Tennis courts get board OK

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Hereford school trustees took their show on the road for the first time on Monday, meeting in the Shirley Intermediate School library for the first of two monthly board meetings. Trustees voted last month to split their monthly meeting into two parts -- one, on the second Monday of the month, to hear a school report and handle information and discussion items, and the other, on the fourth Tuesday, for action items.

On Monday, the new meeting format was varied slightly, as trustees handled two action items.

They voted to have formal drawings prepared for work at the high school tennis courts and approved two bids for industrial classes at the high school.

Discussions concerning the state of the tennis courts began several months ago.

On Monday, trustees voted to have Quicksilver Inc. -- the district's construction management firm -- prepare formal drawings to a plan that would have two existing tennis courts refurbished, plus have two new courts built next to them to create an eight-court complex on the site of the current courts.

In addition, there will be a building built at the east end of the courts that will contain dressing rooms for the Hereford tennis teams, an office for the coach, a meeting room and concession stand.

Preliminary estimates indicate the project will cost about $174,304.

The drawings will be brought to the board for approval either at a special meeting on Oct. 18 or at the next regular meeting on Oct. 24.

If approved then, the project will be ready for bids.

In the bids, trustees approved a bid of $14,823.80 for a software program for electronics class and a bid of $18,408.50 for an alignment machine for the auto mechanics class.

Both items had been budgeted in the 1995-96 budget.

Within the discussion agenda Monday, trustees turned their attention to the condition of the district's roofs.

Board president Jim Marsh said roofs at Northwest and Hereford Junior High School need work.

He said there is a major roof leak between the gymnasiums at the junior high and noted that the southeast quarter of the roof at Northwest "is in bad shape. It's going to have to have something done to it."

Assistant superintendent Don Cumpston gave trustees a report summarizing conditions of roofs and noted that there is work needed at Hereford High School as well.

Currently, the maintenance department is paying for a project to re-roof the print shop area at HHS.

In addition, Cumpston said, the contractor doing that work has indicated he could repair leaks over the HHS band hall, choir room and east wing for less than $10,000.

Trustees agreed to have that work done, since a contractor is already on-site working.

Marsh said figures presented by Cumpston show all roof repairs needed could be done for about $96,000, with additional funds needed to replace a faulty expansion joint on one roof.

As host of the meeting, Shirley principal David Fanning was given space on the agenda to brief trustees on his school and its activities.

Fanning, joined by teachers Shelia Straughan and Cynthia Risner noted changes done in the portfolio grading system and in the thematic approach used at the school.

Fanning told board members he has been told that the state-supported Partnership Schools Initiative -- of which Shirley is one such school -- is continuing this year, but no additional funds are available.

The board's next regular meeting will be at 6 p.m. on Oct. 24 in the HSD board room, 601 N. 25 Mile Avenue.

Hereford High School will host the first meeting of November.

Atkins Park dedicated by City

The triangle park at East Park and Avenue F Sunday became the second Hereford park to be named for a community leader. The Dr. I.M. Atkins Park was formally named in honor of the man who prompted involvement of Golden K Kiwanis in park beautification. Dr. Atkins, a noted agronomist and author, died in February at the age of 90. Mayor Bob Josserand was master of ceremonies for the event, attended by approximately 40 persons. Representing the family, at right, were Mary and Bill Lyles, daughter and son-in-law of Dr. Atkins.

Selena murder trial gets going with jury selection

By TERRI LANGFORD
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) -- Pretrial publicity and questions about whether a convicted murderer should be eligible for probation appeared to bog down jury selection in the Selena murder trial.

Lawyers began tenaciously sifting through 155 potential jurors Monday but only managed to get through 20 individual interviews before court recessed at 6:25 p.m.

Today, 66 potential jurors returned to the Harris County Courthouse so lawyers can weed out a final panel of 12 jurors and two alternates. They will hear the case against Yolanda Saldivar, the woman accused of killing Selena Quintanilla Perez last spring at a Corpus Christi motel.

"It's going slower than I thought it would," said Carlos Valdez, the Nueces County district attorney and lead prosecutor.

Interviews today began with the 22nd juror on the list.

Attorneys continued to question prospective jurors about their thoughts on probation, their family ties to law enforcement, their knowledge of Selena and even the impact of the O.J. Simpson verdict on this case.

"One of the things that concerns me is that some people might react (to the Simpson verdict) by saying we can convict somebody in Houston, Texas in a high profile murder case," defense attorney Fred Hagans told one of the potential jurors.

Of the initial jury pool, about one-third said they had heard of Selena.

Some of those interviewed said they had a problem with allowing a convicted murderer the option of probation. Others said they would have to hear all the evidence before deciding whether probation should be considered.

The issue is crucial because Ms. Saldivar, who has no criminal record, could receive from probation to life in prison if convicted of Selena's murder.

At 23, Selena was already a Grammy award winner. Critics had predicted she would follow Gloria Estefan and other Hispanic artists who had crossed over into mainstream music markets.

The events surrounding her murder have been so well-documented that pretrial publicity forced the trial to be moved from Corpus Christi to Houston.

But images of March 31 in Corpus Christi were hard to erase for some jurors.

"I cannot get the image out of my mind, where she was then," said one juror, describing Ms. Saldivar's 9 1/2-hour standoff with police after Selena's shooting in a Days Inn motel corridor. "I have trouble looking at her and saying she is innocent."

That juror was later dismissed. Ms. Saldivar, 35, rose from fan club president to overseer of the singer's Selena Etc. clothing business. But Selena's family later claimed the former registered nurse embezzled some $30,000. Selena reportedly was about to fire her when Ms. Saldivar pulled out a .38-caliber and shot the singer.

"All we have to prove is it is an intentional act," prosecutor Valdez told the jury pool.

Whether Ms. Saldivar knew she was to be fired has never been made clear.

Ms. Saldivar's attorney, Douglas

Tinker, hinted Monday at how he planned to defend his client, who confessed to police she pulled the trigger.

"I want jurors who can understand that a weapon can accidentally discharge," Tinker said.

Tinker issued a one-sentence test to jurors who were unsure whether they could push their personal opinions aside and listen only to the evidence.

"Look at Yolanda Saldivar and say, 'I don't think you did it. They've got to prove it to me,'" Tinker instructed.

State District Judge Mike Westergren said he did not intend to sequester the jury, telling the candidates Monday to "simply block out the news."

