

FD SLATED TO TALK TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt has made tentative arrangements to address a joint session of the senate and house on neutrality Thursday.

Stephen T. Early, a presidential secretary, said Mr. Roosevelt would begin drafting his message today. It is expected to deal almost exclusively with revision of the neutrality law.

Early said the message would be very brief. Present plans call for Mr. Roosevelt to deliver it about 1 p. m. (CST) Thursday. Arrangements for the president to deliver the message in person on the opening day of the special session were completed after Early had been in communication with Vice President Garner, Speaker Bankhead and Senate Majority Leader Barkley.

Early said that the hour for the speech was, of course, subject to change after legislative leaders reached Washington and surveyed the situation.

In response to a Polish appeal, meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt called on European belligerents to renew their pledge against the bombing of civilians from the air.

He expressed last night his "earnest hope" that warring nations "will take measures to assure themselves that their respective air forces are showing that regard for the lives of non-combatants which their replies to my appeal September 1 have led the world to expect."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement replied to a message from President Moscicki of Poland saying that "for some day past German aircraft have deliberately and methodically been bombing Polish towns and villages which contain no conceivable military objectives."

Mr. Roosevelt said he was "deeply shocked" by this statement as well as by other reports he had received, including some from American officials in Poland.

The presidential statement last night was only one of the repercussions of the European war sounded in a capital astir with preparations for the special session of congress Thursday. Other developments:

1. Secretary Morgenthau said he was disturbed by the decline in the British pound and was seeking means of combatting speculation in the currency.
2. Secretary Wallace called his newly appointed agricultural advisor.

GERMANS REFUSED PASSAGE ON REX

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Thirty passengers with German passports were refused permission today to sail for Europe in the Italian liner Rex as the result of an order from the line's Genoa office.

No explanation was made of the order, but it was believed intended to prevent the sailing of Italian ships on the high seas by the British and capture and internment of enemy nationals.

GOLF MISHAP FATAL

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19 (AP)—Robert De Slayes Kukulaki, 26-year-old caddy, died today in a hospital—accidental victim of a golf club.

Police said he stepped into the path of a club swung, in practice, by Elmer Pearson.

Says 'Mind Went Blank'

A jealous rage or marijuana intoxication—these were the things a 70-year-old district court jury likely will be called upon to decide between as the motive for the murder of Maria Trevino.

Defense counsel for Anastacio Mena Ontiveros, charged with the murder of Maria, whom the state alleges was his common law wife, brought out that the defendant had smoked marijuana cigarettes prior to the shooting. This testimony came from Ontiveros as he took the stand Tuesday morning.

The state contended that Ontiveros had fired five shots into the body of Maria—the last while she was prone—in a fit of jealous anger because she had left him.

On cross examination, Ontiveros sketched developments on the evening of May 13 when Maria was killed and told District Attorney Martelle McDonald that when he pulled a pistol his mind went blank.

He remembered making parts of a statement attributed to him and which he admitted signing.

"Would you have killed Maria had it not been for the marijuana?" asked George Thomas, one of the defense attorneys.

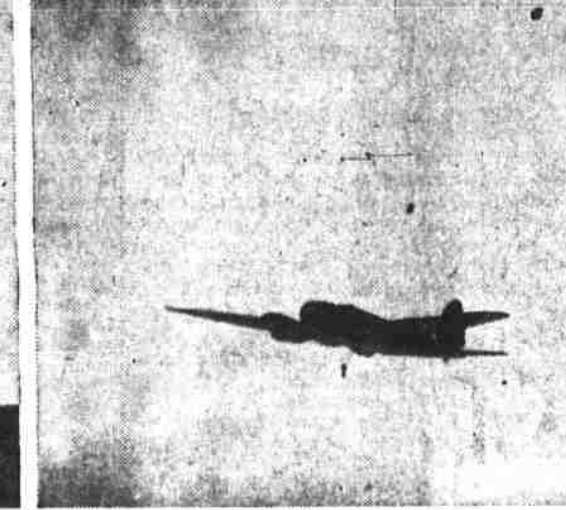

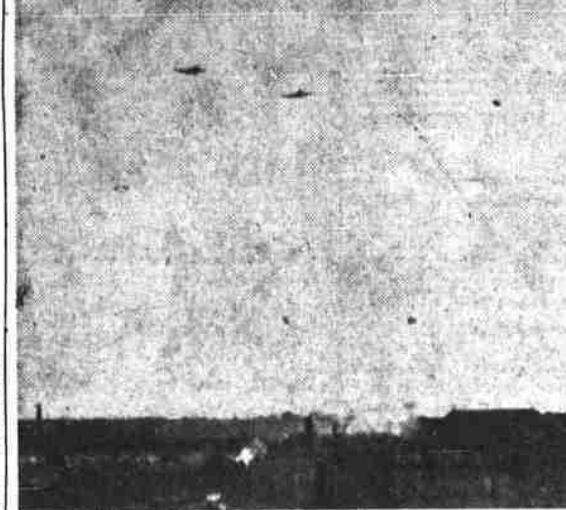

"No, Senator," replied Ontiveros. "I loved her too much."

The state sought to show by the defendant's testimony that he remembered everything until the moment of the shooting.

Indications were that the case might go to the jury late Tuesday afternoon. District Judge Cecil Collins dismissed regular veniremen and case witnesses until 9 a. m. Wednesday.

Russia's Western March Continues

Dispatches From Moscow Put Emphasis On 'Peaceable' Entry

MOSCOW, Sept. 19 (AP)—The general staff of the Soviet army reported today Soviet forces continued to "eject troops of the Polish army" and that the westward-bound Russians were approaching the Polish cities of Lwow and Vilna.

As the Red army advance continued, Tass, official news agency, reported "stirring meetings" of the population with Soviet army units, particularly in Western (Polish) "White" Russia and the Western (Polish) Ukraine.

Tass quoted the secretary of the central committee of the communist party in White Russia as saying people with red banners lined the roads where Soviet troops passed and that girls decorated with flowers the tanks and horses of advancing troops.

"We advanced at such lightning speed," Tass reported, "that all bridges on our way remained intact and telephone, telegraph lines and power stations are working normally."

The report said the population of areas in western White Russia still unoccupied by the Red army were "impatiently awaiting its arrival."

The official agency said the Soviet Union wishes to live in peace with all countries. It added the Soviet government publicly announced the Soviet Union would pursue a policy of neutrality with regard to all countries with which the U. S. S. R. maintains diplomatic relations.

Tass said it was in the interest of peace the nonaggression pact was concluded with Germany and that the pact was in operation.

A joint German-Russian communique last night hinted Berlin and Moscow intend to establish a "buffer" Polish state between them.

Soviet Russia's warships have been viewed here as speeding the task of German divisions in the east and making more men and equipment available for defense of the west wall.

French reports said the nation's colonial troops—Senegalese, Algerians, Tunisians, Madagascans, Tonkinese, Annamese and Cambodians—were mobilized fully and ready to bolster the French attack.

The number of colonial troops was described as considerably in excess of the total of effective fighting units.

Background Of War Discussed

The world is at war because (1) a man named Hitler is at large, and (2) because of the necessity of the survival of the British empire.

These causes, with variations, were discussed before Big Spring Rotarians and several score guests at their luncheon session at the Settles hotel Tuesday noon by Frank Baldwin, managing editor of the Waco Times-Herald and News-Tribune, whose observations were valued because of a recent trip to Germany, Poland, Danzig and other "hot spots" of Europe.

As for America's part in the world's affairs, Baldwin asserted "we wouldn't be concerned about the survival of the British empire except for the fact that to a great extent we are dependent on it."

INDICTED

DALLAS, Sept. 19 (AP)—Isaac Marshall Worsham, former collection manager for the Mercantile National Bank here, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on a charge of embezzling more than $6,000.

The white-haired onetime "strong man of steel," first president of the billion-dollar United States Steel corporation and founder of the Bethlehem Steel company, died peacefully last night of coronary thrombosis.

Schwab, who returned from Europe August 31, had been in poor health since the death last January of his wife, whose inspiration he often said brought him more happiness than his power or his millions.

His climb to wealth, like the rise of the elder John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford, became an industrial legend, built atop the classic Horatio Alger theme of rags to riches.

The son of a wool factory mill hand, Schwab quit a $3 a week job as a grocery clerk to take a laborer's job driving stakes in a steel plant at Bradock, Pa., owned by Carnegie Brothers & Co.

In the evening, the 18-year-old boy studied the steel business and gave piano lessons at 50 cents an hour. In three years, he was manager of the plant at $250 a month.

New Government For Poland Near

Pro-German, Pro-Russian Regime Reportedly To Be Established

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
CERNAUTI, Rumania, Sept. 19 (AP)—Reports from across the Polish border today said a new pro-German, pro-Russian regime was about to be established in Poland, replacing the government of President Ignace Moscicki, Foreign Minister Jozef Beck, Marshal Edward Smiglyrdz and other Polish leaders who now are refugees in Rumania.

Informed persons forecast a new Polish government would immediately sign a peace pact with Germany and Soviet Russia and accept a redrawing of Poland's borders.

It was said the new state would be a "buffer" between the two great powers.

Maps mailed from Germany showing the expected partition and new spheres of influence were distributed here.

Polish resistance to Germany's overwhelming armed might was reported to have dwindled to three widely-separated and virtually-surrounded armies.

Dispatches indicated the Poles still were holding out at Warsaw, along the San River west of Lwow and in the sector between Bialystok and Pinsk, but the plight of the defenders was said to be desperate.

The three Polish armies were said to be operating as individual units, without direction from the Polish general staff, which yesterday followed government leaders across the Rumanian border.

Polish government leaders, who halted here in their flight before the advancing German forces, were reported today on their way by separate routes to Bucharest, from

Britain Firm In Her Pledge

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Informed observers said today Great Britain and France, still firm in their pledges to Poland, would consult Polish leaders on the military situation created by the Soviet Russian invasion of Poland pending disclosure of its "full implications."

"The British ministry of information, in a statement in which it was understood France would concur formally today," declared the Soviet action—yesterday to "protect" Ukrainians and White Russians in Poland—"cannot, in view of his majesty's government, be justified by the arguments put forward by the Soviet government."

