

The view at Valley View

There is still not much to view at the eventual site of Valley View's planned biomass electric generating facility east of Hereford. Some foundation and earth-moving work has been done, and rebar is sticking our of one of the foundation areas in the midst of a fenced-in pasture.

Valley View officials 'tying up loose ends'

By JOHN BROOKS Managing Editor

A top official of Valley View Energy Corporation remains optimistic that continuous construction work will begin soon at the company's biomass electric generating plant east of Hereford.

Some land-preparation and foundation work has been done at the site, which is surrounded by a chainlink fence about four miles east of Hereford just off U.S. Highway 60. "We are doing some foundation work that had to be done in conjunction with the project," said Valley View's secretary and general counsel Bob Isaac.

"We still have some loose ends to tie up, though, before we throw things together. When we were up there (in Hereford) two months ago we had some loose ends, and we haven't been able to tie all of them together. Unfortunately, everyone hasn't been available when we have needed to get together. It has dragged out longer than we wanted it to.

"We are still optimistic that things will be coming together quickly, or we wouldn't have done the work."

Isaac said he was "not at liberty to discuss" the details of the loose ends. "This is a very complicated project. There are so many little pieces that have to come together. Not all of the little pieces have been resolved, so they don't fit into the puzzle, yet."

The project, which hopes to turn manure from area feedlots into electricity for Austin, has faced numerous problems from its inception in 1984.

-The original prime contractor, Fluor, merged and the resulting company wasn't interested in the facility. Southern Electric International is now the prime

-There were difficulties in obtaining "wheeling" agreements among the several electric utilities and between two "power pools" that would carry the electricity from Hereford to Austin.

-Engineers involved with the project feared that the original design tested by the Bechtel Corporation would lead to the formation of too much sodium chloride - salt - inside the boiler. That problem, officials hope, will be corrected simply by "cooking" the manure at a lower temperature.

-Money. The original letter of credit was rescinded because of the bank's fear of any sort of energy loan. Since, Banc Paribas of Paris has issued the needed letter of credit. The general economic downturn in the state's economy also caused one backer to pull

Isaac wouldn't speculate on when the problems might be resolved, "but we are eager to get started and we are optimistic we can begin in the near

Once the company begins full-scale construction work, up to 300 persons could be working at the facility. When completed 55-85 persons will be employed at the plant. The plant's big item, the boiler, which has been contracted for by Southern, will contain a circulating, fluidiezed bed of ash to cook the manure. The cooking process will generate steam which drives a turbine generator to make the electricity.

"I have good motives towards West Texas State," said Roach, who calls himself a workaholic who likes to jog with his dogs to relieve the pressures of his job. "I ame here to do good.'

He cites the remodeling of the campus' oldest building for classrooms and offices, the creation of a new student union and the mothballing of underused buildings to save maintenance money as examples of his mission to shape WTSU's future.

Cupell claims it's his ability to remain calm in tense situations that forces others to revere him.

"I've learned how to discipline students without getting mad. If teachers get mad, they've lost the effect of what they were trying to accomplish," said Cupell with a raspy drawl.

So instead of boiling over when students were unruly, Cupell's saying, "The natives are getting restless today," was his signal to the class that things had better quiet down, according to Leasure.

Last week, Pickens announced he would not seek reelection to the board chairmanship for the 1968-89 school year. But his seat on the board is not set to expire for another five years.

He said he wanted to devote more time to running Mesa Limited Partnership, but acknowledged that the controversy has increased the demands on his time.

WTSU's budget has been slashed from $25.2 million in 1984-85 to $15.8 million in 1987-88. Enrollment also has sagged 11 percent since 1984, although spring enrollment posted a slight increase, according to school records.

Roach's restructuring plan, released in 1986, has resulted in the consolidation of seven colleges into four and 23 departments into 14.

And while some faculty members praise some changes effected by Roach, they are rankled at his management methods, calling them unsuitable for an academic environment.

Broad-based youth program church's goal

Hereford's First Christian Church is setting a new direction for its ministry to the community's junior high and high school youth, striving to unify the city's youth in a spirit of mutual moral support intended to be inter-denominational

Dorman Smith will donate his time to serve as director for the program. Smith is the author of "Casev Wayne," a first-person account of life, death, and the grief and healing that follows. Smith wrote the book in tribute to Jesus Christ and to his late son, Casey, who died after an automobile accident near Tulia in November 1986

Smith's book contains his account of God's wondrous healing power. along with special words to parents and youth

Smith will head a youth ministry board which includes Dianne Rowton, head counselor; Bill Weatherly, high school leader; Christy Wright, junior high school leader; and Paul Hubbard, joint activities director.

"Kids have to face a lot of pressure today, often without any help from their parents," Smith said. "Many of our kids are in a world of hurt, searching for answers. There's a big gap between these youth and their parents and other adults when it comes to understanding one another's needs and actions.

"Through God's help, this ministry can help close that gap. Alcohol, drug and sexual abuse are at epidemic levels among our junior high and high school youth despite the presence of all kinds of programs aimed at dealing with the problems.

"We know the only real answer is through Christ. Our direction with the youth program will be to help our young people make Christ the number one priority in their lives. If they have that priority down, they can say 'no' to all these temptations that come with peer pressure."

The youth program will be launched with a special Youth Emphasis Sunday service at the church at 10:45 a.m. today. During the service, local young people will tell, in their own words, of the problems they've encountered and the need for God in the lives of youth.

Smith said the youth program will be operated on a limited schedule this summer and will shift into high gear in September. Primary functions for the group will include Sunday evening gatherings for fellowship, study and recreation.

"What we'll do is go at the kids on their own level and deal directly with many of the peer pressure problems, self-esteem, and how to avoid letting problems rule your world," said Smith. "We will explain to the kids where these pressures come from and teach them that the ultimate solution is through Jesus Christ."

