President vows to reject budget that has cuts in environmental programs

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton asserted Saturday that proposed Republican cuts in environmental programs are yet another reason to veto a GOP balanced-budget package. "This budget will mean dirtier water, more smog, more illness and a diminished quality of life," he said.

Clinton used his weekly radio address to attack a variety of provisions in the legislation - now before a House-Senate conference committee - that he said would undo decades of bipartisan environmental protection.

"If Congress sends me a budget that guts environmental protection, that protects polluters, not the public, I will veto it," Clinton said.

He has also cited various other reasons for vetoing the measure, including its $245 billion tax cut, which he claims would favor mostly the wealthy.

Both the House and the Senate have passed bills to balance the budget in seven years, slash anticipated Medicare spending by $270 billion and cut education, environmental and other domestic programs.

A House-Senate conference committee will hammer out a compromise that Clinton is expected to veto.

"Under the cover of balancing the budget, the Republican Congress is going after the essential environmental protections that have guaranteed the health and safety of all Americans for a long time now, and I am determined to stop them," Clinton said.

"We don't need more pollution to balance the budget. We don't need dirtier water to close the deficit," Clinton said.

"The pollution lobby knows it could never repeal half our environmental protections, so the Republican budget cuts the resources for environmental enforcement in half. Quite simply, it just pulls the cap from the environmental beat."

Sen. Pete Domenici of New Mexico and Rep. John Kasich of Ohio responded for Republicans, saying that a balanced federal budget was essential to America's economic prosperity.

"And a balanced budget doesn't just mean a better future for our kids - it will put more money in the pockets of working Americans today," Domenici said.

Voting to be held Tuesday Balloting set on 14 amendments

Voters throughout Texas and in Deaf Smith County will go to the polls Tuesday to decide the fate of 14 amendments proposed to the Texas Constitution by the state Legislature.

Polls in Deaf Smith County will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at nine locations.

With no political races on the ballot, a light turnout of voters is forecast, typical of off-year elections.

Low numbers of early voters in Deaf Smith County would seem to confirm the lack of interest in the election.

During the early voting period that ended at 5 p.m. Friday, only 231 ballots were marked by mid-afternoon. Deaf Smith County's voter rolls list 9,146 eligible to cast ballots.

Amendment 10 has attracted the most attention prior to the election. If voters pass this amendment, the office of state treasurer will be abolished. Martha Whitehead holds the office now and campaigned two years on a platform calling for abandoning state treasurer.

In recent weeks, Whitehead has traveled the state in support of the proposed amendment.

Tax issues are the subject of seven proposed amendments. Other proposals are related to issuance of bonds for student loans, bond finance fund, increase in bonds for veterans' housing and reduction of bonds authorized in regard to the superconducting super collider and research facility and investments of money from the Texas growth fund.

One proposed amendment applies to only three Texas counties. Mills, Reagan and Roberts Counties want to abolish the office of constable.

Since adoption of the Texas Constitution in 1876, 338 amendments have been affixed to the document.

Traditions play important role in holiday season for families

By BECKY CAMP
Lifestyles Editor
Holidays are steeped in traditions. That is part of what makes them special. Yet the traditions tend to change with time.

"It doesn't seem possible that our family get-togethers on holidays sometimes take place at our grandchildren's houses," said Vondell

"Meals were the focal point of the day on Thanksgiving and Christmas. I wanted everyone to have all of their favorite dessert that they could eat."

Vondell McHargue

Christmas meal in most parts of the country is turkey and dressing. This seems to have changed very little with time.

However, how the meal is served has changed through the years.

"Holiday meals were always sit-down affairs when I was younger," said Mrs. McHargue. "There were never enough places at the table for everyone to be seated at once, so the men were always fed first. And while they ate in the dining room, we fed the kids in the kitchen. Then the women ate last and would often sit around the table and visit after the meal."

This tradition has been replaced in many families these days. Even holiday meals are served buffet-style and everyone eats at the same time.

Many Christmas traditions center around decorating for the holiday and especially the Christmas tree.

"I always tried to have a live tree as big as I had room for," Mrs. McHargue said. "But some of the grandchildren have allergies and I had to start using an artificial tree a few years ago."

Decorations can be traditional or follow current trends. For some families adding a special tree ornament each year is a tradition.

Even selecting the time to put up

"My daughter has started a new tradition that we all enjoy. She started a porcelain village a few years ago and we all look forward to seeing what she adds each year."

Vondell McHargue

the tree is often dictated by tradition.

"There are some people I know who don't put up the tree until Christmas Eve," Mrs. McHargue said, "but I like to put my tree up earlier and let the kids enjoy it before Christmas."

When the big day finally arrives, opening the presents is even done according to tradition.

Mrs. McHargue said, "We like to open gifts on Christmas Eve then things aren't so hectic on Christmas Day."

HISD gives 6,000 cans to drive

Students and faculty members of the Hereford Independent School District collected more than 6,000 cans of food to benefit the Hereford Food Bank.

Classes on each school campus competed for a pizza party as students brought non-perishable food items to school.

The drive ended this past week, with the overall school winner and classroom winner being from the same campus, according to figures from the school district.

Altogether, collections from the district totalled 6,081 items of food.

Linda Baird's first grade class at Aikman Elementary brought in 468 cans of food during the drive -- more than was collected by two entire schools and the Administration Building.

Overall, students and teachers at Aikman collected 2,162 items of food, which represents 35 percent of the total district collections.

The food drive is being spearheaded by chiropractor Dr. Keith Norvell to benefit the food bank, which provides food to people in need in the Hereford community.

He has set a goal of 10,000 pounds of food to be collected for the food bank.

Godfather's Pizza has agreed to provide a pizza party for the class on each campus that collected the most cans.

Shown below are campus total, including total number of food items collected, the winning class and the number of items collected by that class.

Aikman -- 2,162 cans, Mrs. Baird's class, 468 cans.

Northwest -- 625 cans, Ann Cummings' class, 133 cans.

Shirley -- 694 cans, Mrs. Jones, 200 cans.

West Central -- 576 cans, Virginia McWhorter's class, 75 cans.

Hereford Junior High -- 367 cans, Pam Stephens' class, 67 cans.

Ex-resident has photos featured in magazine

Robb Kendrick, a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School, was the feature photographer in the November issue of National Geographic and had his first cover photo for the magazine.

A freelance photographer, Kendrick has visited all seven continents on assignment for the magazine. His work in the November issue included photos with the feature article on "Exploiting the Ocean's Bounty; Diminishing Returns." The cover photo also related to the feature article.

Kendrick had done work locally as well as on a world-wide scale. He is the son of Hereford residents Richard and LaNell Kendrick.

TRADITIONS

morning is traditional for some families.

"It just wouldn't seem like Christmas if we opened gifts on Christmas Eve," one local resident said. "Besides, Santa doesn't come until Christmas morning."

For the McHargues, many of the traditions of the holidays now take place at their children's homes, or even occasionally, at their grandchildren's homes.

"My daughter has started a new tradition that we all enjoy," said Mrs. McHargue. "She started a porcelain village a few years ago and we all look forward to seeing what she adds each year."

So, traditions change. They come and they go. But for many of us, they still make the holidays special.

Focus on Your City

By BOB JOSSERAND Mayor, City of Hereford

As we move into the fall and winter, I hope you have more time to focus on your city that you did during the busy summer months. I am going to try over the next few installments of Focus on Your City to give you an overview and a better understanding of what your City Commission is attempting to provide you, the citizen of Hereford.

First of all, let me again state how much I appreciate working with our City Commission and city staff. I know all of us at times have said, "If we were running the show, this is the way things would be done," or "Why aren't they doing that way?" Probably in a great many cases, things are being done as you want them to be done and yet, we don't let you know how we're doing things so you are unaware of how, or what, we're doing.

As you will recall, three years ago, your City Commission said the first order of business is to get additional water for our residents and for our growth. We are working diligently toward that end, and in future, I will try to detail what is being done. Just let me say that we are arriving at the point of providing additional water for our citizens.

The second thing the City Commission said three years ago, I think, was we want to improve the quality of life for all Hereford residents. As you know, a very decided effort has been made to upgrade our city park, and while we are certainly not to the point we'd like to be, we are making progress.

The Hereford Aquatic Center is another step in providing quality of life and we'll dwell more on it in a future Focus. Let me suggest that if you haven't taken part in our enclosed pool these cool and windy days or evenings, you are really missing a great time. Sandra Kilanowski and her staff are really going the extra mile to provide the programs and training that so many folks have asked for. As I suggested, come and see for yourself and enjoy your swimming facility.

Of course, any city's primary responsibility is to safeguard its citizens through both law enforcement and fire protection. I hope you will agree that compared to other cities our size, there are no better, more concerned or cooperative people in the law enforcement and fire protection areas than right here in Hereford, Texas. We have a great staff and we all owe them many, many thanks.

Right along with protection is the city's responsibility to handle the refuse from our daily living. We're still looking at what is the most economical method to handle our household waste. We are just in the process of renewing our permit for our wastewater facility. I really want to talk more about these issues in the future.

Another of the major concerns expressed three years ago was the economic expansion of our city. We've come a long way in that area with the passage of the economic development tax, the establishment of the Economic Development Corporation and the cooperation of that board with the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and all the taxing entities in Deaf Smith County.

Sure, at least from the standpoint of a funded program, economic development is still in its infancy, but I can tell you there are lots of people who are very serious about seeing our city grow and not shrink in numbers. All of us realize that Hereford and Deaf Smith County must grow. We can't just stay "status quo" or we simply wither on the vine.

Also three years ago, your City Commission realized it needed citizen input. We have had some success in getting you, the citizen to express concerns or suggestions; we have had some success in getting you to volunteer for boards, commissions, etc.; we have had great success in working with the various entities in the county to cooperate on projects; but the bottom line is, if we're going to make Hereford the all-American city, the "Garden of Eden," so to speak, for each of us to live in, then we need more and more of your input.

Once again, I am asking that if any of you would like to serve on one of the many boards or commissions, please let us know. If you have an idea of how we can work better together, please let us know. Non of us is perfect by a long shot, but I can assure that each and every member of your City Commission has a great desire to make Hereford a better place to live for all of us.

In future editions of Focus on Your City I'll try to go into more detail about the City Commission's thinking and perhaps that will stimulate you to offer us your suggestions and/or comments. Please don't hesitate to contact me if I can help.

The Chamber and You

BY F. MICHAEL CARR Executive Vice President

The holiday season is just beginning. Sunday, Nov. 5, from 1 to 5 p.m. marks the date and time of the citywide "Open Houses" to be held by many of our merchants. Stores throughout Hereford will be open Sunday afternoon to kick off the holiday shopping season.

Merchants will have their firms decorated and be on hand to serve refreshments. In addition, almost all of them will have having special drawings for door prizes for those who stop to visit.

The entire afternoon should be loads of fun, so we urge you to spend your Sunday afternoon going from store to store and enjoying some holiday spirit. A list of many of the store participating is included in the special ad in today's paper.

This open house celebration will highlight all of the floral shops who do a fantastic job of decorating for the holidays. Remember, that's 1 to 5 p.m. today (Sunday).

There are other special events to be planning for during the month of November. The Country Christmas Bazaar sponsored by Westway Extension Club is set Nov. 11. The exciting Festival of Trees, held annually at Hereford Senior Citizen Center, will be Nov. 16-19. This event continues to grow and offer so much for folks to see and do.

Another major event held annually is the Eat-Your-Heart-Out-Neiman-Marcus Preview Night and Fun Breakfast. This year's event begins Nov. 29 with a Preview Night for local merchants to display their special gift ideas.

The evening will include the turning on of the Christmas lights around town, welcoming Santa Claus, the singing of Christmas carols, and holiday refreshments.

The following morning, Nov. 30 at 6:30, the Chamber and local merchants will host the holiday Fun Breakfast. All of this is open to the public and will take place at the Hereford Community Center.

Activities around Hereford and Deaf Smith County continue as we look forward to the major expansion of Arrowhead Mills...the new Helena Chemical facility is being constructed, a great new addition to Hereford's industrial base...We welcome the new Johnson Seed Co. that is now under construction north of Hereford on US-385...Construction is nearing completion on the new Beef Tech Feeders north of Hereford. This and the new Dawn Cattle Feeders facility are fine additions to our great cattle feeding industry.

These additions and other new retail firms planning to build in Hereford will add more than 100 jobs to the growing economy of Hereford.

Let's all work together as a community to make good and exciting things happen in Hustlin' Hereford.

--CofC--

Hats off to one of Hereford's own! Robb Kendrick, a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School, has really done well as a professional photographer. Kendrick was the feature photographer and provided the cover photo for the November issue of National Geographic magazine. That's definitely a nice feather in his cap, as well as Hereford's. Congratulations to Robb, son of Hereford residents Richard and LaNell Kendrick.

Have a good week!!

Battered peso falls amid rumors of military coup

By JOSEPH B. FRAZIER
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) - Mexico's already battered peso plunged Friday amid unfounded rumors of a military coup and of increased army activity in the rebellion-wracked state of Chiapas.

The currency recovered somewhat to finish 10 centavos lower at 7.365 pesos to the dollar, just shy of the record close of 7.45 March 9.

The Mexican government vehemently denied the coup rumors and the White House also rejected the speculation. One analyst questioned whether the rumors, circulating as far as New York, were planted to destabilize the currency.

The peso dropped as low as 7.67 at midday Friday. That was a whisker below its historic interday trading low of 7.70, set March 9 as Mexico sought emergency steps to confront a December 1994 devaluation.

A spokesman for President Ernesto Zedillo dismissed the rumors as "complete nonsense," especially coming on the heels of several important announcements aimed at helping Mexico out of its 10-month-old crisis.

Nonetheless, the plunging peso signaled Zedillo's inability thus far to restore investor confidence to markets still jittery over the devaluation.

tion that threw more than 1 million people out of jobs, kicking off a recession.

The peso has lost just over half its value against the dollar since last Dec. 21, 40 percent of it in the first months of the devaluation.

It crumbled by another 9.6 percent in October.

Nora Lustig, a Mexico expert and political scientist at the Brookings Institute in Washington D.C., noted that trading was light Friday and the low volume made the peso vulnerable to any negative news.

She added she was concerned about the source of the rumors that swept trading floors Friday morning and wondered whether it was planted to destabilize trading.

"In sum you have a market that is thin so rumors can cause troubles to that market," she said. "Did someone just start the rumors or is this a calculated strategy by someone who wants to purposely introduce instability in the Mexican economy? The latter if it's true, is very worrisome and one cannot rule it out at this point."

Mexico's military maintains a generally low profile. The last coup was in 1920 and the armed forces has traditionally remained subordinated to the Institutional Revolutionary Party, which has governed Mexico since 1929.

In an unusual step, the army issued a statement Wednesday saying it supported Zedillo's recovery efforts.

Recognizing new members

Larry Alley, center, president of the Hereford Lions Club, on Wednesday welcomed two new members to the local service club. Leonard Nichols, left, and Edgar Sotelo were introduced to club members at the regular meeting.

Tourists to be new 'inmates' at former state penitentiary

By DAVID WILKISON
Associated Press Writer
MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) - The most dangerous weapon they're packing these days at the West Virginia Penitentiary in Moundsville is a 35 mm.

Camera, that is. Hallways once walked by the state's most hardened criminals are being reopened to tourists, and Moundsville city officials hope the short-timers will give a lift to an economy that was hurt when the prison's less-desirable visitors moved out.

"We feel it's our future," said Phil Remke, chairman of the Moundsville Economic Development Council. "It's going to put the biggest boost in our economy in a long time. I'm getting bus tours calling me like crazy."

Folks who want a peek at the electric chair where 11 men were put to death or the room where a deadly riot erupted in 1986 can pay $5 for a 45-minute tour of the Civil War-era prison, a fortress with 30-foot blackened sandstone walls.

"There is this mystique of actually seeing where these guys were housed," Remke said. "When you walk through there, you have a feeling of, 'Wow, this is really unbelievable how they stayed.'"

The maximum-security prison about 70 northwest of Morgantown was built in 1866 and ordered closed in 1988 by the state Supreme Court because of its deplorable living conditions. The last inmates were moved to another prison in March.

Officials had grappled for years with what to do with the prison, long one of chief employers in this Ohio River city of 10,700, about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh.

Turning it into a tourist attraction seemed like a good idea after 12,000 visitors in two months took weekend tours of the prison before it was sealed in June.

"We always knew there was something there," Remke said. "This is our home and we're not going to let it die on us."

Among the tour highlights will be "Old, Sparky," the electric chair; North Hall, where the most dangerous convicts lived; murals painted by inmates; and weapons - guns used by guards, and cruder tools confiscated from inmates.

Former guards will tell visitors tales of the prison, which once housed as many as 1,850 men in tiny 5-by-7-foot cells and where 94 were executed between 1899 and 1959.

It was the site of a New Year's Day uprising in 1986 in which inmates took control of the prison for three days and killed three of their own. In 1992, three inmates tunneled out, burrowing 32 feet from the prison greenhouse. The tunnel was lighted and contained a 14-foot ladder made of pipes.

Public Safety Secretary Gen. Joseph Skaff said the state agreed to let the city use the prison "in whatever way they can to promote their economic viability" provided they take care of liability issues and the utilities.

"We want them to use it," Skaff said. "We'd like for them to put in a mall or Putt-Putt, take it over and make good use of it. That's all part of what we had hoped would happen."

But to whom? And where? To us these are very important questions.

Because the dollar you deposit at Hereford State Bank is loaned to a person or business right here in the area. Not to someone halfway across the country.

It could be the seed money for a business that employs the person who buys the vacant house on your street. Which boosts the value of your house and makes your street safer.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says never argue with a drunk, a skunk or a rpd-headed woman. And, never make fun of another man's dog, hat or pickup!

Some folks commit a crime and go to jail. Others commit a crime, write a book, get on TV talk shows, and get rich.

Today's paper includes the annual Holiday Shopping section, as Hereford businesses start their gift suggestions for Christmas. Floral shops and numerous retail stores will hold "open house" this Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Many businesses will have in-store drawings for prizes at the open houses. Plan to take a tour after lunch Sunday!

Tuesday is election day, and the Hereford Kiwanis Club will hold its traditional Pancake Supper from 5 to 8 p.m. in the HHS Cafeteria. Vote on the constitutional amendments, then go by for pancakes.

Even if you voted early, or didn't vote, you'll enjoy the food and fellowship! Cost is $4.

Our new-fangled computer--the one which scans and prints photos--locked down Thursday morning and refused to obey commands. We heard about a local computer whiz who could probably fix our problem, but we couldn't get the principal to let him out of fourth-grade classes!

It took a little experimenting for our reporters to remember how to print photos in the darkroom, but they managed to get it done. A computer pro told us a new "mother board" would probably get us back in business. Hopefully it will arrive by Monday!

We hope a news report on the last HISD board meeting is not a signal of problems arising within the tax abatement board. School board representative Randy Tooley was quoted as being critical of the amount of abatement offered a local industry, the school not being represented proportionately on the board, and "taking the biggest hit" on property abated.

Tooley has ever right, and the duty to express his concerns, and I would not argue about amounts, or even representation. Those are matters for the boards to determine. My real concern about the report was the statement...that the school district "takes the biggest hit." In my view, the school district has the most to gain.

That's what economic development, including tax abatement, is all about--expanding local industry and soliciting new companies and plants. The community is not looking to "bite the bullet," it's seeking new property to add to the tax base. Competition necessitates the tax abatement for several years.

School Supt. Charles Greenawalt hopes to set up a meeting with the abatement board for the school board's Nov. 13 meeting to discuss HISD concerns about the process.

We can only hope this meeting clears the air and the local entities continue to work together for economic development goals.

You've probably seen stories about the new "credit card" system to replace food stamps in Texas, which is now in place statewide.

What is downright astonishing--and not stressed in the news reports--is that grocery sales have increased across that state at $1 million a day. What this probably indicates is that a million bucks a day was going into the black market!

Another report said sales have increased 10 percent in some areas. If this country has about the same percentage of fraud in other federal programs, probably the rip-off to taxpayers could total $400 billion a year, according to one estimate.

The new Lone Star card is supposed to be an effective tool against black-market traffic of public benefits. However, an AP story this week reported complaints had already surfaced about some people selling their cards at bargain prices, then reporting them lost.

That's not going to work for long. The person who sells his/her card could be cut off of the benefits, or worse, be in a life-threatening situation when the purchaser discovers he's been swindled. The benefits are canceled when the card is reported lost!

Destiny is an invention of the cowardly and the resigned.

Letters to the Editor policy

The Hereford Brand welcomes letters to the editor on subjects of interest to our readers. Short letters are most likely to be chosen for publication, but the use of any material is at the discretion of the editor. The editor reserves the right to edit letters to meet space requirements, for clarity, or to avoid obscenity, libel or invasion of privacy.

