CROP PROSPECTS IMPROVED BY GENERAL RAINS OVER THIS SECTION

AROUND TOWN

Sights and Faces Seen

Miss Katherine Poff is the new cashier and clerk at Weir's grocery store. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blain Poff of south of town.

Wilson Gyles was stumped Wednesday when a youthful customer walked in and asked for two cans of Sir Galahad tobacco.

Barney Hicks and Jack Wright are showing some rare African fowls, African Zipes, they call them. A search through three encyclopedias, however, failed to reveal the authenticity of the birds. However, Barney and Jack should know.

A customer entered the Kemp Lumber Company around noon the other day, and at 10 minutes to 12 an alarm clock sounded. Grant Fuller reckoned it was about time to go eat. The customer is wondering if he keeps it there to awaken himself at noon every day or if he gets so busy he forgets to go to lunch.

Arthur Thompson spent considerable time Monday viewing a large frog which he discovered near the post office on Main Street. He finally decided it was the largest one seen in these parts in eight years.

J. E. Cockrell, faithful courthouse janitor, is pretty sick and will likely be in bed for some time. W. B. Phillips is taking Mr. Cockrell's place at the present time.

Earl Vandale, a collector of Panhandle history, was in Hereford Tuesday and secured two of the Pioneer papers published by the Brand. The chamber of commerce also reports requests for copies of the edition.

Members of the Hereford golf team called off their matches with Friona Sunday in view of the rain. "It was a pleasure," they said.

Poppies To Be Sold Saturday

Saturday will be Poppy Day in Hereford and in thousands of other cities and towns throughout the United States. Millions of bright red poppies will be worn in America's annual tribute to the World War dead.

Women of Hereford Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets early Saturday morning with baskets of the memorial flowers, offering them in exchange for contributions to aid the war's living victims, the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead. They will continue working throughout the day, giving everyone an opportunity to "honor the dead and aid the living" by wearing a poppy.

Preparations for the observance of Poppy Day have been completed by the Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. J. G. Weir, general chairman. Poppies will be distributed by 12 women and girls, all working as unpaid volunteers. Money received for the flowers will be used to help maintain the welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary among disabled veterans and fatherless families during the coming year.

"The little red poppy worn above our hearts Saturday is the truest symbol of our remembrance for those who gave their lives in the nation's service during the World War," said Mrs. Weir. "It is their flower. It grew on the fields where they died, and it was the only floral tribute on the bare battle graves where they were buried. We of the Auxiliary are hoping that everyone in Hereford will understand the poppy's significance and wear one with pride tomorrow."

Mrs. Bess Seed of Canadian spent the week end here visiting her children. Miss Helen Seed returned to Canadian with her mother for a several weeks' visit.

JAS. A. FARLEY WILL VISIT HERE 4:35 THIS AFTERNOON

Hereford will be honored on Thursday afternoon, May 27, by a brief visit by Postmaster General James A. Farley, according to an air mail notice received Sunday morning by Walter L. Pickett, postmaster.

The letter stated that Mr. Farley is scheduled to arrive on Train No. 9 Thursday afternoon and that he will be accompanied by Smith Purden, fourth assistant postmaster general, and other officials from Washington.

Friends of Mr. Farley were also invited to meet him during the short interval he will remain here. The train usually stops from five to ten minutes here, and it is supposed that it will not delay longer Thursday. The notice did not state his destination or the purpose of his trip through this section.

In addition to his office as postmaster general, Mr. Farley is one of the outstanding Democratic leaders of the nation, having managed President Roosevelt's landslide campaign for reelection in 1936.

Revival Holds Wide Interest In Community

Featuring an exceptionally large attendance, the Cooperative Evangelistic revival opened at the First Methodist church here Sunday evening, May 23. Large crowds have continued to fill the auditorium, and pastors expressed their appreciation for the splendid response.

The revival will continue thru Sunday, June 6, with meetings each night at 8 o'clock. Sunday morning services will be held at each of the individual churches, but evening services will be held each evening except Saturdays, at the Methodist church as part of the Cooperative Revival.

A feature of the revival which is attracting wide interest is the fact that the pastor who will preach is not announced, and no one knows who will preach until services open. Pastors who are taking part in the meeting are Rev. T. C. Willett, First Methodist church; Rev. J. C. Thorns, First

Star Cafe Sold To Mrs. Hunter

Mrs. Ethel Hunter this week announced the purchase of the Star Cafe from Debba Knox and Buck Richardson. Mrs. Hunter first purchased the interest of Mr. Knox and this week the interest of Mr. Richardson. She assumed complete management of the cafe Wednesday.

In announcing the purchase, Mrs. Hunter invited the continued patronage of old customers and invited her friends to visit her in the location. She said that she would continue to feature short orders, lunches, sandwiches, hamburgers and chili.

Brand's $1 Offer Ends June 12

The special offer of "a whole year for one dollar" on the Hereford Brand will continue until June 12, according to announcements today. However, the offer will definitely close June 12. The offer is open on new subscriptions as well as renewals.

The publisher expressed her appreciation for the unusual response which readers have shown on the special offer. As subscriptions have continued coming in by the hundred since the offer was opened May 10, the publisher feels indeed justified in the many new features which have been added to The Brand during recent months.

LOCAL MEN DIVE FOR 30 MINUTES TO LOCATE BODY

Efforts to save the life of Marvin Ware, 12, proved futile Thursday shortly after noon. The young boy drowned in Tierra Blanca Creek, south of town, after he slipped and fell into a deep hole. Marvin and his brother, Joe, 14, were fishing in the creek when the accident occurred. The youngest slipped and fell from the bank. His brother ran to Sewell's Service Station and told of the accident. R. D. Sewell and Wayne Hain rushed to the creek, shortly followed by Babe Russell and Rufus Sewell. After diving about 30

City Renditions Close On June 10

Announcing that the equalization board will convene in June, the City of Hereford this week requested that all property owners render taxes here June 10 or before.

