Nation celebrates 219th birthday of independence

Local celebration attracts thousands to music, show

Hereford residents turned out by the hundreds on Tuesday to celebrate the 219th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence in Veteran's Park.

"By noon we had probably 40 groups out there cooking," said Mike Carr, executive vice president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, with joined with Deaf Smith County and the City of Hereford to sponsor the event.

The weather cooperated, with sunny skies through the day and no rain to mar the evening fireworks display.

As the shadows lengthened and nighttime approached, local musicians took the stage to sing a variety of tunes.

Throughout the afternoon, volunteers cut watermelon by the score to hand out to hungry and thirsty partiers.

"We had lots of folks helping serve the watermelon," Carr said. "We had lots of nice volunteers cut and serve."

Altogether, Carr said, the chamber gave away "in the neighborhood of 800 watermelons."

Finally, the sun set and the professional fireworks display began.

Carr estimated "in the neighborhood of 5,000 people" watched the aerial display from the park and immediately surrounding areas along New York Street.

All in all, Carr said, "it was as good a crowd as ever" for the day-long activities.

Fire Marshal Jay Spain said this year's Independence Day was special for another reason.

"This is the first one that I can remember" in which there were absolutely no fireworks-related fires reported.

"Even in wet years we've had one or two fire calls," Spain said. "It makes a lot of difference when it rains."

Spain recalled one year when firefighters hopped from one fire to the next, with eight or nine calls backed up from other blazes.

This year, he said, there were six fireworks stands selling their wares in the Hereford area, but added that he feels like sales were down overall.

Spain said he confiscated some fireworks inside the city limits, but issued no fireworks citations.

City police also were on the lookout for people who possessed fireworks inside the city.

It is against the law to possess or shoot off fireworks in the city. Those caught are subject to having their fireworks confiscated and a municipal court citation issued.

Municipal Court records show six such citations were issued. Those individuals will have fines meted out by Judge Tawanna Hollowell.

Spain said he observed several people going to locations outside the city limits -- such as the municipal baseball complex -- to fire their fireworks.

"People have pretty well learned where they can shoot 'em and shoot 'em safely -- and legally," he said.

No arrests or incidents were reported by police at Veteran's Park. The chamber's July 4th Celebration was organized by Chamber President Wes Klett and committee members Diane Beavers and Janie Nino.

The celebration was made possible through the support of the entire community.

Donations for the affair will be accepted at the chamber office, 701 N. Main, or by mailing gifts to July 4th Celebration, P.O. Box 192, Hereford, Texas 79045.

Celebrating independence

Fireworks filled the air Tuesday night as Hereford celebrated Independence Day with a party in Veteran's Park that included music, games and lots of food. The night ended with a fireworks display that brought oohs and aahs from a crowd that numbered well into the thousands.

US flags raised to full height in Oklahoma City ceremony

By The Associated Press

Oklahomans used an Independence Day flag-raising under brilliant blue skies to help put the darkest day in state history behind them, as people nationwide revelled in patriotism, fireworks and parades.

Spirits soared in Oklahoma City, where 14 U.S. flags were raised to full height at the state Capitol for the first time since the federal building bombing that killed 168 people.

"I think it is going to make kind of a big jumping off point in terms of healing," said Peggy Brawner, who had used her dog, Hooch, to help comfort rescue workers and survivors.

"The pessimism and despair of April 19 are over," Oklahoma Gov. Frank Keating told a crowd of thousands Tuesday.

"Today we restore our flags to their rightful place - proudly, as free men and women who will never bow to terror," Keating said.

Volunteers and rescue workers came from as far away as Virginia, California, Maryland, Florida and Arizona for ceremonies that began with the flag-raising at 9:02 a.m., the time of the blast.

"I just feel like any other American who has a sense of civil duty, and I just did whatever the spirit was leading me to do," said Mike Ryan, an Oklahoma City truck driver who volunteered for the Red Cross after the bombing.

Across the country, hundreds of people were busy becoming Americans, including 302 immigrants who stood in the rotunda of Utah's Capitol and took their citizenship oaths.

"Now I can vote for president," said Michael Sosa, who moved from Mexico 30 years ago.

About 400,000 people gathered on the Mall in Washington, D.C., to watch fireworks. President Clinton missed the show, spending the holiday at Camp David. A late afternoon thunderstorm briefly disrupted the all-day festivities, and at least three people were injured by lightning.

Bob Mawkes of Ipswich, England, went to New York City instead, where an estimated 1 million people watched fireworks blasted heavenward from two sites on the East River.

"This is the biggest and the best, this river setting," Mawkes said. "I was either going to come here or Washington. I'm glad I came here."

History took a back seat to tradition of a sort at New York City's Coney Island, where Edward Krachie choked down 19-1/2 hot dogs in 12 minutes to unseat the defending champion in the 80th annual holiday frankfurter-eating contest.

"At the moment right after, it was a little tough," said the 6-foot-6, 350-pound Krachie, his stomach a bit queasy.

Kay McCarte, 58, was among the 350,000 to 400,000 people gathered along Boston's Charles River for the annual July 4 Boston Pops concert.

"It feels good to be an American," she said.

Thousands braved chilly winds in the San Francisco Bay area, where fog cloaked some of the fireworks.

"You see these beautiful rockets going into the clouds and disappearing," said meteorology consultant Mike Pechner. He may have been feeling responsible - he had predicted clear skies.

But the weather had nothing to do with some high spirits in San Jose, Calif., where volunteers barbecued hamburgers, hot dogs and 300 pounds of chicken for the needy.

"I think it's wonderful that we are able to enjoy the Fourth of July and celebrate like everybody else," said one homeless woman. "Otherwise we'd be in shelters while other people are having fun."

State festivities continue despite areas of heat, rain

By The Associated Press

Summer heat and a dousing of rain couldn't stop the state's largest Independence Day celebration in Houston Tuesday.

"I absolutely love the U.S.A.!" exclaimed Chris Sweet, bedecked in a patriotic ensemble of an Old Glory T-shirt and an Uncle Sam-style hat. "The Fourth of July is my favorite time of the year because of good ol' American patriotism, rah, rah and all that. It beats any other holiday."

Sweet, along with husband Ray and grandson Dusty Bilski, was among an estimated 200,000 revelers in Buffalo Bayou Park for the annual Freedom Fest, which takes place in the shadows of the downtown skyline.

"We wanted to hear the band and see what goes on," said Janice Dunnagan, who moved here from Illinois last August and had looked forward to a Houston-style Independence Day. "I always like going to see fireworks on the Fourth."

The start time of the event, which featured classic rock bands Steppenwolf and Foghat and the requisite fireworks spectacular, was pushed back to 4 p.m. this year by organizers to beat the heat.

The strategy worked as showers cooled things off a bit during the middle of the day.

