

Death Ends Career Of Speaker Jos. W. Byrns

Demo Leader Is Victim Of Heart Attack

JOS. W. BYRNS

Capital Pays Him Tribute; Passing Means Delay In Adjournment

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Congressional leaders today abandoned hope of adjourning congress before the republican national convention on account of the death of Speaker Byrns.

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Cut down at the height of his career by swift illness, Joseph Wellington Byrns, 66, speaker of the house of representatives, died at 12:15 a. m. today, the first speaker in generations to pass with congress in session.

President Roosevelt announced that he will attend the state funeral at the capitol tomorrow, and the burial services in Tennessee. The state funeral will be held from the house chamber at noon tomorrow and the funeral at Nashville, Tenn., upon arrival of the body there Saturday midsday.

Apparently in good health when the house adjourned yesterday, the speaker suffered a heart attack at 5:30 p. m. At 11 o'clock, said Dr. George W. Carver, congressional physician, he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, and died an hour and a quarter later without regaining consciousness.

The house today elected Rep. William B. Bankhead of Alabama speaker to succeed Byrns. Bankhead has been democratic leader in the house.

Death, which occurred in the speaker's apartment at the Mayflower hotel, was wholly unexpected. Byrns, a Tennessean who had a long career in congress, had been active almost up to the last in the tremendous task of trying to clean up pending legislation and adjourn congress by this week-end.

Friends believed the strain of his task may have been at least partly responsible for his sudden passing. Inasmuch as "Uncle Joe," as he was known to intimates, was known as a master parliamentarian, adept at straightening out snarls and keeping house tempers within bounds, his death cast the prospects for adjournment of congress this week into an uncertain date. The Roosevelt administration had counted heavily upon him, as often in the past, to speed its program through.

The house and senate were in recess today in respect to the late speaker. Power as speaker of the national house of representatives came to Joseph W. Byrns when the 74th congress convened January 3, 1935. Back of him was a full quarter century as a member of the house from the "Heritage district" of Tennessee, a tenure which saw him go through a dozen successful political campaigns and which brought him chairmanship of the house appropriations committee, leadership of the democratic majority and head of the democratic congressional campaign committee.

SHAKEUP IN N. JERSEY POLICE

Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey climaxed his criticism of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder investigation by appointing Col. Mark O. Kimberling (left), state prison warden, who supervised the execution of Bruno Hauptmann, to succeed Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf as superintendent of the New Jersey state police. Schwarzkopf directed the search which ended in the arrest, conviction and execution of Hauptmann as the Lindbergh baby slayer. (Associated Press Photos).

Strikes Paralyze French Industries

New Govt. Is Confronted With Difficulties

PARIS, June 4. (AP)—Premier Albert Sarraut and his coalition cabinet resigned today to permit socialists to assume control of the government of strike-ridden France. As Sarraut tendered his resignation to President Lebrun, a strike movement embracing 400,000 workers had industry nearly paralyzed.

Assert Nanking Government Must Fight 'Either, Japan Or Us'

SHANGHAI, June 4. (AP)—Insistent reports tonight stated that Cantonese patriots had reiterated an ultimatum demanding that the Nanking government "fight Japan or us."

Representatives of more than a hundred Canton public organizations, Japanese reports stated, handed the southwestern political council a petition demanding the denunciation of the 1933 Tangu truce between China and Japan. The petition is also said to have urged "prompt military action against Japan."

A force of 250,000 rapidly moving men, Japanese quarters said, "entered Hunan province of the Nanking government, without opposition, the Hunanese apparently having withdrawn."

League Is Due To Meet For Finish Fight

Organization's Whole Future Involved In African Controversy

(Copyright, 1936, By United Press) GENEVA, June 4.—The full assembly of the league of nations, comprising 56 nations, probably will meet here June 23, for a finish fight on the Italian-Ethiopian problem which entails the league's whole future, it was learned authoritatively today. It seemed certain that the meeting must be one of the most important in the 17 years since Woodrow Wilson's dream of a world parliament of nations to enforce peace was incorporated into the Versailles treaty.

As a result of the meeting, Italy may be forced by its national pride to leave the league. A start may be made toward revision of the league covenant and its article X. It may start continental European nations on the way at last to a new political alignment. And it may start Europe toward either a war or a more secure peace.

Midland Gets Wind, Rain

MIDLAND, June 4. (Sp.)—For the second time this year, wind and rain wrought destruction in the Midland area, littering streets with debris and causing a car to overturn. Starting as a sandstorm, the wind reached an estimated velocity of between 50 and 60 miles an hour before blinding rain, accompanied by hail, lashed the city.