Smith said parents will be involved, whenever possible, in special sessions that help both youth and adults understand where the other is coming from. "Parents are examples for the kids," Smith said. "Through faith in God we get self-esteem. That's where the parents come in.

"This program is open to any vouth in Hereford who want to come. Teachings will be totally nondenominational-if we believe in the same Christ, there will be nothing here that will interfere with the individual personal religious beliefs of

We hope to incorporate the youth groups of other churches into this program so the kids can find out there are other Christians around. If we can get Christian-motivated kids working together, things can be turned around just by their sheer numbers. God intends us to be one body. Youth need unity and moral support that comes with numbers.

"There's no doubt-we have to use every tool we can to help our kids."

WINNETKA, Ill. (AP) - A woman about to lose her baby-sitting job went on a shooting spree that left an 8-year-old dead and six others wounded, then killed herself after apologizing to her parents for the carnage, authorities said.

"Kids were lying around in very serious condition," in the school, Timm said. "Kids were hiding under the desk as well as well as they could."

Police recovered a .357-caliber Magnum revolver from the school. Ms. Dann had been issued a permit for the gun, despite the fact she had been investigated for possible criminal acts in several states, Timm said.

Ms. Dann was arrested on disorderly conduct charges in Lake County, suspected of making threatening and harassing phone

Before the school shootings, Timm said, Ms. Dann went to the home of the couple who had told her she was losing her baby-sitting job because the family was moving. Ms. Dann was to have taken the two children of Padraig and Marion Rushe on an outing.

"We have evidence that the milk in the Rushe home had been tampered with and containers of that milk had been taken with the two children," Timm said.

The children, ages 4 and 6, did not drink the milk, police said.

JUDGE I

It was under the leadership of Superintendent George Graham that Cupell tempered his philosophy of education-and life.

"He taught me that you must first get on the level of the students, pick them up from there and advance them as far as you can. A teacher must teach the student and not the subject matter," stated Cupell.

Terry Russell, HISD principal who was fresh out of college when he taught social studies two doors down from Cupell in the early 70s, said this same philosophy rubbed off on him. "He was a model teacher.

Leasure even had to confront her old math teacher when she was caught speeding on Mormon Street five years ago.

"I was mortified! Here I was going into my former teacher's office to pay a ticket, and I didn't want him to lose faith in me," Leasure said with a laugh. "I have always wondered what he thought of me because I was speeding on that street. If it had been any other judge it would have been all right."

Cupell says he can't leave the bench with a long list of accomplishments even though the number of intoxication cases have dropped by one-third. But Cupell doesn't attribute this to anything he

"I could try to think of some accomplishments but it doesn't make a long list since 60 percent of my work is largely secretarial in nature." Cupell said, who had been working for three hours trying to find a $5 imbalance on his morning report.

But people work, no paper work, is Cupell's forte and as Michael says, he can tell when someone "bumfuzzlin" him.

From his earlier years when students claimed the dog ate the algebra assignment due to speeders claiming they were traveling 60 mph in a 35 mph zone because the house was on fire, Cupell is very adept at culling the fabrications and getting to the meat of the problem.

"He can be hard that way," said Michael. "You'd better have a darn good reason to get off from paying a ticket, yet again, he's compassionate and he will work with you."

But after July, Cupell won't be working for anyone, spending his retirement days behind a fishing pole at Pendaries Park in Las Vegas, Cupell will long be remembered as

We've got a sneaking hunch that this country is in danger of losing its sense of humor.

Over the past two decades we've had so many antigroups organized against real and imagined wrongs that we can no longer tell the difference between "hard" news and "soft" news.

Going all the way back to William Randolph Hearst, newspapers have tried to lighten their front pages of "Hard" news with a sidebar or short item of "soft"

Hard news is classified as elections, disasters, wars, famines, murders, rapes, robberies, and the like.

Soft news can be classified as the offbeat-the humorous, the unusual, an item that can lighten a front page filled with gloom and doom.

Hard news is the explosion in Nevada, the towering inferno in Los Angeles, the Israeli raid into Lebanon. Soft news, in the past, meant the Reagans reading the daily horoscope in the newspaper and the effort to remove the swallows from the UTPB campus.

Somehow or another, we've got the two definitions switched. Television networks have led off their evening newscasts with the somber pronouncements that Nancy Reagan reads her horoscope and some newspapers have headlined the fact that the first family has known astrologers.

Holy Mackerel! Big deal! Millions of Americans read the daily horoscopes in their newspapers with the same intensity that they read Ann Landers, the comics, or the cartoons-and pay about as much attention to one as the other.

Some of the generals on Eisenhower's staff consulted astrologers before the invasion date of Europe to gain insight as to the weather forecast, Hannibal called upon astrologers before trying to cross the Alps with those elephants, and old "Blood & Guts" Pattonw as a regular consultant of astrologers.

Mary Todd Lincoln held seances on the second floor of the White House in order to get readings from the stars. The way Lincoln's generals sat on their laurels from day to day, he probably would have used astrologers, gypsies, witch doctors or anything else handy to get those passive gentlemen to move out.

Marilyn Monroe, both Kennedys, Barry Goldwater, Frank Sinatra, Billy Carter, Bing Crosby, Bernard Baruch, Jay Gould, John D. Rockefeller, John Jacob Astor, Winston Churchill, Pretty Boy Floyd, and John Dillinger all have been or were readers of horoscopes. Whether or not they paid any serious attention to them is another matter.

Closer at home are the headlines about the staff at UTPB trying to get rid of the swallows dipping and darting around the concrete patio on the campus. Big deal!