Meanwhile, it isn't the Fourth in Pecos without a rodeo. The 113th annual West of the Pecos Rodeo featured 130 bull riders and lots of hard-scrabble action under a hot West Texas sun.

"I've been from New York to L.A., but I can't imagine being anywhere else on the Fourth," said Rick Preslar. "This is the time of year to party and have a good time."

Elsewhere in Texas, Gov. George W. Bush was grand marshal of a parade in Arlington and Willie Nelson took the stage in Luckenbach as Texans celebrated Independence Day in Lone Star style Tuesday.

Nelson sang his classic "On the Road Again" before a crowd gathered in the central Texas town of Luckenbach, pop. 3. The 25-act show marked the first time Nelson has held his more-or-less annual picnic at the hamlet.

"It was a natural," Nelson said. "I'm not sure why we didn't come here before because Luckenbach and the Fourth of July picnic are sort of like cake and ice cream. They really go good together."

Kevin Kline, manager of the Exxon station in downtown Luckenbach, said the event was some cause for worry.

"It's a little town and some of the residents were concerned (about the crowds), but I think they're doing a good job patrolling it," he said.

"There's a lot of people going through. Yesterday and today have been our two busiest days of the year," Kline said. He had to work during the concert, but said he'd get off to see the fireworks display Tuesday night.

In Arlington, Bush rode in the back of a flag-bedecked white pickup truck as the parade wended its way through town. Meanwhile, Texans across the state marked the holiday with marching bands, watermelon seed-spitting contests and concerts.

In San Antonio, some 27,500 volunteers worked on projects at the National Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod Youth Gathering, a national event that takes place every three years. In one project, attendees were building a house inside the San Antonio Convention Center for donation to a needy family.

DPS reopens sexual harassment probe

AUSTIN (AP) - Despite two previous inquiries, internal affairs officers have reopened an investigation into sexual harassment allegations by former Texas Ranger Cheryl Steadman.

But nobody professes to know why.

Department of Public Safety investigators questioned a female highway patrolman last week about her contact with Ms. Steadman a short time after a controversial Rangers outing in March 1994.

Ms. Steadman spent the night at the trooper's home following a Ranger meeting where some of the men were drinking, playing poker and purportedly using abusive language.

Ms. Steadman, 34, said her abbreviated Ranger career "went to hell in a handbasket" after the meeting, and she soon left the force in frustration.

She is currently assigned to a DPS motor vehicle theft unit in Houston.

Dana Wickland, a DPS trooper stationed in Beaumont, confirmed that she was contacted by DPS Internal Affairs last Friday and questioned at some length.

She said she was interviewed by Lt. David Dudley, who conducted the earlier investigations.

"The first thing he said to me was they wanted to keep me out of it," Ms. Wickland said. Asked why they waited nearly a year to talk with her, she said, "I really don't know."

She said Dudley told her that DPS Director James Wilson simply instructed him to "get with me."

Wilson was out of his Austin office Monday and Tuesday, a holiday, and could not be reached for comment. DPS spokesman Mike Cox expressed surprise at the renewed questioning.

"That's news to me," Cox told The Associated Press. "If it's been reopened, I'm not aware of it."

Ms. Steadman, one of the history-making first female Rangers, said she is "baffled" by the ongoing inquiry. She said her husband, a DPS trooper, also considered it "extremely odd."

Ms. Steadman told investigators last August she refused to spend the night at the remote cabin and instead drove alone to Ms. Wickland's home in nearby Lumberton.

since then has been in a holding pattern.

While most analysts are betting the FOMC will remain on the sidelines awhile longer, some commentators think the sinking economy demands action now.

"Inflation is yesterday's war," said economist Sung Won Sohn of Norwest Corp. in Minneapolis. "Tomorrow's war is slower economic growth and deflation overseas. There is little risk inflation will reignite if the Fed cuts interest rates."

Sohn predicted the Fed would cut the rate banks charge each other for overnight loans from 6 percent to 5.5 percent. He expects the discount rate that the Fed charges banks directly for loans would be left at 5.25 percent to protect the dollar in foreign exchange markets.

Those who favor lower rates now argue the odds for a recession narrow if the Fed refuses to act.

"The historical evidence suggests that past soft landings would have turned into recessions were it not for policy intervention," said Elliott Platt of Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette Securities Corp. in New York City. "Growth is decelerating precipitously."

Plans ongoing at chamber for Town & Country Jubilee

Plans are already underway for Hereford's next big celebration, the Town & Country Jubilee, it was announced this week by Mike Carr, executive director of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

The Jubilee is scheduled Aug. 5-12, according to Elaine McNutt, chairperson. Citizens interested in becoming a part of the Jubilee committee are invited to call the chamber office or Mrs. McNutt.

The event will kick off with the Jubilee Beef Fajita Cookoff on Aug. 5 in Veterans Park and will climax ly." But analysts who expect the central bank to sit tight until its Aug. 22 meeting argue there are just enough bright spots in the economy to hint a recovery may occur without Fed intervention.

"It's a very close call," said Laurence Meyer, who heads a forecasting firm in St. Louis. "But I'd be surprised to see the Fed ease at this point without further knowledge."

In an accident of timing, the FOMC meeting concludes a day before the all-important update from the government on June employment.

Some analysts speculated the policy-making panel could authorize Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan to act on his own before the August meeting if conditions warrant.

"I've been on the fence for weeks and I'm still there," said Robert Dederick of the Northern Trust Co. in Chicago. "I suspect the Fed is pretty much there too."

The FOMC has a dozen members - seven Fed governors in Washington and five of the 12 regional bank presidents. They meet in private eight times a year.

Man injured in beating incident here Sunday

A police investigation is continuing into an incident that occurred Sunday night in the Community Center parking lot that left three people injured.

According to a police department news release, Raymond Garcia, 44, suffered injuries in the incident which occurred at about 9 p.m. An altercation broke out involving several subjects. Three people were beaten, police believe, with clubs or bats.

Two victims were treated and released at Hereford Regional Medical Center. Their names were not released.

Garcia was transported to HRMC, then airlifted to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo, where he was listed in stable condition with head injuries.

Police are continuing to pursue leads in the case and are investigating a number of possible suspects.

Associated Press Writer
SAN PERLITA, Texas (AP) - Things looked great for cotton in the Lower Rio Grande Valley early this season. The plants started off well, the market was solid and a boll weevil eradication project was getting under way.

But drought, heat, strong winds and an unusually strong pest invasion have destroyed what looked like a lucrative season.

"I don't know whether it would pay to harvest," said A.J. Shewmaker, who calls it his worst crop since he began growing cotton in San Perlita in 1946.

"It almost seemed like it was too good to be true. A fantastic market, something you rarely see, and the crop took off. A lot of people would have paid a lot of bills," said Willie Wells, who has 400 irrigated acres near La Paloma.

Instead of looking ahead to the harvest this month, many growers are trying to figure how much their crop insurance might pay.

