

Italians, Ethiopians Engage In Battle

News Behind The News THE NATIONAL Whirligig

Uncle Sam is rapidly becoming the world's greatest owner of land. He held title to many broad acres before but the New Deal has opened up the biggest land office in history since the Alaska and Louisiana purchases.

You haven't heard much about it because the real estate activity has just begun to boom in earnest. The land office of the Department of Justice is clearing 500 titles a week.

The figures aren't forthcoming yet but Uncle Sam bought 20,000,000 acres for $28,000,000 in the 1935 fiscal year; it will be 40,000,000 in 1936. Those 80,000,000 acres represent an area almost twice as large as England.

There's a hidden reason—and maneuver—behind the flourishes and ruffles with which the administration announced abandonment of its slum clearance program.

What happened is that many owners of land wanted by the government rushed into court to bewail invasion of their property rights. When several district courts held that the government could not condemn land for this purpose the actions piled up everywhere.

Grumbles—A friend of the president recently drafted to coordinate federal construction activities called his first regional conference a few days ago. He sat down with local representatives of numerous agencies—HOLC, FERA, RFC, etc.—to develop a system which would speed up the machinery.

Coalition Sought To Defeat Wet Bloc Plan Cubs Win 1st Game Of World Series

Speaker Asks For Ruling On Local Option To Determine If Liquor Can Be Sold By The Drink In Hotels, Restaurants

AUSTIN (AP)—Speaker Coke Stevenson sought legal authority for a ruling on whether the legislature could pass a law authorizing local option territories to determine if liquor could be sold by the drink in restaurants and hotels.

Stevenson indicated he would hold the amendment unconstitutional, but deferred a decision while the sponsors' plan sought an opinion from the attorney general's department.

AUSTIN (AP)—Representatives favoring the state monopoly over liquor sales sought a coalition effort to defeat the wet bloc plan of licensing hotels and restaurants to serve drinks with meals.

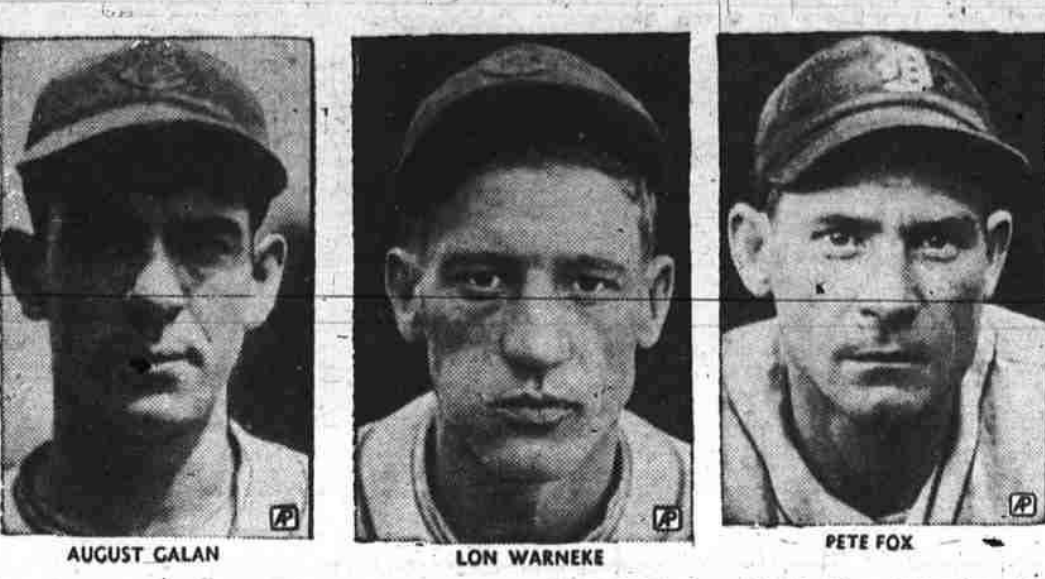

Leaders hoped to recruit sufficient strength to limit whiskey sales to unbroken packages by private dealers.

The sub-committee ordered study of a bill to triple the oil production tax and a substitute proposing a graduated levy.

PURL TESTIFIES AUSTIN (AP)—Former State Senator George Purl, Dallas, chain store legislative representative, told the senate investigating committee he tried to prevent chain store's discharging a senator's son-in-law during the last session of the legislature.

He said he wrote to his employer, Robert Lyon, Washington, after the senator, who since resigned, asked him to intervene.

