

Bank Bandit Suspect Nabbed After Wild Gun Battle With State Policemen In Austin

Charges Filed In Holdup Of Blanco Bank; Fugitive And One Officer Wounded In Exciting Exchange Of Pistol Fire

AUSTIN, Oct. 20 (AP)—Within sight of the Texas capital today, a wild gun battle on the main north-south highway resulted in the capture of a man who, state police said, admitted he was the masked bandit who robbed the Blanco National Bank of Blanco of $1,167 yesterday.

Two charges of assault with intent to murder, and one of robbery by assault were filed in justice court here against Howard Tatum of Austin.

The gun battle, which took place within the city limits with the robbery suspect emptying two guns from behind a tree before he surrendered after being overhauled in a stolen car, resulted in the serious, but not critical, injury of Captain George Schauer of the highway patrol, who was shot in the left side.

Captain J. S. Albright of the highway patrol, describing the capture, said he, Sergeant R. B. Butler of the patrol and Constable Arthur Woody were cruising around South Austin when they sighted a car reported hijacked from Deputy Sheriff Tom King of Hays county early this morning.

Captain Schauer was on the same highway headed toward San Marcos where he was to deliver a safety lecture.

When Captain Albright spotted the stolen car, he and Captain Schauer turned around and chased it toward Austin. Captain Schauer, driving the faster car, overhauled the suspect in a race which approached a speed of 100 miles an hour.

Seek To Settle Oil-Gas Board Auto Dispute

DETROIT, Oct. 20 (AP)—Ignoring previous rebuffs, two members of the state labor mediation board today joined in negotiations aimed at settlement of the "slow-down vs. speed-up" dispute between the CIO-United Automobile Workers Union and the Chrysler Corp.

Arthur E. Raab, chairman of the board, and A. C. Lappin, Detroit member, filed into the conference room despite a blunt statement by the corporation at Lansing yesterday that state mediation was unnecessary.

R. J. Thomas, UWA-CIO president who joined the conferees, said "absolutely no progress has been made."

Assumption Of Nazi Victory Is 'Idiotic'

That's What Sen. Johnson Says, In Assailing Embargo Repeal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) labeled as "an idiotic assumption" today what he declared to be the main argument for repeal of the arms embargo that Hitler could conquer Europe and "we will be next."

The 73-year-old veteran of the League of Nations fight of 20 years ago took the senate floor to start off the 15th day of debate on the neutrality bill.

Johnson said repeal of the embargo, which it is admitted by many would give England and France an advantage over Germany in American arms markets, was the "first false step."

During debate on the administration neutrality bill, which he supports, Brown brought up for discussion a radio address in which Lindbergh said that "sooner or later we must demand the freedom of this continent and its surrounding islands from the dictates of European power."

Johnson said repeal of the embargo, which it is admitted by many would give England and France an advantage over Germany in American arms markets, was the "first false step."

Turkey No Longer Neutral, In German Eyes; Allies Pleased Over New Pact; Finland Prepares Answer To Russia

Cabinet Goes In Special Conference

Finns Believed Prepared To Fight For Independence

HELSINKI, Oct. 20 (AP)—Finland's cabinet framed its answer today to "questions of a very serious nature" presented by Soviet Russia.

The cabinet went into session within an hour after Foreign Minister Eldas Erkko arrived from Stockholm, where he attended the neutral Nordic countries' conference.

Reply Tomorrow In close contact with Finland's highest officials was Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, former premier, who will carry the little Baltic country's reply to its powerful neighbor to Moscow—probably tomorrow.

Even as the cabinet convened, the Finns continued to push their military preparations.

News items generally voiced satisfaction with the outcome of the Stockholm meeting which expressed the unity of the northern countries and their desire to remain neutral in the European war.

In the only announcement on the nature of the Finnish negotiations, President Kyyroski said Russia had presented "questions of a very serious nature" for settlement.

Hitler Hears Report On Newest Diplomatic Maneuver; 'Loophole' In Treaty Is Cited By Berlin

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER

BERLIN, Oct. 20 (AP)—Adolf Hitler heard a report on the French-British-Turkish pact fought from the lips of his ace diplomatic trouble shooter, Franz von Papen, while leading Nazis insisted Turkey no longer could be considered neutral.

Von Papen, German ambassador sent to Turkey last spring to further Nazi relations with Germany's World War ally, arrived today from Ankara where the treaty was signed yesterday.

Meanwhile, Nazi officials professed to see a loophole in the pact—Turkey's reservation against being drawn into a war with Russia—but asserted the Turks had "chosen a dangerous route."

No Berlin morning newspaper mentioned signature of the Anglo-Turkish mutual assistance pact, but authoritative quarters said Germany viewed the agreement with "critical eyes" in the fear it might hold the spark for a general war.

On a whole, the Nazi political world appeared stunned by the treaty.

Other war news was overshadowed by the allies' diplomatic maneuvering.

London Claims Nazis Blocked In Balkans

Bad Weather On Western Front Also Is Considered A Help

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Great Britain counted Germany twice a loser today—stymied both by the signing of a British-French mutual assistance pact with Turkey and by bad weather on the western front.

Responsible British command believed that the treaty signed at Ankara last night had blocked penetration of German influence in the Balkans, particularly in Rumania.

In a nutshell, if Germany attacks Rumania or Greece, Turkey will be on our side," The News Chronicle put it.

Military observers declared continuing heavy rains on the western front, meanwhile, greatly lessened the chances of success for any attempted German lightning offensive.

In diplomatic circles, far-reaching implications were read into the British-French-Turkish treaty for mutual military aid against "aggression" in the Mediterranean.

By the pact, operative for 15 years, Britain and France must help Turkey if she is the victim of aggression by "a European power" or if aggression by a European power leads to war in the Mediterranean area in which Turkey is involved.

Warnings On New Air Raids Prove False

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Oct. 20 (AP)—Two air raid warnings were sounded and "precautionary measures" were taken against the threat of Nazi bombing planes over the important Firth of Forth today, but the air ministry said no bombs were reported dropped.

An air raid warning also was given in the south of England later in the day, but within eight minutes the all-clear signal was sounded.

It was the second bombing menace in the Edinburgh area in five days, and the fourth menace to Scotland, including two at Scapa Flow.

German bombers on Monday at the Firth of Forth scored their first admitted aerial hit of the war on a British warship, slightly damaging the cruiser Southampton.

The phrase "precautionary measures" clearly referred to the defending British aircraft which went aloft.

The warnings were fairly general over a broad area of south-eastern Scotland. Four rapid bursts of anti-aircraft fire were heard in Edinburgh before the air raid sirens were sounded.

Mrs. Crowell Pleases Crowd

Mrs. Grace Noll Crowell, poet and lecturer, kept a crowd of more than 600 entertained and absorbed with her poems, her prose and her personality, in an appearance at the municipal auditorium Thursday evening.

Mrs. Crowell's appearance here was under sponsorship of the South Ward Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. Crowell read some of her favorite poems, some of Norman Crowell's and some that she said "other people didn't like" but the responsive audience found something to like in all of them.

Clay Cotten In Culberson Job

AUSTIN, Oct. 20 (AP)—Jerry Sadler, member of the railroad commission, announced today Senator Clay Cotten of Palestine had accepted the commission's offer to become chief of its gas utilities division in succession to Olin Culberson.

As a result of Cotten's acceptance, a new senator will be chosen from the sixth senatorial district, which is composed of Anderson, Freestone, Kaufman, Navarro and Henderson counties.

Among those suggested as possible candidates for the senate vacancy is Rep. Howlen Bond of Fairfield, Freestone county.

N. York And Philly Gunmen Exchange Slaying Courtesies

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—The New York Sun says a reciprocal "murder trade agreement" between New York and Philadelphia gunmen has been in operation for the past year and that trigger-men from Philadelphia were responsible for at least three slayings in connection with the racket-busting investigations of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

The inter-city pact, according to the newspaper, has functioned smoothly with a minimum of trouble from the law.

"When Philadelphia mobsters decide that certain characters deserve removal, they merely get in touch with their trade brothers in New York and tell them there is a 'little job' for them in Philadelphia," the Sun says.

Cowboy Gene Autry Greeted With Familiar Western Atmosphere

Ranch Supper, Horseback Ride For Star Here For Personal Appearances

Gene Autry came to town the modern way Thursday night—but it didn't take long to surround him with the western atmosphere which is the background for all his pictures.

The cowboy star, attired in a flashy white suit, a western, with black and white boots, big hat and all, arrived in Big Spring on an American Airlines plane, was greeted by a crowd of several hundred, was escorted to the Settles hotel for a brief rest; and then was rushed out to the Big Spring Riding Academy's ranch supper atop South Mountain.