Shewmaker, 84, blames the majority of his problems on the new ### pesticide-spraying program to eradicate the boll weevil.

"It's what they call a scorched-earth policy," he said. "They started when the cotton was three-leaf stands and they killed every good insect that was out there."

He believes the method, sprayed from crop-dusters, has killed not only the boll weevils but also the bugs that eat boll weevils and other pests.

"It cost Shewmaker Farms a half-million dollars," said Shewmaker, who farms 1,200 acres of cotton in Willacy County.

John Norman, an entomologist with the Texas A&M Agricultural Extension in Weslaco, lays the blame on a combination of factors.

"Drought, heat and insects - in that order," he said.

Norman said the plants became stressed during an unseasonably hot and bone-dry May, which created ideal conditions for the beet armyworm to thrive. Growers first noticed that the beet armyworm was destroying their harvest during Memorial Day weekend.

Bollworms, tobacco budworms and aphids also have taken their toll.

In the past week, huge numbers of whistflies have added to the invasion.

Norman said that pesticide spraying in general can kill many natural predators, raising the potential for secondary pest infestations. But he believes the hot, dry weather also contributed to the unusually heavy infestation of beet armyworm.

"It's too simplistic to say the eradication program started this problem," agreed Osama El-Lissy, director of the eradication effort in the Valley. "We didn't even treat 20 percent of the acreage when we first started experiencing the beet armyworm problem."

The eradication program, supported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas A&M Agricultural Extension, coordinates spraying among all Valley cotton fields to prevent boll weevils from moving from field to field.

Supporters note that malathion is less toxic than many other pesticides. They add that the program is designed to wipe out weevils so that spraying can be reduced in years to come.

Boll weevils aside, there's no debate that growers are hurting.

Texas A&M Extension economist Merritt J. Taylor conservatively estimates that Valley cotton farmers will lose nearly $100 million in expected sales this season.

Merritt's projection is based on a harvest of 150,000 bales, which would be roughly half of last year's harvest. The pessimistic projection is even worse - only 65,000 bales.

"It's something we have never experienced, the devastation of this year," said Larry Skloss, who farms 1,000 dry-land acres near McCook. "It's just hard to get over it. To see a crop take off and look like it was doing well and then not produce anything."

But Wells wonders what next year will bring. Amistad and Falcon reservoirs - the sources of his irrigation supplies - are critically low.

Wells said his water allotment could be in jeopardy next year if the drought continues.

"If we don't get enough water in the lakes, our allotment might be too small," he said. "If they are too small, I'm thinking that it will be hard to get insurance, and then you're really hanging out there."

Software mogul leads world's richest list

By DAN BLAKE

AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Microsoft Corp. mogul Bill Gates is the world's richest private individual with a $12.9 billion fortune, displacing a Japanese real estate magnate from the top of the annual list compiled by Forbes magazine.

Gates' wealth rose from $8.1 billion during the past year as Microsoft's stock price soared, Forbes says in its July 17 issue, released Tuesday. Gates was the richest American a year ago, but ranked second worldwide.

Investor Warren Buffett was second with $10.7 billion, up from $7.9 billion a year ago. Stock in Buffett's investing company, Berkshire Hathaway, rose 38 percent in the past year.

It was the first time in the nine years that Forbes has been compiling the list that two Americans were on top.

Japanese real estate magnate Yoshiaki Tsutsumi, who had held the No. 1 spot for the last eight years, fell to a third-place tie even though the stronger yen made his net worth climb $500 million to $9 billion.

The heirs of the late retailer Sam Walton remained the world's richest family with $23.4 billion, slightly less than a year ago.

Among the ranks of Texas billionaires, sometime presidential hopeful Ross Perot of Dallas led the list, with an estimated wealth of $2.5 billion.

Three members of Fort Worth's Bass family made the ranks. Robert M. Bass, 47, and Lee M. Bass, 39, were each worth an estimated $2 billion. Big brother Sid Richardson Bass, 53, checked in at $1.73 billion.

Margaret Hunt Hill and family's worth was put at $1.1 billion, while Ray Lee Hunt and family had an estimated $1 billion.

Forbes said it excludes from its list royal families and heads of state, because their fortunes come more from political heritage than efforts in the realm of economics.

That excludes the Sultan of Brunei, head of an oil-rich Pacific island nation and often described as the world's richest man. His family's oil, gas and real estate fortune has been estimated at upwards of $30 billion.

Microsoft stock has been rising in spite of well-publicized setbacks for the world's largest maker of software for personal computers. It dropped a $2 billion bid for Intuit Corp. in the face of opposition from the Justice Department, which also is investigating the proposed Microsoft Network on-line service. Lengthy delays have plagued the release of Microsoft's Windows 95 operating system, now due out in late August.

Tied with Tsutsumi in third place was Hans Rausing, the Swedish head of packaging company Tetra Laval.

As a group, the billionaires club is growing. Forbes counted 388 private individuals or families with at least $1 billion net worth, up from 358 last year. The group has a total net worth of $893 billion.

Asia was well represented among the richest. Two of the 10 wealthiest individuals are from Hong Kong, one is from South Korea and one is from Taiwan. Indonesia turned up six more billionaires this year, bringing its total to 10.

"Where there's extraordinary growth, there's extraordinary opportunity," Forbes said.

A year ago, Mexico had 24 billionaires, the most except for the United States, Japan and Germany. But the peso's devaluation late last year cut 14 Mexican billionaires off the list.

This year, the United States had 129 billionaire fortunes, followed by Germany with 53; Japan, 37; Hong Kong, 14; Thailand, 12; France, 11; and Indonesia and Mexico with 10 each.

Defense facing need to negate prosecution's hair, fiber evidence

By LINDA DEUTSCH

AP Special Correspondent
LOS ANGELES (AP) - O.J. Simpson attorney F. Lee Bailey was polishing plans to blunt the impact of hair and fiber evidence linking his client to two murders.

FBI agent Douglas Deedrick testified Friday that a sliver of broken hair found on Ronald Goldman's shirt was consistent with Simpson's hair type. Similar hair also was found on a woolen ski cap discovered near Goldman's body.

"It's terrific evidence," said law professor Laurie Levenson of Loyola University. "But you will start hearing explanations when Bailey begins his questioning."

"This is a very small piece of hair," said Levenson, a former prosecutor. "I expect him to say, 'If this was such a struggle, wouldn't you expect fistfuls of hair?'"

Bailey also was expected to use a persistent defense theory: that the murder scene was contaminated with hair and trace evidence when detectives dragged out a blanket from Nicole Brown Simpson's condominium to cover her blood-soaked body.

Lawyers have suggested that Simpson's hair could have been left on the blanket during visits with his ex-wife and their children.

The defense may also suggest that Ms. Simpson's dog, Kato, spread trace evidence around while walking through the murder scene. The dog was found wandering with blood on its paws.

