

House Okays Teacher Pay Bill, 137-9

BULLETIN
The emergency building program for state institutions asked by Gov. Shivers was approved by the Texas House of Representatives today. The vote was 131-6. Associated Press reported.

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN (AP)—The House today passed the teacher pay bill by a vote of 137-9 as the Senate drove toward approval of a tax measure to finance it.

Both measures were recommended by Gov. Allan Shivers as primary purposes for the special 30-day session which ends a week from today.

The teacher pay bill, designed to provide $402 base pay raises for school teachers, must go back to the Senate for action because it was amended in the House. The original version came first from the Senate.

The only amendments approved by the House were those acceptable to backers of the pay raise bill and quick Senate concurrence was anticipated.

The House resumed debate of the teacher pay bill endorsed by Shivers and the Texas State Teachers Assn. and promptly struck down a major amendment, 98-46.

In the Senate, a $25,000,000 tax bill in line with Shivers' suggestions was laid out for debate by unanimous consent at the request of Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr., Paris.

Killed by the House was an amendment to the teacher pay plan that would have pegged the amount of local district contributions to the minimum school program at $51,600,000 a year. That would be 20 per cent of the estimated total cost for the coming year.

Rep. Bill Chambers, May, said it would be better to raise the amount of local contributions from the present 45 million dollar level to $51,600,000 than adopt the 80-20 ratio between state and local financing proposed in the bill.

House sponsors of the Senate-passed measure said Chambers' amendment failed to eliminate a proposed $100 per teacher offset credit in the bill. The net result, they said, would be that local districts would have to pay only 45 million dollars next year.

Prior to debate of Chambers' amendment, Rep. Jack Fisk had withdrawn an amendment which would have given vocational agriculture teachers a $535 a year raise, $133 more than is proposed for teachers.

The House had considered the teacher pay bill nearly four hours yesterday and turned down all efforts to change its basic provisions.

Aikin brought the tax bill to debate hoping to win final passage today.

Increasing rates in present natural gas production, beer, and franchise taxes, it would raise an estimated $25,600,000 a year to provide the raises suggested by the governor for teachers and state employees.

The state employees' pay bill, boosting salaries $10 a month, was in line close behind the teacher salary measure on the House docket. Also ready for early House consideration was the bill appropriating $10,687,500 for a building program which Shivers considers emergency in nature.

The teacher pay bill endorsed by Shivers and TSTA easily withstood efforts to amend it yesterday.

By overwhelming 121-21 vote, the House rejected an amendment by Rep. Charles Murphy, Houston, which would have knocked out the proposed $402 across the board increase in base pay.

Murphy wanted to let local boards decide how much additional state aid they would take, up to $400 per teacher, and he would have let them use that money to give merit increases up to $800 per teacher. His plan would have meant that one teacher might get no raise while another secured $800 more per year.

SEEMS TO BE FAMILY HABIT

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Snider of nearby Danville met unexpectedly yesterday.

County patrolmen stopped W. C. Snider for running two stop signs.

En route to Magistrate's Court, they saw another car, driven by a woman, commit a similar act.

Officers stopped the car and found that it was driven by Snider's wife. Each was fined $10.

Truman Says Atomic Pact Is Still Legal

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today the Anglo-American wartime atomic agreement still is in effect.

The agreement was disclosed publicly yesterday for the first time by Prime Minister Churchill in a House of Commons debate.

As a result he was involved today in one of the bitterest political storms of his career.

James Hagerty, White House press secretary said last night the agreement was not in effect at the present time.

Today Truman, in an interview, said it was.

The former President said, however, the agreement did not apply to the hydrogen bomb which was developed later.

Asked whether such an agreement had not been terminated by the McMahon Act, which forbids sharing of U.S. atomic secrets with foreign governments, the former President said the act did not cover the British-American agreement.

"We weren't sharing our secrets with the British," Truman explained. "They were sharing theirs with us."

He said the British had spent $20,000,000 on atomic research, found they couldn't swing it and asked our aid. Under the accord the two-nation agreement was set up for development of the A-bomb.

As for the "secret" of the agreement, Truman said: "I knew about it and so did Foreign Relations Committees of both houses. It was a good agreement. There was no secret about it to the people who were entitled to know about it."

Lindbergh Named To AF Academy Site Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force today named Charles A. Lindbergh to a five-man board charged with the task of selecting a site for the new Air Force Academy.

Two other civilians were appointed to the board by Secretary Talbott. They are Virgil M. Hancher, president of the University of Iowa, and Merrill C. Metz, vice president of the Hearst Corp., Chicago.

The military members are Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, first chief of staff of the Air Force and a member of a previous academy site selection board, and Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, special assistant to the chief of staff for Air Force Academy matters.

Congress has authorized the Air Force to establish an academy. It required the Air Force secretary to select the site recommended by the commission if its recommendation is unanimous.

Falling unanimously by the board, the secretary must select a site from among the first three recommended by the five-man group.

President Picks Dodge Assistant For Budget Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today chose Rowland R. Hughes, now deputy director of the budget, to be director in succession to Joseph M. Dodge.

Dodge, the President's first budget director, has resigned effective April 15 to return to the Detroit Bank as board chairman.

The White House said Eisenhower will formally submit Hughes' nomination to the Senate at that time.

Hughes, 58, is a former vice president of the National City Bank of New York. He served first in the Eisenhower administration as assistant director of the budget, taking over in that capacity last May 1. Later he became deputy director.

ON EXEMPTION HIKE Kerr Believes Tax Cut Plan Due Okay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) said today his guess is that the Senate will approve a move he co-sponsors to cut income taxes by increasing personal exemptions of each taxpayer and dependent.

He said in an interview he hopes this action will be taken in the Senate Finance Committee but that, if it is not done there, he believes success will come on the Senate floor.

The Finance committee, on which the Oklahoma serves, opens hearings today on a big tax revision bill to which Democrats hope to attach the income tax reduction.

The Eisenhower administration strongly supports the revision bill, which would make assorted tax cuts totaling $1,400,000 to business and individuals in its first year of operation. Just as strongly it opposes any new income tax slash.

Senate Republican leaders voice confidence they can beat the income tax cut as things stand now, citing indications that the business downturn is leveling off.

Democratic sponsors say it is too early to tell about the economic situation.

Both sides agree that the economic trend of the next two months probably will determine the outcome of the income tax fight in the Senate. The Finance Committee plans to end its public hearings April 23 and finish writing its version of the bill in May. It could be June before floor debate is finished.

Democrats have used the business decline as their principal argument for the income tax cut. They say efforts should be made to build up mass purchasing power instead of increasing incentives for business expansion, which the administration says is a main purpose of the revision bill.

Kerr is a co-sponsor with Sen. George (D-Ga.) and Frear (D-Del.) of an amendment to raise income tax exemptions by $200 this year, a 4½-billion-dollar tax cut, and by $400 in 1955 and thereafter, an eight-billion reduction. Kerr implied that smaller cuts would be pushed if the original plan were beaten.

In the House, Democrats tried for a $100 exemption increase, a tax cut of 2½ billion. They lost 210-204 in a vote which largely followed party lines.

Sears Leaves Counsel Post In Army Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) said today that Samuel P. Sears has submitted his resignation as special counsel to the Senate Investigations subcommittee and that it had been accepted unanimously.

Sears, a prominent Boston lawyer, was appointed only last Thursday by a unanimous vote—to serve as special counsel for the subcommittee's probe of the charges exchanged by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and top Army officials.

Potter's statement to reporters was made as he left a closed door meeting of the subcommittee.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said last night that "Mr. Sears was not as candid to me as I would have liked" in answering questions at a subcommittee meeting April 1 at which he was hired unanimously.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), who will preside at the hearings, called the session today after it developed, subsequent to Sears' selection, that the Boston lawyer in past had praised Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The subcommittee voted March 16 to conduct public, televised hearings into charges exchanged by its chairman, McCarthy, and high Army officials. McCarthy had stepped temporarily from the chairmanship.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) told his colleagues yesterday that it was a mistake to allow the McCarthy-Army dispute to halt efforts to "tear away the mask" from communism.

McCarran said the Senate should "get at the bottom of this present controversy, by all means," but he declared:

"Basically, the real issue is rapidly coming to be whether at long last, the Communists, with the aid of front groups, fellow travelers, Communist sympathizers and dupes, are going to succeed in their efforts to silence the committee . . . who have been starting to tear away the mask from the sinister operations in this country of the world Communist conspiracy."

Tornadoes Strike In Iowa, Missouri

DES MOINES (AP)—Seven separate tornadoes ripped up farm homes and buildings on more than a dozen farms in Iowa and Missouri last night to usher in the tornado season in the two states.

Four distinct tornadoes swooshed through southwest Iowa at supersonic and another struck west of Marshalltown in the central part of the state.

Two other twisters smashed across seven farms in the Westboro area of Atchison County, in northwest Missouri.

Surprisingly no one was killed and only one injury was reported. However, farmers today began counting on an expected heavy toll in livestock.

HEAT RECORD IS EQUALLED

A high of 81 degrees was recorded here yesterday, equaling a heat record set in 1901 and 1928. The low was only a modest 39.

While up skies were to turn partly cloudy tomorrow, according to predictions from the U. S. Weather Bureau at Midland, temperatures were to stay about the same. A high of 85 was seen for tomorrow.

Highway 87 Car-Truck Collision Takes 3 Lives

Workers try to clear away wreckage and remove bodies from an automobile (top picture) following a highway crash which claimed three lives this morning. The car was in collision with a gasoline transport truck (below). Both vehicles were described as "beyond repair" following a survey of the wreckage.

Two Women, Infant Killed North Of City

A car and gasoline transport rammed together north of Big Spring this morning killing three persons.

Mrs. Willard M. Anderson, 30, of Lamesa, her son, Willard M. Anderson III, 18 months, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Anderson of Tyler, apparently were killed instantly in the crash.

Mrs. Willard Anderson and the youngster were bringing Mrs. Charles Anderson to Big Spring where she was to catch a bus for Tyler.

Victims of the wreck were identified by Willard Anderson and Dennis Nix of Lamesa, who came here after receiving word of the accident.

The crash occurred on Highway 87 nine and a half miles north of Big Spring about 9:15 a.m.

Elwyn Scitern, driver of a gasoline transport loaded with 3,700 gallons of fuel, said his truck and the car collided just after another truck had passed his vehicle.

Scitern told officers at Cowper Hospital that when the other truck passed him, he saw they were meeting the car and he let up on the accelerator. He said he applied his brakes as the other truck pulled back into the right-hand lane.

Scitern's truck apparently jacked-knifed slightly. He said he felt the impact of the car against the rear portion of his truck tractor.

J. L. Johnson, also of Lamesa, said he was driver of a semi-truck which passed the gasoline transport just before the crash. He said he saw Scitern's vehicle rolling over when he looked in the rear-view mirror after passing the truck.

Johnson said the car, a 1948 Oldsmobile, was traveling south on the highway and that he and Scitern both were going north.

Scitern said he crawled through a window of his truck after it came to a halt. He was brought to Cowper Hospital where his condition was not considered serious at noon today.

Front and right side of the truck were crushed inward and front wheels were knocked loose from the vehicle. It apparently rolled over several times after the crash.

The front and left side of the car were caved inward.

Gasoline from the truck spilled across the highway and into ditches along the road. No fire occurred. Firemen from Big Spring poured water on the gasoline and Highway Department workers dumped a load of gravel on the pavement.

Both Nalley and Eberley-River ambulances, several wreckers and other emergency vehicles from Big Spring were called to the scene. Highway Patrol and sheriff's officers and Justice of the Peace Cecil Nabors participated.

Scitern, driver for the McGuire Oil Company, Cooden distributor in Lamesa, had loaded his truck in Big Spring this morning and was started back to Lamesa.

Occupants of the car, all apparently in the front seat, were killed instantly. The driver was pinned in the wreckage.

The car and truck both appeared beyond repair.

Mrs. Willard Anderson is survived by her husband, twin daughters, Dee and Lea Anderson, age four; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Tolbert of Trinidad; two sisters, Mrs. Edwin Wheat, Fort Worth, and Mrs. J. W. Hanna, Tyler; and her mother-in-law, Mrs. . . .

Noon City Vote Total Only 251

Big Spring voters failed to crowd the ballot boxes this morning, but judges in the city commission election were confident that a large number of votes would be cast this afternoon.

Only 251 ballots had been cast by noon today.

Election judges Horace Reagan and W. R. Yates reminded voters that the City Hall Fire Station polling place does not close until 7 p.m. today. City residents with a valid poll tax or exemption certificate can vote.

The election is being held to determine which of the eight candidates will be placed in the three posts open on the city commission. Those running are Jack Y. Smith (incumbent), Roy Bruce, S. P. Jones, Curtis Driver, Alfred Goodson, W. D. Berry, M. W. Horne and Roger Miller.

At least one organization offered free transportation to voters who have no way to get to the polls. Jack Jones, business representative for the Carpenter's local, said that a telephone call to 4-9310 would bring a ride to and from the polls.

Winnie Says Meet With Ike Doubtful

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today he would be delighted to welcome President Eisenhower to London for talks on the hydrogen bomb and other world problems. But, the Prime Minister added he did not think the President could leave the United States right now.

Answering a Laborite question in the House of Commons, Churchill said:

"I have more than once expressed hopes that such a visit would be possible. I do not think, however, he would feel he could leave his heavy duties at the present time."

Parliament member Arthur Lewis had asked Churchill to invite the President here for talks on world problems, including the H-bomb, and to help resolve differences of opinion that might stand in the way of an approach to Premier Malenkov for calling Big Four Talks."

Churchill said "it goes without saying that we should be delighted to welcome President Eisenhower."

Temple Surgeon To Get Cancer Medal

WACO (AP)—Dr. G. V. Brindley, surgery chief at Scott and White Hospital in Temple, was scheduled to receive a bronze medal from the American Cancer Society today.

The award, for distinguished service for cancer control in Texas, was originally to have been presented last night, but Dr. Brindley was unable to be here.

Dulles Meets With Allies On Indochina War Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department reported today that Secretary of State Dulles has consulted on the Southeast Asian crisis with diplomatic representatives of six friendly nations in the past few days.

Authoritative indications are that the American government is seeking the formation of some kind of regional grouping to counter the Communist threat to the area and to undertake united action specifically in the war in Indochina.

Word of the Washington developments coincided with dispatches from Paris which quoted French Foreign Ministry sources as saying the United States has proposed that Britain, France, Australia and New Zealand join with this country in a strong warning to "Communist aggressors" in that area.

At the same time dispatches from Canberra said government sources reported that the United States is seeking a firm declaration from Britain, Australia and New Zealand that they will support France as much as necessary to keep Indochina out of Red hands. Reports from London took somewhat the same line.

In Washington, officials privately displayed little enthusiasm for the idea of a joint declaration or new warning to the Chinese Communists to refrain from open intervention in Indochina lest they suffer from powerful Allied retaliation.

The United States is, however, understood to be urgently interested in some kind of plan for what Dulles has called "united action" in Southeast Asia.

Inquiries about the Paris report at the State Department brought the following statement from press officer Henry Snydam:

"In response to questions about dispatches this morning from London and Paris about some common declaration of warning of the Chinese Communists, there is no comment."

The secretary of state has, however, had consultations on the general situation confronting Southeast Asia with the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand and the Philippines."

Snydam said the most recent of these consultations was held yesterday but the talks had extended over a period of several days.

Dulles normally has a news conference on Tuesday but his meeting with reporters was canceled this morning and Snydam said in response to questions that this was due to the pressure of business in the department. He said he could not say whether the business was related to the Indochina situation.

