Eat up distance, but not your bearings Get alloyed oil . . . and you'll get the difference

Ask your wife. The least little heat makes smoke out of some of the oily substances she puts in her frying pan. They vanish double quick, while others stay put.

That's the sort of difference your hilliest hot-weather drive will show you in Germ Processed, the alloyed oil. Patented.

It not only stays up around "Full," but stays right up in every working surface of your engine. Yes, the pistons, cylinders, valve gear, and any types of bearings ever used can really take in this alloyed oil. You might say they become lastingly, smoothly "oil-glazed."

And you can see that this added sleek oil-surfacing, together with the high-durability Germ Processed oil-film, easily doubles your guard against summer grief. Now when you want to go farthest fastest, get Conoco Germ Processed oil-the alloyed oil. Continental Oil Company.

How would you like to kniton 42

Yes... 420 all at once! That's the way your stockings are knit ... on a whole row of tiny needles set up straight in a needle-bar like the teeth on a comb. If you're wearing a 45-gauge stocking, there were 45 needles to every 1 1-2 inches of stocking-width. That would make 420 needles, to knit the regulation width of stocking.

But alas! It is easy to cut off a few needles at each end of the needle bar. That saves thread and money for the manufacturer. But it also makes the stocking skimpy. You don't actually see this difference in the store because after the dye-bath the stocking can be stretched and dried to look full-width. But when you try it on ... too tight and short! Terrible!

For real stocking satisfaction, you want to buy them by the advertised brand name, or from a store where you regularly trade. Read the hosiery advertisements. Learn the names and the features of the various makes. Especially now that we're all wearing the sheerer, grades and hoping they'll wear like service weights. Study the hosiery advertising and know your subject before you shop.