With no known eyewitnesses, prosecutors are relying heavily on scientific analysis of physical evidence, including blood, hairs and fibers.

Deedrick was to conclude his presentation today with a comparison of carpet fibers from Simpson's Ford Bronco to fibers found on murder evidence and analysis of some blue-black threads found at the crime scene and Simpson's estate.

Deedrick, an expert in hair and trace analysis, is the prosecution's last scientific witness.

Woman born on fourth of July collects patriotic memorabilia

By CAROL NUCKOLS
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
BEDFORD, Texas - Considering her Fourth of July birthday, it should come as no surprise that Nancy Hulme collects Uncle Sam figures, flags and other patriotic memorabilia.

The Fort Worth native grew up celebrating anniversaries of the United States' birth along with her own. She turned 47 on Tuesday.

"It's been a great birthday to have," she said. "It's fun for everybody - you always have a holiday."

Even now, her birthday celebrations include picnics, fireworks and sometimes parades. "Just for me," she quipped, adding, "I think I thought that when I was little."

Hulme, a corporate recruiter for Premier Health Staff Inc., began collecting antiques 22 years ago, after moving into her present home. At the same time, she put a flagpole out front and started flying flags. "I have always had flags," she said.

Beyond that, her collection of red-white-and-blue items originated 10 or 15 years ago, when she found a china Uncle Sam bank at an antiques shop in Jefferson. Now, it joins numerous collectibles in Hulme's sun room.

Other prizes include a three-dimensional, carved-wood Uncle Sam figure, a two-dimensional wooden one cut out by her father and painted by her sister, and an Uncle Sam hat crafted by her father from a tree stump.

Hulme painted the hat white, adding a blue band adorned with white stars. "Like the original Uncle Sam," she said, gesturing toward recruitment posters ("I want you for the U.S. Army") on the wall.

Other depictions of the symbolic figure include a nutcracker, Christmas ornaments, dolls, a windsock dangling from the window, a painted cast-iron door stop and a reproduction mechanical bank, whose hand drops a penny into a bag.

Hulme would like to expand her collection of antique patriotic items, especially Uncle Sams. But "I can't find the old ones," she said.

Displayed alongside the Uncle Sams on an antique dry sink are American flags, folded in accordance with flag etiquette; other flags fill a patched, old copper pot. "I really fly 'em almost too long," Hulme said of the faded flags. "Those look pretty sad."

She also collects samplers, both old and new, with patriotic motifs. One of them she stitched herself, in honor of the U.S. Bicentennial.

One of Hulme's cherished objects is an original cartoon by Star-Telegram cartoonist Etta Hulme of an Uncle Sam hat. The drawing, which appeared in the newspaper on Nancy Hulme's 40th birthday, was a gift from the cartoonist, formerly related to her by marriage.

In the collector's bedroom hangs an early 20th century flag print with the text of the Pledge of Allegiance that adorned the classroom where her great-aunt taught - either in Azle or in the Panhandle town of Estelline; she's not sure which. There's also a needlepoint pillow her mother made for her, with a bear holding an American flag.

Wooden Texas flags, birdhouses with patriotic motifs and a director's chair whose seat and back Hulme painted with stars and stripes carry out the collection's theme.

She also has quite a few star-studded or red-white-and-blue articles of clothing and accessories. "The wildest one I'll only wear on the Fourth of July," she said. It's a shirt that looks just like a flag. "I have people salute me."

Hulme often receives patriotic gifts for her birthday, or even for Christmas. For example, her son, Philip Hulme, gave her a set of quilted flag-design place mats and a matching quilt for Christmas last year.

Hulme's collecting doesn't end with the red, white and blue. She also collects books, hearts, kaleidoscopes, angels, paperweights, snow globes, bears and videotapes - mostly classic movies.

Frank Capra's patriotic films - including "Meet John Doe, Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" and "State of the Union" - are some of her favorites. Oliver Stone's "Born on the Fourth of July" also is in Hulme's film collection. She likes the movie, but not as much as the 1942 film "Yankee Doodle Dandy." "I love 'Yankee Doodle Dandy,'" she said. "It makes you feel great."

Sort of like having fireworks to celebrate your birthday on the Fourth of July.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently, my brother, "Harry," confided that he and our half sister, "Cora," have been having an incestuous relationship for the past several years. Though they now live in different cities, they manage to stay close with daily telephone calls and frequent visits.

Harry and Cora are both married, and their children are grown. Although Harry is now separated from his wife, he told me he doesn't want to end his marriage legally until Cora leaves her husband and comes to live with him. They figure the rest of the family and all their friends will assume they are simply sharing a house like any other brother and sister.

I have told Harry I thoroughly disapprove of this weird affair and view their behavior as sick. These two give no visible hint of sexual intimacy and behave like normal brothers and sisters would. Had Harry not told me about their true relationship, I would never have guessed it in a hundred years.

In my view, they are irresponsible and immoral. Moreover, they seem oblivious to the destruction they may cause if they are ever found out. I have been sworn to secrecy and would never breathe a word to anyone since it would cause nothing but heartache. Do you have any words of wisdom on how to carry this burden? -Stiff Upper Lip in Florida

DEAR STIFF: Has it occurred to you that Harry confided in you because he has a secret wish to be caught?

My advice is to keep your lip zipped and let Harry know you don't wish to hear any more about this creepy relationship.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My 19-year-old stepson, "Chris," has a good job with benefits, owns his own car, lives in an apartment with a roommate and is taking some college classes. I am worried sick because he has no car insurance and does not plan to get any for quite some time because "it is too expensive - about $100 a month," which he can't afford.

I have considered helping him pay his insurance but am not eager to do so because his 16-year-old brother will expect the same when he gets a car and it could become pretty costly.

Meanwhile, Chris commutes about 40 miles to work daily, goes out a lot with his friends and has already gotten a $270 speeding ticket. He says he doesn't know where his money goes, but I know he is a big spender on luxury items and thinks frozen crab is everyday food.

I have told Chris it's very important that he get car insurance, but he doesn't seem to have gotten the message. Do you have any advice for me? -Liability-Conscious Mom in California

DEAR MOM: Car insurance is mandatory in California. If Chris is involved in an accident and has no insurance, his license will be automatically suspended for a minimum of six months. He will then need to provide proof of coverage in order to get his license back.

Spell this out for Chris one last time, and suggest that he give up the frozen crab and other luxury items and buy car insurance. If he doesn't do it, don't bail him out. It's time Chris learned a few lessons the hard way.

Baker to complete internship with Youth Center in Amarillo

Jerilyn Baker from Hereford is among West Texas A&M University criminal justice majors who are completing internships in local, county and state offices as part of their hands-on coursework.

Baker, a senior, is working with the Youth Center of the High Plains in Amarillo.