French Report Attack Eased

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The French high command announced today the Vietminh had eased their fanatical charges at the battered defenses of Dien Bien Phu during the past 24 hours.

A terse French communique early today said that last night was "relatively calm."

But the French Union forces behind the barbed wire barriers had bunkered defenses continued to brace themselves grimly for renewed assaults.

The French command announced later that Vietminh batteries were keeping up a heavy artillery and mortar barrage on key defense points of Dien Bien Phu. Heavy rains poured down on the little oval-shaped valley early today. The rainy season, which restricts military operations, is due to start in earnest in a week or two.

French planes ranged throughout the area.

'UNLIKELY TO RISK WAR' Eisenhower Says Kremlin Fears U. S. Atomic Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the nation and the free world last night Russia is unlikely to risk war so long as this country stands ready to strike back swiftly with all its atomic might.

As for the United States, he said, "We're not going to start a war" despite this country's advantage in atomic weapons.

The President declared, however, that Americans must prepare "very coldly and very carefully" against the danger that power-loving men in the Kremlin might "in a fit of madness or through miscalculation" plunge the world into a hydrogen-bomb-age holocaust.

Eisenhower went on all radio and television networks in a relaxed, half-hour plea for a sober facing of the atomic era facts of life—and a fervent warning against the perils of "hitters" and hysteria over communism, investigations of communism or the threat of depression.

"We don't have to fear!" he said. "Of course, there are risks, but we do not have to be hysterical. We can be vigilant; we can be Americans. We can stand up in a fit of madness or through miscalculation."

Dallas Expects Fifty Thousand Square Dancers

By BRUCE HENDERSON
DALLAS (AP)—Fifty thousand of the friendliest people in the country are gathering in Dallas to dance, if their feet match their enthusiasm, 15 hours a day. They're coming for the three-day National Square Dance Festival starting Thursday. The 50,000 dancers, callers and musicians the festival's boosters say will be here to make it the biggest ever held. Dancing will go on continuously from 9 a. m. until midnight in the 75,000-square-foot Automobile Building at State Fair Park. There will be clinics for square dance musicians and callers and a parade of states. The shindig is sponsored by the Dallas Junior Chamber of Commerce. Profits go to crippled and underprivileged children.

Lee Bedford Dr. of Dallas, festival chairman, said there are 30 million square dancers in the nation today, that square dance clubs have popped up from coast to coast. Bedford thinks lots of people like square dancing because "it's the best friendship maker in America today."

The Fort Worth Kilocycle Club, composed of radio amateurs, is trying to boost attendance through nationwide radio contacts. "Trail" dances are being held to and from the festival. That in localities are staging special dances before and after the festival so persons attending it can stop along the way for even more square dancing.

"Square dancers en route to and from Dallas will get in three hours of square dancing almost every night if they plan their itinerary carefully," Bedford said.

Richard Dick of Little Rock, Ark., has written a special tune for the festival. To the melody of "Round-Up Time in Texas," it goes like this:

"Now you all join hands and circle, and make a great big ring
"Circle down to Texas, down to Dallas in the spring
Now all four couples separate, go round the outside track
"Pass right by your partner, but you meet her coming back..."

Researcher Says Cancer Tougher Than Atom Bomb

HOUSTON (AP)—Cancer is a much tougher problem than the A-bomb, a pioneer research physician declared here last night when he was honored at a banquet attended by more than 200 cancer specialists from 26 states. Dr. Peyton Rous of New York City, 75-year-old physician who as a youth herded cattle on the North Plains of Texas, said, "Cancer is one of the greatest of human riddles, a riddle that has baffled man. The bomb was developed on well-known physical principles." Dr. Rous was awarded the fourth annual Bertner Foundation Award for outstanding contribution to the field of cancer research at last night's banquet. More than 43 years ago Dr. Rous proved that a virus could cause a cancer. "We do not know whether cancer is physical, chemical or virus. The riddle has attracted experts of all varieties who are seeking the solution," he said.

Death Threat Note Is Due FBI Probe

HOUSTON (AP)—The FBI yesterday began an investigation of a penciled death threat to a witness in a recent murder trial here. Mrs. Veardell Pitts, 29, told officers she had received the letter, written in block letters on cheap tablet paper, in the mail yesterday. The letter, which had many misspelled words and errors, threatened to kill Mrs. Pitts. Mrs. Pitts recently testified in the murder trial of Carrol D. Farfar, 34, former convict, charged with the gun battle death of Police Patrolman Fred Maddox Jr. Farfar received the death penalty. Mrs. Pitts witnessed the gun battle from a window at her home.

Babies Born Three Weeks Apart

All the excitement was rather dull to three-week-old Susan Joy, right, whose mother, Mrs. Wilbur Chapman, 31, holds Susan's brother, one day old. Doctors at Chelsea Naval Hospital in Chelsea, Mass., said Mrs. Chapman, wife of a Navy aviation electrician, had two separate conceptions. The new baby, four pounds 6 1/2 ounces, was named Wilbur Francis Chapman Jr. after his father. The sister now weighs four pounds 4 ounces. (AP Wirephoto.)

Coke Stevenson Jr. Viewed As Senate Race Possibility

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN (AP)—Will Coke Stevenson Jr. get into the race for the U.S. Senate post his father tried for and missed by 87 votes in 1948? That question was being discussed in capital political circles where friends of the former governor were talking it up as a possibility in this summer's political arena.

Former governor Coke Stevenson was defeated by Lyndon B. Johnson for the Democratic nomination by a slim 87-vote margin in 1948. The bitter campaign went on into the general election, when Stevenson threw his support to Republican Jack Porter.

It had been rumored that Stevenson might try again for the post, but that possibility is now considered unlikely. Recently remarried, Stevenson is living on his ranch near Junction and has not been active in politics.

Harry Benge Crozier, former political associate and a close friend and associate of Stevenson during his career as lieutenant governor and governor, said yesterday he has approached the younger Stevenson with the idea.

Stevenson himself was not available for comment on his reaction to it. Some friends said they didn't think he would chop it down immediately with a flat "no."

Coke Stevenson Jr. is 40, married, and has two daughters. He is a Methodist and a member of the Scottish Rite. He was licensed to practice law in 1937, served one term as Kimble County attorney, and was an Army sergeant in the Pacific theater in World War II.

He has been a rancher and abstractor, and was chief examiner for the State Liquor Control Board for two years. He has been administrator for the board for the past six years.

Johnson already has one candidate against him who has made formal application for a place on the July 24 Democratic primary ballot. He is state Rep. Dudley Dougherty, 30, wealthy Beeville oilman and rancher.

Others have been mentioned as possible candidates, including Wright Morrow of Houston. And the Republicans are still saying they would like to find a strong candidate to field against Johnson.

TV Actress Wins Parole For Her Brother In Georgia

ATLANTA (AP)—Television actress Alix Talton plans to escort her brother from Tattall State Prison tomorrow with a parole that rewarded her four-year fight for his release.

The Georgia Pardon and Parole Board agreed to the parole yesterday after a hearing in which the actress made her sixth appeal for the freedom of Richard Harvey Talton, 29. He was convicted in 1950 of a robbery in DeKalb County and was sentenced to serve from 9 to 20 years in prison.

Miss Talton, who plays in the television show My Favorite Husband, flew from Los Angeles, her home, to attend the hearing.

She told the board she has obtained a job for her brother in California and will take him, his wife and their small daughter to Los Angeles to live with her.

California parole authorities have agreed to take Talton under their supervision, she said.

Liability Auto Insurance Rate Is Due To Rise

AUSTIN (AP)—The "average" Texas driver will have to dig a little deeper into his pocketbook for his automobile insurance payment beginning May 1.

Premiums will drop on most private passenger collision and comprehensive coverages but the decreases will be more than offset by increases in bodily injury and property damage liability rates.

Casualty Insurance Commissioner J. Byron Saunders announced the changes yesterday.

Actual rates paid by individual drivers will vary by territory and class of driver, Saunders said. Specific rates are available through local agents.

Statewide, however, decreases will average 6.8 per cent on collision premiums of $25, $50 and $100 deductible coverage and 6.2 per cent on comprehensive coverage in all areas except West Texas and the Panhandle.

Fewer claims and the lowered value of used cars brought about the reductions in collision and comprehensive rates, Saunders said. More and heavier losses produced the increased rates in liability coverages.

Two new classes of automobile coverage were created, one to include unmarried and unsupervised drivers under 25 years of age, and the other to include farmers and ranchers.

Saunders said losses have been so severe among young unmarried drivers it was felt other drivers should not be required to share them.

Farmers and ranchers, however, have had a generally better loss record. Their new classification will carry a rate 15 per cent under that set up for urban drivers.

New Jobs for Texans

Texas industries have been providing new jobs for Texans at the rate of about 70,000 a year. That's about 200 new jobs every day.

All kinds of jobs... in offices, on construction work, in manufacturing plants, in the development of the natural resources of the State. Jobs for riggers, for secretaries, for engineers, for truck drivers, for accountants, for lawyers, for crane operators, for decorators, for sailors... all kinds of jobs.

And the reason why these new jobs have been, and continue to be available is this: Texas industry is expanding, and industry makes jobs.

On the average, each new job created in Texas requires the investment of $12,000 capital*. Thus, Texas industry invests over three-quarters of a billion dollars each year in new plants and in plant expansion to create 70,000 new Texas jobs.

Much of this annual investment in new jobs for Texans is made by the oil industry itself and industries which depend on oil and natural gas for fuel and raw materials. Every year a wider variety of industries put so profitable use a larger number of the resources of the State, and call on a broader assortment of available Texas skills.

Forecasters predict an even greater industrial development in Texas, and an even larger number of new jobs, as more industries recognize the advantages that Texas offers: good markets, raw and manufactured resources, trustworthy and dependable people, efficient and abundant fuel, a mild climate, and a good state government... In that list of advantages, the Texas oil industry provides raw materials for processing, and the world's finest industrial fuel—natural gas.

*In the oil industry, the required investment for each new job is over $50,000.

From Bliss To Boredom In 24 Easy Payments

By CAROL MITCHELL

It's going to happen any day now! I just know it and I'm living in dread. My husband is going to come home on call up and say, "Darling, I'm going down and get a TV set," because he mentioned last night that he'd like one.

And there I'll be chained each evening to the one living room chair while he lies goggle-eyed on the couch. My only salvation is that if we do get "one of those things" I may get a new chair. Where else will the neighbors sit?

Back East in my husband's home town the reception was pretty good — he says. They have "the cable," whatever that is. To me the only difference in having "the cable" is that you see more famous people doing more stupid things.

Good thing I bought a new pair of sunglasses the other day. I want no truck with snow blindness.

One thing about owning one of these TV things, I'll certainly develop something in common with his and my parents. Think how intelligently I can discuss the Key-stones Kops, Rudolph Valentino and Clara Bow with them.

It's had enough that we may have to spend the rest of our lives in front of one, but I really shudder when I think of what it's going to do to the arrangement in the living room. Our $1.40 bookcase is going to suffer. I'll have to go. Then, I guess I might as well have a book burning because I understand you forget to read and talk after "viewing."

And all that bridge I've been learning. From Goren to boring at $20 down and $12.50 per month.

Naturally I'll have to give up things like pedicures for me and the dog. When we go the way of all Joneses we'll have to skip to pay for the peanut butter sandwiches and Koolaid the guests will get.

There's only one thing that may save me. I'll tell him tonight, Marilyn Monroe doesn't do a TV show — yet! Let's see, how much did the man say those high fidelity phonographs were?

Nijinsky's Daughter Says Jitterbugging OK

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If you are worrying about the jitterbug five of your teen-ager, don't.

It's all an expression of America's great new vitality in appreciation of the dance, says Kyra Nijinsky, daughter of the late great Yaslav Nijinsky, high priest of the ballet and the modern dance.

A vibrant brunette with a volcanic manner, Miss Nijinsky has been in America for less than two months, teaching classic ballet at the Ballet Arts School in New York and training her own group for television and concert appearances. She says:

"Dancing in America is at the world's highest level. Here you are so vital, so alive, so conscious of every form of the dance. This country is on the verge of a great renaissance of the art of the dance. And I hope to be a part of it."

Trained as a dancer since the age of 6 by her famous father, Kyra is absorbed heart and soul in the evolution of the dance. She seems to find it difficult to sit still, and has the air of a bird arrested in flight when she sits down. Even then her eyes are dancing, her hands illustrating her words in motion. She says:

"Any kind of dancing is good—even this jitterbug craze of which you speak. It's all a part of the whole urge of this young, great country to express emotion through movement—and that is good."

"There has been too much snobbery about the dance. The classic ballet has been too formalized, too revered by its exponents. I believe in a freer, more pliable technique. Of course, one must know the ballet first, but one need not be bound by its forms."

"In school I teach the traditional ballet, but with my own group I use my own methods. The classic ballet cannot fully express this modern, rushing age of ours. And that is what I am trying to interpret, in motion."

Miss Nijinsky had her own dance school in Florence for eight years before coming to New York, and has lectured widely throughout Europe.

THIS IS GOOD EATING

CHEESE PANCAKES WITH POACHED EGGS

Ingredients: 2 cups pancake mix, 2 1/2 cups milk, 1/2 cup grated American cheese, poached eggs.

Method: Add milk to pancake mix all at once; stir lightly. (Somewhat lumpy batter makes light fluffy pancakes out of a ready-mix.) Stir in grated cheese. Pour 1/4 cup batter for each pancake onto a hot lightly greased griddle. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once. Top each stack of 3 pancakes with a poached egg. Makes 14 to 16 pancakes. Serve with the menu below for a different family breakfast.

Mary Margaret McBRIDE SAYS

There I was last night, perched once again so high up in the second balcony of the Amsterdam Theatre that I could inspect every detail of the ceiling and lighting fixtures.

Far below, Will Rogers was saying in that drawling, middle-western voice of his, "All I know is what little news I read in the paper," and then, "What this country needs worse than anything else is a place to park your car." I could see his rope and his jaw working at that everlasting gum of his—at least in my imagination I could.

In reality, I was sitting on the floor of my own living room, close to a record player upon which was spinning the Show Biz album, a recent compilation by Abel Green of Variety and by vaudevilian Joe Laurie Jr. of a half-century of American entertainment highlights.

Some of the great ones re-evoked there were gone long before I hit the big town. Others I watched in breathless ecstasy from the 55-cent seats, obtained by haunting a cut-rate ticket office. In the years between I've met lots of famous people but those first ones still hold the most glamor and fascination for me. Their stories stick in my memory and tickle my fancy—like the one Homer Croly told me about Oklahoma-born Will Rogers standing under a tree with the then-Prince of Wales, trying to get the Prince to shave the price on a polo pony which Will finally bought and gave as a get-well present to little Patricia Ziegfeld, daughter of gloriator Flo.

Hearing on the record the peppery tones of George M. Cohan reciting that famous curtain speech that became his trade-mark: "My father thanks you, my mother thanks you, my sister thanks you and, as for myself, I thank you," reminded me that a comedian Julius Tannen originated the line in an imitation of the famous George. The imitation went so well that George took it over.

Listening to a snatch of song by lovely Nora Bayes on Show Biz, I recall that although George wrote "Over There," which Nora introduced, he once forgot the words of his great World War I song when he tried to sing it at a benefit.

The rich baritone of Harry Lauder warbling "Rossm's in the Gloamin'" caused George Jessel, album narrator, to tell of the night when a capacity Manhattan Opera House audience patiently waited for the Scottish singer until 12:30 a.m. Lauder, just arriving from Europe was delayed getting through quarantine but when he did get to the Manhattan, sang until 2:30 in the morning.