Heroes Of The First World Series Game

Galan, Chicago left fielder, scored the first run for his team in the initial inning, leading off with a double. Pete Fox, Detroit's big right fielder, got two of the Tigers' four hits, one a double. Lon Warneke, the winning pitcher, hurled four-hit ball.

Cubs Score Two Runs In First And One In Ninth, As Detroit Falls GALAN GETS FIRST HIT IN THE SERIES

DETROIT, NAVIN FIELD (Sp.)—Chicago's Cubs, champions of the National league got away to a flying start in the 1935 world series with the Detroit Tigers here today by tacking up a 3 to 0 win, scoring two runs in the first inning and another in the ninth.

The Tigers made the same start they did in the series a year ago by losing the first game in the first inning. Augie Galan, leadoff man for the Cubs, doubled sharply to center field. Billy Herman, next man up for Chicago, was safe on an error and Galan scored from second on the play.

Lindstrom sacrificed Herman to second and Gabby Hartnett singled to right field, scoring Herman. Frank Demaree, the cub's big right fielder, first man up in Chicago's half of the ninth inning, smashed one of Rowe's offerings over the center field barrier for a home run.

The Schopolby pitched good ball for Detroit but Warneke failed to weaken except to skin through some tight spots brought about by his wildness. Rowe showed a wild streak in the fourth frame when he walked Greenberg and Goslin in succession, but tightened and came through without damage.

Rowe gave up seven hits and Warneke four. The two teams meet in the second game of the series here tomorrow.

Lon Warneke pitched a fast ball and sweeping curve for the Cubs. He equaled the record set in 1902 by Nick Altrock for assists in a World Series game, coming through with eight assists and one put-out. Altrock is the comedian coach of the Detroit Tigers.

Newspaper Reports Fighting Starts In Mussa Ali Region

Mussolini Speaks To Ten Million Italians, Saying The Nation Would Meet Force With Force

"SOLEMN HOUR ABOUT TO BREAK IN HISTORY," SAYS MUSSOLINI British Cabinet Convenes And Votes Overwhelmingly To Support Proposed Sanctions To Curb Italy

The newspaper Paris Soir said its Addis Ababa correspondent reported that Italian and Ethiopian troops began fighting in Mussa Ali region in Ethiopia, with casualties reported. Previous Addis Ababa reports said no Ethiopian troops were in that vicinity.

The newspaper said three advancing columns of Italians, numbering 25,000 men, battled irregular Danakil tribal warriors, but had not engaged the Ethiopian regulars. The Egyptian cabinet was convened in special session after Sir Miles Lampson, British high commissioner, flew to Alexandria for an unexpected interview with King Faud.

The British cabinet met after King George conferred with the foreign secretary and minister of war in regard to Italo-Ethiopian situation. The British labor party voted overwhelmingly to support proposed sanctions to curb Italy.

Premier Mussolini pledged the nation to meet force with force and bear economic sanctions "with discipline." "War will be met with war," he said. Mussolini spoke into a microphone on the balcony of Venezia Palace, Rome. He was heard by millions of fascists over the nation.

He declared "a solemn hour was about to break in history." High authorities said Emperor Selassie will proclaim general mobilization of Ethiopian forces Thursday.

Italy denied East Africa troop movements, but dispatched more soldiers toward the Ethiopian frontier. Fascist Geneva delegates were reported speculating as to whether Great Britain would ask France to join an air blockade of Italy if the sanctions were imposed against Italy.

$45,000 County Road Bonds Refunded; Saving Effected

Local Banks Close Deal With County Commissioners Howard county commissioners court Tuesday afternoon closed a deal with the First National and State National banks in Big Spring to refund the outstanding $45,000 of a bond issue.

The two banks were low bidders with an offer of par for the bonds and all expenses attached to refunding. By refunding the issue, an interest saving of $11,784.40 is effected. The bonds, part of a $100,000 road issue of April 10, 1931, were due in 1931 and drew 5 per cent interest.

As refunded, they draw an interest rate of 3 3/8 per cent over a period of 10 years. Interest under the old set up would have cost $21,374 by the time all the bonds had been retired in 1951. The new bonds will draw only $9,590.60 by 1945 when the issue will have been retired.

Tax Payments Exceed 1934

Three Public Agencies Receive Good Percentage In Tax Payments Current tax payments coming into three public agencies during the first two days of October Wednesday brought prospects of the best percentage collection in recent years.

