WASHINGTON By RAY TUCKER

Sterile?

The flow of gold to this country resulting from threat of war privately worries some of our monetary experts. It may dislocate trade still more, furnish a new basis for domestic inflation and embarrass Secretary Morgenthau in carrying out congress' mandate to buy one-third as much silver as we have gold.

Treasury economists won't admit it but some fear that we may be left carrying a gold bag—a sort of Midaslike fate. There is the growing suspicion that other nations, lacking gold, may decide that they can do without it and embark on a permanent policy of managed currency. Some of the countries which have had to resort to that expedient seem to be doing fairly well—so well that a treasury statistician has gone abroad to see how they do it.

Traditionalists, however, see a great future for gold. They can't believe that world will hit upon any substitute as an international medium of exchange—even though FDR has demonstrated, with the active aid of Mr. Morgenthau, that you can do strange things to a nation's gold supply and monetary measure of value.

Forecast—

Political investigators crisscrossing the country—Republican and Democratic—recently compared notes in a convivial moment of camaraderie. Though representing opposing camps their reports on what the people are thinking and talking about bore a striking resemblance.

Here it is, roughly: President Roosevelt is still strong, but the extraordinary relief expenditures constitute his gravest danger. There is comparatively little interest in the constitution as a partisan issue, and few expect that it will be. Among the GOP presidential candidates Frank Knox is spending the most money, Hamilton Fish is the most active and Herbert Hoover the least mentioned.

Mr. Roosevelt has lost the northeast with the possible exception of New York, and a conservative play to business can't regain it. The only middle western state he is sure to carry is Illinois—the Kelly machine in Chicago will vote him in. He leads in the west and will carry the south, though Jeffersonian Democrats detest some of his policies, especially the centralization of power in Washington. Democrats are worried over two border states—Maryland and Kentucky. Bitter factional disputes run in both places.

Shifts—

Pasamaquoddy won't become a federal "white elephant" for lack of a market for its power if enterprising Yankees in New England have their way. They hope to import new industries to make up for textile and pulp mills they are slowly losing to an industrially-minded south.

They are working on a program which calls for the location of an aluminum and shipbuilding plants within the shadow of Quoddy, Boston, under the still undisclosed plan, would become a bustling port whence fast liners would make the trip to Europe in four days. In going after aluminum units the New Englanders will compete with another federal project, Bonneville Dam in Oregon has been advertised as the new center of the aluminum industry.

There is unconscious political humor in the situation. Having lost valuable sources of funds and employment to the Democratic south through smart selling by Commonwealth and Southern's fine organization, anti-New Deal New England now bids for some of the major industries of that erstwhile Gibraltar of Republicanism—Pennsylvania, Washington, of course, will be called on to supply federal subsidies for the proposed expansion and possible transformation of the political and economic map.

Birthday—

Far-reaching plans for incantating information regarding the making of the constitution are being made by the commission created by congress to prepare for celebration of the sesquicentennial of the formation of the constitution. Every state will celebrate its ratification of the constitution or its submission into the union.

Strange Gets Information On Airports

WPA Improvements Must Be Handled As Any Other Project On Program

Airport improvements under WPA must be handled as any other project under the program, W. T. Strange, Chamber of Commerce manager, said Friday after returning from a conference in Dallas Thursday.

He had gone there, as have more than 100 others from over the state, to hear details of plans for expending a large sum exclusively for airport development.

Moss Patterson, regional supervisor in charge of WPA grants to airports in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and Kansas, threw a bombshell into the meeting when he announced that there was no fund of eighty million dollars definitely earmarked for airports under WPA.

He explained that such projects would have to be submitted in the routine manner. Land on which airports, eligible for aid, are located, must be owned by city, county or state. Leases will not suffice.

'Cellophane' Wedding Planned For V. F. W. Fair

An innovation in fair events is promised by the directors of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for Friday night of the big fall fair to open here for the week of Oct. 14, when the feature will be a real wedding between some lady and gentleman of this vicinity. The event will be known as a "Cellophane" wedding and in addition to the bride being gowned completely in cellophane, the affair will be legal in every respect, and an elaborate and impressive ceremony is planned.

Everything necessary for the affair will be furnished the bride and groom by the fair committee. This includes the license, ring, bridal wreath, and services of an officiating clergyman. In addition, merchants of the city will present the couple with many beautiful and useful gifts of furniture, wearing apparel, and other items of a nature that might help them get a start in life.

A truly gorgeous ceremony is planned with 16 bridesmaids, a number of other attendants acting as ushers, flower-girls, groomsmen, etc. Stage settings in keeping with such an affair will be erected and the whole, upon presentation will be given by the fair committee. This includes the license, ring, bridal wreath, and services of an officiating clergyman. In addition, merchants of the city will present the couple with many beautiful and useful gifts of furniture, wearing apparel, and other items of a nature that might help them get a start in life.

Applications from couples desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity of getting married are being received by the fair manager, H. C. Taylor, at 204 Main street.

Special Air Mail Envelopes Are Distributed

Special airmail envelopes were being given Friday by the Chamber of Commerce to persons planning on sending mail Tuesday as a part of the fifth anniversary celebration of airmail service here. Although efforts to increase postage for Tuesday were redoubled Friday, no great influx of mail for the special cachet was expected before Monday.

Persons mailing letters for the special cachet were reminded again to leave them at the Chamber of Commerce office and not the post-office.

Other plans for the celebration were going steadily forward Friday morning. Both Douglas ships of the American Airlines will stop here Tuesday to pick up mail. Homer Rader and Howard Woodall, veteran pilots, will be presented with souvenir gifts. Mayor C. E. Talbot, Big Spring, will be a guest of the line for a trip to Los Angeles and return.

Well Blows In Early Friday; Flows 3 Hours

Oil Field Workers Aroused By Noise Of Well At 7 A. M. Friday

OIL GOES TWENTY FEET OVER DECK

Test Has Been Cut Into Tanks Since Last Aug. 19

New interest was injected into the John I. Moore No. 1 McDowell, deep test in Glasscock county, Friday morning when the well roared in with a 200 barrel head.

Cut into tanks since Aug. 19, the test has been periodically watched by operators who were to base their decision as to shooting on reactions.