Reception Is Held At Hotel Following Crowell Lecture

Queen's wreath and silver tapers in crystal holders set the color motif when Mrs. Grace Nell Crowell, Norman Crowell, and son, Reid, were honor guests at a reception at the Settles hotel following the Crowell lecture given at the municipal auditorium last night. The lecture was sponsored by the South Ward Parent-Teacher association.
The pink and silver are Mrs. Crowell's favorite colors, and two small lace-laid tables were presided over by Mrs. W. J. McAdams and Mrs. V. H. Flewellen. The queen's wreath centered the tables and was flanked by the silver tapers.
In the receiving line were W. C. Blankenship, Mrs. Crowell, Mrs. Blankenship, Norman Crowell, Mrs. Bernard Fisher, L. D. Bennett, Mrs. Hayes Stripling, Cliff Wiley, Mrs. King Sides, King Sides, Mrs. Cliff Wiley, and Mrs. W. B. Younger.
Mrs. James T. Brooks and Mrs. Joe Ogden presided at the register where approximately 300 signed their names. Page boys, who directed the crowd, were Arvie Earl Walker and Dean Miller.
Those who had sold tickets acted as hostesses and included Mrs. H. H. Smith, Mrs. W. J. McAdams, Mrs. M. M. Manell, Opal Douglas, Mrs. J. C. Loper, Mrs. Garner McAdams, Mrs. and Mrs. S. M. MISS LANEIOUS NOTES

By Mary Whaley
The best way to feel useless is to watch a group of women knitting, sewing, and crocheting while you sit with your hands in your lap with nothing to do. As the needles flash through the air, you listen to their conversation that seems to flow from a bottomless well and your fingers itch for something to do because you can't compete in the conversation.
Having learned efficiency on the typewriter over the more maidenly arts, it never bothers us until we get abashed into a group of domestic women.
There are times when our powers of oratory are pretty good and clever remarks come unstemmed but not when sitting down amongst a sewing club—with not even a typewriter in sight.
It makes you feel like those advertisements, "Do you stutter when you get up to speak? Send for our booklet on how to be the life of the party."
With one leg wrapped around a chair rung and fingers twitching, we sit in stony silence and long for something, anything, to say. It may be the rhythmic movement of the needles has a hypnotic effect like staring into a burning fire too long.
He yourself to such a spot and see where a typewriter will get you. If you don't end up by snatching the work from the nearest person or knitting one and purling one while the owner's back is turned, it will only show great self-control.

Bovines Rated Slight Favorites In Lamesa Clash Tonight

Invaders In Far Better Condition

Locals Seek Second Conference Victory Vaughn Dangerous

By HANK HART
Big Spring's unpredictable Steers, gaining new respect in District 3-AA grid circles with each weekend, sail into the Lamesa Tornados at Highland Park stadium this evening, 8 o'clock, in a game that may establish them as the eleven to beat in conference circles.

Pat Murphy's charges rule as slight favorites over the invaders, who are not the grid power they have been in recent years, but tonight's game is one rich in tradition, one in which anything can and often does happen. The Lamesans have been underdogs in other seasons but have always been tough for the Bovines to handle, especially since F. T. McCullom took over the coaching reins.

The Herd is plagued with injuries—handicaps to key men that may make for a different story in tonight's collision. Lefty Bethell, the star half who has gone 60 minutes in each of the last two clashes, is limping but must expect to do Trojan duty again. Bobby Savage, Murphy's best wing, is working with a battered ankle but must start. He has no help. Ralph Stewart, only recently elevated to the first string, is hobbling around in bad shape. There are other minor bruises that can affect the course of the battle.

In Good Shape
On the other hand the Lamesans are reported to be in good shape. They emerged from their test with Odessa without casualties and Coach McCullom will be able to employ all his regulars.

The Big Springers are favored over the Tornados by virtue of their 7-0 triumph over Odessa's Hoses who in turn stomped the Lamesans, 19-12, but football can be peculiar on occasions and the local gridder certainly cannot afford to take the two games as a gauge in comparing strength of the two teams.

The Tornados have Jackie Vaughn, a 170-pound youngster with a sling-shot arm who has shown sterling ability to toss that pig pelt on occasions. He climbed into the Odessans' hair in last week's game and refused to climb out until the victory had been tucked away.

If he begins connecting with his wings tonight then the Bovines are in for trouble.

Against that aerial game the Bovines will pit a running game which will look to advantage if the backs are able to hold onto the ball. A series of bad fumbles cost the Bovines the decision in a clash with Austin last week. Mentor Murphy has been tutoring the lads all week in ways to hold onto the swine skin.

Bethell's toe may prove a deciding factor. The 175-pound flash's booting suffered a drop in stock last week but all in all it has been a feature to date.

The Bovines will be seeking to avenge a 13-6 licking they took at the hands of the Lamesans last campaign when the Tornados were members of District One. They also will be seeking their third victory of the year and a chance to pull back to an even .500 mark in won and lost percentages.

Armstrong In Action
SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 20 (AP)—Hammering Henry Armstrong, the fight's best champion in the business, puts his welterweight crown on the chopping block tonight against Richie Fontaine of Missouri, Mont.

They're scheduled for 15 rounds. There was little or no wagering on the outcome, everybody figuring Henry a cinch to retain his title.

FACE LONGHORNS TONIGHT

Members of the Tornado football squad which will represent Lamesa in tonight's game with Big Spring Steers at Highland Park stadium are pictured above. Reading from left to right, top row, they are: Bassell, tackle; Holladay, (capt.) tackle; Morgan, center; Blair, end; Furlow, fullback; Spencer, guard; Parker, tackle. Second row: Hardwick, center; Aten, guard; Wilson, halfback; Everheart, halfback; Reeves, halfback; Blair, halfback; Oswald, guard; Smith, center; Aten, tackle; Barnard, quarterback. Lower row: Cates, halfback; White, end; Furlow, back; Futrell, tackle; Barkhurst, guard; Vaughn, regular quarterback, and perhaps one or two others, were not present when the picture was made.

Barker Sees Victory For Texas Aggies

By HERB BARKER
NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—Reserving the right to a second guess some time Saturday night, this football corner slips uneasily into the weekly soothsayer's role.

Tennessee-Alabama: Bob Neyland takes the wraps off the Tennessee powerhouse against formidable opposition. Alabama has a corking line, a great runner in Jimmy Nelson, fine kicker in Charley Bowell. But the feeling persists here that this is Tennessee's season.

Tulane-North Carolina: Two more unbeaten southern teams collide. North Carolina has shown the more versatile attack but Tulane boasts real power. Tulane.

Notre Dame-Navy: Navy doesn't seem ready for this.

Minnesota - Ohio State: This bunch vote goes to Minnesota with all due respect to the undefeated Buckeyes.

Texas Christian-Texas A. & M.—The spot for an upset in the dullest of all football conferences but the ballot must be marked for Texas Aggies.

Pitt-Duquesne: Pitt.

Yale-Army: Only sheer luck has kept Army unbeaten so far. We'll take the Cadets again and risk a set of badly burned fingers.

Manhattan - Auburn: Probably close but it looks like Auburn.

Cornell-Penn State: The biggest guns belong to Cornell.

Harvard-Penn: One of the hardest of them all. Penn.

New York University-Carnegie Tech: Braving the jinx N. Y. U. holds over Carnegie, one wavering vote for the Pittsburghers.

Columbia-Princeton: We'll take Princeton and decline to discuss it.

Brown-Holy Cross: The vote goes to Holy Cross.

Duke-Syracuse: Can't see anything but Duke.

Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech: If Vanderbilt wins this we'll bring suit. Georgia Tech.

Virginia Military-Virginia: Out of the hat, V. M. I.

Northwestern-Wisconsin: Maybe Northwestern can get rolling in this one.

Purdue-Michigan State: Purdue

rates the nod.
Chicago-Michigan: No rest for weary Chicago. Michigan.
Nebraska-Baylor: Strictly a shot in the dark, Nebraska.
Detroit-North Carolina State: A shaky vote for Detroit.
Oklahoma-Kansas: Anything but an Oklahoma victory would call for congressional investigation.
Missouri-Kansas State: Probably very close. Missouri.
Texas-Arkansas: No figuring Arkansas this year, explaining this uncertain vote for Texas.
Southern Methodist-Marquette: S. M. U. handily.
California-Washington State: Not much to choose. California.
Washington-Oregon State: The Beavers just squeezed past their last two opponents, robbing this vote for Oregon State of any feeling of confidence.
Rutgers - Maryland: Very even.
Maryland.
Bucknell - Georgetown: Georgetown.
Georgia-Kentucky: Kentucky.

