

Arrowhead Mills project added to enterprise zone

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Approval of Arrowhead Mills' expansion program as an enterprise zone project was given by Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court Monday.

The county's approval of the project, along with approval previously granted by the City of Hereford, will allow the company to apply for refund of state sales tax paid in the construction.

Pete Holcombe, chief operating officer, appeared for the company and pointed out that a 40,000 square foot distribution center will be constructed. Estimated cost is $1 million. In the last year, he said, about 25 new employees have been added to the staff, bringing the total to 120.

In other business, commissioners: -- Heard a report from Commissioner Tony Castillo of Precinct 1 on a safety inspection of county facilities. He also said work on widening a stretch of County Rd. 4 has started.

-- Approved a request to permit a water line crossing on a county road.

-- Accepted from the Department of Public Safety a 1,000-gallon gasoline tank and pump.

-- Approved requests from the sheriff's department and county clerk to advertise for a car and equipment, respectively.

-- Discussed a request for a road to be abandoned at Dawn.

During the Arrowhead Mills discussion, Holcombe told commissioners that the new warehouse facility is the first of a continuing expansion program during the next several years.

"We're thrilled that Arrowhead Mills is expanding," said County Judge Tom Simons. "We're doubly thrilled that you are expanding in Deaf Smith County."

Motion to approve the company's enterprise zone request was made by Commissioner Troy Don Moore of Precinct 3 and seconded by Commissioner Johnny Latham of Precinct 4. Voting for the motion also was Castillo, Commissioner Lupe Chavez of Precinct 2 was not present.

Commissioner Castillo said he and the county's safety committee chairman, Bobby Hammock, had visited each of the precinct barns to check for compliance with the safety policy. "We found some little things, but nothing big," he said.

County Auditor Alex Schroeter was directed to advertise for bids for a new vehicle for the sheriff's department.

The commission also authorized preparation of specifications and advertising for proposals on purchase of a new imaging system for county records. The system would replace microfilming equipment now in use, said County Clerk David Ruland.

Permission was given Bobby Owen to lay a water line across Dairy Rd., about 1/4-mile east of the intersection of Dairy Rd and Progressive Rd.

Judge Simons reported that a Dawn resident, Mary Ann Boggess, had asked the county to abandon a road that was never opened. Kenny Hagar, county surveyor, told the commission that the state is involved in the road. Judge Simons said additional information on the Boggess request will be sought.

DPS Sgt. Marshall Henderson appeared before the commission to offer the county a 1,000-gallon fuel tank and pump located on county property.

He said the state is disposing of such equipment and asked the county to accept the tank and pump. In return, he said the DPS would use a key card for state vehicles, using fuel from the county's pump.

The commission accepted the offer and indicated the tank would be abandoned and the pump saved for use, when needed.

Report notes need for HEDC marketing plan

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Identifying kinds of industries suitable for developing in Hereford and Deaf Smith County should be the first order of business in a marketing plan for the Hereford Economic Development Corporation.

During the Tuesday morning work session, the board also heard a report on the possibility of a movie theatre in Hereford, from Mike Hatley, executive director.

Don Graham, HEDC director, reported that the board needs to decide first on the industries to be approached, then develop strategies for recruiting.

"We've got to have a marketing plan," Graham said. "And, the industry should fit the community."

"For instance, if a great quantity of water is needed, such as leather tanning, it might not be good here, unless more water is found."

Graham reported on the marketing plan in response to a request made at the board last meeting by the president, Cliff Skiles.

Graham suggested that strategies might be in direct calls on prospects, attendance at trade shows and advertising in trade journals.

He also reminded that specific industry must be identified before the strategies are implemented.

Marketing tools, such as brochures and videos, should be geared to the specifics, Graham continued. He also said "timelines are critical."

The board will work toward a marketing plan at the next regular meeting on Nov. 1.

Hatley reported on contact made with a theatre owner in Lubbock and on an inquiry in Plainview on a theatre complex opened in the last few years.

"I was told that a four-screen theatre probably would serve the community," said Hatley. However, he added, the Lubbock owner advised him that theatres are "not a good investment."

"He said the cost for building is about $40 to $50 per square foot," said Hatley. "A four-screen complex would require about 15,000 square feet."

Mayor Bob Jossereand observed that a theatre "may not be truly a project" for HEDC, but for the quality of life of the community, it is important.

"I don't know that it would break even but for the number of people going to Amarillo for a movie, shopping and dinner, it could," he said. "I encourage this group to pursue it."

Mike Carr, executive vice president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, told the board about previous experience with persons interested in opening a theatre in Hereford.

Graham said he's like a follow-up with information from cities that have theatres in operation now.