Without warning, it headed at 4 a. m. Friday with such force as to blow oil past the tanks and over a wide area around the well. Oil men estimated that the fluid in the tanks and on the ground amounted to about 200 barrels.

The head lasted for more than two hours. Since that time gas pressure apparently has been increasing again.

Several people in the Lees community, about four miles away, said they heard the test when the head started. Pumper on nearby leases rushed to the scene to watch the display.

Oil coming out of the hole was more like the amber colored product of other West Texas deep tests. It had a distinct smell akin to gasoline.

When the test, located in section 22, block 34, T-2S, E-2P survey, was deepened from 9,946 feet to 10,115 where it is now bottomed, the pit was covered with the amber colored oil. First shows, which focused interest on the test, were a green oil of high gravity.

After first shows gave promise of paying production, casing was run and the test drilled to 9,846 feet. However, it failed to react very favorably and was left open for several months.

Soon after a 50 barrel head, deepening was started in late July and carried to 10,115 feet. There the test was treated with 6,000 gallons of acid. Swabbing and bailing were continued until Aug. 15 with gas spraying oil about 50 feet on some of the swab runs. On Aug. 16 heavy gas pressure kicked out but it did not head. Consequently it was cut into tanks on Aug. 19 and had remained virtually untouched since.

Ira Kirkpatrick and J. R. Overton, employees on the World Oil Company lease adjacent to the deep test, told of hearing the head come. Kirkpatrick said he was awakened about 4 a. m. by a roaring noise like a cyclone.

They rushed to the well and tried to switch connections to the tanks, but gas pressure was too strong. Oil and gas sprays went about 20 feet above the deck.

HAUPTMANN, DEATH SENTENCE UPHELD BY COURT

Tenth Wedding Anniversary In Death House As Lawyers Plan Appeal

(By The Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann and his wife, Anna, marked the tenth anniversary of their wedding Friday in the death house while his lawyers mapped the preliminary strategy for the supreme court fight they will wage in an attempt to save him from the electric chair.

Unless he wins this fight or the court of pardons commutes his sentence to life imprisonment, the latter a question of grave doubt, he will probably go to his death, one of his lawyers, Egbert Rosecrans, said. No application for clemency will be made, Rosecrans said, until all legal moves are exhausted.

The promise of further fight, and the visit of his wife brought back to Hauptmann today some of the confidence he manifested throughout his long trial and his eight months in death row before the court of errors and appeals sustained his conviction in a unanimous decision yesterday.

Fog Prevents Ship From Landing Here

A heavy fog early Friday morning prevented American Airlines east-bound passenger plane from landing in Big Spring, the big ship continuing to Abilene. The fog cleared shortly after daybreak. The ship was due here at 5:45 a. m.

Strike Is Effective Along Gulf Of Mexico

HOUSTON (AP)—Over 3,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association in Texas and at Lake Charles, La., struck at 8 o'clock Friday, making the strike effective along the entire Gulf of Mexico coast.

It was said they would not return to work until an operator contract with an association at New Orleans, agreed to include Lake Charles in a new contract for this district.

Texas steamship men say they have no control over conditions in New Orleans and Lake Charles. Operators began preparations to handle a cargo of non-union labor.

In some instances, ships probably will be tied up until non-union crews are assembled.

Mrs. W. L. Simmons Succumbs Friday

Mrs. W. L. Simmons, 65, wife of Dr. W. L. Simmons, residing at 2101 Johnson street, died at 12:30 o'clock Friday morning, following a lingering illness. Mrs. Simmons had been critically ill for the past month, although she had been in ill health for about a year.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Simmons is survived by one son, William L. Simmons, of Big Spring. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from Eberly Funeral Home chapel, with interment following in New Mount Olive cemetery. Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor of the Methodist church of this city, officiated. The Big Spring trio, composed of Mrs. R. E. Blount, Mrs. Willard Read and Miss Ruby Bell, were in charge of music.

Fallbearers were Rube Martin Edmond, Noteline, Charles Sullivan, George Herweil, M. L. Cook, Cecil Long and Willard Read.

Stanton Fair Is Under Way

Interesting Exhibits On Display At Martin County Annual Event

Stanton's annual community fair got under way Thursday with good attendance and four well balanced community exhibits.

Jim Kelley, Stanton newspaper man, said Friday that the fair, which survived five depression years, was attracting more interest than previous showings.

Stanton community won first place in judging on community booths, according to County Agent O. P. Griffin who served as a judge.

Tarzan community was second, Courtney third and Brown fourth. Interesting exhibits were egg plants and paper shell pecans. One group of the latter was extremely large. The pecans were grown on a Martin county farm.

The fair will continue through Saturday.

School Officials Address Assembly

Once again the halls of Big Spring high school rang with the shouts that most always precede a football game, Friday morning an assembly program in which Superintendent W. C. Blankenship and Principal George H. Gentry spoke was held.

Present Embargoes Against Ethiopia Are To Be Lifted

Rumors Say 52,000 Ethiopian Troops Recapture Aduwa, Italian Garrison Of 2500 Massacred

ITALIAN DELEGATES LEAVE GENEVA

Emperor Selassie Scotches Rumors That He Is Ready To Make Peace, Tells League Ethiopia Never Will Capitulate

(By Associated Press) The full sanctions committee of the league assembly comprising all league members except Italy, Friday adopted the sub-committee's recommendation that a general arms embargo be placed against Italy and present embargoes against Ethiopia be lifted.

The league appointed a special committee to examine prospects for a financial boycott.

Great Britain called parliament to meet October 22, a week earlier than scheduled, saying that requirements of public interest necessitated the change.

(By Associated Press) The league of nations committee of sixteen recommended an embargo on future arms shipments to Italy and lifting an embargo by some countries against shipments to Ethiopia.

The committee plans to present suggestions to the league's general staff Friday. If adopted, as expected, the embargo against Italy, which is based on President Roosevelt's list of "implements of war," goes into effect Friday, and entrance of arms into Ethiopia will be permitted beginning Friday night.

A high Ethiopian official said the government may be obliged to use force unless Luigi Vinci-Giuglicci, Italian minister to Ethiopia, leaves within the specified forty-eight hours.

Vinci-Giuglicci announced later he and his aides would leave Addis Ababa Saturday. Unconfirmed reports, with nothing to indicate they were more than rumors, said 52,000 Ethiopians had recaptured Aduwa, that Ethiopians massacred the entire garrison of 2500 Italians there.

