Chamber committee high on prospects

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

A report on a targeted industry study and an update on the industrial development committee's activities highlighted a Tuesday luncheon sponsored by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Approximately 35 interested citizens attended the Dutch-treat luncheon at Siroin Stockade. Cheryl Pink, representing Southwestern Public Service, explained the target industry program which has been initiated by the utility company.

Ken Rogers, industrial development committee chairman, presented an overview of the activities and plans of the chamber group. "The committee is working on more prospects and involved in more activities than anytime I can remember," Rogers told the group.

He reported the community had two good prospects for using the swift plant southwest of Hereford.

Rogers added that there were also several prospects for food processing facilities, and that the chamber was cooperating with WDIC and the Economic Development Strategy Council on future plans for the community. He said one of the prospects for locating in the Swift plant would narrow its choice to three towns in the near future, and he thinks Hereford has a good chance of being a primary choice.

Pink said the target industry program was a new marketing plan started by SPS, with the purpose being to match an industry with the appropriate community. The program has identified 10 types of industries for the region and is now concentrating on the first three—textile, plastics and hardware.

Mike Carr, C of C executive vice president, said the chamber is cooperating with the SPS program. SPS will have a booth at a plastics trade show in Chicago next month, and Hereford will have a representative at the show.

Carr also presented an update on retail business activity at the Tuesday luncheon. He pointed out that nine stores have opened downtown recently, including the opening this week of the Atrium, a mini-mall located north of the post office. He said a new supermarket, La Tienda, is scheduled to open July 1 after a $275,000 renovation project on the building, and that Higginbotham-Bartlett is slated to open the first week of July. He added that several large department store chains are looking at possible sites in Hereford.

Music brings sweet melodies to Hereford

By GAYE REILY

The sixty-fifth annual observance of National Music Week is underway this week, with several local events and are music festivals coinciding with the week.

Last weekend, several junior high and high school students participated in the Greater Southwest Music Festival in Amarillo. Earning first division ratings was the quartet of Stephanie Walls, Tracie Gilbert, Jo Lytal and Brook Weatherly. Vanessa Gonzales, Mandie Tijerina, Michele Hamilton, Mary Varner and Stacy White earned first division or outstanding awards.

Tuesday, the Hereford Music Study Club announced that Whitney Whitaker will receive the music scholarship offered annually by the club. Club president Cheryl Betzen made the presentation to Whitaker, an HHS senior, who has studied voice for six years and has been taking guitar lessons for the past year.

Hereford has many music opportunities, many for the entire community, throughout the year.

In the public schools, students in grades one through six have general music classes, and sixth graders may take beginning strings instruction. Junior high and high school students have choir, band, and orchestra programs available as elective courses.

The Hereford Community Concerts Association offers a variety of musical entertainment, from classical to country, and from concerts to the Broadway Marionettes scheduled to perform later this year.

The city's most famous musical offering is the Hereford Chamber Singers. The Singers, organized in 1974, audition for spots in the group. In June, the Singers will carry their musical talents to World Expo '88 in Brisbane, Australia.

The Hereford Music Study Club, founded in 1926, and the Dawn Music Club, organized in 1947, have an active membership. The Hereford club offers a scholarship, sponsors a music festival each spring, and holds senior recitals.

The area also offers junior music clubs, and private vocal, piano, and Suzuki string studios.

The club makes the award to Hereford High School seniors who plan to study voice in college. Whitaker is the daughter of Janey Almon of Hereford and Clyde Whitaker of Wichita, Kan.

The Hereford Music Study Club, founded in 1926, and the Dawn Music Club, organized in 1947, have an active membership. The Hereford club offers a scholarship, sponsors a music festival each spring, and holds senior recitals.

The area also offers junior music clubs, and private vocal, piano, and Suzuki string studios.

Church programs include choirs for adults and children, and handbell and other specialty choirs and groups.

National Music Week, first observed in 1924, was founded by Charles M. Tremaine of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music. "Music Speaks Where Words Fail" is the theme of this year's special observance to focus the attention of the public on music.

Dukakis takes wins

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

Michael Dukakis, harvesting another pair of landslide primary victories, sounded ever more confident of his claim to the Democratic presidential nomination while Republican George Bush looked ahead to the fall and cautioned his supporters, "We've got a long way to go."

Jesse Jackson scored an expected victory Tuesday in the District of Columbia, but found himself slipping another 120 delegates behind Dukakis, who won handily in Ohio and Indiana.

His latest victories moved Dukakis to fewer than 600 delegates from the 2,081 he needed to clinch the nomination. He also moved more than 600 ahead of his only rival.

But Jackson gave no sign he was ready to end what he called a struggle "for the direction of our party and the soul of our nation."