We had a media reporter call from one of our sister cities inquiring as to our thoughts on the "disaster" of trying to destroy the nests.

We reminded her that the oil patch is built on extinct species of plants and animals, that if we had had environmentalists and Midge Erskine 200 million years ago, the dinosaurs would still be with us.

And we told her of the history in Andrews and other neighboring counties of paying 5 cents for jackrabbit ears, 10 cents for crows' feet, and 50 cents for a coyote tail. And cowboys got their spending money by riding mesquite trails in the spring and robbing crows' nests of just-hatched baby crows. And the entrepreneurs among the cowboy set used dynamite under gravel boxes to blow to smithereens whole roosts of crowsand crows are still with us today.

Our conversation came to an end when she hung up. We personally believe that the county oughta put a bounty on pigeons and clear those pests from the dewntown buildings now.

But it appears to us that the whole country needs to loosen up. We're so tense about everything that we've lost our sense of values over priorities.

We're reminded of the old boy who had trouble sleeping at night and the doctor told him to address each part of his body individually and talk them to sleep.

He'd concentrate on his toes, stretch and relax them, and croon: "Go to sleep toes!" he would then proceed to address his ankles, his shins, his knees, his thigh muscles, stomach, chest, arm: stretching, relaxing, and crooning: "Go to sleep!

Just about the time he had all the various parts relaxed and was about to concentrate on his eyes, the television channel switched and on the screen came a colorful chorus line out of Las Vegas, Nevada. He sat upright in bed and yelled:

"Hey, everybody, wake up, wake up!"

The Penultimate Word

HOROSCOPES

I am no follower of astronomy, but I have a hard time knocking it. I realize making that statement will lead to a great deal of trouble.

The last time I wrote on the subject, one man decided I have never been saved. This was not the first time knocking it because my grandmother planted potatoes by the moon. We teased her, but she grew great

A friend ran a complete chart on me. She found out my exact time and place of birth. She said my Aquarius was in some house which meant I had some mystical qualities. She also said I had a Scorpio moon. She never would say what a Scorpio moon meant, she just kept saying, "You have a Scorpio Moon?" The best I can figure I am supposed to be a mystical sex maniac. I wish someone had told me before I entered the ministry.

Now there is a great tempest going on about Nancy Reagan consulting an astronomer and advising the President. Trips have been delayed, treaty signings have been scheduled to fit the moon signs, and she tried to get him to delay cancer surgery for a day and a half.

Now is when the fun starts. Reagan has been the darling of the fundamental Christians. It is strange how they have supported him while he has gone to church less than almost any President, yet they reviled Jimmy Carter who taught a Sunday School class while in office. Now Reagan consults horoscopes which some of these folks think is of the Devil. Stay tuned.

I heard a radio show the other night discussing Nancy and her horoscope. It seemed the commentators thought the country was in great peril if Nancy was advising the President, since she was not trained in politics or government, and since she consults an astronomer.

It seems to me the ones with all of the training and experience haven't set the woods on fire with their advice. Most of them are either in jail, going to jail, or should be in jail. We can fuss all we want to but Nancy is going to have her say. The only way to stop this is to stop letting presidents

Maybe horoscopes are better than drunks, crooks and behind-the-back dealers selling arms to the enemy. No horoscope ever gave that much bad advice.

I had intended to write about the shoe clerk for a big chain store who complained he was unceremoniously fired as though he was the Chief of Staff for the President of the United States, but I backed off when I discovered I had mis-read the stars.

What I did was base my observations on a star that burned out maybe a million years ago. Astronomers say what some people take for a live star is the light from one that died a million years ago but whose tail of light is still traveling in this direction. May be years before the last of it gets here.

That may have been the star the astrologers used in setting a date for the President's shipping arms to the

But I'd better skip star-gazing. I'm not qualified. I can't even tell you whether you're supposed to plant in the light or the dark of the moon. I know it's one or the other.

What I really started to write about is the plight of many banks and savings and loan institutions that have

An economist good at statistics has pointed out that for every lending institution there must be at least 10,000 farmers, so if you compare the number of banks and savings and loans going under in this country to the number of farmers going under, you'd find that statistically the lenders are way ahead of the borrowers when it comes to going

You mean to say that looking at their management ability in some parts of the nation, you can't tell a banker from a farmer?

The first is legislation to help employers and child care providers obtain liability insurance at reasonable cost. In this area, as in so many others, our distorted legal system is creating unnecessary barriers of innovation.

The second is tax incentives to encourage employers to launch child care programs. Of course, this would cost the government some money in lost tax revenues, but not nearly so much as a massive new federal bureaucracy would cost. Trade philosophies and allegations of unfair import restrictions on the part of the Japanese are one thing. The example of the Brownies' cookies is something else: It brought the problem into stark focus

The 18 girls of a Beeville Brownie troop sold 402 boxes of cookies to sailors on the USS Midway, berthed in Atsugi, Japan. But Japanese authorities, perhaps fearful of a strong national cookie lobby, slapped a $2,000 import tax on the shipment when it arrived.

A Japanese official at the embassy in Washington said it might be a mistake. It was the kind Japan has made in dealing with U.S. citrus and beef exports. But this time they may have awakened another sleeping giant. The top cookie seller, 8-year-old Nickelle Clark, says she's mad. Rightly so. Japan should be ashamed.

Outlaw Plastic Weapons
The Senate Judiciary Committee took a reasonable, necessary and courageous stand in unanimously approving legislation that would ban plastic guns and any other firearms that elude metal detectors and X-ray machines.

This nation cannot afford to permit the manufacture or sale of these kinds of weapons.

The committee's voice vote clears the ban for action on the Senate floor. Congress should waste no time in protecting Americans from lethal guns that could be easily smuggled aboard airlines. Terrorists do not deserve to have any friends in Washington. ...

