Draper earns EH awardBy SANDY STAGNER
Lifestyles Editor

"I feel like I've won the gold." That's what Argen Draper said after she was presented a silver engraved tray naming her Club Woman of the Year during the Annual Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council Appreciation Luncheon Monday at the Hereford Community Center.

Draper, who has been an active member of Wyche Extension Homemakers Club for over 17 years, was presented the tray by Speedy Nieman, publisher of The Hereford Brand. Other Club Woman of the Year nominees included Mary Brorman, Sherrice Blackwell, Carolyn Evers, Martha Lueb and Perry Keyes.

When explaining the importance of being an extension club member, Draper said, "The extension clubs have been a great source of personal development to me. Membership has given me self-esteem and self-confidence. My extension work has helped me in all groups in which I am associated."

"The knowledge I have gained from extension agents and club members has been tremendous," she said. "I have learned from each person I have known. Club work has strengthened my belief that all persons have great value and great knowledge."

Draper has served the Wyche Extension Homemakers Club as program chairman and is responsible for providing and planning programs for each of the bi-monthly club meetings. "As program chairman," she explained, "it is exciting to me to see a timid person develop poise. I enjoy helping others reach their potential."

Although the honoree and her husband, Tom, have no children, she enjoys working with youth. Mrs. Draper has served as a judge for various 4-H events and has helped with scholarship funds and 4-H records on a district level. She continues her involvement with youth through several organizations including Rainbow for Girls, American Legion scholarship judging and American Legion Veterans projects.

Draper is also very active in the community. She serves as local chairman of the Alzheimer's Support Group, Progressive Community Reunion president, president of the American Legion Auxiliary and is a member of the Order of Eastern Star.

The honoree is a member of the Central Church of Christ and assists the congregation in any capacity that is needed. She furnishes food for bereaved families and regularly visits shut-ins, hospital patients and those in rest homes.

Her hobbies include community work and farm bookkeeping.

When nominating Draper for this year's coveted title, fellow club members said, "Argen is a natural leader, co-worker and friend. She can bring talents out in people that they are not aware they have. She can plan and execute a program with very little advance notice. We feel that Argen is deserving of this honor."

The six nominees were recognized for their leadership, growth and development in extension club work and their involvement in the community, church and family life. Each nominee's resume was judged by an out-of-county extension agent for home economics.

Routine stop leads to bust

A 30-year-old former Hereford resident is in Deaf Smith County Jail today on charges of possession of a controlled substance and possession of marijuana over four ounces.

Timothy Brees, 30, of Phoenix, was stopped today at 6:30 a.m. by Hereford Police Officer Emilio Valdez on a routine traffic violation. Brees was stopped at 13th and Star. "During the course of discovery, we had reason to believe there could be more to the stop," said Capt. Pat Michael of the HPD.

Officers found a large (still undetermined) amount of methamphetamine and a large stash of marijuana.

"We still have to do positive testing on both substances," said Michael.

Michael said Brees was originally charged only with possession of a controlled substance. His bail was set at $10,000 by Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine. During a more thorough search of Brees' 1983 Chevrolet Camaro later during the morning, officer found a large stash of marijuana. Possession of over four ounces of marijuana is a third-degree felony.

"We plan to take that to the district attorney (Roland Saul) and have the suspect arraigned on another charge," Michael said. Michael said the car has been impounded and Hereford police may try to have the car forfeited to the police department because of the large amount of drugs found in the car.

County approves trucker resolution

Efforts to attract attention to the plight of agricultural truckers whose earnings have suffered in recent months were extended Monday by the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court.

A resolution passed by commissioners notes the shortened beet-hauling season and decreases in other hauling jobs.

The document's purpose is to encourage designation by Governor Ann Richards of the West Texas Agricultural Truckers Association as an agricultural entity so members may be eligible for low interest loans, grants and subsidies.

County Judge Tom Simons told a delegation of truckers that he has contacted the governor's office and the office of U.S. Congressman Larry Combest.

"The governor has to declare a 'disaster' area and then help is made available through the Texas commissioner of agriculture," Simons said.

A delegation of truckers, led by Joe Soliz Jr., and Andres Del Toro Sr., appeared at the commissioners' court meeting Monday to ask support of the county with their problem.

Commissioners passed the resolution unanimously.

Cooperation with other counties in the area in a resource conservation and development program was approved by commissioners after they heard a request from Bob Perry of Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District.

Resource conservation and development programs are permitted under federal law to bring together communities with common interests so they may work toward certain goals and objectives.

City starts '92 budget work

Beginning work on a budget for the City of Hereford for the fiscal year that starts May 1, City Commissioners Monday night learned some hard decisions must be made between now and adoption of a new budget.

One scenario drawn by City Manager Chester Nolen offers no raises for employees and no capital expenditures. Neither a tax increase nor city service fee increases would be required.

On the other hand, another proposal would provide a three percent cost of living increase for city workers and include some capital expenditures in general operations and in water and sewer departments.

Funding for the increases would be handled by transfers of water and sewer revenues to the general operating fund. No increase in the tax rate of 42 cents per $100 valuation would be anticipated. Neither are increases in fees written into the proposal.

Projections for the general fund in the bare-bones budget include expenditures of $3,468,175 and revenue of $3,007,506, including ad valorem and sales taxes and other income. With use of reserves, from a fund expected to stand at $627,327 at the end of this year, the city could finish the 1992-1993 fiscal year with a net $166,658.

The water and sewer departments' expenditures for the new year are pegged at $946,202. Another $147,256 will go toward debt retirement, for a total $1,093,458 paid out during the year.

Water and sewer services should generate revenue estimated at $1,455,650. With reserves of $1,290,939, the year could end with a plus figure of about $1,653,131.

City Manager Chester Nolen said a transfer of funds from the water and sewer services could give city employees a three percent raise. Water and sewer revenues could total $1.45 million.

Among items listed for capital expenditures in the general budget are parks, $59,100; police department, $81,650; garbage disposal, $81,500; fire department, $52,200; general administration, $17,945; street department, $59,500; animal control, $15,000, and golf course, $177,278.

