Bivins hits hot issues

State senator says Texas may build more prisons; lottery isn't solution to state budget

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN Editor-Publisher

State Sen. Teel Bivins conducted a public meeting at Hereford Community Center this morning as part of a two-day whirlwind tour through his 31st Senatorial District.

Sen. Bivins outlined the "hot" issues that will face the upcoming session of the state Legislature as he addressed about 50 interested citizens here at the 8 a.m. meeting...

Bivins. "I need to know what is on your minds and, essentially, get my marching orders for the new session." Bivins heard concerns about the cost of health care, sexual abuse of children, the restructuring of the tax system...

Bivins said the Texas Department of Criminal Justice has proposed regional jails that might be of interest to Hereford. The TDCJ is proposing four 500-bed private jail facilities that would be built by private contractors...

The Republican state senator from Amarillo said the budget, as always, is a primary issue in any new session. He said coming up with the budget will not be easy, as demands for state services keep expanding but citizens have sent out a strong message that they don't want new taxes.

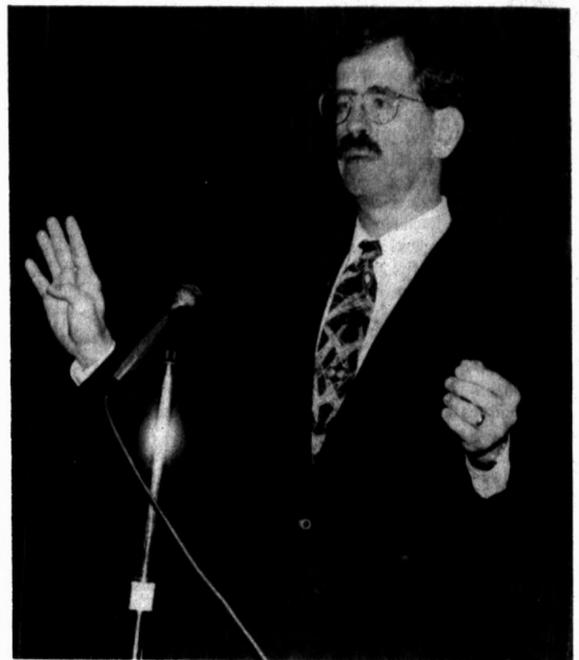

Pointing out that the governor and lieutenant governor have committed to "no new taxes," Bivins said some real spending cuts and belt-tightening will have to be made. With federal mandates and demands for state services, this will be very difficult, noted the senator. He said the federal government has mandated $1.8 billion in new state spending.

Bivins briefly discussing state school funding, the criminal justice system, trucking laws, health insurance reforms and other issues. In answer to a question about the lottery revenue, he pointed out that this money goes into the general fund.

Those who didn't pose a question in the hour-long meeting didn't get an opportunity to corner the senator afterward. He was quickly out the door and on the way to Muleshoe, then he will make appearances today in Morton, Plains, Seminole and Andrews.

Referring to his hectic schedule, Bivins remarked that his wife was a strong supporter of the limited-terms proposal. The senator opened the meeting by introducing members of his staff, who constituents will likely be talking to if they phone Bivins about an issue.

Bivins at town meeting

State Sen. Teel Bivins(R-Amarillo) conducted a public meeting from 8 to 9 a.m. today at Hereford Community Center. About 50 interested citizens attended the meeting and heard the senator discuss issues for the upcoming session of the state Legislature.

Bond set for couple in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) - A judge set bond at $100,000 today for a couple accused of taking a nine-day Acapulco vacation and leaving their young daughters home alone with little more than instructions on when to eat and sleep.

The bond was $50,000 each for David Schoo, 45, and his wife, Sharon, 35, of suburban St. Charles, who were charged Tuesday with felony child abandonment, cruelty to children and misdemeanor reckless endangerment.

The couple's attorney, Gerard Kepple, said he would try to get the bond lowered.

"It's unfortunate that these kind of charges are brought at this time of the year," Kepple said after the hearing. "It adds more sensationalism to these people's case. We hope the state will see fit to lower the bond. There's no past criminal history on these people."

Kepple said he could not discuss his conversations with the couple. "But we think it will turn out quite differently from what you suspect," he said.

Child welfare officials took custody of the daughters, Nicole, 9, and Diana, 4, after police found them home alone Dec. 21. Nicole had called 911 when a smoke alarm accidentally went off a day after her parents left.

"This is a very bizarre case," said David Clark, administrative chief for the Kane County state's attorney's office. "I've heard some people say that 'Home Alone' only belongs in the movies."

Police boarded a plane at O'Hare International Airport to arrest the couple as they returned home lightly tanned from their vacation.

Eight officers paraded the couple through the airport, where travelers lined the corridor and yelled insults. Police Sgt. Jerry Thornton said the couple did not ask about their daughters at the airport, but did ask when they could get their luggage.

"We still don't know what the real story is about why they left their kids behind," Thornton said.

In "Home Alone," a suburban Chicago couple accidentally leave their youngest son, Kevin, behind when they leave on a Christmas vacation. "At least Kevin's parents didn't do it deliberately," said Ed McManus, a spokesman for the state Department of Children and Family Services.

Chamber officers for 1993 elected

McDaniel named to lead Chamber

Fisher elected VP, Lyles voted treasurer for C of C in 1993

Lewis McDaniel, local Southwestern Public Service manager, was elected as the 1993 president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce during a board meeting Tuesday evening. He will succeed Charles Greenawalt in January.

Wes Fisher, former Hereford mayor, was named as the new vice president and Bill Lyles, president of George Warner Seed, will serve as treasurer.

Also recognized at the meeting was Linda Daniel, incoming president of the Women's Division of the chamber. The women will install new officers at a Jan. 7 meeting and honor their "Woman of the Year."

In other business, the CofC board discussed the new budget, set a board retreat for Jan. 21 to make plans for the new year, set a tentative date of Feb. 11 for the annual banquet, and approved the financial report.

Mike Carr, executive vice president, gave progress reports on several committees. He announced that Craig Smith is the new Hustler chairman, and that plans are being initiated for the chamber to hold another fund-raising raffle in 1993.

Rita Bell, Women's Division president, reported on the election of new officers, who will be installed at the Jan. 7 banquet. She said the group started the year with 109 members and currently has 113.

Directors present for the meeting were Greenawalt, McDaniel, Fisher, Lyles, Donna West, Mauri Montgomery, John Sherrod, Elaine McNutt, Ken McLain, Pat Robbins, Diane Hoelscher, Yolanda Valdez and Bell.