There was, however, no intimation the ministry's communique could be interpreted as foreshadowing a declaration of war on Russia.

A full discussion of the situation resulting from the Russian sweep into Poland was expected in the house of commons tomorrow.

Comparable to the shock caused by news of Russia's Sunday invasion was yesterday's official disclosure that the Courageous, the oldest but one of the largest of Britain's seven aircraft carriers, had been torpedoed and sunk.

The British admiralty today followed up a sparsely worded communique on the loss of the 23-year-old Courageous with a list of 438 survivors out of the ship's company of slightly more than 1,100.

MARKET SHOWS FRESH GAINS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—A fresh wave of "war" buying swept through the stock market today, at the conclusion of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech at Danzig.

Leading shares were up $1 or $2 when Hitler started speaking and trading came almost to a standstill during his remarks. But at their conclusion, gains were quickly extended to $2 to $7 in many issues, and trading accelerated abruptly.

Brokers said traders failed to see any specific peace proposals in the address, despite Hitler's general statement "we have no war intention against either England or France."

Reich And Russia To Organize Peace, He Proclaims To World

Poland Will Never Rise Again, Fuehrer Announces In Oration To Danzig Crowd; Nazis Declared Ready For 7-Year War

By LOUIS F. LOCHER
DANZIG, Sept. 19 (AP)—Adolf Hitler assured France and England today he had "no war aims" against them, but declared Poland as created by the Treaty of Versailles "never again will rise."

He warned the western powers Germany never would "capitulate" and was prepared for as much as seven years of war if necessary.

In a speech of an hour and 14 minutes, one of his best oratorical efforts, the German fuehrer dwelt at length on what he called his efforts "to bring about friendly relations" with Britain and France.

He spoke in the medieval Artushof as the climax of his first visit to Danzig since he gathered the former Free City into the reich and of a frenzied welcome by the populace.

Hitler declared Germany and Russia, Europe's "two greatest nations, instead of being troublemakers, are going to organize peace in the east."

"In the west and south," he asserted, "Germany made important concessions hoping to bring about definite peace in Europe."

"We believe we would have been successful had downright war agitators not always upset our efforts," he shouted.

Promises Poland Will Not Rise Again
Hitler said Soviet Russia concurred in his promise that the Poland of the post-Versailles days would not "rise" again. As Europe's "two greatest nations," Russia and Germany are the only ones "entitled to reestablish law and order in eastern Europe."

Referring to British assertions the war might last for three years, Hitler said "it will be dependent upon us if the war lasts that long."

"If it should last three years the word capitulation will not stand at its end, nor will it stand at the end of the fourth, fifth, sixth or seventh year, for they (allies) are not facing a Germany of Bismarck-Hollweg, (the 1914 German chancellor), but a Germany of Frederickian time (meaning Frederick the Great)."

For what was believed the first time, Hitler publicly stated he does "not want the Ukraine"—the Russian territory which, on the basis of his own book "Mein Kampf," many believed to be the kernel of his eastern policy.

This statement, he said, should have a "quieting effect" upon the Edens and the Churchills—outstanding British opponents of a policy of "appeasing" Germany.

Admits People Not Enthusiastic For War
As he concluded his speech Hitler admitted the German people were not "displaying the same enthusiasm as in 1914 but down deep they have the enthusiasm to win the war."

"My offer to England, you know," he said, "I wanted to achieve a real friendship x x x but if England today thinks it is necessary to make war on Germany it will be disappointed."

Britain, Hitler said, has "revealed its real war aims—destruction of the Nazi regime."

The fuehrer, returning from inspection of the German forces invading Poland, was received at Renneberg by Albert Forester, the Danzig Nazi leader who spoke for Hitler in the Free City before its annexation.

A silence fell over the crowd a moment later when Hitler, speaking at first in a calm voice, began addressing them.

This great moment, the fuehrer said, was not for Danzig alone, but for all the German people.

The fate of Danzig, Hitler said, was the fate of all Germany.

The world war, he continued, "made no sense."

The peace imposed on the Germans at Versailles, Hitler said, had worked great oppression, but the time had come for them to live again, he added.

His voice rose to high emotional tenor at times.

If the world outside Germany thinks it should not believe in the word of German statesmen, Hitler continued, it should also be critical of the statesmen of the countries which forced the peace terms upon the Germans.

Takes Another Rap At Versailles Treaty
The peace offers made at the time of Versailles spelled "stupidity," Hitler said, and cast doubt upon the sanity of the men who made them.

States were cut up and destroyed by those peace terms, der fuehrer went on.

All the Polish territory taken away from Germany at the end of the World War held the best in German labor and culture, he said.

"Only those who culturally created have the right to exist," he said.

He said he had attempted in the past to find "a reasonable solution to the problem."

He said he tried to establish borders in the west and in the south and had tried to make an agreement with Pilsudski which had as its purpose amicable relations between the Poles and the Germans.

"As long as Pilsudski lived this was possible," he said.

At this point Hitler said that what had depressed him and caused him suffering was that nazis had had to suffer at the hands of an inferior state, while "Germany was a superior state."

Poland tried to make the German inhabitants of the Polish territory into Poles, he shouted.

"What would England, France or America have done under similar circumstances?" Hitler asked turning to the matter of the Polish Corridor, which separates Germany from East Prussia.

Poland had received proposals from Hitler which he said he thought he should never have made and which he thought he would have difficult explaining to his people.

"I cannot understand why Poland did not accept those proposals and the German people today are happy they did not accept them."

Instead of accepting them, Hitler said, the Poles turned toward London.

He claimed Polish newspapers published stories the problem was not of Danzig, but one of boundaries and whether the Poles should defeat Germany in front of or "in back of Berlin."

As he continued his voice rose to the shrill pitch characterizing him in moments of excitement.

"The man who had spoken thusly," Hitler said, "was a Polish general who has deserted his army."

The Poles were told they could resist Germany, and if they were not strong enough they could in any case expect the help of others.

Says Britons Have Always Preached War
Hitler said English statesmen like Churchill, Eden, Duff-Cooper and others always preached war.

"In September the state of affairs became impossible, and yet in the days of August I believed it was still possible to come to an understanding."

He said he went to Berlin and "waited and waited" and even worked out some new proposals, but "nothing happened except a general mobilization by Poland."

"For years I have been extremely patient," he went on.

For years Hitler asserted he begged to change the state of affairs, but he knew "an end must come."

At one time peace again seemed possible, he said, when Mussolini made proposals to France, but England intervened, he said, and amid thunderous shouts, continued:

"England sent an ultimatum to Germany, but the day is past when anyone can send an ultimatum to the reich."

In the last six years Hitler said he had suffered much from Poland but he had not sent them an ultimatum.

"Poland chose war, and the assistance of the west told her that Germany was poorly equipped and that moreover there was social unrest," Hitler said.

"Eighteen days have passed and the fact is that they were beaten by a race of men," he thundered, while the crowd took up his enthusiasm anew and cheered.

"They have been beaten and at this moment countless columns of Pat Murphy, who fights the waves off along with thousands of other football coaches for a living, gives his boys something besides football. For instance, he gave them a mighty nice little talk Monday afternoon on the value of keeping good company.

Obie Bristow, Tate & Bristow's vice-president in charge of football, is getting his inside dope first-hand. He was out Monday giving the Steers a look-see before going to work on his script for Thursday evening's opus over KBST.

If you want some first class entertainment in the way of polo yarns, get Dr. W. B. Hardy strung out on the inauguration of the pony sport here. Doc allows that at the moment there's only one polo pony in the county, the rest being saddle horses, cow ponies or broncos.

Sunday Doc trotted out one of his bovine chasers to accustom it to the swinging of a mallet. Party of the second part—the horse in this case—failed to warm to the idea.

with the net result that Doc managed to stay on by dropping the reins, grabbing the opening in the saddle fore and aft. Even then it took a mighty straight tall and the hand of Providence to keep the eight-gon man aboard.

These polo palookas have big ideas. At this very moment they are casting about for a suitable name for their field. Doc is intrigued by Meadowbrook, after the high-cotton eastern field. Personally, we figure Cactus Gulch is more fitting.

Anytime anything is free, the public will not let the opportunity pass by. Sunday, although there was no way to accurately check the number, a sizeable group of swimmers paddled free of charge in the Munny pool on its closing day. It was estimated the number was little less than 100.

Back nine of the Munny golf course should be whipped in by good shape during the month. Monday a group of young men working under a NYA project began shaping up greens on the lower half of the course. The project runs for one month and is sort of a warm up for a proposed NYA job to construct and equip a recreational building.

Division of the high school squad into the Steers and the Shortorns strikes us as an excellent idea. Well do we remember how calloused we became from sitting on the bench so long one season that team mates called us "Judge."

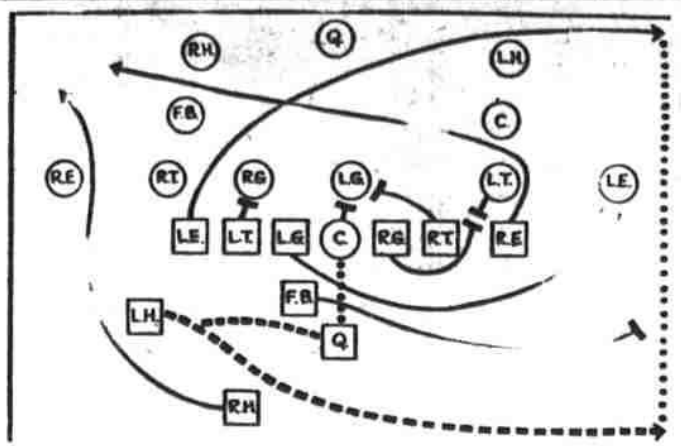

Anyhow, football is like baseball. It takes a mighty good farm system to develop a winning combination at the top. Big Spring never had a great team until material came up from the Devils.

By Jim Crowley

Notre Dame, one of the first teams to exploit the forward pass, still relies heavily on aerial attack. The reverse pass is one of the team's best gambles. The quarterback gets the ball from center and shoots out toward left end, but sneaks the ball to the left half. He runs wide to the right and passes to the left end, who has cut sharply across field. The right end also has gone down and across as an alternate.

