Government shutdown likely, White House says

'No chances' of spending agreement, McCurry says after House passes stopgap bill

By DAVID SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republican leaders in Congress said today they would not back down from their budget confrontation with President Clinton and asserted that if the government closes it will be his fault.

"It's up to the president of the United States," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan. "If the government shuts down, his fingerprints are going to be all over it."

Dole's comments came shortly after a White House spokesman declared "there are no chances" of reaching an agreement with Congress on a stopgap spending bill that would avert a shutdown.

Dole and House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., accused Clinton of playing political games rather than negotiating with the Republican Congress.

"It's very difficult to work with a president who seems to be primarily driven by his political advisers to engage in public relations stunts instead of having serious negotiations to do the things the country needs to get the balanced budget," Gingrich said.

Shortly before, White House press secretary Mike McCurry raised the stakes in the budget battle by saying, "There doesn't seem to be any possibility that a ... (spending bill) acceptable to the president will be passed by Monday."

Asked if the measure could pass before the deadline, McCurry said, "There are no chances at this point."

The alarm was sounded after the House voted 230-197 Wednesday night for a stopgap bill that would put the government on a strict fiscal diet through Dec. 1, limiting spending in many programs to as little as 60 percent of the level that prevailed during the budget year that ended Sept. 30.

The bill's progress is encumbered also by a provision restricting lobbying by private organizations and companies that receive federal funds.

And, even before final action is taken on the GOP plan to save $270 billion over seven years in savings from Medicare, the bill would raise Medicare premiums for doctors' bills and lab tests, effective Jan. 1.

The Senate, where many Republicans are less confrontational than House GOP freshmen, appeared likely to delete the much-disputed lobbying restriction, sponsored by Rep. Ernest Istook, R-Ola.

That would not be enough to avoid a veto from the administration, which wants a higher spending level.

"The Republican leadership has made clear ... that they want to attach extraneous measures that are unacceptable to the president," McCurry said.

Beet harvest near end; company HQ to move to Texas

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

The sugarbeet harvest in Hereford and the area was about 75 percent complete this week, Holly Sugar manager Dennis Printz said Thursday morning.

"We were a little short on acres planted this year, and the dry summer has resulted in light yields," reported Printz. The sugar quality has been good, however.

"It has been a smooth harvest season. We will probably pretty well finish the harvest by the middle of next week," said Printz.

Printz confirmed a report received here Wednesday that Holly Sugar Corporation will close its Colorado Springs headquarters and combine virtually all operations with its Texas-based parent company, Imperial Holly, within three years.

The announcement was published in a Colorado Spring newspaper Wednesday. Roger Hill, Holly president, said "no timetable has been worked out, but we are headed toward operating as one company."

Hill pointed to cost savings and better communications as major factors in the merger. The move will affect 47 employees in Colorado Springs. At its peak in the late 1980s, Holly employed more than 150 people in the high-rise office complex.

Almost two-thirds of its staff was laid off in 1988 when Holly was acquired by Imperial Sugar Co. Holly has operated as a separate subsidiary of Imperial Holly since that time.

The news report from Colorado Springs noted that Holly will begin its consolidation next year. Most of the cuts in administration, sales and manufacturing overhead will come at the Sugar Land operations, and will reportedly be completed by March 31.

Printz said the headquarters move should have no impact on the operations of the Hereford plant.

O'Leary in hot water over media rankings

WASHINGTON (AP) - Tired of unflattering press, Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary spent more than $40,000 to track and rank the reporters and media outlets covering her department.

The White House said Mrs. O'Leary would be asked for a full accounting of the project.

"On the face of it ... it is simply unacceptable," press secretary Mike McCurry said today.

Asked if she would be asked to resign, McCurry said, "I don't want to speculate on that."

The agency supplied The Wall

Street Journal with copies of its reports for the months of April and July. The Journal published a story on O'Leary's project in today's editions.

DOE hired an investigative service to scrutinize hundreds of articles a month, and calculated scores using a 0-to-100-point scale on issues from nuclear waste to Mrs. O'Leary's own reputation.