Strong Blow Accompanied By Heavy Downpour; Some Damage Done

Streets were littered with planks, sign boards and tree foliage. At the farm of T. E. Blizell, two miles south of here, a five-inch rain flooded the section while wind was demolishing two barns and moving a tenant house to its foundations. Precipitation at the airport, ten miles west, was recorded at 1.23 inches while it amounted to .63 of an inch in the city.

Testifies He Had To Shoot WPA Worker Because Of Colonel's Orders

DETROIT, June 4. (AP)—Dayton Dean, the Black Legion's "trigger man" announced today that "I'm going to plead guilty" to the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Poole "as soon as they will let me."

Hearing Adjourned

Examination of the thirteen defendants was adjourned until Monday. Dean had testified yesterday that "in the Black Legion you must shoot anyone you are ordered to shoot."

Was Demoted

Defense objections balked Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea when he tried to ask Dean if he had knowledge of any army reserve officers being active in training members of the Black Legion. A charge that such training had been given was made in Washington by Rep. Samuel Dickstein (D-N.Y.), who is seeking a congressional investigation of the terrorist organization.

"PRICES TALK"
LEVINE'S

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley

We'll hammer a typewriter for our golf any day. Started a round yesterday afternoon with four golf balls and lost all of them before finishing six holes. But that Calcutta Pool clean-up your correspondent made last night will buy a few golf tools. Boy, what luck! We only wish Mrs. Phillips had sold for a century instead of $55, but $27.50 is just a much...

Joe Davis, former Big Spring high school tennis star, and more recently an ace court performer for an Abilene college, has let out a loud squawk about the asphalt courts in the city park. Joe says they are "a poor excuse for tennis courts" and added that concrete courts had proved their superiority, etc. Joe is absolutely correct, but we can't always get the best. In this case we had to take asphalt courts because they were the best we could get. It was either asphalt courts or nothing, so we took what we could. Both city and school officials found that it would cost entirely too much to construct concrete courts, and they refused to consider such a thing, even as a government project. However, we still believe the park courts are better than the old high school concrete courts. We understand that the school is to build new courts soon, but they're sure to be asphalt—not concrete...

Some of the tournament dopsters are going so far as to predict a tie between the two local ace—Mrs. Gordon Phillips and Mrs. Theron Hicks. Mrs. Phillips admitted she was a little nervous when she started her qualifying Wednesday morning... The U. S. Open golf tournament gets under way today at the Baltusrol course in New Jersey. The dopsters have forecast the following specifications for the champion: He'll be a comparatively long hitter off the tee. He'll have to be accurate with his first two shots. He won't be a leader at the end of the first or second round, but he'll be within striking distance when the last two rounds of 36 holes start Saturday. He most likely won't be one of the betting favorites or one of the recent tournament winners. He'll finish with a rush, playing his best golf on the final day. Above all he'll have to be calm and cool under fire. As for the winning score, the conservative mind believes 290 will win. If the weather is favorable, and the officials do not place the holes in tough spots, a score of 288, par for four rounds, or under, may be necessary to win. Ole Cordill is slated to play in the all-star high school football game at Fort Worth in August. Cordill is also considering enrolling at A. & M. in the fall. For the next two years the Aggies will be as tough as any team in the country.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES. Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles kidney tubes. MRS. HICKS MEDALIST IN WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY

1ST ROUND MATCHES UNDER WAY

First round matches in the women's invitation golf tournament were being reeled off at snail's pace this morning. The golfers got away late and at noon only a few had passed the front nine.

Mrs. Theron Hicks, local city champion and one of the low qualifiers in the recent Women's West Texas tournament at Mineral Wells, took medalist honors by outdistancing her field by nine strokes. She had an 82—four over ladies' par. Mrs. Hicks took a nine on the par five No. 4 in her qualifying round and had a 43 at the turn, but came on a back nine with a 39 for a total of 82. She had birdies on the short 13th and the 576-yard No. 17.

Hard card: Out 545 934 364—43 In 445 346 454—39—82 Mrs. G. I. Phillips, long-hitting ace, and Mrs. C. E. Worrell of Lewis, N. M., qualified with 91's. Mrs. Worrell was runner-up last year for the New Mexico championship.

