BIRTHDAY PARTY

The birthday of Mrs. M. R. Corbett was the occasion Sunday of a most enjoyable surprise party given for the honoree by the Ladies Class of the Christian Sunday school, of which she is a member.

Immediately following church services, members of the class and their families proceeded to the Corbett home about six miles east of town and set before the surprised hostess a tempting array of delicious eatables. The bountiful dinner was followed by an afternoon of real pleasure, the event proving a very happy one for both hostess and guests.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

The Camp Fire Girls enjoyed a most enjoyable evening Friday at the home of Miss Jimmie Clark, one of their number. The regulation hobnob dress adopted for the occasion consisted of overalls and red bandanna handkerchiefs, added to the excitement of outdoor games, a huge bonfire and wicker roast. The girls declare the event to have been one of the jolliest of the many social gatherings the group has enjoyed in the past several months.

BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. L. R. Landrum delightfully entertained members of her bridge club and a number of other guests at her home Friday afternoon.

A realistic atmosphere of springtime prevailed in the receiving rooms, the effect being obtained by a lavish use of cherry and peach blossoms charmingly combined. Guests prize was won by Mrs. Glen Snyder and club prize went to Mrs. Jim Black.

Following the games, a refreshment course consisting of pineapple Bavarian cream with angel food cake was served.

Four tables of players shared Mrs. Landrum's hospitality.

ALL-DAY MEET

The Summerfield Study Club announces an all-day meeting to be held Wednesday April 24, at the Summerfield school house, the feature of the gathering to be an address by Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner of Claude. It is thought Mrs. Warner's address will be arranged for eleven o'clock Wednesday morning. Her subject will be "County Federation and Rural Co-operation." A cordial invitation is extended to the public, especially to communities having no clubs. Club representatives from all clubs of Farmer, Deaf Smith, and Castro counties are urged to attend the entire session and it is Mrs. Warner's request that each delegate be prepared to tell something of the club she represents.

Lunch will be served at the noon hour and each guest is asked to contribute to this feature a dish of what ever food she may choose.

SURPRISE WEDDING

Announcement is made this week of the marriage in Amarillo August 1, 1928, of Miss Ruth Haber and Henry Sherman.

The young couple were married in Amarillo, but took no one into their confidence and remained at their respective homes as formerly until a few months ago when each left ostensibly for different locations, but in reality going to Albuquerque, New Mexico, where they established a home.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haber of Hereford, and is a young woman of unusual charm of personality. She was graduated from Hereford high school with the class of 1927, and later took a course in the business school conducted here by Miss Bernadine Price. After several months experience as a teacher of stenography and typewriting she gave up that work to accept a place as stenographer for the Hereford Chamber of Commerce and also for the firm of Hill & Ricketts.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Sherman also of Hereford. He is an industrious, well-liked young man, a high school graduate and has been employed with his father in farming.

The very best wishes of Hereford friends are extended to them.

SURPRISE DINNER

John Wilson, who resides on the Dr. Heard farm north of town, was honor guest at a most enjoyable dinner given Thursday evening April 4, the occasion celebrating his thirty-fourth birthday.

Hosts of the happy event were members of the Business Men's Class of the First Baptist church of which Mr. Wilson is a member.

These gentlemen, together with their wives, met at the church and drove in a body to the Wilson home. Here an elaborate dinner was served in the large new basement which was unfurnished except for the long table extending along one side and sufficient chairs for the guests. The dinner, a real feast, was served cafeteria style. Later a program of readings and music was contributed to by Miss Manjoot and Alexander, Misses Daniel and Wilson and Mr. Parish.

Singing Sunday afternoon was a success, there being a large number present among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith and Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Earl Robinson, all of Hereford, Mr. and Mrs. Kimble of Dimmitt, W. S. Dixon and wife of Easter and a large number from Cleo, and Mr. and Mrs. Marlar of Summerfield. We extend to these visitors a special invitation to come again the first Sunday in May at 3:00 p. m.

Simplicity in the tractor you buy is mighty important to you.

This quality means easier operation, fewer adjustments to make, fewer repairs to buy, less trouble, and, what's even more important, it means longer life.

In the illustration above, you see the remarkable simplicity of the powerful, light-weight John Deere Tractor. It shows you at a glance why the John Deere is known as the tractor of fewer, but sturdier, parts.

A strong, one-piece frame encloses the entire working mechanism, protecting all parts from dust or sand, and supplies a reservoir for automatic lubrication so that all working parts operate in a constant bath of clean oil.