We hope that the willingness of congressional leaders to take a stand in the case of plastic guns, despite threats of a political retaliation at the polls, will lead to a candid and courageous review of a whole series of gun-control regulations. There must be a balance between sanity and total surrender.

Errors prove costly in bi-district playoff contest

Herd suffers 6-4 loss to Pecos in game one

By GARY CHRISTENSEN Sports Editor

Two costly errors by the Hereford Whitefaces allowed Pecos to score four unearned runs Friday night in a 6-4 bi-district loss to Pecos, at Lubbock Christian University in Lubbock.

Game two of the bi-district series was scheduled for Saturday afternoon, and game three, if necessary, was to be played after game two.

Pecos gained a 2-0 lead in the second inning on two unearned runs. With one out and a runner at first on a single. Pecos hit a single into Hereford infielders were unable to handle the throw, which went into the Pecos dugout, on the third base side of the diamond, for an error. The error allowed the runner to advance all the way to third base and home plate.

The Eagles' next batter hit an RBI groundout to make the score 2-0.

The Whitefaces came back to tie the game, 2-2, in the top of the third inning. Hereford loaded the bases on a walk by Ross Torres, a bunt single by Jason Scott, and a walk by Keith Brown, Glenn Parker was a courtesy runner for pitcher Scott.

Michael Phibbs' sacrifice fly drove home Torres for the first Whiteface run. An error on the play allowed Parker to advance to third base and Brown to second base.

Pecos committed an error on a grounder hit by Rodney McCracken, allowing Parker to score.

James Hernandez tripled with one out in the fourth inning, and scored on Derrell Page's sacrifice fly, to give Hereford a 3-2 lead.

In the bottom of the fourth, Pecos loaded the bases on a single and two walks. Scott suffered through some control problems, walking a batter to give Pecos a run.

But the Clippers have been in the lottery two of the last three years and still managed to do no better than 17-65 this season.

The New York Knicks thought success was at hand when they landed Patrick Ewing in the first lottery in

Bliss begins work in basketball hotbed

By PETE HERRERA

AP Sports Writer ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — It's a basketball program and a job that turned even Bob Knight's head.

Despite the fact New Mexico has made only six appearances in the NCAA Tournament — none in more than a decade - the head coaching job in Albuquerque apparently car-ries considerable clout in the business of college basketball.

Until April 26, the job belonged to Gary Colson. As of this week, it is in the hands of now former Southern Methodist Coach Dave Bliss.

Colson, 53, resigned under pressure last month after failing to end the Lobos' 10-year NCAA drought. In eight seasons, Colson's teams were 146-106 and made five straight trips to the post-season National Invitation Tournament.

But UNM's hunger to cash in on the lucrative NCAA Tournament, the same way neighboring schools such as Wyoming, Arizona, Texas-El Paso and Nevada-Las Vegas have done in recent years, expedited Colson's departure. Enter Bliss, a protege of Knight totally contrary to Colson's laidback. no emotional frills approach to Bliss, whose 13-year record as a head coach is 219-163, was hired within 24 hours of his arrival in Albuquerque and two days after Knight turned down the job.

Wearing a smile that's a throwback to his days as a toothpaste salesman, Bliss made an instant, positive impact on the New Mexico news media, whose members often tangled with Colson. As one Albuquerque sports writer commented following Bliss' first news conference, "To make a better impression than Bliss did ... he'd have had to throw money."

But Bliss also has proven that behind the smile is a blue collar

"what I am is a hard worker."

Bliss, who says he would press and fasthreak even if he had to coach sports writers, has promised a tough conditioning program for New Mex-ico players, 11 of whom return from last year's squad.

"Everybody will have to be in condition," said Bliss, who has figured out that an up tempo game will fit nicely in "The Pit," the Lobos'

Unlike the situations he inherited at Oklahoma in 1975 and at SMU in 1980, Bliss will not have to rebuild the program at New Mexico. Four starters are among the 11 returnees for next season from a unit that went

"It's clear we haven't been to the NCAA Tournament in 10 years and our expectations are that we will win the WAC (Western Athletic Conference) and get involved in the na-

"It's my intention to do s good a job of representing New Mexico's possibilities as I can," he said. "But right now I think we have to learn to walk before we can run."

A graduate of Cornell with a degree in marketing, Bliss worked for Proctor and Gamble before joining Knight's staff at Army. He followed Knight to Indiana and into Koenig's search for a successor to Colson. Bliss came highly recommended by some of the best in the business, with the most impressive accolades from his former boss.

"The University of New Mexico basketball job is one of the best in the nation," said Knight, "and by hiring a coach like Dave Bliss, the University of New Mexico is putting together blend of the best with the best. Dave Bliss is one of the two coaches in the United States that if I were to leave Indiana University, I would recommend to the administration as my replacement."

But for now, Bliss will take his fiveyear contract and try to take New Mexico a step higher on the basketball ladder. He talks of scheduling the UNLVs, North Carolinas and Notre Dames, something he says would help the Lobos move out of their neighbors' shadows.

"Right now, when they talk about great basketball teams in the West, they think of Arizona and UNLV," he said. "I can't ordain this thing to happen, I can only put in the necessary work."

Sometimes there are surprises. A year ago, Blake's scouting service fans anticipated an instant reversal turned up unknown Scottie Pippin at of the Knicks' hard times. Surely, tiny Central Arkansas State and he Ewing would turn things around, imbecame a lottery player, picked No. 5 by Seattle and then traded to Chicago where he had a productive rookie

The lottery began in 1985 and the best college player in the country that year was Ewing, an imposing 7-foot shot-blocker from Georgetown who was projected as a franchise The team staggered to records of player. As the lottery wound down, 23-59 and 24-58 in Ewing's first two the last two teams left were the New years, before making the playoffs York Knicks and Indiana Pacers. Tension was thick in the air as NBA Commissioner David Stern opened the last lottery envelope and found the Pacers' logo, leaving the No. 1 pick, Ewing, to the Knicks.