VINES FAVORED OVER SKEEN IN PRO NET DUEL
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 20 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena and Dick Skeen of Hollywood hook up in a semi-final match of the National Professional Tennis championships.

Vines was favored.

Skeen upset Lester Stoefen, Palm Springs, Calif., yesterday, 8-6, 6-3, 7-5. Vines displayed his old time form in dusting off Ben Gorchakoff, Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0.

Big Bill Tilden of Philadelphia, and John Faunce, Beverly Hills, meet in the quarter-finals, with the winner taking on Fred Perry, who defeated Keith Gledhill, Los Angeles, yesterday, by scores of 7-5, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT
DALLAS—Jimmy Webb, 168, St. Louis, knocked out Maxie Long, 165, Dallas, (3); Arthur Dorrell, 139 1-2, Tyler, Tex., knocked out Jimmy Tucker, 145, Miami, Fla., (1).

AGGIES ARE HEAVY FAVORITES OVER TCU Putting Contest Added To Program

BEARS, PONIES FACE RUGGED OPPOSITION

By FELIX B. MCKNIGHT
DALLAS, Oct. 20 (AP)—Favored but fearful, undefeated Texas A. & M. tomorrow plays the strangest team in football—a sort of pathetic Texas Christian bunch with everything but a knockout punch.

The Aggie steamroller has been destructive in four straight triumphs but it rolls into Fort Worth knowing thrice-defeated T. C. U., the statistical wonder team, is a flux that has been solved only once in the past 14 years.

Twenty-five thousand are expected for the top game of five billed for Southwest conference teams. Arkansas plays Texas at Austin; Southern Methodist has Marquette at Dallas; unbeaten Baylor tries Nebraska at Lincoln and Rice has a night game with Sam Houston Teachers at Houston.

Both TCU and the Aggies claim crimples for the Cadets' conference baptism.

"But that TCU crippled cry isn't fooling us," said Coach Homer Norton of the Aggies. "Psychology definitely favors the Frogs. We won't be at top strength although our injured and sick are improving. We respect the T.C.U. of old and will have a terrific mental handicap in Fort Worth due to the past year's records."

Coach Dutch Meyer's rebuttal: "We seem to be able to do everything but score—and those Aggies seem to do nothing but score. I don't see how we can figure to stop them."

Analysis of Texas Christian's team reveals that for its first three games, it is statistically superior to the undefeated bunch of 1938. Offensively and defensively it is a better team—on paper.

Something Missing
Not even the loss of Davey O'Brien has been felt in the passing game. Jack Odle and Rusty Cowart have heaved for a .547 completion average in three losses to UCLA, Arkansas and Temple, while O'Brien was pitching only 470 through the first three games of '38.

But something that doesn't show on paper is punch and strategy. Little Davey was a signal caller who knew scoring plays. The TCU's '38 didn't muff touchdown chances. The TCU's of '38 have failed miserably several times while within jumping distance of the goal stripe. Fullback Connie Sparks, the '38 pile-driver, is still there, but the holes aren't.

On the other hand, the Aggies have flocked over enemy goal lines for 86 points, Big John Kimbrough five times pouring through the opposition goal line stand. Sophomore Derace Moser is a gifted runner who has averaged 5.19 yards on 31

Blake Talbott In Scoring Jaunts For Locals
SWEETWATER, Oct. 20—Sweetwater's Colts dethroned the Big Spring Shorthorns, 25-12, in an exhibition grid clash here Thursday afternoon.

The Sweetwater machine began to click on all cylinders after the Big Spring Juniors had fought them to a standstill during the first two periods.

The Colts scored in every quarter, leading at the termination of the first period, 7-6, and at the half, 13-12.

Blake Talbott scored both the Big Spring touchdowns on passes from David Luman.

Jameson Moves Into S'finals
FORT WORTH, Oct. 20 (AP)—National champion Betty Jameson, San Antonio's 19-year-old golfing marvel, meets Mrs. Helen Hicks Harb, former champion, in today's semi-finals of the Texas women's open.

Mrs. Harb, the only professional in the tournament, and Miss Jameson pair off in the first match with Kathryn Hemphill of Greensboro, N. C., clashing with Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth in the other.

Survivors will meet Sunday for the championship. There will be no play tomorrow due to the T. C. U. A. & M. football game here.

Miss Jameson defeated Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C., 3-2, and Mrs. Harb won over Mrs. E. H. Hury of San Antonio, 4-2, yesterday.

Mrs. Goldthwaite downed Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., 1 up and Miss Hemphill defeated Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, 2-1.

REMEDY FOR AWKWARDNESS
NATICK, Mass., Oct. 20 (AP)—They didn't have football practice at the high school yesterday.

The high school girls said they thought the gridder were too awkward and suggested a remedy. Coach Henry Plausse agreed.

So they had dancing lessons in the school gym instead of football practice.

THE SPORTS PARADE

BY HANK HART

Lamesa's Tornados are said to be in fine fettle for their invasion of the Longhorn ball yard tonight. They're prepared to shoot the works what with everything to gain and nothing to lose.

On this side of the fence Mentor Pat Murphy doesn't yet know just who is available for duty and who isn't. He may even have to use the water boy and one of the officials to complete his lineup.

But the Herd is ready. They have a long way to go before they call it quits for the season. There's many a stumbling block between now and Turkey Day. This is as big a hurdle as any but the locals intend to take it.

Lamesa has always been troublesome. Ted McCullom's boys seemingly delight in banging it out with the local team. The Tornados are tough this year. They possess an offensive machine that looked good against Odessa last week and McCullom is a wizard in teaching defense. But for all that, it seems they don't have it where the Steers do—strength at guards and at the wings, constantly improving blocking, fine line backing and a fair-to-middling offense. Neither do they possess as sterling a back as Lefty Bethell.

A two touchdown victory here should boost the Bovines in conference standings and prepare them to tangle with the Midland bunch next week. The Tornados might score since a passing game is always dangerous but the Herd backs have shown amazing pass defense to date and may prove double tough for Jackie Vaughn and company.

If the locals can hold onto the ball then the victory should be decisive.

In Abilene the Eagles will be trying for their first win of the season in a battle with the Odessa Hoses. It may be close since the War Birds are improving with every game but Joe Coleman's crew looks far the better.

And on the college front: TEXAS A&M is capable of tossing Texas Christian, is primed for its best performance but the Aggies will have to hustle to win. The Frogs are equipped with a good ball

PREPARATIONS FOR TOURNEY COMPLETED
A putting contest, open to all golfers whether or not they enter the meeting, will be conducted Saturday afternoon in conjunction with the Furman Invitational Golf tournament at the Oil Field course.

No entrance fee will be assessed in the contest, Blacky Hines, a member of the tournament committee, advised The Daily Herald recently.

Today is the final qualifying day for the meeting. Pairings for first round matches will be drawn up Saturday morning and players are eligible to play their first round matches Saturday afternoon although the tourney is not officially scheduled to get underway until 7 a. m. Sunday.

The tournament will be a one day affair with semifinals and finals slated for the afternoon.

The tournament committee confidently expected a field of 60 or more to compete for the title left vacant by Doug Jones.

Arrangements for the Sunday noon barbecue, free to all entrants, were in charge of Pat Conger and Harn Noe. The "food" will be conducted at Ross City.

Guy Rainey, president of the club, and the directors, Herman Williams, M. M. Hines, Dan Yarbro and Noe, are helping with arrangements.

George Johnson, Julius Gault and Harry Miller compose the greens committee.

Brownwood In 13-0 Triumph
By the Associated Press
The state's fast-dwindling list of undefeated, untied schoolboy football teams is due to be trimmed to a dozen after games today and tonight.

Twelve of the thirteen teams boasting perfect records have games. One of the select group survived last night with McAllen downing Mercedes 26-2. Three others do not play this week.

There are 28 conference games along with a number of important interdistrict tilts, notably Breckenridge's battle with Lubbock and Corsicana vs. Fort Arthur. The feature conference engagement matches undefeated, untied Gainesville with unbeaten Paris. The latter has been tied.

Three other games were played last night, Paschal and Riverside going to a 14-14 tie in the Fort Worth district, Brownwood downing Cisco 13-0 in the Oil Belt and Lamar taking out Davis 13-6 in the Houston district.

Freight Adjustments

Texas has taken the offensive in the drive to get freight rate adjustments after years of passivity had let penalty exactions heap high by reason of differential territory. The order of the Texas railroad commission setting for November 20 the beginning date for repealing differential freight rates may well mark the passing of an injustice that has cost West Texas millions of dollars in barring potential industries as well as in actual transportation costs. The front of the battle has been set, thanks to the unified efforts of interested citizens and the West Texas chamber of commerce which entered the campaign actively for wiping out freight injustices less than two years ago.