Skiles asked Hatley to work with Carr on gathering further information.

A video prepared for the chamber several years ago and updated three years ago was discussed with Carr. He described it as "multi-purpose," presenting an overview of the community for promotion of industry and tourism.

The possibility of updating the 15-minute video for use by the chamber and HEDC was discussed.

"We'd like to cooperate," said Carr. "We're telling the same story." He described the video and brochures as tools that help "get your foot in the door."

Carr said copies of the current video have been distributed widely. "I think we've sent out about 300" of the updated version, he reported.

Skiles asked Carr to keep the HEDC board in touch with "what's happening in the retail area" of the community.

Jossereand suggested that the EDC "integrate with chamber on business." Skiles said, "We want to work together" with the chamber of commerce.

Replied Carr, "We're all the same people."

Guilty verdict sends Selena fans into tribute to slain star

By MICHELLE KOIDIN
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - With a single word from inside the courthouse, hundreds outside exploded with a cheering, honking tribute to Selena that mixed a love for the slain Tejano star with anger at the fan who pulled the trigger.

It took just two hours Monday for jurors to convict former Selena fan club president Yolanda Saldivar, rejecting her claims the gun went off accidentally.

And for nearly as long afterward, the Spanish chant of guilty, "Culpable," filled the streets, cars honked, fans at times wept and repeated the name "Selena, Selena."

"We still believe in the system," said Ramona Chairaz, who said she had stood outside court throughout the two-week trial. "I'm the happiest person in the whole wide world."

As the verdict was read, Ms. Saldivar's shoulders shook and she began to cry. The jury returns today to decide on a punishment that could range from probation to life in prison.

"I'm happy the verdict was guilty, but it's not going to bring her back," fan Denise Martinez said. "I don't think she realizes what she took away from us."

Selena, whose full name was Selena Quintanilla Perez, was 23 when she was gunned down March 31 at a Corpus Christi motel.

A superstar in the world of Tejano music, a bouncy variety of Mexican-American pop, Selena was working on her first English-language recording in hopes of becoming a crossover sensation.

Prosecutors contended Ms. Saldivar, 35, deliberately shot Selena when the singer went to retrieve records to support her family's suspicion that Ms. Saldivar had embezzled $30,000 as manager of Selena's boutiques.

Ms. Saldivar "took the gun out, cocked the hammer, pulled the trigger and killed her. What could be a worse way to die than to be shot in the back in a cowardly manner?" prosecutor Mark Skurka asked during closing arguments.

"Selena left her mark on the world," Skurka continued. "The defendant left her mark on Selena with a bullet hole in the back."

But defense attorney Fred Hagens - pulling the trigger of the .38-caliber pistol over and over as he addressed the jury - insisted that Ms. Saldivar was bent on killing herself and that the gun went off while she was waving it.

He described Ms. Saldivar as inexperienced with weapons and said the gun had a hair trigger, and he quoted the woman's own words to police in a 9-1/2-hour standoff after the shooting.

"Time and time again, consistently unrehearsed, ... she said, 'This was an accident; I didn't intend to hurt her,'" Hagens said.

He said he would appeal. Undermining Ms. Saldivar's claim was the testimony of motel workers that a calm Ms. Saldivar, gun in hand, chased a bleeding, screaming Selena from a room to the lobby, where the singer collapsed.

A firearms expert testified that Ms. Saldivar's Brazilian-made five-shot revolver could not have gone off without someone pulling the trigger.

District Attorney Carlos Valdez said he was not surprised at the jury's swift decision in Houston, where the case was moved because of intense publicity in Selena's hometown of Corpus Christi.

Social Security provision cut from House budget legislation

'Contract with America' plank would have allowed recipients to earn more money

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A provision that would have allowed working Social Security recipients to keep more of their job income has been quietly dropped by House Republicans from budget legislation.

The provision, a key plank in the "Contract With America," would have raised the limit on the money such retirees can earn without losing part of their benefits.

It was deleted from the House budget-balancing bill scheduled for action late this week because it faced a parliamentary roadblock in the Senate, House Ways and Means Committee spokesman Ari Fleischer said Monday. Senate rules bar the inclusion of Social Security revisions in budget legislation.

Sixty senators can vote to waive the rule, but House lawmakers believed that was unlikely. They feared the Senate would defeat the entire budget bill if the eventual House-Senate compromise version contained the Social Security provision, Fleischer said.

House Ways and Means Chairman Bill Archer, R-Texas, and Social Security subcommittee chairman Jim Bunning, R-Ky., intend to reintroduce the provision as stand-alone legislation, Fleischer said.

The Senate Budget Committee on Monday voted 12-10 along party lines to ratify the budget-balancing package, setting up a likely vote by the full Senate later this week. The House plans to vote on a similar bill Thursday.

