U.S. SENATOR PHIL GRAMM

Gramm to visit Holly

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm (R-College Station) will tour the Imperial Holly Sugar plant in Hereford on Saturday morning during a brief stop here.

The tour of the plant is part of a two-day swing through the Panhandle to view the area's agriculture-related industry, according to a news release from Gramm's Washington, D.C. office.

Gramm is expected to arrive at the plant at about 11:25 a.m. Saturday, and plans to have a brief visit with some local residents.

NDC could aid ED funding

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

If the local community is planning on any major economic development in the future, it will probably take some creative financing—perhaps involving several groups—for those dreams to reach reality.

That is why the Economic Development Strategy Council is considering a contract with the National Development Council to help create an incentives package that could help convince industries to locate in Hereford, and help spawn local ideas and local business expansion.

The National Development Council has a 15-year track record of success in working hand-in-hand with cities, counties and states to help make economic development happen.

The non-profit corporation depends on a 20-person staff with backgrounds in banking, development, local government and other areas to run development programs and finance economic development, and uses a unique mix of public and private monies to help finance development.

Sally Loveland, of NDC's corporate headquarters in New York City, visited Hereford in early May to assess the work of the Economic Development Strategy Council and the draft version of the Strategic Plan for Economic Development, and has worked up a proposed contract for work NDC could do in Hereford and Deaf Smith County—if the contract is approved by the EDSC for the first two months of the project, and later by the proposed Economic Development Council.

The first phase would concentrate assistance to the EDSC for project evaluation, programs transition from EDSC to the economic development group which will supplant it in August, and basic program structuring and staffing.

The second phase of the proposals calls for NDC to continue to provide technical assistance for project review, program development, project financing and building financial capacity.

Overall, NDC proposes to: --Help evaluate project feasibility, financial structuring and working with private and public lenders to finance projects through the Economic Development Council or a similar group;

--Assist in the recruitment and screening of candidates for an economic development professional for the appropriate entity;

--Aid in the design of a business financing incentive package that could include revolving loan funds, link deposit funds, and federal and state incentives;

--Help the county fund and implement the financing programs in Deaf Smith county, leveraging public and private resources;

--Work with various local lenders and investors to participate in economic development;

--Work with state and federal agencies to fund incentive programs and individual projects.

What would it cost? According to the proposal, the EDSC would spend $21,500—which it already has—for the initial phase of the program. Phase II, which would be financed by entities participating in the Economic Development Council, would be billed for about $3,500 a month. The total tab for a 12-month period would not exceed $53,000.

Reagan cautious on USSR

LONDON (AP) — President Reagan, reporting on summit talks in Moscow, said today that Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev is "a serious man seeking serious reform," but that the Soviet Union still should be viewed with caution.

"Let us embrace honest change when it occurs; but let us also be wary, and ever vigilant. Let us stay strong," Reagan said in a prepared address.

Winding up a 10-day trip that included five days in the Soviet capital, Reagan gave his summit assessment in a speech before the Royal Institute of International Affairs at Guildhall, a center of civic government for more than 1,000 years.

After a farewell to U.S. Embassy families here, Reagan and his wife Nancy were to board Air Force One for the return to Washington, where a welcoming ceremony awaited them at Andrews Air Force Base.

Reagan's four days of talks with Gorbachev did not produce any breakthrough on a strategic arms reduction treaty, though both sides said some key differences had been narrowed. Nevertheless, the two leaders displayed a warm personal relationship.

Reagan said the Soviet Union is dominated now by talk of democratic reform, in the economy, in political institutions, and in religious, social and artistic life — "in short, giving individuals more freedom to run their own affairs, to control their own destinies."

"To those of us familiar with the post-war era, all of this is cause for shaking head in wonder," Reagan said, expressing amazement about an American president and a Soviet leader walking together in Red Square, as he and Gorbachev did, talking about "a growing personal friendship and meeting."

He said that episode was "a special moment in a week of special moments."

"My personal impression of Mr. Gorbachev is that he is a serious man seeking serious reform," Reagan said. "I pray that the hand of the Lord will be on the Soviet people."

He said the strategy of the West for Eddie Guffee, director of the Llano Estacado Museum in Plainview, brushes sand and plaster off the fossilized remains of an Imperial mammoth unearthed southwest of Hereford along Frio Draw in mid-May. Guffee says the process of removing the plaster cast, repairing the skull, and preparing it for display could take up to a year to complete.

AIDS booklet

Many Hereford residents, and others across the nation, received "Understanding AIDS," a brochure prepared by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, in the mail Thursday. The eight-page booklet, sometimes in explicit terms, explains how AIDS can and cannot be transmitted, has a simple test on AIDS facts, and other important facts.

That's the note we got this week from a reader, who also sent along a clipping from the March 10, 1938 issue of The Hereford Brand. The news item reported that Coach R.A. Muller would take 10 girls to the State AAU Tournament in Greenville.

Three of the team members still live in Hereford. They are Thama (Cawthon) Pearson, Mary Virginia (Whitehead) Watts, and Anna Marie (Kuper) Dupnik. Two others were here last Saturday for their 50th class reunion. They were Helen Ann (Snyder) Sanders, from the state of Washington, and Nedra (Clayton) Wickersham from Paris, Tx.

Chamber Singers concert Sunday

The Hereford Chamber Singers will present their "Australia" program in concert at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Hereford High School auditorium.

There will be no charge for admission, but there will be an opportunity for persons who would like to make donations to defray the group's expenses for their upcoming trip to Expo '88 in Brisbane, Australia.

