Reilly Says Fight To Save Hauptmann Just Begun

News Behind The News THE NATIONAL Whirligig

Written by a group of the best informed newspapermen of Washington and New York. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial policy of this newspaper.

WASHINGTON
By George Durso

Interest—Administration may have been making the rounds but they hear hopefully that the American Legion might possibly be persuaded to compromise on the bonus.

National Commander Belgrano probably will deny this vehemently but medicine is being mixed on Capitol Hill which requires Legion support as an essential ingredient of the prescription.

Cancellation of interest on bonus loans to date is said to be the lure held out as against immediate cash payment. This would help all World War veterans who have borrowed up to the 50 per cent allowed, because otherwise the interest would eat up most of their remaining money by 1945.

Choice

Already the New Deal has shoved one block under the bonus juggernaut. It is almost certain the Vinson bill, which directs the Treasury to find ways and means of raising the two billion-dollar necessary for immediate payment, will be reported out by the House Ways and Means committee instead of the Patman bill, which would pay off in printing-press currency.

If had should come to worse from the White House view—and the Vinson bill passed, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau could promptly advise Congress that the only way the veterans' draft could be met would be through special taxes. Congress hardly would slap an extra 2 billion on the country.

Rep. Fred Vinson of Ky. is a member of the Ways and Means Committee. The Rep. Wright Patman of Texas is not, which is one reason why Vinson's bill probably will be the committee choice.

Optimists—Mr. Roosevelt, getting back to the reported compromise, has said he would oppose cancellation of interest on a public debt for any organized minority.

It will be up to him to change his mind—assuming he has the opportunity—but some of his most interested advisers think he could be persuaded.

The New Deal is out to beat cash payment at all costs. Veteran politicians are of the opinion that the impending bonus fight will be the biggest one of all. If it is beaten they predict it will not be resurrected for some time. It isn't the first time that's been said.

Narrow

If a bonus bill rides through both houses despite everything the administration can do to stop it, and President Roosevelt is forced to use his veto power, the administration will then be up against a very close count of noses.

Senate leaders tell the White House he could command a sure margin of three votes to sustain a veto, but that would be heaving too close to the line for comfort and he doesn't want to risk it.

A digest of the nation's newspapers prepared in the U. S. Veterans Administration, shows about two-thirds of the papers to be against the cash bonus editorially. That doesn't stop many thousands of veterans from writing in to their Senators and Congressmen demanding favorable action.

Slow

Federal Housing Administrator James Moffett is wondering who has been inspiring recent stories he was writing to resign.

Some of his friends suspect officials in other branches of the New Deal but they haven't been able to pick up any truly definite clues. In private conversation, however, they are willing to name four men. They say each would like to see Moffett out or he in his shoes but which one to pick as the villain.

Moffett insists he isn't going to resign until he has made the Housing job go. That's a big order which would keep him around Washington for many moons. Most optimistic reports are that it will be September before any new home building of consequence starts under direction of F.H.A.—and if the bankers generally continue to refuse only lip service to the cause it will be later than that.

Success

If Moffett hasn't been able to set any records yet with new construction, he at least has succeeded in getting business men enthusiastic about his modernization and repair drive. Actual government loans for

RELIEF BILL DUE FOR SENATE CONTROVERSY

Faces Strong Moves To Slash

Bonus Rider May Be Attached To Huge Work Relief Measure

WASHINGTON, CP—Tempered by its heated passage through the appropriations committee, the Roosevelt $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill Thursday entered a still hotter controversy in the senate. It faced strong moves to slash the figures by two billion dollars, make payment of prevailing local wages on public works mandatory instead of discretionary with the president and possibly attach $2,100,000,000 cash as a bonus rider.

Wives Surprise Kiwanians On Valentine Day

Mrs. Eubanks Takes Gavel From President White, And Presides

Members of the Kiwanis club were most agreeably surprised at their regular meeting Thursday noon when their wives walked into a room in a body and took charge of the Valentine Day program.

Mrs. L. A. Eubanks took the gavel from George White, president of the club, and presided over the meeting. She said that she had heard various meanings of the word "Kiwanis," about its origin and declared that upon investigating she had found the word was the name of a bird that flew backwards so that it could see where it had been.

Each member of the club was requested to write a Valentine to President Geo. White and several were read to the club with honors going to the one which read "Roses are Red and Violas are Blue, I Lost and So Did You" which of course, could come only from the pen of Jimmie Little, other member of the club who met defeat in the last county election.

Mrs. Stearns Wiley's reading of "Old Sweetheart of Mine" was well received and was followed by the entire group singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Mrs. Eubanks had prepared a list of questions concerning Kiwanis which she asked various members to answer. When it was found the members couldn't answer the questions their respective wives readily answered the questions for them.

The meeting was closed with group singing of several Kiwanis songs.

C. A. "Chick" Bulot was welcomed into the club as a new member by Kiwanian Thos. H. Coffee.

County Tax Collections Encouraging

Total All State And County Collections Is $139,503.62

County and state tax collections of all kinds amounted to $139,503.62 on January 31, a report from the office of Collector-Assessor J. F. Wolcott showed Thursday.

Collections on the current roll aggregated $124,296.02 for county and state, or 59.14 per cent of the roll, an encouraging figure.

Of this amount, $72,223.94 was collected during January. Total January collections amounted to $27,044.43.

Poll taxes to 2212 people brought in $3,450.75, $485 of which will go into the county's general fund. The remaining portion goes to the state. In addition to the poll taxes, there were 41 exemption certificates issued.

Collection of delinquent taxes was distributed as follows: Supplemental (not appearing on the rolls), $8,231.17; insolvent (delinquent personal property), $212.89; and redemptions (delinquents), $2,173.95.

Occupation taxes brought in $150 while beer license sales netted $1,171.75.

Wolcott said that there would likely be more delinquent payments before March 15 when the time for paying delinquent taxes (except for 1934) without interest and penalty expires.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF BIG SPRING SWIMMING POOL

This is an architect's conception of the proposed municipal swimming pool which Monday will be the object of an election.

The election, unlike many of kindred kind, will not be to pass bonds with which to finance the pool. Rather it will be to authorize the city commission to use net revenues from the golf course to place with net swimming pool revenues to make the project self supporting.

PWA, if the vote is favorable, will make a $22,000 loan grant to the city for construction of the natatorium. Provision for the money is already in Washington. The loan is to be repaid solely by revenues from the pool and golf course and cannot be retired by money from taxes.

The pool itself will be 60 feet wide, 150 feet long, will have a minimum depth of 3 1/2 feet and a maximum depth of 10 1/2 feet. The water will be continually circulated through sand filters and chlorinating equipment to keep it pure. Most of the time it will be flowing through the pool, the waste water being used to irrigate the park.