When one considers that West Texas lands were given away to get railroads built in East Texas and then differential penalties were applied out here and that other parts of the country have been enjoying rates that put this section to a disadvantage, it is readily realized that the time has long since passed when there should have been an adjustment. The argument of right and justice hasn't prevailed before the I.C.C. or the railroads. The railroad commission order puts the matter directly up to the transportation agencies now to justify the old schedules in the light of development or withdraw from a position which the citizenship and rail patrons feel has long been untenable. One of the early results of a victory in an order such as this would be the establishment of larger distributing centers in West Texas, hitherto penalized, and that in turn ought to mean something to the railroads in tonnage and revenue, as well as more adequate pay rolls in this area.

The victory is not yet, but the order does provide hope that penalties in the freight rate structure will not exist much longer.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—This is the story of 15 pounds of live lobsters... They arrived in a barrel, covered with sea-weed and a big chunk of ice, to keep them cool in the warm, Indian summer city... They came from a camp in Maine...

Now what does one do with 15 pounds of lobsters? Frankly, I didn't know—but I do now. First, I ducked into the kitchen of a restaurant, where one of the chefs is a friend of mine, and explained what had happened. I admit I felt pretty much like a bachelor with a foundling in a basket on the doorstep.

But he made everything easy. He got out a lobster and a big knife, and showed me what to do. After that, wreathed in smiles, I called up some friends, and that night, with an apron wrapped around me and a big hunting knife in my hand, I went to work.

We broiled them. Then I remembered there was some champagne in an old box in the cellar which Sherman Billingsley had sent over months before. There wasn't anything else, except coffee. Just lobster and champagne. Next day I wasn't ill, though I don't know why. These lobsters came from a man who married a Follies dancer and took her into the lobster country of the Maine coast. She says she wouldn't trade one acre of Maine's rock-bound coast for all of Broadway. She says, "Why, you don't know what life is. I run the lobster traps myself sometimes. I drive around this great open country and I'm still drunk with all this fresh air. Have yourself a good time on these chicken-size lobsters. You'll love them."

If this begins to seem too brutalitarian—skip it. But we yanked off the claws and then split them straight up and down. After that came butter, and under the broiler they went. About 10 minutes later they came out, were basted in more butter and—well, gee—I never had so much fun in my life. After all, it isn't often that I find people who will eat what I cook.

After dinner we sat around playing a lot of new records—Larry Clinton's "Twilight Interlude," Glenn Miller's "My Prayer," Kenny Baker's "South of the Border." Then, when we were able, we went outside and walked it off. We walked for miles under the low October stars. All along the streets the radios were going, and you could hear football coaches crying into the microphones about their poor material. You could hear the war correspondents, and the film commentators, and you could hear Kay Kyser, who will be back in New York around the end of the month, and high time. And after a while you could hear Stan Shaw reading telegrams from hundreds of people. Unless you have heard Stan Shaw yourself, you could not understand a description of him... "Dear Stan, please play 'Gypsy Sweetheart' for Molly and Harry at Edgar's Bar and Grill..." "Dear Stan, please play 'Memphis Blues' for a guy from Memphis who is really blue tonight—signed, Joe, Bob, and Pete, at Garry's Fast Lunch Wagon, Brooklyn..." "Dear Stan, please play 'Lonely for You' at two-fifteen aye. We'll be holding hands and thinking of you. Signed, Ernestine and Freddy, at Phil's Bar."

That goes on all night, with Stan coming right back after each telegram... "All right, Ernestine and Freddy, and I'm lonely for you, too, but that telegram just put me in the pink..." "All right, Joe, swing it, kid. Hell, many hamburgers tonight?" "Well, I had a hamburger..." "All right, folks, this is Stan Shaw, your Very Good Friend, the Milkman, etc., etc., signing off at 7 o'clock in the morning."

Chapter 10 BRIDGE PARTY

"Maybe I'll know more—after the party tonight," said Michael. "There'll be someone there—Dr. McBain—he was assistant physiologist working under Murchison, you know. I think I can get the information I need out of him, but I've not been able to go to him before this. I have reason to believe that he's shielded—Murchison at other crises. I haven't wanted to arouse his suspicions."

"He turned to Bunny. 'I suppose she'll trump aces tonight? Our aces?'"
 Tuck came back to earth. She stopped staring at him. "Now," she said briskly, "there's a point we've got to settle right here. We simply must not play at the same table. Of course, if we get started at the same table we can't help it for once, but we mustn't let it happen again."

"But how can we help it, lamb? It all depends on who wins and who doesn't."

"No, it doesn't. For instance, if you're at head table, and Michael's at second table and is winning, you must be sure to lose so that you'll go down to third. Bid five diamonds on nothing at all and get set. It's easy. That way we can watch all of them all of the time."

"We'll be extremely popular with our partners," Michael mentioned.
 "Oh, just tell 'em we follow the Rockefeller convention. It'll be easy. One millionaire's as good as another."

"How'm I to know when Michael is winning?"
 "We must be sure and let each other know. Airily, you know, just pass it off."

"I muttered Michael over his coffee, 'foresee a wonderful evening of bridge.'"

"With a murderer or—ess for a partner, Michael."

"Now, Mr. Forrester, you'll have to keep score," said Mrs. Deane at head table. "We're one man short tonight, and I think men should always keep score because it's a mathematical process, and you're the only man at the table, so we'll just ask you to do it, please. Miss Lissey, I think you cut high; will you deal, please?"

"I hope you're comfortable, Mrs. Devoe," the hostess murmured to Miss Lissey's partner. The relationship between Mrs. Devoe and her son was obvious. They had the same ruddy veinings in the cheeks, the same long chins and finely cut lips. Mrs. Devoe's hair had lost much of its brown, and she was streaked with white now. She was very heavy and shapeless as she sagged against the big armchair. Heavy and shapeless, and with a certain air of untidiness not quite easy to define.

She answered Mrs. Deane in a flat, ugly, oneless voice. "I'm comfortable," she said. "Is it my bid?" She held her cards awkwardly.

"It's mine," Miss Lissey said shortly. "Two diamonds."
 "Oh dear, I simply never knew what that means," Mrs. Deane said unhappily to Michael. "So I might as well pass."
 Mrs. Devoe lifted her head and gazed down at her cards under shielding lids with the far-sighted gaze of old age. "Pass," she said.

 "Pass," said Michael happily.
 Miss Lissey snorted. "It's your lead," she said disgustedly to Mrs. Deane.

Michael had more trumps, it seemed, than Miss Lissey. He took the deciding trick. He said nothing. Miss Lissey cut for Mrs. Deane with decisive determination. "It's your deal," she said.

Mr. Deane
 "This bidding is rather too high for me," said Mr. Deane, peering through his thick glasses.
 "Four aces, then," Tuck said. She didn't know whether or not he was looking at her, but his face was turned in her direction. It was almost as if he wore a mask.

Marie Murchison's hands were beautiful and soft against the dark cards. The fingers were soft and white, and the nails beautifully shaped.
 She shook her head prettily. Every trace of that other woman, that frightened, demoralized other woman who had stood at that door yesterday was gone.

"Content," said Dr. McBain. This was the man Michael was going to question. He had worked with Dr. Murchison at the University. He ought to know something about him.
 Mr. Deane turned his head from Tuck to Dr. McBain. "Did you bid on the spades first, Mrs. Forrester?"

"No. Dr. McBain did, thank goodness. He has to play them." Dr. McBain, his legs too long for the confines of the card table, sat at an angle, his cards held close, his profile turned to Tuck. His eyes were deep set, his mouth firm. He straightened himself and turned toward the table, taking his long briar from his mouth as he did so.

Mr. Deane handed an ash-tray across the table. "That means it's going to be a battle," he said to Tuck. "It would be well if you laid down a number of good cards for him."
 There was something vaguely irritating in the little man's tone. "But I haven't got many good cards," Tuck cried in dismay, as she put down her hand. "I thought you had and I've only a little good suit. I'm sorry, partner."

He looked at her and smiled reassuringly. "I took my pipe out because it's gone out," he said. "Mr. Deane is trying to frighten you. Upon which he trumped Mr. Deane's ace and raked in the trick. Tuck watched his playing with fascinated eyes. He seemed to be playing quite erratically, leading all the wrong cards and choosing the wrong ones from dummy, but the tricks fell regularly to him. His face did not change when he made a little slam.

