and he smiled frequently. He appeared unruffled when asked about accusations that his forum is anti-Semitic, anti-Catholic, anti-labor, anti-Negro and pro-Fascist.

He labels all such accusations as "ridiculous." He said the forum was anti-Communist but that other wise its sole aim was to increase popular interest in public issues. He said it never contributed a nickel to McCarthy for campaign expenses or speaking tours, that it supports no candidates and does no lobbying.

Hunt is married and the father of four sons and two daughters. The girls, incidentally, had a hand in the founding of Facts Forum He said that, in 1948, his original intention was to establish a foundation devoted to agriculture, to be known as "Farm Facts Foundation.

He intended to set up several $500,000 farm units where young men not going to college would work a six-hour day, learning scientific farming, soil conservation and reforestation.

While he was considering that he said, his daughters suggested there was no food shortage and asked why he didn't do something to get people more interested in public affairs.

Robert H. Dedham, a young Texas attorney, was interested in the same idea. From these dis-cussions there developed Facts Forum with Dedman as president and Hunt as chief financial backer The daughters, Margaret (Mrs. Al G. Hill) and Caroline (Mrs Lloyd B. Sand), both of Dallas, presently are active in neighbor hood discussion groups, one of the forum activities.

Facts Forum currently conducts four radio or television programs. Hunt said free air time is given to them on the ground that they are educational and are impartial discussions of public issues. He estimated the time is worth three

Debate Start Set On Hawaii Statehood Bill

WASHINGTON US - The Senate signaled for a start of debate today on statehood for Hawaii, with Democrats seeking to the in Alas-ka statehood. Sen. Cordon (R-Ore), chairman of the territories subcommittee of the Senate Interior Committee, arranged to lead off for Eisenhower administration forces on the measure, passed by the House last year, to make Hawaii the 49th state.

As the bill came up in the Senate, a delegation from Hawaii con-tinued its rounds of senatorial offices seeking to persuade senators to let the Hawaii statehood bill to a vote on its own merits. The Hawaii group, including Re-publican and Democratic leaders in the Territorial Legislature, discussed the bill at a meeting yes-terday in the office of Delegate Farrington (R-Hawaii).

Their consensus was that the Hawaii bill would pass the Senate handily if it came to a vote alone, but that a move to tie in Alaska has a 50-50 chance for success and vould cloud the future.

Oren 2. Long, former Democratle governor of Hawaii, told report-ers that in his calls on Senate Democrats he found little hope they would vote against a move by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) to add the Alaska bill. He s.id Democratic senators view the effort to achieve state-hood for Alaska as well as Hawaii as "a partisen issue" on grounds that statehood for both territories is advocated in the Democratic party platform.

NCAA And NIT Teams Beaten By Upstarts

BY RIP WATSON NEW YORK UP - The Bradley and St. Francis of Brooklyn basketball teams have learned to their sorrow that a bld to one of the big postseason tournaments isn't worth any points in a regular-season game. Bradley, which meets Oklahoma

City in a first-round game of the National Collegiste Basketball Championships, was favored over St. Louis last might and ran up a 10-point lead in the first quarter. But St. Louis, runing fourth in the Missouri Valley Conference and never a contender for any tournament, pulled even by halftime and kept going for an 89-79 upset. Bradley had beaten its old rival, 76-59, earlier in the season. St. Francis had an even ruder surprise. The Terriers took their 20-3 record and National Invitation

Tournament credentials up to play Siena, which had won only 5 of 18. Siena came from a 12-point deficit to score a 67-50 upset. The two big tournaments split

even in intertournament battles for prestige as the NCAA's Fordham outlasted Manhattan of the NIT in overtime, 73-68, and Wichita of the NIT whipped Oklahoma City, 76-6

Ed Conlin once again was the difference for Fordham as the Rams won a thriller from their old interborough rivals. He tied the game at 62-62 in regular time, put in the first two baskets then as Fordham dominated the overtime period. Arnold Short Oklahoma City's ace, made 30 for his team but it wasn't enough as Wichita spurted in the second period for a com-manding lead and eased in. Wichita had a hand in the se-lecting of the only NCAA team named yesterday, Oklahoma A&M.