Bush, Yeltsin plan last weekend by the sea

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush announced today he and Russian President Boris Yeltsin will hold a Black Sea summit this weekend to sign a treaty requiring the destruction of thousands of long-range nuclear weapons.

An earlier announcement was made in Russia, where Yeltsin was quoted as calling the START II treaty the "document of the century" and "the most important achievement in relations between our two countries."

Bush, due to leave office in three weeks, said the pact would reduce current nuclear arsenals by two-thirds. "This treaty is good for all mankind," he said in brief remarks in the Rose Garden.

The treaty is the most far-reaching accord in the brief history of nuclear disarmament, and caps a breathtaking series of agreements that coincided with Bush's term in office and the demise of the Soviet world.

The pact bans all land-based nuclear missiles with multiple warheads designed to hit several targets simultaneously, and includes these other provisions:

-The U.S. and Russian arsenals of strategic nuclear warheads, now about 20,000 combined, would be pared by about two-thirds by the year 2003, or earlier.

-The most fearsome Russian weapons, heavy SS-18 missiles, would be eliminated - 154 of them under the Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty of 1991 and now the last 154 under START II.

-The United States would retain seaborn multiple-warhead missiles, assuring its nuclear supremacy.

The treaty is subject to Senate confirmation, and Bush predicted it would be approved.

Bush also said he had kept President-elect Clinton informed on the progress of the treaty negotiations. Clinton has spoken favorably of the accord in general terms.

Bush will meet with Yeltsin in Sochi, on the Black Sea, on Saturday and Sunday. The trip will come at the end of the president's journey to Somalia, where thousands of Marines and other forces are deployed to help expedite the feeding of thousands of starving victims of famine and war.

The president made his comments with Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger at his side. It was Eagleburger's weekend trip to Geneva for a session with top Russian officials that wrapped up the treaty, which had been months in the making.

Anatoly Krasikov, a deputy spokesman for Yeltsin, said early today that Bush and Yeltsin arrive in the Black Sea resort of Sochi on Jan. 2 and sign the treaty the next day.

Bush said the treaty was not a "personal achievement... but I take great pride in this accomplishment because it's a good treaty."

Bush wanted the accord as a final flourish to his arms control achievements, which include the historic START treaty cutting stockpiles by about one-third, and the 1990 East-West accord to reduce tanks and other conventional forces in Europe.

Little more than 24 hours earlier, Eagleburger stood coatless in the chill of Geneva, and said: "We now have, I think, a text that we can put to the two presidents. ... It clearly represents the quality of the new relationship between Russia and the United States.

On the last three issues to be settled both sides gave ground, a senior U.S. official who demanded anonymity said on Eagleburger's flight home.

For months, negotiators were unable to decide what to do about the SS-18 missile silos, the Russians' 170 SS-19 six-warhead missiles and about counting bombers and their warheads under the pact.

Initially, the United States wanted the silos destroyed, but the Russians, arguing that they needed to keep costs down, wanted to keep 154 and use them for now-mobile SS-25 missiles.

The compromise reached in Geneva permits the Russians to retain some of the silos - officials declined to say how many - provided they were converted so they could not house SS-18s again. The others must be destroyed.

The SS-19 issue concerned what is called "downloading," or reducing the number of warheads on a missile.

The Russians wanted to take off five warheads to change their SS-19s into single-warhead weapons. That way they would be able to keep a potent weapon in their arsenal - and not have to go through the expense of producing a new single-warhead missile - while also getting rid of 850 warheads to help them get down to the new overall limit of 3,000 to 3,500 warheads apiece.

The United States, the senior official said, agreed that some of the missiles could be changed to single-warhead missiles - again he refused to say how many - while the others were eliminated.

The compromise on bombers, which the official said involved "excruciating detail," will permit the Russians to keep tabs on which U.S. B-1s and B-52s are armed with conventional instead of nuclear weapons, which are converted back and on how many warheads are aboard.

The treaty, to take effect, will have to be ratified by the Senate.

Pampa clerk disarms knife-wielding robber

PAMPA (AP) - A 6-foot-3, 270-pound former high school football player didn't take it well when a man with a knife came into a sandwich shop, jumped over the counter and demanded money from employees.

Billy Jones, who was working the counter at the Subway sandwich shop, disarmed the man and held him until police arrived.

"I just tried to get (the knife) away from him," said Jones, 30. "It happened really fast."

He added: "Plus, I was scared so that didn't help his advantage any."

Assistant manager Alana Snapp, who was also at the shop, said it took Pampa police just two minutes to arrive at the store. They found Jones had wrestled the knife away and was holding the man on the floor.

Michael Lynn Dubose of Pampa was booked into the city jail on a charge of attempted aggravated robbery, police detective Morse Burroughs said. Bond was set at $20,000. Justice of the Peace Bob Muns said.

No one was injured, but Burroughs wasn't recommending that other people follow Jones' example.

Normally, the officer said, the best thing to do in a robbery is to hand over whatever it is the thief wants.

"I would much rather work a robbery than a homicide," he said.

Highway death toll hits 30-year low

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans are enjoying their safest year on the highways in three decades, federal officials say, as deaths and drunken driving are down and use of seat belts is up.

Transportation Department officials projected Tuesday that when 1992 is over, 39,500 people will have died in motor vehicle accidents - the lowest death toll since 1962.

They also expect the fatality rate based on total miles driven to continue the annual decline it began a decade ago, dropping one-tenth of a percentage point to 1.8 deaths per 100 million miles of vehicular travel.

"We're talking about the lowest fatality rate in history. It's something we all should celebrate," said Marion Blakey, administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Officials attributed much of the decline to increased use of seat belts, encouraged through new state laws and stepped up police enforcement, and a decrease in the incidence of alcohol-related traffic deaths. They did not find any decrease in speed.

Based on figures for the first six months of the year, highway safety officials project alcohol involvement in 45.8 percent of vehicle fatalities in 1992. That would be down significantly from 48 percent last year, and continues a decline from over 57 percent in 1982.

The rate motorists and their passengers used seat belts increased to 62 percent nationally, based on the findings of surveys within each state. That was up from 59 percent in 1991 and just 10 percent a decade ago.

"There truly has been a sea change for the better on seat belts," said Transportation Secretary Andrew H. Card Jr.

