IRRIGATION PROJECT IS INSPECTED AND APPROVED

B. Handley, local Ford dealer, B. S. Wright, who is putting a poultry plant near Hereford, T. D. Moss, secretary of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce, and a trip to Plainview Monday to inspect an irrigation project. A small tractor furnishes power and all three of these were sold on the idea, and agree that the experiment that is being carried on with this cheap irrigation project may revolutionize operations in the shallow districts of this section. P. Barker, business man of Hereford, has a demonstration near that city. Last winter installed a plant that cost a total of $1,708, including well, tractor, etc., and has twenty acres of land under irrigation. The well furnishes 450 gallons per minute. Government is the first project of its kind in Texas, but has been used for several years in California. These is around 250,000 acres of land around Hereford underlaid with shallow water. Several big plants have been in operation here for the past fifteen years, but these projects have proven rather expensive for the average farmer. Many local farmers are looking for a small irrigation plant that can be installed and operated at a minimum cost. The experiment at Plainview seems to fill the bill, and many local farmers are expected to go to Plainview before the season is over to see the plant in action. A ready market is found for all the garden products that are raised on the Barker demonstration farm, such could be the case at Hereford. All kinds of small fruits and vegetables thrive in the Hereford shallow water belt. Recent soil tests by experts reveal that any farm crops, fruits and vegetables can be grown here than can be raised outside of tropical regions. If given the proper care and moisture. The cheap irrigation plant would enable the small farmer to utilize the abundance of water that is found in the Hereford shallow water belt. If such a system could be developed on the 250,000 acres around here that is underlaid with shallow water, approximately 30,000 people could live profitably on these farms, where now only a few hundred are tilling the soil.

New School Buildings In Castro and Deaf Smith Cos.

The construction of new school buildings in many of the communities, and the enlargement of many others, tell the tale of the development that is taking place in Deaf Smith county. Home seekers are moving into this county at a good rate, and new homes can be seen going up in every community. Ward school, northwest of Hereford, has just completed a new stucco building, which will help to take care of the needs of that community for some time. A new $2,000 school house is being erected in the Walcott community, seventeen miles northwest of Hereford. West Way, ten miles west of Hereford, has just completed an addition to the stucco building there. Fairview school, twenty-five miles northeast of Hereford, is being enlarged to take care of the increased attendance caused by the new settlers that have moved into that community. The Higgins school north of Hereford, is building an addition, and will be ready to serve the increased attendance when school opens in September. A contract was let last Saturday for a $13,000 stucco school building in the Jumbo community, southeast of Hereford in Castro county. The building is to be completed by October 10, and will be one of the best equipped rural schools in this section. H. G. Wallace, of McRose, New Mexico, was awarded the contract for this new school building and work will be begun immediately. The development of Deaf Smith county is gradual. No boom is being experienced here and local folks are not wanting to see one. Everything building, almost, is being built substantially, and nothing indicates the shack communities so often seen in a boom country. The fact that so many schools near Hereford are being enlarged for the coming term reflects the development that is taking place. A $125,000 high school was completed in Hereford last December and the enrollment showed that students were here from ten states.

SHOWERS END LONG DRY SPELL

More than one inch of rain has fallen over this section during the past four days and leaves the row crops in a very promising condition, with optimism very pronounced among the farmers and business men of Hereford. Most of the feed stuff has been assured and cotton will go for some time without additional moisture. The rain has placed adequate moisture in the ground for breaking stubble and farmers are working early and late getting their land in shape for another wheat crop. A large acreage had already been planted and this soil took care of every bit of the moisture that fell. Many of the cow pastures in this section are being plowed up and this will be put in wheat this fall. The acreage will probably be double that of the present year. Prospects are bright here for an all-around crop for Deaf Smith county, and farmers over this entire section are optimistic since the rains.

Need for Co-Operation Is Stressed at C. C. Luncheon

K. B. Black, president of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, was selected at the luncheon Monday to represent Hereford at the Plainview meeting August 19, at which time representatives from ten counties will formulate plans for a co-operative advertising campaign for the territory involved. Local folks are very enthusiastic over the prospects for a plan that will place before the world the possibilities of this immediate section of the Panhandle. "This is the greatest place for diversified farming in Texas, and practically all the territory is underlaid with shallow water," said Mr. Black, after his selection. He will probably ask that these two ideas be made the main issues in the advertising campaign.

DEAF SMITH COUNTY FAIR PROMISES HIGH CLASS SHOW

Preparations are being made for a real county fair to be held here September 16-17-18. Just before the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo, the community booth, which will feature field crops and garden products, livestock show and an automobile show will be the main features of the fair. A number of the committee men have already signified their intention of putting on community exhibits at the local fair. Attractive cash prizes are being offered in this department and competition is expected to be keen. Luther Hough, in charge of the automobile show, predicts the best show of its kind that has ever been held here. Practically every dealer in Hereford has promised to have cars in this show. It will probably be held on the first floor of the fair pavilion. Ross Fuller has already started work on the hog show, and says that a number of local farmers have pledged themselves to bring in a number of hogs for the show. Boys and girls doing club work under the direction of County Agent R. O. Dunkle are expected to bring in show pigs to compete for prizes. Berry Orr, superintendent of the dairy show, has already worked out cash prizes for this department and has his rules and regulations ready for those who expect to show. Last year this was one of the best departments of the fair, and Mr. Orr predicts that the dairy show will draw even more cattle than the one of a year ago. Several of the Hereford breeders are conditioning animals for the Hereford Show, and the best show in years is the goal of these men. More line-bred Axiety 4th Herefords are expected to enter this show than of any of its kind in the state. Last year about fifty animals entered the Hereford show and competition was keen. The young bull, Superior 3rd, that was judged grand champion here was also grand champion at Sweetwater and later topped the Texas Hereford Breeders Association Sale at Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. Mrs. Bob Wilson reports that the Woman's Department will be one of the most attractive phases of the Deaf Smith County Fair. She has already mailed out rules and regulations and prize lists that cover her department to leaders in the various communities of the county. Superintendents for the various departments, such as sewing, fancy work, relics, art, etc., have already been selected and are at work securing exhibits for their respective departments. Byron McCord has worked out each cash prize for the Poultry Show, and 250 birds are expected to compete for prizes. Last year 200 birds, representing eighteen breeds, were exhibited here and interest seems to be greater now than a year ago. Concessions people from over the state are sending in for space at the local fair. Admission will be free, and large crowds are expected each day. Entertainment companies will be booked within the near future for the three-day fair.

Miles New Road Petitions Are Circulated

Twenty-five miles of new roads in Deaf Smith county will probably be built within the near future, according to Judge Earl Wilson. Three petitions have just been presented to the Commissioner of the opening of several miles of new roads in the northeast part of the county. One petition calls for a road one mile long in the northeast part, and another wants a road to go west from 25-Mile road to Ward school and to with Motor Route B. Settlers moving into various parts of Deaf Smith county are improving of many tracts. Formerly pastures, have to create a need for more roads in Deaf Smith county. New roads can be seen going up in parts of the county right now. A big development is expected within the next twelve months.

Northwest Texas Girls' Camp Is Now Open

The Northwest Texas Girls' camp will be held in Ceta Canyon twenty miles southeast of Canyon, August 14 to 25, has been extremely fortunate in securing the services of prominent men and women to give inspirational addresses on the camp program. Rollins, of Abilene, president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Northwest Conference of the Methodist church, will be in the camp for the entire ten days and will address the girls frequently. Mrs. Louis Stuckey, of Amarillo, will have charge of the camp story hour. Dr. W. P. Horn, president of Texas Tech will deliver an inspirational address. Rev. John L. Eldridge, of Tahoka, president of Boy Scout Area No. 1, also appears on the program. B. Jones, Hereford; and Mrs. Harvey Cash, Canyon. A number of young ladies of the class of Miss Dolly Ward are attending the Girls' Camp this week.

A picnic was held at Dimmitt August 14, and a crowd of about 100 people enjoyed the day. The picnic was held on a beautiful spot near Dimmitt. The day was clear and warm, and the picnic was a great success. The crowd enjoyed the picnic very much and the day was a very pleasant one.

Deaf Smith County Tax Rate Reduced

The tax rate for Deaf Smith county has just been reduced three cents, making 72 cents for the county, and the state rate has been reduced twelve cents, making 65 cents here. This gives a total reduction of fifteen cents on property in this county according to Judge Earl Wilson.

Bring a Man With You Idea Stressed at C. C. Luncheon

The "bring a man with you" idea was stressed at the luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce Monday. The president of the Chamber stressed the importance of bringing a man with you when you come to Hereford. He said that the Chamber of Commerce is interested in the development of Hereford, and that the Chamber of Commerce is interested in the development of Hereford. He said that the Chamber of Commerce is interested in the development of Hereford, and that the Chamber of Commerce is interested in the development of Hereford.

A. & M. Banquet at Palo Duro Hotel In Amarillo

All Panhandle Aggies have heard about the Annual Panhandle A. & M. Banquet. To those who have attended one of the previous four banquets this is enough said. For those who have not heard, let it be said that this is an annual gathering of all A. & M. men in the Panhandle, ex-students, alumni, present students and prospective "fish." ## Presbyterian Revival Began Last Sunday

With a swing and precision that augers well for the success of the campaign, the evangelistic meeting sponsored by the Presbyterian church, was launched Sunday morning. Locket Adair, nationally known evangelist of the church, and one who numbers his friends by his acquaintances, is the preacher. A crowded house greeted him Sunday morning and more than 1,000 people heard him in the newly constructed tabernacle Sunday night. Despite the inclement weather, services have been held every night this week, and as the meeting proceeds interest and attendance grow. It is confidently predicted that the large tabernacle, which is located at the church, will be too small to seat the vast crowds that will attend when weather conditions permit. Organization of the various phases of the work proceeds apace.

ROBERT G. FRASER of Dallas, Song Leader.

MRS. ROBERT G. FRASER, Parish.

The young people's meetings are held each night at 7:15 o'clock in the Methodist church. Jack Adair, son of the evangelist, is leading, and rapidly rounding out a program for intensive work. The young people's services lasts for forty-five minutes each night, and all the young people over fifteen years of age are invited to attend. A large chorus under the direction of Robert G. Fraser, of Fort Worth, is being organized for the

HEREFORD'S MOST VITAL NEED

J. B. Jones, Jones and McLean—"Pave the highway." H. A. Hoffman, Hoffman Cash Grocery—"Bad checks are too often given—The Hereford business men should get together and kill this bad habit." Rev. J. O. Haynes—"Light the town at every other corner." Ollie Fox—"We need bigger, first class hotel." M. D. Womble—"A cheaper water rate is needed. New computers are kicking on our high rate. Why 'Oceans of Water' and the present rate?" W. D. Kelihor—"We need our cross streets leveled so that a loaded truck can get around." Frank Williams, Phoenix, Arizona—"We need to get more interested in oil and gas wells." C. W. Murrey—"When the paving is completed, light it, make it a White Way." Clarence Wheeler—"We need a new hotel." Dr. G. W. Heard—"Great possibilities lay before us, the water, the soil, and climate are ideal—nothing lacking." Jake Tiefert—"We need a new hotel so constructed as to bring an income on the first floor and the hotel on the second floor." President J. A. Hill, of the West Texas State Teachers' College, is interested more in the building of a paved road between the City of Amarillo and Canyon than in any other problem at the present time. In discussing the prospective road a few days ago, President Hill said: "A paved road between Amarillo and Canyon will mean an opportunity for college education to hundreds of Amarillo's young people who would not otherwise have an opportunity to attend college. To the people of Canyon it will mean that they will have all the advantages of living in Amarillo. The road is a project on which the people of Canyon and Amarillo can work with equal enthusiasm for it offers equal advantage to each group." The B. C. D. of Amarillo is co-operating with the city authorities of Canyon and the county officials of Randall county in working out a plan whereby the road connecting the two towns can be built within the next few months. Why not draw students from both ways by extending the paved road to the Deaf Smith County line? Secretary Moss, of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, made mention of the fact that "we are working with Randall county for

T-Anchor Boys Meet at Canyon For Round-Up

Men who were cowboys in the thrilling days of the 30's and early 40's and who are now substantial citizens of northwest Texas counties are making ready to greet their fellow old-time cow punchers on the T-Anchor ranch Thursday, August 19. The invitations to this year's roundup are signed by John Arnot, Amarillo, president of the Cowboys' Association. The meeting will take place at the Baird ranch, one mile north of Canyon. A feature of the 1926 gathering will be forty gallons of son-of-a-gun stew. Every old cow boy knows that son-of-a-gun stew served piping hot is a dish fit for the noblemen of the range. The program will be informal, with "Parson" L. Gough there to read some of his own verses. There will be old-time fiddlers' old-time dancing, and the singing of old-time songs. All cowboys and their families who wish to stay longer than the day set for the meeting are invited to use the camping quarters free of charge. It is expected that there will be three or four hundred cowboys and families present for the roundup. A number of Hereford old-time cow punchers will attend the big roundup.

Fair Pavilion Floor Surfaced With Chats

The large fair pavilion will be in first class shape for the Deaf Smith county fair, September 16-17-18. The lower floor will be built up with chats, and will then have a thick layer of chats spread over it. The chats will make a good floor for the present and will eliminate dust, which was a bad feature during the fair last fall. In the future the commissioners may decide to put a concrete floor in the building and the chats will furnish an excellent base for this work. The fair pavilion was purchased by the county last fall and is being made into a fair center. Every department of the fair can be held in this large building. It is thought.

MEXICO'S NEW WAR. GAMBLERS AND GROWERS. THE GOLD STANDARD. AMERICANS WORTH $450 EACH.

The world will watch with interest this battle between the Mexican Government and the Catholic church, first of its kind in many years.

The cessation of all religious services in Mexico will undoubtedly cause turmoil and distress among all classes. Mexican Indians especially will resent being deprived of services which they believe essential to their spiritual welfare. The Christian religion was forced upon them originally by Spanish conquerors, and much bloodshed in many cases accompanied the process.

But the Indians are now devout Christians, often more earnest in their faith than people of European extraction.

The price of cotton goes up—good news for the cotton growers—not such good news for cotton because much rain means harm to growers. The price goes up the growers' crop. The cotton gambler makes his money whether it rains or sporches.

Why men grow cotton when they might gamble in cotton, would be hard to understand, but for the fact that men enjoy producing something, apart from profit. Agacms was "too busy to make money."

The Rev. Laura B. Gaylor, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, tells the Universalist Sunday School Association that some Bible tales are out of date and horrible. That story about Elijah calling his bears to eat the children that had made fun of his baldness she could not bear.

Many things in the Bible shock you, but that is the fault of people whom the Bible describes truthfully.

That story about the angels that came down with important news, and the manner in which some of the natives would have received them, shocks and normal mind. But the duty of the Bible, like that of a newspaper, is to tell what happens.