Rendition cards or sheets have already been sent out, and persons who have not made returns were urged to do so as soon as possible.

Drill Bit Severs Finger of Emmett Green At Lubbock

Emmett Green, son of Mrs. Ross Fuller of this city, was this week in a Lubbock Hospital, where he is recovering from injuries sustained May 15, when he lost the little finger on his left hand in an accident.

Mr. Green was working with a well drilling crew, and the drill bit descended upon his finger, severing it from his hand. Jerry Green, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Green, has been with Mrs. Fuller here since Sunday, and will remain until his father's condition is improved.

Unusual Record For Four Tech Graduates

GRADUATES COMPLETED HIGH SCHOOL WORK TOGETHER

An unusual record is that of Billy Ross Phillips, Arthur Thompson, Jr., Paul Conaway and Mary Elizabeth Stanford, four former Hereford students who will graduate from Tech Monday, May 31. The four students attended Hereford schools and all were graduates in the class of 1933. They entered college at Lubbock at the same time, and will all graduate from Tech Monday.

Billy Ross Phillips is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wirt Phillips. At Tech he majored in business administration, special interest and finance adding. He was student assistant to Prof. T. C. Root, head of the economics and business administration department. Out of 3,000 students, he was one of 14 to make a straight A grade, and in addition to scholastic achievement

Members of the church were especially invited to attend the Sunday services and to welcome the former pastor.

Largest Row Crop In Years To Be Planted

MORE LIVESTOCK EXPECTED FOR COUNTY IN COMING YEAR

General rains fell over Deaf Smith county this week and brought from three to four inches of moisture to this section. In Hereford government bureau records showed 3.04 inches. The Wednesday night rain was reported as the best seen over the dust bowl in five years. The rain covered an area of 5,000 square miles and ranged as high as 2.61 inches at Dalhart.

Over 3 Inches. The report in Hereford showed 27 of an inch Sunday afternoon, but additional rainfall Sunday night and Monday brought the total to 1.52 inches. Another 64 was recorded Monday night, bringing the rainfall to 2.16. Rains Wednesday night measured .88, making a total of 3.04 inches.

The moisture fell slowly and soaked into the ground where it fell. Practically no run off was reported over the entire area, and many farmers stated that the moisture penetrated into the ground so nicely that no water was caught by terraces. Old-timers proclaimed the rain as one of the best the country has seen in eight years.

Saved Much Wheat. Coming as it did, the moisture was proclaimed to have saved many wheat crops in this territory and the yield was greatly increased by the timely rain. Some farms in the Soil Conservation Project north and west of town reported measurements of three inches, while others reported two and three-fourth inches.

Penetrations were said to vary from 15 inches upward following the general rainfall.

Perhaps one of the greatest benefits from the moisture is the fact it affords good seasoning for row crops. Most farmers have been awaiting moisture before planting row crops, and the next week will find them busy planting one of the largest row crops seen here in recent years. Those who have already planted were also rejoicing over the rains, which will prove beneficial.

More Livestock. With prospects for a good row crop more farmers are also stating their intention of feeding out a

RESURRECTION RIVER

COPYRIGHT-WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY-W.N.U. SERVICE

"Yes, dear, I'm starting early next week. Raoul DeCarle, head of our geology staff, has a plane party waiting for me at Winnipeg."

"When are you coming back?" she asked.

"I can't say definitely, but likely within two months." He touched the engagement ring on her finger, and smiled. "I must be back in Chicago by the eighth of October, dearest."

It was this very matter, this eighth of October, which Patricia herself was thinking about and which had made her decide to go along with Warren on his Arctic trip. Her engagement to Warren Lovett was almost the only stable and solid thing in her chaotic situation; and a truly fine married life was almost the only ideal left to her. With their wedding so near at hand she desperately wanted to overcome the feeling that Warren and she were strangers. She felt confident that two months of intimate association would draw him and her very close to each other and that all her secret doubts about their marriage would be stilled.

Old Wellington said roughly to her: "See here, if you're winding up to say you're going along with Warren for a little Arctic picnic, you might as well not say it! That country is no place for a woman. Warren has business to attend to on this trip, and he can't be bothered. You run along and let us get back to our work."

His order made Patricia angry. "You run along"—he was always like that, always treating her like a child or an inconsequential person. As he treated her mother and Frances. It seemed to her that a great many men in her world had that same attitude toward their women-folk. Sometimes she wondered whether Warren too was going to regard her as a social pet instead of a mate and a life partner.

"But—dad"—she swallowed her anger and wounded pride — "I won't be a bother to Warren. I'll keep out of the way, honest."

"I say NO!"

"But, dad . . ."

While they argued it back and forth, Warren stood aside, listening to them and thinking swiftly. Until that moment he had not thought about Patricia's going along, but now that she had suggested it he wanted her to go. Because he loved her sincerely, because his love for her was almost the only honest thing in his poker-faced life, he grasped eagerly at this prospect of having her with him for those two months. But his chief motive in wanting to take her along was entirely cold-blooded: If Patricia was in the far North for the next eight weeks—practically till the day of their wedding—she would have no chance to fly off on some unguessable what-not that might delay their marriage or even spike it altogether.

Keeping out of the argument, he waited until old Jasper had thundered his final "No!" and Patricia had burst into angry tears. As she turned away, he stepped up and took her arm; and at the door he bade quietly:

"Let me handle this, Patricia. You run over to the Tree-Top club and wait there till I phone you. Don't worry—in ten days from now you and I'll be camped on Resurrection!"