San Antonio won the first pick a year ago, and made the obvious choice, picking Robinson. The whole package was ticketed for future delivery, however, because of Robinson's two-year Naval obligation. Even without lottery draft help, though, the Robinson-less Spurs still made it to the playoffs.

The Clippers had the worst record in the league last season and that assured them no lower than the fourth pick in Saturday's lottery. It was not always that way. In the first lottery three years ago, Golden State came in with the poorest record. Al Attles, then general manager of the Warriors, arrived with images of Ewing dancing in his head. When the luck of the draw delivered the seventh pick instead of the first, Atties mouned softly, then went home and picked Chris Mullin of St. John's. a Big East player, but not the Big East player be had in mind.

That piece of poor luck caused the league to change the procedure and limit the lottery to the first three picks. From No. 4 on, the order is determined by inverse order of regular season records.

Pitching with a 3-2 lead

Hereford Whiteface starting pitcher Jason Scott, who entered Friday's bi-district playoff game undefeated at 10-0, is pictured here with a 3-2 lead in the fourth inning. Scott struck out seven batters and allowed two earned runs, but two errors by Hereford enabled Pecos to score four unearned runs and Pecos beat Scott and the Herd, 6-4. ## Nuptials exchanged Saturday in Temple Baptist Church

Temple Baptist Church was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Vila Gaye Hughes of Hereford and Robert David Snider of Tulsa, Okla. Officiating for the couple was the Rev. H.W. Bartlett, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hughes of Route 4, Hereford, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Snider of Gainesville, Texas.

Spiral candelabra holding white candles and trimmed with greenery and royal blue ribbons decorated the church altar which was centered by the prayer bench. The background of the altar area was decorated by

"Flesh of Flesh," "Our Love" and "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do" was sung by Diana Jacobson, Natalie Trampee and Ernie Boyd accompanied by Paula Eubanks of

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin featuring a princess bodice and short puff sleeves, all adorned with Venice lace, seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The basque waistline dropped to a full ballgown skirt and the cathedral-length train was hemmed with silk embroidered lace.

Her shoulder-length tulle veil was attached to a crown of pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and pastel blue satin roses with jubilee gypsy entwined throughout. She also carried handkerchiefs belonging to her mother and grandmother.

Bridal attendants wore royal blue dresses with scalloped edge polyester lace over slips of gleaming acetate satin. They were fashioned with V-shape necks at the backs, satin cummerbunds and bows at the backs. They carried bouquets consisting of long stemmed light blue roses and mums adorned with white stargrass and blue and white Rose Ingerson of Amarillo invited guests to register at the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's cake was served by Charla Sutton and Lajuan Eubanks and the groom's cake was served by, Rae Ann Bezner and Kristen Fry. Punch and coffee were poured by Donna Eubanks.

The wedding cakes were made by the bride's aunt. Leona Eubanks. The bride's three-tiered cake was trimmed with flowers and topped with a Precious Moments ornament and the groom's cake was decorated with the Texas A&M emblem.

Leaving for a wedding trip to South Padre Island, the bride wore a royal blue two-piece suit with matching ac-

Winget serves as hostess

Members of Hereford Study Club met Thursday evening in the home of Virginia Winget for their final meeting of the club year. Morgan Cain served as co-hostess.

Following a salad supper, new officers for the coming year were installed by outgoing president Winget. Her theme for the installation was the zoo. She commented that animals have a personality all their own and much can be learned about them. Incoming president Addie Cunningham was given a lion as a symbol of strength and courage, a characteristic that a president must have.

Using other animals, Winget installed Inez Witherspoon as first vice president; Joan Yarbro, treasurer; Gracie Shaw, secretary-reporter; Barbara Allen, historian; Winget, parliamentarian; and Mildred Garrison, corresponding secretary.

Before the conclusion of the meeting, President Cunningham named her committees for 1988-89.

Those attending were Allen, Jean Ballard, Willie Braddy, Doris Bryant, Morgan Cain, Cunningham, Garrison, Betty Gilbert, Nedra Robinson, Gladys Setliff, Shaw, Helen Spinks, Bessie Story, Winget, Witherspoon and Leta Kaul.

Hereford graduates announced

Two students from Hereford were among a record number of 659 persons who received diplomas or certificates recently during South Plains College's 30th commencement exercises.

Hereford graduates are Loree Adams, associate in applied science, legal secretary; and Clifton McElhaney, AAS, sound technology.

"This graduation is a milestone in SPC's 30-year history," said Dr. Robert Cloud, SPC vice president for academic affairs. "We are very proud of our 1988 graduates; they are a special group of students who have done exceptionally well during their two years at SPC. We wish them well in their future careers."

Reunion planned

In conjunction with the 65th Annual Mid-Plains Pioneer Celebration set May 28, the 1923 graduating class of Hereford High School will gather for a reunion May 27-28.

Anyone planning to attend this event or needing more information may contact Bettye Bagley at 364-1416.

Wilcox, Allen united in marriage at Friona

Teresa Wilcox of Hereford became the bride of Rodney Allen of Friona in an early evening wedding ceremony conducted Saturday at Sixth Street Church of Christ in Friona. Officiating was Hal Blackburn of Fox and Lake Church of Christ in Carlsbad, N.M.

The bride is the daughter of Roger and Betty Wilcox of 105 Mimosa and the bridegroom is the son of Frankie and Oneida Allen of Friona.

The church altar was decorated by two heart-shaped candelabra and two nine-branch candelabra interwoven with English ivy and accented with a peach bow.

