anyone who would listen. Each year brought her more confidence. She also increased her equipment inventory as the years progressed.

After graduating from Texas Tech University with a bachelor of science degree in psychology, she started singing five to six nights a week in clubs in Lubbock while holding down a job as a Lubbock County probation officer.

In 1989 she married Tom Timberlake, a rancher from Bootleg. The couple have one son, Logan, 5.

She continues to travel and entertain for private events and clubs in Eastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

After years of being a ranch wife, mother and entertainer, DeAnne sent a tape to Rhona Reeves, a manager who enabled her to meet and work with Joe Bob Barnhill, of Barnhill Recording Studio in Nashville.

When she met with him he gave her some "top drawer" songs to choose to put on her album.

After selecting the songs she was interested in, she began recording. In September she travelled to Nashville to record a few songs on her new C.D., "That's JUST The Way I Like It", which contains all original

The cuts are the result of a 1996-97 state budget that funds 3,500 fewer positions than the current budget, which ends Aug. 31.

In addition, the Legislature ordered agency chiefs to trim operating budgets by another 1.26 percent. Lawmakers ordered that at least half of those cuts come through "reductions in salary and personnel expenses." If agency chiefs comply, that would mean the loss of up to 5,000 more jobs.

Officials said the cuts are necessary to offset increases in other areas. The two-year, $79.9 billion budget is 6.2 percent above current

"The appropriations bill passed by the Legislature and signed by Gov. (George W.) Bush reverses the trend of growth in state government for the first time in a long time," said Bush

Some agencies, such as DHS, already have announced layoffs. Some are working on plans that could include jobs cuts. Others addressed the problem with hiring freezes enacted earlier this year.

Fewer workers may mean less service, according to the Texas State Employees Union.

"It's always front-line workers who deliver the services who get cut," said Sylvia Meyer, president of the employees union. "Plans to downsize state government make great sound bites, but what they really mean is that all Texans lose.

DHS plans to cut $16 million from its payroll, Jones said.

the U.S. Navy after 29 years of service. The retirement was marked by a special ceremony in Berkley, Cal., on June 23.

Captain Coneway entered the Navy in 1966, on graduation from the University of Texas. He holds a master of science in nuclear physics from the Naval Postgraduate School, Special speaker at the ceremony was Rear Adm. Ernest F. Tedeschi Jr., commander, Naval Base San Francisco and Logistics Group ONE.

Honored during the ceremony, also was Cmdr. David J. Applegate, retiring after 20 years in the Navy. He was serving as executive officer of the Berkley NROTC.

During his career in the Navy, Coneway served in a number of positions. He was commanding officer of the USS Vandegrift from 1983 to 1987 and the USS Truxtun from 1987 to 1990.

While serving aboard the USS Stoddard from 1966 to 1969, Coneway saw extensive combat action off the coast of Vietnam. He was on the Stoddard when the ship was damaged by North Vietnamese shore batteries while rescuing four downed aviators.

He later served aboard the USS Carpenter, USS Sample, USS Bainbridge and USS Ponchatoula. He was executive officer of the Bainbridge during his second tour of duty aboard the ship.

Besides shipboard duty, he was assigned to senior officer ships material readiness course, Chief of Naval Operations, and Secretary of the Navy Office of Legislative Affairs. Coneway also served in the Chief of Naval Operations Navy Presentation office in Washington,

His last tour of duty was at the University of California at Berkley as Naval ROTC commanding officer and professor of naval science.

A former Hereford resident, Capt. the Meritorious Service Medal, the Clinton J. Coneway, has retired from Navy Commendation Medal, the Combat Action Ribbon and a number of Vietnam and Southwest Asia service and campaign medals.

His parents, R. Paul and Irene Coneway of Hereford, were among friends and relatives attending the retirement ceremony at the Berkley Yacht Club.

His wife, Greta, and their son, Chad Coneway, also were present, but a daughter, Jennifer was unable to attend. The son, a University of Texas student, was a surprise arrival at the ceremony. He had been serving on a midshipman cruise aboard a submarine.

Others attending the ceremony were Coneway's brothers and their families, including Steve, Nan, Amy, Josh and Shaun Coneway and Tom, Bettye, Lisa, Holly and Ben Coneway, Hereford residents. Accompanying the family, also, was an aunt, Barbara Goodall of Breckenridge. Greta Coneway's mother, Ethel Jacobs, and sister-inlaw, Trish Jacobs, both of San Jose, Cal., were among guests.

Captain Coneway has accepted a position with the Junior NROTC at Tascosa High School in Amarillo, beginning Sept. 1.

Jackson deals with debt as he eyes running in '96

By JOHN KING AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Eager to remove an obstacle to a possible third presidential run, Jesse Jackson is calling past supporters and allies seeking help retiring his 1988 campaign debt.

The sudden urgency to eliminate the seven-year-old debt comes as Jackson intensifies his criticism that President Clinton has turned his back on blacks and other traditional Democratic constituencies.

Jackson also is preparing for a meeting next week with ballot-access experts to discuss the hurdles to mounting an independent candidacy, the option he currently favors should he decide to enter the 1996 race.

"Retiring the debt gives me clear title and deed to my options for 1996," Jackson said in an interview. "The debt must be retired to move on and people are responding to help."

Federal Election Commission

records show the debt is just below $150,000, most of it owed to firms that provided legal and accounting advice to Jackson's unsuccessful 1988 campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. He also ran unsuccessfully in 1984.

In the interview, he said his desire to run has been increased by Clinton's decision to offer what Jackson called a "Republican Lite" balanced-budget plan and to conduct a review of federal affirmative action programs.

"He is reading the polls as opposed to providing true moral leadership," Jackson said. "He has the pulpit from which to make the case to challenge Americans to be better but so far he has decided to review and referee from the safety of the skybox instead of coming down to the field to lead."

Many Democrats, including longtime Jackson allies, attribute his recent stirrings to anger that Clinton has ignored him.

They predict Jackson ultimately will decide against running in 1996. However, one past ally who spoke with Jackson this week, said Jackson left him with the impression he had already decided to run as an independent.

Jackson said he had not made any decisions.

A top adviser said Jackson would wait until fall. The adviser, Frank Watkins, pointedly referred to upcoming congressional hearings on the Clintons' Whitewater land investment and related controversies and said it was still possible Clinton could face a Democratic primary challenge.

"Democrats in Congress may decide that Clinton has declared himself an independent, third-party candidate and they may decide to select a candidate for their own party because Clinton appears so uncomfortable in it," Watkins said. "We wouldn't hesitate at all to join others in a Democratic primary."

Scientists in Denmark identify gene that causes persistent bed-wetting

NEW YORK (AP) - Scientists say they've found the approximate location of a gene for persistent bed-wetting in children.

It's the first study to show that the problem can be caused by a single gene, said researcher Hans Eiberg. About 8 percent of 7-year-olds wet their beds at least three times a week without ever having had control over the problem. This is the pattern scientists studied in children past their seventh birthday.

The gene might be responsible for about half to three-quarters of such cases when the bed-wetting runs in the family, said Eiberg, a biochemist at the University of Copenhagen's Institute of Medical Biochemistry and Genetics in Denmark.

Bed-wetting disappears without any treatment in about 15 percent of affected children each year, and only rarely persists into adulthood.

Finding the bed-wetting gene might help scientists devise new treatments and lead to help in matching children to appropriate treatments, Eiberg said.

He and colleagues report the work in the July issue of the journal Nature Genetics.

The study dealt with persistent bed-wetters, rather than children who had been dry for at least six months but then started to wet the bed again.

Dr. George Kaplan, chief of pediatric urology at the University of California at San Diego, said persistent bed-wetting has long been known to run in families. But the new work is the first he knows of that tried to link it directly to a gene, he said.

"It does demonstrate pretty well that bed-wetting is an inherited trait, at least in some cases," and that it runs in families because of a gene rather than some parental practice such as the way the child is toilet-trained, he said.

Eiberg and colleagues studied 11 families with cases of persistent bed-wetting. The pattern of bed-wetting through generations suggested that a single gene was at work, causing the problem in more than 90 percent of children who inherited it, they said.

Report says hog inventory down

By TOM SEERY AP Business Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) - The met.' nation's hog inventory is down 1 percent from a year ago but farmers are planning to expand after an upturn in pork prices, according to a government report.

There were 60.2 million hogs on the nation's farms on June 1, for June through August are down 2 according to the quarterly inventory report issued Friday by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

That is down 1 percent from a year ago but up 3 percent from the March 1 report. Iowa remains the nation's leader with 14.5 million hogs on June 1. That is down 3 percent from a year ago but up 2 percent from the March

Hog prices have settled above 40 cents a pound in recent weeks for the first extended time since last summer, when they began a plunge that dipped under 30 cents. Friday's report showed farmers are increasing their fall intentions for farrowing, or tightening corn supply could send feed prices higher and change those plans, experts said.

In a separate report issued Friday, USDA said that corn planting is down 9 percent from a year ago in the nation, due in part to a wet spring that delayed planting across the Midwest.

"I think that would be very surprising that pork producers would indicate that they were going to expand," said Chris Hurt, a livestock marketing economist at Purdue University.

'There is the risk of higher feed costs," said Chuck Levitt, a livestock analyst for Alaron Trading of Chicago. "If something further happens to the crop, the chances are the farrowing intentions will not be

The report said the nation's farmers plan to increase farrowings from September through November by 1 percent from the same period last year, to a total of 3.03 million sows farrowing. Intended farrowings percent from that period last year, to 3.05 million sows farrowing.

"Fundamentally, it looks a little bit bearish to me," said Joe Arata, a livestock analyst for Merrill Lynch in New York, "Basically we have had three quarters of disastrous prices."

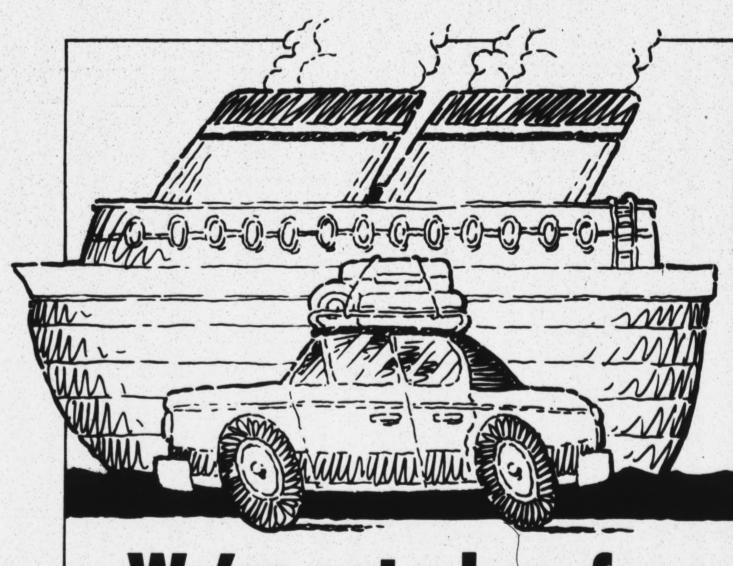

In Iowa, farmers plan to cut farrowings 6 percent in June through August to 665,000. Iowa farmers plan to cut September-November farrowings 1 percent to 650,000.