Although letters discussing overall political situations may be considered, we will not publish letters endorsing or denouncing any particular candidate. All letters must bear the handwritten signature of the writer and include the address and phone number for verification purposes. Address and phone number will not be printed unless necessary.

Letters published do not necessarily reflect the editorial policy or beliefs of this newspaper.

Out of the Blue

By Garry Wesner

"Majestic Sweetness Sits Enthroned" and "On Jordan's Stormy Banks" both appeared in print for the first time in 1787.

"On Jordan's Stormy Banks" appeared in its present form, with a tune based on a traditional American melody, 100 years ago.

Finally, on Aug. 24, 1795, in the words of the hymn, Rev. Stennett reached "Canaan's fair and happy land."

Still on the subject of hymns (and because I have the books about hymns sitting in front of me), here are a few more of my favorite hymns and a little bit about them.

When you talk about great hymns of the faith, you can't help but get around to Fanny J. Crosby. Some of her writings are hymns I particularly enjoy.

In case you don't know her, Fanny Crosby was born in 1820 and was blind for her 95 years on this earth.

During her lifetime, Crosby penned more than 8,000 gospel song texts.

These songs cut through her earthly blindness and give us an image of heaven we'll have to wait to see.

- Songs like:
- "Blessed Assurance, Jesus is Mine."
- "All the Way My Savior Leads Me."
- "My Savior First of All."
- "Rescue the Perishing."
- "Redeemed."
- "Near the Cross."
- "Saved by Grace."
- "He Hideth my Soul."
- "I am Thine, O Lord."
- "Take The World, But Give Me Jesus."
- "Praise Him! Praise Him!"
- "To God Be the Glory."

There are so many more that she wrote that are so uplifting and bring me such joy to sing. I can't wait to meet this remarkable woman in heaven one day.

Then there are the others -- just a portion of them I can mention here. I'm sure many of you will "hear" the hymn just by reading its title.

Outside of my two favorite hymns ("Jesus Loves Me" and "It Is Well With My Soul" that I wrote about earlier) it is almost impossible to find one (or even a dozen) hymn that I like above all others.

Here are some I particularly enjoy.

-- "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," by Martin Luther.

-- "All Hail the Power," which has been translated universally. One story says a missionary in India, E.P. Scott, was being threatened by tribesmen with spears. On impulse, he began to sing the hymn. At the words "let every kindred, every tribe," the spears were lowered and tears were seen on the faces of the tribesmen.

-- "Amazing Grace," by John Newton. Newton was a seaman who captained a slave ship when he received Christ as Savior. Eventually turning against the practice of slavery, he entered the ministry and pastored a small Anglican Church in England. "Amazing Grace" is based on I Chronicles 17:16, 17.

-- "Just As I Am," by Charlotte Elliott. In counseling an ailing Miss Elliott, Swiss evangelist Dr. Caesar Malan told her, "You must come just as you are, a sinner, to the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." The words became the essence of the hymn, written 14 years after her conversion. It is one of some 150 hymns she wrote.

I wish space allowed me to write of more hymns. They are so wonderful and form such a foundation, not only to our church worship, but to our everyday lives.

Who knows, maybe there'll be a Volume 3 of my favorite hymns.

Isn't it wonderful that kids these days don't get into mischief on Halloween like they used to?

(Like, oh yea-h-h-h-h-h)

In recent years, trick-or-treating by children has become too complicated. By the time every last morsel is examined, it's Christmastime.

Halloween parties have come back into vogue and special events sponsored by schools and other organizations are aimed at keeping the kids off the streets and out of trouble.

Trick or treating was not an option in my growing-up years. In fact, I never heard of the practice until after I left home and was told about my baby sister collecting sacks of goodies that made the town dentists drool.

Since the day is past, now, maybe it would do no harm to take a trip backward, to a time when practical jokes and even harmless mischief were the order of the day for Halloween.

Plate glass windows used to get a real soaping. Whatever kind of soap was used, it left big white marks that were almost impossible to remove.

My parents were pretty mean. They wouldn't let me out of the house without supervision. I never soaped a window in my life, much to my sorrow.

Merchants in my hometown dreaded Halloween night. They knew their work would be cut out for them the next day. One would think that some warm water and a little elbow grease would remove the soap.

It might be that I was too young to recognize obscenities.

But, the older the kids, the more creative they became with their mischief.

The story was told often about the outhouse that belonged to the owner of a business called the "Newstand." Every year, the big kids turned over the outhouse and the owner, a man who stood about 5'6" and weighed no more than 120 pounds, had to hire someone to move it back into an upright position.

He got sick and tired of this procedure so one year, he decided he would teach a lesson to the perpetrators. What he didn't count on was that they would find out that he was laying for them.

Anyhow, on Halloween he stationed himself at the back door of his business, with the door barely cracked so he could see the outhouse.

Across his lap lay his shotgun, loaded and ready. His intention was simply to point it into the air and pull the trigger when he saw the mischief-makers approach. No harm would come to anyone.

As the evening wore on, he became pretty tired and was close to giving up and going home. But he heard a little noise, different from the other noises he'd heard all evening.

In the blink of an eye, something happened. He saw his outhouse going down the alley but no human could be seen. The mystery lasted briefly, though, as he saw a rope tied around the privy.

His plan had been thwarted. The perps had lassoed the outhouse from behind another building, jerked it over and towed it across the alley.

Even though he called the sheriff (there was no police chief in those days), there was no way to apprehend the evil-doers.

The fact is, though, the sheriff and most of the town knew who they were.

As the story goes, by the next year, the outhouse was removed permanently and indoor plumbing was installed in the Newstand.

What is hospice?

BY JIM HOLSTON

Crown of Texas Hospice November is National Hospice Month--a good time to reflect on the impact of hospice.

Hospice provides compassionate, comprehensive care to terminally-ill patients and their families, when curing the disease is no longer possible.

It is a program of care. It is not a building. Death is going to happen to all of us, but with hospice care, death can be pain and symptom free.

A 1992 Gallup poll revealed that--given six months to live--9 out of 10 Americans surveyed would choose to be cared for and die in their own home or a family member's home. The National Hospice Organization's statistics show that more than 90% of hospice care hours are provided in patient's homes, thus substituting for more expensive care.

When we first visit with a patient or family, generally in their home, we assess what pain-free means to them. The patient and family become a part of the hospice team, walking together at this special time of life. First we work to control physical pain, leaving the patient and family to discover their needs to control other types of pain--social, emotional, or spiritual.

We then ask the patient about his/her goals. One gentleman said he wanted to go fishing. When we were able to get his pain under control, he went fishing twice. We have the privilege of encouraging life as long as someone is living.

A new study confirms that it is possible to provide hospice care and still save money over traditional medical treatment. The study compared the relative cost of hospice care to conventional care for Medicare beneficiaries with cancer. An analysis of claims found that for every dollar Medicare spent on hospice patients, it saved $1.52 in Medicare Part A and B.

While the majority of hospice patients have cancer, hospice also cares for people suffering other terminal illnesses, such as AIDS, heart and pulmonary diseases. When a patient receives services from a Medicare-approved hospice, almost the entire cost is covered.

Most private insurance companies agree to pay for hospice care because of its cost effectiveness. Most hospices are proud to also offer care regardless of the patient or family's ability to pay.

Basic hospice services should include: physician directed care; intermittent skilled nursing care; home health aide services; home and inpatient care; comfort care for families; counseling and social services; spiritual support; bereavement care; 24-hour on-call nursing services, and volunteer support.

Now is a time when health care is looking for a light at the end of the tunnel, and then hoping it isn't a train. Hospice care is truly a light, saving health care dollars and family resources. The extra brilliance to that light is the affirmation of the dignity of life.

If we can help affirm your life or the life of your loved one during those final days of living, please call us 364-9010 or 1-800-572-6465.

Magazine's 'lost' wallets returned most in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) - If there's such a thing as a good place to lose your wallet, Reader's Digest says it's Seattle.

The magazine left a trail of 120 "lost" wallets in 12 communities across the nation and kept track of how many were returned with the $50 cash contents intact. Seattle had the best rate of return, nine in 10.

Despite the large role chance could play in such a small experiment, Mayor Norm Rice was ecstatic.

"Of all the No. 1 rankings that Seattle has received, this is the one that I'm the most proud of," Rice said.

Three small cities were the next best, with a score of eight in 10: Meadville, Pa.; Concord, N.H.; and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Of the two other big cities tested, St. Louis returned seven in 10 and Atlanta trailed with five in 10, according to the magazine's December issue.

Reader's Digest interviewed those who returned wallets. Some cited religion or ethics. Some said they were moved by the baby picture placed in each billfold.

The lone keeper in Seattle picked up a wallet left on a staircase in the downtown Pike Place Market, slipped it into his black fanny pack and was never heard from again.

"If we find that guy with the black fanny pack, we are going to take away his latte privileges for an entire month," mayoral spokesman Mark Murray said.

Lottery commission proposes rules to ban selling of jackpots

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Lotto jackpot winners who want to sell their future prize payments for cash up front would be out of luck under a rule proposed Friday by the state Lottery Commission.

Commission members voted to publish and seek comment on a rule that would prohibit those who claim jackpots from transferring future prize payments to a third party "in exchange for consideration."

Final adoption of the rule could be considered as soon as 30 days after it's published in the Texas Register.

The proposal - which commission members say follows the "apparent intent" of state law - comes after several private companies approached some jackpot winners and offered to buy out all or part of their 20-year annual payments.

It also would affect winners such as Edgar "Bubba" Groce, a Cleveland, Texas, man who didn't set up a trust or partnership before he began collecting his winnings.

Groce has said he fears that if something happened to him and his wife, his heirs would be forced into bankruptcy because millions of dollars in estate taxes would be due. The heirs wouldn't have immediate access to the money because the jackpot is paid out over two decades.

Groce has said he wanted commission rules clarified so he could alter his financial plan.

Commission spokesman Steve Levine said while the proposed rule would bar Groce from assigning his prize to someone else, "he still has the option of a variety of other financial measures."

Harriet Miers of Dallas, commission chairwoman, said the lottery agency encourages jackpot winners to seek legal and financial advice before claiming their prizes.

"We advise them that their prizes are not assignable - that their decision at the time they claim their prize is final," she said.

Texas lottery law states, "Except as otherwise provided by this subsection, the right of any person to a prize is not assignable. Payment of a prize may be made to the estate of a deceased prize winner. A prize to which a winner is otherwise entitled may be paid to any other person under an appropriate judicial order."

Companies hoping to buy out jackpot winners have contended the law would allow winners to sell their prizes as long as a judge approves the transaction.

The commission disagreed.

"I believe the Legislature intended to allow a prize to be assigned only as a result of certain types of judicial orders. I do not believe they intended, through a simple court blessing, an assignment that otherwise is prohibited by the express language of the law," Ms. Miers said.

Allowing jackpot winners to sell their prizes could create problems for them and the state, Ms. Miers added.

She said the Internal Revenue Services is considering the tax implications of such a move, and that the state could face legal demands to pay the same prize more than once.

Couple claims winnings selected by cat, Skipper

AUSTIN (AP) - Skipper the cat could be lounging in the lap of luxury after the lucky feline picked the winning numbers in a recent $3.7 million Texas Lotto drawing.

Linda McManamon, Skipper's Galveston owner, collected the first installment of her prize Friday. She said Skipper's playtime with a rattle netted the winning numbers for the Oct. 21 drawing.

"Skipper was playing with a rattle that has numbers in it and stopped playing when it came up with the numbers that turned out to be the winners," Ms. McManamon said when she picked up a $199,366.52 check at the Texas Lottery Commission.

Ms. McManamon will collect $186,000 every Oct. 15 for the next 19 years for a total prize of $3,729,366.52. She said she and her husband would plan a cruise and would treat Skipper to extra tuna treats.

The longest running Broadway show was A Chorus Line, which opened on July 25, 1975 and closed on April 28, 1990 after a record run of almost 15 years and 6,137 performances.

Herd comes back to salvage tie with Canyon

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whiteface football team fought back from a two-touchdown deficit to tie Canyon at 28-28, but that's the way Friday's game at Whiteface Stadium ended before a sparse crowd.

The tie officially eliminates both teams from the District 1-4A playoff race. Hereford moved to 1-2-1 in district, 2-5-1 overall; Canyon is 2-2-1 and 4-4-1. With Randall's 17-6 loss to Caprock Friday, Borger (4-0) and Pampa (4-0) clinched playoff berths; they play Nov. 17, possibly for the outright district title.

The Herd drove to the Canyon nine-yard line in the final minute of Friday's game, but a holding penalty and Canyon's defensive pressure combined to prevent a game-winning touchdown. Then, forced to try a 42-yard field goal, Armando Zambrano missed badly after a low snap.

Hereford had driven 58 yards, but the holding penalty turned a second-down-and-goal situation at the nine-yard line into a second-and-goal at the 18.

Canyon sacked Herd quarterback Todd Dudley for a seven-yard loss on the next play - the ball popped out, but Dudley was ruled down. On third down, Dudley was hit as he threw, and the ball fell incomplete.

"(The penalty) changed the momentum," Hereford coach Danny Haney said. "We not only gave up the penalty, but we gave up a sack where we had to kick a 40-plus-yard field goal to win it."

Canyon got the ball back, and Eagle quarterback Brent Horton got loose for a 25-yard run to the Canyon 39-yard line. He was sacked on the next play - the last play of the game - by Herd tackle Michael Kriegshauser.

The Herd players were glad to come back from a 28-13 deficit late in the third quarter, but they weren't thrilled with the tie.

"We should have won," said Kriegshauser, a team captain. "We overcame a lot of adversity just to bring it up to a tie. Not that I'm satisfied with a tie. It's like kissing your sister - there's not any way to feel about it."

Hereford failed to stop Canyon's wishbone, as the Eagles rolled up 350 yards rushing, with only 13 yards passing. Quarterback Horton, who played seventh grade football for Hereford Junior High, ran for 138 yards. Halfback Cory Stone rushed for 120 yards and fullback Jared Wright added 71.

"They really weren't hard-nosed, they just used tricks," Kriegshauser said. "Horton does a good job hiding the ball. It sometimes gets you confused, gets you off your (assignment)."

"They did a few things different with the countersweep," Haney said. "They went outside with (Stone). We lost perimeter support a couple of times that really hurt us where they got first downs."

"We had trouble stopping their quarterback and fullback," Haney continued. "They hurt us on possession downs, and really on first downs. They had lots of second-and-threes, second-and-fours. That puts you in a bind and helps the offense."

On the other side, Canyon failed to stop Hereford's balanced offense. The Herd had a net rushing total of 168 yards; tailback Marquise Brown ran for 199 yards, but Dudley was sacked or tackled for losses seven times for minus-39 yards.

Dudley hit 13-of-20 passes for 148 yards and a touchdown, though his one interception cost Hereford a chance to score right before halftime.

Ronald Torres, the leading receiver in District 1-4A, caught five passes for 67 yards.

PASSING-Hereford: Dudley, 13-20-1-148. Canyon: Horton, 1-6-0-13.
RECEIVING-Hereford: Jeb Skiles, 5-75; Ronald Torres, 5-67; Zambrano, 1-7; C.J. Kuback, 1-0; Raymond Gonzales, 1-(-1). Canyon: Ziegler, 1-13.

Wideout Jeb Skiles had his best game with five catches for 75 yards and a touchdown. Four of Skiles' catches, including the 14-yard TD that pulled Hereford within seven points, came on the same play.

"The receiver inside me runs a fade down the field, and I hook up about 14 yards," Skiles said. "The one that goes deep gets more attention, and once he goes by me, I'm open."

"Todd was putting it right on the money," Skiles said. "Even if they were covering it, they wouldn't have been able to get it."

Hereford took a 7-0 lead early in the contest. Hereford's opening drive stalled at the Canyon 35-yard line, and Brian Betzen's punt rolled into the end zone for a touchback. Canyon fumbled on its first play, though, setting Hereford up at the Canyon 21.

Brown ran for nine yards, and facemasking penalty moved the ball five more yards to the seven-yard line. Fullback Josh Urbanczyk ran for four yards, then Brown took it in from three yards out. John Marty Galan kicked the extra point.

Canyon answered with an impressive touchdown drive that went 81 yards in 12 plays. Only one play was a pass, when Stone came out of the backfield, went deep and was uncovered; he dropped Horton's pass.

Canyon recovered with the help of a 33-yard run by Wright to the Herd 14-yard line. Wright ran one yard for the score five plays later. Nick Dolle kicked the extra point to tie it up at 7-7 with 1:56 left in the first quarter.

Torres returned the ensuing kickoff 24 yards, and a 15-yard facemask penalty pushed the ball to the Hereford 47-yard line. The Herd needed only four plays, including receptions of 13 and 16 yards by Skiles and a twisting, 21-yard touchdown run by Brown. Galan missed the PAT, but Hereford led 13-7 with 24 seconds left in the first quarter.

Canyon struck quickly again. On the first play of the next possession, Horton ran 75 yards to the Hereford six, where Herd cornerback Joseph Artho tackled him after Artho was nearly blocked by an out-of-position referee.

Three plays later, Justin Ziegler scored on a one-yard run, and Dolle's kick gave Canyon the lead at 14-13.

The scoring pace slowed after that. Dolle tried a 55-yard field goal with less than a minute left in the half. At that distance - which is tough for an NFL kicker - Dolle was accurate but the ball fell on the end line.

Hereford took over with less than 30 seconds left in the half, but Dudley-to-Torres strikes of 14 and 13 yards, plus a pass interference penalty on Canyon, got the ball to the Eagles' 23-

(See HERD, Page 7A)

Top rusher

Hereford tailback Marquise Brown - here sprinting by Canyon's Jason Rahlfs - ran for 199 yards and two touchdowns in the Herd's 28-28 tie Friday night in Whiteface Stadium. Brown's 199 yards unofficially gives him 993 for the season, which would make him the all-time leading rusher in Hereford football history with 2,952 career yards. Matt Bromlow ran for 2,913 yards from 1988-90.

Tough to tackle

Hereford linebacker Bric Wall (44) tackles an unidentified Canyon ballcarrier as Tanner Murphey (31) and Jeb Skiles (30) close in to help. Hereford found it difficult to stop Canyon's wishbone offense, which produced 350 rushing yards in Friday's 28-28 tie.

Lady Whitefaces pound EP Parkland, 15-3, 15-5

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team went through some early playoff jitters, but those didn't show up in the final score.

Despite slow starts in both games, Hereford beat El Paso Parkland 15-3, 15-5 in a second-round playoff match Friday night in Odessa.

Hereford, ranked No. 1 in Class 4A, improved to 26-3. The Herd will play the winner between Sherman and Snyder, probably on Tuesday. Snyder and Snyder were to play Saturday in Cisco.

Parkland, the champions of District 3-4A, ended the season 25-8. "We were a little nervous at first and made some nervous errors," Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "We sided out with them early in the match, and early in the second game. Once the hitters and blockers settled in, we dominated at the net."

Middle hitter Danielle Cornelius led the Herd with seven kills and four stuff blocks. The two-time all-state selection outplayed Parkland's best player, middle hitter Cindy Austin.

"Danielle absolutely stifled their middle hitter," Reeh said.

Hereford led only 5-3 after seven serving rotations in the first game. The Herd got it going on the eighth rotation, Reeh said, with Heather Hodges serving during a seven-point run for a 12-3 lead. Hodges had two aces during the run.

The second game went much the same way. Hereford scored two points during the first six rotations, then Julie Rampley served during a nine-point run, recording two aces.

"She served tough," Reeh said. "We got quite a few free balls back, and they (Parkland) were setting from behind the 10-foot line. Danielle had a monster block off pretty much the only good pass they had during that run."

Hereford had only three hitting errors in the match, Reeh said. The Herd's kill percentage was an excellent .426 - meaning that the Lady Whitefaces recorded a kill 43 percent of the times they hit the ball.

HERD STATS

Kills: Danielle Cornelius, 7; Tarabeth Holmes, 4; Heather Hodges, 3; Julie Rampley, 3; Cassie Abney, 1; Katie Betzen, 1; Kari Barrett, 1.

Assists: Brittney Binder, 7; Barrett, 6; Betzen, 3.

Stuffs: Cornelius, 4; Betzen, 2; Rampley, 2; Hodges, 1; Holmes, 1; Abney, 1.

Aces: Rampley, 3; Hodges, 2. Digs: Hodges, 7; Aimee Alley, 5; Binder, 3; Betzen, 2; Krista Beville, 1; Cornelius, 1; Holmes, 1; Rampley, 1.

Snyder, the champion of District 5-4A, was 22-6 going into Saturday's match. Snyder defeated Brownwood, 7-15, 15-8, 15-10, in bi-district.

Sherman, the champion of District 7, was 15-6 going into Saturday. Sherman beat Fort Worth Castleberry, 15-0, 15-10, in bi-district.

Hereford, the champion of District 1-4A, received a bye through bi-district since District 2 is vacant.