H. G. Fokker, brilliant flying man from Holland, manufacturing glances here, has insured his life for $2,000,000 and pays a high premium because of the risk. This particular flier is worth many times $2,000,000. He built the machine in which Commander Byrd, fine young American naval officer, flew over the North Pole, with the financial help of Vincent Astor, Edsel Ford and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Mr. Fokker ought to be working for the United States Government, and it ought to insure his life for $20,000,000—if money made any difference.

The President's statement on prosperity was confirmed by great corporations. The big steel company in the last six months earned more than $32,000,000. General Motors more than $93,000,000. Thus in net profits one single automobile concern eclipses the great steel company, biggest industrial unit in the world.

Lord Beaverbrook doubts the gold standard's value, calls it a financial medicine often fatal to the patient. Europe turns against the gold standard, for the reason that this country HAS the gold. They forget that we also have THE GOODS for which gold is spent.

All the gold in creation wouldn't help us or keep us where we are if we didn't have mills, factories, farms, mines, oil wells, and especially inventive and industrial genius.

Instead she contributed Abraham Lincoln to write the Proclamation, and that was more useful than it would have been for her to swim from Paris down the Seine past Gibraltar into the Mediterranean, through the Suez Canal and on to China.

A Realistic Picture

All Elements Happily Blended In "The Volga Boatman."

The stark realism of "The Volga Boatman," Cecil B. DeMille's new personally directed feature, is destined to make it one of the most talked of pictures of the season. In the opinion of many critics, Presenting for a background the maelstrom of Russia in Revolution, De Mille has woven in romance, melodrama and humor with a deft hand, capitalizing on his sense of the spectacular without losing the human touch.

A startling contrast between the splendor of the aristocracy, and the squalor of the peasants is brought out in the picture, which follows the experiences of three leading characters—a Prince, a Princess and a Volga Boatman—through the Russian Revolution. William Boyd plays the title role, while Elinor Fair, Victor Varconi, Julia Faye and Theodore Kosloff are also featured. "The Volga Boatman," which will be shown at the Star Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, August 25-26, was adapted from the screen by Lenore J. Coffee from Konrad Bercovici's original story.

GREECE INCREASES DUTIES ON OLIVE OIL; 24 PER CENT

The duty on exports of olive oil from Greece has been increased from 12 to 24 per cent of its average market price according to a legislative decree effective from the time of publication in the Official Greek Gazette of June 4, 1926, according to a report to the Department of Commerce.

AN AMERICAN DISEASE.

The American craze for speed seems in a fair way of becoming a national disease.

Wholly apart from the economic loss resulting from the violent deaths of men, women and children, by automobile accidents, it is impossible to ignore the sorrow, the grief and hardship which these deaths impose upon the families of the victims.

Last year there were 22,500 fatalities in motor accidents in this country, which represented an increase of ten per cent over the previous year. Deaths of children over fifteen years of age numbered 6,300 in 1925, compared with 6,000 in 1924.

The increasing number of casualties deserves the immediate attention of everyone. Public officials bear the responsibility, but they can't solve the problem alone. They have to have the co-operation of all motor car drivers and pedestrians alike.

Dimmitt, Castro County, News

DIMMITT, Texas, August 16.—Castro County's Annual Picnic, held on August 14th, was a great day. A large crowd was present and spent a very enjoyable day together. The crowd was about double in number that of last year. The concessions brought more than they have ever brought. There were perhaps more outside attractions than ever before, so everyone should have enjoyed the day, whether he did or not.

The hearts of the many friends of Mrs. W. I. Sanders were saddened last Monday morning when the news of her death, which occurred early that morning, became known. Mrs. Sanders had been ill several weeks. Funeral arrangements had not been made at the time of this writing.

The little three months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Davis, travelers, died here Sunday and was laid to rest Sunday afternoon in the Dimmitt Cemetery.

Notice, Singers.

I wish to call the attention again of all music loving folks and especially to the singing classes over the county, that our singing convention meets again the fifth Sunday at Cleo, nine miles south of Dimmitt, on the Union highway.

We are planning to have a great feast of song that day and insist that you begin planning now to be there. We request that a good attendance be given us from Frio, Easter, Jumbo, Arney, Hart, Big Square, Bethel, Sunny Side, Dimmitt and Flag, and don't forget your song books. A great crowd and a great day. If you miss it you'll miss it.

WHERE THEY GROW 'EM BIG.

On a European battlefield in the late war a big, rawboned Yankee sergeant was gathering in a bunch of German prisoners, among them an officer. There was a look of bewilderment on the German officer's face. "I can't understand it," said he, "these were the Kaiser's storm troops."

"Storm troops, hell!" retorted his captor, "we're from Texas where they raise cyclones."

A. Bryan, assumed and agreed to pay said note and all interest accrued and thereafter to accrue thereon according to its face and tenor. That defendants, J. Frank Potts and Leota C. Potts, his wife, and R. A. Bryan, made default in the payment of the interest which became due and payable on the principal sum of said promissory note of the 3rd day of February, 1923, amounting to the sum of $3,700, by reason whereof plaintiff has exercised and hereby exercises its option to mature and declare due and payable the entire principal sum of said note and all interest thereon to become and be immediately due and payable, anything to the contrary in said note and deed of trust notwithstanding; and plaintiff hereby makes the entire principal sum of said note and all interest due and to become due and payable on account thereof; that there is now due and payable thereon the principal sum of $6,500.00 and interest thereon at the rate of nine per cent per annum from the 3rd day of February, 1923, and interest on the installments of interest due and payable on the 3rd day of February, 1926, at the rate of ten per cent per annum from maturity. WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays that the defendants be cited to appear and answer this petition, that plaintiff have judgment against the defendants, J. Frank Potts and Leota C. Potts, his wife, and R. A. Bryan, for the amount of principal and interest due on said promissory note and taxes paid by the plaintiff, together with attorney's fees and costs of suit; and that plaintiff's lien on said lands, premises and property be foreclosed according to law; that said lands, premises and property be ordered sold and out of the proceeds arising from said sale, after payment of costs and all necessary expenses of sale, plaintiff be paid the full amount of principal and interest due and unpaid on said indebtedness and attorney's fees, together with taxes paid by plaintiff and any surplus arising from said sale, after first applying the proceeds of same as aforesaid, to be paid to said defendants as their interests may appear; that the defendants, and each of them, be foreclosed if all right, claim title or

"Yes," Laurie politely prompted. "Here I am. What about it? What are you doing?"

"You know I do well what you're doing. You're loafing!" Bangs fired at him as if it were a word from a Big Bertha. "You're loafing till it makes us all sick to see you. We thought, a week ago it would be enough, when you realized the conditions; but it's gone on for a month; and, instead of getting tired, you're getting more and more into the loafing habit. You abuse time till it shrieks in agony."

"Good sentence," applauded Laurie. "But don't waste it on me. Put it into a play."

Bangs seemed not to hear him. He was standing by the room's one window, now, staring unseeingly out of it, his hands deep in his pockets, talking in the knowledge of the failure of his appeal. Under the realization of this, he tossed a final taunt over his shoulder.

"I can forgive the big blunders a man makes in his life," he muttered; "but I haven't much patience with a chap that lies around and thinks at a time like this!"

Laurie removed the half-smoked cigarette from his mouth, and not finding an ash tray within reach, carefully crushed out its burning end against the polished top of the dressing case. He had grown rather pale.

"That will be about all, Bangs," he said quietly. "What you and Epstein and Haxon don't seem to remember is just one thing. If you don't like matters as they are, it's mighty easy to change them. It doesn't take half a minute to agree to dissolve a partnership."

"I know," Bangs returned to his chair, and, dropping limply into it, his hands still in his pockets, stared dependently at his outstretched legs. "That's all it means to you. He went on morosely. "Our partnership is one in a thousand. It's based on friendship as well as on financial interest. If I do say it, it represents a combination of brains, ability, backing and prospects that comes only once in a lifetime. If it comes at all, yet in one year you're sick of it, and tired of work. You're ready to throw it all over, and to throw over at the same time the men whose interests are bound up with yours. You're dawdling in cabarets and road-houses and restaurants, when you ought to be doing work."

"Real work," he added fiercely, "work other fellows would give their souls to be able to do."

He ended on a flat note, oddly unlike his usually buoyant tones, and sat still as if everything had been said.

Laurie lit a fresh cigarette, drew in a mouthful of smoke, and exhaled it in a series of pretty rings. In his brief college experience he had devoted some time to acquiring this art. Admiringly watching the little rings pass through the big rings, he spoke with studied carelessness.

"It was a pretty good scene, Bangs," he said, "and it showed careful rehearsing. But it would be a lot more effective if you had a real situation to base it on. As it is, you're making a devil of a row about nothing. I worked like a horse all last year, and you know it. Now I'm resting, or loafing, if you prefer to call it that, and—he bit off the words and fairly threw them at his friend—"It will save you and Epstein and Haxon a lot of mental wear and tear if you will mind your own business and let me alone."

Bangs raised his eyes and dropped them again.

"You are our business," he solemnly reminded his partner. "I've got so I can't work without you," he added, with a humility new to him. "You know that. And you know I've got the plot. It's ready—great Scott, it's boiling in me! I'm crazy to get it out. And here I've got to sit around watching you kill time, while you know and I know that you'd be a d—d sight happier if you were on the job. Good Lord, Laurie, work the bizness thing

there is in life! Doesn't it mean anything at all to you?"

"Not just now," Laurie spoke with maddening nonchalance. "Then there's something rotten in the air."

Laurie winced, but made no answer. He hoped Bangs would go on talking and thus destroy the echo of his last words, with which the silent room seemed filled. But nothing came. Rodney's opportunity had passed and he was lost in a depressed realization of his failure. Laurie strolled back to the mirror, his forgotten tie dangling in his hand.

"We'll let it go at that," he said then. "Think things over, and make up your mind what you want to do about the contract."

"All right."

Bangs replied in the same flat notes he had used a moment before, and without changing his position; but the two words gave Laurie a shock. He did not believe either Rodney or Epstein would contemplate a dissolution of their existing partnership; but an hour ago he would not have believed that Rodney Bangs could say to him the things he had said just now.

He was beginning to realize that he had tried his partners sorely in the month that had passed since his return to town; and all for what? He himself had brought out the foolish experience nothing of a tired nervous system, a sense of boredom such as he had not known for a year, and, especially when he looked at Bangs, an acute mental discomfort which introspective persons would probably have diagnosed as the pangs of conscience. Laurie did not take the trouble to diagnose it. He merely resented it as a grievance added to the supreme grievance based on the fact that he had not yet even started on the high adventure he had promised himself.

He was gloomily considering both grievances, and tying his tie with his usual care, when something in the mirror caught and held his attention. He looked at it, at first casually, then with growing interest. In the glass, directly facing him, was a wide-studio window. It was open, notwithstanding the cold January weather, and a comfortable, middle-aged, plump woman, evidently a superior type of caretaker, was sitting on the sill, polishing an inner pane. The scene was as vivid as a mirage, and it was like the mirage in that it was projected from some point which itself remained unseen.

Laurie turned to the dressing room afforded a double French window, at his right, but a little behind him, and reaching to the floor. Through this he could see across a court the opposite side of his own building, but no such window or commonplace vision as had just come to him. In his absorption in the phenomenon he called to Bangs, who rose slowly, and, coming to his side, regarded the scene without much interest.

"It's a cross projection from a house diagonally opposite us," he said, after studying the picture a moment. "It must be that old red studio building on the southwest corner of the square. If we had a room back of this and looking toward the west, we could see the real window."

"As it is," said Laurie, "we've got a reserved seat for an intimate study of anyone who lives there. I wonder who has that studio?"

Bangs had no idea. He was grateful to the little episode, however, for spreading over the yielding ground beneath his feet the solid strip on which he had crossed back to his chair. He threw an arm across Laurie's shoulders and looked into his face, with something in his expression that reminded young Devon of a favorite collie he had loved and lost in boyhood.

"All right now," the look asked, just as the dog's look had asked it of the little chap of ten, when something had gone wrong. Rodney's creed of life was held together by a few primitive laws, the first of which was loyalty. Already he was reproaching himself for what he had said and done. Laurie carefully ly completed the tying of his tie, and turned to him with his gayest smile.

"Hurry up and finish dressing," he cheerfully suggested, "and we'll go out to breakfast. Since you insist on waiting 'round for me like Mary's little lamb, I suppose I've got to feed you."

Rodney's wide grin responded, for the first time in many days. He bustled about, completing his toilet, and ten minutes later the two young men started out together with a lightness of spirit which each enjoyed and neither wholly understood. Both had a healthy horror of "sentimental stuff" and a gay, normal disregard of each other's feelings in ordinary intercourse. But in the past half-hour, for the first time in their association, they had come close to a serious break, and the soul of each had been chilled by a premonitory loneliness as definite as the touch of an icy finger. In the quick reaction they experienced now their spirits soared exultantly. They breakfasted in a fellowship such as they had not known since Barbara's marriage, the month before.

If Bangs had indulged in any dream of a change of life in Laurie, however, following this reconciliation, the next few days destroyed the tender shoots of that hope. Laurie's manner retained its pleasant camaraderie, but work and he got at it promptly and pushed the other by. The routine of his day remained what they had been during the past five weeks. He gadded about, apparently harmlessly, came home at shocking hours, and spent most of the bracing January days wrapped in a healthful slumber that infuriated Bangs, who wandered in and out of their apartment like an unhappy ghost. On the rare occasions when he and Rodney lunched or dined together, Laurie was entirely good humored and when Epstein was with them seemed wholly impervious to any hints thrown out, none too subtly, by his producing partner.

"Listen, Laurie," said that disgusted individual, almost a month after the new year had been ushered in, "the new year's here. That's a good time for a young fella to get busy again on something' worth while. Ain't I right?"

Laurie suppressed a yawn and carefully struck off with his little finger the firm ash of an excellent cigarette. He was consuming thirty or forty cigarettes a day, and his nerves were beginning to show the effect of this indulgence.

"I believe it is," he courteously agreed. "It has been earnestly recommended to the young as a good time to start something."

"Well," Epstein's voice took on the guttural notes of his temperamental moments, "don't that mean nothin' to you?"

Laurie grinned. He had caught the quick look of warning Bangs shot at the producer and it amused him.

"Not yet," he said. "Not till I've had my adventure."

Epstein sniffed.

"The greatest adventure in life," he stated dogmatically, "is to make a lot of money. I tell you vy. Because then you got all the other adventures you can handle, tryin' to hold on to it!"