"All the way to California and New Jersey," he said, referring to the two biggest states holding primaries on June 7.

Jackson was seeking support today among House Democrats and then holding strategy sessions with aides before flying off to Nebraska, which holds its primary next Tuesday, as does West Virginia.

Democratic Party leaders

tempered their euphoria over the latest signal that their nomination marathon was over with concern that Jackson's recent attacks on Dukakis could provide campaign ammunition for the Republicans in the fall.

"I would hope he wouldn't say anything that could be used against Mike in the general election," said Gov. Bill Clinton of Arkansas.

Judy Carnahan, chairman of the Oregon Democratic Party, said Jackson's recent attacks were "very disappointing. What he's managing to do is diminish his own stature."

Lynn Cutler, vice chair of the Democratic National Committee, said she wasn't concerned about Jackson's rhetoric.

"I don't any of it is stuff we're going to see coming back at us out of George Bush's mouth," she said.

When Dukakis was asked if he thought Jackson should tone down his attacks, the Massachusetts governor replied, "He's got to make that judgment. I'm going to try to keep this as positive as I can."

In recent days, Jackson has repeatedly pressed Dukakis to provide more details of his plans for improving education and day care and reducing the federal budget deficit.

Riding high after a streak of primary victories that included Connecticut, Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Ohio, Dukakis said Tuesday night he thought it was "going to be difficult" for Jackson to deny him the nomination.

Bush celebrated his lock on the nomination at a hotel within walking distance of the White House and urged his supporters not to let up.

"I don't feel any finality to what has happened now at all," he told a cheering crowd. "We've passed the first step, a tremendously important step. ... But now we've got a long way to go."

Latest Meese probe is fund solicitation letter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal ethics officials want to know why Attorney General Edwin Meese III solicited 30,000 lawyers and businessmen to pay more than $3,000 apiece to a profit-making organization to attend a conference.

The Office of Government Ethics on Tuesday launched an investigation into Meese's April 26 letter, the head of the ethics office, Frank Q. Nebeker, said Tuesday night.

"We're attempting to ascertain what the facts are," he said.

Meese's letter — written on the attorney general's official stationery and emblazoned with the Justice Department seal — was sent to about 30,000 people whose names were "provided by everyone from the American Bar Association, the advisory committees on both sides, to the American Chamber of Commerce in Japan," said Norm Swanson, chairman of the Citizen Ambassador Program, the profit-making group that is a cosponsor of the meeting along with a Japanese federation.

A presidential order on ethics forbids federal officials from engaging in any conduct that might present the appearance of favoritism, conflict of interest or loss of objectivity in governmental decision making. The appearance of such a problem is enough to trigger an investigation, whether or not actual conflicts are known to exist.

In addition, it is a crime to use the Justice Department seal for non-authorized purposes.

Meese will be heading a U.S. delegation to the Aug. 29-Sept. 1 legal and economic conference in Japan called "The U.S.-Japan Bilateral Session: A New Era in Legal and Economic Relations."

Justice Department spokesman Terry Eastland said the department was unaware that a profit-making organization was involved, but he contended Meese's involvement might still be justified.

The U.S. sponsor for the meeting is the Citizen Ambassador Program of People to People International. The Kansas City-based People to People International is a non-profit organization set up originally in the State Department by then-President Dwight Eisenhower, Swanson said.

The Citizen Ambassador Program, however, is a profit-making organization that works exclusively to set up international exchanges for People to People, Swanson said Tuesday night in a telephone interview from his home in Spokane, Wash.

"Yes, the Citizen Ambassador Program is for-profit, which is how Eisenhower established the program with the intention of making it self-supporting," Swanson said.

The cost for participants is listed as $3,240, Swanson said. He said the amount includes transportation and lodging and an $800 registration fee set by the Japanese organizing committee.

Swanson acknowledged his company is paying $100 to People to People International for each person who signs up for the conference, but he denied that it was a payoff.

"Ever since the beginning of the People to People organization, the relationship has been that the delegates on any project pay a fee to People to People International to become members," Swanson said.

Local Roundup

Two arrested Tuesday

The Hereford Police Department arrested a 47-year-old man Tuesday on charges of driving while intoxicated, possession of marijuana under two ounces and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Police reports state that when the man was being booked for driving while intoxicated, a small bag of marijuana and a brass pipe used to smoke marijuana were found in the man's boots.

A man, 29, was also arrested Tuesday on charges of no liability insurance, no driver's license and for outstanding traffic warrants.

The Deaf Smith County sheriff's office reported two arrests: a 24-year-old man charged with driving with a suspended license, and a man, 27, charged with violating his probation.