One of the big surprises in the medal round was the 94 scored by Mrs. Rhea J. Vernon of Abilene. However, scores ran high in all flights. Mrs. Bob Hamilton of Midland had 103 and made the championship flight. Mrs. Hicks also won the long-driving contest and drew high in the Calcutta—$105. Open house will be held at the country club tonight at 8 o'clock. Qualifying scores: Mmes. Freshmen Buoy Iowa's Big Ten Hoops In Track. IOWA CITY, Ia., June 4 (UP)—The University of Iowa has its eye on a possible Big Ten track championship in 1937 on basis of the showing made this year by a versatile freshman squad. The Hawkeye frosh inspired high hopes in Iowa track coaches by turning in victories over the freshman squads of Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin, three of the strongest teams in the Big Ten. The Iowa youngsters, coached by W. T. Swenson, defeated Michigan 68-1-2 to 57-1-8; Indiana 90 to 35, and Wisconsin 74 to 51. Notre Dame also was beaten 85 to 41. Athletes of each team competed at home and the marks made were compared by mail. Fine team balance, coupled with good individual performances by a few outstanding men brought the Iowa victories, Swenson said. Vincent Finazzo of St. Louis, was high point man in the Michigan and

OILERS WIN TILT WITH SHELL, 7-0

(By HANK HART) For the third time within a week, the Settles Roadrunners met a team playing "above average" and lost out, 13-10, in an eight-inning duel.

The Cosden Oilers followed with a four-inning 7-0 decision over Shell in a game cut short by rain. Showing an amazing reversal of form that fairly caught the Roadrunners by surprise, the Oilers matched the lead in the second, saw the Thomasons tie the count in the seventh, and then came right back to sew up the game with a great three-run rally in the eighth.

The Settles boys looked like champions in their one big frame when they came from behind to tally seven runs and tie the count, but they couldn't stand up to the terrific hitting of the Cosco forces.

Freddy Savage and Morgan rapped out home runs in the seventh, the former getting his blow with the bases loaded. The whole team managed to garner only five hits while the Pipelicers were getting to Thomas and Savage for sixteen. The Oilers counted all their runs in the first two frames and then breezed through their next time at bat in order to beat the rain for victory. Freddy Townsend was leading off in the fourth as the shower chased the fielders to cover.

Old Jigger Is George Voigt's Favorite Club

Occupies Place Of Honor Among Golf Tools

(By CHARLES GRUMICH) NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—An aged, ill-kempt jigger that swings in a warped wood shaft occupies a place of honor among the other-wise shiny golf tools carried by Walker Cupper George Voigt of New York. Voigt can't remember just when or where he acquired this pet approach iron that has the loft of a No. 4. He thinks it was down in Washington 10 or a dozen years ago. But he never plays a round of golf without it and he hauls out "Old Faithful" just about every time he's faced with a chip shot 10 to 20 yards from the cup.

Cosden Golfers Hold Lead In Myny League

Pros Let Up On Sam Parks

Top-Flight Professionals Now Pull For Down-trodden Champion. NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—The leading professional golfers have not quite gotten over their peeve over the way every possible effort was made at Oakmont last year to thwart low scoring. They haven't forgotten the shaved greens and the freakish placing of the pins which they have let up on Sam Parks. Hart, 1b, thought that Sam Parks personally cropped the greens and placed the pins in outlandish positions because it happened to be his home course. He had no more to say about preparing the course for the open than did any of the other contenders. All Sam did was to take full advantage of his knowledge of the Oakmont layout and outscore the rest of the field. He did nothing to aggravate the other pros except to flash a sunny smile when he was handed the cup. And yet the top-flight pros resented his wearing the champion's crown. When Sam stumbled along the way in the winter gold rush they were quick with their "I told you so's." They let up on him a bit when they saw him plug along, generally far down the list, but always with that big grin on his face. One by one he won them over until now they are rooting for him to make good almost to a man. Ever since he won the open title, Parks has been subjected to unmerciful criticism. He took all that was handed out with a big smile. Even the most hardened pro could not harbor resentment against a regular fellow like that for long. The big smile softened them up and now Sam goes around flashing a bigger grin because he has been accepted by the "gang." Parks is satisfied that his swing around the winter golf circuit was a grand success even though he collected considerably less than $100 in prize money. He picked up a world of valuable experience, but far more important to him—how "belongs."

RETURN OF KLEIN IS BIG HELP

PHILADELPHIA, June 4 (AP)—There was just one deal involving Curt Davis that Gerry Nugent, president of the Phillies, dared make without running the risk of souring Philadelphia fans on his team—and he made it. When he passed Davis, rated one of the leading pitchers in the National League, along to the Chicago Cubs he insisted that Chuck Klein accompany the bag of gold he received from the Chicago club.