"This internship provides students with the opportunity for real life experience," Susan Coleman, coordinator of the intern program and WTAMU instructor of political science, said. "These students will do everything from inspecting airplanes for U.S. Customs to performing case work with probation officers." According to Coleman, the students will receive six semester credit hours for their work.

"Through the internships the students will be able to meet professionals in their field," Coleman said. "An opportunity like this frequently serves as a basis for employment."

According to Dick Jackson, WTAMU director of criminal justice, the Experiential Learning Internship program began at WTAMU in 1974. The program began as a result of the Law Enforcement Assistant Act passed by Congress in response to the riots of the 1960s.

Salinas takes Hereford Open with quick start

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

James Salinas shot a 70 Saturday in the first round of the Hereford Open, making the rest of the field chase him.

No one ever caught him.

Salinas, a 10-time City Champion, added a Hereford Open title to his collection in the second year of the tournament, which was completed Monday. All three rounds were played at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Salinas opened the tournament with the best round of the entire tournament Saturday. He followed that up with a strong 73 on Sunday.

He started Monday's third and final round three strokes ahead of defending champion Jeff Yates.

Salinas went right out Monday morning and birdied the first two holes as Yates—playing in a threesome with Salinas—was forced to watch.

Salinas said that birdie-birdie start was the key to the victory.

"I made a 35-foot birdie putt at No. 1, and that (was when I) was trying to get close for a two-putt," Salinas said. "On No. 2, I hit probably the best 2-iron I've ever hit."

That shot put him within a foot of the hole for the second birdie. Yates parred both holes.

"I went from 3-up to 5-up, and that pretty much set the tone for the day," Salinas said.

Yates and the other member of the top threesome—Mike McDonald, who started the day five strokes behind Salinas—both bogied No. 15 to put Salinas back up by five strokes.

Salinas saved par on No. 17 with a 20-foot putt to keep the lead at five strokes. Salinas double-bogied No. 18 and still won the tournament by three strokes over Yates, eight over McDonald and six over third-place finisher Todd Shipman.

Linda Stevens won the women's title in the Hereford Open by wrapping a pair of 82s around a 78 on Sunday. Her three-day total of 242 was 20 strokes better than the field.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Steffi Graf was in that untouchable element that athletes call "the zone."

Even the normally self-critical

Graf couldn't conceal the state of invincibility she experienced during the second set of Tuesday's 6-3, 6-0 quarterfinal victory over Mary Joe Fernandez.

"Perfect," is how Graf described her standard of play.

"I was really going for my shots," she said. "I felt I could do anything I wanted to."

Braves move into 1st place with 3-2 win over Dodgers

By The Associated Press
When the All-Star break came around last season, the Atlanta Braves were on their way out of first place. This year's mid-season classic is next week and the Braves have found their way into first place.

Atlanta beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 Tuesday night for its fourth straight victory, one that lifted the Braves into a first-place tie with the Philadelphia Phillies in the NL East. It's the Braves first taste of first place since May 6.

"It's a sweet feeling to be back in first place. It's been a long time," said Mark Wohlers, who pitched the ninth for his seventh save.

The Braves set up the run to the top of the division by winning three of four in Philadelphia over the weekend.

"We're hot again, and it's good to see us playing this consistently now," Wohlers said. "If we had faltered in the Philadelphia series, we could have fallen seven or eight games back. I don't want to be in a position to have to play .700 ball in August."

Jeff Blauser's broken-bat single in the eighth inning broke a 2-2 tie and made a winner of Brad Clontz (2-1), who had come on in the top of the inning with runners on first and third and one out. He struck out Eric Karros and got Roberto Kelly on a pop.

In other NL games Tuesday, it was Montreal 5, St. Louis 0; Pittsburgh 7, Philadelphia 0; Florida 6, San Diego 4; Cincinnati 10, San Francisco 6; Chicago 3, New York 0; and Houston 16, Colorado 8.

The Dodgers took a 2-0 lead in the second on a sacrifice fly by Raul Mondesi and a home run by Tim Lincecum. The Braves tied it on homers by David Justice in the second and Ryan Klesko in the seventh, both off Ismael Valdez (5-4).

The game ended with Wohlers striking out Wallach on a pitch clocked by the Braves' radar gun at 101 mph.

"Wohlers' fastball is as good as any I've seen in a while," Wallach said.

Expos 5, Cardinals 0
Pedro Martinez (6-4) pitched a four-hitter for his second career shutout. He struck out seven and walked one, lowering his ERA from 3.22 to 2.90.

Wil Cordero and David Segui had three hits each for the Expos.
Ken Hill (5-5), who has one win in seven starts, allowed five runs and nine hits in six innings.

Pirates 7, Phillies 0
John Ericks (1-1) pitched seven shutout innings for his first major league victory, allowing four hits and striking out eight.

The loss was the Phillies' fourth straight and seventh in eight games. They have not scored in 61 of their last 65 innings.

Pittsburgh's first four runs off Paul Quantrill (7-4) came on two sacrifice flies by Dave Clark and two run-scoring grounders by Jeff King. The Pirates had 15 hits, three each by Orlando Merced and Mark Johnson. Marlins 6, Padres 4

Terry Pendleton drove in three runs, giving him eight RBIs in two games, as the Marlins clinched their first home series victory in nearly a year.

The Marlins had not won a home series since taking three of four from Colorado last July 7-10. The Marlins beat the Padres 5-2 Monday night and the three-game series concludes today.

Pendleton broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth with a two-run homer off Andy Ashby (5-5). He added an RBI double in a three-run eighth.

Reds 10, Giants 6
Damon Berryhill's pinch-hit three-run homer in the bottom of the seventh ended the Giants' comeback hopes after they cut a four-run deficit to 7-6.

Berryhill's two-out homer was his second of the season and Cincinnati's fourth pinch homer of the year.

Astros 16, Rockies 8

Jeff Bagwell homered and drove in five runs and Craig Biggio had two homers, three RBIs and a club-record five runs scored for the visiting Astros, who had 17 hits and have scored 96 runs in their last nine games.

Houston sent 10 men to the plate in a five-run sixth to break a 4-4 tie and added five runs in the ninth.

Dante Bichette had two homers, his 11th and 12th, for the Rockies.

Cubs 3, Mets 0

Kevin Foster allowed six hits over eight innings and tied his career-high with nine strikeouts and Brian McRae had a double, triple and homer as the Cubs matched their longest winning streak of the season at four.

McRae, who scored all the game's runs, homered on the second pitch of the game from Bret Saberhagen (5-3).

Babe Ruth tourney champs

Blue Jays' freefall continues

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

So, when will the breakup of the Toronto Blue Jays begin?

The largest crowd in the majors this season - 61,292 at Anaheim Stadium - saw the Blue Jays struggle again Tuesday night, losing 14-0 to the California Angels.

Toronto has lost four in a row and 12 of 15. Only Minnesota and the Mets have worse records in the major leagues than the Blue Jays.