When I heard the glorious tenor of Enrico Caruso, in, not an opera number, but "Dreams of Long Ago," a popular song which he wrote in collaboration with Tinpan Alleyite Earl Carroll, I could see myself, an anxious young reporter, patrolling the corridors outside Caruso's hotel suite when he first became ill of the ailment which killed him.

All the names and tunes made me nostalgic: Vaughn de Leath, the original radio girl with whom I sometimes dined and of whom I asked curious questions about her—to me—mysterious medium; Paul Whitehead whose first performance of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" I heard in Aeolian Hall when I was trying to write the Jazz King's life.

Thank you, Abel Green and Joe Laurie, Jr. Memories are fun.

Supreme Court Hears Gas Rate Case Arguments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today hears arguments on whether the Federal Power Commission (FPC) must fix rates for interstate sales of natural gas by companies which produce and gather it.

The issue arose when the commission, after a lengthy hearing at Bartlesville, Okla., ruled 4-1 that it did not have authority to regulate sales by the Phillips Petroleum Co.

However, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia reversed the commission and in a 2-1 decision ruled that the commission is required to fix prices by such firms as Phillips.

The FPC contended Phillips was not a natural gas company within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act and the commission thus had no jurisdiction over its rates.

Joining with Phillips in the appeal of the court of appeals ruling are Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

However, the intervening parties—Wisconsin and Michigan as well as Detroit, Milwaukee and Kansas City and Wayne County, Mich.—claim Phillips is a natural gas company under the natural gas act and should be regulated by the FPC.

Simon E. Sobeloff, solicitor general for the Justice Department, contended in a brief filed with the court that the purpose of the Natural Gas Act and its legislative history show that sales of natural gas by gatherers are intended to be exempt.

A brief filed by the intervenors said that sales by Phillips occur after production and gathering have been completed and, as a result, Phillips should be regulated by the FPC.

Farm Bureau Says Braceros Are Needed

An immediate need for casual farm labor cannot be met locally, it was announced at the office of the Howard County Farm Bureau this morning.

A spokesman for the Bureau said that because of the drought the farmers are not able to pay more than 50 cents an hour and that local people who can afford to accept this employment at this rate just aren't available.

Leon M. Kinney, manager of the Big Spring office of the Texas Employment Commission, says these farm jobs are being offered all persons listed with his office as farm workers and to all itinerants passing through seeking employment, provided they have had enough experience to make them acceptable to the farmers.

According to information available at the Farm Bureau, farmers are providing work for Braceros even though the work isn't absolutely essential.

"They are, in many cases, giving these Braceros enough work to keep them so as to have them when more urgent need for their services arises, because they can't afford to let them go now and then not have readily available when there is a great need for them," it is explained.

Kinney said the TEC's weekly farm labor days will probably be resumed April 14, and will be held every Wednesday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m. thereafter until the farm labor situation is put on a substantial basis and the problem solved.

At these conferences farmers and prospective farm workers will have an opportunity to talk with each other and to reach an employment agreement, Kinney indicated, however, that he does not expect to be able to find a sufficient number of local farm workers, with experience, to meet the needs of the farmers in the area.

"The farmer cannot afford to hire just anybody looking for a job," the TEC office manager stated. "Most farmers are short on cash. They have to be careful how and where they spend it."

Braceros hired locally are being supplied with housing, utilities and those other things that were required in the agreements made between this country and Mexico, it is pointed out.

Requirements have apparently been able to find more lucrative, even if irregular employment elsewhere, and that in some cases they can more profitably put in the time on their own farms or the farms of neighbors and friends near them.

Because of the shortage of cash the farmers cannot afford to hire green hands without experience.

Cowtown Gunplay Takes Three Lives

FORT WORTH (AP)—Three persons died today in a burst of pistol fire on the north side.

The dead are: Mrs. Ella Spears, 63, her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Perez, 26, and her son-in-law, Jimmy John Long, 38.

Police said Long shot the two women in the back yard of the Spears home as they were washing clothes then turned a foreign make pistol on himself.

Mrs. Perez and Long died instantly. Mrs. Spears was dead on arrival at a hospital. She had been hit by seven bullets. Mrs. Perez by five.

Mrs. Spears' son, Leroy, 24, a paralyzed polio victim since a childhood, was unable to give aid or summon assistance.

Long married Mrs. Spears daughter, Barbara Ann, 19, two years ago, relatives said.

Mrs. Long has been missing two months and the firing began after Long came to the Spears home to inquire as to his wife's whereabouts.

Cisco JC Choir Reaps Applause

Several hundred people turned out Monday evening for a vocal cavalcade presented by Cisco Junior College under the title of "Jocobal."

There was music to suit almost any taste—from the heavier end in the first portion to the light and folksy tunes of the close. The former won admiration; the latter got the applause.

Within the limitation of voices available, the choral group under direction of Jack Chambliss, head of the department of music for Cisco Junior College, did well enough on the somber pieces from 17th and 19th century composers. The young singers seemed a little more at home on the first group which seemed to be more vivacious.

Members of the audience began to cease from sitting on their hands as the program moved into the third state with a series of Negro spirituals such as the lively "Battle of Jericho" and the melodious "Deep River." The last number in this series, "In Dat Great Gettin' Up Mornin'," Elton Strother, tenor, led in an infectious spiritual which was accentuated by the use of black light effects. This really broke the ice.

Using guitar accompaniment, the choir handled a smooth arrangement of "On Top of Old Smokey" to earn a big round of applause. A male quartet also got good reception in four selections, the last a novelty "mosquito" song. After "It's a Big, Wide, Wonderful World," the choir drew three re-sounding curtain calls from the audience. Appearance of the 42 CJC singers, accompanied by Mrs. W. O. Wylie, was made possible as a public service affair by Corden Petroleum Corporation and Howard County Junior College-J.P.

Three automobile accidents were reported to police here Monday. Larry Cummins, Douglas Hotel, reported a hit and run accident at 9:20 p.m. last night. He gave police the license number of the car which collided with his.

Tracy Fritz Smith, 1900 Settles, and Thomas W. Arnold, Sterling City Road, were driving vehicles which collided at 4th and North Gregg about 5:17 p.m.

At 7:20 a.m. William Calvin Sluder, 1603 East 3rd, and Gene Phillips, Sterling City route, were operating vehicles which were in an accident at 3rd and Benton.

Police here were looking today for a man wanted in connection with rape charges at Lamesa. Lamesa authorities told local officials that the man, unknown, picked up a girl in Big Spring and drove toward Lamesa in a late model car. The girl alleges that the man raped her and then forced her out of the moving automobile.

The girl, who is from Lamesa, said the incident happened around 4 p.m. Monday. She said the man was driving a late model green convertible, and that he has a dark complexion.

State Honors Geo. O'Brien

Medal-of-Honor winner George H. O'Brien Jr. received official plaudits of the State of Texas Monday, when the Legislature in a joint session honored him by special resolution. This resolution was offered in the Senate by Harley Sadler and in the House by Obie Bristow, who was cheered in a moving speech paying tribute to the former Marine officer.

O'Brien's mother was on hand for the ceremonies in Austin, and here she is joined by Sadler, O'Brien and Bristow (left to right) in viewing the official copy of the resolution. Bristow's remarks in the ceremony were entered in the official House record. Monday night O'Brien was interviewed on the Austin television station.

Oil Flow From Pennsylvanian Reported At Dawson Venture

Electric logs were being taken today at Humphrey No. 1. J. L. Billingsley, wildcat in Southeast Dawson, following tests having oil flow from a formation which the operator now describes as the Pennsylvanian.

It was reported yesterday that the oil flowed from the Mississippian. Some 254 barrels of oil flowed in seven hours from zone between 9.190 and 9.210. Later 92.5 barrels flowed in two hours from the area between 9.209 and 9.225, which also yielded 42 barrels of oil on a later test with tool open an hour and a half.

Also reported today was an In-tan-East Howard completion and a location in the Hutto field. Sinclair No. 107 Dodge was finished for pumping potential of 35 barrels. Although No. 1 Lewis Hutto-Stanolind is the Hutto pool project.

Borden

Great Western No. 1 H. D. Beal, C SE SE, 23-31-3n, T&P survey, got down to 6,725 feet in shale and sand.

Falcon, Seaboard, Green and McSpadden No. 1-A Clayton, and Johnson, C NW NW, 5-32-4n, T&P survey, reached 6,388 feet.

Superior No. 14-533 Jones, C SE SW, 535-97-H&TC survey, is drilling at 7,375 feet in shale.

Phillips No. 1-B Clayton, C NW SE, 17-32-4n, T&P survey, hit 5,250 feet in lime and shale.

minutes and oil came to top in 28 minutes. After the venture had been shuttin for an hour and 15 minutes, the tool was open and 42 barrels of oil flowed in an hour and a half. This time it was 16 per cent water. Flowing pressure was 50 pounds, and the 15-minute shuttin in pressure was 250 pounds. Operator reversed out 65 barrels of oil and recovered was 60 feet of oil and 100 feet of free gas below the circulating sub.

Cascade No. 1 King, C SW NE, 105-34-7n, D&SE survey, made it to 10,010 feet in sandy lime. Atlantic No. 1 Lindsey, C SE NW, 132-M-EL&RR survey, has depth of 9,065 feet in lime and shale. A drillstem test was taken from 8,744 to 8,885 feet with tool open 30 minutes. Recovery was 15 feet of drilling mud and no shows of oil or gas. Pressures were zero, and the 15-minute shuttin pressure was zero. Another drillstem test was taken for an hour and recovery was 20 feet of drilling mud. Flowing pressure was 60 pounds, and so was the 15-minute shuttin pressure.

Howard Sinclair No. 107 Dodge Estate, 330 from north and 1,644 from east lines, 9-30-1n, T&P survey, has been completed for a pumping potential of 35 barrels of oil in 24 hours. There was no water on test, and gravity measured 30.1 degrees, with gas-oil ratio at 375-1. Total depth is 2,754 feet, and top of pay is 2,446 feet. Perforations were between the two points in seven inch casing. Operator used 450 gallons of surfactant and 300 gallons of fracture gel.

Ray Although No. 1 Hutto, stepout to the same field, is down to 6,692 feet in lime, shale and chert. Location is 330 from south and east lines, northeast quarter, 4-31-1s, T&P survey.

Lone Star No. 1 Boyles, 467 from south and west lines, east third of south 384 acres, 15-32-2n, T&P survey, is boring at 7,660 feet in lime and shale.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil projects in the Luther Southeast field are making hole. The No. 1 W. V. Boyles, C NE NE, 15-32-2n, T&P, hit 8,645 feet in lime and shale. Chances Slim On Secondary Bills

AUSTIN (SpI) — Chances of a bill to protect professional unit ratings of schools during the drought emergency are dwindling.

The longer the Governor's program stays up in the current special session of the Legislature, the slimmer the chances are for secondary bills. Among these is one by Rep. Elbert Reeves, Matador, which would permit sparsely settled school districts in drought stricken areas of the state to retain their present professional personnel. At the same time, it would protect their accredited status until normal weather conditions bring scholastics back to their homes.

There are a dozen co-signers from West Texas to the Reeves bill. Sen. Harley Sadler, Abilene, will sponsor a similar measure in the Senate if the special order log jam is broken in time. The Senate has a sort of gentleman's agreement which precludes introduction of bills until the Governor's program has been acted upon. Last session Sadler was a strong supporter of this bill, which was snarled by amendments.

The measure would apply to schools which have 100 square miles or more in their districts, and with no more than one pupil per square mile.

Man Reports Three Youths Took $300

Marshall Simons, who lists his address as the Cap Rock Courts, reported to police and sheriff's officials last night that three boys robbed him of $300.

Simons said he was picked up by the boys in their automobile, driven to the country, beaten up, and stripped of his money. Officials said they were investigating the charge today, but that no arrests had been made.

the night against the feeder coal lines bringing in supplies from Red China. Thousand-pounders and delayed-action bombs were strewn along the road and mountain trails. The French were bolstered further during the night by tons of supplies and ammunition parachuted to them from American-supplied transport planes.

The French kept a wary eye on the northwest corner of the fortress, where the fiercest of the rebel human sea assaults have struck recently. The French claimed "more than 1,000" were killed in yesterday's repeated assaults.

The French believed the enemy had concentrated on the weak point to attract all attention there while Communist Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap regrouped and reinforced his troops for new assaults at other points.

Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander in chief in Indochina, praised his forces and expressed the "utmost confidence in the success of their arms."

He said in an order of the day the courage of the defenders of Dien Bien Phu "will be an everlasting example" of heroism to the free world.

NATO Blasts France's Juin

PARIS (AP)—The North Atlantic Council handed a severe and unprecedented reprimand to France's Marshal Alphonse Juin today for his criticism of the proposed European Defense Community.

The action by the permanent delegates of the 14 NATO powers heightened the virtual certainty here that either France would have to ask that Juin be relieved as commander in chief of Allied forces in central Europe or the marshal would have to resign.

"Any military officer receiving this might be impelled to resign," an NATO spokesman commented.

Jun reiterated an earlier statement yesterday he would quit the post only if assured it would go to a Frenchman, something most observers think is a certainty.

The NATO spokesman said today the council does not intend for other than a Frenchman to command the central sector. He said there is no specific written commitment giving the post to France but there is a very solid agreement to that effect.

In speeches March 27 and 31 to groups of French reserve officers, Juin had called EDC and its projected six-nation European army unworkable and unattractive for France. He said a substitute for it should be found.

As central European commander, Juin had been slated to command the European army.

Jerry Holloman To Be Here For Meet

Jerry Holloman, Austin, executive secretary of the Texas Federation of Labor, will make a special address to labor groups here Wednesday.

He is slated to talk at 8 p.m. in the County Courtroom, and all union labor organizations of Big Spring have been asked to be represented at the convale. Any others interested are invited to attend.

Holloman is coming here in connection with the meeting of the following day, of the council of Allied Petroleum division of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

The council will draw delegates here from local locations west of the Mississippi River. William Skason, Washington, D. C., president of the Operating Engineers, has been invited to be here for the three-day council session. M. E. McCoy, Wood River, Ill., secretary, is to be here for the meeting.

Rites Set Today For Mrs. Ringener

Last rites were to be said today at 3 p.m. at the North Side Baptist Church for Mrs. Clara Ringener, 47, who died in a hospital here Sunday.

The Rev. Carlos McLeod, pastor to be officiate, and burial was to be in the Trinity Memorial Park.

Surviving Mrs. Ringener are her husband, Howard Ringener, LePrah; her mother, Mrs. Ollie Jackson; four sons, Floyd, Lloyd, Donald and J. C. Ringener; one daughter, Mrs. A. Smith, Smith County.

Local Firm Gets Snyder Contract

SNYDER (SC) — Contract for a $15,000 addition to the Snyder city hall and jail was awarded Monday night to J. D. Jones Construction Company of Big Spring. Work on the project is to start in the next few days.

Theft Is Reported

Johnnie Hedge, Webb Air Force Base, reported to local police that hub caps were stolen from his 1951 Oldsmobile last night. The car was parked in front of a restaurant on Northwest 4th.

THE WEATHER

NORTH CENTRAL and WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow. No important temperature changes.

Man Is Sought On Complaint Of Rape

Police here were looking today for a man wanted in connection with rape charges at Lamesa. Lamesa authorities told local officials that the man, unknown, picked up a girl in Big Spring and drove toward Lamesa in a late model car. The girl alleges that the man raped her and then forced her out of the moving automobile.

The girl, who is from Lamesa, said the incident happened around 4 p.m. Monday. She said the man was driving a late model green convertible, and that he has a dark complexion.

Cornerstone Opening Set At Courthouse

Cornerstone of the old Howard County courthouse was to have been opened this afternoon.