A woman reported that her purse had been stolen from her car which was parked at St. Anthony's Catholic Church; a man at 416 Ave. I reported that a boy shot the back glass and side window of his car with a BB gun; a note with vulgar language was posted on a door

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

So, the President and Nancy Reagan follow astrology, eh? It's a blooming wonder the president didn't push THE BUTTON when all of the planets were lined up a couple of years ago. Of course, with glasnost and all he probably would have nuked New Jersey.

Come to think of it, the planets were probably aligned when he went after Khadafy over in Libya, or the day of the invasion of Grenada.

I guess it is no surprise that the Reagan's follow astrological suggestions—they don't rely on the stars for "major decisions," a spokesman said.

Astrology is not only a farce as far as science goes, the suggestions are either gross generalities or just plain ludicrous.

With the help of history and the little-known Brooks Astrological Survey, we can look back at some of the "highlights" of the Reagan Administration and astrological signs of the day.

Reagan, by the way, is either an Aquarius or a Pisces. It doesn't make any difference—it's all fishy and doesn't hold water, anyway.

Mid-1980. Reagan has just earned the Republican nomination for president. "Don't beat around the bush while making decisions today," said his horoscope. He picked George Bush as his running mate.

Late 1981. President Reagan needs to appoint a spokesman to replace James Brady, who was seriously wounded in the assassination attempt by John Hinckley Jr. "Beware of people trying to put words in your mouth," his horoscope said. Larry Speakes became the president's chief spokesman.

1984. "Go through many channels to make friends of your most bitter enemy," the stars said. A few weeks later, we're selling arms to Iran.

1985. "Joking around could be a disaster today." President Reagan, while testing a mike to record his weekly radio broadcast, says, "We will begin bombing Russia in 10 minutes."

1987. His horoscope says the President should "turn a deaf ear to those who try to antagonize you." The President says he can't hear the questions being shouted at him by the White House press corps.

1987. "Beware, for your memory could fail you at crucial moments." The president can't remember anything about the Iran-Contra arms deal.

1988. "Beware of meese scamperring around the house." The results remain to be seen.

Mayor's gift

One of the former Italian prisoners of war (left) brought something special for Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher (right)—a silver medallion from the mayor of Rome, and a letter commending efforts to restore the chapel at the Hereford POW Camp. The presentation was made during ceremonies Saturday at the Hereford American Legion Hall.

Raised speed limits not raising deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher speed limits on rural interstate highways are having no discernible effect on traffic fatalities, probably due to stricter enforcement, Transportation Secretary Jim Burnley says.

"A 55 mph limit that is not enforced can be more of a problem than a 65 mph limit that is enforced," Burnley said Tuesday after a speech to the Society of Automotive Engineers.

A law enacted last year over President Reagan's veto allows states to raise the speed limit to 65 mph on rural stretches of interstate highways, 10 mph faster than the national 55 mph speed limit enacted in 1974 as an energy conservation measure.

Forty states have adopted the higher speed limit.

Israeli troops advance on pro-Iranian stations

RASHAYA, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli troops led by tanks and backed by heavy artillery fire stormed pro-Iranian guerrilla bases close to Syrian lines in southeast Lebanon early today, police reported.

A Lebanese police spokesman said fighters of the radical Shiite Muslim Hezbollah and militiamen of the Syrian-backed Shiite Amal movement fired "several rocket-propelled grenades at the advancing Israeli tanks, but no hits were independently reported." No casualties were immediately reported.

The clash was the first reported since the Israelis crossed north of their self-designated border "security zone" Monday night to search for guerrillas who have staged 12 raids into Israel since November. Two Israeli soldiers and five Arab guerrillas were killed in the last two infiltrations last week.

There were no reports of Israeli soldiers closing in on any Syrian positions in the Bekaa Valley. But a Syrian officer, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said today: "We're ready to confront them any time. Syrian forces in the Bekaa have been on maximum alert since yesterday."

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir of Israel said on Tuesday he did not expect the operation to provoke a confrontation with Syria, Israel's staunchest enemy. The Israeli operation in Lebanon is its largest in two years.

Israeli howitzer batteries pounded bases of Hezbollah, or Party of God, as tanks and armored personnel carriers moved into the hills overlooking Maydoun and Ein el-Tineh. The two villages are 10 miles north of Marjayoun, headquarters of Israel's militia ally, the South Lebanon Army.

Security sources in south Lebanon reported that the Israelis sent two more mechanized battalions into the area during the night, doubling the size of the Israeli invading force to about 2,500 troops.

Israeli officials have said they sent only a few hundred soldiers north of its security zone, a six- to 10-mile-wide strip of land in south Lebanon. Maydoun and Ein el-Tineh are nine miles west of four villages the Israelis sealed off on Tuesday with helicopter-borne troops in a dragnet for Palestinian guerrillas and their allies.