Ms. Saldivar, wearing a beige plaid jacket, an ivory blouse and beige slacks, appeared in good spirits Monday. She occasionally smiled at the jurors and listened attentively to the attorneys, sometimes taking note.

The anticipated throngs of Selena fans never showed, apparently taking court officials' advice to stay away during jury selection, which was not open to the public.

Security was extremely tight with extra police patrols in and around the courthouse. A SWAT team and two bomb-sniffing dogs swept Westergren's courtroom before the jury arrived and some 10 officers patrolled the floor.

While most fans stayed home, television trucks circled the courthouse and camera crews and reporters jammed the entrance.

Testimony was expected to begin Wednesday. At that time, courtroom seats for 25 to 35 members of the public will be distributed by lottery each morning.

Sabotage possible in train crash

By LUNA I. SHYR
Associated Press Writer

HYDER, Ariz. (AP) -- Sabotaged tracks and a note from "Sons of Gestapo" brought a swarm of federal agents to an isolated patch of desert where a train derailed off a 30-foot high bridge, killing one person and injuring at least 78.

FBI agents, special evidence teams and Justice Department investigators joined safety agencies at the scene within hours of Monday's wreck, which left four cars from Amtrak's Sunset Limited lying in a dry stream bed 55 miles southwest of Phoenix.

Saboteurs removed a 3-foot, 18-pound steel bar that holds sections of rail together, and bridged the gap with a wire to disable an electronic system designed to warn train crews of breaks in the track, Amtrak President Thomas M. Downs said.

Twenty-nine of the spikes that hold the rail to the wooden cross-ties on a 19-foot section of track had been removed, according to a source familiar with the investigation who spoke on condition of anonymity.

"Someone obviously intended to drop the train off the trestle into the ravine," Downs told a Washington news conference.

The sabotage would have taken about 10 minutes for someone with a basic knowledge of railways, he said.

A note or notes found outside the train referred to the federal sieges at Waco, Texas, and Ruby Ridge, Idaho -- rallying points for anti-government extremists -- Maricopa County Sheriff Joe Arpaio said. He refused to detail the contents of the note, but said it was signed "Sons of Gestapo."

The FBI refused any comment on the note, and Arpaio, a former agent of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, stopped talking to reporters about it after a private briefing with FBI and other federal officials.

"Only cowards would set something like this up to inflict the maximum damage, to kill as many people as possible," said Gov. Fife Symington, who toured the site.

A train employee said he passed on to deputies an anti-government note that a passenger gave him, but it was unclear if that was the same note Arpaio described.

An electronic database search of U.S. newspapers found no mention of "Sons of Gestapo," nor did a search of about six months' worth of Internet discussion groups and World Wide Web pages.

Klanwatch, an organization that tracks hate groups as part of the Southern Poverty Law Center in Montgomery, Ala., has never heard of "Sons of Gestapo," said Joe Roy, Klanwatch director.

"It very well could be some disgruntled individual who's trying to blame it on the militias," Roy said.

A sheriff's spokesman put the total number of injuries at 100; Amtrak said it was 78.

Killed was Mitchell Bates, 41, an Amtrak sleeping-car attendant from Los Angeles. At least 67 people were treated at local hospitals, and others were treated at the scene. Twelve people were seriously injured.

Meeting convened in Lubbock notes uncertainty of farm bill

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) -- About the only sure-fire certainty pegged on the 1995 farm bill is its uncertainty.

Economists and analysts presided over a gathering Monday of about 100 farm leaders and lenders concerned about proposed cuts in the nation's farm programs.

The U.S. House and Senate appear set to slice $13.4 billion over seven years in an overhaul of the farm subsidy system in existence since the 1930s. The cuts would depress land prices, make loans tougher to pay back and run some farmers out of business, speakers said Monday.

"It's very scary," said Lois

Wales, whose husband and two sons grow wheat and corn near Dimmitt in the Texas Panhandle. "If land prices are going to decline, it looks real bleak."

Steve Balas, chairman of the Texas Rice Producers, said the uncertainty has created a bind for about 2,000 rice producers who should be gearing up for their next crop.

"The banks aren't lending," Balas said. "They won't even talk about it, and the farmers don't know how much land to prepare."

Hereford teacher honored

Lana Hall, speech teacher at Hereford High School, shows off the plaque she was presented Friday by the Texas Speech Communications Association as its Teacher of the Year. Hall has taught here for 10 years.

Hereford educator honored by TSCA as state's outstanding speech teacher

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Buoyed by the recommendations of not one, but two, districts of the Texas Speech Communications Association, Hereford High School speech teacher Lana Hall last weekend was named Texas Speech Education Teacher of the Year.

Hall, a 10-year veteran of the Hereford Independent School District, received the honor at the TSCA's annual convention in Houston. She was presented with a large wooden plaque marked by a detailed relief of the state of Texas.

She was selected after being nominated by District 16 of the association, an area that corresponds to the Education Services Center Region 16.

In a somewhat unusual move, however, TSCA District 17 in Lubbock endorsed Hall's nomination rather than nominate a person of their own.

"It's an honor from your peers, which I thought was great," said Hall, adding that she was a bit surprised that District 17 -- which corresponds to the ESC Region 17 -- "chose to support my nomination" rather than make one of their own.

In nominating Hall, District 16 acting chair Lou Ann Seabourn of West Texas A&M University wrote that she "is a tireless friend of speech. She is an excellent teacher as demonstrated by her students."

In supporting the nomination,

Region 17 chairperson Pamela L. Harman of South Plains College wrote, "Lana has been a dedicated educator in this region for many years and has won the respect from her peers in both regions. Our members voted unanimously ... to back Region 16's candidate Lana Hall."

Hall said she knew about her nomination for the state honor. A 25-page booklet for each nominee is prepared for the TSCA committee that chooses its outstanding teacher.

That booklet includes nomination letters, the teacher's resume and teaching philosophy and letters of recommendation from the principal and superintendent, as well as from peers and current and former students.

Hall said she realized she was the winner at a banquet Friday night when a letter from former student Israel P. Guardiola -- now an attorney in Odessa -- was read.

Guardiola praised his former teacher, whom he knew when she taught in Adrian in 1981, because, "Ms. Hall challenged me, as she did all her students, to test my boundaries and gave (me) the confidence to expand them."

"I think one thing I'm most proud of is about 90 percent of my former students go on to college," she said, and virtually all of them go on to some sort of post-high school education.

"I really believe in what I teach and that makes it easier," she said.