The two matches on the other side of the Region I bracket were to be played Saturday. In one, Dumas (16-9), the runner-up in District 1, was to meet District 4 champ Andrews (18-8) in Plainview.

In the other match, District 6 champ Cleburne (23-9) was to meet District 7 runner-up Denison (17-9) in Coppell.

NBA games feature odd results

Michael Jordan having a great night at the United Center? Both expansion teams winning? The Clippers beating the Suns?

Opening night in the NBA was full of oddities.

Jordan had 42 points on 16-of-29 shooting, his best night in the building where he shot 37 percent after coming out of retirement in March. He also had seven assists and six rebounds in the Chicago Bulls' 105-91 victory over Charlotte on Friday night.

"I feel totally different. I can tell," he said.

In their NBA debut, the Toronto Raptors gave 33,306 fans in the SkyDome a 94-79 victory over the New Jersey Nets. The Vancouver Grizzlies, the other expansion team, did something even more shocking.

The Grizzlies, who went 1-7 in the preseason, cruised to a 92-80 win over the Portland Trail Blazers, who were opening their new Rose Garden arena.

None of the last four expansion teams - Charlotte, Miami, Orlando and Minnesota - won their opening games, and the Heat lost their first 17.

In other games Friday night, it was Milwaukee 101, Boston 100; Philadelphia 105, Washington 103; Orlando 99, Cleveland 88; Indiana 111, Atlanta 106; New York 106, Detroit 100; Houston 110, Golden State 92; Dallas 103, San Antonio 97; Utah 112, Seattle 94; the Los Angeles Lakers 98, Denver 96; and Sacramento 95, Minnesota 86.

Rockets 110, Warriors 92
Houston raised its second tie banner in as many years, got its championship rings and defeated Golden State.

Sam Cassell scored 14 points, including three 3-pointers, in the fourth quarter. Twelve of Cassell's 23 points came during a 19-1 Rockets run in the end of the first period.

Tim Hardaway topped the Warriors, starting the season under new coach Rick Adelman, with 23 points. Joe Smith, the top pick overall in last summer's draft, scored 14.

Mavericks 103, Spurs 97
Jamal Mashburn scored 27 points and hit a game-clinching 3-pointer with 45 seconds left, giving visiting Dallas the victory over San Antonio.

Corsicana takes its 500th victory

By MARK BABINECK
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - The fact that Corsicana scored its 500th-over victory the same night Celina coach G.A. Moore's earned his 300th career win underscores his achievement.

Moore reached his milestone Friday night as Celina, the top team in Class 3A, beat S&S Consolidated. Playoff-bound Celina now braces for archrival No. 7 Pilot Point in Friday's season finale.

Moore has compiled a 300-61-9 mark as a coaching career that wended through Celina, Pilot Point, Sherman and Bryson before returning to Celina. He has won three state championships - Pilot Point in 1980 and '81 and during his previous Celina stint in 1974.

Only Gordon Wood, with 405 victories, and Ray Akins, with 324, have won more high school football games in Texas than Moore, the winnest active coach.

Corsicana, which got a few decades' head start on Moore, did some celebrating of its own Friday. Class 4A's No. 2 team defeated Athens 28-14 for the school's 500th football victory.

The Tigers became the 12th in state history to win so many games. Ballinger reached 500 in Week 4.

As so often over the past four years, running back Ketric Sanford paced the way for Corsicana, scoring three touchdowns and gaining 227 yards on the ground, his eighth 200-yard-plus rushing game this season.

In Class 5A, the No. 3 Plano Wildcats suffered a stunning 38-7 defeat at the hands of another ranked 5A team, No. 4 Richardson Lake Highlands.

Marcus Stiggers single-handedly brought down mighty Plano. The quarterback was responsible for five touchdowns, including a 90-yard kickoff return to erase his team's only deficit of the season.

Stiggers rushed for three scores and passed for another as Lake Highlands solidified itself as a conference power this season.

The state's No. 1 5A team, Tyler John Tyler, was scheduled to play Saturday afternoon against Longview.

Most other top-ranked teams coasted with easy victories. La Marque overpowered Santa Fe 59-0 in 4A and Sealy shut down La Grange 31-0 in 3A. Thorndale, No. 1 in 1A, was the only top-ranked team to yield a point in a 48-15 victory over Granger.

Bangs provided the night's 2A shocker. The upstart Dragons knocked off No. 9 and two-time defending champion Goldthwaite 21-12. The game was statistically close, but Goldthwaite committed five turnovers to Bangs' none.

Bangs, which one two games last season, can wrap up its first district title since 1969 with a victory Friday over Hamilton. Meanwhile, Goldthwaite slips to 7-2 and needs to beat Early next week to ensure a playoff berth.

Two other teams ranked in The Associated Press high school poll lost Friday: 4A No. 7 Cedar Hill and Class A No. 6 Robert Lee.

Everman's James Polk found C.K. Anderson for a TD on a fourth-and-9 pass from the Cedar Hill 22 with 5:15 left to pull out a 14-10 comeback victory.

Robert Lee fell 17-7 to the team directly behind it in the poll, No. 7 Roscoe. The Plowboys managed to make two first-quarter scores hold up, breaking Robert Lee's 33-game undefeated streak. The Steers' deepest second half penetration just made it to Roscoe's 47.

Monday Night upset could revive fizzled Dallas-Philadelphia rivalry

IRVING, Texas (AP) - There's nothing wrong with the Dallas-Philadelphia rivalry that a good old fashioned upset on Monday night wouldn't cure.

The Cowboys have won six consecutive games over the Eagles and some of the fizz has gone out of the series since the days Jimmy Johnson coached Dallas and Buddy Ryan coached Philadelphia.

There hasn't been a wild incident since Eagles' fans threw snowballs with batteries in them at Johnson in Veterans Stadium.

Perhaps new Eagles coach Ray Rhodes, who was the defensive coordinator for the San Francisco 49ers, can get something going. Rhodes doesn't like Dallas and has been an assistant coach for each of the 49ers five Super Bowl winners.

Rhodes was the mastermind behind the San Francisco defense in last January's 38-28 NFC championship game win.

"Anytime you play in prime time I think it juices your whole team up," Rhodes said. "We have a lot of guys that are looking forward to playing prime time football. I think it brings a little extra to the table. I think everybody gets a little bit more excited about a prime time game because your peers see the game."

The game will feature a quarterback who knows a lot about the Cowboys, Rodney Peete. Ironically, Peete led Dallas to a victory over the Eagles in Veterans Stadium last year when he subbed for an injured Troy Aikman. Peete hit 10 of 17 passes for 172 yards, including a touchdown as Dallas clinched the NFC East division title with a 31-19 win.

Peete, who was signed as a free agent by the Eagles when the Cowboys decided to go with Wade Wilson, said "it would be a fun game to win. I know all those guys. It would be great to go out there and put one over on them."

Peete has won all four games since Rhodes inserted him into the lineup. But he hasn't been faced with an obstacle like the one he has on Monday night against the two-touchdown favorite Cowboys.

Dallas has tied Kansas City with the best record in the NFL for the first half of the season at 7-1. The Eagles are second in the NFC East with a 5-3 record.

Dallas, which is 25-20 on Monday Night Football, are 43-27 against the Eagles. Philadelphia last defeated Dallas on Oct. 5 in 1992 with a 31-7 win at the Vet on MNF. The Eagles have beaten the Cowboys in three of their last four meetings on Monday night.

Nearly got it

Hereford's punt blocking team came close but couldn't get the punt of Canyon's Nick Dolle (far left). Hereford's Anthony Cervantez (33) is closest, while Canyon's Wes Brown (30) blocks Hector Cavazos (26) and John Ayers (20) blocks T.J. Robbins (in air) and Bric Wall (44). Hereford and Canyon tied, 28-28, Friday night in Whiteface Stadium.

Zeier says all right things

By CHUCK MELVIN

AP Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) - Eric Zeier is a walking cliché, a fellow who's either too smart or too friendly to say what's really on his mind.

It's a characteristic that has defused a potentially divisive situation in Cleveland, where the rookie from Georgia has seamlessly moved into the starting quarterback's job previously occupied by Vinny Testaverde.

Vinny? Great guy, Zeier says. This week's opponent, Houston? Great defense, Zeier says.

The Browns? Great bunch, Zeier says. The AFC Central race? "Every team can beat anybody on any given day," Zeier says.

The guy actually talks like that. He takes care not to blame anybody else for anything gone wrong, and he makes sure someone else shares the credit for anything done right.

Take, for instance, his 310 yards passing last week at Cincinnati in his debut as a starter for Cleveland (4-4).

"When you look at our offensive line, the kind of receivers we have and the kind of backs we have, all that helps," Zeier said. "It makes a quarterback's job easier."

Far be it from him to point out that the Bengals defense ranks 30th out of 30 in the NFL.

Zeier's demeanor in the locker room belies the competitiveness that has allowed him to overcome his one obvious limitation, size.

Had he grown bigger than an even 6 feet tall, he might well have been a high first-round pick last spring; as it is, he went in the third round, 84th overall, the sixth quarterback taken, even though he passed for 11,153 yards and 67 touchdowns in four years at Georgia.

"We had him rated quite high just from a production standpoint, and all those intangible things: The leadership, the character, the presence in the huddle," said Houston coach Jeff Fisher, whose team selected another quarterback, Steve McNair, with the third overall pick this year.

McNair, a product of Division I-AA Alcorn State, hasn't taken a snap or even been on the Oilers' active list for a game yet.

"I think they come from different backgrounds, different systems," Fisher said. "Eric was certainly very productive at Georgia, and he really had a productive preseason. Steve didn't have the luxury of playing in the preseason, because the game where we had him scheduled to play a half was canceled. Then he didn't play in the last preseason game because we had to get our other two (Chris Chandler and Will Furrer) ready."

The Oilers (3-5) should be a better gauge of Zeier's ability, because their defense ranks first in the AFC and third in the NFL. Against Tampa Bay's Trent Dilfer last week, they had three sacks and three interceptions, while limiting the Bucs to just 43 plays. Houston held the ball for nearly 42 minutes to just 18 for Tampa Bay.

It's a defense that also played well in the Oilers' 14-7 home loss to Cleveland on Sept. 17. So Fisher doesn't anticipate making many adjustments in light of the Browns' benching of Testaverde.

"I don't think we change our approach," Fisher said. "We didn't change our approach against Dilfer last week. I don't think we're blitzing as much as we have in the past. The average person might say, 'Oh, yeah, that's a blitzing team against a rookie quarterback, so watch out, here they come.' That's not necessarily going to be the case. He's surrounded with very capable people, and he's capable of making plays."

HERD

yard line. Dudley threw to the end zone, but Canyon's Keith Wright intercepted to end the half.

Canyon took the second half kickoff and extended its lead with a nine-play, 70-yard drive. Stone had runs of 19 and 23 yards on the drive, but Horton got the glory of a five-yard TD run. Dolle's kick made it 21-13.

Canyon got the ball back quickly and deep in Hereford territory. Dudley's arm was hit as he drew back to pass, and the Eagles recovered at the 12-yard line. On the third play, Horton ran one yard for the TD, and Dolle's kick stretched Canyon's lead to 28-13 with 5:52 left in the third quarter.

Brown put a spark in the Herd with a 21-yard run on the first play after the kickoff, getting the ball to the Canyon 49. A 16-yard pass from Dudley to Torres, plus a 15-yard unsportsmanlike conduct penalty moved the ball to the Canyon 14.

Then, on third-and-10, Dudley hit Skiles with a strike for a touchdown. Hereford went for two points and got them when Dudley hit Torres in the end zone. That pulled Hereford within 28-21 with 2:47 left in the third.

The Herd defense forced a punt, and Hereford took over at its own 26. Brown then ran around the left end for 56 yards, weaving through would-be tacklers before finally being dragged down at the Canyon 18.

Hereford needed five more plays, but Urbaneczyk ran two yards for the touchdown. Galan kicked the tying extra point to make it 28-28 with 10:22 left to play.

It was too early to think about going for two to win, Haney said.

"We had the whole quarter to go," he said. "Tying the thing up puts pressure on (Canyon). We had plenty of time to score."

The Eagles drove to midfield before they were forced to punt. Defensive plays by both team made the tie look like it would stand.

Dudley was sacked on first down, Brown was dropped for a two-yard loss on second down, and a third-down screen pass to Raymond Gonzales was sniffed out for a one-yard loss.

After Hereford punted, the Herd defense held. Josh Alvarado caught

Horton for a four-yard loss, and Gonzales defended a third-down pass. Dolle tried a 50-yard field goal, but it was short.

Hereford took over at its own 33 with 3:40 left. A 22-yard catch by Skiles got the ball down to the Canyon 32, then three runs by Brown netted 13 yards and another first down. Dudley hit Torres at the sideline for a 10-yard gain to the Canyon nine with 52 seconds left.

On first down, Dudley threw for Zambrano in the end zone and narrowly missed being picked off. On second down, Brown ran for a short gain, but the flag flew for holding on the Herd, backing the ball up to the Canyon 18. A sack and a pressured incomplete pass left the ball on the 25 on fourth down.

Zambrano lined up for a try at a 42-yard field goal, but the snap was too low for the holder, Artho, to handle cleanly, and Zambrano's kick wobbled toward the right sideline.

"I'm not making excuses," Zambrano said, "but we got a bad snap, and the holder couldn't make a good hold. I tried my best, but couldn't make it go all the way."

Agents cause big problems for college sports

TCU, Alabama, Southern California suffering because of illegal agent activity

By WENDELL BARNHOUSE
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
FORT WORTH, Texas - A college athletic director's biggest worry used to be trying to keep overzealous boosters from illicitly rewarding the school's top football players and sinking the program.

Today, the money's still there, but the source has changed. And TCU, which once turned itself in under the old scenario, is experiencing a close encounter with the latest scourge to hit college athletics: unscrupulous agents who offer financial inducements to professional prospects.

"It is THE No. 1 problem facing intercollegiate athletics, without a doubt," TCU athletic director Frank Windegger said. "It's like a damn cancer. It's all over the place."

NCAA officials and agents estimate that 75 to 90 percent of potential first- and second-round NFL and NBA draftees receive cash or gifts from agents or their representatives before completing their college eligibility.

TCU senior running back Andre Davis has missed the past two games for accepting monetary benefits from former teammate Jimmy Oliver. There are also allegations of involvement with sports agent Jeffrey Newport of Houston. NCAA rules forbid players with eligibility remaining to retain an agent or to receive cash or gifts with repayment based on future earnings potential as a pro athlete.

Powerless to prosecute agents, the NCAA stands by helplessly as college standouts are seduced by agents hoping to cash in when the player turns pro.

Agents and their "runners," who are paid to recruit pro prospects, compete just as fiercely as the players on the field. Cash. Gifts. Cars. Insurance policies. Whatever it takes seems to be the motto.

"For agents and runners, improper inducements are the cost of doing business," said Edward King, attorney for former-runner-turned-NCAA-informant Jesse Martinez. "The schools and players are held hostage by the agents. If a school pursues a case vigorously, they could lose the player; if they don't or the NCAA finds the school to be at fault, the school goes on probation."

"When a player accepts money from an agent, the agent can hold a gun on the player: 'If you ever tell anybody about the money I gave you, I'll turn you in.'"

Agents bank on getting that money back with the player's first pro contract.

This year's NFL first-round draft picks signed for an average of $1.2 million, including bonuses, and agents normally collect a 4 percent fee on pro contracts. Chicago-based agent Steve Zucker, for instance, made $750,000 on the $18 million, seven-year contract he secured for Washington Redskins wide receiver Michael Westbrook, the fourth player selected.

It isn't only first-round picks who are wooed, however. Scouts rate Davis, the Southwest Conference's leading rusher, as a late-round pick or undrafted free agent because of his lack of speed.

Southern California junior running back Shawn Walters from Arlington Lamar, also a marginal NFL prospect, has been suspended since Sept. 28 because of allegations he accepted $16,000 from agent Robert Troy Caron. Two other Trojans also missed games amid reports they received gifts from Caron.

Nebraska junior running back Lawrence Phillips was reinstated to the team last week after a six-week suspension he received for physically attacking his girlfriend. He told an Omaha radio station that agents called him during his suspension and promised $100,000 if he would leave school and sign a contract.

In August, Alabama's football program was placed on NCAA probation for the first time because of problems stemming from Antonio Langham signing with an agent while he was eligible.

Zach Thomas is as wary of a ringing telephone as he is of a blind-side crack-back block.

Despite his selection to several preseason All-America teams, the Texas Tech middle linebacker doesn't believe he'll be a first-round draft pick. But that doesn't keep the people who want to be his agent from calling.

"As soon as I got recognized as an All-American, they started coming after me," he said. "As soon as you answer the phone, they act like they've talked to you about 30 times. They get to talking. ... They all say how much money they've made for guys who they represent."

"You get the feeling that they're trying to trap you, telling you how much money they've given to other people."

NCAA president Gene Corrigan said: "Controlling access of agents to players is a tremendously difficult problem. This is an issue that's creating an enormous amount of anguish and worry in our institutions."

In many cases, agents hire runners - liaisons who are trying to get their cut from a future pro contract by connecting agents with student-athletes - to make first contact with a potential client. Runners are usually young ex-athletes who blend in on a college campus. They allow an agent to avoid direct contact with a player, and provide an easy conduit to forward cash and gifts to a player.

"They provide cash, they wire money, they provide beepers, cellular telephones, they wire cash, they take 'em out to eat," an NCAA investigator said. "If they provide 'em cars, it's usually older cars that might not draw as much attention as newer cars."

Malcolm McInnis, director of compliance at Tennessee, said using a runner keeps an agent from getting caught.

"As an agent, you don't even have to physically be in the state," he said. "You say be on the look for agents, but what if they never leave their offices in New York or Los Angeles. The runner theoretically could be anybody. He could be not doing it today and start tomorrow and then not doing it the next day. They don't wear a sign or wear black hats."

Last season, Texas offensive tackle Blake Brockermeyer of Fort Worth - who made himself eligible for the NFL draft before his senior year - was walking off the practice field when he was approached by a runner who invited Brockermeyer to dinner so he could meet an agent.

"It's like being recruited all over again, but it's more intense," said Kae Brockermeyer, Blake's father, who collected 16 boxes of letters and brochures sent by prospective agents. "Blake probably didn't have as many problems with the agents because they knew his daddy was an attorney."

Some runners obtain players' class schedules, find out when they lift weights, meet them at their favorite night clubs. Or, they get close to the players' families or friends, or even pay other students to approach the athletes.

"They act like they know so much about you," Thomas said. "This is your address, this is your parents' address, this is your time in the 40 the last time you ran, this is how much you bench press."

"The thing is, man, is they're not even supposed to be calling us. I don't see how they get our numbers. Mine's not listed. I screen my calls now. I'm trying to just stay away from 'em."

'This is THE No. 1 problem facing intercollegiate athletics, without a doubt.'

--TCU AD Frank Windegger

With the NCAA following leads furnished by Martinez, there is a red alert in athletic departments nationwide.

"When you hear something like this, even at other schools, a chill runs down the spine of any administrator," said Chris Plonsky, assistant athletic director at Texas. "It's: 'How in the hell could this happen?' Well, clearly, you're not with the players 24 hours a day."

Texas is one of 22 states with laws dealing with sports agents. But a law on the books doesn't translate to catching crooks. Limited funding prevents a concerted effort to enforce every law.

"This is not a high priority for the states that have these laws," said Ron Maestri, chairman of the NCAA's Sports Liaison Committee. "We talked with some people from the attorney-general offices in those states, and they're underfunded. It's not like they have a whole department and staff that can track down leads and investigate tips on agents."

Recently, the Texas Legislature toughened the law by granting subpoena power in order to obtain evidence to help enforce the agent law. Texas law requires agents to register with the Secretary of State's office, pay a $100 annual fee and post a $100,000 bond if the agent handles an athlete's finances. A violation is a civil penalty with a fine up to $25,000.

"What Texas requires is that an athlete-agent must register with our office before he can contact a football or basketball student-athlete who is eligible to compete at a state college or university," said Guy Joyner of the secretary of state's office. "But as with any law enforcement, it comes down to discovering the violation and then gathering proof."

Some college officials say the NFL and NBA players unions have the power to control agents, but seemingly choose to ignore the problem. To represent players, agents must be certified with the players' unions; the NFL association has about 600 registered agents, and the NBA association 315.

However, neither union has punished an agent in this decade for paying a college player.

"The players associations could have a major impact on this," said former Baylor coach Grant Teaff, executive director of the American Football Coaches Association. "They could decertify agents, but they've got legal considerations to deal with, and I've been told they don't want to cross agents that are representing their members. It's a mess."

So individual universities are left to protect their athletes, through education, and, on at least one recent occasion, legal action.

Many try to educate their student-athletes about the agent game; 125 schools have NCAA-approved career counseling panels that advise athletes. And some schools set up workshops where agents meet with students in a supervised setting.