From engine to drawbar, the John Deere is a simple, but powerful giant, with no unnecessary parts to add weight and cause loss of power.

When you're ready to buy a tractor, don't overlook the fact that the John Deere is actually hundreds of parts simpler than other tractors of similar power rating.

When you're in town come in and look it over.

the engine a vindictive tap with a monkey wrench.

"Maybe there is no gasoline in the magneto," suggested Maryella, who has watched my struggle from the front seat.

I made no reply. When some one begins offering me suggestions after I have tried every known trick on a stalled motor I find that the only way to preserve my reputation as a gentleman is to keep absolutely silent.

Even Maryella, whom I have been trying for two years to persuade to become Mrs. Tom Billbeck, can draw fire from me on such a dynamic occasion.

"We've got to get home, Tom," she fretted. "There's a rehearsal of 'Pygmalion and Galatea' tonight and if we're away they can't do a thing."

No, readers, we are not actors. I am positive of that. Our stage-work receives mention only in the society column. We perform for charity before people who have to like us because we represent such worthy causes. When ever the Social Settlement sends up a yell for funds we spend about a thousand dollars worth of time enticing five hundred people to part with fifty cents each to hear us forget our lines.

When Belgium needs bread or the Fiji Islanders run out of pants who comes to the rescue regardless of consequences? The Sheridan Dramatic Club.

And now we were doing "Pygmalion and Galatea" for the Old Soldiers' Home, which needed some new window shades or an electric piano—I've forgotten which.

"Besides," murmured Maryella, shivering slightly, "it's getting colder, and I think I felt a drop of rain a minute ago."

"That being the case," I observed sarcastically, "we'll start."

"Let's!" she encouraged.

Grandmother Page and I repeated our justly celebrated repertoire of tricks, from adjusting the spark coil to putting gasoline in our eye, while lying prone under the tank. Each separate adjustment was preceded and followed by reducing exercises with the starting crank.

"Jim Cooper has a self-starter on his car," Maryella observed sympathetically while I was trying to catch my breath.

"Then why," I inquired in icy exasperation that I regretted instantly, "why don't you marry Jim Cooper, if you're so crazy about a self-starter?"

"Oh!" exclaimed Maryella, articulated with rage at my remark. "You have no right to insult me like that!"

"I didn't mean to insult you, dear."

I forgot Grandmother Page for the moment in my anxiety to square myself for my tactical blunder.

It was the wrong move. My very humility made her think that she really had been offended in some way, so she dabbed at her pretty eyes to see if she could scare up a tear. She could not. That made her more angry.

"I know one thing," she stated, clambering out of the seat, "I'll never ride in your old car again as long as I live."

She started down the road. "I'll walk home first!"

Why are girls of twenty so adorable—and why are men a few years older such fools about them? The answer to that question may explain also why I followed her through the dusk that was part twilight and part gathering rain-storm.

"Listen, Maryella," I called after her, "Be reasonable!"

No response.

"You can't walk all the way home! It's ten miles!"

"I'd probably have to walk anyway," she observed dispassionately, "so I might as well get started before dark."

That remark about walking home anyway was the crowning insult to me and Grandmother Page. It hurt the more because it was probably true. I turned back angrily. She trudged on.

Down the road came a purring automobile. I had hardly expected a car to pass that way. I had purposely chosen a back country road for my drive with Maryella that day. This machine was coming down the road from town.

I looked at a turn of the road around which it would presently appear. Maybe it was a friend of mine.

The car rounded the turn. I swore under my breath.

It was the racing runabout belonging to Jim Cooper. No situation that I could imagine would please him more and me less than that in which we were placed.

He pulled up alongside Maryella, who had proceeded about two or three blocks before he arrived. After a short parley she got in beside him. I gnashed my teeth, but thanked Heaven that I would soon be alone to express my opinion on automobiles, nature, human beings and things in general. No such luck. The car was coming on toward me. It pulled up alongside Grandmother Page.

Maryella looked off across the fields on the other side of the road, but the driver got down from his seat and inspected Grandmother Page.

"What's the matter? Won't the engine run?"

Jim Cooper is the kind of man who would ask a certain question like that. His sense of humor is very low, just above that of an anthropoid ape. When bromidioms were being passed around he took one of each.

I admit that he is rather a good-looking chap. His hair just escapes being too blonde and he has a wisp of a mustache such as you see on the men in the clothing advertisements.