Philadelphia fans have thought well enough of Curt Davis, especially after his fine season of 1935 when he turned in 16 victories on the mound for the Phillies, but they never quite took Davis to their hearts as they did the cloutin' Mr. Klein. They never forgave Nugent for selling Klein to the Cubs after he had won the National league batting crown with a mark of .368 in 1932. But now that Klein is back in the fold and ready to resume popping home runs over the short right field fence in Baker bowling, all is forgiven. From a purely financial angle the Philadelphia club did extremely well in its dealings with the Chicago team. Something like $100,000 in cash was turned over to the Phillies when they passed Klein along to Chicago. And when he went back home he took another bag of gold (rumor places it at $75,000) along with him. Adds Batting Strength. Nugent insists the recent trade with the Cubs was not made entirely for financial gain. He points out that the Phillies have lacked punch at the plate all season and the return of Klein gives them much needed batting strength. Klein, despite his failure to show anything like his Philadelphia pumch when he was transferred to the Cubs, boasts the highest lifetime batting average of any active player in the National League—346 for eight years' service. Klein, 30 years old, originally was obtained by the Phillies from Fort Wayne, of the Three-Eye league, in 1928 for $7,500 and a player. He went over big from the start; he was able to pull his share over the short right field fence. He made quite a reputation as a home-run hitter and in 1932 was voted the most valuable player in the National League. His average with the Cubs dwindled when he failed to find his hitting stride and last year, when the Chicago team won the National league pennant, he finished his hitting in the World Series against the Detroit Tigers indicated he had found his old batting eye and earned him the regular spot in right field for the Cubs when they took to the field for the season's opener.

Word was received this week by relatives of J. H. Lewis that he is slowly improving in the hospital at Marshall, although it will be some time before he will be able to leave the hospital.

CLOWNING IN CONGRESS

Every year thousands of people in United States pay thousands of dollars admission to the circus, some of them solely to see and enjoy the antics of the clowns.

Marion Zlotcheck, member of the congress from the state of Washington, has been getting nation-wide attention with such antics as speed law violations, scuffles with policemen, dragging a landlady from an apartment she had asked him to vacate, and returning from a hectic honey-moon with a bicycle and a supply of liquor.

Such actions do not add to the respect with which the people regard the congress, or at least with which the people once regarded that body. It would seem that if a clown is qualified to represent some thousands of intelligent people in the national law-making assembly, the next step should be to elect some elephant trainers, snake charmers, trapeze artists, tumblers and bareback riders, to make the circus complete.

There are some statesmen in congress but we do not find them among the gentry who engage in physical encounters with policemen and landladies. The people of the First Washington state district may be pleased and satisfied with their representative, but if so they are easily pleased.

CENTENNIAL PRICES

Some fear is being expressed here and there that visitors to the Texas Centennial will be overcharged for board and lodging and other needs while they are making the tour, and some people express the belief that this would be bad business and should not be permitted to occur.

Certainly people should not be overcharged now or at any time, but there must be some standard by which to measure overcharging and profiteering. Asking and receiving more than service of merchandise, is worth overcharging, and this should not be done, especially when the state is entertaining visitors.

Consideration must be given, however, to the facts. It is well understood that practically every person or organization providing for visitors has had to go to unusual and in some cases great expense in preparing for the accommodation of people who will come to Texas during the Centennial celebration. If there be some increase in prices over those of normal times there should be no criticism, unless these prices are extortionate.

Texas should not profiteer on visitors or home folks, but fair charges for satisfactory services or merchandise are not to be criticized.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—I remember:

The Mardi gras opening of the Casino de Paree and the startled elation of the first nighters when they discovered the aquarium in the lobby with, not goldfish, but real live nude mermaids.

The day late in 1934, shortly after noon, when the city editor whispered, "There's a tip that the Lindbergh case may break—get down to the Greenwich street station!"

The night Prince "Mike" Romanoff, detained at Ellis Island, became an impromptu Count of Monte Cristo, and swam the harbor.

Waiting at the Narrows all one day for the first survivors of the fire-wrecked Morro Castle, and the looks of horror on their countenances as they related what happened.

A far-flung flotilla of battleships stretched from the battery to the George Washington bridge, and the thousands of headlights shooting down from the Palisades above.

New York's most stupendous ticker-tape reception—when Lindbergh came back from France!

The wild spirit of jubilee that swept Manhattan the night Repeal went into effect.

The day Maurice Chevalier, unknown and unsung arrived in New York.

The tumult of the streets the night Herbert Hoover defeated Al Smith for President.

The tumult of the streets the night Franklin Roosevelt defeated Herbert Hoover for President.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The Rust brothers, inventors of the cotton-picking machine which may bring social and economic revolution to the south, have found financial angels.

No one would ever guess it, but they are Alfred Bingham, son of the reactionary Connecticut senator, and Sherman and Elliot Pratt, sons of the Standard Oil Pratts.

All three are wealthy young men with liberal if not socialist leanings. Alfred Bingham, despite the reactionary views of his father, is the publisher of "Common Sense," a radical news magazine.

The Rust brothers, who also hold socialist views, have announced the intention to develop their machine in such a way that it will not throw southern tenant farmers and laborers out of work.

Although "unable to fill orders" from Argentina and Brazil, one of the Rust brothers is going to Russia, probably in the fall, to demonstrate two machines to the Soviet government.