During spring practice, Texas A&M sets aside time for agents to meet with seniors-to-be.

"We try to disseminate information about agents and be a buffer between the agents and the athletes," said John Thomson, Texas A&M assistant athletic director for student services and chair of the school's career counseling panel.

The family of Texas A&M junior running back Leeland McElroy has told him to refer calls from agents or runners to his older brother, Lee, who is athletic director at Cal State-Sacramento.

"Leeland hasn't been bothered too much by these people because I think the word has gotten through the network," Lee McElroy said. "We're making it clear that anyone who attempts to contact him without going through the appropriate channels, we will prosecute."

Southern Cal didn't hesitate to take legal action. A week after suspending Walters, linebacker Errick Herrin and defensive end Israel Ifeanyi, the school filed suit against Caron, charging that he induced athletes to violate NCAA regulations. The suit was settled out of court, with Caron paying the school $50,000.

"We wanted to provide some downside for the agents," USC general counsel Robert Lane said. "Usually, the agents would walk away and leave the university and the athlete with the downside."

King supports such legal action as a way to throw some of the profit motive back at the problem.

"If Florida State goes on probation over the Foot Locker shopping spree, then I think the school should sue the agents that were involved," said King, who has been consulting with the NCAA on the agent-athlete issue for the past eight years. "I think some lawsuits against some of these agents would get their attention real quick."

"We've been partners in Hereford since the rocks were warm," said Gerald Payne, MD. Both Dr. Gerald Payne and Dr. Duffy McBrayer, friends from medical school, came to Hereford to practice family medicine twenty-eight years ago, and have never wanted to leave. Dr. Payne's family practice is often the practice field -- as Hereford's team physician since 1969. All he has ever wanted to do was make people feel better. When he gets the time, he hits the road in his RV, but he still thinks there is no better place to come home to than Hereford.

Dr. McBrayer is board certified in family practice. He is one of the founders of the Hereford Chamber Singers and likes to carry a tune with his medical bag. After one day in town, he knew Hereford was the final piece of a puzzle to fulfill his childhood dream of caring for the entire family.

Healthy Partners

St. Mary Family Healthcare Center is pleased to announce that Dr. Payne and Dr. McBrayer have joined their team - an organization whose philosophy of patient care is the same as ours - top priority. Drs. Payne and McBrayer will continue to support the local hospital and medical community.

Texas lawmakers find information superhighway

Five House members have established pages on World Wide Web

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A handful of Texans in Congress are boldly exploring a new frontier: the Internet. Call it what you will - the information superhighway, cyberspace, the infobahn - the Texans say it's yet another way to stay in touch with their constituents.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich may be the high priest of the Third Wave, futurist Alvin Toffler's term for the age of computers and information, but to date, fewer than 80 of the House's 435 members have dipped their toes in the cybersurf.

Five of Texas' 30 House members are among the Internet pioneers, having set up "home pages" on the Net's World Wide Web.

Click on their home pages and you'll be able to peruse everything from dry speeches, biographies and press releases to facts about the district and handy information for tourists when visiting the nation's capital. The menu offered by Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, even includes a complete staff directory with a breakdown of each aide's responsibilities.

You'll also learn about some of the members' after-hours interests. For example, the home page for Rep. Ken Bentsen, D-Houston, allows visitors to link to his favorite Internet sites: the Grateful Dead, CNN and the Houston Rockets.

House Majority Leader Dick Arme's home page starts off on a serious note. "The information revolution is giving Americans more access to knowledge and their leaders than ever before," says a letter from the Irving Republican.

But that stiff greeting is quickly offset by a glimpse into some of Arme's passions - everything from fishing and red pickup trucks to some of his fondest Web links under "Arme's Fun Links."

Click on the "Fun Links" (located next to a caption "All work and no play make Dick a dull boy") and you'll be able to jump to home pages touting the Dallas Cowboys, singers Jerry Jeff Walker and Jimmy Buffett and the Country Music Fan Page.

Lest anyone think Arme is all frivolity, his home page also links to the far more sober-minded "Flat Tax Home Page" - a major political issue for the one-time professor of economics.

Jump to the Flat Tax page and read about the "revolutionary plan to restore freedom and fairness to federal taxation" and "depressing facts about the current tax structure."

Arme's home page is rivaled only by Barton's in computer sophistication and number of photographs showcasing them.

Tap onto Arme's Web site and see a photo of the House Republicans' No. 2 in what appears to be a near-embrace with a wide-mouth bass - though with the grainy resolution of computerized photos, it's hard to tell. Then, there are six Arme "action shots" - Arme with Gingrich, Arme on the House floor, Arme surrounded by reporters, etc.

Barton, who earlier this year served on a task force to make the House more computer-accessible, also places great stock in photos. There's an official Barton portrait, Barton and family, Barton in the Oval Office with President Bush, Barton on the Capitol steps with constituents, Barton and Gingrich.

By contrast, San Antonio Republican Lamar Smith could almost be termed camera-shy. His home page boasts only one official portrait, though it offers six color snapshots of his district, including photos of a field of bluebonnets, San Antonio's Riverwalk and the Alamo.

The final Texas House member on the Internet, Houston Democrat Gene Green, favors simplicity: several identical graphics of the Lone Star flag.

Barton, for one, believes the Internet is the wave of the future in dealing with constituents.

"I think over time it will become the dominant communications medium," he said in a recent interview. "It's simply a question of getting more and more people wired in and comfortable."

Seventeen percent of adults in the United States and Canada - approximately 37 million people - have access to the Internet at home or work, according to a new study.

Five percent of Barton's mail is coming via the Internet, a fairly sizeable amount considering that his home page went up at the start of October.

For now, Barton's staff is replying to computer e-mail by "snail mail" - the U.S. Postal Service.

"This allows people to get information from all over the country much more easily," said Barton, noting that his role as chairman of a key oversight subcommittee with jurisdiction over the Food and Drug Administration and other agencies may be of interest to people well outside his district.

The state's two senators are lagging behind their more adventurous House counterparts, though GOP Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison does have an e-mail address for constituents who wish to contact her office by computer.

Hutchison press secretary Missi Tessier estimated that the senator's office receives 800 to 1,000 messages on the Internet each week - some 250 to 300 of which originate in Texas. Replies are done by letter, not e-mail.

"It's a growing component of our overall constituent communication service," Ms. Tessier said.

Mrs. Hutchison ventured onto the Internet herself earlier this year, taking part in a week-long chat with women across the country on the Prodigy on-line service. "We got everything from 'You're doing a great job' to 'How do you feel about domestic violence?'" to "How do you feel about the situation in Bosnia?" Ms. Tessier said.

Although Republican Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, has yet to make his Senate office computer-accessible, his presidential campaign has a glitzy home page, full of patriotic flag graphics and red-white-and-blue imagery.

Congress is far from the only government branch making inroads on the Internet. These days, federal agencies of all stripes are getting their own home pages, attracted by the low cost and relative ease of posting information there for the public.

DIVORCE DEATH I.R.S. LIENS

Protect your home from a forced sale.

Proposition 4 is one of 14 proposed constitutional amendments that will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot. This amendment restores property rights taken away by recent federal and state court decisions. The ballot language is full of legalese and gobbledegook -- as these things usually are -- but here's how Proposition 4 works:

What does it do?

Proposition 4 enables Texans to borrow to protect their homes and business real estate against a forced sale in two all-too-common situations: at the time of a divorce or death or when a federal tax lien is filed against their property.

How does it protect you?

Proposition 4 enables you to borrow against the value of your home or business real estate to raise money to divide that property. In a divorce settlement or a death, for example, the person wishing to keep the family house or farm can borrow against it to buy out the other owners or heirs. It also lets you borrow against your home to satisfy an IRS tax lien and still keep your property.

Isn't this the same as homestead borrowing?

ABSOLUTELY NOT! Proposition 4 allows borrowing only for property settlement in divorce and probate cases and to satisfy federal tax liens. For more than 60 years, Texans have been able to make these specific loans.

Proposition 4 restores your property rights!

Ann Landers

Children who learn unacceptable behavior at home need influence of good role models

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back, I read a letter in your column I will never forget. It was about a boy who had entered a pig at the Tyler, Texas, county fair. His pig was too light to qualify so the boy rammed a water hose down its throat and "fattened" it up until it was 10 pounds heavier. The pig died minutes later. Now it appears that incident wasn't as bizarre as I thought. At a Denver stock show recently, a 16-year-old entered a black steer that won the blue ribbon and brought in $37,500 at auction. His victory, however, was short-lived. Within a few days, the winner had to give back the blue ribbon and the $37,500. The judges discovered that the steer had been fed an illegal steroid-like substance called clenbuterol. The boy's parents admitted responsibility. Other exhibitors of livestock have, in the past, been caught using cosmetic surgery to trim down a steer's flabby neck, injecting air under the animal's skin with a bicycle pump to give it a smoother look, and gluing on wig hair to fill out an animal's bony legs. Wait, there's more. Last September, at an Arkansas-Oklahoma state fair, a 16-year-old held the head of a lamb while his pal beat the animal severely so its body would swell and appear more firm to the judges. The officials say the blame lies with parents because they are teaching their kids it is OK to do anything to win. Some grand champion steers have sold for more than $200,000, and the money is enticing. One parent whose son's animal was rejected because it had been pumped up with clenbuterol offered this defense: "We have to make sure our kids get through college. Tuition is so darned high we need to make more money, and this is the best way to do it." I am sickened by this, Ann. With parents like these, what will our country be like in 25 years? -- Ill in Illinois

DEAR ILL: You have raised an interesting question. It has been said, "As the twig is bent, so grows the tree," and your letter presents irrefutable evidence that some twigs are being bent into grotesque shapes. The only hope for children who have poor role models at home is that they will be influenced by honorable, highly principled teachers and coaches and try to emulate ethical people who have succeeded in business, sports, politics or the arts. Don't give up hope. We all have seen children who came from homes where parents were absent, alcoholic, neglectful and trashy, yet the kids turned out well. By the same token, we have witnessed children who had fine parents and every advantage yet turned out poorly. Life can play funny tricks.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You swore you would never write another word about the way toilet paper should be hung, but this latest bit of information is crucial. I read it in the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times, and I thought it might convince you to reconsider your decision, since we now have some hard data. At the National Kitchen and Bath Show in Atlanta recently, the attendees were polled on, would you believe, how to hang the toilet paper - over the top or under and close to the wall. The vote was 1,826 for over and 1,256 for under. Interesting? -- Largo, Fla.

DEAR LARGO: OK. I reconsidered, but I doubt that the Atlanta exhibition will result in any conversions.

Poppy day proclaimed

Mayor Robert Josseland signs a proclamation declaring Nov. 8 as "Buddy" Poppy day in Hereford. Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Auxiliaries have been selling "Buddy" Poppies since 1922. Members of the local Auxiliary including (from left) Essie Martin, poppy chairman; Imogene Sweeney; Winnie Tyler; and Betty Boggs, Auxiliary president, will sell poppies from 5 a.m.-6 p.m. Wednesday throughout the city. VFW "Buddy" Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans in hospitals across the United States. Funds raised through "Buddy" Poppy sales are used exclusively for aid to veterans and their dependents.

Tickets for game night

Joy Bunch, right, is distributing game night tickets to Nancy Allmon for the Pilot Club of Hereford. The Pilot Club is sponsoring the first of a series of three game nights on Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. at the Community Center. Tickets are $5 for adults. Door prizes will be given away with a grand prize to be given at the third game night.

Game night designed to suit family

The Pilot Club of Hereford is sponsoring three family game nights throughout the coming year. The first game night is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Nov. 7 in the banquet room of the Hereford Community Center. Numerous door prizes will be given away each game night plus a grand prize which will be given away the third game night. The grand prize will be room and meal expenses paid for three days and two nights for a family of four at Carlsbad Caverns. A ticket purchased for any game night will register the ticket holder for the grand prize. You do not have to be present to win. Games for adults will include '42' and other table games. There will be various games appropriate for children. The Pilot Club will furnish finger foods and drinks. All Pilot Club members now have tickets available for $5 for adults or tickets can be purchased at the door.

Hereford Beautification Alliance sets goals during quarterly meeting

The Hereford Beautification Alliance recently met in the Community Center. During the quarterly meeting goals were set for the new year. President Wade Easley presided during reports on HBA's current project on east Hwy. 60 dubbed "The Wall". Approximately 28 low-growing junipers will be planted at the base of the sign on Saturday, November 11, by HBA members. Clean up of weed growth and dilapidated buildings along Hwy 60 continue to be a primary goal of the Hereford Beautification Alliance. The board voted for an increase of annual dues from $5 to $12 for family membership and from $10 to $24 for businesses. Ruth Knox reminded board members to enter the Texas Recycling Day drawing to win prizes offered by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission. Anyone over 18 years of age is eligible to enter by mailing a postcard pledging to start or increase recycling. Send name and address to TNRCC, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087. Prizes include a 1995 Jeep Wrangler. The board recognized Janie Nino for her work with the KUB Awards (Keeping Us Beautiful) during the months of June through October. HBA will continue to encourage recycling with the city as well as support Northwest Primary School in its recycling program started this past week.

The next time you make up your face, you might like to consider where the word "cosmetic" comes from: the Greek kosmos, meaning "adornment" or "order."

KAREN FRIEMEL, ART ALLEMAND

Couple will recite vows

Karen Theresa Friemel and Arthur Armand (Art) Allemand plan to be married Dec. 22 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Hereford.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Jerome and Remedita Friemel. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Charlie and Carmen Allemand.

Miss Friemel graduated from Hereford High School in 1986. She attended Austin Community College studying travel and tourism. She is currently manager of Hereford Travel Center.

Allemand is a 1991 graduate of Hereford High School. He attended Texas Tech University. Currently he is manager of Scott Oil Change and Wash in Hereford.

Military Muster

Navy Seaman Recruit Chad M. Stephens, son of Dennis L. and Dianne L. Stephens of Hereford, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Stephens completed a variety of training which included classroom study, practical hands-on instruction, and an emphasis on physical fitness.

Stephens and other recruits also received instruction on the Navy's core values -- honor, courage and commitment; and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct.

He is a 1995 graduate of Hereford High School.

Becky's Camp Site

By Becky Camp

Recently when I was looking through a family photo album, I realized that we have had what may be one of the strangest assortment of pets that any one family has ever had.

Of course, we have had the usual parade of dogs and cats which are considered ordinary. However, even some of the dogs we have owned are not necessarily ordinary.

These include a basenji, the "barkless" dog from Africa. Ours was named Rina. And she truly did NOT bark. When she was excited or disturbed she would make a kind of howling sound that is called a yodel. She made an exceptionally good watch dog in spite of the fact that she didn't bark.

We also owned an English bulldog. They aren't as rare as the basenji, but most people only see them on television. They are a fierce-looking animal but are very gentle natured.

But now to the unordinary pets-- including a boa constrictor, a raccoon and a pot bellied pig.

The snake was purchased from a pet shop when he (at least we were told he was a male) was very small. He measured 18 inches and was about as big around as your index finger. We had Oscar for eight years. He ate mice, then rats, then rabbits as he continued to grow. When he aged he was eight feet long and the size of man's forearm.

Oscar probably required less care than any animal we ever had. He ate only about once a week or even less during cold weather. His only other needs were water for drinking and bathing and a warm place to sleep.

The raccoon was named Ranger and he was part of our family for four years. He was very small when some youngsters in our neighborhood brought him to us. We fed him from a baby bottle that was longer than he was.

He lived in the house until I found out that he could open the cabinet and "steal" a loaf of bread before I could catch him. Then we built him a special cage with a private bedroom and a special sink for washing his food.

The pot bellied pig only lived in the house for a short time. Pigs are cute and I've heard it said they are smarter than dogs, but I couldn't make myself believe that. So as soon as the pig was weaned she went into a pen in the yard.

These are only some of the pets we've had over the years. But I'll save my stories on some of the "larger" animals for another time.

Life consists not in holding good cards but in playing those you do hold well.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

George Bernard Shaw once said, "Take care to get what you like or you will be forced to like what you get. Where there is no religion hypocrisy becomes good taste. Where there is no knowledge ignorance becomes itself science."

Agriculture Literacy Class, taught by Janna Rudd, is studying the effects of agriculture on society and its use as a political tool.

Mrs. Perrin's eighth grade reading classes have just completed The Cay, which is the story of a boy who becomes blind while stranded on a Caribbean island during World War II.

Life Skills classes, under the direction of Billie Hale, have constructed cards for Mrs. Wilhelm, their teacher, to express their sympathy in the loss of Mrs. Wilhelm's grandmother.

Sims/Allen category classes are working on projects related to various cultural groups who entered the United States as immigrants. All English classes are continuing their mystery reading and will report on their books with a six-sided book report.

Mystery Month at the HJH library began on Halloween Day. As students came into the library, they could guess the number of candy pieces that were in a jar. The winner will receive the jar and its contents. During week two of Mystery Month, students will try to identify five faculty members from clues displayed on the bulletin board in the library, with winners being announced on November 10. Week three activity will be to identify students from clues posted on the bulletin board. Winners will receive a book. During the final week, students will try to guess the number of books in the HJH library. Librarian, Karen Solomon, stated that she knows how many books there are, but, "No, I haven't read all of them!"

Media specialist, Vicki Kennedy, from Tatum Middle School in Tatum, Texas, contacted Karen Solomon about a seventh grade history project at the Tatum school. (Tatum is southeast of Longview in Harrison County). This class is wishing to correspond via E-Mail with students at HJH. The Tatum school, like HJH, is a mentor school. Seventh graders from each school would correspond with such information as high and low temperatures and local headlines. The object of this project, which will involve Yellow Team students, is to teach students about the internet and how we can communicate with others using computers.

Junior Historians will conduct their installation of officers Thursday night at the Community Center. We hope to have all past presidents and other officers that have served the chapter in attendance. Other activities for the chapter will be observance of the end of World War II. Members will be contacting veterans to express their thanks for the veteran's service to our country.

Between the Covers

By JOE WEAVER

"It's hard to tap dance in a pair of tennis shoes." I don't know what that statement has to do with anything, but it popped into my mind recently. It probably had something to do with working on re-roofing my house -- a job that was labor-intensive, but not very noticeable -- sort of like "tap-dancing in tennis shoes", I guess.

Well, enough of that extemporanea (sounds better than "drivel", doesn't it?). We are into a new month (though the year is growing very old), and that, of course means new displays. At press time, all of them have not yet produced their items for display, so we'll discuss them in a future column, but this is probably as good a time as any to introduce a new employee.

Maricela "Marshmallow" Martinez has been working of us for three weeks now with the title of clerk/typist. She is the daughter of Silvia and Lorenzo Martinez, and a 1994 graduate of HHS (her three brothers are still attending). She worked for Wanda Nall at Northwest School's Media Center, so it's not all totally foreign to her. Her main job so far consists of typing catalog cards (for the permanent shelf list file) and labels. I suppose that job was somewhat easier back in the days when all a librarian had to catalog was books. Now, with talking books, large-print books, foreign language books, videos, etc., remembering the proper form for each is quite a chore, but Maricela is learning well.

(There's nothing like training a new employee to make me realize how much I have learned about this business.) Stop to say hello to her the next time you're in, and remember to be patient as she is learning the ropes.

Mary Higgins Clark has a new "novel" out called Silent Night, obviously intended for holiday reading and already at the top of the best-seller list. It's hard for me to call this a novel (it's about the size of a Reader's Digest magazine) but maybe Mr. Waller has redefined the term.

While we're on the subject of "silents", let's talk about Silent Spring. Introduced in 1962, Rachel Carson first alerted the general public about the dangers of indiscriminate use of chemicals and the harm to our environment. Her book has been re-released with an introduction by the vice president. This book has been off our shelves for a while, all the original copies either lost or worn out, and I'm glad we have it back.

Tony Hillerman fans will be glad to know we have Finding Moon, a departure from the author's trademark mysteries involving Navajo policemen. "Moon" is Moon Mathias, an ordinary man who finds himself in extraordinary circumstances as he traipses through Southeast Asia looking for a lost brother, an unknown nephew...or what? Sometimes even Moon isn't sure.

It used to be that Thanksgiving kicked off the Christmas season, but we all know that was back in the days when TV was still black and white (or was it the world that was black and white?). Although we bemoan Christmas items replacing the back-to-school displays, the fact remains for most of us that the span from the end of November to December 25 is far too short to "get it all done." We are still releasing a few books each week to help you prepare for the holidays, chiefly those that suggest home-made gift items and things to decorate with. As we get closer to the date we will release those that deal with entertaining items, and those you will need to read to "get in the spirit of the season."