The collapse of the 1992-93 World Series champions has led to increased speculation that David Cone, Paul Molitor and others might be moved to contenders before the July 31 trading deadline. In past years, the Blue Jays were the ones who boosted themselves by picking up the likes of Cone and Rickey Henderson.

"When you give the opposition one more out an inning, when you don't get the clutch hits, when you don't get good pitching and find yourself down three or four runs in the first or second inning, it's not a good scenario," left fielder Joe Carter. "And that's the way it's been this year."

In other games, Texas topped Cleveland 7-6, Detroit defeated Seattle 9-8, Boston beat Kansas City 6-5, Minnesota downed Baltimore 6-3, New York beat Chicago 4-1 and Oakland defeated Milwaukee 5-3.

J.T. Snow drove in four runs for the Angels and Damion Easley and Gary DiSarcina each drove in three. The Angels had 15 hits on fireworks night, plenty of support for Chuck Finley.

Finley (7-6) gave up three hits in seven innings. After starting out 0-4, he's over .500 for the first time this year. The Angels have scored 34 runs in his last two starts and 53 in his last five.

"They've kind of spoiled me the last two games," Finley said. "They really came to life for me and gave me a chance to relax a little bit and make a few mistakes. But tonight, a couple of runs would have been enough."

Juan Guzman (2-4) was tagged for nine runs and eight hits in 3 2-3 innings.

"He's just not throwing the ball the way he used to," Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston said. "He just doesn't seem to have the location and velocity that he had before."

Tigers 9, Mariners 8

John Flaherty singled home the winning run with two outs in the ninth inning at Tiger Stadium as Detroit (33-32) moved above .500 for the first time since opening day.

Mike Christopher (1-0), a replacement player this spring, pitched one scoreless inning for the win. He was called up from the minors Monday.

Red Sox 6, Royals 5

Jose Canseco hit a three-run homer, capping a five-run eighth inning for visiting Boston.

Canseco's fourth homer put the Red Sox ahead 6-1. Wally Joyner and Jon Nunnally hit solo homers in the Royals eighth, and Kansas City scored twice in the ninth after Stan Belinda relieved Tim Wakefield.

Wakefield (6-1) took over the AL lead with a 1.82 ERA. He was 5-15 in Triple-A last year.

Twins 6, Orioles 3

Scott Erickson, in his longest outing of the season, held Baltimore to one run and three hits in eight innings.

Pedro Munoz homered and drove in three runs for Minnesota, which had lost seven of eight. Cal Ripken scored his 1,233rd run for the Orioles, passing Brooks Robinson for the most in team history.

The start of the game at Camden Yards was delayed by rain for nearly three hours.

Athletics 5, Brewers 3

Terry Steinbach hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning, rallying the Athletics at the Coliseum. Oakland has outscored opponents 99-34 in the eighth and ninth innings this season.

Mark McGwire hit his 23rd home run for the A's, tying him with Mo Vaughn of Boston for the major league lead. B.J. Surhoff hit his first home run in more than a year for Milwaukee.

Rangers 7, Indians 6

Mark McLemore hit a two-run double in the eighth inning that rallied Texas over Cleveland at Jacobs Field. For the first time this season, the Indians lost a game in which they led after six innings.

Carlos Baerga, Jim Thome and Ruben Amaro homered during a six-run fourth inning, making Cleveland the first team to hit 100 home runs this season.

Yankees 4, White Sox 1

Mariano Rivera, called up from the minors a day earlier, struck out 11 in eight innings and limited the White Sox to two hits.

Rivera's day in Chicago got off to a shaky start. He forgot to bring his gear from his hotel room, and the team bus to the ballpark was delayed about five minutes.

Paul O'Neill put New York ahead with a home run off Alex Fernandez.

Tennis great Gonzalez dies

Before the tennis world knew of Jimmy Connors or John McEnroe, there was Pancho Gonzalez.

His tantrums targeted opponents, officials, reporters and fans. He was a tempestuous, tenacious talent, one of the best players ever.

"If you had to put money on one player for one match, he'd be the guy," two-time Grand Slam winner Stan Smith said Tuesday.

Gonzalez died of cancer Monday night in Las Vegas, Nev., at age 67, and word quickly reached Wimbledon, where he won the most memorable marathon in tournament history.

In 1969, Gonzalez beat Charlie

Pasarell in 112 games over two days, 22-24, 1-6, 16-14, 6-3, 11-9. It remains the longest singles match in Wimbledon history.

At the time, Gonzalez was a 41-year-old grandfather. Pasarell was 24.

"In the locker room, I helped Charlie get to the massage table," Gonzalez jokingly recalled in a 1988 interview.

"I was in tears after I lost the match," Pasarell said. "I walked into the locker room and went into a corner. He came over, sat down next to me, patted me on the back, threw a towel over my head and said, 'I'm sorry.'" keep smiling constantly, I enjoyed it so much. I wish I could have played a little longer."

Graf described it as her best performance in years and said it would be impossible to play any better.

Only last week Graf looked tentative as she struggled to cope with her chronic back condition and recent wrist injury.

"I've been surprised by how well I've been playing here, I have to say," the German right-hander said. "I didn't have the best preparation for this tournament."

WIMBLEDON

With the first set even 3-3, Graf reeled off nine straight games. She won 14 straight points while finishing off the first set and moving to a 3-0 lead in the second. She dropped only seven points during the second set.

Fernandez, yet to win a match against Graf in 12 meetings, looked helpless as the five-time champion pounded forehand winners all over the court. On the last two points of the match, Graf whooped with joy after ripping shots beyond Fernandez' reach.

"It felt just incredible being out there," she said. "I just wanted to

Cancer screening scheduled for Friday

More than 900,000 copies of The Hereford Brand were distributed in 1994. If your advertising message was not included in many of these issues, you need to call Mauri Montgomery or Julius Bodner, 364-2030, and let them put together an advertising schedule to fit your budget.

The Women's Center of the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and High Plains Baptist Health Systems will conduct a breast cancer screening clinic at South Plains Health Care Provider, Inc. in Hereford on July 7.

Each participant at the screening will receive a breast exam and one-on-one instruction in breast self-examination by a registered nurse specially trained in breast cancer detection, and a mammogram by a mammography technician. The program is certified by FDA, American College of Radiology and the State Health Departments of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The total cost of the screening is $70. Financial aid is available for breast screening and mammograms to individuals who qualify. For more information, contact the Women's Center at 800-377-4673 or 806-359-4673.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 66-year-old lady. I get swellings that my doctor explains are caused by a deficiency in my body. I lack C1 esterase, which I understand is an enzyme. The swellings are called "angioneurotic." Any trauma to my body causes swelling. I am being treated with hormones. Can you explain this further? — M.P.