Bangs, who was developing a new and hitherto unsuspected vein of fact, encouraged Epstein to enlarge on this congenial theme. He now fully realized that Devon would go his own gait until he wearied of it, and that no argument or persuasion could enter his armor-clad mind. The position of Bangs was a difficult one; for while he was accepting and assimilating this unpleasant fact, Epstein and Haxon—patient men by temperament and without much training in self-control—were getting wholly out of patience and therefore out of hand. Haxon, indeed, was for the time entirely out of hand, for he finally started the rehearsals of a new play which, he grimly informed Bangs, would make "The Man Above" look like a canceled postage stamp.

Bangs repeated the comment to his chum the next morning, during the late dressing hour which now gave them almost their only opportunity for a few words together. He had hoped it would make an impression, and he listened with pleasure to a sharp exclamation from Laurie, who chanced to be standing before the door mirror in the dressing room, brushing his hair. The next instant Bangs realized that it was not his news which had evoked the tribute of that exclamation.

"Come here!" called Laurie, urgently. "Here's something new; and by Jove, isn't she a beauty!"

Bangs interrupted his toilet to lounge across the room. Looking over Laurie's shoulder, his eyes found the cynosure that held the gaze of his friend. The wide-open studio window was again reflected in the mirror, but with another occupant.

This was a girl, young and lovely. She appeared in the window like a half-length photograph in a frame. Her body showed only from above the waist. Her elbows were on the sill. Her chin rested in the hollows of her cupped hands. Her wavy hair, parted on one side and drawn softly over the ear in the fashion of the season, was reddish-gold. Her eyes were brown, and very thoughtful. Down-dropped, they seemed to stare at something on the street below, but the girl's expression was not that of one who was looking at an object with interest. Instead, she seemed lost in a deep and melancholy abstraction.

"Isn't she charming!" he cried again.

Bangs' reply revealed a severely practical side of his nature.

"She'll have a beastly cold in the head if she doesn't shut that window," he grumpily suggested. But his interest, too, was aroused. He stared at the girl in the mirror with an attention almost equal to Laurie's.

As they looked, she suddenly stirred and moved backward, as if occultly warned of their survey. They saw her close the window, and, drawing a chair close to it, sit down and stare out through the pane, still with that intent, impersonal expression. Bangs stropped back to the dressing case and resumed his interrupted toilet. Laurie, fumbling vaguely with his brushes, kept his eyes on the girl in the mirror.

"She's a wonder. Prettiest girl I've ever seen, I think," he reflected aloud.

Bangs snorted.

"She's probably a peroxide," he said. "Even if she isn't, she can't hold a candle to your sister."

—VOTE FOR—

LEE SATTERWHITE

Candidate for Re-Election State Representative from 23rd District, composed of the Counties of Carson, Armstrong, Potter, Randall, Deaf Smith and Oldham.

His position on public matters is well known and his record as a member of the Legislature is one for fair and equitable laws to all alike. It is well known that Executive powers now in control at Austin would like to bring about his defeat, but it is not believed that a majority of the voters of this district will lend their aid to such a purpose.

He led his nearest opponent in the first primary by 1549 votes and only lacked 406 votes receiving a majority of all the votes cast in the six counties.

Beautiful Lawn Being Finished At High School

Hereford claims the most beautiful high school campus in North Texas, and just as soon as plans have been perfected the local campus will rival any in the state.

When the new $125,000 high school building was completed here last winter, the vocational agricultural class, under the direction of C. W. Humble, asked permission to beautify the grounds as a project. The boys set to work last winter leveling the grounds, taking out trees where they were too thick, and doing other things towards beautifying the school campus. Right now the Aggies have one of the most beautiful lawns in this section, with shade trees completely surrounding the campus grounds.

An experiment is being made with this lawn which will be watched with interest over the entire Plains country. Bermuda grass and sweet clover are being tried out as a combination lawn covering and if successful the idea will be copied by many folks in Hereford. Dandelions have been troublesome for blue grass here. Bermuda will not permit dandelions to grow, but does not come out early enough in the spring and turns yellow too soon in the fall to suit the majority of lawn keepers in Hereford. Bermuda and sweet clover as a combination lawn is expected to fill the bill. Sweet clover will green up early enough in the spring and will stay green longer in the fall than will Bermuda, thus giving a lawn equal to blue grass and one that will keep out dandelions.

There is a question whether clover can hold its own with Bermuda. Mr. Humble says the clover comes out earlier in the spring and will probably get a good start before the Bermuda greens up. If the Bermuda does take the sweet clover the local high school will have a lawn that is preferable to one that is covered with blue grass.

The lawn was seeded June 9-10 and the clover was up in two days. The Bermuda came up to a stand within five to six days. The soil was thoroughly prepared and three crops of weeds were killed before the seed was sown. Three steps are essential in the making of a good lawn, according to Mr. Humble: Thorough preparation of the soil, getting the seed in the ground just right, and keeping proper moisture. A combination of one third clover and two thirds Bermuda was used. A lawn roller was used to cover the seed.

The Aggie students are making permanent plans for the landscape gardening. The plans call for flower beds, shrubs, etc. In addition to the work that has already been done. The boys are enthusiastic over their project and all of them look with pride on the local campus. Many Hereford folks as well as tourists from afar drive by the high school daily and admire the campus that rivals the best in North Texas.

High School Athletic Grounds Are Improved

Much preparation has been made during the summer for athletics in the Hereford High School, and many are predicting that this will be Hereford's banner year in sports.

The fence around the football field has been rebuilt and benches have been made on the west side of the field. C. W. Humble, business manager of the Athletic Association, and his boys have been busy constructing the bleachers to be placed on the side lines, and everything will be done to make the folks comfortable who attend the games.

Two tennis courts have just been completed and are in first class shape for the opening of school September 6. Tennis will furnish a wholesome recreation for boys and girls who do not wish to engage in other sports. Two outside basketball courts have also been completed this summer. These will be used for practice work, but all the matched games will be played in the gymnasium. Two volleyball courts will be made within the near future.

Sports are being organized so that everything will move along smoothly. An Athletic Association was organized two years ago and the business pertaining to athletics is managed by this organization. Students who belong to the Association help to put over the things that are needed for better athletics. If other students fail to live up to the rules of the school they are called before the Association and a penalty assessed against them. If new equipment is needed the organization helps to secure it by creating the proper sentiment, and often helps to secure finances necessary to get the stuff.

Manager C. W. Humble states that the material for football has already been ordered and everything will be on hand at the opening of the football training season. This is due largely to the work of the Association. Often the High School coach has to order his equipment after school and training starts, but this will not be the case in Hereford.

Every phase of athletics will be stressed in the Hereford High School during the coming year. Athletics will be carried on as a business and not in a haphazard way, as in many schools. Basketball, football, baseball, tennis, track, volleyball and other forms of physical education will be carried on.

Cow Pastures Yield To Wheat Farmers

Many of the cow pastures in this section will be converted into farms during the coming year, and the summer of 1927 is expected to see beautiful wheat yields on land that was in pasture only a short while ago.

Judge Buck of Plainview, Texas, is planning to put in 1,000 acres of wheat this fall on his two section tract that was formerly a part of the Joe Elliot ranch south of Hereford in Castro county. The pasture land was plowed for the first time last spring and has been summer tilled since that time. It is considered to be one of the best prepared tracts for wheat in this vicinity, and local folks are predicting a good crop. The wheat acreage for the coming year is expected to double the acreage of the present season. Two reasons are given for the increase. Many local farmers will strive to sow larger crops because of the excellent yields that has just been made, and the increased acreage of farming land caused by the many new settlers converting the cow pastures into farming land. Many farmers during the past year made more than enough to pay the cost of their land.

Game Laws Defined by Game Warden Rose

Game Warden J. Doyle Rose has just received a number of game license blanks, 48 all told, and a few trappers' license. Mr. Rose said the license can be procured of Homer Fox at the Fox Mercantile store. The state law requires any one who is trapping to purchase a license unless he is owner or a tenant of the land where he is operating.

The Hereford country is located in North Zone and is described as north and west of I. & G. N. and T. & P. railroads, running from Laredo to San Antonio, to Austin to Longview to Texarkana. The Federal law forbids the hunting of migratory birds between sunset and one-half hour before sunrise. The open season does not conflict with either state or federal laws. The law reads as follows: "You must not kill or possess at any time antelope, doe deer, mountain sheep, woodcock, wood duck or egret, or other plumed birds, non-game fowl, song bird, insectivorous bird, turkey, pheasant. You must not buy, sell or barter any game bird or animal. You may kill at any time English sparrows, rice birds, black birds, buzzards, crows, owls, hawks, woodpeckers and rabbits."

The open season is as follows: Wild bear, Nov. 16 to Dec. 31. Mourning doves, Sept. 1 to Dec. 31.

Whitewing doves, Aug and Sept. Wild Ducks of all kinds (except wood ducks) - geese, brant, snipe, gallinules and mudhens, Oct. 16 to Jan. 31.

Prairie chickens, Sept. 1 to 10th. Quail and Mexican pheasants, Nov. 16 to Jan. 1. Wild turkey gobblers, Nov. 16 to Dec. 31. Wild Turkey season closed until Nov. 10, 1930, in Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr, Willacy, Kennedy, Brooks, Kleberg and Nueces counties.

Bag Limit.
Bear, one in season.
Deer, two bucks in season, must have three points or more.
Doves, 15 in one day and not more than 45 in one week.
Ducks, snipe, plover, yellowlegs, gallinule or mudhen, 25 in one day and not more than 50 in one week, the daily and weekly limit counting all varieties.
Geese and brant, 4 in one day or 12 in any one week.
Prairie chicken, 5 in any one day or ten an open season.
Quail and Mexican pheasant, 12 in any one day or 36 in any one week, counting all varieties.
Turkey gobblers, three in one season.

Prairie Fire Starts West of Hereford

A prairie fire started last Thursday afternoon west of Hereford about sixteen miles near the old Wagner place. A lightning stroke was the cause of the fire and it burned a swath about four miles wide, burning south from the Harrison Hiway. The fire was put out before a great deal of damage was done.

Hereford High School Students Start Training

When football training at the local high school starts, Coach J. F. Riggs will find his boys in pretty fair shape. At a recent meeting the local athletes decided to meet every Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from now until the opening of school, and practice basketball, wrestling, boxing and other gymnastics so that they might be in good physical shape for the football season. The first meeting was held last Monday night and a hot practice basketball game was played.

C. W. Humble, business manager of the High School Athletic Association, will be in charge of these meetings.

Funeral Procession Scattered by Police

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—The suspiciously inquisitive eye of a highway police lieutenant panicked what purported to be a funeral cortege here Tuesday, and after the mourners fled wildly from the procession the hearse and other cars were found to be stacked with liquor.

A squad of police was making its way along an outlying road toward Ecorse, a run-running base, when they rounded a curve in sight of the funeral procession. The unusually loud manifestations of grief which came from the cortege attracted the attention of the lieutenant in charge of the squad, he said.

Driving to the head of the line he glanced casually at the hearse driver. As he gazed at the man, the officer said, the driver became nervous, faltered, and then jamming on the brakes, leaped out of the machine and fled through a field.

To the astonishment of the officers, the mourners immediately began pouring from the cars in the rear and fled in all directions.

An inspection of the hearse revealed instead of a corpse, 50 cases of beer. The other cars were likewise loaded with contraband.

The officers later rounded up two men but they denied participating in the funeral ruse.

Says Oil In Barrel Elevates Gun Shot

Recent experiments of the Bureau of Standards show that an oil coating in the barrel of a gun will effect higher elevation of the shot and that lighter powder charges cause heavier muzzle vibrations, the Department of Commerce announced August 2.

The apparatus used in the experiments consists of a suitable detector, vacuum tube power amplifier, oscillograph and a special high speed camera on the film of which the record of oscillations is photographed and made available for study.

With this apparatus it was shown that the effect of a light coating of oil in the gun barrel is to make the piece shoot high. The lighter the powder charge, other things being equal, the greater the muzzle vibrations when the exit of the bullet occurs.

Sprouted Oats Aid Fertility of Cows

Special Diet Credited For Increased Calf Production at Experimental Farm.

Calf production at the Department of Agriculture Dairy Experiment Farm at Beltsville, Mr. has been increased by feeding cows sprouted oats, the department has announced. The experiments were made as a result of the discovery that certain foods contains a vitamin conducive to fertility.

The full text of the departments announcement follows:

Six virgin dairy heifers that had failed to get with calf after being repeatedly served by different sires at the United States Department of Agriculture Dairy Experiment Farm, Beltsville, Mr. were fed sprouted oats in an effort to correct their barren condition. According to R. R. Graves, in charge of the experiment, five of the six heifers were settled 1 calf after 20 days of this special feeding. Six dairy cows that had raised calves but had apparently become unable to conceive were fed sprouted oats also with the result that five of them got with calf after 19 to 48 days of feeding. Similar tests made at the Oregon Experiment Station upon the suggestion of Mr. Graves gave equally favorable results.

Fifth Vitamin Discovered.

Feeding sprouted oats to overcome non-conception in dairy heifers was suggested by Mr. Graves by a study of the work done with small animals at the University of California in which it was discovered that a fifth vitamin had a bearing on the fertility and reproductive organs. This vitamin, named vitamin E, was found in such feeds as green leaves of lettuce and alfalfa.

Whether or not the fertility results obtained in heifers and cows fed sprouted oats is due to a vitamin has not been determined, nor have enough trials been made to conclude definitely that the method will always give positive results. Mr. Graves points out that animals in their undomesticated state have a breeding season closely allied with the spring flush of new grass, and that under modern methods of management, cows and heifers are bred at all times of the year. Many of the cases of non-breeding may be due to functional disorders brought about by a high state of domesticity in which the natural breeding season is ignored. The beneficial effects of sprouted oats may be due to a stimulation of natural dietary conditions at the normal breeding season.

Insurance Department Making Inspection

D. B. DuPriest and J. A. Feiniger, from the State Fire Insurance Commissioner's office at Austin, arrived last Friday and have spent several days since in re-rating the city of Hereford from a fire insurance standpoint. Ever so often, they explain, it becomes necessary to make a rigid inspection in order to keep the state rates lined up properly, and that is their mission here.

Whether Hereford will gain or lose by the inspection is being eagerly awaited by all property owners.

New Comedy Note In Chaplin's Film

But the Chaplin of Old Also Is Found in New Feature, "The Gold Rush."

Though a new note is sounded in the showing of Charlie Chaplin's comedy feature photoplay, "The Gold Rush," described as the greatest of all Chaplin comedies—the public will see also all the Chaplin tricks that have put this picture star in a class entirely by himself.

"The Gold Rush," a United Artists Corporation release, which is scheduled as the feature attraction for the Star Theatre next Friday and Saturday, is described by those who have seen it as far and away the best piece of work Chaplin has ever done; and by far, the funniest.

It also presents a biographic symbolization of the real Charlie Chaplin; his life from the days of an unknown to the best known man in the world is portrayed between a range of deep pathos and hilarious comedy against a background of hardships as one of the gold seekers in the early stamped days in the frozen waters of Alaska.