In defending the report, Energy spokeswoman Barbara Semedo told the newspaper an unfavorable rating for a reporter "meant we

Ag Department cuts corn harvest estimates in wake of bad weather

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department cut its forecast for the nation's corn harvest to 7.37 billion bushels today because the weather-damaged grain had some of the lowest weights on record.

The forecast, reflecting a harvest that is nearly over, dropped 2 percent from October's 7.54 billion bushels and was below the 7.47 billion market analysts had predicted. The forecast for soybeans dropped to 2.18 billion bushels, less than a 1 percent decline from the October forecast, and just slightly lower than market predictions.

Because of the smaller crop and increasing export demand, the department added 20 cents to its projected price range for corn in the marketing year that ends next Aug. 31. Prices should range from $2.95 to $3.35 a bushel.

Soybean prices will be "volatile" in the year ahead, ranging from $6.30 to $7.30 a bushel, a 5-cent increase on both ends from last month, the department said. It said the supply of soybeans to meet projected needs by next year's harvest will be at the lowest level in two decades.

Higher prices for both crops add to the pressure on the livestock industry, which faces higher feed costs. Higher exports are boosting red meat prices, however, while poultry prices are up because of lower production.

The prospect of higher corn prices, coupled with a shortage of other feed grains, may force livestock producers, especially hog farmers, to start thinning herds.

"I think you're to the point where the higher-cost producers will have to start thinking about liquidating some of their herds," said Gary Adams, analyst with the Food and Agricultural Policy Institute at the University of Missouri. "All sectors are going to feel it."

Dairy farmers were expected to lower milk production as a result, the department said. The price increases should cause commercial users to lower use.

The department also forecast a cotton crop of 18.8 million bales, down 2 percent from last month and 4 percent from last year's record.

Drought and insect damage, especially in Alabama, contributed to the decline.

The corn crop has been bountiful by weather problems, from a wet spring that delayed plantings to an early frost. Although the corn produced some near-record ear counts, the corn weight per ear was the fourth-lowest on record. Only the 1993 flood year and the drought years of 1983 and 1988 produced crops with lower weights.

The forecast was also revised because of an increase in the number of ears that fell off the stalks or otherwise weren't harvested. Yields were expected to average 113.7 bushels an acre, down 2.9 bushels from last month and 24.9 bushels below last year's record.

Production of sorghum was pegged at its lowest level in nearly four decades because of lower yields and acreage.

Soybean yields were put at 35.4 bushels an acre, a one-tenth of a bushel reduction from October and six bushels below last year.

Little progress made toward education goals, Riley says

By SALLY BUZBEE
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - America's schools have made little progress toward meeting the ambitious education goals set five years ago by the nation's governors, a panel of governors and lawmakers says.

"If we're serious about preparing every child for success and good citizenship in the 21st century, we're going to have to redouble our efforts," Education Secretary Richard Riley said Wednesday of a report issued by the bipartisan National Education Goals panel.

High school completion rates have not improved since 1990, according to the group's annual study. Reading achievement has remained flat in grades 4 and 8 and has fallen among high school seniors.

And a large gap still exists between white and minority students' rates of college enrollment and completion, the study found.

In addition, more teachers report being threatened or injured by students now than in 1990, and more teachers say classroom disruptions are interfering with teaching and learning.

On the bright side, both elementary and high school students' achievement in math and science has improved, and more college students are earning degrees in those disciplines.

"These are tough goals, and there has been progress," said Indiana Gov. Evan Bayh, a Democrat who chairs the panel of governors, members of Congress and state lawmakers. "But there's a long way to go."

Supporters of the national goals say changes begun in the 1990s, including some states' requirements that students pass exit exams before graduation, have not filtered down.

Riley and others in the Clinton administration also argue that the math and science improvements prove that schools are slowly improving.

"If we do the same job with other areas that we have done with math and science, the level overall will rise," Riley said.

The national goals stem from a meeting of governors called by President Bush in 1989 amid worries that American schoolchildren were academically trailing their Japanese and European counterparts.

When President Clinton took office, he pushed to set the goals into law. His administration also implemented a federal program, called Goals 2000, that gives states money to help them to overhaul schools.

But Goals 2000 drew immediate suspicion from conservatives, who called it an attempt by Washington to usurp local control of schools.