Other sources reported Aduwa quiet, and that the Ethiopians captured Walwal and Wardair on the southern front. Rome announced light casualties in the northern sector and said many Ethiopian chiefs had surrendered.

Baron Aloisi, chief Italian delegate, and six other delegates left Geneva as Dr. Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakia, president of the league assembly, was making another peace appeal.

It was reported Italy would stay in the league until the military sanctions drive her out. Italian correspondents advised Rome that Makale, fifty miles south of Adigrat, was the next objective of the northern army.

Officers said difficulty in constructing roads probably would halt the advance shortly. Emperor Selassie scotched rumors that he was ready to make peace and told the league Ethiopia would never capitulate.

$20,371 Damages Are Asked In Suit

In a damage suit filed with the district clerk Friday, Horace Brooks asked judgement for $20,371 for injuries he alleged occurred in a collision between his car and a truck belonging to O. H. McAllister. The crash took place two miles east of Monahans on June 1.

Cement, Steel For Park Construction Is Received Here

Cement and steel for culvert construction and asphalt for topping drive ways were received Friday by the city for its WPA park program. However, inability to hire trucks under the WPA regulations cramped efforts to get the job into full swing.

Wooden bridge structures in the park have been torn out and will be replaced by wider concrete culverts.

County League Directors Named

Directors of the Howard County Interscholastic League were announced Thursday by Miss Anne Martin, county superintendent. They were named originally a week ago at a meeting of the Howard County Teachers association.

H. F. Rallsback, Highway, previously announced as director general, will be in charge of the league program.

Other directors serving in the league are W. F. Talley, Coahoma, debate; Miss Dorothy Jordan, Bluff Springs, declamation; Norman C. Malechek, Forsan, extemporaneous speech; J. S. Lamar, Jr., Chalk, Miss Ala B. Collins, Chalk, essay writing; Ted Phillips, Moore, athletics; Miss Elizabeth Coffee, Coahoma, music memory; Noel Y. Burnett, Elbow, arithmetic; M. L. Blackwelder, Forsan, choral club; Miss Edith Wright, Coahoma, tiny tot story telling.

Mrs. Leland L. Martin, Forsan, Mrs. Ann Phillips, Moore, and J. R. Hale, Elbow, were named as an entertainment committee for the teachers association. G. M. Boswell, Coahoma, H. F. Rallsback, Highway, and Miss Ruth Keever, Midway, were appointed as a program committee for the association.

SPORT SLANTS

Baseball fans have been buried under such a mass of dope on the teams taking part in the World Series that many rare performances of the regular championship season have passed unnoticed. In all the excitement one thing stands out clearly—Dizzy Dean is pretty much in a class by himself where big league moundmen are concerned. Had the Cardinals' league pennant instead of the Chicago Cubs Dean's feat of winning 28 ball games would have been broadcast throughout the land as one of the features of the season just closed.

Carl Hubbell's record of 23 victories commanded little attention when the Giants were relegated to third place, and yet that figure equals the best total of wins the clever left-hander has scored in a single season. In 1933, the last season the Giants won the championship, Carl had the best season of his career. His score sheet showed 23 victories.

Derringer Gets Aid
Paul Derringer turned in 21 mound victories for Cincinnati and finally downed the jinx that trailed him since his brilliant freshman year with the St. Louis Cardinals. He pitched brilliant ball this year just as he had done in the past, the main difference being that his teammates came through with a bit of help in the matter of scoring runs for him.

In the spring training camps Wesley Ferrell and Lefty Grove were labelled the two "if men" of the Boston Red Sox. The Boston team's chances in the pennant race, it was freely predicted, rested on the showing of Ferrell and Grove. Both had suffered arm injuries and their value was unknown. The Red Sox's failure to finish no better than fourth was due to a let-down in other departments. Ferrell and Grove exceeded the hopes of even the most optimistic.

Buddy Belts 'Em
Last season Lefty Grove had a difficult time breaking even, winning only 8 and losing the same number. His comeback this season was one of the most remarkable in the history of the big league baseball. Robbed of his terrific speed Lefty set about changing his pitching style. He studied batters and worked on their weaknesses. Like Ferrell, he depended on control to pull him through. His record of 21 victories for the Red Sox is no highwater mark for the fire-ball Grove of old but for the revamped Grove it represents the fruits of a game fight to regain a place among the leading pitchers in the big show.

Buddy Meyer, the Washington Senators' brilliant second baseman, staged a Garrison finish when he punched out four hits in the final game to slip in ahead of Joe Vosmik, of Cleveland, and take the American league batting title. The unofficial figures credit Buddy with a mark of .350—37 points higher than the best mark he ever chalked up before.

Miss Angeletta Russell Is Married To T. E. Boman In Waco With Ring Ceremony

Many Friends And Relatives Assemble For Lovely Early Morning Rites; Couple To Reside In Waco

The nuptials of Miss Angeletta Russell and T. E. Boman were solemnized Sunday morning at 8:30 at Waco at the Columbus Street Baptist church in the presence of about 65 friends and relatives.

The Rev. C. E. Hereford, pastor of the church, was the celebrant, performing the ring ceremony.

The wedding music was played by Miss Nannie Bee Ferguson on the violin, accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Hereford at the piano. Lohengrin's and Mendelssohn's wedding marches were used as processional and recessional. During the ceremony MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" was softly played.

Ushers were William H. Russell of Waco, brother of the bride, and Charles Sparenberg of Austin, nephew of the bride. Other relatives present for the ceremony were Mrs. George Sparenberg, sister of the bride; Walfrid Agnell, nephew, both of Austin and Mrs. A. D. Rowan of San Angelo, a sister of the bride. Mrs. Della K. Agnell of this city, with whom Mrs. Boman visited during her many trips here, was unable to get away something borrowed she wore a wrist watch belonging to her chum, and for something new, a gold bracelet that was the gift of Mrs. Agnell.

Her traveling costume was a black crepe suit with white stretched taffeta trim and black accessories.

Miss Ferguson was attired in a blue crepe street frock, with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink ranunculus and plumosa fern. Mrs. Hereford wore a brown crepe with brown velvet coat and brown accessories. Yellow Furuvian roses and fern composed her corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Boman left immediately after the ceremony by automobile for a short trip to Houston and Galveston. Upon their return they will be at home at 902 North Tenth street, Waco.