Capital expenditures in water, sewer and wastewater treatment add up to $149,500.

The city manager suggested that water and sewer department revenues and reserves would allow transfer of some $200,000 to the general fund.

Commissioners during the work session Monday evening also looked at a "wish list" of capital expenditures adding up to approximately $690,000. Nolen suggested that transfer of revenue from water and sewer services could provide a three percent raise for employees and finance some capital expenditures.

Dickerson keeps hospital running smoothly

DICKERSON

Deaf Smith General Hospital's engineering department may not be the prettiest spot in the building, but "it takes pride in being an important part of the health care team," according to Ron Rives, DSGH administrator.

This week has been proclaimed Hospital Facilities Management Week in Texas by Gov. Ann Richards. The DSGH engineering department, located in the west wing which has no patient rooms, is a working environment with a wide mix of duties.

During a normal day, the workers in engineering will perform a wide variety of tasks. Jap Dickerson, director of the department, said that his people are responsible for maintenance of the entire plant--everything from the beds to the grounds.

"We repair electric beds and the bio-medical equipment; maintain all the electrical, heating, plumbing, and fire alarm systems; we maintain the grounds; we either do the construction or supervise the work when any part of the hospital is remodelled and extended," he said.

Other employees in the department include Kenneth Cook and Ray Zuniga.

The department's responsibilities fall into two main areas--maintenance or repair, and safety. Like other departments at the hospital, engineering must conform to guidelines from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations. These guidelines are specific enough to require set maintenance schedules on equipment and strict safety standards. Keeping new technology maintained and repaired is a challenge, Jap said. "We take care of sophisticated equipment used by the patients, such as heart monitors or IV pumps. A lot of reading and studying is required to stay abreast of the new technology," he said. "We have to know what the piece of equipment is supposed to do and how it is supposed to work."

As the primary department in charge of safety at the hospital, the engineering crew maintains a regular maintenance schedule for the electrical system and the fire alarm system. The department is also responsible for teaching new employees the correct way to use a fire extinguisher, and the correct procedures to follow in case of any type of disaster. "This is all designed to protect the patients," Dickerson said.

The department is responsible for maintenance of the hospital's two backup generator systems for emergency operations. The generators, which are used if the power goes off, must be tested every week. The department also monitors the grounding system, checking the ground receptacles and transformers throughout the building.

When Jap came to DSGH in 1968, he had completed 30 years with the Hereford Fire Department, with the last 12 years as Fire Chief. He is still the instructor in charge of basic fire training at Texas A&M, the world's largest fire training program.

He has seen many changes over the years, he said. One of his first jobs at DSGH was to install the boiler in the newly-built west wing of the hospital. Since that time, there have been many department relocations and several additions to the hospital building. The obstetric unit was moved from the second floor to the first floor; the delivery circle was built; two surgical suites have been added; a new wing was put on the lab, and the medical records office was extended.

All these changes were accomplished under Jap's supervision. Probably the biggest change, according to Jap, has been the introduction of the integrated circuitry boards. This has made a significant difference in the type of equipment that is used throughout the hospital.

"Members of the engineering department at DSGH are among the 'quiet heroes' of the hospital," Rives added. "We're fortunate to have such a dedicated group as part of our team."

Quality of products may be suspect

But U.S. workers are not lazy, poll results show

NEW YORK (AP) - Many Americans harbor doubts about the quality of U.S.-made products, especially cars, but 72 percent in an Associated Press poll reject the charge by Japanese politicians that U.S. workers are lazy.

A third of those polled think Japan makes higher quality cars than U.S. companies do. Two in five give credence to the old saw that American-made cars built on Fridays have more mechanical problems because workers get careless.

Asked about differences in quality when American and Japanese companies both make a product, 28 percent of the 1,009 adults surveyed said U.S.-made products are better. Products made in Japan are rated better by 23 percent. Products of both countries seem about the same in quality to 43 percent.

When it comes to cars, just 32 percent say both countries' products are of the same quality. The percentage saying cars made in Japan are better is 32 percent, while 29 percent say American-made cars are of higher quality.

The poll taken Feb. 12-16 by ICR Survey Research Group of Media, Pa., has a margin of sampling error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Quality is just one part of the decision of whether to buy an American car or an import. But a finding that about a third of Americans think the Japanese make better-quality cars does not bode well for Detroit's Big Three, which lost a record $7.6 billion in 1991 and are laying off tens of thousands of workers.

Of those polled, 16 percent said workers in the United States are more productive than the Japanese; 38 percent said Japanese workers are more productive. More than a third considered productivity about the same in the two economic superpowers.

The less money people make, the less frequently they rate Japanese products and worker productivity better than America's.

That could be because there are "more industrial workers in the lower income groups, people whose jobs are pressured by foreign imports," said Gordon Richards, an economist with the National Association of Manufacturers.

Lawrence Mishel, research director for the Economic Policy Institute, a liberal think tank in Washington, said the public may consider productivity to mean hard work and long hours, but economists measure it differently.

"I think the evidence is that U.S. workers per hour are more productive than the Japanese. That's on average across all industries. That includes the service sector. In manufacturing, we're probably still more productive per hour, but there are some industries where they'd be ahead," Mishel said.

Doubts persist about slack workmanship, such as the unproven tale of carelessness on auto assembly lines on Fridays. In the poll, 4 percent called that perception absolutely true, and 37 percent said it was somewhat true. A quarter called it somewhat false, and 28 percent said it was absolutely false.

Since cars and their components are not tagged with their time of manufacture, there's no way anyone other than the companies themselves could know if their assembly lines are not running on all cylinders certain days.

The latest version of the story, which also involved suspicions about cars built on Mondays, surfaced Feb. 3 in a Japanese Parliament member's comments about the faltering U.S. economy. Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa responded that Americans are losing their work ethic.

Seventy-two percent of Americans in the AP poll said they would describe most American workers as hard-working, and 17 percent would call them lazy.