Unemployment benefits to rise

Jobless workers who file initial claims for unemployment insurance will see an increase in the maximum weekly benefit amount, Jo Betsy Norton, Texas Workforce Commissioner Representing the Public, has announced.

Wage increases in the state's manufacturing production jobs have triggered an increase in the maximum weekly benefit, from $252 to $259 per week of unemployment. The minimum BWA will jump from $42 to $43.

Norton said the Texas Employment Commission currently sends an average weekly benefit of $178 to jobless workers who qualify for unemployment insurance.

"Claimants use job insurance benefits to pay bills and purchase needed goods," said Norton. "This cushions Texas communities against additional economic setbacks when laid-off workers lose buying power."

FARM BILL

of likely legislation was somber.

"This is not a time to worry about who's going to be better off from this farm bill," said Ron Knutson of the Agricultural & Food Policy Center at Texas A&M University. "Nobody's going to be better off from this farm bill," Knutson said. "Everybody's going to be worse off."

People in the crowd were told that nothing is final. Something among the various proposals before Congress should emerge as a reconciliation bill by mid-November, Knutson said.

He said the most likely option is the so-called "Freedom to Farm" proposal by Agriculture Committee Chairman Pat Roberts. The Kansas Republican's measure would give farmers a fixed but declining payment while basic commodity programs are dismantled.

John Penson, a senior analyst at the A&M center, said studies show the sharpest decline in net return for rice and cotton producers.

Farm land prices in Texas would fall 9 percent if cuts in spending amount to a 3 percent drop in target prices over seven years, Penson said.

Mrs. Wales described what she sees as an attempt in Washington to side with big corporations at the expense of the family farmer.

"They can talk about rural economic development all they want," she said. "The only thing that helps is good prices so we can buy tractors and combines."

Education groups seek Bush support

Help asked to prevent federal cuts for certain programs

By PEGGY FIKAC

Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - Texas education groups are calling on Gov. George W. Bush to fight a congressional budget proposal they said would deny thousands of youngsters access to such programs as Head Start.

Bush said Monday he was still studying the plan approved by the U.S. House but is concerned about a proposed 3.9 percent Head Start funding cut.

He said he'll work with U.S. Sens. Phil Gramm and Kay Bailey Hutchison of Texas to try to restore funding for that program as the Senate works on its spending proposal.

"If there is a program (cut) which hurts good Texas programs, I will stand up and fight for Texas," Bush said.

The House proposal would mean a $2.5 billion cut in federal funds for various programs that had been scheduled to come to Texas over the next six years, said Richard Kouri, president of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Texas Education Commissioner Mike Moses said through spokeswoman Debbie Graves that the numbers cited by Kouri are "basically accurate. However, they do represent a worst-case scenario."

Kouri - at a news conference with the Texas Federation of Teachers and representatives of school board and administrator groups - urged a bipartisan move by the nation's governors against education cuts.

"I would hope that our governor would join with the other governors across the country in saying to Congress that this is inappropriate, this is an irresponsible action to be taking at this point in time," Kouri said.

He said President Clinton's chief of staff, Leon Panetta, has assured education leaders the president would veto any budget cutting education funding.

Bush said he wanted to determine whether the cuts cited by the education groups are reductions in current spending or in anticipated growth.

He added, as he has regarding other federal funding issues, "if a state is given the freedom to run its programs, we can achieve savings." As long as Texas is treated fairly in comparison with other states, he said he is willing to "absorb some decrease" in order to balance the federal budget.

"I think it's important for the future of my little girls and your little children as well," Bush said.

Bush was joined at a news conference by fellow Republican Gov. Tommy Thompson of Wisconsin, chairman of the Education Commission of the States, in town to discuss an education meeting slated for next year in San Antonio.

"Every governor is concerned about the funding on Head Start and on student loans and so on, and we're trying to make sure there aren't some disproportionate cuts to education," Thompson said.

But he noted that federal funding makes up just a small percentage of states' education budgets and added, "We all recognize that the federal budget is in such terrible shape that it needs to be balanced."

According to the education groups, the House proposal would require Texas to make such moves as turn away 12,512 youngsters from Head Start programs; deny Pell grants for college costs to 23,400 students; and cut funding for safe and drug-free school programs.

The state and local school districts in Texas will spend about $120 billion on public education over the next six years, Ms. Graves said.

Just an average Deaf Smith pumpkin?

Since he's ag committee chairman for Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, Ron Banks decided to plant something this year. The result was an 86-pound pumpkin, which Connie Banks displayed on the back patio of their home. Banks, who owns and manages Rendezvous Cattle Investments, lives approximately a mile west of Hereford.

86-pound pumpkin short of record but very big in Deaf Smith garden

Even a beginner can grow something in the fertile soils of Deaf Smith County, claims Ron Banks, ag committee chairman for Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Banks, owner and operator of Rendezvous Cattle Investments, decided to plant a few pumpkin seed this year. He would up with a vine that produced five little pumpkins. However, reports Banks, all but one withered away, leaving one that grew to 86 pounds.

Banks called The Brand office Monday to inquire: "Is an 86-pound pumpkin considered very big?"

"Sounds pretty big to me," said Brand publisher Speedy Nieman. "I'll come out and get a picture of it."

On returning to the office, Nieman told managing editor Garry Wesner about his picture of the big pumpkin. Wesner giggled and handed Nieman an AP wire story about a prize-winning 522-pound pumpkin displayed at Pumpkin Daze in Republic, Mo.

"Big deal," said Nieman. "After all, Banks is not a card-carrying member of the World Pumpkin Federation. He just wanted to see if he could produce a pumpkin!"

The huge pumpkin was, however, grown in Texas. Audie Starkey of Mount Pleasant says he grew the prize winner after hearing an Oklahoma couple brag about growing the largest pumpkins in the land.

Starkey, who has been growing pumpkins for two years, used seeds from a 725-pound pumpkin. Next year, he'll be planting seeds from a 836-pounder.

More than 2,000 Ozarkers saw Starkey's huge orange beauty at the competition Saturday. Among other colossal produce at the event was 125-pound watermelon and a 6-1/2-foot gourd.

Starkey says a lot of his friends in East Texas don't take his pumpkin-growing seriously. "They're laughing at me, but that's okay," he says.

Starkey hopes to land himself and his fruit on the Dave Letterman Late Show. He's making a pitch for Letterman to drop his pumpkin from 100 to 150 high. Letterman occasionally drops anything from watermelons to televisions out of windows several stories high.

The title of the segment, Starkey says, could be "The quickest way to get seeds out of a 500-pound pumpkin."