Well Known Here

Mrs. Boman, who is well known in Big Spring, lived here as a child and moved from here to Waco several years ago to make her home in Big Spring for a short time. She is the daughter of the late Mrs. C. C. Russell, the sister of Mrs. Agnell of Big Spring and the cousin of Mrs. Tom Ashley. She received her high schooling in Belton and attended Mary Hardin Baylor college. She devoted her life to her mother and was her constant companion until Mrs. Russell passed away about two years ago. She has been active in the work of the Baptist church wherever she lived. Members of the First Baptist church of Big Spring paid her a tribute of friendship and appreciation in a lovely shower of gifts during her visit in Big Spring last week-end.

Mr. Boman is the son of Mrs. C. S. Boman of Waco. He has made his home in Waco for many years. He is a successful business man, being engaged in the profession of interior decorating.

Homemakers Of First Christian Fete Mrs. Moore

The Homemakers of the First Christian Sunday school met at the home of Mrs. C. M. Shaw Thursday afternoon. Mrs. G. W. Dabney assisted her as co-hostess.

Election of officers occupied the business session. Mrs. Glass Glenn was elected president; Mrs. M. C. Lawrence, vice-president; Mrs. R. W. Ogden, teacher; Mrs. Roy Miner, assistant teacher; Mrs. C. M. Shaw, secretary, and Mrs. J. H. Stiff, treasurer.

Mrs. T. W. Moore, who is moving to Lubbock, was the honoree for a shower of handkerchiefs as farewell gifts from the members.

Refreshments of pie, whipped cream and coffee were served to: Mmes. J. G. Coldiron, Tom Baker, T. W. Moore, George W. Hall, R. J. Michael, C. A. Murdock, Delmont Lees.

High Third-Graders Tell P.-T. A. Story Of Benjamin Franklin; Mrs. W. W. Inkman Makes Talk

Excellent Attendance And Enthusiastic Reports Feature October Session Of West Ward Parent-Teachers

Mrs. W. W. Inkman addressed the members of the West Ward P.-T.A. Thursday afternoon with an interesting talk on "Home Work." She gave a parent's point of view on whether pupils should be assigned home work.

The meeting was opened with a song service led by Mrs. Bob Parks, devotional by Mrs. T. A. Roberts and a prayer by Mrs. Bickley.

The room program was given by Mrs. Munnell's pupils of the high third grade. It was scenes from the life of Benjamin Franklin. They sang a lullaby to show Franklin as a baby. Then portrayed him on the way to Philadelphia at a meeting of Junco club, and on his visit with the French king which was concluded with the singing of Yankee Doodle. They did their songs exceptionally well.

During the business session, over which Mrs. L. L. Gulley presided, encouraging reports were made by committee chairmen. Mrs. Gulley urged the members to take advantage of the P.T.A. study course sponsored by the council and conducted by Mrs. Charles Koebig.

Mrs. Agnell's room won the attendance contest, having present 16 members and three fathers.

Present were: Mmes. Raymond Winn, H. H. Rutherford, C. E. Gardner, C. Perry, D. W. Adkins, Ira Thurman, Ray Simmons, C. C. Harris, Claude Eppler, L. R. Slaughter, R. W. Randolph, J. H. Thompkins, E. Rev. R. E. Day Speaks Thursday To Midland Rotes

MIDLAND — The Rev. Robert Day, pastor of the First Baptist church at Big Spring, addressed the Midland Rotary club Thursday on "Playing the Game of Life." His speech was inspirational in nature but filled with humor and logic.

Rotarians of Midland voted today to move back to the Hotel Scharbauer for luncheons and meetings, a poll last week having shown a three to one majority for the move. The "minority" wing today voted to make it unanimous.

The decision was made because of the club's growth and the fact that with average attendance and a few visitors the attendance is too large for convenient serving in the court house assembly room where the club has met for two years. The luncheon next Tuesday will be at Hotel Scharbauer. Expressions of appreciation to women's groups for serving the Rotary group was made and much credit for the club's growth was attributed to their aid. Visitors today included Rotarians Day and Bill Crook of Big Spring.

F. E. Swenson of Houston, Cecil Callings of Big Spring and M. T. Tucker of San Angelo.

First Methodist To Greet Board Of Stewards Sunday

Homecoming day will be observed at the First Methodist church Sunday with open house in the afternoon from 1:30 to 5 o'clock. An opportunity will be given every member who comes to greet personally the board of stewards. There will be a register desk at which the members will be asked to leave their names and correct addresses.

The Board of Stewards are also arranging to make it convenient for members to make their annual pledges at this time. This is being done at the request of many who have not found the old system agreeable, said the chairman of the board.

The women of the Missionary Society will render a musical program and serve tea in the parlor. The stewards will be in the main auditorium.

This is being planned as a come and go affair and a wide range of hours has been arranged so that every member of the First Methodist church will be able to attend.

Rev. A. T. Dyal To Fill Pulpit Here Sunday

Rev. A. T. Dyal, pastor of the Columbia Presbyterian church, will occupy the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church in Big Spring Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and again in the evening at 8 o'clock. It was announced Friday morning. Sunday school will be conducted beginning at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

The public is cordially invited to attend each and every service.

Stewed Prunes
(No Sugar Required)
1-2 pound dried prunes, 4 cups water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon.
Wash prunes well, cover with water and let soak over night or the equivalent time. Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Add rest of ingredients and simmer 30 minutes.
If long slow cooking is used for prunes the natural sweet is brought out so that no sugar is required.

Baked Apples
4 pears, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon butter, 1-3 cup water or orange juice.
Peel pears, cut in halves and remove cores. Place in shallow pan and sprinkle with sugar. Add rest of ingredients. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Baste every 10 minutes.

1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-4 cup vinegar or lemon juice
2-3 cup salad oil
Mix ingredients and beat well. Chill, beat with fork and serve on any kind of salad.

Apple Pie
2-3 cups flour
2-3 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup lard
1-4 cup cold water
Mix flour and salt. Cut in lard with knife. Mixing with knife, slowly add water. When stiff dough forms, break off 2-3 of it and roll out and fit into pie pan. Add apples, cover with remaining dough, folded out. Make 4 slits in top and bake 10 minutes in hot oven. Lower fire and make 50 minutes in moderately slow oven.