The nationwide expansion could be coming from the large-scale hog farms that are willing to ride out another period of depressed prices,

"If it's right I think it's an indicator that we have an industry that's much different, where the large farms are moving aggressively to take a larger share," Hurt said.

Although fall farrowing intentions are up, breeding herd numbers are down in the latest report. Iowa's breeding herd totaled 1.50 million on June 1, down 9 percent from a year earlier but up three percent from March. The breeding herd in North Carolina, where large-scale farms have proliferated, is up 12 percent from a year ago to 840,000.

Nationwide, the breeding herd is down 4 percent from a year ago to 7.25 million.

America observes Independence Day Tuesday, and Hereford and Deaf Smith County residents will again be treated to a special celebration at Veterans Park--thanks to the chamber of commerce with cooperation from the city and county.

Tuesday holidays just don't seem to fit into the scheme of things anymore, because you take off the weekend, return for one day, then have a holiday. Some holidays have been moved to Mondays, but not too many communities have changed their July 4th Celebrations to be part of the weekend.

Since The Brand does not publish on Mondays, a Tuesday holiday makes for an extended period of time between issues. And, the Wednesday paper becomes a "combined issue" since items usually run on Tuesday must be carried forward a day.

But as inconvenient as a Tuesday holiday is, we still feel the Fourth-like Christmas--should be observed on the designated date.

The story of "The Little Red Hen" is a classic fable that has been told to generations of youngsters to help teach them that you have to work for what you get.

An updated version by an unknown author has been making the rounds in a number of community newspapers. We think it is worth sharing with our readers:

Once upon a time there was a little red hen who, while scratching about the barnyard, found some grains of wheat. She called a meeting of her neighbors and said, "If we plant these wheat seeds, we will have bread to eat. Who will help me plant them?"

"Not I," said the cow. "Not I," said the duck. "Not I," said the pig. "And not I," said the goose.

"Then I'll bake the bread," said the little red hen. And she baked five loaves and then showed her neighbors. They all wanted some of the freshly-baked bread. In fact, they all demanded a share.

"Equal rights!" honked the goose. The duck just quacked and quacked. And they immediately painted "Unfair!" signs and picketed the barnyard chanting and cussing.

A government agent came and said to the little red hen, "You mustn't be so greedy."

But I planted, harvested and baked this wheat into bread all by myself," said the little red hen.

"Precisely," said the government igent. "That is our wonderful system of government at work! Anyone in this barnyard can earn as much as he or she wants. But under government regulations, the productive workers must divide their product with the triumvirate. Now, apple pie, I can live without. Motherhood? Been there, done that. But, July Fourth -- there's a date never to forget.

motherhood. An All-American

And, what would the holiday be without fireworks? Fortunately, cities and towns have found ways to Roman candles lit up the skies. And, celebrate the day with fireworks without the threat of bodily injury. Big, expensive community-wide displays are meant to replace individuals lighting the skies with their fireworks.

The most spectacular Fourth of July fireworks I ever saw occurred about 10 years ago while I sat at dinner, somewhere in the stratosphere, in the Rainbow Grill of the 70-story RCA Building in New York City. We were at a table that allowed a view south to lower Manhattan and a look north to Central Park.

Huge fireworks displays were being exploded in both directions. We needed swivel heads to enjoy both. When that excitement had subsided, we drove through Chinatown where the celebration was still going on.

To my amazement, the streets were covered with spent firecrackers. Looking toward the curb, we could see the paper and cardboard piled ankle-deep. It would seem that in Chinatown they were shooting their own fireworks rather than watching the free shows.

Legislation at all levels of government has been enacted to exert some control over fireworks, and sale of the materials, but the danger continues. Prairie fires have been ignited by indiscriminate use of fireworks. People have been burned because they misused the firecrakers.

And, it's all too bad because when times were less stressful and we didn't know as much as we do now, shooting fireworks was an exciting

When I was too young to play with matches, my parents entrusted my mother's younger brother to light firecrackers for me. We collected tin cans and he placed the firecracker, or string of firecrackers, on the ground, lit the fuse, covered it with the can

July Fourth, apple pie and and ran like the wind.

I can still remember the noise that reverberated in the can. Often, the charge blew the can into the air. Altitude reached by the can was dependent on the amount of powder in the firecracker. Shooting firecrackers was for daytime fun. When darkness came, skyrockets and we waved sparklers, tracing lazy figure eights, big circles and boxes.

Thinking back, I have to believe there was opportunity for lots more accidents than were sustained. Since there wasn't much money to buy fireworks, though, the chance of injury probably was reduced.

There's a little kid in every adult and mine jumps up and down when fireworks are exploded. When those little fireballs climb into the air and explode into millions of trails, creating giant designs in living color, I feel a burst of adrenaline that could propel me aloft.

Firecrackers can be scary to small children and pets. We once had a dog that hid under the bed at the first pop and didn't come out until the season

And, to preach a little bit, the fireworks are only a symbol. Other cultures have exploded fireworks in celebrations for hundreds, if not thousands, of years. America is the new kid on the block, so it's only fitting fireworks are used to celebrate the country's most important event.

Symphony orchestras will play stirring music on July Fourth and fireworks will be exploded in time with the music. National television will show the whole country what music and fireworks can accomplish

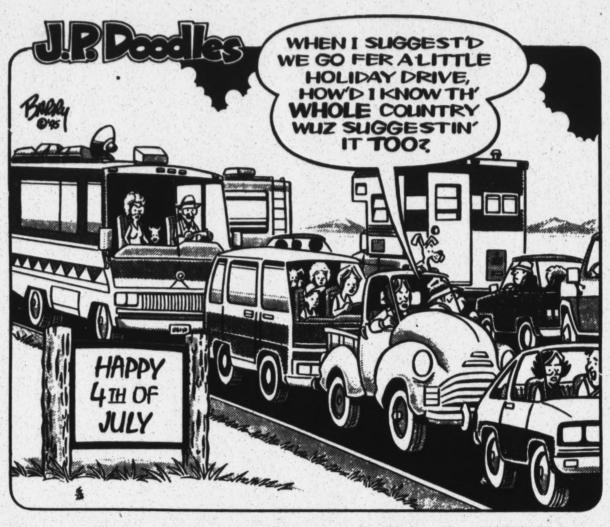

Speaking of music, I am slightly surprised everytime I hear "1812 Overture" on July Fourth. Written by the Russian, Tchaikovsky, in 1880, the musical piece has become a favorite on a distinctive American holiday.

Patriotic songs will ring out, people will picnic in parks, or watch parades, waving tiny American flags, and bands will belt out Sousa marches. All for good reason. Happy birthday, America!

Check your American Flag this year

Well, Independence Day is

If you plan to get your flag out and fly it for the holiday, please take a good look at it first.

I have seen many flags around town -- many of them on government buildings and businesses -- that are being flown even though they are faded, stained, tattered and torn. The American Flag is the symbol of our country and I believe if we are going to go to the trouble of protecting it with a special Constitutional amendment, then we ought to at least respect it enough to make sure it looks its best on that pole.

If you have a flag that is past its prime, the American Legion here will take care of disposal for you. I talked to Dr. Milton Adams and Roger Eades, both members of the group, and they said they are willing to collect old flags that need to be disposed of.

Dr. Adams said the group conducts a ceremony annually. Federal law certain ways and the American taken care of with proper respect and Dr. Adams said the group can provide a safe and respectful storage place for old flags until the time of the ceremony.

So, Dr. Adams's office is at 335

N. Miles and Eades's office is at 205 E. Park Avenue. Also, you can contact individual American Legion members to given them an old flag.

Out of the Blue

I -- and the American Legion -would urge all of you to take a good hard look at your flags before flying them this Independence Day.

If the flag is worn out, give it to these fine men and invest in a new

It's a small price to pay when compared with what so many paid to give us the right to fly it with pride.

By the way, don't forget that it is illegal to possess fireworks in town. I know I've harped on this quite bit, but it seems to me that requires flags be disposed of only in Independence Day is such an important holiday in the history of Legion is there to make sure they are our country that we don't need to spoil it with a trip to the emergency room, or by burning down our house (or a neighbor's, for that matter). I know it's fun to set off stuff, but it seems like a big price to pay if you have to pay a ticket, a hospital bill or buy a new house.

After all, the chamber's fireworks display is going to be free, a lot more impressive than what you could pull off in your back yard and quite a bit more legal and safe.

Well, on to other things.

I guess you noticed that the Supreme Court has handed down some interesting rulings lately. One that may not have gotten much press but that I see as very important was the ruling on studentled prayers at graduation. This is the second such case the High Court has acted on. Two years ago the justices upheld a Texas case that allowed student-led graduations. This latest one was from Idano generally affects the nine states in the invocations and benedictions at 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Seems to me like people would get the idea that the Supreme Court does not feel it's wrong for students to pray at graduation and would quit making such a big deal out of it.

I'm glad the court is beginning to return some religious rights to us after so much hassle.

I only hope and pray that there will be a continued easing of religious liberties in this country.

I mean, just thing how nice it would be if we could have prayer back in the schools, if churches could use public buildings with freedom, and if nativity scenes could once again be placed at public buildings.

Finally, just a brief note. Walt Disney Co. has created a new company -- Excalibur Films -- out of its Miramax Films.

The new company will be able to release movies rated NC-17 (what used to be X) that the other two couldn't handle.

The new company will release "Kids," an explicit account of teens, sex and drugs that includes a character who "specializes" in having sex with 14-year-old girls. Disney also owns at least one book homosexual books recently, and encourages homosexuals to visit Disney World each year to show their "gay pride." Is it any wonder that the American

Protecting the flag

BY CONGRESSMAN LARRY COMBEST

U.S. Rep., 19th Congressional District
In time for the nation's 219th birthday, the U.S. House of Representatives has passed a Constitutional Amendment to allow Congress and the states to enact their own laws to prohibit the physical desecration of the American Flag. I cosponsored and voted for the amendment.

