Huge snow storm socks in Hereford

Almost a foot of snow was expected today as a second winter storm ripped through Hereford and the Panhandle-Plains areas of northwest Texas.

It was the second time in a week that a storm dipped further south than weather experts had figured. Saturday's storm dumped four inches of snow according to the official observation by KPAN. Hereford officially received .65 of an inch of precipitation from the rain that preceded the snow and from the melted snow.

That storm was a mild prelude to the blizzard which virtually shut down Hereford and much of the rest of the region today. By 7 a.m., KPAN had recorded nine inches of snow, and more was expected. All schools in Hereford were closed, with a makeup day later in the school year.

The snow was whipped by winds which gusted over 40 mph at times, dropping visibilities to a few feet along roads this morning. Snow plows and other vehicles from the State Department of Transportation were out as 2:30 a.m. today to try to keep roads clear. Visibility was so bad that it took the plows until 8 a.m. to go from Hereford to Vega and back on U.S. Highway 385. That's a 60-mile round trip.

"There were several cars out, stranded motorists we had to help," said a SDOT spokesperson. "And they just couldn't see. It was very slow going."

Throughout the morning, units from the Department of Public Safety and Hereford Fire Department were out on area highways pulling out vehicles that were in drifts several feet deep. Among the stuck vehicles this morning were two Hereford police cars.

"I wouldn't go out in anything less than a four-wheel-drive one ton truck," said DPS Trooper Darrell Matthews this morning. "That's what I've been in and it's bad enough." Matthews and Hereford Fire Marshall Jay Spain spent the morning retrieving stranded motorists along U.S. Highway 60.

"I don't know how many we've pulled out, but it's been a bunch," Matthews said.

Officials at SDOT and DPS considered closing highways going out of Hereford this morning, but did not. U.S. Highway 60 was closed for a while this morning from Friona to the New Mexico state line because of two jackknifed trucks (including one in Friona), but the highway was reopened as soon as the trucks were clear.

Forecasters predicted the storm would take a more northerly track, but it instead dipped to the south of Hereford before going on a northeast course into Oklahoma, where it was expected to strengthen some more tonight. Predictions of four to six inches of snow in the Hereford area were gone before daybreak in Deaf Smith County.

The storm was expected to gradually taper off during the day today, and weather should be clear through the holiday weekend.

At times Saturday, the storm was a blizzard around here. About noon, officials ordered U.S. Highway 60 closed from Hereford to the New Mexico state line. In places, wind-whipped snow dropped visibility to zero, and snow plows were having difficulty keeping up with the storm late Saturday morning and during the afternoon.

Windy, icy conditions also caused power to go out in parts of Hereford on Saturday afternoon and in a large chunk of rural Deaf Smith and Parmer counties. Crews from Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative were sent scurrying in the snow and icy wind to reset power lines across rural areas.

Snowed in

The house of Sammy Gonzales, 501 N. Lee, is framed in snow after Saturday's storm dumped four inches in Hereford. This morning, the walkway in the front of the home was covered by a huge drift as another storm ripped through the city leaving at least nine inches of snow.

Lotto: still no winner

What if Texas had a lotto and there was never a winner?

That's the case so far. After three drawings. No one has selected the six winning numbers for the jackpot. That means Wednesday's drawing will be worth at least $12 million.

Here are the Lotto Texas winning numbers drawn Saturday by the Texas Lottery:
11-21-24-28-31-46
(eleven, twenty-one, twenty-four, twenty-eight, thirty-one, forty-six)

Lotto Texas tickets are sold at the Allsup's at East U.S. Highway 60 and E. Park and at Town and Country at U.S. Highways 60 and 385.

HELP presents liquor petitions

Petitions bearing the names of at least 1,875 eligible voters in Deaf Smith County were presented to County Clerk David Ruland on Monday, calling for a wet-dry election in Deaf Smith County.

If at least 1,441 of the names are verified by Ruland and Deaf Smith County commissioners, an election will be called for January on whether the county should be wet or dry.

A group calling itself Help Eliminate Liquor Problems (HELP) circulated petitions for almost a month. The group had until today to garner the names of enough voters to force the liquor issue to a referendum.

The group believes curtailing package store sales will cut down on the availability of alcoholic beverages to young people.

If Ruland verifies there are at least 1,441 valid signatures of registered voters on the petitions, commissioners will canvass the petitions at their Dec.

14 meeting and call for an election. An election will probably be called for Jan. 12, with early voting beginning around Dec. 23.

HELP had to obtain at least 1,441 valid signatures because state law says the petitions had to have a number of signatures equalling 25 percent of the local voters in the last (1990) gubernatorial election. The group held a rally on Nov. 2 and had petitions available at all polling places in the county on Nov. 3.

All but the three northwesternmost sections of the county are "wet," allowing package store sales of alcoholic beverages. The county went "wet" in a 1983 election called ostensibly to allow operation of La Escarbada XIT Winery in Hereford. The winery operated here about four years before moving to Randall County. The winery is now closed.

After hearing the TV weather man report a 20 percent chance of snow and predicting Monday night's cold front wouldn't be as bad as the last one, it was a surprise to wake up to a blizzard this morning.

Most of our staff made it to work Tuesday morning, but just getting out of the garage, or driveway, was a real problem for many folks. A number of stores and offices didn't try to open for business. A lot of people in non-essential jobs were told to stay home. That apparently included most governmental offices, except for the post office.

"Kids say the darndest things," according to TV personality Art Linkletter, who became famous by repeating some of the funny things that kids said. The still do, and we've reported a few of them in this column.

We heard another one this week. Nancy Hays was babysitting her 4-year-old granddaughter, and they stayed up a little late. "My, it's past your bedtime," said Nancy. "I hope your mother doesn't get mad at me for keeping you up late."

get mad at old people or those who have trouble remembering things!"

But some of the things kids are saying are not so funny, according to a recent article in the Wall Street Journal. In fact, the report is downright frightening. The story reported that educators across the nation are expressing concern about the language of students--some even as young as kindergarten.

Vulgarity once heard mainly in bar rooms and military barracks are now commonplace in many classrooms. The article tells of a elementary principal in Tampa, Fla., who makes home visits to parents, confronting them with a long list of smutty words used by students.