Lightning Kills Midland Cowboy
MIDLAND—Harold Nolen, 22, employe of the C ranch operated by the Midland Farms Co., was killed by a bolt of lightning at about 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when he was riding horseback to the ranch headquarters from an outlying pasture.
The tragedy was not discovered for four hours, when Jack Cotter, ranch foreman, became alarmed about his failure to return to the ranch and employes started a search.
Nolen had gone after a bull, and the bolt of lightning killed the horse he was riding, also the bull which he was driving to the headquarters place. The lightning was in connection with a shower which came from the northwest.
Nolen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Nolen, live at Lamesa and his sister, Miss Ora Mae Nolen, is employe at the American beauty shop here. Three sisters and a brother also live at Lamesa. All arrived here today.
Funeral services were scheduled for this afternoon at the Ellis Funeral Home here, with burial at Fairview cemetery. Pall bearers include employes of the C ranch of which H. G. Bedford is manager.

Cover crops to improve his land are a part of the agricultural faith of Henry W. Meyer of Realitos, Duval county. Mr. Meyer bases his faith on works, having in 1934 planted 25 acres of land to cowpeas which were grazed and then turned under. This land produced eight and a third bales of cotton in 1935, a yield well above the county average.

Louis Young of Katy, Harris county, has a baby beef which has made gains of approximately three pounds daily. The calf is now on a ration composed of 70 per cent corn, 20 per cent rolled oats, and 10 per cent pea sized cotton seed meal. Louis, who is a 4-H club boy, is planning to show the calf at Houston.

To J. E. McDaniel, out in the Shidell community, goes the distinction of digging the first trench 150 in Wise county. This trench, which is 10 feet wide at the top by 8 feet wide at the bottom and 7 feet deep by 80 feet long, has a capacity of about 90 tons of silage and will provide sufficient feed, so far as roughage is concerned, for the entire winter and well into the spring for his dairy cattle.

He was closely followed by L. L. Mouse Saturday morning.

The stage show follows:
Song: "The Lady in Red"—La Voyce Short.
Chorus: Genevieve and Byrdine Labger, Sweetie Hair and Jane Marie Tingle.
Reading: "Woes of an Unwilling Orator"—Maurice Beal Francis.
Song with ukule: "Never Say Never" new words and come to Mickey er"—Jane Marie Tingle.

Burros, just out of Decatur, who has completed another silo, 5 feet wide at the top by 6 feet wide at the bottom and 7 feet deep by 70 feet long, with a capacity of about 90 tons of silage.
Mrs. W. A. Truckles of the Unity community in Lampasas county has saved 730 white leghorn pullets which have begun laying. She has a 500-acre farm located on the Lampasas river which produces grain well, and this year's grain crop will be utilized to a large extent in feeding poultry.

Adult Bible Class To Be Organized By Episcopalians

The Rev. P. Walter Henckel will organize an adult Bible Class Sunday morning at 9:45 a. m. at St. Mary's Episcopal church. Both men and women are invited to the class. The subject which the rector has chosen for the class is "God's Progressive Revelation of Himself." The minister intends to trace the revelation of God in Genesis and the subsequent books of the Bible, showing that God revealed Himself slowly and progressively as man was able to understand.
Mr. Henckel said, "The Bible is the record of an amazing development. We will trace the growth of the idea of God from the local tribal God of Genesis to the Universal Father of the New Testament."

Anyone who desires a modern interpretation of the Bible will be most welcome to attend this class. It will meet for one hour beginning at 9:45 next Sunday morning.

Tommy Hitchcock Midland Visitor

MIDLAND—Tommy Hitchcock, one of the three leading high goal polo players of the world, spent Thursday at Midland, having come here from New York City on business in connection with operations of the Sioles Oil Company in Winkler county.
While in conference with Claude Duffey of Midland, Hitchcock became acquainted with horse owners of this section and expressed great surprise at the strides being made in the breeding and sale of polo ponies.
A son-in-law of Andrew Mellon, he has extensive oil operations. He expressed regret that he did not have his visit to Midland so that he could attend the Midland Fair rodeo.

CONTRACT 1935 RULES EXPLAINED

Squeeze Protection
When the declarer is running out a long string of one suit for the obvious purpose of making a low card a winner by forcing discards, it behooves the defending partners to count carefully, the one protecting the other if possible. Especially is this the case when one defender has to discard honors in a side suit.

South was the declarer in a contract for five diamonds, the bid being having gone: North one club, East pass; South one diamond; West one spade; North three diamonds; East pass; South four diamonds; West pass; North five diamonds.

West led the ace and a low spade, which was won South with the king. The last spade from the South hand was trumped North, and a diamond was led.

In with the trump ace, West led a low heart through North's ace-queen. The trick was taken with the ace.

The declarer, Mrs. Maud Zontlein, playing in a rubber game at the Algonquin Club, New York, was doubtful of the success of either the heart finesse or the club finesse, since West had bid spades

NEW RESIDENTIAL CONSTRUCTION

An example of the new type of residential construction going on in Big Spring is the recently completed home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schermerhorn on McFaren slope in Edwards Heights. Of Spanish type construction, the house is modern throughout, even down to air conditioning. With Scen-only once and already had shown up with two aces. If he held one or two kings besides, he probably would have bid more. She assumed that the heart and club kings lay East and the only possibility of taking the remaining tricks was by a squeeze, real or otherwise.

With that end in view she played out the rest of the diamonds. The defenders had to make six discards each.

West knew that he had the only spades left, so he discarded the two of them on the first two of the six diamonds. Then he let go his two low clubs and then his remain-

FIRST METHODIST
Alonzo Bickly, Pastor
Sunday school at 9:45, A. Schnitzer, superintendent. Preaching ser-

the defense could do would set the contract. These two cards were obviously not both hearts, because the declarer would have taken the ace of clubs when in the North hand. If the two cards were both low clubs, West would have to rely on East to prevent the club queen from making. The most likely thing was that South would have one heart and one low club left after the diamond string was run out, especially since any squeeze play needed an entry to the North hand.

Had West held for his last two cards the nine of hearts and any other card he chose, the declarer would have had to make a futile effort on the twelfth trick either to finesse against the club king or to drop it.