Since the Missouri Valley Conference race won't be settled until the Aggles' game with St. Louis Saturday night, Wichita asked for and got a release from any commitment to represent the conference in the NCAA, A St. Louis victory Saturday would leave the Aggies and Wichita as co-champions Now, however, Wichita will play Bowling Green in the NIT first round Saturday and Oklahoma A&M will meet the Southwest Con ference champion in the NCAA regional tournament on its home floor March 12.

The NIT completed its field vesterday with the addition of Brigham the Mountain States (Skyline) Conference. The NIT also anounced its seedings: Duquesne first, then Western Kentucky, Holy Cross and Niagara. All draw first-round byes. Louisville, another NTT team.

OVER .OOKING ΈМ With Tommy Hart

If the local schoolboy footballers don't become master blockers, it on't be because the coaches aren't trying to teach them.

The instructors are spending more than 80 per cent of the time al-ted them for spring drills in giving the boys fundamentals. Even the Ninth Graders, who are working under Roy Baird and Harold Bentley, are getting a steady diet of blocking and tackling. Incidentally, the Ninth Graders tolling here are as big as high school teams that have played here in the past. One of them is Wayne Carroll, a brother of Loy Carroll, a Steer guard of a few years ago. Wayne already weighs 197 pounds. When a coach refers to a lad as a "hoss," he's paying him a supreme mpliment. Baird referred to Ninth Grader Merle Dean Harter, a back, in such a manner earlier this week. Harter is growing up all of a sudden and should be as big as any back now on the varsity, in time

Other good looking Ninth Graders working out regularly include ewlin James, an end who wears glasses; and Marvin Wooten, a tall lad who may be just what the doctor ordered, when it comes time to defeat was in 1952 when they lost select a quarterback two or three years from now.

Baird and Bentley are very pleased with the progress the Ninth Graders have made. They're watching the boys closely, too, for these are the lads who'll be performing for the Steer B team this fall.

Hard-working-Bob Jones, who is due to fill a regular tackle post for the Steers this fall, lost his third tooth in practice this week.

Seems the blocking sled struck back at him. All-Stater J. W.

Thompson says the blocking dummy was gaining revenge for having been torn apart by one of Jones' lunges last year. Losing the tooth must have hurt but Bog shook it off and refused to guit for the day. Incidentally, Thompson and four other members of the 1953 Big Spring team - J. C. Armistead, Norman Dudley, Wayne Medlin and Tiny Ellison - visited the Texas Tech training camp last weekend and ate at the training table. All five want to go to school there. Coach DeWitt Weaver has indicated he will take at least three of them and possibly all five. For that reason, the Raiders may have a distinctly Big Spring flavor in the noto-distant future

All too few Big Spring athletes have worn Tech colors in the past.

Some of the country's greatest Negro athletes have been born and raised in Texas. Unfortunately, they have had to go elsewhere to prove their mettle.

Jack Johnson, regarded by some as the greatest Heavyweight boxing champion of them all, was born in Galveston. Clarence Henry, one of the ranking Heavies now, lives in Los Angeles but he was bo and raised in Texas.

Ollie Matson, an all-American footballer while at San Francisco University, first saw the light of day at Houston. lowa football fans still fondly recall the football feats of Ozzie

Heavy Rain / General Need Over State

AUSTIN UB-Soaking rain is urcently needed in all areas of Texas to wash unpalatable dust from pastures and give grasses and grain needed moisture, the U.S. Departnent of Agriculture said yesterday. Erosion is becoming "severe" in the northwest.

Preparation of land for spring planting is moving slowly because of the dry earth, the USDA said in its review of crop and range conditions through Monday night. Only in the northeast, where rain fell a week ago, were pastures growing as they should. Supplefeeding was heavy all nental through the western two-thirds of the state.

Wheat prospects took an additional beating in the high plains. Dust was drifted deep along fence rows and in many spots wheat was completely blown out despite such measures as "chiselling" fields to control the soil. USDA explained chiselling as a type of ploughing to retard soil movement.

Active planting of corn was de layed until rain falls in areas where corn planting time is at hand. The outlook for southern cotton in non-irrigated districts was a big question mark. Planting of spring crop commercial vegetables was also being held up in nonirrigated sections because of dry ground.