Some blame the problem on stress in the home as well as the media, movies and video. A newsletter that tracks profanity, sex and violence in films reports that the word "S" was used in nearly three-fourths of PG-13 rated movies, as well as nearly half of those rated PG. The letter concluded, "It's conversation to the characters in the movie, so kids see it as conversation to them."

The principal who shows the dirty words to parents says, "We really have a tremendous number of children today who have not been taught manners or respect for others."

The makers of some films still don't have the foggiest idea of what we're talking about when we mention family values. Nor, apparently, do a lot of parents in today's society!

Grady wins contest; final is this week

Nolan Grady came out on top of a heap of entrants who missed just five games to take first place in last week's Hereford Brand Football Contest.

Grady, Debbie Lewis and Monty Lewis joined a list of persons eligible for this week's grand prize game. The winner of the grand prize game this week will receive $100 in Hereford Bucks. Second place earns $35 in Hereford Bucks, and third will get $15 in Hereford Bucks.

Debbie Lewis finished second in last week's game and gets $15 in Hereford Bucks. Monty Lewis finished third and will receive $10 in Hereford Bucks.

Also missing just five games, but further away on the Lazbuddie-Valley tiebreaker, were Joani Guyer, Raymond Lueb and Gregg Kalka.

Besides the grand prize game, the regular weekly contest is open to anyone who doesn't qualify for the grand prize game. Prizes of $25, $25 and $10, paid in Hereford Bucks, will be available to winners in the regular contest this week.

Other persons eligible for the grand prize game, based on their finishing first, second or third during the year, include Mel Kalka Jr., J.R. Nunnally, Pat Nunnally, Lois Hillwig, Patsy Hampton, Janet Kendrick, Dorothy Grasmick, Mary English, Darrel Dirks, Lewis McDaniel, Brian Heinrich and Glenda Hansen;

Also, Raymond Lueb, Keith Kalka, James Cano, Violeta Valdez, Joey Malamen, Jay West, Larry Cothrin, Debbie Lewis, Bartley Dowell, Justin Scott, Gina Kalka, Daniel Ramos, Dennis Sargent, Margaret Hall, Brant Busby, Francisco Vallejo and David Curriel.

Persons eligible for the grand prize game should use the special box when entering the contest. All other entries go into the orange box for regular entries.

County considers FM 809 work

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN

Deaf Smith County Commissioners, in a brief meeting Monday, approved the advertisement of bids for general insurance, authorized payroll deduction for employees who want additional insurance, approved a resolution pertaining to the county's participation in a road project on FM-809, and voted not to increase contributions to the county's retirement plan.

The regular meeting Monday morning lasted just 40 minutes and also included approval of minutes, payment of bills and acceptance of routine reports.

Three Texas Highway Department officials from Canyon and Amarillo appeared to request county participation on a road project between Dawn and Wildorado. Primary purpose of the project is to widen FM-809, between FM-1062 and FM-2587, where two draws cross the road.

The county's participation would include acquisition of right-of-way and adjustment of utilities. The THD will complete an environmental impact study and apply for state funding, with the work tentatively scheduled for 1994.

After a brief discussion on payroll deductions for insurance, commissioners approved a motion to allow the deducts and provide employee W-5 information to the insurance company.

The county had been informed that retirees under the pension plan could receive COLA increases if the county increased its contribution to the plan. Treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley reported on the rate increase and recommended that the plan remain the same. Commissioners voted to continue the plan as is.

Judge Simons asked the court to approve advertising for bids on general insurance so that companies would have time to prepare bids. The insurance is up for renewal in February.

House voting on new school plan

AUSTIN (AP) - Speaker Gib Lewis says he expects the House on Wednesday to consider a Republican-authored school funding plan, but he doesn't know if it will pass.

"I want everyone to feel that they had their chance to solve the problem, and they had their input considered," Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said after the measure was reluctantly approved Monday by the House Public Education Committee.

Neither Republican nor Democratic committee members said they supported the bill by Rep. Steve Ogden, R-Bryan, as it's currently drafted. But the committee voted 7-0 to send the bill to the full House for debate in an effort to break the partisan stalemate on school funding.

Ogden said his plan would use countywide taxing districts to help fund public education, and it calls for $1 billion in new state spending over the next two years.

Committee members and school representatives said they were concerned that the measure would hurt poor school districts, cost the state too much, force school district consolidation and not pass muster in court. No one testified in favor of it at a public hearing.

"Right now, we are being held hostage by the Republican members of this Legislature," said Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, a committee member.

The Legislature is trying to meet a Texas Supreme Court order to develop a constitutional plan that equalizes funding among property-rich and poor school districts by June 1, 1993. Schools are funded mainly with local property taxes and state aid.

The committee approved Ogden's bill after House Republicans said they wouldn't support a proposed constitutional amendment on school finance unless the Legislature first approves a spending plan they like.

The proposed amendment requires a two-thirds vote of the Legislature to be put before voters for approval, while a spending plan requires only a majority vote to become law.

Republicans, who number 58 in the 150-member House, have the power to block the amendment.

Democratic leaders want a constitutional amendment to allow redistribution of local property tax money and set a standard for school finance equity. They hope that would free the state from continuing court battles.

The House GOP caucus is working with Ogden, said Rep. Talmadge Hefflin, R-Houston. But he said the Republicans haven't voted on endorsing the bill, which also would eliminate most funding supplements for students with special needs. It would allow extra funds for special-education students.

Rep. Tom Craddock of Midland, head of the caucus, last week said the group supports the bill's concepts but that he didn't know if Republicans would necessarily vote for it. He said they were waiting to see the impact on individual school districts.

Gov. Ann Richards, a Democrat, said leaders have worked hard to be accommodating to Republicans.

Puppies visit Northwest

Nine chow puppies visited students in Donita Rule's second and third grade classes on Friday at Northwest Primary School. The students enjoyed carrying the puppies around to share with other classes; later, the children will write about the visitors and their experiences. Rule said that for many of the children, it was their first time to hold a puppy.

News digest

WASHINGTON - Charles DiBona, who represents Big Oil in Washington, didn't mince words when assessing a Bill Clinton White House. It "will mean more, and worse, trouble," the president of the American Petroleum Institute told oil company executives recently. "Once again we are confronted by a leadership that seeks to wean the nation away from oil."