Records of the cornerstone-setting ceremonies conducted in 1908 were expected to come to light when the stone was unsealed. A newspaper of the day and other relics were expected, also.

County officials and representatives of the local Masonic lodge, which set the stone, were to be on hand for the opening of the corner. Workers of the B. T. Wright Company, salvage concern which is wrecking the old building, were to open the cornerstone.

hold up our heads and say, America is the greatest force that God has ever allowed to exist on his footstool. As such it is up to us to lead this world to a peaceful and secure existence, and I assure you we can do it."

In a plain effort to soothe some of the controversies boiling in this country, and to quiet H-bomb nervousness abroad, Eisenhower broke some new ground in this mainly off-the-cuff address delivered while relaxing against the edge of a desk in the White House basement.

He said the FBI—rather than congressional investigators—is the nation's "great bulwark" against Communist infiltration.

He said "very grave offenses" can be committed against innocent persons by "someone having the immunity of congressional membership"—though he voiced confidence that in the long run public opinion "will straighten this matter out wherever and whenever there is real violence done to our people."

And he said that while Communists in this country are dangerous and must be pinpointed, their number is "minute" and is often exaggerated.

On another home front topic, he said unemployment "happily shows every sign of leveling off."

The government is ready to undertake anything necessary to prevent a depression, he said, but "does not intend to go into any all-being emergency program unless it is necessary."

The great factor working for peace, Eisenhower said, is Russia's "economic weakness" compared with the mighty American industrial machine.

City Elections Today On Tap Over Texas

By The Associated Press

City elections were on tap across Texas Tuesday.

Although at least nine other cities held balloting, the Wichita Falls election in which 13 candidates sought three aldermen's jobs and the mayor's seat was expected to be the hottest.

Candidates for mayor in Wichita Falls included incumbent aldermen Lloyd C. Thomas and R. P. Willis, former city councilman K. C. Spell and Ervin L. Wahl.

Most Wichita Falls residents thought the race for mayor there would be close. Both Spell and Wahl ran for the office in 1952, losing to present Mayor Kindel Paulk, who is not a candidate for re-election.

The use of fluorides in the Wichita Falls water system has been an issue in the campaign. The city now uses fluoridation to prevent tooth decay.

Denton's elections were expected to draw 3,500 to the polls.

Other cities holding elections today include Corsicana, Paris, Abilene, Lubbock, Sherman, Odessa, Snyder, Waco, and Mount Pleasant.

Some interest appeared to be building up in Abilene, the Abilene Reporter-News said Monday, but no record vote is expected because of a lack of special issues. Thirteen candidates in Abilene vied for two city commission and three school board seats.

In Corsicana, five candidates sought two city commission spots. Seven candidates in Paris, Tex., sought four openings for city councilman.

A referendum on whether dogs can run loose in the city limits stirred more interest in the election at Lubbock than the mayor's race in which incumbent Murrell Tripp is opposed by Attorney L. Brann. Two candidates for commissioner in Lubbock were unopposed.

What seemed to be the biggest candidate crop of all—21—sought seven city council seats in Sherman. But main issues in the Grayson County city were relocation of Highway 75 and city hospital improvements.

Waco voted on city charter amendments, including a change from city manager to paid mayor-council form of government, and elected three city commissioners from five candidates.

Two men sought the mayor's job at Odessa and three others were unopposed for city council seats.

At Snyder, Mrs. Clara Jones was a write-in candidate for a city council place also sought by three men. Mrs. Jones is a former city secretary in Snyder. Snyder Mayor Harry Holbrook didn't seek re-election, but three other men campaigned for the post.

Mount Pleasant's six candidates for two city council posts spent most of the campaign debating economy in government.

Nineteen candidates sought eight city posts in Denton including that of mayor, police chief, city attorney and five commission seats. Denton expected 3,500 voters to go to the polls.

Other cities holding elections included Point Comfort, Seadrift, Ganado, Edna, Goliad, and Port Lavaca.

Texas Police Radio Messages Go Far

NEVADA CITY, Calif. (AP)—The long arm of the Texas law on the airways can give the Lone Star state something else to boast about.

Sheriff Wayne Brown said yesterday that freak atmospheric conditions cause Texas police radio stations to come in booming here. He said that stations at Amarillo, Dumas and Sweetwater are drowning out reception of Northern California police reports in this mountain community.

North Texas Milk Prices Show Drop

DALLAS (AP)—Prices paid to dairymen for milk dropped 43.2 cents a hundredweight yesterday and a federal official predicted a similar slash will go into effect next month.

The price dropped from $3.696 to $3.264 per 100 pounds. There are 48 1/2 quarts in 100 pounds.

Ryford Bain, North Texas milk marketing administrator said he expects the price of milk to drop to $4.75 next month when the full effect of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's slash of parity supports for milk products from 90 to 75 per cent is felt.

Braniff Names Two New Men To Board

DALLAS (AP)—Two new directors were named when the stockholders of Braniff International Airways held their annual meeting here yesterday.

The new directors are George W. Rice of Houston and James H. Walker of Dallas. Both are attorneys. All other directors and officers were re-elected.

Baldwin Orga-Sonic Spinnet Organ

The above instrument, which has the dynamics and tonal range of an entire orchestra while requiring less space than a spinnet piano, can be viewed at Adair Music Company, 1708 Gregg. Mrs. Opal Adair, owner and manager of the company, says the Baldwin Orga-Sonic is as modest in price as in the space it requires. The small spinnet organ, which has self-contained amplification and full-range tone versatility, has 19 independent stops and standard controls conveniently located.

Versatile Orga-Sonic Shown At Adair Music Firm Here

The Baldwin Orga-sonic Spinnet Organ, amazing new instrument which has the dynamics and tonal range of an entire orchestra yet requires less space than a spinnet piano, is now on display at Adair Music Company, 1708 Gregg.

The instrument has everything possible for its size, according to Mrs. Opal Adair, owner and manager of the company. And she points out that it is as modest in price as in the space it requires.

Equipped with standard controls conveniently and centrally located, the Orga-sonic has 19 independent stops, versatile full-range tone control, two keyboards (solo and accompaniment) and self-contained amplification.

It is graceful in design and proportions, and as Mrs. Adair points out, beautiful of style.

"The Orga-sonic is not an oversimplified or abbreviated instrument," Mrs. Adair explains. "It will not become outdated and tiresome, but instead will serve as a continuing source of family pleasure for years to come."

The Baldwin Orga-sonic Spinnet Organ actually creates musical magic for the home, the store or office. The instrument places the voice of the organ complete with flutes, violins, clarinets, oboes, and horns at the player's fingertips.

The famous Acrosonic (supreme tone) piano is also stocked at the store in walnut, limed oak, mahogany, and light or ebonized finishes. The Acrosonic is known as "today's most wanted small piano," and it is built by the Baldwin Piano Company of Cincinnati.

All acoustical elements of the small piano have been scientifically designed and expertly fitted by master craftsmen, the result being a piano of superior musical qualities.

There are several Baldwin Grand Pianos in stock at Adair Music Company, as well as Hamilton vertical pianos. A large stock of used pianos is also available from which to make selections.

Some unusually good buys can be had at Adair during the next few months because the Baldwin Piano Company is now holding a contest among its dealers. If Mrs. Adair can sell enough pianos, she and her chief clerk, Mrs. Frankie Marstrand, will win a trip to Cincinnati.

Mrs. Adair says that any used piano which was purchased in her store can be traded in on a new instrument for the full price paid for it.

Nalley Slogan Still Stands

For years, the business slogan of the Nalley Funeral Home has been "Understanding service built upon years of service."

And for years, personnel of that concern have worked to live up to that motto.

Coy Nalley, owner and manager of the concern bearing his name, has been a mortician and licensed funeral director for the past quarter of a century.

He and his staff are trained to shoulder all details concerned with a funeral and burial at the time such service is badly needed by a family in which tragedy has struck.

Nalley's, located at 906 Gregg Street in Big Spring, maintains a large and completely equipped chapel, where such services can be conducted.

Music can be supplied for such occasions, since the chapel is equipped with a Hammond electric organ.

Nalley's is also prepared to offer emergency service to any point within the area. The establishment keeps an ambulance and a well-trained driver on duty at all hours of the day and night.

Each of the ambulances is equipped to give emergency oxygen, in case such is needed.

Nalley's also offers to the general public a low-cost type of burial insurance, which has proved popular with many local families. Terms can be arranged as desired.

Nalley's telephone number is 4-8331.

Phillips Fertilizers Now Available Here

Phillips 66 ammonium sulphate fertilizer is now available at the McGibbon Oil Company, 601 E. 21st Street, and at all Phillips 66 Service Stations in the Big Spring area.

The Phillips 66 fertilizer is manufactured by Phillips Chemical Company of Bartlesville, Okla., and now is being distributed through Phillips 66 jobbers. The firm has been manufacturing the fertilizer for several years under a government contract.

The product is guaranteed to contain at least 21 per cent nitrogen and is backed by other guarantees.

It is recommended for lawns, flowers, fruit trees, gardens and for general agricultural usage.

The fertilizer is available in quantities of 25 pounds, or in larger sacks. Complete instructions for use of the material is printed on each bag.

For lawn usage, 10 pounds is the recommended quantity for each 1,000 square feet.

The Phillips 66 fertilizer is an addition to a big list of quality Phillips products distributed in the Big Spring area by the McGibbon Oil Company.

Roy Lee, manager, also has announced that S&H green stamps now are being given with domestic purchases of butane (Phillips) as an added service to the firm's many customers.

McGibbon Oil Company distributes the popular Lee tires and other automobile and truck accessories, and the well-known Phillips 66 gasoline, motor oils and other lubricants.

Growing in popularity is the Phillips 66 Premium motor oil which boasts both heavy duty and high emergency qualities along with the very best in lubricating ability.

McGibbon serves the entire area with the finest of automotive fuels and services through 21 service stations and with a big fleet of butane-propane and other fuel delivery trucks.

Drought Relief Loan Limit Given Increase

DALLAS (AP)—The limit on individual drought relief loans without having to get approval from Washington has been raised to $25,000. Theodore T. Perkins, new state director for the Farmers Home Administration, said here yesterday.

The previous limit for loans to individuals in drought and dust stricken areas with approval from the national office was $12,000.

Jayhawks Plan Toward April 28 Track Meet

Arrangements are being worked out to stage the annual West Zone track and field meet on the Texas Tech track Wednesday afternoon April 28.

Howard County Junior College will be one of three schools which will probably have teams in the meet. The others are Amarillo and Clarendon. Odessa and Frank Phillips of Borger probably will not be represented.

The HCJC squad has been working out mostly on its own, since Coach Harold Davis is tied up with baseball. However, four members of the team have been following a strict conditioning program. They are Ken Brown, sprinter; Jackie Gilbert, distance runner; Ben Elst, half-miler and relay man; and Carl Preston, also a half-miler and relay man.

Several members of the Jayhawk baseball team will probably take part in the Zone meet. They include Paschal Wickard, who will throw the weights; Jack Williams, broad jumper and high jumper; F. D. Fletcher, who will compete in the same events; Ronald Anderson, sprinter; and Jim Knotts, who is planning to enter the 220, 440 and possibly the relays.

Present plans call for the Zone tennis and golf meets to be held at Plainview on April 23 but HCJC probably will not be represented in either meet. The school had the nucleus for a good golf team last fall but the students have since dropped out of classes.

SWC Will Slice Price Of Ducats

DALLAS (AP)—Southwest Conference football prices will be reduced next season because of the elimination of the 20 per cent federal excise tax.

Howard Grubbs, executive secretary of the conference, polled the member schools and found today that next season they would charge $3.25 for seats on the side of the field and $2 for end zones. This compares with $3.00 and $2.50 for the past several years.

There will be a few exceptions and prices will be higher for some of the more attractive games, such as Texas-Oklahoma and probably Southern Methodist-Notre Dame in Dallas. Ticket demands for these games are expected to be very high.

Unknown Linkster Could Win Masters Tournament

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—There never has been an occasion when an unknown won the Masters Golf Tournament. But it could happen this year.

The conditions of the Masters are all against the outsiders. To qualify for an invitation to this event, a golfer has to prove his merit by winning an important title or by finishing in the upper brackets of a major championship. That's what gives the tournament its unique touch.

But the big field for the 1954 Masters—about 80 or more starters out of 115 who received invitations—includes more players than ever before whose names seldom have appeared in headlines as tournament winners.

To emphasize this fact, tournament chairman Cliff Roberts asked four of the top players to name four newcomers who seemed to have a chance. The result was this:

Only One Still Here

Julio De la Torre (right) compares batting styles with George Becca in the above picture but he could have been bidding Becca good-bye. Both were in the Big Spring Bronco baseball camp. George was sent to Odessa by Manager Pepper Martin last night. The veteran De la Torre will, no doubt, open the season at third base for Big Spring.

IN DOUBLE BILL Hawks, Wranglers Square Off Today

Harold Davis takes his Howard County Junior College Jayhawks to Odessa for a baseball double header with Larry McCulloch's OJC Wranglers. Each engagement will go six innings.

The games do not count in West Zone standings, although both teams are members of the circuit. Odessa has yet to play a Zone game while the Hawks have broken even in two starts.

Oakie Hagood will probably pitch the opener for the Hawks while Jim Knotts could work the afterpiece.

In a previous twin bill played here, Odessa twice defeated the Hawks. The Big Springers had what appeared to be a safe lead, then blew it in the late innings.

The hitters caught up to the pitchers in that one and the final tab was 21-15. The Hawks will play their next home games here Friday night, at which time they host Frank Phillips College of Borger in a Zone double-bill. The first game will go seven innings, the second five. The show begins at 7 p.m.

Coast Horses Won't Compete Before Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the outstanding West Coast candidates for the Kentucky Derby—Determine and Correlation—are going to remain as far apart as possible until they meet May 1 at Churchill Downs.

Correlation, winner of the $100,000 Florida Derby for E. Lyle, is in New York prepping for the $30,000 added Gotham Mile a week from Saturday and the $100,000 added Wood Memorial on April 24, both at Jamaica. He'll then head for Derbytown.

Determine, No. 1 horse in the Santa Anita Derby and top money winner of the year following his victory in the Peter Clark Handicap at Bay Meadows last Saturday, will remain on the West Coast until two weeks before the three-year old turf classic at the Downs.

While Correlation was breeding seven furlongs in 1:28 at Belmont Park yesterday, owner Andrew J. Crevelin and trainer Willie Molter got together and outlined Determine's immediate campaign. The grey son of Alibhai will make his next start in the $25,000 added Bay Meadows Derby on April 17. Then he'll be flown to Louisville for his final prep in the Derby trial April 27. Molter also plans to enter Alibhai in the trial.

Meantime, C. V. Whitney's Fisherman, another prominent Derby eligible, has given the boys something to talk about. The son of Phalanx stepped three-quarters of a mile in 1:11 3/5 yesterday and that's race-winning time.

Fisherman, winner of four major stakes in 1953, makes his three-year old debut Saturday in the Experimental Free Handicap at Jamaica. He's expected to clash with other such Derby hopefuls as Mrs. John D. Hertz's Double Speed, Joe Gavegnano's Errand King, James Cox Brady's Best Years, Hal Price Headley's Revolt, J. W. Rodgers' Duc de Fer and Giant Cracker from Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hay Stable.

Guggenheim announced yesterday that his Turn-To, favorite for the Kentucky Derby until he bowed a tendon recently, is through with racing. The owner of Dark Star, who also bowed after upsetting Native Dancer in last year's Derby, said Turn-To will be turned out until next winter and then placed in stud at Arthur B. Hancock's Claiborne Farm at Paris, Ky.