Forty-nine states have passed resolutions for Congress to send them what could be ratified by three-fourths of state legislatures as the 28th Amendment. First, the U.S. Senate must follow the House and also approve the proposed amendment by two-thirds vote.

The resolution simply states that Congress and the states shall have the power to prohibit the physical desecration of the flag of the United States. States and Congress lost that power when the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the State of Texas' misdemeanor conviction of a man who publicly burned a stolen American Flag outside the 1984 Republican National Convention in Dallas. Justices voted to narrowly reject the law as inconsistent with "symbolic free expression." The Court also rejected Congress' 1989 Flag Protection Act. The Justices found fault with the laws, but not with Conservative Justice William Rehnquist wrote in favor of preventing flag desecration, noting that the unique history of the American Flag "is not simply another idea or point of view. Millions and millions of Americans regard it with an almost mystical reverence regardless of what sort of social, political or philosophical beliefs they may have." Even liberal Justice John Paul Stevens, who voted to strike down the flag laws, noted that Congress and the states may legally prevent some methods of expression by passing laws that do not interfere with the freedom of protestors to express their views in other ways.

The proposed amendment makes clear that desecration of the flag means physical contact with the flag, demonstrating contempt. Law dictionaries define desecrate as "violating the sanctity of, to profane, or to put to unworthy use." Congress and state legislatures would then be allowed to pass laws prohibiting burning, shredding and other similar desecration of the flag, such as throwing garbage or other waste on the flag.

There is a limit to free speech and free expression when someone shouts obscenities or "fighting words." Opponents claim there is no need four our Flag Amendment because the despicable action of burning the American Flag is foolishly counter-productive to the protestor's own message.

They miss the point. Flag burners are certainly not winning friends with their tactic, but when the degrade the flag that school children learn to respect, the flag our soldiers rally to in battle, and the flag covering those coffins of American heroes, they do it precisely to say that your patriotism is useless, your heroism is hollow and your sacrifice for country

Now those are fightin' words!

The Texas City Sun on militias:

Hating the government is understandable, especially the federal government. Newspapers and other forms of mass media remind people every day about bloated bureaucracies, port barrel spending, income tax loopholes for the rich, golden parachutes for the politically astute. There are so many good reasons who government stinks - but none of them reason enough to take an innocent life. None of them significant enough to bear arms and rise against the police, the bureaucracy, the social structure.

A government as large as America's can't help but be corrupt, because many people, sadly, have a tendency to choose corruption over honesty. Everybody feels entitled to his share; if one guy's doing it - stealing, cheating, hiding this, inflating that - they all want a piece of the pie

Still there are many things that would not be possible if not for the federal government. The foods we eat, the roads upon which we drive, the on-the-job protections we enjoy, the mail service, the aviation regulations - all are affected by decisions made in Washington associated with the federal government. It is government "for the people," and to be truly for "all" the people, a certain amount of corruption, unfairness and aggravation must result and must be accepted.

Many militias have no temperance for such annoyances. The bad ones should be put out of business and run out of the country, before they use the readily available resources of the nuclear and electronic ages to achieve their twisted aims.

Big Spring Herald on speed limits: Varoom! Varoom! That's right, the U.S. Senate has voted 65-35 to scind the federal speed limit of 55 mph, leaving it up to the states themselves

This is good news since the states were virtually blackmailed into putting it into effect. Remember, no 55 mph, no federal funds for highways.

Has the 55 mph speed limit been a success? The speed limit was imposed in 1974 for both safety and energy-saving reasons. The decline in highway deaths helped safety experts to keep the law on the books.

It has never been a favorite law. In states such as Texas, Montana, Wyoming - where everything is on the other side of nowhere - 55 mph was a strain that most motorists ignored. ...

Now, the measure faces the House, where it is not certain it will pass. If it does, we will have to learn to be better drivers, more defensive and more responsible. But it is worth the effort.

Del Rio, Uvalde areas have rich history to share with tourists to 'Southwest Texas Badlands'

Badlands" can trace a rich and diverse tapestry of Texas history. From the 4,000-year-old cave paintings of some of the earliest Texans, Del Rio and Uvalde offer a wide myriad of activities for the Texas traveler.

Although the words "Texas history" conjure up images of Spaniards, cowboys, and the Alamo, there were residents here long before the first settler stepped off a ship from the Old World.

Forty-five miles to the west of Del Rio, cave paintings more than 4,000 years old provide evidence of 'these primitive Texans. Visitors can see these early specimens of Texas art at Fate Bell Shelter in Seminole Canyon State Historical Park. Located in Val Verde County, Fate Bell Shelter can only be seen as part of a guided tour. Camping facilities in Seminole Canyon are also available with reservations. 915/292-4464.

Over 3,200 years after the cave painters left their mark in Texas, the Spaniards and Mexicans arrived. The Mexican influence is still very prominent today in Del Rio, "The Queen City of the Rio Grande," and its Mexican sister city, Cuidad Acuña. Visitors to Cuidad Acuña can sample from the large selection of restaurants, bars, and shops across the border. Prices tend to be lower across the river and since Del Rio is closer to the major metropolitan areas of Texas than many border towns, it is easy to take a quick and inexpensive trip across the Rio Grande.

In Del Rio, the Whitehead Memorial Museum chronicles the Old West of the late 1800s. Visitors to the outdoor museum visit the original Perry Store, a trading post from 1870 which serviced both Texas and Mexico. Also on the museum grounds is a replica of the Jersey Lilly, a court and saloon in which Judge Roy Bean dispensed justice in a unique, homespun way during his reign as "The Law West of the Pecos" in the 1880s.

As the area continued to evolve, more civilized elements began to emerge. The Val Verde Winery in Del Rio is the oldest bonded winery in Texas. The Italian Qualia family has run the winery since its inception in 1883. Several of the eight wines produced here have received acclaim from serious wine connoisseurs.

At the Uvalde Grand Opera House in the historic downtown, visitors can find a restored opera house and museum, originally built in 1891. Although free tours are available, the theater is still used often for a variety of performances.

During the Depression Era, President Franklin D. Roosevelt initiated programs to improve the country and utilize its work force. In 1935, the Civilian Conservation Corps built Garner State Park. Named after John Nance Garner, Uvalde native and Roosevelt's Vice President, Garner State Park's role in the New Deal pales next to the natural beauty and variety of activi-

> Emerging from the Depression, the United States entered World War II. The Laughlin Air Force Base, eight miles east of Del Rio, was activated in 1942 to train pilots to fly the B-26 medium bomber. Today, it is responsible for training new pilots for the U.S. Air Force and allied nations. Tour groups are welcome and guided tours are available on weekdays with three weeks advance

Halfway between Del Rio and Uvalde, the Alamo Village Movie Location is a working movie set built for the 1959 John Wayne epic The Alamo. It features an authentic replica of the Alamo and a neighboring Old West town. The set has been used recently for the television miniseries Lonesome Dove and James Michener's Texas. Visitors are welcome to explore the movie set and will find that filming still takes place and that during summer months, music, melodramas, and staged gunfights are offered.

In 1969, U.S. President Richard M. Nixon and Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz dedicated the dam that created the Amistad Lake and Recreation Area. The dam has created 850 miles of scenic shoreline along the Rio Grande. Visitors driving across the toll-free dam into Mexico will notice that the midpoint is marked with seven-foot American and Mexican Eagles, signifying the friendship between the two nations.

In a once arid and dry location, there is now a lush lake and recreation area popular with fishers, swimmers, boaters, water-skiers, hikers, and campers. This beautiful lake is a monument to the combined efforts and goodwill of the two neighboring countries. Today, it is a fantastic place to enjoy gorgeous, sunny South Texas days.

Every August, sail plane enthusiasts take to the air in Uvalde while spectators watch them participate in a series of grand soaring events. Piloting small, one-man aircrafts with enormous wingspans, competitors seek to complete a series of tasks in order to win first prize. The bright and sunny Uvalde climate is superb for this competitive sport.

From the cave walls of Fate Bell Shelter to the soaring skies of Uvalde, come see the tradition and legacy of Southwest Texas in Del Rio and Uvalde. WIMBLEDON, England (AP) -They are playing on grass at Wimbledon. Barely.

The closely cropped blades on Centre Court are wilting faster than the hundreds of fans - and one player - treated for heat exhaustion during the championships' first week.

The luscious green court christened by Pete Sampras on Monday is now scarred with brown dead patches and four growing bald spots along both service lines.

The court usually doesn't look like this until well into the second week, and the T-shirted workman vigorously shaking the nozzle of the yellow water hose at the end of play Friday seemed to be toiling in vain.

The stifling heat, combined with a lack of rain, has dictated a blistering pace of play during Wimbledon's first five days, negating the effects of the new, softer balls designed to slow the winners and three-stroke volleys. According to the players, there is another culprit: shorter grass.

'Until they stop cutting the grass shorter and shorter as the tournament goes on, it's always going to be fast," said the 14th-seeded Martin, who hit 21 aces in a 6-3, 4-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 over fellow American Derrick Rostagno. "The court today was 20-25 percent faster than it was just two days ago, and the grass is dying quickly. I can guarantee you it is getting cut shorter. In my little lawnmowing experience that I have, the shorter you cut it, the easier it dies."

Zina Garrison Jackson, who lost 6-1, 6-2 in her 13th and final Wimbledon appearance to secondseeded Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, agreed. The big difference for the women, she said, was that the conditions actually made their games

"It's not true grass," the grasscourt specialist said after losing to a like a hard court right now. They've cut it shorter. The balls are heavier. I was hitting a lot of balls over (the height of) my head, whereas on true grass you don't usually get that."

The All England Club denies the grass has been cut any shorter than in previous years, and it all seemed to make little difference to Arnaud Boetsch as he helplessly watched fourth-seeded Ivanisevic scorch 21 aces in a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 victory.

"Even on a second serve, you can't see anything," Boetsch said of the left-handed Croat, who plays Martin in the fourth round Monday.

Two-time defending champion Sampras hit 18 aces in a 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2 win over American doubles specialist Jared Palmer, and Rusedski - Sampras' next opponent - blew 36 past Olivier Delaitre in a 6-7 (8-6), 6-4, 6-4, 7-6 (7-3) triumph.

Murray gets hit No. 3,

By BEN WALKER

P Baseball Writer Eddle Murray was certain to get his 3,000th hit, the same way Lee

Smith seems sure to get 30 saves.

It's just that it's taking Smith a little longer these days.