WASHINGTON - The boundaries of presidential privacy are being tested again - from the sorrow of a president at his mother's deathbed to the trivial photographic pursuit of the Clinton family cat, and with everyday episodes in between.

ACROSS THE USA - It's an everyday, dull ache for millions of women, men and especially children poor and out of luck in America. But hunger gets pushed into the glare of Thanksgiving Day need as soup kitchens and pantries feed a growing demand.

WASHINGTON - The CIA tried to funnel $500,000 to a candidate in Iran's 1980 presidential election as the Carter administration worked to free Americans held hostage by Tehran, according to Senate investigators.

WASHINGTON - Iran is buying up weapons left and right, including North Korean missiles and Russian planes, and could pose a threat to the United States and its allies within three to five years, says the director of the CIA.

SUBIC BAY NAVAL BASE, Philippines - The Stars and Stripes are lowered for the last time as the United States closes its largest naval base in Asia, ending nearly a century of military presence in the Philippines.

Probe: CIA was active in Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) - The CIA tried to funnel $500,000 to a candidate in Iran's 1980 presidential election as the Carter administration worked to free Americans held hostage by Tehran, according to Senate investigators.

The secret operation was uncovered during a probe into whether the 1980 Reagan-Bush campaign struck a deal with Iran to delay release of the 52 Americans until after the U.S. presidential election.

In a report released Monday, the investigators concluded the GOP campaign probably did not strike a deal with Iran but was on "the outer limits of propriety" in its dealings on the issue.

Reagan's then-campaign director, the late William Casey, "was intensely involved in the hostage crisis" and probably "conducted informal, clandestine and potentially dangerous efforts" on the campaign's behalf to monitor the hostage situation.

But the most remarkable disclosure in the report stems not from Casey's hostage efforts, but those of the Carter administration.

The covert effort to influence Iran's presidential election, details of which remain classified, arose when U.S. officials contacted a pair of Iranian arms dealers, Cyrus and Jamshid Hashemi, seeking avenues to free the hostages.

Charles Cogan, chief of the Near East and South Asia division of the CIA's clandestine service, met with the Hashemi brothers on Jan. 5, 1980, at a hotel in New York City, according to the report by the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on the Near East.

The Hashemis had promised to put U.S. officials in touch with top officials in the Tehran government, including a family member of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. At the same time, they asked for financial support for Admiral Ahmad Madani, who was running for the new post of president of the Islamic Republic, the report said.

Madani and a Khomeini ally, Abol Hassan Bani-Sadr, had emerged as the leading contenders for the post less than three weeks before the Jan. 25 election.

The CIA decided then to provide $500,000 in cash to the Hashemis for "a sensitive covert operation in Iran," the Senate panel's report said.

Sen. Jim Jeffords of Vermont, the senior Republican on the subcommittee, confirmed that the operation involved election support for Madani, as did intelligence sources.

Cogan, who used a pseudonym when dealing with the Hashemis, attempted to deliver the cash to them at the same New York hotel on Jan. 17. The two businessmen refused the cash and insisted on a wire transfer from a Swiss bank to a bank in London, the report said.

Bani-Sadr won the election in a landslide, and Cogan later determined that $100,000 or less of the money was used for its intended purpose. Cyrus Hashemi later wrote a check for about $290,000 in Iranian funds to Cogan, and delivered it to him at the office of Washington attorney J. Stanley Pottinger for return to the CIA, the report said.

On the investigation's primary focus, the "October surprise" allegations, the panel found insufficient credible evidence to suggest that the campaign negotiated a delay in the hostages' release to ensure Reagan's election.

"The great weight of the evidence is that there was no such deal," concluded the report, which was the result of a limited seven-month investigation.

But the panel also found that Casey's campaign team came dangerously close to improper interference in U.S. foreign policy in its monitoring of the situation.

"In so doing, they were operating on the outer limits of propriety, considering their status as private citizens without authority to interfere in the conduct of the foreign relations of the United States," the report said.

The subcommittee said numerous questions remain unanswered, including the extent of hostage dealings by Reagan operatives between the election and his inauguration. Reagan himself still has not cooperated fully with the investigation, and key documents of Casey, who later became the director of central intelligence and died in 1987, remain unaccounted for, it said.

UN sending armor with relief convoy to Bosnia

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - Relief flights were once again landing in Sarajevo today, reviving the besieged capital's lifeline of food and medicine less than a day after it was suspended by fighting.

Despite sometimes fierce violations of a Nov. 12 truce, the U.N. said it would push harder to get badly needed aid to cities cut off by fighting.

Relief officials announced Monday that armored vehicles would begin on Wednesday to escort aid convoys to two of Bosnia-Herzegovina's most food-starved cities.

"Every week we are attacked, shelled, turned back, diverted," said Jose Maria Mendiluce, the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees' special envoy to Bosnia. "We have assumed a very important responsibility - to keep alive the victims of this conflict during the winter. We will do it."

His announcement came after fighting at Sarajevo's airport forced U.N. officials to cancel the day's last two relief flights. Officials said 15 aid flights landed before the airport was closed.

Only sporadic shooting and shelling was reported in the capital early today but U.N. monitors said 34 rounds fell on the city Monday and 29 landed on Serb positions.

U.N. officers and Bosnia Radio both reported fighting around Travnik, 45 miles northwest of Sarajevo. The radio said Bosnian Croats were sending reinforcements to defend Travnik and nearby Turbe.

The radio also reported fairly heavy fighting at Tuzla and Tesanj.

French Gen. Philippe Morillon, commander of U.N. peacekeepers in Bosnia, told reporters on Monday that he blamed repeated truce violations on extremists on both sides who do not want a negotiated solution.

More than 14,000 people have been killed in fighting that broke out last spring after the republic's majority Muslims and Croats voted for independence from Yugoslavia.

Serb rebels have captured more than 70 percent of the republic, and Croat forces hold much of the rest. The Muslims hold Sarajevo and little else.

In New York, Elie Wiesel, winner of the 1986 Nobel Peace Prize for his writings on surviving Nazi death camps, said in a telephone interview Monday that he will travel to Bosnia-Herzegovina this week to visit prison camps.

He did not want his arrival date publicized for security reasons.

All three warring groups have been accused of purging areas they control of other ethnic groups, but the international community has blamed the Serbs most for creating concentration camps and committing atrocities.