Police said the Israelis fired shells "at a rate of 13 a minute" as their tanks stormed Hezbollah bases in the hills, only four miles west of Syrian lines in the Bekaa Valley town of Mashghara.

Timor Goksel, spokesman for the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon, said Israeli gunners fired more than 1,000 shells during the night.

Burnley declined to provide specific figures to support his conclusion, saying they will be provided to Congress in a report being prepared by the Transportation Department.

"We're just not finding any distinction between fatalities on the 65 mph rural interstate highways and those where the speed limit remained at 55 mph, Burnley said.

The fatality statistics "are all over the board," with deaths rising in some states and falling in others on 65 mph stretches of highway, said Ron DeFore, a Transportation Department spokesman.

The only official statistic on the issue has been provided by Diane Steed, administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, in congressional testimony. She said that in the months after the federal law took effect, the agency found increases between 18 percent and 23 percent on rural interstates in states that raised the limit.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir,

I can not believe the Congress of the United States has voted to pay 120,000 Japanese Americans $20,000 each because they were interned at the beginning of World War II. Most of these Japanese Americans were only citizens because they happened to be born here. They made no attempt to become Americans by learning the language, tradition, or participating in the American main stream. They spent most of their educational efforts studying in Japanese language schools, learning Japanese tradition, religion, and culture. They longed for the day when they could return to Japan, live out their lives in Japan and join their ancestors.

I was in the U.S. Army, stationed in Hawaii in December 1941 when Japanese forces bombarded American military installations. A lot of the soldiers of Japanese ancestry were good friends of mine and were treated the same as everyone else—before and after the bombing. These soldiers of Japanese ancestry were later given the opportunity of going to Europe to fight the Germans instead of the Japanese. No one I knew expressed any objections to this arrangement.

I know internment would be preferable to bombings and combat. The Treasury of the United States does not have enough money to reimburse me for my service.

Yours truly,
Melvin Faulker

Recently I sponsored two young men from Hereford High School to the Texas Citizen Bee competition which was held in Austin. I would like to commend the parents of these young men for the excellent job they did in raising them. The boys were kind, courteous, and well behaved the entire trip. It was a pleasure to be their sponsor.

I would also like to commend the two young men, Adrian Castillo and John Mark Streun, for their behavior and for their efforts in the state competition. Both boys studied very hard and were well prepared for the contest. John Mark won second place and will be competing in the National Citizen Bee in Washington, D.C. during the month of June.

Thank you Adrian. Thank you John Mark. You have just made my 23rd year of teaching the best one yet.

Respectfully,
N.D. Kelso

In 1943 I was returned to the main land, as it was called in those days, and went to Europe in 1944. Anyone having been in combat can say war is hell, and all concerned suffer. Japanese Americans did not suffer more than anyone else. The 18-year-old draftees waiting for assignment to combat units was one event I shall not forget. Casualties were high in the winter of 1945, and these young draftees had been in the army for 16 to 18 weeks. A few days later some of these same men were buried in military cemeteries, and others were back in the U.S.A. with disabling wounds, never even knowing the name of the commanding officer of the unit they served.

TV's Rogers wins award

CHICAGO (AP) — Television's Fred Rogers received a lifetime achievement award for his work with young viewers.

Rogers, creator of public television's "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" children's show, was among a group of 19 winners of

Abundant Life

FOR THIS DAY
 By Bob Wear

Let us plan to make this a good day. This does not mean that everything will be as we wish it could be, but that we will exercise our privilege to make it the kind of day we wish it to be. We do have this privilege.

For this day, we will accept what we cannot change, dismiss from our minds the thoughts which might bring us distress of mind, be very grateful for the blessings, whatever they are, and we will keep our minds on the more pleasant considerations. We would change some things, if we could; but, knowing that we have no way to make these changes, we will put our thoughts to the features of this day which can be used well. We will also concentrate on the pleasant and desirable things which are present or which are within our reach.

"Be grateful for each new day. A new day that you have never lived before. Twenty-four new, fresh, unexplored hours to use well and profitably. We can squander, neglect, or use it. Life will be richer or poorer by the way we use this day."—Anon.

We are not going to try to straighten out any of our friends or anybody else today; we are going to put the best construction on what others say and do today, as these things may concern us, and do all of this without being naive. We will be very much aware of what we are doing.

Today we are going to overlook everything that can be overlooked; we are going to be diligent in taking care of our own personal business and our own individual behavior; we will not permit ourselves to be challenged, or upset, or entrapped, or, in any other way, caused to react to any ugliness which may come our way.