Mrs. Deane was standing behind her husband's chair watching them. "Is that really a little slam in your first hand, Dr. McBain?" she asked. "It's a splendid beginning isn't it?"
 Her husband moved restlessly in his chair. "It doesn't mean he'll make a good ending," he said with a faint hint of irritation.

McBain filled his pipe impatiently and did not answer. Mrs. Murchison, as well as Tuck, had caught the undercurrent. "It was very good bridge," she said quickly.
 Mrs. Deane was flushed. "It's nice of you to take it that way. Mrs. Murchison, I'm sure you'll win next time. I do so hope you'll enjoy yourself. I'm sorry the Professor isn't here tonight because then I needn't play and the numbers would be even instead of some of you having to play with women sometimes."

Quite unconsciously Mrs. Deane was betraying the fact that she knew Mrs. Murchison would prefer to play opposite a man. Tuck smiled to herself, very discreetly.

Mrs. Deane's voice was clear, and it had carried to those at the other tables. Jared Devoe turned to answer her, since Mrs. Murchison seemed not to intend to.
 "He would have enjoyed being here very much, Mrs. Deane."
 Miss Lissey, cutting cards at head table, held them perfectly still.
 It was old Mrs. Devoe who broke the tiny silence, in her level, uninflected tone. "If he were here tonight we should be thirteen," she said, and laughed a little.

Jared Devoe turned back to his own table. "So we should be thirteen," he repeated. "That would indeed be tragic." There was sarcasm in his tone.
 "Aren't you superstitious, Mr. Devoe?" Bunny asked.

"As a matter of fact, I am. My work lies in archaeology, you know. One learns among ancient peoples that it is wise to err, perhaps, on the side of superstition."

"I believe it's my bid, isn't it?" his partner asked quietly. Bunny turned her attention to Mrs. McBain. She was very lovely, in a still, quiet way. Her beauty was perfect, Bunny decided. It did not occur to you the moment you looked at her, but it was there. She was tall and slender and graceful, with very dark violet eyes and ash-blond hair; and the long lines of her black dinner dress set

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—Day by day in every way, sailing the seven seas is becoming tougher and tougher. The war brings a new "hazard to navigation" almost every day. And each new hazard reported is carefully recorded in the daily bulletins of the naval hydrographic bureau, which are distributed widely. Most exciting hazards are floating mines—that is, if you except submarines and other ships of war. The hydrographic office does not record warships as "hazards to navigation." It is not considered to be one of the most friendly acts in the world to tip off one belligerent where another belligerent's ship is to be found.

That does not mean that submarines and belligerent warships in general are not reported by Yankee merchantmen. They are. But the navy considers such reports as confidential.

The only bit of that sort of information made available was the statement by the president that submarines had been seen off the Atlantic coast and again up around Alaska. The president did not say whose submarines they were, you had to guess.

THERE ARE VERY SPECIAL HAZARDS
 Within a month after war started, regulations for traveling through the English channel had been changed several times. A special pilot is required to take a ship through. Any commander can try going it alone, but his chances of hitting a mine are very good.

And there are extra special hazards. On September 28, floating mines were reported in the narrow southern channels of the North sea east of Norwich. The same day another was reported in the Mediterranean just off-shore from where Spain and France join.

More reports run this way:
 Sept. 29—Britain lays down new rules for ships entering the harbor at Bermuda. Obey them or you may draw fire. Three floating mines are reported in mid-channel between Holland and England. England announces the area of a new mine field along the North sea coast from Hull to Newcastle.

Sept. 30—The commander of Fort Monro, at the mouth of the Chesapeake bay, warns ships to stay out of a certain area where this important coast defense point is trying out a mine operation. Italy closes all channels but one for entering the Adriatic seaport of Trieste.

Oct. 2—Germany sends the U. S. a note of caution that neutral ships approaching the English or French coasts must not resist search, must not try to run away or send radio calls about the presence of submarines.

Oct. 3—France sends word that navigation lights on channel islands off the north French coast are extinguished or reduced in power. Sailing there without shore lights is tricky.

LIGHTS MAY GO OUT—WITHOUT NOTICE
 Oct. 4—Britain warns of two protective mine fields off the south and west coast of England. Four floating mines are reported in mid-North sea channel between Harwich, England, and Rotterdam, Holland.

Oct. 5—U. S. ship Trenton reports a mine drifting in the north Baltic.
 Oct. 6—Mariners cautioned by England that navigational lights off Egypt, Palestine, Cyprus, Malta and Gibraltar may be extinguished without notice.

Oct. 7—England reports a whole network of shipping channels along her south and west coasts blocked by mines or "sunken obstructions."

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

"Mr. Smith Goes To Washington." Screenplay by Sidney Buchman from Lewis R. Foster's story. Directed by Frank Capra. Cast: James Stewart, Jean Arthur, Claude Rains, Edward Arnold, Guy Kibbee, Thomas Mitchell, Eugene Pallette, Beulah Bondi, H. B. Warner, Harry Carey, Astrid Allyn, and others.

HOLLYWOOD—Here is another, and the best to date, reason for Frank Capra's super-eminence as a movie director.

In the tale of an underdog, a simple lad who goes to Washington with his unalterably American beliefs in justice and right and fights for them against the harrowing efforts of wily, experienced adversaries. Capra spreads a bounteous feast of compelling movie entertainment.

"Mr. Smith" has everything—drama, excitement, abundant human interest, comedy, suspense, romance. It has a wholly sympathetic and likable hero (Stewart) who fights uphill, is beaten down, gets up and fights again, alone except for the girl (Arthur), and finally wins over all odds. It all goes on against the backdrop of Washington life, with its high point on the floor of the senate where Mr. Smith, head bloody but unbowed, ultimately wins.

He's a hero to cheer about in a picture to cheer about, and the character poet Stewart up there as actor and star, with Miss Arthur only a little way behind.

"Mr. Smith" is a movie no American can afford to miss.

"Ninotchka." Screenplay by Charles Brackett, Billy Wilder, Walter Reisch from story by Melchior Lengyel. Directed by Ernst Lubitsch. Cast: Greta Garbo, Melvyn Douglas, Ina Claire, Bela Lugosi, Sig Rumann, Felix Bressart, Alexander Granach, Gregory Gays, Rolfe Sedan, Edwin Maxwell, Richard Carly.

Garbo laughs—as the ads say—and you'll laugh with her.

"Ninotchka" is the tale of a humorous, analytical Soviet girl who comes to Paris to check up on three comrades who came to sell some jewels for the state treasury. Ninotchka meets a white Russian exile (Douglas) and little by little forgets her official business. That's when she learns to laugh—but audience laughter begins before Garbo appears, and continues steadily.

In her first comedy role, the Swede reveals herself as a surprisingly clever, subtle actress.
 So, for that matter, is the film, satirizing with Lubitsch's razor-edged wit a Soviet attitude, without, however, sinking to blatant propaganda. The "Lubitsch touch" is rampant.

Effective is the Soviet trio—Rumann, Bressart, Granach—and Douglas has never done finer work. Miss Claire, however, seems wasted on her role. Sample Garbo line: "The latest mass trials were a huge success. There'll be fewer and better Russians."
"Hollywood Cavalcade." Screenplay by Ernest Pascal from story by Hilary Lynn and Brown Holmes. Directed by Irving Cummings. Cast: Alice Faye, Don Ameche, J. Edward Bromberg, Alan Curtis, Stuart Erwin, Jed Prouty, Buster Kenton, Donald Meek.

British Fleets Are Shown In Action In March Of Time

Although the British navy already has more fighting ships than any other navy in the world, England is today spending almost a million dollars a day to build additional vessels, and each week during the next 12 months a new ship, more powerful than any now afloat, will be launched for the British navy.

The specialized job each type of vessel in the royal navy must do in the work of defending the empire is vividly shown in the latest dramatic March of Time film, "The Battle Fleets of England," which presents a comprehensive and uncensored picture of His Majesty's navy today and the vital role it is playing in allied strategy against Nazi Germany. The film is at the Ritz today and Saturday.

The British fleet includes 15 first-class dreadnoughts, each capable of hurling 10 tons of steel and high explosives a distance of 20 miles. Already in service are 60 swift, heavily-armed cruisers for scouting and advance fighting, and 150 destroyers, the newest of which can attain a speed of more than 45 land miles per hour. The destroyer is the most useful weapon of all against submarine attack.

Patrolling the seas today are more than 60 British submarines of five different classes, each designed for special services like mine laying, and long-range cruising. England's five aircraft carriers are all more modern and more heavily armed than H.M.S. Courageous, recently torpedoed by a German submarine with a loss of more than 500 men.