Total deaths by motor vehicles has been on the decline since 1988, when the toll was 47,087. The 1992 total, if it holds up, would mark a 5 percent decline from last year's 41,462 deaths.

Happy New Year? 1040 here Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government is preparing to mail its New Year's greetings: 107 million federal income tax packages.

The Internal Revenue Service said Monday that letter carriers will begin delivering the tax forms on Saturday.

Most taxpayers will see little change in the forms, which cost $12 million to print and another $19 million to mail. That's 30 cents a package.

By the time the April 15 filing deadline rolls around, the IRS expects to have received 116 million returns, including 60.5 million from taxpayers using Form 1040. It expects another 18.5 million to use Form 1040A and 16.8 million to return Form 1040EZ.

It anticipates that another 14 million taxpayers will use tax preparers who return forms electronically, rather than by mail. And it's looking for 6.7 million to file returns prepared on home computers using tax preparation software.

The IRS says that half of all taxpayers use the less complicated Forms 1040A or 1040EZ, or an electronic filing format.

Earlier this month, the IRS mailed more than 11 million postcards to farmers and self-employed taxpayers who used a paid preparer last year. The postcard included a pre-printed label and told taxpayers to take the cards to their preparers who will have the necessary tax forms.

The tax rates and, for the most part, the forms will be unchanged from last year.

The basic rate for upper income bracket taxpayers is 31 percent. The rates for the lower brackets remains 28 percent and 15 percent, although the income ranges covered by the brackets have been adjusted to reflect inflation.

There are several significant changes in compiling individual taxes, however.

The standard deduction for people who do not itemize has been raised. For a single taxpayer, it's now $3,600, up from $3,400 last year; for heads of households, it's $5,250, up from $5,000.

The standard deduction for a married couple filing jointly has been raised to $6,000 from $5,700, while the deduction for a married couple filing separately now is $3,000, up from $2,850 last year.

Firefighters called to fire Tuesday

Hereford firefighters were called to a trash fire that got out of control Tuesday just southeast of Hereford off Progressive Road. A resident was burning trash when wind-whipped sparks ignited nearby dry weeds. The fire spread to a nearby junk pile. The fire department was at the scene for almost an hour because items in the junk pile smoldered.

Life!

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: A few years ago, you published an essay which was very thought-provoking. A Harvard law student sent it, saying it would save some lives and give your readers a heightened sense of appreciation for being alive.

The essay was called, "The Quietest Room in Town" and was written in 1955 by Bill Kiley of the old Los Angeles Mirror News. Would you please print it again? -- Northwestern U. Law Student Dear N.U. Law: The essay you have requested made a powerful impression on my readers. I'm pleased to repeat it -- in time for New Year's Eve.

The Quietest Room in Town They have been expecting you. They knew that eventually you'd show up. It won't be possible for you to know what is happening, so I'm going to take the liberty of filing you in.

The beginning for you will be when you stagger to your car. The beginning for them will be when a bulletin goes out on the police radio reporting the location of a serious accident with instructions to "proceed at once."

You won't hear the sirens. The ambulance and the police car will arrive together. They will check you over and pronounce you dead.

A few curious motorists who heard the crash will stop their cars and walk back to look at your broken, bloody body. Some of them will get sick.

The ambulance driver will roll out a leather-covered stretcher. The attendant will stuff your hands under your belt and grab you under the arms. The driver will take hold of your legs. You will be placed on the stretcher and covered with a blanket.

They will drive you to the coroner's office where a deputy coroner will wheel you over to a big scale. He will remove the blanket, shake his head and say, "Another one."

Your clothes will be ut off with scissors. You will be weighed and measured.

The deputy coroner will make a record of your injuries, cover you up again and wheel you to a small room with white tiel walls. There are hoses in that room. Traffic victims are almost always a bloody mess.

You will be cleaned up (as much as possible) and moved to a long hall with several stretchers lined up against its pale green walls. In that hall are 41 crypts. If it has been a slow evening you will have a stretcher and a crypt all to yourself. But it's Christmas, New Year's or Memorial Day weekend, you may have lots of company.

They will go away and leave you there in the quietest room in town.

In an hour or so, they will come back and move you again. You will be placed behind a large glass window so your wife or your husband or your parents or a friend can identify you.

You won't see the agony and pain in their eyes, and it's just as well. Nor will you hear the screams and sobbing when they lower the sheet and ask, "Is this your husband...wife...son...daughter...brother...sister...friend?" As I way saying, they are waiting for you -- the police, the ambulance crews, the coroners at the morgue and the morticians. They are expecting you.

As I was saying, they are waiting for you -- the police, the ambulance crews, the coroners at the morgues and the morticians. They are expecting you.

Remember this tonight, when you toss down that last drink and climb behind the steering wheel.

Bush among '92 honorees

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) - Watching her husband lose his bid for re-election may have been tough, but Barbara Bush kept enough of her cool to top a list of the 10 best-mannered people of 1992.

The first lady was honored for her "grace and charm in a time of transition" by the National League of Junior Cotillions.

Next on the list were tennis great Arthur Ashe, "for dignity in confronting the issue of AIDS," and Queen Elizabeth II, "for her courtly demeanor in the midst of family crisis."

"The selections were based on the manner in which an individual demonstrated social graces," said Anne Colvin Winters, executive director of the Charlotte-based organization.

Rounding out the top 10 were: Olympic gold medalist Kristi Yamaguchi, Peter Jennings, Joe Montana, Oprah Winfrey, Billy Graham, Gen. Colin Powell and singer Amy Grant.

Cold Herd bows to Canyon; Lady Whitefaces fall

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

In the third quarter, Canyon was hot and Hereford was not.

Canyon scored 22 points to Hereford's seven in the third quarter Tuesday and beat the Herd 49-37 in the semifinals of the Canyon Rotary Holiday Boys' Basketball Tournament.

In Kerrville, the Lady Whitefaces couldn't catch up to Fredericksburg and lost 51-41 in the second round of the Texas Basketball Festival.

In Canyon, the Eagles' 22-point third quarter erased Hereford's 21-16 halftime lead. The burst was ignited by sophomore Jason Bentley, who hit three three-pointers in the period, including two on Canyon's first two possessions of the quarter. His layup moments later gave the Eagles a 26-23 lead. His third three-pointer gave Canyon a 33-26 lead.

The quarter ended with the score at 38-28. Richard Sanderson scored all seven of Hereford's points in the quarter.

"They have a good ballclub, but they didn't shoot the ball at all in the first half," Herd coach Joe Main said. "I knew they'd make a run."