The Big Spring Independent school district led the county and city in amount of tax payments, reporting a total collection to noon Wednesday of $7,422.02. The city was second but far under the school district. About half a dozen payments were made to the county and state. Ten persons paid their poll taxes.

Mrs. Waits Honored By 3 Friends

Birthday Party Is Held At Home Of Mrs. Myers
Mrs. J. A. Myers was hostess for a surprise birthday party for Mrs. J. C. Waits, Sr., Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Lester Short and Mrs. Clem Ratliff were hostesses also.

The Myers home was cleverly decorated with spooky Halloween objects. Everything from the black cats to the floral decorations of nigger-toes carried out the orange and black color scheme.

Mrs. C. E. Shive and Mrs. W. A. Miller called for the honoree and took her to the party after the guests had arrived. When she came in, they sang out "Happy Birthday to You."

An appropriate program was carried out with ghost stories told by the honoree and Bob Short in the form of readings. Mrs. J. L. Hudson and Mrs. F. D. Wilson awarded Bob the prize which he gallantly presented to Mrs. Waits.

The gifts were cleverly presented as the climax of the party.

Apple sauce, coffee and whipped cream, coffee and toasted nuts were served by the hostesses to the honoree and her sister, Mrs. Falcone of Dallas, and to the following guests:

Mmes. Shive, Miller, Hudson, Wilson, V. H. Flewelling, Clyde Waits, Jr., Sarah Gibbs, A. J. Butler, Herbert Fox, N. W. McCleskey, Joe Faucett, Felton Smith, D. G. Cagle, and C. F. Lochridge.

Mrs. Chas. Morris sent a gift.

Mrs. R. L. Edison left Wednesday morning for Plaquemine, La., where she was called on account of illness of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Stovall.

Stage Favorite Makes Screen Comedy Debut

Walter C. Kelly, a vaudeville and stage favorite for almost 30 years, makes his motion picture debut in Paramount's "McFadden's Flats," playing Wednesday and Thursday at the Lyric Theatre.

The originator and actor of the famous "Virginia Judge" character plays a great-hearted Irishman in "McFadden's Flats," a hod carrier who has risen to wealth on his own resources, spurred on by his lifelong feud with his Scottish neighbor, Andy Clyde.

Success goes to his head. He begins to indulge in unaccustomed luxuries and sends his daughter, Betty Furness, to finishing school, thus breaking up her romance with Clyde's son, Richard Cromwell.

When mismanagement brings him close to financial ruin, he suddenly learns that Clyde, with whom he has been exchanging casual insults for a lifetime, was secretly backing him with his savings.

The two sentimental old enemies put their heads together, interest a millionaire in the business and manage to save it. And while they do so, they also manage to resurrect the romance between their children. Then they realize that they no longer have anything to fight about and admit their mutual liking.

MORNING STAR

BY MARIAN SIMS

Chapter 25 THE BARNES

Two nights later they had supper with Mr. and Mrs. Barnes. It was their first meal there without the comforting presence of Frances and Jeffrey, and Emily approached it with misgivings. It was strange, she thought, how little real consideration you gave to your prospective parents-in-law before you were married. Actually they were frightfully important, not only in themselves, but for what they contributed to your husband's character and back, found.

Like his wife, Mr. Barnes was plump and ruddy and reactionary. The list of things that Mrs. Barnes prized herself upon was exceeded only by the list of things that Mr. Barnes didn't believe in. He didn't believe in bobbed hair, or dinner at night, or the theory of evolution.

In fact his credo, Emily thought irreverently, could probably be summed up in the words: "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church (in the Protestant sense of course); the communion of saints; and the Barnes Grocery Company." The dining-room was typical of Mr. Barnes. The furniture was oak, heavy and incredibly ugly. It had outlived one generation and would, if she should lack money or courage, outlive several more. The china was rose-sprigged Haviland, and the heavy white damask smelled faintly of cedar. There was cold sliced lamb for sup-she was wondering why they hadn't thought of offering it to her.

"I doubt if she'll do it," Emily said. "She was president three years ago, and she believes in rotation in office. Besides, she has so many irons in the fire!" Lucy Barnes knew that she didn't exactly believe in dissipating your energies in so many fields, possibly because there were so few fields in which she could dissipate hers.

"I suppose you'll be stepping into her shoes in a few years," Mr. Barnes flung a sentence into the midst of their conversation like a winkle. "You'll probably be pretty busy with other things for a few years."