Mrs. Rick Dunham of San Antonio served her sister as matron of honor and Eddie Allen of Canyon was his brother's best man.

Bridesmaids included the bride's sister, Stephanie Wilcox, and Mrs. Tracy Straughan. Groomsmen were Brian Edelmon of Lubbock and Kip cakes and accented with peach Frye of Canyon. Guests were escorted by Rick Dunham of San Antonio and Steven Smith of Austin.

Serving as flower girl was the bride's cousin, V'Laura Wilcox, a white lace collar. The couple will daughter of Terry and Varia Wilcox of Friona, and ring bearer was the bride's cousin, Kyle Campbell, son of Mark and Pam Campbell of Gunnison, Colo.

Parents of the bride are Jack and Annabelle Altman of Amarillo and the bridegroom's parents are Eldon and Nelda Fortenberry of 1202 La Plata Drive, Hereford.

Forming the main altar setting were a 16-branch brass candelabrum flanked by two 16-branch brass spiral candelabra with two kneeling benches. The candelabra were entwined with burgundy and white flowers and fresh greenery and large baskets of fresh greenery were placed at the altar's background. A white unity candle was nestled in a bed of greenery, baby's breath and burgundy and white flowers. Pews were marked by burgundy satin bows and the registry table was decorated by a bud vase holding burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Robert (Cheryl) Hodges of Amarillo was matron of honor and the groom's brother, Steve Fortenberry of Lake Charles, La., was best man.

Guests were escorted by Allan Mongold of Amarillo and Kevin Huffaker of Oklahoma City, Okla.

The groom's nephew, Stephen Fortenberry, son of Steve and Becky Fortenberry, was ring bearer and carried a white satin pillow with a swag of burgundy roses, baby's breath and lace ribbon.

Candles were lit by the groom's nephew and niece, Monica and T.J. Sanders.

Jimmy Lewis vocalized "Make Us One, Lord", "I See Jesus In You" and Beverly Bryant sang "The Wedding Song." They were accompanied

Her jewelry consisted of a pearl necklace and matching earrings.

The matron of honor was attired in an ensemble featuring a burgundy satin sweetheart bodice, puff sleeves and gathered balloon lace tea-length skirt over burgundy taffeta. She carried a burgundy rose arm bouquet accented with baby's breath and pecot and lace trim.

Corsages for the couple's mothers and grandmothers were of burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Trisha McDaniel of Amarillo invited guests to register at the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

She also served the bride's cake and punch and coffee were oured by Lesli Wilkins of Amarillo. Presiding at the groom's table were the groom's sister, Stephanie Sanders of Sunnyside, and the groom's cousin, Connie Brown of Amarillo.

The three-tiered Victorian styled wedding cake was the focal point of the bride's table. It was designed with stringwork and clusters of mauve roses and was placed above a crystal fountain which was surrounded by fresh greenery, carnations and baby's breath. The table was covered with satin and lace cloths and highlighted by burgundy and mauve bows. Further enhancing the table was a silver candelabrum and matching punch bowl.

At the groom's table, which was also covered by a lace cloth and accented with burgundy bows, was his two-layered red velvet cake. Coffee was served from a silver coffee urn. The event was catered by Chad Fitzgerald of Chad's Cakes Plus.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M., the bride wore a pink cotton knit skirt and blouse with matching belt and pink accessories. She also wore a going-away corsage of burgundy roses, baby's breath and

The couple will make their home at 2217 S. Polk St. in Amarillo.

The bride attended Amarillo college and is currently employed by J.C. Penney of Amarillo as merchandising assistant over the Mix-It Shop.

The groom, a 1982 graduate of Hereford High School, has an associate degree in court reporting from AC and is employed by Carolyn Block and Associates, a court reporting firm in Amarillo.

Recognize as special out-of-town guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louise Whithorn of Hemet, Calif.

CONGRATULATIONS MARIE STRINGER

For the years of dedication to teaching young minds and the joy of learning, and for exposing those young minds to ideals of kindness, respect and a basis for developing self discipline -- we honor Marie Stringer on the occasion of her teaching retirement.

As children who were loved, nurished and taught all the same ideals as her students, we attest to the great service our mother has done for this community.

> We are proud of her and our admiration for her strength and perserverence to fullfill her dreams will forever be our example.

Congratulations mother a job well done with pride. Your Children

MRS. DAVID BRUCE CLARKE ...nee Melissa Kay Coleman

Coleman, Clarke vows exchanged in Waco

Wedding vows were exchanged by Melissa Kay Coleman and David Bruce Clarke, both of Lubbock, in a mid-afternoon wedding ceremony Saturday in First United Methodist Church in Waco. Officiating were the Rev. Richard M. Freeman and Monsignor Mark Deering.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William P. Coleman of McGregor and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Clarke of Hereford.

Decorating the church altar were candelabra, flowers and greenery. Pews were marked by bows.

Leslie Coleman served her sister as maid of honor and Tom Clarke served his brother as best man.

Bridesmaids included Mrs. Lane Thornton, Amy Ragan, Dawn Plasek, Mrs. John Hall and Mrs. Marion Coleman. Groomsmen were Robert Brent Clarke, Jeff Coupe, Kevin Coupe, Marion Coleman and Ken Cosper.

Ushers were Barry Josserand, Kelly Cassels, John Mark Clark and Tal Gardenshire.

Jessica and Rob Lundy, children of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lundy, served as flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Barbie Dutton sang "In This Very Room" and "To Me" accompanied by Gail Geary.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with beaded lace down the front, and netting and matching beaded lace adorned the long sleeves which were fashioned with poufs of satin at the shoulders. The high neck was designed with a sheath silhouette enhanced by delicate strands of beads.