Governor undecided on session

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards feels "pretty good" about progress being made on school finance problems, but she still hasn't decided when to summon legislators into special session to again overhaul the law.

"We're working," Richards said Monday. "It's the toughest question I've had to deal with since I've been in office."

The Texas Supreme Court last month threw out - for the third time - the state's system of funding public schools.

The court gave lawmakers until June 1993 to write a new plan. But Richards has said she expects to call a special session this spring or summer to do it.

More than 50 property-rich school districts and some individual taxpayers challenged the most recent law. It was designed to shift hundreds of millions of local property tax dollars from wealthier to poorer school districts within new education taxing regions, made up of one or several counties.

Richards said she has been talking with House members and will continue doing so this week. The governor said she also plans another meeting with House Speaker Gib Lewis and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock.

Banking company reports gain in '91

First Abilene Bankshares, Inc., reported earnings of $8.645 million for 1991, a 14 percent increase over 1990 earnings.

For the fourth quarter of 1991, earnings were $2.25 million, a 17.7 percent increase.

Earning per share for 1991 amounted to $3.88, an increase of 14.1 percent over 1990. For the fourth quarter of 1991, earnings per share of $1.01 were 17.4 percent above the same time in 1990.

"The improvement in earnings stemmed primarily from reduced provisions for loan losses as well as increased income from service related functions," said Kenneth T. Murphy, chairman and chief executive officer.

The acquisition of the First National Bank in Cleburne at the end of 1990 and resulting operations boosted the 1991 report, Murphy said.

The company's assets were $834.5 million on Dec. 31, up from $794.8 million at the end of 1990. Equity capital was 8.81 percent of assets, and nonperforming assets were $6.6 million, compared to $8.9 million at the end of 1990.

Teachers attend TCTA Convention

Local teachers, Catherine Cortez, Label Horton, Nan Coneway, Bertha Celaya, Jeanie Conway, Maria Garcia, and Tonya Setliff were among more than 500 Texas Classroom Teachers Association in Fort Worth last week.

TCTA is a professional association representing 29,000 public school teachers across Texas. The Convention, held February 21-22 at the Radisson Plaza Hotel, gave delegates the opportunity to discuss current education issues and make policy decisions for the Association. TCTA President Neurin Bard of Grand Prairie presided over the gathering.

The keynote address was given by Dr. Donald Steele, former superintendent of public schools in Seattle; Toledo, Ohio; and Saginaw, Michigan. Steele, a critically acclaimed education speaker, spoke on site-based decision making for public schools.

TCTA presented its 1991-92 Friend of Education awards to Texas Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and Lubbock parent volunteer Sue Wright. Bullock was honored for his longstanding support of Texas teachers, while Wright was recognized for her many volunteer contributions to the Lubbock public schools.

Convention delegates also elected 1992-93 state officers and attended seminars on youth gangs, site-based decision making, and attention deficit disorder.

Special recognition given

During the Annual Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council Appreciation Luncheon Monday, five E.H. club women were given special recognition. Roses were presented to, from left, Leta Kaul, an extension club member for 55 years; Winnie Wiseman, 63 years; Vernis Parsons, 55 years; and Pet Ott, 61 years. Not pictured is Tillie Scott, a 52-year member. There was approximately 150 in attendance at the event which cited Argen Draper as the 1991 Club Woman of the Year. The luncheon is sponsored by The Hereford Brand.

Fowler, Walton present Wyche E.H. Club program

Paul Fowler, Deaf Smith General Hospital comptroller, and Ron Walton, hospital business manager, spoke to members of Wyche Extension Homemakers Club recently at the Hereford Community Center.

The guest speakers informed club members of the recent changes at the local hospital. A number of improvements have been made including the completion of a redecorating project that will provide a more comfortable atmosphere for patients, visitors and staff.

The responsibility of the comptroller is to manage the finances and work under the administrator. Fowler said, "We hope people will visit the hospital even if they are not sick."

Walton explained that there will be four new hospital programs introduced to the public including one that will be of interest to women.

Virgie Duncan, hostess, gave the opening exercise entitled "One Day at a Time". The TEHA prayer and pledges to the United States and Texas flags were repeated by the 11 members present. Each responded to the roll call by answering the question, "What I want to know about the hospital?"

President Jo Lee conducted the business meeting. The Annual Appreciation Luncheon held Monday was discussed.

Members present included Louise Axe, Argen Draper, Duncan, Marcie Ginn, Camelia Jones, Lee, Carol Odom, Coreen Odom, Pet Ott, Louise Packard and Clara Trowbridge.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Warren Beatty ducked the question of his marital status when Sen. Alan Simpson introduced actress Annette Bening as Beatty's wife at a news conference.

The "Bugsy" actor and director on Monday was endorsing a bill requiring the public be told when a movie is colorized over the objections of its creator.

"I don't mean in general - I think it's always better to tell the truth," said Beatty, who recently had a child with Bening, his "Bugsy" co-star.

Asked later whether Simpson was "in general, telling the truth" when the senator said Beatty and Bening were married, Beatty replied, "I would say that, in general, Senator Simpson is very truthful."

Cline gives cooking demonstration to club

Marie Cline of Hereford, known for her culinary skills, gave a chili rellenos cooking demonstration to Bay View Study Club members Feb. 20 in the home of Pat Graham.

Following the program topic, "Culinary Arts of the Southwest", Cline gave a method and cooking demonstration on chili rellenos. Using Anaheim peppers, the speaker demonstrated removing the skins and seeds, stuffing with cheese, preparing the batter, dipping the stuffed peppers in the batter and deep frying.

Mrs. Cline said that she had perfected this recipe by trial and error. Those present were served the tasty dish at the conclusion of the demonstration.

Lois Scott presided at the meeting and also led the club collect in the absence of the president.

The next meeting is scheduled March 5 at the home of Ruth Allison

Also, during the business session with President Mary Stoy presiding, the membership voted to make a $100 donation to the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center. The money received by the center will be used to purchase a van to transport the 18 clients to and from their jobs.