Flag lowered last time at Subic Bay

SUBIC BAY NAVAL BASE, Philippines (AP) - U.S. sailors and Marines joined by thousands of Filipinos wept today as the Stars and Stripes were lowered for the last time over the largest U.S. military base in Asia.

The departure ends nearly a century of U.S. military presence in this former colony and leaves the Philippines free of foreign troops for the first time since the 16th century.

"I was thanking the Americans," said laundry concessionaire Cesar Mascardo, 51, as he cried and placed his hand over his heart. "My family has benefited much from them and this is my way of thanking them."

A few hours later, more than 1,400 sailors and Marines boarded the USS Belleau Wood, a helicopter carrier, and began a 1,000-mile journey to Okinawa, the Japanese island that houses 40 U.S. bases.

The public-address system played "I'm Proud to Be an American" as the ship set off. Dignitaries, Filipino women and retired U.S. servicemen stood on the docks as the ship departed after final embraces.

Earlier, Adm. Robert Kelly, U.S. naval commander in the Pacific, boarded a P-3 Orion plane as the "symbolic last man" to leave. The plane flew low over Subic's flanking hills and dipped its wings in farewell.

"I'm depressed and sad," said one sailor, Dave Headly of Long Beach, Calif. "We had a lot of fun here."

On the eve of the closing, the tawdry bars along Magsaysay Avenue in adjacent Olongapo were largely deserted. The street had long been the scene of some of the Pacific's most raucous nightlife when carrier groups came to call.

Now, about half the bars have closed and many of the dancers, bartenders and others say they plan to leave.

Five other U.S. installations, including Clark Air Base, were turned over to the Philippines last year. In September 1991, the Philippine Senate rejected a new, 10-year lease for Subic and the government gave the Americans until the end of this year to leave.

Donations needed for foster children

Local residents are asked to assist the Golden Spread Foster Parent Association.

Each year, the association solicits donations to fund a Christmas celebration for local foster children. Although foster families are reimbursed monthly for the day-to-day needs of foster children, there is no allocation for the added expense of Christmas.

Funds received will be used for a Christmas party (including Santa) for all the foster children in Deaf Smith, Oldham, Palmer and Castro counties. Any excess money will go to help these children throughout the year with special needs such as band, sports or extra school events.

Those interested in making donations, which are tax deductible, are asked to contact Dee Hernandez at 364-8527 or Cindy Hall in Adrian at 1-538-6303. You can also make a direct deposit at Hereford State Bank or mail the contribution to P.O. Box 645, Hereford, Texas 79045.

The association would also greatly appreciate any donations of food, paper plates, etc., to help with the Christmas party.

An individual may also sponsor a child. One does not need to be a foster parent in order to be affiliated with the group.

Anyone interested in becoming a foster parent or in providing support for existing foster homes is invited to attend any of the association's monthly meetings which are held on the third Tuesday of each month at the Hereford Community Center.

Portraying historical characters

Members of the Hereford Home School Group met recently at Deaf Smith County Library. The children came dressed as historical characters such as Buffalo Bill Cody, Lewis and Clark, Charles Lindberg, Leif Erikson, Pocahontas and Betsy Ross. The group meets monthly at the library.

Wyoming is nicknamed "The Equality State" because Wyoming women were the first in the nation to vote, hold public office and serve on juries.

Hints from Heloise

Q. I remember reading in your column about a window cleaner made up of ammonia and couple of other ingredients. Could you please re-print it? — Anne Roy, Houston, Texas

A. I have a couple of window-cleaning solutions that are great, but the one containing ammonia is a favorite!

Just add a couple of "glugs" of non-sudsy ammonia to a gallon of water and, voila, you're ready to clean those dirty windows. — Heloise

COFFEE FILTERS

Dear Heloise: Recently I was repotting some small houseplants and found a new way to keep fresh potting soil from washing into the pot saucers.

Inserting a coffee filter in the unfilled flower pot first will hold the dirt in while allowing for proper drainage after the pot is filled.

We had been using pieces of paper towel, but coffee filters work much better. — Betty Sweeden, Kirby, Ark.

Hereford puts four on all-district team

Kara Sandoval was named to the first team and Brenda Reeh was named Coach of the Year on the District 1-4A all-district volleyball team.

Named to the second team from Hereford were Angie Jowell and Kathy Hernandez.

Dumas, which finished as district champion but regional runnerup behind the Herd, had seven persons on the two teams. Summer Giffin was voted the district's most valuable player.

The selections were made by vote of the district's coaches.

Sandoval, the Herd's setter, had 728 assists. She had a 91 percent service average, with 56 aces on 411 serves. She also had 176 digs for the Herd, along with 69 kills and 115 good attacks.

"The position she played—she really had to step up into a big role," said Reeh. "Being a defensive player last year and quarterbacking the team this year was a big transition for her. She readily accepted the responsibility that went along with setting. Because of her quickness and overall athletic ability she could take a bad pass and create a good set. She filled a leadership role as she was elected captain by her teammates."

Hernandez led the team with a .213 hitting efficiency. She had 137 kills (a .328 mark) and 233 good attacks (an .885 rate).

"Kathy was our most efficient hitter," Reeh said. "She had very few hitting errors. She was also our secondary setter and our primary blocker against opponents' strongside hitters. I think what's special about her is she has good court sense. She could read defenses very well. She would place the ball according to the opponents' defense to score. She turned into our 'go-to' girl when we needed a kill."

Jowell had 22 aces and 268 good serves for a .932 percentage. She also scored 117 kills (with 41 in the post-season) and 220 good attacks for an .862 percentage.

"We dubbed her as the spark plug of the team," Reeh said of Jowell. "She's only 5-foot-4 but she played like she was 5-10. She was very valuable though district as a passer and a digger, but in the playoffs her hitting effectiveness increased tremendously as well. She was our most consistent server. She basically sparked us throughout the season defensively, which is what we knew we had to have in lots of matches."

Reeh was honored for taking a team decimated by graduation and leading it to district runnerup. The selections were made after the district season and before the Herd advanced to the state semifinals by dumping Dumas.

Basketball called off

Tonight's basketball games involving Hereford teams have been canceled, girls' athletic director Brenda Reeh said.

Both the boys' and girls' varsity teams were scheduled to host Tulsa.