HOWEVER, there is a book going out this week that hardly fits into any "typical" holiday theme. That standard-bearer of tongue-in-cheek political correctness, James Finn Garner, is back with Politically Correct Holiday Stories. This is a good time for this best seller to go out. The stories are good reading for the early part of the season, before you have become too cynical and need It's A Wonderful Life or A Christmas Carol to get you back on track. Garner's parodies include "Twas the Night Before Solstice", "Frosty the Person of Snow", and "Rudolph the Nasally Empowered Reindeer", as well as a crack at "The Nutcracker" and "A Christmas Carol." But you may have to get on the waiting list. In the true spirit of Christmas merchandising -- I'm first!!!

We have also released a number of videos recently, including a four-part set about the Titanic, several biographies from A&E, and some tremendous feature-length items from "Hallmark Hall of Fame".

Thanks to all of you who supported the Friends of the Library Book Sale. It was a tremendous success!

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I love your column that appears in The Times-Picayune, New Orleans paper. I often find myself using your hints and have received successful results. I have a great gift idea.

I'm the one in the family who has a camera for every family event. I take candid pictures of everyone, be it silly or a group shot. An inexpensive gift for birthdays or holidays is to take a negative of a certain picture taken at one of the events to be enlarged. Then, have that picture framed.

It brings back many memories to the person receiving this gift. Most of the photo-developing outlets have enlargement coupons and you can find most frames on sale. This makes a very special gift for just about anyone. If a picture is worth a thousand words, then a framed picture of a family event is a gift that keeps on giving. — S.D.L., Slidell, La.

Absolutely. What a great gift idea for those hard-to-buy-for people. — Heloise

FAST FACTS

Don't toss the round plastic tape holder away when all of the tape has been used. Here are a couple of great uses.

- Give to a child to string along with beads and other stringable things.
- Give to a child as a guide to draw perfect circles.
- Glue on the bottom of trivets.
- Use as napkin rings. — Heloise

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My brother was diagnosed with mononucleosis. This diagnosis was later changed to viral encephalitis. Could you please explain the difference between the two illnesses? Symptoms? Transmission? Seriousness? Why the confusion? — D.R.

ANSWER: Yours is an important and timely letter, D.R. It is about this time of year, with schools filled with pupils, that we see a rise in mononucleosis. Also, your encephalitis question goes to the importance of distinguishing between the two illnesses.

Mono is common ailment, featuring sore throat, swollen lymph nodes, fatigue and an enlarged spleen at onset. The patient might complain of splitting headaches and fever, which are symptoms common to both mono and viral encephalitis, a brain infection.

Mono germs spread by way of infected saliva. Viral encephalitis spreads in numerous ways, such as from mosquito bites or by viruses inhabiting the human intestinal tract. The potential for spread from the digestive tract through blood circulation to the brain makes a viral encephalitis infection much more important than a case of mono.

We don't consider mono among the ominous diseases, although its recuperation stage can be problematical in an active youngster.

Despite potential serious complications of viral encephalitis, most patients recover fully.

I hope and trust your brother will be up and badgering you by the time you read this.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

— YOUR EYES —

CONTACTS... MORE THAN GOOD LOOKS

Lots of people choose to wear contact lenses just to look more attractive. But they get ore than they bargained for—the real bonus is vision that contacts offer.

- Contacts move with the eye, eliminating the distortions that glasses can cause.
- Vision is more natural and truer to size.
- Contacts don't fog up or splatter in bad weather.
- There are no distracting frame edges to interfere with vision.
- Where there is considerable difference in vision between the two eyes, contact lenses can help them work together as a team to improve depth perception.
- Contacts can be used to control an eye with a tendency to cross.
- Contact lenses, which fit directly on the eye, are the ideal way to provide good vision in certain unusual eye conditions such as keratoconus, or bulging cornea.

District Attorney petite also powerful, strong

By KEN ELLSWORTH
Abilene Reporter-News
SNYDER, Texas - Former kindergarten teacher Dana Cooley looks like she could be pushed around all over the place.

And maybe so until you come up against her in court.

The Scurry County District Attorney is petite built and admittedly shy and there may be no better word to describe her than "nice."

Awfully nice. Some might say too nice.

But they would be wrong, as hardened criminals and wily defense attorneys have been finding out.

"Almost everybody says that I'm too nice until they see me try a case. They think I'm too nice to do this job," Cooley, 37, said.

Scurry County Deputy Sheriff Darren Jackson, who often serves as bailiff in 132nd District Court, has seen Cooley plenty of times. Your first impression of Cooley, he said, could be fatal in court.

"You would be underestimating her," he said. "She is small in stature and quiet-voiced, but she can be aggressive. She can be forceful."

Her style is not, Cooley said, an example of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, but some cases do seem to bring out the beast that is not readily apparent in other situations.

"I can stand in the courtroom and call the defendant a criminal and say it forcefully and I can call him worse than that if I have to," she said. "There are people who say, once I'm in the courtroom, I'm not so nice."

Becoming a DA and prosecuting criminals was not always in Cooley's plans. She was appointed to the position by the governor in August, after Ernie Armstrong, the previous DA, had accepted the judgeship of 132nd District Court in Snyder, 80 miles northwest of Abilene.

Despite starting out as a teacher, the Abilene Christian University education graduate, Class of '81, knew she wanted to be an attorney from the time she was in high school in Borden County.

But she never imagined being a DA.

"I envisioned myself as an attorney who stays in the office and does research and writes briefs, but I never thought I would be trying criminal cases, but it is something I enjoy very much."

After three years of teaching home economics and remedial reading in Borden County, Cooley, despite loving her job, decided to go to law school. She was just 25 at the time and had a young daughter, Erin, who is now 10, but who was less than a year old at the time.

She and her husband, Ted, now have a second daughter, Meghan, 3.

Red Cross Update

Special thanks to everyone helping with the garage sale and to everyone that brought in items for the garage sale. All of the proceeds from the sale goes for disaster relief. Volunteers helping were Sally Walker, Dale Henson, Lurline and Bud Cawthon, L.D. and Thama Combs, Rachael and Cliff Ueckert, Bobbie, Tommy and Eddy Evans, Nell Culpepper, Bennie Womble, Rosa Fireo and Ruth Rodriguez.

The Red Cross has responded to a series of costly disasters: The Houston floods ($14 million), the California floods ($8.5 million), the Louisiana floods ($12.4 million), and Hurricane Erin ($1.6 million). Estimates for relief efforts for victims of Hurricane Opal ranged from $8.5 million to $15 million. As a result, a goal of $40 million has been set.

Donations for disaster relief may be mailed to our office P.O. Bbx 1371 or brought to our office at 224 South Main Street.

The executive committee will meet at noon on Tuesday at the office. All committee chairman will also meet with that committee.

A CPR class will begin Thursday at 7 p.m. at the office. Please register for the class by calling the office at 364-3761.

The Tri County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

PLEASE TELL MY BOSS...

"D uring the past few weeks, several readers have written to suggest that I write a column for their bosses. Those who wrote feel they work hard, do more than they are being paid for and deserve a little more respect and recognition than they are getting.

They are not on the verge of quitting, nor do they wish to challenge authority and put their job on the line. Therefore, they suggested that I might - while protecting their identity - give their bosses some subtle pointers. So, there is a column for bosses only.

Dear Boss:

We don't understand why all the crises occur at ten minutes before quitting time. Why do we always have to scramble at the last minute to finish the project, send the letter or ship the box, etc? Could it be that your lack of planning becomes our last-minute crisis?

If you're wondering why some work doesn't get done around here, it may be our fault entirely. With your hectic schedule, we never have time to talk, ask questions or get the directions we need before going onward.

Could we talk about those raises again? We know the last time we mentioned it you said you just didn't have the money. However, we have a little less sympathy since we learned that the Florida "business trip" you and your spouse took cost more than $13,000! We haven't left the state in two years, and since we started paying for half of our insurance this year even an extra $50 a month would help.

We know we've been getting a little further behind lately, but it really isn't our fault. Frankly, it takes two of us to straighten out all the messes your son/daughter, nephew/sister-in-law, etc., makes. Since he/she came none of us can get our work done. It wouldn't hurt so bad but he/she bragged about how much they were getting paid. We know this person is family, but we all still found it depressing.

It sure would be nice if we knew more about what you expect us to do. Are we doing a good job? If you don't tell us, how will we know? We all feel like we're in the dark. Last week when the customer came in and commented on how good the new display looked, you said, "Well, we try hard to make things look attractive." Since we thought of the display and did all the work, would it have been too much to give us the credit for it? We were standing right here. We may let you come up with your own ideas next time.

We know profits are thin right now because of the competition, but it doesn't cost much to pat us on the back once in awhile. None of us can remember the last time you said, "thanks" when we stayed late to take care of our customers. No one could remember hearing a "nice work" or "great job" lately either.

During our last "office/staff/store meeting" you pointed out all the things we've done wrong lately. Didn't we do anything right last month? It's very difficult to stay motivated when we get nothing but negative feedback. You really hurt our feelings when you chewed us out in front of everyone last week. Couldn't you have waited until we were alone? We felt badly enough about making the mistake in the first place.

We hope you understand that we really do like our jobs and want to keep them. We would just like to get the respect, recognition and rewards we feel we've earned. Thanks for listening.

You may write to Don Taylor in care of "Minding Your Own Business," Box 67, Amarillo, Texas 79105.

MASTER BED ROOM ON FIRST FLOOR

Open Bright Interiors Encourage Multiple Use of Living Spaces

BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.I.B.D.

A spacious first impression greets anyone entering the front door of this stunning European style home. There are virtually no walls in the central living core. The dining room is completely open on two sides to the two-story foyer and the two-story activity room. The activity room includes a fireplace and sun deck access. A breakfast room with bay window flows together with both the kitchen and great room, and a snack bar is provided for convenience.

Stairs up to the second floor and down to the basement are located nearby, convenient but out of the way. Adjacent is a full laundry room with extra cabinet space, double garage entry and a half bath for day time use.

The master retreat encompasses one entire wing of the home. A massive round top window and tray ceiling in the bed room are only the beginning of the sumptuous features awaiting the homeowner. The deluxe garden bath with large tub, separate shower, double vanity with knee space and walk in closet continues the elegance.

Upstairs are two family bed rooms, sharing a hall bath. Each bed room is impressively sized for a home in this square footage range.

The exterior is stucco with multiple roof lines and a multitude of shuttered windows. Plan number 988 includes 1,992 square feet of heated liveable space with an additional 360 square feet of heated space in the upper activity room and foyer. It is a computer generated plan and is furnished with details necessary to meet FHA and VA requirements as well as energy efficiency details.

For further information on plan number 988, write W. D. Farmer Residence Designer, Inc., P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 31145.

Farm and Ranch

Local farmer, rancher retires after 18 years on grain board

George Olson of Hereford recently retired from the Hereford Grain Corporation board of directors after 18 years.

Olson, a retired farmer and rancher, began his service to the corporation in 1977.

He has served as secretary, vice president and president.

"When I was first elected to the board there were only three locations of Hereford Grain and when I retired it had grown to 17 locations," said Olson.

Hereford Grain merged with High Plains Industries this year and acquired several new locations ranging from Dawn to Wildorado.

"I've really seen it (Hereford Grain) grow," Olson said. "But I've always been a Co-op man. I believe in everyone pulling together."

Olson said his wife, Betty, could always find him at one of Hereford Grain's locations.

Olson and his son, Steve, are partners in Olson Cattle Company. They raise registered Angus cattle.

The Olsons' daughter, Donna Ruland, operates the Fashion Boutique in Hereford.

Since retiring from his farming operation in 1991, Olson said he likes to tend to his cattle.

Olson and his wife have six grandchildren.

4-H News

By VANCE CHRISTIE
County Extension Agent - Ag.

With stock show season just around the corner, there are several events coming up that 4-H members need to be aware of. There will be many opportunities in the near future to improve your skills in the show ring. Listed below are some of the activities that are scheduled.

Show pig and lamb clinic
On Saturday, November 11, there will be a showmanship clinic held at the Little Bull Barn for lamb and pig showmen. We will cover topics such as selection, feeding, showmanship, grooming, exercising, and show preparation. The pig clinic will be in the morning from 8 a.m. until noon. The lamb clinic will begin at 1 p.m. the same afternoon. Pigs will be available for 4-H members to work with. Lamb feeders are encouraged to bring their own lambs if possible.

Stock Show Sign-up Night
Sign-up night is scheduled from 4 - 8 p.m. on Tuesday, November 14 in the Banquet room of the Community Center. All 4-H members planning to show at the Hereford Young Farmer's Show, Fort Worth, El Paso, San Antonio, Houston, or any other stock shows this year, must attend this important event. You need to bring your social security numbers with you when you come to sign-up.

Livestock Judging meeting
There will be a brief organizational meeting for those interested in judging livestock following the stock show sign-up meeting. All members interested will need to meet at 8:30 p.m. at the Community Center. We will discuss judging practices and the upcoming stock show contests.

Jackpot Shows
There are several jackpot shows coming up for all species of show animals. These shows greatly improve skills that will benefit you in the show ring. Watch your newsletter for dates and times, or contact the office for more information.

Pig validation! Very Important
Validation is scheduled for November 20 and 21, at the Little Bull Barn. It is mandatory that you bring your show pigs to validation in order to show at any shows this year. The pigs must be tagged, tattooed, and have their ear notches recorded by the validation committee in order to show at the County Show as well as the Major Livestock Shows. We will begin at 4 p.m. each afternoon and continue until 8 p.m. each evening.

If anyone needs more information about any of these activities, please contact Vance Christie at 364-3573. Also, if you would like more information about showing animals or any of the other 4-H programs, contact the County Extension Office.

Educational programs of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age, or national origin.

Extension Agent's Notes

By DENNIS NEWTON
County Extension Agent - Ag.

Time is running out for those agricultural producers that hold Private Pesticide Applicators License and Certificates to complete the continuing education requirements to comply with Texas Pesticide Certification Laws.

This law requires all private applicators to complete fifteen hours of continuing education credit by December 31, 1995 to keep their applicators license or certificate. Included in the 15 hours must be two hours of laws and regulations and one hour of integrated pest management. CEU's can be obtained at any training course that has been certified by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Beginning in January 1990, TDA developed a new category designated as licensed private applicators. These individuals received training from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, were required to pass an examination given by TDA, and required to pay a $50 fee to qualify for the license.

The other categories of applicators are the commercial and non-commercial. These applicators must have passed a test administered by TDA in a variety of areas and must have five CEU's yearly to maintain license.

There is an option for certified private applicators in lieu of obtaining the 15 hours. This category of applicator may become a licensed private applicator by taking the necessary training and passing the TDA exam. There is a $50 fee to obtain this license.

Producers with questions concerning the status of their CEU hours should contact the Regional office of the Texas Department of Agriculture in Amarillo at (806) 358-7285.

Applicators needing CEU hours may want to take advantage of a training course offering 5 hours of CEU credit on Friday, November 10 at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn. The course is designed for county and other employees that maintain road right-of-way, but much of the information would be applicable to anyone using herbicides for weed control. The program will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. It will offer 1.5 hours of CEU credit for laws and regulations and one hour for integrated pest management.

Producers wishing to attend are asked to call the Deaf Smith County office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at (806)364-3573. Have a good week!

WASHINGTON (AP)--The Agriculture Department forecasts a 17 percent drop in feed grain supplies in 1995 and 1996 to 263 million metric tons.

Feed grain production is estimated to fall 70 million tons from 1994 because of lower harvested area for corn, sorghum, barley and oats. USDA also forecasts reduced yields for all of these except barley.

Feed grain use is expected to be 241 million tons, an 11 percent decline from last year's record.

Corn production in 1995 is projected at 7.54 billion bushels, a 25 percent decrease from the 1994 record. Yields are expected to be 116.6 bushels per acre, a fall from last year's record 138.6 and about 9 bushels below trend.

A USDA report said the lower production will be partially offset by higher beginning stocks, but total corn supplies in 1995 and 1996 are forecast at 3 percent below last year's use.

Excellent conditions help in beet harvest

Holly Sugar Inc., one of Hereford's leading agricultural industries, is presently harvesting more than 20,000 acres of sugarbeets.

Dennis Printz, Holly's agricultural manager, said the harvest is looking good.

"It's been an excellent harvest due to the good weather," he said. "But, a little moisture would not hurt us either."

The Holly Sugar plant harvests only what it can process. Currently, they are moving 15,000 tons a day from area fields to the Hereford processing plant. Printz said the company never let beets sit more than two days at a time.

The tonnage is running about average for this time of year.

"We presently are seeing 20 tons per acre," he said. "The sugar content has been very good, however."

The average sugar levels have been about 15 percent which is about .03 percent higher than usual for this stage of harvest.

The factory, which processes about 7,500 tons of sugarbeets per day, has noticed the improved, higher content of sugar this year, he said.

The sugarbeet crop has not had significant problems this year and ground conditions for the harvest have been favorable.

The only problem experienced by producers this year was curly top, which Printz said is a sugarbeet disease caused by the beet leaf-hopper.

"The curly top was not widespread, but it did hurt some producers," he said.

The plant anticipates the harvest to be 30 percent complete by Sunday.

"We will hopefully be finished by Thanksgiving," he said. "It is all looking good. The Dalhart area looks very promising."

Harvest in Artesia began on Oct. 16, and is now complete. The sugarbeets in that area were brought in by train.

Agriculture Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Global warming could cause geographic shifts in agricultural production, but the level of food production in the United States and the world should remain stable, a government report says.

A worldwide warming trend forecast by scientists would increase temperatures in mountainous regions, making more land suitable for farming and forestry, the Agriculture Department study said.

But warmer weather in the tropics and some other areas would reduce moisture in the soil, making some of that land unsuitable for agriculture production, it said.

Overall, the amount of crop land worldwide would see a net increase; however, production would be affected.

Annual Festival of Trees highlights beginning of Christmas season

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

An idea begun at last year's Festival of Trees as a tribute to a departed friend, this year takes its place as a continuing feature of the 1995 Festival of Trees.

The sixth annual Festival of Trees will be held Nov. 16-19 in the Hereford Senior Citizens Center, 426 Ranger.

Last year, "Homer's Tree" debuted at the Festival, a wooden Christmas tree mounted to one wall and lit with bright lights to recognize donations.

Homer's Tree was created in tribute to Homer Garrison, a longtime supporter of the center who had died in December 1993.

People attending the Festival made donations in Garrison's name, and those gifts were acknowledged with lights on the tree.

This year, said director Margie Daniels, Homer's Tree becomes the Memorial Tree and serves as a place for people to honor loved ones through financial donations.

Donors making financial gifts to the center will be recognized with a light on the Memorial Tree, which will again be mounted on one wall of the senior center.

Names of honorees and donors will be posted next to the tree, Mrs. Daniels said. That list will be updated daily to honor those giving in the names of others.

Donor amounts and their corresponding tree lights are:

- Green light, $10 to $99.
- Blue light, $100 to $249.
- Red light, $250 to $499.
- Gold light, $500 to $1,000.

The Memorial Tree was put up last week and donations will accepted through the Festival.

The Festival of Trees -- begun in 1990 to serve as a major fund-raiser for the senior center -- marks the beginning of the holiday season at the center.

The centerpiece of the event is the display of 26 beautifully-decorated artificial Christmas trees.

The trees are sponsored by area companies for $500 per tree. Some are sponsored by one company, while others have two firms splitting the gift. Another category of tree, the Super Tree, takes a $1,000 donation.

This year, Stevens Chevrolet-Oldsmobile is sponsoring the only Super Tree of the festival.

The artificial trees are provided by the Senior Center. The regular trees are 6-1/2 to 7 feet tall, while the Super Tree stands 9 feet tall.

Decorations for the trees are provided by individuals, businesses, school groups and service clubs.

"They do it as a service," Mrs. Daniels said. "They furnish their decorations and decorate the trees."

Decorators also determine what theme will be used for their tree.

The trees are auctioned during the first night of the Festival, at the conclusion of the Festival Gala.

This year, the Gala will be from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 16. The auction will start at 8 p.m.

Last year, the auction of trees netted the center $27,295, with one tree -- a Super Tree sponsored by Stevens Chevrolet-Oldsmobile and decorated by Terry's Floral and Design -- sold for $2,325 to First Capital Bank of Dimmitt and Frontier Capital of Dimmitt.

The total last year was a record for the Festival, topping the 1993 figure of $20,700 and the $15,660 raised in the 1992 auction.

In fact, the total from last year's tree auction was more than $10,000 above what was raised through the entire Festival in 1990, the first year it was held.

Last year, several thousand people turned out for the four-day Festival to look at the trees, vote on which they liked the best and take part in numerous other Festival activities.

This year there will be something for everyone beginning at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday and concluding at 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Activities include children's programs, a Lionel train exhibit, holiday bazaar and children's

Sewing decorations, fashions offer ways to save money during stressful holiday season

Too often, the holiday season can mean the stress of long lines, over-heated store, juggling shopping lists, bags and coats, and the dread of January bills with their high finance charges.