If Banks decides to get serious about growing big pumpkins, he may need to read Starkey's advice: "There's no real secret--it just takes a lot of luck, a good seed and a seven-day-a-week commitment."

Demo Slagel to step down in December

AUSTIN (AP) - After previously rejecting requests from top statewide elected Democrats to resign, Texas Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagel has notified party leaders that he plans to step down in December.

The move could clear the way for former Clinton administration official Bill White to ascend to the post Slagel has held for 15 years.

The state's top five elected Democrats, including Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, recently told Slagel he should quit immediately and recommended White, a Democratic fund-raiser, as his replacement.

Slagel announced this year that he would not seek re-election when his two-year term ends in June.

In a letter to State Democratic Executive Committee members, Slagel said he has been "troubled by the unfortunate fact that over the last several weeks too many Democrats have spent too much time plotting with and against each other rather than aiming outward at Republicans."

"While all organizations have internal politics, we are about to drown in it," his letter continues.

The Austin American-Statesman reported that Slagel has scheduled a news conference today to announce his plan for selecting his replacement.

Under his proposal, those seeking to be chairperson will be allowed to address the state committee members at the Nov. 4 meeting in Austin. The 62-member panel would pick a replacement Dec. 9.

In the letter, Slagel said the plan would allow a new chairperson "to hit the ground running at the start of the most important election year in recent history."

Sources told the Statesman that Dallas lawyer Ken Molberg, considered White's top challenger, has decided not to run. Molberg said he would announce his plans by Wednesday. However, he said his withdrawal from the race would give White majority support among the committee members.

Former state Sen. Hector Uribe, a Brownsville lawyer, also has talked of seeking the chairmanship.

In a Sept. 22 letter - signed by Bullock, Comptroller John Sharp, Treasurer Martha Whitehead, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro and Attorney General Dan Morales - Slagel was asked to resign immediately.

Slagel had said he wasn't against stepping down before June "provided there is a genuine consensus among SDEC members and rank and file Democrats about who the next chair should be."

White, 41, was a leading fund-raiser in support of President Clinton's 1992 election bid. He left a Houston law practice to join the Clinton administration in 1993, serving as the U.S. Energy Department's No. 2 official.

DHS announces new interagency with TDH

LUBBOCK -- Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) Region 1 Acting Regional Administrator, Barry Fredrickson, recently announced an interagency project with the Texas Department of Health (TDH) to assure full immunization for children receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) benefits. Under a state welfare reform measure recently approved by the Clinton administration, parents on the state's AFDC program face financial sanctions for failing to have their children properly immunized. The new immunization requirement became effective on Oct. 1.

The goal of the interagency partnership is to assure that by December 1996, at least 90 percent of AFDC children under the age of 6 are current on their immunizations. Plans include:

- *Developing an automated system to track immunizations;
- *Providing written and videotaped educational materials for AFDC parents;
- *Improving access to immunizations through on-site services in some DHS field offices and a referral system to other sites;
- *Providing training to DHS staff who will review immunization records.

DHS officials estimate the new immunization rules will benefit more than 210,000 children under the age of 6 in Texas.

"The quality and depth of cooperation between management and front-line staff in TDH and DHS is unparalleled," said TDH Commissioner Smith. "And as parents learn more about immunizations from their caseworkers, they are supportive of this project because they want to do the right thing for their children. With cooperation like this, I have every confidence we will reach our immunization goals," he said.

Plans for the immunization mandate were initiated by the six-member Texas Board of Human Services.

This figure is 9 percent lower than the statewide average immunization rate for all children in the same age range. In March 1995, the DHS Board members voted to require immunizations for AFDC recipients.

In order to implement the new policy, DHS officials also received a waiver from federal welfare eligibility requirements by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services in August. The immunization rule was also included in House Bill 1863, a welfare reform measure approved by the Texas Legislature earlier this year.

"The motivation behind this project was reinforcing the need for children to be immunized prior to attending school. This project provides AFDC parents with the education and information necessary to have their children properly immunized to protect them from preventable childhood diseases," Fredrickson said.

Under the terms of the new DHS policy, parents will be informed of the immunization requirement when they first apply for AFDC or during their regular recertification meeting with a DHS caseworker. The parent would then be given six months to present proof of their children's immunizations. Parents could be sanctioned $25 per month for each child who was not immunized from a wide range of preventable childhood diseases.

Approximately 772,000 Texans are served under the AFDC program. The average AFDC household in Texas consists of one adult with two children. The maximum AFDC grant for a family of three is $188 per month.

District Regional Lieutenant presents Pilot Club program

Debbie Underwood, District Regional Lieutenant Governor of Pilot International, attended the Hereford Pilot Club meeting recently.

Underwood presented a program on the importance of the Pilot Club to its individual members and to the community.

It was announced that the club pecans are now available.

The sale of the pecans will defray costs of the club projects such as Big Brothers Big Sisters, Satellite Center, scholarships and assistance to nursing home programs.

The next meeting will be held October 24 with Greg Lonsway, administrator of Kings Manor, presenting the program.

WTAMU selects students to President's Ambassadors

A group of 12 West Texas A&M University students was selected recently as President's Ambassadors, a new program where juniors, seniors and graduate students represent WTAMU and the Office of the President by hosting special University guests and attending special events.

Among those selected as 1995-96 President's Ambassadors was Matthew Parker, a junior pre-medicine major from Dawn.

Requirements for the President's Ambassadors included enrollment as a full-time student with a minimum of 45 hours at the time of application; successful completion of a minimum of 12 hours the previous long semester; minimum overall grade point average of 2.5; two letters of reference, one from a WTAMU faculty/administrator; demonstrated campus leadership experience and involvement; and broad knowledge of the campus.

"Selection as a President's Ambassador is quite an honor," Dr. Don Albrecht, dean of Student Services, said. "Many of these students are outstanding in academics, as well as leadership abilities. The average GPA of these 12 students is 3.4."

La Afflatus tours church

Members of La Afflatus Estudio Club traveled to Umberger on Oct. 3 and toured St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The church is decorated with paintings that were done by the Italians during their stay here in the prisoner of war camp during World War II.

Following the tour, the group had refreshments at Braum's in Canyon. Those present were Virginia Beasley, Alberta Higgins, Aileen Montgomery, Pet Ott, Roxie Phipps, Della Stagner, Louise Streun, Leola Cook, Emily Suggs and Edna Schulte, a guest of Suggs.