The girls' team (0-2) is scheduled to play in the Turkey Classic Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Frenship High School in Wolforth. The boys (0-2) are scheduled to play at Littlefield at 5:30 Saturday.

Hereford's all-district honorees

Red Oak takes 4A volleyball title

Class 4A juggernaut Red Oak closed out an impressive season with its first state title, blasting Austin Anderson 15-5, 15-13 in the finals of the 1992 University Interscholastic League State Volleyball Tournament Saturday in Austin.

Anderson had beaten Hereford 15-1, 15-6 in the semifinals. It was the Lady Whitefaces' first trip to the state tournament, and each team member came away with a weighty third-place medal. Hereford finished the season at 22-10.

Red Oak won 40 matches and lost only two—one to Austin High, the state champion in Class 5A. Windthorst, East Bernard and Needville also won state titles during the finals Saturday in Toney Burger Center in Austin.

The Red Oak was led in the finals by junior middle blocker Rhonda Rust (six kills and six blocks), senior outside hitter Joy Oliver (four kills and a block), senior middle blocker Amy Rollins (five kills and a block) and senior setter Rhonda Dodd (19 assists).

Dodd was named Class 4A MVP for her efforts in Red Oak's victories against Friendswood and Anderson.

Red Oak lost in the 4A semifinals last year to eventual champion Austin Westlake. The other three schools in the 4A Final Four were making their first appearance in the state tournament.

Anderson was led in the finals by outside hitter Susan Christman and senior middle blocker Stephanie Spruck with eight kills, one block and one assist each. Austin Anderson finished the season at 29-10.

In the Class 5A finals, Austin High completed its first-ever trip to the State tournament with a 15-3, 15-9 hammering of San Antonio John Jay. Austin is coached by Dana Hatch, the former head coach at Amarillo Tascosa.

Led by senior outside hitter Jennifer Orr's 12 kills, the Maroons (30-5) were too much for San Antonio Jay, the defending Class 5A champions.

Orr was named Class 5A Tournament MVP for her performance against Houston Cypress Creek and San Antonio John Jay.

Junior outside hitter Jesilyn Hatch added nine kills and senior setter Ana Nieto contributed 17 assists and four aces, including one on match point for Austin.

The Mustangs (33-5) were paced by sophomore middle blocker Demetria Sance, who posted 18 kills and three blocks.

Amarillo High lost in the 5A semifinals to San Antonio Jay, 15-9, 15-9. The Sandies finished the season at 31-4.

Windthorst won its first-ever Class 1A State championship with a 15-10, 15-1 victory against Tilden McMullen County. The Trojanettes (30-5) were paced by senior middle blocker Jo Beth Schreiber, who had seven kills and three blocks.

Tilden McMullen County (27-7) was led by senior middle blocker Angie King with seven kills. King was voted the Class 1A Tournament Most Valuable Player.

East Bernard, paced by sophomore outside hitter Crystal Kubena's 13 kills, defeated Holliday 15-8, 15-10 for the Class 2A crown. The victory gave East Bernard a record 12th state title in 18 tournament appearances.

Saints defense shuts down Skins' running game

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The New Orleans Saints' game plan was simple - stop what the Washington Redskins do best. Stop the run and don't allow the passing game to connect when it counts.

The Saints (8-3) limited the Redskins (6-5) to 58 yards and only five first downs rushing Monday night, winning 20-3 by holding the defending Super Bowl champions' leading rusher, Earnest Byner, to 29 yards on 13 carries.

Redskins quarterback Mark Rypien completed 21 of 38 passes for 207 yards, but was intercepted once and sacked four times.

"We got super pressure on Rypien," Saints linebacker Vaughn Johnson said. "We had him running around all game long. We didn't allow him to stand back there and beat his feet. We kept coming. We knew we had to do that and hold their runners. From the start we knew that was the job."

The Saints, meanwhile, cranked up their running game for 82 much-needed yards, 29 of them in the fourth quarter to help them run down the clock and protect their lead.

"It didn't feel like we played a lot better than normal," Saints quarterback Bobby Hebert said. "It seemed like we played better last week against the 49ers, and we lost that one. I guess this was better, but it sure wasn't easier. The big difference was our running game was better."

Not great, but better. In last week's game against San Francisco, the Saints only ran for 43 yards and only got nine yards rushing in the fourth quarter.

The Redskins started off tough, holding the ball for 10 minutes and seven seconds in the first quarter, but only coming up with a field goal after offsetting penalties nullified an 18-yard touchdown pass to Gary Clark.

That was the only trip to the end zone Washington was to make.

"It was tough to really say what that did," Rypien said. "We can sit and say it was this and was that. It takes four points away from us."

After a Washington field goal by Chip Lohmiller, New Orleans got going in the second quarter with an 18-yard scoring run by Dalton Hilliard.

Hilliard, who had 13 carries for 54 yards, also caught five passes for 20 yards. New Orleans added a 5-yard touchdown pass from Hebert to Quinn Early to make it 14-3 at the half.

Hebert completed 14 of 18 for 142 yards and a touchdown.

Morten Andersen hit a 43-yard field goal in the third quarter and a 45-yarder in the fourth.

With the defense playing its usual hard-hitting game and the offense moving the ball, scoring points and not making turnovers, the game was not in doubt after the first quarter. Linebacker Pat Swilling said it was more than just another mark in the win column.

"Anytime you just give up three points against the Super Bowl champions, I don't care what anybody says, it's great," Swilling said. "I think the message in this game is that we can play against anybody, anytime, anywhere."

For the battered and battle-weary Redskins, it was another lesson in frustration.

Washington coach Joe Gibbs said his team, with 14 players on injured reserve, just didn't have the people to get the job done.

"We can't make the plays to win it," Gibbs said. "Losing is awful, any way you look at it."

Haley may return for Pokes

IRVING (AP) - Dallas Cowboys pass rushing specialist Charles Haley may be back for the Thanksgiving Day game against the New York Giants, but strong safety Thomas Everett could be sitting on the sidelines.

Haley, who missed the Cowboys 16-10 victory over Phoenix on Sunday with a pulled groin, told Johnson that he should be able to play Thursday.

Everett, who has an injured right shoulder, was listed as doubtful. The Cowboys activated Ray Horton from the injured reserve list just in case.