Nature did all she could for the outside but let him go without filling in the place which was originally intended for a mind. Whatever people seem to be doing he does without questioning whether there is any sense in it. He plays golf because so many others seem to enjoy it, not from any love of the game. He is one of Maryella's admirers for the same reason.

It may be I am prejudiced, but I can't believe that he really appreciates her adorableness.

Maryella is flattered by his attention, not knowing what a small tribute it is. The fact that he asks her opinion on every move he makes from changing brands of tooth powder to buying a summer home caters to her love of power.

"Are you sure you've got gasoline in the tank?"

Jim Cooper continued his ruthless assault on the remaining shred of my temper.

"The trouble is in the spark," I volunteered briefly, looking all around for a weapon in case he should ask another question.

"Oh! Can I give you a lift home, old man? Of course, there isn't an extra seat, but you could sit on the gasoline tank at the rear. I think it will hold you."

He surveyed me doubtfully.

A slight snicker from the lady in the car spurred me to a quick refusal.

"No, thank you. I'll have my car going in a few minutes."

"Oh! Miss Waite told me it wouldn't go at all."

"Did she?" I murmured politely. "I didn't know that she was interested."

"Maybe we had better wait," he suggested, "until you get it started, and follow you into town. Then if anything goes wrong we can pick you up along the road."

"Please don't," I urged, with just a shade of feeling showing in my voice.

"Just as you say, old top. I'd like awfully well to help you if I could."

He got back into his car and insulted us once more with a subdued but efficient purr of his electric starter. Then waving at me airily, he turned about and disappeared in a cloud of dust toward the city.

CHAPTER I.

Grandmother Page refused to edge. I turned her over again, but there was no sign of life. I squirted gasoline into her cylinders but she didn't seem to care for it. As you may have surmised, Grandmother Page is a relation of mine, only by adoption and purchase. She originally was created and assembled by the Page Motor Company of Detroit, but that was long ago that her years fully title her to the title of "Grandmother."

She has had a hard life, too. For four years she has been gone nearly everywhere that I go for a long time before she is the traveling companion of a burban real estate man who could sell gold bricks to placer miners. I suspect that he taught her some of his deceitful tricks.

It must have been from him that she got her love of the country. She revels in green fields and running brooks and sand banks and mud holes. Whenever she finds one she always wants to stay there all day. The farther it is from the city the better she likes it.

I personally am fonder of the city, and when she decides to remain all night on some road fourteen or fifteen miles from anywhere I have sometimes walked home rather than share the sylvan solitude with her.

Under my breath I murmured "Durn you, Grandmother," and hit

Mrs. Ray Coneway was hostess to the Music Study Club Monday, the theme for the afternoon being "The Modern Orchestra."

Miss Swisher led the chorus practice on "Venetia," a suite of Venetian songs without words by Nevin to which appropriate words have been given.

During the business session which followed the program, Miss Swisher was appointed delegate from the club to the state convention of music clubs to be held in Corsicana. Mrs. Broadwell was appointed delegate to the meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of the Seventh District which convenes at Snyder April 27-29. Mrs. Homer Fox was chosen alternate.

BAY VIEW CLUB MEET

Thursday afternoon's Bay View Club program included interesting reviews of two Southern novels, "The Golden Cocoon," by Ruth Cross, and "Fix Bayonets," by John W. Thompson, Jr.

Mrs. Roloson handled both numbers in a very interesting manner. Supplementing these novels and supplying a picture of the theme they carried exemplified in human progress in the South was a paper by Mrs. Dameron on "The Future of the South."

The program was one of exceptional merit and was thoroughly enjoyed.

The bride was a successful teacher in Hereford schools for a number of years and served about seven years as postmistress. She is a successful business woman, refined and cultured, and has many friends throughout the community. The groom is a prosperous business man of Granbury and had a home in readiness for his bride.

C. Gregory, George Jowell and Frank Cogdell. The Amarillo News has this to say concerning Hereford's entry in the meet:

"With the Hereford team is their star dash man, William Russell, who won the 100 and 220 yard dashes in the district meet at Canyon last year. Russell is entered in the 100, 220 and 440 dashes in the Amarillo meet and it is reported that he has been reeling off distances in remarkable time for a high school sprinter."

T. R. Whisnant of Dodsonville, Texas, was here the latter part of last week.

Methodists Win Out in Basketball Tourney

The loving cup offered to the winning team in the inter-Sunday school league games was won by the Methodists, their standing at the close of the final game being 100 per cent, with three games won and none lost. The Presbyterians ranked second, with two games won and one lost. The Baptists won one game, while the Christians lost all three games.