In another show of GOP strength, the Senate vote 51-40 to reject a non-binding measure urging elimination of tax cuts for people earning more than $250,000 a year, and using the savings to reduce planned cuts in the growth of Medicare.

The overall budget measure, which is intended to cut taxes by $245 billion and balance the budget in seven years, is the centerpiece of the Republicans' program.

But the earnings-limit provision also was much promoted as crucial to help needy senior citizens who must work to supplement their retirement income.

Under current law, Social Security recipients aged 65 to 69 lose $1 in benefits for every $3 they earn above $11,280.

"A lot of people work right up to that limit and stop working," said David Certner of the American Association for Retired Persons. "We should be encouraging people to work and earn the money. The reason they work in the first place is they can't afford to live on Social Security."

Working seniors, in effect, have to pay higher taxes than anyone else, he said.

House Republicans had wanted to raise the earnings figure to $30,000 by 2000. That would have cost the treasury $12.4 billion over seven years.

The provision was dropped from the budget legislation without fanfare. The 4-inch-thick bill, which has not been widely circulated, mentions the decision.

Federal credit crisis nears

WASHINGTON (AP) - Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin says the government could run out of money around Nov. 6 if Congress takes no action to raise the nation's credit limit.

Rubin told reporters the projected deadline for exhausting the nation's borrowing authority is subject to daily change, depending on how much revenue comes into government coffers.

His latest comments put a slightly different spin on the battle of nerves between the Clinton administration and Republican leaders in Congress.

Rubin said last week the government was scaling back the size of Monday's auction of three-month Treasury bills and suspending sales of some securities designed to benefit states and municipalities. At the time, Rubin said the moves would postpone reaching the $4.9 trillion debt ceiling into early November.

IRS will stop running 'exhaustive, random' audits of taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bowing to the will of Congress, the Internal Revenue Service says it will drop a feared and hated program of conducting exhaustive and random audits of tens of thousands of taxpayers each year.

IRS spokesman Frank Keith said Monday the agency decided to "indefinitely postpone" the Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program, or TCMP, that was scheduled to start Dec. 1 for 153,000 taxpayers - marking an end to what he said is a 30-year-old program. The audits already had been delayed two months while Congress reviewed the IRS budget.

The comprehensive audits, which take up to 30 months, were designed to spot trends to help the IRS target regular audits to where they'll do the most good.

But the Republican-run Congress is moving in a House-Senate conference committee to cut the IRS' 1996 budget from $8.2 billion to $7.4 billion, prompting the agency to cut back on its enforcement programs. Eliminating the TCMP audits will save the IRS $1.5 billion, according to Keith.

"From our point of view as tax administrators, it's a regrettable decision, but unfortunately a necessary one," he said.

But taxpayers who underwent the random scrutiny, which required them to prove every item on their return - even producing marriage and birth certificates - have long decried the practice.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., has compared TCMP audits to the Inquisition.

The battle to end the random full audits was led by former IRS Commissioner Fred T. Goldberg. Organizations representing tax professionals and the National Taxpayers Union Foundation also sought to end the audits.

"No one doubts that TCMP audits are intrusive, burdensome and expensive," Goldberg told a House Ways and Means subcommittee studying the program in July. "You must explain every bank deposit and every investment to show that you had no unreported income. ... Your word and some reconstructed notes will be worth little."

In defending the program, the IRS cited numerous revenue-raising innovations that came as a result of the TCMP audits, including requiring taxpayers to list Social Security numbers for dependents and get Social Security or taxpayer identification numbers from day-care providers.

Associated Press Writer

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) - Thirty-six years in office is enough for U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson, the most flamboyant member of the Texas congressional delegation.

Wilson announced Monday that his "internal clock" tells him not to run again for office - not because his job has grown unenjoyable after almost a quarter century, but because "simply, it's time."

In December 1959, Wilson announced his candidacy for state representative.

His Southeast Texas constituents have since elected Wilson, a Democrat, three times to the Texas House, two times to the Texas Senate and 12 times to Congress.

"As I leave public life, I am pleased to announce to you that I'm not mad at anybody, even the Republicans. ... I have always conducted your business in Washington on a bipartisan basis, and this would have continued," said Wilson.

"There are three ways to leave Congress. You can be carried out - that doesn't have much appeal to me. You can be defeated - I haven't had that experience and don't want it," he said. "Or you can just decide it's time, and get on with a new life with no regrets, and spectacular memories. That's what I'm going to do."

Privately, the 62-year-old Democrat had told colleagues that it's time for new horizons and making money in the private sector.

Saying he is interested in lobbying - or even consulting - Wilson added that it is illegal to lobby for the first year after leaving office.