Injured defensive lineman Jimmie Jones also said he could be back.

The Cowboys (9-2) are cruising toward the playoffs with the crippled Giants coming to Texas Stadium on a short week. Dallas defeated New York 34-28 in the second week of the season, building a 34-0 lead before surviving a late rally.

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson on Monday said the Cowboys expect another close battle with the Giants.

"We blocked two punts and built a big lead, then the Giants came back at us," Johnson said. "Our special teams have to play well again."

Johnson said the Cowboys were happy to have escaped Phoenix, where San Francisco and the Los Angeles Rams fell, with a victory.

"It was one of our big wins. Phoenix gave us a lot of problems. They changed their defense and we had trouble adjusting," he said.

Phoenix concentrated on running back Emmitt Smith and wide receiver Michael Irvin, leaving tight end Jay Novacek and wide receiver Alvin Harper open to do the damage.

"Harper really came through for us with some big catches," Johnson said.

The Giants (5-6) in all likelihood will be without quarterback Jeff Hostetler, who suffered a concussion in a 47-34 loss to Philadelphia Sunday.

That would give rookie Kent Graham his first NFL start and leave rookie Dave Brown as his backup. Brown has not taken a snap in either a regular-season or preseason game.

Johnson said the Cowboys can use a much needed rest after the Giants game.

"The Thanksgiving Day game could really help us this year because we'll get 10 days off for a tough road stretch at Denver, Washington and Atlanta," Johnson said.

"The Thanksgiving game is to our advantage because the other team has to travel. Of course, any home game is an advantage in the NFL."

If the Cowboys win on Thanksgiving Day it will be the 300th victory for the franchise. It would be Johnson's 30th NFL victory.

Oilers blame selves for loss

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers are pointing fingers - at themselves.

Everyone wants to take the blame for Sunday's 19-16 loss to Miami.

Graham to start at QB for Giants

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Kent Graham came to training camp in late July as a longshot to make the New York Giants roster.

Eighth-round draft choices usually don't have much hope of being a team's quarterback of the future.

Graham has beaten the odds though and Thursday it is very likely that the Ohio State product will be the New York Giants starting quarterback against the Dallas Cowboys.

Giants coach Ray Handley on Monday all but ruled Jeff Hostetler out for Thursday's game because of a concussion sustained on Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Hostetler missed the final quarter and a half of the 47-34 loss to Philadelphia after being hit in the face by Mike Golic while completing a pass to Ed McCaffrey.

Hostetler was diagnosed as having a concussion and spent Sunday night at The Hospital for Special Surgery in New York City.

"He still has some of the after effects," Handley said Monday. "I talked with him and he was coherent. It's unlikely he'll be cleared for this week."

Handley said he was not sure whether Hostetler would be released Monday, although a patient information receptionist at the hospital said his records showed that Hostetler was discharged Monday.

Graham had thrown six passes this season before getting the call Sunday. He completed 11 of 26 for 141 yards, one touchdown and one interception while leading the team on two scoring drives.

Now he will probably get his first start, with fellow rookie Dave Brown backing him up.

"I'm sure that if I start, it will be the biggest game I've played in my life," Graham said after running some sprints Monday.

"He's fine," Handley said. "He's a pretty confident kid, with no necessary emphasis on the word kid. He did a good job when he went in. He took a few pretty good pops as soon as he went in and responded well and stood in there."

The one thing that impressed most people was Graham's arm strength and his poise against an Eagles' rush secured by Pete Stoyanovich's 52-yard field goal with two seconds left.

Al Del Greco wanted to kick himself for missing a 41-yard field goal that would have given the Oilers a late lead. Leonard Harris said he should have caught a pass in the end zone late in the game.

But it all came down to another blown fourth-quarter lead for the Oilers, who dropped to 6-5 heading into a Thanksgiving Day game in the Silverdome against Detroit.

Del Greco and Harris both thought they could have made a difference.

"The wind was in my face and that's a tough wind," Del Greco said. "I can't hit the ball much better than I did this one. When I looked up, I thought sure it would be good."

In addition to Del Greco's crucial miss on Sunday, he missed a 39-yarder wide left in the final second of a 21-20 loss to Pittsburgh on Nov. 2.

"I know there are a lot of people in Houston who think I should be gone, but I did make some other kicks," Del Greco said. "I just missed the big one."

Harris, subbing for injured Ernest Givins, caught four passes for 59 yards against the Dolphins, but he fell in the end zone trying to catch a Cody Carlson pass.

"I cost us the game," Harris said. "We've had so many games just like this when one big play could make a difference. But players have to step up and make those plays when they have a chance."

"Today was my turn and I didn't do the job," Carlson, who replaced the injured Warren Moon, had little time to consider the loss.

"After this kind of game, your emotions are all over the place, but you can't afford to let yourself get worn down mentally," Carlson said.

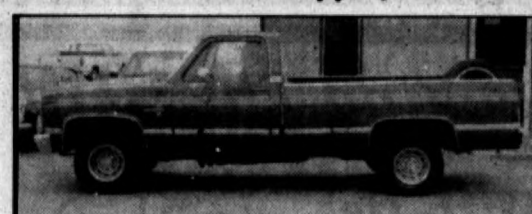

"We've played good and bad games indoors and outdoors. We did everything that you could ask. We played hard. There was wind but you can't blame it on being outdoors."

Added defensive end Sean Jones, "We've dug ourselves such a deep hole, we're going to have to make a deal with the devil just to get out. We're going to have to pray to the loss fairy that other teams lose."

Between the Covers

BY JOE WEAVER

"Do you have Sex at the library?"
The caller's voice was familiar, but I couldn't quite place it.

"No, we don't...and we don't have the new book by that title, either!"

The laugh on the other end of the line tipped me off. The caller was Speedy Neiman (or Nieman...or Neimann...I worked for the man for three years, but never did learn how to spell his name). Fortunately, he perceived that I was making an attempt at humor, but I never did find out if he was asking about the book to see where his tax money was going, or if he was planning to do some...uh...research. At any rate, we don't have it, and have no plans to get it. In the Sunday Brand of Nov. 15, Austinite Jack Chambers wrote, in a guest editorial, that librarians must make choices on what their libraries will acquire. He is absolutely right. Much more comes down the pike than we could ever possibly buy--some of it really good, so why should we waste our time, effort, and money on something really bad?