Smith blew his second save chance in three days Friday night, giving up Mark McGwire's grand slam with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning and rallying the Oakland Athletics over California 8-5.

"I have no excuses in that situation, it happened," Smith said. In other games, Texas beat Seattle 10-2, Milwaukee defeated New York 12-6, Kansas City edged Chicago 1-0, Detroit downed Boston 7-6 and Toronto beat Baltimore 6-5.

Smith, baseball's career saves leader, was successful in his first 19 save chances this season. But he gave up three runs in the ninth at Texas on Wednesday - the first time he'd been scored on this year - and failed to hold another lead against the A's.

Smith has gotten 30 saves in nine seasons, more than any pitcher. Last year with Baltimore, he had a similar pattern - he converted 20 of his first 21 chances before struggling.

The Athletics loaded the bases with one out on a double by Mike Bordick, a single by Rickey Henderson and an intentional walk. After Ruben Sierra struck out, McGwire hit his major league-leading 22nd home run.

McGwire leads the majors with 55 RBIs. He hit his sixth career slam, and first since June 13, 1992.

The Angels took a 5-4 lead in the ninth on Greg Myers' RBI double with two outs off Dennis Eckersley (1-2), but the A's came back against Smith (0-2).

Indians 4, Twins 1

Eddie Murray, a model of consistency since breaking into the big leagues in 1977, became the 20th player to get 3,000 hits.

Murray, 39, reached the mark with a single in the sixth inning off Mike Trombley at the Metrodome. Murray and Pete Rose are the only switch-hitters to make it to 3,000 _ Murray has 2,045 left-handed and 955 right-handed.

The crowd of 27,416 gave Murray a standing ovation, and highlights of his career were shown on the scoreboard. He raised his hands over his head to acknowledge the cheers.

Cleveland teammate Dave Winfield was the first player to run on the field and greet Murray. Winfield was the last player to get

Rangers allowed to bring children to ballpark

Kid-friendly policy brings family atmosphere to Ballpark at Arlington

Fort Worth Star-Telegram ARLINGTON, Texas - Tyler

Tettleton, being a normal 4-year-old, is getting a little antsy.

His father, Rangers designated hitter/outfielder Mickey Tettleton, has told Tyler to stay on the top step of the dugout while he takes batting practice.

Tyler obeys for a few minutes, but now he is beginning to inch forward. He moves onto the dirt outside the dugout, keeping a wary eye on his father. Mickey doesn't notice, so Tyler puts a foot on the grass. The only response is a few encouraging smiles from players in the dugout, so Tyler moves all the way onto the grass and then takes a couple of steps forward.

Finally, Mickey sees him, motions Tyler back toward the dugout and the boy retreats with a big smile on his

"It's definitely a chore to keep up with him," Tettleton said. "But he's a good kid, as they all are around here. It's just a lot of fun to have them around.'

are the sons and 'They" daughters of the Rangers' players, and at least a few of them are around before, during and after every game at The Ballpark in Arlington.

Manager Johnny Oates considers come into the clubhouse after the baseball, and he encourages his players to bring their children to the

"As long as the children know where they're supposed to be and how they are supposed to act, I think it's great to have them around," Oates said. "This is a good chance for them to spend time together."

On a typical day, the outfield will be full of father-son combinations during batting practice.

When he is finished hitting, Tettleton takes Tyler in the outfield. They stand around in a group that often includes catcher David Valle and his 9-year-old-son, Philip; relief pitcher Jeff Russell and his two sons, -year-old James and 6-year-old Casey; and relief pitcher Roger McDowell and his 6-year-old son, Third baseman Mike Pagliarulo's 8-year-old son, Michael, also might be shagging, along with three of clubhouse manager Zack Minasian's sons, Perry (15), Calvin (13) and Zack Jr. (12).

"It's nice," Pagliarulo said. "Baseball can be very difficult on your family lifestyle when you can't be around your kids."

Some of the younger children family to be every bit as important as game. Pitcher Bob Tewksbury has his 3-year-old son, Griffin, and his 19-month-old daughter, Jenna. Pitcher Kenny Rogers frequently is seen carrying his daughter, 18-month-old Jessica. Juan Gonzalez's 3-year-old son, Juan Igor, and Ivan Rodriguez's 3-year-old son, Ivan Dereck, also are regular visitors.

"It's good to have kids around." said 22-year-old shortstop Benji Gil, after trying to impress Michael Pagliarulo with his ability to toss dirty clothes over his head and into a hamper. "They're closer to my age than some of the veterans.'

The Rangers dads enjoy a rare privilege. Not every club is as relaxed with its rules regarding children. Some teams allow children in the clubhouse only after victories; other teams would just as soon not see them

This is Tettleton's fourth team, and the first he's played on that allows children on the field during batting

It also is the fourth team for Tewksbury, and he never before had seen players actively encouraged to have their families around.

"That's really unique in managers," Tewksbury said. "That's special, and I don't think there's a guy in the clubhouse who doesn't appreciate it."

Oates encourages it because he knows how difficult the baseball lifestyle can be on families.

He has been a player, coach and manager while his three children, Lori (now 23), Andy (19) and Jenny (16) grew up. He knows that spring training, road trips and night games keep players away from their wives and children.

everyone thinks," he said. "There's a lot of problems that arise."

It was easier when Andy was there, "I've always liked having my son around," he said. "It's always been Oates wants his players to have the same experience, although there are few ground rules. The fathers have to be with their sons when they are on the field, to make sure they don't get in the way or get

And the sons cannot interfere with the players' pregame preparation, either on the field or in the clubhouse.

"As long as the fathers lay those guidelines down to their sons, it's going to work," Oates said. "The kids want to be here so bad, they're not going to do anything to risk it. They don't run all over the clubhouse asking Will Clark for his autograph. These kids have created no problems whatsoever."

The 49-year-old Oates isn't just an overseer, making sure no one breaks the rules. He remembered how thrilled Andy was the day he caught a fly ball during batting practice and called all the boys together one day and told them

"I challenged these kids to do that," Oates said. "Can you imagine the thrill of catching a Juan Gonzalez ball in batting practice?"

Oates told them to get that first fly ball signed by the player who hit it. Philip Valle was the first to do it, catching a ball hit by Mark McLemore. As big a thrill as that was for Philip Valle, it's a bigger one for David just having his son around.

"I'm at the end of my career," the 34-year-old backup catcher said. "For him to get a glimpse of my life on an "It's just not as glamorous as everyday basis is great. For me, the most important thing is him being with me. My son's place is with his dad." Russell also enjoys having his two sons around. "They enjoy being in the clubhouse," he said. "I don't know if it's the new stuff they get (gloves and shoes) or the candy. My daughter (3-year-old Carley) is the one who wants to come out. I bring her candy. and she wants to know where it comes from."

The clubhouse is not just new stuff and candy, though. It's also a group of intense men sometimes using words not fit for young children.

"They hear a little bit too much language," Russell said. "But I guess if they are brought up well enough, Press want is to see their dad.

On the other hand, the presence of the children tends to keep the language cleaner and contribute to

Tech coaches, fans celebrate four titles

By JEAN PAGEL

Associated Press Writer LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Raider Red, the gun-slingin' goof that hypes every Texas Tech triumph, can swagger a bit more proud these days around other Southwest Conference

West Texans like to brag that 1994-95 turned out a good year for Tech sports. And so it was.

Four SWC championships football, women's basketball, men's basketball and baseball - came Lubbock's way during the school year that just ended.

Arkansas did it in 1989-90. But no one else can make such a claim. 'What are the odds? I don't know,

I'm not a bettor," said athletic director Bob Bockrath. What Bockrath does know is this:

The four SWC crowns wouldn't have wound up in Texas Tech hands without committed coaches, overachieving athletes and a little

They got partying practice in 1993 after Red Raider women won the NCAA basketball title and brought Tech its first-ever national championship.

But this past year was fun, too. Lubbock dignitaries toasted the coaches with a ceremony at city hall. About 30 businesses formed the Committee for Champions to boost attendance at games.

Women's basketball coach Marsha Sharp talked about a special atmosphere that took root as the four championships accumulated.

"It was exciting," said Sharp, whose team finished at 33-4 after losing to Tennessee in the NCAA's Elite Eight round. "It was a lot of fun to be a part of that all across the board."

Good things mounted for Tech when the '94 football team joined a five-way tie for first in the conference.

55-14, by Southern Cal. But the point was, they were there for the first time since 1939.

Men's basketball, meanwhile, tied Texas for the conference title. Washington State then booted Tech (20-10) from the National Invitational Tournament.

And the Tech baseball team (51-14) lost a heartbreaker to Stanford on May 30 to fall one victory shy of a debut appearance at the College World Series. Baseball coach Larry Hays said his players benefited from the momentum that Tech's three other champion squads had generated.

"We also felt some pressure," Hays said.

Tech officials hope the quadratitled year will yield a rich payoff in terms of recruiting and attracting crowds to games. They also expect a nice plug to their image as they prepare to enter the new Big 12 Conference with Texas, Texas A&M and Baylor.

What it does is it gives us some credibility and notoriety," Bockrath said. "To get respect you need to earn it. Probably this past year we took a giant step forward toward getting that respect."

No one around the Tech sports offices seems ready to predict another four-way Red Raider sweep next year as the SWC shuts down. Competition looks too tough.

For starters: Tech football coach Spike Dykes expects a gridiron dogfight this fall from Texas A&M, a powerhouse freed now from NCAA sanctions.

But winning a championship proved something at Tech, where no football title had gone in almost 20 years and the players figured such things were myths, Dykes said. 'It makes realities out of maybe dreams."

The 1992 Super Bowl and the 1991 The Red Raiders advanced to the World Series both were played in the Cotton Bowl - and got crushed, Metrodome in Minneapolis.

Efficient use of water causes farmers to irrigate less acres

LUBBOCK -- Texas Farmers are irrigating fewer acres of cropland and adopting new methods which make more efficient use of water, a fiveyear study by scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station here has found.

A furrow irrigation system, which is not very sophisticated, has the lowest level of water application efficiency, somewhere around 40 or 50 percent.

Other systems include gated pipe, sprinkler high pressure, sprinkler low pressure and a low energy precision application (LEPA). The water application efficiency of all these systems is different. It can rage from 70 percent with the gated pipe to 98 or 99 percent with the LEPA system.

Over time the proportion of acres under the different systems has changed.

We wanted to find out what should be the optimal level of adoption for these advance irrigation systems," said Segarra.