"I have various interests," he said. "Getting the oil out of the Caspian Sea, which would mean going through Turkey and Georgia," are among them.

Texas GOP Chairman Tom Pauken said Monday that Wilson's retirement gives Republicans an opportunity to pick up the East Texas seat he has held for so long.

"The Republican Party will go all out to win this seat. ... This election will definitely have national implications," said Pauken.

Wilson said he won't endorse any candidate to succeed him. "I'm going to let the primary guys fight it out," he said.

He said he plans to serve out his term, which runs through the end of 1996, but might step down sooner.

"In a hypothetical situation, if we have a strong candidate that wins the Democratic primary and we feel certain he'll win the general, then it might be in the best interest of the district (to step down)," he said.

Also on Monday, another Democrat announced he'll forsake his East Texas congressional seat. U.S. Rep. Jim Chapman of Sulphur Springs said he'll run for Phil Gramm's U.S. Senate spot. Both Wilson and Chapman are on the powerful and prestigious House Appropriations Committee.

Despite his reputation as "Good-Time" Charlie, Wilson kept the respect of his peers, not only in the Texas delegation but throughout the House.

During the Reagan presidency - when conservative Texas Democratic congressmen frequently broke ranks to forge alliances of their own on tax and budget matters - Wilson was their crucial liaison with disgruntled party regulars.

A liberal Democrat with a rigid hawkish bent, Wilson made his mark in the areas of defense and foreign policy.

The dapper Wilson's penchant for beautiful women also is well documented.

He raised eyebrows during one trip to Pakistan in 1988 when his escort, a former Miss World contestant, was denied military transport by a Defense Intelligence Agency official.

During the Carter administration, he took a Playboy cover girl to White House parties.

"You are the most tolerant and forgiving constituency in the world," Wilson said.

But Wilson had a solid voting record for women's issues and civil rights as well as skill with the appropriations process, according to observers.

In the 1980s, he prompted lawmakers to boost U.S. aid for the Afghan rebels who eventually drove the Soviet army out of their country.

But last month, the Federal Election Commission slapped him with a $90,000 fine for a flurry of election law violations - the biggest fine ever assessed against a House member.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Greenbelt's" plea for an end to trash on the TV talk shows of the '90s needs a fuller reply.

Your readers should know that several companies have developed blocking technologies that allow anyone offended by such shows as Jenny Jones or Jerry Springer to black out the TV screen for the duration of the show. Instead of sending dozens of letters to the networks, advertisers and show hosts with little effect, a viewer can send a more powerful message by blocking the show. When the ratings drop, the level of discourse on that show will improve.

In a related development, Congress recently passed legislation to require the installation of a device in new TV sets that can be used to block shows rated for violence, language or sex. For just a few extra cents added to the price of a TV, parents will be able to program this "V-chip" to keep anything carrying a parental warning from reaching their kids in their own living room. At last, it will be possible to create an oasis of decency in your own home without having to turn your back to public airwaves entirely.

TV programming will always be controversial to some and entertaining to others. Technology will soon make it easier to customize your own TV to your own tastes. The sooner the better. -- Rep. Edward J. Markey, U.S. House of Representatives

DEAR REP. MARKEY: I agree wholeheartedly. Please keep reading for more on this subject:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You were right to suggest that readers let program sponsors know when they are outraged by what they see on TV. But that's not all they should do.

The Federal Communications Commission, which I chair, is currently considering whether broadcaster should be required to show at least three hours per week of educational programs for kids. Broadcasters currently are not required to air even one children's educational program per week. We can and should expect more from them.

Parents need information and devices like the V-chip to help them select from the avalanche of programs pouring uninvited over the air into their homes. But simply eliminating offensive programming will not produce quality programs. Your readers should demand a better choice of educational and information TV that helps, not hinders, our efforts to teach positive values to our children.

-- Reed E. Hundt, chairman, FCC
DEAR REED HUNDT: You have written a highly provocative letter for which I thank you. It's a fact that by the time a child begins first grade, he or she has already spent the equivalent of three school years in front of the TV. No other country in the world has permitted such unmitigated trash to be aired during the hours children are accustomed to watching.

Because of the efforts of Rep. Edward Markey of Massachusetts and Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois, the industry will be forced to clean itself up. We are deeply indebted to these superb public servants for having the integrity to put the best interests of children first and not be seduced by potential big-money backers. Too bad there aren't more like them.

CC girls capture SPC race

Things seem to be peaking at the right time for the Hereford High School cross country teams.

At Saturday's South Plains College Invitational - the last meet before this Saturday's District 1-4A Meet - the Hereford girls won and the boys came in fourth in their field.