Many factors are considered in each decision--how much does it cost? will our patrons use it? is the information in other books we already have? We try to accommodate our patrons to the best of our ability, which is not always easy--you are a diverse bunch! But it has never been easy. No librarian would spend hard-won funds on books that won't be read, yet often I come across an old book that has never been checked out. Just because a book tops the best-seller list today doesn't mean that it's a good investment of your money.

We do the best we can.

Naturally a library the size of ours can't have everything its patrons want, but fortunately there is Interlibrary Loan (ILL). With ILL you have virtually any book within reach and the cost is minimal. Another service that makes your library a good deal is reciprocal borrowing--which means you can use your Deaf Smith County card at any member library in the Panhandle. We often see cardholders from Friona, Dimmitt and Amarillo. Your card provides you the services of a university library (at West Texas State University, or whatever they're calling it now), two college libraries (Amarillo College and TSTC), and the entire Amarillo Public Library system. Not all items are available for reciprocal checkout (videos, for example), but most are, and if you're a frequent traveller to one of our neighboring communities, you may want to take advantage of reciprocal services.

Speaking of area libraries...and since this is Thanksgiving season...we owe a lot to the far-sighted people who have supported our library through the years. Many visitors remark on how large and "nice" our facility is. Consider the meeting rooms (large enough to hold a couple of hundred people), our fully equipped kitchen (thanks to the home extension folks), audio-visual equipment, and the overall size (almost 20 years in this building and still lots of room to expand). This past year we have gone into the community more with educational programs. Thanks to all of you who help in some way--donations of cash, books or services...you who return books in the same condition you found them...who pay overdue fines without grumbling...who have a kind word for those who check them out. We appreciate you.

I'm thankful, too, for our displayers. Steven Sims, 11-year-old son of Richard and Melody Sims, is allowing us to display his Micro Machines which he has been collecting for a number of years. If you think these are just a bunch of little cars, you have another "think" coming! Cars, yes, but also trucks, motorcycles, farm equipment, even submarines! His favorites are the models he has assembled. Steven is a fifth-grader at Community Christian School.

NEW BOOKS: The Volcano Lover--a romance by Susan Sonntag--eight weeks on the bestseller list;

My Life by Earvin "Magic" Johnson; Fireside Christmas with over 120 projects to make for the holidays.

The library will be closed Thursday through Saturday. Have a great Thanksgiving!

Keep toys healthy year-round

The joy of new toys can soon be interrupted if those toys break down or start squeaking.

One way to prolong the life of mechanical toys is to lubricate moving parts. Special spray lubricants will prevent rust and damage and stop squeaks.

Lubricants also make toys assemble easier. Spray on swing sets, playhouses, wheels of miniature cars and trucks, erector sets, squeaking tricycles or bikes, bicycle chains, wagon, roller skates and skateboard wheels, strollers, and moving parts of mechanical toys.

Out of sight and ordinary acoustic range of each other, separated elephants synchronize their behavior uncannily, even when the wind direction prevents using their sense of smell to help do so.

McGilvary reviews book for study club

The Kitchen God's Wife was the book review presented by Carol McGilvary when members of the Hereford Study Club met Thursday, Nov. 19, in the home of Bessie Story. Joan Yarbrow served as co-hostess.

The book, written by Amy Tan, a Chinese-American who found it difficult to accept her Chinese heritage, refers to a minor deity who must be honored despite his unpleasant nature. As Tan describes the tension between mother and daughters, their emotional struggles are framed by the mother's remembered journey through decades of upheaval in the 20th century China. At the center of The Kitchen God's Wife is the absorbing narrative of Winnie Louie's life which she tells or offers as a gift to her daughter, Pearl.

President Gladys Setliff called the meeting to order, requesting a reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report from the October meeting.

A contribution to the Christmas Stocking Fund was approved and a request from the Texas Department of Human Resources for assistance with a Christmas party for 150 Hereford senior citizens was considered. It was decided by club members that their contribution will consist of gifts of a personal nature or food for the party which will be delivered to the department by Dec. 1.

Refreshments were served to the 15 members by Story and Yarbrow. Also, present were Barbara Allen, Doris Bryant, Morgan Cain, Addie Cunningham, Hazel Ford, Elizabeth Hellman, McGilvary, Nedra Robinson, Setliff, Gracie Shaw, Mary Stoy, Virginia Winget and Leta Kaul.

Elephants - some as far apart as two miles - synchronize their activities through rumbles so low-pitched they are inaudible to the human ear.

Will Rogers is credited with saying, "You know, I truly believe that our public men in high office want to do something worthwhile for us, but they just can't think of anything to do."

Although female elephants are fertile for only a few days every four or five years, they can attract several males with a "song" - a unique sequence of intense, low-frequency calls.

Celts' shooting deserts them during loss streak

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - The Boston Celtics appeared ready to shoot their way out of their slump before the Atlanta Hawks defense stiffened.

The Celtics, who entered the game ranked 21st in the league with a 45.5 percent shooting average, shot 65 percent (11 of 17) in the first three quarters, but led by only six points because of turnovers and the Hawks' rebounding advantage.

The lead disappeared as quickly as the Celtics shooting touch, however, and Mookie Blaylock finished with 23 points, including two key baskets in overtime, leading the Hawks to a 101-97 victory Monday night that extended Boston's losing streak to six.

"We didn't let them get the ball where they wanted it," Hawks coach Bob Weiss said.

The Celtics, whose losing streak is their longest since 1979, shot just 36 percent in the fourth quarter and missed seven of eight shots in overtime.

"We had everything going our way and then we let it slip away," Reggie Lewis said.

In Monday night's only other NBA game, Sacramento edged Seattle 103-99.

Blaylock put the Hawks ahead 97-94 with 1:32 left in overtime with a 16-foot jumper, but Kevin McHale, who led Boston with 23 points, hit a 3-pointer, tying the score.

Blaylock then put Atlanta ahead again, 99-97, with a 20-foot jumper with 20 seconds left. Blair Rasmussen knocked away Dee Brown's inside pass to McHale with 5.8 seconds left and Dominique Wilkins grabbed the loose ball.

Wilkins, who had two rebounds and two assists in overtime, was fouled by Brown and hit two free throws with 4.3 seconds left.