The next meeting will be Oct. 17 at the home of Mary Williamson. Higgins will have the program.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Five years ago, I married "Rush." I dated him for two years before we were engaged and thought I knew him very well. A few weeks after we started dating, Rush told me he had cancer. I knew he had a low-paying job, so I picked up the bills for most of his chemotherapy treatments (not cheap).

A few months ago, I received a call from "Lorraine," one of Rush's old girlfriends. She told me he was pulling the same stunt on me that he had pulled on her. The so-called "chemotherapy" treatments were a lot of baloney. Lorraine discovered that he was winning and dining other women. The truth came out when she phoned his doctor to inquire about the seriousness of his illness. The doctor was amazed when chemotherapy was mentioned. Rush never had cancer. He had ulcers.

When I confronted Rush head-on, he admitted it was all true. I filed for divorce immediately. My question to you, Ann, is can I sue him for the money I spent on his doctor bills? I have all the canceled checks. I feel like a damned fool and want revenge.

-- Damaged Goods in Massachusetts

DEAR MASSACHUSETTS: A lawyer can tell you if you have a case, but a lawsuit might wind up costing more than the chemotherapy bills.

Save your money, honey. Write this off as tuition in the School of Experience, and consider yourself lucky to be free of the crook.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After I read the letter about the shy father who refused to dance at his daughter's wedding, I could not wait to write you.

My father, an extremely enthusiastic man, was once very successful in business, was an avid golfer and loved to dance at parties. He now, at a relatively young age, has Parkinson's disease.

Three years ago, I was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis. In 1994, I became engaged to be married. At that point, my father was wheelchair-bound. I prayed that at my wedding, he would be able to bring me down the aisle and dance with me.

Well, Ann, my wedding day was nothing short of a miracle. It was also a dream come true. Not only did my father accompany me down the aisle in his wheelchair, but we also "danced" together at the reception. I held my father's hand on the ballroom floor and danced around him in his wheelchair, while a vocalist sang one of his favorite songs. There wasn't a dry eye in the place.

Life is so precious, even though sometimes we must improvise to make our dreams come true. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to share my story. -- Grateful Waltzer, USA

DEAR USA: What a beautifully upbeat letter. I am filled with admiration at the way you have accepted and dealt with your illness. You are not complaining but rejoicing in the fact that it is half full.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your reader from Gary, Ind., who said kids today want to start where it took us 20 years to get, had it exactly right. The house we had when we were first married had a space heater in the hall and one bathroom. We had four kids before we had two bathrooms. If today we could give that house to our children just starting out, they wouldn't consider living in it.

Our kids have had a lot more advantages than we ever had. I wonder how they'll manage when they are 65. -- B.E., Florida

DEAR B.E.: Every generation thinks they had it a lot rougher than their children. Often, the kids surprise us by rising to the occasion, even those who have had the disadvantage of too many advantages. Good luck with yours.

Correction

Cervantez scored Herd touchdown

Marquise Brown was incorrectly identified in Sunday's Hereford Brand as the player who scored Hereford's only touchdown in the 35-7 loss to Randall Friday in Canyon.

The player who actually scored was fullback Anthony Cervantez, on a one-yard run.

The Brand regrets the error.

NCA spikers bow to Amarillo Trinity

The Nazarene Christian Academy volleyball team lost to Amarillo Trinity Fellowship 15-5, 16-14 Monday.

The match was saved from being a rout when, in the second game, Lyndzie Torbert served 10 straight points, bringing NCA back from a 11-0 deficit. Trinity recovered, though, and squeaked out the win.

Sloane Merrick served two aces in the match.

The NCA team also fell to San Jacinto Christian School, 15-6, 15-7, on Thursday, despite six service points from Cassidy Hicks.

The NCA flag football team also lost to San Jacinto Thursday, 38-14. Tyler Keeling threw touchdown passes to Kris Bridwell and Mac Boggeman, and Boggeman ran for extra points.

Cross country runners

Hereford's cross country teams - both the boys and girls - finished ninth at the Lubbock Invitational Meet Saturday, and both teams are shaping up to finish at least third at the District 1-4A Meet, which will be run Oct. 28 in Amarillo. Members of the girls' varsity team (above) are: (left to right) Bethany Townsend, Erica Delgado, Jamie Harrison, Teresa Lopez, Beverly Celaya, Kitt Wimberly and Jessica Mejia. The boys' varsity (below) consists of (left to right) Pedro Del Hoyo, Flavio Cardenas, Miguel Carrillo, Inez Lopez, Miguel Huerta, Joel Garza, Rafael Del Hoyo, Justin Criner and Brandon Coleman.

Hereford cross country teams finish 9th in big Lubbock meet

The Hereford cross country teams - boys and girls - both finished ninth at the Lubbock Invitational Meet held Saturday in Mae Simmons Park.

Both fields included teams from Class 5A and 4A from all over West Texas. The boys' field included 24 teams and as much as 175 runners, while the girls' field included 23 teams and 167 runners.

"This was a great field of very good runners," Hereford coach Martha Emerson said. "There were about 104A schools and the rest were 5A. Mae Simmons Park is the Region I course, so coaches bring their runners so they will have an opportunity to run on this course in hopes of being back on Nov. 4 for the regional meet. We competed well, even though our places may not show it."

Canyon, from Hereford's District 1-4A, won both the boys and girls competition.

Following are team results through

Sandoval, Daniel share first prize

Jim Sandoval and Linda Daniel each missed three games in last week's Hereford Brand Football Contest. Both also picked exactly the same score on the tie-breaker game, so they'll share first and second place - each will receive $30 in Hereford Bucks.

Kristi Hollingsworth was among four players who missed four games, but her tie-breaker total of 40 points was closest to the actual score (Randall 35-Hereford 7). She'll pick up $10.

The others who missed four games are Kyanne Lindley, Deborah Jackson and Shelly Fellers.

Herd golf teams play triangulars

The Hereford High School golf teams played in triangular meets Saturday in Plainview and Amarillo.

The boys took second at Plainview Country Club, shooting 323 to finish behind Pampa (320) but ahead of Plainview (328).

Jami Bell led Hereford with a round of 86. She was followed by Katie Bone, 94; Stephanie Bixler, 96; Jacque Bezner, 97; and Amy Killingsworth, 102.

Both boys and girls play Saturday in Dumas.

No. 1 Herd spikers cruise past Randall

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Once the Lady Whitefaces got past Randall's Kati Williams, there was a smooth path to another District 1-4A victory for the top-ranked volleyball team in Class 4A.