Hereford hit only 14-of-51 shots in the game (.275), and hit none of its 11 three-point attempts.

"Every time you don't score, it makes it easier for your opponent to score," Main said. "When your shots don't fall, it makes you look like you're not playing well, and it gets your head down."

Hereford also was hurt in the second quarter by a controversial call and a pair of technical fouls after the ensuing argument, though Main said the episode didn't cause either the poor shooting or the loss.

Hereford led 19-10 when

Sanderson was called for a 10-second violation in the backcourt. He was upset because he wasn't being pressured and was inches from the timeline. Both Sanderson and Main were hit with technical fouls before play resumed. Canyon's Jeremy Brandt hit three of the four free throws to pull within 19-13.

Main said the technicals didn't change the game that much because Canyon had already started a run at the time. The Eagles had used a timeout when Hereford took a 16-5 lead and came out of it playing well.

He also said the Herd didn't dwell on the call at halftime in the lockerroom.

The Herd was led by Sanderson's 17 points. Kyle Hansen added 12. Sanderson grabbed seven rebounds, including five defensive rebounds in the first quarter alone as Canyon was held to five points. Hansen also had seven rebounds, and Tim Burkhalter had six.

Hereford, now 6-8, meets Snyder for third place today. Snyder was a 67-51 loser to Highland Park in the other semifinal.

In Kerrville, the Lady Whitefaces also will have to settle for a chance to play for third place. Fredericksburg, the No. 6 team in Class 3A, took a 12-10 lead after one quarter and extended it to 24-18 at halftime, but Hereford made up three points in the third quarter. That wasn't enough, though, and Fredericksburg hit its free throws down the stretch.

"We played really well, but our offense was a little out of sync," coach Loy Triana said. "We had to foul them in fourth quarter to get the ball, and they hit 13-of-19 free throws. We were within three, but an intentional foul call and a three-point play really hurt us."

"We played really well defensively, and played real hard throughout the game. We are playing really well and staying in ballgames against some really good teams."

Misty Dudley led the team with 15 points, and Stephanie Wilcox added 12. Hereford is now 2-12.

Hereford was to play Copperas Cove early today. The winner of that game meets Kerrville Tivy tonight for third place.

Teaff's finale is made for television

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Retiring Baylor coach Grant Teaff says his decision to coach in Thursday's John Hancock Bowl was partly influenced by the power of television.

Teaff says he was prepared to allow his successor and offensive coordinator Chuck Reedy lead the Bears (6-5) against Arizona (6-4-1) in the New Year's Eve bowl game. But Teaff says CBS, which is televising the game, the Hancock Bowl and Baylor's administration caused him to reconsider his retirement following the Bears' 21-20 upset of Texas on Nov. 21.

"I said I would be glad to let Chuck assume the coaching duties," Teaff said before leaving Waco to begin practice in El Paso. "But that's not what the university wanted, what the Hancock Bowl wanted or what CBS wanted. It hasn't been easy and it won't be easy. But we will get through it."

Officials at CBS said Tuesday they did not make direct overtures to persuade Teaff to coach in the Hancock Bowl, although they acknowledge it has been an asset for marketing the game.

Once learning that Teaff would remain coach, CBS began showing commercials promoting the story line of his last game.

Pre-game television features are also expected to highlight Teaff's 21-year career at Baylor, where he helped bring along future NFL stars as Mike Singletary, Cody Carlson, Dennis Gentry and James Francis.

"It would be news to me that we would have that much influence over whether a coach stays on or not," said Lou D'Ermilio of CBS in New York.

"Maybe somebody told him (Teaff) that (CBS wanted to televise his last game) somewhere down the line, but I have no idea."

Hancock Bowl officials don't mince words about wanting Teaff to hang on. The bowl's marketability is a major concern considering Baylor and Arizona come from relatively small television markets.

"Normally, with two small markets we might be concerned about TV numbers," said Tom Starr, interim director of the Sun Carnival Association that organizes the bowl. "But there are some things that might offset that, including this being coach Teaff's last game."

While Teaff stays in place for one more game, Reedy has had to juggle coaching responsibilities on and off the field.

"We have put the premium of hiring coaches on the back burner until after the bowl game and it has put us a little behind as far as getting people on the road recruiting," Reedy said. "But being in the Hancock Bowl and the publicity surrounding that outweigh the negatives."

Teaff acknowledges the past few weeks have been awkward.

"It's good that it's family taking over," Teaff said. "I think it would be different if someone else was waiting in the wings. Chuck is the offensive coordinator and will be involved immensely in this game."

Reedy has hired a secretary and has begun interviewing candidates for his staff.

"We have got seven guys that are either hired or are committed to come. We have in mind the other two. We will make announcements after the bowl game."

Irish's DuBose knows how Hill feels

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Notre Dame senior linebacker Demetrius DuBose can empathize with Texas A&M sophomore running back Greg Hill who has been exiled from the Cotton Bowl.

Hill, a third-team Associated Press All-American and the Aggies leading rusher, was ruled ineligible after an A&M investigation of summer jobs.

DuBose missed the first two games of the 1992 season after the NCAA found he accepted a $600 loan from a family with Notre Dame ties.

"I know exactly how Greg feels," DuBose said. "It's an uncomfortable situation. But he can look at it as a learning experience just like I did and go on with his career."

DuBose said it killed him to miss the Notre Dame games against Northwestern and Michigan.

"I tried to watch the Northwestern game on television with friends and I was real moody," DuBose said.

"Then I went to the Michigan game and it was the worst, particularly when the fans started booing at the end," he said.

When DuBose rejoined the team he said "I felt like an outcast. My teammates were pretty good about it, though. They didn't want to talk about it and just wanted to play ball."

DuBose said he thinks A&M won't lose much without Hill because of the presence of Rodney Thomas.

"He's a hard-nosed ballcarrier," DuBose said of Thomas who scored 13 touchdowns and gained over 800 yards.

DuBose said Notre Dame needs to defeat the Aggies to get the respect the Fighting Irish deserve.

"We've heard all that talk about

Cowboys pick up pair of tight ends

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys have filled the void left by an injury to reserve tight end Alfredo Roberts by signing tight end Derek Tennell, 28, a five-year veteran who played four games this season for the Minnesota Vikings.