We will be thankful for this day, speak well of others and do good for them, as we have opportunity, and be especially aware of the worth of this one day and the power we have to make it a good day.

Hereford bats had cold day

Whitefaces are upset by Frenship, 9-3

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

A Hereford Whiteface team that went into the game with a .378 batting average, including five players with averages of .400 or better, could get only one hit in the first six innings Tuesday off Frenship pitcher Chris Boundy.

The Herd bats connected for four hits in the seventh inning, but it was not enough as the Tigers upset third-ranked Hereford, 9-3, at the Hereford High School baseball field.

Frenship recorded nine hits in an eight-run fifth inning, including one double, to build up a 9-0 lead. There were two wild pitches in that inning, and Frenship would have had at least one more run if a runner had not been thrown out at home plate to end the inning.

A double was hit deep into right field. Outfielder Michael Phibbs threw to first baseman Derrell Page, who threw to catcher Robby Collier for the out.

One of the other outs in that inning was also an out at home plate. Shortstop Russell Backus fielded a ground ball and threw to Collier for the out.

Earlier in the game, Collier threw out a Frenship runner attempting to steal second base in the second inning.

Collier had the Whitefaces' only hit in the first six innings, a single in the second inning. Frenship scored one run in the fourth inning on a sacrifice fly, after a single was hit, and two errors committed by Hereford.

Hereford could get no runners on base in the fifth or sixth innings.

Rodney McCracken led off the seventh inning with a home run over the left field fence. It was McCracken's fifth home run of the season.

Collier singled, advanced to second base on a wild pitch, and scored on Roger McCracken's single. Courtesy runner Glenn Parker went to second base on a wild pitch and to third base on a groundout.

James Hernandez walked, but Frenship's Boundy recorded a strikeout for the second out of the inning. Jason Scott drove in the last Hereford run with an infield single.

It was the second straight upset victory for Frenship, which defeated Canyon 4-3 on Saturday. Frenship had a 1-14 season record, including a 1-12 District 1-4A record, before defeating Canyon and Hereford.

Hereford is now 12-2 in the district and 19-2 overall. The Whitefaces, who clinched the district championship for themselves Saturday, are three games ahead of Lubbock Estacado and Canyon in the loss column with two games left in the district schedule.

Hereford plays at Canyon Saturday at 1 p.m. and at Estacado May 10 at 4:30 p.m.

Whiteface starting pitcher Clint Cotten had four strikeouts and gave up four hits in the first four innings before Frenship scored its first run.

Frenship connected for five singles off Cotten in the fifth inning before he was replaced on the mound by Jason Scott. Frenship's next four batters recorded hits off Scott.

Scott had four strikeouts in his 2 and one third innings pitched.

With the district title clinched, Hereford will go into the playoffs to play the second place team from District 2-4A. That district's playoff berths are not settled yet.

Monahans and Andrews are tied for first place with 11-2 records, and Pecos is one game back at 10-3. Pecos defeated Monahans 3-0 Tuesday, and Andrews beat Big Spring 9-5. Monahans and Andrews meet Friday night.

Levelland	6-6	9-10
Pampa	5-9	10-11
Borger	3-11	8-10
Frenship	3-12	3-16

SATURDAY'S RESULTS: Hereford 19, Levelland 13; Frenship 4, Canyon 3; Dumas 5, Lubbock Dunbar 3; Borger open.

MONDAY'S RESULT: Lubbock Estacado 5, Pampa 4.

TUESDAY'S RESULTS: Frenship 9, Hereford 3; Lubbock Estacado 7, Borger 6; Canyon 11, Levelland 9; Dumas 4, Pampa 3; non-district: Lubbock Dunbar 4, Brownfield 2.

SATURDAY'S GAMES: Hereford at Canyon, 1 p.m.; Borger at Lubbock Dunbar; Dumas at Frenship; Pampa at Levelland; Estacado open.

Collier singles

Robby Collier, who went into Tuesday's game with a .581 batting average, singled here in the second inning. Collier had two of the Hereford Whitefaces' five hits in a frustrating afternoon against the Frenship Tigers. The last-place Tigers beat the district champion Whitefaces 9-3. By director who leaves this week

YMCA fitness program growth is reviewed

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The fitness director who is leaving the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA this week believes the fitness program is just as good or better than those at YMCAs in metropolitan areas.

"The YMCA now has a program equal to anything in West Texas and New Mexico. The kind of program we have here will match or exceed programs in Dallas, Tulsa or anywhere else," Jack Johnson said.

Johnson came to Hereford last year with a goal to establish a fitness program with body maintenance and fitness evaluation.

"It's hard for me to leave Hereford. I love Hereford and I love West Texas. I was here 13 months and I feel like I've lived here 20 years because I know so many people," Johnson said.