She flushed. He meant children, of course, and if she failed him in that the winkle would be replaced by a velvet cushion. In the future she must become accustomed to having her figure scrutinized whenever she came to the Barnes' household.

For Edwin's sake she managed a smile. "I meant cultivating my garden and my friends and my mind," she said. "But of course those other things have to be considered."

Encountering Edwin's eyes for an instant she read his gratitude and felt repaid.

Being married to Edwin, Emily found during the first few weeks that they had lived at the little white house, was rather like a trip to the dentist. You dreaded it un- speakably until it was actually upon you, and then you found that after all you could stand it quite easily.

The blinding happiness that she had hoped to find was missing, of course, but perhaps that was something that existed only in romances.

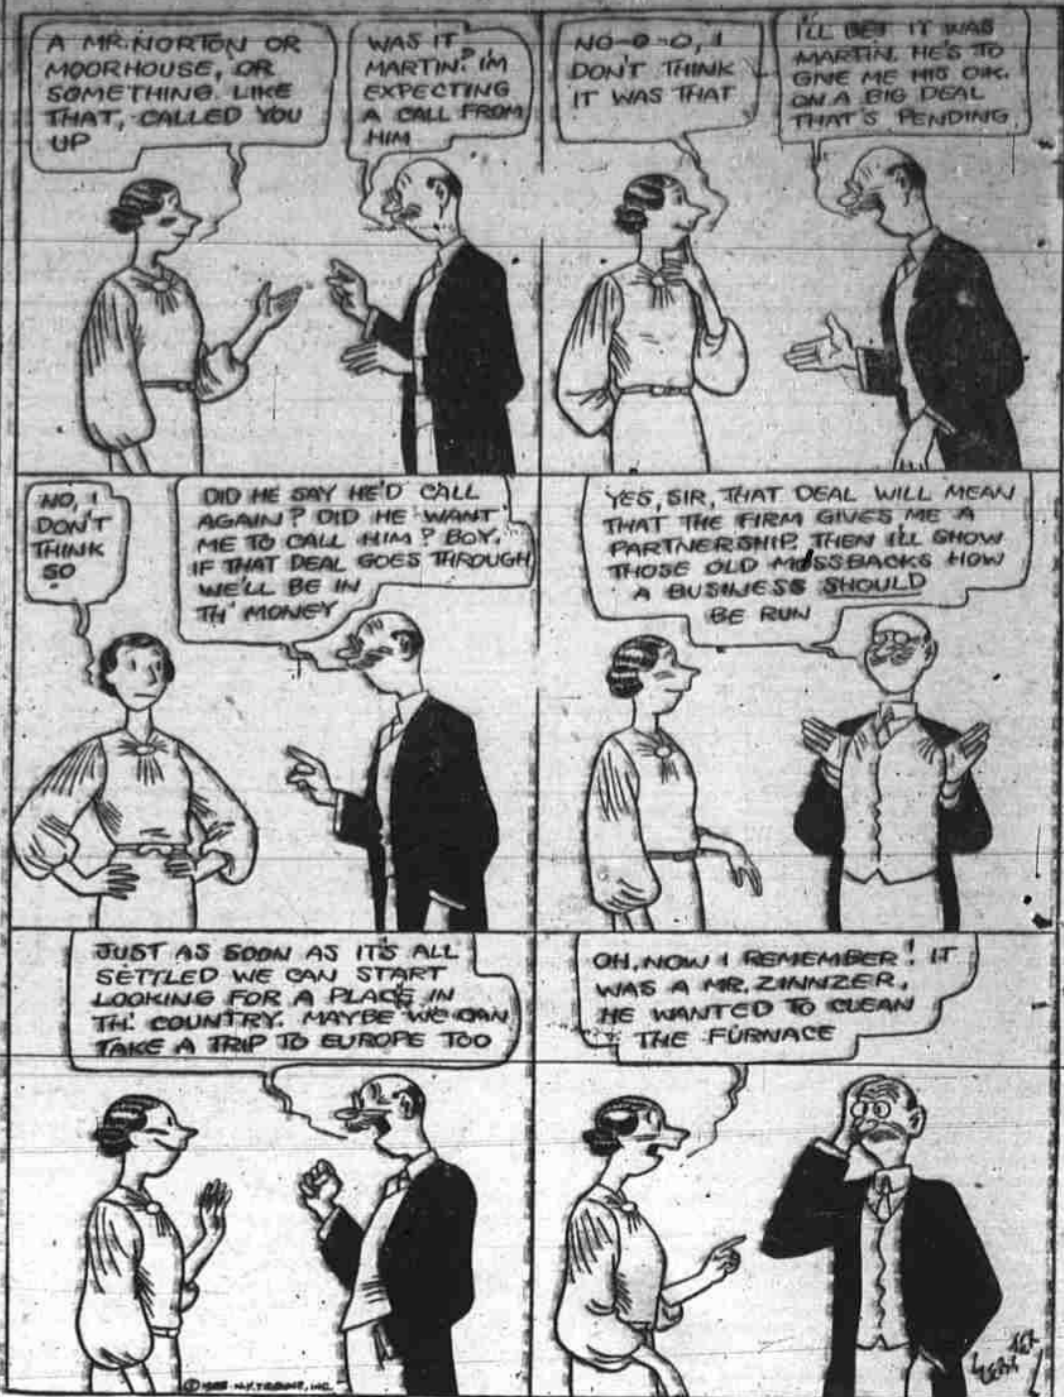

Thinking of the girls and women of her acquaintance who had been married more than a few months, she couldn't find one who was happy in that way, so perhaps she had been foolish to hope for it. And if that sort of happiness didn't last perhaps it was better never to have had it, then you could make no comparisons.

After all, you didn't marry men like David; you dreamed about them, and ended by marrying men like Edwin and being reasonably content.

During those first few weeks Edwin was almost child-like in his happiness. Secure in his conviction that she was permanently his, he became more definitely an individual than she thought possible. Certain characteristics of the new Edwin delighted her; others, too reminiscent of his father, filled her with misgivings.

The placid course of events is disturbed suddenly, tomorrow.

Bickley Speaks At Hi School Assem

Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor of First Methodist church, conducted the weekly, high school assembly program Wednesday morning. Choosing the subject of "Clinging," Rev. Bickley said, "Winning in life may be compared to a young mountain climber that tumbled to go back, even though friends thought he should. He was on because he had a fixed purpose—that to reach the mountain top. The climber would never be gained the summit had he not kept on trying. Perseverance spells victory; don't give up the fight to determine to die-trying."