"This kind of work serves the states in a tangible way," said Republican Gov. John Engler of Michigan, the panel's incoming chairman.

today on their stopgap spending measure and were discussing a Dec. 5 date for its expiration, four days later than the House version.

Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., told reporters today

the House spending bill was irresponsible and extreme. He said

Senate Democrats would seek deletion of the Istook lobbying provision and the Medicare premium boost. He said the 60 percent financing level was too low but added, "We may be able to live with it."

The remarks were the latest in a high-stakes game of political chicken, with the White House and Congress

using the threat of a government shutdown and wholesale default to gain leverage in a broader budget debate.

Unless the spending bill is enacted by midnight Monday, when a previous stopgap measure expires, thousands of federal workers could be forced to stay home the next day.

McCarty said Clinton was meeting with Cabinet members this afternoon to discuss how to shut down the government Tuesday.

Both the House and Senate planned to take up separate legislation

today that would avoid an unprecedented federal default by adding $67 billion to the $4.9 trillion federal debt limit. Without the bill, which extends federal borrowing authority through

Dec. 12, the government would break through the debt limit Wednesday, when a $25 billion interest payment comes due.

House conservatives were pressing to attach conditions sure to prove unacceptable to Clinton, including elimination of the Commerce

Department, an overhaul of federal regulations, restriction of criminal defendants' right to appeal and a nonbinding call for Clinton to agree in advance to balance the budget in seven years.

"Default is becoming increasingly likely," McCarty said.

Senate Majority Whip Trent Lott,

R-Miss., said his chamber planned to extend the debt limit "through the easiest and fastest way possible."

Mark Davis, a spokesman for Union Pacific, said he was unsure how many jobs would be lost in Texas.

"Where we have dual management, we may have jobs reduced," Davis said. "But we need people in the field to operate the railroad, and I think many will continue to work for the combined railroad. As far as any numbers on layoffs, we don't have those yet."

Dick Davidson, president of the Union Pacific Corp., said the merger will help, not hurt, Texas shippers by creating a railroad big enough to compete effectively with Burlington Northern Santa Fe, created by a merger earlier this year.

Union Pacific says that the merger would shorten rail trips for many shippers, thus saving them money.

UP says the merger would result in the upgrading of some lines and the creation of others.

11-percent rise for auto insurance suggested

By JUAN B. ELIZONDO Jr.

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Auto insurance rates would go up by more than 11 percent across Texas under a recommendation from a group of insurers.

The Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office filed on Wednesday its recommendation that the benchmark, or average, rate for personal auto coverage be increased by 11.3 percent statewide.

Meanwhile, a state agency representing auto owners recommended that the average rate remain unchanged.

Wednesday was the deadline for filing recommendations in the annual review of the average auto insurance rates in Texas. Auto insurers, interest groups and public representatives can participate in the review, conducted by two judges in the State Office of Administrative Hearings.

The judges recommend average rates to the Department of Insurance, which sets them. Benchmark rates vary across the state and insurers can charge as much as 30 percent more or 30 percent less than the average in any area. The benchmark for a typical adult paying full auto coverage in some counties is $769 in Harris, $739 in Dallas and $685 in Bexar.

Hearings on the average rates are set to begin later this month and a final decision for the changes could come next early next year.

"Liability losses continue to rise, albeit at a much slower rate of growth than in the recent past," said Bill Thornton, head of the insurers' group. "Rates for this coverage continue to be driven by the rising cost of health care."

But Rod Bordeon, head of the Office of Public Insurance Counsel, said new laws regulating insurance lawsuits should create enough cuts for insurers to continue to make profits.

"We believe that current rates are sufficient to support claims and give companies an adequate profit," Bordeon said.

But businesses that rely on rails for most of their shipping needs, such as agricultural and chemical industries, fear their costs will rise.

"Union Pacific-Southern Pacific handles 70 percent of chemical shipments in Texas," said Jim Woodruff, president of the Texas Chemical Council. "We have concerns that the merger would result in a lack of competition."

Davis said competition will be ensured by "trackage agreements" with Burlington Northern Santa Fe.

Under such agreements, Burlington Northern Santa Fe is allowed to ship goods on Union Pacific-Southern Pacific rails as a tenant, offering shipping customers an alternative.