In connection with the natatorium will be a 70x32 foot brick bathhouse which will accommodate ladies and gentlemen quarters, a concession space and an upstairs apartment for the caretaker and family.

Location of the pool will be just south of the park, opposite the rustic bridge donated to the park by the Kiwanis club. There will be a road around the place with ample parking space. The municipal golf course will have its layout arranged to permit teeing off and ending of the round near the pool.

Surrounding the pool will be a heavy wire netting to compel all who enter to pass through the building.

CAUSE OF MACON FALL PROBED

Survivors Not Certain What Made Shakes

Wiley Says He Has 'Some Ideas', Does Not Express Them

SAN FRANCISCO, CP—Cause of the "shudder" which meant the sensational end of the giant dirigible Macon was sought Thursday by a naval court inquiry.

Survivors of the Macon, which crashed and sank into the Pacific ocean Tuesday night, were not sure what caused the quiver to run through the ship and subsequently rip away two gas cells.

Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley, skipper, had "some ideas," but declined to discuss them.

Search was continued for the two missing members of the crew at the spot where the big ship went down 13 miles off Point Sur, Calif., 110 miles south of here.

The loss of the $2,450,000 Macon left the American navy without a fighting dirigible. Germany's Graf Zeppelin, slightly smaller than the Macon, thus became sovereign of the skies.

President Roosevelt praised the work of naval surface craft for the swift rescue of the dirigible's crew but said funds would not be asked for her replacement at present.

The House naval affairs committee voted a "thorough" investigation of the sinking. A separate investigation by a naval court of inquiry was ordered, and naval officers here proceeded with a "field inquiry"—a preliminary investigation.

Whether the main trouble was structural or meteorological was a matter on which naval authorities remained silent.

Dr. Irving E. Krick, Pasadena authority on the air analysis system of weather forecasting, expressed belief meteorological conditions played a minor part.

Tells Story of Crash
"Almost at the same time Karl Arnstein, chief engineer of the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation, testified in a suit at Hartford, Conn., that the material in the Macon had a yield point and tensile strength lower than the builders expected. This meant that the framework was not as strong as specified. This company built the Macon as well as the Akron.

Commander Wiley, arriving here with the other survivors aboard naval vessels, told a terse, vivid story of the Macon's last minutes.

Light was shed on the fate of Edwin E. Daily, radio operator, when survivors said they saw a man jump from a height of 75 or 100 feet into the sea, landing on his back. One man identified the victim as Daily.

Daily was born in Big Spring, L. P. McKay said that the boy's father was at one time employed by the T&P railroad here as a copper-smith or blacksmith.

Bill Would Permit Use Of Registration Plates Immediately

AUSTIN, CP—The house Thursday passed the senate, by 122 to 0, a bill to permit use of 1935 motor vehicle registration plates immediately.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. King

Last rites for Mrs. Minnie Luella King, 65, who died at her home, 202 Gollad street, early Monday morning following an illness from pneumonia, were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Eberly funeral home chapel. Brother E. R. Kent of the Watch Tower society, Sweetwater, conducted the services. Interment followed in Mount Olive cemetery by the side of her husband, who preceded her in death.

Charles Scoggin and Miss Eunice Green were in charge of music.

W. H. Bruin of Amery, Wisconsin, brother of Mrs. King, arrived Wednesday morning to attend the funeral, which had been postponed until his arrival.

Albaugh Test In Dawson To Be Completed

Fred Turner and Harry Adams, Midland, expect to run pipe Friday or Saturday of this week in the Ray Albaugh John Robinson No. 1, located in the center of the northwest quarter section 46 block M EL&RR survey in Dawson county.

Turner & Adams recently entered into a contract with Albaugh to complete the well for a spread of leases. Albaugh had previously drilled the well to a depth of 3360 feet.

There has been considerable leasing activity around this well, according to reports. Several of the major companies are participating in the activity, it was said.

70th District Court Nearing End Of Term

FORT WORTH, CP—A. P. McCorstin, 40, part owner of a tavern here, was shot and killed Thursday in an argument with the night bartender of the place, William H. Cates, said he fired from a prone position after McCorstin struck him with a bottle.

Jack Nichols Acquitted In Attempted Theft Charge

Seventieth district court is virtually although not officially concluded for this term.

What was probably the last spirited suit for the term ended in acquittal of Jack Nichols, charged with attempted theft, by a jury Tuesday.

One other case, State of Texas vs. Lee Brownfield, theft by bailer, is to be called but will not likely go to trial.

The case of McClaren Rubber company vs. Williams Auto Supply et al, suit on note, is to have a hearing which likely will amount to making a disposition of all parties and to make a judgment final. An appeal is due to follow.

Striking Miner Slain, One Hurt

WILKESBARRE, Penna. (CP)—Frank Petrusky, said by police to be a member of striking anthracite miners, was killed and Anthony Legosh, seriously wounded Thursday in a clash near Woodward Colliery of the Glenalden Coal Company, as the miners' strike in Luzerne county entered its eleventh day.

The strike was called in an effort to force recognition from miner operators.

Italian Forces Off For Eritrea

ROME (CP)—The first detachment of Italy's African expeditionary force will leave Sicily for Eritrea and Italian Somaliland Saturday, a government spokesman announced Thursday.

It was said other contingents would follow Sunday and succeeding days, emphasizing the move doesn't necessarily unseat war.

Jury Condemns Bruno To Die For Murder

Hauptmann To Be Taken To Death House In Trenton Saturday

HAUPTMANN'S MOTHER APPEALS TOPRESDENT

Colonel And Mrs. Lindbergh Make No Comment On Outcome

FLEMINGTON, N. J. (AP)—Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, Thursday attacked the verdict and sentence of Bruno Richard Hauptmann "as one of the greatest miscarriages of justice."

He said: "The fight to save Hauptmann has just begun."

Hauptmann, with a sentence of death upon him, early Thursday fell into a fitful sleep.

The anguish to which he gave way after the jury pronounced him as the Lindbergh baby slayer passed at dawn. After breakfast he remained silent and depressed.

"Sheriff John H. Curtiss said Thursday Hauptmann would be taken to the state prison at Trenton Saturday and lodged in the death house.

Request for stay of the death sentence will be the next move of his attorneys if they decide to proceed with their announced intention of appealing.

Hauptmann's mother, living in Kamenz, Saxony, wrote President Roosevelt a letter begging him "to be merciful."

Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh made no comment.

FLEMINGTON, N. J. (CP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann was condemned to the electric chair Wednesday night by the jury that tried him for the kidnap-murder of Baby Lindbergh.

White and unshaven, he tottered slightly as he stood between his guards and heard himself ordered to "die in the electric chair."

He was sentenced to die in the week of March 18, but an almost certain appeal to the New Jersey court of appeals and errors would stay the execution.