Doug Ford Winner Of First Money

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Doug Ford, playing out of Klamath Lake, N. Y., faced around the 6,723-yard Starmount Forest Country Club course in 2 hours 50 minutes and 72 strokes yesterday to trim Marty Furgol by three shots in their playoff for the $2,000 top money in the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

Off form and apparently thinking ahead to the Augusta Masters Tournament opening Thursday, they didn't burn up the course. Ford posted 37-35-72 and Furgol 39-36-75. Par is 35-36.

YANKS VS SENATORS

Eisenhower Will Throw Out 'First Pitch' A Bit Late

By BEN PHEGAR

Associated Press Sports Editor

President Eisenhower is having a tough time with the traditional presidential job of throwing out the first pitch of the baseball season.

Last year he begged off to play golf only to wind up pitching anyway when the Washington opener was delayed by rain until late in the first week of the season.

This year he agreed to make the first pitch April 12. But it will be the first pitch only in Washington. Bobby Shantz of the Philadelphia Athletics was the shining light of yesterday's nine exhibition games. Although he was beaten, 1-0, by the Pittsburgh Pirates on a home run by Frank Thomas, the little left-hander gave up just three hits and struck out nine as he went nine innings for the first time this spring.

Bob Purkey, a 24-year-old right-hander up from New Orleans, went the distance for the Pirates. He scattered six hits and didn't walk anybody.

There were two other shutouts. Clem Labine, Jim Hughes and Ery Palca combined to hold Milwaukee scoreless as the Dodgers whipped the Braves, 6-0. The Chicago Cubs edged Baltimore, 2-0, on the four-hit pitching of Johnny Klippstein and Jim Brosnan.

Robin Roberts continued to take a spring pounding as the Detroit Tigers jumped on him for seven hits and five runs in five innings. The Tigers beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-2.

Cincinnati hit five home runs in whipping Washington, 9-4. Lloyd Merriman got two and Jim Grossgrass, Wally Post and Ted Kluszewski one apiece. A three-run homer by Jim Hegan with one out in the ninth gave Cleveland a 10-8 decision over the New York Giants.

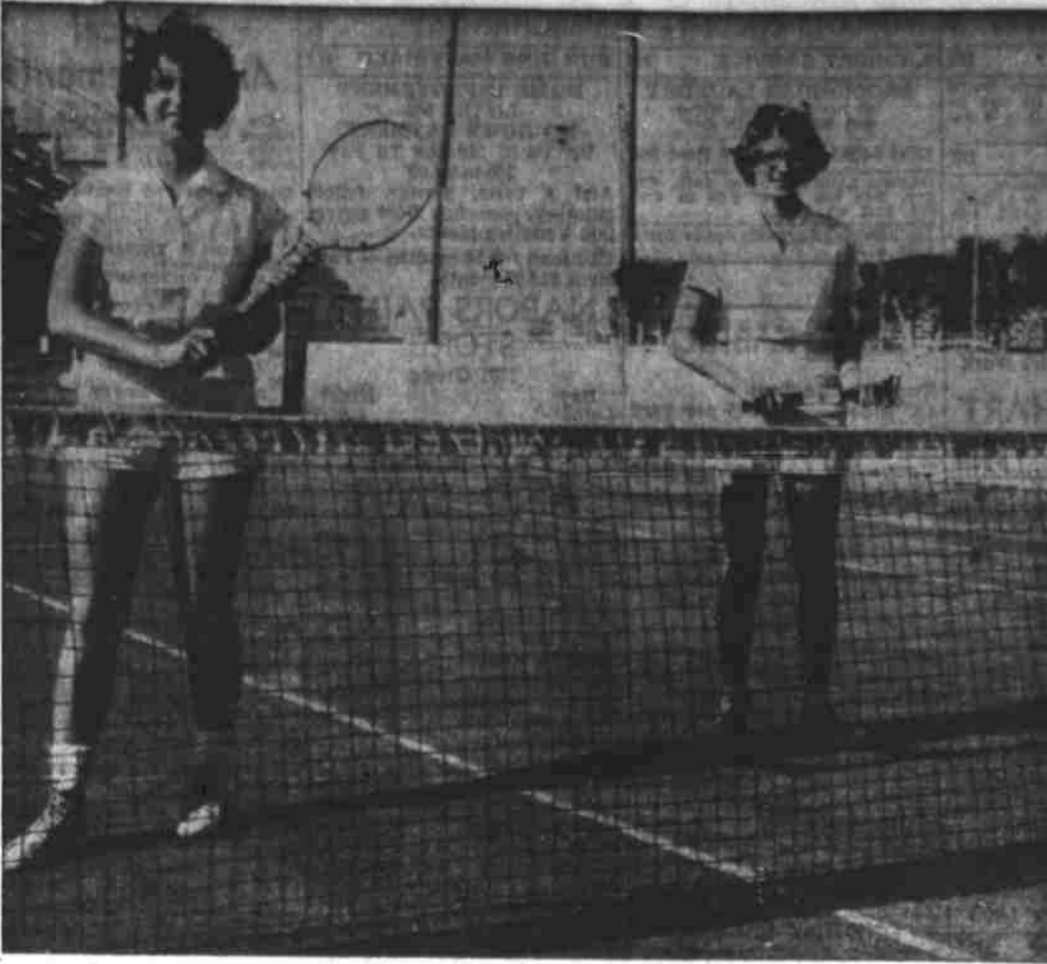

The Chicago White Sox pounded Gary Staley and Joe Prosko for 10 hits in six innings in defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2.

Memphis of the Southern Assn. tripped the Boston Red Sox, 6-5, and the Yankees trounced Charlotte of the South Atlantic League, 12-3.

They open their conference season on Saturday, at which time they play San Angelo here.

Rice Is Defeated By Sam Houston HUNTSVILLE (AP)—Sam Houston State of the Lone Star Conference whipped Rice, 14-7, in a baseball game here last night.

The Bearcats shelled three pitchers of the Southwest Conference school for 17 hits including a 5-hit, 5-run stanza in the eighth.

Up-And-Coming Tennis

Steeds And Roswell Meet Here Tonight

The curtain goes up at 8 o'clock this evening on Big Spring's first professional baseball show of the season.

Pepper Martin's resident Broncos, campaigning to return Big Spring to good standing in Organized Baseball, host the Roswell Rockets.

The engagement should interest the fans, since the visiting team is managed by Pat Stasey, who gave Big Spring some great teams in the late '40's.

The fans will get a break, too, in that Martin has pegged the price of all adult tickets at 50 cents. That's 24 cents under what has been levied for practice games here in the past.

Martin has indicated he will use his veteran hurlers, Larry Cummins and Mike Rainey, against the Rockets. Martin Orlando may see action, too. Frank Maren, a limited service hurler who joined the team late, probably is not ready to play.

Either Degberto Gutierrez or Ed Donovan will catch for the Hoses. Tony Martinez will be at first, Floyd Martin at second, Luis Cabellero at short, Julio De la Torre at third and Johnny O'Neill, Gil Silva and either Juan Mejido or Harold Berry in right.

Two new players, Pancho Gonzales and Jay Mattson, were due to be in Bronco uniforms tonight. Gonzales is a rookie shortstop from California. Mattson is a limited service left-handed hurler who two years ago posted a 5-1 won-lost record for Ada in the Sooner State League. He was not in pro ball last year. Both were sent here by Albuquerque, which got them from Oakland.

Stasey will bring a flock of new players here. He's gotten rid of most of the boys who played with Roswell last season, in hopes of climbing out of the second division. Two names familiar to local fans decorate the Roswell roster, however.

One is Stubby Greer, co-owner of the club; and the other Joe Bauman, who has played with Artesia the past two years. Greer will probably play second for the Rockets while Bauman will be at first.

WALTER DUKES, discussing his disappointing play with the Harlem Globetrotters: "Sitting on the bench is no way to improve your game. I always seem to be tired and I miss the daily practices we used to have at Guts Hall. I just don't have that zip any more."

SEUN MANCUSCO, on the big league possibilities of Jack Collum, the Cincinnati hurler: "He looks like a high school pitcher out there. But he has a heart twice as large as most big men and the nerve of a burglar."

CARL HUBBELL, the one-time mound great of the New York Giants: "Kids have a better chance of making good in the majors today than at any time since I've been connected with baseball. But they've got to hustle. Sheer ability isn't enough. Many youngsters are missing their big chance because they're not putting in enough time studying their profession, not thinking about how they can improve from day to day or game to game."

WHITLOW WYATT, the former Brooklyn mound star: "All I'm better than half the pitchers in the Southern Association today. What's more, I can throw harder, much harder, than most young pitchers around now—at least for a few innings."

BEVO FRANCIS, the Rio Grande cage phenom: "My biggest thrill in basketball was setting a few records this year and making the NCAA eat a few words. If I score 30 points a game, I'm satisfied. When I get up to 100, I know I've had a good night. I've only fouled out once this year."

ANTHONY'S STORE will again offer Bronco T-shirts for sale to small-fry baseball fans. The shirts sell for $1.

Those 12 years of age and under can obtain free admission to Steer Park for all home games of the Big Spring Broncos simply by wearing them to the games.

Two Teams Tied In Scratch Loop

White's quiet skimed by Weaver's team by a margin of 2 and 1 in matches last week to tie the losers for first place in the Scratch Bowling League.

Each aggregation has now won eight and lost four games. Only one game back is Jim Engstrom's boys, who blanked Kalsched's representatives in three straight games.

In the other match, Jake Douglas' contingent rolled past Ken Becker's to pull within one game of a fifth place tie. Becker's has now won four and lost eight, compared to Douglas's 3-9 record, Kalsched is fourth, at 6-8.

Engstrom posted a 230-328 for high individual score. Douglas came in with a 204-372 while E. B. Doules reported a 214-360.

Henceforth, the league will bowl on Tuesdays rather than Fridays.

Jack McAuliffe held the lightweight title from 1888 until his retirement in 1886. He was defeated throughout his boxing career which started in 1884.

VETERAN HURLERS MAKE CATS BIG THREAT

The Associated Press

FORT WORTH (AP)—Pete Wojey, Glenn Micken, Carroll Beringer, Rudy Paynich and Tom Bigham provide a tipoff on the type club that will represent Fort Worth in the Texas League in 1954.

The've pitchers, all seasoned and proven in Class AA competition. And they'll doubtless be bolstered by selections from the abundance of promising young fingers that crowd the farm system of the parent Brooklyn Dodgers.

Thus the Cats seem set to conform to the usual pattern that has marked their play in the Texas League since the Dodgers bought the franchise in 1948.

Until last year the Fort Worth team usually featured brilliant pitching coupled with a young team that could run and throw, if not belt the ball consistently. Last year Max Macon was presented an experienced infield, good catching and mediocre outfield. Al Vincent, lured here from Beaumont to succeed Macon, also appears to be getting a generous measure of experience at most positions.

Wayland To Take Part In Tourney

AMARILLO (AP)—Wayland College, National AAU women's basketball champion, will participate in a Western Division playoff at Canyon this week to determine a team for the Pan-American Games in 1955.

Other teams entered in the playoff are Dowell's Dolls of Amarillo, Denver Vicer Chevrolet of Denver, Colo., Kansas City Dons and Kansas City Bronco Company. Claco also may enter.

TED WILLIAMS

Here, in his own words, Ted tells why he'll hang up his spillove this fall... a decision he made even before his recent injury. He reviews his own tempestuous career and he swings from the heels as he sits his pet grapes. He explains why he still dabbles most sports writers and some fans. He claims Ty Cobb is all wet about modern players and shows why. Here's the baseball story of the year! Get your copy of the Post and start it today!

Ted Williams reveals:

- The big change in batting strategy he'll make this year.
- Which pitchers are toughest— which easiest—for him to hit.
- When he jinks on the most intimidating players today.
- Which was his worst day on the diamond and his best.

Pleven Leaves Paris Attack Scene

French Defense Minister Rene Pleven, hatless between uniformed generals in center, is escorted from Paris' Arch of Triumph after demonstrators slapped his face and pulled his hair in an apparent protest against the European army program. Army generals clearing a path for Pleven are, from left: Gen. Jean Clement Blane, chief of general staff; Gen. Fernand Philippe Besancon, inspector general of artillery, and Gen. Henri Zeller, Paris military governor. The demonstrators, who interrupted a ceremony in honor of French defenders of the besieged Dien Bien Phu in Indochina, also tried to tip over Premier Joseph Laniel's car. Panhandle Farmers, 100 Strong, Ask Bills So They Can Buy Gas.

AUSTIN (U)—Texas Panhandle farmers some 100 strong urged a House committee last night to help get two laws on the book that would let them buy natural gas from their own land to run their irrigation pumps.

The House Oil, Gas and Mining Committee approved one of the bills, but sent the other to subcommittee for four days' study. Also delayed were two bills to authorize minimum price fixing on natural gas. The measures had been studied by a subcommittee for a week, but the sub-group said it needed more time. It was directed to report by Wednesday night.

The special session ends next Tuesday, and time appears likely to run out on any bill not now out of committee and ready for floor debate.

Approved by the committee was a bill to exempt pipelines delivering gas for agricultural purposes from classification as a public utility.

Sent to subcommittee was a bill which would allow the Railroad Commission to require a percentage of gas production be allocated for usage by municipalities and schools and for agricultural purposes.

Farmers representing seven counties told the same story: They can't buy, or have been told they will be cut off from buying, gas which is being produced from their own land. The pipelines are afraid such sales will make them subject to regulation as public utilities.

Wilson Buchanan, Spearman, said he could run an irrigation pump on gas for 20 to 35 cents an hour, but butane would cost $1.65 and electricity $1.80 an hour.

W. R. Rutherford, publisher of the Dumas Moore County News, said the farmers have been told repeatedly by the gas companies that they can't get the gas at any price.

No witnesses spoke in opposition to the bill allowing the Railroad Commission, in effect, to force a company to sell part of its gas to farmers, schools and municipalities.

Some committee members questioned the need for that bill if the one creating the exemption from public utility classification were passed.

Rutherford said both bills were needed because Texas gas reserves are rapidly being depleted and within a few years Texans may face the sight of currently exported gas returning to Texas for sale at seven times the price it left the state. Much reported Texas gas now is being stored in other states for later sale, he said.

Three Men Die In Canadian Rail Crash

MONTREAL (U)—A speeding Canadian National Railways passenger train collided early today with freight cars on a siding near Montmagny, Que., killing three crewmen. No passengers were reported injured.

A CNR spokesman here identified the dead as J. D. Levesque, engineer, and Gaudiose Thibault, fireman, both of Riviere du Loup, Que., and E. Belanger, brakeman, of St. Vallier, Que.

The spokesman said the 12-car train, the Ocean Limited, was en route from Halifax to Montreal when the collision occurred near the outskirts of the St. Lawrence River south shore village 35 miles east of Quebec. About 68 passengers were believed aboard the all-sleeper train.

Man From Brownwood Takes Over Duval County Auditorship

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (U)—John Arthur Thomason of Brownwood was due here today to take over as Duval County auditor, a job two men have resigned in less than three weeks.

Thomason, secretary of the State Public Accountants Assn., resigned yesterday as Brown County auditor to take the controversial job here.

He succeeds W. M. Benson of Alice, who resigned after two weeks in the office. Benson was appointed by former Dist. Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin to succeed C. T. Stansell Jr., who quit the post March 17.

Judge A. S. Broadfoot of the 79th District Court appointed Thomason to the post yesterday after Duval County commissioners signed an order abolishing the post and turning its duties over to the county clerk.

Broadfoot, Bonham, Tex., resident appointed to the 79th District seat recently by Chief Justice Hickman of the State Supreme Court, merely ignored the county commissioners' order.