Instead of spending long hours in quest of the "perfect" purchase, save time and money by sewing custom-made gifts, decorations and fashions for holiday fetes. Gifts you make yourself probably are considered the most thoughtful and are appreciated more than any others.

The experts at your local fabric store can be your "personal shoppers" and can assist you in finding sumptuous fabrics, simple patterns and ornamental trimmings to fit all of your holiday needs, your sewing ability and your pocketbook.

Perhaps best of all, sewing is considered a terrific stress-buster. A recent clinical study seems to indicate that sewing helps women relax while they focus on a creative activity.

To help give everyone a wonderful, stress-free holiday this year, here is a sleighful of budget-friendly holiday hints for both novice and experienced sewers.

Gracious gifts

*Fabric dolls and animals are perfect for the kids on your list. They also make terrific home-decorating gifts for use as door ornaments, wall hangings and accessories. Also available are many patterns for creating personalities, like Santas, reindeer, bunnies and angels, that your family will treasure and enjoy for generations.

*Create your own gifts, like easy-to-sew or no-sew picture frames and album covers with holiday-themed prints of reindeer, snowflakes and evergreen trees, or use quilted velvets and satins. Embellish with glue-on "gems" and ribbons. Sew cozies for mugs and teapots.

WREATHS ARE a symbol of holiday beauty. With a simple-to-sew pattern, elegant fabrics and fancy trimmings, you can create this beautiful wreath for your home.

*"Dress up" inexpensive gifts, like plants, soaps, candy, fruitcakes and preserves, by sewing fancy trims onto fabric squares to create decorative covers and lids that can be recycled as handkerchiefs and scarves. Tie with festive ribbons. Sew simple sacks in elegant satins, velvets and damasks with drawstrings of metallic ropes and tassels, and use them as beautiful wrappings.

Festive fashions

*For holiday-fashion pizzazz, it's the fabric that counts. Luxurious red satin or winter-white lace instantly transforms a T-shirt into a holiday show-stopper. Cocoa or hunter green, two of this season's hot colors for velvet, makes a festive vest, as do holiday-themed fabrics; trim with antique buttons. Light up big holiday nights in simple sheaths sewn in gold or liver lame.

*This year, faux fur is the rage. Use it to sew hats and trim cuffs and collars. Dress up a skirt by sewing on a faux leopard pocket; accessorize with a matching belt of headband.

*Warm friends and family with cozy robes, pajamas, jumpsuits, sweats and winter hats made with the many fleeced fabrics now available. Sew these in vibrant colors and bold patterns.

Divine decorating and entertaining

*Create instant family heirlooms by sewing ornaments to dress your tree. These can be hand-sewn easily. Use blanket stitching on angels, stars and birds to create the popular primitive country look. Button stitching lends a Victorian elegance, which can be enhanced with a variety of fabulous embellishments.

including satin rosettes, lace and metallic trim. Welcome guests with a wreath created from a simple-to-sew pattern, fancy fabrics and trimmings.

*Transform your dining table into a feast for the senses, starting with a centerpiece angel, snowman or sleigh with reindeer. Sew and applique coordinating tablecloth, napkins and place mats using elegant damasks, plaids, lace and velvet trimmings. Or, braid fabric of contrasting colors and textures. Sew a set of napkins; tie with velvet ribbons. Place in a basket with mugs as a special gift.

With eight weeks before Christmas, many Hereford residents will begin looking for that special gift for friends and loved ones.

Local merchants are pulling together to sponsor their annual Holiday Open House today to help local residents find that "just right" gift.

The promotion is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce with the theme "A Bag Full of Christmas in Hereford", the event will open beginning from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5.

Residents may visit local merchants and see what they have to offer.

Some of the participating merchants will be giving door prizes to show their appreciation to local customers.

Merchants participating in this year's Open House are Kid's Alley, Pants Cage, Wishes, Little's, Merle Norman Cosmetics, Inkahoots, Terry's Floral and Designs, Etcetera, Boots and Saddle, Anderson Studio, Gibson's Discount Center.

Hereford senior citizens remember Christmas Days of old

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

For today's senior citizens, childhood memories of Christmas may have dimmed as the years passed, but they still recall the joyous moments of Christmas Eve or Christmas morning.

Special gifts for many children in a tree, but anything they received was appreciated, some say.

A longtime Hereford resident, Edna Schulte, remembers that she looked forward to Christmas because of the citrus fruit that appeared in her stocking.

"We always had apples and some other fruit but oranges and some nuts

"We had lots of mistletoe because of the trees around Stamford, where we lived."

Dorene Rose

catalogue, making their lists for Santa Claus, and parents studied the lists and prices.

In dry, treeless West Texas, Christmas trees weren't always available, Mrs. Schulte pointed out.

"Sometimes we had a tree and sometimes we didn't," she said. "But, we always hung up our stockings."

Dorene Rose spent her early life in a part of Texas that had more vegetation so her memories of Christmas are a bit different.

"We had lots of mistletoe," she said, "because of the trees around Stamford, where we lived."

High on the list of most little girls at holiday time were dolls. According to several Hereford women, Christmas wouldn't have been Christmas if there had been a new doll in their stockings.

While fireworks in this day and age are coupled with Independence Day, years ago fireworks were a part of the Christmas celebration, too.

Mrs. Schulte said there always were firecrackers and other items to be lit on Christmas Day.

Christmas Eve was gift-opening time in the home of Dr. A. T. "Trow" Mims, in East Texas.

"We could count on getting new clothes," he said. "But, on Christmas morning, we'd find candy, fruit, nuts and firecrackers in our stockings."

His family usually went into the wood to find their Christmas tree, said Dr. Mims, now retired from a 40-year medical practice in Hereford.

Living in East Texas, around Palestine, afforded ample opportunity Pet Ott said she remembers that her family "always had a good Christmas." She particularly recalls the goodies that came from the kitchen.

Much like the song that says something about going over the hills to grandma's house, families gathered together to celebrate Christmas.

At least one senior citizen in those days were fruits that they didn't see very often during the year.

"I remember in about 1918, we were invited to a neighbor's house for Christmas."

Jennie Terrell

Mail order companies were important to rural areas where shopping was limited.

Youngsters may have found their gifts in a stocking rather than under were a real treat," recalls Mrs. Schulte.

Christmas shopping in her day was a lot simpler than some may think.

"We had the Sears-Roebuck catalogue," declared Mrs. Schulte.

Youngsters pored over the

"We always had apples and some other fruit but oranges and some nuts were a real treat."

Edna Schulte

"Sometimes we had a tree and sometimes we didn't. But we always hung up our stockings."

to choose a tree. Dr. Mims said he remembers the family usually cut either a holly tree or a pine tree.

Mrs. Mims lived in Houston during her youth but went to an East Texas town to spend Christmas with an extended family.

Christmas meant another new doll for Mrs. Mims.

"It seems like I got a new doll probably every year," she said.

For Faye Rogers, Christmas meant making decorations and hanging stockings in anticipation of the big day.

She grew up in an area of West Texas that boasted little vegetation suitable for a Christmas tree.

"We hung our stockings and decorated the house but we didn't always have a tree," she said.

While shopping was not the major project in those days, the holiday suffered little in the joy of the season.

Hereford remembers quite well going to her grandmother's house where a big spruce tree was decorated.

Parties were centered on families, said Jennie Terrell who spent her early life in Mississippi.

"I remember in about 1918, we were invited to a neighbor's house for Christmas," she said.

By today's standards, Christmas gifts were modest but in a day when life was simpler, children were glad to get items they didn't have all year.

Remembers Edna Schulte, "I loved the fruit." And, said Dorene Rose, "I looked forward to the peppermint and horehound candy."

"My mother always cooked more than we could eat," said a senior. "We always had some to give to less fortunate."

Christmas was a time of sharing, just as it is today, say senior citizens. Some things don't change at all.

Memory Tree unveiled

Last year, the Hereford Senior Citizens Center unveiled "Homer's Tree" at the Festival of Trees. It was a wooden tree mounted on the wall where donations could be made in memory of former senior citizens association president Homer Garrison, who died in December 1993. His brother, Shirley Garrison, is shown above with the tree. This year, the Festival will honor loved ones with the Memory Tree. Lights on the tree will be lit for donations to the center in memory of loved ones: Gold, blue, green and red lights signify the size of donations as small as $10.

FESTIVAL

Shopping. For those wanting a little something to eat, there is the Herd Restaurant and a bake shop throughout the Festival.

In addition, there will be a fashion show and dinner on Friday, Christmas Tea with Santa and Dinner Theatre on Saturday and Holiday Turkey Buffet on Sunday.

There is no admission to attend the tree auction, holiday bazaar and other continuous activities, or the Music Festival, set for 2 p.m. Sunday.

Cost to attend the Fashion Show and Dinner is $7.50 per person; the Christmas Tea With Santa is $2 per person and is limited to children 12 and under; the Dinner Theatre is $12.50 per person; and the Holiday Turkey Buffet is $7.50 for adults and $3.50 for children age 12 and under.

Advance tickets are required and seating is limited to 200 people per event. Reservations may be made by purchasing tickets at the senior center.

La Madre Mia Study Club ready to host annual holiday Tour of Homes

By BECKY CAMP
Lifestyles Editor

Since 1968 La Madre Mia Study Club has helped usher in the spirit of the holidays with its annual Tour of Homes.

Once again this year the tour will highlight the onset of the Christmas season, taking place from 1 p.m.-4 p.m. on Dec. 3.

Featured will be the homes of James and Kyla McDowell, 139 N. Texas Ave.; Scott and Lori Hall, 1900 Plains Ave.; Marline Watson, 332 Centre St.; and Nicky Walser, 204 Star.

Tickets for the tour are $5 per person. They may be purchased in advance from any La Madre Mia club member or at any of the featured homes the day of the tour.

Co-chairpersons for this year's tour are Ruth Black and Francyne Bromlow. They are being assisted by committee members Georgia Sparks, Lucy Rogers and Cindy Cassels.

"We appreciate the people who have graciously offered their homes for viewing and who are willing to help with a community service project," said Bromlow.

The annual tour is the principle fund raiser for the club.

"All money that we raise stays within the community for scholarships and other worthy causes," said Black.

In the last year, La Madre Mia has contributed to Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Hereford Satellite Center, Deaf Smith County Library and Deaf Smith County Child Welfare. They also presented a graduating senior with a $500 scholarship.

"The tour is always well attended and as a result we just are able to give to a lot of causes," said Sparks.

"Members of the community have supported the tours since they began, even during years when the weather was bad," said Rogers.

Those attending the tour this year will see antiques and unique Christmas decorations as well as numerous decorating and remodeling ideas. They will also have a chance of winning the door prize that will be given away.

Kay Hall is president of the club for 1995-1996. Other members not previously named include Carolyn Baxter, Merle Clark, Linda Cumpton, Mary Herring, Susan Hicks, Betty Lady, Barbara Manning, Glenda Marcum, Gladys Merritt, Jan Metcalf, Lavon Nieman, Bettye Owen, Judy Owens, Nancy Paetzold, Tricia Sims, Mysedia Smith, Debbie Tardy, Betty Taylor, Marline Watson, Nicky Walser, Mary Beth White and Judy Williams.

Other committee members are Georgia Sparks, second from left; Lucy Rogers, second from right; and Cindy Cassels, not pictured. The tour will take place Dec. 3 from 1 p.m.-4 p.m. and tickets are $5 per person. Included will be the homes of James and Kyla McDowell, 139 N. Texas Ave.; Scott and Lori Hall, 1900 Plains Ave.; Marline Watson, 332 Centre St.; and Nicky Walser, 204 Star.

Holiday meals not same without old traditional stuffing, dressing recipes

Holiday festivities would not be the same without traditional family meals. Just the aroma can bring back good memories of holiday's past.

For many Americans a traditional holiday meal would include turkey and dressing.

Following are variations on the basic dressing, or stuffing recipes.

Chewy, rustic, slightly stale loaves of flavorful bread such as sourdough, whole wheat, or rye -- used alone or in combination -- create the foundation of these flavorful stuffing recipes.

To make croutons, cut the bread into half-inch cubes, trimming the crust if you wish. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Put the cubes on cookie sheets, turn off the oven, and let the cubes dry out in the oven overnight. If you need to make the cubes in a hurry, bake them in a 275-degree oven until crisp but not browned, from thirty to sixty minutes, depending on the bread's initial dryness.

For each recipe, if baking outside the bird, drizzle an additional quarter cup of stock over the stuffing before baking.

HERB, MUSHROOM STUFFING
Makes about 11 cups
3 tablespoons butter, plus extra for baking dish and foil
4 medium celery stalks, chopped coarse (about 2 cups)
3 medium onions, chopped coarse

Dress up for Christmas in festive red

Red is the color of Christmas past, present and future. For a red hot holiday season, try the following simple and inexpensive tips:

- Decorate your living room in red and white lights. This will brighten your living space and charm holiday visitors.
- Trim your Christmas tree with festive ribbons and bows of wired red velvet and plaid taffeta.
- Jazz up party platters with sliced red bell peppers, red apples, cherry tomatoes and radishes. Serve them with a sun-dried tomato dip.
- Place a rose-colored tablecloth on a card table. Trim it with ming ferns and decorate each end of the table with red poinsettias.
- Core a red apple to use as a base for candy canes.
- Group red votive candles of graduated height on your mantle or in a window.
- Heat up crystal jars or dishes with red hot cinnamon candies.
- Settle down for a winter's nap in bright red pajamas.
- Serve strawberries with whipped cream for desert at a Christmas party.

Holiday dreams come true with help of local Red Cross volunteers

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

While Christmas to many means family times together, the fresh smell of a Christmas tree, brightly-colored presents and the promise of a hearty Christmas dinner, there are those for whom such a holiday is but a dream.

For those people, the Tri-Counties Chapter of the American Red Cross exists, ready to provide toys, clothing and a helping hand.

But the Red Cross needs a helping hand as well, said executive director Betty Henson.

"Of course, one of the things we always need is volunteers," she said, to help with the varying needs of the Red Cross.

"It's hard to get volunteers to help us" during the holiday season, Mrs. Henson said. Some workers are needed to gather, sort and prepare toys that will be given to needy children who otherwise might receive no Christmas presents this year.

Others are needed to deliver those toys in time for Christmas morning, while still others are needed to take a hand in the business paperwork that normally accumulates during the holidays.

In addition to the need for volunteers, the Red Cross is faced with other challenges as the holiday season begins.

"Right now we could certainly use some small-size children's coats," Mrs. Henson said, in sizes 2 through 10. Also needed is other clothing "for emergencies, some other types of needs" that arise.

For homeless people and those who lose houses to disasters, the Red Cross provides "comfort kits."

"We have used up most of our comfort kits," Mrs. Henson said, noting that the Red Cross has need for these non-food items.

She said donations of the items are welcomed, or someone can put together some comfort kits themselves and give the finished items to the Red Cross.

Comfort kits should include the following items, most of which can be small containers of product: toothbrush, toothpaste, comb, soap, disposable razor, shaving creme, deodorant, lotion and shampoo.

To help meet the physical needs of the needy at this time of year, the Hereford High School FFA will once again sponsor a food drive to replenish the Red Cross food supplies.

This drive, Mrs. Henson said, will begin in a couple of weeks.

In addition to donation of non-perishable food items, the Red Cross can use gifts of toilet tissue, shampoo, detergent, dish soap, toothbrushes and toothpaste.

While many items are needed by the Red Cross, the things that will be in great demand this Christmas are toys and children's items.

Last year, Mrs. Henson said, the Red Cross gave toys to "somewhere between 700 and 800 kids" — children who otherwise might not have received anything for Christmas.

Families in need of assistance with Christmas toys may apply for help Nov. 13-17 from 10 a.m. to noon in the Community Center.

Sign-ups and toy deliveries are made in conjunction with the Christmas Stocking Fund to provide maximum advance for volunteer laborers.

Assistance with Christmas gifts for children is for "people who cannot provide Christmas gifts for their children" any other way, Mrs. Henson said.

Donations of toys and other children's items are needed from the community, Mrs. Henson said.

"Carefully used toys, as we said last year, as well as coats or sweaters, or any other items that might be used as a gift," Mrs. Henson said.

"At this time of year we're not going to have a lot of time to do repairs" on toys, she said, so items given need to be in good, working order. They also need to be clean, she said, adding that donors might clean washable items with a bleach solution to disinfect them before taking them to the Red Cross.

"We generally have a cutoff age of 12," she said, for toys. However, if a family has several children, the oldest of which is 13 or 14, an exception may be made.

Toy donations need to be made by Dec. 18.

Mrs. Henson said anyone needing information on making donations, giving financial contributions or volunteering their time may stop by the Red Cross office, 224 S. Main, or call 364-3761.

FFA helps Red Cross food drive

Volunteers across the community help the local Red Cross Chapter with its annual food drive and Toys for Kids campaign. Members of the high school FFA collected food items last year (shown above) and donated them to the Red Cross drive.

Gifts that keep giving all year long

This Christmas, try giving presents that will be enjoyed long after the holiday season has ended.

The following are just a few ideas for perfect gifts for special friends and family members that will be enjoyed year-around:

--Fresh, warm donuts delivered to their door once a week for one year.

--A one-year subscription to The Hereford Brand or their favorite magazine.

--When in doubt, you can't go wrong with Beef Certificates, sponsored by Hereford Cattlewomen.

--A gift certificate once a month to dine out at their favorite restaurant. --The delivery of fruits, once a month, to spice up the dreary winter months.

--A gift membership to Hereford Aquatic Center for a year full of fun and healthy exercise.

--A membership in Hereford YMCA for those who could benefit from one or more of the healthful or fun programs offered by the "Y".

--For friends who like to read, how about a membership in Friends of the Library. It offers reading pleasures and the satisfaction of helping others enjoy the wealth of books.

And, related to year-around giving, remember the opportunities during the year to honor friends or families with memorial donations, in their or their loved ones names, to worthwhile charitable organizations or churches.

Pre-Christmas Fun Breakfast coming

The annual "Eat-Your-Heart-Out Neiman-Marcus Fun Breakfast is scheduled Nov. 30. Local merchants will display gift ideas at booths, and a "Preview Night" will be held Nov. 29 to give residents plenty of time to visit the booths. Last year, Ross Perot Claus paid a visit to the Fun Breakfast and had a crying towel for Democrats.

Toy-buying tips from merchants, expert makes giving more fun

By SHELLY SCHILLING
Staff Writer

Since the release of the latest Batman movie, Batman Forever, kids are going crazy for the Batman action figures, games and accessories.

The Batman movie or the action toys seem to be a hot item for gift giving this year, said Dennis Anderson, Gibson's Discount Store manager.

The movie featured a new Batman, Val Kilmer, and the notorious Riddler was played by Jim Carrey of "Ace Ventura" fame. Carrey is a huge favorite of most children.

Roller blades will be at the top of many children's lists again this year, Anderson said.

Video games are also a big item. Donkey Kong Country and Primal Rage are two of the newest top selling videos for the gift-giving season.

"Another item that is selling big this year, is the big action type toys," Anderson said. "The three-in-one pool table is a hit with older kids."

Adults who like games, enjoy receiving Jenga, Anderson said.

For the older children who may have outgrown toys, Elizabeth Vogel of Poarch's Furniture and Carpet suggests day beds and bedding, especially for girls.

She also said desks for all children of all ages are a popular item for giving this year.

Of course for the more sophisticated child or adult, computer games and programs are always a big hit.

The new CD ROM, in most of today's computers, are capable of running various types of software and Shannon Hacker of Posters Electronics suggests a new encyclopedic program would be a great gift to give children and grandchildren.

The multi-media encyclopedia is an interesting as well as an educational gift.

Toy-buying tips from parenting expert Dr. Istar Schwager, educational psychologist and parenting expert, include the key to finding the perfect toy.

The key, Schwager said, is to observe your child's play habits and personality before embarking on a shopping expedition.

Dr. Schwager offers the following tips for finding just the right toy for every child on your holiday gift list:

1) Consider your child's interests and developmental levels - Age recommendations found on toy packaging are excellent guides for locating a toy designed for your child's age group.

However, children develop at different speeds, so it is important to measure that same toy against your own child's coordination skills, attention span, communication levels and play habits.

2) Listen to your children - If your child has requested a specific toy, go to the store and ask for a demonstration. If you object to a particular item, ask why your child wants that toy.

3) Look for toys that encourage specific skills - In addition to offering hours of fun, toys also can teach kids important skills, such as communication, compromise and negotiation. Board games and toys that require more than one player are excellent tools for helping your children to learn and perfect these skills at their own pace.

4) Look for toys with long-lasting "play value" - While toys with all the "bells and whistles" certainly will attract children initially, many of these toys soon are gathering dust in the toy chest. Instead, toys that reflect your child's interest and spark his or her curiosity and imagination will be used for months to come.

"Open-eyed" toys, like construction sets, dolls and figurines, and art and science sets, offer endless opportunities and variations.