Trucking companies say 300,000 new drivers will be required annually over next 10 years

By SUSAN HIGHTOWER AP Business Writer

"Hey, pretty baby, don't you know it ain't my fault "Love to hear the steel belts hummin' on the asphalt. "Wake up in the middle of the night in a truck stop,

'Stumblin' to the restaurant, wonderin' why I don't stop." - Steve Earle, "Guitar Town."

CARL'S CORNER, Texas (AP) -Ed Owen loves this job.

He's heading home to San Antonio, bearing a load of aluminum in a white Fisher Freight rig with bold red lettering. The tall, dark-haired 36-year-old in a blue striped shirt and sandals leads his pre-teen-age son and daughter, who ride with him in the summer, past a half-dozen humming rigs into this famed truck stop an hour south of Dallas on a baking 96-degree

Owen has even more reason to love his job now. Since the first of the year, Fisher has provided him with insurance and a nearly 10 percent pay raise, to 23 cents per mile.

Many trucking companies are taking similar steps to try to recruit and retain precious Ed Owens in the midst of a persistent shortage of long-haul truck drivers.

You can quit one place and take your pick of where you want to go to work tomorrow," said Owen, who's been at it four years. "Driving the truck, I think it's the lifestyle. You're either a gypsy or you're not a gypsy," he said.

While the shortage has eased with the slowing economy from the Bee Trucking Inc. "epidemic" levels that led to some parked rigs in 1994, it still persists, his wife and three children, now industry analysts say.

According to one recent study. the newspaper is the main source of information on real estate, job market and automotive trends. Newspaper ads were considered most helpful in dealer selection by 43 percent of respondents. The year, perhaps the best in five or six years, it's still a nightmare compared to what most industries have to do to find a pool of qualified workers," said Thom Albrecht, a transportation analyst for A.G. Edwards & Sons.

There are roughly 2 million professional over-the-road drivers, and the American Trucking Associations estimates that 300,000 new drivers will be needed each year for the next 10 years. The industry's turnover may run as high as 60 percent to 80 percent a year, Albrecht said.

"A lot of companies still say they're having trouble finding drivers for long-haul work in particular," said Ken Simonson, the ATA's chief economist.

"It's one of the major problems facing the trucking industry today," said Charles Reimer, president of Little Rock, Ark.-based Cal-Ark International Inc. "It is at times hard to take on new business if we don't have enough drivers to operate the equipment.

Reasons for the shortage are numerous. Most often cited is the dreary lifestyle, with weeks away from home and many nights spent sleeping in the cab.

Long-haul truckers, who typically earn around $30,000 to $40,000 per year, often can make the same money doing easier work that doesn't keep them on the road up to 300 days a

"It takes a special type of family easiest job I've ever had. But it's the to put up with a truck driver because you're gone all the time," said Al Goralewicz, 53, who was hauling a load of candy for San Antonio-based Goralewicz said he gets home to grown, about two or three days of every 10.

"It's a lonesome life out there," agreed Carmen Nelson, 51, of Missoula, Mont., an independent trucker along with husband, Willard.

Just as bad can be the ill treatment and lack of respect from dispatchers, motorists and especially receivers where drivers unload. Warehouse workers sometimes won't even let truck drivers use the bathroom. telephone or vending machines, ATA officials said.

"It's a tiresome job anymore. It's a non-thank you job," said Ted Stoneback, 60, as he pumped gas into his cylindrical silver truck ferrying liquid chocolate between M&M plants in Waco and Cleveland, Tenn.

"Even though this year's a better and stuff," said Stoneback, who's been driving for nearly four decades. drivers.

Other problems include the shrinking demographic pool of people age 21 to 40; downsizing of the military, which traditionally has been a driver source; and the requirement that long-haul truck drivers be at least 21 years old, missing workers who pick another career straight out of high school.

Government regulations, the 1992 standardized commercial driver's license, drug and alcohol testing, and the 1993 cut in the tax deduction for business meals also get some of the

In response, many trucking companies have raised pay and added driver benefits over the past year. Albrecht predicted that pay, which fell behind inflation in the 1980s, will continue to rise in coming years.

Some contranies also are adding sleeper cabs and better communications equipment in the rigs, and addressing other quality of life issues - "making sure dispatchers realize the drivers are really the stars in this business," Albrecht said.

Recruiting - at an average $3,000 to $5,000 per head - also is becoming an institutionalized cost for trucking companies, he said.

For instance, Schneider National Carriers Inc., the nation's largest hauler of full-truckload freight, is one of several companies advertising for drivers in The Dallas Morning News and holding area driver hiring fairs.

Schneider raised its pay last year and emphasizes in recruiting materials that it gets 80 percent of its drivers home every week. In the trucking industry, probably the biggest flaw that we have in hiring and retaining drivers is the ability to get them home," said Mike Norder, spokesman for the Green Bay, Wisc.-based company with some 12,000

Cal-Ark also is running newspaper ads in much of the country and puts a major emphasis on recruiting, president Reimer said.

The company began increasing pay and benefits in March is improving driver facilities. In addition, Cal-Ark is trying to get its 330 drivers home more often by shifting to regional

'We just try to change our freight lanes a little bit in order to accommodate the drivers," Reimer said. "We try to get freight that will bring drivers close to the house."

"There are people who live to drive these big rigs. They love it,' said Laurie Baulig, the ATA's vice president for labor and human resources policy.

"But the industry needs to look at how we can make that job better for Guerrero Viejo structures. Many, like them so they don't leave and go somewhere else."

By CAROLYN WATERS

"The journey of a thousand miles starts with a single step." Wouldn't it be great if we could take each child as he enters kindergarten and tell them we're to be on a journey for the next thirteen years that will prepare them for their place in this world? Our travel plans would include stopping off at great moments in literature and spending time with the human mind and how it works. They could sample challenges of philosophy and sociology and learn why people act the way they do, explore the world of science and technology and learn to interact with people outside their own family. With their different cultural backgrounds, religious views and values, they could learn so much about themselves and others, their capacity for learning and where it will take them, as well as explore their own mental discipline and where they fit into the universe.

They should pack lightly for this journey... only imagination and curiosity as they begin because they can pick up so much along the way... but they only have thirteen years!

They will experience boredom, tedium and even absurdity but this is true in life from time to time! By the time they reach the junior high pared for many more ex as they travel the last half of the journey. The more they have shared with their families, the more involved the family could become.

Their summer vacation, or another rest stop, will soon be over and the journey will proceed. Do be sure that your child is packed and ready! If you have not visited the Deaf Smith County Museum recently, we urge you to tour the entire facility. Junior Historians helped with the World War II exhibit. Artifacts from many people in the community are on display. This would be an excellent family activity as there is something there

Hereford Flame Fellowship to hold meeting in HCC

It all begins Monday!

ETCetera!

Hereford Flame Fellowship will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Hereford Community Center.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Nancy James of Tulsa, Okla. She is a graduate of Rhema Bible Training Center of Broken Arrow, Okla., Victory Bible Institute of Tulsa. Okla., and Penn Valley Junior College of Kansas City, Kan.

Rev. James ministers at seminars, ladies meetings and revivals.

On July 17, 1981, while she was cashiering at the Tea Dance at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, she became one of the victims of the collapse of the skywalk which killed 212 people and injured 189. She has a testimony of God's sustaining power during her pain and suffering.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Smith to represent Hereford, Panhandle during Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant

Lifestyle Editor

Mandy Smith gave a one-woman style show at the Hereford Country Club. She called bingo for residents at King's Manor. She served as guest deejay on KPAN for a day. She was a guest at Rotary.

These activities in Hereford and similar activities in Booker and Perryton are all part of her responsibilities as Miss Top of Texas.

But she faces her biggest challenge in Fort Worth July 5-8 when she represents Hereford and surrounding Panhandle towns in the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant.

Miss Smith will be judged in four teacher at Hereford High School, phases of competition. Talent will be attempting to improve her self-40 percent of her total score, expression and ability to express her interview will be 30 percent, on-stage personality in evening wear will be 15 percent, and physical fitness in swimsuit will be 15 percent.

"I am really getting excited," she said, "but I feel more confident than I did last year.

She competed in last year's Miss Texas Pageant as Miss Lake

She has been through 13 preliminary pageants this year, including the one in Hereford where she was named Miss Top of Texas. She has also worked with Lana Hall, a speech expression and ability to express her ews on a wide range of subjects. Her platform is proper nutritional education and exercise habits for elementary children.

"I believe we need to teach children the importance of good nutrition and physical fitness when they are young. Then they will not have to change their habits in later years. This should help reduce medical problems," said Miss Smith.

For her talent competition Miss Smith will perform a number from the Broadway musical, "Kiss of the Spider Woman." She will sing and perform pointe ballet.

The proper wardrobe is essential for all pageant contestants. Eleven different outfits comprise Miss Smith's wardrobe. She has some outfits that she has purchased, some her mother has made, and some that are being "recycled."

One of these is an evening gown which was worn 12 years ago in the Miss Texas Pageant. And one is an evening gown belonging to her dance teacher that her dance teacher's mother has altered and beaded.

Miss Smith, the daughter of Rick and Reola Smith of Booker, is 19 years old. She graduated from Booker High School and is currently studying broadcast journalism at the University of North Texas in Denton where she was on the 4.0 honor roll for both the fall and spring semesters.

She is the granddaughter of Melvin and Colleen Smith of Fritch. She has one brother, Jason, who is 15.

Her hobbies include playing golf and fly fishing, which she plans to enjoy doing while spending time at the family cabin in Colorado immediately after the conclusion of the Miss Texas Pageant.

MR. AND MRS. COREY JAMES ...exchange wedding vows

Struve, James Extension wedding held in Jamaica

Cami Rae Struve became the bride of Corey Todd James in an early afternoon ceremony on June 12, in the Sandels Resort in Montego Bay,

The bride is the daughter of Kerry and E.J. Struve of Hereford, and the bridegroom is the son of Joe and Jackie James of Muleshoe.

Witnessing the ceremony was Keren Campbell and Thad Jones both of Jamaica.

The bride wore a tea length jacquard floral dress with spaghetti straps and carried a bouquet of tropical flowers.

In keeping with tradition the bride wore her great-great-great grand-mothers diamond lavaliere and her mother's diamond earrings.

The witnesses wore traditional Jamaican wedding attire.

After returning from their honeymoon, the couple was honored with a backyard reception in the home of bride's parents.

Guests represented Lubbock, Temple, Sudan and Oklahoma.