"I don't think anybody can say that rates will go up or down," Davis said. "Right now, the plan is to operate and provide better service and be competitive."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you believe where our tax money is going? I clipped the enclosed article out of our local paper, the Medford, Ore., Mail Tribune, but the incident happened in Seattle. Please print it, along with your opinion. — Nancy in Oregon.

DEAR NANCY: Thanks for recognizing a good item that deserves more attention. Here it is:

Hookers Won't Teach Safe Sex

A Metropolitan King County Council committee has voted to reject an $80,000 federal grant to hire former prostitutes to teach safe sex and distribute condoms to working hookers.

The council's Law, Justice and Human Services Committee on Tuesday voted 3-2 to recommend that the full council NOT accept the grant.

The grant, from the U.S. Conference of Mayors, would finance a county program that supporters say would help prevent the spread of AIDS. But the three Republicans who voted against the grant called the strategy immoral and a waste of taxpayers' money.

This is Ann talking. Now that we have AIDS, we must look at sex in a totally different context. Today, prostitution is something more than immoral and illegal, it can be a matter of life and death.

I'm with the mayors. In my opinion, the Law, Justice and Human Services Committee's rejection of the grant was a mistake.

Not only would ex-hookers be experienced instructors but working prostitutes would be more likely to listen to them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been threatening to write to you for over 10 years. A letter in your column made me do it. It told of a man who had a large pill stuck in his throat.

A few years ago, a pill got stuck in my throat. We tried everything to dislodge it, but nothing worked. In desperation, I called 911 and croaked out the necessary information. Almost before I hung up, there were several official vehicles out front. Even though I said I didn't need an ambulance, they sent one.

I was put on a stretcher and into the ambulance and then was driven three blocks to the hospital emergency room. There, I had to wait for over an hour until a doctor came. I was put to sleep, and the pill was poked down. The bill was $702.

Since then, I have learned what to do on my own. This information was a revelation to the dozens of doctors, medical staff and nursing home workers I have encountered since then. So, here, for all to see, is the solution for a pill stuck in the throat: Don't panic. Go to the kitchen sink, and drink a little hot water. It relaxes the throat's grip, and the pill will go right down.

If any of those people at 911, from the woman who answered the phone to the paramedics and nurses, had been aware of this simple solution,

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I believe my toilet tank is leaking into the commode bowl. I remember you had a hint that would tell if this was actually happening before calling the plumber.

Can you repeat it? — Jim A., Boerne, Texas

I'd be happy to reprint this quick hint. All you need to do is put a few drops of food coloring into the commode tank to tint the water. Now, do not flush the commode for about an hour. Check the toilet bowl to see if the water has become colored.

If so, the water is in fact seeping from the toilet tank and the tank ball will probably need to be replaced.

If the water is clear, there is no leak and no reason to worry! — Heloise

LAUNDRY DETERGENT BOTTLES

Dear Heloise: There are some interesting things that the laundry detergent bottles can be used for to make life easier. They are great for carrying the de-icing salt. I keep one in the car and one by the back step for easy access when icy.

Also can be used for storing charcoal. Pop out the pour nozzle and the briquettes fit in there beautifully. Especially handy when camping, much easier and cleaner to use. Just shake out what you need.

Caution: As with all containers, clearly and permanently mark what the contents are! — Charlene Busk, Wheatland, Wyo.

HANGING AROUND

Dear Heloise: It's getting colder in our neck of the woods and time to break out the scarves and gloves.

To keep these accessories in order, I have confiscated an old metal fish stringer with clips from my husband's workshop. I hung the stringer behind the back door so it's easy to get to when we are coming or going. — A Reader, Steamboat Springs, Colo.

The Region I-4A finals volleyball match between Hereford and Cleburne has been set for 6 p.m. Saturday in Abilene.

The match will be played in Abilene Christian University's Moody Coliseum. Admission is $3 for adults, $2 for students.

Hereford (27-3) is the champion of District 1-4A, while Cleburne (25-9) is the co-champ and No. 1 seed from District 6-4A. The winner of Saturday's match earns a trip to the state volleyball tournament Nov. 17 and 18 in Austin.