Williams served three straight aces against Hereford to start the second game of what was an otherwise easy match for Hereford. The Lady Whitefaces won 15-4, 15-6 and improved to 7-0 in district play.

"She was the only one that gave us too much trouble," Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "I know in the first game we only rotated five times."

"With the exception of (Williams') three points there, we were in control all the way through," Reeh said.

Hereford (20-3 overall) is ranked No. 1 in Class 4A in the latest Baden/Texas Girls Coaches Association volleyball poll.

Hereford owns wins over No. 4 Friendswood - the defending state champion - and No. 9 Andrews as well as Coronado, ranked ninth in the 5A lists.

Granbury is ranked eighth in 4A, and Hereford handled Granbury easily in pool play of the Amarillo Invitational. Hereford also has beaten Granbury in the playoffs in each of the last three seasons.

The other teams on the 4A list are: 2, New Braunfels Canyon; 3, Red Oak; 5, Hallsville; 6, Coppell; 7, Corpus Christi Flour Bluff; and 10, New Braunfels High.

Hereford's three losses this season all are to Amarillo High (25-0), which is ranked first in Class 5A.

Hereford hosts Pampa at 6 p.m. today in Whiteface Gym. Pampa is 3-4 in district and 9-10 overall. Hereford beat Pampa in the first meeting, 15-8, 15-6, on Sept. 16, and that was the Lady Whitefaces' worst performance since district play started.

Vanover's punt return lifts Chiefs

By CRAIG HORST
AP Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - The Kansas City Chiefs are working overtime at home ... and winning. This time, Tamarick Vanover turned in the big play in the extra period, returning a punt 86 yards to give the Chiefs a 29-23 victory over the San Diego Chargers on Monday night.

Vanover was in tears and had to be held up by a teammate as the exuberant Chiefs (5-1) charged into the locker room following the electrifying finish.

"They're almost anti-climactic now," coach Marty Schottenheimer said of the Chiefs' three OT victories at home this season, two of them coming on long returns for touchdowns. "I'm not being cavalier about it. Logic would tell you (that) you better quit getting into them because you are going to fail somewhere along the way, but I'm not so sure with this group."

"I can't quantify it. This football team from the offseason on and into the training camp and the season, there's a lot of fiber about the group."

Steve Bono drove the Chiefs 78 yards to the tying score with 15 seconds left in regulation, following a picture-perfect drive reminiscent of Joe Montana. The Chiefs held off the Chargers (3-3) on the first possession of overtime after San Diego threatened to get in position for a winning field goal.

The Chiefs couldn't move and punted back, and San Diego was stopped when Neil Smith sacked Gale Gilbert for the second time in overtime.

Darren Bennett punted away for the Chargers. Vanover turned the corner along the sideline, got solid blocks from Anthony Davis and Doug Terry and eluded Bennett at about the Chargers 35 to score.

The Chiefs beat Oakland 23-17 in overtime Sept. 17 when an official blocked a receiver off his route and James Hasty returned Jeff Hostetler's pass for a touchdown. Kansas City defeated the New York Giants 20-17 in overtime the week before.

"That is really a tough, tough loss," said Chargers coach Bobby Ross, his own eyes a little red and misty. "I never thought they could get a score in, get a touchdown. You've got to give them credit to go the length of the field with no timeouts."

Bono had completions of 27 yards to Lake Dawson and 16 yards to Webster Slaughter on the drive that tied it in regulation as the Chiefs receivers did an excellent job of getting out of bounds after making catches. Kansas City had no timeouts when the drive started with 1:12 left.

He threw 18 yards to tight end Derrick Walker to tie the game with 15 seconds left.

"It's just a lot of determined people," Bono said. "It seems like when we have to get it done, we've been able to. There are a lot of determined people in the huddle."

It was a club-record third overtime for the Chiefs this season, matching an NFL record. Five games this weekend went into overtime, an NFL record.

"A lot of plays that we could have made, we didn't," Chargers returner Andre Coleman said. "I think we outplayed them, but we made mistakes. I fumbled the ball. We fumbled the ball inside the 10. We had an interception, a batted ball in overtime, and dropped it. We didn't make the plays when we had to. That's it. Period."

The two teams traded field goals before San Diego went ahead on a 2-yard touchdown run by Natrone Means. Kansas City came back to lead 13-10 on Linn Elliott's second field goal and a 1-yard touchdown pass from Bono to Kimble Anders.

John Carney tied it 13-13 with his second field goal, but Elliott kicked another one to give the Chiefs the lead again.

Stan Humphries, who hurt his right shoulder and is doubtful for next Sunday, threw a 4-yard touchdown pass to Shannon Mitchell, and Carney kicked another field goal for a 23-16 lead with 1:12 to play.

"What we did in regard to the final drive was we were able to catch it and get out of bounds," Schottenheimer said. "I thought we managed the clock extremely well. We got them stopped down there where they had to kick a field goal rather than get it in."

The Chiefs apparently have found some of the San Diego magic that carried the Chargers to the Super Bowl last season.

"Last season, we would make something happen," Chargers defensive end Leslie O'Neal said. "We would make that play at the end of the game that we needed to. We just didn't make the plays that we needed to."

Tech must recover from win vs. A&M

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - The Red Raiders turned black and blue after their 14-7 upset of Texas A&M.

"We've got to try to get over the effects of that ballgame. There were a lot of bruises," Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes said Monday. "Boy I tell you, hard-hitting football. I don't know that I've seen guys that sore in my life."

Junior defensive tackle Jerome Lang sprained his left knee and will not play Saturday against Arkansas State, Dykes said. Kickoff in Lubbock is 6:30 p.m.

Tech (2-2, 1-1 Southwest Conference) earned a No. 25 ranking by beating the No. 22 Aggies last weekend in the game's final 30 seconds, when senior linebacker Zach Thomas took a picked-off pass 23 yards to the end zone. Thomas and his teammates on defense held A&M to its least points all season.

"Back to reality," said senior raider Marcus Coleman, who made 15 tackles, broke up three A&M passes and caused a fumble. "Celebrated that night, but you have to move on."

Dykes said his team played with confidence and no signs of letdown from losing 9-7 to Baylor one week earlier. He said Tech improves each week.

"One thing about playing good or playing bad, it's habit-forming," Dykes said.

Tech broke A&M's 29-game unbeaten streak in the SWC and beat the Aggies for the first time since 1989. That euphoria, however, will not distract from preparations for Arkansas State, he said.