The bridal veil was attached to a Juliet style headpiece with adornments on both sides. She carried oneand-a-half dozen roses.

Bridal attendants wore Wedgewood blue taffeta dresses fashioned with V-shape backs with bows, scooped necklines, and dropped waists. Stacy Mankin invited guests to register at the reception held in the Northwood Inn in Waco. Lisa Thompson served cake and punch was poured by Tricia Fuller. Others assisting were Jana Petty and Wendy Oxford.

The all white five-layered bride's cake was trimmed with fresh flowers and the table was also decorated with candelabra and flowers. Leaving for a wedding trip to Ixtapa, Mexico, the bride wore a linen designer's ensemble designed with a watermelon on the waist and sleeves and a white skirt fashioned with hot pink pleats.

The bride graduated from Texas Tech University and is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. She manages a ladies store, Razzle Daz-

To the Hereford Community:

I would like to thank you for all the support, balloons, phone calls, and encouraging words during my senior year as a tennis player. To be a good player you have to be surrounded by people who believe in you, and I can't think of a better place than Hereford where this is possible. I achieved a goal in which I set out to do for a long time, and I am proud to be able to represent a town such as Hereford. Thanks again, you'll never be forgotten. I would like to send out a special thanks to Ruben Vargas who worked numerous hours for three years just so I could make the State Tournament. Thanks coach.

Finally, I would like to thank a few special people in my life. Mom, Dad, Kyle, Lewis, Linda, Luis, Brad, Stacy, and especially Misty, thanks for always believing in me and supporting me in everything I do.

Between the Covers

People Like Us, written by the bestseller author Domenick Dunne, is a comedy of manners and finally a tragedy of morals, a story of the '80s when the rich go public.

At the top of the social pyramid sits matriarch Lil Altemus, her brother Laurance Van Degan, a powerful businessman and philanthropist, Herbie, Lil's ne'er-do-well son and rebellious daughter Justine. Justine is married to Bernie Slatkin, a handsome philandering newscaster who is certainly not on the social register, an event that allows social entry to a new class of people, like Elias and Ruby Renthal.

Elias has made his billions in airplane wheels and other mysterious dealings. Ruby, beautiful and sexual, learns the rules of privileged society she aspires to enter, but keeps the secret known only to herself and Gus Bailey. Bailey, journalist, divorcee, refugee from Hollywood, is the confidant of the New York elite. Gus has his own secret and a violent plan will affect and change many lives. Dunne, the author of the sensational The Two Mrs. Greenvilles, has another gripping novel you will no want to miss.

There are several biographies coming out this week and among them is Spencer Tracy: A Tragic Idol by Bill Davidson. In Tracy's complicated and unusual life acting came easy. The author goes beneath the surface of the story and gives us the man who never really believed he could be, or was the most popular screen star during the golden era of Hollywood.

This insightful, moving biography explores Tracy's partnership with Katherine Hepburn both on and off screen. Both were strong-willed and eccentric, and their relationship was strong enough to withstand the constraints that prevented them from marrying. Their friendship was also tried by Tracy's depressions, drunken spirals, furious temper, and sometimes truly diabolical behavior.

FIELD OF VISION Central and peripheral (side) vision allow us to see a broad field. We use central vision when looking directly at an object or space. We read, watch television, or recognize a sign or person directly in front of us. Peripheral vision allows us to add an overall view of the environment around us. It makes going down a staircase or driving on a highway a more comfortable, safer experience.

Dumage to either area of vision makes seeing difficult. During a routine eye examination, the optometrist tests your field of vision by moving small lights, colored spots or a finger across your total field of vision. If unusual blind spots or field losses occur, further tests will try to determine why. If the cause of these losses is a disease, treatment will be recommended to control the disease and prevent futher loss of vision.

To see completely, both central and peripheral vision are essential.

Mercer installs new club officers

Gathering for their final meeting of the club year, members of La Plata Study Club met for an installation dinner Tuesday evening. The event was catered by Something

Using a treasure box filled with jewels, Dorothy Mercer explained how each stone represented an office as she installed the following 1988-89 officers: Yvonne Simpson, president: Mildred Fuhrmann, vice president; Lois Matchett, recording secretary; Lola Smalts, corresponding secretary; Suzanne Stevens, treasurer; Peggie Fox, reporter; Avis White, historian; and Clora

Brown, parliamentarian.

Also, during the brief business session presided by outgoing president Clora Brown, a letter was read from the Hereford Day Care Center expressing appreciation for the club's $100 donation which was used toward defraying the cost of repairing the center's roof. Club members expressed their

Red Cross Update

The Disaster Training class scheduled for Saturday, May 21, at the Community Center was postponed. The class will be scheduled later this year.

Special thanks to Ronny and Kim Sanders for teaching a CPR class. They will be teaching a First Aid Class June 6-7 at the Red Cross Office. Call the Red Cross office or contact Ronny and Kim Sanders for further information.

Special thanks to Mary Zinser and Laura Carter. The Water Safety Instructors are teaching Advanced Lifesaving classes at this time. Mary Zinsers class is working at the City Pool and Laura Carter class is working at a pool in Dimmitt. Another class will start in June.

A CPR class will be held Tuesday, May 24 and Thursday, May 26 at the Red Cross office. The classes will begin at 7 p.m. and finish about 10 p.m. each evening. Participants are asked to preregister at the Red Cross office. The telephone number is 364-3761 and the address is 224 South Main Street.

Instructors, aides and volunteers are needed for the first session of Water Safety classes.

Remodeling?

Q. — I have to install several locks in doors in my house. While I have done some carpentry work, I have never made holes for locks. Is it easier to do this with a compass saw or a keyhole saw?