The British navy also has scores of tenders, minesweepers, trawlers and miscellaneous vessels.

The March of Time film shows how—If England launches a major naval attack on the German fleets lying off the heavily mined and fortified bases at Cuzhaven, Kiel and Wilhelmshaven—Britain's "suicide" fleet of trawlers and minesweepers will be the first to see action as they clear away all fixed and floating mines before the fighting ships move into position for battle.

HIRED AS A GUARD, SWIPES THE MONEY
 LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20 (AP)—Eugene La Rue Price, 18, "just couldn't resist the temptation" when Jackie Coogan got sleepy at a night club September 3 and hired the youth to watch to see he didn't get "rolled."

Price admitted, waiving a preliminary hearing, he rolled Coogan himself, taking $340 from the former child film star's pockets. He was in the county jail today, awaiting court, where he indicated he would plead guilty to theft charges.

Humble To 'Air' Four Southwest Grid Games

Another big Saturday is in store for radio followers of Southwest Conference football; schedules today released by the Humble Oil & Refining Company, radio sponsors, reveal four major games will be broadcast tomorrow two of them intersectional, two with a direct bearing on the conference race.

Baylor's Bears, who established themselves as the conference leaders when they defeated Arkansas last week, are in Lincoln, Nebraska, for a game with the strong University of Nebraska eleven. The Humble Company has sent Cy Leonard to Lincoln to broadcast a play-by-play description of this game from the Nebraska stadium. The broadcast begins at 1:30 p. m., and can be heard over stations KRBC, Abilene; KGKL, San Angelo; KEST, Big Spring; WACO, Waco; WRR, Dallas; KLFU, Galveston; KGKB, Tyler; KFDM, Beaumont; KABC, San Antonio; KBYZ, Houston.

Beginning at 2:30 p. m., listeners have their choice of three games, broadcasts of which all begin at the same time.

The important conference game between T.C.U. and Texas A.M. at Fort Worth heads the list. The Humble Company's broadcast of this game can be heard over stations WFAA-WBAP, Dallas-Ft. Worth; WOAI, San Antonio; KFPC, Houston. Kerr Tips will handle the play-by-play description of this game, Harfield Weer in the color.

The second conference game scheduled for the day features the Universities of Texas and Arkansas, which will be brought by the Humble Company from Memorial Stadium in Austin, with Eddie Dunn handling play-by-play and Dave Young the color. This broadcast can be heard over stations KGKO, Fort Worth; KTSB, San Antonio; KTRH, Houston; KNOW, Austin; KRIS, Corpus Christi; KRGV, Weslaco.

The SMU-Marquette game, which will be played in Dallas' Cotton Bowl, completes the broadcast schedule. Humble's broadcast of this game will be over Station KRLD, Dallas. Hal Thompson will be the play-by-play announcer, Dave Riss will handle colors.

LINDY LAMPOONED IN THEATRE SKIT

LONDON, Oct. 20 (Canadian Press)—The audience interrupted a performance at the Gate theatre last night to cheer a song lampooning Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and others.

One verse of the song, which was aimed at various prominent persons, went like this:

"Then there's Colonel Lindbergh Who made a pretty speech. He's somewhere in America. We're glad he's out of reach."

The speech referred to apparently was the one he made last Friday criticizing Canada's position in the war.

Bears

The defense has permitted one touchdown—against reserves. The Christians will be crippled with Logan Ware, his spectacular reverse runner, badly damaged by Jack Odle out for two more weeks with a broken thumb and other less serious injuries. Aggies have Kimbrough, Cotton Price, Moser, Marshall Robnett and Joe Boyd on the ailing list. But they were ailing when the Villanovas crashed, 33-7, last week.

The Texas-Arkansas game is a standoff, little Jack Crain's running offsetting Arkansas aerial advantages. Southern Methodist, a rowdy power against Notre Dame last week, figures to beat Marquette if it has settled down and Rice should coast against the Sam Houston Teachers.

Baylor's Bears, dependent on the old-fashioned plunging of sophomore Jack Wilson and the clever footwork of Jimmy Witt, are not worse than even shots against Nebraska. The veteran Baylor line can take care of itself. Arkansas knows.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—Scop: The White Sox want Julius Solters from the Browns and may offer Rip Radcliff, one of the league's best hitters, in exchange... Joe Golombek, Elion college grid star, was dismissed from the squad upon a vote of his teammates... Rumors: Frankie Frisch may toss out a life line to Al Simmons...

HOT STOVE LEAGUE
Looks like Gabby Hartnett will be re-elected by the Cubs... But if he isn't one of the guys slated for plenty of consideration is Ki Ki Cuyler, old Cub favorite who did a grand job at Chattanooga last summer.

MAIL BOX
After his performance in the world series, don't you think Berger should change his name from "Wally" to just plain "Ham" Berger?... Le Roy Chase, Cumberland, Md.

Mourning Line: Broadway books consider Minnesota-Ohio State only even money big time game... Other odds: Princeton 6-5 over Columbia... Army 13-10 over Yale... Tennessee 11-8 over Alabama... Texas Aggies 2-1 over Texas Christian... California 14-5 over Washington State... Duke 7-3 over Syracuse... Arkansas 7-6 over Tggas... Nebraska 13-10 over Baylor... Tulane 3-1 over North Carolina... Cornell 4-1 over Penn... Notre Dame 3-1 over Navy... Carnegie Tech 14-5 over New York U.

club and are going to win some games.

SOUTHERN METHODIST is in for a battle. The Mustangs' adversary, Marquette, looked to advantage in mopping up on Michigan State last week. Paddy Driscoll, Avalanche mentor, stopped the Ponies last year.

TEXAS may bowl over Arkansas. The Longhorns were helpless in the Oklahoma game last week but the Porkers can't click without Kay Eakin and Kay is reported to be ailing badly.

NEBRASKA should explode the Baylor bubble.

RICE can handle Sam Houston Teachers.

OKLAHOMA should kick Kansas all over the lot.

Army, with a weaker team than usual, will be outclassed by YALE.

NORTHWESTERN may get to clicking for the first time in her test with Wisconsin.

NOTRE DAME looks far the better of the two in her test with Navy.

TULANE may have trouble with North Carolina, which in tests with the Citadel, Wake Forest, Virginia Poly and NYU, has scored 113 points, but should win. There is room for an upset here.

ST. MARY'S can dispose of Santa Clara.

DUKE will rebound at the expense of Syracuse.

PITTSBURGH is far stronger than Duquesne.

CORNELL will have trouble with Penn State.

OHIO STATE looks capable in her test with powerful Minnesota.

PURDUE can throttle Michigan State but the Spartans are tough.

PENNSYLVANIA should win a close one from Harvard.

INDIANA has the equipment to stop Illinois, which upset them last year.

Our special is ALABAMA over Tennessee. The Tide has survived rugged tests to date and are farther along than the Vols. It's "Homecoming" for the Tennesseans but it may be a dark one.

Washington cannot cope with OREGON STATE'S all-around game.

CALIFORNIA will spank Washington State.

VANDERBILT may upset Georgia Tech.

NEW MEXICO will add to Pete Cawthon's worries at Texas Tech.

COLUMBIA looks a mite stronger than does Yale.

KENTUCKY can win a close one from Georgia.

SPY PROBE

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 20 (AP)—Sheriff's deputies investigated possible espionage activity today following the reported theft of radio equipment from the navy's radio compass station at nearby Imperial beach.

Ten Pin Tales

By JAKE DOUGLASS
I had a long talk with Fern Wells, one of the leading women bowlers in Big Spring, yesterday and she told me about the Sunset Bowling Center in Los Angeles that was one of the topics of this corner some time ago. Fern visited this plant recently and said it was really "snazzy." They were equipped with push-bottom bowlers seats and each seat had a pushbutton on the back for an attendant. Upon making the request to the attendant would telephone the setup back of the building and the setup would be ready before you would. No wonder they have good business with service like that!

Well this week finds us deep in the fourth weekend of the West Texas Open bowling tournament and this bill this week is as good as they come. There will be two teams from Big Spring, two from Lubbock, one from Amarillo and possibly one from Midland. These two from Lubbock are the ones to watch as they are really on the tough side of the map. The West Texas Gas company team is rated as one of the real championship teams of West Texas. They placed first in Amarillo at the Panhandle Open last year. I had the privilege of being a member of that team last year and although there may be better teams you will never find a better bunch of sports in the one group. Paced by Leo Bell, the Gas company leading pin smasher, and captured by C. A. Begey they offer a very colorful outfit. Bell came to Lubbock from Kansas and has eight perfect games to his credit and has a lifetime average of 190. That's good bowling in anybody's league. The other members include such notables as Pop Lavery, Buddy Adderton, and Ernie Crizer, former well known football player.