Don't forget: adults like Christmas gifts, too!

Hey kids, are you having trouble looking for that "perfect gift" for Mom or Dad?

Have they decreed that you may not buy them something for Christmas that will eventually end up in your closet?

Sir, did your wife lay down the law and prohibit you from buying her a mixer, cemetery plot, snow shovel or Dallas Cowboys sweat shirt in your size?

Some local retailers have offered their suggestions for Christmas gifts adults might like to receive (and give) this holiday season.

From perfume and diamonds to recliners and computers, there are many things available to make Mom and Dad happy this Christmas.

From Linda Arellano at Little's Fashions comes the following: perfume sets, boxed make-up sets, Christmas sweaters, vests, gowns and robes, costume jewelry and wallets.

Dorothy Herr at Cowan's Jewelers said men tend to wait until about four days before Christmas to begin shopping for their wives.

While their main gift of choice is diamonds, husbands also grab rings, necklaces and bracelets dotted with colored stones such as sapphires, rubies and emeralds.

For the woman, Herr said, watches are the primary purchase for their men.

If large gifts -- i.e. furniture or computers -- are more toward your sweetheart's fancy, you might look at the suggestions offered by Elizabeth Vogel or Poarch's Furniture and Carpet and Shannon Hacker of Foster Electronics.

Vogel suggests adults might consider recliners, which are a big seller at Christmas time, or a desk this year. A popular style of desk is the rolltop model.

Floor lamps and living room furniture also are items to consider. Hacker said accessories for computers are popular gifts this year.

She suggested software programs such as Quicken might be considered, or a modem allowing hookup to the Internet.

Someone looking to modernize a computer system might be interested in finding Windows '95 under the tree.

Of course, if you still can't think of the perfect gift for that adult in your life, many stores offer gift certificates that allow you to give your loved one exactly the right gift.

(The only problem is, you can't take the price tags off a gift certificate!)

Tips offered on selecting gifts of gold

It's beautiful. It's flattering. It's precious. And, it never goes out of style. That's what makes gold jewelry a popular gift year after year.

Through new methods of jewelry making, gold has become available and affordable to just about everyone. The good news this holiday season is that there is real gold jewelry created by leading designers at nearly every price. Jewelry designers are playing a more prominent role than ever before in creating gold jewelry that is more stylish -- and makes a statement.

Classic designs can be found in 14K, 18K and even 24K gold. Some of the season's hottest trends include nature-inspired designs, antique looks, pins, stackable bracelets and rings, and gold jewelry in a variety of textures and colors.

To help you get the most for your money, as well as a whole lifetime of pleasure, here are some "golden

Know your karats

*Always look for a karat mark when purchasing gold jewelry. It is usually stamped as 10K, 14K, 18K or 24K, but also could be stamped 417, 585, 750 or 999, which are the European equivalents.

*The karat mark indicates the percentage of pure gold in the piece. 24K is 100 percent gold. Gold is often alloyed with other metals, like copper, silver, nickel and zinc, to give it strength and durability. The higher the karatage, the more gold in the piece.

*Different proportions of metals added to pure gold give gold alloys their yellow, rose, green or white coloration. Most gold jewelry contains a mixture of at least two other metals.

Is the price right?

*Generally, the higher the karatage, the higher the price. Price also is affected by the total weight of the piece. So, all else being equal, a larger, heavier piece is likely to be more expensive than a smaller, lighter one.

*Superior design and construction come at a premium and make jewelry both easier to slip on and off and more comfortable to wear.

*Although nearly all gold jewelry today is made with the help of special machines, some handwork is always involved. The more there is, the higher the price will be.

*Ornamental detailing, like engraving or a special finish, will add to the cost.

--High polish: mirrorlike, bright, shiny, highly reflective

--Satin finish: light parallel lines sharply reduce the metal's reflections; soft and lustrous appearance

--Matte: velvetlike finish, without shine but having a soft luster

Whether purchasing gold for yourself or trying to please the women on your gift-giving list, the key is to seek out items that strike the right balance between classic design and updated styling. Whatever your choice, gold jewelry is a gift of value that will be cherished for years to come.

The first frozen food individual packaged products were developed by Clarence Birdseye and put on sale at ten grocery stores in Springfield, Mass. on March 6, 1930.

Arts, crafts bazaars good place to find homemade Christmas gifts, decorations

Handmade items make a welcome gift for nearly anyone on your Christmas list. Annual arts and crafts bazaars are an excellent source for such items.

Several bazaars are scheduled in Hereford and other surrounding towns.

The Parmer County Christmas Bazaar committee is proud to sponsor the Friona Christmas Bazaar again in 1995.

The Bazaar is set for Nov. 10-11 in the Community Building.

Friday hours are 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Saturday hours are 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

For booth information contact Debbie Pollard at 806-481-3619.

The 19th annual Holiday Bazaar sponsored by the Athenian Study Club of Slaton will be held from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. on Nov. 11 at Slaton Junior High, 1000 South 10th Street.

A special attraction will be the seated tea room serving brisket, frito pie, nachos and many snack items.

For booth information call 806-828-6782 or 828-5279.

The Christmas Delights Bazaar sponsored by the Heritage Woman's Club of Canyon will be held Nov. 11 from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. in the Rex Reeves Elementary all-purpose room at 1005 21st Street in Canyon.

Anyone interested in booth space may contact Linda Cotter at 806-655-9314 for more information.

On Nov. 19 the Nazareth Art Club will sponsor its annual Holiday Arts and Crafts Bazaar in the Nazareth School Cafeteria from 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

The last day to make reservations for a booth will be Nov. 11. For more information call Lucille Drerup at 806-945-2563.

There will be a turkey dinner served at noon in the Community Hall sponsored by the Christian Mothers Society.

The Westway FCE Club will host its annual Country Christmas Bazaar Nov. 11 in the Hereford Community Center.

There are still spaces available for a fee of $10 per space.

For more information contact Carolyn Evers at 364-4739.

All space rental proceeds will benefit the Deaf Smith County 4-H program.

Wesley United Methodist Church will host its 15th annual Festival of Arts and Crafts on Dec. 2 from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. in the Hereford Community Center.

A limited number of booths are available. Booth fee is $10.

Applications, which will be screened, may be obtained by writing to Ellen Collins, 801 Miles St., Hereford TX 79045 or calling 806-364-0774.

Birthdays, special days, a year-around remembrance? Send them The Hereford Brand, a gift that reminds the recipient of your love and concern about 255 times a year!

Christmas Stocking Fund assists families in need at holiday season

The annual Christmas Stocking Fund campaign will get underway soon in Hereford. CSF is a charity intended to help the less fortunate of the community during the Christmas holidays.

Applications for assistance from the 1995 CSF program for needy residents in Hereford and Deaf Smith County will be accepted daily beginning Monday, Nov. 13, and continuing through Friday, Nov. 17, at Hereford Community Center.

Interviews will be conducted from 10 a.m. to noon each day. Those seeking assistance from the holiday charity should apply in person and bring some form of identification in order to verify that they are a resident of Hereford or Deaf Smith County.

If applicants plan to ask for help with utilities or medical expenses, they should bring a receipt that provides the account number. For medical assistance, the name and address of both the doctor and hospital are required.

Filing an application does not guarantee that assistance will be extended, since CSF operates on contributions. With the funds available, the CSF committee attempts to reach the most needy persons first.

CSF serves the community's less fortunate regardless of race, color, age, religion, handicap, or national origin. CSF is not affiliated with any other organization. It is administered by an anonymous committee of volunteers who screen applications and arrange for distribution of food and vouchers.

Assistance from CSF is provided in various forms. This includes food as well as vouchers for clothing, utilities, and medical expenses.

CSF applications start Nov. 13 so that filing and processing of the forms and the distribution of assistance can be completed before Christmas. This allows volunteers to help those in need and still have time to enjoy the holidays with their families.

The CSF program was started in 1980 when James Witherspoon proposed the project to Brand Publisher Speedy Nieman. Witherspoon noted he and many Hereford residents had been sending donations to the Amarillo Christmas fund, and he thought it was time to start a local program.

Witherspoon volunteered his Sunday school class to administer the program, and Nieman agreed that The Hereford Brand would handle the fund raising and publicity campaign.

The original group of men gave up administration of the program in 1986, and several interested citizens formed a new CSF committee. Volunteers were enlisted to represent a broad cross-section of the community.

The program drew $4,800 to help the needy the first year, and a total of approximately $7,000 to $8,000 was raised through 1985. The new, larger committee had $10,571 to work with during its first year in 1986.

Funding for the program continued to rise and the monetary total went over $20,000 in 1989. Generous residents have given from $17,258 in '90 to a high of $21,451 in '93. Last year's contributions amounted to $18,414.

The Brand serves as the collection agency for cash donations to CSF, and the newspaper periodically publishes a list of contributors, along with a running total of the drive. Contributions traditionally start Thanksgiving week, but they will be accepted anytime after today.

Give yourself a breather during holidays

It's your favorite time of the year—the holidays. So, now, in addition to your normal run of activities like grocery shopping, working, chauffeuring the kids, walking the dog and cleaning the house, there are even more things to do.

Things like gift-shopping, gift-wrapping, party-planning, holiday decorating and cookie-baking all have leapt to the top of the list.

And, by George, you'll get it all done!

But not without making sure you take some time for yourself—every day. It doesn't matter if it's 10 minutes or a full hour.

It's easy to give your all for other people, but how do you nurture yourself? Think reward. Think indulgence. Do something luxurious just for you.

—Like breathing deeply. You'd be surprised how good you feel if you just take a deep breath once in a while. Sit down, uncross your arms and legs, and close your eyes.

Then slowly breathe in through your nose and out through your mouth. Do it as many times as it takes to begin to relax your muscles—and your mind. It's amazing how tense you get without really knowing it.

—Or, you could try curling up in your most comfortable chair. Sink into those soft, friendly cushions, and just close your eyes. Then, turn on your favorite music, and dream away the world for a while. A mere 15 minutes can make a huge difference in how you feel the rest of the day.

—Reading a good mystery is a terrific way to retreat from the chaos of the day, even if it's just for a little while. Nothing makes your problems seem smaller than comparing them to those of the characters in the latest whodunit. —Last but not least, take a breather with your favorite beverage, like hot chocolate. The one that takes you away instantly, pampers your soul and helps you celebrate your time alone.

Being good to yourself is one of the hardest things a person learns to do. But it can be done!

Handmade ornaments offer personal touch

Throughout history, angels have been symbols of peace, protecting people and bearing good news. Perhaps that is the reason they have often been a favorite decoration in homes. Today, items with an angel, cherub and celestial motif are more popular than ever. You see them on ornaments, gift wrap, stationery, jewelry, hatboxes and more.

"Crafting is playing an increasingly important role in holiday activities," says Susan Brandt, assistant executive director/director of communications for HIA (Hobby Industry Association). "According to a recent consumer survey, 49 percent of crafters use their crafts for holiday decorating."

One simple craft project that is sure to lift your spirits during the holidays is an angel ornament, instructions courtesy of Design Originals.

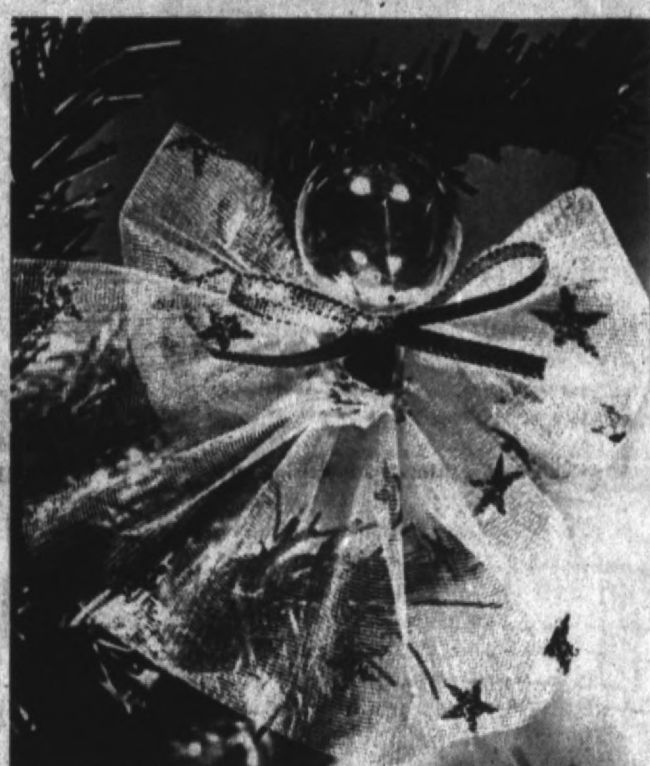

Start with one 1-inch clear round Christmas tree ball ornament, 6 inches of 1/4-inch wide gold ribbon, a 6-inch-by-5-inch piece of white tulle with gold stars, 3 inches of gold chenille stem, craft glue or a glue gun and glue sticks, and a stapler.

To create the angel's dress, cut a 3-inch-by-6-inch piece of tulle, and fold it into 1/2-inch pleats. Gather the material at one end, forming a cone shape, and glue the end together to form the top of the dress.

Then, cut a 2-inch-by-6-inch piece of tulle for the angel's wings. Fold the ends of the piece to the center, gather, making a bow, and staple so it's secure. Glue the wings to the top back of the angel's dress. Glue the clear bulb, which will serve as the angel's head, to the very top of the dress.

To finish, tie the gold ribbon into a bow, and glue onto the top of the dress. Bend the gold chenille stem into a circle, creating a halo, with 1/2-inch ends. Twist the ends together, and use as the stem of the halo. Glue the stem to the back of the head.

Now, attach a small hook or looped ribbon to the back of your angel, and hang as an ornament on your Christmas tree. You can attach your angel to the top of the Christmas Nativity scene or make several and stand them up as decorations on top of the mantel. Angels also add a homemade touch to the tops of gift packages. Next time, you may want to try proportioning the materials to create a larger-scale angel that can go on the top of the Christmas tree.

HANDMADE DECORATIONS add a personal touch to the holidays. Create this angel ornament, and spruce up your Christmas tree, a Nativity scene or packages you're wrapping.

Birthdays, special days, a year-around remembrance? Send them The Hereford Brand, a gift that reminds the recipient of your love and concern about 255 times a year!

Be a good neighbor. Be alert for vandalism or break-ins. If you see anything unusual around a residence or business, call the police. Let's all be involved in policing our neighborhoods.

Ideas offered for family

The holidays are here. It's time for festivities, fun, good cheer, and stress.

Choosing gifts for relatives, friends and co-workers can be very challenging, because there are always those people for whom you just can't think of a gift.

Here are some ideas that can make gift-giving easier and the season a little brighter:

—For the women on your list who love to be "in fashion," give them the hottest looks of the season. From simple, silhouette-conscious dresses to menswear looks with a feminine twist to bold.

Mod fashions, there's something for everyone. For those stylish men you have to buy for, remember that textured tones are changing the image of tailored clothing. So, why not get a blazer vest with a herringbone effect?

—If you're not sure about sizes or colors, try accessories or jewelry for that fashionable woman. Everything from diamonds to gold-tone silver jewelry to pearls showed up on the runways when designers revealed their fashions for the season. The simplest accessory can turn an ordinary outfit into a chic ensemble, and it could be thanks to your gift.

—Put a smile on someone's face this holiday by giving her a makeover at her favorite cosmetics shop. If a friend has been feeling down lately, this could be the perfect pick-me-up to brighten her day and help her feel better about herself.

—For those high-tech lovers on your gift list, electronics could be the way to go. The choices range from stereo components to a portable cassette player and everything in between.

Recipes

(about 3 cups)
 10 ounces mushrooms, sliced thin (about 3 cups)
 2 teaspoons dried sage
 2 teaspoons dried thyme
 1 teaspoon dried rosemary
 1 teaspoon dried marjoram
 1/4 cup sweet sherry
 2 large eggs, lightly beaten
 1 cup chicken or turkey stock or low sodium canned broth
 1/2 cup heavy cream
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
 8 cups dried bread cubes (French, sourdough, or whole wheat are good choices)
 1/2 cup minced fresh parsley leaves

1. Heat butter in large skillet over medium high heat. Add celery and onions; saute until softened, about 5 minutes. Add mushrooms; saute until lightly golden and liquid evaporates, about 7 minutes. Add sage, thyme, rosemary and marjoram; saute to blend flavors, 2 to 3 minutes. Add sherry; cook until reduced by half. Remove pan from heat; cool to room temperature.
 2. Whisk eggs, stock, cream, salt, and pepper in large bowl. Add bread cubes, cooled vegetable mixture, and parsley; toss gently to mix.
 3. Stuff turkey if desired; do so just before roasting. Turn remaining stuffing into buttered shallow baking dish; bake at 350 degrees, covered with buttered aluminum foil, until knife inserted into center feels warm to the touch, 25 to 40 minutes depending on amount of stuffing. Uncover and bake until top crisps slightly, 5 to 10 minutes.

CORBREAD-APPLE STUFFING

Makes about 11 cups

8 ounces bacon, fried crisp, dried, and cut crosswise into 1/2-inch pieces, reserving 4 tablespoons drippings (optional)
 4 tablespoons butter, plus extra for baking dish and foil
 2 medium onions, chopped coarse (about 2 cups)
 2 small stalks celery, chopped coarse (about 1 cup)
 3 medium-large tart apples (such as Granny Smith), peeled and cut into 1/2-inch chunks (about 3 cups)
 3 tablespoons minced fresh thyme
 2 tablespoons minced fresh sage
 2 large eggs, slightly beaten
 1 cup heavy cream, chicken or turkey stock, or low-sodium canned broth
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
 4 cups dried French bread cubes
 4 cups crumbled cornbread
 1 cup pecans, toasted, and chopped coarse
 1/4 cup minced fresh parsley leaves

1. Heat bacon drippings or butter in large skillet over medium-high heat. Add onions and celery; saute until softened, about 5 minutes. Add apples begin to soften, 5 to 7 minutes longer. remove pan from heat and cool moisture to room temperature.
 2. Whisk eggs, cream or stock, salt, and pepper in large bowl. Add bread cubes, cornbread, cooked bacon, vegetable mixture, pecans, and parsley; toss gently to coat.
 3. Bake in accordance with step 3 of Herb and Mushroom Stuffing.

Travel tips offered for winter vacations

By SIBBY CHRISTENSEN
 Associated Press Writer
 It's a traveler's cliché: "Take half as many clothes and twice as much money."

Even better, take less, and more. Think lightweight and footloose.

The ideal would be to take a bar of soap and one change of clothes. If you're visiting any part of the civilized world, you can even skip the soap. Most destinations have drugstores (chemists, pharmacies, apothekes), often stocking the same brands of soap, shaving cream, cosmetics and other products you're used to at home.

Less than ideal (say, you're concerned about dressing properly for theater or a lunch date), make sure everything in your bag coordinates with everything else. A good centerpiece is a cardigan sweater or a jacket, which can be worn with either of two shirts, which in turn can be worn with your jeans, slacks or skirt. Throw in a pair of dress shoes, a tie or minimal jewelry, and you're ready for most circumstances.

Don't bring T-shirts from home; you're likely to buy souvenir versions to proclaim your travels.

You're probably going to be on your feet outdoors a lot during your vacation, even if your destination is a city. So roomy, well broken-in sneakers are essential. Hiking shoes also are worth taking along if you plan walking in fields or on trails; they can double as rainboots in most cases, and they're the footwear of choice when you're coping with luggage, train overpasses, airports, and subway stations. You'll also find a waterproof coated nylon jacket - the kind that can be folded up into a small packet - useful for wind, rain, and drops in temperature. Also pack a small folding umbrella.

If you're traveling in pairs or with family, share hairdryers, travel irons and other gadgets.

Try to limit everyone to one bag, the smaller the better. Experienced travelers often go with just their carry-ons.

Even with a carry-on, you'll fare better with a luggage cart, especially if you're getting around on public transport on the ground.

Women's handbags should be any model offering the extra security of a zipper and/or flap, to discourage pickpockets from reaching passports, credit cards and other valuables. The same goes for shoulder bags or backpacks carried by either sex.

Read up on your destination ahead of time, and limit yourself to one basic travel guide on the road. Better yet, get printed flyers from tourist bureaus and discard them as you move from one stop to the next.

Take one camera you know is in good working order, along with a starter roll of film; buy more film along the way as you need it.

It's almost certain you'll want to shop at your destination. A corollary is that you'll also want to find out where the post office is, and what its rules are, so you can send purchases home ahead and keep your bag-weight manageable. Theater programs, museum guides and similar souvenirs usually are printed on heavy-grade stock and can overload your luggage. Pack up your accumulations every few days and send them home at the cheap printed matter rates available in most countries.

Things to leave at home: Fancy clothes, heavy books, full-size cosmetic containers, or extra supplies of anything you can buy on the road and later discard.