Moody also will be the site of the Class 5A regional finals, which could feature a No. 1 vs No. 2 matchup at 4 p.m. Saturday if Amarillo High (32-0) and Arlington Martin (35-1) each win semifinal matches on Friday. Martin's only loss was to Amarillo High, which also gave Hereford all three of its losses.

Herd's Binder is honored by Amarillo CoC

Hereford volleyball player Brittney Binder has been named as the Volleyball Athlete of the Month for October for the Amarillo area.

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce was to honor Binder and other area athletes at a luncheon at the Amarillo Holiday Inn at noon today.

As the setter for Hereford's No. 1 ranked team, Binder is instrumental in the team's success. Hereford will play Cleburne in the Region I-4A Finals at 6 p.m. Saturday in Abilene.

"It's a tribute to her competitiveness and her leadership," Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "For us, she was invaluable, with her leadership and determination."

Binder recorded 358 assists and 103 digs in the regular season, plus 16 assists and nine digs in two playoff matches. She's one of the Herd's top servers, with a .904 serving percentage.

Heat hands Rockets their year's 1st loss

By The Associated Press
Pat Riley has the Miami Heat playing his way, and it looks like the right way.

With an 89-82 victory over the two-time defending NBA champion Houston Rockets, Miami has won its first two games, its best start in the franchise's eight-year history.

"Hey, 2-0," Riley said Wednesday night. "Let's quit right now and go straight to the playoffs."

Hakeem Olajuwon scored 22 points for Houston, outplaying Heat center Alonzo Mourning, who missed 10 of 13 shots and scored 13 points.

The Sacramento Kings would vote for that, too. The team that has missed the playoffs for nine straight seasons is 4-0 for the first time in 35 years after a 109-90 win over Toronto.

In other games, it was Boston 113, Phoenix 109; Washington 110, Charlotte 96; Detroit 107, Portland 100 in overtime; Orlando 130, New Jersey 122 in triple overtime; San Antonio 111, Vancouver 62; Seattle 122, Denver 117; Utah 106, the Los Angeles Lakers 98; and Atlanta 100, the Los Angeles Clippers 92.

Spurs 111, Grizzlies 62

San Antonio held Vancouver to the fourth-lowest point total in NBA history.

The 62 points also established a new low for a San Antonio opponent.

David Robinson, who had 31 points in 21 minutes, put the game away by scoring 20 points in the third quarter.

Herd hopes to spoil Pampa's party

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Many Panhandle football fans circled Nov. 17 on their calendars back in August.

That's the date Borger and Pampa meet in Borger. (It's been changed, by the way, to Nov. 18, a Saturday, at 2 p.m.)

In August, that matchup seemed like a game that would have a big impact on District 1-4A playoff possibilities. Through the season, the teams proceeded to make the game look even bigger, going 4-0 in district and 7-1 overall so far. Now it's for the district championship.

Hereford, which has no chance to make the playoffs, at least has a chance to put a little smudge on that masterpiece.

The Whitefaces travel to Pampa to play the Harvesters at 7:30 p.m. Friday. While a Pampa loss wouldn't take away any importance from the showdown in Borger, it would take some of the glitter off the game.

Hereford is out of the running because of a 1-2-1 district record (2-5-1 overall), but coach Danny Haney said all the incentive his Whitefaces need is the chance to win a football game.

"These players love to play football," Haney said. "I honestly believe they'd play on the pavement if they had to. They have a lot of pride, and they'd like to finish this

Going down hard

Hereford defensive tackle Michael Kriegshauser and end Martin Martinez combine to take down a Canyon ballcarrier. Kriegshauser had 10 tackles in Friday's 28-28 tie with Canyon, earning him Player of the Week honors on defense. Receiver Jeb Skiles (five catches for 75 yards) is the offensive honoree.

Community Christian wins

The Community Christian School's girls basketball team took a victory from Victory Academy Friday in Amarillo.

The girls from CCS in Hereford won 38-32, getting 15 points from Joanna Brumley and eight from Joanna Bustamante.

The CCS boys lost 55-54 in the final seconds. Chris Hendershot led the team with 23 points and Jantzen Louder threw in 20 points. Peter Clark added nine points.