The bride is employed by the Friona school district as a teacher and the bridegroom is employed at Purina

A jury in California awarded more than $100,000 to Brian Forrett, a career criminal who broke into a home, tied up the residents, fired at one and missed, then shot another in the head, blinding him. Forrett was shot by police officers while trying to escape. "'It is quite clear to me that we have a jury that has run amok,' said Pasadena attorney George Franscell, who unsuccessfully represented the Riverside police officers who fired on Brian Forrett.

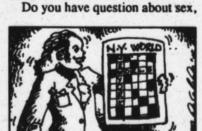

"'Not so,' said Stephen Yagman, Venice attorney who has made a living off suing police. 'They shot an unarmed man in the back, and under American law, it is wrong to shoot an unarmed man in the back.

"Police insist they believed Forrett was armed at the time. When Forrett left the home, he took four guns and 250 rounds of ammunition with him.

The fact that a criminal who tried the next 23 years and when I get out to kill two people is being rewarded has astounded police and many others. Even Yagman, who is not know for agreeing with police on anything, was flabbergasted last month when the jury decided police used excessive force.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A friend has had kidney stones removed and has them coming back three years later. The last time, they were called calcium oxalate stones. I wonder if No. 10 envelope, diet will help him. - L.K.

ANSWER: Diet can help a lot. For example, an important factor in stone formation is inadequate fluid intake. Normal intake is one to two quarts. A stone former needs more, perhaps three quarts a day. That extra fluid keeps potential stone materials dilute and less likely to Calcium and oxalate are a common stone combination, and diet can help discourage both.

Your friend should reduce salt intake, for salt chemically is sodium and chloride, and sodium somehow increases urine calcium concentration. Conversely, potassium decreases urine calcium, so your friend's diet should favor potassium foods, such as fruits and vegetables. Meat restriction limits protein, which enhances calcium in urine. Your friend should go easy on meat.

Your friend should avoid high oxalate foods, such as green leafy vegetables, chocolate, tea and peanuts. Soft drinks containing phosphoric acid should be avoided, for phosphoric acid also increases urine calcium.

I have not mentioned calcium foods, avoidance of which was once standard advice for calcium stone formers. Today, we know that low calcium intake actually increases the amount of oxalate. For such stone formers, the calcium rules have been relaxed.

Your friend should become a label reader

And there is medicine. Thiazide diuretics—water pills—can reduce the amount of calcium that gets through in urine.

A known stone former with new symptoms needs a checkup.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is happening when a joint makes a noise? I am a woman, 69, with arthritis. I have joint noises. Just what is making these noises? Arthritis?

ANSWER: Some joints sound like amplified breakfast cereal. What is usually going on is the movement of tendons over other joint structures.

Usually, that is no cause for concern. Sometimes, joint noise can mean that bony surfaces are actually pressing against one another. If the protective cartilage that cushions joint parts erodes, such noise can be more pronounced.

Most often, you can evaluate joint noise importance by pain and other accompanying symptoms.

Chivalry is not dead. Or is it? We used to be taught how to be polite and courteous. We were taught good manners.

Surely it is not totally a thing of the past.

The women's lib movement of the 60s and 70s did some good things for women. But I miss some things that it did away with, like men opening car doors or letting the woman go Expressions like "Remember your manners" or "Respect your elders" still need to be a part of our daily lives. These things become second nature if taught from childhood.

It is no disgrace to respond to an older person with "Yes sir" or "No sir" instead of "yeah" or "nope."

There is nothing wrong with respecting the rights of others. Or expecting them to respect yours.

Dear Friends,

King's Manor Methodist Home is a special place to me, the Founders Board, the residents, and to many people in Hereford and around the State. Why is King's Manor special and unique? I personally believe that it is because of the "beautiful men and women" who live in the Manor, the Cottages, and in Westgate. It is obvious when people are well cared for and content and this is what I see in the faces of the people who reside in our lovely facility. King's Manor offers Christian fellowship and companionship, worship and Bible study, opportunities to help others, and the feeling of security and safety. The citizens of Hereford help to make this an even better place by giving of their time, talents, and gifts.

I invite you to help improve and enhance this ministry by attending the annual Founders Association Barbecue. Your presence and contributions will help support those residents who are lacking in tunds. Your girts will help promote concern for quality care and extend the capabilities of King's Manor to respond to human needs.

Please support the future of King's Manor Home by attending the barbecue on July 8, 1995, from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. This is the FounderAssociation's majorfund raising event and we hope that you will join us for good food and fun.

Space age technology enables man to enjoy simple pleasures

EDITOR'S NOTE - Hal Zachary is the brother of Zaki Wilson of Hereford.

By ANN DEFRANGE

The Sunday Oklahoman CEMENT - Last week, Hal Zachary read half a magazine, watched a basketball game on television and grinned at this greatgranddaughters until they grinned Simple pleasures.

But because they all depend on the sense of sight, they are pleasures he lived without for the last three years. Zachary, 88, thought he would never see again.

Two weeks ago, he regained his sight because of a bizarre-looking device that came from spacecraft technology to his living room.

With a headset that operates a closed-circuit television system before his eyes, he can read again instead of being read to.

The great-granddaughter he last saw as a third-grader is now a sixthgrader, and she's one of those beautiful kids."

He can see the ball bounced by his beloved Oklahoma State Cowboys instead of imagining the action from the commentators.

He noted that his wife had grown a few more wrinkles in three years, and delighted in them.

The device, a Low Vision Enhancement System, is manufactured in Minnesota and prescribed by Johns Hopkins medical center in Maryland. Only 170 of them had been made when Zachary applied for his; he got No. 95, the first issued to an Oklahoman.

The headset, which weighs about explains, is of watching a 60-inch 2 pounds, includes three cameras and two monitors. A system of mirrors and magnifiers is cut to prescription to correct his personal vision problems, just as eyeglasses are.

A battery-operated control box allows him to zoom in or scan the room around him, to adjust light contrast, to fine-tune the reception; the visor tilts on his head to pinpoint scenes. He can bypass the cameras to hook by cable directly into television or computer screens, which appear on the tiny monitors in front of his eyes.

The effect, its manufacturer television from a distance of 4 feet.

The LVES (the family calls it "Elvis") gives Zachary the appearance of a "Star Trek" crew member. He good-naturedly says, "It's not uncomfortable when you haven't read for three years. I just know it's the most marvelous thing I've ever known about."

Doctors informed him that within two years the headset will be considerably more streamlined and less expensive. He informed them that, at age 88, he couldn't wait two Zachary's condition is macular degeneration, an effect of aging. Vision in his left eye deteriorated by 1989, although he didn't realize it until he nearly caused a wreck with a car he didn't see coming. By 1991, blood vessels in his right eye ruptured.

He was left with 20/400 vision on the left and 20/174 on the right. He could see nothing straight before him, only peripherally. He could no longer make out details.

Even the specialists at the Dean McGee Eye Institute in Oklahoma City told him to resign himself to blindness.

He is, however, not a man easily resigned.

Zachary was an educator for more than 40 years. He holds two degrees, one a master's in school administration. He was a coach, principal and superintendent.

When he had vision, he was chairman of the Caddo County election board, a committee member for ElderCare, scholarship treasurer for the Caddo County Retired Teachers and an officer in his church. He is the local historian and an amateur geologist. He and Mickey, also a teacher, put 100,000 miles on a motor home after their retirement. "Up to that time," he said, "I'd done everything I wanted to do.' His son Dan said, "I don't think he's ever done anything he wasn't successful at."

Furthermore, said his son: "I've been with him with this since the time when he got onto me for shooting a squirrel in the neck. His eyesight was

But then, he was blind. It's "pretty much of a shock" to lose all eyesight all at once, Hal Zachary

Last fall, a friend saw a TV program about products available for the 21st century. He passed on information about

By October, via a Chickasha doctor, the road to Johns Hopkins was being

"I didn't know when I went if it would be for me," Zachary said. "I had

The Hopkins staff wasn't sure, either. Elaborate screening is conducted on each applicant. Zachary was interviewed by telephone before he was told to travel to Baltimore, with his son Dan as escort.

There, he was tested by eye specialists and psychiatrists. He demonstrated his physical condition and his dexterity. He was required to prove his dedication to learning and living with the LVES.

When it was determined he qualified and was fitted for the headset, the reading lessons began.

Initially, they were insulting to literate Zachary.

They started me out on two-letter words like a first reader."

Neurological paths between his brain and eyes had to be rerouted. Blind spots that hid characteristics of printed letters had to be bypassed.

This is the point, they were told where many LVES candidates give in to frustration and leave the program. But Hal Zachary's need to read was powerful.

The cost was more than $6,000; Johns Hopkins will take the full amount only if the patient qualifies for the rehabilitation. Because the training with the device is personal, only six cases a week can be processed.

He left Johns Hopkins confident that, with the cumbersome headset, he could enjoy the simple pleasures -- and the vastly important functions of book learning and personal relationships -- again.

When security guards at the Baltimore airport questioned the suspicious instrument, the incident ended with Zachary's explaining its use to an enthralled officer.

He can see when people stare at him. He's delighted when they're nosy enough to say, "Tell me about that

He wants people without sight to know, he said, that there is hope. "Light," he says, "at the end of the ndependence Day is coming soon. It is one of my favorite days. As a youngster, I loved July fourth because school was out and there were usually fireworks to watch. Summer meant frequent dips in the cow tanks or wading in the creek.'

A NEW BILL OF RIGHTS

As I grow older, I'm becoming increasingly aware of the more important aspects of Independence Day. When I read our carefully crafted Constitution, I'm proud to be an American. In more than 200 years, we have only amended this guidebook for freedom 27 times. The first ten amendments - better known as the Bill of Rights - were written not long after the original document. They brought clarity and focus to key issues, and gave the original colonies enough confidence to ratify the

I could go on here and review some of the salient points found in the Constitution and Bill of Rights. However, as a business columnist I feel some responsibility to relate this back to business. Therefore, I'd like to acquaint you with a new Bill of Rights that I wrote recently for a customer service workshop. I call it the Customer Bill or Rights.

Customer rights

 Customers have the right to buy what they want, when they wish, from whomever they choose and as often as they'd like. Business owners should remember that no customer owes them their loyalty: It must be earned.

 Customers have the right to fast, accurate service. Someone told me the three most important words in business are "good, fast and cheap." I'm not sure I agree with cheap, but I like good and fast. Fast, accurate service means giving customers exactly what they expect as quickly as is humanly possible.

 Customers have the right to assume that all employees are well trained and capable. People represent the businesses they work for. Research shows that every year businesses lose as much as 30 percent of their potential sales because of poor customer service. Training can help your employees learn to deliver the service customers expect.