Stirring out of a long deep sleep Patricia reached up, as her habit was, to touch the button that would bring her maid into the room.

Her hand encountered canvas, a canvas wall. Opening puzzled eyes, she looked up and found herself staring at the ridgepole of a tent.

For a minute she lay quiet, with her sleepy thoughts drifting back across the long journey north. Chicago, Winnipeg, Edmonton. Then the lengthy flights, hundreds of miles to each hop, across the Athabasca, Slave and Mackenzie countries, to the Arctic. Then the swing eastward toward the North Magnetic pole, and at last their goal at Dynamite Bay.

The North so far had keenly disappointed her. No snowy mountains, no romantic rivers with white-water portages, no wild Indians, no half-breed boatmen singing while they worked. At the dismal frontier posts where the planes stopped for gas, the Indians had seemed slouchy and tame, the half-breeds sullen, the white men uncouth, and the country itself unspeakably dreary. Water-logged by marshy lakes, slow rivers and slimy green musket, the immense Three Rivers region seemed to her just one huge dismal swamp, a thousand miles of stagnant green ooze that was neither land nor water.

At the other side of the tent her English maid was noiselessly unpacking baggage. Patricia sat up.

"Ellyn, is there any breakfast around this place, or does a person have to go out and shoot a caribou?"

"Breakfast is ready for miss in the dining tent."

"I'll have it here, in my tent. Get one of those Chivaghini half-breeds to help you bring it." When Ellyn was gone, Patricia slid out of bed in her pajamas, found a pair of slippers, and stepped over to the flap-door, anxious to see what Dynamite Bay looked like. At the arrival of her party eight hours ago she had been so dog-tired that she had crawled into her blankets without a glance at anything.

Her tent faced the blue lapping waves of Great Desolation, where Arctic gulls were wheeling, and mewing in the golden sunshine. Along the landwash to her left stood the glistening-white tents of her party; and in the shallows the five big red airplanes rode at anchor. To her right a good-sized river, swift and turbulent, flowed into the bay. Half a dozen

Hawaiian Church Has Centennial

View of the first Christian church ever erected in Hawaii, which reaches its century mark this year. It was at Kailua President Roosevelt first saw Hawaii when he visited mid-Pacific American territory several years ago.

dirty brown tents were scattered along its near bank, but the main prospectors' camp lay across on the northern shore.

With a start, Patricia realized that this beautiful blue stream was Resurrection River, whose name had caught her fancy in far-off Chicago.

As Patricia's eyes followed Resurrection river far away into the northeast till it lost itself in that jumble of wild hills, a little shiver went through her; a shiver of misgiving and fright; a wordless desire to flee back to the familiar country of cities and warm comforts. Fresh and clear, because it was a first impression, the tone of that Arctic land came starkly home to her. In spite of its balmy air and mellow sunshine she knew that it was a harsh land, severe and pure as its icy blue waters—a forbidding country that tolerated only those who were courageous and strong of heart.

Somewhere a man was singing, in bush French. Patricia listened, followed the words of the old voyageur song: Oh, p'tite Oiseleur, in the Strong-Woods, Your foot is caught in the snare invisible,

In the cruel babbsche. You will flutter, you will struggle and die.

O Little One . . ."

That's me—Your Mileage Merchant

I'LL OIL-PLATE YOUR ENGINE

Nobody but a Conoco Mileage Merchant like me can Oil-Plate your engine, because nobody else can change you to Conoco Germ Processed oil. There's a patent on it. The Germ Process is not like all the processes that "take away" from an oil—sort of like making skim milk. Instead of that, after the oil is refined in every right way, something altogether extra is put in Germ Processed oil. This is a great discovery, because then a genuine plating of oil is able to form in your engine. If you would imagine a slippery skin of oil really grown to every working surface—and not just floating around—that's a picture of Oil-Plating. A plating can't flow down while your car is parked, so you won't punish your Oil-Plated engine doing all the stopping and starting you please. Or if you're hitting a pace all day—maybe even pulling a trailer up the mountains—it does not make Oil-Plating rub away. That's letting you out of all the worst wear, at the same time that your Conoco Germ Processed oil is saying you quart after quart.

Soil Erosion Discussed By County Judge

SPECIAL BENEFITS FOR THIS SECTION FROM DISTRICT AGENCY

BY EARL W. WILSON

The most serious problem people of this country have to confront at this time is wind erosion. Sand storms coming from a distance without warning tell the store that wind erosion is a serious thing, whether we think so or not. The area is getting larger all the time and it is getting to the point where each individual tract of land must be attended, and that regularly, else this country is doomed to destruction. If the land owners of the so-called dust bowl do not wake up to the seriousness of the situation and do something to arrest the erosion of land by wind, the land is going to lose its value and the country will be depopulated. There are many ways the government is helping to prevent the future erosion of soil by wind, and today all land owners have to do is line up and follow the practices and advice of those agencies that have had experience in others days in other places. This land can be kept from blowing. There is no question about that. There is too much land in this country that is neglected, consequently it becomes a blow hazard and ruins everything ahead of it for miles.

In our own local set up the commissioners court as a governing body of the erosion district is doing all within its power and financial ability to help the land owners combat wind erosion. Since January 1, 1937, the county has listed 20,000 acres of land that was blowing, furnished engineers to run lines, and now are planting to cover crop thousands of acres of land that would otherwise lay out and blow away next spring. The Extension Service, through the county agent, is lending every effort to help the land owner solve his erosion problem. The Federal Government, through its local soil conservation service, is furnishing and maintaining machinery to put the eroded land back into a state of cultivation and to help the land owner set up a permanent improved practice of farming that will prevent the soil from moving about. In addition to this, the commissioners court is releasing 12 small graders to farmers and others to use without cost to them in tearing down old fence rows and leveling hummocks with their own tractors. This is to help the land owner to help himself as there is too much land for the limited amount of machinery for the county and soil conservation service to reach in the desired length of time. These blow hazards should be leveled now and the land planted to cover crop.