The program was scheduled as "games night" so those attending enjoyed a variety of games.

Present were Jean Ballard, Cain, Elizabeth Cesar, Hazel Ford, Mildred Garrison, Gladys Setliff, Gracie Shaw, Spinks, Bessie Story, Stoy, Virginia Winget and Joan Yarbro.

Thomas steps down as Herd basketball coach

Jimmy Thomas has resigned as head basketball coach at Hereford High School, it was announced today.

Hereford Athletic Director Danny Haney delivered a release to the Brand announcing the move. It read: "The athletic department of HHS announces the resignation of head basketball coach Jimmy Thomas, effective immediately. Coach Thomas has decided to pursue other areas in the education field. Presently, he will continue his teaching duties."

The varsity basketball team finished the 1991-92 season Feb. 18 with a 8-22 record, including an eight-game losing streak in January. Thomas' three-year record as coach of the Herd was 25-59.

"It was time for a change for me; it was time for a change for the kids," Thomas said today. "I've got other goals I want to pursue."

THOMAS

He said the "other goals" may include another coaching job somewhere, but stressed that he has a job now: teaching at HHS. He said some factors in the decision were so he could take time off, spend time with his family, complete his mid-management certificate and get his masters degree.

"I'm not ashamed of what I've done in Hereford," he said. "I'm proud of the way the kids performed. I thought the kids played extremely hard, and they always did what I asked them to."

"The kids are winners to me. That's obvious from the way they played in the last few ball games when there was nothing to play for except pride."

The Herd won Thomas' final two games—against Dumas and Berger—and they also lost to Caprock in triple overtime in the second round of district play.

Herd tennis triumphs again

Netters win in San Angelo

The Hereford tennis team won its second tennis tournament in a row, taking Division B of the San Angelo Tournament played Friday and Saturday.

Herd accumulated 23 points and outdistanced Lubbock High, which had 14 points. There was a three-way tie for third place among Monterey, Uvalde and San Angelo Central, each with seven points.

The tournament had two other divisions: Division A was restricted to seniors at 5A schools, and Division

C was for all sophomores and freshmen.

Besides the team trophy, Hereford players captured three first place trophies in Division B and one in Division C. Teresa Baker and Greg Coplen—both fresh off the basketball teams—won singles, and Jamie Kapka and Torey Sellers teamed to win boys' doubles. Gabriela Gamez won girls' singles in Division C.

"The tournament was tough—playing against the bigger schools," Coach Natalie Sims said. "I was very proud of the entire team. Each place in the tournament gave us enough points to win the division. A team trophy like this keeps us working together."

Coplen had one day of tennis practice before going to San Angelo, which may explain why he needed three sets to win his first two matches. He beat Pete Barizen of SA Central 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, then Gregg Oliver, also of Central, 7-6, 6-1, 6-2. Coplen took care of his next two matches in two sets each, defeating David Smith of San Angelo Lakeview 6-3, 6-3, and, in the finals, beating Dustin Goss of Lubbock High 6-2, 7-6.

Quintana injured in accident

By The Associated Press

Every spring training, a major injury seems to hit somewhere. This year, far from the baseball field, Carlos Quintana became the first victim.

The Boston Red Sox began the spring Monday and found out that Quintana, their starting first baseman, would be out for about four months after breaking his left arm in an automobile accident in Venezuela.

Quintana was hurt Sunday in Caracas while rushing two brothers to a hospital after they were shot at a party. The shooting, which a family friend said stemmed from a long-standing argument, left one of the brothers wounded in the hand and the other in the leg. Quintana's wife broke both legs in the accident.

"Right now my first concern is with Carlos and his family. From what I hear, his brothers have had a pretty rough time too and that's going to have an effect on him," new manager Butch Hobson said.

Red Sox general manager Lou Gorman also said the team would try to get Quintana to the United States as soon as possible to begin rehabilitation under the guidance of team doctor Arthur Pappas.

Quintana, a fine fielder, hit .295 with 11 home runs and 71 RBIs last season.

Switzer suit goes to trial

AUSTIN (AP) - A 5-month long legal battle between an investigative reporter and former Oklahoma football coach Barry Switzer will soon be fought before a jury.

Attorneys on both sides Monday worked through preliminary motions in the $30 million lawsuit filed by Jack Taylor Jr., a former Dallas Times Herald reporter.

Jury selection in the trial before State District Judge Joe Harj is set to start Wednesday and take two days. The trial will last from three to six weeks.

Taylor has accused Switzer of libel, slander, and invasion of privacy stemming from accusations made by the former Sooner coach in his autobiography "Boodlegger's Boy."

Taylor, now a reporter with the Los Angeles Daily News, and his wife Myrna Lee Taylor, seek $5 million in damages, and a $25 million punitive award. Other defendants in the case are Austin writer Edwin Allen "Bud" Shrake Jr., a co-author of the book, and book publisher William Morrow & Co. Inc. The lawsuit was filed in September 1990.

In the book, Switzer links Taylor, who had written investigative stories on Switzer and the Sooner football team, with a scheme to plant drugs on an Oklahoma football player after the 1988 Orange Bowl game.

Taylor says the accusation is false, while Switzer's attorneys claim the facts are substantially true.

Mo Vaughn, who took over for Quintana briefly last season and batted .260, will most likely inherit the spot. Jack Clark, Boston's designated hitter, also is a first baseman.

Quintana's injury was not the only upsetting news for the Red Sox. Roger Clemens was a no-show.

Clemens did not call to say he wouldn't be in camp, but his agent telephoned to say the three-time Cy Young winner was working out and would arrive shortly.

Baseball's collective bargaining agreement doesn't require players to report to spring training until 30 days before opening day, but his absence still created a mild stir in Winter Haven, Fla.

"The fact that he's not here is somewhat of a surprise," Gorman said. "He's usually one of the first to get here."

Bob Welch, another former Cy Young winner, also is off to a shaky start.