A new note in comedy dramatics is sounded; an advanced departure in character portrayal and delineation is revealed with Chaplin in "The Gold Rush." But in addition there is the Charlie of old—the Charlie of the little derby, the trick cane, the baggy trousers, the little mustache, the sloppy shoes and the funny walk. ## Land to Be opened to Public Entry in New Mex. Sept. 16

Department of Interior Announces Ex-Service Men Will Be Given First Choice in Tract.

Prospective opening of approximately 22,900 acres of public land in the State of New Mexico was announced by the General Land Office, Department of the Interior, on August 10.

The area, which is located in McKinley county, New Mexico, will be open to entry for 91 days, beginning September 16, under the Homestead and desert land laws, by qualified ex-service men of the World War and also to entry by those persons having a preference right to the land superior to that of the soldier.

These persons may file their applications during the 20 days period immediately preceding the filing of the plat and all applications so filed will be treated as though filed simultaneously at 9 a. m. on September 16.

Public Entry to Follow.
At 9 a. m. on December 16, all the land remaining unentered will become subject to entry under any applicable public land laws by the public generally.

Of the total area to be opened 4,270.59 acres appears, according to the General Land Office, to be covered by Indian allotments.

The land is reported as rolling prairie and rugged mesas. The soil, sandy loam, second and third grade. The timber is scrub cedar, and piñon in the western part of the township.

No Running Streams.
There are no running streams, the stock securing water from reservoirs impounding flood waters. A few nomadic Navajo camps were noted, as also were a few ancient ruins.

The township was reported as affording excellent grazing. No reference was made to mineral indications.

The opening of the lands will be under the jurisdiction of the local land office at Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Pullman Rates Not Excessive

A finding by the Interstate Commerce Commission that the existing charges of the Pullman Company for sleeping and parlor car accommodations have not been shown to be unreasonable, and that no reduction be made in the company's charges pending the outcome of the valuation which is now being made of its property, is recommended by John B. Keeler, attorney examiner of the commission, in a proposed report made public by the commission on August 9.

The rates had been assailed as excessive by the order of United Commercial Travelers of America which had asked a reduction by the amount of the 20 per cent increase in Pullman rates made with the approval of the commission on May 1, 1920.

Britain's Air Strength More Than the U. S.

The American Navy is outranked by the British Navy in the number and tonnage of all light cruisers, large fleet submarines, and in naval air strength and number of personnel, but it is stronger than the British destroyers and smaller submarines.

This comparison of naval strength was made public on August 2 by the Department of the Navy.

Press dispatches from Geneva simultaneously reported that the British Admiralty had refused an American invitation with Japan in a new agreement limiting the construction of all naval craft not previously limited by the Washington Conference.

These crafts are: Cruisers less than 10,000 tons, destroyers, fleet submarines, first line submarines and naval aircraft.

Under the proposed new naval conference, press dispatches said, they were to be limited in a manner similar to the limitation of capital ships.

The figures announced by the Department of Navy shows the United States to be chiefly deficient in light cruisers, with a ratio of tonnage of 1.56 as compared with Great Britain's ratio of 5.00 and Japan's ratio of 2.57.

The United States, it was said in the department announcement, is also deficient in fleet submarines, having a tonnage ratio of 3.72, as compared with Great Britain's 5.00 and Japan's 6.96.

The United States surpasses other countries in the number of smaller submarines. These have a speed of only 13 knots and therefore cannot cruise with the fleet, the statement said.

The Sunday School Lesson.

BY JAS. T. ROSS.

Sunday, August 22, 1926. Subject: The Ten Commandments; Duties to God.

Scripture Text: Exodus 20:1-11. And God spake all these things saying:

I am the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

Thou shalt not make unto any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth.

Thou shalt not bow down to them, nor serve them; for the Lord thy God is a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generations of them that hate me; and showing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, keep my commandments.

Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain. Remember the sabbath day, keep it holy.

Six days shalt thou labor, do all thy work.

But the seventh day is the sabbath day of the Lord thy God; thou shalt not do any work, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy manservant, nor thy maid, nor thy cattle, nor thy ass, nor any beast that is within thy gates; for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

Man is supremely himself in the sense of moral responsibility. Moral obligation constitutes the sharp line of demarcation between man and the inferior orders of creation. The presence of the moral sense is the sure and unmistakable evidence of the reality of the supremely ethical being of the universe, and of the image of the divine upon moral law is, therefore, the revelation of God through the conscience of man. It is a statement of the obligations that grow out of the nature of God and man. We have, moreover, the briefest and most comprehensive statement of that moral law in the Ten Commandments. In it two fundamental obligations are recognized—obligation to God and obligation to man. In our lesson today we study obligations of man to God.

To what kind of God is man obligated? We can know a moral character only by the expression of his will. For this reason the Ten Commandments are descriptive of the character of God. The outstanding revelation of the Ten Commandments concerning God is that he is an ethical being. He is neither immoral nor unmoral. He is a moral being. His throne rests upon right. He has no more bound man under law than he has bound himself under law. God is not an arbitrary despot who binds man to certain obligations and leaves himself to an arbitrary exercise of his authority. The Ten Commandments not only reveal his character; they also reveal his covenant relations to man.

God is the supreme ruler of things. In the essential nature of his spiritual being he is the final reality. We can not place any other god before him without committing treason to his government. All other authority is inferior to His. Hence, the supreme moral duty is duty to God.

Moreover we cannot hold fellowship with God on any lower plane than the recognition of his pure spirituality. It is for this reason that he positively forbids the attempt to worship him thru any image fashioned after the likeness of earthly and material things. Such worship would be so misleading that we should not find God in it at all.

Upon the same high plane he places our service to Him. "Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them nor serve them." This commandment is two-edged. It demands the preservation of two supremely important dignities—the dignity of almighty God and the dignity of his worshipful creatures. To bow down to an inferior dignity is to offend God and to deprecate the worth of man.

Furthermore, since the name of God is not dissociated from his character we can not profane it without offending his character, and profanation of his name and character are a sure step toward moral anarchy. It is not a mystery that immortality and profanity go hand in hand; they are intimate vices in the same process. It is therefore obvious that profanity is an offense to the sovereignty of God, therefore a crime which God does not excuse in man.

The sabbath holds an unique place in the religion of Jehovah. With it that religion stands or falls. Sabbath keeping and good character go hand in hand; Sabbath breaking is the surest route to a broken down moral order in society. The decay of home life, murders, fornications, thefts, salanders, lusts, follow as logically the break down of the Sabbath as does day the night.

We hear much in these days of growing moral degeneracy. Crime tiffs its black head in every direction. Property grows insecure, life grows cheap, covetousness multiplies, fornication spreads its ugly tentacles through human experience. Every result demands a cause. The secret of it all is the perversion of that holy day in which God has provided for the reconstruction of depleted spiritual and moral ideals, for the reculturing of moral energies to meet the complicated world of temptation about us. Give us a real Sabbath in this land of America and respect for law will grow, the sense of the sanctity of human life will be promoted, the jails will crumble, society will greatly decrease the cost of handling its criminal population, faith of man to man and love to man and God will rapidly replace distrust, atheism and degeneracy, and men shall breathe again in the pure liberty of the children of God.

What's Doing In West Texas

Crosbyton—Crosbyton has started an extensive building campaign. Work on a two story brick building was begun recently and several other buildings for the square of the city are being contemplated. Building material is continually being shipped into the residence districts.

Artesia, N. M.—Work has been done on three new gins which will serve the Artesia section this year when the cotton crop is brought in by the farmers. The Alfalfa Association gin is practically complete and buildings have been finished and await the arrival of the gin machinery which will be installed soon.

Fredericksburg—This city is to have a new $125,000 hotel, with work to begin on the structure in less than sixty days. The new building will have very possible feature of the historic Nimitz Hotel, which can be retained. It will contain a large banquet hall, a spacious lobby and forty-two guest rooms, all steam heated and provided with hot and cold water.

Vernon—An issue of $80,000 municipal improvement bonds were recently sold by this city, the proceeds of which will go to the paving of streets and to the extension of water and sewer connections.

Brownfield—One of the most unusual parades ever staged in any town was held here recently when 150 workers with hoes on their shoulders, headed by the Chamber of Commerce band, marched thru the main streets of the city. They were the persons who came to the rescue of one of their neighbors' crops when the family was ill and two members died. The ladies of the community prepared meals for the workmen.

Merkel—The Merkel Community Fair will have a new feature added to its various end ones this year. Nupt. I. L. Jackson, of the city schools, is preparing an "Educational Feature" for the fair program and officials are confident that it will add attraction to the Community Fair.

Stamford—The August issue of the official organ of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, West Texas Today, will be of much aid to the high school graduate who has not yet decided on the college or university he will attend. The magazine will carry advertisements and sketches of all West Texas institutions and of many Eastern schools.

Plainview—B. F. Bennett, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, has solicited more than 100 new memberships for that organization in this city. Nearly ninety-eight per cent of last year's members have renewed membership for this year.

YOUR BIRTHDAY Is It This Week?

AUGUST 15th-21st.
Sir Walter Scott, famous poet, was born August 15th. Ethel Barrymore, actress, was born August 16th.

If your birthday is this week, you are of a reckless, irresponsible, lovable nature. You are honest, genuine, frank and sympathetic. You are generous and affectionate, but you cannot be driven, nor are you particularly amenable to outside dictation or attempted guidance. While you are apt to be undecided and uncertain in your ways, without any decided convictions, you are stubborn, self-willed, proud and self-reliant and stick to what you undertake.

You are witty, imaginative, fond of social life and amusements. You are a brilliant conversationalist, and are never lacking for something to talk about. Your interesting personality wins for you many friends.

Women born during these days are very fond of home and make wonderful mothers. They have a love for the beautiful and often become artists, actresses, writers, designers and decorators. Men born during these dates become doctors, scientists, inventors, writers, professors and lecturers.

Did you participate in many engagements while in France? asked the interested old lady.

Only five, modestly replied the ex-A. E. F.-er, with becoming modesty.

And you came through them all unhurt? Not exactly, he returned sadly. I married the fifth.

Potato Crop Is An Exception to Rule

Total Yield Expected to Pass That of 1925 By Nearly 20,000,000 Bushels.

During July prospects for potatoes improved in nearly all of the Eastern States, especially in the states of Maine, and Wisconsin, but declined slightly in the Dakotas and in some states farther West. The crop is now estimated at 345,569,000 bushels. This would be about 20,000,000 bushels more than the very short crop of last year.

LEAFWORM CONTROL.

By R. R. Reppert, Entomologist, Extension Service, A. & M. College.

The supply of calcium arsenate, Paris green and lead arsenate as recommended by the entomologist for the control of leafworms, is apparently exhausted and farmers are in need of another poison.

Mixtures of white arsenic and soda compounds, unless very carefully used, will result in injury to cotton, and are ordinarily not recommended. However, in the present emergency it probably means either use of these materials with injury in some cases or the total loss of the crop by the attack of the insect, and we are giving below formulae which farmers have themselves used.

Boil together 5 pounds of white arsenic with 5 pounds sal soda in 5 gallons of water until all the arsenic is dissolved. Ordinarily, this will be accomplished in about 15 minutes. If Sal Soda is not available, use instead 5 cans of concentrated lye such as may be obtained from grocery stores for soap making. These five cans will be equal to about four pounds.

After boiling until the arsenic is dissolved, some water will have been lost by evaporation; more should be added to make up exactly five gallons of the stock solution.

Two quarts of this stock solution should be added to fifty gallons of water for immediate application to the cotton. Large drops of this dilute mixture or excessive amounts of the liquid on the leaves will burn, consequently a machine should be used that will break up the liquid into a very fine mist and so the foliage is merely moistened without running or dripping from the leaves. Farmers have reported using one quart of stock dip in fifty gallons of water with success, spraying in the same manner.

Experience on the part of farmers has indicated that if a gallon of slack lime and three or four gallons of black strap molasses are added to fifty gallons of water, along with the stock solution, the danger of injury will be reduced.

In handling these mixtures the danger to the cotton foliage as well as to men and animals is so great that we decline to accept any responsibility for any injurious results.

Several companies in Texas handling arsenical poisons are preparing and have for sale the mixtures as given above. These may not be in the concentration that we have named, and in diluting, persons should be guided by the directions given by each company for their own product.

C. of C. Making Plans To Attend Big Meet

Efforts will be made to secure a large delegation to go to Clarendon August 30 for the District Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. ## IRRIGATION PROJECT IS INSPECTED AND APPROVED

E. B. Handley, local Ford dealer; B. S. Wright, who is putting in a poultry plant near Hereford, and T. D. Moss, secretary of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, made a trip to Plainview Monday to inspect an irrigation project, where a small tractor furnishes the power and all three of these men were sold on the idea, and all agree that the experiment that is being carried on with this cheap irrigation plant may revolutionize farming operations in the shallow water districts of this section.

L. P. Barker, business man of Plainview, has a demonstration farm near that city. Last winter he installed a plant that cost a total of $1,708, including well, pump, tractor, etc., and has twenty acres under cultivation with fifteen acres of this tract in garden products. Mr. Barker has already sold $3,300 worth of products from his land this year, and will have vegetables to market until frost comes.

The well is 122 feet deep, but does not require casing. The pump is down seventy feet, making a lift of that distance. The plant costs seventeen cents per hour for operation and about one acre can be given an inch of water during that time. The well furnishes 450 gallons per minute. Government

This is the first project of its kind in Texas, but has been used for several years in California.

These is around 250,000 acres of land around Hereford underlaid with shallow water. Several big plants have been in operation here for the past fifteen years, but these projects have proven rather expensive for the average farmer. Many local farmers are looking for a small irrigation plant that can be installed and operated at a minimum cost. The experiment at Plainview seems to fill the bill, and many local farmers are expected to go to Plainview before the season is over to see the plant in action. A ready market is found for all the garden products that are raised on the Barker demonstration farm, such could be the case at Hereford.

All kinds of small fruits and vegetables thrive in the Hereford shallow water belt. Recent soil tests by experts reveal that any farm crops, fruits and vegetables can be grown here than can be raised outside of tropical regions. If given the proper care and moisture. The cheap irrigation plant would enable the small farmer to utilize the abundance of water that is found in the Hereford shallow water belt. If such a system could be developed on the 250,000 acres around here that is underlaid with shallow water, approximately 30,000 people could live profitably on these farms, where now only a few hundred are tilling the soil.

New School Buildings In Castro and Deaf Smith Cos.

The construction of new school buildings in many of the communities, and the enlargement of many others tell the tale of the development that is taking place in Deaf Smith county. Home seekers are moving into this county at a good rate, and new homes can be seen going up in every community.