"When I came here, I wanted three months to develop the program, including fitness evaluation and a prescription program, working with athletes and injured people.

"You have people of all professions who need a body maintenance program. I wanted to come and set up a fitness program in a relatively new YMCA," Johnson continues.

The fitness program now organized at the YMCA includes:

1. A testing evaluation program, in which the "Y's Way to Fitness" is available to all members; includes physical fitness questionnaires, and a physical activity profile in which individuals keep a record of the food they eat.

2. A reference file, established for trainees to enhance counselling.

3. Prescription body maintenance instruction, in which each person has his own maintenance schedule.

4. Special programs for individual sports needs, such as skiing, racquet sports, volleyball, wrestling, football; includes instruction for high school and college age athletes and instruction in proper techniques for weightlifting.

"Most people get less active each year, but I've found that if people get involved in a body maintenance program, they stick with it," Johnson explains.

"On an average week as fitness director, I have averaged five or six consultations per day. During the 13 months I was here, I counselled with more than 1,200 persons regarding personal fitness and new exercise routines.

"I have had people here all the way from 80 years of age down to 10 years of age," he said.

Johnson oversaw the addition or installation of much new equipment in the weight training room, including fixed size dumbbells ranging from 25 pounds to 80 pounds and fixed size barbells ranging from 15 pounds to 80 pounds.

Other items of equipment acquired were a pullover machine, a seated curl bench, an adjustable incline Olympic bench, a squat rack, three Olympic barbell sets complete with plates, three exercise bicycles, three plate storage hangers, and two new 100-pound and 45-pound Olympic plates.

Johnson believes supervision is important — and necessary — in a weight training room and exercise room.

"Without supervision, you don't have a program that creates the right image," he said, noting the danger that would exist if little children were allowed to play around in a weight training room.

"We set up regulations for the weight room. It's not a play area, but it's for serious purposes. It's not for playing around with expensive equipment," Johnson adds.

Regulations include standard for attire, age of participants, conduct and safety, with rules posted on the door.

In the last year, the participation in the weight training room and exercise room has grown from about 12 regular participants to 80 to 120 per day, Johnson notes.

Mondays through Fridays from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. are the most popular time periods, but 6 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. has also become a popular exercise time.

Johnson estimates that about 65 percent of the participants are men and 35 percent women, but adds that the number of women participating has greatly increased the past year.

"If you put the right ingredients into a program, the people respond. Without a fitness consultant or director, most adults are apprehensive about turning their body over to someone. People would say, 'I won't go over there because I don't know what to do.'

"The misconception is that people go to the gym to compete. But they go there for self-improvement," Johnson said.

"I have an incentive board for our members, to test them out in weightlifting, hanging on the wall in the weight room. It's for the fellows interested in doing their personal best," he added.

Johnson will return to his home in Tulsa, Okla., but said he may help other YMCAs get a fitness program established.

"The Hereford YMCA has a top notch program, and anyone who wants to be in a top notch program doesn't have to drive anywhere. They've got it here," he states.

What Does a typical Brand Reader Look Like?

That's difficult to say because you are as different as your substantial number would imply! You are one of the 4,100 households we're invited to every evening. That's quite a few. According to the most recent census, our township has slightly less than 5000 households.

Your vocation is part of a broad spectrum as well — white collar, blue collar, owners, managers, cowboys, teachers, housewives, students and professional.

Yet, with all your individual complexities, your interest in local issues and news gives you and other readers a common bond which is separated only by your level of curiosity.

You are an informed, intelligent and often vocal audience, and we're happy to be a part of your household every evening!

Smith also received the Miss Congeniality Award and Rowton claimed the Talent Award.

Vinton, Marnell inducted into honor society at TTU

Two Hereford students were among several Texas Tech University students recently accepted in the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, one of the highest academic honors awarded at the university.

Karen Lynn Vinton and Douglas Jon Marnell, both seniors, were inducted into the honor society. Vinton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don S. Vinton of 315 Star Street and Marnell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Marnell of Rt. 1.

Vinton, a sociology major, is also involved with Kappa Kappa Gamma Society, the President's Hostess Organization, Golden Key National Honor Society and has appeared on the President's Honor List. Marnell, an agricultural economics major, is a member of Alpha Zeta Honor Fraternity, the Agriculture Economics Club, and participates in intramural activities.

Phi Kappa Phi is a national honor society with 244 chapters. Members are recognized for superior scholarship in all academic disciplines. Phi Kappa Phi membership is limited to senior, law and graduate students who rank in the top 10 percent of their graduating classes and juniors who rank in the top two percent of their class.