There is a movement on now in the dust bowl, a territory that takes in parts of five states, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado, whereby a special authority from the Federal Government is asked that would give the dust bowl direct relief in the way of Federal funds. This move got under way last Thursday when delegates from every community met in Amarillo, 350 strong, with Deaf Smith county represented by business men and county officials, and voted unanimously to go to Washington and ask for a special setup or authority comprised of territory that takes in only the dust bowl. Congressman Marvin Jones, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, and others in authority are understood to be heartily in favor of such setup. It looks now that the proposition will become a reality, and if it does here is something like the way it will work:

The purpose of the new set up will be the coordination of all efforts in the dual program of saving soil from wind damage and conserving "all the water that falls". The greatest slogan that has ever coined in this part of the world is "Keep the Water Where It Falls". If this new special erosion district is created all the government agencies now at work such as soil conservation service, the resettlement administration, extension service, triple A benefits and other activities will join hands and coordinate their services into one great battle to whip the dust storms. Money will be asked and it will be given to each county in the district to combat wind erosion and to build large and small dams to conserve the water where it falls. Deaf Smith county already has some of everything that it needs but we need a LOT more of what we already have and the prospects look good that we will be granted our wishes. If there is anything given or granted that will help us you can be assured that your representatives at the court house will get it for you.

Dispatch says Duke of Windsor settles in modest 16-room retreat. You know, one of those cottage-for-two affairs.

Dog's Tonsils Out While You Wait

If your dog will not eat as heartily as usually, perhaps he has tonsillitis. The above picture shows Dr. Clifford Wagner, left, and Dr. Harry D. Roberts, Cleveland veterinarians, as they removed the tonsils of Fritz, a Great Dane. The doctors assert that tonsillitis in dogs is a common ailment in some parts of the country.

Northwest Texas Farmers Making Poultry Profits

Proper care and feeding of poultry flocks is returning increased profits to Northwest Texas farmers, according to reports of county agricultural agents.

With his 175 white leghorn hens Marvin Townley of Cottle county has produced an average of 75 per cent egg production by feeding a laying mash formula this winter recommended by the county agricultural agent. The cost of the eggs was approximately 8 1/2 cents per dozen and they have paid his family grocery bill and left a cash surplus.

The flock was culled March 15 and 38 hens removed with no loss in total production of the flock. Townley says the birds culled were boarders and intends to prevent this another season by culling early.

"I received about five cents over market price for my eggs because they were properly handled, marketed when fresh and were non-fertile," says F. F. Ferguson, of Hutchinson, Kansas. Ferguson owns 45 Rhode Island Red hens and reports that they laid 54 dozen and seven eggs during February.

G. L. Isaacs of Borden county has kept a record on both feed and production for his flock of 230 laying hens for the past 13 weeks. During the first week of feeding a balanced ration to the flock, the feed bill was $11.25 and only 132 eggs were produced. After the first week, the highest charge for feed for any one week was $5.65 and egg production went above 1,000 after the sixth week of feeding. For the past seven weeks the flock has averaged 1182 eggs per week. Isaacs attributes the exceedingly low production of the first six weeks to the fact that the flock was in poor condition.

Rural boys employed by the National Youth Administration have surveyed a total of 26,545 acres of Lubbock county land preparatory to construction of terraces, contours, and irrigation ditches, A. V. Bullock, district supervisor, has reported to J. C. Kellam, state director.

Here Friday for a visit with Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Heard were Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Pierle of Canyon. Their daughter, Miss Eleanor Pierle, who has been teaching in the Hereford Schools for the past school term, returned to their home with them.

Social Security Program Told By State Official

VARIOUS BENEFITS TOLD BY ADMINISTRATOR FOR THIS STATE

More than 950,000 people in Texas are benefitting directly under the Social Security Act, with eight of the act's ten provisions now in operation in this state, according to a statement issued some time ago by Oscar M. Powell, regional director of the Social Security Board. Among those beneficiaries are approximately 670,000 who are estimated to be employed in jobs covered by the state unemployment compensation law, 120,000 who are being aided under an approved old-age assistance plan. Records show that $36,586 wage earners have applied for accounts under the old-age benefits program. Practically all these are also covered under the state's unemployment compensation law.

To Assist Needy. Powell explained that only one part of the act—the old-age benefits program, which has been in effect some time—could become effective without state action. In the other nine programs the states must take the initiative. Texas, it was pointed out, has set up approved plans for seven of these services, covering unemployment compensation, aid to the needy aged, maternal and child-health services, services for crippled children, child-welfare services, vocational rehabilitation, and public-health services. The programs in which it is not yet participating are aid to the needy blind, and aid to dependent children in their own homes.

Through the old-age benefits program workers in commerce and industry are now beginning to build up credits toward regular monthly incomes which will give them something to live on after they retire.

Unemployment Phase.

Under the state's unemployment compensation law, enacted on October 27, 1936, eligible workers who become involuntarily unemployed will be entitled to regular payments of 50 per cent of their full-time weekly wages, with a maximum of $15 per week and a minimum of $5 or three-fourths of weekly wages, whichever is less. Ordinarily, benefits may last as long as 15 weeks during a year, depending upon the worker's past employment. The state is already collecting funds under this law, which stipulates that unemployment compensation payments will begin in January 1938.