Dry, warm

Tonight will be fair with a low of 52. North-northeast winds will be 5-15 mph.

Saturday will be sunny with a high of 78. East-northeast winds will be 5-15 mph.

This morning's low at KPAN was 56 after a high Thursday of 82.

Man charged with theft

A 22-year-old man was charged with theft under $200 Thursday after Fred Gamboa, owner of Gamboa's Radiator Shop at 102 S. Blevins St., spotted the man stealing radiators from his business.

According to police reports, after Gamboa had seen the man loading radiators into a pickup at 10:30 p.m., Gamboa blocked the exit so the man couldn't leave and called police.

The suspect then ran, but a deputy from the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office saw him and the man was later arrested.

Also, a 15-year-old boy accused of fighting the last day of school at Stanton Junior High School confessed to being involved in the fight, and police charged him with aggravated assault.

He was later released to the custody of his parents.

Another 15-year-old boy reported that a 16-year-old boy threatened him with a knife at the city pool. Police identified the 16-year-old and turned him over to juvenile authorities.

Another knife threat was reported at the Lynette Apartments, 132 Ave. H, after which the complainant ran off and left his pickup. When the man returned, two of his tires were slashed.

Later, the suspect in the case notified police that a man from Lynette Apartments knocked on his door wanting to fight. When it was learned that the police were on their way, the attacker in this case jumped into his pickup to leave.

However, the reporting party slashed the attacker's tires so he could not flee until the police arrived. It was reported that the attacker left on foot.

A woman in the 200 block of Avenue C said she witnessed a man in a car shoot a rifle at another car driven by a man with whom he had been arguing.

A $200 radar detector was stolen from a man's car on North 25 Mile Avenue; a city employee found several road signs in an alley, and a woman with the Campfire reported a speeding car in Veteran's Park.

One minor accident was reported, and five citations were issued.

Woman assaulted by two females

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post was burglarized sometime between 12:15 a.m. and 3 p.m. June 2 in which $30 cash, $700 worth of liquor and a $150 clock were stolen. Entry was gained through the front window.

A woman at 201 Boston Street was assaulted Thursday night by two women who borrowed a dress from the complainant. When the complainant asked for the dress, a fight started, and the victim received scratches on her neck and face.

Criminal mischief was reported at Panhandle Concrete Company on south U.S. Highway 385 after someone had cut two fan belts and a fuel line on a loader and two fan belts on another loader. Damage was estimated at $50.

Those arrested include a 29-year-old man for a driving while intoxicated jail commitment and a man, 61, for a second offense driving while intoxicated jail commitment.

STRIKE FORCE
... To lead city-wide youth revival

Strike Force leads revival

Keith Craft, Errick Redmond and Keith Kingston, the three-man "Strike Force" team, will lead a city-wide youth revival Saturday through Monday at 7 p.m. daily at the Hereford High School auditorium.

Strike Force travels the world speaking at schools, church meetings, and other venues, and uses a unique means to grab the attention of their audience.

Craft, who has twice been to Dallas Cowboys training camps because of his size and strength, has broken out of more than 300 pair of police handcuffs.

Redmond crushes four stacks of concrete as they burst into flames.

Kingston, with one flex of his chest, bursts three 2x4s.

The trio also crushes 15 feet of ice with a blow from the head, rips telephone books in half, explodes hot water bottles with lung power, and lifts incredible amounts of weight.

"These feats of strength are a tool we use to get people's attention," said Craft. "Then we speak a powerful message of hope, and encourage young people against drugs, alcohol, suicide and immoral sex."

"After we perform these feats we are able to present the most important thing about our lives—our relationship with Jesus Christ."

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Bush backs off rights

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer
Vice President George Bush inched away from President Reagan on the issue of human rights in the Soviet Union, but insisted that the latest bit of distance between himself and his boss doesn't signal a "drastic change" in his game plan. Democrat Michael Dukakis, meanwhile, left the campaign trail to be with his wife Kitty, who was undergoing spinal surgery today.

Bush, returning to Washington today after a week of strategy talks at his summer home, says he's convinced his campaign is "on the right track" despite a rash of recent surveys suggesting he trails Dukakis, the Democratic front-runner.

"I'm not going to be stamped by polls that don't mean anything," the vice president told reporters on Thursday, as he was preparing to leave his oceanside retreat at Kennebunkport, Maine.

Meanwhile, a poll in California gave Dukakis a substantial lead over his remaining rival, Jesse Jackson, in Tuesday's primary. But it suggested Jackson, who has campaigned heavily in the state, was gaining ground.

Dukakis cut short a California campaign swing on Thursday after his wife's doctors decided to perform "urgent" surgery on herniated discs pressing dangerously on Mrs. Dukakis' spinal cord.

Dukakis, who was spending the night at the hospital, visited his wife late Thursday night and told reporters afterward: "She's in good spirits, looks good and is anxious to get this over with."

Jackson was campaigning today in New Mexico and Montana, whose primaries on Tuesday have been largely overshadowed by big same-day contests in New Jersey and California. The four races, with a total of 466 delegates at stake, close out the Democratic primary season, and offer Dukakis a chance to clinch the nomination.

Of the 2,081 delegates needed to nominate, the Massachusetts governor has nearly 1,800. Jackson trails with fewer than 1,000.

In California, a poll conducted for the San Francisco Examiner and San Francisco television station KRON indicated Dukakis led Jackson by 24 percentage points, 52 percent to 28 percent. In a similar survey two weeks ago, he led by 37 points.