Maybe What England Needed Was Shaking From Religious Lethargy

The American successes of Evangelist Billy Graham, without precedent in modern times, are being matched in London in a campaign backed by 1,800 British churches, a choir of 1,000 representing many London congregations, and the participation of many London pastors.

Billy Graham's opening sermon drew a capacity crowd of 12,000 to one of the great city's sports arenas, with thousands unable to get inside. Billy "gave it to them straight" in a sermon with the recurrent theme, "Does God Matter?" At the close 500 or 600 persons went down the 25 aisles to confess their faith.

Hymn-singing, an AP dispatch tells us, continued with the crowd after the meeting broke up and the worshippers started home in the sleet and rain. They continued singing at bus stops and subway stations "the old religious songs in which Graham led them.

We have been told that Britain was filled with cynics and scoffers, that skepticism and dry rot had overtaken the churches and that religion, as in France, was almost hissing and a byword

These reports may have been somewhat exaggerated. Maybe all Britain needed was a shaking out of its lethargy, a recall to the old faith in God --really just an opportunity to let its hair down in an old-fashioned revival meeting. Billy Graham is just the man to do it.

Time Lag Bill Would Give Relief And Afford Economic Fair Play

Among the measures pending before Congress and which warrants serious .onsideration as a matter of economics and fair play is the "time lag" bill.

This is an accurately descriptive term applied to Senate Bill 1461 as a means of providing relief to the nation's carriers for the interval between time of suddenly increased costs and the time when adjusted rate schedules take effect.

Rates are fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and nothing in the proposed act would alter this. But should railroads face a relatively quick increase in operations such as for higher wages, etc., would, under terms of the "time lag" bill, be permitted to apply for a new rate

Insteadof becoming bogged down in months upon months of public hearings, as in the case in rate fixing, the carriers would go to the ICC and within 60 days get a temporary increase which the ICC thought would be proper. This would then take effect while the ICC proceded with its investigation before reaching a final decision on rates.

After all the evidence was in and the rates fixed, the carriers would be obliged to pay back the difference between the charges and the final rate if it were lower than the temporary rate fixed by the ICC. As it is now, the railroads bear all the added expense of higher operating costs between the time that they accrue and the time that a new rate structure can be approved. (Interim increases have mitigated this but they generally are so low as to create considerable loss over what a more mature ICC rate would furnish.) Some shippers would be willing for the carriers to absorb this loss indefinitely, but the National Industrial Traffic League, recognizing that it is nothing but fair play has takthe lead in the "time lag" bill campaign.

Molotov Tells East Germans All Is Well, But Soldiers Remain

the Big Four foreign ministers conference Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov made a great concession to the puppet officials of the satellite East German government. He consented to receive cabinet ministers and the leading functionaries of the Communist party in the big fortresslike Soviet Embassy on Unter den Linden.

They went, one may be sure, in fear and trembling. Here was one of their supreme masters and he might, like the red queen in "Alice in Wonderland," be summoning them to an execution

This crisis favors the peaceful development of the Communist countries because the opposing points of view among America, England and France will rapidly intensify. So it is certain the common and united stand of the three Western Powers under the leadership of America will break down, first on Asiatic matters. On the other hand, there is a great danger that the American munitions kings will unleash a new war as the only way to avoid the crisis."

Around The Rim - The Herald Staff Even Artist Cannot Explain Mysterious Light On Painting

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those he writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting opinions of The Herald.-Editor's Note.

The power of mind over matter, they say, is illustrated in a mysterious paint-ing now hanging in a New Mexico church. At least, if what they say is true, the picture is enough to make the materialists do some more thinking.

The painting, of Christ on the shore of Galilee, gives off a soft light, outlining the figure of Christ and forming the shadow of a cross over His left shoulder. The light is so strong that the painting may be photographed even at night.

Chemists and physicists who have examined the picture say there is no "natural" explanation of the light.

Metaphysicists say the light and shadow probably were unconsciously built into the painting by the painter. The explain that the effect may be the "action of thought, intensified by the subconscious mind of the painter.'

The painter, Henry Gault, was as mystified as anyone concerning the luminous qualities of his work. He first noticed the mysterious glow and shadow before the picture was finished. He entered his studio one night in 1896

Christ stood the shadow of the cross. Though a tectotaler, he said he felt as if intexicated, and rushed out of the room to determine if other people could confirm what he saw. The picture now hange in the St. Francis Mission Church at Ranchos de Taos, N.