Conoco is not the only oil refined by modern methods. But notice what all the usual processes are said to take out. Then notice what the exclusive Conoco Germ Process . . . fully patented . . . PUTS IN. Nothing vague about this process. It tops off everything else known to Refinery Science, by putting in the Hidden Quart which makes your engine stay oiled. You can park your car for hours in blizzards; stand for days in a cold garage. But you cannot make a dragging, expensive, engine-eating start. Unlike other oil, no matter how free-flowing, Conoco Germ Processed Oil needn't wait for your starter or oil pump. The Hidden Quart is up on guard in advance. It hasn't drained down because it can't. The Germ Process has let it "marry" into the inner surfaces of your engine for good . . . a strange though natural "affinity" well known to scientists. Even the new copper-lead, high-lead and cadmium-alloy bearings, as well as conventional rabbit bearings, are far better protected by Conoco Germ Processed Oil than by plain mineral oils. Scientific tests prove this. But millions whose only laboratory is under the hood, know just what you want to know about the Hidden Quart and Germ Processing. They'll tell you the battery stays up, the oil level stays up, the old winter worry and expense stay away. All you need to tell your nearest Conoco man is "Change mine right now!"

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL. Continental Oil Company. Established 1879. The sign of an easy winter for your engine, battery and wallet. Your correct grade always available—including 10W or 20W.

competitive and overlapping taxes in many instances—a subject which treasury aides are studying behind the scenes. The system of federal collection and return of a proportion to the cities is growing. It is the method by which employers will pay for operation of unemployed pensions. Burt Wheeler has proposed it as a solution of the tax problem if the government ever takes over the railroads. With school, health, protective and road plans running down, the United Conference of Mayors will dump this problem right in Uncle Sam's lap soon.

Notes—Politicians are wondering why Senator Joe Robinson left Col. Knox out of his list of republican eligibles... A senator who recently shot and killed an automobilist attempting to enter the gate at Bellevue Naval Magazine testifies that he was under orders to be on the lookout against Communists... Two million dollars are being spent on the United States capitol—up-keep and air-conditioning.

NEW YORK By James McMullin Divide—There was some fifty stage management behind the American Legion's resolution for immediate payment of the bonus uncomplicated by monetary issues—and the boozing of Congressman Patman when he tried to present his views.