Also Tuesday, the Cowboys added another tight end, 6-4, 272-pound rookie Milton Biggins, 23, to their practice squad.

how the Cotton Bowl should have taken Florida State but I think we have every right to be here with the tough schedule we played," DuBose said. "We heard the same thing when we played Florida last year in the Sugar Bowl."

In the Sugar Bowl, the running joke was "what's the difference between Cheerios and Notre Dame? Answer: Cheerios belong in a bowl."

The Fighting Irish then defeated

Florida 39-28.

"The difference this time is that Florida didn't want to play us and A&M does want to play us," DuBose said. "They didn't really care who the Cotton Bowl committee picked. The A&M players have been great."

DuBose said if the undefeated Aggies win they should be national champions no matter what happens between Miami and Alabama in a clash of unbeaten.

Ags' Hill won't turn pro

HOUSTON (AP) - Suspended Texas A&M sophomore running back Greg Hill says he will return to the Aggies and not enter the National Football League draft at the end of the season, according to a published report.

The Houston Post today reported that Hill said, "There's no way I would do that right now."

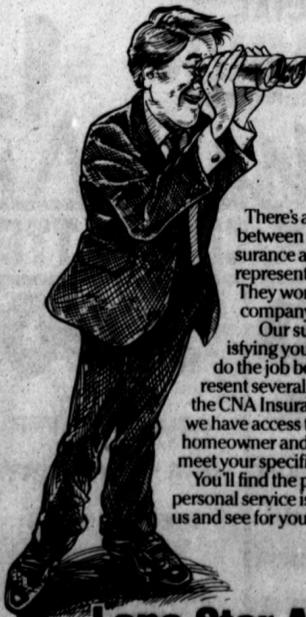

Hill and three other Texas A&M players were suspended Christmas night following revelations concerning possible NCAA rules violations involving summer jobs.

"The smart thing for me is to simply stay in school and that's what I plan to do," Hill said. "Everything will work out."

A&M Coach R.C. Slocum said, "I've talked to Greg and I've talked to his mother and I'm convinced that he'll stay at A&M. His mother is adamant about him not going pro right now. He's not ready, he knows it."

The Aggies, 13-0, face Notre Dame Friday afternoon in the Cotton Bowl game at Dallas.

Kings blow out hapless Mavs

By The Associated Press

There won't be many such nights for the Sacramento Kings. There might be a whole bunch of them for the Dallas Mavericks.

In matching the seventh-biggest rout in NBA history, the Kings set a franchise record for victory margin Tuesday night with a 139-81 romp past the Mavericks.

"We played almost a perfect game," Sacramento coach Garry St. Jean said. "Defense made for easy baskets, and I was very pleased with our defense. We had lots of help."

"It's nice to get one like this," added Kings starting forward Wayman Tisdale, who played only 16 minutes and had eight points. "I don't think I've ever been in a game by this margin. I thought we did everything right."

And the Mavericks, as is their wont this season, did everything wrong. Dallas is 2-21, including 11 straight road losses. The Mavs are the NBA's only winless team on the road.

"They got on us early and we kind of got down," said Dallas guard Walter Bond. "The buried us. We are a young team and we have to regroup, but I don't think tonight was indicative of our team."

Oh? Dallas has scored under 100 points in five straight games and has been outscored 2,721 to 2,314 this year. The opposition is averaging 118.3 points against the Mavericks, who are scoring at a 100.6 clip.

The Kings' previous largest margin of victory was 44 points, 146-102 on Dec. 22, 1983, against the Denver Nuggets. Dallas lost at Houston 116-68 on Feb. 4, 1981, its previous worst defeat.

Anthony Bonner scored a career-high 23 points, leading six teammates in double figures. Mitch Richmond contributed 22 points and Walt Williams added 20, including all 14 of his free throws. The Kings won their fourth straight game.

Dallas, which played without starters Derek Harper and Sean

Rooks, both out with right knee injuries, shot 37.6 percent, was outrebounded 57-37 and committed 28 turnovers.

Warriors 132, Rockets 112

At Houston, the Warriors got 32 points and 14 assists from Tim Hardaway in completing a Texas sweep. Golden State outscored Houston 49-28 in the final 15:36.

Chris Mullin had 29 points and Sarunas Marciulionis added 20 as the Warriors shot 63 percent.

SuperSonics 111, Celtics 87

Seattle improved its home record to 13-1, tied for best in the league. The Sonics' victory before 36,431 at the Kingdome was their sixth in the past seven games and was paced by Derrick McKey's 20 points.

Six Sonics scored in double figures. Gary Payton had 18 points and nine assists.

The Celtics equaled their season-low point total in losing their third straight.

Bulls 114, Hornets 103

Michael Jordan doesn't particularly enjoy playing NBA games back in North Carolina, his home state. He managed just fine, though, with 28 points, 12 rebounds and 11 assists to lead the Bulls to their fifth straight victory and eighth in nine starts. Horace Grant added 20 points for the Bulls.

Knicks 97, Pacers 91

At New York, Greg Anthony, in his first start of the season, scored a career-high 23 points for the Knicks. Patrick Ewing scored 24 of his 29 points in the second half.

The Pacers got a season-high 16 points from rookie Malik Sealy, who played at nearby St. John's.

Cavaliers 114, Hawks 96

At Atlanta, Brad Daugherty and Larry Nance each scored 22 points and the Cavaliers shot nearly 60 percent. Stacey Augmon led the Hawks with 25 points.

Wolverines nip 'Heels at buzzer

By CHRIS SHERIDAN

AP Sports Writer

It was one of the greatest games of the year between two of the best teams in the country, yet almost nobody saw it.

It was No. 5 Michigan vs. No. 6 North Carolina on Tuesday night in the semifinals of the Rainbow Classic. The Wolverines won 79-78 when Jalen Rose rebounded a missed shot and put in a short jumper at the buzzer.

The game was not televised by a national network, and it wasn't even shown in the largest market in Michigan.

It was syndicated by Prime Network and was shown in only 15 markets - with a total possible viewing audience of 27 million - about one-tenth of the country. ESPN, the network that regularly televises college basketball nationwide, showed the Freedom Bowl football game instead.

What basketball fans missed was one of the few games each year that lives up to expectations. It was the first regular season matchup ever between the two schools and ended with a frenzied finish worthy of March Madness.

"It was a great game to watch if you didn't care who won," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said.

"We hung in, played hard and got lucky," Michigan coach Steve Fisher said.

There were three upsets in the Top 25 Tuesday night: James Madison topped No. 19 California 90-75, Southwestern Louisiana beat No. 20 Nebraska 109-80 and Oregon State defeated No. 25 Brigham Young 93-79.