Sweetwater used to rely on the Roosters for its source of material and when the Roosters collapsed for a few seasons, the Mustangs soon became woefully weak.

Baseball is to have one more fling—or spasm—when the Lions club and ABC club tangle Thursday night at ABC park. In case you want to see if this column is as handy with the willow as the typewriter, we have a few choice ducats we offer to first comers. The line forms to the right, please.—J. P.

'B' Team Of Gridders Formed By Murphy; First Game Is Matched

Reduction of the Steer squad and creation of a new high school grid unit was announced at football practice Monday afternoon by Pat Murphy, coach. The new team will be known as the Shortorns and will be a fill-in between the Yearlings, Junior high contingent, and the traveling squad of the Steers.

Ritchie Put To Sleep By Baer In Second Round

LUBBOCK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Babe Ritchie, 20-year-old West Texan, put all his eggs in one basket and had them smashed the first time he wandered too far afield.

The former Lubbock high school football star had engaged in but sixteen professional fights when he crawled through the ropes last night to meet Max Baer, former world heavyweight champion. Baer knocked the game youngster out in a minute and ten seconds of the second round of their scheduled ten-round bout.

The 194-pound Ritchie carried the fight in the opening round, spearing the 215-pound Livermore, Okla., veteran with lefts that sent Baer back to his corner with a very red face.

The ex-champion stormed out for the second round, however, and quickly crumpled Ritchie with a terrific barrage to the head. Ritchie took a count of nine, got up and rocked Baer with a right-hand smash that brought blood from the Californian's nostrils.

Baer came back with a right to the head, a flurry of fists that drove the Babe to the ropes, then a looping overhead right to Ritchie's face. That was the pay-off punch.

The fight drew an estimated 15,000 fans and a gate of $21,000 of which Baer received $10,000.

Baer said of Ritchie: "He's going to make a good fighter. They rushed him along too fast putting him in there with me, of course."

"I felt like lightning hit me," said Ritchie. Shortest fight on the preliminary card was that between Delmar Koch, Amarillo, and J. C. Wallace, Big Spring. Koch layin' out the Big Springer with a KO in the first round.

Loy Henry, Corpus Christi, outpointed Lacey Cason, Dallas, in a four-round feature, only fight to go the distance. George Vallas, Vicksburg, Miss., won by a technical layover Babe Hunt, Oklahoma City, in the semi-final.

Porkers, Aggies Enter The Grid Wars This Week

By the Associated Press

Two Southwest conference football squads, with opening games less than a week away, got down to brass tacks today.

The Arkansas Razorbacks polished up their goal line punch in preparation for their bid blaster Saturday against Central Oklahoma Teachers at Fayetteville.

The Texas Aggies roughed each other up in scrimmage as they drove for their Saturday battle at Oklahoma City with Oklahoma A. and M.

The Baylor Bears concentrated on their aerial game. Bob Belville, who stood out last week in the intra-squad game, got promoted by Coach Matt Bell at Southern Methodist university. Belville became the No. 1 team fullback, replacing Wally Bearden, who is out with injuries.

Coach Dana Bible told his Texas Longhorns they looked good, declaring "I think you show more smoothness and better all-around form."

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs called a temporary halt to scrimmage, something they'd been getting almost every day. The Rice Owls took things easy yesterday but returned to the grind today.

TEXAS A. & I. BEATEN, 9-0

SAN JOSE, Calif., Sept. 19 (AP)—A field goal and a touchdown in the final seven minutes gained San Jose State a 9 to 0 victory over a surprisingly stubborn football team from Texas Arts and Industries College last night.

San Jose threatened several times but couldn't score until guard Ken Cook kicked a field goal from the 16. The Spartans scored a touchdown a few minutes later after a 25-yard march, sub fullback Carlton Peregyo plunging over from the four-inch mark.

Steers 'Dig In' To Redeem Loss Of Season Opener

Pointing For Colorado City Game; Nance Suffering Trouble With Eyes

Determined that it's going to be a different story from here on out, despite a family start against Mineral Wells last Friday night, the Steer football squad buckled down to serious practice Monday in the best spirits in many a moon.

"They gave us the game down here," said Coach Pat Murphy, indicating the spot of the break in the first minute of play which resulted in the Big Spring score. "We gave it back to them right over there," and he waved to the point of an ill-advised and unsuccessful fourth down pass that Mineral Wells turned into victory.

More Seats Being Added At Stadium

Seating capacity of Steer stadium may be increased by 1,000 by Friday night, it was indicated Monday as WPA workmen began installing seats on the east stand framework.

In the first day's work, one complete section was put in and most of a half section was completed. F. W. Callahan, San Angelo, district WPA engineer, and Edmund Notes, school business manager, estimated that at the current rate of progress the job would be about finished by Friday evening when Big Spring plays Colorado City here in the second game of the season.

In addition, gravel walkways were being laid in front of both east and west stands and around to the entrance. Ground was being put into shape for installing caliche base on five tennis courts on terraces at the southwest edge of the stadium.

If the sign-painter can get to the job, line markers will be established so that spectators can follow the progress of the games with greater ease. In addition, the second coat of lime this week should make the lines much more distinct from the stands.

development over the weekend may not bode good for the Steers. Winslet Nance, hefty tackle who has been counted on to bolster the line, was out Monday with more eye trouble.

For three quarters Friday night Nance got along nicely with aid of glasses and a face guard, but in the fourth quarter his vision blurred. Murphy sent him down for a thorough examination Monday.

Otherwise the squad appeared in top shape after the opening encounter and were in fine fettle to point to Friday's game here with Colorado City.

Although the Wolves from Mitchell county could do no better than a tie against Stanton last week, neither the coaches or the boys were counting the game won.

Owen Brummett, who turned in a pretty fair game at fullback, made a typical remark: "I was terrible. I must have been off or something."

Tales of power at Midland and Odessa failed to worry the lads. They were determined to point first for Colorado City, then for Lubbock here the following Friday night and for Odessa in the first conference game on Oct. 6 at Odessa.

Herschel Shelton, assistant to Murphy, had the linemen tied up in a rough and ready drill, insisting that they charge out faster on offense and defense. After a verbal scrimmage with Murphy on the offense, it's a safe bet that three men will never again follow a Steer ball-carrier to the goal line without looking around to do some blocking. That one little mental lapse snatched victory out of the local crowd in the last seconds of the game Friday.

When and if the Cincinnati Reds win the National league pennant, a large part of the credit must go to Manager Bill McKechnie's ability to find something useful in players who have been cast aside as useless by other teams.

McKechnie Is Making Use Of 'Cast-Offs'

The race in the senior circuit has narrowed down to a contest between the Reds and time. The St. Louis Cardinals still are in there, but every day the Reds hang onto their three and a half game lead makes the job that much tougher for the Cards.

And to help his club hang on, McKechnie has done some surprising things. His prize exhibit, of course, is Bucky Walters, the converted infielder who never really showed his pitching ability until this year. Then Bill picked up Al Simmons for the punch that might be left in his bat; he grabbed off Johnny Nigglering to strengthen his pitching staff for the final drive, and in his latest move, called in the American association home run king, Vince DiMaggio, as soon as Kansas City was through the season.

Vince won't be eligible for the World series, but wise Bill figures "he ought to do us some good" before the seasons end.

DiMaggio broke in as a pinch hitter yesterday and struck out. But in spite of that, the Reds moved a shade nearer the title. They split a doubleheader with Boston, and the Cards did likewise against the New York Giants.

For a while yesterday, it appeared the Reds might jack up their margin. That was after they had beaten the Bees 4-1 while the Cards were losing to the Giants, 6-2.

But in the second sections of those twin bills Cincinnati lost 6-4 while the Cardinals let loose with their heaviest gun to bury the Giants, 15-5.

With the Dodgers and Cubs, rivals for third place, idle, the only other National league game saw the Pirates trim the Phillies, 7-4. In a contest marked by the extension of Paul Waner's hitting streak through 19 games.

In the American league, things went back to normal as the tall and St. Louis Browns bowed to the champion New York Yankees, 6-3. The Cleveland Indians dusted off the Athletics, 9-4, and thus drew up even with the idle Chicago White Sox in third place. In the other engagement, Washington's Dutch Leonard hung up No. 19 with a seven-hit, 4-2 trimming of the Detroit Tigers.

Notice travels about one foot faster per second for every degree increase in temperature.

'Ain't No Use Me Foolin' Around With Him,' Says The Champion

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

DETROIT, Sept. 19 (AP)—Joe Louis, ready to defend the world's heavyweight championship against Bob Pastor tomorrow night, has contempt and hatred in his heart for his challenger.

Personal feeling rarely has played any part in Louis' fights, but the negro titleholder has no liking for Pastor because of statements attributed to him and his manager, James J. Johnston, since Pastor surprisingly stayed the ten-round limit with Joe in New York in January, 1937.

Louis is supremely confident of stopping Pastor within five rounds. "I'm going to catch Pastor just as fast as I can. There ain't no use me foolin' around with him. The sooner I catch him the sooner my work will be finished."

20-Round Bout
Tomorrow night's battle, scheduled for 20 rounds, will be the first over that route in 25 years, since Jess Willard won the heavyweight crown from Jack Johnson in Havana in 1915. Supposedly, that distance favors Pastor, who is convinced he will out-finish Louis because of his defensive skill and experience gained in longer fights.

Pastor, idle since last Thursday in obvious effort to gain weight, breaks camp at Brighton, Mich., today.

Reporting an advance sale of $300,000, Promoter Mike Jacobs expressed confidence the fight would attract a gate of at least $400,000 at Briggs Stadium, home of the Detroit Tigers.

The park has a seating capacity of 65,000 at prices ranging from $2.50 for bleacher seats to $7.50 for ringstands.

The third man in the ring will be chosen from these three: Elmer (Slim) McClelland, Sam Hennessey and Clarence Rosen, all Detroiters. The general impression is that one of the first two will be chosen.

Louis and Pastor will weigh in at the Michigan state fair grounds here at noon tomorrow. Pastor expects to scale 157 pounds and Louis about 211.

Yearlings In Rehearsal

Thirty youngsters, who nurse ambitions of someday fighting it out for a berth on the first team of the Steer football team, turned out Monday afternoon for the first practice session of the Yearlings—junior high team.