Advertising Pays, Says Herman Fuhrer

Advertising pays! Herman Fuhrer, manager of the Mellinger Dry Goods Store will vouch for that. Wednesday the Big Spring Daily Herald carried a close-out advertisement on the McDonald stock, purchased by Mellinger's. At the opening of the sale Thursday morning there was such a crowd of bargain seekers that the doors of the store were opened but eight times for one minute periods, during the entire day. At closing time there was still a crowd waiting at the doors to be admitted.

12 DIE AS TRANSPORT CRASHES ON WYOMING PLAIN

Nine passengers and the three members of the crew of an Oakland-to-New York transport of United Air Lines were crushed to death on the rolling plains 15 miles from Cheyenne, Wyo. The wreckage, shown above, was found by an aerial searching party sent out when the plane failed to arrive. (Associated Press Photo)

BUT IT DIDN'T STOP THEM

The Tigers tried to put the sixth game of the series on ice in the first inning of the sixth encounter, but the coasting Cubs nipped the early rally at one run in the above manner. Gehring was caught at home plate, French to Hartnett, forced on Rogell's roller. The umpire is Quigley; Owen was just standing by to bat. The Tigers renewed their assault in the ninth to win the game 3 to 2, and also the '35 series. (Associated Press Photo)

MORNING STAR

BY MARIAN SIMS

Chapter 35 TRUTH COMES OUT

Sunday, the day after Christmas, Emily moved restlessly about, throwing out faded flowers, putting greeting cards into a box to be used as an index to next year's list, emptying ashtrays that had been filled by their Christmas callers.

She took the box of cards, she decided, and went to the guest room desk, where they would be quite out of the way until next year. She opened the guest room door and stopped short upon the threshold.

Edwin was inside, quite motionless, staring into the opened chest that held the tiny possessions of Jeffrey Felton Barnes.

She had carefully refrained during Christmas day from any mention of the thing nearest her heart and the sight broke her completely. With a tearing sob she crossed the room and put her arms about his.

"Oh, my darling, can't we help each other?"

The silence that followed was like a cold hand upon her heart. She realized suddenly that Edwin's arms were not holding her; they were merely about her. She raised her head and looked intently into his expressionless face.

"I didn't know," he said finally, in a level, monotonous voice, "that you needed help."

In that instant she understood. Understood his first rush of tenderness after the baby's death and his gradual withdrawal during the past few weeks.

Edwin had been trained to a rigid code of respect for the dead and he had expected her to mourn, to grieve and to suffer.

He had doubtless expected her to wear black clothes for a year as an outward indication that her heart was broken, and at the end of the year to take them off because her heart had mended suddenly, in a day.

And understanding that, she saw for the first time how hopeless it all was; how useless her struggles and concessions and sacrifices had been. In a year and a half Edwin had learned so little about her that he could think she didn't care.

He still measured her conduct in terms of conventional behavior, in a thing that lay so close to her heart. She realized that after this she could never try to please, or even to live with him, no matter what she had promised.

She looked into his eyes for a great many seconds. "Would you mind coming into the living-room where it's warm?" she asked steadily. "There are a lot of things I'd like to talk to you about."

He followed her wordlessly and they faced each other on the hearth. He politely offered her a chair but she shook her head. You didn't fight for your life sitting down.

"Edwin," she said finally, "you don't love me at all, do you?"

He hesitated. "You make it difficult, don't you?"

"That isn't what I'm asking just now. Do you?"

"I don't feel as I once did," he confessed honestly. "You're such a different person."

"Meaning that you loved me once but that you don't care any more?" she insisted. "Don't be afraid of my feelings; I haven't any left."

"I know it," he said. "That's why I can't love you—as much."

"That's what I wanted to find out." She was amazed at the steadiness of her own voice; she scarcely recognized it. "Now then will you tell me why you changed?"

"Because you did," he said promptly. "Your leaving me—was the first blow; you'll never know what that cost me. And you've been different ever since you came back from Birmingham. You knew how I felt about things—before you married me, and instead of respecting my views you've disregarded them entirely. Laughed at them; not openly, but really, from the very first."

"Has it occurred to you, Edwin," she asked, "that the reason I left you in the first place was because I wasn't altogether in accord with your views about things?"

"You never said so before we married."

"You would never give me a chance. You avoided talking about important subjects as if they had been indecent. But it didn't matter so much then because I wasn't your property. I didn't belong to you."

He made a gesture of protest but she disregarded it. "And did it never occur to you," she drove her arrows mercilessly home, "that having left you once and having come back, under duress, as it were, because I promised when you were so desperately ill, that I might need to be humored in my eccentricities if I was to be happy with you? You were so frightfully upset over the discovery that I wasn't making you a good wife that you overlooked completely the possibility that you might be making me a bad husband?"

He defended himself hotly. "I've never been unfaithful to you even in my mind."

She laughed ruefully. "My dear man, you might have betrayed me half a dozen times and it wouldn't have been half so fatal as constantly disapproving of me."

"You say?" he cried. "That's exactly the sort of thing I'm talking about. You deliberately laugh at everything I hold sacred. You'd laugh at anything on earth."

"I've laughed most of the time, Edwin, to keep from crying. And at least I haven't tried to change your opinions; I've let you cherish them in peace."

"There's no need to be ashamed of them," he insisted complacently. "At least, their morality isn't questionable."

She sighed. "It must be lovely to be so sure of your own infallibility. That's the spirit that makes me think that uncompromising morality does more to foster vice than anything else in the world."

She broke off suddenly. It was as if she and Edwin were speaking different languages, and there was no interpreter present. She realized with amazement that she disliked Edwin more than she had ever disliked anyone in her life, and that she had always disliked him.

She had lived with him a year and a half, and in that time their spirits had never even approached each other. And having made her discovery she asked only to be done with the whole relationship.

He could not deny that, but his silence indicated plainly that there was very little in a woman's affairs that interested him.

"And I've been affectionate, Ed—was." She was determined that he should acknowledge her virtues as well as her failings; this time her conscience was going to be clear. "There have been times when I've put a great deal more into—careless—than you have. I've often blushed you lately when I've had the feeling that you would never have thought of it."

His silence was a tacit admission of that. With all his prejudices Edwin was as honest as herself.