Ward school, northwest of Hereford, has just completed a new stucco building, which will help to take care of the needs of that community for some time. A new $2,000 school house is being erected in the Walcott community, seventeen miles northwest of Hereford. West Way, ten miles west of Hereford, has just completed an addition to the stucco building there. Fairview school, twenty-five miles northeast of Hereford, is being enlarged to take care of the increased attendance caused by the new settlers that have moved into that community. The Higgins school north of Hereford, is building an addition, and will be ready to serve the increased attendance when school opens in September.

A contract was let last Saturday for a $13,000 stucco school building in the Jumbo community, southeast of Hereford in Castro county. The building is to be completed by October 10, and will be one of the best equipped rural schools in this section. H. G. Wallace, of Melrose, New Mexico, was awarded the contract for this new school building and work will begin immediately.

The development of Deaf Smith county is gradual. No boom is being experienced here and local folks are not wanting to see one. Everything building, almost, is being built substantially, and nothing indicates the shack communities so often seen in a boom country. The fact that so many schools near Hereford are being enlarged for the coming term reflects the development that is taking place.

A $125,000 high school was completed in Hereford last December and the enrollment showed that students were here from ten states.

SHOWERS END LONG DRY SPELL

More than one inch of rain has fallen over this section during the past four days and leaves the row crops in a very promising condition, with optimism very pronounced among the farmers and business men of Hereford. Most of the feed stuff has been assured and cotton will go for some time without additional moisture.

The rain has placed adequate moisture in the ground for breaking stubble and farmers are working early and late getting their land in shape for another wheat crop. A large acreage had already been planted and this soil took care of every bit of the moisture that fell. Many of the cow pastures in this section are being plowed up and this will be put in wheat this fall. The acreage will probably be double that of the present year. Prospects are bright here for an all-around crop for Deaf Smith county, and farmers over this entire section are optimistic since the rains.

Need for Co-Operation Is Stressed at C.-C. Luncheon

E. B. Black, president of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, was selected at the luncheon Monday to represent Hereford at the Plainview meeting August 19, at which time representatives from ten counties will formulate plans for a co-operative advertising campaign for the territory involved. Local folks are very enthusiastic over the prospects for a plan that will place before the world the possibilities of this immediate section of the Panhandle.

"This is the greatest place for diversified farming in Texas, and practically all the territory is underlaid with shallow water," said Mr. Black, after his election. He will probably ask that these two ideas be made the main issues in the advertising campaign.

DEAF SMITH COUNTY FAIR PROMISES HIGH CLASS SHOW

Preparations are being made for a real county fair to be held here September 16-17-18, just before the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo. The community booth, which will feature field crops and garden products, livestock show and an automobile show will be the main features of the fair.

A number of the committeemen have already signified their intention of putting on community exhibits at the local fair. Attractive cash prizes are being offered in this department and competition is expected to be keen.

Luther Hough, in charge of the automobile show, predicts the best show of its kind that has ever been held here. Practically every dealer in Hereford has promised to have cars in this show. It will probably be held on the first floor of the fair pavilion.

Ross Fuller has already started work on the hog show, and says that a number of local farmers have pledged themselves to bring in a number of hogs for the show. Boys and girls doing club work under the direction of County Agent R. O. Dunkle are expected to bring in show pigs to compete for prizes.

Berry Orr, superintendent of the dairy show, has already worked out cash prizes for this department and has his rules and regulations ready for those who expect to show. Last year this was one of the best departments of the fair, and Mr. Orr predicts that the dairy show will draw even more cattle than the one of a year ago.

Several of the Hereford breeders are conditioning animals for the Hereford Show, and the best show in years is the goal of these men. More line-bred Anxiety 4th Herefords are expected to enter this show than of any of its kind in the state. Last year about fifty animals entered the Hereford show and competition was keen. The young bull, Superior 3rd, that was judged grand champion here was also grand champion at Sweetwater and later topped the Texas Hereford Breeders Association Sale at Fort Worth Fat Stock Show.

Mrs. Bob Wilson reports that the Woman's Department will be one of the most attractive phases of the Deaf Smith County Fair. She has already mailed out rules and regulations and prize lists that cover her department to leaders in the various communities of the county. Superintendents for the various departments, such as sewing, fancy work, relics, art, etc., have already been selected and are at work securing exhibits for their respective departments.

Byron McCord has worked out each cash prize for the Poultry Show, and 250 birds are expected to compete for prizes. Last year 200 birds, representing eighteen breeds, were exhibited here and interest seems to be greater now than a year ago.

Concessions people from over the state are sending in for space at the local fair. Admission will be free, and large crowds are expected each day. Entertainment companies will be booked within the near future for the three-day fair.

5 Miles New Road Petitions Are Circulated

Seventy-five miles of new roads in Deaf Smith county will probably be built within the near future, according to Judge Earl Wilson. Three petitions have just been presented to the Commissioners' Court for the opening of several miles of new roads in the county. One petition calls for a road in the northeast part of the county, one asks for a road in the east part, and another wants a road to go west from 25-Mile venue, by Ward school and to connect with Motor Route B.

New settlers moving into various parts of Deaf Smith county and the improving of many tracts that were formerly pastures, have helped to create a need for more roads in Deaf Smith county. New ones can be seen going up in various parts of the county right now, and a big development is expected within the next twelve months.

Northwest Texas Girls' Camp Is Now Open

The Northwest Texas Girls' camp which will be held in Ceta Canyon twenty miles southeast of Canyon, August 14 to 25, has been extremely fortunate in securing the services of prominent men and women to give inspirational addresses on the camp program. Mrs. Ethel Gray Shaw, director of physical education for women at the West Texas Teachers' College, will be among the first to appear. Mrs. Nat. G. Rollins, of Abilene, president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Northwest Conference of the Methodist church, will be in the camp for the entire ten days and will address the girls frequently. Mrs. Louis Stuckey, of Amarillo, will have charge of the camp story hour.

Dr. W. P. Horn, president of Texas Tech will deliver an inspirational address. Rev. John L. Eldridge, of Tahoka, president of Boy Scout Area No. 1, also appears on the program.

Officials chaperones for the camp which will be attended by 200 or more girls representing every town in Northwest Texas, will be Mrs. Sansome and Mrs. Roy Stocking, both of Plainview; Mrs. Louis Clements, Shamrock; Mrs. J. B. Jones, Hereford, and Mrs. Harvey Cash, Canyon.

A number of young ladies of the Hereford Y. P. M. S. and from the class of Miss Dolly Ward are attending the Girls' Camp this week.

Big Crowd Enjoyed Picnic At Dimmitt

Dimmitt put over her annual picnic last Saturday, August 14th, in great style, and people were in attendance from five or six counties. A big free barbecue at noon was one of the features of the picnic. Dimmitt folks brought skits of dinner and furnished all the trimmings that go to make up a real feed. Dimmitt has built up reputation for its big picnics, and folks of that place lived to this reputation.

Nazareth beat Dimmitt 11 to 6 in an exciting baseball game in the afternoon. The big rodeo, racing, platform dance in the evening, and other attractions added to the entertainment of the day.

A good rain fell Friday night, eliminating dust and made men optimistic over the outlook for a bumper row crop. Feed crops in Castro county are just as good as can be and the good rain Friday night, with showers that fell in various parts of the county since that time, have assured good yields of all this stuff.

Hereford folks attended the picnic in large numbers, and everyone who made the trip came back with enthusiasm over the affair.

Church of Christ Revival Began On Wednesday

Revival services began Wednesday night at the church edifice for Church of Christ, with Elder T. L. Kimmel, of Slaton, Texas, in the pulpit. Mr. Flinter will lead in the singing. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Jail and Old Court House Bonds Paid

Deaf Smith county has just paid off the last of the old court house and jail bonds. The amount paid was $14,000. There is still three more payments on the new court house. The last of these will be retired in 1929.

The court house which Deaf Smith county now has is probably the best of its kind in Texas. It was erected several years ago at a cost of $125,000, and is now valued at a quarter million dollars. It is built of white marble.

R. Jones, Son-in-Law of Frank Lambert, Here

R. Jones, of Greenville, South Carolina, reached here Monday and is visiting his wife, formerly Miss Helen Lambert, and her relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will remain here about ten days and on their return trip to Greenville will visit in the home of Mrs. Jones' sister, Mrs. Lloyd Wright and family in Springfield, Missouri. Mr. Jones is salesman for the Fairbanks-Morse Co., and will be stationed there for the winter. Mrs. Jones will teach voice and piano in the Women's College at Greenville.

Presbyterian Revival Began Last Sunday

With a swing and precision that augers well for the success of the campaign, the evangelistic meeting sponsored by the Presbyterian church, was launched Sunday morning.

Lockett Adair, nationally known evangelist of the church, and one who numbers his friends by his acquaintances, is the preacher. A crowded house greeted him Sunday morning and more than 1,000 people heard him in the newly constructed tabernacle Sunday night. Despite the inclement weather, services have been held every night this week, and as the meeting proceeds interest and attendance grow.

It is confidently predicted that the large tabernacle, which is located at the church, will be too small to seat the vast crowds that will attend when weather conditions permit.

Organization of the various phases of the work proceeds apace.

"Bring a Man With You" Idea Stressed at C. of C. Luncheon

The "bring a man with you" idea was brought out by E. B. Black, president of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce. The president's idea was to bolster up the attendance of the weekly noonday luncheon and requested each one present to help increase the diners at each Monday meeting.

G. A. F. Parker made a report on the meeting at Plainview. He said it was only a few minutes until we were there. Mr. Parker's report was so complete that we will not be able to tell it all, but the high spots were: The ten counties represented with like conditions as to irrigation, the possible co-operation of the counties represented in making an attractive showing at the large fairs, the co-operation in advertising and the general good spirit of co-operation.

The superintendent of the Deaf Smith County Fair made a brief report on the progress being made up to date. Mr. Vogele said that the superintendents are working hard and that a better fair is promised. The Hereford business men are working in harmony with the fair committees and a dandy good display on the second floor of the fair pavilion will be there.

Secretary Moss said, "We are working with Randall county for a paved highway to the Randall-Deaf Smith county line."

A. D. Payne, of Amarillo, a candidate for representative of this district, made an interesting talk on the inequality of taxes, presenting a number of statistics.

The next luncheon will be at the Stockman's Cafe.

A. & M. Banquet at Palo Duro Hotel In Amarillo

All Panhandle Aggies have heard about the Annual Panhandle A. & M. Banquet. To those who have attended one of the previous four banquets this is enough said. For those who have not heard, let it be said that this is an annual gathering of all A. & M. men in the Panhandle, ex-students, alumni, present students and prospective "fish." The banquet will start at 6:30 p. m. August 28, 1926, at the Palo Duro Hotel, Amarillo. After the banquet is over a dance will be held for those who care to join in the merry-making.

Gilbreath-Shirley Wedding Saturday

J. T. Gilbreath and Mrs. Ruby Shirley were united in marriage last Saturday evening in Amarillo and departed on their honeymoon.

President J. A. Hill, of the West Texas State Teachers' College, is interested more in the building of a paved road between the City of Amarillo and Canyon than in any other problem at the present time. In discussing the prospective road a few days ago, President Hill said: "A paved road between Amarillo and Canyon will mean an opportunity for college education to hundreds of Amarillo's young people who would not otherwise have an opportunity to attend college. To the people of Canyon it will mean that they will have all the advantages of living in Amarillo. The road is a project on which the people of Canyon and Amarillo can work with equal enthusiasm for it offers equal advantage to each group."

The B. C. D. of Amarillo is co-operating with the city authorities of Canyon and the county officials of Randall county in working out a plan whereby the road connecting the two towns can be built within the next few months.

Why not draw students from both ways by extending the paved road to the Deaf Smith County line? Secretary Moss, of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, made mention of the fact that "we are working with Randall county for a paved road to the Randall-Deaf

Mrs. C. E. Alexander, a sister of Mrs. H. H. Hawkins, passed away early Saturday morning at Denton, Texas, her home. Mrs. Hawkins left for Denton Friday afternoon. Mrs. Alexander had been in bad health for the past two months but was, when heard of last, improving. Mrs. Alexander visited in Hereford last summer and was quite well known here.

Engle Hog Sale Sale On August 28

A hog sale, consisting of seventy-five head of feeder pigs and shoats, is set for Saturday, August 28, at about 3:00 p. m., in Hereford on the vacant lot south of Jones & McLean's. The owner, H. W. (Pete) Engle, said he had a dandy lot of pork to put on sale.

City Tries Out a New Russell Grader

A Russell Patrol, powered by a McCormick-Deering tractor, has just been purchased by the City of Hereford and is now on the job, according to Mayor E. S. Ireland. The new machine will be used for street building and maintenance in Hereford. It is considered to be one of the best and cheapest machines of its kind in this section. It arrived last week and is now in operation, putting the local streets in first class shape.

J. L. Fuqua Erects New Oil Station

Hereford is to have another wholesale oil and gas plant, south of the Gulf Refining Company's office. J. L. Fuqua informed the Board that he will handle the Trans-Continental products and will be ready for operation the latter part of the week. Mr. Fuqua has erected a frame building 22x42 feet and has a large tank with a capacity of 11,800 gallons.

Farmers' Annual Picnic at Sulphur Park September 3

The third annual Farmers' Picnic is being planned and arrangements made for Friday, September 3 at Sulphur Park. This is absolutely a free picnic, said Troy Wombie, chairman of committee, and everybody, and especially the farmers, are invited to attend. Bring well filled baskets and enjoy the day.

Fair Pavilion Floor Surfaced With Chats

The large fair pavilion will be in first class shape for the Deaf Smith county fair, September 16-17-18. The lower floor will be built up with clay, and will then have a thick layer of chats spread over it. The chats will make a good floor for the present and will eliminate dust, which was a bad feature during the fair last fall. In the future the commissioners may decide to put a concrete floor in the building and the chats will furnish an excellent base for this work.

The fair pavilion was purchased by the county last fall and is being made into a fair center. Every department of the fair can be held in this large building, it is thought.

R. B. R. Company Now In Their New Building

The International Harvester Co. of this city, moved into their new building west across the street from the court house the first of the week. The new building is equipped with a large sales room in front measuring 40x80 feet, ladies rest room and a large stock and storage room 50x100 feet. Mr. Rosson promises a big opening about the middle of September, possibly during the fair. Announcement will be made later of the nature of the opening.

E. B. Black Furniture Company moved into the Lambert-Buchanan building, the latter part of the

T-Anchor Boys Meet at Canyon For Round-Up

Men who were cowboys in the thrilling days of the 30's and early 40's and who are now substantial citizens of northwest Texas counties are making ready to greet their fellow old-time cow punchers on the T-Anchor ranch, Thursday, August 19. The invitations to this year's roundup are signed by John Arnot, Amarillo, president of the Cowboys' Association. The meeting will take place on the Baird ranch, one mile north of Canyon.