Elsewhere in the Top 25, No. 2 Kansas defeated Hawaii 94-66, No.

7 Seton Hall crushed Cornell 75-59, No. 13 Purdue edged Texas-El Paso 63-61, No. 14 Georgia Tech downed Youngstown State 105-85, No. 15 Oklahoma crushed Alaska-Anchorage 102-70, No. 17 Michigan State beat New Hampshire 81-51, No. 21 Cincinnati beat Dayton 65-55, No. 23 Connecticut beat Hartford 91-66 and No. 24 Vanderbilt topped Bowling Green 96-69.

No. 2 Kansas 94, Hawaii 66

Kansas took control early against the Rainbows and had a 21-point halftime edge. Eric Pauley matched his career-high with 23 points.

No. 6 Michigan 79,

No. 5 North Carolina 78

Rose made two huge plays in the final 35 seconds. Derrick Phelps led given North Carolina a 76-75 lead with 1:15 left with two free throws. Rose heaved an alley-oop pass to Chris Webber, who converted for a 77-76 lead. After Donald Williams scored for the Tar Heels, Rose rebounded Jimmy King's missed baseline jumper and sank the game-winner as time expired.

No. 7 Seton Hall 75, Cornell 59

At East Rutherford, N.J., Seton Hall opened the game with a 15-0 run and it should have been all over. But Cornell closed to 65-54 with 4:24 to play before Arturas Karnishovas hit a drive and a free throw to ignite a 10-2 burst.

No. 13 Purdue 63, UTEP 61

At El Paso, Texas, Matt Waddell hit an 18-foot jumper at the buzzer to give Purdue the championship of the Sun Carnival Classic.

No. 14 Georgia Tech 105,

Youngstown State 85

At Atlanta, Malcolm Mackey scored 19 of his 26 points in the second half as Georgia Tech broke open a game that was tied at halftime.

No. 15 Oklahoma 102,

Alaska-Anchorage 70

The 15th-ranked Sooners, ahead by just six early in the second half, used a 20-6 run to pull away in the All College Tournament at Oklahoma City.

Cowher voted as coach of year

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Pittsburgh Steelers coach Bill Cowher needed just one season to accomplish what predecessor Chuck Noll never did in 23 seasons: win the NFL Coach of the Year award.

Noll, who retired a year ago, remains the only coach to win four Super Bowls but was never named coach of the year, a fact that Cowher almost couldn't believe.

"Don't tell me that," he said. "You'll make me feel bad."

Cowher - at age 35, barely a year older than some of his players - again has Pittsburgh feeling good about a team was a dynasty in the 1970s but has been mostly a disaster since, making the playoffs only once from 1985-91.

Cowher, the second youngest coach in the NFL, received 23 of 79 votes from a nationwide panel of media members to edge San Diego's Bobby Ross, who got 20.

A Pittsburgh native, Cowher took basically the same team that was 7-9 in 1991 to an 11-5 record, the AFC Central Division championship and the top seed in the AFC playoffs.

The Steelers enjoyed their best season since 1979, when they were 12-4 in the last of their four Super Bowl seasons. Only four other times in their 60-year history have the Steelers won as many as 11 games in a season. Cowher, formerly the Kansas City Chiefs defensive coordinator, came to Pittsburgh last January talking of winning championships and restoring the Steelers to an elite status in the NFL.

"The thing that impressed everybody was that he knew just what he wanted and where he was going," said Steelers president Dan Rooney, who chose Cowher over Dallas Cowboys defensive coordinator Dave Wannstedt.

Cowher also knew where the Steelers hadn't been regularly - to the playoffs.

"We set high standards and we talked about winning championships," he said.

Cowher needed less than one quarter of his first game to prove he was a much different coach than Noll, who was more of an old school, play-it-by-the-book coach than the more-contemporary Cowher.

The Steelers, 13 -point underdogs, trailed Houston 14-0 in their opener when Cowher called for Mark Royals to pass on a fake punt. His completion to Warren Williams keyed the Steelers' comeback in a 29-24 upset and generated momentum the Steelers would ride for weeks.

"That's the first time we've ever had the turning point of the season in the first quarter of the first game," All-Pro cornerback Rod Woodson said.

"That gave us a sense of confidence that maybe we didn't have before," Cowher said. "From there, we kind of fed off it."

The Steelers survived a difficult first-half schedule that saw them play at home just twice to open 6-2, then shook off a two-game losing streak to beat Cleveland 23-13 and clinch home-field advantage throughout the playoffs.

Cowher accomplished the one-year turnaround with a quarterback (Neil O'Donnell) who was benched late last season by Noll and with a running back (Barry Foster) who was often ignored by former offensive coordinator Joe Walton.

Ross rallied the Chargers to the AFC West championship and 11-5 record from an 0-4 start. Two more first-year head coaches, Mike Holmgren of Green Bay and Dennis Green of Minnesota, were next in the voting. Holmgren received 9 votes and Green was named on eight ballots.

San Francisco's George Seifert earned seven votes, followed by Ted Marchibroda of Indianapolis with six, Jimmy Johnson of Dallas with five and Jim Mora of New Orleans with one-half vote.

Odessa's Barnett epitomizes student-athlete

By SEAN McAFEE
The Odessa American
ODESSA, Texas (AP) - Kris Barnett, an 18-year-old Odessa High senior, sits on a bench in one of the Bronchos' locker rooms, motionless as a photographer takes what must seem like a hundred pictures of him. Strangely, the flash from the camera, less than six feet away, has no effect on him. Not once does he blink.

For Barnett, who, in addition to being a two-sport athlete at OHS, also is an honors student with a 5.03 grade-point average (fifth in his class), the ability to keep his eyes (and ears) open translates into a promising future.

More and more frequently in recent years, as a different professional athlete signs a multi-million dollar contract every day (or so it seems), the trend among high school athletes is to view their participation in sports as the path to fame and fortune. Even the thought of using athletics as a means to obtain a college education isn't the priority it once was. But for the vast majority, it amounts to nothing more than a dream.

The definition of the student-athlete as one who balances athletic activity with academics becomes less and less valid each time another football or basketball player leaves college early to become the latest addition to the ranks of millionaire professional athletes.

But Barnett fits the mold of what a student-athlete was meant to be when the phrase was coined. And it's his abilities in the classroom rather than on the football field or basketball court on which he is relying to chart his future, even though he isn't quite sure what that future holds.