GOV. MICHAEL S. DUKAKIS

The poll, for which 600 registered Democratic voters were questioned on Tuesday and Wednesday, has a margin of error of 4 percentage points, the Examiner said in Thursday's editions.

Jackson was expressing hopes that a debate with Dukakis could be arranged before Tuesday's primary. The two Democrats had been scheduled to debate Thursday afternoon in California, but Dukakis canceled out after his wife's doctors said they wanted to operate without delay.

Bush, meanwhile, was returning to Washington today in time to greet President Reagan, who will be back from tonight from the superpower summit.

Bush has edged away from the president on a matters such as Panama's Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, under indictment on drug charges, and Attorney General Edwin Meese III, under investigation by an independent counsel. But he has refrained from any dramatic breaks with the president.

On Thursday, he was asked about Reagan's suggestion that Soviet reluctance to issue exit visas stems from bureaucratic problems rather than Kremlin policy.

Bush sidestepped the question. But he went on to criticize Soviet human rights policy in stronger terms than the president has used.

"I think we have very different views on human rights than the Soviet Union," he said. "I would suggest that Soviet retaliation against us, saying we've got human rights problems, is mixing apples and oranges."

The vice president added: "We've got some problems, but they're not problems of human rights."

Organs might be wasted

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly half of all donated hearts and livers obtained by a New York hospital are going to waste rather than helping to save lives, a study shows, alarming experts who say the pattern could be widespread.

"We should try in every way that we can to seek a remedy" to the inefficiency and inadequate resources causing the problem, said Dr. Carl Andrus, a transplant surgeon at the University of Rochester Medical Center.

The research by Andrus and others at the medical center was to be presented today at the American Society of Transplant Surgeons' annual meeting.

In their paper, the researchers said that most families, when approached properly, agree to donate a loved one's organs. So it's especially painful when organs that could be put to good use are buried instead.

About 475 people are awaiting liver transplants in the United States, while nearly 900 others await new hearts, according to the United Network for Organ Sharing.

"There is a problem from time to time with placing good hearts and livers," acknowledged Dr. John McDonald, president of the transplant surgeons' society and immediate past president of the network.

No statistics are available regarding the number of organs that are donated but go unused in this country each year. Some doctors questioned whether as many as half of all donated hearts and livers are being wasted.

"That figure seems high," said Dr. Robert J. Corry, a University of Iowa transplant surgeon.

The University of Rochester Organ Procurement Program began its study about a year ago after experiencing considerable difficulty placing donated livers and hearts elsewhere. The medical center only transplanted kidneys.

The researchers tracked all organs donated through the Rochester program from January 1985 to October 1987, when a new scoring system for allocating transplant organs became mandatory for members of the organ network.

In nearly three years, 74 of the 203 brain-dead patients referred to the program proved medically suitable, Richard Kruk, an organ procurement coordinator at the center, said Thursday.

Relatives of the 74, were approached about the possibility of organ donation, leading to consent for the donation of 68 kidneys, 55 livers and 44 hearts.

Sixty-three kidneys were found to be suitable for a transplant, as were 40 livers and 42 hearts, Kruk said.

All 63 kidneys were transplanted, but just 20 livers and 23 hearts were used, the study found.

Kruk said he and others in the organ procurement program made 411 phone calls to try to place the 39 unused hearts and livers, which were never removed from donors' bodies.

Many calls were unsuccessful because of inaccurate listings of potential recipients in national computer systems, including the one now run by the transplant network. Some information was outdated.

"We'd be told there was a desperate need for a heart in Cleveland, so we'd call Cleveland and be told, 'Oh no, he was transplanted this morning,'" said Suanne Paprocki, an organ procurement coordinator in Rochester.

Some transplant centers said they preferred waiting for a locally obtained donor, while others said they didn't think the organs suited their needs. Still others said they didn't have a team available to retrieve the organs or that there wasn't room in the intensive-care unit.

In many cases nationally, there are not enough transplant teams, McDonald said. "It's possible for a team to be so exhausted from previous work that it would be unwise for them to undertake another graft."

Kruk said the toughest job was telling families their loved ones' organs couldn't be used.

"Because the spirit of organ donation is altruistic, because the next of kin are making a decision for the common good, you don't want to lead them to believe the common good isn't being served," Kruk said. "It's only that it could be better served."

I got telephone calls Thursday from both of the people who read my column regularly. They were reading the bull column in Wednesday's paper about class reunions and called to complain that they couldn't find the rest of the column on Page 2. A quick check revealed they were right—we left out the "jump" portion of the column. So, by "popular" request, we're reprinting the whole thing on reunions.

REFLECTIONS ON REUNIONS
Reunions are a competitive sport. At early reunions, classmates compete with each other about jobs and incomes; then about the 30th it's spouses and children and vacation homes—while regarding, with envy or glaze, our classmates' wastelands, hairlines and wrinkle-lines.

As we reach the 30th reunion, we enter a new phase of competition—perhaps aptly described by Woody Allen when he said, "Ninety percent of life is just showing up."

As the years turn, our classmates change from young to middle age to "you haven't changed a bit." But change is the name of the game. For those approaching their 30th reunion, consider: We were before VCR's, American Express, frisbees and $1.50 gasoline. For us, time-sharing meant togetherness not a condo or computer; a chip meant a piece of wood; hardware meant hardware, and software wasn't even a word.

In our time, closets were for clothes—not for coming out of; bunnies were small rabbits, and rabbits were not Volkswagens. We were before training bras and we thought a deep cleavage was something butchers did. We were before Mr. T, Rocky, Flintstone vitamins, disposable diapers, and Merrill Lynch.