CCS will play games this weekend in New Mexico: Friday in Hobbs and Saturday in Lovington.

Jo Jo White, a long-time star with the Boston Celtics, played all but 13 of his 837 NBA games with that team.

Pampa made huge favorite over Hereford

Hereford will be a 25-point underdog, according to the Harris Rating System, when the Herd travels to Pampa to take on the Harvesters at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Pampa is ranked ninth in Class 4A by Harris, with a power rating of 207. Hereford is ranked 92nd at 182.

La Marque tops the list with a rating of 223, while District 1-4A's Borger is 13th at 200.

In other 1-4A games, Caprock will be a 10-point pick over Dumas tonight in Amarillo, and Borger is favored by 26 over Canyon Friday in Canyon.

Hereford is the third-ranked team in 1-4A, according to Harris. Randall is 113th at 177; Canyon is 128th at 175; Caprock is 154th at 169; and Dumas is 171th at 159.

In other area games, Harris picks: Plainview by 18 at Palo Duro; Coronado by 23 over Tascosa; Monterey by 43 over Lubbock High; Odessa High by 14 over Abilene High; Odessa Permian by seven at Abilene Cooper; San Angelo Central by seven at Midland High; Levelland by 23 at Lamessa; Frenship by six over Estacado; Sweetwater by 15 over Snyder;

River Road by nine over Childress; Tulia even at Dalhart; Sanford-Fritch by one over Perryton; Littlefield by 31 at Dimmitt; Friona by 29 over Floydada; Shallowater by 30 over Muleshoe; Spearman by 22 at Boys Ranch; West Texas High by 14 over Gruber; Clarendon by 14 at Highland Park; Canadian by 40 at Wellington; Panhandle by eight over Memphis; Lockney by seven at Abernathy; Springlake-Earth by six at Hale Center; Hart by five over Morton; Olton by 14 over New Deal;

Wheeler by 25 over Booker; Shamrock by 47 over Groom; Sunray by 33 at White Deer; Claude by 11 at Bovina; Nazareth by eight at Farwell; Vega by 24 at Happy; Kress by seven at Petersburg; Lorenzo by 31 over Valley; Spur by one over Motley County; Anton by 13 over Whiteface; Sudan by 33 over O'Donnell; and Plains by 23 at Smyer.

The initial dual track and field meet was between Oxford and Cambridge in 1864.

Young hopes to play for 49ers

By DENNIS GEORGATOS
AP Sports Writer

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Steve Young is talking a good game, and what's more, he hopes to play one.

Young, who has missed three games because of a bruised left shoulder, resumed throwing Wednesday under a limited regimen and believes he'll be ready to run the San Francisco 49ers offense Sunday against the Dallas Cowboys.

"It's redundant, but I am getting better," said Young, listed as questionable for Sunday's game featuring the winners of the past three Super Bowls. San Francisco's defeat of Dallas in last year's NFC title game ended the Cowboys' two-year championship run.

"I won't make the same mistake I did last week of throwing too much. We're going to make sure it's ready for Sunday, not Thursday," said Young, who limited himself to 40 throws Wednesday, including 25 with the first-team offense.

Young threw 100 passes when he returned to practice a week ago, but had to stop throwing the next day when soreness returned. He still has not thrown all-out since suffering the injury in an Oct. 15 loss at Indianapolis.

Young said he won't "let 'er rip" until he must.

He originally hurt his shoulder in a Week 2 victory over Atlanta when linebacker Jessie Tuggle leveled him an instant after he released a pass. He played through that shoulder injury and was just about over it when he took two more shoulder hits in the Indianapolis game, knocking him out of action.

Elvis Grbac, listed as questionable with a left ankle sprain, also practiced Wednesday, along with third-stringer Cary Conklin, who played the final series of last Sunday's 13-7 loss to Carolina in relief of Grbac. He's 1-2 as the starter in place of Young.

Young said the shoulder injury, which involves bruising in and around the rotator cuff, is the most frustrating of his career because of its persistent nature and its effect on his passing arm.

The initial dual track and field meet was between Oxford and Cambridge in 1864.

HERD

thing in style."

Hereford will need all the enthusiasm and pride they can muster to handle the Harvesters.