Broadfoot was appointed as acting judge of the district after the State Supreme Court ousted Laughlin on the petition of 11 lawyers of the district.

Meanwhile, Atty. Gen. John Ben Sheppard said in San Marcos last night that a "great change" has come over Duval County since the state's probe into affairs here was made public about six weeks ago.

Sheppard said in a speech before the San Marcos Rotary Club that Judge Broadfoot was "courageous" last week in dismissing the Duval County grand jury and the commission that picked it.

The jury, he said, "was stacked and planted ten ways from Sunday."

Sheppard earlier in the day had been here to attend court proceedings in which two Beaumont lawyers asked Judge Broadfoot to seat the grand jury he dissolved last week.

Sheppard said members of the commission and the grand jury panel included men connected with George B. Parr by political, financial or family ties.

Of the jury panel, Sheppard last night said: "At least five of these men are known to have received funds from the school districts, at least ten have close relatives working for the county or the school districts under investigation, two are present or past school district trustees, one works for the City of Benavides, and one is a county commissioner," Sheppard said.

"A great change has come over the county in the six weeks since our investigations and findings were first made public," he said. "I believe violence has stopped. The people are not afraid any more."

The attorney general was here yesterday for hearings on three suits brought by taxpayers against Duval County and school officials. Injunctions prohibiting certain illegal acts were granted or continued in force yesterday after details were settled by agreement by lawyers.

In the suit for an injunction to bar salary advances to county employees, Manuel Raymond, attorney for the defendants, said that the Duval County commissioners' court had entered an order barring any salary advances in the future, and directing the county auditor to recover advances already made.

Another injunction would prevent the future transfer of constitutional funds and ordered the commissioners court to repay to the general fund $10,000 from the road and bridge fund.

A third injunction against the San Diego Independent School District would bar future advances on salaries and would prevent payment of funds in cases of nepotism.

WHILE IN EUROPE

Kirk Douglas Got Tired Of Fancy French Food

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (U)—What does an American miss most after a year and a half in Europe?

"Some good, simple food," replies Kirk Douglas. "In France, where I spent much of my time, you can get the most elegant food in the world. But after a while you yearn for a well-prepared, plain dish such as you can only get in the United States. Pot roast, Corned beef and cabbage. A hamburger and milk shake. How I could have used something like that!"

Douglas frankly admits that he went abroad to profit from the tax exemption for Americans who lived abroad 18 months. He didn't come back with as much profit as he had hoped for; Congress stepped in and changed the law.

He added that a trip abroad made him again appreciate the American success story, of which his own life is a notable example. He was born Issur Danielovitch in Amsterdam, N. Y. His parents, who also had six daughters, had emigrated from Russia.

"If they had stayed there, I would have been a peasant," he reflected. "I realized in Europe that the average person has little chance of rising above the status of his parents. But in America, anyone can do anything. Any boy can become president of the United States."

But he does think that the jaunt was worthwhile in other respects.

The actor made three pictures abroad: "The Juggler," "Act of Love" and "Ulysses." He toured throughout Israel, Italy, France, Switzerland, Germany and England. He met royalty and the heads of state. He feels that the whole experience caused him to grow as an actor and as an individual.

But most of all, it threw a new light on his native land.

"You miss the things you have always taken for granted in this country," he observed. "For instance, when you're in Europe for a while, you almost forget that the bathroom is a well established institution."

"When you come back here, you get a different impression just from seeing the faces of the people. Americans seem so much healthier, cleaner and happier. I guess it's because of our standard of living."

He added that a trip abroad made him again appreciate the American success story, of which his own life is a notable example.

U.N. Security Council Sets Thursday Meet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U)—The U. N. Security Council will meet Thursday to discuss rival complaints by Israel and Jordan arising from the grim tension and sporadic outbreaks of violence along the border between the two Middle East neighbors.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky, April president of the council, called the meeting after receiving requests from Israel and from Lebanon, acting on behalf of Jordan, which does not belong to the United Nations.

The average depth of U. S. underground coal mines is about 180 feet.

McCarthy 1950 Blast At State Department Set Capital Astir

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly after 4 p.m. on Feb. 20, 1950, the junior member from Wisconsin, Joseph P. McCarthy, Republican, gained the floor of the United States Senate.

"About 10 days ago . . . he began, 'I made the statement that there are present in the State Department a sizable number of Communists. I made the further statement that of one small group which had been screened by the President's own security agency, the State Department refused to discharge approximately 200 . . .'"

"The secretary of state promptly denied my statement and said there was not a single Communist in the whole State Department. I thereafter sent a telegram to the President."

McCarthy read a copy of this telegram. In it he said: ". . . I have in my possession the names of 57 Communists who are in the State Department at present. 'While the records are not available to me, I know absolutely of one group of 300 certified to the secretary of state for discharge because of communism. He actually only discharged 80 . . .'"

OWEN LATTIMORE . . . Favorite McCarthy Target

had now compiled a list of 81. "While I consider them all important," he said, "there are three big Communists involved . . ."

The telegram demanded that President Truman revoke his executive order forbidding disclosure of the contents of loyalty files and added: "Failure on your part will label the Democratic party as the bedfellow of international communism . . ."

The statement he described had been made at Wheeling, W.Va., before a Republican women's club. Newspaper stories had quoted him as saying at Wheeling: "I have here in my hand a list of 205 that were known to the secretary of state (then Dean Acheson) as being members of the Communist party and who nevertheless are still working and shaping the policy in the State Department."

The next day, having flown to Salt Lake City, he was quoted in a recorded radio interview as saying: "Last night . . . I stated I had the names of 57 card-carrying members of the State Department." If McCarthy's listeners in the Senate had expected him to clear up this seeming self-contradiction, they were to be disappointed. Instead, he went on—for six hours altogether—to rake the State Department from every angle.

amines the complete loyalty and employment files and records of all government employees in the Department of State and other such agencies against whom charges have been heard.

"Without somebody makes a charge, or you call it a charge, what do we do then? How do we get the records? We are authorized to get them by the Senate language if you or somebody else makes a charge. We are in a pretty small position to issue a subpoena."

McCarthy replied ". . . I am not in position to file any formal charges."

In four months of hearings the committee heard 35 witnesses and some three million words of testimony. The Democratic majority of the Tydings committee, as it came to be known, said in its final report that the 81 cases discussed by McCarthy on the Senate floor were drawn from a list of 108 presented before a House subcommittee on appropriations in 1947. The majority also said it found these same names had been presented to three other House committees and had been discussed on the floor of the House Jan. 22-23, 1948.

The majority report continued: "We are thus confronted with the amazing spectacle of four different committees of the 80th Congress, which was controlled by Sen. McCarthy's own party, having considered the very same files and information which provided the predicate for the McCarthy charges . . . with none of these committees so much as regarding the situation as one meriting a report or citing a single State Department employee as disloyal."

All the while the committee was in session McCarthy kept up a drumfire of headline-winning statements. Two involved widely known Americans — Owen Lattimore, then a professor of international relations at Johns Hopkins University and Philip C. Jessup, U. S. ambassador-at-large under a temporary appointment. On March 28, McCarthy said Lattimore was the man he had described as the top Soviet espionage agent in the United States. McCarthy called Lattimore a key State Department consultant, "chief architect of our Far Eastern policy."

McCarthy charged Jessup was a man with an unusual "affinity for Communist causes." Three former secretaries of state—Cordell Hull, James F. Byrnes and George C. Marshall—and the then secretary Dean Acheson denied that Lattimore had had anything to do with construction of Far Eastern policy. As for Lattimore's employment by the State Department, the Tydings committee majority said he worked for four months in 1945-46 for the United States Reparations Commission to Japan, lectured to State Department employees once in 1946 and participated for two days in a conference on Chinese affairs in 1949.

The committee Democrats concluded: "We find Owen Lattimore is not now and never has been in any proper sense an employee of the State Department . . . We have no evidence to support the charge that Lattimore is 'a top Russian spy' or any sort of spy."

Nearly three years after the Tydings committee report, however, a grand jury in Washington on Dec. 16, 1952, indicted Lattimore on seven counts of perjury. Jessup appeared before the Tydings group and under oath swore he was not and had never been a Communist. He produced letters in which Gen. George C. Marshall and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower vouched for his loyalty and integrity.

The committee Democrats said the record showed "facts which conclusively demonstrate that Dr. Jessup is actively opposing the aims of communism by deeds as well as words."

320 Arrested In Japan Crackdown

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese police arrested 320 persons today in one of the biggest crackdowns against terrorist suspects since the war. The targets apparently were a mixture of criminal and political troublemakers, who were to be questioned and probably, in most cases, released.

Soviet Patrol Craft Nets Two Jap Boats

TOKYO (AP)—A Soviet patrol craft captured two Japanese fishing boats off the eastern tip of the northern island of Hokkaido today, Kyodo news agency said. The Soviets have seized six boats in the area since March 15, Kyodo reported, and are still holding four, plus 25 crewmen.

Doctors Face Problem In Informing Cancer Patients

By FRANK CAREY Associated Press Science Reporter CHICAGO (AP)—Should a doctor "tell" a patient if he has cancer—or should he hide the information from him?

A small group of doctors, interviewed separately—and at random—today at the annual meeting of the American College of Physicians, were agreed that there's "no set answer" to the question, admittedly one of the toughest they have to face in practice. The decision largely depends, they said, on the emotional makeup of the patient—and each case has to be handled individually.

But, in general, according to most of the doctors: 1. If the patient is an emotionally stable type who can "take it," then tell him.

2. If he's the type who might "go to pieces" emotionally, don't tell him. As one doctor put it, telling such a person he has cancer might even lead to suicide.

McCarthy said it's well to "individualize" not only for people who have an incurable cancer, but also for those who might have a cancer possibly curable by surgery, X-ray or radium. "The very word 'cancer' still scares some people," said Dr. George Miller of Long Beach, N. Y., adding that people of that type should not be told what they have even though the particular cancer might be—and actually is—cured.

A compilation of the ideas of the doctors on why people should be told, if at all possible, is as follows: (1) The personal desire of everyone to arrange his own financial and other matters; (2) the possibility that the patient, knowing his time was relatively short, might want to do something he wanted to do all his life, like take a long trip, or even, as one doctor put it, "be like a friend of mine who, on learning he had an incurable cancer, decided he'd go back and finish out law school"; and (3) the possibility that the patient might wish to provide an example of quiet courage that would be helpful to others in time of adversity.

Plain Talk Indicates Readiness To Take Whatever Action Needed

Just how precarious is the situation in Indochina was indicated in a statement by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to the House Foreign Affairs committee.

The Chinese Communists are coming "awful close" to direct aggression there, he said, and this could touch off massive retaliation. In so many words, this was calculated as a blunt warning to the Chinese Reds to desist from such direct participation or run the risk of producing another Korea.

By the term "massive retaliation," Secretary Dulles left little doubt that he was thinking in terms of throwing enough strength against the enemy to prevent capitulation of Indochina. He did not say that the United States was prepared to send men as well as equipment into that strife-torn country, but it is difficult to envision massive retaliation without such an eventuality.

Dulles made it rather plain that it is not part of the administration's policy to stand by with folded hands while Communist forces grab off a rich prize and extend the sphere of influence that was brought up short with the Korean episode. The immediate reaction to the enunciation of this policy was generally such as to point up a readiness on the part of many congressional leaders to take the ball and run with it. The question is not one of involvement, but degree of involvement. If you are going to talk tough, then it is best to be able to act tough if absolutely necessary. Secretary Dulles would lead the impression that the latter eventuality is within the realm of possibility.

Awesome Destructive Power Calls For New Efforts For Its Control

The newly-revealed awesomeness of the hydrogen bomb could have two fairly immediate effects, one obvious, the other speculative. The first effect should be to make all the governments and peoples of the free world realize their dependence upon each other in the continuing struggle for survival. The other fact, not so obvious, is that even the power-mad rulers of the Kremlin must see the necessity of working out a foolproof system of atomic controls.

On our part, we must realize and act upon the stark necessity of leaving no stone unturned to create and maintain absolute superiority in a type of warfare that may never, please God, materialize—atomic warfare. The best way to insure the permanent banishment of atomic warfare is for us never to let down even for a moment in our drive and determination to maintain superiority in this field; for if we ever let down, that will be Russia's big opportunity.

So unless and until foolproof international controls are created, we must live in a world where the only insurance against atomic attack is the ability to retaliate against whoever starts it.

The fool who rocks a motor boat filled with women and children is a model of self-restraint compared to those happily few self-elected masterminds who advocate dropping a bomb on Moscow or Peking as the solution to all the world's troubles. An atomic war would be easy to start, but once started there could be no stopping it this side of eventual destruction of hundreds of millions of people, including some millions of our own.

It is necessary, meantime, that we take all steps necessary to maintain atomic superiority, to devise and develop as much protection to our people against atomic warfare as possible, and to work and pray for 100 per cent effective international control of atomic energy as a weapon. Whether this can be done remains to be seen, but we could not settle for anything less than the type of control we have always insisted upon—thorough and constant international inspection of all atomic projects, with the inspecting teams free to go and come into all countries of the world, at all times.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs

Dismissal Of Juin In France Similar To MacArthur Story

PARIS—The political upheaval touched off in France by the dismissal of Marshal Alfred Juin as Vice-President of the High Council of the Armed Forces and from his other offices resembles in kind, if not in degree, the explosion that followed President Truman's dismissal of General MacArthur over the conduct of the Korean War.

Jun timed his speech in opposition to the European Defense Community at a critical moment in the effort of the government to bring the issue to a debate after the Easter holiday. For months Juin has in private spoken frankly in opposition to the concept that is at the heart of President Eisenhower's foreign policy. In this he had made himself a kind of hero of the extreme rightists opposing the European army plan.

The Marshal had gone so far as to add in his private conversation his conviction that General Alfred Gruenther was also opposed to EDC. Ten days ago in a talk with Juin, Gruenther told him he was disturbed by this report since he, Gruenther, felt that there was no alternative to EDC. A little later Gruenther made a public statement to this effect. Juin seems to have taken the Gruenther statement as a signal giving him the right to come out publicly in opposition to EDC. At any rate Juin's backers in the Assembly are claiming that if Gruenther could speak for it, then the French marshal had the right to speak against it. They go on to demand that Gruenther also be dismissed.

Jun has nothing like the popular following in France that MacArthur had at the time of his dismissal. He is a respected military figure with a long and distinguished career.

But what gives weight to his words in this connection is the fact that he is a marshal of France. This relates him directly to the long tradition of the French Army and the great traditions centering around it.

Inez Robb's Column

Omaha Is The Nerve Center Of Nation's New Striking Force

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first of three articles by Inez Robb, who, amid the furor caused by the revelation of the 'H' bomb explosion, flew to Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska, which is the nerve center of the U. S. Air Force's Strategic Air Command. From this base would come the order, "if and when," to send up our long-range, atomic or nuclear striking force.

OMAHA, Nebr. — This is a pleasant Midwest city of 270,000 that falls away from its compact business district into sprawling residential areas in the manner of a community with wide, rolling prairies on which to spread its skirts.

For years, the nation has known it as an important rail center, a tremendous livestock market and as the home of Father Flanagan's Boys' Town.

Six years ago something new was added to this Nebraska city, something so new that only now is the realization growing that here — in a community almost in the geographic center of the United States — is the executive headquarters of the nation's New Look military policy of instant and massive retaliation.

That "something new" is the headquarters of the nation's Strategic Air Command, the group that is constantly ready to carry instant and massive retaliation to any corner of the globe if and when it is necessary.

At Offutt Air Force Base, only 20 minutes by car from downtown Omaha, are the heart, brain and nerve center — the Command Post of SAC, the U. S. Air Force's long-range, atomic or nuclear striking force.