The final games were played Wednesday afternoon, having been postponed from last Saturday on account of the track meet at Farwell. Wednesday's games were matched as follows: Presbyterians and Baptists, Methodists and Christians. The Presbyterians won 18-6, while the Methodists plied up a score of 54 against the Christian's score of 12.

Hereford's arrival too late to participate in an event they were reasonably sure of winning was a much-regretted stroke of ill-luck.

Textico, Farwell, Pleasant Hill, Olton and Hereford were the contesting teams, Hereford winning the following events:

One hundred yard dash, 220 yard dash and 440 yard dash, Babe Russell; one mile run, Newt Gilliland; half mile run, Elbert Bowen. The medley relay race was also won by Hereford, J. C. Gregory, J. A. "I had just about given up hope of ever being well again when I heard about Sargon. It is just wonderful what it has done for me.

MRS. J. W. MANESS

"I was in a dreadfully rundown condition as a result of stomach trouble. I became so weak I was confined to the house for six months and for four months was on a milk diet. I suffered terribly with gas and cramping pains. Awful sick headaches forced me to bed for hours at a time. I lost weight and strength and my color was unhealthy. I was so nervous that life was a misery. I simply couldn't sleep well.
"After the first few doses of Sargon my appetite returned and I eat anything I want. I don't suffer with gas or cramping pains anymore, nor do I have those dreadful headaches. My nervousness is entirely gone and I sleep just fine. Doing the housework now seems just like play compared to what it used to. I'm rid of constipation, my color is good and I've gained six pounds.
"Sargon did more for me in a few weeks than all the other medicines and treatments put together
did in years."
The above statement was made recently by Mrs. J. W. Maness, 1510
Pearson Street, Houston, Texas.
Sargon may be obtained in Hereford at the Clark Drug Store.

Hezekiah Leads
His People Back
to God

International Sunday School Lesson
for April 14
2 Chronicles 30:1-9, 25-27
Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

It is bad enough for individuals to drift into wickedness, but the general situation is far worse when the ruler of a nation actually promotes plans for wrong doing. This was the case in Judah under King Ahaz. The worship of Jehovah was spurned and the people were led into idolatry, with the immoral condition that attended such devotion. Isaiah's entreaties to turn to and trust in God had been ridiculed and the people were under heavy tribute to the king of Assyria.
Meanwhile the Northern Kingdom, Israel, had about run its course and Assyrian captivity resulted.

Hezekiah was the good son of a base father. Here is the signal instance of a child being superior to his environment, and pure in spite of all the filth in home and community. All credit to the boys and girls of today who refuse to be dragged down to the level of unworthy parents, but who make the most of advantages that are open to all, and make good in this world of keen competition.
The king has learned much as regent and began his own reign at the age of 25. His life had been motivated by great fundamental principles. Jehovah was in reality king in his own life. The divine will was indicated in part in the sacred scrolls. Then there was Isaiah the prophet as spiritual teacher and personal conscience was to be reckoned with.

Basic in the experience of religious life is the observance of ordinances established by the Almighty. The Passover had been neglected. Now the nations were called on to observe this meaningful feast, though a month later than the usual time. Invitations were sent to the ten tribes of Israel as well as to Judah and Benjamin. Many scorned the call but multitudes did attend. The law was studied with great care that the ritual might be exactly observed. Confessions of sin were simultaneous with the offering of sacrifices. Worship was the joy of the hour, and when the seven days prescribed for the Passover had been completed the king and people were so zealous in the declarations of their new obedience to Jehovah that a second period of seven days was observed with added joy and benefit. As the people returned to their homes and daily life they had a personal consciousness of the meaning of our Golden Text: "Jehovah your God is gracious and merciful."

Thus King Hezekiah led his people back to God. Anyone can be a leader, in fact all are, for each exerts unconscious as well as conscious influence. There are reforms within the ability of each one and we are individually responsible for undertaking them.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper for the Christian, replacing the Jewish Passover, is the fitting place for registering our purpose
after new obedience, and proceed thence on the King's business.