Welch received a cortisone injection in his left knee after throwing for the first time this spring at Oakland's camp in Scottsdale, Ariz.

"Hopefully it will relieve some of the discomfort in his knee," A's trainer Barry Weinberg said. "It's caused from old wear and tear from previous injuries and operations."

Orthopedic specialist Dr. Rick Bost, who injected both sides and the top of Welch's knee, will examine the knee again Saturday.

"I'm still concerned, but I'm happy to get on a mound and not fall down and have my knee fall apart," Welch said. "It feels good today."

Welch was 12-13 last year after winning 27 games and the American League Cy Young Award in 1990.

Yuma, Ariz., Tony Gwynn was among the players to take part in San Diego's first workout.

Gwynn underwent arthroscopic surgery on his left knee Sept. 18. He said he experienced a little bit of soreness in his knee after working out on the hard turf.

"Let's face it, the knee is never going to be the same as it was before I got hurt," Gwynn said. "I just have to prepare differently. I can't go out there anymore if I'm not warmed up."

Rangers sign Presley

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Third baseman Jim Presley, who started last season with the San Diego Padres, was signed Monday by the Texas Rangers to a contract with Oklahoma City of the Class AAA American Association.

Presley, 30, hit .136 in 20 games last season before being released in May. He signed with Oklahoma City last July 18 and batted .271 with 6 home runs and 29 RBIs in 51 games for the 89ers the remainder of the season.

Over his career, Presley's major league average is .247 with 135 homers and 495 RBIs in 959 games with Seattle, Atlanta and San Diego.

The Rangers also announced they have invited veteran lefthanded pitcher Joe Price to their minor league camp in March as a free agent. Price, 35, split last season between Rochester in the Baltimore organization and Las Vegas in the San Diego organization.

Barry Winford, a non-roster invitee to the major league camp on the Oklahoma City roster, informed the club of his retirement as an active player because of recurring back problems.

Herd baseball opens today

The Hereford baseball team opens its season today at 4 p.m. at Tascosa High School in Amarillo.

The Herd scrimmaged in Plainview Saturday, and Hereford coach T.R. Sartor said it went well. They played 11 innings, and Plainview scored six runs to Hereford's three.

"The pitching was exceptional," Sartor said. "Going into the 11th, it was 4-3. Even though they were ahead we let them have their bat and we made a couple of mistakes. Overall, I was real pleased. We need a little more offensive punch. We worked on that (Monday)."

The Hereford freshman team's scheduled opener Monday in Plainview was cancelled.

Meet the Herd night planned

Meet the Herd Night for spring sports will be held March 4, starting at 5:30 in Whiteface Gym. Members of the Hereford baseball, golf, tennis and track teams will be introduced.

Warriors, Blazers keep divisional race tight

By The Associated Press
The Golden State Warriors won't stop winning. The Portland Trail Blazers won't let them run away with the Pacific Division title.
The Warriors used Chris Mullin's streak shooting to open a comfortable lead in Dallas, then held off the Mavericks' late comeback to win 138-131 on Monday night for their eighth straight victory.
Not to be outdone, the Trail Blazers got 24 points from Clyde Drexler and survived Jeff Malone's miss at the buzzer to beat Utah 110-107, ending the Jazz's six-game winning streak.
Golden State (37-15) is .008 ahead of the Trail Blazers (38-16). The two teams do not play each other again until April.

Dallas was behind 121-101 with 5:12 to play but rallied to cut the deficit to 133-126 with 23.8 seconds left on Brian Howard's 3-pointer. Derek Harper hit another 3-pointer with 8.7 seconds left to reduce the margin to 135-130, but Dallas could come no closer.
"We got it up to 20 and then I felt comfortable enough with our lead if we made our free throws," Warriors coach Don Nelson said after Golden State converted 13 of 19 free throws in the fourth quarter.

Mullin was 8-for-9 in the first quarter and finished with 29 points. Tim Hardway added 27 for the Warriors while rookie guard Mike Luzzolino scored a career-high 22 for Dallas.
Suns 104, Knicks 95
Nobody could quite match Patrick Ewing's 37-point performance, but Tom Chambers came close enough. Displaying the form which made him the Suns' top scorer until last season, Chambers scored 29 points as the Suns defeated visiting New York.
Ewing's mammoth effort included 10 rebounds and seven blocks. He had 19 points and four blocks in the first quarter, after which the Suns repeatedly double- and triple-teamed him.

Kevin Johnson scored 25 points and Jeff Hornacek finished with 22 for Phoenix.
Trail Blazers 110, Jazz 107
Drexler grabbed his own rebound with 35 seconds to play and put in the follow to give Portland a 108-105 lead against the visiting Jazz.
Utah's Blue Edwards sank two free throws with 23 seconds to go to make it 108-107 before Danny Ainge, who scored 14 of his 16 points in the second half, made two free throws with 12.4 seconds to go to boost the lead back to three.

Malone, who scored 18 points but only two in the final quarter, missed the rim on a wide-open 3-pointer at the buzzer.
Drexler led Portland with 24 points. Karl Malone scored 30 for Utah.
Sonics 106, Timberwolves 91
Eddie Johnson scored 26 points and sparked a key third-quarter surge as Seattle broke open a close game and went on to defeat Minnesota, which lost its fourth in a row before its smallest home crowd of the season - 18,082.
Ricky Pierce's three-point play broke a 58-58 tie midway through the quarter and Johnson followed with seven of the Sonics' next nine points. Minnesota hit only 6 of 20 shots in the quarter.

quarter as Atlanta built an early 20-point lead.
Atlanta took a 9-0 lead in the first three minutes as the Nuggets missed their first nine shots. Denver made a 16-6 run that cut the deficit to 66-55 early in the third quarter, but came no closer.
The loss was Denver's fourth in a five-game road trip.
Sixers 108, Kings 96
Armon Gilliam scored 29 points, Hersey Hawkins had 27 and Charles Barkley added 19 as the 76ers built a 12-point lead in the final period and held off road-weary Sacramento.
Philadelphia led 82-70 with 10:31 left in the game, but the Kings pecked away to get within 97-92 with 2:39 remaining.
But Ron Anderson made a 3-point shot, Gilliam hit a layup and Johnny Dawkins added a pair of free throws to make it 104-92 with 51 seconds to go.
Dennis Hopson's 20 led the Kings.