 Customers have the right to fair and courteous treatment. Courtesy is becoming rare, and fair is often forgotten in the passion of getting ahead. However, customers tend to have memories like elephants. They return to businesses where employees treat

 Customers have the right to assume that wrongs will be made right. We all make mistakes. However, customers are certainly correct in expecting business to fix any mistakes. Particularly, if the business created the problem in the first place.

· Customers have the right to tell others about your business. Happy customers may tell as many as five others. Unhappy customers typically share the bad news with 15 or Customers have the right to expect (and get) truth and integrity. Of course, this is common sense and good business practice. However, truth isn't as common as it should be, and integrity is more of a buzzword than an everyday business practice.

Customers have the right to expect flexible payment terms. We are a society of credit consumers. Most successful businesses realized early in the game that they could attract more consumers if they offered to sell on credit. Now customers feel it is their right.

 Customers have the right to expect consistent quality and service. The word consistent means "without variation." Customers can only be won and retained with high quality product and dependable service...first time, every time.

 Customers have the right to expect you to keep your promises. Many businesses over promise and under deliver. They may lure customers in once, but in the long term they lose. Customers quickly learn which businesses keep their promises. They avoid those who do not. And well they should. After all, they are within their rights.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Effective July 1, 1995 the new Southwestern Bell Caller ID System will be installed and in use at The Pizza Mill & Sub Factory. 811 N. Main. Hopefully this system will help us eliminate prank phonein orders that create lost sales which in turn necessitates price increases that you, the honest customer, must suffer. Our system will use the Anonymous Call Rejection (ACR) which will automatically reject all anonymous or blocked calls. Your call will not go through if you choose to block it, but you will be instructed by the operator as to how you may re-dial to get your call completed.

We are sorry if this might cause some inconvenience when you place an order, but we hope you will understand the necessity of it in our line of business. Just remember to "un-block" your call before placing it to us. For complete instructions concerning the Caller ID service please contact Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Thank you for your business, Johnny W. & Linda C. Hubbard, Pizza Mill & Sub Factory

Small farmers give big boost to produce markets

By TERESA GUBBINS The Dallas Morning News DALLAS - Small farmers are the heroes of summer. By growing food and bringing it to market, they fill an essential need. Yet they're often underpaid, overworked and get little thanks.

They offer one of life's greatest pleasures: just-picked, farm-fresh produce. Deep red tomatoes. Golden. sweet peaches. Potatoes that taste of the earth.

At Dallas-area markets, farmers usually come from East Texas family farms, where everyone chips in: One member supervises planting and picking. Another brings the produce to market, handling transport and Between planting and harvest, sleep is a luxury; most farmers work 18-hour days. Once the produce matures, it's picked and packed into a truck. Then the farmer hits the road. in the middle of the night, to make the two-hour drive to the city.

You'll find these farmers at markets across North Texas.

As an active member of the North Texas Farmers' Market Association. farmer Robert Colwell has a mission: to help the small farmer sustain a way

He manages the farmers' market in Grapevine - "a true farmers" market," he says. "Everyone at that market is a farmer selling his or her crops," he says. "Most of us are not big farmers, we're small. We gather most of our produce the day before we go to market.

The market at Grapevine is open Wednesdays and Saturdays only.

"We want to get farmers and people there at the same time, that's our main goal," Colwell says. "We're trying to help the small farmer get as much money out of his produce as he can, to cut the middle

Although Colwell's father worked in an oil field, his grandparents were farmers, and he's farmed full-time since 1979.

"My wife works, too, but we're making a living with both jobs together," he says. "It's a family business. On Saturdays, she goes to Benbrook market (in Fort Worth) and I stay at Grapevine. His longest days are market days.

"Two days a week, on market days, I get up around 4 and maybe I don't quit till 10," he says.

Persistence, he says, is the most important characteristic for a farmer. And not get discouraged," he says. "You can get discouraged quick. Say a hailstorm comes and wipes you out. You've got to replant. It's happened to us - an entire crop wiped out. One year, 120 acres of watermelon got hit. We never picked a single watermelon that year.

"But people that are farmers, and making it their living, they enjoy it, otherwise they wouldn't do it," he

This year, Eloise Hunter gave up on her sweet potato crop. She's sticking with peaches.

"I did good with sweet potatoes for 18 years," she says. "But it's back-breaking work, and it's hard to get help picking them. You're bending over all day or you're on your knees - people don't like that kind of work anymore. Eloise was the 17th child in her family, "the baby," she says. Her father raised cotton, cane, cucumbers and squash. When she was grown, she left the farm briefly to try out city

"I lived in Kansas City, I worked at a luggage company," she says. "I liked it, but I was having children and I wanted to bring them up in the country."

She returned to East Texas and built a farm with her husband, Jerome. Her five grown kids help her on the farm. CROP:

But none wants to farm full-time.

"I'm the last, I'm 51," she says, noting that her brothers and sisters used to farm and sell at the market. Most have retired. "I love farming, it's in me. It's the only thing I really ever

LISA LIGHTSEY FARM: Mexia, 1 hour and 45 minutes south of Dallas CROP: Peaches, plums, pears, persimmons ACRES: More than 100 MARKET: Dallas Farmers' Market

Lisa Lightsey, 23, has been selling her family's produce at the Dallas Farmer's Market since she was 7.

The Lightsey family farm goes back more than 80 years. Her dad runs the farm. Her sister Mary sells in Austin; Lisa handles Dallas.

'We pick almost every day," she says. "Like today, we picked plums and blackberries.

Her schedule is daunting. At 1 a.m., she's on the road north to Dallas. She arrives at 3 a.m. and begins selling peaches and other fruit wholesale. By 9 a.m., she's moved over to the market, where she sells to individuals. On weekdays, she's there until 1 p.m.; weekends, she stays past 5.

When she gets back to the farm, she goes to the field to see what's been picked, then reloads her truck. She rarely gets to bed before,9, and her social life is nil.

In her "spare time," Lisa earned a bachelor's degree in elementary education from Sam Houston State University, though she has no immediate plans to use it.

"I enjoy doing the work, it makes me feel good about myself, and I enjoy meeting different people. Me and my sister, we've done it all our lives. It's like your baby."

MARKET: Dallas Farmers Market "Fretwell" is a popular name at the market downtown. During harvest, Wendell and Connie Fretwell sell their peppers, sweet potatoes and tomatoes at four stalls. Off-season, they sell produce from other farmers. Wendell's brother David and his wife Melissa also farm and sell their produce downtown.

Wendell took over his father's farm. But he's had a rough year. First his crop suffered hail damage; then rain soaked his fields.

"That's how come my stuff is so late," he says. "I'm just now getting my sweet potato ground ready, and everybody else is already planting."

He grew up knowing he had a job waiting for him.

"I started out probably when I was 16 or 17. Daddy would give me like 10 rows of 'maters,' and whatever I sold off that would be mine. That's how you learn.'

Like most farmers, the Fretwells work long, hard hours during growing season. Wendell oversees the crops while Connie works at the market every day.

'Sometimes I don't even go to bed," says Wendell. "I'd rather stay up all night than sleep an hour. When you're farming, sleep is one of the first things to go - sleep and your social life.

He's not sure he'd recommend this line of work to his two children.

"Expenses are much higher," he says. "The price of gas and fertilizer - it's not evening out like it's supposed to. Plus, it's not like it used to be - it used to be a farmer shined."

Sue and Jerry Moffeits' first intensive farming experience was their great watermelon crop of '91. Jerry's grandfather grew crops and sold them at the downtown farmer's market until he was 82; Jerry's father farmed, too. We were in the grocery business," Sue says, "when Jerry said, 'Let's grow watermelon and go to the farmers' market and sell it." Watermelons can be a moneymaker, she says, but burnout came

"We'd sell up to 1,500 melons within a single weekend," she says.
"I handled so many melons - I sold them, carried them, toted them,

That first year, they learned one of the golden rules of watermelons. 'We had packed a trailer-load of melons," Sue says. "That night, Jerry pulled it behind a building to hide them from the road so they wouldn't get stolen.

"But the trailer was parked near woods. In the middle of the night, the raccoons came and had a party. There was busted melons, watermelon juice and seeds everywhere. We probably lost 50 melons. The lesson we learned: Don't park your melons by the woods."

Tired of hauling melons, the Moffeits cut their watermelon acreage. These days, they focus on Georgia Massie's pioneering cultivation of squash 25 years ago earned her the nickname "the Squash Lady.

Her parents, both from farming families, met in Granger, then migrated to Forney, where Georgia was born. Their crops were cotton says. "I learned real fast. Don't get and corn; but when Georgia was a young girl, her father began growing vegetables and went into "truck farming."

• Keep a spare pair of glasses in the car if you need them to drive. It's dangerous to get behind the wheel without them without them.

Sunglasses are vital to fight glare and blinding sunsets. But never wear them at night; they make it hard to see people, signs or other cars.

Make sure windshields are clean, and headlights, too.

Driving at night, use the right side of the road as a guide and avoid looking at oncoming headlights that can blind you momentarily.

Older drivers need more light to see by; drive in daylight hours or stay on well-lit roads at night.

If dry eyes are a problem—wind, heat and air conditioning can dry the air—keep some "artificial tears" on hand in the car.

Fiedler, Hammerstein honored in holiday concert

A lavish fireworks display is the traditional conclusion to A Capitol Fourth. This year's gala, which honors lyricist Oscar Hammerstein II and conductor Arthur Fiedler, is carried live in most areas by PBS on Tuesday (check local listings).

BY JOHN CROOK

A star-studded cast honors two musical legends and the nation in A Capitol Fourth.

The 90-minute special is carried live on Tuesday, July 4, by PBS in most sections of the country (check local listings).

"It's a Grand Night for Singing" is the theme of this year's holiday concert, which features Tony winners Barry Bostwick and Leslie Uggams, along with opera singers Gregg Baker and Sylvia McNair, musical comedy star Rita McKenzie, The Chieftains with Ricky Skaggs, and Erich Kunzel conducting the National Symphony Orchestra.

The songs chosen for the concert pay tribute to musical theater lyricist Oscar Hammerstein II and former Boston Pops conductor Arthur Fiedler.

What it is, at least to me, is the national Fourth of July program that's organized as a communal event for the country," executive producer Jerry Colbert says.

"(In) a lot of small towns in America, there used to be a gazebo on the common in the central part of town, (with) a bandstand, and people went there for the Fourth of July and other holidays. I think from a television point of view, (Marshall) McLuhan's idea of a global village, well, that's what we are. We're a live event. Certainly live TV is tough to do, but it creates a oneness, a specialness that's immediate and involving to people."