The high court is not likely to pass upon the appeal until late in May.

The jury of eight men and four women spent 11 hours and 45 minutes in a bare room of the old courthouse where Hauptmann had been on trial since January 2 before they reached their verdict.

The verdict was reported cashed on the fifth ballot. Two of the women jurors had held out throughout the day against the death penalty.

"We find the defendant, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, guilty of murder."

STEERS SCORE SURPRISE VICTORY OVER FORSAN

Defeat Drillers 44 To 34 Wednesday

By HANK HART
 Bob Flowers led Coach Brown's Steers to a surprising 44-34 victory over Bill Tate's Forsan Drillers Wednesday night in the high school gym.

Flowers tallied 17 of the Longhorn's 44 points and was combining his shots with those of Cordell to completely shatter the defense of the visitors.

The Steers led at all points of the game except at the close of the first quarter when the count was tied at six all.

The locals looked better than at any time this season and gave promise of trouble in the sectional meet which will be held this weekend.

Bob Flowers' shots from center put the Steers in the lead in the first few minutes of play.

The locals tallied 15 points during the second quarter to take a 21-11 lead at half time.

CCC Foresters Make Last Quarter Rally

The CCC engers overcame a half time disadvantage Wednesday to defeat an Ackerly quintet, 48-30.

Finch and Rogers divided honors for the Foresters with 24 points, while W. Pierce was high for the visitors with eight.

The Ackerly "five" started fast and led throughout the first half, but the CCC quintet plugged away steadily during the second period to overtake the Eagles. The count at the half stood 49-10 in favor of the visitors.

With Finch and Rogers locating the basket in the final minutes of the game, the CCC team counted 33 points in the last period.

Ben Daniels' Calves Defeat Coahoma, 12-6

Ben Daniels' Calves topped the Coahoma Juniors Wednesday afternoon, 12-6.

The locals presented a fair defense, keeping the Bulldogs away from the goal but had difficulty in finding the hoop themselves.

LEAGUE GAME POSTPONED

The Whit Cowhands and the Carter Chevrolet "five," originally scheduled to play last night, postponed their meeting until a later date.

By surrendering its liberties to gain relief from a bad situation, a people is apt to get a great deal more than it bargains for. It is easier to set up a dictatorship than it is to knock one down.

The Baton Rouge flurry is a disturbing sign to people who believe that liberty is the American people's most priceless possession.

REFRESHING DISGUST

Once in a while a man will decide, suddenly and unexpectedly, that he is just naturally fed up with things.

When he does so, he is more than likely to do something very queer; but the very queerness of his action sometimes make it rather refreshing to the innocent bystander.

A sample is the case of the Washington street car motorman who came abruptly to the decision that he didn't like his work. He reached this decision while piloting his car through crowded traffic along a main street; but having reached it he never hesitated.

He simply turned to his passengers, said, "To hell with this job, get off the car and walked away, leaving street car and riders to get home as best they could.

This would be an odd sort of world if men generally used that method of giving up a distasteful job.

But there is, nevertheless, something humorously appealing about this little story. It gives the imagination something to play with.

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL SAYS HE'LL BREAK THE OLD RECORD WITH DASH OVER SANDS

By The Associated Press
 After more than six months of exhaustive tests and experiments, Sir Malcolm Campbell is preparing to take another fling, his fifth, at the automobile speed record on the beach at Daytona, Fla.

He is convinced that his four-and-a-half-ton super streamlined Blue Bird is capable of bettering his own record of 272 miles an hour—and believes it might even touch the 300 mile mark.

Whether or not he reaches 300 miles depends entirely on the condition of the Daytona sand strip and the length of the run available.

Two runs, one each way, are made in the record attempt. A nine-mile strip of beach was used in 1933 to set the present mark of 272 miles an hour. Two additional miles have been cleared for the new trial but even that does not bring up to the distance Campbell would like to have.

Needs Still More 'Elbow Room'
 He feels that it will take a run of seven clear miles before the car reaches its maximum speed. Obviously, with the additional measured mile for checking the record taken off, the remaining three miles would hardly be enough to bring the roaring racer to a stop.

Even in his fiftieth year the world's ace speed driver isn't giving any thought to retiring.

A fatalist, like so many of his racing brethren, Sir Malcolm would "chuck it all" if he ever felt even the slightest bit fearful about the dangers inherent to automobile racing.

He once said, "You can get killed just as completely at 175 miles an hour as at 300."

His hope is that he may not die in bed. When his time comes he hopes to be in the cockpit of his racing car—and about 70 years old.

During his career Campbell has had many miraculous escapes and has seen many of the world's most daring drivers crash to death—some when in actual competition with him.

Would Cement Anglo-American Friendship
 Sir Malcolm has the highest regard for American institutions and says he comes over here as much to aid in cementing the friendly

County Basketball Teams To Play Here

Junior boys and senior girls county basketball teams will vie in the high school gymnasium Friday and Saturday.

The opener is scheduled for 3:30 tomorrow afternoon between Coahoma and the Big Spring junior Broncos.

Play will continue all afternoon and be resumed Saturday morning with finals Saturday night.

Any team not present at game time will be forced to forfeit, tournament officials have ruled.

Corn-Hog Contracts Start

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—A heavy sign-up of 1935 Nebraska corn-hog contracts is anticipated by A. E. Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician, because of the unusual attractiveness of the contract.

The program is so attractive this year because it permits farmers to produce small feed grains on the acreage taken out of corn production, Anderson explained.

Oil Operations Reach All-Time State Record

Rail Commission Issues Permits To Drill Many New Wells

AUSTIN — Oil-producing operations reached an all-time record spread in January, when permits to drill new wells in 115 counties. Other forms of operations, requiring railroad commission permits, or the filling of reports showing type of work, were reported in 17 additional counties.

During January, notices of intention to drill 1152 wells were filed, a 60 per cent gain over the 700 filed in January, 1934. Gregg county, with 123 new locations, had a slight lead over Rusk, which had 118. Archer county was next, with 96; then Young, with 57, and Shackelford, with 53.

Producers were brought in in 60 counties, a total of 609 new wells. Of these, 151 were in Gregg county, 149 in Rusk county, 58 in Archer, 15 in Bell, 25 in Duval, 27 in Gray, 11 in Hardin, 18 in Harris, 11 in Refugio, 26 in Shackelford, 14 in

STEERS OPEN WITH DIVIDE

ABILENE — Seven teams will gather here Friday for the opening round of the basketball tournament to decide the champion of the southern half of district 5. Draw for the opening round games made Wednesday in the office of Supt. R. D. Green places Abilene against Forsan, Howard county champion.