When we were in Hereford High, pizzas, frozen orange juice, instant coffee and McDonald's were unheard of. We thought fast food was what you did during Lent. We were before FM radio, tape recorders, electric toothbrushes, word processors, Muzak and disco dancing.

Almost no one flew across the country. We were before panty hose, drip-dry clothes, icemakers, student beer busts, "streaking" and drug busts. We were before unmarried members of the opposite sex took trips together, before men wore long hair and, for the most part, before premarital sex. Anyway, we got married first and then lived together.

In our day, grass was mowed; Coke was something you drank, and not referred to as a cooking utensil. We were before day-care centers, house husbands and fulltime baby-sitters. When we had a baby, it was a seven-day hospital event, not something you did on your way to work.

It's hard to believe but many schools were still desegregated in our day. "Made in Japan" meant junk; and the term "making out" referred to how you did on an exam. We had five-and-ten stores where you could buy something for a nickel or a dime.

For just a nickel, you could buy a Coke, make a phone call, or but a stamp to mail a letter. You could buy a new '56 Chevy for $1,500 but not too many folks could afford it. A pity, too, for gas was 25 cents a gallon. We knew there was a difference in sexes but we were before sex changes. We just made do with what we had. And we were the last generation that was so dumb as to think you needed a husband to have a baby.

But the late 1950s were super days. We had Elvis, Fabian, Jerry Lee Lewis and Ricky Nelson. We could go to a dance at the Community Center, or go to the Double K for a vanilla coke. We played 45 rpm records and learned to do the "stroll." We held our partners close or we could rock and roll with Little Richard.

We didn't have to deal with sensitivity training and we hadn't heard about str. ss levels. We didn't have to jog, pump our own gas, practice yoga, or exercise with Jane Fonda or Richard Simmons.

Some of the HHS graduates are returning in 1988 to reassure themselves that there are some things that never change—the ability to have a good time and the pride in and love for our classmates and Alma Mater!

REAGAN

dealing with the Soviets was "bearing fruit."

"Quite possibly, we are beginning to take down the barriers of the post-war era, quite possibly we are entering a new era in history, a time of lasting change in the Soviet Union," he said.

"We will have to see," the president said. "But if so, it is because of the steadfastness of the allies—the democracies—for more than 40 years, and especially in this decade."

Reagan suggested he would continue to speak out against human rights abuses in the Soviet Union and elsewhere.

"We have learned the first objective of the adversaries of freedom is to make free nations question their own faith in freedom, to make us think that adhering to our principles and speaking out against human rights abuses or foreign aggression is somehow an act of belligerence..."

"In matters of state," he said, "unless the truth be spoken, it ceases to exist."

Despite the impasse on a START treaty, Reagan spoke optimistically about chances for getting an agreement.

"We made tangible progress toward the START treaty on strategic weapons," the president said. "Such a treaty, with all its implications, is, I believe, now within our grasp."

However, he said, there are other elements as important as arms negotiations.

"As I never tire of saying, nations do not distrust each other because they are armed; they are armed because they distrust each other," Reagan said. "So equally important items on the agenda (in Moscow) dealt with critical issues, like regional conflicts, human rights and bilateral exchanges."

Despite some progress, American negotiators say the two sides made no progress on some of the thorniest areas of dispute: sea-launched cruise missiles and the longstanding difference over Reagan's Star Wars missile defense system.

In his speech, Reagan paid a special tribute to his close friend and ally, British Prime Margaret Thatcher, noting that she had been among the first to suggest the West could "do business" with Gorbachev.

"At this hour in history, prime minister, the entire world salutes you and your gallant people and gallant nation."

On Thursday, Queen Elizabeth II entertained him with tea at Buckingham Palace, a band played tunes written by 100-year-old American songwriter Irving Berlin and Mrs. Thatcher saluted Reagan's "tremendous success" at his summit, which, she said, heralds "a new era in East-West relations."

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Hereford is a great town to live in. The people and businesses of Hereford are dedicated to make the town a better place to live.

May 25 was a special time when the American Legion Auxiliary distributed poppies for a donation.

I appreciate all the help given that day and all the businesses that let the auxiliary visit and all the publicity that made the day a success.

I appreciate the mayor taking time to declare the day as Poppy Day in memory of the veterans that served in the last four wars.

I appreciate and thank the Hereford Brand KPAN, Hereford State Bank, First National Bank, Sr. Citizens, Kings Manor, K-Bobs, Troy's Sweet Shop, Hereford Lions Club, Ranch House and all the public for a successful day. Thanks again.

Church News

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH

The Hereford Seventh-day Adventist Church, 711 W. Park St., will conduct a vacation Bible School Sunday through Friday. Registration will begin at 6:15 p.m. Sunday with the actual program set from 8:30-8:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday. A special family program is planned Friday.

The Bible school is being offered free of charge and is designed for children 5-13 years of age. The program consists of music, Bible study, crafts and other activities. The theme of the Bible School is "Happy With Jesus". For additional information call 364-6227. Advance registration is recommended.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The public is invited to all church worship services: Sunday school begins at 9:45; Sunday morning worship, 11; and Sunday evening worship, 6:30.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Representatives of First United Methodist Church will go to Abilene next week for the Annual Conference of Northwest Texas United Methodist Churches, beginning Monday at St. Paul's UMC.