This base, where the tightest security regulations are constantly in force, is the headquarters of Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Commander of SAC, who, if the time ever comes, must give the order that would send aloft the great bombers with their deadly loads of chain destruction.

If that dread hour were to come within the next 60 seconds, it would require only another 60 seconds for SAC to go into combat operation.

SAC's business is massive retaliation. It is constantly at the ready. At Offutt

Air Force Base I realized, as I talked with men and officers, that the New Look in military policy might be new to the public, but not to SAC.

On this base it is obvious that it is not a boast but a plain statement of fact that "SAC has achieved what has been described as the highest organized readiness ever known in time of peace."

Because uneasy peace still reigns among the great powers, that "state or organized readiness" must still be regarded as peacetime maneuvers. But such maneuvers are segregated by an all but invisible hairline from wartime footing.

The change of peacetime operations to global war would involve only the selection of targets and the loading of bombs in the terse and succinct way in which SAC itself describes its instant ability to launch the policy of massive retaliation.

If global war should become an actuality SAC's bombers would rise from overseas bases even as her great intercontinental bombers would take off at once from United States bases for enemy targets.

"We are in the delivery business," is the blunt way in which a SAC officer described the prime duty of the command. It is fairly obvious that the awful hydrogen weapons recently exploded in the Pacific testing grounds are merely another "package" for its delivery service.

It is estimated that hundreds of SAC's B-47 medium jet bombers, loaded with nuclear bombs, could, in a single strike, pour more explosive force on enemy targets than was expended through the four years of World War II.

And SAC is combat-ready.

"You Mean You Won't Swear Me In As A Deputy?"

HERITAGE DAYS

By MILLARD COPE

General Santa Anna's decision to cross the Brazos, at flood stage, was reversed, on April 6, 1836, because he could not determine the strength of Captain Baker's forces placed at the crossing by Sam Houston. Abandoning hope of crossing, Santa Anna proceeded toward San Felipe, to join growing forces of his army.

"They are much in want of good horses," Houston revealed the Mexican captured the evening before told of enemy troops suffering from "severity of treatment and deprivation of the necessities of life."

ANSON JONES, above, served as surgeon in the Texas army, going into the battle of San Jacinto. He was to become the last president of the Republic of Texas, after serving in the Texas Congress and as secretary of state.

Colonel Rusk, in joining the Texas Army, had brought news that supplies were being forwarded for use of the army. "They will be particularly acceptable," Houston advised. The commander felt progress was being made in training his troops. "The army is one of strength and security," he confided in a message to the acting secretary of war. He assured that "movements of the enemy can be vigilantly watched."

The enemy "shall be closely looked to," Houston promised, "and the first favorable moment seized with avidity to effect his total defeat."

News of the Goliad massacre by April 6 had welded the Texans into a determined fighting unit, anxious for a fight. Houston, himself, felt his troops not quite ready for such a major engagement. Desertions had increased upon word that the Mexicans had killed Fannin and all his men. Manpower in the detachments stationed to keep Mexicans from crossing the river could not be put in to augment the Texas force. The cold and rain was taking a heavy toll of physically exhausted men, resulting in rather widespread sickness.

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP

Created from Upshur County on this day in 1874 was Camp County, in the piney woods section of Northeast Texas. It was named for John Lafayette Camp, a Confederate hero.

Cherokee and Caddo Indians once inhabited this area; near Leechburg reportedly stood the lodge of Dr. John Dunn Hunter, the enigmatic scholar and author who chose to live among the Cherokees. The Indians slew Hunter just before the Fredonian Rebellion.

Major W. H. Pitts, who migrated to Texas from Georgia in 1850, established the first settlement in the county and named it Pittsburg. The town is distinguished by its elbow-shaped main street. According to one account, a sprawling tree stood in the way of a wide, straight main street and the citizens preferred to drive around the tree rather than destroy it.

From this section of the state the Department of Anthropology and Archeology of the University of Texas has removed quantities of artifacts and skeletal remains. These are preserved and displayed in the Anthropology Museum on the University campus.

Sweet potatoes, cotton and truck vegetables form the principal crops in Camp County. Recent years have seen a decided shift toward dairying and cattle raising, and in Pittsburg are a furniture factory, lumber mills and large basket and crate manufacturing industries.

Here is his answer—the philosophy of an incurable horse player: "The horse player is the gamest of all sports fans. He takes the most punishment—in taxes, admission fees and the way they hype the food and drink prices once they get him out to the track."

"But a real horse player will turn out in the face of a blizzard, a hurricane, a fog—even an earthquake. He knows the big tracks are honest, but even if the races weren't on the level he'd still come out. He has an unbounded belief in the axiom, 'some horse has to win—and it might be the one I got my money down on.'"

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast, but it springs twice as eternal in a horse player's breast. So you lose? Most horse players are so accustomed to losing they take it pretty well. They will never commit suicide while they are holding a sweepstakes ticket."

"A dred-in-the-wool horse player actually hates to spend money on anything but horses. He'll go around in baggy pants, a beat-up hat, and with holes in his shoes, and still plunk down $10 for a long shot to win.

"More and more women are showing up at the tracks now. It seems to be taking the place of afternoon bridge with them. But a serious horse player regards them as a jinx. Besides, they tie up a betting window half an hour while they paw through their handbag looking for two bucks.

"The serious horse player also looks down his nose at rich guys who are always laying heavy sugar on the favorite in a race. They figure if a man wants to invest money he should go to Wall Street, not to a racetrack.

He was cold, shivering, broke—and deliciously happy. "Would you do me a favor?" I asked him. "Please tell me the difference between a horse player and a human being."

"Do all horse players die broke? Not necessarily. I heard of one player who hit a big daily double, collected his winnings, and dropped dead. He went to his grave in a new suit, dressed better than he ever had been in his life."

"Horse players are human in at least one respect. They like to talk about the big killings they made in the past rather than discuss their losses for that day.

State's Increased Crime Wave Not Restricted To Big Cities

Likely the number of major crimes in Dallas isn't any higher on a percentage basis in proportion to the population than in other Texas communities and yet Saturday morning headlines in The Dallas Morning News said:

"CRIME BELIEVED HOLDING CITY IN REIGN OF FEAR — Jury Panel Says High Rate Scaring Off New Citizens."

The story under those headlines said: "A Dallas County grand jury charged Friday that the crime rate is so high in Dallas that the 'majority of the people' in the city are 'afraid.'"

"The high crime rate, the jury asserted, keeps many people from moving to Dallas. It has been called to our attention that due to our high crime rate the majority of the people who live in Dallas are afraid. Many people have not moved to Dallas because of its crime record."

On page three of the same newspaper there was a story from Austin under the headline: "Texas Crime On Increase."

This story quoted Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety as reporting that in 1953 murder and rape declined in Texas when compared with the 1952 record, but that this decrease was more than offset by an increase in other crimes.

Robberies in Texas, Colonel Garrison said, increased 18.5 per cent in 1953, and that robberies, burglaries, aggravated assaults and thefts, when considered together, increased so much that the average came out an increase of 8.3 per cent over 1952.

Colonel Garrison's figures, it should be remembered, do not reflect the situation in Dallas alone, but throughout the state as a whole. These figures should therefore, be of grave concern to all the people of Texas.

It is easy enough for the people of Big Spring, for example, to say of the Dallas situation: "Well, that's in Dallas. So what?"

But has it also occurred to them that when the people at Lenora, or Forsan, or Stanton, or Garden City, or Ackerly hear of a robbery or jail break in Big Spring they're apt to adopt the attitude of: "Well, that's in Big Spring."

So it is that no community's reputation is going to be bettered with other communities by reports of criminal activity.

In this connection the Dallas County grand jury has had the courage to make a report that speaks plainly. There was no attempt at white-washing or covering up, and the facts, as ugly as they are, have been revealed for the information of the public. And now that the solid citizens of Dallas know their situation they are in a position to go to work and do something about it.

Any community can profit from such a searching study as the grand jury has given Dallas. The mere fact that criminal activity doesn't make the headlines every day doesn't indicate that it doesn't exist. It indicates that enforcement has not been efficient in ferreting it out and exposing it.

Right now we don't hear much about marijuana and prostitution in Big Spring, but this doesn't mean this pair of violations aren't with us. It means, if anything, that if we do have them nothing is being done about it, and there is certainly no reason to suspect they aren't here, and plentifully.

Of course after this is printed the picture may change, but on the other hand it may not, because the violators don't appear to be afraid. Men who doubt can almost certainly have their doubts removed if they will do a little slumming over in "The Flats" on the North Side, by doing no more than parking their cars in a half-lighted, half-dark spot in the right neighborhood and sitting there for a little while.

And as for marijuana, there are, according to a most reliable but confidential source of information more known marijuana "pushers" or peddlers over there in "The Flats," today than possibly have ever been there before.

Not so long ago one of the best undercover men in the service of the Department of Public Safety came here to check the marijuana situation. He worked about a month and made one case. That one case was on only one cigarette and it was a cigarette given to him and not sold to him. This doesn't mean the marijuana wasn't there. It means that somehow the word got out that he was here and the "pushers" didn't get caught.

So may be Dallas isn't the only Texas community that needs a good house cleaning. There are very, very few towns and cities where the crime situation can't be improved.

Nearly every community, as with Big Spring, has officers who are capable of doing the job, and who are ready, willing, able and anxious to do it. Maybe they just need the go-ahead word from the people themselves.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Dulles' Clear Statement Should Help Prevent Misunderstanding

Those who are critical of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' policy speech apparently dislike the idea of speaking the truth for fear that it might offend some and frighten others. What Dulles said about Indochina, for instance, is not new. The Russians and Indians have been denouncing the United States for pursuing this policy for months.

What it all amounts to is that the United States does not intend to permit Red China to conquer Indochina. What has not been considered generally are the means that this country would employ to accomplish the end of keeping Indochina outside the Soviet Universal State. Obviously that cannot be done without active American intervention because the French have demonstrated that they cannot do it.

American experience in Korea has been that native troops can be trained to use modern weapons under American supervision. Such American supervision and weapons are already available and in use in Indochina. Dulles' speech only means that the number of Americans in Indochina will be increased and that the quantities of weapons will be greater.

What can be the alternative to the Dulles concept? It can only be an acknowledgment of failure, an admission of defeat, a recognition of another Soviet conquest and the absorption by Red China of Indochina in the Soviet Universal State. There is no other alternative, no middle way compromise, just as there was none with regard to Korea or Czechoslovakia. Those who always seek compromises with the Russians always end in defeat.

There are also objections to Dulles' newly crystal clear pronouncement against the recognition of Red China by membership in the United Nations. He did not say, as Henry Cabot Lodge did, that the United States would use the veto. But he did say everything else that could be said to indicate American opposition.

Surely, it is preferable to make all this clear before the Geneva Conference meets so that there can be no misunderstanding. It is doubtful that any other course could be followed without getting into a wrangle the very first day that the conference meets. The United States is now publicly pledged not to agree to such recognition and no American official can go back on Dulles' speech, not even Dulles himself.

If an attempt were to be made to do by a nod what cannot be done by treaty, the pending George Amendment to the Constitution would undoubtedly be brought before the Congress for immediate action. Dulles' speech had presidential approval. It was not a trial balloon to see how our allies felt about it; it was a statement of fixed policy to which our allies will need to adjust one way or the other.

This is extremely serious business and it is gratifying that Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, a Democrat, made the first full dress speech in the Senate supporting President Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles, with the suggestion of unified action. If unified action is obtainable, it would, of course, be beneficial from the standpoint that the people of Asia must be made to realize that the United States is not an imperialist nation, seeks the territory of no country and desires to dominate no people.

Despite our magnificent conduct in Japan and South Korea, despite our granting independence to The Philippines, the Communists have in a large measure been able to establish in the minds of Asiatics that the United States is the imperialistic country of the era. Our own propaganda devices have not been able to counteract this impression, largely perhaps because Asiatics expect "white" nations to be imperialistic.

While the governments of the countries of Eastern Asia know that the United States has no imperialistic ambitions, such a fact does not percolate down to the people. Surely, military action on our part in Indochina should be accompanied by a most intensive propaganda campaign not only in Indochina, but in Burma, Thailand and in the various Indian areas, including Ceylon, which tends to be pro-Russian, setting forth the truth of our position. One reason for Nehru's recalcitrance is that the masses of India have been led to believe that the United States is imperialistic and would occupy India during the next war period. The propaganda battle has yet to be fought with the skill we display when we sell soft drinks or deodorants.

Train Connection Bad

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Milton Davidson missed the 8 a. m. commuter train—but he's glad he did. Davidson's car stalled on a crossing. He froze behind the steering wheel as the 8 a. m. sheared off the car's front up to the windshield. He decided against reporting for work. The remaining two-thirds of his car was towed away.

Tech Band Sets Concert Here On Wednesday

The Texas Tech Matador Band, made up of 78 selected musicians, will appear here at the High School auditorium on Wednesday. The concert has been set for 7:45 p.m. as a student assembly program.

The Texas Tech band is directed by Dr. D. O. Wiley, who was clinician at the Big Spring High School Band clinic recently.

At present the band is on a tour with stops scheduled at Snyder, Sweetwater, Colorado City, San Angelo, Ballinger and Big Spring. The Texas Tech band, which is versed in popular, classical, and semi-classical music, will have with it four specialty numbers. Four members of the French Horn section, which Dr. Wiley describes as "the finest in the country," form a special quartet. Four members of the band also sing and they will perform several barbershop numbers. Keith McCarty, instructor in music and for two years solo clarinet player with the University of Illinois band, will do a clarinet solo. Chuck Wilson, Lubbock graduate student, is scheduled to perform as a trombone soloist.

Two members of the band who will appear here are from Big Spring. They are Gerald Harris Jr., bass, and Jimmie Bennett Jr., clarinet.

Actor Settles Suit Against Film Firms

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tony Romano, singer and actor, has settled out of court his $600,000 suit charging that he was depicted as "a murderer, thug and gangster" in a film.

The action, dropped from the Superior Court calendar yesterday, was directed against United Artists Corp., Associated Players & Producers, Inc., and Edward Small, director. Romano contended the film gave the impression he was enacting himself in it.

Japan, U.S. Agree To Cut Troop Share

TOKYO (AP)—Japan and the United States agreed today to reduce Japan's share of maintaining American troops here by seven million dollars a year. Japan will provide 148 million dollars annually, a reduction of about 4.5 per cent.

Rattlesnake Hunt Set In Oklahoma

OKMENE, Okla. (AP)—Thrill-bent hunters will match wits Sunday with deadly rattlesnakes in the annual Okene Rattler Roundup—all for a piddling 50 cents a pound.

That's the current rate for rattlesnake meat on the hoof—alive and wriggling.

For thrills, many claim it's hard to beat—stalking sometimes vicious rattlers using nothing more than a forked stick or a pair of tongs. Sponsors of the hunt claim, "anyone can do it." They bill it as "a new sport for the average man." Thrill seekers from all over the nation will stalk the hills in groups, rousting rattlers from their winter sleeping grounds. Some still are sleepy, others surprisingly active and vicious. Rattlesnake steak will be on the menu at the big banquet Saturday night, preceding the hunt. In Ferris, flutes are made from the leg bones of llamas.

Riding THE GRUB LINE With Franklin Reynolds

So much was said at the discussion of drought economics at Stanton Saturday about farmers being able to get out into the oil fields, and into the towns, and get satisfactory employment, that we decided to do a little checking into this matter.

By talking with farmers and country merchants what we learned was this: This employment isn't as widespread or as lucrative as many people appear to believe. In fact, the percentage of farmers steadily and profitably so employed is relatively small. Many of them are not able to find more than two weeks employment out of the month, and some of them even less.