Powell stated that under the State-Federal old age pension program approximately 120,000 of the state's needy aged during March received cash allowances from the funds provided in part by Texas and in part by the Federal government. It is estimated that in March it paid out from the combined federal and state funds a total of $1,800,000 for old age assistance. In January, the average individual payment to the aged was $14.98. These estimates are based on reports to the Social Security Board since this plan went into operation.

The Texas old age assistance plan under the act became effective in July, 1936. It was stated, All told, it has received federal grants of $7,180,950 for old age assistance.

Brought to People.

The Social Security board has maintained a policy of decentralization in order to bring the act as closely as possible to the participating states and to the people. In line with this policy it has established 12 regional offices. That for Region 10, which comprises the states of Louisiana, Texas and New Mexico, is in the Maverick building, North Presa and East Houston Street, San Antonio. The regional offices serve as field headquarters of the board's three operating bureaus, which administer federal old age benefits, unemployment compensation, and public assistance. The board has also opened field offices in connection with the administration of old age benefits in a number of cities: including Austin, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. The State-Federal programs are administered by the following state agencies, all of which have headquarters in Austin: Unemployment Compensation Commission; Old Age Assistance Commission; Old Age Assistance Commission; Maternal and Child Health Services, State Department of Health, Division of Maternal and Child Health; Services for Crippled Children, State Department of Education, Crippled Children's Division; Child Welfare Services, State Board of Control, Division of Child Welfare; Vocational Rehabilitation; Public Health Services, State Department of Health.

Dog Does Trick Too Well, Dies With Master

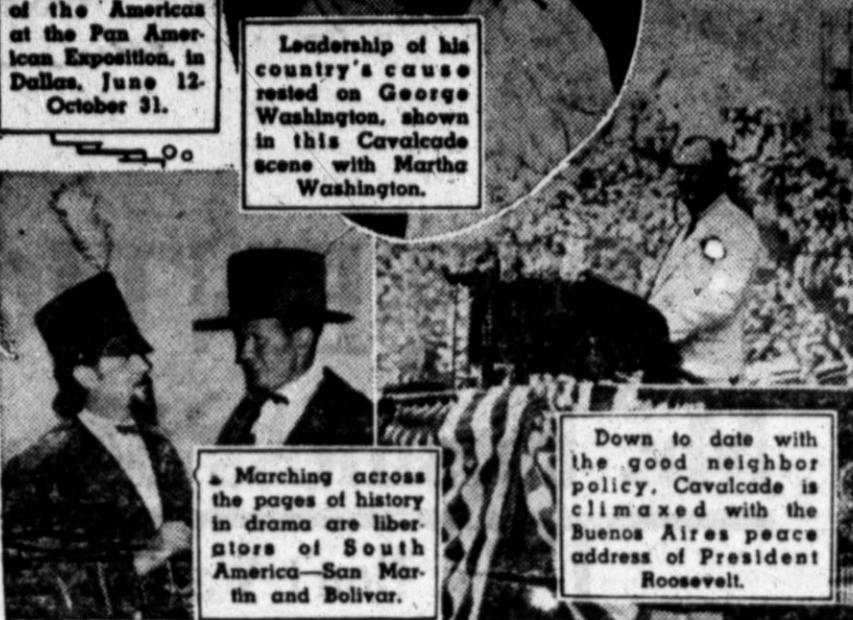

New York.—Policeman Patrick Conroy and his faithful German shepherd dog, Paddy, were dead because Paddy had learned a trick too well. Conroy had trained Paddy to attract anyone drawing a gun.

Returning home from duty Conroy removed his pistol from its holster preparatory to putting it away in a buffet drawer. Paddy, upon seeing the weapon, leaped upon his master just as he had been trained to do. The pistol went off, fatally wounding Conroy. Conroy's fellow officers shot and killed Paddy, fearing that the trick he learned might make him a dangerous pet.

Sallie Gilbreath Is Campus Leader At Manhattan

HEREFORD GIRL GAINS DISTINCTION ON KANSAS CAMPUS

Miss Sallie Gilbreath, daughter of J. T. Gilbreath of Hereford, was re-elected to serve her second term as president of her sorority, Zeta Alpha, at Manhattan, Kansas. She was also selected to represent the group at their national convention at Swampscott, Mass., early in June.

Miss Gilbreath has attained many honors on the Manhattan campus, and is known as one of the most outstanding students there. In her sophomore year she became a member of Dynamis, an all-school honorary organization, and which she serves as treasurer. In her junior year she was honored by an invitation to join Prix, a society for junior women. Membership in this organization is based on scholarship and outstanding personality. Her most recent attainment is nomination to Mortar Board, a national honorary organization for seniors girls. Thru all this activity she has managed to make a grade index of 2.3, which is better than a B average.

Outside of scholastic achievements, Miss Gilbreath has managed to make a grade index of 2.3, other campus activities. She is well known as a prominent and interested member of the home economics club; has taken an active part in YWCA, being chairman of a series of love and marriage talks sponsored by this group; a member of the cabinet three years; sponsor of the freshman commission. Enchillades is an honorary dancing club to which she belongs, and Purple Pepster, as the name implies, is a pep club. Aside from the activities she finds time to appear on radio programs over the college station.

Sports is another activity in which she participates. Last year she was a member of the winning posture team, and this year placed in the front ranks in a social dancing club sponsored by the physical education department. Miss Gilbreath is enrolled in the Home Economics division and is considered an all around popular girl by faculty and students.

Irrigation Well Turns Gasser, Then Explodes

FOUR MEN INJURED IN ACCIDENT; HOPE FOR OIL FIELD

While irrigation wells are being dug over this territory, it might be well to consider the strange accident which recently occurred near Lockney, Texas. An account of the explosive wells follows:

Explosion of gas in an irrigation well near Lockney, about 80 miles east of Muleshoe in Floyd county, which caused minor injuries to four men, recently, has caused excited speculation as to whether the near disaster may lead to the finding of a new gas or oil field.