New York insiders learn that FDR's contact men did some skillful missionary work among Legion leaders in advance. The administration is reconciled to passage of the bonus early next year—the one concern now being to frame its enactment in the form least objectionable to the president. This means a bill free of inflationary riders. Such an outcome is now practically assured as a result of the Legion's action—because the Legion is the veterans' organization to which congressmen pay most attention.

Of course the Veterans of Foreign Wars will continue its fight for an inflation bonus. This outfit is growing stronger all the time—but the Legion still weighs more politically. Meanwhile it does Mr. Roosevelt no harm to have the two big groups of veterans at odds on this issue. Comment runs that the old Roman principle of "divide and rule" is just as sound politics today as it was 2,000 years ago.

Cautious—Utility men find indications that the Securities Exchange Commission is beginning to be acutely aware of its tremendous responsibilities in administering the holding company bill. About 2,000 corporations come within the scope of the law and should be registered by Dec. 1. An Atlas might well shudder at the prospect of carrying Embargo—Chemical works, oil producers and other concerns furnishing raw materials are worried about the hint that the Munitions Control Board will make up another list covering their products, to be denied export in case of war. Although the neutrality resolution specifies "arms, munitions and implements of war" it is recognized that other materials are just as important in war. The embargo may not be applied until congress meets, and then look out for stricter legislation in case war has begun.

Relay—New Yorkers learn that substantial arms and munitions shipments have been made to Cuba recently. You may wonder how the Cubans—either Mandistans or would-be rebels—can possibly pay for them. The answer is they don't. Cuba is used merely as a convenient relay point to other destinations that are carefully kept confidential. This stunt is worth bearing in mind if a serious embargo is declared.

Scouts—Anti-New Dealers rejoice at the treasury's latest effort to scrape up all the stray nickels it can claim. A number of inquiry agents have been loosed on small income taxpayers for the first time in our history—the idea being to prove errors in past returns that would call for corrective remittances. New York gets reports that inquiries are pretty sore about it, caring little for the idea and less for the manners of Mr. Morgenthau's scouts. The boys are hopeful this can be worked up to replace the late lamented potato control issue as a breeder of popular indignation.

ON TEXAS FARMS BY MINNIE FISHER CUNNINGHAM, Extension Service Editor

Turnips, lettuce, carrots, beets and kale are gracing the fall gardens of the Lamb county 4-H girls club garden demonstrators.

From their earlier gardens, these girls have canned surpluses and even sold some fresh vegetables. Their families have cooperated with them by arranging shelving upon which to store the canned goods. One girl's father has even dug a new cellar.

Mustard, tendergreens, tomatoes, potatoes, and collards are now ready for use in the fall garden of Mrs. E. F. Newsom of the Rosedale Home Demonstration Club in Jefferson county.

By the end of August, Dorothy White, Victoria county 4-H club girl, had cleaned off the summer garden plot, and had the ground plowed, manured and pulverized ready for fall garden planting.

In a hotbed covered with canvas for protection against the heat and dry winds, she has tomato and lettuce plants to be transplanted when the rain came.

Just "for luck" in case it did rain, Theresa Byrd, Dallas county 4-H garden demonstrator, "risked" some garden seed in late August. And rain it did. So she now has 500 feet of pinto beans, 400 feet of blackeyed peas, 500 feet of sweet corn and 100 feet of crowder peas. Carrots, turnips, lettuce, beets, and potatoes are coming right along too.

they acted like nice people under the codes. The brewers are lobbying to repeal state regulatory laws for the federal statutes are enforceable only in states which have similar provisions on the books. They must anticipate success, as some have taken options on desirable locations for saloons. The federal laws prohibit a tieup between brewery and retail joint.

This pellmell scramble for profits has had repercussions already. The Rockefeller-Ford plea for temperance was one reaction. And that barometer of prohibition sentiment—the treasuries of dry organizations—is responding. Collections are picking up. Carrie Nation's children will be on the warpath soon.

Buck—You don't hear much about it but the mayors of numerous cities are quietly urging a new deal all around in taxes. The federal government has made deep inroads on possible sources of municipal taxation to finance the depression, and the local fathers are taking a long-time look at the question.

About the only fields left to local governmental units are property taxes and license fees, as the mayors see it. Licenses return only pocket money, and levies on property have hit the ceiling in many places. Raising them further will produce political revolutions. So will sales taxes. So some have proposed that the federal government collect all taxes and rebate to the cities the amounts they need for their budgets. It would eliminate
