Well qualified to debate on the relative merits of the Sweetwater Mustangs and the Lubbock Westerners, (who meet at Lubbock Friday) since they encountered both clubs the past season, the members of the Big Spring high school football squad are harmonious in entertaining the opinion that the District 3-AA champions will survive the test and earn the right at a semi-final berth.

The Bovines met the Westerners in an early season practice encounter and were beaten, 18-0. Thanksgiving day (Nov. 30) they tangled with the Mustangs and suffered a 28-7 reversal.

The Westerners have come a long way since that practice engagement but probably not far enough.

Lefty Bethell, who should know, relates that Larry Priddy's forces boast a better blocking club, a better all-around offensive game, probably better reserves. The Steers' star back claims that the Pony club hits harder, will win if they can throw up a fair pass defense.

Bobby Savage, who played a whale of a line game all year for the Steers, says the blocking the Mustangs tossed at him was of a kind he never had experienced before, that he was hit so hard on occasions that he thought he was going to have to call for crutches.

Since the Odessa game, which the Cayuses were barely able to win (22-19), the Priddymen have been showing steady improvement. After rocking Big Spring, they marched into El Paso and slammed Jewel Wallace's El

Picard Avers New Golfing Faces Due

By LARRY ROLLINS
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP)—Take it from Henry Picard, who should know, the big time tournament golfing grind is getting tougher each year.

"More and more good young golfers with fire and ambition are knocking at the door," said Picard, P.G.A. champion and the year's top golfer to date. "The leaders dare not get out of condition or slip even a trifle for fear of getting trampled in the stampede."

He was on the practice green rapping in putts, trying for the delicate touch he will need in the $10,000 Miami open starting tomorrow. Picard nodded to the other side of the green.

"See that fellow over there," he said. "That's Henry Poe, who is about ready to hit the headlines. And there are any number of others, such as Ben Hogan, Clayton Heafner, Jimmy McHale and Charles Fallow, who are always in condition, always practicing, always getting better."

There may have been a time, Picard said, when a top golfer could dispart before a tournament and still win.

"That was because the competition wasn't nearly as keen," he asserted. "The stars were so much better than the rest of the golfers that they could waste a few shots and still win. We can't do that nowadays—especially those of us who are slowing down somewhat physically."

For that reason, said the Hershey, Pa., stylist, most of the top liners are going in for massages, are watching their diets and getting plenty of sleep. They're real athletes.

Coahoma Tourney Begins Friday Trojan Scouts Opine That Vols Should Defeat Rose Bowl Champs

Neyland's Great Forward Will Tell Difference

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13 (AP)—Southern California scouts who watched Tennessee play its last two games have made their reports, and the verdict, as Southern California announces it, is that the Volunteers should whip the men of Troy in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, January 1.

George Levison, former Northwestern university quarterback who has been scouting Notre Dame for the Trojans, watched Tennessee clinch the Rose Bowl bid last week by defeating Auburn, 7-0. His charts, diagrams and comments are under scrutiny by Head Coach Howard Jones and his assistants.

Jeff Cravath, one of Jones' lieutenants, says Levison's reports show that Tennessee's offense is built along the general lines of the Trojans' but differs just enough to worry the S. C. staff in trying to build a competent defense.

Said Levison in his report: "Tennessee is a big team with speed, deception and lots of durability. They are not unlike Notre Dame in that Coach Bob Neyland uses a system which is in part Notre Dame and part the same single wingback, to the right or the left, that Southern California depends upon.

"The reason for the current success of Tennessee, as well as in 1938, when they also were unbeaten, is the great speed of a big line, topped by the work of Ed Molinski and Bob Suftridge. The backs work from behind a balanced line that generates immense drive and is very efficient in its blocking and chargin'."

The worst of it, as the Trojan staff sees things, is that there doesn't seem to be any way of stopping the southerners.

H-S, Tex. Tech Peace Pact Is In The Making

LUBBOCK, Dec. 13 (AP)—Everything pointed today toward a resumption of athletic relations between Texas Tech and Hardin-Simmons university.

W. L. Stangel, chairman of the Tech athletic council, said the body voted to resume all athletic relations with the Abilene school after four years in which there have been no contests between the institutions because of an egg throwing incident.

At Abilene Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, executive vice-president of Hardin-Simmons, said the school would "be happy to renew relations."

However, Tech and Hardin-Simmons are not due to schedule a football game for 1940, inasmuch as the schools already have virtually completed their cards for next fall.

Moral Bankruptcy Russia's unconscionable invasion of Finland adds the final touch to a form of moral bankruptcy which has swept across Europe and Asia with appalling speed during the past few years.

In America, for example, most of the protests at Stalin's latest crime are directed to the ruthless bombardment of open cities and towns, the slaughter of defenseless women and children.