First round pairings for Friday night:

7 o'clock—Sweetwater vs. Colorado, Mitchell county winner.
 8 o'clock—Big Spring vs. Divide, Nolan county winner.
 9 o'clock—Abilene vs. Forsan, Howard county winner.
 Tuscola, winner of the Taylor county championship last week, drew a bye for the first round. The Taylor county quintet will oppose the winner of the Abilene-Forsan game in the semi-finals Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The other semi-final contest is slated for 9:30 a. m. The championship final will be played at Eagle gymnasium at 7:30 Saturday night.

Admission prices of ten cents for students and 25 cents for adults at each of the three sessions will be charged.

Winner of the meet next week will play a game or series of games with the champion of the northern half of the district. That section is to have its tourney at Roby Friday and Saturday, its field consisting of champions from Kent, Stonewall, Borden, Seury, Fisher and Jones counties.

DECIDE WITH A RIDE

CHEVROLET

CHEVROLET has always specialized in giving extra value. But never before has Chevrolet offered such big and outstanding values as the New Standard Chevrolet and the new Master De Luxe Chevrolet for 1935. You can see the low prices . . . the lowest ever placed on cars of such high quality. You can prove the greater operating economy. For tests show that the new Chevrolets give even higher gasoline and oil mileage than did last year's models. And as for performance . . . well, there's only one thing we ask you to do . . . decide with a ride! You will experience getaway—power—and smoothness so extraordinary that you will be happy to confirm the wisdom of the statement: Choose Chevrolet for quality at low cost. May we suggest that you drive one of these new Chevrolets—today?

Midland Gets 1.54 Inches Of Rain In Week

MIDLAND—Rainfall and snow at Midland over a week's period has reached a total Tuesday night of 1.54 inches.

The heavy snow Tuesday amounted to 84 of an inch, melting rapidly throughout the day, although lower temperatures through the night and early Wednesday morning kept a white blanket over the ground.

Farmers who had broken some of their land said the ground was wet down two feet or more. They said the land was in fine shape for plowing now and a good season had been started.

Ranchmen said the moisture was well below the roots of the grass and that both weeds and grass would be stimulated as a result of the soaking snow.

Due to the fact that it went directly into the ground, rather than to run over the gentle slopes and course into draws, ranchmen said the inch and a half of moisture would do as much good as three inches of rain.

With the exception of the north plains, the snow and rain apparently was general.

The prolonged drought of the Trans-Pecos region was broken, as it was on much of the South Plains, Lamesa, where the 1934 precipitation was 6.72 inches and where the last rain recorded fell last September, had the worst drought in its history broken when rain and snow put over an inch of moisture in the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Theibert Buck of McCamey have moved to Big Spring to make their home.

EASTERN STAR MEMBERS FETE MRS. NORMAN READ IN BEAUTIFUL BANQUET

Neighboring Towns Join With Local Chapter In Staging Calendar Dinner Of Unusual Originality

One of the most elaborate banquets ever staged in Big Spring was given Wednesday evening in the ballroom of the Settles hotel by the local chapter of the Order of Eastern Star and 17 chapters from nearby towns honoring Mrs. Norman Read of Coahoma, grand conductress.

It was a calendar dinner. Twelve tables were laid for the guests, each representing a month of the year and decorated accordingly.

Table Decorations
Table number one, at which was seated the honoree, represented the month of January. The centerpiece for this table was a basket holding red carnations and the baby New Year with silver bells suspended from the handle, and red candles flanking the centerpiece. Red nutcups were used.

The February table was in red, white and blue with the symbols of the holidays. George Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays; Valentines were used for decorations and nutcup colors.

March was St. Patrick's day; the centerpiece being a wooden bowl holding green pomegranates, Shamrocks and green nutcups added to the decorative scheme.

A centerpiece of tulips was used for the April table, with a hatbox for Easter and yellow nutcups adding a spring note.

At the May table, Mother's day was symbolized by a framed photograph of Mrs. John D. Birdwell of San Antonio, who is a charter member of the local O.E.S. A spray of green tied with white ribbon symbolized Memorial Day. Vases holding white carnations and spring flowers added the floral note.

A tiered bridal cake centered the June table, with a bride and groom surrounding it. White candles, sprays of fern and white nutcups were other items of the decorations.

On the July table, bunting carrying out the national colors was used with a cannon and flags and white stars adding to the symbolism.

The August table was a vacation scene. Across the mirror-lake centerpiece was a bridge. Cars and trains represented modes of vacation travel. The nutcups were purple.

September was the school table. A miniature school building labeled Midway was the centerpiece, with figures of children around it.

October table was grand chapter table, a tribute to the month in which grand chapter is always held. The centerpiece represented a lodge room with five officers in evening dress grouped around an altar which held a small open Bible. The O. E. S. colors of blue, yellow, green and red were used in streamers on this table and in the nutcups.

The decorations on the November table were pumpkin, a spinning wheel, and oldtime log cabin with turkey figures.

December was symbolized by a trimmed Christmas tree in the center and star-tipped trees and red candles on the side. Silver snow glistened on the table and the red and green colors were used for nutcups.

Grand March
Before the guests entered the dining room they registered in a "Book of the Month" over which Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Dunning presided.

Mrs. Read was presented with a bouquet from her home chapter in Coahoma by Mrs. Tom Martin, then the grand march began, led by little Miss Jean Porter dressed as the New Year, followed by the honoree and Judge J. T. Brooks. After them came the guests of the evening grouped according to the months in which their birthdays occurred. Jean seated the honoree at the head of the January table.

When all had entered the dining room, Miss Elouise Haley, dressed to represent Father Time himself, took charge of the seating arrangements and read appropriate selections according to the months while the guests were being placed. Appropriate musical selections were played at this time.

Mrs. Bernard Fisher was toastmistress of the evening and presented the numbers according to the months, each table rendering its part of the program. Mrs. R. H. Jones, worthy matron of the hostess chapter, was also present.

A clever idea of the evening was to give each table its own host or hostess. Each was dressed for the part and presided over his or her table. Jean Porter was hostess for January.

Mrs. B. F. Willis in a Martha Washington costume, was February hostess. Mrs. J. F. Hall in a St. Patrick's dress presided over March; Mrs. E. E. Blount, wearing a dunce cap with a black frock over it was April; Mrs. Douglas Perry, college cap and gown carrying a diploma, over May.

Mrs. Watson Hammond dressed as a bride was hostess at the June table, Miss Alla B. Collins, representing the Status of Liberty, at the July table; Mrs. Clyde Angel, in a summer sports dress carrying a tennis racket, at August; Mrs. Pax Stripling was the September hostess and represented a school teacher. Mrs. Horace Wimberly in a black lace evening dress with a badge marked grand chapter, presided at the October table; Mrs. Charles Koberg in the frock of Pilgrim maid was November hostess; J. E. Hall was dressed as Santa Claus at the December table.

Program
With Miss Helen Duley at the piano, Jean Porter opened the program with a dance number for the January table. Mrs. Ida Eschford of Midland gave a reading for the February group.