New Townsend Movement: Dr. Francis E. Townsend has a new headache. On the heels of the congressional investigation comes word of a factional rift in his organization, which threatens to dry up his sources of revenue.

The leader of this faction came to Washington the other day, denouncing "Townsend and his crackpots who are trying to take over the U. S. government." He is George Higley, president of Townsend Club No. 1 of Los Angeles, the largest club in the country.

Higley claims that this club has now deserted the personal leadership of Dr. Townsend in order to support the McGroarty bill and the Roosevelt administration.

"This third party stuff is nonsense. I told the old doc, but he wouldn't listen to me. You can't buck this administration, I told him. Look at the majority they've got in the house. Get back of the McGroarty bill, I said, and quit playing the part of Moses leading the people out of the wilderness."

"But he's stubborn as the devil, Doc. So we're quitting him. Got a new name and everything. Not Townsend clubs any more, but The National Recovery Program, Limited."

The McGroarty bill would give oldsters less than the $200 monthly promised by Dr. Townsend. The pension paid would depend on the amount collected by the tax.

Supreme Court Split: Not much has been said about the supreme court split on the municipal bankruptcy act, but the inside word is that even the imperturbable chief justice threw up his hands in disgust when his conservative colleagues insisted on declaring the act unconstitutional.

In previously hotly debated cases Hughes has worked against such a wide-open split, but this time he abandoned all pretense.

There were two considerations which agitated the liberal justices profoundly.

First, was the fact that the holders of municipal bonds and the municipalities themselves favored this act. What the holders of the bonds are up against is the difficulty of getting all of their scattered members to agree. A small minority can hold out, demand to be bought off before it comes into the agreement.

This is going to be the chief outcome of the court's decision—the hold-outs will demand their price. The voluntary provision in the act had avoided this.

Inflation Fear: Second, is the fact that the voiding of the bankruptcy act plays directly into the hands of inflationists. The only other way a municipality or government body can scale down its debt is by printing cheap money. That is what happened in Germany.

If municipalities are not able voluntarily to reduce their debt, there will be increasing pressure for inflation.

Section 8, Article I, of the constitution reads: "The congress shall have the power... to establish... uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States."

Republican Poem: Here is part of the new republican prize poem. It was selected out of several hundred in a contest staged by "The Trumpeter," monthly magazine of the Young Republican division of the republican national committee.

Written by Harry C. Woods, Bethlehem, Pa. It is called "The 'Him' of Thanksgiving." Two verses follow:

Are you handy with the hammer, Can you tap dance, or teach grammar, Can you prune a tree, or can you groom a horse?

Why, you're just as good as hired— But, there's one more thing required: Er—the democratic chairman must endorse—

GARFIELD HOME SOON WILL BE A PUBLIC SHRINE

MENTOR, Ohio, June 4. (UP)—The home of James A. Garfield, twentieth president of the United States, has been given by his children to the Western Reserve Historical society as a memorial and shrine.

Repaired and remodeled the 20-room frame structure and the cottage which served as a law office for the assassinated president will be open for public inspection soon.

The three-story residence, built in 1832, was occupied by members of the Garfield family until several years ago. President Garfield purchased the property while he was a congressman.

In the tiny law office was transacted important affairs of the nation. Mr. Garfield conducted the campaign of 1880 from the estate, and thousands of republicans journeyed to it during the summer.

After the president's assassination, Mrs. Garfield returned to the home with her children.

The household goods, library and historical documents of President Garfield were given with the building and adjacent parklike grounds.

Most Solons Like Life In The Capital

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—The effort of Senator Glass of Virginia to make Washington a better city in which to live emphasizes that many members of congress spend more time here than in their home states.

The matter is important perhaps only because of the influence of the Washington environment may have upon the individual legislator.

Top flight members, those who have places in the national or international spotlight, often find that once they are back home they are rather out of touch with the business which in Washington occupies most of their time.

Most concede they are eager for this home period, usually in summer and fall, for two reasons paramount to others. They quite frankly want a rest among the home folk, and they face the practical necessity of keeping their party followers contented.

But once they have achieved those two ends, the large percentage push plans to return to the capital.

Those who cut a big swath in party organization or in shaping important legislation state openly they can't do their work away from the capital. Contact with fellow legislators by mail is less effective than to stroll down a corridor and drop in on a colleague to discuss plans for a bill.

It becomes apparent in time that some have become national figures quite removed from strictly home state influence.

There is another factor which attracts many members in some form or another—the capital's social life. Not infrequently those who have spent long years in congress find their best friends are in the senate or house or among Washington residents rather than back home.

Some exceptions, of course. Certain home loving members from New York and other nearby eastern and southern states spend few week ends in Washington.