"It's real easy to get high when you win a game," Dykes said. "But that certainly doesn't have any effect on the way you play the next week."

The Indians (2-4, 1-3 Big West Conference) are coming off a 33-9 loss to Southwestern Louisiana. They have never played Tech.

Dykes complimented the Arkansas State offense, led by running back Corey Walker's 451 yards rushing on 113 attempts.

"Looking at Arkansas State, if we could just maintain the present quality that we're playing with and try to make the improvements we need to make, well then I think we'll be OK," he said.

The Lady Whitefaces' win over Caprock last week was the 200th in Reeh's career. Saturday's win gives her a record of 201-104, and nearly 40 of those losses came in her first two seasons. Reeh is in her 11th year of head coaching, all of which were in Hereford.

The Hereford junior varsity team didn't have as easy a time as the varsity did Saturday at Randall. The JV lost to Randall, 15-11, 12-15, 15-11. For Hereford, Makesha Rives served for 14 points and Staci Betzen served for eight - each girl served two aces.

Haley changes mind; he won't leave Cowboys

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Charles Haley has changed his mind again about retirement and regrets his diatribe against Dallas Cowboys coaches.

A repentant Haley apologized to Cowboys coaches for his remarks, which included a promise to retire after this season, after Sunday's 34-24 victory over Green Bay.

"I overreacted to the situation," the Dallas defensive end said in a locker room retraction on Monday. "I was frustrated. On reflection I just wish I had a cold Coke and left out of there (Texas Stadium). We can't have a house divided and I won't let it happen."

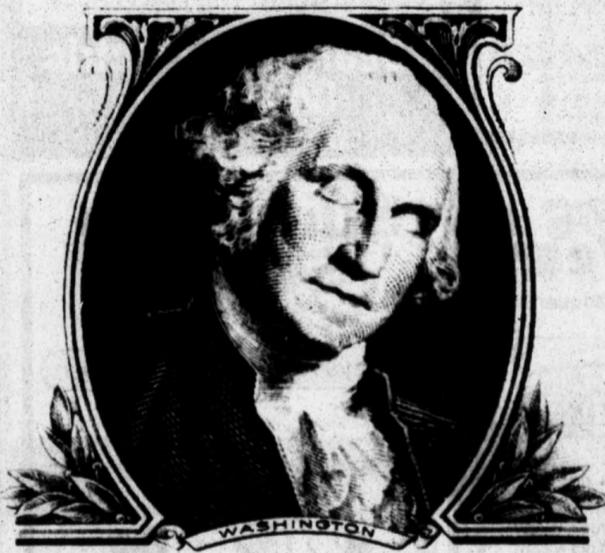

Haley was steamed because Shante Carver started at defensive end. Haley missed practice last week with a sore back.

"They are going to get all that I got this year and that's it," Haley said after the game. "They'll never get me back in this uniform again."

Haley quickly backtracked retirement talk on Monday, saying, "We'll see about next year."

Haley signed a five-year $15 million contract decision in July after saying last January he was retiring. Once he got the contract, Haley thanked owner Jerry Jones and said he wanted to be a leader on a Super Bowl team as a payback.

Then came his Sunday outburst. "I let the coaches know I'm with them and I wish this hadn't come up and I regret that," Haley said.

Bayview Study Club meets in area museum

Bayview Study Club met Oct. 5 in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Michael Grauer, curator of art, presented a selection of recent

Women's Division to hold meeting

The Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will hold its quarterly meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. at K-Bob's Steak House.

A dutch treat meal will be served prior to the business meeting.

On the agenda will be nomination of officers for the coming year.

The nominating committee is submitting the names of Vickie McMorris and Sandy Josseland for directors and Elvira Enriquez for president-elect.

Nominations from the floor will be accepted.

Maxwell presents program during Wyche FCE meeting

"Planting Bulbs to Bloom for All Seasons" was the title of the program that Marie Maxwell presented to the Wyche Family Community Education Club at its recent meeting.

Camilla Jones and Carol Worthan were hostesses for the meeting which was held at Hereford Community Center.

Jo Lee presided over the business meeting in the absence of the president and vice president. Dorna Kirby led the FCE prayer and the pledges to the United States and acquisitions which included paintings and photographs done by Texas artists before 1950.

Before coming curator of art at Panhandle-Plains in 1987, Mr. Grauer worked at the National Museum of American Art, Smithsonian Institution; the Meadows Museum, SMU; and the Dallas Museum of Art.

He has had numerous articles published and has lectured widely on Southwestern art with an emphasis on Reaugh and Dunton. He is currently preparing a manuscript on Reaugh and is writing essays on Dunton.

Mr. Grauer was named a charter member of the Taos Society of Artists' Historians.

Refreshments were served to Lou Davis, Lois Gilliland, Nancy Josseland, Helen Langley, Ruth McBride and Lois Scott at the Spanish Shawl.

Bracelets to make at home

If your kids have been intrigued by the ready-made clear tube bangle-style bracelets in stores, suggest they make their own. They can use easy-to-find materials and teeny-tiny items from around the house.

The whimsical bangles are typically made out of plastic tubing sold by the foot at hardware stores. The tubing is filled with shiny beads, glitter or other decorative items. Then the open ends are wedged together with a tight-fitting piece of wood and a dab of glue.

For an easier alternative which my kids prefer, use standard air-line tubing found at pet/aquarium supply stores. For under $3, we purchased a package of 8 feet of tubing and a package of six tubing connectors (which provide an ideal, snug fit when completing the bangle).

Here's how to make a child-size bracelet:

Cut the clear tubing into a 7-inch length (can be made shorter if necessary) and attach a tubing connector to one end. Fill the tube with miniature treasures or eye-catching beads, sequins, scraps of colorful fabric and paper, or sand from your favorite beach. Or, for a Halloween surprise, try small plastic spiders!

Use a toothpick or skewer to aid in poking the items through the tube. Leave about one-quarter of an inch of the tube empty and push the open end onto the exposed end of the tubing connector. The tight fit should hold the bangle together. Slip the bangle over your child's wrist. Make several to mix and match.

For an extra idea, attach a metal key ring over the tubing before you complete the bangle for a unique and jazzy key chain your child will love to use.

Due to small parts, this project is appropriate for kids 3 and up.

The first motor driven taxicab in the United States appeared about 1898 and had an electric motor. The first gasoline-engine taxicab and the first use of the taximeter was in 1907 in New York City.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Friends: We recently printed a hint from a reader about keeping extra change in the ashtray of your car. Here are a couple of follow-up letters that point out a possible problem.