Russell's buzzer-beater nips Tulane

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The memories came back right after the ball went through.
Bobby Russell hit a 3-point shot with 10 seconds left to break a tie and help South Florida to an 81-76 Metro Conference victory over No. 15 Tulane on Monday night.
Only then did Russell remember his missed 3-pointer at the buzzer on Feb. 6 against Tulane, which would've won it for South Florida. Instead the Green Wave won 78-70 in overtime.
"I didn't have time to think about that until the shot was made," said Russell, who had 17 points. "After that, I started thinking about it."
In other action involving Top-25 teams, No. 3 Kansas beat Oklahoma 84-65 and No. 20 St. John's defeated Providence 72-68 in overtime.

Tulane coach Perry Clark was also thinking, mostly about his team's missed chances.
"Russell knocked down a big-time shot, but it never should have come down to that," he said.
Clark was especially vexed that his starters were not able to help out "The Posse," Tulane's unit of five reserves which comes in to turn up the pressure on offense and defense.
The Posse outscored the Bulls' bench 49-0, but the Green Wave's starters got outscored 81-27.
Radenko Dobras hit two free throws with four seconds left to ice the game for South Florida (17-8, 5-5).
Dobras had a string of 29 straight free throws broken on his first attempt against Tulane (19-4, 7-2) but hit his remaining five, including a pair that gave the Bulls a 76-75 lead with 1:08 left.

All of South Florida's starters played at least 33 minutes. Fred Lewis played all 40 and led the Bulls with 22 points.
Kim Lewis led Tulane with 18 points.
No. 3 Kansas 84, Oklahoma 65
Eric Pauley had a career-high 23 points and 12 rebounds and helped key a 17-4 run that broke open a tight game.
Pauley, a 6-foot-10 junior, scored eight points in the 5-minute spree and Adonis Jordan, a 5-11 point guard, scored six as Kansas (21-3, 9-2) won its 15th straight Big Eight game at home.

Oklahoma (17-7, 5-6), was led by Terry Evans with 25 points.
No. 20 St. John's 72, Providence 68, OT
St. John's, which missed 16 of its first 40 free throws, went 6-for-6 in the final 2:55 of overtime at the Providence Civic Center to win its seventh straight game and move into a virtual first-place tie with Georgetown in the Big East.
The Redmen (17-7, 11-5) have just two conference games remaining - both at home - against Georgetown (10-4) and Seton Hall.
Providence (13-15, 5-11) tied the score 62-62 with three seconds to play in regulation on a rebound basket by Trent Forbes.

EMERGENCY!! I CAN'T SEE YOU NOW, SNUFFY!!

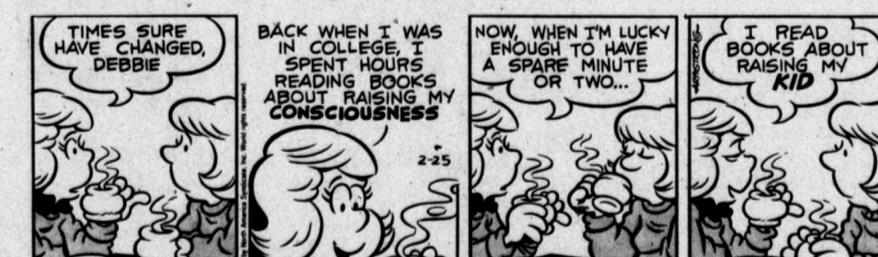

SOMEBODY MUST BE IN TERRIBLE BAD SHAPE!!

ALL OVER ASIA... COKE... PEPSI... MCDONALDS...

WE'RE BECOMING ONE PEOPLE THROUGH FOOD!

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: A year ago I was diagnosed as having Meniere's disease. I suffered severe vertigo and vomiting, which occurred once or twice a month and lasted a day. I was given Antivert to control this, but the spells still occurred.

I returned to the doctor recently because the dizzy spells were getting more frequent — even every four or five days. He prescribed a water pill called hydrochlorothiazide, which I had to take with orange juice every morning. I have been taking them for a while, but the spells continue, although not as frequently. Is there any prescription that would control this permanently, because it is very hard to live with?

DEARREADER: Meniere's disease is caused by an increase in the fluid in the balance canals of your ears. These are attached to the cochlea, the snail-shaped tube that converts sound to signals to the brain. The classic form causes vertigo, ear noises and loss of hearing. The latter are more intense during the attack of vertigo. Vomiting with the attack is common, as occurs with motion sickness.

Since it is caused by increased fluid in the balance canal and hearing tube, one medical approach is to give diuretics to decrease fluid retention. The medicine you are taking, also called HydroDIURIL, tends to eliminate potassium as well as sodium, so your doctor has told you to take the medicine with orange juice, which is rich in potassium. You would do well to avoid sodium in your diet or foods that are high in sodium.

There are several medicines that are used to treat Meniere's disease and I have discussed them in Special Report 110, Dizziness, Balance, Vertigo, Motion Sickness, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/110, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. When medical management is not adequate, surgery may be used. There are several different approaches, but all have the same goal, to decompress the balance canals and stop the distention, which stops the attacks.

DEAR DR. LAMB: In one of your columns you referred to there being some medical hazards from taking large doses of vitamin C. Could you elaborate on those hazards, and how much is too much?

DEARREADER: Almost anything is toxic if taken in a sufficiently large dose. That includes oxygen which you must have to live.

The most frequent toxic reaction to large doses of vitamin C is nausea and diarrhea. The amount needed to do this varies. Large amounts of vitamin C in the feces may cause a negative test for blood in the stools, obscuring an important sign of colon cancer. It may also enhance iron absorption, which is fine for women who lose blood from menstruation, but not so fine for others, particularly those who may have a problem with increased iron absorption.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you receive some made-up letters (like from Yale) and this might sound fishy, but so help me, it's real.