Mrs. Flossie Low of March told a story of Pat and Mike. Mrs. J. T. Allen, at April table paid a tribute to the honoree. A song and dance by Jean Porter was the May feature.

Mrs. De Vaney of the Coahoma chapter gave a reading for June. Mrs. Lula May Carlton of Colorado sang two solos accompanied by Miss Blislie Willis of Big Spring, for the July table.

Mrs. Lillian Bernard of Lubbock, district deputy grand matron made a talk for the August assembly. H. F. Williamson at the September table led the guests in singing "School Days," "The More We Get Together," and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," the latter addressed to the honoree.

Mrs. J. E. Young, past grand matron, toasted Mrs. Read as October's contribution, calling to mind Mrs. Read's being headed for the office of grand matron within the new few years.

Norman Read at the November table told a joke and Miss Willis gave a piano selection. The closing number was that of December, in which Santa Claus asked Mrs. E. R. Thompson, of Coahoma to present Mrs. Read with a gift, a lovely fitted bag.

Hostess Chapters
Assisting the local chapter in putting on the dinner were the following chapters: Abilene No. 30, Garden City, Lamesa, Coahoma, Colorado, Odessa, Crane, Grand Falls, Stanton, San Angelo No. 30, Monahans, Sweetwater, Abilene Queen Esther, Lubbock, Bartow and Pecos.

Riegel School Of Dance To Give Semi-Annual Recital At Municipal Auditorium Sunday, February 17

The Riegel School of Dancing will present its semi-annual recital in the Municipal Auditorium, Sunday, February 17th. The show will last approximately one hour. The offering will include songs and dance numbers, toe, tap and acrobatic work.

A baby class will perform. The members of this group are Lila Jane Wolf, Emma Jean Slaughter, Don Shumake, Hank McDaniels, Eddie Houser, Patsy Sue McDaniels, Susan Sierra.

Those doing specialties are Marie Dunham and Jacqueline Faw, Mary Ruth Diltz, Jane Tingle, Justine Dos, Mary Ann Dudley, Maxine Riegel, Leola Fay Vines, Betty Bob Diltz, Minnie Bell Williamson, Dean Miller, and many others.

The high light of the show will be a school room scene where all of the action takes place in musical comedy style. The youngsters dance over the school room seats, and give their version of college rhythm. Those in the number include Patsy Rummels, Dean Miller, Betty Bob Diltz, Dolores Gago, Helen Houser, Mary Jean Leese.

A group of twelve in a colorful gypsy ballet in typical gypsy style. The group includes Joyce Terry, Lorena Cole, Patsy Ruth Zarafonitis, Marguerite Read, and the lead is taken by Evelyn Ragdale.

The entire show will exhibit a surprising amount of novelty routines including a prisoner's dance done with two dancers chained together, a tap done up and down stairs, toe taps, an Adagio number; executed by Burlee Steeles and Marguerite Read, collegiate numbers, blackface waltz and others. The performance will start sharply at four o'clock, and is free to everyone.

Knott School To Give Play Friday Night

Will true love win out?
This is a question which will be answered Friday night, February 15th at a play, being presented under the auspices of the Knott School P.T.A.

This presentation will reveal the plot of the wily Lester Van, Washington fortune seeker, in his attempt to win to wife Rose Court-vane, unexpected heiress to millions. This play will be interesting because of the clash of the two contrasting walks of life, city folk and Virginia mountaineers. Daniel French, who, as the successful author, falls in love with the willful Wild Rose of the mountains, believes life is real and that love is its ideal. Mamie Celia and Uncle Joe, dinkies, who have practically raised Rose, are interested only in her happiness. Lester Van, Wash-heater is not always certain as to the means of Rose's attaining this happiness.

Zeet is added to the plot by Wade Carver, typical mountain band served to: Meses. George Bond, Hugh Dubberly, Ike Knau, Herb Lees, Franklin Nugent, Randall Pickle, Lloyd Wasson.

Mrs. Wasson will entertain next.

Mrs. A. S. Barnett of Dallas, Mrs. V. H. Flewelen and Mrs. Lee Hanson were club guests. Members were: Meses. E. O. Ellington, Albert M. Fisher, Joyce Fisher, Dee Hilliard, C. W. Cunningham, R. Homer McNew, R. C. Strain, John Clarke, W. W. Inkman.

Mrs. Clarke will be the next club hostess.

Grand Prize Bridge Club At Mrs. L. Rix

Mrs. Lewis Rix was hostess to the Grand Prize Bridge club Wednesday afternoon for an enjoyable session of bridge, in which Mrs. Rix herself was the highest scorer.

A George Washington color motif was used in the party accessories. Only members were present.

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

Chapter 16 CAREFUL PLAN

"We need," said Montana, "a man to hold our horses in the right place. Pascual will do it for us. We also need 'atop' some dynamite holed down during the day to get it. Mateo. Get the fuse and the rest we'll need to blow a safe and some yellow soap to run a mold."

"What safe?" asked the bandit. "Up in the tower is the room of the governor, with his office in front of it. And in the corner of the room there is an old safe, but a strong one."

"Are the emeralds in that safe?" asked Rubriz. "How can I tell? But if they're not in that safe, where would they be, friend?"

"Very well. That is one thing learned. What else?" "Here is a plan of the inside of the fort. Every room and every gallery is marked down. And all the corridors. And the sentry posts are marked in red, you see?"

"I see," said Rubriz, pouring over the plan. "All that we need, now, is a pair of wings to fly over the walls, unless the sentries are ready to shoot us out of the air."

"Come to meet me, tonight, just after dark, at this same place. Or wait here the rest of the day with me," said Montana. "Pascual can get the horses, in the meantime. He can keep them down in the willows by the bank of the river. You know where the willows are the thickest, down there, Pascual?"

"I know," agreed the friar. "Ay, but how to get into the fort?" demanded Rubriz. "That will be managed. I know a certain way to tap on a certain eastern door at the bottom of the wall above the river. And my tap will bring out a certain sergeant with a smile on his face and his hands empty. If he leaves the door open behind him, can we trust ourselves to get inside, friend?"

Rubriz began to sweat. His face shone almost as brightly as his eyes. "What lies inside the door?" he asked. "A guardroom with two private soldiers inside."

"And these two?" "There are only two of them, Mateo."

"Ay, but two can alarm ten thousand."

"There was never any good plan without a little 'risk' in it," answered El Keed, shrugging his shoulders.

"Look!" muttered Rubriz to Pascual. "He is a devil, eh?" "He does a work in the name of a kind God," said the friar devoutly.

"And how do you know that the fool of a sergeant will open the door when you tap?" "He is not a fool. He's only a man in love."

"Hail, brother! And you know the girl a little better than he knows her?" "Five hundred dollars worth bet?" "That's all."