Within the brief span of eight years we have witnessed the virtual repudiation of the Kellogg pact, by which the nations pledged themselves to renounce war as an instrument of international policy.

George Tucker Man About Manhattan NEW YORK—My first inclination on learning that a great many New Yorkers had bought "wild" turkeys at 65 cents a pound was to laugh.

But one shouldn't call these poor New Yorkers saps, because how are they to know? They live in a big city. Many of them never saw a shotgun. They couldn't know that a "wild" turkey hand-reared on a farm is as different from a wild turkey that is really wild as, well, as pork and ham.

There is something I don't know which it is—that goes out of game when you build a fence around it. When I left Louisiana I had some wild mallard decoys sent up to me. I raised a lot of ducks—perhaps a hundred. I thought it would be wonderful to live in a country that had no ducks and eat wild duck, too.

But those ducks and drakes of the wild decoys never knew what it was to be wild. Something in the feeding, something in the refinement of domestication, ruins them and cheats them and takes that element of true gamesyness out of them.

I don't know much about wild turkeys. But I do know that the New Yorkers who pay high prices for "wild" turkeys aren't getting what they think they are—not in the sense that wild is a word for eloquence of taste—something that deep forests and an existence entirely apart from man can give.

Speaking of New Yorkers paying prices, it sounded like a decade ago when the boys started bidding on opening night tickets for "Dulgray Was a Lady." The boxoffice price was $15.40 a pair, but we heard of bids running up to $70.

Seems sort of stupid to pay that much premium just for being seen at a first night, doesn't it? When, after the first night, you can see the show for $4.40 a seat—and the chances are a hundred to one, it'll be a better performance. Even with troupers like Ethel Merman, Bert Lahr, Betty Grable and Benny Baker, first night jitters aren't unknown, not to mention the youngsters who'll be getting their first flash of an emerald-and-tails audience.

In their latest, one of the Marx brothers bows to a tidbit. Any resemblance to any living nation is entirely coincidental—Omaha World-Herald.

The United States has one mile of railroad for every 642 citizens. It has been estimated. And the commuter train you pick out always feels crowded to take on its quota every mile.

One Is Beloved BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

Chapter Six WARFARE "Whom else might you marry?" he demanded. "Jim Kettle?" She was silent for a moment. When she spoke it was with an air of dignity which impressed even Trenton's impatience.

"That is a question you have no right to ask, Bob! I doubt if you have the right even to talk to me at all on such a subject—after so brief an acquaintance. Please don't do it again!" She rose and moved toward the door, and perforce he followed her.

She was half glad and half sorry. Going about with Bob Trenton had been like driving a high-powered racing car, thrilling but very dangerous. The slightest carelessness, the merest obstacle in the road, and one would find one's self metaphorically with a broken neck.

She concentrated at the remoteness of this idea aroused, knowing that only anger would drive out of a certain feeling of hollowness, a blankness, which overcame her at the realization there would be no more Bob Trenton in her life.

Sue Davenport was a person of character. Having decided during what, to her fury, had proved to be sleepless hours of the night that all thought of Bob Trenton was to be put out of her mind, she promptly made gay plans at the breakfast table.

Allen listened somewhat absently. When the telephone rang he sprang to answer it before Maggie could reach the hall. "For you," he told his sister. "Trenton again. Starts the day rather early, doesn't he?"

"Yes?" "Oh, darling don't say it so loudly! It's a grand morning; had you noticed? And I've got such a nice plan for today. Wait—let me tell you! A hundred mile drive to the north—a picnic with a fire and coffee and everything—an October picnic, Sue."

"Sorry," she said firmly. "I'm busy all day. Tonight, too," she added hastily. "Then you do remember! There was reproach in his voice. 'You have a date with me tonight, and try to break it if you dare!'"

"It doesn't take much daring," she thought. "I don't dare to tell me I've spoiled it!" he said fiercely. "Don't dare to deny you're beginning to love me, Sue, my Sue! Why you're my share of the world, the one perfect thing in this whole upside-down existence we call life! We were made for each other, you and I! Don't you know it, can't you see it, Sue mine? You for me, and I for you—our home, our children, our everything against the world!"

"I understand that you're a very self-willed and badly spoiled person," he said. "I wish you'd go away and let me alone!" Her own cast the childish note in the last words, and she flushed again, hating him anew at this fresh evidence of her unsophistication. She flung herself across the room and fairly ran into her bedroom, slamming the door behind her.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—You might as well be posted on the nicknames attached to political stars and starlets because the campaigns are coming and both sides will want to humanize their proteges by "that familiar touch."

President Roosevelt was called "The Boss" by the late Louis Howe, his wise No. 1 secretary. He is called "Mr. Big," fondly by his friends, furiously by his foes. Vice President Garner calls him "The Captain." Everybody knows him by his initials, FDR, just like this—E-F-Dee-Are.