Best "natural" explaination offered for the light-giving effect is that the pleture was painted in the cobalt regions of Canada and that the paints may have been made from vegetable' substances which had some luminous property. But, say the chemists, who have examined the painting, there is "no known method of accounting for the shadow." As long as the light and shadow are unexplained. Gault and the church will have a famous painting. And the rest of have something to wonder about. us will -WAYLAND YATES

These Days-George Sokolsky

The World Does More, And Our Constitution Should Keep Pace

It was never intended that the Constitution of the United States should be a static document, hopelessly rigid against When the Constitution the future. was adopted, the United States consisted of 13 former British colonies on the eastern seaboard; today it is the basic law of 48 states from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada to Mexico. When the Constitution was adopted, the population of the United States was about 3,000.000 persons; today, the population has grown to 160,000,000. It would be belaboring a point to compare the numerous contrasts between 1789 and 1954, not the least of which is our deep involvement in the affairs of Europe and Asia.

Thomas Jefferson, who always feared the power of government, wrote:

. . it would reduce the whole instrument to a single phase-that of instituting a Congress with power to do whatever would be for the good of the United States: and, as they would be the sole judges of the good or evil, it would be also a power to do whatever evil they pleased

In Washington's Farewell Address this appears

"It is important, likewise, that the habfts of thinking in a free country should inspire caution in those intrusted with its administration to confine themselves within their respective constitutional spheres. avoiding in the exercise of the powers of one department to encroach upon another. The spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all the departments in one, and thus to create, whatever the form of government, a real despotism . . . Then George Washington said

... if in the opinion of the people the distribution or modification of the constitutional powers be in any particular wreng, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress . . .

One is often startled at the extremist statements on this subject by those who have opposed the Bricker amendment or any substitute for it. Let us disregard altogether the virtues, if any, of the proposed amendments, but we cannot ignore some of the arguments employed against them, for they often lead to confusions of dangerous magnitude. This, we must bear in mind, is a government of the people of the various states, not a government by an elite.

For instance, Joseph O'Meara, dean of the law school of the University of Notre Dame, who succeeded the brilliant dean Clarence Manion, said

"... those who are working so hard > for the adoption of the Bricker amendment, for'the most part at any rate, are people who want to secede from world

Already the Constitution has been amended 22 times and the United States has not been withdrawn from the world. Why should a clarifying amendment governing the relations of the executive and the legislative branches of the government withdraw this country from the world? The confusion of thought in the above quoted paragraph is startling because it comes from a lawyer who must know that it would be impossible to withdraw the United States from the world at an historical moment when this country is actually engaged in staving off a war with a potent my nl. Erwin N. Griswold, Dean of the Harvard Law School, gives a more reactionary reason for opposition to these amendments. He says mistakes in foreign policy should remain where they were placed in 1789 " Why was not everything left where it was in 1789-but everything? Maybe Dean Griswold is right It would have been better that way. But the world does moe.

Molotov explained that the main empha sis of the conference had inevitably been on Asia. It was Soviet policy, he said, to bring the Western ministers around to a second meeting which would include Communist China as a participant.

"China has made great sacrifices to naintain peace." Molotov was reported as saying. "The clever restraint of the Chimese party leaders is the reason that the attempt to localize the Korean War was successful and that a third World War was prevented. This third World War would have been fought in Asia.

"China must now further the peaceful development of its industry and agriculture. Together with China, the Soviet Union would exhaust all means to avoid an increase of tension in international relations in Asia and at the same time would leave no stone unturned to help China get her full rights and exert her sovereignty over areas properly hers."

This means that Communist policy will seek to avoid moves that might bring war but will do everything short of war to regain Formosa. This may even have been said for propaganda repetition to the Reds in Peiping. Much of Molotov's effort at Berlin was directed at pulling out something to please the Chinese Communists. The talk to the East German officials was phrased in the familiar Communist gobbledygook and it is significant that, if this is really a straw in the wind, Moscow policy is likely to be based more and more on the basic Marxist assumption of a capitalist breakup.

favor of the Soviet Union and the East. He said he was convinced that what he described as "great cracks" in the anti-Soviet front directed by the United States would inevitably bring about the collapse of that front. He held out the hope that the "German question" could be settled to the satisfaction of the East German Communists.