"It's a good bit of difference." "He's told her that if she ever comes to that postern and raps on it in a certain rhythm, he'll be out instantly and have her in his arms. It should put his hands on Mateo Rubriz, instead, that would be only his hard luck, I'd say!"

Down among the willows the light thickened earlier and there was a tone of green added to the gloom. Here, as the day ended with its sudden fires in the sky, Rubriz and Montana met the big friar. Brother Pascual was gravely and deeply excited. He led his own mule, the great black stallion of Rubriz and that red-silk beauty, the mare of the Kik. As the darkness seemed by the bank of the river. You know where the willows are the thickest, down there, Pascual? "I know," agreed the friar. "Ay, but how to get into the fort?" demanded Rubriz. "That will be managed. I know a certain way to tap on a certain eastern door at the bottom of the wall above the river. And my tap will bring out a certain sergeant with a smile on his face and his hands empty. If he leaves the door open behind him, can we trust ourselves to get inside, friend?" Rubriz began to sweat. His face shone almost as brightly as his eyes. "What lies inside the door?" he asked. "A guardroom with two private soldiers inside."

'SETH PARKER' IN DISTRESS AGAIN?

Conflicting wireless reports from the schooner Seth Parker (above), on which Phillips Lord, radio and stage entertainer, is making a voyage around the world, alternately described the vessel as in distress and in no need of assistance in the South Seas. The British cruiser Australia responded to the first distress message, but found all well, only to be recalled by a SOS call from the "adventure ship." (Associated Press Photo) to lift in a wave that closed at last Montana, "a good two days' march into the mountains. When you come, friar said: "If I could go with you, friends, it seems to me that I should be happier than any other man in the world."

"Three men can be seen where two night slip by," answered Montana. "And knowing that you're out here, waiting, will make us that much stronger if we ever get inside the fort."

"Want for us till the morning," said Rubriz. "Then wait again tomorrow evening. If we have no come by that midnight, go your way and forget us. Give my stallion to the bishop, if he's brave enough to ride the black horse."

"And take the red mare," said out a strap on her back." "I shall do it," said the friar. "I swear under the eyes of Heaven, Brothers, give me your hands." They were given to him and he exclaimed in his great deep voice: "We three are bound together. The warmth of our blood commingles and the breath of one spirit moves in us. There is more than the strength of earth in us. Bishop Emiliano prays for you tonight. Be strong. Be patient. And I shall wait here and pray in my turn. If only I could fill my hands in this work, instead of filling my throat with words."

When the honest friar had finished speaking, the quick dark of the night already had closed over the town and Montana and Rubriz went up the slope towards the fort through the first blackness. They were close to the black and rigid heights of the fort wall when they paused, out of a common impulse and looked behind them. All the stars were shining except towards the east and south, where thick clouds had unfurled close to the horizon. Perhaps a storm was moving up from that direction.

But all was placid and the night was so windless near by that they could see the thin faces of the stars in the shallows of the river loop near the willows where the good brother Pascual was waiting for them.

"Now, I tell you this," said Rubriz, softening his mighty voice to secrecy. "It is better to have the naked prayers of a fellow like that Pascual than a hundred strong men at your back."

such work are still a bit short of $10,000,000 but the men who make the asserted equipment and material you put into a modernization job report they have done about $23,000,000 additional direct business with folks able to pay cash. The section of the Housing Act permitting federal guarantee of renewing loans expires December 31 next. A movement already is afoot among the industrialists to drive on Congress a little later for extension of this section.

It isn't the business they get from government-guaranteed loans that interests them so much. What they want is to keep FHA pegging away with publicity. The latter is what has done the trick for them.

Visivention—Manufacturers and other employers are putting their heads together in the hope of beating the proposed payroll tax to raise an unemployment insurance fund. The question is raised whether this tax is constitutional, the point being that it is not for revenue purposes but it is a device to coerce the states to enact social security legislation. The Department of Justice is looking into this question at the request of the House Ways and Means committee.

Behind closed doors the committee will thresh out the social security bill and try to report it in ten days. Too many social reformers are giving advice. Committee members are very busy as to the details of the legislation. Like the work-relief bill this measure stands a chance of easy passage in the House and vivivention in the Senate.

Triangle—Senator Wheeler is among the prophets who foresee a three-corner fight for the presidency in 1936. He figures that Huey Long will split off a big radical vote from FDR's following while a phalanx of Republicans will stand pat at the other corner. If Huey makes gains at his present rate Wheeler will not be surprised to see a Republican inaugurated on Jan. 20, 1937.

The danger of a deadlock appears whenever three strong candidates contest for the presidency. The winner must have a majority, not merely a plurality of electoral votes. If the election should be thrown into the House that body would be required to choose a President within a very few days, and yet his members probably would be split three ways, having been elected at the polling that failed to produce a President within a very few days.

Could Roosevelt, Long, or a Republican capture 25 states out of the 48 in a House vote? To do so would necessitate many members deserting the standard-bearer they supported during the campaign to vote for one of his adversaries. How could they do this and escape punishment from their constituents? Ah, there's the rub!

NEW YORK By James McMillin Plot—Attorney-General Homer Cummings' effort to block the Republic Steel-Corvian McKinney merger has Wall Street running in circles. On the surface it doesn't seem to make sense.

The Republic spent hundreds of thousands of dollars fulfilling registration requirements of the Securities & Exchange Commission. At no time did the Commission indicate the faintest disapproval of the transaction. Then there was the job of rounding up present security holders in a large enough proportion to put the reorganization across. That accomplished, openness of the merger leaved a sigh of relief. They never dreamed the Department of Justice had a black-jack up his sleeve. You can imagine what they think of Mr. Cummings and New Deal teamwork in general.

The merged companies would still rank far behind U. S. Steel and Bethlehem in size and importance so the government's accusation of fostering a monopoly is on the thin side. It all looks like one of those "radical Washington plots."

But the best-posted sources say that the government has much more on its mind than just a desire to annoy. When NRA was first broached it obtained support from business circles because they thought it implied suspension of the anti-trust laws. That theory has been largely borne out in practice. Sherman Act prohibitions have been few and minor.

Now business gets a plain warning that it better not take too much for granted. This helps to dampen any industrial cockiness that might have risen from the administration's harshness with the Federation of Labor. It also serves notice of the government's intention to guide industry with a firm hand and allow no deviations from the strict and narrow path.

The warnings will serve its purpose regardless of its outcome in this particular case. The only trouble is it may also scare off companies that were planning on new financing and perhaps gum up some mergers that might have been economically useful.

Disentangled—The action against interlocking directorates of steel companies is another phase of the government's program to prove that it isn't just talking about reforms for fun.