"And as for—the baby—" her voice broke on that, "you've never known about the nights I've cried myself to sleep, because you were already asleep. I've tried to fill the vacuum, and you haven't realized that the reason I've worked so hard to fill it was because the vacuum was so unbearable!"

She couldn't talk any more of that if she was to get through this thing. She steeled, summed it up tersely.

"Then the reason I've failed—lost your love—is because I haven't been able to change my self?"

"If you want to put it that way."

"And you can't, or won't, see that my self is just as important, just as vital, to me as yours is to you? It's the one thing I'll never change, even to make you happy."

"I don't expect you to. I stopped expecting that a long time ago."

She gathered her courage into her hands. "Then, Edwin, we're going to get a divorce."

"What?" He was speechless with amazement.

"Yes." She almost smiled at his consternation. "I promised to stay as long as you wanted me. You've admitted that you don't love me; I'm telling you now that I don't love you. That ends it automatically."

Her only thought now was to get away. She caught up a hat and coat and without a backward glance walked swiftly from the house.

No. 3—MIST AND FOG

SO LONG as there is light we may skip around at a lively rate over this old globe of ours. We may span oceans in surprising time. We may cross the continent from sun-up to sun-down.

But every now and then Mother Nature decides to put us in our place, and at all her devices to make us slow down, none is more effective than mist and fog.

Now we may not have to contend with fog and mist very frequently, but we're bound to now and then, and when we do, it can cause us a lot of annoyance and trouble.

When a good heavy fog comes on land, at sea or in the air—everything that moves, moves with caution. The ocean liner slows down several knots an hour. Lightships signal, buoys sound and foghorns boom. Airlines ground their planes and cancel trips.

Even trains on tracks race their speed—and drivers on the highways, too, must make our way cautiously through that baffling screen. For one thing is true. In spite of all our progress, transportation still depends on pairs of eyes in human heads.

Scientists who have studied fog, say that it is composed of tiny drops of water. These drops are so small and light that they hang in the air, and so close together that light can hardly get through them. Instead, these little drops act like tiny convex mirrors. When we try to pierce them with a beam of light, a great deal of it is thrown right back at us, so the effect is just like a dark, gleaming white curtain in front of us.

Experienced drivers say that the first thing to do is to get our lights right. The main thing is to direct the beams downward. If we have them shining straight ahead, those little mist-drop mirrors reflect the rays back in our eyes. But if they're pointing downward, the rays are deflected toward the road.

Then they say it's a good idea to guide by the road edge at our right, and if we have a spotlight on our car, to focus it right on that road edge, close to the front of the car, so the edge will be clearly lighted. But we have to keep a good weather eye ahead, too, because fog veils more than the road. It hides not only things on the road but such things as roadside warnings of curves and hills and intersections. Even the traffic light's red and green signal rays have the same hard time that our headlights do getting through that strange haze. In fact, in a good heavy fog, the best we can do for our vision is none too good. And so the main thing is to slow down.

The ships have to do it, the trains have to do it, and we have to do it, too. If we won't make up our minds to that, they tell us the best thing we can do is to pull off the road, or if we have not yet started out, we had better just stay home.

But seeing in fog and mist is only half the story. We not only have to see, but we also have to be seen. Our headlights properly adjusted are strong enough to do their duty in pointing us out to people coming from the opposite direction. And, in addition, some drivers use their horns like foghorns by giving them a toot every now and then. But another thing we have to think of is to be sure drivers behind us see us. That's why it's so important to have our stop-signal and tail-light working when we're driving in fog. And so it's a good thing to make sure that these lights are working and to wipe off those little red glass bits if they happen to be covered with mud. If the weather's clear and our tail-light has gone out, the other fellow's lights may point us out fairly well. But if his headlights are fighting fog, they can't do much to protect us.

So, when all is said and done, driving in fog is just a matter of having our headlights and tail-lights right and being a little more careful. If we do that, we can drive our cars safely, even through Nature's stubborn obstacles of mist and fog.

Meat Specialities That Are High In Vitamin Content

By MARTHA LOGAN. Confess now—how often do you crave those extra edible parts of meat such as heart, sweetbreads, brains, tongue and kidneys at your house? Not very often, will weager, in spite of the fact that they stretch the meat dollar a little farther and contain an extra quota of vitamins and minerals, as well as high quality protein. Maybe it's just your memory that needs jogging. If that's the case, here's a bit of a jog for it in the shape of a few suggestions on how to prepare those most delightful meat specialties which offer exceptional possibilities for unusual flavor, appetizing aroma, and—above all—welcome variety in the menu.

Sweetbreads

Sweetbreads are considered a great delicacy in most sections of the country. As soon as received, remove any loose membranes. Cover the sweetbreads with cold water, add one-half lemon or one tablespoon of vinegar, and soak one-half hour. Then drain and cover with boiling water, allowing one teaspoon of salt and one and one-half tablespoons of vinegar to each quart of water. Simmer twenty minutes, remove from heat, drain and plunge into cold water. Keep in cold water until ready to use to prevent darkening. Do not allow the meat to stand longer than one day and keep in the refrigerator.

The usual methods of preparing sweetbreads after parboiling are: broiling, creaming, rolling in cracker or breadcrumb and frying, baking, braising with or without vegetables, heating in tomato sauce, or combining with vegetables in a salad.

Since the flavor of sweetbreads is delicate, many cooks like to marinate them in a French dressing with sliced onion to give them a higher flavor when they are to be broiled, sautéed or fried. The parboiled sweetbreads may stand in

By MARTHA LOGAN. Confess now—how often do you crave those extra edible parts of meat such as heart, sweetbreads, brains, tongue and kidneys at your house? Not very often, will weager, in spite of the fact that they stretch the meat dollar a little farther and contain an extra quota of vitamins and minerals, as well as high quality protein. Maybe it's just your memory that needs jogging. If that's the case, here's a bit of a jog for it in the shape of a few suggestions on how to prepare those most delightful meat specialties which offer exceptional possibilities for unusual flavor, appetizing aroma, and—above all—welcome variety in the menu.