Some of them are too old, or are physically unable to work at these jobs. Others have sickness or livestock at home, and for other reasons cannot either get or hold these jobs. Off-the-farm employment is apparently solving only a small part of the overall drought-created farm problem, not nearly as much of this problem as some people insist.

It may be that too many people are merely repeating what they have been told, not what they have themselves learned by going out into the rural areas and taking their time and asking questions and getting reliable answers.

Besides, when a farmer leaves the farm to take a job in town or in the oil fields, that is a job somebody else isn't getting.

The matter of the distribution of surplus commodities is a puzzling one.

These commodities are surplus, and available for distribution, because of price supports, a form of assistance granted the farmers by the Federal Government. If they aren't consumed, or burned or plowed under, future production is going to increase the surplus. Too much surplus will bring about acreage allotment controls or decreased price supports and thus cut the farmer's income. That is one side of the picture.

The other side of the picture is that the distribution of surplus commodities in farming areas will eat into the business of the country merchants who have already been hit hard enough by having most of their capital tied up in credit they have extended their friends and neighbors over the last three drought-ridden years. That is another side of the picture.

People who have given the proposition a lot of sound thought are apparently finding it difficult to say positively whether or not they favor surplus commodity distribution. Men who have declared themselves one way or the other may have to eat their words if 1954 turns out to be another bad year.

Jimmie Greene, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, has expressed the best thought we've heard on this subject.

Jimmie says that if the drought gets so rough we have to have commodities distributed then we'll have them and we won't be able to help ourselves, and that if we don't need them we won't have them.

He has a way of thinking things through, and recalls that maybe there will be hungry people who can't qualify for a loan, or who are too old or too young, or who are physically incapacitated from taking such jobs as may be offered them. Jimmie asks: "What about these people?"

Jimmie Greene has probably had more experience with these things than any other man now living in West Texas. As far as the Grub Line is concerned we'll adopt his thinking until somebody proves him wrong.

Saturday afternoon a country merchant gave us another picture of a part of the problem with which these rural business men must deal.

This merchant, just like most of them, sells gasoline. He has farmer-customers who have credit cards with the company whose gasoline he sells.

They buy gasoline on credit, but not on the credit cards. They want it added to their grocery account because they know the country merchant is more sympathetic than the collector for the company, and far more patient.

"What can we do in a case like that?" asked the merchant.

Can you answer his question: The Grub Line couldn't.

At the meeting at Stanton it was suggested that since the country merchants have been carrying their community farmers for a long time, even before the drought disaster emergency loans were available, that most of these merchants had probably gotten into a pretty tight financial spot themselves, and that if the FHA loans could be rewritten so as to enable the farmers to pay past due bills, for necessities, to these merchants that the whole agricultural economy could be changed for the better.

Some of those present didn't take to this idea any too warmly, and so after that meeting, accompanied by Randolph Mitchell of the staff of the Stanton Reporter, we went out to see three or four country merchants for another talk and a re-check with them.

One of them conducts what is probably the largest rural merchandise credit business in this area. His capital, he frankly admitted, is almost completely tied up in the credit he has extended his drought-hit friends and neighbors. He is perfectly willing to borrow money himself and continue this credit business, but where can a merchant in that predicament borrow money?

We learned from this man that the present FHA loan program is not working out very well in every case, and that in some instances it isn't working at all.

And if anybody sufficiently interested in doing so will go to this man's store and loaf around a while and talk and observe the service this man is rendering a wide area with credit, the thoughtful observer won't be able to get out of his head thoughts of what would happen to that community if that merchant should reach the end of his string and have to close that store.

And it should certainly be explained that the inadequacy of the FHA program is not at the county level, or even at the state level. The changes to make it more workable and satisfactory must be directed from Washington. The men in the field are doubtless doing the very best they can with the orders they get from Washington.

Chamber Board Hears Reports

A series of compact reports on the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention highlighted the Chamber of Commerce directors meeting Monday noon.

J. H. Greene, manager, announced a tentative schedule which will call for a meeting of all standing committees of the organization this week.

J. G. Lewis, chairman of the Clean Up committee, announced that his group was to go into session Wednesday to plan the annual spring special week. A meeting has been set for Tuesday by the merchants and trade extension committees, said J. B. Wigington, chairman of the retail group. An attempt was to be made to fix business holidays for the year.

Willard Sullivan told how the WTCC had majored in water reports, and of the endorsement of the proposal by Rep. George Mahon, after a spirited floor fight, to ask funds for a Bureau of Reclamation study of feasibility of diverting surplus Missouri flood waters to the Texas high plains.

Best hope of industrial expansion for local interests to find a need and then develop facilities for meeting it, Dr. Sidney Miller, University of Pittsburgh, told the group, said G. H. Hayward. Much emphasis also was placed upon water and soil conservation, he added.

Douglas Orme told of emphasis upon a retention of or transfer to states of governmental authority from federal sources. Roy Reeder, vice president, presided in the absence of C. H. Rainwater, who was in Austin representing the Chamber at a Texas presentation to George O'Brien Jr., Medal of Honor winner.

T&P To Remodel Its Shops To Handle Diesel Engines

Work is expected to get under way in the next few weeks on a $60,000 wrecking and remodeling project at the T&P Railway Company roundhouse in northwest Big Spring.

Approximately half of the old steam locomotive roundhouse will be demolished and the remainder will be converted into a modern diesel shop, railway officials have announced.

The remodeling will include a new wall on the north side of the building, where the portion is to be removed. New flooring will be installed around pits, and three of the locomotive pits will be adapted for work on the diesel engines.

Michigan Changes Rules, Invites Ike To Mackinac Island

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan's Legislature had to change its rules last night to invite President Eisenhower to make Mackinac Island his summer White House in 1955.

The invitation, part of the plan for the Soe Locks Centennial, was contained in a concurrent resolution, sponsored by Republican Senators Harry F. Hittle and William A. Ellisworth.

But Sen. Edward Hutchinson, also a Republican, protested that legislative rules forbade adoption of concurrent resolutions in the last week of a session.

So the invitation was delayed while the Senate changed the rule and asked the House to do likewise.

Sen. Donald W. Gilbert, Republican, said, "Isn't there some way we can invite the President without going through all this maneuvering. It's a nice gesture but after all, he isn't going to come anyway."

The House now must act.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

We were speaking, last time, about the eggs which several kinds of fish produce. One ocean fish, the gaff-topall catfish, lays eggs which are about the size of ping-pong balls, but only two dozen of these are laid, on the average, in a season. A fresh water fish, the carp, lays small eggs, but two million may be laid by one female in a year.

If a fish lays eggs which float on the surface, the eggs are more likely to be gobbled up by hungry fish than those which sink to the bottom. There is more danger to the young of some kinds of fish than to the young of others.

Most of the eggs laid by carp are destroyed before they can hatch. A high fatality rate exists for young carp, but large carp are safe from the attacks of other fish in most lakes.

Despite having a huge production of eggs, the carp falls short of being a world champion. Several other kinds of fish lay more eggs.

A 20-year-old halibut may lay two and a half million eggs. A codfish may pass the nine million mark.

Another ocean food fish—the ling—seems to be the greatest egg-layer. A single ling is estimated to lay 28 million eggs a year, on the average!

Fish also differ in their scales. Most of them are covered with scales, but a fairly large number have scales on half, or less than half, of their bodies. Certain kinds, including the leather carp, have few, if any, scales.

Scales have various shapes, but most of them are round or rounded. The bowfin and the bony pike (or gar pike) have scales of an ancient type. These scales are described as "ganoid," and are enameled.

Right-Of-Way For Chalk Road Due To Be Completed Soon

Right-of-way for the Chalk-to-Highway 80 road is due to the completed this week. Pete Thomas, county commissioner for Precinct No. 2, reported today.

Thomas said that about three miles of right-of-way remain to be secured for the 14-mile route. The additional right-of-way must be acquired from but two property owners and they are expected to sign deeds this week.

The county is paying for the land at the rate of $20 per acre for rangeland and $100 for cultivated acreage, plus fencing.

Thomas reported that he expects to have the right-of-way cleared and fences constructed by May 1. J. C. Roberts, district highway engineer, announced that contract for construction of the road will be let as soon as possible after right-of-way is cleared and fenced.

The Chalk Road will extend from a point about four miles east of Coahoma on Highway 80 to the Chalk community. There it will connect with existing paving, providing a paved route from Highway 80 to Highway 87 near For-san.

The State Highway Department will construct and maintain the road.

Pierre du Pont, 84, Succumbs, Had Led Family Firm Expansion

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Pierre Samuel du Pont, dean of the famed chemical family and a major figure in the development of two of the world's largest industries, died last night. He was 84.

Du Pont, who took an active part in the Du Pont empire even after his announced retirement in 1940, was stricken with a severe abdominal pain shortly after dinner at Longwood, his estate at nearby Kennett Square, Pa.

Rushed to the Wilmington Memorial Hospital, Du Pont died of what physicians described as an aortic aneurysm (rupture of a main blood vessel).

A younger brother, Irene, and his sister, Mrs. R. M. Carpenter, were at his bedside. They are Du Pont's only immediate survivors. Du Pont, who shunned publicity and seldom made public appearances, was a former president and board chairman of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. He also served as president of General Motors Corp. for three years.

Pierre was the great-grandson and namesake of a political refugee who fled to America from France in 1799. His father, Lamont du Pont, was a noted inventor and authority on explosives who founded one of the nation's first dynamite plants, the Repauno Chemical Co. near Gibbstown, N. J. He was killed by an explosion of nitroglycerin when Pierre was 14. Pierre then took over the leadership of the family as the eldest of 11 children.

A noted philanthropist who once built an $800,000 hospital in memory of his chauffeur, Du Pont was a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Shortly after his graduation in 1890 he collaborated with a cousin in developing the first successful Du Pont smokeless powder. As the century-old powder company was about to pass into outside hands in 1902, Pierre du Pont and two cousins purchased the firm and organized the present corporation. Under Pierre du Pont the company expanded from powder into a varied field of chemical products. It developed nylon, which revolutionized women's hosiery, cellophane and some 1,000 other products. Du Pont's sales exceeded a billion dollars a year. Du Pont lived alone with servants at his Longwood estate after the death of his wife, the former Alice Bellin of Scranton, Pa., in 1944. They had no children. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

TORIES JOIN IN, TOO Churchill Raked By Press After Attack Upon Attlee

By HAL COOPER LONDON (AP)—Even Conservative newspapers lambasted Prime Minister Churchill today for his charge that Clement Attlee's Labor government threw away Britain's wartime exchange of atomic secrets with the United States.

The nominally independent but usually pro-Conservative Times of London said yesterday's House of Commons debate on the hydrogen bomb "degenerated into a sterile, angry and pitiful party wrangle—the responsibility was the Prime Minister's."

The Liberal, middle-road News Chronicle said the showing of the 78-year-old government chief in the House may foreshadow his early resignation from office, something many observers have predicted would happen this year. The bitter partisan fight in the wake of Sir Winston's charge generally obscured the action of the House, which on a voice vote called on Churchill to take "immediate initiative" in seeking a face-to-face conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov and President Eisenhower. But the Laborites did not challenge the government's stand that the timing if such an approach should be left to it.

Churchill put the House in an uproar with his charge that it was the "responsibility or misfortune" of Attlee's 1945-51 government that a hitherto secret 1943 agreement for British-American atomic cooperation was no longer in effect.

Under the accord, reached at their Quebec conference in August 1943, Churchill and the late President Roosevelt set up the two-nation agency for development of the atomic bomb and agreed that neither would use atomic weapons against a third nation without the other's consent.

Attlee, seething with anger and backed by a continuous Labor chorus for Churchill to "withdraw" "resign," replied that the wartime agreement had been terminated by Congress' adoption in 1946 of the McMahon Act, which forbids sharing of U. S. atomic secrets with foreign governments.

Churchill snapped back that the act's author, the late Sen. Brian McMahon (D-Conn.), had told him later that the atomic secret law would not have been written had he known of the secret agreement. Attlee, Churchill implied, should have let McMahon know about the agreement.

In Washington, the White House confirmed that the secret agreement had been made in 1943 but emphasized it is "not in effect at the present time."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph called it "a pity" that Churchill "should have tried to fix the blame on Mr. Attlee" for post-war lapsing of the British-American atomic cooperation.

Demo Prospects Brighten, Party Leaders Believe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said today he is "not taking seriously yet" a move to draft him into the race for the Democratic nomination for governor in Colorado.

Johnson recently announced he would not be a candidate for reelection. His decision was generally regarded as a blow to Democratic hopes of winning Senate control in the November elections.

The veteran Colorado senator said in an interview that some of his friends are "getting excited" about drafting him for the state race but he added that "they'll cool off later."

Johnson apparently means to stick to his decision not to seek the Senate seat but there was in his statement at least an indication he will think about remaining in politics at the state level.

If they can get a proved vote-getter like Johnson on their ticket, national Democratic leaders will feel better about the Colorado Senate race, and about their overall chances of picking up the net of one seat they would need to gain undisputed control of the Senate.

That possibility brightened in the view of many Democrats when former Vice President Alben W. Barkley announced he would go after the Democratic senatorial nomination in Kentucky.

In other Senate races, Democrats apparently believe their chances have improved to re-elect Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.). And in Ohio the minority party thinks it has about the best available candidate in Democratic Sen. Burke to buck what is normally an off-year trend to the Republicans.

Senators Gillette (D-Iowa), Murray (D-Mont.) and Hunt (D-Wyo.) are viewed as strong candidates for reelection and Democratic leaders say they aren't worrying much about returning Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota.

Nixon Is Snubbed By Duke University For Honor Degree

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, at one time scheduled to be the Duke University commencement speaker June 7, was refused an honorary degree by the school, a university spokesman said here yesterday.

Nixon, a graduate of the Duke Law School, was turned down for an honorary doctor of laws degree 61-42 by a secret faculty vote about a month ago. No reason was given.

The vice president's office announced two weeks ago that Nixon had cancelled his engagement as the school's commencement speaker. However, the university spokesman said Nixon did not cancel the speech because of the vote.

Nixon's office said the address was cancelled because of the heavy file before Congress.

The university spokesman reported that Nixon was willing to make the commencement address after knowing of the faculty vote.

Only about one fifth of the Duke faculty attended the meeting and voted, the spokesman said. A secret committee of some members of the university board and the faculty had nominated Nixon for the degree.

U.S. Oil Output Shows Weekly Gain

FULSA, Okla. (AP)—The nation's daily average crude oil and condensate production increased 43,900 barrels to 6,481,400 barrels during the week ended April 3, the Oil and Gas Journal's survey showed today.

Cumulative 1954 output, the Journal reported, reached 691,967,250 barrels compared to 608,934,410 a year ago.

The week's best gain was in Texas, up 28,250 barrels to 2,811,250. Louisiana had the second largest upturn, 15,300 barrels to 792,600.

Stable increases were reported for Oklahoma, up 1,600 to 515,300; and New Mexico, 500 to 207,575.

Dallas Is To Build Gainesville Culvert

DALLAS (AP)—The city of Dallas is going to spend $5,000 to build a culvert in Gainesville.

It is all because Dallas is bringing water from the Red River to Lake Dallas by the way of Fagan Creek which flows through Gainesville.

But the 50 million gallons of water that Dallas is pumping daily down Fagan Creek is too much for the existing culvert at Gordon Street in Gainesville.

Gainesville citizens complained that water flooded the street. The Gainesville council asked Dallas to do something about it or quit pumping.

Last night the Dallas City Council appropriated $5,000 to build a new culvert.