"Pampa's got a great defense and an offense that's conservative, but effective in that they control the ball," Haney said. "One thing that makes them so good is the defense gives the offense the ball inside the (opponent's) 50-yard line every time."

Pampa's defense is led by middle linebacker Floyd White and tackle Donnie Middleton, but Haney said all positions are good: line, linebacker and secondary. One thing though: Pampa hasn't faced a team that runs a one-back, four-receiver offense like Hereford uses.

"It's something they have not played against in a game," Haney said. "We have a balanced attack out of the four-receiver, one-back set. It's something we'll need to execute well against them."

Pampa's offense excels at rushing the ball, getting great blocking and good running.

"They do a nice job of running the ball," Haney said. "They've got good running backs in Matt Archibald and Derahian Evans. They're not going to do anything outstanding, but they're going to get after you and let the defense win the game for them."

Hereford nearly spoiled the Nov. 18 party two weeks ago. The Herd led Pampa in the second half, but the Bulldogs made an impressive comeback to win 34-32. Apparently, the Whitefaces aren't afraid of playing a powerful opponent on the road.

"I have every expectation of beating Pampa," Haney said. "We have the capability. We just have to go over and get it done."

Injury report: Starting defensive end David Hicks is doubtful with a sprained ankle suffered in the Pampa game two weeks ago. He didn't play last week.

Players of the Week: Receiver Jeb Skiles caught five passes for 75 yards and a touchdown against Canyon, earning offensive honors. Tackle Michael Kriegshauser took the prize on defense for making 10 tackles.

The junior varsity player of the week is Navarro Mariscal, a wide receiver and cornerback. For the sophomore team, fullback/linebacker Jeremy Scott was the selection.

Doughnut maker files countersuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The baker and the filmmaker have found themselves in a plot of stew.

Gourmet doughnut maker Denis Hoffman on Thursday filed a countersuit to a $33 million harassment suit filed two days earlier by Steven Spielberg.

Hoffman, the financier of Spielberg's first movie, claims Spielberg reneged on a potentially lucrative production deal. His lawsuit, which alleges fraud and breach of contract, seeks unspecified damages.

According to Spielberg's lawsuit, Hoffman gave the director $10,000 for his 1968 short film "Amblin'." As part of the deal, Spielberg agreed to direct a Hoffman script sometime over the next 10 years and pay him $25,000.

Hoffman never delivered a script and Spielberg bought the rights to "Amblin'" from Hoffman for $30,000 in 1977, Spielberg's lawsuit claims.

Hoffman's lawsuit claims he "is the innocent victim of a deliberate and outrageous lie perpetrated by Spielberg in a calculated and malicious scheme to avoid his legal obligations."

Wisdom is knowing when you can't be wise.

Prize-winning beef soup is snap to make

The rigors of a hard day can often be wiped away with a bowl of hot soup. And with a quick and easy soup recipe—which won second place at the 1995 National Beef Cook-Off—the weekday doldrums can actually be enjoyable.

Quick Italian Beef & Vegetable Soup is a convenient and flavorful main dish soup that can be on the dinner table in 30 minutes. It requires no all-day simmering or overnight soaking of beans. Just fix and serve. Quick Italian Beef & Vegetable Soup is a perfect dinner solution for time-pressed cooks.

The key to this recipe's success is in its use of convenience items—lean ground beef, packaged spinach, canned beef broth, Italian-style stewed tomatoes and cannellini beans. Busy cooks can offer their families a balanced meal in a snap. Substituting stir-fried sirloin steak strips can offer a pleasant change of pace, but using ground beef makes an even faster meal.

"Quick Italian Beef & Vegetable Soup is right on target as a fast family meal," said Marlys Bielinski, director of test kitchens and editorial services for the National Live Stock and Meat Board. "It's delicious, easy-to-prepare and quick-cooking—all the necessary ingredients for the modern American dinner."

The National Beef Cook-Off is a biennial, non-professional cooking contest that focuses on finding great beef recipes for today's time-pressed cooks. The next Beef Cook-Off, in 1997, will be held in Tampa, Fla. All entries are due June 1, 1996. To receive rules and entry information, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to:

National Beef Cook-Off® Rules, Dept. SC2, 444 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60611.