"I'm definitely going to get a college degree," said Barnett, who currently considers Texas Tech and Angelo State as the top prospects for his post-secondary education. "But it bothers me that I don't know what I'm going to do yet. I don't lay awake at night or anything, but I don't want to wait until it's too late.

"Probably it'll be something to do with math. Engineering is kind of what I'm leaning toward. I thought about law, but it's not as great a field as it used to be; it's overpopulated. But you can always use engineers for something."

Regardless of the direction Barnett chooses to take in applying himself to a career, he is laying a solid foundation for the future now. His schedule includes honors calculus and honors computer science.

It's honors courses that have allowed Barnett to attain a GPA higher than the supposed 4.0 maximum. Honors courses are weighted such that the grades given in them count for more than a regular course.

To maintain such a gaudy GPA is an accomplishment in itself. To do so while committing a generous portion of time to first football and then basketball is even more impressive.

And, in addition to academics and athletics, Barnett is active in the OHS student council - he's the chaplain - and participates in the youth choir at the First Baptist Church as well as being part of the church's youth leadership team.

By any standards, Barnett has a full plate.

"Discipline is what it all centers around," Barnett said of his ability to juggle his various commitments. "Plus my teachers are real supportive and flexible about school-sponsored activities. If school started slipping, I'd give up some of the athletics, but it hasn't been a problem I've run into. Academics has to come first. It's the key ... the key to my future."

Certainly Barnett is like any other high school student in that class isn't always where he'd most like to be. But unlike the majority, he keeps his mind from wandering ... most of the time, that is.

"Enjoy school? Parts of it," Barnett said. "I get bored like the next guy. But I guess it's discipline that keeps me tuned in. Where you get in trouble is when you tune out and don't hear what the teacher is saying."

"You've got to be organized about it, keep ahead in classes, the main thing is to pay attention and do the work in class. Not that I don't fall asleep every once in awhile, but it makes it tougher when you finally get to your homework at 10 at night and think, 'How am I going to do this calculus?'"

The ability to listen serves Barnett well outside the classroom, as well.

"Kris is one of those guys coaches wish all their players would strive to be like," Odessa head basketball coach Greg Baucom said. "Having a guy like that in your program is an asset. The thing that fascinates me is he has a heck of a memory, which translates

Costly Yearling

NEW YORK (AP) - One of the riskiest ventures in sports is laying out a lot of money for a thoroughbred yearling, who is not eligible to race until one year later.

The all-time record for purchasing a yearling was established on July 23, 1985, when a bay colt named Seattle Dancer went to Robert Sangster of England for $13.1 million at the Keeneland Sales.

Seattle Dancer did not race until he was a 3-year-old in 1987. That year he raced five times, winning twice, finishing second once and third once. His total earnings came to less than $150,000. He was then retired to stud.

to success for him. What he lacks in talent he makes up for in effort and having that factor there you've got to have, and that is playing smarts, so to speak."

Barnett's role in the Bronchos' scheme takes advantage of those playing smarts. Usually the first person off the bench, it's Barnett's job to get the ball to either Steven Thornton or Aaron Rogers, the Bronchos' primary scoring threats. After that, it's his job to clean the glass and take out the garbage, also known as rebounding. He is a hybrid: A point guard in a forward's body playing in the paint. Call him a point-post.

"We don't have anybody we can count on for 10 rebounds a game," Baucom said. "But we can count on Kris to get the ball to Steve and Aaron, and one way or another he'll get it to them. He's strictly playing a role. We're not counting on him for rebounds and points, per se, his role is to use his head, and he's good at doing it.

"He's a valuable factor in making us a patient-oriented type of offense, which is what we're looking for. He's not gonna put it up unless there's someone underneath, not like a lot of other guys who shoot just for the sake of it."

Like any other high school athlete, Barnett would love to be the kind of player who starred in high school, college and then went on to sign a lucrative professional contract. But Barnett is a realist, not a dreamer, and he knows which side of the toast his butter is spread upon.

He wouldn't trade his mental gifts for all the athletic ability in the world. "Athletics can be taken away from you so easily with an injury of anything," Barnett said. "No way would I trade. I guess a severe illness or a stroke or something could take away my mental ability, but it's far less likely.

"I've played my last football game. It's not easy, but I can live with it."

Barnett still has a few basketball games left in him, however, something for which Baucom is thankful.

"Kris leads by example," Baucom said. "By quiet example. It's all part of his character, who he is. It's a different kind of leadership and kids respect that, unless their brains are fried."

"He's a class act and he backs it up. He's not a talker, he doesn't come out and say, 'I'm gonna do this and I'm gonna do that.' He just goes and does it, real quietly. He has helped a team that hasn't played a whole lot together. He's the glue. A whole lot of it."

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - Members of Lefthanders International are excited that Bill Clinton - a lefty - will be going to the White House. But then, they would have been happy no matter who won this year.

President Bush and Ross Perot are also southpaws.

"There was no way you could lose," said the organization's spokesman, Kim Kipers.

The group's 30,000 members named Clinton Lefthander of the Year in the new issue of Lefthander Magazine. Also honored: Whoopi Goldberg, Jerry Seinfeld, Billy Ray Cyrus, Martina Navratilova and baseball player Ken Griffey Jr.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) - British actor Tim Roth has landed the role of Charles Starkweather in a TV miniseries about the mass murderer.

Roth, whose credits include "Reservoir Dogs" and "Vincent and Theo," was "the only actor that walked in the room that convinced us he could play the evil of Starkweather," producer Michael O'Hara said.

Starkweather, who in 1959 became the last person to die in Nebraska's electric chair, was "basically the devil," O'Hara said. Starkweather and an accomplice killed 11 people in two states in 1958.

The docudrama, which begins filming in Dallas next week, also stars Brian Dennehy, Randy Quaid and Milo O'Shea. It is scheduled to air on ABC in May.

Senior citizens have special water needs

Americans are not only living longer but more and more of them are concerned about staying active and healthy.

There are more than 31 million Americans age 65 or older, 71 percent of whom assessed their health as better than fair in a recent survey, according to the American Association of Retired Persons.

Eating a balanced diet and exercising are two physical fitness components that most people think of—and they apply to seniors as well as younger people. But many neglect to include the role of water in maintaining health. Next to air, it's the substance humans need most.