A feature of the 1926 gathering will be forty gallons of son-of-a-gun stew. Every old cow boy knows that hot-of-a-gun stew served piping hot in a dish fit for the noblemen of the range. The program will be informal, with "Parson" L. tough here to read some of his own verses. There will be old-time fiddlers, old-time dancing, and the singing of old-time songs. All cowboys and their families who wish to stay longer than the day set for the meeting are invited to use the camping quarters free of charge. It is expected that there will be three or four hundred cowboys and families present for the roundup.

A number of Hereford old-time cow punchers will attend the big roundup.

The world will watch with interest this battle between the Mexican Government and the Catholic church, first of its kind in many years.

The cessation of all religious services in Mexico will undoubtedly cause turmoil and distress among all classes. Mexican Indians especially will resent being deprived of services which they believe essential to their spiritual welfare. The Christian religion was forced upon them originally by Spanish conquerors, and much bloodshed in many cases accompanied the process.

But the Indians are now devout Christians, often more earnest in their faith than people of European extraction.

The price of cotton goes up—good news for the cotton gamblers—not such good news for cotton growers because much rain means harm to the growers' crop. The cotton gambler makes his money whether it rains or scorches.

Why men grow cotton when they might gamble in cotton, would be hard to understand, but for the fact that men enjoy producing something, apart from profit. Gamblers was "too busy to make money."

The Rev. Laura B. Gaylor, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa, tells the Universalist Sunday School Association that some Bible tales are out of date and horrible. That story about Elijah calling the bears to eat the children that had made fun of his baldness she could not bear.

Many things in the Bible shock you, but that is the fault of people whom the Bible describes faithfully.

That story about the angels that came down with important news, and the manner in which some of the natives would have received them, shocks and normal mind. But the duty of the Bible, like that of a newspaper, is to tell what happens.

He built the machine in which Commander Byrd, fine young American naval officer, flew over the North Pole, with the financial help of Vincent Astor, Edsel Ford and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Mr. Fokker ought to be working for the United States Government, and it ought to insure his life for $20,000,000—if money made any difference.

Nancy Hanks, a powerful woman, might have beaten Mrs. Carson's swimming record. Instead she contributed Abraham Lincoln to write the Proclamation, and that was more useful than it would have been for her to swim from Paris down the Seine past Gibraltar into the Mediterranean, through the Suez Canal and on to China.

A Realistic Picture

All Elements Happily Blended In "The Volga Boatman."

The stark realism of "The Volga Boatman," Cecil B. DeMille's new personally directed feature, is destined to make it one of the most talked of pictures of the season, in the opinion of many critics. Presenting for a background the maelstrom of Russia in Revolution, DeMille has woven in romance, melodrama and humor with a deft hand, capitalizing on his sense of the spectacular without losing the human touch.

A startling contrast between the splendor of the aristocracy, and the squalor of the peasants is brought out in the picture, which follows the experiences of three leading characters—a Prince, a Princess and a Volga Boatman—through the Russian Revolution. William Boyd plays the title role, while Elinor Fair, Victor Varconi, Julia Faye and Theodore Kosloff are also featured. "The Volga Boatman," which will be shown at the Star Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, August 25-26, was adapted from the screen by Lenore J. Coffee from Konrad Bercovici's original story.

GREECE INCREASES DUTIES ON OLIVE OIL; 24 PER CENT

The duty on exports of olive oil from Greece has been increased from 12 to 24 per cent of its average market price according to a legislative decree effective from the time of publication in the Official Greek Gazette of June 4, 1926, according to a report to the Department of Commerce.

AN AMERICAN DISEASE.

The American craze for speed seems in a fair way of becoming a national disease.

Wholly apart from the economic loss resulting from the violent deaths of men, women and children, by automobile accidents, it is impossible to ignore the sorrow, the grief and hardship which these deaths impose upon the families of the victims.

Last year there were 22,500 fatalities in motor accidents in this country, which represented an increase of ten per cent over the previous year. Deaths of children over fifteen years of age numbered 6,900 in 1925, compared with 6,000 in 1924.

The increasing number of casualties deserves the immediate attention of everyone. Public officials bear the responsibility, but they can't solve the problem alone. They have to have the co-operation of all motor car drivers and pedestrians alike.

It costs $12,000 annually to launder the elephants of a large circus. Each elephant is regularly soaped, sand-papered and rubbed with olive oil.

Here and There

The best thing heard Here and There lately was the drip, drip, drip, dripping of the rain. Every one is refreshed and crops are now looking good.

The housewives are now busy canning, helping one another. Mrs. Lindsey and Mrs. Estes helped Mrs. Bell can peas last Monday.

Mrs. Ollie Dixon has been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Will Dixon.

Mr. Andrews, who recently purchased the old Stanley home place, is here and is repairing the house and sheds so he can move there this fall. Mr. Harlin has been farming the place several years, but will move elsewhere this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Greer, of Dawn, visited Mrs. Estes and Mrs. Greer last Monday afternoon. Miss Menon Greer remained for the week with her aunts.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kincaid and daughters, Neitha and Neona, went to Amarillo Saturday and took in the big circus.

Mr. and Mrs. Lantam spent part of Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Harlin. They were accompanied by a large water melon and they all did eat.

Mrs. Kellow visited Mrs. Estes last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kincaid and children enjoyed eating ice cream at the Mobley home last Thursday night.

Mrs. C. Greer visited with her daughter, Mrs. Estes and family the latter part of the week and attended the Dimmitt picnic with them.

Mrs. Berry went to Jumbo last Tuesday and visited with Mrs. Hall.

R. T. Green and Mr. Gillispie, of Dimmitt, went to Oklahoma City and will bring back a new car.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey spent last Sunday in the Bell home.

The Dimmitt picnic was well attended by people from Here and There and everyone seemed to enjoy the day, meeting new friends and old ones, as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Greer spent Saturday night and Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coventry and Mr. and Mrs. Bales, of near Spring Lake.

Mr. Chas. Bell had a very painful operation on his eye last Wednesday. While his eye is causing him much pain, it is doing nicely.

Mrs. Fincher's sister is here from Kansas City for a visit with her. Mrs. Elvis Lawhorn visited several days with Mrs. Earl Lantam.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Estes and families attended singing at Jumbo Sunday night.

Mrs. W. B. Green, Joe Green and Nettie Lee Green and Mrs. Walter Easter returned from their trip last Thursday, reporting a good time and fine trip.

Mr. Walter Tice who has been quite ill, is able to be out once more.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lindsey and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Greer spent last Tuesday evening in the Tice home where ice cream and cake made the evening a very pleasant one.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allman went to Amarillo Thursday and from there to Floydada to visit the parents of both.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Knox are enjoying a visit from Mr. Hugh Knox and family, of Portales, New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Dixon left Saturday morning for Lockney, where they will visit for a few days. Mrs. Childers, who has been visiting them for some time, returned with them to her home in Lockney.

We surely enjoy having visitors come to sing and help with the services. Come again.

While some of the Frio tots are recovering from whooping cough, others are just beginning to whoop. It is interesting with our Sunday school attendance and we will be glad when they can come again.

DODGE BROTHERS DE LUXE SEDAN

People select motor cars by different standards.

Some desire luxury and ostentation. Others, utility and economy alone.

Dodge Brothers De Luxe Sedan strikes a fine and distinguished balance—both in appearance and price—between these two extremes.

It provides unusual comfort and roominess; a refinement of line and design in which the owner takes deep pride; and everywhere in the world the name it bears is associated with the highest standards of integrity and workmanship.

With reasonable care, the De Luxe Sedan serves its owners for years, frequently delivers mileage running well into six figures, and on the resale market brings prices that strikingly reflect the solid value Dodge Brothers have built into it.

On a European battlefield in the late war a big, rawboned Yankee sergeant was gathering in a bunch of German prisoners, among them an officer. There was a look of bewilderment on the German officer's face. "I can't understand it," said he, "these were the Kaiser's storm troops."

"Storm troops, hell!" retorted his captor, "we're from Texas where they raise clycones."

The GIRL in the MIRROR By Elizabeth Jordan

"Yes," Laurie politely prompted him. "Here I am. What about it? What am I doing?"

"You know d—d well what you're doing. You're loafing!" Bangs fired the word at him as if it were a bullet from a Big Bertha. "You're loafing till it makes us all sick to look at you. We thought a week or two of it would be enough, when you realized the conditions; but it's gone on for a month; and, instead of getting tired, you're getting more and more into the loafing habit. You abuse time till it shrieks in agony."

"Good sentence," applauded Laurie. "But don't waste it on me. Put it into a play."

Bangs seemed not to hear him. He was standing by the room's one window, now, staring unseeingly out of it, his hands deep in his pockets, taking in the knowledge of the failure of his appeal. Under the realization of this, he tossed a small taunt over his shoulder.

"I can forgive the big blunders a man makes in his life," he muttered; "but I haven't much patience with a chap that lies around and shirks at a time like this!"

Laurie removed the half-smoked cigarette from his mouth, and not finding an ash tray within reach, carefully crushed out his burning end against the polished top of the dressing case. He had grown rather pale.

"That will be about all, Bangs," he said quietly. "What you and Epstein and Haxon don't seem to remember is just one thing. If you don't like matters as they are, it's mighty easy to change them. It doesn't take half a minute to agree to dissolve a partnership."

"I know," Bangs returned to his chair, and, dropping limply into it, his hands still in his pockets, stared dependently at his outstretched legs. "That's all it means to you," he went on morosely. "Our partnership is one in a thousand. It's based on friendship as well as on financial interest. If I do say it, it represents a combination of brains, ability, backing and prospects that comes only once in a lifetime, if it comes at all. Yet in one year you're sick of it, and tired of work. You're ready to throw it all over, and to throw over at the same time the men whose interests are bound up with yours. You're throwing in cabarets and roadhouses and restaurants, when you might be doing work—" Bangs capitalized the word—"real work," he added fiercely, "work other fellows would give their souls to be able to do."

He ended on a flat note, oddly unlike his usually buoyant tones, and sat still as if everything had been said.

Laurie lit a fresh cigarette, drew in a mouthful of smoke, and exhaled it in a series of pretty rings. In his brief college experience he had devoted some time to acquiring this art. Admiringly watching the little rings pass through the big rings, he spoke with studied carelessness.

"It was a pretty good scene, Bangs," he said, "and it showed careful rehearsing. But it would be a lot more effective if you had a real situation to base it on. As it is, you're making a devil of a row about nothing. I worked like a horse all last year, and you know it. Now I'm resting, or loafing, if you prefer to call it that, and—he bit off the words and fairly threw them at his friend—"It will save you and Epstein and Haxon a lot of mental wear and tear if you will mind your own business and let me alone."

Bangs raised his eyes and dropped them again.

"You are our business," he somewhat reminded his partner. "I've got to see I can't work without you," he added, with a humility new to him. "You know that? And you know I've got the plot. It's ready—great Scott, it's boiling in me! I'm crazy to get it out. And here I've got to sit around watching you kill time, while you know and I know that you'd be a d—d sight happier if you were on the job. Good Lord, Laurie, work's the bizness thing

there is in life! Doesn't it mean anything at all to you?"

"Not just now," Laurie spoke with maddening nonchalance.

"Then there's something rotten in you."

Laurie winced, but made no answer. He hoped Bangs would go on talking and thus destroy the echo of his last words, with which the silent room seemed filled. But nothing came. Rodney's opportunity had passed and he was lost in depressed realization of his failure. Laurie strolled back to the mirror, his forgotten tie dangling in his hand.

"We'll let it go at that," he said then. "Think things over, and make up your mind what you want to do about the contract."

"All right."

Bangs replied in the same flat notes he had used a moment before, and without changing his position; but the two words gave Laurie a shock. He did not believe either Rodney or Epstein would contemplate a dissolution of their existing partnership; but an hour ago he would not have believed that Rodney Bangs could say to him the things he had said just now.

He was beginning to realize that he had tried his partners sorely in the month that had passed since his return to town; and said all for what? He himself had brought out the foolish experience nothing save a tired nervous system, a sense of boredom such as he had not known for a year, and, especially when he looked at Bangs, an acute mental discomfort which intrusively persons would probably have diagnosed as the pangs of conscience. Laurie did not take the trouble to diagnose it. He merely resented it as a grievance added to the supreme grievance based on the fact that he had not yet even started on the high adventure he had promised himself.

He was gloomily considering both grievances, and tying his tie with his usual care, when something in the mirror caught and held his attention. He looked at it, at first casually, then with growing interest. In the glass, directly facing him, was a wide studio window. It was open, notwithstanding the cold January weather, and a comfortable, middle-aged, plump woman, evidently a superior type of caretaker, was sitting on the sill, polishing an inner pane. The scene was as vivid as a mirage, and it was like the mirage in that it was projected from some point which itself remained unseen.

Laurie turned to the one window in the dressing room afforded—a double-French window, at his right, but a little behind him, and reaching to the floor. Through this he could see across a court the opposite side of his own building, but no such window or commonplace vision as had just come to him. In his absorption in the phenomenon he called to Bangs, who rose slowly, and, coming to his side, regarded the scene without much interest.

"It's a cross projection from a house diagonally opposite us," he said, after studying the picture a moment. "It must be that old red studio building on the southwest corner of the square. If we had a room back of this and looking toward the west, we could see the real window."

"As it is," said Laurie, "we've got a reserved seat for an intimate study of anyone who lives there. I wonder who has that studio?"

Bangs had no idea. He was grateful to the little episode, however, for spreading over the yielding ground beneath his feet the solid strip on which he had crossed back to his chum. He threw an arm across Laurie's shoulders and looked into his face, with something in his expression that reminded young Devon of a favorite collic he had loved and lost in boyhood.

"All right now?" the look asked, just as the dog's look had asked it of the little chap of ten, when something had gone wrong. Rodney's creed of life was held together by a few primitive laws, the first of which was loyalty. Already he was reproaching himself for what he had said and done. Laurie carefully completed the tying of his tie, and turned to him with his gayest smile.

"Hurry up and finish dressing," he cheerfully suggested, "and we'll go out to breakfast. Since you insist on waiting round for me like Mary's little lamb, I suppose I've got to feed you."

Rodney's wide grin responded, for the first time in many days. He bustled about, completing his toilet, and ten minutes later the two young men started out together with a lightness of spirit which each enjoyed and neither wholly understood. Both had a healthy horror of "sentimental stuff" and a gay, normal disregard of each other's feelings in ordinary intercourse. But in the past half-hour, for the first time in their association, they had come close to a serious break, and the soul of each had been chilled by a premonitory loneliness as definite as the touch of an icy finger. In the quick reaction they experienced now their spirits soared exultantly. They breakfasted in a fellowship such as they had not known since Barbara's marriage, the month before.