The runner-up presidential candidates haven't generated pet names for themselves yet. When Hoover was president he was referred to as "The Chief." His friends still use the title.

General Hugh Johnson referred to Secretary Ickes as "Honest Harold." It didn't displace Washington's "Icky the 'ek." But when Ickes, in return, called the general "Old Iron Pants," that stuck.

The sad face of Secretary Morgenthau prompted the president to call him "Henry the Morgue." His name helped a bit. Since then a half dozen parallels to that have grown up, such as "Harry the Hop" for Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, "Tommy the Cork" and "Benny the Cohen" for the redoubtable brains twins.

Don't overlook "Fanny the Perk," the secretary of labor. It is also "Ma" Perkins. She doesn't like either one. However, "Pa" has hung familiarly to Brigadier-General Watson, the president's secretary, ever since his West Point days.

Vice President Garner has been known as "Cactus Jack," or "Texas Jack," for a generation. Postmaster General Farley is variously called "Gentleman Jim," "Sunny Jim" or "Big Jim." Some call him "Ginral" with that Irish touch.

Every boll weevil south of the Mason-Dixon line knows Senator Smith of South Carolina as "Cotton Ed" but in the senate gallery he often is called "Ipsie Dixit." He uses it often in speeches to mean "the things speaks for itself."

The nearest thing to a nickname for Senator Carter Glass is the hopeless effort of non-Virginians to imitate his way of saying his own first name, Cyahteh. "Mr. Big" calls him "the unreconstructed rebel."

Speaker Bankhead of the house sometimes is teasingly called "Tallulah" after his famous actress daughter. Senator Borah was once known as "Wild Bill" and more lately as "The Sage of Idaho," but neither is really a nick name. Imagine shouting down a senate corridor, "Hey, you, Sage of Idaho." His wife calls him Billy and tortures him once in a while with a sweet-toned Willie in front of company. It witts him. She is called Little Borah.

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce, is "Rowboat," and Herbert E. Gaston, assistant secretary of the treasury, has become "Admiral" since he took up coast guard work.

Colonel Harrington, WPA administrator, is called "Pinky." It has to do with his complexion, no doubt. Mrs. Hull calls the secretary of state "Judge," but at the state department the title usually refers to R. Walton Moore, department counselor.

When Senator Henry F. Ashurst sprouts forth a lengthy speech, which is rare because he keeps them short, his colleagues playfully remind him that his second name is Fountain. Shiny-pated Representative Doughton, chairman of ways and means (taxation) committee, is called "Old Muley." He is from North Carolina.

Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, is "Jerry" to everybody in the navy. He uses it himself over the telephone.

Some of the lads are calling Paul V. McNutt "McNuts" but not in front of him.

Robbin Coons Hollywood Sights And Sounds HOLLYWOOD—If your friends all tell you that you look like this movie star or that and ought to come to Hollywood, here's sound advice: run, don't walk, as far as possible in the opposite direction.

If you're from Missouri, and want to look at the books before deciding that's right smart advice—all right, look.

A pretty, talented girl from Denmark came to Hollywood, equipped with a contract in advance, and languished for months at 20th Century-Fox studios. All she did was pose for publicity pictures. And the reason? The studio had a girl from France named Simone Simon, who got there first and was already working. Osa Massen, although not at all like Simone Simon in personality, and much prettier, was considered too reminiscent of the other girl. Osa didn't work until Simone left town, and until she went to another studio. You saw her in "Honeymoon" in Ball, and you'll be seeing more of her—even if Simone returns.

New Gadgets Tell Cops All About Crime

DALLAS, Dec. 13 (AP)—Soon, perhaps, crooks won't have any privacy and but few secrets from the law. The cops have a couple of new gadgets they say hear all and tell all—to the cops.

The devices have a few citizens worried. Burglars detect being disturbed at work. Both inventions have sort of put suburban Highland Park police and robbers on an old fashioned telephone party line with the crooks doing most of the talking.

Highland Park police claim the devices are good for detecting crimes being committed behind closed doors and thick walls. One of the machines is press it against a wall and listen. It picks up all noises inside like a physician's stethoscope.

The other is a miniature radio broadcasting set worn by undercover agents who drop in on poker games or horseshoe bookmakers. A microphone concealed in the agent's lapel radios all conversations to officers listening to an automobile receiving set.

The inside operative flips a button when he is ready for the pinch, and, presto! the raiding cops descend.

The raiding officers thus may testify in court as witnesses to words spoken before they arrived, explained Police Chief Millard Gardner.

Ray Hollifield, Highland Park police radio engineer, formerly a technician in the Edison Laboratories, perfected the tricky listening machine after coming here. It was being worked on at the time he was in the laboratories.

It has been used to capture five whisky stills concealed in buildings. It found concealed water pipes in the police station walls and located an outboard motor on the bottom of a lake.

The thing is practically all ears.