Only boys who are in the seventh or eighth grade, that is to say possessors of less than four credits, are eligible for the team.

Coach John Daniel had some likely looking material in the bunch, but the majority were small as seventh and eighth graders normally are.

Three of the candidates have been working out with the Steers since the opening of the season and are in reasonably good shape.

Several games have been scheduled for the yearlings. Two tilts with the San Angelo juniors are on tap, one with Sweetwater, Lamesa and Lubbock. Others may be arranged.

Bigger Than Party

The American public and press have responded warmly to the plea of President Roosevelt for national unity and non-partisanship in approaching the problems presented by the war.

No one has a larger opportunity to develop non-partisanship than the president himself. The American form of government makes it difficult to set up an all-party government or even a national government, as Mr. Chamberlain has done in Britain by giving cabinet posts to the chief dissidents within his own party, Mr. Churchill and Mr. Eden. But the president can continue to call into close and constant consultation the principal leaders of the opposition, both democratic and republican. His summoning of Landon and Knox was a step in the right direction.

For their part, opposition leaders, who left American foreign policy in a negative and dangerous position on the chance that there would be no war now have an opportunity to rise above partisanship. For the republicans, particularly, war has provided a bridge over which they can retreat from a position which probably a majority of the rank and file of the party never supported. It is known that some republican members of congress who opposed repeal of the arms embargo in the last session did so more from the feeling that the role of an opposition is to oppose than from considerations of wise public policy.

Already more than a few republicans have expressed willingness to approach the new situation in a statesmanlike attitude. A change of party position can be easily justified by changed conditions. And if party leadership does not overcome the temptation to be merely obstructive, changes of public opinion in America under the impact of events can quite conceivably leave a stranded on a perilous plateau of isolationism.

The need for unity and the opportunity for non-partisanship are so great that politicians should have no trouble in being statesmen.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—Local sightseers on the most colossal tragedy ever unreeled—the one production for which nobody wants screen credit:

Lights slicing through the night sky at a Chinese theatre preview—and memories of a similar night years ago when airplanes zoomed overhead bombing the crowds—with gardenias...Hordes of fans cheering movie stars—instead of departing troops...Hordes of humanity confident that the piercing beams from the revolving arcs would reveal nothing deadlier in the air than a high fog...

Headlines...And people who usually think about release dates and Big 1's and percentage deals were gasping and dangling on them...

Weeks when movie people abroad, who went there to lux and super-lux, were glad to get a ride—any kind—just so it was pointed west...Days when the only glamor girl they were really interested in was the Lady in New York harbor who carries a torch—but doesn't croon about it...

Days when, practically without precedent, it was actually a tough job to get anybody to talk about motion pictures—because everybody wanted to talk about...headlines...

Days when the war-talk became so habitual that the associate producers set ultimatums instead of starting dates; when story conferences were "negotiations"; when plain inter-office memos became "diplomatic notes"; when Garbo could have talked right out loud—and found few takers for her long hidden pearls of wisdom.

A day when Isa Miranda, who has relatives over there, collapsed on a set—from the strain of the war-of-nerves and too much bulletin-flash listening... And David Niven, the Scotsman who went to Sandhurst and was to be called when the British got in, was just one of the actors who paced the halls, waiting, waiting, waiting...

Wonder what Francis Lederer, the peace-advocate and one-time Czech whose country was Munich-ed, thinks about it all...Days when even the vacant-stare, peroxide-blonde chorine I saw to-day, actually reading the front page instead of the movie chatter and the racing form, can spell D-A-N-Z-I-G—and doesn't think it's what Zorina, Astaire and Eleanor Fowell do for a living...

Days of trial and woe for the movie press agents...Imagine how they've felt trying to interest city editors in yarns about Priscilla Lane's favorite food or Ann Sheridan's "comp" at the moment—when even a synthetic feud (like the B. Davis-M. Hopkins thing for "The Old Maid") doesn't get a nod...And a Hopkins divorce trip to Reno, even accompanied by Kay Francis, matrimony bent, gets a couple of inches of space...Lantern pinks...

One day when a P.A. pouted at this desk, just long enough to inquire, "How does it feel, fella, to be writing something really important now—like Hollywood stuff?"

Today when—huh? What did that guy say?

Life's Darkest Moment

After A Man's Heart

by JEAN RANDALL

Chapter 13
PARENTAL PRESSURE
 Buff's parents arrived in Boulder the next day, Lance raging at having to come for his recalcitrant daughter, Eleanor uneasy over a situation which she did not in the least understand. Buff made it all clear to them both in half an hour's talk.

"Tim needs me," she said. "And I—I need him. That's really all there is to it, dear."

Lance, hitherto restrained by his wife's hand on his, burst into exclamatory speech.
 "All? All? It's neither the beginning nor the ending, Buff, are you sure you're well? You may be coming down with one of those lingering illnesses; walking typhoid, perhaps. At any rate, I want to see this fellow; ask him some questions. Who does he think he is, anyway, that he expects to marry my daughter on such short acquaintance, and without my consent? Why, I've never so much as laid eyes on him! Your mother and I—"

Eleanor again silenced him. "There's really only one question to be asked, Buff darling. Do you love him?"

Buff raised clear eyes to hers. "I don't know, Eleanor, truly I don't. All I know is that I want to take care of him. He's been so terribly hurt—her own sensitive face reflected Tim's misery—and he has nobody but George Weekes to stand by him. And—I do need an occupation!"

"Marriage should be something more than an occupation, dear. It is an occupation, of course; a full time job for any woman. But unless there's romance—glamor—to start one off with, I doubt if it would be bearable."

"What's the man's name?" he demanded. "Corliss—oh, yes, I remember you wrote me about him. Tell me why he's been hurt. Why should he be hurt? He's a grown man, isn't he? Men don't allow themselves to be hurt. Men are first of all—that is, if they amount to anything!—self-reliant. Look at me, for example. Do I need help? Does anyone look after me? On the contrary I spend my life protecting my wife and daughter."

His wife and daughter exchanged smiles. Buff launched into a detailed account of what had happened to Tim. She knew and counted upon her father's easily aroused sympathy for the unfairly treated. Nor was she disappointed in this case. By the time she had finished, Lance was boiling with rage at Iris DeMuth, her partner in deception, the entire citizenry of Boulder, its government, its local ordinances and state laws. He was with difficulty restrained from hunting up a lawyer and filing charges against several people, George Weekes included.

"He should have realized what was happening," he said illogically. "He was here while poor Corliss was in Idaho Springs, you admit that yourself!"

Eleanor remained unmoved by the story of Tim's various misfortunes. Usually the softest-hearted of women, she was definitely antagonistic toward this man who had usurped her parents' place in Buff's heart.

'Incredibly Stubborn'
 "If it is her heart and not her maternal complex," she mused. "Heaven knows I want a happy marriage for my child, but how do I know this would be happy? It doesn't sound so. The only thing in the man's favor is that so far he has held out against Buff. She paused to reflect on this amazing fortitude. She and Lance knew what it meant to oppose the girl when she set her mind as well as her conscience on any action. He really must be a strong person, she admitted reluctantly. "Or else incredibly stubborn."

Mrs. Webb greeted the Corliss with joy, declaring it was a real pleasure to have the artist to cook for. She served them a lunch which has held out against Buff's humor, and he set forth to call on Tim in his pleasant mood.
 "I wish he wouldn't go," Buff said unhappily. "This is my own problem. I don't want any parental pressure applied. If Lance chooses to play the heavy father—"

"Darling, don't you know him better than that? He'll probably fall into conversation with Mr. Corliss—"

"Well, Tim, then," she sighed. He'll probably get Tim to talking of mining and miners and before either realizes what is happening Lance will have whipped out his notebook and started some little sketches. Then one of two things will happen—as you should know by this time; either Lance will walk away absent-mindedly, without remembering even to thank Tim, or he'll hook a friendly arm through his and bring him along back here to dinner. The one thing you can depend upon his not doing is to ask Tim his intentions."

Buff shook her head mournfully. "I know them all too well. He's made them perfectly clear to me. That Iris person has turned him definitely against marriage. Added to that, he's in debt and he thinks I'm an heiress. Also he believes me to have left kindergarten year before last and consequently I'm too young to be taken seriously."

"He knows about your plays—your short stories?"
 The girl shrugged. "The achievements of a precocious child—if he thinks of them at all." She left her chair and came to curl up on the floor at her mother's feet. "Eleanor tell me! How did you know whether you were in love with Lance or not?"

The older woman put a tender hand on the golden head.
 "Darling, if you're in any doubt about the matter you simply aren't, that's all. Being fond of a man, wanting to look after him—that's not enough. The old rule of not considering whether you can live without him still seems to me the best touchstone. Buff, can you think what you'd do if you were to die?"

There was a moment's silence, then Buff raised a flushed face.
 "Head Over Heels!"

"Not happily," she said, her eyes meeting Eleanor's squarely. "If that's really the touchstone then I'm sunk—head over heels about Tim. When I wake in the morning I try to imagine where he is, what he's doing. When I plan the meals I think what he'd like or not like even though I know he'll not be here to eat them. When he and George come to dinner I seem to hear only what Tim says, though it's George who does most of the talking. A—a sort of light comes into the room with him, the sound of his voice makes me shiver a little. His face—and I know with my mind that he's really not at all handsome—seems to me the most attractive I've ever seen. Does—does all this make sense to you, Eleanor?"

"There's no sense in an attack of first love, Buff dear. I wish I could feel this is only that; an attack of sentimental measles from which you'll recover."

"But you don't think so?"
 Mrs. Corliss's face was sad. "I'm afraid not, my Buff. You always were a loyal little thing. You've held on to your friendships through travel, change of any kind, oh, how I wish I'd never let you go out to close up the ranch!"

"Wait till you see Tim," was the confident reply. "Then you'll be dancing perfect jigs of rapture that fate sent him my way."

Not even a mental picture of her self indulging in this form of activity could banish the look of worry from Mrs. Corliss's face.
 "Buff, darling, before this goes any farther—before you settle down to what really amounts to a siege—use your common sense. If this man doesn't love you—and it would seem that he doesn't in the face of what he's done and said—the wise thing, the only thing to do is to leave here as soon as possible. A change of scene, new friends, your playwriting—you need them all in cure of what may be merely infatuation for the only man who's needed you besides Lance; or for what may be genuine love, unrequited."