ANSWER: The C1 complement is one of countless systems that control biochemical reactions in the body. C1 mediates a complex chain of events that control blood vessel permeability.

But it is not the C1 you lack. Rather, you lack the enzyme that reins in C1's activity. This C1 esterase steps in to put on the brakes at the precisely right time. Without the esterase, the process runs amok. Vessels begin leaking fluid, causing swelling.

Angioneurotic edema strikes three major body targets: the intestinal tract, the respiratory tract and the skin. And yes, a body bump can trigger C1 activity, causing skin swellings. But the skin swellings are not like hives. They occur in underskin layers, with none of the familiar pale-domed welts of hives. Nor is there the accompanying itch.

The condition, also known as "hereditary angioedema" can run in families. Have any family members reported the phenomenon?

Medicines such as danazol and stanazol correct the situation by promoting formation of the absent inhibitor enzyme.

Your medicine should correct things in time. Let me know about that, will you?

For more on skin symptoms, read

"About Your Skin." For a copy, send $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (65 cents) No. 10 envelope to: Dr. Donohue—SR129, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is cheilitis? That is what they call the sores at the corners of my mouth. — Mrs. E.L.

ANSWER: Cheilitis is inflammation of skin at the lips and the corners of the mouth, where saliva sometimes pools.

Sometimes, with age, a general sagging of facial skin leaves cheilitis-prone depressions around lip corners. Ill-fitted dentures also contribute to the problem.

I have heard many attribute cheilitis to iron deficiency or vitamin lack, but those are not likely major contributors.

So try these steps: Have your dentures checked for fit. Keep the mouth corners dry. Avoid constant licking. Try an antifungal cream, for often fungi find such areas prime grazing ground.

Once you have cleared up the problem, turn to regular use of a non-irritating lip balm.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: For as long as I can remember, I've been severely ticklish. When I was small, my older brothers tortured me by holding me down and tickling me until I was blue. Now that I am an adult, it is becoming a real problem in the relationship between my boyfriend and me. We can't hold hands. Is there a medical reason some people are more ticklish than others? — L.H.

ANSWER: I am surprised to learn research has failed to address the subject, but if it has been studied, those responsible have left no record in the medical sources I've consulted.

Your letter calls to mind a trick some physicians use in examining a ticklish patient. The patient places his hand on his abdomen, for example. The doctor places his own over it. The patient then withdraws his hand, leaving the doctor's in place. Often the area is "detickled," if you will.

Would that work for people like you and your boyfriend? I don't know.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

Flame Fellowship to meet in HCC

Hereford Flame Fellowship will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Hereford Community Center.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Nancy James of Tulsa, Okla. She is a graduate of Rhema Bible Training Center of Broken Arrow, Okla., Victory Bible Institute of Tulsa, Okla., and Penn Valley Junior College of Kansas City, Kan.

Rev. James ministers at seminars, ladies meetings and revivals.

On July 17, 1981, while she was cashiering at the Tea Dance at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, she became one of the victims of the collapse of the skywalk which killed 212 people and injured 189. She has a testimony of God's sustaining power during her pain and suffering.

'Good' Gabor dies at age 74 Death takes long-suffering foil, Gale Gordon, of Lucy on shows

By ANH BUI
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - Eva Gabor, the much-married actress best known for playing a farm-bound socialite on television's "Green Acres," has died at age 74.

The younger sister of Zsa Zsa Gabor died Tuesday from respiratory distress and other infections, said Ron Wise, a spokesman for Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. Several family members were at her bedside.

She entered the hospital on June 21 after breaking her hip in a fall. She also was found to be suffering from pneumonia, Wise said.

Eva (pronounced AY-vah), older sister Zsa Zsa and Magda, and their mother, Jolie, emigrated to the United States from Hungary in the 1930s and '40s. By the 1950s, the family, especially Eva and Zsa Zsa, had achieved worldwide celebrity.

"We worked very hard, but we were also very lucky," Eva Gabor said in a 1961 Associated Press interview.

Frederick von Anhalt, Zsa Zsa Gabor's husband, described his sister-in-law as a "brilliant, fabulous woman."

"She didn't deserve that sickness and she didn't deserve to die," he said. "She was the most wonderful woman I have ever known. She was always sweet, kind to everybody, always friendly, never a bad word."

"Green Acres," which ran on CBS from 1965 to 1971, cast Miss Gabor as a Park Avenue penthouse dweller transplanted to rural Hooterville because lawyer husband Oliver Wendell Douglas (Eddie Albert) preferred fresh air to Times Square. Lisa Douglas preferred Manhattan stores to farm chores and wore gowns in the kitchen as she fried up hotcakes and entertained her neighbor's pet pig, Arnold.

"I believe that she was one of the best comedienne on television or the big screen," said Sid Melton, who played carpenter Alf Monroe on "Green Acres."

"It was easy for me to fall back into the role of Lisa," Miss Gabor said when she reprised the part for a 1990 made-for-TV movie. "There's a part of me that is just that kooky, but only a little part."

The Gabor girls were born to an upper-middle-class Budapest family that at first did not approve of their interest in show business.

Nonetheless, Miss Gabor moved to Hollywood in 1939 and soon landed a contract with Paramount Pictures. Her career didn't take off until she played an unemployed acrobat in the 1950 Broadway show "The Happy Time."

Success in the theater production earned her guest roles on television variety shows and led to her own interview program, "The Eva Gabor Show."

It was during this period that the much-married sisters gained notoriety for their love lives. Eva Gabor, married five times, was credited with coming up with the saying: "Marriage is too interesting an experiment to be tried only once or twice."

She was most recently married to Frank Jameson, an aerodynamics industrialist from whom she was divorced in 1983. She was single at the time of her death.

Zsa Zsa and Eva were often mistaken for one another, although the older sister's legal troubles, including a highly publicized run-in with a police officer, gave her the more colorful reputation.

"It's awfully boring to be called the 'good Gabor,'" Eva Gabor said in a 1990 interview.

"Why should we be linked together, daahling? That annoys the hell out of me. Because we have very different lives and what is white for her is black for me," she said. "Of course, she's my sister and I love her."

In later years, the platinum beauty whose name conjured up images of Hollywood glamour and high-priced living ran a multimillion-dollar wig company.

But in a 1988 interview, she said: "I go to the 10-cent store. Because of my allergies, I like to buy very cheap makeup with no perfume."

"I buy things on sale. The prices today are shocking."

Though she was best known for "Green Acres," Miss Gabor also had a career on the big screen, with parts in "The Last Time I Saw Paris," "Artists and Models," "My Man Godfrey," "Don't Go Near the Water," and "Gigi."

She is survived by her mother, sisters and two step-daughters.

Funeral services will be held at 7 p.m. Friday at Good Shepherd Catholic Church in Beverly Hills.

ESCONDIDO, Calif. (AP) - Gale Gordon made a career out of being miserable.