Voting delegates from First UMC are Labry and Jean Ballard, with Shirley and Mildred Garrison as alternates. Rev. Steve McElroy, pastor; Rev. Daniel Reyna, associate pastor; Rev. Lanny Wheeler, Kings Manor chaplain, and several retired UM ministers living in Hereford will be among the clerical delegates. Other members will attend some sessions as visitors.

First United Methodist Men will meet for breakfast at 8 a.m. Sunday in Fellowship Hall. David Euler, president, urges all men of the congregation to come for the breakfast and planning session.

New 7th graders in First UMC will be honor guests at a Youth Fellowship cookout at 6 p.m. Sunday at the home of Troy Don and Kathy Moore. They will be welcomed to membership in the fellowship by members in both Senior and Junior High UMYF. Tammy Summersgill will present a devotional in music.

The enrollment limit for Marketplace 29 A.D. was reached last week, and no more children may be added for the event which will replace the usual Vacation Bible

FACES IN STONE
RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — The Mount Rushmore National Memorial, located in the Black Hills, covers 1,686 acres of wooded mountains encircling Mount Rushmore.

The memorial was established in 1929. Carved on the face of Mount Rushmore are the features of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. Each measures some 60 feet in height, from the chin to the top of the head, and is visible up to about 18 miles away.

Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, began work on the first head, that of Washington, in 1927.

School program of First UMC, for children from age three through sixth graders.

It will be held June 13-15 on the grounds of the Ted McWhorter home west of Hereford, where a replica of a village of Jesus' time will be constructed with tents and booths representing homes, shops, craft shops and synagogue. The children will learn about life in that time by actual work, stories, music, drama and games.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The title of the Rev. Bruce Kochsmeier's sermon for the regular 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship service is "Buried Treasure." The scripture is Matthew 24:14-30. The congregation is asked to read Matthew 25 in preparation for the sermon.

The Scripture For Lunch Bunch meets at noon each Wednesday at the church for a brown bag lunch and to study the scripture, II Corinthians 5:6-10, 14-17.

Sunday, June 12, begins the church's Summer Sunday School program. All children ages three through the sixth grade will meet at the Sheepfold in the church large fellowship hall at 9:30 a.m. Junior and senior high youths will meet at their regular locations. The adult video film "Pot Pourree" will meet in the small fellowship hall to see Part I of "Surviving in the Midst of Worry and Stress" featuring Lloyd Ogilvie. Rev. Kochsmeier's Serendipity class will meet upstairs in the old library.

The church library features a variety of video tapes and books including "When I Relax I Feel Guilty" and "You Gotta Keep Dancin'" by Tim Hansel, "12 Steps To Living Without Fear" by Lloyd Ogilvie; and "Parenting Isn't For Cowards" by Dr. James Dobson.

The Summer Sunday School staff will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 9, at the church.

Mission Yearbook: TODAY we are asked to pray for the AMITY organization of mainland China. Though a non-church organization, AMITY is staffed in large part by former American missionaries. Among these is Kathryn Nelson who writes, "We have never before enjoyed more meaningful opportunities to live out our faith. We are learning something about evangelism here in China as we seek to serve our healing profession and our Christ." Please pray for this incarnation of the Gospel.

WESLEY UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

The Rev. Derral Evins invites the public to all church services: Sunday school begins at 10 a.m.; Sunday morning worship, 11; and Sunday evening service, 7 p.m. A special sermon for the children is also held each Sunday.

The United Methodist Men will meet at 9 a.m. Sunday for breakfast. The Faith Builders Class will meet for a luncheon at noon, June 12. A love offering will be taken for landscaping the church yard.

The church is asking donations of aluminum cans which are not crushed. Also, the children are involved in a special project, collecting a mile of pennies.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have several friends who like to drop in late in the evening. We both must get up at 7 a.m. to go to work, so we are usually in bed by 11 p.m. Some of these friends stop over as late as 10 o'clock and stay until 1 in the morning. Of course we are exhausted the next day.

We've tried to discourage these late visitors by hanging signs on the door. One read, "This house is closed at 11 p.m." Another was the simple statement, "We are tired and have gone to bed." They thought the signs were funny and rang the bell anyway.

It doesn't help to turn out the lights. We've tried it. Believe it or not, they pound on the door until we answer. We don't want to drive our friends away, Ann, we just want them to be a little more considerate. Can you help?—Frustrated but Friendly in Nebraska

DEAR FRUS: Apparently you have never heard of the Landers Law of Interpersonal Relations. It goes like this: No one can take advantage of you without your permission.

When you let these clods in at any hour you give them permission to continue to drop in whenever they feel like it.

You can put an end to this nonsense by being emphatic. Tell them you value their friendship but you are dead serious when you say you never want them to drop by after 10 p.m. because you go to bed at 11. Then, shut the door.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my mother died in 1984 she left me almost nothing. Her estate was considerable but I decided not to contest it because I have three brothers whom I love. Their good will was more important to me than the money.

Two of my brothers have not spoken to each other in almost four years. Why? Lamps. You heard right. A lousy pair of living room lamps. They both wanted them.

If my parents knew how their sons were behaving they would be spinning in their graves. Maybe with a little luck, both brothers will go broke and start behaving like a family again. Sign me — A Sad Sister in Reading, Mass.

DEAR SISTER: Back in 1788, Johann Kaspar Lavater, a Swiss theologian, said, "Say not that you know another entirely till you have shared an inheritance with him." You letter proves that many things may change with time, but human nature remains the same. My condolences to you and a pox on your brothers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this message to all those women who write and complain that there are no decent men around:

When you stop looking for a 6-foot-2 hunk with big muscles and a full head of hair, and decide that you will settle for an average-looking, intelligent and caring person, you will find plenty of men to choose from.