A JOINT RESOLUTION
 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas as providing for a Supreme Court of nine members, and for a continuous session of that Court—

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Sections 2 and 3 of Article 5 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Article 5. Section 2. The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices, any five of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of five shall be necessary to a decision of a case; in other matters, until otherwise provided by Law, the jurisdiction of the Court shall be exercised under such regulations and orders as the Court by a majority vote may prescribe. No person shall be eligible to the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court unless he be, at the time of his election, a citizen of the United States and of this State and unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years, and shall have been a practicing lawyer or a judge of a court, or such lawyer and judge together at least seven years. Said Chief Justice and Associate Justices shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State at a general election, shall hold their offices six years, or until their successors are elected and qualified, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. In case of a vacancy in the office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the Governor shall fill the vacancy until the next general election for State officers, and at such general election the vacancy for the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the qualified voters of the State. The judges of the Supreme Court who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office under the present Constitution, and until their successors are elected and qualified. When this amendment takes effect, the Governor shall immediately appoint six additional Associate Justices of the Supreme Court for terms of office so that the terms of two of such appointed Associate Justices shall expire with the term of office of each of the present members of the Supreme Court, and, upon the qualifications of such new Justices, the Commission of Appeals of the State of Texas shall terminate."

 "Article V, Section 3. The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only except as herein specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in cases of which the Courts of Civil Appeals have appellate jurisdiction under such restrictions and regulations as the Legislature may prescribe. Until otherwise provided by law, the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court shall extend to questions of law arising in the cases in the Courts of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the several Courts of Civil Appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a Statute of the State is held void, and shall extend to such other questions as may be within the Court's Appellate Jurisdiction under the Statutes of the State in force when this amendment takes effect. The Supreme Court and the Justices thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, as may be prescribed by Law, and under such regulations as may be prescribed by Law, the said Court and the Justices thereof may issue the writs of mandamus, procedendo, certiorari and such other writs, as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to issue writs of quo warrantum and mandamus in such cases as may be specified, except as against the Governor of the State.
 The Supreme Court shall have power, upon affidavit or otherwise, as by the Court may be determined, to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to the proper exercise of its jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capitol for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by the Court.
 The Supreme Court shall appoint a clerk, who shall give bond in such manner as is now or may hereafter, be required by law, and he may hold his office for four years and shall be subject to removal by said Court for good cause entered of record on the Minutes of said Court, who shall receive such compensation as the Legislature may provide."

 Sec. 2. Said proposed Constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of qualified electors of this State as a special election to be held throughout the State on Tuesday, July 16, 1929, at which election each voter opposing said proposed amendment shall scratch off of the ballot with a pen or pencil the following words printed on said ballot: "For the amendment to the State Constitution providing for a Supreme Court of nine members, and for a continuous session of that Court", and each voter favoring said proposed amendment shall scratch off the ballot in the same manner the following words printed on said ballot: "Against the amendment to the State Constitution providing for a Supreme Court of nine members, and for a continuous session of that Court." If it appears from the returns of said election that a majority of the votes cast are in favor of said amendment, the same shall become a part of the State Constitution.
 Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published and said election held as provided by the Constitution and Laws of this State.

 The sum of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury to pay for the expense of said publication and election.
 Approved February 19, 1929.

An Airplane Oil For Tractor Use

West Texas (Near Vega) From a Phillips Airplane

IMAGINE driving your automobile 100 miles an hour for 16 hours without stopping. That's what an airplane engine must do. Only the finest oil can be used or the motor will go to pieces quickly.

The Phillips Petroleum Company uses Phillips tractor oil in their own airplanes which are used by Mr. A. M. Hughes and other company officials. These men have the same confidence in this oil that they want you to have. It's exactly the same oil that is ready for your car or tractor at any Phillips station. It warms up quickly, and fully lubricates in both hot and cold weather.

The picture at the top shows E. H. Simpson, H. D. Hill, O. D. Frazier, Geo. J. Rempel and their boys all seated on their farm machinery. These men all live in the neighborhood of Vega and Hereford, Texas. All of them use Phillips products.

This spring E. H. Simpson broke 220 acres of land with a gang plow. All of this land was worked over 3 times and 80 acres 4 times, ready for the drill. His total fuel and lubricating cost was 30c an acre. He used Phillips kerosene and oil. Many other west Texas farmers report great savings and complete satisfaction in using Phillips products. Write or talk to the Phillips agent when you need oil, kerosene or gasoline. They are quality products.

What an Improvement Modernizing Makes!

You can take an old house these days, apply modern methods and materials to it and come out with as substantial and satisfactory a home as if it were new.

One of the important advantages of modernizing is that it helps to protect the original investment in homes that are run down and are out of date.

Do you own such a house? If so, we would like to help you plan the changes necessary to improve it. Our Standard dry lumber is ideal for use with the seasoned wood of the old house.