An audience of more than 400,000 is expected to attend the concert, which also features the U.S. Army's Old Guard Fife and Drum Corps, the U.S. Army Herald Trumpets, the U.S. Navy Sea Chanters and the U.S. Air Force Singing Sergeants.

The event airs simultaneously over National Public Radio and worldwide via the Armed Forces Radio and Television Network.

Uggams, Bostwick, Baker and Mc-Nair, along with both military chorus-es, are slated to perform a medley of songs with lyrics by Hammerstein, including "It's a Grand Night for Singing," "The Sound of Music," "Ol' Man River," "June Is Bustin' Out All Over" and many more.

The program also salutes Fiedler, who was conductor of the Boston Pops for 49 years, with some of his trademarks including "Bugler's Holiday" and Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture.

Skaggs and The Chieftains will perform a series of such "crossover" country classics as "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" and "Wabash Cannon-

The dazzling, 20-minute-plus finale features elaborate fireworks as Broadway belter McKenzie joins all the military choruses for "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," "You're a Grand Old Flag" and "God Bless America," among others. The gala concludes with a medley of John Philip Sousa march-

 Speaking of "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," James Cagney is showcased in his Oscar-winning turn as George M. Cohan in Yankee Doodle Dandy, a holiday broadcast on TNT.

·Cable subscribers may opt for Fiedler's beloved former band as A&E Network presents Pops Goes the Fourth, a live telecast of the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra in its annual holiday concert. It airs concurrently with the PBS telecast.

·Viewers seeking a more somber observance of the Fourth may want to consider The Learning Channel's rebroadcast of its Touring Civil War Battlefields series

ARIES - March 21/April 20

This could be a week of positive change. Take advantage of energetic moods as they are not likely to last. Follow your intuition and inspirations even if they're unconventional.
 Sloppy work habits result in extra work later on. Why not do it right the first time?

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

An excellent time for bargain hunt-ing. Whether you're looking for household items or even a new house, you're sure to get the price you want. Being more sensitive to a loved one's feelings may be more necessary than you think. You may have to put your own needs aside.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21 An extra-special week for Gemini parents with young children. You will have something to be very proud of. If you're feeling a little more sluggish than usual, a dietary change may be all that you need. Reach for a banana instead of a chocolate bar and you may just feel like a new person!

CANCER – June 22/July 22 Steer clear of disagreements and petty jealousies between workmates. Keep to yourself and you will rise above it all. A fine time for investments. Just remember, don't put all your eggs in one basket. A new leisure activity will provide hours of fun this coming weekend.

LEO - July 23/August 23 Lucky Leos will be treated to a special surprise from a loved one. If you are typical of your sign, you'll prob-ably relish the fact that you're the center of attention. If you have been considering a career move, you may find that this is the week to do something about it.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22 A misunderstanding with a loved one could turn into a full-blown fight if you let your temper take over. Instead of saying something you'll regret, take some time to cool down to avoid heated arguments. A spur-of-the-moment get-together will start off the weekend on an-extra festive note. LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Follow creative moods and inspirations. Whether you're cooking, painting or writing, you're sure to be a success in any creative pursuit. A few hectic days at work will be followed by a much-awaited period of relaxation. Be sure to relish free time as it does not seem to be in large abundance for you.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22 Single Scorpios will have no problem attracting the opposite sex. Your usual sexual magnetism will be even stronger this week, so if there's someone you have your eye on, now's the time to make a move. Set plans in motion if you're going to be travelling in the near future.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21 You could end up looking like a fool if you make a promise you're not sure you can keep. Before committing to anything, make sure it is something you can do. Tension between you and a friend could keep building if you don't put a stop to it now. You'll feel better if you talk things out.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20 Your sarcastic tongue may be amus-ing to you, but others may find it quite offensive. Be sure you know who you're dealing with before opening your mouth. Changes in a work situation may be in the very near future. It is crucial that you try your hardest this week.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18 A lucky week for the waterbearer. Follow your intuition when it comes to taking risks. You'll know what to jump into and what to steer clear of. An old friend may pay a surprise visit and you could find yourself painting the town red this weekend. New romance looks promising.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

A minor setback at work could be a blessing in disguise. You'll have more time to perfect a project. An introduction to someone new could open many doors. This is especially true if you're single. Consult your appointment book or an important meeting could be overlooked.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK The next 12 months:

An all-around good year. Your social and family life will be incredibly harmonious and enjoyable. This is espe-cially true if you were recently married. Those in new relationships will find some ups and downs, but the ups will be more abundant. Career will not seem as important as it has in the past - and that's probably a good thing. Instead of getting stressed out over deadlines and meetings, you'll find that expending energy on self improvement and family is a much better investment. A once-in-a-lifetime trip could be in store this winter. Be sure to save when you can.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I recently heard three of my favorite shows - Models Inc., Party of Five and My So-Called Life - have been canceled. True? -Erin O., ner, III.

Q: Where can I write in support of seaQuest DSV and Earth 2? I understand both shows are in danger of being canceled. -H.G.A., Beaver

A: Unfortunately, the time is long past for letter writing. I'm sorry you missed a February column devoted entirely to supporting shows in jeop-ardy. Here's how these five fared:

All three of Erin's faves spent their entire run in or around the 10 lowest-rated shows on TV. Occasionally, however, strong critical praise can make a difference. It did for Party, which will return next year on Fox.

Life looked as if it might squeak by for the same reason, but leading lady Claire Danes "strongly hinted" to producers she might not return to the show. Due to the unusually long development period for that show, Danes already has devoted more than two years of her own so-called life to the project and is getting a flood of attrac-tive movie offers. Her hinting drove the final nail into the coffin.

The pretty but dead-from-the-neckup Models took a long walk off a short runway due to the lethal one-two punch of awful ratings AND reviews.

Earth 2 drew better reviews than its sister show, seaQuest, which lost a host of viewers when it disastrously shifted from "science fact" to science fiction in its story lines. Still, seaQuest will be back in the fall, while the lower-rated Earth 2 is lost in space.

Q: What happened to the movie Lord of Illusions, which was scheduled to be out last February? Can I get it on video? –K.C. of Michigan.

A: The Clive Barker thriller, which stars Scott Bakula, is rescheduled for an August release. The video will not be available until several months later.

Q: What can you tell me about the man in the Infiniti commercials? -B.B. in Long Beach, Calif.

A: He's the brilliant two-time Tony ward winner Jonathan Pryce, a Welsh-born actor whose films on video include Brazil, Something Wicked This Way Comes and Glengarry Glen Ross. He recently won a Cannes Film Festival acting award for his per-formance opposite Emma Thompson in the British film Carrington.

Q: What was the name of the theme song that used to be played on Dave's World? Why isn't it played anymore? -J.B., Muskegon, Mich.

A: That was Billy Joel's You May Be Right, sung by Southside Johnny. The current trend is to eliminate or drastically shorten opening theme songs to pull you right into a program, giving you less time to switch channels

MONDAY

Tim Allen (right) is among the stars scheduled to join Kino (puppeteer Mark Ritts) for quality reading time in Storytime, a daily PBS series beginning its new season Monday.

HIGHLIGHTS

Paul Rodriguez and Gloria Estefan are among the performers highlighted in Latin Nights, a special fund-raiser for the National Hispanic Scholarship Fund, premiering Saturday on ABC.

Paul Rodriguez uses special to make money – and amends

BY JOHN CROOK

Paul Rodriguez has two goals in serving as host of Latin Nights: to make money for the National Hispanic Scholarship Fund and to make amends to some Hispanic viewers.

The hour-long special, taped June 29 at the Universal Amphitheater in California, premieres Saturday, July 8, on ABC.

"I'm trying to make up for the fact that at the beginning of my career I did so much that — I mean, I've been accused of being 'a debit to my people,' "he says drily, referring to occasional complaints his early, heavily ethnic comedy act reinforced Hispanic

"When I was at the beginning of my career, a lot of my material was not exactly the best. I realize that now, and I cringe when I watch some of my old routines (on TV). I'm 40 years old now. I hope I've matured, and I'm talking about different things instead of just my ethnicity."

Comedy will take precedence over music in the special, which is scheduled to include appearances by a number of Latino performers.

"Everybody's telling me that variety is dead," Rodriguez says. "What I want to do is a show that is comedy and that has music secondary. People who want to see music, especially young people, are gonna go to MTV or VH1 or other sources.

"I want the music not to be as important as, let's say, Jimmy Smits and John Leguizamo and Ricardo Montalban and Rosie Perez doing skits."

While there is still certainly room for improvement, the future looks brighter for Hispanics on TV, he acknowledges edges.

"We are moving slowly, but we are moving forward. ... We have not found a way ... to devise a (series) that is watched regardless of the main ethnicity of the show," Rodriguez says the westfully.

thoughtfully.
"We need to find the equivalent of a
Latino Bill Cosby, that kind of family.
I don't think anyone tuned in to The Cosby Show saying, 'I think I'll watch a good black show tonight.' You just tune in to watch something that makes you laugh, that entertains you."

SOAP TALK

Gellar leaving AMC; Harmon joining her

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Fans have wanted wicked little Ken-dall (Sarah Michelle Gellar) off All My Children for a while. Now they are going to get their wish.

One week after the announcement

Richard Shoberg (Tom) was leaving AMC, Gellar said she, too, was leav ing. She has not been happy with AMC for some time and was grateful when they let her out of her contract.

After Gellar's departure was made known, Winsor Harmon, who plays Del, also announced he would be leaving. The two characters, who were recently linked romantically, may leave Pine Valley together.

All of this comes after the firing of Megan McTavish, who was the head writer for AMC. Less than two weeks after she was let go, McTavish signed on at Guiding Light as head writer.

Fighting in the Revolutionary War commenced 15 months before the signing of the Declaration of Inde

Another wicked character who has left daytime is Sheila, played by Kimberlin Brown, on The Bold and the Beautiful. The character was written into a corner, and writers had little choice but to terminate her.

Of course, this happened once before to Brown on The Young and the Restless, where the character of Sheila originally appeared before showing up on B&B, the sister soap of Y&R.

Now, Brown could return as a different character. Or, maybe Sheila really isn't dead after all: That poison she drank may have only made it seem like the next dead

So, those who stopped watching B&B because of Sheila can now turn their favorite soap back on. But, there are no guarantees she won't return.

Pear Candace: On B&B, how can Paylor be married to Omar if she still s legally married to Ridge? And how