"Mother—Eleanor started a little at the unusual form of address—"Don't you believe it's really the woman who selects the man rather than the other way about? Think back to your own girlhood. Hadn't you decided on Lance as a husband ages before he—proposed to you?"

An unwonted pink crept into the older woman's face.
 "Yes; but then he'd been paying me marked attention, Buff; courting me, as we called it then."

"Nevertheless you had settled it in your own mind before he spoke. You made it easy for him to see you. You employed all sorts of feminine arts to win him even though you weren't honest enough with yourself in those days to admit what you were doing. True?"

"True, I'm afraid. But Lance wanted me, and this Tim Corliss—"

"I'm going to want me, too. You wait," predicted Buff confidently. Continued tomorrow.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—The sugar boarding that began in this country in the first week of the war is a sample of the sort of baseless frenzy that war can breed.
 There is plenty of sugar. A survey of resources available to this country indicates there is far more than we can consume. Potential production is far greater than during the World War. An untouched productive capacity has been beyond world needs ever since the World War. And yet—

Housewives in Portland, Maine, cleaned out store stocks in an excited effort to get a spare supply in their own hands.

Washington, D. C. grocers jacked the price up about two cents a pound almost overnight.

Wholesalers pleaded they could not get supplies from brokers or manufacturers.

A few factories, which had already sold out their annual quota under the sugar marketing act, yelled that the government was causing an artificial sugar shortage by preventing sale of the surplus.

Back of it, of course, was the recollection that sugar prices rocketed to 24 cents a pound when we were in the World War.

NO REPEAT SHOW
 Department of agriculture specialists insist there isn't the remotest chance of a repetition of this rise. They concede an increase over the low prices of recent years may be sustained for some time. Without other comment, however, they point out that the president has indicated he will act against profiteering.

And in the case of sugar he has already played an ace by suspending the sugar quota act. Because the price of sugar in the United States is higher than the world price, in spite of the war, sugar can pour in here by the shipload now that the bars are down.

Here is the situation in a sugar-shell:
 To stabilize the American market and protect the domestic industry from low-cost island production, a quota system was adopted in 1934. For 1939, U. S. consumption was estimated at 6,755,386 tons.

Of this total, Puerto Rico was permitted to supply 806,642 tons. That would leave her with 300,000 tons of unsold surplus on hand and 300,000 tons left in the cane.

Hawaii was allowed to ship 948,218 tons here. The Philippine islands could ship 1,041,023 tons, but as the islands ship only the 800,000 tons which can come in duty free, there would have been a big surplus, as her production is above a million tons.

Cuba, the world's big supplier, was allowed to send 1,932,343 tons. Her 1938 production was 3,379,884 tons, and she has several hundred thousand tons uncut in the fields, to be harvested when a market develops. Incidentally, her productive capacity is at least 4,000,000 tons. She virtually reached that figure in 1924 and could hit it again in a trifle over a year by using more fertilizer and by planting ground now idle or in other crops.

HOME-GROWN SUGAR
 United States beet sugar producers have a quota of 1,966,719. Until 1938 they rarely filled it. They have consistently fallen nearly 200,000 tons short. Last year, however, they exceeded the quota by nearly 500,000 tons and will slightly exceed it again this year. That provides another source of surplus sugar.

U. S. cane sugar producers, with a quota of 424,727 tons, produced 580,000 tons last year and probably will exceed the quota this year.

While the potential surpluses of other food supplies are not as great as that of sugar, nevertheless the department of agriculture found adequate or surplus supplies of 17 other major food sources—all within this country. And production could be increased in any group within a year.

However, the department expects that scads of families will stop by the grocery to pack a few more pounds of this and that—just in case. Figures won't pound a war scare.

NEW YORK—The New York home offices of the major motion picture companies are afraid that before Christmas half of their staffs will be let out. The declaration of war was a wet sponge across their order sheets, and if Canada should go on a war footing, following Britain and France, a terrific foreign sales would be eliminated.

Already most of the big-budget pictures have been cancelled. From this day on the top pictures produced by Hollywood will not go more than a third or half their former costs. It was from the foreign fields that most of Hollywood's net profits were derived. The American audiences served merely to cancel the production costs.

In the light of this, "Gone With the Wind" is apt to have tragic consequences for the people who sank three million dollars into its production. Even if Britain and other warring nations do use the picture, no money will be permitted to leave those countries. That is the grim actuality being faced by those who gamble for great fortunes by sinking fortunes in the cinema.

In the New York offices on Broadway most of the employees are a jittery lot. They read their mail with their hats and coats on. If a memo from "upstairs" comes down, if a call comes through from Hollywood, they hold their breaths. Each slam of the door may mean a one-way ticket into unemployment.

It may surprise you, as it did me, to learn the significance of the foreign field. I always thought that America paid the cost and the gravy, and that foreign rentals on films was just additional sugar.

Apparently most of the margin of profit comes from abroad. Let's say, for example, that a picture costs a million dollars. You have to sell a lot of tickets before the percentage the producing company gets is sufficient to equal the full expenditure. But once this is achieved, the producers are happy. The rentals from Europe, Asia, Australia and South America are net gains. If you remove these fields, or even an appreciable portion of them, prospects for a return on investments already beyond recall are pretty dim.

All of this means that stars will have to be cut from three to two thousand dollars a week. Many of the middle men will have to be eliminated. In times of stress, heads in the home offices are always the first to fall.

What this means to you who devour the Hollywood product, my confere in Hollywood, Robbin Coons, already has pointed out. The million-dollar productions will disappear and in the places will come the small-budget pictures.

But we have an idea that act producers, directors, writers and casts, working on limited funds, will try themselves and the result—and we will venture a ticket to the Radio City Music Hall on it if you are in a betting mood—will be better entertainment than you have had in a long time. Wasn't there something somewhere about necessity being the mother of somebody or other?

WELLES HAS TROUBLE IN GETTING A RIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Orson Welles wiggled his thumb for nearly a half hour today on one of America's most crowded highways but not one passing tourist offered the hitch-hiking actor a lift.

Welles, whose mimic war broadcast a year ago caused panics all over the country, was trying to catch a plane for Hollywood from Newark, N. J., when his taxi broke down.

He had grown a new beard for the movies which probably didn't help him any in trying to win the sympathies of passing motorists.

Finally the driver of a garbage truck took pity on him, but he caught the plane only because its departure was delayed seven minutes, for another cause.

Cavern Near Boerne Soon To Be Opened As New Attraction

Local People Interested In Project Regarded As Equal To Carlsbad As Place Of Natural Scenic Wonder

Texas has as a natural wonder a cavern of its own. True, it is not yet a Carlsbad Cavern; in fact it doesn't even have a name yet; but it could develop into as great an attraction as Carlsbad, in the opinion of those who have seen it in the present stage of development.

A great deal of this development is to be the result of Big Spring capital and labor. Two of the owners of the project are Big Spring citizens, R. T. Finer and J. C. Velvin, while a Big Spring contractor, Ode Grafe, has the contract for putting the cavern into condition to show its wonders to the public.

This work includes the building of approximately a mile of concrete surfaced road from one of Kendall county's roads to the cavern, located a trifle more than ten miles northeast of Boerne, which is on the main highway between San Antonio and Fredericksburg, one of Texas' most traveled highways.

Another former Big Spring citizen, E. D. McIver, who moved to San Antonio from here in July to take charge of the promotion and getting the project into operation, is fast resting the work done to where they expect to open the project to the public some time within the next two to four weeks.

Some more of the work includes a winding descent carved and blasted out of practically solid limestone to enable visitors to the cavern to walk up and down to the level where the many attractions can be shown them. This floor is approximately 100 feet below the surface of the earth, and the entrance is at one of the highest points on a hill that stands high among the other hills of this beautiful, rugged country.

A concession house, located near the entrance to the cavern, should be completed about the time of the opening, and is of the beautiful native stone which abounds in that part of Texas.

Underground River The explored part of the cavern and that part of it which will be opened to the public shortly, is some seven hundred feet in length, and is divided partly into four chambers.

In addition, there is an underground river, which has already been traversed some two or three hundred feet in one direction and about three-quarters of a mile in another, and which was found Sunday last by a party from Big Spring to contain at least one bone of some supposedly prehistoric monster.

This explored part contains hundreds of stalactites and stalagmites, the water-formed formations which have made Carlsbad so famous. A major difference is that while Carlsbad has mostly one color in such formations, a pure white, the Boerne cavern has at least six different shades of such formations, mingled and intermingled to make an almost unbelievably lovely sight.

The owners are informed that in addition to a greater variance of colors, such as pure white, pink, red, brown, reddish brown and green, the size of some of the formations is considerably greater than those found in Carlsbad. Several of them are approximately 15 feet in diameter and most of the large ones have grown together from the ceiling of the cavern to the floor, that sometimes being a distance of 25 to 30 feet. This means, according to information from geologists, that many millions of years have been required to bring these formations to their present state. And they are all still forming, according to the same authority, because water is still dripping from them.

Ideal Temperature

The underground river cannot be traversed any farther than mentioned at the present time due to a vast number of stalactite formations extending from the roof of the cavern to the waters edge. Here they abruptly stop because the circulation of the water prevents further elongation.

Another of the claims made by the owners for the cavern, in addition to its ready accessibility and moderate depth, is the ideal temperature in its depths, 70 to 72 degrees, which makes it ideal for exploration—not too cool to spend all the time desired to examine it, yet cool enough that the moderate exercise necessary for its exploration will make for comfort.

The owners expect to start a general publicity and advertising campaign within the near future and their present plans are to conduct a statewide campaign of advertising and to let the first visitors engage in a contest to decide on a name for this wonder of nature, which Texas can soon show for its own.

More To Be Explored

The cavern is thought to contain additional floor levels and perhaps many more formations of a worthwhile nature to be explored later after that part already explored has been opened to the public.