Senator Glass, who lives in the capital much of the time, wants the city less noisy. He has quarters high up in a downtown hotel.

Chapter 14 HAPPY DAY

Dirk sat watching Hope. Sunday dinner, which had been usually an abstracted meal, was tonight enlivened by her presence. She sat in the place where Elinor had so often sat, and she seemed gay and at ease.

Dirk had supposed that this first appearance at the table would be an ordeal for her, that sitting opposite Rupert would inevitably try her spirits.

In this he had been mistaken. Rupert himself seemed in rather good humor, although he was drinking less than usual. His presence appeared not to disturb Hope. "He seemed conscious of him," thought Dirk. "Laughing and talking with Dirk, it was plain that her smile was for Rupert, her swift dark glance."

She had been driving with Dirk most of the afternoon. He had shown her the village, and they had encircled the beautiful mountain known as the Storm King, winding through woods still in their summer green. Returning, they had gone for a stroll outside the walls of Lowrie, on the river side, passing the tomb of that ancient Joris lying on the embankment.

"They had leaned together on the iron fence that, amid arbutus and dwarf-cedars, encircled the grave. Dirk read the inscription in the bronze slab that covered it, carved beneath a lion's head:

Bless you, my friend,
Who pass in reverence,
My grave on you
Who touch the place I lie.
"Like Shakespeare's epitaph," said Hope.

"The English, perhaps," agreed Dirk. "You should read the Dutch one just beneath it. It alludes to hell-fire as waiting for any one who disturbs him before Judgment Day. Poor old great-great-grandfather! I don't know just how great he was—Uncle Pieter! Why couldn't he have slept with the rest of his family in Sleepy Hollow . . . or even inside his own wall!"

"Perhaps he liked the river too well," suggested Hope. "I'll bet he hates the railroad down there. You notice when they cut into the slope to build it they gaped Uncle Pieter."

Hope said she didn't blame them. She would have spared Uncle Pieter, too.

"Well, there was some argument, I understood. But even corporations have their qualms. Uncle Pieter's epitaph . . . Don't go too near the edge there. The cedars hide it. You might go over."

"It wouldn't be much of a tumble," discovered Hope. She had parted the cedars to look at the river, its far sapphire sweep and tranquil boats. They went down rock steps and strolled at its edge, facing a wind, faintly salty, coming in from the sea. The wind died, and the sun went down—deep down into the river, dyeing it vermilion. The sail-boats, moving into the arc of the sunset, became pointed flames. Presently everything was mauve and misty. Lights blossomed on the Jersey shore.

Hope, Dirk learned, was going to remain at Lowrie. Rupert had said so, had given her a check, and told her to buy herself proper clothes, the clothes his wife should wear. All this she told him as they walked in the sunset.

"Clothes, she no doubt felt, were matters of importance to Rupert, for, coming home, she had changed her dress again, had put on this frock of embroidered muslin, with a dahlia from the piano at her waist. Her curls had a gloss as from much brushing, and she had rouged her lips with a certain skill.

What had passed between them, wondered Dirk. The chances were that Rupert had meant to send the girl away; then, hearing how Elinor had predicted she would leave of her own accord, had accepted the challenge, and permitted her to stay.

Dirk had relayed Elinor's remark to Rupert with the suspicion that he would do just that. It was part of his own unreasoning efforts to protect Hope, to keep her in the house. Something dark and strange rankled in him. He was conscious of other feelings, of desires at war with his own efforts.

Had he not been obscurely hoping, when he went searching for her this morning, that Rupert had indeed thrown her out? He had meant to find her, wherever the search might take him, but with the hope that she would say, "I have no friend but you."

Rupert and Hope had risen. Dirk laid a hand on Hope's chair, followed her from the room. Rupert spoke to him in the hall as Hope went into the library.

"I've got to go over the papers of the Dunhaven case," he said. "It's coming up in White Plains tomorrow, and I'll be there all day. I'm wondering if you will mind taking."

He glanced toward the library, and Dirk supplied the name with a smile.

"I wonder if you will mind taking her to lunch. It needn't be out of your way . . . say to the Lawyers' Club. She'll be at the bank tomorrow, and shopping."

No reference to his change of mood.

"Glad to," said Dirk. "Tomorrow evening," suggested Rupert, "you might get Isabel and we'll go somewhere for dinner. I suppose there's nothing at the theater yet."

Mrs. Spencer Is Initiated Into Society

Mrs. Marchbanks Elected To Membership; Plan Joint Meet

Members of the Ladies Society of Brotherhood Locomotive Firemen and Engineers held their regular meeting with the president, Mrs. Annie Wilson, in charge. Mrs. Lois Marchbanks was elected to membership and to participate in the insurance of the organization, and Mrs. Esther Spencer was initiated into the order.

