Cummings.

Wash hands frequently to prevent spread of virus

If you catch a cold this fall or winter, remember to wash your hands a lot.

"Although most colds are contracted by breathing virus-filled droplets, many colds result from rubbing the nose or eyes with fingers that have picked up a virus from hand-to-hand contact," said Dr. Christine Matson, an associate professor of clinical family medicine at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "If you catch cold, add frequent hand-washing to your list of remedies."

Millions of people at some time or another fall victim to the common cold bug. Americans catch a total of about one billion colds each year caused by one of 200 different viruses. Children are often vulnerable to colds, sometimes getting up to 10 colds per year, since they pass on different viruses to each other.

"When people with colds cough and sneeze into their hands," Matson said, "they tend to touch objects at home, work and school, leaving cold-causing viruses behind."

In addition to frequent hand-washing, tissues and handkerchiefs can also lessen or even prevent the passing of colds to others because they can contain the germs associated with coughing and sneezing.

"Obey how you feel and treat only what is bothering you the most," Matson said. "You can take fewer drugs and lessen the chance of unfavorable side effects. A stuffy, runny nose may only call for an antihistamine, and a nagging cough may only require a cough suppressant."

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 54-year-old woman and have a problem with facial hair. In my case, it cannot be called facial hair; it is definitely whiskers, black and bristly, just like a man's. My family doctor sent me to a specialist, but he was of no help. So for the last eight to nine years I have just tolerated the problem. Please send me any information you have on this subject and tell me if anything can be done.

DEAR READER: If it has been eight or nine years since you asked about it, you should see a dermatologist now. There is a much better understanding about women's hair problems than there used to be.

The most important advance really is understanding it usually does represent a variation in hormone balance. Today it is possible to use much more sensitive tests to measure the total testosterone and free testosterone levels. The free testosterone is active male hormone. Many women who have problems with excess facial or body hair can be helped with medications that neutralize male hormone or its effects on cells. Some studies suggest that 90 percent of women with excess hair have elevated male hormone levels.

This imbalance in male and female hormones occurs in many women at the time of and after the menopause. I have discussed the dynamics of this in Special Report 107, Hirsutism: Women's Excess Hair, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/107, P.O. Box 5537, River-ton, NJ 08077. But excess hair can also occur in young women as well.

It is important to look for causes of excess hair that can be corrected. Some young women have polycystic ovaries, with excess hair, irregular or absent menstrual periods and obesity. Treatment of the polycystic ovary disease will correct the excess hair growth. Other treatments include some, but not all, oral contraceptives, Aldactone (spironolactone, a diuretic that has an anti-male hormone effect) and, in Europe, cyproterone acetate. Recently, Dr. Leonello Cusan at Canada's Laval University has claimed that flutamide in combination with oral contraceptives is effective in many young women. Flutamide blocks the action of testosterone at the cellular level. Dr. David Ehrmann of the University of Chicago has also been quoted as saying the treatment is very effective. Flutamide is used with other medicines to neutralize male hormone effects in the treatment of prostate cancer.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My dentist says I have a condition called "dry mouth." My doctor says he has no remedy for it. My dentist says the condition can cause lots of cavities if it is not corrected. What can I do?

DEAR READER: They must think you have Sjogren's disease. The disease attacks glands that produce secretions, including saliva from the salivary glands, tears for eyes and even vaginal secretions. It is thought to be one of those diseases where the immune system attacks a person's own tissues. At present, there is no cure, only symptomatic treatment, but that is important. For dry mouth, increasing your daily fluid intake considerably may help. Drink water when eating. You may benefit from a 2 percent solution of methylcellulose and sour sugar-free candies that stimulate saliva production.

Good nonsense is good sense in disguise.