Despite the solid unity that the Western foreign ministers had shown up to that point at the conference. Molotov tried to give the impression that they were not realby in agreement. He predicted that French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault would drop the effort to get France to ratify the European Defense Community since ratification was obviously an impossibility. He also told his captive audience that "influential circles" in West Germany were working on Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to convince him that Germany could never he unified if he took the federal republic into EDC.

In large part, of course, this pep talk was meant to set the propaganda line for the East German government. Immediate rejection by the Communists of the restrictions on travel and cultural exchange between the East and West Zones shows the determination of the Communists to keep the barriers up.

At the same time Mololov is reported to have ordered an intensification of the campaign to communize East Germany. A drive to get new members into the Communist party has been initiated on Molotoy's orders. Further replacements are necessary to make up for the wholesale defections that occurred after the uprising, which rocked Moscow and the whole satellite world, will be held at the end of this

The fact it is being held earlier than originally anticipated is taken as an indication of success in refurbishing the party. It is also regarded as a sign that Montov has given his blessing to the present setup. More of the same was the prescription left behind as Molotov boarded his private plane for Moscow, it is no secret to anyone that the unrest is great throughout the East Zone. But it is also well known that the Russians maintain at least seven or eight divisions with the mission of "keeping order." And these troops are said to be rotated every few months as a safeguard against any softening toward the plight of the East German workers. So far as food is concerned, that plight is not apparently a desperate one. But the constant pressure of a far-reaching system of suving and surveillance produces as spying and surveillance produces has could holl over.

Statistics Are Dull To Many, But They're Vital To Business

The report on the Bureau of the Census by the Intensive Review Committee to the Secretary of Commerce will never be a best seller. The Committee chairman, Ralph J. Watkins, director of research for Dun & Bradstreet, tried hard to "language the report up," but he couldn't overcome his dull subject matter-statistics.

Not many of America's 160 million people understand the role of statistics in everyday life. Not even business men who depend on them for production and sales planning.

Neil H. Borden, president of the Amer-Ican Marketing Association and professor of advertising at Harvard Business School, proved that with a poll. He asked business men how they utilized the various censulses of population, business, manufacturers, agriculture, and so on. The poli indicated that as executives got farther removed from research they thought less of the censuses.

Yet, their own market analysts and economists were using census data constantly - and were crying for more. Cl-", the top didn't know what the lower e: 1123.8 doing. That explains why, who cians and economists deplore cuts the appropriations of the Bureau of the Census, their bosses often applaud with the re-mark: "Gotta cut somewhere."

The recent hassle over unemployment statistics show what Congressional pennypinching will do. For nearly a year, the Bureau had been planning to improve its data. That takes time, manpower money, which it didn't have too much of. The work had to be flitted into the routine, rather than given priority. A wider sample was developed, new enumerators were enlisted, and the new series was then run concurrently with the old. Last month, word leaked out that there

January - a low one, which the Census Bureau released, a high one which it withheld. That sounded bad. The administration was keeping back the unfavorable news. Nothing could have been further from the truth. Top government officials didn't know were two figures on unemployment for about the new program, not even Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. He was hopping mad when he found out. His report to Congress, issued only a few days before, would certainly have been changed, particularly the appendix about unern-ployment statistics. In any event, the original January unemployment was 2,359,000; the later figure was 3.087,000. But the Bureau of the Census isn't sure which figure will stand up. All it knows is that ultimately better figures will emerge, the result of work begun months before with funds not entirely adequate.

Since 1946, Congress has cut funds available to the Census Bureau for day-in-andday-out activities from $8,660,066 to $6,200,-00, or 30 per cent. All the while salaries and other costs have been rising. Allowing for such increases, the funds available to the Census Bureau have just about been cut in half.

The new worry among statisticians is that Congressmen will now look around for a scapegoat for the nemployment "flap." They'll say, "See, I always knew you couldn't trust statistics." and then they'll want to cut down funds.

Statistics are like anything else. You get what you pay for. That's the point the Intensive Review Committee emphasizes. A statistical program has to be planned, adhered to, and paid for. Congress has found it easier to authorize censuses than provide the money.