New members were honored at an initiation banquet April 27 in the University Center. The featured speaker was R. Wayne Drummond, dean of the College of Architecture.

Abandoned by Cowboys' Walker

Player-owner was an idea

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Millionaire running back Herschel Walker says he had considered and abandoned an idea to try to buy the Dallas Cowboys.

"I thought about getting me a couple of guys together and putting in a bid," Walker said Tuesday. "I thought how much fun it would be to be the first owner-player in the NFL."

Walker said he decided not to do it after negotiations between owner H.R. "Bum" Bright and billionaire Marvin Davis began to heat up.

He said he even talked to billionaire Donald Trump about the idea. Trump was the owner of the now defunct New Jersey Generals of the USFL.

"Mr. Trump and I talk all the time and he's always wanted to own a team in the NFL," Walker said. "He has too many other things going right now, though."

"I think he would love to own the Cowboys. He'll get back into football someday."

Walker said he had never met Davis, although he likes what he has heard about him.

"Davis reminds me a lot of Trump," Walker said. "He's a mover and a shaker and loves a winner. I think it would be great to see an owner at practice."

"I'm not saying a new owner should be involved in day-to-day practice but he should care about his players."

Bright refused to return telephone calls after a San Antonio television report on Monday that he had sold the team to Davis for $150 million, given approval by the NFL owners.

Club President Tex Schramm said no announcement was imminent. The next NFL meeting is May 24-25 in Miami.

The Cowboys weren't being distracted by the sale talk, Walker said.

"There's a lot of interest, of course," he said. "We do want to know who the owner is going to be when we go out there and put our life on the line."

A crowd of 92,706 for the fifth game of the 1989 World Series between the Dodgers and the White Sox at the Los Angeles Coliseum was a record.

Two teams, the 1971 Baltimore Orioles and the 1929 Chicago White Sox, are the only clubs in baseball history to have four pitchers with 20 or more victories in the same season.

7-pound, 2-ounce catch

Thomas Reyna of Hereford proudly displays the seven pound, two ounce walleye he caught Saturday night at Greenbelt Lake. It was a personal record catch by Reyna. "That's the first one we ever caught that big. It was caught off the bank, not off a boat," he said. Reyna went on the fishing trip with his wife, Jodi, his six-year-old daughter Melissa, his two-year-old son Christopher, and his brothers, Adam Reyna and Russell Reyna.

Odds favor Dorsett to be with Cowboys

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Tony Dorsett says the odds favor him wearing a Dallas Cowboys uniform this season although he asked to be traded after he began spending more time on the bench in 1987. "I'd say the odds of my being traded are 50-50, but it's stronger that I will be here," Dorsett said Tuesday during the opening session of the Cowboys' three-day mini-camp. "If the Cowboys don't trade me, I certainly wouldn't ask to be released. There's no way on God's green Earth I'd ask to be released." Dorsett says he will continue to give the Cowboys his all even in a backup role to Herschel Walker. "I always go 100 percent," said the 34-year-old Dorsett, who still has two years left on his contract. "However, I don't see how valuable I can be to the Cowboys sitting on the bench." "Nobody wants to take a shot at my salary," Dorsett said. "It's not talent — it's economics."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This problem is insignificant compared with some I have read about in your column, but it bothers me a lot. Can you help?

I am married to a man who is 6-foot-4. He has several brothers who vary in height from 5-foot-11 to 6-foot-7. Their mother is obsessed by the height of her sons. Whenever she refers to them in casual conversation, she never fails to identify them by height as well as by name. For example, "Dick, he's the one who is 6-foot-3."

Her favorite, of course, is "Rob," the tallest. He is 6-foot-7. Rob thoroughly enjoys being the center of attention. People are in awe of him because he is so tall. This jerk wears boots with heels so that he will appear taller.

Recently I ventured to express an opinion that was quite different from the one my mother-in-law held. Her response floored me. She said, "You are just jealous because Mary is 5-foot-11. Frankly, I wish my son had married her instead of you."

How do I deal with this woman, Ann?—Faithful Reader in the Northwest distance or a great height.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In the past you have had a great deal to say about abuse of the elderly. What about the abuse that the elderly heap on their sons and daughters who are no longer young themselves?

My mother is 93. She has made her home with us since Dad died 13 years ago. The last five years have been a living hell because of her. She has accused my husband and me of stealing money from her bank account. She tells the neighbors and family members that we beat her. In recent months she has been getting on the telephone hollering for help.

Mother used to give us $100 a month for room and board. Now she gives us nothing, although she has more money than she will ever use. (We are struggling to make ends meet). The woman is cantankerous and constantly stirring up trouble. She requires a great deal of time and attention. Nothing I cook suits her. I am exhausted all the time. Her health is better than mine.