The opening through which the cavern was first traversed was just a small hole in the limestone rock, about three feet across and five feet long, that extended perpendicularly for about 75 feet and then sloped off more gradually to the cavern floor. The floor itself was covered to the depth of several feet with a clay formation that had to be covered. Rock was crushed above the ground and lowered to the floor, approximately 100 feet, and there carried by wheelbarrows to the length and breadth of the cavern to form walks along which visitors might be comfortable and dry while examining the sights.

The party of visitors at the cavern Sunday included several from San Antonio and Boerne and Mr. and Mrs. Finer and Mr. and Mrs. M. K. House of Big Spring.

Frances Willard's School A Shrine

The little one-room country schoolhouse has come to be a symbol of America's zeal for education for all the nation, but probably no such little schoolhouse was ever the center of so much interest and tender affection as was the tiny white building on the bank of Rock River near Janesville, Wisconsin, on August 12.

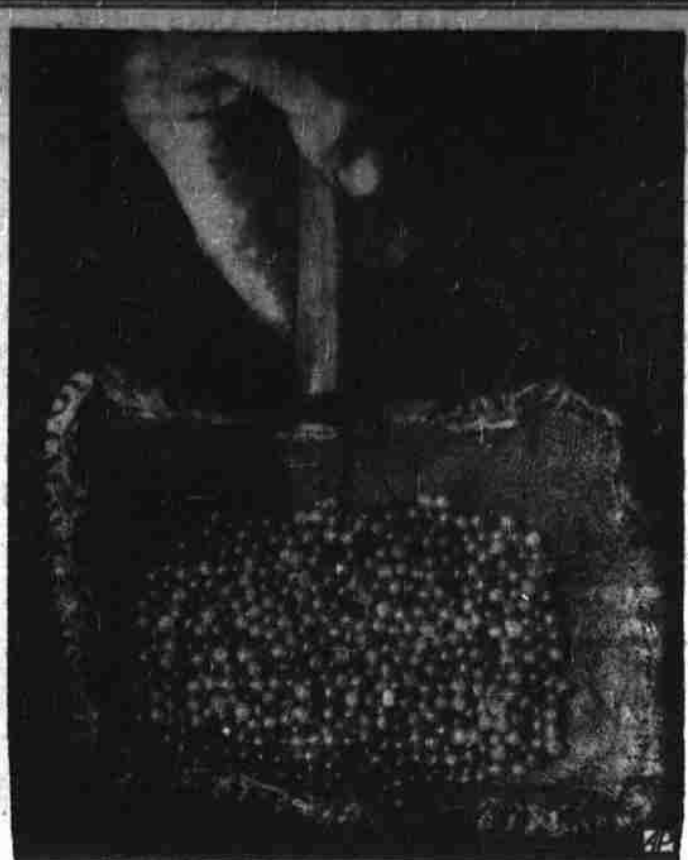

As one of the many celebrations the world over in this Centenary year of Frances Willard, on that day, about seven hundred men and women, from ten states, made a pilgrimage to this shrine which was not only the first school the child, Frances, ever attended but also the first school in which she, as a young woman, taught.

It was eighty-five years ago that Mr. Willard had the little building erected on his farm land and hired a Yale graduate as a teacher so that his daughters, Mary and Frances, and his son, Oliver, as well as the children from neighboring farms might have an opportunity for such instruction. In 1858, after Frances had been a student at the Northwestern Female College in Evanston, she went back and taught one term in that room which had been the scene of her first thrilling days in a real schoolhouse with other children.

Fortunately the little frame building had stood the test of time and a few years ago, through the efforts of the Rock county W. C. T. U. and the Janesville Gazette, the local newspaper which sponsored the campaign for the necessary funds, the Frances Willard Schoolhouse, as it is now known, became the property of the county W. C. T. U. And with the same spirit of reverence and enthusiasm that Janesville had shown in preserving this memorial of its most famous woman, the entire city entered into the plans for the pilgrimage forty-eight ago and invited White Ribboners, Daughters of the American Revolution, and other interested friends from all the surrounding states. New Real Estate License Act Is Explained In Questions, Answers

Questions and answers pertaining to the new Real Estate Dealers License Act, which goes in effect in Texas Thursday of this week, are published herewith for the information of the many persons affected. The information comes from the Texas Real Estate Forum, official publication of the Texas Real Estate association.

Q. "Who is to administer the act and what machinery will be used?" A. "The securities division of the secretary of state department at Austin. Judge D. Q. "What constitutes a dealer?" A. "Any individual, partnership, or corporation who directly or indirectly or for part or all time sells or attempts to sell for themselves or for others or engages in leases and rentals or who lends money on real estate or attempts to do any of the above acts is defined as a dealer."

Q. "Do property owners have to obtain licenses?" A. Q. "Are banks required to obtain licenses?" A. "Banks are exempt when they are performing the functions set out in their charters but when they broker loans and real estate or do any of the acts of a real estate dealer except those set out in their charters, they must obtain a license."

Q. "What is the penalty for operating without license?" A. "A maximum of $500.00 fine or a year in jail or both."

Q. "In case of a dealer's license being cancelled, can he appeal to a court for relief and if so, to what court does he appeal?" A. "Upon cancellation of license a dealer may appeal to a court in his own county and is not compelled to go to Austin for a hearing."

Q. "Is a dealer required to maintain a definite place of business?" A. "Yes, a dealer must maintain a definite place of business, but it is not necessary for him to have a downtown office. He may have an office in his home provided that he actually designates and maintains this office as a place of business and displays his license in such office."

Q. "After the effective date of the act, is a dealer required to have his listings in writing and signed by the property owner?" A. "It is not a violation of the law to obtain listings verbally, but a dealer may not recover in court unless he has the written authority of a listing from the owner."

Q. "For what causes may dealer's license be revoked?" A. "(1) Knowingly making any substantial misrepresentations, or (2) Making any false promises with intent to influence, persuade, or induce, or (3) Pursuing a continued and flagrant course of misrepresentations or the making of false promises through agents or salesmen, or advertising or otherwise, or (4) Acting for more than one party in a transaction without the knowledge or consent of all parties there-

(1) Procured a license under this act for himself or any salesman by misrepresenting a any properties, terms, values, policies, or services of the business conducted, or (2) Has been convicted of felony, knowledge of which the administrator of the securities division of the office of the secretary of state did not have at the time of last issuing a license to such licensee, or (3) Willfully disregarded or violated any of the provisions of the law, or (4) Demanded from an owner a commission to which he is not justly entitled, or (5) Paid commissions or fee to, or divided commissions or fees with anyone not licensed as a real estate dealer or salesman, or (6) Used any trade name or insignia of membership in any real estate organization of which he is not a member, or (7) Accepted, given or charged any undisclosed commission, rebate, or direct profit on expenditures made for a principal, or (8) Solicited, sold, or offered for sale real property by offering "free lot" or conducting lotteries for the purpose of influencing a purchaser or prospective purchaser of real property, or (9) Acted in the dual capacity of broker and undisclosed principal in any transaction, or (10) Guaranteed, authorized, or permitted any person to guarantee future profits which may result from the resale of real property, or (11) Placed a sign on any property offering it for sale or for rent without the written consent of the owner or his authorized agent, or (12) Induced any party to a contract of sale or lease to break such contract for the purpose of substituting in lieu thereof a new contract with another principal, or (13) Negotiated the sale, exchange or lease of any real property directly with an owner or lessor knowing that such owner or lessor had a written outstanding contract granting exclusive agency in connection with such property with another real estate broker, or (14) Offered real property for sale or for lease without the knowledge and consent of the owner or his authorized agent, or any terms other than those authorized by the owner or his authorized agent, or (15) Published advertising whether printed, radio, display, or any of any other nature which was misleading, or inaccurate in any material particular, or in any way has (16) Knowingly withheld from or inserted in any statement of account or invoice any statement that made it inaccurate in any material particular, or (17) Published or circulated unjustified or unwarranted threats of legal proceedings which tended to or had the effect of harassing competitors or intimidating their customers.

This section of this act shall not be construed to relieve any person or company from civil liability or from criminal prosecution under this act or under the laws of this state.

The Russian word for red, krasny, also means fine, beautiful, or pretty. Thus Russians speak of a red horse, a red girl, a red house. Moscow's Red Square was so named by Ivan the Terrible—and not by the 1917 revolutionaries.

Old-Timers On Mound For 3rd Playoff Tilt

By FELIX H. McKNIGHT

PORT WORTH, Sept. 18 (AP)—Two old-timers with all the tricks ED (Beartack) Greer and Clayland Touchstone, are down for the dueling tonight when Dallas and Fort Worth, tied at one all in the Texas league playoff titular playoff, open here.

Greer, "Uncle Slug" to the home-folk, has knocked off the Dallas Rebels six times in six starts the past season while Touchstone has whipped Fort Worth three times and lost once.

But it was a youngster who supplied the punch in the series' second game last night, first baseman Roy Mort of Dallas whaling a double with one away in the ninth to score Rabbit Rigby with the winning run in a 5-4 battle before 7,300 fans at Dallas.

Dallas errors, born of over anxiousness, kept Fort Worth a step ahead through the seventh frame, despite some noble slugging by Shanty Bill Cronin and shortstop Jimmy Levey, but the Rebels kept pecking away and finally won out.

Both Joe Demoran of Dallas and Stan Corbett of Fort Worth, starting pitchers, went out in the seventh. Little Sal Glatto getting credit for the victory and southpaw Bill Yocke, the loss.

Trend singled and Cronin drove out a double to score the first Dallas run in the second. The Catlins hit in the fourth on McDowell's

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to cure it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk" and "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

MODERN CARS demand a MODERN OIL

USE

THE MOTOR of your modern car is a marvelous product of engineering genius. But it would be literally impossible for your modern motor to deliver its superb performance with an inferior motor oil in the crankcase. Higher compressions, new, lighter metals, speeds which take your breath away, narrower clearances between pistons and cylinder walls, even streamlining, have combined to make necessary a lubricating oil which will stand up to the job asked of it, leave the motor clean, contribute to low operating temperatures. Balanced 997—product of continuously improved processes—is just such an oil—it's as modern as the streamlined car you drive.

With 997 in the crankcase, consumption is low; the engine is clean; the motor operates at low temperatures; and Humble's improved manufacturing processes eliminate those substances which oxidize to form the sticky gums, varnish-like substances and sludge which run up repair bills.