The explosion occurred on the Frank Carthels farm four miles north and one mile east of town while the men were engaged in repairing a pump on the well. The fact that gas was still blowing Thursday morning, although it stopped before noon, was the chief cause of excitement.

Men injured were Pete Jones, who received painful burns and will be incapacitated for several days, and J. T. Dillard, foreman; Buster Langford and S. J. Bullman, employees of the Baker Pump company of Lockney and Plainview, which had charge of the work. Dillard, Langford and Bullman suffered little more than singes by a blast of such violence that dirt from the well was blown nearly 100 feet in the air. Property damage was small.

According to report, the men had removed the pump and casing from the well, but they thought they heard metal parts splash into the water approximately 200 feet below. Following a usual method they saturated a piece of cloth with gasoline, lighted it, and dropped it into the hole. The blast was instantaneous.

The injured men were brought to Lockney for medical treatment and many curious persons went to the scene of the explosion. Excitement became intense when they reported that the well was still blowing what they judged from the odor to be natural gas, in spite of the fact that fire had not followed the explosion.

A gas expert has been sent for to make a thorough examination of the well.

5,000 MILES OF FOOTBALL JOURNEY TO PLAY GAME

Five thousand miles over sea and land, more than half of it by air, is the journey the Marblehead, Mass., high school football team must make this winter for an intersectional game with Roosevelt High School in Honolulu, reports the Pan Pacific Press bureau. The two schools have arranged a home-and-home series in which each team will travel to the extreme opposite side of America from its home grounds.

Drouths Do Not Indicate Climate Change

Persons who believe the drouths and devastating floods of the last few years indicate changes in the climate of this country can quiet their fears.

J. B. Kincer, chief of the climate and crop division of the United States Weather Bureau, said recently this is an ancient fallacy.

Persons must distinguish, he said, between weather and climate. The former is the day to day or week to week condition, but climate is the average weather (temperature, rainfall, and such) over a long period of say 100 years.

Everyone knows, Kincer said, that weather runs in cycles—a few wet days, a few dry days, several weeks of warm weather, or several weeks of cold.

"The same thing happens in climate," he explained. "The only difference is that we count the period of time in years instead of days. These cycles vary in length, resulting in some periods of light rainfall, or drouth, lasting longer than others."

Weather bureau records show a decided tendency to warmer, drier winters in the last quarter century, Kincer said.

He said examinations of records for 100 years, however, indicates that this does not represent permanent change of climate, but rather a warm, dry phase of the normal climate, to be followed, doubtless by a cooler, wetter phase.

New System Accurate In Measurements

Accurate measurements of farm lands in Texas will be available for future agricultural programs thru the system now employed by the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee, according to E. N. Holmgreen, executive secretary of the committee.

In 91 counties of the state, measurement will be by plane table, and only those farms which are participating in the current agricultural Conservation program will be measured. Aerial surveys will be made on 80,000 square miles, or approximately 100 counties, and in this case all the land in the counties involved will be measured. The remaining counties in the state will check compliance on farms entering the conservation program on the system used in previous years.

The aerial survey will be continued in 1938 in all counties which have enough participation in the program to warrant the service, Holmgreen said. The aerial survey enables the state committee to have on hand permanent and accurate maps of each farm and will eliminate the annual expense of costly chain measurements.

Holmgreen indicated that farmers who participate in the 1937 agricultural conservation program will receive a blue print of their farms when located in counties where aerial surveys are made.

A LONG TIME AGO IN HEREFORD

(From The Hereford Brand, May 25, 1906.)

A company, capitalized at $5,000, was being formed to install automobile service between Canyon City and Lubbock.

Remarked the Vega correspondent: "The yaller-legged chicken that was fortunate enough to escape the Baptist meeting at Vega Sunday, can now come out from under the barn."

Money had been raised to purchase a large tent to be used in a camp meeting to be held in Hereford during the summer.

After many long months—or may be, it was years—the contract had been let for grading and draining Dewey Avenue. This was to be followed by a topping of gravel.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS SATURDAY POPPY DAY

Saturday, May 29, was proclaimed Poppy Day in Hereford in a proclamation issued by Mayor C. J. Paddock. The proclamation urged all citizens to honor the World War dead by wearing the American Legion and Auxiliary memorial poppy on that day, and to aid the war's living dead by contributing to the Legion and Auxiliary welfare funds. The proclamation follows:

"The City of Hereford, during the great crisis of the World War, sent forth its sons in response to the Nation's call. They served gallantly in the Nation's defense, and of their number some were called upon to lay down their lives in that service. The memory of their patriotic sacrifice should always be held dear by the citizens of Hereford.

"Others of these brave young men were called upon to sacrifice, not life, but the health and the strength which makes life worth living. Their families and the families of the dead also were required to make heavy sacrifices. These disabled, and dependents are still paying the human price of our Nation's World War victory.

"From the battle front in France our returning soldiers brought the poppy as the symbol of sacrifice and the memorial flower of the dead. Each year on the Saturday before Memorial Day the men of the American Legion and the women of the American Legion Auxiliary ask us to wear this flower in tribute to the Nation's fallen defenders, and to give in exchange for the flower a contribution to aid the war's living victims.

"Therefore, I, C. J. Paddock, Mayor of Hereford, urge all citizens to honor the dead and to aid the living by wearing the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary memorial poppy on Saturday, May 29.

"And to that end, I do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 29, Poppy Day in the City of Hereford.

"C. J. PADDOCK, Mayor."