Wilkins had 19 points and eight assists and Blaylock also had eight assists. Stacey Augmon had 18 points and Jon Koncak 13 rebounds as the Hawks had a 48-38 rebounding advantage. Atlanta also had 15 steals and forced 24 turnovers.

Kings 103, Sonics 99

At Sacramento, the Kings survived a 13-point third quarter, beating Seattle behind Mitch Richmond's 29 points and Wayman Tisdale's 28 points and 14 rebounds.

Sacramento led 63-46 at halftime, but was outscored 31-13 in the third quarter and trailed 77-76 entering the fourth period.

Richmond broke a 94-94 tie with a 3-pointer. Shawn Kemp's layup with 2:44 remaining pulled Seattle within a point, but the SuperSonics managed just a free throw and last-second layup the rest of the way.

Benoit Benjamin led the SuperSonics with 18 points. Michael Cage grabbed a season-high 19 rebounds and added 13 points for Seattle.

Duke duo, Webber lead pre-season All-Americans

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer

Chris Webber, Bobby Hurley and Grant Hill - three players on the court when last season ended - were named today to the preseason All-America team.

Joining Webber, one of Michigan's Fab Five freshmen a year ago, and Duke teammates Hurley and Hill were Jamal Mashburn of Kentucky and Anfernee Hardaway of Memphis State.

All five were among the eight collegiate players selected to practice last summer against the U.S. Olympic team.

Webber was the leading vote-getter, named on 62 of the 65 ballots. Hurley was second with 56 votes, followed by Mashburn with 55, Hill with 42 and Hardaway, 31.

The 6-foot-9 Webber averaged 15.5 points and 10 rebounds as a freshman for the Wolverines, voted No. 1 in the preseason poll by the same group of writers and broadcasters who selected the All-America team.

Hurley, the 6-foot point guard who has guided Duke to consecutive NCAA championships and a title-game appearance in each of his three seasons, is on line to become college basketball's all-time assist leader. Hurley was a third-team All-America last season.

Hill, who has a championship ring for each of his two seasons, appears ready to emerge as the sport's next star after averaging 14 points, 5.7 rebounds and 4.0 assists while shooting 61 percent from the field. The 6-8 son of former NFL running back Calvin Hill can play both forward and guard and is expected to fill the offensive void left by the graduation of player of the year Christian Laettner.

Mashburn's season ended when Laettner hit his last-second shot to advance the Blue Devils to the Final Four. The 6-8 New York native is one of only two starters back for the Wildcats, but he can play a number of positions. The junior averaged 21.3 points and 7.8 rebounds while shooting 57 percent overall and 44 percent from 3-point range.

The 6-7 Hardaway is as smooth as they come on the collegiate level. The Memphis native averaged 17.4 points, 7.0 rebounds, 5.5 assists and 2.5 steals as a sophomore, leading the Tigers to the regional finals.

Calbert Cheaney of Indiana, a preseason All-America last year, and Allan Houston of Tennessee were the only other players named on more than 10 ballots, each receiving 25 votes. Cheaney was a third-team All-American last season.

Houston, Eric Montross of North Carolina and Rodney Rogers of Wake Forest were the other three players on the developmental squad that worked out against the Olympic team of NBA stars.

STATE TOURNEY

Kubena was named Class 2A Tournament Most-Valuable Player after totalling 32 kills in games against Pattonville Praisland and Holliday.

Junior outside hitter Brenna Whitley added six kills, three aces and a block for the Brahmanettes (26-10).

Senior Julie Lovett had eight kills, six blocks and an ace to fuel Holliday's victory in its first ever championship match. The Eagles finished the year with a 26-3 record.

In the 3A title match, Needville upset Bellville 15-5, 15-11 to garner its fourth state crown in its fifth appearance in the state tournament.

The Lady Bluejays (30-6) were paced by senior middle blocker Brooke Polak with 10 kills, seven blocks and an ace. Senior outside hitter Amy Stavinocha - the Class 2A Tournament Most Valuable Player - had four kills, four aces and two blocks.

Two-time defending champion Bellville was led by senior outside hitter Gretchen Day, who tallied eight kills and six aces. The Brahmanettes ended their season at 34-9.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

GIANTS

that was going all out with New York behind 40-20.

"He showed great poise considering the circumstances," wide receiver Stephen Baker said. "He has a great arm and is definitely the quarterback of the future."

Baker said he was not worried about Thursday.

"We're all going to rally around him," he said. "He'll do just fine. You don't expect a rookie to do as well as he did. Usually, they get rattled. He has no reason to get rattled with the rocket arm he has. He can throw the ball as hard as anyone in the league."

If he starts, Graham will be the Giants third starting quarterback this season. Phil Simms started the first four games before spraining a ligament in his right elbow. Hostetler started the next seven.

Brown, who was the Giants No. 1 pick in the supplemental draft, has not taken a snap in either a preseason or regular-season game.

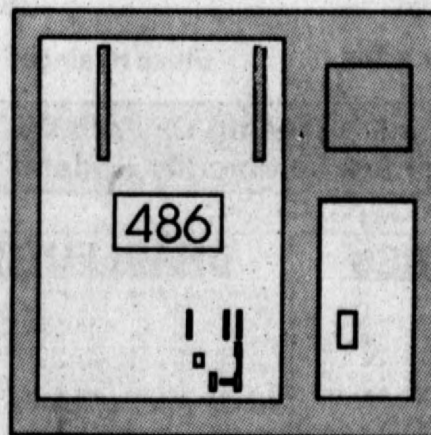

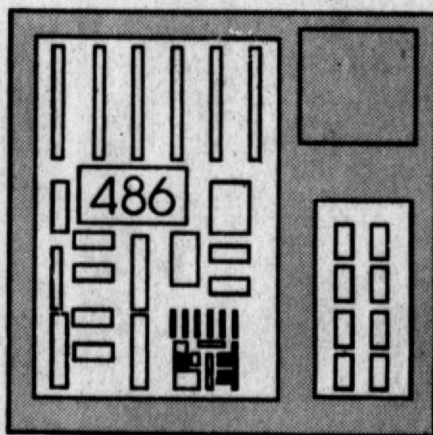

Simms, who underwent surgery, is throwing lightly, but the coach said he has no timetable on his return.