"This was a good meet for the girls to win just before district," Hereford coach Martha Emerson said.

Hereford scored 92 points to win, edging Coronado with 99. Dimmitt had 117 points, while San Angelo Lake View had 118. Brownfield was fifth with 147 points, and Borger - the only other team from District 1-4A - was sixth with 163. There were 21 teams in the field.

"We ran well to beat Lubbock Coronado, which we hadn't been able to do at several earlier meets," Emerson said. "Jamie Harrison had a great race in placing third, but the four girls behind her were within 45 seconds. That's the kind of team effort it takes to win a meet."

Harrison took third place with a two-mile time of 12:57. (Brownfield's Mary Ann Hernandez won going away with a time of 12:17.) The other Hereford girls were: Bethany Townsend, 16th in 13:18; Teresa Lopez, 20th in 13:32; Kitt Wimberly, 27th in 13:37; Erica Delgado, 30th in 13:41; and Jessica Mejia, 57th in 14:12.

The Hereford boys were fourth with 112 points, just ahead of district rival Borger and its 137 points. Andrews won the meet with 63 points, with San Angelo Lake View third at 74 and Brownfield fourth at 75. The field included 11 schools.

Joel Garza led Hereford with an eighth-place finish, running the three miles in 17:47. The other Hereford boys were: Inez Lopez, 20th in 18:03; Miguel Huerta, 34th in 18:31; Rafael Del Hoyo, 35th in 18:32; Flavio Cardenas, 50th in 18:48; Pedro Del Hoyo, 59th in 19:01; and Miguel Carrillo, 63rd in 19:08.

Both teams will run in the District 1-4A Meet Saturday morning at Thompson Park in Amarillo.

JV boys: (team finished second) Brandon Coleman, third in 18:49; Jason Stark, 10th in 19:22; Chris Casarez, 15th in 19:52; Ray Lopez, 35th in 21:27; and Marselino Ruiz, 36th in 21:29.

Junior varsity girls: (team finished seventh) Anna Delgado, 23rd in 15:20; Amy Perrin, 35th in 15:46.2; Jessica Harrison, 36th in 15:46.6; Mayra Nava, 57th in 16:40.4; and Sarah Chavez, 58th in 16:40.8.

Teamwork

Hereford's Tyler Merrick (left) hits a ball at the net, while doubles partner Scott Shaw backs him up. Merrick and Shaw won their match helping Hereford to a 12-6 win over Dumas Saturday at Whiteface Courts.

Netters finish district at 6-0

The Hereford tennis team wrapped up a perfect 6-0 record in District 1-4A with a 12-6 win over Dumas Saturday at Whiteface Courts.

The Hereford boys swept all nine boys' matches, while the Herd girls took three of the excellent Dumas girls.

"All the kids wanted to finish district undefeated," coach Ed Coplen said. "I think that added something to the way we played."

Hereford moves on to the Region 1-4A Tournament, to be played Friday and Saturday in Lubbock. Borger, which beat Canyon by one set Saturday, will join Hereford at regionals as the second team from 1-4A. Hereford and Borger both lost in the semifinals of last year's regional; only the champion goes on to the state tournament.

Going 6-0 in District 1-4A was an impressive feat for Hereford.

"It's really good this year because the district's so tough," Coplen said. "We probably have five teams that could compete (well) at regionals, just in our district. Last year, our district was the strongest overall in the region, and I think it probably is again this year."

Coplen singled out Annie Hoffman as having played well Saturday. When Hoffman won her singles match in three sets over Kristin Smith, it was the 10th and clinching win - drawing cheers from the spectators. Hoffman also won her doubles match with partner Amanda Kriegshauser.

The third girls' win came from Paige Robbins in singles. Robbins won all her singles matches in district play. So did B.J. Lockmiller, who locked up his perfect slate with a 6-0, 6-0 win over Cody Hendricks.

"I like the fact that I was able to help the team in each match," Lockmiller said. "I feel like it's a big plus going into regionals undefeated. We have a really good chance to get to the finals, but Wichita Falls will be a tough match if we get there."

Spikers clout Canyon, clinch playoff spot

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team clinched a playoff spot Saturday. Tonight in Dumas they play for the district championship.

Hereford, ranked No. 1 in Class 4A, shot down a good Canyon Lady Eagles squad, 15-5, 15-5, Saturday in Whiteface Gym to claim the HHS program's eighth straight playoff trip.

Hereford improved to 10-0 in District 1-4A and 23-3 overall. Dumas defeated Borger Saturday, improving to 9-1 and 15-8 and clinching a playoff spot of its own. When both teams meet in tonight in Dumas, a Hereford win would clinch the program's first outright district championship.