My son (32 years of age) is average height, average looking and slightly bald, but he is bright, interesting and would make a wonderful husband. He would love to get married, but he has been rejected so often that he has given up.

By the time these fussy women reach 35 and decide maybe they should change their values, the decent men will have decided that it's not worth the effort.—R.G. in Miami, Fla.

DEAR R.G.: Tell your son not to give up. There's a big demand for men who fit his description, but too often they are looking for gorgeous women, with money yet. That train runs both ways, Mama.

Concert slated Sunday

The Hereford Chamber Singers invite the public to hear their "Australia" program at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Hereford High School auditorium. There will be no charge.

The talented group of Hereford residents will leave June 11 for Brisbane, Australia, where they have been invited to perform in the entertainment amphitheater at World Expo '88. Bill Devers directs the group with his wife Elva providing piano accompaniment. Jane Gully serves as the music and program chairman and Amy Gililand is chairman of the board of directors.

Musical numbers to be performed in the amphitheater will include "Advance Australia Fair", the Australian national anthem, followed by a medley of Australian folk songs. The remainder of the program will consist of a medley of country music numbers and a set of Texas songs.

A second concert will be presented at the Pavilion of Promise, an area honoring the religions of the world.

The Chamber Singers have performed in Romania under the auspices of the Friendship Ambassadors program and many communities, always carrying out their motto, "Human Relations Through Music."

Public invited to rummage sale

The public is invited to a rummage sale beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday at Walcott School.

Among the items to be sold include a coke machine, P.A. system, microwave, toaster, hot dog roaster, milk dispenser, dishwasher, gym mat, lawn edger, riding mower, push mower, paper cutter, 1973 Ford bus (54 passenger), 1984 Chevy bus (35 passenger), duplicating machine, office desk, student desks and chairs, assortment of A.V. equipment, bicycles, toys, clothes, dishes, furniture, bedroom suit and other household items.

In 10-innings; quarterfinal series tied 1-1

Herd suffers 6-5 loss to Canyon in game 2

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

A game that could be described as a profile in courage by the Hereford Whitefaces in the bottom of the seventh inning, especially by centerfielder-turned-pitcher Rodney McCracken, became a big disappointment for the Herd in the 10th inning when they lost to Canyon 6-5 Thursday night at Jaycee Park in Plainview.

The loss evened up the class 4A state quarterfinal series at one game apiece, making necessary a third game at Plainview on Saturday at 1 p.m. Hereford goes into game three with a 26-4 record, and Canyon is 22-11.

Each team had a two-run inning and a three-run inning in the first four innings of play Thursday. After Canyon tied the game at 5-5 in the bottom of the fourth inning, Hereford starting pitcher James Hernandez shut out Canyon in the next one and two-thirds innings before giving up a single.

Hereford Coach T.R. Sartor brought in Rodney McCracken to relieve Hernandez. McCracken got the first batter he faced, Jason Roach, to ground out for the third out.

In the top of the seventh, Michael Phibbs singled for the Whitefaces with one out. Later, with two out, Roger McCracken hit a ground ball that Eagle second baseman Roach threw wildly past first base for an error.

Phibbs attempted to reach third base on the error, but was thrown out by catcher Kevin Dewey to end the inning.

Rodney McCracken the pitcher got himself into trouble in the bottom of the seventh inning, walking the first two batters he faced, Kent Colley and Walt Garrison. Dewey was safe on a fielder's choice — a choice that resulted in no throw to any base — leading the bases.

Rodney then put together a profile in courage story. He got the next batter he faced, David Atkins, to hit a grounder toward second baseman Ross Torres, who threw to catcher Bobby Collier for out No. 1.

The next batter, Brad Byrd, popped up the ball, which Rodney caught near the fence in foul territory on the first base side of the diamond.

That left Rodney needing to get John Eller out to send the game into extra innings. Eller fouled off the first pitch, took the second pitch for a ball, swung and missed the third pitch, fouled off the fourth pitch, and struck out swinging at the fifth pitch.

Each team had one baserunner in the eighth inning and failed to score. Hernandez singled in that inning for Hereford.

In the ninth inning, it was three up, three down for both teams.

In the 10th inning with one out, Roger McCracken lined a single off the glove of Canyon pitcher Todd Albracht. But Hernandez and Torres both grounded out, stranding courtesy runner Glenn Parker at second base.

In the bottom of the 10th, Clint Cotten, playing in center field after Rodney McCracken began pitching earlier in the game, made a diving catch of a ball hit by Byrd for the first out. But McCracken walked Eller, gave up a single to R.L. Pond, and walked Albracht, loading the bases.

Roach's turn to bat for Canyon came up. A 3-1 pitch from McCracken was called strike. Roach, however, stroked the 3-2 pitch for a game-winning single, and Canyon claimed a 6-5 win in the marathon game.

"When you go 10 innings and drop it, it's a tough loss. Their pitcher did a real good job, and shut us down," Hereford Coach T.R. Sartor said.

"We couldn't mount an offensive attack after the third inning. We got runners in scoring position once or twice, but we couldn't get a string of hits going."

"James did a fine job pitching for us. We had a few errors that hurt us," Sartor continues. "Albracht got tougher and tougher. I kept thinking he would tire. You've got to give him credit," Sartor adds.

Albracht pitched all 10 innings for the Eagles, recording five strikeouts, allowing eight hits and walking four batters.