Before you leave, make a packing list and enter it into a computer file. When you get back, check it again and eliminate items you found you didn't use. Then save it and print it out when you're ready to travel again.

Wedding information must be submitted by 5 p.m. Monday to be included in the next Sunday Brand. Wedding information forms, as well as those for engagements and showers, are available at the news office, 313 N. Lee.

NBC's She Fought Alone deals with serious teen issue

Tiffani-Amber Thiessen and Brian Austin Green (both of Fox's Beverly Hills, 90210) star in NBC's She Fought Alone, a TV movie dealing with the aftermath of a teen-age girl's rape by a classmate. Isabella Hofmann and David Lipper (not pictured) also star in the film, which debuts Monday.

BY AMY HIBBERT

Sexual harassment and rape are alarmingly common problems among teens and young adults today.

And NBC would like to increase people's awareness of this growing plight with She Fought Alone, a TV movie debuting Monday, Nov. 6.

Starring Tiffani-Amber Thiessen and Brian Austin Green (both of Beverly Hills, 90210), the film follows the story of a teen-ager and her struggle to deal with being raped and the resulting sexual harassment by her classmates afterward.

Thiessen portrays Caitlin Rose, a typical high-school student who just wants to fit in with the "in crowd." After passing a bunch of initiation tests (including a blatant takeoff of the movie Carrie), she is welcomed into the group.

Green stars as Ethan, captain of the football team and part of the popular group. Caitlin is instantly attracted to him and goes to all extremes to get him to like her, including sleeping with him.

Ethan's good friend, Jace (David Lipper), is attracted to Caitlin and makes a few passes at her. But when she refuses his advances, Jace becomes enraged and rapes her.

Because of Caitlin's somewhat promiscuous background, no one is really willing to believe her. Instead, the group rallies around Jace, including Ethan.

Classmates begin teasing Caitlin mercilessly, painting graffiti about her on the school walls and writing her telephone number in the boys' bathroom.

Because Jace is an important member of the school football team, the sports-oriented school officials choose to ignore Caitlin's problems.

Caitlin, with the support of her mother, played by Isabella Hofmann (Homicide: Life on the Street), presents the school with a citation for failing to stop the abuse.

The movie's premise is an important one: Every five minutes, a rape is reported in the United States, with teens and young adults as the most vulnerable age group, according to a network press release. And that number could be higher since many rapes may go unreported.

She Fought Alone does a fairly good job of confronting the issue of sexual harassment but little is done about the repercussions of rape.

The movie does deal with Caitlin's initial reaction — taking a long shower, missing school the next day and being examined by a doctor. But once this is over, the film turns its attention to the harassment activities of her classmates, and little time is spent on Caitlin's personal recovery.

Not much attention is given to the development of the victim's personality either. Thiessen is unable to define her character's identity in the course of the film, making it hard for viewers to feel sympathetic and easy to feel indifferent toward Caitlin.

Green doesn't have much to work with either, although he effectively conveys Ethan's dire need to escape the small-town life, an important aspect of this teen's character.

Hofmann, on the other hand, does give her character a feasible personality. The mother's own promiscuous past at first makes it hard for her to believe Caitlin's story. But gradually she comes to believe her daughter, and their relationship begins to deepen.

Despite the movie's weaknesses, it does put a serious issue in the spotlight.

Muth's MYTHS TODAY

Some ancient myths and mythical figures carry meaning in our daily lives. Here are just a few examples:

- Adonis: An extremely beautiful boy of classical mythology, people today call handsome young men "Adonis."
- Atlas: Famous for his strength, he was condemned to support the Earth on his shoulders for eternity. Now the word "Atlas" is used for the book of maps.
- Mars: The Roman god of war, the month of March is named after him, as well as the planet, Mars.
- Mount Olympus: The legendary home of the Greek and Roman gods, Mount Olympus is an actual mountain in Greece. The Olympic games were a celebration held every four years in honor of Zeus, the chief of the gods. Today's Olympic games are modeled after them.
- Thor: The god of thunder in Norse mythology, Thursday is named after him (Thor's Day).

Mighty Myths

In ancient times, people believed that the world was inhabited by different gods and spirits. Stories that tell of the gods are called myths. There are myths from all countries, but those from Greece and Rome are the most familiar.

Many of the Greek myths were adopted by the Romans. The mythology of the Greeks and Romans considered together is called classical mythology.

- Here are some mythological figures you may recognize.
- Athena: The Greek and Roman Goddess of wisdom, she is said to have had an unusual birth, springing fully grown out of the forehead of her father, Zeus.
  - Helen of Troy: In classical mythology, she was the most beautiful woman. After being captured by Paris, the prince of Troy, the entire Greek army sailed to get her back. This is why she was called "The Face That Launched a Thousand Ships."
  - Hercules: One of the greatest heroes of classical mythology, he is supposed to have been the strongest man on Earth.
  - Midas: In classical mythology, he was a king who was granted one wish. Greedy for riches, Midas wished that everything he touched would turn to gold. He soon regretted it after touching his beloved daughter and turning her into a golden statue!
  - Narcissus: A beautiful youth in classical mythology, he fell in love with his own reflection. Because he was unable to tear himself away from the image, he wasted away and died.
  - Romulus and Remus: According to Roman legend, they were twin brothers who were raised by a she-wolf and founded the city of Rome.

AUTUMN LEAVES

HOROSCOPES

ARIES - March 21/April 20
Consider all options before making a serious commitment this week. Shopping around prevents future regret. At work, it's time to change a system that doesn't work. There's no better time like the present to make improvements. Bad news comes in threes on Wednesday.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21
Make use of extra time by tackling those tasks you always mean to "get around to." You'll feel productive and satisfied with yourself. If you're in a new relationship, this may be the time to let your true feelings be known. A Pisces associate will show you the way.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
A temporary situation may turn into a permanent one if you play your cards right. Stay focused and you will get what you want. Pay attention to details at work, especially on Thursday. Your sense of humor lifts a gloomy friend into a happier state of mind. Children play a role.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
Don't be defensive when dealing with criticism. Try to be confident and open to change. Remember, there's room for improvement with everyone. A selfish acquaintance may try to take advantage of your kind nature. Stay one step ahead and you'll come out on top.

LEO - July 23/August 23
Even the most outgoing Leo will find more pleasure staying close to home this week. Quiet moments will give you the most enjoyment. A friend from far away will have some interesting news. You'll be intrigued at the way people change. A valued item may be carelessly lost.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Expect the unexpected this week. As much as you like to plan, there are some things you can't control - or anticipate. The answer to a puzzling question is right in front of you. Take a good, long look and you will find it. A Scorpio may need your help this week.

★ ★ LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't procrastinate when it comes to important projects. Take tasks head on and you can kick back and relax when it's all over. Putting things off will only prolong the inevitable. A Scorpio will do something nice for you this week. Make sure you show your appreciation. Long-awaited news will finally arrive.

★ ★ SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Your tenacity and endurance will be necessary to get you through a busier-than-usual week. If working too hard puts you in a cranky mood, try not to take it out on loved ones. Best to keep a low profile at home. An old friend may need a favor. Be willing to oblige.

★ ★ SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

A week of ups and downs. A disappointment early in the week will be countered with some very good news later on. Keep a positive attitude and everything will end up going your way. Your sense of humor will come in handy at the workplace this week.

★ ★ CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Communication is very important in a romantic relationship. Why be frustrated when you can get your feelings off your chest? A misunderstanding at work could set you behind schedule. You may have to put in extra hours to make up for it. Try to keep an optimistic attitude.

★ ★ AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Unforeseen interruptions will keep you from the task at hand. Give yourself extra time when planning any projects. A family dispute could put a damper on your spirits, but don't let it get you down. Things will work themselves out with time. Finances look good.

★ ★ PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

A good week for meeting new people and making new friends. Your friendly nature will set the stage for an interesting social scene. A work associate may try to make you look bad in order to look good. Don't let it happen. Stay on your toes and the rest will fall into place.

★ ★ YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

The next 12 months:
Even if things seem pretty stable right now, change in some areas is inevitable. A rocky romantic relationship could reach a major turning point. You may have to decide whether you want to make it or break it once and for all. Think long-term when making decisions of the heart. A change of residence is possible, too, especially if you are renting an apartment. You may decide to move to a bigger, more comfortable space in a more interesting neighborhood. A happening this spring will change your attitude towards certain areas of your life. You'll feel more fortunate for what you have.

IN FOCUS

Jay Thomas (Love & War) examines various odd and inexplicable events as host of NBC's Extremely Weird.

Premiering Sunday, Nov. 5, the special presentation is based on the series of books by the same name.

Unusual phenomena are the focus of the show. During the hour viewers learn about cases of people who burst into flames, twins living identical lives though they have never met and an underwater creature bigger than any other living thing on Earth.

Armand Assante and Brian McCordle (from left) capture the adventure of a Robert Louis Stevenson story when they star in Kidnapped.

Debuting Sunday, Nov. 5, and ending Monday, Nov. 6, on Family Channel, the film stars Assante as Alan Breck Stewart, a Scottish Highland patriot fighting against the invasion of the English in his homeland.

He meets David Balfour (McCordle) when the two are held captive on the same ship. Together they embark on a journey to claim David's inheritance.

The Court-Martial of Billy Mitchell ★★★ (1955) Gary Cooper, Ralph Bellamy. A man is put on trial when he defies military brass in order to shorten World War II. 2:00. November 11 2am.

Cross Creek ★★★ (1983) Mary Steenburgen, Rip Torn. In 1928, author Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings finds new inspiration for her writings in the remote backwoods of Florida. 2:00. November 7 2am.

The Cutting Edge ★★½ (1992) D.B. Sweeney, Moira Kelly. A spoiled figure skater and her new partner try to disguise their mutual dislike as they strive for Olympic gold. 2:00. November 10 9:15pm.

Deadly Game ★★ (1977) Andy Griffith, Mitzzi Hoag. A small-town sheriff suspects that a truckload of lethal chemicals is behind several mysterious deaths. 2:00. November 5 2:05pm.

The Deadly Trackers ★★ (1973) Rod Taylor, Richard Harris. A sheriff's tranquil life is shattered when his wife and son are killed by a crazed bandit. 2:00. November 11 9:30pm.

The Devil-Doll ★★½ (1936) Lionel Barrymore, Maureen O'Sullivan. An ex-con uses a shrinking serum to turn his enemies into miniature instruments of revenge. 1:25. November 9 3:35am.

The Devil's Brigade ★★½ (1968) William Holden, Cliff Robertson. A fact-based account of the exploits of a World War II unit composed of outcast Americans and disciplined Canadians. 2:45. November 8 11:05pm.

Diggstown ★★½ (1992) James Woods, Louis Gossett Jr. An ex-con and a retired prizefighter plot to scam a racketeer who likes to bet on the fights. 2:00. November 9 9:05pm.

TBS salutes Cousteau in My First 85 Years

BY JOHN CROOK

One of the century's most adventurous and well-known documentarians is saluted in Jacques-Yves Cousteau: My First 85 Years. The two-hour special premieres Sunday, Nov. 5, on TBS.

While millions of Americans have been delighted and engrossed by the filmmaker's revelatory films about marine life, many may not be aware Cousteau and his colleague, Emile Gagnan, pioneered the way for those films with their invention of the Aqu-Lung in the mid-1940s.

"I was a naval officer at Toulon (France) when I was introduced to the small goggles made in Japan for pearl divers," Cousteau recalls. "The first time I put them on and swam in the Mediterranean, very close to ... Toulon, I saw fish. I raised my head and saw a streetcar, then descended again and saw a jungle of fish."

"It was like an electric shock to me. I had to bring back to the surface testimonies of the sea." Cousteau says. "For 50 years Cousteau has labored to open viewers' eyes to the wonders beneath the ocean's surface. The TBS special, which is unavailable for preview, includes never-before-seen footage from the filmmaker.

Cousteau's many honors include membership in the National Academy of Sciences, the Academie Francaise and the Television Academy Hall of Fame, the International Environmental Prize awarded by the United Nations, and the U.S. Presidential Medal of Freedom.

Collectively, they stand as a testament to his 50 years as a voice of reason on behalf of the planet and its natural resources.

The optimistic title of the TBS special, which reflects the indefatigable spirit of the filmmaker, takes on additional significance in light of the fact that Cousteau suffered a near-fatal automobile accident at age 26.

"I thought I was going to die," he says. "I remember looking up at the stars and thinking, 'My God, how lucky I was to have seen so many things in my life.' That was at 26. Every morning, every night, I still wonder at how lucky I am to be alive and to have seen so many things."

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Before the show Charlie Grace, was Mark Harmon on a series called Flamingo Road? Was his wife played by Morgan Fairchild? -Kerry Babbitt, Clovis, N.M.

A: Yes. Harmon played Florida Sen. Fielding Carlyle and Fairchild was his spoiled wife, Constance. (Note: Grace has stopped production.)

Q: I understand Jeremy Brett died in September, but did not see any information about it. What can you tell me? He was such a good Sherlock Holmes. -Madelyn Hurst, Nashua, N.H.

A: Brett died at age 59 in London of what was diagnosed as heart failure. While he was best known for his impeccable Holmes, he was also a classically trained stage actor with several West End theater credits. For a radical change of pace, rent the video of My Fair Lady: Brett played Eliza's hapless suitor, Freddy Eynsford-Hill.

Q: Will High Sierra Search and Rescue be on this season? -Gene Bell, Long Beach, Calif.

A: There are no plans at present to bring back the series, which drew very low ratings in its trial run.

Q: Will you please tell my husband that isn't Dinah Manoff playing Hope on Hope & Gloria? -A. Rodgers, Alexander, Maine.

A: Listen to your wife, Mr. Rodgers. That's Cynthia Stevenson playing Hope.

Q: After seeing a Biography episode on Gene Kelly, I wondered if there are any videos of him we might get. -Betty Nelson, Ann Arbor, Mich.

A: ARE there?! Kelly has more than 30 movies on video, far too many to list here.

Of particular note are Singin' in the Rain, An American in Paris, Anchors Away, Les Girls, On the Town and

Mark Harmon

Summer Stock. You can order them from any large video outlet.

Q: I saw The Lion in Winter and wondered what John Castle, who played Geoffrey, has been doing since that 1968 film. -J.T., Akron, Ohio.

A: Apart from Lion, Castle's movie and TV projects available on video include The Bretts, The Crucifer of Blood, Lillie, Man of La Mancha and Robocop 3.

Q: Are The Commish and NYPD Blue coming back, or were they canceled? -Sue Wood, Cambridge Springs, Pa.

A: The Emmy-winning NYPD Blue will be back in its Tuesday slot by the time you read this. ABC delayed its season premiere to give viewers a chance to sample Murder One before moving it to its death slot opposite ER. The Commish also is in production for future airings, but no dates are available at this time.

Send questions to TV Pipeline, Features Dept., TV Data, Northway Plaza, Queensbury, N.Y. 12804. Because of the volume of mail received, personal replies cannot be sent.

Fast Company *** (1938) Melvyn Douglas, Florence Rice. A rare book dealer and his wife become implicated in a rival's murder. 1:30. November 6 9:30am.

Father Takes a Wife *** (1941) Gloria Swanson, Adolphe Menjou. A stowaway singer causes complications during a shipping magnate's honeymoon cruise with his actress-wife. 1:30. November 6 2:30pm.

Fighter Squadron *** (1948) Robert Stack, Edmond O'Brien. American fighter pilots fly a series of death-defying missions against the Luftwaffe in the skies of World War II Europe. 2:00. November 11 2pm.

Finish Line *** (1989) James Brolin, Josh Brolin. Steroids play a role in the training of an ambitious young athlete out to secure both victory and his father's love. (CC) 2:00. November 9 1:30am.

First Blood *** (1982) Sylvester Stallone, Richard Crenna. Vietnam veteran John Rambo leads police on a dangerous wilderness hunt after escaping from a brutal sheriff. (CC) 2:00. November 11 7pm.

Flying High *** (1931) Bert Lahr, Charlotte Greenwood. Lahr made his screen debut in this high-flying tale about an oddball inventor and his revolutionary flying machine. 1:30. November 11 7:30pm.

Follow That Dream ** (1962) Elvis Presley, Arthur O'Connell. A family gets the cold shoulder when they try to homestead a piece of unclaimed land alongside a Florida highway. 2:00. November 5 12pm.

Bruce Greenwood stars as Thomas Vell, a photographer searching everywhere for his lost identity, in Nowhere Man, airing Mondays on UPN.

SOAP TALK

Brown returns to B&B; Sabatino gets new role

BY CANDACE HAVENS

It's hard to keep a good woman down, especially when she is so great at being bad.

Fans were sure when Sheila (Kimberlin Brown) drank poison on The Bold and the Beautiful it was the end of the evil woman's reign. But with a character like Sheila, there is always the possibility of a return.

Producers at B&B know a good thing when they see it and they like Brown, who helped the show rise from the bottom of the ratings pool. Brown's character will become involved with another soap opera veteran, Kin Shriner (ex-Scott, General Hospital).

Another familiar face returning to the soaps is Michael Sabatino (ex-Anthony, B&B, and ex-Lawrence, Days of Our Lives). Sabatino has taken over Bruce Thomas' role as Dr. Kinder on All My Children.

Dr. Kinder will be even more involved in Erica's fight with pill addiction and in her personal life. AMC is filmed in New York, which puts Sabatino near the woman in his own personal life, Crystal Chappell (Maggie, One Life to Live).

In other news: John Bolger, who played Alton Spader on Another World, has returned to the series as Gabe McNamara, a police captain for Bay City. Bolger also portrayed Phillip Spaulding on Guiding Light.

Dear Candace: I would like to know where GL has gone. The network advertised Reva was returning and she would be on an Amish farm.

Now, all of a sudden I can't even find the show. What happened? -Ann Krause, Armada, Mich.

The 1963 drama Arrest and Trial, similar to today's Law & Order, starred Ben Gazzara and Chuck Connors. It didn't catch on.

Dear Reader: This past fall there were a lot of changes among the various networks and their affiliates, particularly with CBS, which airs GL.

Most likely if you find CBS, you will find GL, though it may air earlier. Check your local listings, and if you cannot find the show, write or call your local CBS affiliate.

Reva has regained her memory, but she is still involved with Alan. She also plans to return to Springfield.

Send your comments to Candace Havens, Soap World, Features Dept., TV Data, Northway Plaza, Queensbury, N.Y. 12804. Because of the volume of mail received, personal replies cannot be sent.

Merv Griffin developed the game show Jeopardy! in 1964. Eleven years later he came up with The Wheel of Fortune.

Though ABC's Charlie's Angels made Farrah Fawcett a star, she left after less than one season on the show.

OFFICIAL RULES. NO PURCHASE NECESSARY TO ENTER OR WIN.
1. TO ENTER: Complete the official entry form on a 7" x 17" piece of paper, hand print your name, age, and complete address including zip code, the name and address of the sponsoring store where you entered, and the words Kraft Foods $50 in Free Groceries Sweepstakes, and mail to Kraft Foods $50 in Free Groceries Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 5132, New Milford, CT 06774-5132. ENTRIES MUST BE RECEIVED BY 12/25/95 WHEN THE SWEEPSTAKES ENDS. You may enter as often as you wish but each entry must be mailed separately. No resubmission of completed or photocopy entries will be honored. Not responsible for lost, late or misdirected mail.
2. PRIZES: $1 Grand Prize: A $50 Gift Certificate will be awarded in this draw. Total approximate retail value of all prizes: $2,000.00. No substitution or transfer of prize permitted except at sponsor's discretion and only when prize is generally considered of comparable value, in which case a prize of equal or greater value will be substituted. All federal, state and local taxes, if any, are the sole responsibility of the individual winner.
3. DRAWING: Grand Prize Winner(s) will be selected in a random drawing from among all eligible entries received from this chain. A random drawing will be held on or about 1/25/96 by MGL, an independent judging organization, whose decisions are final in all matters relating to this sweepstakes. Potential winners will be notified by mail. Failure of any prize/entry notification to a winner will result in awarding of prize to an alternate winner. Odds of winning are determined by the number of eligible entries received. Limit one (1) prize per household. All prizes will be awarded.
4. ELIGIBILITY: Sweepstakes is open to U.S. citizens who are residents of the participating retailer's trading area, 18 years of age or older as of 12/25/95, except employees of Kraft Foods, Inc., its retailers, their parent, subsidiaries, affiliated companies, advertising and promotional agencies, and the families of each. Entry constitutes permission to use winner's name and/or likeness for advertising/promotional purposes without further compensation unless prohibited by law. Offer void where prohibited and subject to all federal, state, and local laws and regulations.
5. WINNER LIST: For winner list available after 2/2/96, send a self-addressed, stamped business size (14x) envelope and the name of the store where you entered, to Kraft Foods $50 in Free Groceries Sweepstakes Winner List, 9 River Road, Suite 222, Department 229, Wilton, CT 06797-0229.