I can't bring myself to put her in a nursing home, but my brother and sisters say if I don't I will have a nervous breakdown. Do you have any thoughts on this subject?—An Ohio Woman

DEAR OHIO: Discuss the problem with your doctor. He may insist that you be relieved of the burden of caring for an elderly, irrational parent. If this keeps up, your mother could bury you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I respond to "Empty Cradle-Full Heart"? She was the unwed mother who gave up her baby for adoption.

I, too, became pregnant without the benefit of marriage, but I couldn't face the disgrace. The father of my child was in no position to marry me at that time. (He was 18.) I decided to have an abortion. This happened more than 11 years ago, and I have been tortured by guilt ever since.

Eventually, the father did marry me and recently one of our children died from a rare blood disorder. I keep thinking that this is God's way of punishing me. What do you think, Ann?—Guilty in Connecticut

DEAR FRIEND: To believe this would give credence to the notion that the loss of a loved one is punishment from God. The Lord is loving and merciful. He does not work in this way. Put that thought out of your mind for all time.

How much do you know about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? Think you can handle them? For up-to-the minute information on drugs, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Assess skills before starting new business

Small home businesses offering everything from homemade jams and county crafts to custom drapery making, day care or accounting services have popped up all over Texas, especially in rural areas.

"Economic circumstances are still fragile for many farm families, so anything that can contribute to improving financial security looks attractive," says Bonnie L. Piernot, a consumer economics specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Besides, working at home isn't a new idea for people who are used to spending long hours on the farm and ranch enterprise," she adds.

With a national failure rate of 70% for all new businesses, however, Piernot says it's important to consider what it will take to own and manage a home-based business.

The specialist suggests assessing your skills in each of the following areas before embarking on a home business venture:

-Organizing and Planning. Can you set and follow through on goals, time commitments and work schedules?

-Handling Money. A home business will require planning budgets, securing loans, keeping financial records and completing tax forms.

-Selling ideas and Products. You may have to sell your idea to secure business loans and engage in direct selling to customers or determining sales quotas.

-Management. Can you make decisions about allocating your resources, setting goals and deter-

Essay winners

The DAR American History essay winners were recognized during a tea hosted recently by the Los Ciboleros Chapter of DAR. Those honored included (from left) Benton Buckley and Beth Weatherly, both second place winners from the fifth grade class at West Central; Wade Johnson, second place from the sixth grade class at Shirley School; and Cameron Betzen, second place from the sixth grade at St. Anthony's School. These students will receive certificates of award at their school awards assembly. Bronze medals will be present to David Vermillion, who placed first in the fifth grade at West Central, and Misty Dudley, a first place winner in the sixth grade at West Central.

Iceland had lush meadowlands dotted with stands of birch and mountain ash when Norse settlers began arriving, but, in little over 1,000 years, man and sheep have destroyed virtually all of the country's forests, according to National Geographic.

Tea Held Recently

A tea was held recently at the Hereford Community Center by the Los Ciboleros Chapter of DAR to honor several people. The local chapter members gave special recognition to (at left), Mrs. Jess Robinson, organizing regent of Los Ciboleros Chapter, who in turn presented the charter to the membership. Also, shown is Kathryn Ruga, vice regent. Other chapter members in attendance included Margaret Bell, Mary Williamson, Patricia Faulkner, Nell Norvell, Helen Rose, Joan Euler, Wanda Jones, Margaret Durham, Lois Gilliland, Frances Hennen and Charlotte Clark.

The first record featured inventor Thomas Edison singing "Mary Had a Little Lamb."

About ten pounds of mulberry leaves are needed for the silkworm to manufacture a pound of cocoons—which can be spun into a silk thread over 100 miles long.

In 1935, the first nylon stockings went on sale, in Wilmington, Del.

"There should be no embarrassment whatsoever about asking about prices for a funeral service."

"When you're my age, you usually have had to make funeral arrangements for someone who is near and dear to you. And I can tell you it's never an easy thing to do.

"You have so many decisions to make... the funeral services are involved in some of them. And most of the time you really aren't prepared to make those decisions, especially if it's an unexpected loss. In fact it's best to have a pre-need plan before you require these services."

The personnel at Rix can arrange the kind of service that you feel you can afford either at time of need or by having a Pre-need Plan before the inevitable happens.

Give Rix your ideas in this instance, ask for a price list and an explanation of services, then stay within the budget you set by selecting the services you want.

Pre-planning takes much of the pressure off you at the time when death does come to a member of your family. Let our professional counselors give you the experience that comes with years of service.

For more information on Pre-need funeral plans call us or fill in the coupon printed below and we'll be glad to answer any questions you may have.