Canyon will have to settle for third place after falling to 7-4 and 14-11.

Canyon led very early in both games. In the first game, Hereford gave up a 2-0 lead and needed several sideouts before a 4-0 run got them started.

"The very first part of the match, I think the kids were overexcited," Herd coach Brenda Reeh said. "Some of the kids wanted to pound the ball into the floor and into the rafters. Once we settled down and stopped overplaying the ball, things went smoothly."

Hereford managed to pull off two five-point runs in the first game against a Canyon defense that was effective at times.

"Canyon played three people deep and they dug us pretty well," Reeh said. "Once we made the adjustments and hit some off-speed shots, we scored on nearly everything."

The two runs gave Hereford a 14-4 lead in the first game. Canyon got a fifth point when Hereford passed the ball into the net, but Julie Cole's stuff gave Hereford a sideout. Julie Rampley gave Hereford the first game when her sharp-angled tip fell.

Canyon jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the second game, but Hereford responded with eight straight points.

The best rally of the match came after a Canyon sideout. Canyon dug Hereford three times in the rally, including two really hard Hereford hits. Canyon won the point - the fifth - on the a tip kill.

That could have been a turning point, but Tarabeth Holmes got Hereford a sideout with a kill, then Hereford rolled off three points in a row for an 11-5 lead.

"Most teams, if they're playing against someone who dug as well as Canyon dug, lots of teams would crater, and you'd see a noticeable momentum shift," Reeh said. "Our kids treated it as a well-played point and made the adjustments the next time they had the opportunity."

After a few more sideouts, Canyon made three mistakes in row to start a 4-0 Hereford run. Shonda

Over the top

Hereford's Julie Rampley sends the volleyball over two blocking Lady Eagles. Hereford clinched a playoff spot with a 15-5, 15-5 win over Canyon Saturday in Whiteface Gym.

Herd sophomores edge Monterey

Fidencio Ruiz of the Hereford sophomore football team scored in the final minute of Saturday's game with Monterey, then intercepted a pass to seal a 25-24 win for Hereford.

Ruiz caught a 15-yard pass from Gilbert Salinas with 40 seconds left, capping a clutch 70-yard drive. That brought Hereford back from an 11-point halftime deficit at home.

The Herd sophomores' defense then held, as Chris Henson and Ruben Cantu sacked the Monterey quarterback on the two plays previous to Ruiz' interception.

Hereford took a 13-7 lead in the first quarter, but Monterey came up with 17 unanswered points in the second quarter to lead 24-13 at the half.

Hereford kicked off to start the second half, and Hereford's Martin Garcia recovered the squib kick at the Monterey 35-yard line. Moments later, Henry Hernandez ran five yards for a touchdown, but the run for two points failed, and Monterey led 24-19.

A Hereford goalline stand in the fourth quarter prevented Monterey from putting the game away. The stand resulted in a missed 25-yard field goal.

In the first quarter, Hernandez ran 10 yards for Hereford's first touchdown, and Jory McKibben kicked the extra point. Hereford scored again on a 72-yard pass from Salinas to Rodney Gomez, but the kick failed.

Four contestants each missed five games. After the tie-breaker was figured, Jean Davis took second place and $25, and Dorothy Grasnick took third and $10.

Davis' prediction of 49 total points in the tie-breaker game - Borger's 51-0 win over Dumas Friday - was the closest, while Grasnick's prediction totaled 41.

Blake Busby and Patrick Higgins also missed five games, but they weren't as close on the tie-breaker.

Patriots come alive to whip Bills, 27-14

By JIMMY GOLEN
AP Sports Writer
FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) - Bill Parcells didn't believe the Patriots would have been finished if they'd lost to Buffalo, and he doesn't think their season is saved now that they've won.

"I think we played a little bit better. I by no means think that we've turned any corners or anything," he said Monday night after New England snapped a five-game losing streak with a 27-14 victory over the Bills.

"I just think we finally got a win," he said. "We needed it."

Rookie Curtis Martin ran for 127 yards and a touchdown and Drew Bledsoe threw for 262 to end the Bills' five-game winning streak and spoil the head coaching debut of Elijah Pitts, who is filling in while Marv Levy recovers from prostate surgery.

"I'm disappointed for Eli. Eli deserves a better game from us," Bills receiver Steve Tasker said. "I know the most disappointing thing for all these guys is we didn't win it for him and for Marv. Both guys mean an awful lot to us."

Losing Levy, who delegates most of his gameday authority anyway, wasn't necessarily devastating for Buffalo (5-2). But the Bills, who were already absent receiver Andre Reed, couldn't recover from the loss of running back Thurman Thomas six minutes into the game.