W. A. Stewart Funeral Held In Cleburne

Funeral services for W. A. Stewart, 83, were held Wednesday afternoon from the Anglin Street Presbyterian church at Cleburne. Mr. Stewart died at his home in Amarillo Tuesday. Mrs. Stewart died there on May 17.

Mr. Stewart had been in failing health for several years and a few months ago became seriously ill.

Early in the present century, Mr. Stewart gained a wide reputation as a capable, fearless peace officer in the Southwest. He came to Texas in 1877 from Tennessee and settled in Johnson county where he later served eight years as sheriff. During his term of office he was engaged in numerous gun fights, but was never struck by a bullet during his long career. In 1906 he went to Amarillo as special officer for the Santa Fe.

Following the death of Mrs. Mary Stewart in 1910 he later married Mrs. Jennie Fuqua, who died last week. They resided in Hereford for a period of five years and during the time he resided here he became widely known over this section. Numerous friends here were saddened to learn of his death.

Mr. Stewart was a life-long member of the Presbyterian Church and until recent years was an active member.

A brief funeral service was conducted in an Amarillo funeral parlor Tuesday night at 9 o'clock by Dr. R. Thomsen, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, before Mr. Stewart's body was shipped to Cleburne.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Eva Pollard, Amarillo, and Mrs. Ann Barnett of Austin. Mrs. Pollard and a son accompanied the body to Cleburne, and other relatives preceded there Tuesday night by automobile.

In accordance with plans outlined at a meeting in Amarillo last Thursday before delegates from five dust bowl states, including several from Deaf Smith, an allotment of $10,000,000 was announced Tuesday for the Great Plains Drouth Area. The money was voted by the House of Representatives and is to be used for the construction of dams, reservoirs and ponds for water conservation in this section.

Although subject to reversal by a later vote of the house, the amendment sponsored by Marvin Jones is expected to be retained. Jones is elated with the House action and declared it would be of invaluable benefit to the dust bowl area of Texas and Oklahoma as well as other drouth sections of the Great Plains.

Members of each of the five churches were urged to attend the services, and an invitation was extended the public to attend.

Rev. Thorns delivered the Tuesday night sermon, and Wednesday night the sermon was delivered by Rev. McCann.

In connection with the Cooperative Revival, a community survey is being made. Sponsors said that the survey is social and educational as well as of a religious nature. The city has been divided and various churches are responsible for different sections of the town.

Unusual Garments Disclose Progress of Sewing Room

Workers Learn and Improve Products Daily

SEWING ROOM, KITCHEN CENTERS NOW BEING SPONSORED HERE

Learn something more, and do something better each day!" A worthy ideal for the largest industrial institution in the world, for the greatest man who ever lived—and all the more worthy, if tried out with the same enthusiasm and efficiency found in the Deaf Smith County WPA Sewing Rooms. It is their motto.

To many of us, WPA is just another government—alphabet case, but to the 34 women engaged in the sewing room in the court house it stands for Works Progress Administration; and they will tell you that the Progress is making much to them.

From their Pioneer Day booth and their parade float, many persons began wondering just what was happening on the top floor of the court house. A casual visit will convince you that the program indeed worth while.

Mrs. Pink Gilliland will meet you at the door and lead you into a spotless room, which will certainly impress you with its tidiness, attractive arrangement, and shined chairs. Nothing elaborate, understand—plain furniture, but every bit as nice an office as you will find in any business house here.

This room, only partially complete at the present time, is the basis for a living room and demonstration which is being arranged for the women. They have also started work on a kitchen center, where they will study cooking and general kitchen improvements.

Through the present plan the women have one hour free each day which they devote to study of home improvements.

"Women who are now employed in the sewing room are making an enviable record," Mrs. Gilliland said. "They have progressed to such an extent that 95 per cent of them can turn out work superior to most factories."

In fact, the sewing room has reached the point where it is doing short of a clothing factory. Possibly the greatest difference between the sewing room and a factory would be the cleanliness, neatness and comfort to be found in the room here.

Each of the women has a job to perform, and does it with distinction. Each woman has her personal smock, which she wears while working and which she undoes and keeps in order at home. The women also have individual sewing machines with which they sew. State officials, upon visiting the local sewing room, have frequently commented upon the efficiency, alertness and degree of progress which is being shown here.

The project, started November 1935, and has operated since that time, with the exception of September and October of 1936, when it was temporarily closed. During that period the project has produced 14,400 garments and has used 22,280 yards of materials. Materials are furnished by the government, and each of the women is allowed 120 hours at the regular scale list. The present payroll is $1,100 monthly and the money is used in purchasing food, clothing and other essentials.

Actual working quarters of the project include two rooms, the cutting room and the sewing room. Stalls have been placed over the bare windows, and their gay colors have helped transform the quarters into attractive, bright rooms. The chairs have been improved with cushions and anti-backers, both of which were made by the women.

If you are wondering how many garments one woman turns out in a day, the answer is from three to 10, depending upon the type of garment which she is making. Area pairs of overalls in one day considered average, while more ample garments run to higher numbers. At the present time, garments made in the room are numerous, practically every type of garment which is worn by infants, men, women, boys and girls. The list includes overalls, dresses, shirts, pants, underwear, and many others.

It is a boast of the sewing room that not one thread of material is wasted. After patterns have been cut, larger scraps are used in making quilts; those not adaptable for quilt tops are used to make rag rugs—and the tiny scraps and threads are used as batting in the quilts. Some unusually attractive quilts and rugs have been turned out by the women.