Try this modern motor oil in your car. Stop at the nearest Humble sign, drain and refill with Humble 997—a modern motor oil, balanced for performance. No increase in price.

HUMBLE 997 MOTOR OIL

him rapidly. He was only 26 in 1897 when he became president of the Carnegie Steel company and in three years raised its profits from $7,000,000 to $40,000,000.

The late J. Pierpont Morgan made him president of the newly-formed United States Steel corporation in 1901, but two years later Schwab tore up a million-dollar-a-year contract because he said he was tired of having "too many bosses."

Then Schwab put $15,000,000 of his own money and his limitless energy into the founding of Bethlehem Steel.

With the aid of his protégé, Eugene Grace, Schwab built the company into a steel empire valued in the hundreds of millions during the World War and the post-war boom period.

Schwab, a super salesman himself, sold $100,000,000 worth of war supplies to Great Britain and $75,000,000 worth to Russia. A business legend credits him during that time with securing the world's largest bribe, a reported $100,000,000 offer by the German government to stop selling steel to the Allies.

He sold millions of dollars worth of naval armament to the United States government and was drafted by President Wilson in 1918 to speed the building of hundreds of ships as director general of the Emergency Fleet corporation.

Throughout life, Schwab played as hard as he worked and seemed to get as much pleasure out of giving away and spending his money as amassing it.

Schwab crossed the Atlantic some 70 times in European jaunts. His hobbies were golf and reckless rambles of bridge.

As he aged, he complained some times of the burden of wealth, recalled he had been happiest when he and his wife lived in a cottage on a modest income.

Often Schwab philosophized on his own success and attributed it chiefly to luck.

"The men at the top are no different from other men," he once said. "They're merely had more opportunity."

Hitler's Talk

Foels are retreating." Hitler cited figures to back up his assertions that thousands of prisoners had been taken and said it was only a matter of hours before the Poles would be completely beaten.

"The statements have been shown what the German army can do and now they ought to have the proper point of view."

"The German troops have done their duty on the land as well as in the air," Hitler declared.

'We Will Give Bomb Against Bomb'
Germany always has been invincible, he said, and the Germans have shown again their invincibility in this war with their unswerving weapons, their motorized units and their great air force.

"We will give bomb against bomb, not only one but 500 bombs." The crowd roared its approval.

It must be admitted, he said, that the Poles were responsible for many atrocities.

"Women were massacred, men were massacred, and their eyes were stabbed out and they were killed when they lay wounded," he asserted.

He said he had given orders to the air force to conduct their warfare humanely, but they had been ambushed, he declared.

"Here also will my patience come to an end," he said.

Russia entered Poland only to protect her minorities, Hitler said. The attempted agreement between Russia and England had failed, he continued, but Germany and Russia had come to an agreement.

"But I wish to make one explanation," he said. "Russia will remain what it is, and Germany will remain what it is."

"We have made the greatest and best arrangement between ourselves," he said.

"The nightmare of the British statesmen should now be dispelled," he said, referring to what he described as their charges that he aimed at world conquest.

"Our interests are very limited, but we shall protect them against any man, and that we will not be allowed to let ourselves be toyed with in this respect, I think the past eighteen days have shown."

"Russia and Germany will settle this situation and this will result in the removal of the tensions."

Germany was described as wanting to "achieve a lasting peace."

visory council today to discuss farm and food supply situations.

Mr. Roosevelt issued an executive order providing for an increase of 2,000 men in the coast guard. It was understood the addition was necessitated by the extensive patrol of the Atlantic by coast guard and naval vessels, designed to watch activities of belligerent war vessels in the approaches to the United States and the Panama canal.

4. Discussion of administration proposals to revise the neutrality law continued, with Senator Borah (R-Isho), outspoken foe of the suggested changes, contending a rift had developed in the ranks of administration supporters as a result of the recent signs of friendliness between Germany, Russia and Japan.

where, it was said, they might go to Paris.

President Ignace Moscicki entrained last night for Cracow, near the Bulgarian frontier, where he was given permission to reside with Foreign Minister Josef Beck. Beck left here by motor and Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz departed by way of Bilzka, in the Carpathian mountains.

Soviet forces apparently planned to occupy the territory along the entire length of the Polish-Rumanian frontier. German troops were reported about 30 miles west of Kutly.

Polish refugees offered an increasing problem to Rumanian authorities. The Cernauti chief of police estimated at least 100,000 already had crossed.

Polish staff officers and foreign military observers estimated Polish army losses during the 18 days of bitter fighting at 50,000 to 100,000 killed. The same sources estimated German losses at 35,000 to 50,000 killed.

Poles Stand In Defense Of Heights

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
GDYNIA, Poland, Sept. 19 (AP)—Some 2,000 or 3,000 Polish troops were desperately waging a fight against odds today on the heights west of Gdynia, known as Ochota, and in the village of Ochotko because as some captives said, "We are waiting for the British to arrive."

Eyewitnesses watched the battle from a distance of only two miles, on the eastern height above Gdynia known as Steinerberg.

Germany's armed might on land, sea and air pounded away at the Polish positions.

Some 60 correspondents from the four corners of the globe saw the Germans advance in three waves on Ochota height. Each time during our one hour's stay they won some 10 yards more of hotly contested ground. Each attack was preceded by scouting planes dropping light signals to guide the artillery.

They were supported by the cruiser Schleswig Holstein shooting from Hanski harbor 10-12 miles away and later by bombers unloading their deadly cargo upon the hapless Poles.

The Poles apparently had no communication with the outside world and, according to the captives, still believed the British were about to come. They also seemed to have no anti-aircraft guns, for the planes flew very low and unmolested.

Baldwin

extend the survival of American democracy depends upon it."

The Wacoan said the present U. S. neutrality statute should be repealed "as quickly as possible" to give President Roosevelt the type of law he wants.

"Nazism is the force behind the European war—he described as a 'movement of violence and destruction.'"

"Hitler and his party have no program," Baldwin said. They depend upon continued movement of violence for their own existence and perpetuation."

The Wacoan termed Hitler as a man without ability except to lead the German people, and described him as a man with delusions of grandeur, a megalomaniac, the dictator as "a man with delusions of grandeur, a megalomaniac, and a Narcissist (one infatuated with one's own likeness)."

Baldwin quoted source in Europe as saying Hitler regarded himself as the man of the century sent by God to guide the destinies of the German people." He also referred to a German scientist who acknowledged the fuhrer's great powers of oratorical persuasion.

"In the mass of Germans," said the speaker, "Hitler has ability supreme to lead them."

"Remember, the people themselves didn't want the war. It was forced on them."

And, Baldwin cautioned against the nurture of hate in American hearts. "I fear that as I have said, 'I will forget the kind-faced old gentlemen in Germany who laughed with me; the group of German children I saw playing in a school yard, even as American children play. I fear that—all of us—may forget that they are human beings just like we are, except that they're caught in a trap.'"

Baldwin saluted the Poles as vigorous, enthusiastic people proud of their possessions and their achievements, and anxious to tell the world about them. "And I found them—this was before hostilities occurred—confident Poland would never be conquered."

The Wacoan asserted he could see no certainty of an English-French victory, and warned that if the dictators win in Europe, the crisis is brought to American shores.

Baldwin's appearance here was in connection with the Rotary club's international relations program, and he was introduced by Max Jacob, chairman of the international relations committee.

After the talk, which was broadcast over KBBT, Baldwin answered informally various questions on the European situation put to him by interested listeners.

REBEKAHS PLAN FOR ANNIVERSARY PARTY

Rebekahs and Odd Fellows will hold a joint meeting Thursday evening at the I.O.O.F. hall to celebrate the 88th anniversary of the admission of women to the order. Special ceremonies have been arranged to the occasion, lodge officials announced.

It was in September, 1851, that a small group of women were admitted to the Rebekah degree with rituals prepared by Schuyler Colfax, later a vice president of the United States. Today there are around 650,000 Rebekahs.

PAVING PROGRAM GETS UNDER WAY

The city's current 11-block paving program was launched Monday with the starting of excavation to grade on four blocks of Goliad street.

BRITAIN LOSES TWO TRAWLERS IN WAR

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—An official announcement today said two British trawlers had been sunk, but that three other British merchant vessels had successfully eluded submarine attacks.

The ministry of information said the trawlers Lord Minto and Arlita had been sunk and their crews rescued by a third trawler.

The announcement added: "Several British merchant vessels, including the Rothesay Castle, the Baharistan and the Baron Lovat have been attacked but successfully eluded the U-boat."

Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin all are said by biographers to have been extremely devoted to their mothers.

About 400 of the survivors were landed in England by a destroyer last night. They brought to shore vivid stories of the episode—the first sinking of a British warship in the present war.

The survivors estimated about 800 were saved in all. Some of the rescue boats were delayed in landing until afternoon.

One of the rescued men said that within five minutes after the ship was attacked he "saw pieces of the submarine blown sky high by the destroyers."

Big Spring Youth Recovering From Mishap Injuries

Louis Glen Coffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Coffey of Big Spring, was recovering in the Hendricks hospital at Abilene Tuesday from injuries received Saturday morning when he was struck by an oil truck.

He was riding a bicycle at the time of the accident and was on his way to enroll at Hardin-Simmons university. Louis suffered a deep gash across his forehead, a bad injury to his left eye and painful lacerations and bruises on his left side.

His father, a former Big Spring policeman, succeeded in locating the driver of the truck, who was unaware that his machine had struck young Coffey.

Dates and other plans for the third annual district club boy livestock show will be talked at the meeting. Tom Ashley is head of the livestock group and F. E. Keating is chairman of the agricultural committee.

ing men called to the tri-color of the empire during the World War.

In the regular morning commutes, the French general staff announced repulse of a localized German attack, launched during the night "in the region east of the Saar river."

The communique did not specify where the fighting took place, but it was believed to be south of Saarbruecken, where French and German forces have fought numerous minor engagements.

British troops were said to have moved into position in the area of France's Maginot line through tunnels to the vast defense works.

Meanwhile, belief was expressed Berlin would aim a diplomatic campaign at such neutral countries as Belgium, the Netherlands, Rumania, and the Balkan nations.