Hereford pitchers combined had six strikeouts, gave up ten hits and walked six batters. Hernandez's statistics were three strikeouts, seven hits and two walks in 4-2-3 innings, and McCracken's statistics were three strikeouts, three hits and four walks in 4-2-3 innings.

Now it's back to Plainview again Saturday to determine a state tournament qualifier. Coach Sartor said he will start Jason Scott, Wednesday's winning pitcher. Scott is 12-1 for the season, including three victories over Canyon.

Two other state tournament berths have been decided. Brenham, ranked No. 1 in the state in the final poll before the playoffs began, defeated Santa Fe High School of Alta Loma, 2-0, Thursday at College Station.

Robstown, by defeating Gregory-Portland 7-2 at Corpus Christi, will go into the state tournament with the second best winning percentage, .909, with an 18-2 record. Hereford, with a win Saturday over Canyon, would go into the state tournament with a 27-4 record, a winning percentage of .871.

The other state quarterfinal series has Waxahachie leading Mt. Pleasant one game to none. Waxahachie defeated Mt. Pleasant 7-3 on Wednesday at Mt. Pleasant. Game two of the series was rained out with the score 0-0 after two innings.

Game two will continue from where it was interrupted by rain, on Saturday at 1 p.m. in Waxahachie. If a third game is necessary, it will be played at Lancaster on Saturday after game two.

For Herd, Sartor in 7th inning

Extra-infielder strategy worked

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

When Muhammad Ali recaptured the World Heavyweight Championship from George Foreman in the mid 1970s, Ali claimed he used the "rope-a-dope" technique. He let Foreman punch himself out, then let Foreman have it.

The Hereford Whitefaces used a similar technique in one of high school baseball's biggest ever gut-checks Thursday night to keep their hopes alive in the bottom of the seventh inning against Canyon in the state Class 4A quarterfinals in Plainview.

The Herd and the Eagles had been tied at 5-all since the bottom of the fourth in the scheduled seven-inning game. Canyon's Kent Colley and Walt Garrison walked, and an sacrifice bunt to first baseman Derrell Page loaded the bases because Page was unable to find a clear route for the throw to first.

The bases were loaded. No one was out. The Herd was on the ropes. Canyon was ready to deliver the knockout blow.

Hereford, like Ali, had things right where they wanted them. "I was determined to throw strikes," said Hereford reliever Rodney McCracken, who had pitched since the bottom of the fifth. "I was just playing mind games with myself. I decided the pressure was really on them, and I felt more confident about me and what the team would do."

Hereford coach T.R. Sartor pulled everyone close to the plate. The infielders were playing almost even with the rubber atop the pitcher's mound. They had to get an out at the plate.

The outfielders were barely off the infield dirt. A deep fly ball would score a run even if it were caught. A shallow pop fly would score no one.

The next Canyon batter, David Atkins, ran the count to 2-2 before bouncing sharply to second baseman Ross Torres, who rifled the ball to catcher Robby Collier for the out to the plate.

One out. Bases still loaded. Smuckers never had a bigger jam than the one Hereford still faced.

It was time for some innovation, according to Sartor.

Yelling for time out, Sartor pulled right fielder Michael Phibbs and substituted Jim Eric Andrews. Andrews didn't go to right field. Instead, he went to deep third. He backed up James Hernandez, who was playing a very shallow third. Hernandez was about as far away from the plate as you would be if you were playing catch with a two-year-old.

"I just made it up," said Sartor of his defense. "I decided I wasn't gonna lose the game to the squeeze bunt. I just had a feeling, and it worked out this time. We've worked on situations like this before, and it paid off."

"I don't know if that defense has ever been used before. But it has now."

As a crowd of 800 sighed, moaned, groaned, smiled, and made various promises to God if he could just get out of this or score a run and go home, Canyon's next batter, Brad Byrd, popped up in foul territory to McCracken after again working another 2-2 count out of McCracken. Two outs. Hereford went back to a more regular defense.

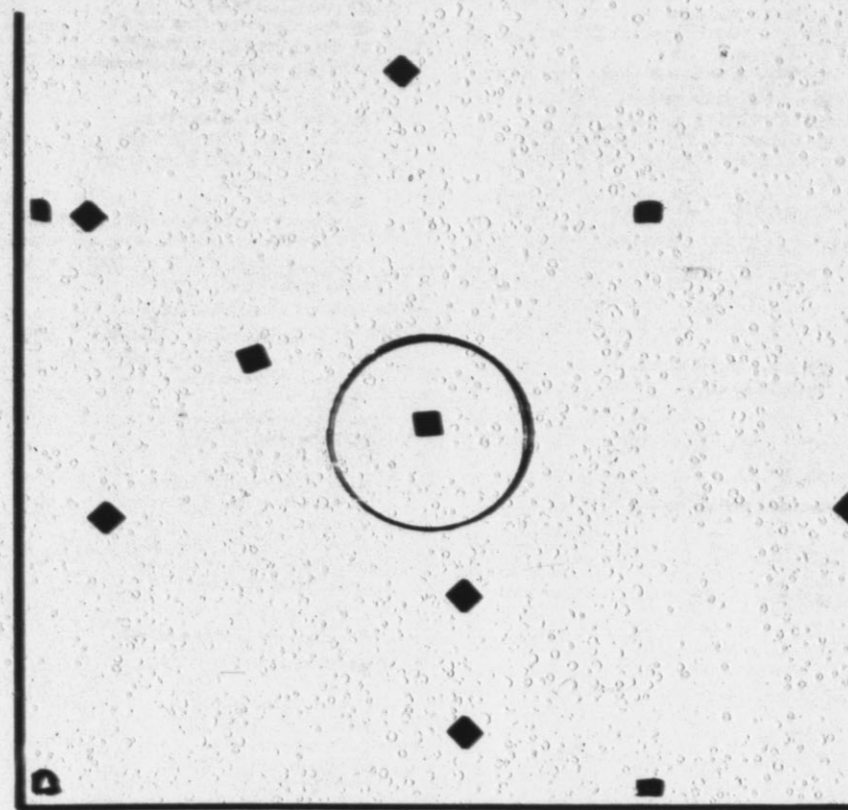

Right fielder John Eller took McCracken's first pitch for a ball, then went down swinging on the next three pitches.