The first step in manufacturing garments is to secure materials from the store room; the material is next carried to the cutting room, where it is cut, labeled, then carried to the machines. When the garment is finished it has a label telling the name of the garment, and the name of the woman by whom it was made. Finished garments are stored carefully in boxes, or with garments filed in bundles of 10. At the present time, the room supplies enough garments to take care of the entire demand of the Deaf Smith relief rolls.

Each of the women on the project are now doing unusually good work, Mrs. Gilliland said. Many of them have shown marked improvement—and one woman who a year ago did not know how to pedal a machine is today one of the best and most efficient workers in the project. In addition to the work accomplished in the sewing room, the women also do most of the sewing for their families at home. Time is also devoted to citizenship classes at regular intervals.

The women are not contented with doing exceptional work in the sewing room, but are also carrying home the lessons which they have learned. They are operating on budgets, and are making progress along this line. This spring they planted gardens from which will come a large portion of the vegetables which their families will use this summer.

Truly, their accomplishment is one to be admired. They are striving for a goal and are coming close to living up to their motto: "Learn something more, and do something better each day!"

Ricketts, Norma Jean Foster, Nola Margaret Blue, Mary Triefel, Grant Fuller, Clifford Estess, Charles Wilson, Elsyre Wilkins, Jack Nicks, Thama Cawthon, Jean Williams, Bud Bradley and Mary Betty Cockrell.

The book is an excellent publication and everyone who contributed to its success is due congratulations, along with the staff and with Miss Stacia Irene Crawford, who devoted much time in assisting the students.

PIONEER EDITION STIRS MEMORIES OF OLD-TIME RESIDENT

Following the publication of the Hereford Brand's Pioneer Edition May 6, many letters have been received. The following letter, written by Mrs. C. G. Witherspoon of Dallas, is reproduced because of historical material which it contains:

"To the Hereford Brand:
"We were delighted to read the Pioneer Edition of The Brand. Must say 'Congratulations.' Am sure you had a wonderful time at the celebration. Would love to have been one of their number. I think you deserve praise and credit for getting out such an interesting paper—true history of 'The Long Ago'. Very accurate and correct as I remember it. Well do I remember when we landed in Amarillo April 25, 1889.

"We built the first little cottage where Amarillo stands today in the Sanborn addition. Amarillo was made the terminus of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad. My husband taught the first nine months school in Amarillo; taught from the first to the eleventh grade. He taught in a small Methodist church, the only church there then. I remember a terrible snow-storm we had that winter. The snow lay on the ground seven weeks, but Mr. Witherspoon never missed a day from school.

"We also built the first house in La Plata, which was the county seat for five years, and being so deep to water they decided to move to the eastern part of the county. And I am proud to say we built the first house in the beautiful city of Hereford, present county seat of Deaf Smith county, one of the largest counties in the Lone Star State, the grandest State in the Union.

"I want to say to you and to my dear friends there, the happiest days of my life were spent in Hereford.

"Our lives all touched there and some bright day they will touch in a Home Beyond.

"Again let me compliment you on this fine edition of the Brand. The write-ups and pictures were true to life. Our friends, Mr. Gregg and Mr. Black looked like they ought to speak. I believe in giving the flowers now, as the poem says, 'We cannot read our tombstone when we are dead'. And now, I say, 'Long live the Brand and the good people there'—in which Claude and Bertha join me in best wishes and kindest regards to all our friends in dear old Hereford.

Conserve The Soil! With a John Deere DAMMING LISTER

IF YOU OWN A JOHN DEERE LISTER OR PLAN TO BUY ONE SEE US TODAY ABOUT DAMMING EQUIPMENT FOR IT

The John Deere five-row damming lister meets the demand for efficient equipment to conserve all the available moisture and to control soil erosion through surface run-off and from the wind.

The John Deere Damming Attachment is available for various types of John Deere Listers. On this lister the blades are considerably wider, to operate in the wider furrow made by the lister bottom.

Operating Efficiency and Simple In Design

Simplicity of design and efficient operation are two of the advantages of the John Deere Damming Lister. The lister being equipped with five shovels or chisels, which open up narrow trenches from 6 to 10 or 12 inches deep, spaced 20 inches apart. These trenches place the subsoil in ideal condition to take in the moisture rapidly and to allow it to be absorbed in the deeper sub-soils. The Damming Lister places a dam across the furrow to pocket the moisture from heavy rains, preventing the run-off at the surface.

S. J. R. No. 16
A JOINT RESOLUTION
 proposing an amendment to Article III, Section 52, of the Constitution of the State of Texas by adding thereto a new section to be known as Section 52d; providing that the Legislature may authorize by law, after a majority vote of the resident qualified electors owning taxable property therein, the adoption of a plan for the construction of paved roads and bridges or both in Harris County and in road districts therein; providing for the levy of a tax to pay for such construction; providing for the necessary proclamation; and appropriating funds to defray the expenses of the proclamation, publication, and election.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article III, Section 52, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended by adding thereto another section to be known as Section 52d, which shall read as follows:

"Section 52d: Upon the vote of a majority of the resident qualified electors owning taxable property therein so authorizing, a county or road district may collect an annual tax for a period of not exceeding five (5) years to create a fund for constructing lasting and permanent roads and bridges or both. No contract involving the expenditure of any of such fund shall be valid unless, when it is made, money shall be on hand in such fund.

"At such election the Commissioners' Court shall submit for adoption a road plan and designate the amount of special tax to be levied; the number of years said tax is to be levied; the location, description, and character of the roads and bridges; and the estimated cost thereof. The funds raised by such taxes shall not be used for purposes other than those specified in the plan submitted to the voters. Elections may be held from time to time to extend or discontinue said plan or to increase or diminish said tax. The Legislature shall enact laws prescribing the procedure hereunder.

"The provisions of this section shall apply only to Harris County and road districts therein."