If Bangs had indulged in any dream of a change of life in Laurie, however, following this reconciliation, the next few days destroyed the tender shoots of that hope. Laurie's manner retained its pleasant camaraderie, but work and he met as strangers and passed each other by. The routine of his days remained what they had been during the past five weeks. He gadded about, apparently harmlessly, came home at shocking hours, and spent most of the bracing January days wrapped in a beautiful slumber that infuriated Bangs, who wandered in and out of their apartment like an unhappy ghost. On the rare occasions when he and Rodney laughed or dined together, Laurie was entirely good humored and when Epstein was with them seemed wholly impervious to any hints thrown out, none too subtly, by his producing partner.

"Listen, Laurie," said that disgusted individual, almost a month after the new year had been ushered in, "the new year's here. That's a good time for a young fellow to get busy again on something worth while. Ain't I right?"

Laurie suppressed a yawn and carefully struck off with his little finger the firm ash of an excellent cigarette. He was consuming thirty or forty cigarettes a day, and his nerves were beginning to show the effect of this indulgence.

"I believe it is," he courteously agreed. "It has been earnestly recommended to the young as a good time to start something."

"Well," Epstein's voice took on the guttural notes of his temperamental moments, "don't that mean nothing to you?"

Laurie grinned. He had caught the quick look of warning Bangs shot at the producer and it amused him.

"Not yet," he said. "Not till I've had my adventure."

Epstein sniffed.

"The greatest adventure in life," he stated dogmatically, "is to make a lot of money. I tell you why. Because then you got all the other adventures you can handle, trying to hold on to it!"

Bangs, who was developing a new and hitherto unsuspected vein of tact, encouraged Epstein's emphasis on this congenial theme. He now fully realized that Devon would go his own gait until he wearied of it, and that no argument or persuasion could enter his armor-clad mind. The position of Bangs was a difficult one. He was accepting and assimilating this unpleasant fact, Epstein and Haxon—impatient men by temperament and without much training in self-control—were getting wholly out of patience and therefore out of hand. Haxon, indeed, was for the time entirely out of hand, for he finally started the rehearsals of a new play which, he grimly informed Bangs, would make "The Man Above" look like a canceled postage stamp.

Bangs repeated the comment to his chum the next morning, during the late dressing hour which now gave them almost their only opportunity for a few words together. He had hoped it would make an impression, and he listened with pleasure to a sharp exclamation from Laurie, who chanced to be standing before the door mirror in the dressing room, brushing his hair. The next instant Bangs realized that it was not his news which had evoked the tribute of that exclamation.

"Come here!" called Laurie, urgently. "Here's something new; and by Jove, isn't she a beauty!"

Bangs interrupted his toilet to lounge across the room. Looking over Laurie's shoulder, his eyes found the cynosure that held the gaze of his friend. The wide-open studio window was again reflected in the mirror, but with another occupant.

This was a girl, young and lovely. She appeared in the window like a half-length photograph in a frame. Her body showed only from above the waist. Her elbows were on the sill. Her chin rested in the hollows of her cupped hands. Her wavy hair, parted on one side and drawn softly over the ears in the fashion of the season, was reddish-gold. Her eyes were brown, and very thoughtful. Down-dropped, they seemed to stare at something on the street below, but the girl's expression was not that of one who was looking at an object with interest. Instead, she seemed lost in a deep and melancholy abstraction.

"Isn't she charming!" he cried again.

Bangs' reply revealed a severely practical side of his nature.

"She'll have a beastly cold in the head if she doesn't shut that window," he grumpily suggested. But his interest, too, was aroused. He stared at the girl in the mirror with an attention almost equal to Laurie's.

As they looked, she suddenly stirred and moved backward, as if occultly warned of their survey. They saw her close the window, and, drawing a chair close to it, sit down and stare out through the pane, still with that intent, impersonal expression. Bangs strolled back to the dressing case and resumed his interrupted toilet. Laurie, fumbling vaguely with his brushes, kept his eyes on the girl in the mirror.

"She's a wonder. Prettiest girl I've ever seen, I think," he reflected aloud.

Bangs snorted.

"She's probably a peroxide," he said. "Even if she isn't, she can't hold a candle to your sister."

Students who are particularly interested in farm work will be given the first chance at the vocational agriculture course which is offered in the Hereford high school, according to C. W. Humble, instructor. Not all the students who desire the course can be accommodated, and those interested in farming can have first choice. Mr. Humble is urging all new students to see him before the opening of school, September 6, so that proper arrangements can be made for their work.

LEE SATTERWHITE

Candidate for Re-Election State Representative from 23rd District, composed of the Counties of Carson, Armstrong, Potter, Randall, Deaf Smith and Oldham.

His position on public matters is well known and his record as a member of the Legislature is one for fair and equitable laws to all alike. It is well known that Executive powers now in control at Austin would like to bring about his defeat, but it is not believed that a majority of the voters of this district will lend their aid to such a purpose.

He lead his nearest opponent in the first primary by 1549 votes and only lacked 406 votes receiving a majority of all the votes cast in the six counties.

Beautiful Lawn Being Finished At High School

Hereford claims the most beautiful high school campus in North Texas, and just as soon as plans have been perfected the local campus will rival any in the state.

When the new $125,000 high school building was completed here last winter, the vocational agricultural class, under the direction of C. W. Humble, asked permission to beautify the grounds as a project. The boys set to work last winter leveling the grounds, taking out trees where they were too thick, and doing other things towards beautifying the school campus. Right now the Aggies have one of the most beautiful lawns in this section, with shade trees completely surrounding the campus grounds.

An experiment is being made with this lawn which will be watched with interest over the entire Plains country. Bermuda grass and sweet clover are being tried out as a combination lawn covering and if successful the idea will be copied by many folks in Hereford. Dandelions have been troublesome for blue grass here. Bermuda will not permit dandelions to grow, but does not come out early enough in the spring and turns yellow too soon in the fall to suit the majority of lawn keepers in Hereford. Bermuda and sweet clover as a combination lawn is expected to fill the bill. Sweet clover will green up early enough in the spring and will stay green longer in the fall than will Bermuda, thus giving a lawn equal to blue grass and one that will keep out dandelions.

There is a question whether clover can hold its own with bermuda. Mr. Humble states the clover comes out earlier in the spring and will probably get a good start before the bermuda greens up. If the bermuda does take the sweet clover the local high school will have a lawn that is preferable to one that is covered with blue grass.

The lawn was seeded June 9-10 and the clover was up in two days. The bermuda came up to a stand within five to six days. The soil was thoroughly prepared and three crops of weeds were killed before the seed was sown. Three steps are essential in the making of a good lawn, according to Mr. Humble: Thorough preparation of the soil, getting the seed in the ground just right, and keeping proper moisture. A combination of one third clover and two thirds bermuda was used. A lawn roller was used to cover the seed.

The Aggie students are making permanent plans for the landscape gardening. The plans call for flower beds, shrubs, etc. In addition to the work that has already been done, the boys are enthusiastic over their project and all of them look with pride on the local campus. Many Hereford folks as well as tourists from afar drive by the high school daily and admire the campus that rivals the best in North Texas.

High School Athletic Grounds Are Improved

Much preparation has been made during the summer for athletics in the Hereford High School, and many are predicting that this will be Hereford's banner year in sports.

The fence around the football field has been rebuilt and entrances have been made on the west side of the field. C. W. Humble, business manager of the Athletic Association, and his boys have been busy constructing the bleachers to be placed on the side lines, and everything will be done to make the folks comfortable who attend the games.

Two tennis courts have just been completed and are in first class shape for the opening of school September 6. Tennis will furnish a wholesome recreation for boys and girls who do not wish to engage in other sports. Two outside basketball courts have also been completed this summer. These will be used for practice work, but all the matched games will be played in the gymnasium. Two volleyball courts will be made within the near future.

Sports are being organized so that everything will move along smoothly. An Athletic Association was organized two years ago and the business pertaining to athletics is managed by this organization. Students who belong to the Association help to put over the things that are needed for better athletics. If other students fail to live up to the rules of the school they are called before the Association and a penalty assessed against them. If new equipment is needed the organization helps to secure this by creating the proper sentiment, and often helps to secure finances necessary to get the stuff.

Manager C. W. Humble states that the material for football has already been ordered and everything will be on hand at the opening of the football training season. This is due largely to the work of the Association. Often the High School coach has to order his equipment after school and training starts, but this will not be the case in Hereford.

Every phase of athletics will be stressed in the Hereford High School during the coming year. Athletics will be carried on as a business and not in a haphazard way, as in many schools.

Basketball, football, baseball, tennis, track, volleyball and other forms of physical education will be carried on.

Game Laws Defined by Game Warden Rose

Game Warden J. Doyle Rose has just received a number of game license blanks, 48 all told, and a few trappers' license. Mr. Rose said the license can be procured of Homer Fox at the Fox Mercantile store. The state law requires any one who is trapping to purchase a license unless he is owner or a tenant of the land where he is operating.

The Hereford country is located in North Zone and is described as north and west of I. & G. N. and T. & P. railroads, running from Laredo to San Antonio, to Austin to Longview to Texarkana. The Federal law forbids the hunting of migratory birds between sunset and one-half hour before sunrise. The open season does not conflict with either state or federal laws. The law reads as follows: "You must not kill or possess at any time antelope, doe deer, mountain sheep, woodcock, wood duck or egret, or other plumed birds, non-game fowl, song bird, insectivorous bird, turkey, pheasant. You must not buy, sell or barter any game bird or animal. You may kill at any time English sparrows, rice birds, black birds, buzzards, crows, owls, hawks, woodpeckers and rabbits."

The open season is as follows: Wild bear, Nov. 16 to Dec. 31. Mourning doves, Sept. 1 to Dec. 31. Whitewing doves, Aug. and Sept. Wild Ducks of all kinds (except wood ducks) geese, brant, snipe, gallinules and mudhens, Oct. 16 to Jan. 31. Prairie chickens, Sept. 1 to 10th. Quail and Mexican pheasants, Nov. 16 to Jan. 1. Wild turkey gobblers, Nov. 16 to Dec. 31. Wild Turkey season closed until Nov. 16, 1930, in Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr, Willacy, Kennedy, Brooks, Kleberg and Nueces counties.

Bag Limit.
Bear, one in season.
Deer, two bucks in season, must have three points or more.
Doves, 15 in one day and not more than 45 in one week.
Ducks, snipe, plover, yellowlegs, gallinule or mudhen, 25 in one day and not more than 50 in one week, the daily and weekly limit counting all varieties.
Geese and brant, 4 in one day or 12 in any one week.
Prairie chicken, 5 in any one day or ten an open season.
Quail and Mexican pheasant, 12 in any one day or 36 in any one week, counting all varieties.
Turkey gobblers, three in one season.

Molasses Used to Keep Dust Down on Roads

A new process for which patent rights have been requested by the "Nederlandsch-Indische Spiritus Mij." of Amsterdam, is that relating to the rendering of roads dust-proof by treatment with the residue left during the distillation of spirit from sugar molasses.

C. C. Worrells, of the Fairview community, so it is reported, is making upwards of a car load of molasses on an acre and a half of ground. He has about 15,000 pounds of fine Bermudas that he has just harvested and curing for the market.—Crosbyton Review.

"Funeral Procession" Scattered by Police

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—The suspiciously inquisitive eye of a highway police lieutenant panicked what purported to be a funeral cortege here Tuesday, and after the mourners fled wildly from the procession the hearse and other cars were found to be stacked with liquor.

A squad of police was making its way along an outlying road toward Ecorse, a run-running base, when they rounded a curve in sight of the funeral procession. The unusually loud manifestations of grief which came from the cortege attracted the attention of the lieutenant in charge of the squad, he said.

Driving to the head of the line he glanced casually at the hearse driver. As he gazed at the man, the officer said, the driver became nervous, faltered, and then jamming on the brakes, leaped out of the machine and fled through a field.

To the astonishment of the officers, the mourners immediately began pouring from the cars in the rear and fled in all directions.

An inspection of the hearse revealed instead of a corpse, 50 cases of beer. The other cars were likewise loaded with contraband.

The officers later rounded up two men but they denied participating in the funeral ruse.

Cow Pastures Yield To Wheat Farmers

Many of the cow pastures in this section will be converted into farms during the coming year, and the summer of 1927 is expected to see bountiful wheat yields on land that was in pasture only a short while ago.

Judge Buck, of Plainview, Texas, is planning to put in 1,000 acres of wheat this fall on his two section tract that was formerly a part of the Joe Elliot ranch south of Hereford in Castro county. The pasture land was plowed for the first time last spring and has been summer tilled since that time. It is considered to be one of the best prepared tracts for wheat in this vicinity, and local folks are predicting a good crop.

The wheat acreage for the coming year is expected to double the acreage of the present season. Two reasons are given for the increased acreage: many local farmers will strive to sow larger crops because of the excellent yields that has just been made, and the increased acreage of farming land caused by the many new settlers, converting the cow pastures into farming land. Many farmers during the past year made more than enough to pay the cost of their land.

Wheat In Storage Has Increased

Sale of 12,000,000 Bushels in Week of Aug. 7 Reported in Review of Visible Supply.

Twelve million more bushels of wheat were in storage in the U. S. August 7 than at the close of the week previous, according to the Department of Agriculture's visible grain supply report issued August 9.

The largest increase was at the Kansas City market, department officials stated.

The full text of the report follows:

Says Oil In Barrel Elevates Gun Shot

Recent experiments of the Bureau of Standards show that an oil coating in the barrel of a gun will effect higher elevation of the shot and that lighter powder charges cause heavier muzzle vibrations, the Department of Commerce announced August 2.

The apparatus used in the experiments consists of a suitable detector, vacuum tube power amplifier, oscillograph and a special high speed camera on the film of which the record of oscillations is photographed and made available for study.

With this apparatus it was shown that the effect of a light coating of oil in the gun barrel is to make the piece shoot high. The lighter the powder charge, other things being equal, the greater the muzzle vibrations when the exit of the bullet occurs.

Sprouted Oats Aid Fertility of Cows

Special Diet Credited For Increase of Calf Production at Experimental Farm.

Calf production at the Department of Agriculture Dairy Experiment Farm at Beltsville, Md., has been increased by feeding cows sprouted oats, the department has announced. The experiments were made as a result of the discovery that certain foods contains a vitamin conducive to fertility.

The full text of the department announcement follows:

Six virgin dairy heifers that had failed to get with calf after being repeatedly served by different sires at the United States Department of Agriculture Dairy Experiment Farm, Beltsville, Md., were fed sprouted oats in an effort to correct their barren condition. According to R. R. Graves, in charge of the experiment, five of the six heifers were settled a calf after 20 days of this special feeding. Six dairy cows that had raised calves but had apparently become unable to conceive were fed sprouted oats also with the result that five of them got with calf after 19 to 48 days of feeding.