The breath went out of the Canyon crowd, which collapsed like George Foreman after taking the best The Great One had to offer. Some of the Hereford fans were ready to do the Ali Shuffle.

"The kids came back and responded so well," Sartor said.

"I went out to the mound when they loaded 'em up and told Rodney to just relax and throw the ball. Ross Torres made a big play on the ball hit to him, and Rodney got the last two outs."

"It was just awesome, I thought."

The Sartor Shift

The centerfielder-pitcher

Rodney McCracken (14), the starting centerfielder of the Hereford Whitefaces, pitched 4 1/3 innings of relief Thursday in a marathon 10-inning state quarterfinal series game against Canyon. McCracken got himself out of a bases-loaded jam with no outs in the seventh inning, but gave up a single with the bases loaded and one out in the 10th inning, and Canyon tied up the series at one game apiece, 6-5. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen.)

Deadline today for 'Y' tennis lesson signup

Today is the registration deadline for tennis lessons which have been scheduled by the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA on June 6-10. Ruben Vargas and Jason Bodner will be the instructors. Lessons will be given at the Hereford High School tennis courts. Also a sessions of classes is scheduled June 20-24, with a registration deadline of June 17. Lessons for boys and girls ages 7 to 18 will be given from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and adult lessons are scheduled 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., each weekday in which lessons are offered. Registration fees are $7 for YMCA members and $15 for YMCA non-members.

ASK DR. LAMB

Rectal Exam BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have read that transrectal ultrasound waves are being used experimentally for the early detection of prostate cancer. Presumably this method can detect prostate cancer much earlier than the usual digital rectal examination.

For the past five years I have had a digital rectal examination every six months. All have revealed my prostate is enlarged but is not growing, nor are prostate lesions detectable. I'm 73. Has the transrectal ultrasound process developed sufficiently to be depended upon, and if so, where can such a test be taken and evaluated?

DEAR READER: Yes, there are several university medical centers evaluating the use of ultrasound to detect prostate cancer. A probe is inserted into the rectum and the ultrasound enables mapping the size and shape of the prostate.

But for now, the finger is just as effective or more so than the ultrasound probe. The National Institutes of Health convened a panel last June which noted that imaging techniques — MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) and transrectal ultrasound — have limited accuracy in managing clinically localized prostate cancer.

But the technique is improving and there are some tumors that can be detected in this manner that cannot be felt. Some investigators now feel that a combination of the finger examination and ultrasound probe yields the best results.

Another new development is a new blood test for early detection of prostate cancer. This test may even tell you how far advanced the cancer is. I have discussed both of these tests in THE HEALTH LETTER 31-05 and am sending you a free copy. Others who want this issue can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Your urologist is the person you will need to rely on for information as to when these new tests may be more readily available. We certainly need better tests. The shocking truth is that 30 percent of all U.S. males have a nest of cancer cells of the prostate by age 50. Cancer of the prostate is the second most common cause of cancer deaths in U.S. males, exceeded only by lung cancer.

DEAR DR. LAMB: The two smokiest places are the bars and Alcoholics Anonymous. The AA club gets so smoky that when you open the door, smoke pours out. How bad is this on people who don't smoke and have chronic lung problems such as bronchitis?

The judges send all drunk drivers to A.A. Most of them are so boring that all they do is smoke. I say if people want to drive drunk, send them to jail. Tell the judges to go and get their clothes and lungs full of smoke and see how they like it. I'm a mad alcoholic who doesn't smoke. They say believe in God. I say if you believe in God you would not smoke. Only fools smoke. My solution — don't go to A.A. meetings. They are very dangerous for alcoholics. My lungs are on fire. All people who smoke will pay on judgment day. Cancer is the answer.

You know what really cracks me up. My ex-doctor used to treat me for lung problems with a cigarette in his mouth. He died from cancer at age 55. Oh well.

DEAR READER: I have included your letter in the column in the hopes that Alcoholics Anonymous will consider the smoking problem you have described. Secondhand smoke is hard on healthy lungs and much worse for people with lung disease.

SCIENTIFIC MANPOWER SHORTAGE FORESEEN

NEW YORK (AP) — A critical shortage of American scientists and engineers capable of working on the strategic defense initiative, commercial satellite ventures and other space age technologies is expected soon, reports Metalworking News.

According to the weekly journal, the National Academy of Science forecasts a 40 percent decline in the number of aerospace engineers graduating in the United States between now and 1990, even though the demand for such skills will increase by 70 percent.

It is anticipated there will be a shortfall of 140,000 computer scientists and 30,000 electrical engineers in the nation by the year 1990.

The publication also notes that the Soviet Union currently is graduating about 500,000 scientists a year while the U.S. graduates about 200,000 annually.