I am a 28-year-old career woman who has been around the track a time or two and I am nobody's fool. I have been seeing a man I've grown very fond of these last several months and he appears to be fond of me. The only problem is that his stories don't add up. I have caught him in at least a dozen lies. Big ones.

Last night I leveled with "Harvey" and pointed out five major discrepancies about his life—past and present. He swore me to secrecy and then confided that he is in a witness protection program, bound by law to reveal nothing about himself and to keep friends and family totally confused about who he is and what he is doing.

A big part of the mystery is that he seems to have plenty of money to spend but I have no idea what he does for a living. He keeps crazy hours and wears a beeper but no one has ever called him that I know of. What does this sound like to you?—Mystified in Maryland

DEAR MYS: Your friend sounds like a graduate of the Manuel Noriega Charm School. If you believe his story I have a swamp in Louisiana I'd like you to look at. My advice is to cool it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few weeks ago I went to a restaurant with a friend who is a nurse. We were seated in a booth that gave us a clear view of the parking lot, nearly all the parking spaces reserved for the handicapped were being taken by people who were able-bodied. Most of the drivers were fairly young and appeared to be very active. My friend said, "If any of those people are handicapped, I'm the queen of Romania."

I now carry 3x5 cards with a very

Benefits of weight loss

Almost all the top Wall Street experts will agree that one of the best investments you can make is in your health.

Studies show that weight loss can mean not only feeling healthier, but it can reduce the amount of money it costs to treat many medical problems you might have. It can also affect your energy level and productivity on the job. Simply put, if you are overweight, it's best to reduce.

According to Marketdata Enterprises research cited by Jason Pharmaceuticals Inc., which developed the Medifast Corporation Program to help companies improve the health of their employees, there is a clear relationship between employees' weight problems and medical claim costs.

For example, people 40 percent or more overweight average more than double the absenteeism and doctor visits of normal weight range persons. Follow up research by Jason Pharmaceuticals Inc. showed that employees on the Medifast weight loss program were able to do jobs requiring higher energy than when they were overweight.

The study concluded that medically supervised diets offer an effective means of weight reduction while, in many instances, improving one's overall physical health.

clear message. When I find a car that does not have the handicapped designation parked in a spot where it does not belong, I slip one of these cards under the windshield wiper. I don't know if it has any effect on the driver, but it certainly reflects my sentiments and makes me feel better. Here's the message:

"Thank you for parking in the handicapped area. It was so nice to struggle the extra distance. My consolation is that I do not have your problems—selfishness, thoughtlessness and insensitivity."

Yes, I am handicapped but I don't dwell on what is wrong with me. I'm thankful for what I have left. Please sign me—A Resident of Albany, N.Y.

DEAR ALBANY: Your point is well taken. Able-bodied people who park in spaces reserved for the handicapped deserve to be told off.

However, please be aware that not all disabilities are visible. I've received several letters from readers who described the dirty looks and foul language they have endured from people who assume that because a person looks hale and hearty that he is. Emphysema and heart problems, for example, are only two conditions that cannot be readily identified. In my view, it is best to assume that the people who have the identifying placard that entitles them to park in the space for the handicapped are being truthful.

Gem of the Day: I cannot give you the formula for success, but I CAN give you the formula for failure—try to please everybody.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teen-Ager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Most depressive illnesses can be treated successfully

Men often hide depression because they feel it shows a weakness of character, says a psychiatrist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"Men generally do not pamper themselves and many believe that depression is 'unmanly,'" said Dr. Betsy Comstock, professor of psychiatry at Baylor and director of the Affective Disorders Program.

"The physical symptoms are often explained away and patients do not seek treatment," Comstock said. "In some cases, patients fool others until the symptoms are quite severe."

Depression can cause sleep disturbances, loss of appetite, loss of sexual interest and the inability to concentrate. Other indicators of a depressive illness include having the "blues" for more than two weeks, feeling sad without understanding why and experiencing no relief from depression.

More than 10 million Americans suffer from depression. On the average, twice as many women will seek treatment. Most depressive illnesses are biological in nature and can be successfully treated with a combination of medication and psychotherapy.

According to Comstock, depression sometimes runs in families, but for men and women at risk, there is hope.

"We can treat a patient who has a family history of depression before it ever sets in," she said.

Teaching coping skill and awareness of early signs and symptoms is the first step. Long-term therapy can help reduce internal conflicts that may contribute to depression at a later stage.

Since women are more likely to recognize the need for therapy, Comstock urges family, friend or co-workers to look for symptoms especially in men.

"It is important to ask questions and encourage them to get help," Comstock said. "Depression is a very serious illness whose outcome can be fatal."

DRAPER

Carol Odum of Wyche E.H. Club presented roses to women who have 50 years or more of service to the organization. Honored were Winnie Wiseman, who has been a club member for 63 years; Pet Ott, 61 years; Leta Kaul, 55 years, Vernis Parsons, 55 years; and Tillie Scott, 52 years.

Presentation of club and council awards was made by Dolores Brozman, secretary of the Extension Homemakers Council and a member of the Ford E.H. Club. She was assisted by Edith Higgins of North Hereford E.H. Club, Wilma Goetsch of Cultural E.H. Club, and Mary Brozman of Ford E.H. Club.

Those recognized for perfect club attendance for 1991 were Kate Bradley and Mariellen Homfeld, Bippus E.H. Club; Naomi Hare, Cultural E.H. Club; Mary Brozman, Mona Gee, Maudette Smith and Neoma Stokesberry, Ford E.H. Club; Sherric Blackwell, Johnnie Messer, Carmen Rickman and Tonic Vaughn, Draper E.H. Club; Edith Higgins, Martha Lueb and Edna Schulte, North Hereford E.H. Club; and Camelia Jones, Jo Lee and Clara Trowbridge, Wyche E.H. Club.