Similar tests made at the Oregon Experiment Station upon the suggestion of Mr. Graves gave equally favorable results.

Fifth Vitamin Discovered.
Feeding sprouted oats to overcome non-conception in dairy heifers was suggested by Mr. Graves by a study of the work done with small animals at the University of California in which it was discovered that a fifth vitamin had a bearing on the fertility and reproductive organs. This vitamin, named vitamin E, was found in such feeds as green leaves of lettuce and alfalfa.

Whether or not the fertility results obtained in heifers and cows fed sprouted oats is due to a vitamin has not been determined, nor have enough trials been made to conclude definitely that the method will always give positive results. Mr. Graves points out that animals in their undomesticated state have a breeding season closely allied with the spring flush of new grass, and that under modern methods of management, cows and heifers are bred at all times of the year. Many of the cases of non-breeding may be due to functional disorders brought about by a high state of domesticity in which the natural breeding season is ignored. The beneficial effects of sprouted oats may be due to a stimulation of natural dietary conditions at the normal breeding season.

Insurance Department Making Inspection

D. B. DuPriest and J. A. Peninger, from the State Fire Insurance Commissioner's office at Austin, arrived last Friday and have spent several days since in re-rating the city of Hereford from a fire insurance standpoint. Ever so often, they explain, it becomes necessary to make a rigid inspection in order to keep the state rates lined up properly, and that is their mission here.

Whether Hereford will gain or lose by the inspection is being eagerly awaited by all property owners.

New Comedy Note In Chaplin's Film

But the Chaplin of Old Also Is Found in New Feature, "The Gold Rush."

Though a new note is sounded in the showing of Charlie Chaplin's comedy feature photoplay, "The Gold Rush," described as the greatest of all Chaplin comedies—the public will see also all the Chaplin tricks that have put this picture star in a class entirely by himself.

"The Gold Rush," a United Artists Corporation release, which is scheduled as the feature attraction for the Star Theatre next Friday and Saturday, is described by those who have seen it as far and away the best piece of work Chaplin has ever done; and by far, the funniest.

It also presents a biographic symbolization of the real Charlie Chaplin; his life from the days of an unknown to the best known man in the world is portrayed between a range of deep pathos and hilarious comedy against a background of hardships as one of the gold seekers in the early stamped days in the frozen waters of Alaska.

A new note in comedy dramatics is sounded; an advanced departure in character portrayal and delineation is revealed with Chaplin in "The Gold Rush." But in addition there is the Charlie of old—the Charlie of the little derby, the trick cane, the baggy trousers, the little mustache, the sloppy shoes and the funny walk. At the Star Theatre, Friday and Saturday, August 20-21.

The land is reported as rolling prairie and rugged mesas. The soil, sandy loam, second and third rate. The timber is scrub cedar, and piñon in the western part of the township.

Pullman Rates Not Excessive

A finding by the Interstate Commerce Commission that the existing charges of the Pullman Company for sleeping and parlor car accommodations have not been shown to be unreasonable, and that no reduction be made in the company's charges pending the outcome of the valuation which is now being made of its property, is recommended by John B. Keeler, attorney examiner of the commission, in a proposed report made public by the commission on August 9.

The rates had been assailed as excessive by the order of United Commercial Travelers of America which had asked a reduction by the amount of the 20 percent increases in Pullman rates made with the approval of the commission on May 1, 1920.

Britain's Air Strength More Than the U. S.

The American Navy is outranked by the British Navy in the number and tonnage of all light cruisers, large fleet submarines, and in naval air strength and number of personnel, but it is stronger than the British destroyers and smaller submarines.

This comparison of naval strength was made public on August 2 by the Department of the Navy.

Press dispatches from Geneva simultaneously reported that the British Admiralty had refused an American invitation with Japan in a new agreement limiting the construction of all naval craft not previously limited by the Washington Conference.

These crafts are: Cruisers less than 10,000 tons, destroyers, fleet submarines, first line submarines, and naval aircraft.

Under the proposed new naval conference, press dispatches said, they were to be limited in a manner similar to the limitation of capital ships.

The figures announced by the Department of Navy shows the United States to be chiefly deficient in light cruisers, with a ratio of tonnage of 1.56 as compared with Great Britain's ratio of 5.00 and Japan's ratio of 2.57.

The United States, it was said in the department announcement, is also deficient in fleet submarines, having a tonnage ratio of 3.72, as compared with Great Britain's 5.00 and Japan's 6.96.

The United States surpasses other countries in the number of smaller submarines. These have a speed of only 13 knots and therefore cannot cruise with the fleet, the statement said.

elation of God through the conscience of man. It is a statement of the obligations that grow out of the nature of God and man. We have, moreover, the briefest and most comprehensive statement of that moral law in the Ten Commandments. In it two fundamental obligations are recognized—obligation to God and obligation to man. In our lesson today we study obligations of man to God.

To what kind of God is man obligated? We can know a moral character only by the expression of his will. For this reason the Ten Commandments are descriptive of the character of God. The outstanding revelation of the Ten Commandments concerning God is that he is an ethical being. He is neither immoral nor unmoral. He is a moral being. His throne rests upon right. He has no more bound man under law than he has bound himself under law. God is not an arbitrary despot who binds man to certain obligations and leaves himself to an arbitrary exercise of his authority. The Ten Commandments not only reveal his character; they also reveal his covenant relations to man.

God is the supreme ruler of things. In the essential nature of his spiritual being he is the final reality. We can not place any other god before him without committing treason to his government. All other authority is inferior to His. Hence the supreme moral duty is duty to God.

Moreover we cannot hold fellowship with God on any lower plane than the recognition of his pure spirituality. It is for this reason that he positively forbids the attempt to worship him thru any image fashioned after the likeness of earthly and material things. Such worship would be so misleading that we should not find God in it at all.

Upon the same high plane he places our service to Him. "Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them nor serve them." This commandment is two-edged. It demands the preservation of two supremely important dignities—the dignity of almighty God and the dignity of his worshipful creatures. To bow down to an inferior dignity is to offend God and to depreciate the worth of man.

Furthermore, since the name of God is not dissociated from his character we can not profane it without offending his character, and profanation of his name and character are a sure step toward moral anarchy. It is not a mystery that immortality and profanity go hand in hand; they are intimate vices in the same process. It is therefore obvious that profanity is an offense to the sovereignty of God, therefore a crime which God does not excuse in man.

The sabbath holds a unique place in the religion of Jehovah. With it that religion stands or falls. Sabbath keeping and good character go hand in hand; Sabbath breaking is the surest route to a broken-down moral order in society. The decay of home life, murders, fornications, thefts, salanders, lusts, follow as logically the break down of the Sabbath as does day the night.

We hear much in these days of growing moral degeneracy. Crime lifts its black head in every direction. Property grows insecure, life grows cheap, covetousness multiplies, fornication spreads its ugly tentacles through human experience. Every result demands a cause. The secret of it all is the perversion of that holy day in which God has provided for the reconstruction of depleted spiritual and moral ideals, for the reculturing of moral energies to meet the complicated world of temptation about us. Give us a real Sabbath in this land of America and respect for law will grow, the sense of the sanctity of human life will be promoted, the jails will crumble, society will greatly decrease the cost of handling its criminal population, faith of man to man and love to man and God will rapidly replace distrust, atheism and degeneracy, and men shall breathe again in the pure liberty of the children of God.

New hospitals have been established in the United States at the rate of 100 a year since 1920, according to a report of the American Medical Association. Sixty per cent of all the physicians in the United States have affiliation with hospitals.

It's a wonder the barber shop mirrors haven't cracked under the strain of seeing so many strange faces in late years.

What's Doing in West Texas

Crosbyton—Crosbyton has started an extensive building campaign. Work on a two story brick building was begun recently and several other buildings for the square of the city are being contemplated. Building material is continually being shipped into the residence districts.

Artesia, N. M.—Work has been done on three new gins which will serve the Artesia section this year when the cotton crop is brought in by the farmers. The Alfalfa Association gin is practically complete and buildings have been finished and await the arrival of the gin machinery which will be installed soon.

Fredricksburg—This city is to have a new $125,000 hotel, with work to begin on the structure in less than sixty days. The new building will have very possible feature of the historic Nimitz Hotel, which can be retained. It will contain a large banquet hall, a spacious lobby and forty-two guest rooms, all steam heated and provided with hot and cold water.

Vernon—An issue of $80,000 municipal improvement bonds were recently sold by this city, the proceeds of which will go to the paving of streets and to the extension of water and sewer connections.

Brownfield—One of the most unusual parades ever staged in any town was held here recently when 150 workers with hoses on their shoulders, headed by the Chamber of Commerce band, marched thru the main streets of the city. They were the persons who came to the rescue of one of their neighbors' crops when the family was ill and two members died. The ladies of the community prepared meals for the workmen.

Merkel—The Merkel Community Fair will have a new feature added to its various old ones this year. Supt. I. L. Jackson, of the city schools, is preparing an "Educational Feature" for the fair program and officials are confident that it will add attraction to the Community Fair.

Stamford—The August issue of the official organ of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, West Texas Today, will be of much aid to the high school graduate who has not yet decided on the college or university he will attend. The magazine will carry advertisements and sketches of all West Texas institutions and of many Eastern schools.

Plainview—B. F. Bennett, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, has solicited more than 100 new memberships for that organization in this city. Nearly ninety-eight per cent of last year's members have renewed membership for this year.

Ford Doings

The Sunday School Lesson.

BY JAS. T. ROSS.

Sunday, August 22, 1926.

Subject: The Ten Commandments; Duties to God.

Scripture Text: Exodus 20:1-11.

1. And God spake all these words saying:

2. I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

3. Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

4. Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth.

5. Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them; for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generations of them that hate me;

6. And showing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain.

8. Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.

9. Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work.

10. But the seventh day is the sabbath day of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates;

11. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

Man is supremely himself in the sense of moral responsibility. Moral obligation constitutes the sharp line of demarcation between man and the inferior orders of creation. The presence of the moral sense is the sure and unmistakable evidence of the reality of God, the supremely ethical being of the universe, and of the impress of the divine image upon man.

Moral law is, therefore, the rev-

YOUR BIRTHDAY Is It This Week?

AUGUST 15th-21st.

Sir Walter Scott, famous poet,
...was born August 15th. Ethel
...Barrymore, actress, was born
...August 16th.

If your birthday is this week,
...you are of a reckless, irrespon-
...sible, lovable nature. You are
...honest, genuine, frank and sym-
...pathetic. You are generous and af-
...fectionate, but you cannot be driv-
...en, nor are you particularly am-
...enable to outside dictation or at...tempted guidance. While you are
...apt to be undecided and uncer-
...tain in your ways, without any
...decided convictions, you are stub-
...born, self-willed, proud and self-
...reliant and stick to what you
...undertake.

You are witty, imaginative, fond
...of social life and amusements. You
...are a brilliant conversationalist,
...and are never lacking for some-
...thing to talk about. Your interest-
...ing personality wins for you many
...friends.

Women born during these days
...are very fond of home and make
...wonderful mothers. They have a
...love for the beautiful and often be-
...come artists, actresses, writers,
...designers and decorators. Men
...born during these dates become
...doctors, scientists, inventors, writ-
...ers, professors and lecturers.

Did you participate in many en-
...gagements while in France? asked
...the interested old lady.

Only five, modestly replied the ...ex-A. E. F.-er, with becoming mod-
...esty.

And you came through them all
...unhurt?

Not exactly, he returned sadly.
...I married the fifth.

Potato Crop Is An Exception to Rule

Total Yield Expected to Pass That
...of 1925 By Nearly 20,000,000
...Bushels.

During July prospects for pota-
...toes improved in nearly all of the ...Eastern States, especially in the ...states of Maine and Wisconsin,
...but declined slightly in the Dako-
...tas and in some states farther
...West. The crop is now estimated
...at 345,569,000 bushels. This would
...be about 20,000,000 bushels more
...than the very short crop of last
...year.

LEAFWORM CONTROL.

By R. R. Reppert, Entomologist,
...Extension Service, A. & M.
...College.

The supply of calcium arsenate,
...Paris green and lead arsenate as
...recommended by the entomologist
...for the control of leafworms, is
...apparently exhausted and farmers
...are in need of another poison.

Mixtures of white arsenic and
...soda compounds, unless very care-
...fully used, will result in injury to
...cotton, and are ordinarily not
...recommended. However, in the ...present emergency it probably
...means either use of these materi...als with injury in some cases or
...the total loss of the crop by
...the attack of the insect, and we
...are giving below formulae which
...farmers have themselves used.

Boil together 5 pounds of white
...arsenic with 5 pounds sal soda in
...5 gallons of water until all the ar-
...senic is dissolved. Ordinarily this ...will be accomplished in about 15
...minutes. If Sal Soda is not avail-
...able, use instead 5 cans of con-
...centrated lye such as may be ob...tained from grocery stores for
...soap making. These five cans will
...be equal to about four pounds.
...After boiling until the arsenic is dissolved, some water will have

...been lost by evaporation; more
...should be added to make up ex-
...actly five gallons of the stock
...solution.

Two quarts of this stock solu-
...tion should be added to fifty gal-
...lons of water for immediate appli...cation to the cotton. Large drops
...of this dilute mixture or exces-
...sive amounts of the liquid on the ...leaves will burn, consequently a
...machine should be used that will
...break up the liquid into a very
...fine mist and so the foliage is
...merely moistened without running
...or dripping from the leaves. Farm-
...ers have reported using one quart
...of stock dip in fifty gallons of
...water with success, spraying in
...the same manner.

Experience on the part of farm-
...ers has indicated that if a gallon
...of slack lime and three or four
...gallons of black strap molasses
...are added to fifty gallons of water,
...along with the stock solution, the
...danger of injury will be reduced.

In handling these mixtures the ...danger to the cotton foliage as ...well as to men and animals is so
...great that we decline to accept
...any responsibility for any injur-
...ious results.

Several companies in Texas
...handling arsenical poisons are ...preparing and have for sale the ...mixtures as given above. These
...may not be in the concentration
...that we have named, and in dilut-
...ing persons should be guided by
...the directions given by each com-
...pany for their own product.

No Wheat Imports Reported During Week Ending On July 24

Duty-paid wheat imports into
...the United States for consumption
...aggregated 70,000 bushels from
...January 1, to July 24; imported
...into bonded mills for grinding in-
...to flour for export during the same
...period, 5,218,000 bushels; both in-
...creases, the Department of Com-
...merce reports. There were no
...wheat imports during the week
...ending July 24.

C. of C. Making Plans To Attend Big Meet

Efforts will be made to secure a large delegation to go to Clarendon August 30 for the District Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Plans will be made at the next regular Chamber of Commerce luncheon for the Clarendon trip and just as many business men as possible will be urged to go.