Sweetbreads

Sweetbreads are considered a great delicacy in most sections of the country. As soon as received, remove any loose membranes. Cover the sweetbreads with cold water, add one-half lemon or one tablespoon of vinegar, and soak one-half hour. Then drain and cover with boiling water, allowing one teaspoon of salt and one and one-half tablespoons of vinegar to each quart of water. Simmer twenty minutes, remove from heat, drain and plunge into cold water. Keep in cold water until ready to use to prevent darkening. Do not allow the meat to stand longer than one day and keep in the refrigerator.

The usual methods of preparing sweetbreads after parboiling are: broiling, creaming, rolling in cracker or breadcrumb and frying, baking, braising with or without vegetables, heating in tomato sauce, or combining with vegetables in a salad.

Since the flavor of sweetbreads is delicate, many cooks like to marinate them in a French dressing with sliced onion to give them a higher flavor when they are to be broiled, sautéed or fried. The parboiled sweetbreads may stand in Senator Schacht for smooth financial maneuvering. His promise to about taking their I. O. U.'s they figure they might as well have lots of cash on tap for the purpose.

Sidelights—
Senator Black has turned a crew of his lobby investigation probes loose on New York... They're as popular as ants at a picnic... The Argentine central government is having an argument with some of its departments (states)... There may be trouble... Other railroads are expected to follow New York Central's example and make a deal with bus lines.

Black-Draught and Good Health Year After Year

"I have never had a bad sick spell and for years I have taken Black-Draught for the least symptom of upset stomach or sluggish feeling," writes Mr. W. F. Pulliam, of Gatwood, Mo. "I am a very hearty eater and sometimes I eat too much. If I feel uncomfortable, I just take a small dose of Black-Draught and soon feel all right. I feel I owe my good health to use of this reliable vegetable medicine, Black-Draught."

Where constipation is at the bottom of such troubles as Mr. Pulliam mentions, take a good laxative. Thousands of men and women have given Black-Draught credit for having helped them to avoid serious development of constipation troubles—adv.

yers and lobbyists to Washington to cash in on public ignorance. But the new Motor Carrier Act regulating trucks and buses has produced the prize "sucker" screed of the year. A truck operator received a legal letter which read, in part, as follows:

"For the past year the writer has made a specialty of matters before the Public Utilities Commission of the state of —, particularly in cases involving certificates and permitted carriers. Because of my acquaintance with the members of the commission and through the aid of a member of the — senate, the results have been 100 per cent satisfactory to clients. I will be too glad to handle your application, and will go so far as to guarantee your permit or no charge to you. On account of the large number of cases in which I am retained, I am making a very low fee of $40 for each applicant, etc."

The trucking operator replied that he knew two senators. But most people solicited fell for it, which helps explain why the poorer get poorer and the political lawyers richer every year.

Realize it our diplomatic salesman has recently crossed five nations off his list. Trade with Italy and Ethiopia is barred by the embargo proclamation. Germany has also been invited outside because of her insistence on a system of barter. We have had to tell Japan in a polite way to restrict shipment of textiles to this country. And consummation of a treaty with Canada is improbable because Premier Bennett is running for reelection.

These are signs that the new authority to impose quotas on some farm products may be invoked soon. Without any advertising the treasury has imposed extra-heavy duties on Danish butter which had been flooding this country. Its agents discovered that the Danes were subsidizing their exporters—that is, "dumping" the product over here. The expert practices of several other nations are now under scrutiny. There will be another crackdown soon on the tariff front.

Revised—
New Yorkers have been paying close attention to the president's speeches on his western tour. As a result they are beginning to take more stock in his "breathing spell" for business.

They note that FDR's recent talks have taken a new tone. He has laid off lambasting big finance and industry. Such criticisms as he has offered of right wingers have been amazingly mild—all the more amazing because he has been traveling in a section which might normally be expected to respond to attacks on "the interests." His San Diego speech was rated especially significant of an altered philosophy. In that one he stressed "individual achievement" almost in the Republican manner.

Astute observers figure that Mr. Roosevelt is breaking ground for a revised political strategy that will hold good through '36. They predict he will proceed on the premise that the west and south are safe—with Huey Long dead—and devote his political energies to recapturing the confidence of the industrial east.

Popular—
Major George L. Berry is trying to win business support for his job of coordinating industrial recovery by arranging for virtual suspension of the anti-trust laws. Insiders understand he has had several talks with department of justice representatives—along that line.

Big business leaders wish him all success in his plan but are frankly skeptical. They are convinced that the Federal Trade Commission's anti-trust action against the National Electric Manufacturers is a more accurate wind-vane than the hopes Major Berry holds out.

It is also pointed out that trust-busting is always a popular pastime when the cost of living is climbing—and it's due to climb for quite a while to come.

Opponents of the potato-control law are clamoring for another hearing... Several congressional investigating committees are about to begin hearings... Americans in Mexico complain of injustice under the socialization laws... The Coast Guard will keep a lookout for clandestine arms exports... Mr. McGuffin is after Mr. Tugwell for grabbing employes from other agencies at increased salaries... New Dealers are consternated by this enforcement of FDR's order.

Reversed—
Europe's troubled state has benched Secretary Hull's pet reciprocal tariff treaties project for a while.

In fact, Mr. Hull has signed treaties with fewer nations than he has had to crack down on with the tariff weapon. Though few

Charge—
Republican scouts claim that the New Dealers are fighting foul in their efforts to prevent a GOP comeback. The public accusations have been made as yet but they will be when backstage managers decide they will do the most damage.

So far the GOP has had pretty good luck at lining up contributions for its 1936 war chest—much better luck than the Democrats. Corporations have been chipping in with something like old-fashioned enthusiasm. The story runs that key New Dealers alarmed at Republican progress—have been privately telling potential corporate contributors they would be wiser not to bet the enemy! Delicate but pointed hints are said to have been dropped about legislative and other reprisals.

OMITTED—
Industrialists are becoming more interested in the Trade Commission's attempt to promote voluntary codes. Suspicious at first, they are now beginning to believe that they have nothing to lose and perhaps something to gain by playing along.

When NRA died and the Trade Commission began to take over, business men were vocally against having NRA labor provisions foisted on them again by some form of back-door phenging. Now they are finally convinced that the commission has no objection if they frame codes without hour and wage clauses.

Not only that—there are no benefits or exemptions as a reward for including labor provisions. So naturally these will be omitted from all codes under commission auspices—and code-making will progress more rapidly.