A. - Both of those saws are fine for the purpose, but if you have a portable electric drill, get an attachget diameters of different sizes for a single attachment. It will make the job a lot easier. For certain irregular circles and shapes, though, the compass saw and keyhole saw are better.

Q. - I plan to install a concrete patio floor at the rear of our house. I want to be sure rainwater slopes away from the house. Is there any special slope that is necessary to make this work?

A. - A good rule-of-thumb is the slope should be one inch for every 10 feet of patio.

Q. - I looked over the siding of my house prior to painting it and I noticed peeling paint in one section. There is an exhaust vent from a dryer that blows hot air on to that part of the siding and this evidently caused the peeling. Before I repaint, what is the best way to prevent this in the future?

A. - A properly placed hood over the vent will direct the hot air away from the siding. Another way is to extend the vent so the hot air comes out a short distance away from the siding.

Q. - I am puzzled by the terms "strip hardwood flooring" and "strip oak flooring." Isn't oak a hardwood? A. - Yes. The terms are used generally to indicate oak and hardwoods other than oak, such as beech, maple, etc.

Q. - I have heard of a wood finishing process called French polishing. It sounds interesting and I would like to try it. But the description I read about it did not say whether the final finish would be glossy, mildly glossy or non-glossy. Can you help?

A. - French polishing is a name for a manner of polishing with shellae. It produces a glossy finish. Follow the directions you have been given, but be warned it is a technique that requires some practice. Try it out first on some scrap wood or at least on a piece of furniture which is not expensive.

Q. - My three sons and I will be building a new house. We expect to do all the work except the plumbing and electricity. Since it will be mostly a brick house, we hope to get away without any insulation. We live in an area where we have all four seasons, but where it does not get too hot in the summer nor too cold in the winter. We have heard conflicting reports about insulation. One person says brick walls need insulation even more than wooden walls. Another says insulation is not necessary, as the brick is a protection against cold weather. What is your opinion?

A. - This is a controversy that has been going on for many years. Most authorities now agree that walls of brick, concrete block and stone need as much insulation as those made of wood. In very hot weather areas that have cool nights, such as in some parts of the Southwest, insulation is less needed than in other parts of the country, but as a general rule, wherever insulation is needed, it's needed whether the house is wood or

Q. - In putting outlets into a new room, how far apart should they be?

A. - It depends on the needs of those who will be using the room. Better a couple too many outlet than too few. Some electrical codes specify there should be an outlet every 12 feet, but even this isn't enough if a door comes between two of the outlets. Combine your own judgement with that of the electrician who puts in the outlets and you will arrive at a satisfactory solution.

Q - We soon will be finishing an attic in our house. It is very rough and will require lots of work. On the matter of flooring, is it better to install the subflooring at right angles to the joists or in a diagonal direc-

A. - If the subflooring is laid diagonally, generally considered somewhat stronger, the finish flooring then can be installed any way you want.

Q — Our coffee table was finished with lacquer years ago. We want to refinish it after removing the old covering. Can ordinary varnish remover be used to work with lacquer?

A. - Yes, regular varnish remover will take off the lacquer. So will a mixture of three parts of lacquer thinner and one part of denatured alcohol. If you use a varnish remover, follow the directions carefully, especially the part about cleaning the surface of the wood after the removal job is completed. If you use the alcohol-thinner combination, use a fine grade of steel wool after the mixture is applied to soften the old finish a bit. Then wipe with a clean cloth. For the final cleanup. dampen a cloth with denatured alcohol and go over the entire surface of the table. (The techniques of using shellac, varnish, lacquer, stain, bleach, remover, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," which can be obtained by sending 75 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. #### Free high blood pressure screening available

The South Plains Health Provider to the heart, brain, or kidneys. Organization Inc. will be provoding free high blood pressure screening. Personnel will be available to screen at the workplace, those businesses and industries whose employees would like to be screened.

For additional information about local screening, call Jolanda Martinez at 364-7688.

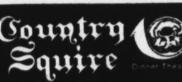

Blood pressure is the force of the blood against the walls of the arteries and veins through which it is being pumped by the heart. High blood pressure (hypertension) is the condition that exists when the heart pumps harder than it should to ciruclate the blood. The hypertension threshold recommended by the Joint National Committee on Detection, Evaluation, and Treatment of High blood Pressure in 1984, for an average-sized adult, is a reading of 140/90 mmHg. If high blood pressure is not treated, the heart may continue to work harder and harder, eventually becoming enlarged. The high pressure may result in damage

OXYGEN DISCOVERY

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - British scientist Joseph Priestly (1733-1804) discovered oxygen in 1774. He called it "dephlogisticated air."

Priestly, who was a friend of Benjamin Franklin, also discovered hydrochloric acid, sulfur dioxide and nitrous oxide (laughing gas).

Priestley left England in 1794 for the United States and lived the rest of his life in Northumberland, Pa.

In about 10% of patients, high blood pressure is found to be a symptom of an underlying problem, a kidney problem, tumor, or congenital defect. This is known as secondary hypertension. If the underlying problem is corrected, the blood pressure is unknown. It is known, however, that being overweight or using a great deal of salt, can contribute to the problem.

If investing in the wind - consider carefully. There are many economic factors to consider when investing in wind energy systems. Among those, a producer should consider investment tax credits, energy inflation, depreciation, general inflation, and system efficiency, cautions Dennis Matteson, Extension specialist in small business energy at Kansas State Univesity. Since most machines have a simple payback period of greater than 10 years, reliability is the first consideration. Next, savings must be considered. Factors involved with savings include the hight of the tower, the terrain around the windmill, average windmill speed, and efficiency, along with electric rates and applicable buy-back rates. Experts do agree the electricity is worth more if used on site, rather than selling to the electric company and bought back from the