Gordon, who played the grumpy principal of radio's "Our Miss Brooks" and was the butt of Lucille Ball's jokes in three TV incarnations, died Friday of cancer at the Redwood Terrace Health Center. He was 89.

His actress wife, Virginia, died a few weeks earlier in the same nursing home 130 miles southeast of Los Angeles, said nurse Joan Seward.

Gordon had asked to be cremated and have his ashes scattered at sea. Funeral arrangements were incomplete over the weekend.

Gordon, the New York City-born son of a vaudeville performer and an actress, played characters who were "pompous, stuffy, opinionated and loud," he said in a 1951 interview. "Therefore, it is easy to make them humorous if the scriptwriter is skillful."

Teen model may have died after using nasal inhaler

PEMBROKE PINES, Fla. (AP) - Krissy Taylor, who followed in her sister Niki's footsteps as a model and though still a schoolgirl had appeared on the covers of Vogue and other top magazines, died at her home. She was 17.

Forbes magazine recently ranked Niki Taylor, 20, as one of the top 10 models in the world, with an estimated income of $2.4 million.

Her younger sister died early Sunday, after her family found her collapsed on the living room floor.

Dr. Joshua Perper, chief medical examiner for Broward County, said today after conducting the autopsy that there was no evidence of foul play or trauma.

Although a prolific performer on both radio and television, Gordon downplayed his career as an actor.

"To me it's just a job to do," he said in 1966. "I turn it off as soon as I leave the studio. I couldn't give you a single line of dialogue the next day. I can't stand these actors who are always 'on.'"

Gordon's TV appearances included guest parts on "The Donna Reed Show," where he worked with Paul Petersen, who played Jeff Stone.

"You could count on this man to show up and know what the jokes were and more importantly who the star was," Petersen said Sunday. "If you watched him pitching straight lines to Lucy and Eve Arden you just have to marvel. ... He was so funny to work with because he'd done every joke ever written and had that big, booming voice."

Gordon's most memorable role may have been on "The Lucy Show." From 1963 to 1968, he played the prissy bank manager Mr. Mooney, constantly bedeviled by employee Lucy Carmichael.

From 1968 to 1974, Gordon played Lucy Carter's blustery brother-in-law and employer at the Unique Employment Agency on "Here's Lucy." Miss Ball cast him again in her short-lived 1986 series "Life with Lucy."

When the original Mr. Wilson on "Dennis the Menace," Joseph Kearns, died in 1962, Gordon took over the role for two seasons.

In the early 1950s, he was playing regular roles in seven weekly radio broadcasts, including "Fibber McGee and Molly" (as Mayor LaTrivia) and "Our Miss Brooks" (as principal Osgood Conklin).

He later became a regular on several TV shows, including "The Jack Benny Show" and "Our Miss Brooks."

In a rare exception to his supporting-actor status, he starred in "The Brothers" with Bob Sweeney from 1956 to 1958 on CBS.

He also appeared in films, often as a stodgy military officer, including "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys," "Don't Give Up the Ship" and "All Hands on Deck."

While appearing on the "Death Valley Days" radio show in 1940, Gordon met and married actress Virginia Curley. They had no children.

Survivors include a sister and several nieces and nephews.

Wolfman Jack began radio career in 1960s

BELVIDERE, N.C. (AP) - Barking out his trademark yips and yowls, Wolfman Jack ruled over the midnight airwaves to become the gravelly voice known to several generations of rock 'n' roll fans.

The Wolfman had just returned home from a 20-day trip to promote his new book, "Have Mercy, The Confessions of the Original Party Animal" when he died of a heart attack Saturday. He was 57.

"He walked up the driveway, went in to hug his wife and then just fell over," Lonnie Napier, vice president of Wolfman Jack Entertainment, said from the Wolfman's home, about 120 miles east of Raleigh.

Born Robert Smith in Brooklyn, the Wolfman rose to prominence in the early 1960s on XERF-AM, playing the latest rock 'n' roll on a Mexican station that broadcast at 250,000 watts, five times the power allowed on any U.S. station at the time.

His howls and yips, and the blues and hillbilly records he spun, blanketed much of the United States all night long.

Between cuts, he would hawk plastic figurines of Jesus, coffins, and inspirational literature, and exhort his listeners to "get yo' self nekkid."

"This man was an original. He was energy," fellow disc jockey "Cousin" Brucie Morrow said Saturday. "He typified 1960s, 1970s radio. And he was a terrific, terrific radio character."

NEW YORK (AP) - The vibes are improving for Lionel Hampton.

The 87-year-old jazz great was released from the hospital Saturday. He'd gone in June 27 after a stroke, his second this year.

"He's back at home and feeling fine," publicist Philip Leshin said. "If it were up to him, he would go back to work tonight."

He'll continue physical and occupational therapy at home, but won't go on with a European tour scheduled to begin Thursday.

"The problem is not the playing - it's the travel," Leshin said, adding that Hampton hopes to perform closer to home, at a big band concert on Long Island, on Labor Day.

Though already well known, it wasn't until the Wolfman played himself in the 1973 movie "American Graffiti" that America saw the face and the black beard with a white stripe that went with the voice. Many early listeners mistakenly assumed he was black.

"It took the Wolfman from a cult figure to the rank of American flag and apple pie," he once said of the movie.

After "American Graffiti," he appeared in advertising campaigns and more than 40 network TV shows. He also had his own syndicated TV show, "The Wolfman Jack Show."

In the 1980s, the Wolfman became host of "Rock 'n' Roll Palace" on The Nashville Network, featuring performers such as the Shirelles, the Coasters, Del Shannon, Martha Reeves and the Crickets.

He also had played host on a weekly TV show called "The Midnight Special" for eight years, leaving in 1982.

More recently, the Wolfman had been doing a weekly syndicated radio show for Liberty broadcasting from a Planet Hollywood restaurant in Washington, D.C. His last show, picked up by about 70 stations, was Friday night.

"He had just done one of his best shows," Napier said. "He was feeling really good."

The portly Wolfman had recently lost 40 pounds through diet and exercise, Napier said.

"But he still smoked his Camels. He was going to live the way he lived," he said.

The Wolfman's name came from a trend of the '50s, when disc jockeys took nicknames such as "Moondog" or "Hound Dog." He enjoyed horror movies, so he took the name Wolfman.

Todd Rundgren, the Guess Who, Leon Russell and Freddie King all wrote songs about him.

He credited his voice for his success.

"It's kept meat and potatoes on the table for years for Wolfman and Wolfwoman. A couple of shots of whiskey helps it. I've got that nice raspy sound."

He is survived by his wife, Lou Lamb Smith; a daughter, Joy Rene Smith, 33; and a son, Tod Weston Smith, 31.

FINAL DRAWING: TWO (2) lucky customers selected from the winners in the Qualifying round will be chosen in the final drawing to be held July 24, 1995.