Women cited for having perfect attendance at E.H. Council meetings were Kate Bradley, who was awarded the butterfly pin for eight years perfect attendance; Perry Keyes, wreath pin for one year; and Johnnie Messer, Maudette Smith and Tonic Vaughn, all given the gold rose pin for one year perfect attendance.

A special presentation was made to Johnnie Messer, the Texas Extension Homemakers Association district director, by Kate Bradley of Bippus E.H. Club. Messer received a rose and a pledge of support as she carries out her duties as director. She currently serves as director of District 1 which is composed of 1,500 members and serves on the State Board which leads 20,000 members. She recently was appointed to the State T.E.H.A. Scholarship Committee.

Messer awarded Nieman with a special certificate of appreciation for the Brand's 41 years of continuing support to the Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers. KPNR Radio Station was also cited for additional news coverage and gratitude was given to the Deaf Smith County Commissioners for their support of the agricultural extension service program.

Following the covered dish luncheon prepared and served by the extension homemaker club members, Sherric Blackwell, E.H. Council chairman, welcomed those present. Maudette Smith, T.E.H.A. county chairman, introduced special guests.

"From the Brand Files..." a humorous review of extension homemakers clubs and the history of the county, was the program presented by Joe Weaver, Deaf Smith County Library assistant. His information was taken from The Hereford Brand.

The luncheon's theme depicted a pioneer spirit using a western motif. Tables were covered with white cloths and red runners accented with state of Texas appliques. Also, decorating the tables were floral arrangements and cowboy statues.

The invocation was given by Jo Lee, E.H. Council vice chairman, and the Pledges to the United States and Texas' flags were led by Carmen Rickman of Draper E.H. Club.

Johnnie Messer, and member of Draper E.H. Club, gave the response and the closing T.E.H.A. prayer was led by Wilma Goetsch of Cultural E.H. Club.

Last year's Club Woman of the Year was Dean Bradley. Newspaper is usually the first place people go when considering a purchase. It's their primary source of advertising information. Newspaper helps spark the local economy by putting dollars into circulation. And that's good for everyone, not just the retailer.

Because a strong local economy means lower property taxes, more jobs, tax support for community services and a better place to live.

Newspaper is more than just a smart place to advertise. It's an integral part of our lives.

Newspaper. It delivers.

Drug abuse treatment works

There are six million Americans in need of drug and alcohol rehabilitation. The good news is that treatment not only helps those who are dependent on drugs, it can help all of us. According to the Office For Treatment Improvement (OTI) of the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration, the goals of the treatment delivery system are not confined to reducing the drug consumption of specific individuals. Reducing the overall demand for illicit drugs will also:

- * reduce morbidity and mortality associated with drug abuse;
- * reduce street crime;
- * develop educational or vocational capabilities;
- * restore or increase employment or productivity;
- * improve the users' overall health and family life;

OTI is funding a number of demonstration programs that help in a variety of ways. Among these is a Target Cities Program, which is in the form of grants given to eight with heavily drug-impacted urban areas. Another program, the Critical Population Grant Program, is geared to adolescents, racial and ethnic minorities, criminal justice populations, and residents of public housing with the goal of improving treatment outcome for these groups.

Recently, Health and Human Services Secretary Louis W. Sullivan, M.D., announced initial funding of $9 million each for two new drug abuse treatment "campus" demonstration programs to compare a variety of treatment approaches used in residential therapeutic community programs to help addicts return to productive lives.

The treatment campuses are located in Houston, Texas, and Secaucus, New Jersey. Each will be able to treat 360 drug abusers at a given time. The total federal-state investment over three years will be $68.6 million. "The purpose of this new and innovative program is to improve the residential therapeutic community treatment models and to increase the efficiency and economy of the whole drug abuse treatment system in our country," said Secretary Sullivan.

These grant programs offer a unique opportunity to guide and monitor treatment service delivery across the nation.

Flowers that fight pests

Surprisingly, delicate-looking windflowers can be a powerful weapon in the war against destructive garden pests, say leading horticulturists.

Many gardeners use chemical pesticides to rid their plants of pests. In fact, gardeners and farmers together dump about 1.6 billion pounds of pesticides each year on U.S. soil, often upsetting the natural balance of the environment and creating serious health threats. Helping to restore nature's system of checks and balances, minimizing and sometimes even eliminating the need for chemical controls, is Border Patrol, a mix of country flower seeds scientifically formulated to attract beneficial insects that prey on destructive bugs.

More than three years in development, Border Patrol is the brainchild of Steve Atwood, president of Clyde Robin Seed. He commissioned Jeff Ball, national lawn and garden product expert, to research and test some 100 different varieties of flowers that might attract predatory insects.

From Ball's research, Atwood identified ten flowers that would lure the widest cross section of beneficial bugs. "I chose evening primrose, as an example, because it attracts ground beetles," says Atwood. "Ground beetles feast on cankerworms, snails, slugs, moths, maggots, houseflies, gnats, aphids, ants and termites."

Alzheimer patients needed to participate in drug study

Trials for a new Alzheimer's drug have begun at more than 50 medical centers in the United States and Canada.

Developed by Du Pont Pharma, the drug linopirdine is being investigated to determine whether it can improve symptoms such as memory loss, lack of attention and disabilities in daily living activities.

To enter the trials, patients must:

- * be 52 years or older.
- * have a diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease as well as mild-to-moderate progressive dementia for at least six months.
- * have a dedicated caregiver who will ensure that the patient takes the medication and will accompany the patient to the physician's office once a month for at least six months.

Throughout the trial, patients will participate in a number of tests to evaluate cognitive functioning, mood and behavior.

Patients who are on medications for other diseases such as mild hypertension and controlled diabetes can participate in the trials as long as these treatments do not affect the central nervous system.

Patients, caregivers and physicians interested in learning more about these clinical trials can obtain a list of participating centers and a linopirdine fact sheet by calling the Alzheimer Association's toll free number (800) 272-3900.