"It pretty much screwed up what we wanted to do," quarterback Jim Kelly said.

SPIKERS

Sossaman's ace finished off the match for the Hereford.

The Hereford sub-varsity teams made it a sweep of Canyon Saturday, as the freshmen and junior varsity teams both won matches prior to the varsity match.

First, the Hereford freshmen nipped Canyon, 10-15, 15-2, 15-12.

Kristin Cole served for 13 points in the match, including nine in the third game. Kasey Torres (nine points), Misty Tice (eight) and Rachel Chavez (six) also had service runs.

The Herd JV breezed through its match, 15-2, 15-3. Makesha Rives led the Hereford girls with nine service points.

Stovall displays, discusses quilts at meeting of Wyche FCE Club

Viola Stovall presented the program at the meeting of the Wyche Family Community Education Club held recently in the home of Pet Ott.

Stovall displayed and discussed several quilts she had made, two of which have won local and state honors.

For opening exercises, Ott played a tape recorded at her husband Ira's 100th birthday party consisting of episodes of his life.

Roll call was answered by members naming their favorite program of 1995.

Coreen Odom reminded members they need to select five bread and pastry recipes to be submitted for the Sweet Bee Recipe Book. Recipes are due Dec. 4.

A Festive Foods demonstration will be presented at the SPS Reddy Room Nov. 28 at 1:30 p.m. and at 6:30 p.m. Reservations need to be made through the County Extension office.

A nominating committee of Jo Lee, Shirley Brown and Vada Batterman was appointed to nominate a slate of officers for 1996.

It was announced that the FCE clubs will participate in the Westway Craft Show. Baked good and arts and crafts by FCE members will be available. Chances will be sold at $1 each on a quilt to be given away.

Guests present at the meeting were Mildred Guinn, Frances Crume, Clara Trowbridge and Stovall.

Members present included Dorothy Lundry, Louise Axe, Carol Worthan, Camille Jones, Mary Lou Aven, Dorma Kirby, Marie Maxwell, Virgie Duncan, Argen Draper, Barbara Sterne, Carol Sartain, Lee, Batterman, Odom and the hostesses Ott and Brown.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: My brother passed away two years ago and since he lived in a different state than I do, I wasn't notified of his death until six months later.

I would really like to have a copy of the obituary that ran in his local paper. How do I go about getting this?

Thank you so much for any help that you can give me. — M. Riotti, LaGrange, Ky.

You can call information for the city and they should be able to get you the telephone number of the local newspaper where your brother lived.

The newspaper can usually get you a copy of the obituary. There may be a small cost involved, so be sure to check. You will need the relative's name and the exact day of death.

My sympathy on your loss and I hope this information helps you. — Heloise

TRUCK BED LINERS

Dear Heloise: Although real men prefer rust, the advent of bed liners was a big step forward in protecting pickup beds from the ravages of nature.

However, a major disadvantage of bed liners is that they are too darn slippery. Even the most careful driver will find tool and tackle boxes or suitcases careening around the bed and banging into the walls at each stop and start.

A simple and effective solution is to put a piece of rubber throw rug matting on the bed floor and any object placed thereon will be much more stable. Made to do the same for slippery hardwood floors, the matting does just as well in the bed of a pickup. — Mike Dewey, Columbia, S.C.

TAPE HINT

Dear Heloise: When using tape that is to be removed later, fold the end over and it's easy to remove. — Ruth R. Hansel, Fort Atkinson, Iowa

HANDY TIMER

Dear Heloise: Since I like to cook and also work in my shop in the back yard, I take the portable timer with me to the shop. When the timer rings, I know it's time to get to the cooking beans or stew before they burn up. — Frank S. Kaminsky, Crowley, Texas

Andrews sister dies at age 79

By MARY CAMPBELL, Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Maxene Andrews, part of the Andrews Sisters trio whose "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" and other hits gave a syncopated, jitterbugging soundtrack to the World War II era, has died of a heart attack. She was 79.

Ms. Andrews, of Auburn, Calif., died early Saturday at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis, Mass., after suffering a heart attack while on vacation. She had bypass surgery in 1982.

Her sister Laverne died in 1967. Sister Patty is the lone survivor of one of the most successful singing groups ever, with 19 gold records and sales of nearly 100 million recordings.

From their rolled hairdos and slim suits to their perfectly blended voices, the Andrews Sisters offered a vision of American innocence treasured on the home front and by servicemen abroad during the war years.

"I think it was our time," she said in one of her last interviews, given Sept. 15 to The Associated Press. "I think when your time is due, if you're not prepared, you're going to miss it and if you are prepared, it is going to happen."

Their memorable harmonies included "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree," "Beat Me Daddy Eight to the Bar," "Winter Wonderland" and "Rum and Coca Cola."