To receive a free copy of a brochure that highlights all 15 of the National Beef Cook-Off prize-winning recipes, please call 1-800-848-9088 or send a self-addressed, business-sized stamped envelope to National Beef Cook-Off® Recipes, Dept. FSC2, 1510 Hubbard Dr., Batavia, Ill., 60510.

Quick Italian Beef & Vegetable Soup, the second-place winner of the 1995 National Beef Cook-Off®, is a complete meal that can be on the table in 30 minutes.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Both my parents are colon-cancer patients. I am 43, and practice a healthy lifestyle. I exercise daily, eat a balanced diet with low fat and high fiber intake. I feel great. I know I am a high-risk patient, so I get checkups regularly. My colon test recently was normal. I am on no medication. My doctor recommends I take an aspirin a day for prevention. I am reluctant to do that. Could I get by without aspirin? — Mrs. H.S.

ANSWER: I'll get to the aspirin question later. For now, I can tell you that your general approach to the situation makes sense.

It is true that when colon cancer strikes a close family member the risk of it increases significantly for the others. Both your parents have colon cancer, so your risk is probably even higher than usual.

You are complying with the other risk-reduction recommendations: exercise, regular checkups and a low-fat, high-fiber diet. Cutting back on salt-cured, smoked or charcoal-broiled foods further lowers the risk.

We usually think of long-range aspirin therapy in terms of stroke and heart-attack prevention, but aspirin also does appear to decrease the risk of getting colon cancer. While its use for colon cancer prevention has not been completely justified by studies, for an individual such as yourself, with specific risk factors, it would make sense. Any stroke or heart disease prevention would be a bonus. I would take the aspirin as my doctor directed.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

Silo home has no view

By RICK SMITH

WINTERS, Texas - Johnny Hobbs' $13 million home had everything: plenty of room, a constant 72-degree temperature, sound-proofing, indoor swimming pool, the ability to withstand any disaster save for a direct hit by a nuclear bomb.

It had everything, that is, except a view.

"No windows down here," Hobbs said, leading the way down several sets of stairs into an abandoned nuclear missile silo near Winters.

Hobbs bought the missile silo about 15 years ago with the idea of making his home under the ground.

"It's good and solid. Cool in the summer and warm in the winter," Hobbs said, shouldering open one of four enormous blast doors that the Air Force used to protect the silo's intercontinental ballistic missile.

"But I got to be where I can see the sunshine."

For three months, Hobbs, his wife and three children lived in a 40-foot-diameter round underground room that the silo's military crew once used for living quarters.

"It gets to you, not being able to look out," Hobbs said, thumping one of the shelter's 12-foot-thick concrete walls.

After three months, the family moved up and out, into a ranch-style brick home that Hobbs built just above the former missile site. Now, the silo's above-ground, bunker-like entrance butts up against his home. Open a living room door, and stairs lead down into the Texas-size basement.

The silo was one of 12 Atlas missile sites that ringed Abilene's Dyess Air Force Base during the height of the Cold War. Then, in November 1964, barely two years after they became operational, all 12 were declared obsolete. They were disbanded and replaced by newer, deadlier weapons situated elsewhere.

Government contractors stripped the silo's equipment, and the empty hull remained, an inviting target for a generation of adventure-seeking vandals.

Hobbs learned about the missile silos almost 20 years ago, and immediately wanted one.

"It sounded like a good place to live," he said. He contacted an Abilene real estate company and they found him an available missile site, complete with a two-story, doughnut-shaped crew quarters and command center, escape hatch, assorted passageways and tunnels and a 180-foot-deep, 50-foot-diameter shaft that once contained a nuclear-tipped missile.

Over the years Hobbs put his stamp on the underground "fixer-upper," building railings for the stairs, reconnecting the electric lights and even installing a wood-burning stove in the living quarters.

But the silo still bears a military-style look: forbidding gray metal flooring; bare concrete walls with stenciled warnings that crew members must "ensure blast doors are full closed."

The word quarantine comes from the Latin quaranta, meaning 40. In early times, officials held a ship outside port for 40 days if they suspected passengers carried infection.