The other Lubbock outfit is equally as tough and is known as The Skinny Bell Service Station. They are led by Skinny Bell, and include Lefty Childers, last year's Class A singles champion of the Panhandle Open, W. A. Goeth, one of the Plains greatest "natural" bowlers, Clyde Fortune, and Mendall Hught.

The Amarillo outfit is the same team that won their own tournament last spring and we all know what Big Spring and Midland has from past experience.

LIGHTNING WAR

BALMORHEA, Oct. 20 (AP)—"Lightning war" as demonstrated by Uncle Sam's cavalrymen: The first and second brigades, opposing forces in the first cavalry's maneuvers, were 60 miles apart. Over rough and rocky terrain they raced for Hill 3775, a commanding ridge, halfway between. They reached the objective at about the same time and after a "sharp engagement" the umpires called it a day.

The action, scheduled to take two days, had been completed in eight hours.

SIMMONS, RETIRED BY REDS, CANDIDATE FOR HALL OF FAME

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—The release of Al Simmons by the Cincinnati Reds provides another strong candidate for baseball's hall of fame, for the Milwaukee Pole was a mighty man in his heyday with Connie Mack's last great club at Philadelphia.

The lowest that "Foot-in-the-Bucket" Al hit in his eight big seasons with the Athletics was 308 and that was in his first year, 1924. Thereafter he compiled successive averages of 336, 345, 322, 351, 365, 351, 390 and 322. In 1934, when well past his prime, he still was able to bat .344 for the Chicago White Sox.

Twice the big outfielder led the American league in hitting. In three world series he compiled an average of .333.

The country's leading manufacturer of bats said recently that Simmons in his prime exerted a lasting influence on the design of bats. Al's signature on the "Simmons Model" brought him some fancy extra money, you may be sure, and contributed to his present carefree financial status.

He still can smack a ball, as he proved in the final game of the recent world series. Though it is wrong to second-guess on Manager Bill McKelchie of the Reds, he possibly made a mistake in not inserting Simmons sooner against the Yankees. He couldn't have looked worse than either Harry Craft or Wally Berger, who gathered a grand total of one hit between them.

When he finally supplanted Craft in the last game Al-tore into the ball, and he made one of the most spectacular catches of the series in left field. It was a fine valedictory for a great player.

Senior Golf Play In S'final Round

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 20 (AP)—Defending Champion Ernest L. Brown of San Antonio met Col. J. C. Woodland of Fort Sam Houston and medalist M. L. Massingill of Fort Worth clashed with George Rotan of Houston in semi-finals of the third annual Texas senior golf tournament here today.

Brown yesterday eliminated F. M. Lewis, also of San Antonio, 3 and 2 and Massingill took out W. D. Masterson of San Antonio, 1 up.

Col. Woodland defeated Dr. D. S. Harris of Dallas, 1 up and Rotan downed Fred Austin of Houston, 2 and 1.

LOBOES SEEK TO EVEN COUNT IN TECH BATTLE

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 20 (AP)—The effectiveness of the University of New Mexico's famed spread formations gets an odd test against Grade A opposition at Lubbock tomorrow night when the unbeaten, untied Lobos unleash their ground and aerial circus against Texas Tech.

Benten by Tech last year in a dazzling two-touchdown explosion in the last 40 seconds of play, New Mexico was prepared to go all out in what shaped up as a free-scoring encounter to avenge Tech's blot on an otherwise successful season last fall.

Gay Hill Boy Wins Honor At State Fair

Wayne Underwood, 13-year-old Gay Hill 4-H club boy, Friday brought back the highest honor ever won by a Howard county club boy in state fair competition by placing first in the cotton exhibits.

So far as records revealed, it was the first time Howard county cotton ever placed in any sort of state fair exhibits.

Wayne also gained the only other place for the Howard county delegation with his eight exhibits ranking fourth in the club boy division.

His cotton bolls netted him $30 in cash awards, $5 from the fair association and $25 posted by the Lankart Seed Farms, Waco, breeder of the Waco cotton which has won for a long period of years.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Underwood of the Gay Hill community and this is his first active year in club work.

Wayne made the trip to Dallas in company with Delbert Simpson, Delbert Schultz, William Hood and C. H. Hayden, Jr., accompanied by County Agent O. P. Griffin.

Autry

eral other executives from the Dallas film row.

In the party, besides host J. Y. Kobb of Big Spring and Harold Cobb and Ed Rowley of Dallas, are C. V. Jones, R.A.R.'s general manager at Dallas; Herman Bierdorf, manager for 20th Century-Fox; L. B. Gottschalk, National Theatre Supply; Harvey Leutherson, American Seating company; Lloyd Rust of the Republic office; John Francioni, Monogram Pictures; Bert King of RCA; C. S. MacMurray of Dallas; Johnny Jones and Harold Tompkins of the R.A.R. houses at San Angelo; A. E. McClain, manager at Colorado City; Claude Graham of the Sherman theatre; Henry Rogers, partner at Sweetwater; and Wallace Walthall, Dallas manager of National Screen Service.

Brother of Famed Star

Walthall is a brother of the late Henry B. Walthall, famed star of silent movie days, renowned for his part in "The Birth of a Nation." Rogers is the oldest partner in the R.A.R. circuit, his association dating back to 1918, and Graham is the next in seniority, having joined R.A.R. in 1919. The latter knew Autry back in "the days when" in Oklahoma. Jones, too, is a personal friend of the cowboy star.

It is Autry's second visit here; and his picture are added weekly attractions at the Queen and Lyric theatres. That his standing as No. 1 boxoffice attraction holds good locally was demonstrated by the welcome he received Thursday night, when people greeted him as "Gene" and youngsters clamored for his autograph. They were not denied.

Autry is not long back from a tour of the British Isles where, this past summer, he was all but mobbed by admirers in town after town. In Dublin, Ireland, he played to 80,000 people.

Wednesday night, he was in New York as a guest on Fred Allen's radio program, then he came immediately to Big Spring by plane. Hollywood is calling, and he'll soon go into production of another picture.

Flowers—And Vegetables

Still the southwesterner (he was born in Texas and reared in Oklahoma) despite the plaudits of a nation fond of western action dramas, Autry modestly confesses that "I'm plenty lucky," and remains a genial fellow toward all he meets.

During the anniversary party, the convivial theatre men were having their fun. Autry was greeted by his kindess enemy and beautiful Miss Cochrane of the Ritz staff making the presentation—then the show group had Miss Cochrane tender another sort of bouquet to Manager C. V. Jones, who accompanied Autry here from Dallas. It was a four-pound collection of vegetables, including onions.

There was another two-way welcome at the T&P station Friday morning as other guests arrived. Miss Cochrane greeted Walthall, a great favorite with film men in Dallas, with a flower for his lapel. For Harold Robb she had a bunch of vegetables, the same Jones had received the night before.

Mrs. Dan Hudson and Mrs. Elspeth Connally left Friday for Dallas.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to express our deepest appreciation and sincere thanks for kindness, sympathy and beautiful flowers during the recent loss of our loved one.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
Room 1, Settle Hotel
"Probation After Death" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 22.
The Golden Text is: "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him" (James 1:12).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will ransom them from the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death." (Hosea 13:14).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If it is true that man lives, this fact can never change in Science to the opposite belief that man dies. Life is the law of Soul, even the law of the spirit of Truth, and Soul is never without its representative" (page 427).

arate commission for the regulation of public utilities, which also are handled by the Texas railroad commission.

In his address before the I. P. A., Senator Small charged that Texas oil operators, themselves, were responsible for the inequities of proration in Texas and the distribution of the state's allowable among the various pools and operators.

He said oil proration and conservation were here to stay and that through the cooperation of the operators in the state, these could be made much more equitable than at present.

Senator Small declared the producers caused the inequities due to the fact that so many operators in the state could not ethically protest favoritism shown by the railroad commission to other pools and operators.

"One reason for this," said Small, "is that so many operators have 'bugs' in their own operations, such as high potentials, dead wells, and unreasonably high gas-oil ratios that they are afraid to protest to the commission because it might bring an investigation of their own actions."

off her fair slenderness to perfection.

"No, it is Duncan's," Devoe said with a glance at the younger man. "One heart," Duncan said briefly, with an involuntary glance at his partner. He had deep blue eyes with the thick fringed lashes of childhood.