Members expressed regret at hearing that Mrs. R. Smith, treasurer and magazine correspondent and reporter, was moving to Kermitt to live. Her resignation from these offices was accepted. Mrs. Sholte was elected treasurer, Mrs. Iva Johnson as magazine correspondent and reporter.

A cash donation was made to the child welfare nursery. All members were urged to bring families to the old-fashioned party to be held at the Woodmen hall June 10, a joint meeting of men and women.

Following the business a social hour was held in honor of the newly initiated member and refreshments were served to: Meses. Annie Wilson, Macie McTier, Ara Smith, Florence Rose, Minnie Skalkicky, Martha Moody, Birdie Adams, Martha Wade, Flora Jones, Ira Johnson, Ada Arnold, Lendora Rose, Gladys Slusser, Alice Mims, Minnie Barbee, Susie Wiesen, Ruth Arnold, Esther Spencer; Meses Marvin Louise Davis, and Junia Johnson.

Four Jordan Girls To Go To Dallas Tomorrow

The Jordan girls, Misses Jena and Dorothy, Mrs. Cecil Wasson and Mrs. Ray Jackson, will leave Friday morning for Dallas to attend the opening of the Centennial exposition. They will meet their sister, Lillian, there who is coming up from Calvert. They expect to stay for 10 days or more, at least until President Roosevelt comes, and see him.

Hope glanced about, and Dirk, said, "Rupert's gone up. Had some papers to go through."

He added, half-sitting against the table, watching her in her pale dress against the shadowy background of old books.

"He'll be out of town tomorrow. Says I may take you to lunch, and specifies the place."

"Where?" she asked with interest.

"Lawyers' Club, so that I won't run too far afield. Prosaic, but near the office. All right?"

"All right," she smiled. "And will you show me the office?"

He promised, and carried to the couch a book she had extracted from the shelves. It was the "History of the Joris Family, a huge and ancient tome, bound in pigskin. He reversed her taste, for few had shown the inclination to delve into its labyrinth of fine, uneven print, its dull, old-fashioned prose.

She was looking, however, at the pictures.

"Tell me about them," she said. And Dirk sat down beside her, and told her what he knew, turning the yellow pages.

There were square Dutch burgo-masters and their squarer wives. There was a duke in a black hat with a red plume. There was his duchess, wearing pearls and a gathered velvet gown. Rembrandt had painted them, and they hung in the dining-room. There was a crest, a three-masted ship, sails unfurled, pennants flying.

She paused at a woodcut of Jan Steen's portrait of Croon Joris. Dirk directed her eye to the resemblance to Rupert. She said nothing, and he turned the page.

"Here's the ancestor who built this house. Myneer Hans Joris. Doesn't he look shrewd and twinkling? Frightful old smuggler he was, but most respected. And here's the "Onrust," the Restless. A boat big enough to go on the ocean, first product of skilled labor on Manhattan Island. They say the phlegmatic Dutch actually cheered as she slid down the ways."

"Was Uncle Pieter there, do you suppose?"

"No. Too early for Uncle Pieter. Did his grave wake your interest in the family?"

"I shouldn't wonder. His wanting to lie out there all by himself. She looked at the fire. "Some of us have to be alone. But not many of us want to be."

She was smiling now. Her eyes came back to the book. "Here's a crest," she said. "A helmet in profile."

Bridge Club Members Spend Day At Mrs. Wagener's

Mrs. Robert W. Wagener entertained a table of Ely See bridge club members and a table of club guests for one of the most delightful spend-the-day parties in the history of the club. The group motored out Wednesday morning to her home in Forsan and started on bridge about 10:30.

At noon a delicious two-course luncheon was served. The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to bridge.

Mrs. Bliss scored highest and Mrs. Wynn second. Club members were: Meses. R. B. Bliss, Turner, Wynn, J. B. Young and Victor Martin. The other four were: Meses. C. W. Harland, Bill Tate, Roy Lamb, and Vivian Nichols.

The Wagener home was beautifully decorated with gladioli. Mrs. Wynn will entertain the club next.

LABELED, June 4. (UP)—President Lázaro Cardenas of Mexico said in an official communication received by Nuevo Laredo authorities today that he would be in the city July 1 to open officially the Pan-American highway.

Cardenas said that July 1 had been set as the definite date for the opening.

The Mexican executive said he would make the trip in an automobile over the entire length of the highway—from Mexico City to Laredo. A number of his cabinet members were expected to accompany him.

It also was expected that an official of the U. S. state department would be here to meet Cardenas on the international bridge.