Seniors have special water needs. The body of an older person cannot react as quickly to changes in heat and cold as a younger person, making him or her more susceptible to heat stroke and other ailments triggered by dehydration. And because the body's thirst mechanism doesn't work as well when a person ages, an older person may not realize that his or her body is becoming dehydrated and needs water.

For older people with constipation problems, water helps with both digestion and elimination. It also increases endurance and energy levels, facilitates muscular and nervous activity and regulates body temperature.

Doctors recommend drinking six to eight glasses of water a day. And many say you should consume a glass of water about 20 minutes before exercising and 20 minutes after.

If the quality or taste of your area's tap water is preventing you from drinking more water, consider installing a water treatment system in your home. Such systems remove not only unpleasant tastes and odors but undesirable chemicals and minerals like lead and copper. For seniors concerned about sodium levels in their drinking water, reverse osmosis and distillation treatment systems can reduce or remove sodium, too.

Many people who use a water treatment system find that it not only makes tap water taste better, but it makes everything made with water—from coffee and tea to soups and cooked vegetables—taste more flavorful.

Free booklet offers investment advice

Albert Einstein considered compound interest - the idea of receiving interest on interest - to be "the most amazing mathematical phenomenon."

When applied today to investing, the same phenomenon can yield spectacular results, and it doesn't require the genius of Einstein to understand.

"Dollar cost averaging, as the concept is known on Wall Street, helps an investor avoid some of the bumps and bruises that result from a fluctuating market," said Sheila Horn, spokeswoman for American Capital Management and Research Inc. of Houston.

In essence, it involves investing a given dollar amount on a monthly, quarterly or yearly basis, regardless of the stock market's moves, and letting the investment compound.

"This simple principle works by allowing investors to buy more shares when prices are low and fewer shares when prices are high," Horn said. "Rather than timing the market ups and downs, you turn them into an advantage."

Compound interest is widely recognized as one of the most reliable ways to turn a modest investment into a solid nest egg. For instance, investing $1,000 a year - less than $20 a week - at a 10 percent annual return will yield $108,182 in just 25 years.

American Capital has an eight page booklet, complete with tables showing market fluctuations and rates of return, to show how this principle can work for any investor.

For a free copy of "Guide to Systematic Long Term Investing," write to American Capital Booklet, P.O. Box 3121, Houston, Tx. 77253-3121, or call 1-800-421-5666.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: How many people really know what AIDS is? I would appreciate it if you would explain how you know you have AIDS. All I've ever heard was how you can contact it, but not what it is, how can it affect you and why. I'm 76 years old.

DEAR READER: If you don't have sex with anyone who is infected with the AIDS virus, don't use any needles that are contaminated with the AIDS virus and don't receive any infected blood or blood products, you won't get AIDS. It is that simple. The risk of getting infected blood or blood products today is extremely low. The AIDS virus can be transmitted from mother to child.

AIDS is often a sneaky disease. It may not cause any symptoms at all when a person is first infected. In others, it causes a flu-like illness within three weeks to three months after being infected with the virus. The symptoms are so non-specific that they could be caused by any number of illnesses.

The acute illness may cause fever, sweats, fatigue, muscle aches, joint aches, headache, sore throat, diarrhea and a rash over the trunk along with swollen lymph nodes. A person might think he has infectious mononucleosis, the flu or any number of illnesses. This acute phase, if it occurs at all, usually lasts less than two weeks. A person may again be asymptomatic. It is after this initial illness that the ELISA test for AIDS becomes positive.

At a later date, a person may begin to lose his immunity. That makes a person susceptible to any number of infectious illnesses that the body's immune system would ordinarily protect one against. The virus may also invade the nervous system. In this latter stage of AIDS, a patient will lose weight and be acutely ill. Until this latter stage of AIDS occurs, the only way it is apt to be detected is with blood tests. That is why screening blood tests are so important if a diagnosis is to be made.

To help you better understand how the virus affects people and how to protect against AIDS, I am sending you Special Report 115, Protect Yourself from AIDS. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/115, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Readers should be aware in advance that this is a very explicit report dealing with exactly how AIDS is transmitted and how it is not.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My daughter was found dead in bed two months ago. She was 23. The death certificate named cocaine intoxication as the cause of death. I have not been able to rest wondering if she was in pain or if she was even aware she was dying. Just how does cocaine kill? Although she seemed tired all the time and her hands shook, she denied using drugs. How I wish I hadn't believed her. Perhaps I could have saved her.

DEAR READER: It is a tragedy that happens all too often. The most likely cause of death from acute cocaine toxicity is a fatal heart irregularity. Other possibilities include a stroke, heart attack and coma. In any case, your daughter was undoubtedly a victim of sudden death, and it is most unlikely that she was even aware of it. Most likely she passed peacefully into unconsciousness.

There is probably nothing you could have done. Cocaine is very addictive, and it is almost impossible to help someone unless they are willing to undergo professional treatment. Often, they are not.

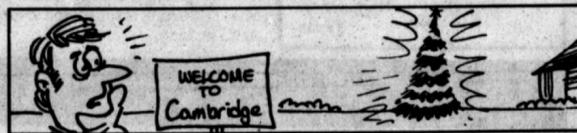

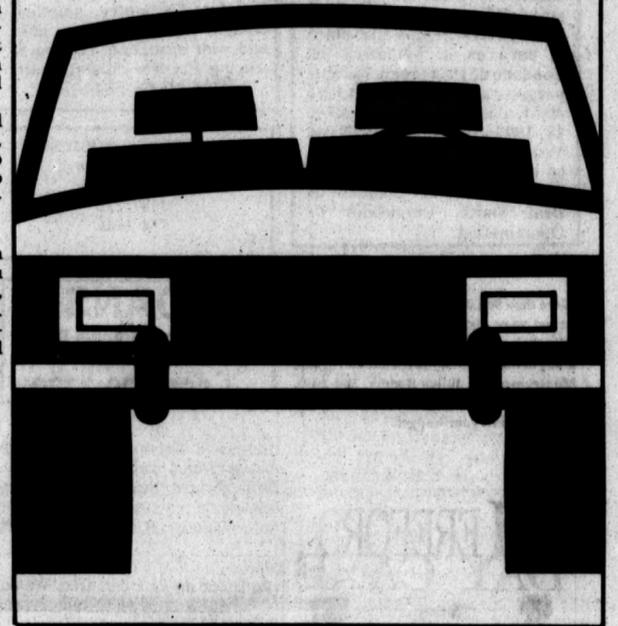

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.