"Bunny blushed faintly. "Two clubs," Devoe murmured. Bunny considered. Duncan straightened in his chair, and pushed his wavy brown hair back with a boyish gesture. His hands were strong and well kept. His chin was firm and there was a dimple in it. Bunny kept her eyes on her cards for a long minute. Then, "Two hearts," she said. There was the slightest quirk in the corner of Mrs. McElain's mouth. "I think that bid will probably carry," she said gravely, and passed.

Crowell

be a bright spot in our lives, hearing Mrs. Crowell."

Mrs. Crowell, who wore a black chiffon formal and a corsage of tea roses, told of being chosen as American Mother in 1938 and said the porter on the train summed up her feelings when she said, "Ah knows you is something nice but just what is you?" and when she explained, he asked "Does that mean you is my mother too?" As American Mother she was brought to New York and she told some of her experiences there.

She read her poem "Definition" of a mother which she wrote at that time. "Heart, There Is a Crying" was a poem about war that is as applicable now as it was twenty years ago.

Mrs. Crowell also read her three favorites, "Birth," "Life," and "Death."

Norman Crowell, her husband, then "spelled her" as she said and read humorous poems of his own and others. "Big Boy," "Brand," and "Signs of Spring" were a few of the laugh-provoking ones that he read.

Mrs. Crowell then gave "The Deserted Garden," a favorite of Mr. Crowell's, and two she said she always included, "Wait," and "Prayer for Courage."

She told of some of the letters she had received following her broadcasts and lectures and mentioned that she had written to the one called "This, Too, Will Pass," always brought comfort to someone.

A series of "Miss Humpty" poems was read for the children and another, "Silver Grass," was read for the men. "The Girl I Used to Be" finished the program and it is one which the poet said always surprised her when it pleased the audience so. And last night was no exception.

"Two warm brown eyes sparkle with interest when Mrs. Grace Nell Crowell talks and whether the subject is about her, about her work or about someone else and their work, the interest remains as warm and sincere.

Quizzed on how she began her career, Mrs. Crowell admitted that no one would take her work seriously, most of all her family. "He wouldn't even read it," she laughed, speaking of Norman Crowell. The poet wrote for 15 years before she even tried to publish her work.

But the enterprising wife and mother of three sons writes some 215 poems during a year which she sells successfully. Anything that happens that suggests an idea to her, is the nucleus of a poem and according to Norman Crowell, "she curls up on the bed and writes in a semi-circle on a writing pad and then before her notes get cold, types them."

Mr. and Mrs. Crowell were accompanied here by their son, Reid, and drove here from their home in Dallas. In keeping with the poet's modest manner and attitude, when asked about her supremacy in poetry she replied "there weren't many poets in Texas when I started. I guess that's why."

Mrs. Crowell is loath to talk of her own accomplishments but is ready always to tell about honors that have come to other writers.

Freight Rate Order To Be Discussed On Broadcast

ABILENE, Oct. 20 — A statement by J. M. Willson of Floydada, president of the Freight Rate Equity Federation, on the recent order of the Texas Railroad Commission for removal of differential freight rates in West Texas was a feature of the third weekly West Texas Chamber of Commerce program at 7:30 Friday night.

News and comments on civic activities in numerous West Texas towns will be given by Max Bentley, WTCC activities director, and master of ceremonies for the weekly program.

Station KFDA, Abilene, joins the West Texas network carrying the WTCC programs for the first time this week. Four other stations over which the programs are heard are KFYO, Lubbock; KGKL, San Angelo; KBST, Big Spring; and KRBC, Abilene.

Program time for the future is 7:30 to 7:45 p. m. each Friday. The first two programs in the series were broadcast at 7:15 p. m.

CONTINENTAL HAS COUNTY'S BIGGEST TAX REMITTANCE

In reporting a record one-day business at the county tax collector's office Thursday, The Herald reported in placing the Continental tax company as the second largest taxpayer of the county.

Continental Group No. 1, as the property is carried in this county is easily the largest single taxpayer, having settled its current tax obligations Thursday in three checks totaling $18,468.90.

Total of the days business, said Tax Collector John F. Wolcott, was $38,245.15 in current taxes. It pushed the estimated receipts to date to near $70,000.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The signing of the momentous Anglo-French-Turkish mutual aid pact is hailed in the allied capitals as a great victory over Germany, being calculated to assure them domination in the vital eastern Mediterranean area.

Berlin naturally declines to subscribe to this view, but the German political world is called stunned.

Neutral observers generally agree that the pact represents a powerful allied gain, but the agreement is so far reaching that the full implications must await developments. The effect on Italy is being closely watched.

That there can be no real indifference to a matter which so deeply affects Italian interest in the Mediterranean is obvious. Foreign diplomats in Rome express the belief that Italy will take no action but will continue her neutrality.

This would mean that Germany had lost the hope of any active assistance from her ally.

The conference of Scandinavian countries adjourned without initiating any peace move. There were two other highly interesting developments, however.

One had to do with Herr Hitler's decree annexing conquered Poland provinces. He left dangling in the air for final disposal close to 50,000 square miles of what was the heart of Poland. Germany is occupying this zone right up to the Russian frontier.

Many observers are wondering if Herr Hitler intends to offer this for a new Polish state in an effort to appease the allies and thus end the war.

At the same time the German high command in announcing withdrawal of the French from German soil in the west, emphasized that the Nazi troops which recaptured this area stopped at the French frontier.

This was a new way of telling France that the Reich has no quarrel with her.

The purpose is to inspire either the Anglo-French allies or neutral air for final diplomatic overture for a cessation of hostilities. Nazi officials have indicated Herr Hitler has nothing further to say on the subject.

KBST NOTES—
Football Games Will Be Aired On Saturday

Weekend radio highlights in sports over KBST include broadcasts of football games of top interest. On Saturday afternoon at 12:45 the Navy vs. Notre Dame football game will be aired over the Mutual Broadcasting System and at 1:50 p. m. a conclusion, KBST will carry the Baylor University vs. Nebraska game through the Texas State Network. Dial KBST to follow your favorite teams throughout the season.

CHILDREN'S HOUR
On Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, "The Children's Hour" takes the air over KBST. Saturday's performance will be the first in a new series of programs featuring the talents of local children. Designed along similar lines of the past "Kiddies Review" series, "The Children's Hour" will present a child's story each week to entertain the youngsters appearing on the program as well as those in the radio audience. As in the past, KBST's Kiddie Show belongs to all children—and every child in Big Spring or surrounding towns is welcome to appear on the program which is his own. "The Children's Hour" will be announced by Harold Moon.

JUNIOR LEAGUE
The third in a new series of shows presented by the Junior League of Fort Worth will be on the air at 9 a. m. Saturday. The shows are broadcast from the TSN studios in Fort Worth and carried locally by Station KBST. Classified as fantasies, the programs in the new series consist of a children's story told by a narrator and accompanied by music and sound effects.

SHE'S HIS 'FIFTH AVENUE GIRL'

Plotting in a gay household "mystery" are Ginger Rogers, a clever shopgirl, and Walter Connolly, a millionaire who hires her to enter his home and set aright his jaded family. This is the sparkling theme of "Fifth Avenue Girl" which plays today and Saturday at the Ritz theatre as the final attraction of the theatre's 39th Anniversary Week observance. Gene Autry, cowboy star, is appearing on the stage at each show.

TRADE EXPANSION WILL BE SLOW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—The United States manufacturer who expects to get rich overnight supplying a South American market yielded up by a warring Europe has been swigging banana oil.

A prospective market lies south of the Rio Grande all right. The needs exist, to a lesser degree now than probably will be true in the future. But both governmental and private agencies are beginning to warn business men to go slowly about any expansion designed to produce goods for the South American trade.

Certain limitations stand in the way. One is the obvious fact that if the South American countries are unable to buy from Europe in peacetime quantities, they also are unable to sell to that continent. Their source of income is being cramped. Only to a small degree can the United States take the commodities that South America has been selling to Europe.

Which shell hides THE LITTLE PEA?

It's HARD to tell... but EASY to pick a winning oil

"THE hand is quicker than the eye," says this breezy boy, and he challenges all comers to guess—at suitable odds—which shell hides the little pea. No matter how closely you watch him, as he deftly lifts and maneuvers the shells, the pea never seems to be under the one you pick.

But you never have to engage in a contest of wits... you don't have to guess... which is a winning oil for your motor. It's easy to tell. This is why:

The great Phillips refining organization makes a complete and frank statement which does away with all doubt. No hedging, no reservations. If you want our best oil, remember we specify that Phillips 66 Motor Oil is our finest quality... the highest grade and greatest value... among all the oils we offer.

Next time you want oil, pick a winner. Drain and refill with Phillips 66 Motor Oil at the Orange and Black 66 Shield.