There was a feeling, too, Germany which the French say is not in a position to afford a long war, would strike hard in the west—perhaps even through neutral territory.

Officially, France apparently has decided to await the full significance of the Russian invasion of Poland before making any declaration.

Cotton Producers To Get New Quota By November 1

While first reports are being tabulated on cotton production under current marketing quotas, County Adjustment Assistant M. Weaver said Tuesday that work was progressing on the fixing of 1940 cotton allotments.

He predicted that the allotments would be furnished producers by November 1, well in advance of the quota vote called for December 9 by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

As soon as the state office announces a Howard county allotment, the county committee will start tabulating individual allotments, said Weaver.

Meanwhile, 850 C.A.P. (subsidy) applications have been sent to College Station for payment. This leaves only about 100 applications outstanding and second notices are being dispatched on these.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Chicago Daily News announced today receipt of information expressing belief that Richard Mower, one of its European correspondents, and William Morton of the American consular service were being held by Russians who had taken over Zaleski, Poland.

The two men previously had been reported missing somewhere in Poland.

The newspaper's information was contained in a dispatch from Frank Smothers, its Budapest correspondent, who said the American consul at Cernauti, Rumania, was taking steps to obtain a permit from the Russians for the two men to leave Poland.

BRITAIN LOSES TWO TRAWLERS IN WAR

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—An official announcement today said two British trawlers had been sunk, but that three other British merchant vessels had successfully eluded submarine attacks.

The ministry of information said the trawlers Lord Minto and Arlita had been sunk and their crews rescued by a third trawler.

The announcement added: "Several British merchant vessels, including the Rothesay Castle, the Baharistan and the Baron Lovat have been attacked but successfully eluded the U-boat."

Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin all are said by biographers to have been extremely devoted to their mothers.

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Sept. 19 (AP)—Twenty sixth grade students here will be without recess periods for several weeks.

The disciplinary action was taken when Sheriff George W. Brown discovered why his prize Guernsey ran short of milk. The students had been augmenting their lunch with milk drained into paper cups.

Sharp Increase In Industrial Activity

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—A sharp increase in industrial activity has been reported for the first half of September by the federal reserve board.

The increase continued a movement which had carried the board's seasonally adjusted index of industrial production for August to 102 per cent of the 1923-25 average, a point higher than the previous month's level.

The general level of wholesale commodity prices, as measured by the bureau of labor statistics index, rose 3.1 points and in the week ending Sept. 9 was 78.4 per cent of the 1926 average, the board's report showed.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Belief in general in European capitals, and Washington as well, that Herr Hitler will offer the Anglo-French allies peace in the immediate future—as soon as the dogged remnants of the Polish army have given up their last ditch.
Such a proposal might be made through Moscow, through Signor Mussolini or through some neutral state or group of states.
Hitler's strategy has been directed to this end since the beginning of the war, at least up to the Russian occupation of eastern Poland. However, if the spoken and written word still retains any meaning, a German peace proposal now will fall on deaf ears. The allies are pledged to stick with Poland, dismembered or otherwise.
Britain's peace-minded but split premier Chamberlain has declared England wouldn't make terms while German troops remained on Polish soil. More than all that, he has announced his country won't quit until "Hitlerism has been smashed."
The British government's intention to fight on for Poland was officially reaffirmed last night in a statement which condemned the Russian occupation.
The trend of this very terrible conflict will depend in large degree on Russia's future attitude.
Soviet Premier Molotov has announced Russia will remain neutral. Like the Scotsman who was being sued for breach of promise, however, the premier wasn't as specific as the allies perhaps would have liked.
Sandy was asked by the judge if he had promised to marry the girl, to which the defendant replied:
"Yes, Your Honor, but I didn't say when."
The Soviet announcement doesn't specify the duration of neutrality, though it might be expected to be indefinite unless changed conditions impelled Russia to get into the melee.
Looking at the situation impartially, neutrality is generally regarded as the stand best calculated to serve Russia's own interests in this emergency.
The point of the thing isn't at all obscure. If Russia remains neutral while Germany, France and England beat their heads against the iron wall of war, the end of the conflict likely will find the Soviet the dominant power of all Europe and the Far East.
Now that the war in Poland is virtually over, the fighting in the western theatre between Germany and the Anglo-French allies may be expected to increase in intensity.
The conflict may easily prove far more bloody than the World War.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ
DETROIT, Sept. 19 (AP)—Sam Hennessey, ace Michigan referee, is the choice of the insiders to referee the Pastor-Louis bout.
The fair grounds race track is featuring the "heavyweight championship" and the "Mike Jacobs-handicaps" today. The Reds are beginning to wonder if $40,000 wasn't a pretty stiff price for Vince DiMaggio, after all. They say he has his batting weaknesses.

HANDY HANDS
When Joe Louis left school here his teacher wrote across his report card: "This boy seems incapable of retaining knowledge; but he shows promise of doing something with his hands."
Teacher was right. So far Joe's mittens have earned him a cool half million.

ONE MINUTE INTERVIEW
Bob Pastor: "You smart guys can call it bicycling if you like, but I'm going to move and move plenty against Louis."
You said it, Bob. Bet on Pastor to run the faster.

Win lose or draw tomorrow night, Bob Pastor can have a New York winter shot with Lou Nova, the golden boy (hawk) if he wants it.
Hank Greenberg, who makes even more than Lou Gehrig (some $40,000 per) is slated to get a hefty salary slash as a Christmas present.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

UNDERSTATEMENT
Joe Louis: "I expect to stop Pastor somewhere between the first and 20th rounds."

579 Are Missing In Sinking Of British Aircraft Carrier

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The admiralty announced today approximately 581 survivors were accounted for of 1,260 aboard the British aircraft carrier Courageous, sunk by an enemy submarine.
(That would leave 579 missing).
The admiralty statement follows:
"The following are approximate figures of the complement of the Courageous and of survivors:
"Total complement, 1,260, comprising 90 officers, 1,170 ratings (enlisted men).
"Approximate total survivors, 581—70 officers, 511 ratings.
"In addition to the total of 426 survivors already published—45 officers and 381 ratings—the admiralty said a further 25 officers and 230 ratings had been saved."

Ships Tied Up By Bonus Disputes

HOUSTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—War bonus and wage increase demands of the National Maritime Union tied up ships in four gulf ports, the N.M.U. office here said today.
J. Merritt, gulf district chairman, left for New York and a general N.M.U. conference on the subject.
The seamen's refusal to sail affects all ships with which the N.M.U. has contracts, the office here said, adding that Lykes Brothers ships in the European trade will be chiefly affected.
Lykes Brothers officials declined to comment. The N.M.U. said seven Lykes ships were tied up in four gulf ports; three at New Orleans, two at Galveston, and one each at Texas City and Port Arthur.
The N.M.U. is asking a bonus of $250 per month for each man, a $5,000 life insurance policy, a 40 per cent wage increase and the application of the 1919 manning scale for ships bound for Europe.
The 1919 manning scale would increase the complement of each ship by 10 to 15 more men per ship, bringing the total crew to about 50 men per boat.

SEEKS AMERICANS IN POLISH TERRITORY

BUDAPEST, Sept. 19 (AP)—Hungarian reports from Cernauti, Rumania, at the Polish frontier, said today the United States military attaché, Major William H. Colbern, had returned to Poland to search for Richard Mowrer, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, and William Morton, of the American consular service.
They were last heard from at Zaleszczyki on the Rumanian frontier prior to the Russian occupation. Mowrer recrossed the frontier into Poland a few days ago. Morton was at Brestec to aid in the removal of American citizens.
Colbern, formerly with the embassy in Warsaw, has been a military observer in Polish territory since the embassy left the capital. He reached Cernauti from Poland yesterday.

U. S. CITIZEN IN MEXICO WOUNDED

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Sept. 19 (AP)—John I. Howe, a United States citizen who operates a farm near Isla, Vera Cruz, was brought to a hospital here last night seriously wounded by a bullet from a machine gun.
Two men fired on him from ambush and escaped.
Friends who brought him here said there had been numerous cases in the vicinity recently in which gunmen in hiding had fired on various persons.
It was not known here from what city in the United States Howe came to Mexico.

TO VERA CRUZ

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Mexican gunboat Durango, now under repair at Galveston, will sail shortly for Vera Cruz to take up regular duty, the marine department said today.

Food Commodities Show A Decline

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (AP)—Wholesale prices of food commodities showed substantial declines today from the peaks reached in the rush of "speculative hoarding" at the outbreak of Europe's war.
Prior to trading in wholesale markets today all but two of 18 important food items were lower than the war boom peaks. Two items, potatoes and wholesale pork loins, were lower. Grain prices have declined 5 to 10 per cent; potatoes 20 per cent; eggs 5 per cent; livestock 4 to 12 per cent; wholesale meats 4 to 33 per cent; sugar 25 per cent and coffee 5 per cent.
However, net gains from August 31 to date amount to 19 to 39 per cent in grains; eggs 12 per cent; butter 16 per cent; livestock 1 to 18 per cent; lard 54 per cent; sugar 13 per cent; flour 2 per cent and coffee 8 per cent.
Commodity market experts attributed the reaction of some prices to a let-up in speculative purchasing and realization that ample supplies of many commodities were available.

RAILROADS SPENDING FOR EQUIPMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, estimated today 15 to 20 railroads had arranged for $125,000,000 of equipment purchases during the past 60 days, and were considering spending as much as $75,000,000 for equipment repairs during the next six months.
He added he thought there would be "some more orders" for new equipment.
The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Jones said, would make loans of about $25,000,000 with private sources providing the remainder.

TROTSKY ASSAILS SOVIET INVASION OF POLISH STATE

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19 (AP)—Leon Trotsky, exiled former Soviet war commissar, said today Soviet Russia's invasion of Poland was "shameful and criminal."
He said it was apparent that while Russia was discussing with France and Britain the "military defense of Poland," she was studying with representatives of the German general staff the question of the best destruction and repatriation of Poland.
BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 19 (AP)—The morale of Germany's west wall defenders, as well as their actual fighting strength, was reported today to have been boosted by the arrival of captured Polish guns and other equipment and the allocation of several thousand warplanes no longer needed on the eastern front.
The German manpower already had been increased greatly by a shift of army divisions from the east.