Banks have cleaned their directorate houses pretty well and utilities show progress. Columbia Gas & Electric joined the procession early in the day. Floyd Carlisle of Consolidated Gas, George H. Howard of United Corp., William C. Potter of Guaranty Trust and Harold Stanley of J. P. Morgan & Co. retired from its board and were replaced by operating men. Niagara Hudson Power and Commonwealth & Southern took similar steps some months ago to eliminate banking interests from their management.

Not having served as Washington agents to the same extent as banks and utilities haven't yet taken the trouble to mop up. The steel have minder will jolt them into action. The particular disentanglement Cummings is after marks the end of Cyrus Eaton's dream of an industrial empire. A New Yorker remarks that Sam Inaull could be pardoned a polite snicker—as he always blamed Eaton for his troubles.

Time—The next few weeks will provide an acid test of the political influence utilities are supposed to have. They have to convince Congress that the holding company bill is too drastic—or else.

New Deal pressure has changed the attitude of power executives in one important respect. Year after year they find one bold enough to deny that federal regulation is desirable. They may even offer rather drastic suggestions to restrict their own activities in the hope of averting the death sentence.

Utility men feel that time is likely to prove their most valuable ally. Even if the Rayburn bill goes thru they will have a five-year lease on that—and they hopefully observe that a lot can happen in five years.

Jury

der in the first degree," intoned Foreman Charles Walton, Sr., in the deathly quiet of the littered, smoke-filled courtroom.

Anna Hauptmann, tears rolling down her cheeks as her husband went silently back to his cell, cried "there is nothing left for me."

But she dried her eyes as she pushed through the thronged courtroom and left by a rear door. "I am not afraid," she said. "I still hope."

Jury Is Felled—Polled individually at the insistence of Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defense counsel, the jurors affirmed the verdict in quavering voices.

Sheriff John H. Curtis heeded the return of the jury, shouting from the library door of the century-old courtroom.

Under the five garish lights, newspapers and lawyers had waited for hours in the littered little room, almost unbearably hot and stuffy.

Court Crier Elmer Hann, tall and bald, suddenly appeared, rising behind the bench and adjusted the jurist's chair.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, pale, his voice tense with emotion, stiffened his shoulders.

He spoke to Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the state police and Schwarzkopf moved down the aisle, ordering his troopers to close the doors.

The florid Reilly, subdued in manner, stood upright in the space before the bench.

Troopers Alert—Troopers stood alert about the little room, bright-figured in their sky-blue uniforms.

face pale, his manner calm. A tenseness gripped the courtroom. A constable shouted "Quiet, please."

Out in the street, where a massed throng waited, someone set up a shout. It swelled into a prolonged yell.

Jury Files In—The jury filed in, took the seats occupied for 23 days, after placing coats in the customary places.

Mrs. Verna Snyder, juror No. 3 appeared to have been crying. "Hauptmann seemed unmindful of the bracelets on his wrists, gleaming brightly under the yellow lights."

C. Loyd Fisher, one of his counsel, put his arm around the prisoner's neck and whispered to him. Mrs. Hauptmann had come hurriedly up a side aisle as Hauptmann settled into his chair. Her face was drained of color and she moved quickly.

She smiled and murmured to her husband. She sat motionless. The jurors' faces were grave as they answered "Present." The court clerk called on them to rise.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, balding, white-haired, said "Let the defendant stand."

Hauptmann rose between his guards, straight as a ramrod. "Members of the jury, have you agreed upon your verdict?" asked Court Clerk Fell.

The jurors: "We have." The court clerk: "Who shall speak for you?"

The jurors chorused: "The foreman." Court Clerk Fell: "Mr. Foreman, what say you, do you find the defendant guilty or not guilty?"

The foreman: "Guilty. We find the defendant, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, guilty of murder in the first degree."

The court: "One moment. No person will leave the courtroom until the court is finished. Stay right where you are."

Court Clerk Fell: "Members of the jury, you have heard the verdict, which you find the defendant, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, guilty of murder in the first degree and so say you all."

The jurors: "We do." Foreman's Walton's voice was shaking, and the folded paper in his hand trembled as he spoke the verdict.

A gasp arose in the courtroom. The jurors were polled, each repeated. "Guilty of murder in the first degree."

Wilentz moved "for sentence of the defendant at this time." After Hauptmann had been seated.

"Let me have the indictment," said Justice Trenchard. He discussed the law requiring sentence to be fixed with "in a certain week" not less than four weeks nor more than eight weeks after the issuance of the warrant.

Then he told Hauptmann to stand again. "Bruno Richard Hauptmann, you have been convicted of murder in the first degree."

"The sentence of the court is that you, the said Bruno Richard Hauptmann, suffer death at the time and place and in the manner provided by law and the court will hand to the sheriff a warrant appointing the week beginning Monday, the 18th day of March, 1935, as the week within which such sentence must be executed in the manner provided by law."

"You are now remanded to the custody of the sheriff. "You may retire."

Later Justice Trenchard returned to the bench to deliver the warrant for Hauptmann's execution to the sheriff.

He must be removed to state's penitentiary at Trenton within ten days but Sheriff Curtis said he would not take him from the jail for at least 48 hours.

However, he ordered the rule of silence that has been imposed in the prisoner's quarters lifted and conversation between the prisoner and his guard will be permitted.

To Jury at 11:35 a. m. Col. Lindbergh, the slay baby's father, boyish yet grave, watched the jury file out at 11:23 a. m. Then went from the courtroom to be with his wife, the soft-eyed Anne Morrow Lindbergh, at Englewood.

His friend and adviser, Col. Henry Breckenridge, accompanied him. Col. Lindbergh was informed of the verdict by telephone.

The jury heard the grave, clear-out instructions of white-haired Justice Trenchard and took their memories of two million words of testimony and argument into the room.

The eight men and four women had listened with unflinching attention as the fatherly justice read the charge in distinct, unhurried tones.

Hauptmann, who had come into the room with a twisted, half smile, heard the words with painful attention, his face set and pale.

A few feet away, his wife's face was ashen, her eyes blank but they welled up with tears when the court said: "If there is reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty, he is to be declared not guilty," and again, when Justice Trenchard intoned a repetition of the ransom man's words to "Jafsie": "Would I burn if the baby is dead?"

Col. Lindbergh, his arms folded, kept his blue eyes on the judge. His face was stern, intent.

case as an aide and pursued his course with the knowledge of Col. Lindbergh.

The justice asked the jury whether it thought there was any evidence in the case to support any conclusion a gang committed the crime; and pointed to the board found in Hauptmann's closet with Dr. Condon's address and telephone number on it; the sudden affluence of Hauptmann; the testimony of the aged Amanda Hochmuth he had seen Hauptmann at the estate the day of the crime.

The value of testimony of fingerprint, lumber and handwriting experts was for the jury to decide, he charged; Hauptmann's own interest in the case and his previous convictions for crimes were to be considered as weighing his credibility as a witness.