Seven Aces Celebrate Centennial With Party At Mrs. Jennings

Mrs. J. F. Jennings entertained the Seven Aces Wednesday with a pretty Centennial party at her home. The motif was employed in a contest with which the afternoon began. Mrs. Million was awarded a vase for winning the contest.

Star-shaped tallies were then passed for games of rummy. Mrs. Flood won in this and received a fruit bowl.

The refreshment tables were spread with paper covers containing pictures of longhorns and harmonizing napkins. The red, white and blue color scheme was carried out in individual cakes iced in these colors. Into each was thrust a small American flag which each guest carried away as a favor. Yellow wild flowers were the decorations and the centerpiece.

Playing were: Meses. Floyd Flood, Louis Million, Jack Hodges, Elvis McCrary, Stephen Rowe and Phillips Jenkins.

Mrs. Million will be the next hostess.

Threatened by a strike at the Nanterre plant.

In the north, eight textile plants at Lille and suburbs were occupied by idle workers.

The French faced a dearth of newspapers, for employees of the company holding a virtual monopoly on their distribution debated a walkout.

Demo Leader

Byrns was made chairman of the national democratic congressional campaign in 1929 and it was a matter of pride to him that it was under his leadership that his party regained control of the house.

He was born on a farm near Cedar Hill, in Robertson county, on Tennessee's northern border, July 20, 1869. He was the eldest of six children and through much of his boyhood attended a rural school. But later his parents took their brood to Nashville so the children could have better schooling.

After being graduated from high school, Byrns entered Vanderbilt University, earning his tuition by working in the tobacco fields of Robertson county during vacations. He took an academic course for two years, then switched to the law school and was graduated with the degree of LL.B. in 1890. After one more summer of farm work he hung up his shingle in Nashville.

Politics opened a natural pathway to the acquaintanceship needed by a young lawyer and Byrns, four years after he began practice, was elected to the state legislature. He served three successive terms in the house from 1895 to 1900, being speaker in his third term, then went to the state senate for one term. A campaign for district attorney of Davidson county in 1902 ended in defeat, the only time he was beaten at the polls.

Byrns was a presidential elector in 1904 and in 1908 became a candidate for congress. He had to defeat a redoubtable campaigner, John Wesley Gaines, to win the nomination, but turned the trick carried the November election and took his seat in the national house March 4, 1909.

Mrs. Byrns was the former Julia Woodward of Nashville. They were married August 23, 1898, and their one son, Joseph W., Jr., became his father's law partner.

WARREN WILLIAM
With Warren William in the leading role, "Times Square Playboy," a comedy sprinkled with drama, romance and song, plays at the Ritz theatre Thursday. The picture, based on George M. Cohan's stage success, "The Home Towners," presents June Travis in the role opposite William.

Others in the cast are Barton MacLane, Dick Purcell, Granville Bates, Dorothy Vaughan and Craig Reynolds.

The story is a sparkling Co-hanesque comedy romance in which a small town boy becomes engaged to a beautiful night club entertainer after making millions in the big city. His boyhood chum, called upon to be the best man, throws a monkey wrench into the happy affair by denouncing the girl and her entire family as gold diggers.

It turns out that he is not as astute as he thought he was, however, and shocked at the disaster he has caused, he puts through a clever scheme to undo the mischief, his plot working out successfully in a surprising and amusing climax.

ADDITIONAL CHECKS RECEIVED ON COTTON

Eighteen additional adjustment checks Thursday brought $745 to Howard county cotton producers. Tuesday a block of 155 checks for $5,519.34 was received for distribution.

M. Weaver, adjustment assistant, said that most of those who had applied for the adjustment payments had received a check. Approximately 150 producers did not make application, he said. They have until July to do so, but lack of clerical help makes it imperative to submit applications soon if they wish them to be transmitted for payment before the deadline, he declared.

SERVICE HALTED BY WATER MAIN BREAK

Residents along three blocks of Main street were without water Thursday morning due to a break in the mains.

GUM-DIPPED TIRES

WIN INDIANAPOLIS 500 MILE RACE

Last Saturday Louis Meyer broke the track record, at 109 miles per hour, driving the entire race without tire trouble of any kind. He is the only driver ever to win the race three times, and has always used Firestone Tires.

No tires except Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires could have resisted the terrific heat generated at such high sustained speeds on the hot brick track, lap after lap, hour after hour. You can have no greater proof of blowout protection.

Not one of the thirty-three drivers would risk his life on any other tire, for each driver knows that heat is the chief cause of tire failure and blowouts. Firestone cords are soaked in liquid rubber, which saturates and coats every cotton fiber, preventing friction and heat and adding great strength. This is the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping, that gives you greatest blowout protection and safety.

Profit by the experience of race drivers. Equip your car today with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—it costs so little to protect lives worth so much.