Her last performance was Oct. 8, in the off-Broadway show "Swing Time Canteen." She had planned to return to the show in December, The New York Times reported.

"I thought about retiring but I don't know how to spell it any more," she told the AP.

"Mackie" was the best friend anyone could have," said a longtime friend, actress June Allyson, referring to Ms. Andrews by her nickname. "But she's not gone. She's right here in my heart."

Maxene Andrews stirred memories earlier this year when she sang "America the Beautiful" to thousands of veterans who gathered in Honolulu to mark the 50th anniversary of V-J Day.

Many of those veterans had mobbed the Andrews Sisters when they performed at military posts and hospitals overseas during the war.

"It was like something you can't imagine, 5,000 to 10,000 soldiers out there and they're all whooping and whistling," she recalled during the interview in her New York apartment. "We loved bounce numbers. The soldiers liked them. They said they made them happy. That was our job."

Ms. Andrews was recognized for her service in 1987 with the Pentagon's highest civilian honor, the Medal for Distinguished Public Service.

At the height of their popularity in the 1940s, the Andrews Sisters appeared in 16 films, including "Buck Privates" and "In the Navy," with Abbott & Costello, "Hollywood Canteen," with a host of stars, and "Road to Rio," with Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. They also had their own radio show, "Eight-to-the-Bar Ranch."

Born in Minneapolis, Maxene Andrews went on the road with her sisters in the early 1930s. They scored their first hit, "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen," in 1937.

While several reference books give her birthdate as Jan. 3, 1918, publicist Greg Waskul said that she was actually born in 1916, and that there has been considerable confusion over the sisters' birthdates.

After her first sister died and the group broke up, Maxene Andrews went on to teach speech and drama. She retook the stage with sister Patty in 1974, starring in "Over Here" on Broadway. But they reportedly were estranged in recent years.

Ms. Andrews underwent quadruple bypass surgery in 1982, then went on to release her only solo album in 1990. Her memoir of World War II, "Over Here, Over There," was published in 1993.

Ms. Andrews married Lou Levy, who managed the Andrews Sisters and helped them get their first recording contract, in 1941. They later divorced.

Patty Andrews did not return a message left Sunday at her home in Northridge, Calif. Her husband, Walter Weschler, told the Los Angeles Times that she was too upset to speak. Of the sisters' estrangement, he would say only, "We wished it could have been otherwise, but it's one of those sad things."

In addition to her sister, Maxene Andrews is survived by her adopted daughter and manager, Lynda Wells, daughter Aleda Levy Andrews Hunt and son Peter Todd Andrews Levy; foster son Steve Sharpe, and her former husband.

Memorial services were planned for Los Angeles and New York.

Print is the only medium of communication designed to accommodate humankind.

You can fold it to fit in a crowded briefcase, your wallet, or a recipe file.

You can spindle it to remind you of the latest shows you want to see, tonight's TV schedule, information of interest to a co-worker, schedule of sports events.

You can mutilate it for cents-off coupons, telephone numbers, sales hours, store addresses, political cartoons.

You can even line the bird cage with it or wrap fish in it.

Chapman enters Senate race, says Gramm is hurting state

AUSTIN (AP)—Congressman Jim Chapman has entered the U.S. Senate race, accusing incumbent Republican Sen. Phil Gramm of putting presidential ambition ahead of Texas.

The third Democrat to join the Senate race, calling himself a bipartisan problem-solver, said Gramm's dual candidacies for president and re-election were hurting the state.

"Today, this Senate seat is held by one who puts personal and political interests above all else.

Sacrificing the interests of the Lone Star State to your personal ambition is wrong and Texans know it," Chapman said Monday.

Gramm's press secretary, Larry Neal, scoffed at the charge.

"Texans know the value of having a Texan in the White House. When he's elected, Phil Gramm will be the president from Texas and for Texas," Neal said.

While promising to fight Republicans on issues such as Medicare, student loans and civil rights, Chapman also pledged to put "common interests" above politics.

Chapman said he had gladly worked with Republicans, including Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, on such Texas issues as saving jobs at the Red River Army Depot and promoting NASA's space station project.

"There's an alternative to the bickering, the partisanship, the destructive tone of politics as usual. There's a better way, and Texans know it. The alternative is leadership that places Texas and our common interests first," he said.

Speaking to supporters on the Capitol steps, Chapman said his record stacks up well to that of Gramm, a former Democrat who's been in the Senate since 1985.

"I have fought for those who simply want a safe neighborhood to live in, a secure job that pays well and a good school for their children," he said.

Chapman, 50, is a fifth-generation Texan who was raised and continues to live in Sulphur Springs.