Defense counsel, in exceptions noted after the jury retired, objected that evidence did not sustain the inference the child had been kidnaped by way of the ladder; that the child had been killed in the act; that it had been killed in Hunter county; and to any omission of a charge that if Hauptmann had acted as a go-between, that fact was not sufficient for a conviction of murder under the indictment.

Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel, also objected to language used by the jurist in his charge reflecting unfavorably upon the actions and the testimony of Dr. Condon and of Hochmuth.

Two Post Slaying Defendants Face Narcotic Charge LUBBOCK (AP)—Charges of violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act were filed against Dr. L. W. Kitchener and Dr. V. A. Hartman of Post before United States Commissioner Victor Lindsey here Wednesday.

Kitchener, a veterinarian, and Hartman, a physician, are held in Dallas under charges of complicity in the slaying at Post last Thursday of Spencer Stafford, a federal narcotics agent.

V. C. McCullough, a federal agent who was with Stafford when he fell before machine gun bullets fired by Sheriff W. F. Cato of Post, signed the complaints here against Kitchener and Hartman.

Witness Testifies Extortion Notes Not In Kennamer's Hand PAWNEE, Okla. (AP)—Jack Sneden, Tulsa, acquaintance of Phil Kennamer, on trial for murder, Thursday identified an extortion note addressed to Homer E. Wilcox, Tulsa oilman. The address on an envelope and a letter was not in Kennamer's handwriting and he did not know who wrote the letter and address.

More Second Rental And Parity Checks Are Received Here

Reception of 44 more cotton parity and 18 corn-hog contract checks Thursday boosted benefits to agriculturists of the county by $1,978.53.

Parity checks amounted to $1,441.53 and brought in parity payments on all contracts which have received second rental checks. There are only 48 contracts which have not received second rental or parity checks.

The second payment on corn-hog contracts was for one half the corn and one fifth of the hogs payment. The third and final payment will be for two fifths of the hog money.

Infant Son Of Ackerly Couple Pneumonia Victim Murray Glendon, 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Cook, residing at Ackerly, died Thursday morning at 1 o'clock of pneumonia. Deceased was born on February 28, 1934, and was 11 months and 11 days old at time of death. Besides his parents, the infant is survived by his grandparents and an aunt.

Services were held at 4:30 Thursday following in Ackerly cemetery.

Chicago Trader Is Banned From Grain Markets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago trader, Thursday was prohibited by the grain futures commission, composed of Secretaries Wallace and Roper and Attorney General Cummings from trading on any grain market for two years.

The commission found Cutten guilty of violating the grain futures act "by attempting to manipulate" prices by concealing his transactions on the Chicago Board of Trade.

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Wash Out Your 70,000 Feet of Kidney Tubes Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestine, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filters which waste measure 75,000 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the poisons and poisons waste out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass 8 pints a day through the kidneys which contain nearly 4 pounds of waste matter. If you pass less than this amount, your 75,000 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is the danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of sleep and vitality, getting up nights, hazy vision, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out your 75,000 feet of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs and so-called "kidney cures" which claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-McBreen Co.

When it's February Out of Doors YOU NEED ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION You can't keep food from spoiling with a calendar, at least not in Texas where February weather varies from bitter cold to spring-like temperatures, often within the space of a few hours. Nature may provide low enough temperatures part of the time, but the health of your family requires proper refrigeration ALL of the time. Food kept in an Electric Refrigerator is safe the year 'round, for the temperature is kept below 50 degrees, even though the outside temperature or the temperature in the kitchen rises above the food-safety mark. Be safe and let electric refrigeration protect your family's food. See Your Electric Refrigerator Dealer. TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE COMPANY C. S. Blomfield, Manager receive. In almost every community where a transient bureau exists, local people are little concerned with an understanding of the federal care of "strangers" who drift in and out of their city. Therefore, because of precedence, they carelessly regard them as of the unworthy type of "drifter" who has run afoul of the law or otherwise encumbered his status at home.

and homeless are consciously or unconsciously trying to escape fate through mileage. Seldom are any of them absorbed by industrial employment. The majority of them call at various transient bureau centers for emergency relief, remaining overnight or a few days and moving on. Some few accept jobs in the transient set-up, receiving $1 per week cash allowance, but most of these move on within two months, more often two weeks. The bureau do the best they can for them, but for the most part it is inadequate.

thus escaping certain public prejudice, and becoming absorbed in respective phases of society. In short, self-respecting individuals yearn to create a livelihood with a feeling of independence, though that "independence" is secured through government work at a self maintenance wage.

Unfortunately, the man who has maintained a living standard but who finds himself under the tyrant of times within the bounds of transient relief, becomes eventually so profusely a part of the program that he dimly gives up to the surrounding environment. His suit becomes dingy or is worn out, and he comes out in "issue clothing" which he procures thru a sting of pride. It is this type of man who chafes under the program. Restlessly, he marks time waiting for a change in conditions.

of discomfort in the necessity of coming in contact with transients. It has been said that the educational and recreational departments have been useless expenditure of relief funds and channels of graft. In short, all manners of charges have been flung at state control of this federal venture.

BE MY VALENTINE

Pretty Mary Carlisle of the movies is romantically casting about for some likely swain to whom to aim her cupid's shaft. Or maybe she isn't. Anyway, she makes a fetching picture and a nice St. Valentine's greeting, don't you think? (Associated Press Photo)

On the other hand, irate clients denied unreasonable requests and perhaps irked by the necessity of group existence have been inclined to agitate against those in control. There are specific cases in which many of these charges are true, but in its general scope there has been distinctly emphasized the sympathy and understanding of the administrative staff. Some bureau are fortunate enough to have considerate and efficient directors at the helm whose foresight so distributes limited financial appropriations as to generally care for the clientele in satisfactory fashion. It is as a "stop-over" and not a transient clients can not be satisfied under the program. It is designed to be and is nothing more than a relief program.

The writer, who has recently registered at the Big Spring bureau, has been in seven other bureaus serving in the accounting department and editing transient publications. To describe the Big Spring transient center, one is immediately impressed with the sanitation of its various departments. Being a mid-way station, it is utilizing elaborate but everything is centralized point. There is nothing elaborate but everything is clean and well disciplined.

tribute, Mr. Treat is to be commended for his interest in the trials of the transient and social welfare work. He is capable of "rubbing elbows" with the boys and is in position to understand their troubles both from a psychological and physical standpoint. Mr. Treat, a man of broad experience and impressive personality, has had 14-15 of experience in executive work and accounting. In the Austin division of the transient program he took a post-graduate course in social service work. He is a member of the staff attached to the state administration. All of his office personnel are Transients, except three who are in charge of departments and connected with the administrative department.