First from A.F. Whittemore, San Antonio, Texas: I read the hint in your column about using the car ashtray as a place to store loose change. I have a caution for you.

I had been doing that very thing for several years with no problem, but one day, while driving, I heard a crackling sound and smelled a burning odor.

I opened my ashtray to see that a dime had bounced into the empty cigarette lighter socket. I had removed the lighter so I could use the socket for the power cord to my portable phone.

The loose dime was causing a short in the socket, with sparks flying out every time the dime vibrated.

It took several tries with a plastic pen to dig the coin out, amidst lots of smoke and sparks flying about.

So, I would recommend keeping the socket plugged up at all times. Thanks and safe driving!

Now a comment from Joan Daniel, also of San Antonio: Just read the hint about keeping change in the ashtray of your car. Sounds like a good idea.

My mother-in-law was having electrical problems with the dashboard lights and the mechanic traced it to the change in her ashtray. Seems some coins had slipped out and were causing a short in the wiring. So, be careful not to fill the ashtray too full or else put the coins in a resealable plastic bag before putting them in the ashtray. The resealable bags are available in a small snack size that should easily fit in the ashtray.

Thanks to A.F. and Joan and all the other readers for writing. — Heloise

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, PO Box 795000, San Antonio TX 78279-5000 or fax it to 210-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Pensacola residents clamoring to return to storm damage area

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

PENSACOLA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - The bedsheets sign said it all: "We survived Erin & Opal. We will survive this storm of fools. Let us go home."

The sheet at the foot of a bridge leading to Pensacola Beach spoke for many residents angry that officials were keeping them from returning to their storm-battered homes.

While some people were being allowed back today, others were still barred, including 2,000 people who live on the heavily damaged gulf side of Pensacola Beach, the westernmost of three communities on 50-mile-long Santa Rosa Island.

"My upstairs is perfect to live in. There's no reason I can't live there," gulf-side resident Lynn Cicuat said Monday. "I don't mind no electricity. I don't mind no water. I want in my home."

The area was slammed by Hurricane Opal last week and Hurricane Erin two months earlier, and yet another storm moving toward Mexico kept residents wary.

Escambia County Administrator Barry Evans said the gulf-side residents would be allowed to return as soon as roads are cleared of sand and debris, and building safety inspections are completed. He refused to estimate when that might be.

About 2,000 residents of Pensacola Beach's less-damaged mainland side were told they could go home today, though electricity, water and sewer services have not been restored. The same news was given to residents of Okaloosa County's section of Santa Rosa Island - the eastern end.

More than 1,000 residents of Navarre Beach, in the middle of the island, were only being allowed to make daily visits to their property through Nov. 12 because damage was so severe, said Sharon Glass, a spokeswoman for the Santa Rosa County emergency management agency. Most people not allowed home were staying in shelters or with friends or relatives.

All along the coast, residents kept an eye on a new storm during what has been the second busiest hurricane season on record. Tropical Storm Roxanne became the 17th named storm of the season. There were 21 storms or hurricanes in 1933.

Roxanne was heading northwest toward Cozumel, Mexico, with 70 mph winds. It was expected to reach the 74 mph threshold to become a hurricane.

"We're not worried yet, but if it speeds up, then we'll get out," said Niki Ciolkosz, a manager at Shipwreck Shirts, a tourist shop in Panama City Beach, about 90 miles east of Pensacola Beach.

Forecasters said there was no indication Roxanne would make the same eastern swing as Opal, but the memories of last week raised concern.

Opal battered a 120-mile stretch of the Florida Panhandle when it blew ashore last Wednesday night with 144 mph wind gusts. A preliminary damage assessment showed 722 homes were destroyed and 2,340 had so much damage they are uninhabitable, state officials said Monday.

The Gulf of Mexico rose 15 feet, sweeping away virtually everything on the first floor of most homes and businesses at the water's edge.

The storm caused at least $1.8 billion in damage to insured properties alone, making it the third-costliest U.S. hurricane for insured losses. It killed 20 people in four states.

State transportation workers, meanwhile, began repairing damage to U.S. Highway 98, the Panhandle's coastal lifeline.

The worst damage was a 1-1/2-mile cut in four lanes near Destin. It will take about a month to rebuild a two-lane stretch in that area, officials said.

In Panama City Beach, residents salvaged what they could.

Tom and Pat Clark watched helplessly as what was left of their home kept breaking off and tumbling onto the beach 20 feet below.

As they worked to remove their possessions from the wreckage, Mrs. Clark found one bright spot. Someone had discovered her red jewelry box and returned it with her 1963 high school class ring still inside.

"Everyone is so nice and working together," she said.

Names in the news

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) - Folks in the "ER" are licking their wounds over their Emmy snub.

George Clooney, who plays Dr. Doug Ross, said he was surprised when the NBC hit lost out to "NYPD Blue" for best drama. He was even more surprised when a rival TV doc, Mandy Patinkin of "Chicago Hope," beat both him and "ER" co-star Anthony Edwards for best actor.

"Tony Edwards should have won best actor," Clooney said in the Oct. 14 issue of TV Guide. "It's as simple as that. He captained the best show on television for a year."

Juliana Margulies, who won a best supporting actress Emmy for her role as Nurse Carol Hathaway on "ER," was surprised but philosophical about the "NYPD Blue" win.

"They should have won last year and they didn't. So maybe next year is for us."

PARIS (AP) - Danielle Mitterrand admires Hillary Rodham Clinton as a people person.

The wife of the former French president said Sunday that Mrs. Clinton is "a woman who is committed, who likes others, who likes community, who likes mankind."

Mrs. Mitterrand never shied from controversy during the 14-year presidency of her Socialist husband, Francois. She founded a human-rights group that ranked foreign governments with its vocal support for dissidents and ethnic minorities.

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP) - Isolationism should worry everyone on both sides of the former Iron Curtain, Mikhail Gorbachev says.

"There is currently a lot of mutual criticism between our countries. The Russian president (Boris Yeltsin) criticizes this country. Then we see that this country criticizes Russia," said Gorbachev, once president of the former Soviet Union.

"Sometimes things are being done without cooperation in Bosnia and elsewhere, and I believe all of these things should worry us," he said Saturday.

Gorbachev and his wife, Raisa, were in town to inaugurate the U.S. headquarters of the charitable International Trust for Children's Health Care, which coordinates relief projects.
